The last press we moved into our new building was a Chandler and Price, 12x18 hand fed job press. We are not going to hook it up. Hazel wants it around as a reminder of the past.

It's a "new style" C & P. It's well over 50 years old. We also moved, but haven't plugged in, a 62 year old Linotype. It works, too.

These pieces of equipment are just too slow to compete in today's market. Even their replacements are very slow by present standards.

The minimum speeds on job presses now are faster than the C & P would run without feeding it. A Linotype operator averaged about 30 inches an hour. The IBM's cruise at 135 inches an hour.

The printing industry has been growing and developing since Pi Sheg, a Chinese, invented movable type in the 11th century.

Yet in only four years, from 1968 to now, there have been more changes in the newspaper industry than from the time Pi Sheg made his clay type in a rice paddy to man's walk on the moon.

At the Detroit News reporters and editors have their copy appear on a screen in front of them exactly as it will go in the paper. They delete words or sentences with a touch of a button. They can insert words or sentences the same way.

At some newspapers, St. Petersburg, Florida for one, they're composing quarter page ads on a TV tube and I haven't the foggiest idea how this is done. And I have the feeling that by the time I learn it will be obsolete.

When we bought the Oxford Leader in 1955 we had to learn writing and printing.

Seventeen years later we have to learn writing and printing all over again.

Gumperson's law says that as soon as your hands get dirty your nose itches.

That law also applies to getting one's hands into the hot peppers.

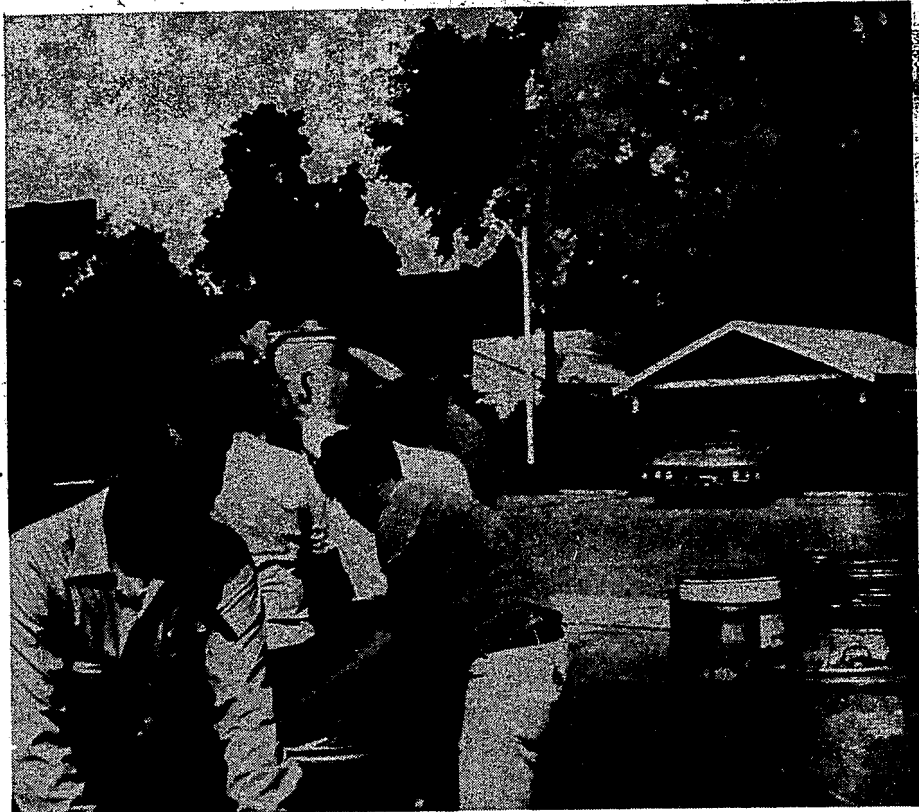

I helped Hazel cut and deseed a half bushel last week. She used rubber gloves... the only pair in the house.

She warned me that the peppers would burn my hands. They didn't, but I washed them twice using lots of soap.

First my eye itched. Wow! Did that burn. I washed my hands again and my nose itched. You housewives guessed it. My nose burned.

Whichever baseball team wins the American League East division title will be the best mediocre team in either league.

Is there anyone interested in a debate between senatorial candidates Bob Griffin and Frank Kelley besides the editorial writers of the metro dailies?

Norm Cilly, Jim Joyce, Jim Miller and Jack Frost were among the hard working Eagles from Lodge No. 3373 who provided needed manpower and transportation to handle over 16 tons of glass during the last Bottles for Building collection September 16. The men also collected over 20,000 pounds of newspaper. All material was transported to the Oakland County Recycling Center at 555 South Telegraph. Women of the auxiliary served lunch and helped bundle the papers.

Conservancy group explains goals

About 30 people got "the picture" Monday night as officials of the newly organized Independence Township Land Conservancy explained how the area might combat the threat of urban expansion.

Nelson Kimball, president of the group, showed movies of natural beauty spots which he said should be saved if at all possible.

He noted land conservancies have functioned well in other parts of the country and even in England. Land garnered by the non-political conservancy is held in trust for the exclusive benefit of township residents, he said.

The conservancy hopes to acquire land through donation, purchase, bequest and with the help of funding programs, both private and public.

Such land would be tax free, and would be removed from the control of local government, Kimball said.

Jerome Wilford, in a bid for members, said, "Unless we want our township to become one giant concrete pad, the action of builders and developers has to be matched on our part."

He said any sum of money would be gratefully received — from the $1 dues to gifts of $5 to $5,000. He also said people were needed to work in searching out the ownership of beauty spots which should be preserved for the future.

Two small bequests have already been received, Kimball reported.

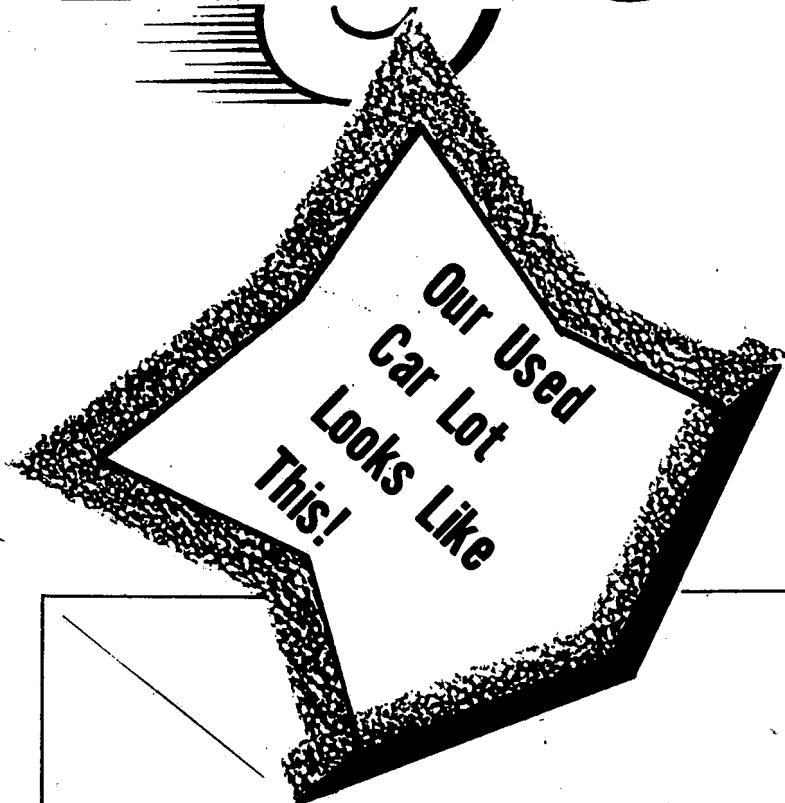

GOP to meet

The Republican Club of Independence Township will meet for a potluck dinner and a candidates' night October 9 at the township hall. The meeting is open to the public with everyone invited.

