The candy flew during Clarkston's annual Fourth of July parade, and so did the kids after it. The parade Tuesday drew a big contingent of political candidates and one of the largest crowds ever to turn out for the Fourth.

Scramble's on

By Guest Columnist, Bill McGlashen,
Oxford

1972 is the year of the politicians and they're going great guns. If we could bottle up all the hot air that flows between now and November, we could melt the polar ice cap. The reason that Congress will recess before long is so that the members can go home to mend their fences before the voters give them the gate.

Everyone knows that we have many complex problems in this country that won't get solved by giving simple answers but a politician is the only person who will respond to a simple question by giving a complex answer. The best description of a politician I ever heard was that he shakes your hand before election and your confidence afterwards.

There are lots of issues in the campaign this year like the war, busing, high taxes and high welfare costs. Most candidates say that they're agin 'em but what will you bet that at this time next year, we still have 'em.

Some promise that if elected they will eliminate school buses so fast you'll wonder where the yellow went. Others claim that with their brand of tax reform the government will take in more tax money and that taxpayers will pay less. Talk about a gullibility gap.

They all promise you pie in the sky but we all know its our dough they plan on using. A political race can be compared to a horse race, the only difference being that in a horse race, the entire horse runs.

I've often wondered if the hat the candidates throw in the ring is the same one they talk through. And they're always talking about standing on their records. That's a ploy to keep you from seeing what that record is. Also the record they run on must be a stereo record because the sounds coming out one side of their mouths is different from what comes out of the other side.

Still it will be quite a side show. Watching the conventions from Miami Beach this summer on TV will be better than watching reruns, the only reruns being some of the candidates themselves.

San Diego can take comfort in the fact that, although they lost a convention, they gained a lot of peace and quiet. The flap over pollution has eliminated the smoke filled room so now all the convention businesses must take place in the open. I have made up my mind this year that if one of the TV networks projects a winner for the presidential nomination before I get set down in my chair to watch the proceedings, I will make it a project not to watch that network the rest of the year.

Now in case you're thinking these jokes aren't the best, take comfort in the fact they're not the worst. The worst political jokes are the ones that get elected.

Talented kids

Winners in the crafts contest at the Salvation Army Daily Vacation Bible School last week inspect their efforts. Brigadier Mary Aspden reported 50 children a day attended the sessions and that judges had to choose from 180 exhibitions.

Pine Knob traffic problem

Pine Knob Music Theater has packed the people in during its first week of performance — so much so that traffic has been backed up along Sashabaw Road, off I-75 expressway ramp and even back along I-75.

Supervisor Gary Stonerock says he plans to meet with developers, the County Road Commission and the State Highway Department to see what can be done to relieve the congestion.

Stonerock related the Pine Knob traffic problem with that which occurred when the Michigan International Speedway was constructed in Cambridge Junction in the Irish Hills.

"Traffic was lined up for 20 miles in all directions after that opened," he said.

"I was kind of put out with the speed with which the site plan was approved. We didn't try to get a deceleration lane or any increase in the right-of-way even. Nobody is good enough, no matter how big, to walk in and get carte blanche approval of a $60 million project. And we haven't even had to contend with the multiples there yet," he added.

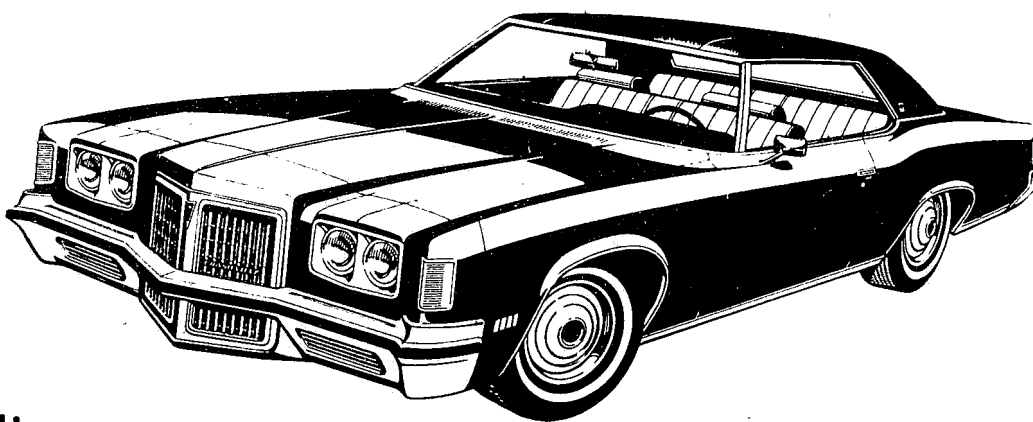

Stonerock said he felt sound coming from the concerts would be another problem. "We haven't yet had any really long, still nights, but I've been out there checking it out."

