If public floggings come back the first to get it should be publishers like Dick Brown of the Ingham County News who exposed this: a recent medical study reveals that happy people are more healthy than unhappy people. So, evidently it is the surly bird that gets the germ.

Way back in 1947 Theodore H. Townsend, city manager of St. Johns wrote the following to the Collector of Internal Revenue:

"If the government would secure some keen, practical minded personnel to work out some income tax blanks that the average income payer could read, said government would not be obliged to employ so many high salaried technical auditors.

"I can read Latin quite freely, a little Greek, and a little French, but evidently I can't read the income rules and regulations: hence I'm obliged to take some auditor's interpretation. I agree with Pope, 'A little learning is a dangerous thing.'"

I wish the government had taken Townsend's advice. The few times I've attempted to read my tax forms I end up quaking in my boots as I get to the part that threatens me with perjury if every "i" isn't dotted.

I like the way the "special message from the commissioner" starts out, though: 'We know that filling out a tax return is no fun -' Then they assume: 'Yet we believe most American taxpayers can make their own tax return for 1971.'

If you can't, like me, there is a feeling that the finger of shame is being pointed at me by Uncle Sam... only this time he isn't saying "Uncle Sam wants you," he's saying... "You dummy!"

A chartered flight wasn't filled and the travel agency decided to get what they could to cover costs.

Suddenly Hawaii became the place I'd always wanted to visit. I wanted to see the memorial in Pearl Harbor, pick a pineapple, and don a grass skirt.

I could take another look at Diamond Head, walk the dock where we dropped the load of beer our ship carried to the island in 1944, and see if the surf ran as high as it did the day we stopped our landing craft while on a duty run and went swimming.

It was 3 days later before it dawned on me that the timing, which is never right for a vacation, was especially bad this time. In that light of dawn, I remembered the "overdrawn" notice from the bank on my personal account, that the kids can't take care of themselves, and that the writing reins at the Leader would not be tethered.

Legal fees controversy

Controversy has arisen in Independence Township over the payment of legal fees made by the township board since last April.

Figures presented Monday by Township Treasurer Kenneth Johnson show a legal bill of $20,849.40 since that time. The figure compares with $7,081 paid during the same period by White Lake Township and about $35,000 paid by Waterford Township during 1971. Another $6,000 was spent in Waterford for legal fees in connection with labor negotiations.

While White Lake Township's population is estimated at 16,000 in comparison to Independence's 18,000, Waterford population is said to be at approximately 65,000.

Independence Township is involved in three major lawsuits, two of which were in progress prior to the present board's taking over. It is in court over apartments, mobile homes and the K-Mart shopping center plus numerous smaller suits.

White Lake Supervisor Jim Reid says $4,400 has been expended in one suit over mobile homes.

Supervisor Gary Stonerock and Township Attorney Richard Campbell also point out that the past year has been a fruitful one for ordinances.

The township has either passed or is working on laws involving gravel operation, litter, land division control, drainage, natural terrain, gas stations, signs, snowmobiles, wetlands, central water system, and amendments to the building and zoning codes.

Stonerock contends many of this year's ordinances should have been adopted previously and that the high legal costs are due in part to a catching up process undertaken by the board.

Nursery parents collect bottles

Clarkston Nursery School parents will collect "Bottles for Building" Saturday in Independence Township.

Curbside pickup will be offered in established subdivisions while drop-off points will be established at the township hall and at shopping centers.

The drive last month netted 27 tons, workers report. Funds collected through the recycling effort now exceed $3,000, according to bottles personnel.

The group will present Bottles for Building patches to youngsters having worked more than 15 hours at a banquet in May.

Deserving youth sought

Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Committee will honor youth at its annual Youth Recognition Night May 8.

The group is seeking the names of youngsters performing such worthwhile deeds as personal acts of heroism, hospital or nursing home services, beautification activities, working on school or church service projects.

Nominating forms are being distributed through the churches, at the high school and both junior high schools, The Clarkston News office, the township offices and by committee members. Any adult or organization may submit the name of a deserving youth living within the Clarkston Community School District.

Awards will be made in two categories: those in grades seven to nine and those in grades 10 to 12.

Nominating forms should be mailed to Youth Recognition Night Committee, 6595 Middle Lake Road, Clarkston, no later than April 10.

Clerk election Monday

Independence Township voters will go to the polls once again Monday to select a new township clerk.

Candidates are Republican J. Edwin Glennie and Democrat Robert J. Garner, selected by voters in a primary February 28.

Glennie, who captured almost half the total primary vote, is a 29-year-old real estate salesman living at 6900 W. Church. He serves on the Independence Township Board of Review.

He has publicly stated he would put his real estate license in escrow were he to be elected clerk.

Garner, at 18 is the youngest candidate to have survived an election in Michigan. Presently an Oakland Community College student, he lives at 4930 Cecilia Ann.

Garner is studying laboratory technology.

The Clarkston News here reprints both candidates' statements made prior to the primary.

Garner believes he should be elected clerk because, "I feel I could provide the unbiased, non-politically motivated, objective viewpoint so sorely needed in our township government at this time. It is apparent that the four members of the present township board, while individually intelligent, capable and educated, have been unable to function as a team. I feel that I possess those qualities necessary to act as the effective catalyst which will evoke decisions, not controversy, on the vital issues affecting our community — mainly the use of recreation grants, ultimate disposition of the Woodhull Lake crisis, master right-of-way plan, etc."

With regard to parks, Garner states, "Parks and retention of open spaces should be of highest priority of any progressing community."