Foster Road "fill" irks neighbors

There's a "problem" out on Foster Road, about a half mile out of the Dixie Highway, and nobody seems to know for sure how it got started.

Leon Clark, formerly a landscaper in Pontiac, has told township officials he purchased ravined property from Frank Saylor and that he has all necessary permits to fill it.

The township, beset by complaints from nearby residents, has ordered the operation halted, according to Supervisor Gary Stonerock.

It's been halted before, but blossomed back into business — the latest after Clark's gas tanks were reportedly filled with sand, his hydraulic hoses ripped and electric lines cut.

The problem started last June when Saylor still owned the property, but he said at that time he had leased it to Clark, according to nearby residents.

Neighbors, who said rubbish, tires, cans, bottles, building materials, logs, papers and rags as well as legitimate trees and stumps were being deposited in the ravine, complained. The township ordered a work stoppage and, according to Robert Ollila of Foster Road, July was comparatively calm.

By August, Ollila says, the operation was back in business and on August 16 about 30 residents of the area met with Saylor at the township hall to see what could be done. Saylor was reportedly advised to use no fill there until plans and permits could be inspected. He complied.

Two weeks ago the operation started up again, Clark informing all questioners that he now owned the property and had proper permits to engage in the fill of the land.

There are township officials who agree privately that he probably does have the necessary county permits despite the suburban farms zoning of the property.

Right now, Building Inspector Ken Delbridge says a meeting is being arranged between Township Attorney Richard

Campbell and Clark's attorney to find out just who the land belongs to, who issued the permits, and whether or not they are valid in view of water shed regulations which might pertain to the ravine being filled.

Meanwhile the occupants of two "nice" homes on Foster look directly across the road at what they consider a "junky" landscape. All others in the area who must pass the fill to arrive at their homes are reportedly not happy either.

Judge gives ok on K-Mart

Circuit Court Judge James Thorburn Tuesday upheld the right of Waterford Hill Country Club and William Gershenson to construct a K-Mart and apartments on club property off the Dixie Highway.

Zoning to permit commercial and multiple use of the land was granted by a former township board but overturned in a subsequent referendum a year and a half ago.

Thorburn granted Gershenson and the club a restraining order permitting construction of the shopping center and multiples. However, his opinion took note that the country club is now zoned to permit only a commercial golf operation as opposed to a private one and is therefore economically unfeasible. Should the zoning be changed, he indicated he might alter his opinion.

Thorburn said, however, that under present circumstances he found the ordinance "unreasonable, void and unconstitutional since it renders the land utterly useless." He called the ordinance "the taking of property without due process of law."

Indications by township officials were that the case would be appealed.

Mrs. Ruth Purslow was surrounded by well wishers at her PTA tribute Thursday at Clarkston Elementary School.

Zoning recommended to preserve rural Reese

The Independence Township Planning Commission has recommended to the township board interim zoning which would preserve the rural character of land along Reese Road in sections 7 and 18.

A new residential classification, requiring 1½ acre lot minimums as opposed to 15,000 square feet with paved road and ditches, won the approval of all commission members with the exception of Jack Belby.

It also appeared to satisfy residents of the area who were present at the meeting. One man said, "We've been fighting for this for six years. This is a real good compromise."

Zoning in the area as recommended would allow for 1½ acre lots, 3 acre lots and 10 acre lots near the freeway.

Belby said he was opposed to the zoning action because of its possible affect on land values and tax bills.

The interim zoning, if approved by the township board, would last three months to a year at most, according to Planner Larry Burkhart. He said the measure is merely a stop gap awaiting completion of a comprehensive development plan and updating of the general zoning plan.

In other business—Thursday night the planning commission approved the request of Gerald Frericks, builder, to rezone three lots east of Sashabaw between Pelton and Oak Vista from commercial to residential. An unsuccessful attempt was made to rezone other nearby property on both sides of Sashabaw in the same manner.

The complaints of Clifford A. Barber who owns a commercial lot in the area, plus the recommendations of the planner that residential rezoning for property west of Sashabaw would be economically unfeasible resulted in further action being dropped.

The township board will still have to act on Frericks' rezoning. The builder said he wanted to build two homes on the property, a move which would necessitate a split of the middle 50 foot lot.

Lew Wint received the commission's approval for plans to add a three car garage and casket display area to the rear of the Wint Funeral Home, 5929 M-15. The addition he plans is 30 by 60 feet, he said.

Independence Township Land Conservancy may acquire more land, including part of a tamarack swamp south of Maybee Road near Waterford Road in Spring Lake Estates No. 2, it was revealed at the meeting.

There are 3.84 acres involved in the subdivision extension which developers Robert Dieboll and Donald Arsen say will be used either for a subdivision park or given to the conservancy.

Preliminary plat approval involving 29 lots on 20 acres was given by the commission.

Registrations controversy

One hundred and twenty-four new names were added to the registration lists of Independence Township in a special drive last weekend, according to figures released by Clerk J. Edwin Glennie.

The drive has, however, not quieted the furor engendered when Glennie two weeks ago dismissed two previously designated registrars for "conflict of interest" and said he would not permit house-to-house registration except in cases of illness or age.

Colette Kloc told The Clarkston News this week she had resigned her post as deputy registrar because she considered the registration efforts without door-to-door calling "tokenism."

"I know 30 people in my neighborhood of 150 homes — some of them two to a house — who are not registered. I was willing to go door to door, but Mr. Glennie said he does not believe in it," Mrs. Kloc said.

Glennie countered, "If those people won't go to Food Town to register, then they won't go to vote. Meantime my books are packed and it is quite possible I would have to split precincts and order extra voting machines for people who would not use them."

Glennie said for every new precinct created, it would require the purchase of three additional machines at $1,000 to $1,800 each plus the cost of the election workers.

He said that handbill circulation last week on the registration drive had not significantly increased registrations accepted over the weekend at Food Town, A&P, and the Pontiac State Bank.

A similar registration drive is planned for the evening hours Friday and all day Saturday.

Alcohol still No. 1 problem

Despite recent concentration on the perils of drug use within the district's secondary schools, a survey completed last year by the Community Resource Committee shows alcohol to be far and away the number one problem here.

Of 1,579 students in both junior high schools and the senior high school who were questioned, 609 said they had experimented with alcohol.

The figure for drug experimentation was 238. Tobacco is still gaining fans — 382 saying they smoke regularly.

The summation appears to draw a graph of the problems besetting our times.

There were 107 girls who reported they had worried about a pregnancy. Double that number — or 215 students — said they had considered suicide at one time or another.