A good crowd paid respect to Don Beach

By Jim Sherman

Toastmaster Tink Ronk opened the Don Beach retirement banquet with... "we hope to leave a lasting impression in the mind of a grand guy."

There is no question that the impression of that evening will be long lasting, and for more people than Mr. and Mrs. Don Beach, retiring chief of the Independence Township Fire Dept.

Area fire departments were well represented, which showed respect. And the Sashabaw Junior High cafeteria was full of friends, which showed love.

Men from Waterford Fire Department, Orion, Gingellville, Brandon, Oxford, Addison, Metamora, Hadley, Springfield, Groveland, White Lake and Holly Fire Departments were in the audience.

J. C. Webster, president of the Northeast Oakland County Fire Fighters Association, made the first presentation of the night, a certificate and plaque of appreciation of service.

Ken Johnson, Independence Township treasurer, gave Beach his retirement badge and expressed the thanks of the community and Township Board for his many years of service.

Bob Krick, president of the Independence Fire Fighters Association, also gave Beach a plaque.

Duane Hursfall, long time friend of Beach and former township supervisor, reminisced about their days working together.

Toastmaster Ronk, who replaced Beach as chief, gave the final tribute of the night. "He has given of himself more than anyone will ever be aware of. When there was a call for help of any kind, he went.

"He would buy many small things from his own pocket and make trips on behalf of the fire department without turning in a bill," Ronk said.

The retiring chief was praised for helping others on the personal, non-department level, too.

Ronk didn't forget Mrs. Beach. He told of her years of working with her husband and the department answering the fire phones, calling firemen, working the base phones and radios all hours of the day and night, then being at the station with coffee and "whatever she had in the kitchen" when they came in.

Beach's comments were as friends expected... putting the credit for the accomplishments of the department on fellow firemen. "We are like a football team," he said. "They are all in there with me, 40 or 50 men, along with, shall I say, an accommodating Township Board."

TV 2 newsman Joe Weaver was scheduled as the guest speaker of the night, but had to go to Washington at the last minute. Fellow newsman, Ken Ford was an able substitute.

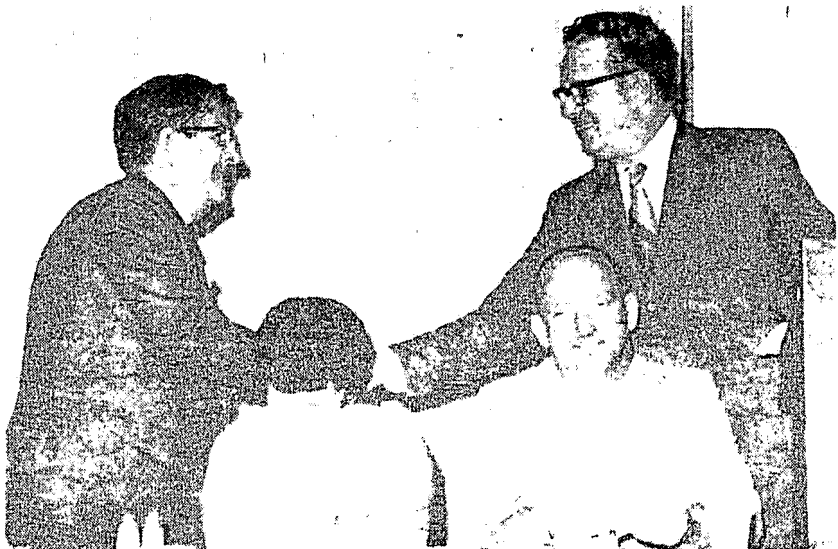

He answered questions, made comments about personalities in Detroit TV, and brought the movie, "Clippings from the Darkroom Floor." Slip ups of tongues and bodies, not suitable for the screen, were in the film.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Beach, a special couple.

There were a lot of familiar faces in the crowd of 220 which turned out to honor retired Fire Chief Don Beach. The people paid him tribute for 30 years service Tuesday night at Sashabaw Junior High School.