On public safety — "Police protection and fire protection is most definitely a current need in Independence Township. Up to this time in our growth, county police protection and volunteer fire protection have provided adequately for the safety of the citizenry. However, now is the time to chart a course that will insure continued adequate public safety for our estimated population of 90,000 residents before the turn of the century."

On master road right-of-way: "While final disposition of the issue of the master road right-of-way plan is in the hands of the county, I encourage township officials and citizens to make their feelings known to try and discourage super highways from detracting from the natural beauty of our township."

Sewers drew the following comment, "With plans and contracts for Phase I of the sewer system virtually finished, we must plan ahead for the needs of those anticipated residents of the future. We must heed the ecological warnings and provide for sewers in any other area where sewage disposal facilities are not adequate to maintain a natural ecological balance."

Glennie feels he should be elected clerk because "I am concerned about the growth of the township and would like it to be a place where my children and the other young people of our township will want to settle and raise their families in the future, a place we can all be proud of."

On the subject of parks, Glennie states, "I feel that parks are an absolute necessity — a.) for green belts or buffers between various parts of the community being used for different purposes. b.) To give our residents a place to be proud of for recreation within our own community. c.) To create open spaces now that will prevent our township, in future years, from being 'wall to wall' people or housing and business."

On public safety, "We have grown considerably in the past few years, but the years ahead will be fantastic, and it is time to focus on a plan that can grow with our township that can give us reasonable protection now, and increase our capabilities as the need calls without putting undue financial burden on our residents."

On road master right-of-way planning, "Not being in a public office and being actively pursuant of answers on a daily basis, I do not feel one can give anything more than an emotional reasoning for his opinion on this."

On sewers, Glennie stated, "Through my real estate experience, I have found that most of our well drained lands have already been developed, consequently, in order to be able to properly plan, zone and develop the remainder of our township with any consistency and meaning, we must have a comprehensive sewer plan."

Glennie is married with two children.

Village election has no surprises

Seventy-eight Clarkston voters turned out yesterday to reelect all village officers to their respective positions. There were two write-in votes for Jack Hagen, one for president and one for trustee.

Village president Richard C. Johnston received 60 votes for a two-year term. Trustees seeking a two-year term were Ruth Basinger, accorded 28 votes; Robert C. Jones, 59 votes; and Richard Weiss, 60 votes.

Trustees seeking a one-year term were Donald Auten receiving 49 votes, and Lucia Wilford with 55 votes. Basinger and Auten were the lone candidates to run on the Democratic ticket.

Clerk Artemus M. Pappas and his wife, Mary Ann, received 69 votes each for the positions of clerk and treasurer. Ralph Thayer was high vote-getter of the day with 70 votes for assessor.

The clerk, treasurer and assessor will serve two-year terms.

Township to vote on 7-man bd. May 16

It appears likely that Independence Township voters will be asked during the May 16 presidential primary election to decide whether the township board should be increased from a five-man board to a seven-man board.

Enlargement would mean the addition of two trustees, currently paid at the rate of $1,400 a year.

The May 16 vote would confine itself to whether or not the board would be enlarged, while candidates for the extra positions — were they to be approved — would not seek election until the August primary and the November general election, according to Township Attorney Richard Campbell.

A seven-man township board can be elected once township population exceeds 5,000 or registered electors exceed 3,000, Campbell said.

That mark was passed in Independence nearly a decade ago, and voters at that time chose to stay with the five-man board, officials recall.

Subsequent votes are permitted or the electors at the annual township meeting may decide to expand the board, Campbell noted.

Because using the May 16 primary ballot for the issue requires that final steps be taken by March 29, the township board last week took action which will enable the issue to be on that ballot.

There was a question about whether a primary would meet the "election" requirements of the statute, but that has now been resolved in an attorney-general's opinion, Campbell said.

NAG can use schools

The Clarkston Chapter, National Action Group will be permitted to meet in Clarkston District Schools. The Board of Education voted to review policy in light of "a change in the atmosphere" and the fact that insurance coverage has been adjusted to protect the school district.

New Township signs.

Busing vote due Monday

School busing to achieve racial integration will be the subject of an advisory vote when Independence Township voters go to the polls next Monday to elect a new township clerk.

The question which will appear on the ballot reads, "Do you favor an amendment to the U.S. Constitution that would prohibit forced busing and guarantee the right of each student to attend the appropriate public school nearest his home?"

Edward Manley, chairman of Clarkston chapter, National Action Group, who requested the special question on the ballot, pointed out that such a vote would have no legal significance, however, it would serve as an indication to state and national legislators how Clarkston area people feel about busing.

School millage needs renewal

Clarkston School District voters will probably be asked to approve a 5 mill renewal at the June 12 school board election.

The millage is that initially approved in 1963 and due to expire this year. It provides about $400,000 in the school's $5.1 million budget.

Dr. Leslie Greene, school superintendent, suggested the question be put to voters this year despite current litigation involving the legality of the property tax to finance schools.

While he guessed that property tax financing would be found illegal, he said millage would still be needed while legislators worked out other methods of school funding and that the voted millage could be adjusted in accordance with the new laws.

It would be possible, he admitted, to wait until next year before seeking renewal but a failure at the polls at that time would plunge the district into a special election.

The 5 mills renewal brings in about $400,000 a year and triggers another $300,000 in state payments, Greene told the school board Monday night.

Clarkston area voters now pay a total of 21 mills in operating taxes for the school, the second lowest amount among the 28 school districts of the county, Greene said.

Greene cited comparisons with other school districts in the state and in particular with 64 other school districts who have the same general school population.

To bring Clarkston up to average funding in the 64 group segment would require the levying of another 12.5 mills, he said.