Family conflicts are much in the forefront — a total of 408 young people admitting they have wanted help with a family problem at one time or another. Another 378 said they had no meaningful communication with parents.

It is pointed out that percentage wise the report is not entirely accurate, that not all students answered all parts of the questionnaire.

However, a look at problems by grade level shows that as a student gets older, the problems increase. Nevertheless, every problem cited had been encountered by someone in the lower grade levels.

A vast majority of the students thought parents ought to be aware of most of the problems with the exception of sexual involvement and contraceptive use, two items which most of the students felt parents would be better off not knowing.

The kids seemed to feel that a recreation center would be well patronized, 750 of them claiming they would attend such a drop-in center. A majority wanted a swimming pool. Nearly 300 felt they would use counseling and medical information services dispensed by a drop-in center.

The survey preceded the establishment of "Independence center" on Maybee Road.

Police jottings

Authorities have apparently rectified a situation in which a house on the east side of the village was the butt of a number of complaints from nearby residents. Unsupervised parties were allegedly the problem.

There were two larcenies among the apartments on Surrey Lane last week. Nobody has been apprehended.

Since the opening of school there have been motorcycle injuries resulting in great bodily harm and one case of a stolen car winding up in an accident with resulting injury to occupants.

Police can expect to patrol 17 home football games between now and November 10. Besides traffic to watch out for, there are such incidents as the young girl who became involved in a scuffle last Wednesday at the ninth grade game and was reportedly knocked unconscious when she fell and hit her head. She's okay now, it's reported.

Clarkston Police are in the process of hiring four new officers. With the resignations of Ron Draper and Harry Fahrner, the department strength is down to ten. Those hired on a part-time basis will be given a locally administered 10-week training program, as in past hiring practice.

The matter of registration

There's been a lot of furor during the past year involving Independence Township's voter registration policies. While the tone of it has been personal and political, it seems to us the real question has more far reaching implications.

Shouldn't every citizen of legal age and meeting other criteria as to eligibility have the right to vote? What's the big deal about a registration slip?

Registration by its nature is a matter of record keeping — of attempting to insure that people vote only once on any given issue.

And yet the present system — with its artificial shackles — are not foolproof. Anyone really wanting to cheat in an election would find it not terribly difficult to do so.

Voter registration lists carry as much as a 40 percent margin of error. People dead 12 years are still on eligible lists. Moves from a district often are not recorded.

Legislators who once in their wisdom deemed women not qualified to vote, who took away privileges because of short-term non-use of the voting right, and who have recently lowered the voting age to 18 ought to put some brains to work on a registration system that would insure integrity of elections and accord the right of a vote to every eligible citizen.

It has been suggested that voter registrations be tied in with Social Security cards. Perhaps that's the answer, even though it would mean the accounting would have to be done on a federal basis.

An idea that worked

by Jean Saile

"Art and apples?" some said with raised eyebrows.

"It's hokey," said others.

"Turn the town over to artists for four days?" one or two asked incredulously.

"It'll never work," said the rut travelers.

Those were the comments nine years ago when as editor of the now defunct Rochester News, I had what I considered "this great idea" for a cultural festival peculiarly Rochester's own.

But it did work.

First the general plan was outlined in the paper and then cards were sent to all organizations in town inviting them to send a representative to a future meeting.

There was a good turnout, and people like Beth Hoheisel and Dr. John Solverson took over from there. The first show followed in two years. The policy of free admission was established at that time.

A couple of weeks ago it was my pleasure to return for the most recent exhibit and festival. Some 35,000 people, including some from Clarkston, joined me in touring the exhibits, and I'm told the art sales this year were the highest ever.

I really think it's a great show, but then I'm probably prejudiced. Display tents are turned over to students, Sunday painters, working craftsmen, and the professionals... and the only adverse remarks I heard were in regard to the professional exhibit.

But then, who understands modern art anyway? Not me.

I didn't "dig", for example, the prize winning padded triangular whatchamacallit upon which people left foot imprints until all the goo inside began to spill out through the cushion seams.

Gimmicks prevailed among the pros. There was a painting of "cannery row" encased in a giant sardine can. Some paintings appeared only to have been blocked out, not completed. Others appeared to attempt to reproduce textile texture and had for me all the interest of part of a drape hanging on the wall.

Some of the paintings were incredibly "busy", with little blocks of things competing for the eye all at once.

But the kids and the Sunday craftsmen and the visitors and the outdoor art stalls are what make the show "sing". Weavers, pottery makers, cartoonists all plying their trades. Some really beautiful oils and water colors. Fresh cider and candied apples.

Art in a "touch" and "feel" situation, not in a sterile museum.

I guess that's what I really like.

And now, folks, how would Clarkston feel about a music festival. Banjo players on front porches, impromptu concerts on the grass, perhaps a "show boat" effort on the Mill Pond?

There may be more about that later.

A better idea

By Jim Fitzgerald

The last time I had a better idea about a Ford, I almost got run over.

One of Henry Ford's daughters was married in a billion dollar ceremony while wearing a roller skating costume. Her photo appeared on front pages all over the world. It was a bad example for copy-cat wives who'll wear jeweled football shoes if that's what the jet-set gals are clomping around in on the Riviera.

I suggested it would be a better idea for the Ford girls to elope in modest dresses with J.C. Penney labels showing.

Reaction from women readers was somewhat negative. They accused me of being jealous of Ford wealth and beauty. One woman even kicked me, leaving cleat marks in my shin. But nevertheless, here I am back again with another better idea . . .

This one is for Henry Ford himself. It concerns his musical image.

The big-city society pages report that Henry and his gorgeous wife recently attended a party given by Ambassador and Mrs. Walter Annenberg in the American embassy in London.

This was no weenie roast. The Annenbergs had the famous Meyer Davis society band flown in from New York to play for dancing. It was the first time in musical history that a band commuted across the ocean for one gig.

Ambassador Annenberg anticipated flak from the British Musicians Union. Instead of hiring the Davis band as musicians, thus taking bread out of 75 English trombones, the ambassador displayed his ambassading talents. He made the Davis musicians "temporary members of the ambassador's household."

Presumably, this means the piano player was listed on the payroll as a butler, the trumpet players were footmen, the sax man was a bartender, and so on.

But what about Henry Ford? According to the society reporters, Ford led the band and sang a couple of numbers. He did not wear a lampshade on his head. Maybe a hubcap.

Anyway, might it be possible that a British auto manufacturer would object to Ford being imported to perform? Why wasn't a Rolls Royce executive given the baton? Maybe Ford was also a member of the ambassador's household for that one night. ("Hey, Duchess, meet our upstairs maid!").

But I digress. My better idea has nothing to do with Henry Ford's status at the embassy. I am concerned with his musical taste. The society pages said he sang his favorite song, "Hey Bop a Re Bop."

The favorite song of the president of one of this nation's largest industries is "Hey Bop a Re Bop."

Anyone out there remember how that goes?

My better idea is that Ford get a better song. Egad. He wants to sell to today's market, doesn't he? What would you do if you went into the local Ford dealership and found the owner singing "Hey Bop a Re Bop"?

I'd order a 1948 V-8 with running boards.

C'mon, Henry, Onward and Upward.