It's a great place

There's something about a small town and the Fourth of July. Patriotism is still a big deal. Being in the parade and waving to your friends is a big deal.

It's a reflection of that part of Americana that most older people hearken to when they think about "the good old days."

They were simpler days. The problems were less conspicuous.

The joys were freer. And yet Clarkston, with its annual turnout of people who do enjoy Fourth of July parades — and going to the beach to watch the Regatta — and going home again for a picnic dinner in the backyard, has managed to preserve the flavor.

Wish that more of America had the sense of "belonging" that people of the area feel.

GUEST EDITORIAL

Separate problems

BY RICHARD YOUNG, OXFORD

School busing has become such a controversial issue that smart editors are refusing to touch it with asbestos gloves.

It does seem to us that the issues of integration and of equal education are separate considerations and not subject to any single solution.

We are also of the opinion that there is no constitutional precedent for courts to act as legislative bodies in an attempt to resolve community problems.

That minority groups have not been given equal educational facilities, teaching personnel or opportunities is now generally recognized.

That school districts, urban, suburban and rural are generally in financial trouble is another obvious truth. Relating dollar support of schools primarily to district property taxes is unfair and frequently a terrible burden for those with small fixed incomes.

To proceed as if the problems of integration and education were one; without regard for the fact that voted millage increases are presumably to be used for the schools and the children within the tax district; may easily result in compounding inequities and solving nothing.

It is part of our precious American heritage to resent being pushed. Whether we are black, white or yellow, we bristle at being pushed.

Also, even though we are perhaps the most generous people in the world, we make a positive distinction between "giving" and having something taken away from us.

Perhaps the eventual outcome of the busing hassle will result in fair solutions which do not penalize the youngsters for mistakes made by their parents and grandparents.

Perhaps, too, there will be clearer definitions of court and legislature limitations.

If these things happen, we can be glad that the conflicting emotional outbursts have resulted in proper attention being paid to the several almost totally separate problems.

Letters to the Editor

A "conflict" has arisen

To the editor

Thank you for the excellent article on the Land Conservancy. I would like to add some points that have a new importance. As you noted, Supervisor Gary Stonerock deserves credit for initiating a township conservation organization. I would like to add that he also deserves credit for following a strict hands-off policy ever since. Trustee Tom Bullen also deserves credit for introducing William H. Whyte's book, "The Last Landscape", which subsequently became our bible. (We wish that everyone in the township would read it.)

In our presentations recently given to the township and village boards, we have stressed the point that the Land Conservancy is a non-political organization. Subsequent to our interview, I learned in the newspaper that one of our board members was running for the office of Township Treasurer in the August election. I personally consider this to be a mistake, and in conflict with our published position.

Sincerely,
Nelson Kimball

Why I don't grow sideburns

By Jim Fitzgerald

And then I wrote . . .

It was my teenage daughter who complained that I am the only man in the nation who is not letting his sideburns grow.

There is a reason. I have queer sideburns. So far, only my barbers have known for sure. Why should I let the whole world see?

Honest. I think those other guys look great with hair down their cheeks. They look like Scarlett O'Hara is waiting for them to come home — and they're not sure they'll go, the dogs. But such cavalier grooming is not for me. You see, ever since I can remember, I've had this thing . . .

"Hey Mac," said my barber to the 2 other barbers, "look at this kid. I never saw anything like it before. His hair grows straight down the left side and straight back on the right. Run across the street and tell Curley to c'mere. I want him to see this."

And that's how it's been all my life. I need a haircut on the left side 2 weeks earlier than I need it on the right. My left ear is covered with shaggy hair while my right ear is bare. That right ear has been washed twice as much as the other one.

When haircut money was hard to come by, I naturally didn't go to the barber until the right side needed it. In the meantime, Mother had me wear a peaked cap tilted rakishly over my left ear. In school, capless, I did my first elbow-bending. I put my left elbow on my desk and rested the left side of my head in the palm of my left hand. I even maintained this protective coloration while walking between classrooms. People stared but I told them I had an earache.

The ideal arrangement, of course, would have been to get a haircut in 2 installments. For a $1 haircut, I'd pay 50 cents for the left side on the first Saturday of the month, and the other 50 cents for the right side the third Saturday. But I could never find a barber to go along with this. Generally speaking, they are a surly lot. On their feet too much, I guess.