He said the current year's $5.1 million budget is holding pretty well, but that the district has already overspent in transportation.

A surplus in instructional funds has been pretty well wiped out by the Internal Revenue Service decision that all school employees could be awarded retroactive pay raises back to September 1, despite the wage-price freeze in effect at that time.

Greene said he saw no immediate need to begin to plan for additional school buildings. He said elementary enrollment appears to be leveling and that while secondary school enrollment is increasing, it is still manageable within present facilities.

There are plans, he said, to alter Andersonville Elementary School attendance lines to take care of overcrowding in that area. Students may be put into Pine Knob, South Sashabaw or Clarkston Elementary in an effort to keep sixth grades in all the elementary schools. Andersonville currently sends its sixth grade to the junior high school, it was reported.

Letters to the Editor

NAG asks busing vote

Dear Editor:
To Parents and Taxpayers of Clarkston School System:
The Clarkston Chapter of the National Action Group has asked the question of "Do you favor an amendment to the U.S. Constitution that would prohibit forced busing and guarantee the right of each student to attend the appropriate public school nearest his home" be placed on the ballot.
We want the School Board, the Township Board, the State Government, and the United States Government to know that we parents and taxpayers of Independence Township want their neighborhood schools. The vote will direct our elected officials. If they do not work in accordance with our wishes, we have the opportunity this year to elect people who will.

Please vote March 20; secondly, we would appreciate your vote in favor of a constitutional amendment to save neighborhood schools.
Ed Manley, Chairman
Clarkston Chapter of N.A.G.
Clarkston, Michigan 48016

Don't sit back

TO VOTERS OF INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP:
Please do not sit back... get out and vote March 20. We in the National Action Group have worked very hard to stop forced busing... now is your chance to do something about it. Get out and vote for the amendment to allow each student the right to attend the nearest appropriate school. The vote will let everyone know how the people of Independence Township feel about forced busing.

Please don't sit back... vote for the constitutional amendment. A yes vote is a vote in favor of the amendment.
Thank you,
Marjean Davis, Co-Chairman
Clarkston National Action Group

Red Cross first aid

Red Cross Oakland Regional Office will host, Wednesday, March 22, First Aid Instructors' Seminar bearing the theme of "Where we are going - how to get there."
Red Cross First Aid Instructors from Oakland County are asked to meet at the County Auditorium, Oakland County Service Center, 1200 Telegraph Road, Pontiac from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.
"The seminar is designed to familiarize instructors with new safety programs and methods," said Roger Gillespie, Red Cross Oakland first aid chairman.

Hearing slated

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission will conduct a hearing on a license currently held by Pine Cone, Inc., of 7777 Pine Knob Road on Wednesday, March 22. The complaint involves sale or transfer of interest in a license without commission consent.

"My complaints unanswred"

Dear Editor,
On January 5, 1972, I signed a complaint with our building and ordinance department (namely Mr. Stonerock and Mr. Soncrant) concerning residential property that has on it nine unlicensed vehicles.
At that time Mr. Soncrant stated that it would be taken care of. After two weeks elapsed and no action, I saw Judge McNally and at his recommendation went to the prosecutor's office. I asked for a warrant for Mr. Stonerock and Mr. Soncrant's arrest for neglect of their duties.
On March 13, Mr. Rystile of the prosecutor's office told me it was up to Independence officials (Stonerock) to enforce his ordinances and take care of complaints.
They certainly took care of Mr. Stonerock and Mrs. Buhl in their complaint against me. They have had me in court twice on the same count. When my attorney and the township attorney had seemingly come to an agreement giving me six months to clean up my "littered" golf course, they appeared in court anyway.

Mr. Campbell's law partner, Mr. Lee, denied any conversation concerning a settlement out of court.
Mr. Stonerock can easily take care of any complaints that he wants enforced, but it seems that is where his responsibility to the people of the township stops.
Mr. Stonerock and Mr. Soncrant have not had the courtesy to inform me in any way of the progress of my complaint made to them on January 5.
Another example, on approximately February 23 Mr. Fletcher made a complaint to Mr. Campbell that Mr. Stonerock was conducting a commercial business from a residentially zoned house on Mohawk Road with several employees. Absolutely nothing has been done.
It took Mr. Stonerock 48 hours to have me in the prosecutor's office for driving an unlicensed vehicle on Eston Road in front of the golf course. The vehicle is used for grading snow and gravel on the property.

VOTE FOR GARNER

Paid Adv.
Recent events have made it clear that the current election on March 20th, for the Best Man for Clerk will need your Vote for Bob Garner, "HIS OWN MAN."
Here are a few questions and facts to think about before you vote.
How can Mr. Glennie withstand the pressure of his party member on the Board to make an honest decision in the best interest of the whole community? He is already using the past clerk, a member of his party as a crutch, as per his flyer, "Since Altman who have you had who will listen and do something?"
In his interview in the Detroit News he stated, "He could work with the 3 Democrats on the Board" and in the next sentence he is critical of the Democratic Supervisor and traces township problems to him. Such inconsistent statements infer that he will be simply another antagonistic vote on the Board rather than an official who will consider the merits of a proposition and vote on those merits rather than solely because the Democratic supervisor has displayed his opinion on the issue. How can we depend on him to stand on his own two feet on important issues as a Board member and represent the community as a whole when he can't campaign without a CRUTCH and casts aspersions on the personalities of other board members?
Don't let looks fool you. The others were all clean shaven and what did we have - Conflict of Interest. Bob Garner's credentials in his school and the community have proven him to be a mature person who is interested in solving problems rather than creating them by unfounded insinuations and assessing blame. He has worked hard to capture the nomination for this position and is spending much time acquainting himself with the duties of the clerk as well as investigating the problems presently facing this growing community.
We believe that a person who is so conscientiously preparing for this position is an indication that the citizens can continue to expect that he will execute this position with the same expertise.
We urge all citizens to VOTE in this crucial election on March 20th, and to VOTE for an honestly dedicated Man for Clerk, not a "try me, you'll like me" salesman.