Letters to the Editor

"Comments out of line"

Dear Editor,

During the past two weeks Edward Glennie, Independence Township Clerk, has been criticized for his dismissal of two voter registrars, Ronald Herron and Donna Buhl. It is my opinion that Mr. Glennie was quite justified in his action and I must commend him for his initiative.

On September 8, 1972 my wife and I were at the Food Town Shopping Plaza when we were asked by a strange man in the parking lot if we had registered to vote. He did not introduce himself, and my wife and I did not inquire as to his identity. We went into the trailer which had been set up and began to fill out the proper registration forms. During the time we were completing our forms the registrar began to comment on the present Independence Township Clerk stating that he was inefficient and because of his inefficiency the voter registration drive lacked the proper supplies. My wife and I did not inquire about the qualifications of any township official or candidate but this information was strictly volunteered by this gentleman.

I felt that these comments were completely out of line and that this gentleman was abusing the position to which he was appointed. This type of dialog should be reserved for a door to door campaign but certainly not while registering voters.

I subsequently learned the identity of that registrar through a picture and story which appeared in the Oakland Press. The gentleman was Ronald Herron, husband of Karen Herron who is candidate for Independence Township Clerk.

Need I say more?

Candidate's ideas

Dear Editor,

Many citizens have expressed concern over the amount of multiple zoning in the township. Concern has been expressed by some that our current residential minimum house and lot sizes are in some cases too large and in some too small. Some feel that our current restrictions on commercial property are not strong enough and in some cases too strong.

I would like to suggest that the planning commission and the township board consider creating two more multiple zoning districts with densities of say 5 or 7 units per acre instead of the current 11 per acre and then proceed to zone the current undeveloped multiple to these districts as part of an updating of the master plan.

This would reduce the current densities that we are zoned for by thousands of units. This would be defensible in court and would alleviate the concerns of many. Also, I would like to suggest that we could create 4 or 5 residential districts with different minimum house sizes and lot sizes.

This would make it possible to protect the character of the more expensive neighborhoods without zoning retirees and young people out of those areas of the township that can support good moderate housing.

I would like to see the township create 2 or 3 more commercial and industrial classes of zoning that could be used to develop and protect special uses such as

Candidate briefing

To the editor,

I recently convinced the township board to send the township candidates, both Democratic and Republican copies of the papers and documents that I receive as trustee.

It would have been easier to copy them and give them to the candidates for Clerk Herron, Treasurer Buhl and Trustee Hensley.

These are public records, anyone in the world can ask to see them. The law says you can see them. If anyone denies you this right, let me know. We may charge you a small fee for a copy, but you must be permitted a reasonable access to the official papers.

So why the flap? The present clerk says "too much work." I believe this is the clerk's job, and if he isn't going to do it, he should not covet the job.

Why is this so important to me? First, there will be at least two new members on the board come November. Second, I am the only one sure to be there in November as my term has two years to run. I'll never forget my first board meeting; I was given a sheaf of papers the evening of the meeting — not even time to prepare a day in advance.

You good people wanted a change in administration — you got it. Later you gave us a vote of confidence by overturning the 3 zonings of the previous board. But there is more to township government than zoning for apartments, trailer courts and golf courses. Lot splits, street lights, liquor permits, sewers, water rates, ordinances, legal matters, etc. occupy so much of our time. We earn our keep.

I had attended board meetings to try and school myself. The candidates do this also. But the in-depth study of the work of the board can only be done by sitting down with the papers and studying. I would rather not work with a board as green as I was.

In retrospect, I could have done a much better job if I had been briefed. Nixon is briefing McGovern on even the most intimate and secret items in national security. Why not the township? Are we better than the president? I've even gotten extra copies of the Michigan Township association newspaper for the six candidates so they can be acquainted with this valuable organization.

I have had a few things railroaded past me. The clerk would put things on the agenda at the last minute and it would go through so fast my head was swimming. I hope this dissemination of information will help in this regard also.

Keith A. Humbert, Trustee

Trick or treat substitution

Ten Clarkston mothers are already making plans to avoid tragic Halloween consequences for their children.

Mrs. Robert Jensenius says they're attempting to avoid the situation in which young trick or treaters have been handed mothballs in popcorn balls, razor blades in apples and drugs in candy bars.

Her idea for "trick or treat" substitution is neighborhood parties for children 11 and under. Under the rules established, one parent must be present. There'll be no candy, but refreshments will be served by the parents.

The parties will feature games with relay races, costume judging and prizes for everyone. Mrs. Jensenius' group is asking parents to contribute $2 per child in lieu of candy purchases.

The party she plans will last two hours and take place in a garage owned by one of the participating families.

She's in hopes other parents will take up the idea to avoid situations such as those that happened last year in some areas of Independence Township.

How I spent my summer vacation

by Marilyn Lawrence

NOTE: This overweight thirty-nine year old matron, who should know better, volunteered for an eight day Civil Air Patrol Summer Encampment for 250 cadets at Alpena Air National Guard Base. I was obviously not in full control of my faculties, it being a three martini evening when Old Weird General brought up the subject. I loved the whole thing, and am going again next year, if he'll let me. (I seem to be suffering from a type of military hangover - I keep saying "Latrine" instead of "Bathroom", and last week I saluted a postman and two nuns). Next year, however, I will be better prepared. See the following:

(1) Bring two shower curtains. There are no doors on female latrines or showers. I am an Officer and a Gentleman by Act of Congress, and by God I want a door! Shower after 11 p.m. The bouncy nubile maiden cadets with their big fronts make me very aware of the sagging superstructure. It is demoralizing.

(2) When cadets put masking tape over

Garden Club rummage sale Oct. 6-7

Clarkston Farm and Garden Club will conduct its annual rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, October 6 and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, October 7 at the Salvation Army Church, 90 Buffalo.

Proceeds from the sales will maintain the club's scholarship fund. Current recipient is Jane Richard who is a junior majoring in health education at Central Michigan University.

Anyone wishing to donate rummage is asked to contact Mrs. Jerrold Wagon, 625-3160 or Mrs. Richard Huttenlocher, 625-1627.

latrines it means that they are cleaned and ready for inspection. (I thought it meant I had to go between the lines).

(3) Bring a ruler for making a military bed. The "U.S." on the funny green blanket must face the foot of the bed or you get a "gig", which is something like a "flogging".

(4) Do not plan to wear a five dollar wig for 18 hours a day. There are no 18 hour wigs, or girdles either. It will cut off the blood flow to the brain and render you an idiot after 4 hours.

(5) The food is all varisous shades of grey, so learn to identify it by texture. The soft, mushy, grainy stuff is either grits, farina, or potatoes. Hard, tough chunks with grey gravy is meat. Bacon is long grey rubber bands. Do not drink chocolate milk before marching in the hot sun. You will throw up.

(6) Be resigned to looking like a fat bus driver in the uniform. Wear a girdle so old you have to stick out the stomach to keep it up. New girdles will scar you for life, numb the legs, and insure a waspish disposition by 9 a.m.

(7) Be prepared to salute four hundred fifty times each day. Cadets salute me. I salute leaves, eagles, and stars. Generals do exist. I met one in the Officers' Club playing poker. When introduced, use your best grovel: say "Good evening, your Impostanceship, I love your latrines".