I have been in several friendly barbershops in my time. When I was a teenager, my favorite trimmer was named Milliken. He had several pool tables in the rear of his establishment. A guy didn't mind waiting to get his haircut if he could pass the time playing 9-ball. The only trouble was that I frequently lost and, by the time Milliken said I was "next," the haircut money was gone. I would pull the cap over both ears, and have 2 earaches, until the next payday.

After World War II, when I was a crusty veteran, I discovered the barbershop in the ancient Harrington Hotel in Port Huron. It was across a basement hall from the taproom. A guy could wait his turn at the bar. I used to go downtown for a haircut on Saturday morning and get back home Sunday morning. I kept generously allowing people to go ahead of me. "I'm in no hurry," I'd explain, "I'm waiting for my right side to catch up with my left side."

But I digress. I started to explain to my daughter why her square old man doesn't let his sideburns grow. It is because I would look lopsided. The left sideburn would grow down toward my chins while the right sideburn grew across my ear. To compensate, I would have to lower the heel on my right shoe. It is bad enough that I must buy a whole haircut when I only need half of it. I can not also afford special shoes.

Because she started it all, I am going to make my daughter read all this wisdom. And she'll say, "Boy, what a dumb column."

Well, I can't save the world every week. Onward and Upward.

Meet the Belbys

Jack and Pat Belby, residents of Independence Township for just 2½ years, believe in community involvement.

"If everybody would just do a little bit, then the burden wouldn't fall on just a few people," says Pat, who celebrated her 26th birthday Monday.

Both have been active in Bottles for Building. Jack is a member of the Independence Township Planning Commission, and Pat, vice president of the Clarkston Women's Club, is expected to assume the presidency after August.

The Belbys live in a neat grey and white ranch house, a helping hand sign in the window, at 4791 Mohawk. Two sons, Sean, 3, and Christopher, 2, and two gold fish "are about all we can handle," according to Pat.

The location of their new home had something to do with their involvement in Independence Township. Gary Stonerock, then a candidate for supervisor, lived right across the street, and Jack enlisted in the fight against numerous rezonings that were besetting the township at that time. He helped circulate petitions against the mobile home park then being considered.

Pat wasn't able to get active right away. Christopher was born three weeks after they moved here, but it didn't take Pat long to decide she wanted to hook up with "Bottles for Building". Jack joined her in the Independence volunteer effort to recycle used glass.

From that, Pat got into the Clarkston Women's Club and last year was chairman of its Story Hour at the library.

Both the Belbys—Jack is an applications engineer for Vickers Corp. in Troy—are from New Jersey. They'd lived in Dearborn briefly before coming to Independence, attracted here mainly by the Eastern character of Clarkston, Pat says.

She still misses the East and its connections with the past. An antique lover, she is thwarted somewhat by Jack who likes more modern artifacts (like cars), but the Belbys proudly display an 1897 Ansonia mantle clock, a gift from Pat's great aunt. Equipped with side statues, it is presently bereft of the two floor standing newsboys with which it is equipped.

"We'll get the newsboys back when we get a mantle," says Pat.

Pat, in her church and community involvement, sees a need for a club or movement which would get more new residents involved in the community mainstream. A member of her church's newcomers' coffee committee, she was at one time thinking in terms of a newcomers' club for Clarkston.

Meanwhile, there are the two active boys, her club work and this fall she'll be working towards a masters degree in remedial reading instruction at Oakland University.

The pace comes naturally to both the Belbys, she said. Married just four years, they were active in college—she with student government and he with a fraternity.

"When you become involved in one area, you see needs in other areas and become drawn to it. It's a contagious kind of thing," she reports.

But she admits there have to be priorities and limitations. "I sew and I enjoy reading. Jack is mechanically inclined and enjoys working on his car. It's his pride and joy. And then as the kids have started to get older, we've found we're liking to sleigh ride in the winter, fish in the summer and we're even getting back to swimming."

It's a busy life and one they seemingly enjoy.

Mrs. Jack Belby reads for Sean, 3, and Christopher, 2.

A family argument on the highway will live up any overcast afternoon. It seems that a mother and her two sons, (age 13 and 10) had been traveling in the family car when she put out a plea for just a little harmony.

The boys had been acting up in the car and involved in a continuous argument for several miles. The mother half jokingly told her sons that if the nonsense didn't stop, she was going to stop the car and have them both get out. Several minutes later she did just that, letting both boys out in a strange area. The boys looked around, not knowing what to think. The mother waited a couple of minutes and began to laugh, asking both boys to get back in the car.