No move a good move

While The Clarkston News accepts seven of eight goals spelled out by Independence Township Supervisor Gary Stonerock last week, it cannot accept the eighth that of plans to move township offices from their village location.

Planning principles which tend to change frequently have returned to the goal of "community" as opposed to random dispersal of service facilities.

It was a return marked by the bitter lesson of what happens to urban areas when they are forsaken by governmental offices, and what happens to the "neighborhood" when such focal points as shops, post office, banks, etc. follow at government's heels or at its bequest through renewal programs to the hinterlands.

The move, besides hurting the village, could solidify feelings to the point where Clarkston and Independence would never be able to function under one form of government.

While the chances of eventual unity are admittedly dim, the Clarkston-Independence area is not yet caught up in that disparity of action which insures the two areas will go their separate ways financed by two tax bases and providing duplicate services such as police, building departments, taxing structure, etc. to the people of the area.

Individuality can be an expensive item, and we feel that in the minds of most residents it is not a priority. All of us are proud of our village and the scenic township area with its potential for graceful living. Most of us, not caught up in the squabbles of government, would like to see them get together.

Any ire aroused by past village domination of township affairs can be justified no longer. The township population — and its voting strength — holds the balance of power.

Capitol notes

by Cathy Lessard

Dear Clarkston News Readers:

This week's "notes" from Lansing must in reality be called "notes from Washington, D.C." I'm writing this from my room at the Sheraton Park Hotel in our nation's Capital, where I'm attending a Young Republican Leadership Conference.

Because this is my first column for you, and because I have been out of touch with events in Lansing all week, I have decided to limit this initial attempt to an introduction of myself and a few remarks on events that have occurred at this conference.

Your C. N. editor, Jean Saile, has asked me to take over the column that Jim Briney has been writing for you for the past few months. Its purpose, she told me, was to give readers another source for information, or slant on the events that are taking place in Lansing, and that you read about as news items.

I believe it is important for each and every one of us to take an interest in our government at all levels, and to be concerned not only about those events which effect us individually, but which effect the course and destiny of our country. I think that these past few days in Washington have impressed that upon me even stronger than before.

To be concerned and aware citizens we must be informed. Your editor feels that exposure to many possible sources of information is important in helping us live up to our responsibility as citizens. Because I share this belief and feel very strongly about the importance of all of us taking a concerned and active part in our government, I told her I would be happy to write this column.

I'd like to introduce myself to those of you who don't know me. I am a native of Clarkston, having lived there from the age of four (I'm quite a bit older now!) I still retain my parents' address as my official residence (Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Lessard, 6431 Havelock).

I graduated from Clarkston High School in 1966 and attended Michigan State University where I received a B.A. in Political Science. I am now employed at the Capitol in Lansing as Assistant Press Secretary to the 52 Republican members of the House of Representatives, including your State Representative, Loren D. Anderson (R-Waterford).

My political affiliation must be rather obvious by now and I think it is important that you are aware of it if you are to evaluate what I write. I will, however, attempt to keep this column as non-partisan and unbiased as possible, reporting to you events as I see them. I hope that it will be helpful to you.

Although this isn't my first trip to Washington, D.C., it's been as exciting and educational as any I've ever made. I arrived in the Capital at 5:30 a.m., having driven all night from Lansing to get here. The sun was just reaching up over the horizon and casting its first golden rays upon the many marble and stone buildings that populate this beautiful city. The sight of the White House, Capitol Building, Washington Monument and Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials at this early hour left me with a feeling of awe and respect that is unequalled in my experience. It's an experience that I hope all of you will have an opportunity to enjoy — not necessarily at that hour of the morning!

I have been fortunate enough to see many of the other great cities of the world and in my opinion, none is more beautiful than our own Washington, D.C.

The opening of this conference was marked by a VIP reception and tour of the White House. Tricia Nixon Cox was there to greet us and as the United States Marine Band played we were allowed to move freely through the beautiful reception and state rooms used by our President and First Lady to greet heads of state and hold social functions.

One of the most surprising events to me occurred at our opening dinner. The man who has been touted by many people as being "anti-young," "anti-progressive" and described by many other negative adjectives was given what can only be described as a tumultuous welcome: Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had tears in his eyes as he took his seat at the head table. True, it was a Republican gathering, but it was made up of young people. I viewed it as a demonstration of respect for his courage to speak out on what he believes in — even though we may not always agree with him.

That dog is lost

By Jim Fitzgerald

"Look at that poor dog. It's lost. It's cold and hungry. The poor thing. Someone should take it home."

That's my wife talking. But it could probably be any man's wife. I recently surveyed 22 men, all married and all sitting on barstools. Each man admitted he was wed to a woman who was a pushover for unloved strays of all breeds. In fact, 17 of the men said that's what caused their marriages. They had been strays once themselves. 10 of the men still wore collars with buckles. 5 of them revealed broken leashes tucked into their shirts. And 1 man swore his name was Prince.

But what was even more interesting, each one of these men said his wife had the startling ability to distinguish a lost dog from a found dog just by hearing its bark from 16 blocks away, behind a billboard, with 5 friendly kids feeding it.