(8) Ask for a job in Operations. The Operations officer plans parties, takes bikini-clad cadets swimming (and calls it Water Survival), gets to fly in Air National Guard planes and shoot rockets. Gerry was Operations officer. I was Communications Officer. I got to wear headphones, send messages, shinny up trees to set antennas, and become deaf from bursts of static every time someone turned on a light. When things were slow, I also got to do the Chaplain's mending, bandage blisters, and clean coffeepots.

(9) Avoid the Gold Brick Award. This was presented at final Formation to the Cadet of Senior Member who committed the dummy act of the day. Example: A female who, in the dark makes a wrong turn, and is half undressed before she discovers she is in a male barracks. The Gold Brick is very heavy, and must be carried for the next 24 hours. Fun loving friends will attempt to swipe it. Don't trust anyone - a husband or a poker playing General.

(10) Do not look for Romance on a military base. Husband will shake hands with you outside female barracks. This is the Military Way.

(11) Find out where the Officers' Club is as soon as possible. It will have dirty cartoons only pilots can understand on the walls, 65c martinis, and a door on the ladies' room. Over-enthusiastic jet pilots from the ANG love to throw ladies into the lake during the frivolities. When approached by pilots, say "Don't touch me, I'm pregnant!" That is a very bad word to pilots, and they will not throw you in the lake. Think up a new one by next year.

(12) Brush up on my dice game. Another female officer from Clarkston won a radio equipped jeep, a C-54, and the entire Phelps-Collins ANG Base when she threw seven in a row with the Base Commander, and she only teaches sixth grade.

(13) Remember to bring a bunch of 8x10 glossies of pretty teenage daughter to next Encampment. The Guardsman in their jeeps picked up my frequency, loved the sexy voice and requested pictures of "Tokyo Rose, Baby" to put in jeeps. Anything for our fighting men. Why disillusion them?

Stitt-Auten vows said

Catherine Ann Auten became the bride of Michael R. Stitt in ceremonies September 23 at Clarkston United Methodist Church. Rev. Frank Cozadd performed the ceremony before an altar decked with daisies and carnations.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Auten, 6100 Overlook, chose peau d'ange lace on ivory chiffon over white taffeta for her gown. Her attached train was trimmed in peau d'ange lace. She carried daisies and baby's breath.

Suzie Auten, sister of the bride was maid of honor in a gold knit boucle gown with printed weskit. Diana Fox, a student at Central Michigan University, and Linda Bartnik, 1890 Ward, Pontiac, chose lime knit boucle with purple printed weskits as bridesmaids. All carried daisies and baby's breath.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Stitt, 9428 Sashabaw, was attended by Ed Keeley, Don Auten, brother of the bride, and Mike Mason seated guests.

Following a reception at Waterford Oaks, the couple left for a two weeks trip to Florida. They will reside at 6 South Main, Apartment 4, Clarkston.

Blood Bank is Oct. 5

Clarkston Community Women's Club again this year is sponsoring a blood mobile October 5, from 2-8 p.m. at the Clarkston Methodist Church off Waldon Road.

The purpose of this blood mobile is to provide readily available reserve of blood in large amounts and wide variety of types which members of this community can use in time of need.

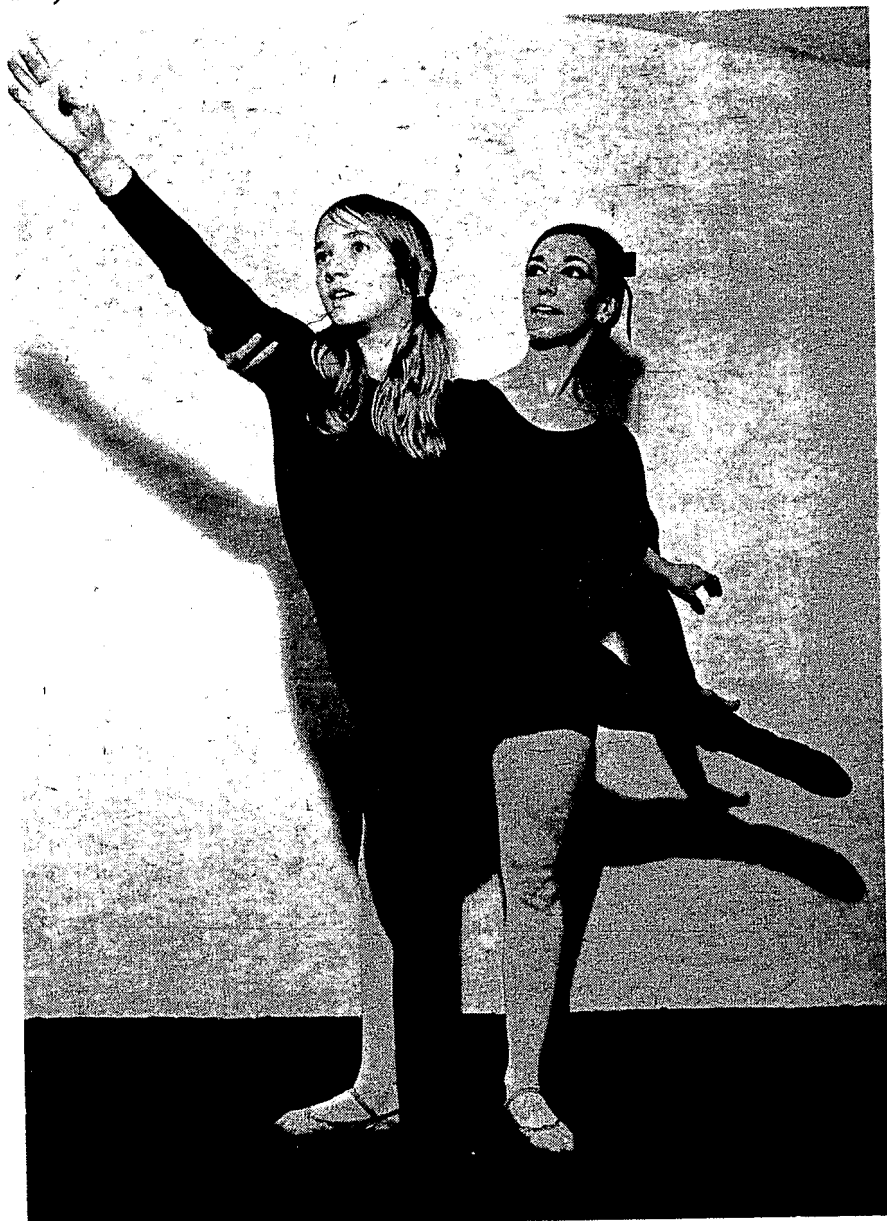

Coverage includes husband/wife, dependent children, children over 18 unable to give, unmarried donors, brothers and sisters, parents and grandparents of donors (need not reside in area) and individuals leaving the area.

If a successful donor, he or she will retain eligibility for a period of one year. Non-donors lose eligibility upon departure from the community.

Appointments are unnecessary; however, if you wish to make an appointment, contact Gwen Phillips at 625-1739 or Ann Tungate, 625-3805.

Co-op openings

Drayton Plains Co-op Nursery which accepts three and four-year-old children still has openings for enrollment, according to Judy Santa Vicca, phone 673-3996.