The older boy got in, the 10-year-old decided to play a little game with his mother. He advised her to leave, and he would find his own way home. The mother looked at her son and thought to herself, if he wants to play games, two can play. She pulled away leaving the 10-year-old standing on the side of the road. She planned on going around the block and really throwing a scare into the little devil.

The boy, being the adventurous type, ducked out of sight. Three police agencies and two hours later the mother was re-united with her son. The boy crying and glad to be had, the mother mad but happy her son was sad.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Day

Day-Shope vows said

Pamela Louise Shope became the bride of Calvin Day June 10 at Clarkston Church of God. Rev. C. J. Chesnutt officiated at the double ring ceremony. Eighty guests attended the reception in the church parlor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shope of Drayton Plains. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Day of Davisburg.

The bride wore a long sleeved floor-length gown of mantilla lace with a full skirt. Her veil was secured with a crown of tiny pearls. She carried a white and yellow orchid on a white Bible.

Jennifer Shope, her sister-in-law, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Marlene Porter and Vicky Smith, who wore flowered nylon batiste styled with Empire waists and velvet sashes. They wore large garden hats and carried carnation and daisy bouquets.

Janice Chesnutt was flower girl and Calvin Howley served as ring bearer.

Frank Shope, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom as best man. Jerry Hensley, another brother, and Bruce Sommers seated the guests.

The newlyweds are residing on Fourth Street in Drayton Plains.

What's happening?

Three Clarkston students received degrees from Central Michigan University this year. They are Herbert H. Beach, Box 206, a B.S. in business administration; Penny J. Fox, 67 Buffalo, a B.S. in education; and Charles B. Horsch, 6595 Eastlawn, a B.S. in education.

Wayne State University commencement exercises saw four Clarkston area students receive degrees. They are Neil William Roberts, 571 Baldwin, B.S.; Judith Ann Krug Nechal, 5655 Parview, B.S. in nursing; Karl G. Drayton, 5247 Brono, B.S.;

Gary E. Stelmach of 6305 Waldon and Thomas P. Gates of 4401 Elmdale are among those students honored by Ferris State College for consistent academic excellence at a recent Academic Honors Banquet.

A virtual "Who's Who" of European and American artists opens at the Detroit Institute of Arts Wednesday, July 5, with the arrival of the Smith College Museum of Art collection.

"Hair" opens at Pine Knob

"Hair," the American rock musical hit will explode on the Pine Knob Music Theatre beginning Tuesday, July 11 thru Saturday, July 15. Performances will be held at 8:30 p.m. Reserved seats are priced at $7.00 and $5.00 and the unreserved lawn seats are $2.50. Tickets are available at all Hudson Stores and at the Fisher Theatre Box Office.

As beautiful as it is to see young people revelling in the complete theatrical experience that is "Hair", a show they can identify with, it is even more exhilarating to discover the total acceptance of "Hair" by their elders. Everything about "Hair" is refreshingly free, uninhibited, honest and unabashedly frank. That adults are responding to "Hair" so fervently seems to indicate that they, like the kids, want entertainment that tells it like it is.

The producer of "Hair" is Michael Butler whose courage did not stop merely with the announcement that he would come to Broadway for the first time with something that he truly believed in. Butler just said "go" to his very creative creators. "Hair" authors, Gerome Ragni and James Rado, composer Galt MacDermot and director Tom O'Horgan will tell you still stunned in disbelief, that it was on Broadway — good, gray, establishment Broadway — that they got the 'go-ahead' to ignite "Hair" exactly the way they wanted to.

"Hair" has been called "a musical be-in," unrestricted as it is by all the conventions of Broadway musicals. It is not a 'book' show in the conventional sense. It is a loving, living, realistic look at today's flower children; with bells, beads, incense, flowers, costumes, dreams, freaking out and turning one another on with love and a whole set of values. It is set to joyful rock music with lyrics that shout — "I Got Life" and "I Believe in Love" and sing the praises of "Hair" and "White Boys" and "Black Boys" and "What a Piece of Work is Man" and "The Bed."

Not to be overlooked are some of the other hit songs such as "Aquarius," "Good Morning Starshine," and "Let the Sun Shine In."

Antique show to help pay for museum

Northwest Oakland County Historical Society will present its third annual Antiques Show and Sale July 14 and 15 at Holly High School.