I always ask my wife: "How do you know that dog is lost? It is wearing a collar and a vest and appears well fed. It is trotting purposely. How do you know it is not on its way to a happy home and a kettle of minced cat?"

"I can tell," she always says. "That dog is lost."

This is a remarkable phenomenon and she does not reserve it for animals. My wife can pass a stranger on the street and immediately tell you his life story.

"That man is not happy," she will say. "I think his wife has left him and she won't let him visit the children. So he doesn't know what to do with himself on Sunday afternoons."

"Well," I say, "we certainly should take him home and give him a can of Alpo."

It's worse with children.

"Look at that mother," my wife will say on a crowded street. "She is yanking her little girl around by the arm. She hollers at her and she has been slapping her. I'll bet she beats the poor little girl every night. A woman like that should be locked up. I will take care of the child."

"You are not being fair to that woman," I always tell her. "She may be a wonderful mother. I can remember when you used to drop-kick our son into bed every night. And you used to lock him in the breadbox while you ran next door to match filibusters with Shirley and Carol. Anyone who didn't know you might well have accused you of being a rotten mother."

"That was different," she always says. "I love my children."

"How do you know that woman doesn't love her children?" I ask.

"I can tell by the look in her eyes," my wife explains, "and by the way she walks. Her husband has deserted her and she's taking it out on the poor daughter who probably loves her father more and now she can't even see him on Sundays."

"Hey," I say, "maybe that's the guy we passed a few minutes ago. I'll run after him. You hold the woman here. We shall bring this family together again."

"Get that lost dog, too," she says. "I know it belongs to that poor little girl. I can tell by the way she keeps petting the air." Onward and Upward.

Legal fee findings

Gentlemen:

Some time ago, in a letter to your paper, I was curious as to the legal fees paid by Independence Township to its attorney, Richard Campbell.

To tell you the truth, I never expected any answer from our Township Supervisor, because any subject he dislikes he either silences you with his gavel, cites the Bible, or completely ignores you.

Therefore, I took it upon myself to get this information requested. Here are the facts:

The Legal fees for fiscal year ending 3/31/71, amounted to $8,876.76 (which included Campbell's fees for the last quarter). So far, in eleven months, (through 2/29/72) the Township has paid $19,078.15 for legal fees! At the rate of eleven months, fiscal '72 should amount to approximately $20,668.00. This represents an increase of 133% over '71.

We have spendthrifts at the National level, we have spendthrifts at the State level, but up until Stonerock's taking over the reins of our Township government, I felt it had not penetrated to the Township level.

I feel the taxpayers of Independence Township are entitled to a detailed explanation of these increased costs by Mr. Stonerock, and I don't mean at the Annual Township meeting.

How much did he spend pursuing Alvah Cook's baseless charges? How much to carry on his vendetta against Frechette, when he condones other violations all about him? How much has and will he spend to aid and abet Schultz's "land grab?" This is only the top of the iceberg.

Let us see and hear his explanation for the rest.

Lt. Donald Kratt, head of the Oakland County Sheriff Department's Marine Safety Division, has announced he will seek election this year as a Republican candidate for Oakland County Sheriff replacing retiring Frank Irons.

Kratt, who lives on Davisburg Road in Springfield Township, joined the department in May of 1955. He was appointed to the water safety division in 1958, which was cited in a 1964 Reader's Digest as the largest marine division in the United States.

Named outstanding young man of the year in 1961 by the Pontiac Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kratt currently serves as a member of the Oakland County Retirement Commission, is past president of the Oakland County Employees Credit Union and was formerly a member of the board of directors for the Waterford Boys' Club. # Independence House launched

The Community Resources Committee, ready to start an Independence House in the area, learned Rochester's similar Neighborhood House functions primarily on the aim of providing assistance to people in need.

Richard Robinson, the Rochester facility board chairman, told the group last week most requests accepted by the house involve transportation.

Out of 20 to 30 cases handled a day, some involve teenage runaways and youngsters with drug problems, but the majority of requests come from older people, he said.

Neighborhood House provides rent free counseling space for agencies, Robinson said. Such groups as Catholic Social Services, the Oakland County Family and Children Service, Child Guidance, OEO and Oakland County Mental Health Board take space to help Rochester residents with problems, he said.

He pointed out that Neighborhood House has helped launch other help programs, but has then turned them over to other leadership.

Similar activities are being considered for Independence House which it was announced has been offered the former United Presbyterian Church on Maybee Road.

While Rochester has limited sponsoring membership to churches of the area, the Independence group plans to open it up to interested organizations and governmental bodies as well as the churches.

Robinson said the Rochester house is run on a $2,500 a year budget, its quarters being virtually rent free. "Money is no problem now," he said. Many donations keep the work in progress, he explained.

Don Place, named chairman of an interim steering committee, to get the project started, was to explain the Independence House proposal to the community in a program at 7:30 p.m. March 15 at Clarkston High School Little Theater.

Section 2

The Clarkston (Mich.) News

Thurs., March 16, 1972 9

Mary Kriss of Sashabaw Road who won first prize at the 1970 Oakland County Art Show at the Pontiac Mall with her oil painting entitled "The Prophets Meet" has readied the acrylic "Singing Bird" as one of three entries in this year's show March 31 to April 8. Mrs. Kriss is a substitute art teacher in area schools.

Park area not reaching its potential

Independence Township park area is not fulfilling the potential it could, according to findings by a recreation committee from the Community Resources Committee.

New equipment, lighting to extend hours on baseball diamonds and the tennis courts, programs which would cater to adults, senior citizens and family activities, plus a coordinated approach to the various programs now offered would help, said David Nadolsky, report chairman.