Barb Neff learns her ballet from Mary Frizzel, ballet instructress at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music since 1964. Ballet classes will resume there Thursday, September 28, according to Ivan Rouse, director. Miss Frizzel has danced with the Chicago Opera Company, the North Shore Opera in Chicago and the London Festival Ballet. She has also been a soloist with the Memphis Civic Ballet and a featured dancer in productions of "Brigadoon", "Kismet" and "Anything Goes", which she also choreographed. She is also available for lecture-demonstrations such as that she performed for the Waterford Adult Education assemblies last spring.

Mrs. Barry Bronzino (Sue Hampshire) has been selected for a most interesting assignment. Sue has been an airline stewardess for nearly three years and recently was selected to be one of eight stewardesses to work aboard Vice President Agnew's plane throughout his travels during the campaign. Of the eight stewardesses selected, Sue and three others will serve the Vice President's plane, and the Press plane will be served by the other four women. Barry and Sue make their home in Williamsville, New York. Sue usually flies out of Buffalo when working "as usual" for American Airlines. Congratulations, Sue — you must be tops as I know they had hundreds to select from — a very nice honor.

A Bachelor of Arts degree was earned by David Arthur Butler, 2276 Kohler, Drayton Plains, when he graduated last August from the University of Michigan in Flint.

Jeff Martin celebrated his second birthday over the weekend with lots of cake, ice cream and relatives. Jeff is the son of the Kelley Martins of Snowapple.

Club Chatham held their annual September guest night dance Saturday night at the Mt. Holly Ski Lodge. Ninety couples enjoyed the German theme of free beer for the "September Fest." Later in the evening pizza and snacks were served the weary dancers. New officers elected to serve the club for the 1972-1973 year are: John and Sally Curry, Frank and Billy Crowley, Carl and Barb Gusie, Jerry and Adele Powell, Art and Pat Ripley, Mike and Barb Thayer, and Dan and Betsy Travis.

The Charles Robinsons and the Richard Bullens, both of Robertson Court have returned from a visit to Lima, Ohio and a beautiful tour of the Appalachian Mountain area. Lima is the home of their daughter, Georgia and family who recently moved there from Maumee. The foursome enjoyed several days of beautiful golfing weather on the famous course at Gatlingburg, Tennessee and of course enjoyed the Smoky Mountain scenery.

POW bracelets are available again. Clarkston Jaycette POW chairman, Jan Lopucki, says she has just received one hundred bracelets. Silver bracelets are $2.50 and also in copper for $3.00. You can get one now by contacting Jan at 625-4709. Her address is 6341 Peach Drive if you want to rush right over there and get one.

Daryl Russell Losh of 9610 Eagle has obtained a master of arts degree from Central Michigan University. As a mid-year graduate, he is invited to participate in December 16 commencement exercises.

Larry and Barbara (Moore) Thompson of Waterford Township are the proud parents of a new daughter. Shari Lynn arrived September 18 and weighed eight pounds, nine ounces. The new arrival now makes fourteen-month-old Larry Jr. a big brother. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James S. Moore of Clarkston and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Thompson of Waterford.

Clarkston Community Women's Club would like to welcome all Clarkston area women to their 8th annual September 28 meeting in the newly opened independence center. The dress is casual.

Waterford Community Church has welcomed a new missionary candidate, Eunice Jantzen of Beatrice, Nebraska. Eunice is a graduate of Grace Bible Institute of Omaha, Nebraska. She holds a degree in Bible Major and Christian Education. She has spent one year on the staff of the Back to the Bible Broadcast in Lincoln, Nebraska. Eunice is presently enrolled in an 8 month training and evaluation program, known as Missionary Internship. Miss Jantzen will be involved in the many varied activities of the church, such as Pioneer Girls, choir, calling, etc.

Evangelistic program slated

Dr. John Gamble of Lynchburg, Va. will conduct an eight day Evangelistic Crusade at the Waterford Community Church beginning Sunday, October 8.

Dr. Gamble is considered to be one of the most dynamic speakers in the field of evangelism today. In addition to his ministry, there will be musical presentation in each service, including the Waterford Community Church choir, under the direction of Charles Warren, minister of youth and music at the church.

The services will begin each night at 7, with the exception of Sunday when the service times are 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The Waterford Community Church is located at the corner of Airport Road and Olympic Parkway in Waterford.

Pancake supper scheduled

Rotary Club and Clarkston Boy Scouts will sponsor a pancake supper from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Monday, October 16, at Clarkston Junior High School. Proceeds will benefit Lost Lake Scout Reservation and Rotary projects such as the Crippled Children's Fund and Shoes for the Needy, according to Lew Wint, chairman.

Welcoming the start of the 1972 Pontiac Area United Fund Community Division drive with a big grin are Community Division Chairman, Mrs. James (Katie) Stone, (left) 3125 Rosanne Lane, Drayton Plains, and Independence Township workers, Mrs. Dale (Carolyn) Fitch, (center) Independence business group chairman, 9011 White Lake Road and Mrs. Jerry (Adele) Powell; Independence Vice Chairman (right), 6023 Sunnydale, Clarkston.

These women and other P.A.U.F. Community Division Campaign leaders have been working for months recruiting volunteers for the once a year United Fund drive.

Spiritual Message

At the very time the history-changing revolution in Russia in 1917 was taking place, a high-ranking meeting of the church there was debating what colors should be used for altar hangings.

That's a classic in irrelevant nit-picking when really important things are happening, but examples like it abound outside the church too: governmental regulations frustrate the formation of pre-schools in the inner city when the small risk of danger from lack of sprinkling systems overrides the large risk of no meaningful guidance and relationships in early years; candidates try to out-"anti-bus" each other to the exclusion of less emotional but more critical issues like how to support education at all; we worry about who's at fault in an accident while damages and human suffering take a poor second place.

It's really reassuring that God hasn't given up on all of us long ago.

But he hasn't.

And this Sunday His church in all its forms celebrates World Communion Sunday in the joyful faith that He hasn't.

Sadly, we often argue over Communion in the church: should we use wine or grape juice? Can we share it often or seldom? In small glasses or the common cup? Bread only or wine too? In pews or at the altar? Only our own members or others welcome too? Is it symbolic or is Christ really present?

These are not unimportant, but are certainly second to you and I gathering in God's presence to share the bread and the cup.

He hasn't given up on us!

Jesus does point us to full and meaningful life together!

We can love when it seems easier to hate!

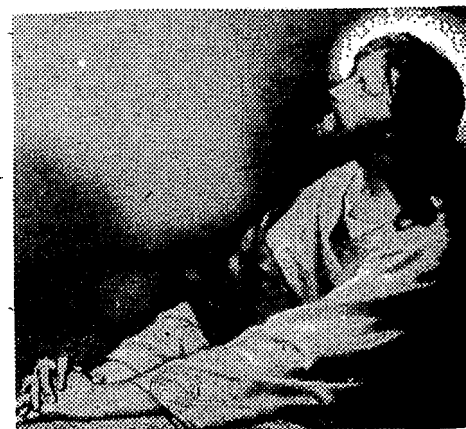

We can start over when we've messed things up!

We are brothers and sisters He wills to be one in Him!

We do have a place and purpose in this complex world!

"This is my body, which is for you," said Jesus... "This cup is God's new covenant, sealed with my blood... do it in memory of me." (I Corinthians 11: 24-25, TEV)

Thank you, Lord!