Some 25 dealers will display their wares from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day. Offerings will include authentic antiques such as painted furniture, primitive and Victorian, dolls, toys, silver, jewelry, sandwich glass, pewter and collectables.

Mrs. Carl MacArthur, president of the Society, said proceeds will be used to help pay for and restore the old Patterson House on Maple Street in Holly for use as a museum.

Other events planned to help pay for the project include a house tour October 28 and a Christmas tea in an antique filled farm house December 5.

The society, which serves Groveland, Holly, Rose and Springfield townships, was incorporated May 1, 1970.

The forthcoming antique show and sale will feature glass appraisal by Harry Whitlow at $1 per item. Whitlow is a well known glass collector, author of books on glass as well as a lecturer. He once owned the third largest art glass collection in the United States.

The Historical Society's booth will feature handmade articles, ranging from pillows and yarn flowers to dolls and "Chicken Little" potholders. A new edition of the cookbook, compiled from members' favorite recipes, will be on sale.

Refreshments will be served in an Early American tea room.

Among dealers represented at the show will be Clarkston area people, Mrs. Daisy Dowling, Mrs. Fonti ApMadoc and Mrs. Ann Thatcher.

Free day planned

A Mothers' Day Out Program, designed to give mothers one day a week free from child care, is taking shape at Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Betty Kee, Fay Cozadd, Betty Galligan and Zella Benson, the committee in charge, plan to open the program to all mothers in the area. The center would operate daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and would provide lunch for the children.

Children enrolled at the center will be required to have a health certificate. Forms will be available at the church office after August 1.

Children 2 to 5 years old will be accepted, the daily class size limited to 15.

All stamped out

by Jean Saile

I opened a long unused drawer the other day, and lo — there were 1,500 trading stamps — left over from the days when businessmen used to bribe us to spend our money.

There were red stamps and green stamps and yellow stamps, and they lay there forlornly — staring at me in disarray. Some dribbled out of old envelopes; some remained glued — their edges curling — to yellowed pages of historic stamp books; some were just shoved into the drawer, wrinkled and unloved.

I never really did become a part of the stamp craze of the 60's.

While other women spent evenings pasting, gluing and counting, I did neat things like polish the silverware or clean the oven. My trouble was a total lack of organization, and it took a neighbor to prove it.

She saved enough stamps to "buy" an electric typewriter. It took her two-and-a-half years and a gross of tranquilizers.

She read the newspaper for only one purpose — to find out the bonus buys. Wednesdays were her worst day. Wednesdays, a lot of stores and gas stations gave double stamps, and my friend rose with the dawn and traveled with the birds.

Her speech became halting. She couldn't get the glue off the roof of her mouth. Her family threatened desertion when she bought only those items rich in stamps. Her husband finally cancelled her gasoline credit card.

But came a Christmas when she had an electric typewriter gift wrapped under the Christmas tree.

"And it was all free," she said, "except for the tax."

That's where her organization paid off.

There was one Christmas season when I decided I would use some accumulated stamps to buy children's toys. I trotted over to the trading stamp center, proud of my industry and thrift one day in October, and they told me they were all out of every item I wanted. They offered to order, but I knew I'd never get myself or the stamps all together again for the trek, and I settled for a trivet.

The trivet became lost in a move later — and yet those stamps are still there.

Anybody want some old trading stamps?

My silverware still needs polishing.

Census shows a lot of TVs

The 1970 Census of Housing counted 275,651 housing units in Oakland County, and 260,125 households had at least one television set (205,045 UHF-equipped), the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, announced today. The figures are from the first report for Michigan which represents detailed statistics on housing for each county.

The report shows that in the county: There were 89,244 housing units with air conditioning (57,151 with room units and 32,093 with a central system), 220,645 units with a clothes washing machine, 189,298 with a clothes dryer, and 88,541 with a dishwasher.

The 1970 population was 907,871, with an average of 3.4 persons per housing unit.

A total of 99,934 housing units were built before 1949, 86,985 during the 1950's, 31,571 during 1960-64, and 55,186 within the five years preceding the April 1970 census.

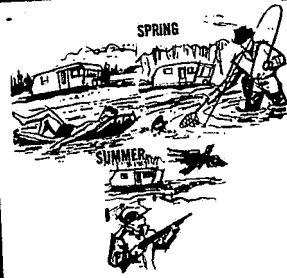

Utility gas was used to cook the meals in 95,843 households, electricity in another 163,439 and bottled, tank, or LP gas in yet another 4,452.