He spoke March 8 to approximately 40 people attending a Community Resources Committee meeting at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection.

Nadolsky's report included findings on the five elementary playgrounds, the two junior high and senior high fields, the county's proposed development of the Crooked Lake area, and the Deer Lake beach as well as privately owned facilities such as Pine Knob Ski Resort, Waterford Hill Golf Club, Spring Lake Country Club, and the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club.

Nadolsky emphasized the need for a recreational program at the elementary schools both during the day and evening. He pointed out the lack of a swimming pool at the secondary level schools.

His proposals included the employment of a full time recreation director and the purchase and maintenance of equipment.

He noted his proposals cost money and that the present $22,000 recreation budget goes primarily for salaries. While some $1,700 is derived from the United Fund and $3,200 from Deer Lake Beach fees, the remainder is provided by the township, he said.

His report took notice of such elementary school programs as the present midget wrestling, Little League football and a swim program, and secondary school programs including an intramural program in the junior highs and varsity sports at the high school.

He suggested more girls programs might be implemented during the school year.

Summer activities listed included Little League baseball, arts and crafts programs, a tennis program, playground supervision and the use of private pools for a swimming education program.

It was also pointed out that a 10 team church sponsored slow pitch league is to get underway this year.

Crooked Lake, Nadolsky said, may eventually offer family type activities such as hiking and picnicking, as can regional parks like Stoney Creek, Bald Mountain Recreation area and Marshbank Park in Waterford Township.

Nadolsky said the township's present parks and recreation committee is not really functional.

Curriers find super people

"It's going to be like a hundred years ago," says Sara Currier — the enthusiasm back in her voice.

The Curriers who lost an opportunity to open a goat dairy along with 75 head of goats in a fire last week have found that people really care.

"We've been offered a pole barn, and the Army Reserve Unit and lots of individuals say they'll join us in a barn building bee Thursday," says Sara, who with husband, Glenn, their daughter, and three other individuals live an "earth people" existence on a 40-acre farm off Perry Lake Road.

They're still hunting for an old barn frame to dismantle and put back together again.

"On top of that, the Dairy Goat Guide, a national publication, is carrying a big story about our fire and they're hoping people will contribute goats to rebuild the herd. We've already been offered vans and trucks to pick up any animals which are donated," she said.

The Curriers have so far received $1,800 from all across the country. People who have read of their plight have opened their hearts and their pocketbooks.

"There must be a lot of super people living in Providence, Rhode Island," said Sara who reported that many contributions had come from that area as well as from such places as Florida, California, Virginia, Indiana, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin.

The Seymour Lake Methodist Church through its Women's Society of Christian Service has volunteered to serve as a collection agency for all gifts, enabling the donor to take a tax deduction on offerings.

An unloading of wisdom

by Carl W. O'Brien

In times past it has been my practice to write an occasional column of advice for those souls in the community who are in sore need of guidance.

Once again I find myself in this helpful mood.

To those who cannot abide advice freely dispensed, I say: Turn to the vapid profundities and blunted witticism of the other columnists appearing herein and next week I will return to regale you with anecdotes drawn from the local political circus, per usual.

But today I intend to unload wisdom from my accumulated store of truths, come hell or high-water. So, here goes.

***

Always carry a heavy, scholarly-looking book with you even if you never read it. Your apparent interest in learning will impress everyone except those who have read it . . . and in this day and age that shouldn't represent any great number of people.

Cling to our society's peculiar values and believe deeply all your life that a mark of your success is to have six millionaires tote you to your final resting spot; that one will be weeping because he is your son and heir and the other five because you died before repaying them the unsecured loans they made to you.

Exercise your democratic privilege and think the worst of all elected officials; half the time you will be right.

Make a habit of hanging around with a high-toned and ritzy crowd, so that if you are caught up in a police raid your mother can see from the newspaper reports that you were in good company.

Even though you cannot stand to spend one evening alone without the TV on because you find solitude boring, work earnestly to attain Eternal Life.

Conceal none of your virtues from your immediate boss except that aggressive itch that makes you desire his job.

In your wish to be a tiger remember that although no other beast dares disturb his rest, the insects virtually eat him up alive.

Do not always stay with your friends and avoid your enemies. Your enemies will teach you many truths about yourself. They will teach you many things about your friends, too, and in some instances they will turn out to be the same people.

Greater love hath no man than that he refrain from telling on his friends. Leave that reporting to be done by the girls.

Upon arising each morn, read your horoscope; on the day it tells you not to be superstitious, believe it.

Be wary of the man who fritters away his life; he probably holds your life to be of no greater value than his own.

And lastly, be a believer rather than a doubter; you will be wrong most of the time but you will be comfortable in your error.

And one Post Script: God's final creation on the earth was woman. It is not recorded whether He gave up after that out of a sense of satisfaction or a sense of despair.

Students take problems to friends

When Clarkston High School students have family conflicts, they take their problems mostly to their friends, a recent Community Resources questionnaire of 553 students shows.

Some try to work it out with parents, some with the school counselor and some at church.

When they've got personal problems, they say friends and parents about equally share the miseries.

Bray steps down from planning board

Mrs. Jean Bray has stepped down from the Independence Township Planning Commission on advice of Township Attorney Richard Campbell that her presence might jeopardize actions taken by that body.

Mrs. Bray, advised last January that she would not be re-appointed to the board, was shortly after re-elected its secretary.

Conflicting legal opinions regarding her status in light of Supervisor Gary Stonerock's failure to appoint a successor were considered by the commission who had three times reaffirmed her membership.