Nursery school - a time for exploring

Clarkston Co-Op mothers and fathers will get together for their first regular membership meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 3.

Special guest speaker for the evening will be Joann Warrick of Birmingham. Mrs. Warrick is knowledgeable about music for the pre-schooler, having taught at Roeper City and Country School, Bloomfield Hills, for eight years.

She has also taught at workshops in Oakland for the Greater Detroit Co-Operative Council and the Greater Detroit Education of the Young Child.

She now teaches privately in her own home so she can be near her own pre-schooler.

Susan Brock (left) and Penny Bernard know how to do dishes. They've learned at the nursery, now meeting with four groups five days a week. Phyllis Johnson and Barbara Eckfeld are the teachers.

Alice Batzloff, a mother who donates part of her time to the nursery school, gets into a conversation about things.

Marty Gamble might have the feeling he's being boxed in as Patrick Stringfield in the fireman's hat and Sue Buetler, a mother helper, get in some play at Clarkston Cooperative Nursery.

Underwriter's Association endorses the installation of lightning rods on your home. These rods are fairly easy to install and offer protection from lightning. On a roof with a fairly steep pitch, you need a lightning rod of only 10 inches in height. On a flat roof the rod should be five feet high. Lightning rods are attached to grounding cables, which are, in turn, attached to underground water pipes or other good grounding.

Make BOB'S HARDWARE, 60 S. Main St., 625-5020 your homeowner headquarters. We have the most complete line of Sherwin Williams paint in the area as well as wood finishes and antiquing supplies. If you have decorating problems, we will be happy to come to your home to aid you in the proper selection of paint and wallpaper color and texture. Hours: 8-6, Mon.-Sat.

HELPFUL HINT:

Valuable trees should also be protected from lightning: Lightning strikes trees much more often than power lines.

OU Academy presents "Spoon River"

A unique showcase production will mark the opening of the new play season for Oakland University's Academy of Dramatic Art.

For the first time in its brief five-year history the Academy will welcome back five recent graduates to star in a production especially selected to display their many talents.

Edgar Lee Masters' loving American folk poem, "Spoon River Anthology" with its 60-odd characterizations and vignettes, has been chosen for presentation Sept. 28-29-30 and Oct. 1 in the Academy's Studio Theatre, Varner Hall.

The five members of the cast are David Kroll of Bloomfield Hills, Demene Hall of Saginaw, Julian Bailey of Newtown, Pa., and Wynne and Paul Haas of Minneapolis, Minn.

The actors will be featured in an amazingly varied array of roles from young lovers, shopkeepers, preachers and teachers to the poor mixed up Jew who ends up in the wrong cemetery.

Curtain time will be 8:15 p.m. Sept. 28-29-30 and 6:30 Oct. 1.

Ticket prices will remain the same this year, $2 for general admission, $1 for students of any school, college or university in the area.

Theatre parties can be arranged for school groups

Local golfer to defend title

By Terry Thomas

Six local golfers will accompany the defending "Have Open Champion" Big T. Thomas to Fort Wayne, Indiana for the tenth Hale Open Golf Tournament to be held on October 6, 7 and 8th.

Four of the six accompanying the defending champ qualified for the championship flight. They are Dr. Al Hamilton who qualified by winning the Rotary Open, Gerald Anderson who qualified by winning the Spring Lake Championship; Dr. Hal Ford qualified through his superlative play in the recent Clarkston Cafe Open. Jake Leonard qualified because of his many contributions to the "Golf Bridge Game" being held weekly at local golf outings.

Two of the six qualified for the Pro-Am Division. They are Charlie Hadden and Paul Rice. They were selected by the International Selection Committee on the basis of their outstanding performances in Little League Golf Tournaments held this past summer.

Tickets are on sale locally for $25. This includes an invitation to the awards ceremony which will be held at the world famous "Trolley Bar" located in downtown Fort Wayne. Invitations include dinner and the opportunity of meeting all the qualifiers and getting their autographs. For a slight fee you can obtain a picture of yourself and a qualifier of your choice. Good luck, Local Golfers.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Spiker and Richard Funk were in attendance at a recent meeting of water system users in Independence Township.

Opening of the new McDonald's Restaurant on the Dixie Highway Friday was expected to result in at least a temporary cutback on hot lunch orders at the high school. Now with the Big Boy restaurant chain said to be interested in property on M-15, it looks like the school lunch program may be in for some ups and downs.

Restoration of land scarred by sewer construction has started along M-15. As other areas are completed, they, too, are due for renewal according to County DPW plans. There should be grass by spring, again.

Clarkston's intrepid biker, Rev. Fr. Francis Weingartz of St. Daniel's Church has recently returned from a 700-mile trip into the Georgian Bay area. He and two priest friends biked better than 400 miles but were forced to take the train when the roads became so narrow that biking was dangerous.

During one of these stretches, the party ran into tragedy. Their train struck an occupied station wagon stalled at a crossing. Fr. Weingartz, who witnessed the episode from the observation car, noted the train blew its whistle well in advance of the crossing but none of the occupants of the car got out of the vehicle.

The Pontiac YWCA needs adult volunteers eighteen years and up to be Big Sisters. This program provides a one-to-one relationship between young girls in need of friendship and women volunteers. The Big and Little Sister meet weekly to participate in activities determined by the pair. The Little Sisters are between 8 and 12 years old. If you are interested in becoming a Big Sister, call the Pontiac YWCA, 334-0973.

How do you choose street names if you're a developer? Larry Mattingly says you do it in a hurry. He said his company had only a morning in which to choose the names of Morningstar Drive, Court and Lane and Twilight Lane for homes he proposes to build out Reese Road way. The proliferation of streets and their names is making the job an increasingly difficult one, he added.

At the county level when it's time to choose the name of a new storm drain it's generally the friends of the Drain Commissioner whose names are used. The person whose name is "borrowed" winds up receiving a chrome-plated shovel bearing the dates and drain information.

Pontiac State Hospital volunteers will be honored at a Volunteer Recognition Night at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 11, in the patients' cafeteria of the Administrative Services Building. Keynote speaker will be Rev. Charlesetta W. Waddles, better known as "Mother Waddles," who is the founder and director of the Perpetual Soul Saving Mission in Detroit. There'll probably be a lot of Clarkston people in the crowd — people who do donate a lot of time and effort to the hospital.

Don't forget. Free immunizations will be available for everyone from 1 to 4 p.m. October 5 at independence center. Jean Stanlonis, a nurse with the Oakland County Health Department, will furnish the shots.

Girls State alumnae meet

An attempt to organize a Past Girls State Club in the area will be undertaken at a luncheon at 2 p.m. October 15 at Chief Pontiac Unit No. 377 on Edgewater Drive.

Purpose of the club will be to send girls to Girls State. Anyone who has been to Girls State is invited to attend.

The group will attempt to acquaint high school junior girls with the workings of city, county and state government. Anyone wishing more information is asked to call Leona Hoose at 373-8180.

It's been called to our attention that as many as 12 to 15 unauthorized youth hang out almost daily in the Clarkston High School parking lot. The incidence of drinking on the campus, the main attraction said to be provided by the interlopers, is high and there is some worry being expressed. What's to be done? An attendant on the parking lot which happens to be designed suitably for a one-man kind of patrol?