There were 272,044 housing units with complete kitchen facilities and 269,068 with complete bathrooms, both for the exclusive use of the households. The number of bedrooms in all housing units ranged from none (in 2,260 units) and one (in 26,345 units) to four or more (in 48,840 units).

Owners occupied 207,038 units, renters 57,528 units, and a total of 9,110 units were vacant year round with 1,601 for sale and 3,817 for rent.

Copies of the report, Detailed Characteristics, 1970 Census of Housing, Michigan, HC (1)-B 24 are available for $3.00 each from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, or from U.S. Department of Commerce field offices located in major cities.

Spiritual Message

BONE WEARY

John 4:6 "Jacob's well was there, and so Jesus, wearied as he was with his journey, sat down beside the well. It was about noon."

It is speculated that part of the psychology of the bitterly pushy five o'clock rush traffic is the fact that many in that rush are very tired from working all day. So anything or anyone who stands in their path to rest and dinner is going to get shoved out of the way. If it is true that people when they are sick are different personalities, than when they are well, perhaps some of that applies also to them when they are bone weary.

In the light of this grumpiness and downright meanness which comes out of us in this situation, it is refreshing to have a Hero who could still be kind when he was tired. The Master and his followers had evidently walked all morning. It was high noon and a hot road when they came to the well on the edge of the town. First on the men's list was food so they trooped into town to find something to eat while the Master just dropped beside the well curb wishing for a drink but not having a bucket to draw water.

When the ADC-type woman just fitting the image we like to think of for all people beneath us came sneaking out in the heat of the day to get water when she wouldn't have to face the embarrassing chiding of conventional women, the Master's first words simply reflected his tiredness and thirst, not any prying into her problems. But when she wooed by her argumentative tack that she needed far more than water, he was not too tired to speak gently but firmly about her relation to God as well as to the men in her tortured life.

Tiredness is a good thing if it comes from honest toil. It shouldn't have to make us either into unmoving clods nor fearsome grouches. We should know that it too can pass and we still survive even if someone rushes ahead of us.

GOP candidates' night Monday

Fish Hook Injury

The usual way to remove a fish hook from a finger is to force the point forward till it emerges from the skin, squeeze down the barb or break it off with a pair of pliers, and then pull what's left of the hook back through its path of entry.

Dr. Theo Cooke, of South Australia, has come up with a quicker method. It seems complicated in print, but it's really a safe and simple way to remove a hook from somebody else's finger.

The first step is to make a loop of ordinary string (about 18 inches long) and wind the ends securely around your own right index finger. Slip the loop over the hook's shank, and place the hooked finger on a firm surface, with the eye of the hook pointing to your left.

Take the eye and shank between the thumb and index finger of your left hand, hold the shank rigidly, and then depress it. This should painlessly disengage the barb.

Still depressing the shank, place the tip of your left third finger to hold the center of the loop against the injured finger at the point where the hook enters. Bring your right hand back to the hook, and suddenly jerk it free along the plane of the shank's long axis. That's all there is to it.

Adults -- want to swim, play tennis?

Adults interested either in tennis or swimming lessons have been invited to call Tim Doyle, township recreation director, at Independence Township Hall.

Doyle said if enough interest is displayed, evening lessons will be arranged.

Both the tennis and swim programs for children are now underway. Doyle said 150 youngsters are enrolled in swim lessons at both Deer Lake Beach and private pools.

Plans are underway to form a tennis team from interested Clarkston youth, 16 and under, who would then play matches with teams from six neighboring townships.

Tryouts for the team, scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon, Wednesday and Thursday, July 5 and 6, at Clarkston Junior High tennis court were to involve singles, double and mixed double play.

Reminder

Rep. Loren Anderson, R-Waterford, called last week to say he had been instrumental in getting the House version of the lottery bill amended to include senior citizen clubs as one of those groups eligible to conduct bingo sessions. Anderson said, "Remember the time the State Police raided the Senior Citizen gathering at the CAI building?" That was some years ago.

Clarkston players do well in tournament

It took a playoff on one hole to determine the winner of Pontiac State Bank's Junior Golf Tournament in the 16 and 17-year-old boys' division last week.

Larry Boon, who had shot a 73-73, won the tie breaker with Derek Fulkerson who had shot 72-74 in the original play. Boon is from Grand Blanc and Fulkerson from Bloomfield Hills.