It was swayed finally, however, both by Campbell and an opinion from the legal firm employed by the Michigan Township Association which advised that a cautious approach be adopted and that she not remain as a member.

Mrs. Bray, who had offered to remain as a non-voting member, stepped down following about an hour's discussion of the matter Thursday night.

Jack Belby was named commission secretary.

In other business the commission approved a site plan for an $820,000 addition to the Michigan Bell Telephone switching complex on the Dixie Highway. Construction was to start as soon as possible, Charles Woodhead, Bell spokesman, told the group. He said the addition would provide increased telephone facilities for the Clarkston area.

A controversial road master right-of-way plan was referred back to the township board with a request that the board's motion to hire a traffic planner, etc., be rescinded.

The commission also asked that the board approve non-controversial items in the plan and redirect the commission as to the type of road study that should be undertaken.

The referral to the planning commission was made following a public hearing last winter in which 200 township residents appealed to criticize a proposed alternate plan putting a super highway along the Detroit Edison right-of-way corridor.

A preponderance of drug problems wind up with the doctor, but once again friends and parents play an important role.

Most students say they take sexual problems to the doctor, and parents and lawyers get the legal problems.

The questionnaire, an attempt to find out what sort of services should be offered in an intended community service Independence House, also quizzed the students about community needs as they viewed them.

Relatively few seemed to think more religious-affiliated services were needed, but a whopping majority want a swimming pool. A youth center also got a good response from 10th graders.

More counseling and free counseling was asked as were more medical services and free clinics. The kids said they'd like a drop-in legal center, free.

Of those surveyed, 169 10th graders, 110 11th graders and 111 12th graders said they'd use a drop-in center for recreation. Response on counseling and medical information was also substantial but not as high as that for recreation.

There are more students experimenting with alcohol than there are with drugs, the questionnaire reveals. Sixty-nine of the students surveyed had worried about a pregnancy, 192 smoke regularly, 56 have wanted advice on contraceptives, and 137 have wanted help for family problems.

Seventy-eight students said they'd contemplated suicide at one time.

Many of the students said they'd helped someone else with problems, but a fair percentage were familiar with various community services, particularly those offered by the school.

When the report was presented to the committee, Robert Brumbach, school social worker specified that the figures quoted are raw figures - and that there has as yet been no attempt to interpret them.

Suggested zoning change explained

A proposal by Supervisor Gary Stonerock to change the township zoning classification of Suburban Farms to Residential Estates to encourage single family home construction simply involves a half acre reduction in lot size from three to two-and-a-half acres, the supervisor explained.

He said the reduction is permissible because of Oakland County Road Commission's decision to permit lots of that size without curb and drainage requirements as covered under previous platting procedure.

It would still maintain the rural character of the land, Stonerock said.

HOW to be Clerk of Independence Township!

Independence Township is very lucky to have the men it does serving on the township board.

This could be a winning combination if WE WORK TOGETHER!

1. Tom Bullen is a C.P.A. and has done Municipal Finance Work.
2. Gary Stonerock knows land survey and land usage like nobody but a real estate agent could, without conflict of interest.
3. Keith Humbert is an engineer for General Motors.
4. Ken Johnson has been described as "the wise old fox" and can aid me greatly before he retires.

Now, how would you like to get a postcard like that? Sent from Long Beach, Calif., it has a picture of the Beach and Oceanaire Motel, and sure enough, those are palm trees on the front.

Arriving in the same mail was a card showing a two-decker London transport bus, also in Long Beach, Calif., with the note, "Wished I could send this to pick you up. The beaches are full of children testing their kites for next Saturday's kite tournament along Ocean Blvd."

The cards are apparently in answer to my March 2 column in which I volunteered the information that February makes me flaky.

POTATO PUFFS

- 3 medium potatoes
- 2 eggs
- ½ c. boiling water
- 1 tsp. salt, pinch of pepper
- ½ c. shortening
- ½ c. flour

Cook potatoes and put through a coarse sieve. Add shortening to water and bring to a boil. Add flour and cook, stirring constantly until mixture leaves sides of pan. Add eggs one at a time beating well after each addition. Add potatoes to this mixture with salt and pepper.

Drop by tablespoons in hot shortening and fry until brown. Drain and serve.

into for the rest of this interminable winter.

Now, obviously this person lives in the Oxford area, or at least reads the column in The Oxford Leader. The cards are addressed in care of that paper.

It could be someone who read the issue and had to take a sudden trip to care for old Aunt Matilda, gone berserk in California.

It could be a Disneyland fan.

It might be simply a nice person who knows that newswomen occasionally do get flaky.

It might even be Howard Hughes. (What does he own in Oxford?)

Maybe it's Paul Newman. Throb. Throb. (If he knows anyone in Oxford, I want to know about it.)

Perhaps it's an old flame who only now realizes what he missed.

Of course, it could be some sweet grandmotherly type, who knows any mother of six has got to be at least aware of, if not interested in, kite flying.

But for purposes of March daydreaming, I am going to assume that the sender is a rich, benevolent eccentric slumming for the day out of Palm Springs in Long Beach and ready and willing to add addepleted newswomen to his already long list of charitable enterprises.

Next winter when I am writing this column from my Palm Springs mansion, I shall be able to give you the inside information on Frank and Bing and Bob and the rest of the gang.

I may even let you share an interview with Paul Newman.

Spiritual Message

The Rev. Alexander T. Stewart

"I bind unto myself today the strong Name of the Trinity..."

These are the beginning words of a strong hymn of faith attributed to Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, 372-466 A.D., who brought Christianity to that island almost sixteen centuries ago.

Today there is strife in that land, supposedly, on the surface at least, religious strife but, really, with underlying causes, motives and provocations emanating from many different sources, pride, nationalism, economics and so on. It is unfortunate and, I believe, false that the blame for this conflict be attributed to religious causes.

However, be that as it may, tomorrow being St. Patrick's Day, what more appropriate occasion could there be to pray for peace in the land to which he brought the knowledge of the Prince of Peace?

Tomorrow there will be many celebrations under the banner of Patrick, mostly of a frivolous nature, but his saintliness and the reason for his dedication and courage will be given little recognition. Actually, the day celebrates Ireland rather than the life and work of the good St. Patrick. But, all of his labor and good works were not undertaken for his own aggrandizement nor for the honor of Ireland but for the glory of God. He was a saint of God who practiced, preached, lived and died in the faith of his Savior Jesus Christ. It is tragic that that faith could be so misunderstood to even be thought the cause for Ireland's present troubles. Rather, it should be the balm that heals and restores God's peace to the land and to the hearts of the people. The sixth verse of St. Patrick's hymn might well be remembered by all who are caught up in Ireland's strife - and by all of us who are not involved in it but who, likewise, need God's peace in our lives. It says:

Christ be with me, Christ within me,
Christ behind me, Christ before me,
Christ beside me, Christ to win me,
Christ to comfort and restore me,
Christ beneath me, Christ above me,
Christ in quiet, Christ in danger,
Christ in hearts of all that love me,
Christ in mouth of friend and stranger.

Some Sashabaw Junior High parents aren't as puzzled about modern math as they once were. The reason: a new orientation program for parents of modern math students.

Sponsored by the mathematics department at Sashabaw Junior High School, the program lasted four weeks. The topics covered were sets and their operations, number systems and their properties, clock arithmetic, number bases other than ten, expanded numeration, exponents, signed numbers, and geometry.

The parents were not actually taught modern math, but had the basic properties and terminology explained to them by instructor Mort Kinser. Mr. Kinser also explained the relationship of new math to traditional math.

The program was thoroughly enjoyed by all those who attended. Children of the parents attending also reported having fun, helping mom and dad with their homework for a change.

Modern math has long been a problem for the majority of parents, mainly because of lack of communication between home and school. The school should serve the entire community, parents and children alike.

The math department at Sashabaw hopes this program is only the beginning. It is one of those projects which help to cement good school-community relationships.

Students of Mrs. Gregory Leach's two geography classes have absorbed Russian studies via the stage in a recent chartered bus trip to view the film, "Fiddler on the Roof."

The classes are studying Russia, with particular emphasis on their form of government as compared to ours. The students have learned that many republics make up the U.S.S.R., and that, within these republics, people have similarities to — and differences from — us in the United States of America.

The film they saw was based on the life of Jewish people who lived in Russia at the time of the czars. Customs and traditions of those people — especially as they related to the marriage ceremony — were highlighted.

The film viewing was a rare field trip for the students. Since the Supreme Court Ruling that seemed to provide a need for revised priorities in educational spending, it was up to the students to provide the $3 cost.

Dr. Hima Geno knows your problem

Dear Dr. Geno,

We have a pup with a problem. The pup, whom we call Paderewski, wets his bed every night. Do you think we could use the same alarm system on Paderewski that we used on Marvin?

Marvin's Mummy

Dear Mummy,

Perhaps if you were to change the dog's name it might help. As for the alarm system, I wouldn't treat a dog the way you treat Marvin.

Dr. Hima Geno D.E.

Hey Doc,

I got this pill problem, see. Whenever I'm turned on, I walk six feet off the floor. Last week I tripped over a low flying sparrow. What should I do?

Restless

Dear Restless,

Stay indoors as much as possible.

Voters of Independence Township

If you put the Real Estate Salesman in office, I will extend the hand of fellowship and work with him. But please remember, he could be clerk without an election but for me. He has said he will put his license in escrow. Fine. But how about his associates and former boss? Can he put them in escrow? A real estate salesman's training and whole life are dedicated to getting the highest and best use of the land; in other words the most money for the property, regardless.

Put yourself in his shoes. Every time a lot is split, rezoning matters come before the board he will have to think about his license and how the voters would view his vote. This is an impossible situation because zoning, zoning, zoning is the issue right now. I tried to talk him out of running because as a duly elected official, I have found what political pressure is. Those same people who are his supporters are the ones who are most active in lobbying for things I was elected to a four year term to fight.

This is the main reason I support Robert J. Garner for Clerk.

Prescription I

You'd be surprised how many people pay good money for a prescription drug (and for the related medical treatment) and then don't follow the doctor's orders. For example, about four out of five people interviewed recently admitted they took too much or too little of their medicine, or stopped taking it too soon.

The actual figures were: 86% took more medicine than they should at one time, and 78% took too little. Almost 20% took less of the total prescription than the doctor believed was necessary.

"Many of the patients taking more than the prescribed quantity at one time reasoned that if one dose would help, then two or more would be more effective," reported William B. Duff, of the University of Oklahoma College of Pharmacy team that conducted the survey.

Also, some who forgot to take a pill at noon took two at supper time, not realizing the double dose could be dangerous. For instance, an overdosage of anti-coagulant drugs can cause bleeding.

Those who took too little medicine at the right time, or who just stopped using it, created another kind of medical risk. A doctor might prescribe a drug to fight infection, for example, and the drug was stopped or reduced when the outward symptoms disappeared — but before the infection had really been cleared up.

Also, of course, that often meant a waste of money.