Chris Genung of Bloomfield Hills was third place winner with 77-70 and Ron Schmeiding of Bloomfield Hills with a 73-76 tied for fourth with Brad Goldrick of Farmington who shot 77-72.

Joe Marx of Birmingham was fifth, Lee Booker of Clarkston and Mike Alfred of Rochester tied for sixth, and Chris Ayles of Bloomfield and Doug Davis of Ypsilanti tied for seventh.

Gene Ploucha of Mount Morris earned first consolation prize with a score of 153.

Doug LeManski, of Ypsilanti, shooting 71-71, was first in the division for boys aged 14 and 15, and the score was good enough to make him the tournament medalist.

John Miles of Davison was second with 152 and Chris Skellenger of Waterford was third with 157. Dave Meade earned the consolation prize.

Darryl Spelich of Warren, Ohio, was first in the boys' division for 12 and 13-year-olds. He shot 160 and then had a play off with Ed Humenik of Orchard Lake who came in second. Mark Hampton was third with 170.

Eric Booker of Clarkston scored 66 and 70 to win in the division for boys 11 and under. Todd Hartle of Orchard Lake was second and Dave Daiek of Bloomfield Hills was third.

In the girls' division, Cindy Booker of Clarkston came in first for the division of 16 and 17 year olds. She scored 74-86 to beat Karen Parshall of Euclid, Ohio, and Linda Baker of Fostoria, Ohio, second and third place winners.

The division for girls 14 and 15 years of age was won by Holly Hunt of Columbus, Ohio. Karen Escott of Rochester was second and Allison Booker of Clarkston, shooting 108 and 107, was third.

The 12 and 13 year olds were led off by Mary Jane Anderson of Clarkston who shot 146 to beat Marty Reber of Upper Sandusky and Kris Lindsey of Clarkston. Kris scored 187.

Girls 11 and under were topped by Kim Radetke of Clarkston who shot 187 on the par 3 course. Lesley Short of Clarkston was second and Karen Lindsey of Clarkston was third. They shot 192 and 261, respectively.

The tournament took place June 26, 27 and 28 at Waterford Hill Country Club under the chairmanship of Olga Anderson and Thelma Booker.

Official marshals of the course were Tim Kaul and Jim Chamberlain, co-chairmen, and Dennis Bronson, Dick Swarthout, Gordon Booker, supervisor, and Jim Stevens.

The scoreboard was kept by Ray Anderson, chairman, Herb Zscherung and Cindy Baker. Susan Sackrider, Carolyn Radamacher, Sue Locker and Penny Noble provided refreshments. Homer Biondi was announcer and Shirley Sloan, Bernice Bishop, Shirley Radetke and Delilah Peterson were scorekeepers.

Clarkston golfers take 2 state firsts

Young Clarkston golfers took two first places and several other awards in the recent State Jaycee Invitational Junior Golf Tournament at Milham Park in Kalamazoo.

Cindy Booker, shooting an 80, won the girls' 16 and 17-year-old division. Mary Jane Anderson with a 99 was first in the division for girls 14 and under.

John Anderson came in third in the division for boys 14 and 15 with an 81; and Kirk Hart's 81 was enough to give him a seventh place in the division for boys 16 and 17.

Eric Booker played well in the boys' division for those 13 and under. He shot a 93.

Men In Service

Robert Grace has received his commission as a second lieutenant after completing four years of Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps (AFROTC) courses at Michigan State University.

He also completed MSU's Flight Instruction Program, an optional course involving 36½ hours of flying instructions at Lansing Capital City Airport and 30 hours of ground school taught by the AFROTC personnel at MSU. The program is offered to senior AFROTC cadets who are qualified and desire to enter pilot training after receiving their commissions.

Second Lieutenant Grace, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Grace of 5234 Sashabaw, Clarkston, is a 1966 graduate of Clarkston High School. He majored in social science at MSU.

Parade watchers' delight

First place winner in the parade, sponsored by Independence Township Fire Department, was St. Daniel's peace bird. Second place prize was awarded to Boy Scout Troop 189 for its depiction of the flag raising on Iwo Jima. Rotary Club and Dixie Baptist Church tied for third place award, Rotary having fashioned a bunker and Dixie Baptist an entry on the 19th amendment.

This is the way to see a parade.

A couple of gagged beauties.

The balloon man was there.

There were plenty of entries to watch.

Color guard stepped out proudly.

The crowd was thick.