What's happening?

The Social Security Administration has moved to 142 Auburn, Pontiac, Michigan 48058, according to a recent postcard. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The phone number is 334-4711.

Waterford Recreation Department is sponsoring a color tour to Agawa Canyon and Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, October 2-5. Travel is by commercial bus and the cost of the tour is $64. In November the group plans to tour Mexico, departing on the 11th and returning on the 20th. Total price of the trip is $355. Both tours are open to all senior citizens and their families. For more information, contact Waterford Recreation at 674-0376.

A conference on welfare in Oakland County will be 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, September 28, in the UAW Region 1 B office at 711 W. Thirteen Mile Road, Madison Heights. The program is open to the public. A $1 registration fee includes lunch.

SPORTS Go- Round

by Jerry Savoie

Women's wrist-wrestling. It is a sport and one that gathers quite a lot of attention in Petaluma, California. As it turns out, wrist-wrestling for both sexes and for all ages is gaining more and more interest. It is a sport anyone can try. It takes no special training, and it is fun to do. You can really get to know people by challenging them to a wrist-wrestle. Why not try it yourself?

And why not try SAVOIE INSULATION CO., 64 S. Main St., 625-2601 when you are in the market for aluminum siding? Our expert crew handles all kinds of aluminum siding jobs, or consult Jim Vollbach or Dick Dixon of our staff, if you prefer to do the job yourself. Call us for a free estimate at your home. Hours: 7:30-5:30, Mon. - Fri.; 8-12, Sat.

HELPFUL HINT:

To tie tight, secure packages, use wet string. It shrinks as it dries and thus gets tighter.

The citizens of Oakland County will launch an 18-month program in traffic law enforcement at the fifth annual meeting of the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County at noon Friday in Southfield's Raleigh House. The meeting, to include county commissioners, city managers, mayors, chiefs of police, prosecutors, judges, educators, traffic engineers and representatives of Oakland County business and industry, will outline finalized plans for a selective law enforcement program in the county.

Tours of Pontiac Motor Division's assembly plant will resume Monday, October 2. Tours are Monday through Friday at 9 and 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. An evening tour is conducted each Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 332-8111.

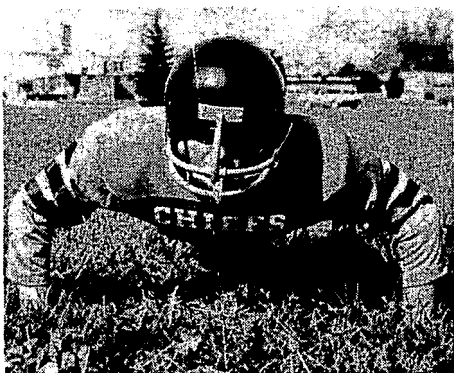

The Oakland County Association for Retarded Children will host the first state wide musical talent contest for the mentally retarded at 7:30 p.m. November 11, at the Holiday Inn of Southfield, 26555 Telegraph. Donations of $2 per person will be accepted. Hot and cold hors d'oeuvres will be served.

Senior citizens in Oakland County will have an opportunity to learn about Nixon administration efforts in their behalf at a 2 p.m. meeting September 28 at the Birmingham Community House, 380 South Bates, Birmingham.

Flint will host the American Legion of Michigan's annual fall conference September 29 through October 1. Based on the theme, "Let's Put it all Together," the conference is expected to devote itself to improving conditions in the community, state and nation.

Men in service

Marine Pvt. Gary A. Joyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce of 5607 Warbler, graduated from basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

A Chief does pushups.

Presiding Judge Clark J. Adams announced that Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem has been chosen by his colleagues as the first elected presiding judge of the Oakland County Circuit Court. Judge Ziem will preside from October 1 through March 31, 1973. Judge William P. Hampton was elected alternate presiding judge.

State plans and local programs for environmental education will be reviewed at an open hearing at 3 p.m. Tuesday, October 3, at Oakland Schools, Telegraph and Pontiac Lake roads. Concerned citizens are asked to join educators in the area to review state goals and suggest ways of implementing environmental education.

The longer a house has been on the market, the better your chances are of getting it for less than the original asking price. It is always worthwhile to make a bid for property in which you are interested even if the price you offer is much lower than the price asked. Often, you may be able to negotiate with the seller in an advantageous way. Even if the price is non-negotiable, it is still worth trying. Especially with property that has been on the market for sometime, prices may become more flexible.

Let the experienced salespeople at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., 625-5821 use their know-how to help you with those negotiations. And we can guide you in avoiding the many costly errors inherent in home buying. We invite you to call us with your listing also; our large backlog of qualified buyers includes referrals from our nation-wide transfer service. Hours: 9-8, Mon.-Thur.; 9-6, Fri., Sat.; 12-5, Sun.

Parents Anonymous

Parents Anonymous is a self-help group for parents who abuse their children either verbally, physically or sexually, and who want to stop the abuse. Members meet together weekly to discuss their progress. They learn to recognize when they are about to lose control of themselves and, instead of lashing out at the child, they call another member and talk out their rage.

Abusive parents were usually themselves abused. But they seldom recognize the relationship between having been abused and abusing. As they talk about themselves, they see the real reasons they lash out at the child. Here are some examples:

Ruth was orphaned at six; a relative who cared for her thereafter made her work all the time and constantly criticized her. When Ruth became a mother, she was an excellent housekeeper. But when her daughter made a mess or even demanded attention Ruth would yell at her so as to terrify the child. In P.A. Ruth learned that she was trying to buy love with a spotless house — and that this would never work. Then she stopped yelling and started giving attention to her daughter, she found that the daughter had a lot of love to give her back. Ruth still needs P.A. to keep telling her not to feel guilty for sitting down and playing with her child.

Betty had an abusive husband. After his sudden death she started beating the daughter who looks like him. In P.A. she is admitting the intensity of her hatred for the dead husband. And she is beginning to see her daughter as a person different from her father.

Grace quit school at fifteen to get married. She is very bright but feels like she's not as good as other people because she didn't finish school. She was beating her son daily with a belt to make him study, so mother and son spent all their time in conflict. In P.A. she was reassured that she could stop beating him. She stopped; now she is working at believing in herself.

These parents have been helped during the six months that Parents Anonymous has operated in the Detroit area. New chapters are now being started so that more parents can be helped.

Parents needing help can call 963-5668.

Parents Anonymous needs all the help it can get. People interested helping others as well as parents who may need help for themselves are invited to attend a workshop at Rosary High School, Greenfield and Joy Road, Detroit, Michigan on October 6th and 7th, 1972.

Behind the Counter

From Keith Hallman

National Pharmacy Week Sept. 27 to Oct. 3

There has been a gradual change in the pharmacist's role over the past 25 years, and the experts say this will continue at an even faster pace over the next decade.

Up to around 1950, the practicing druggist's major responsibility was the compounding of prescriptions. Now it is the control of drug distribution, with the pharmacist's knowledge of drugs being used to help physicians and other professionals.

For example, druggists are now being consulted more often by doctors as to the selection of drugs. We are being asked about their chemical action, and possible interaction with other drugs or physical conditions.

This not only increases the doctor's efficiency in drug use, but it improves patient care when we suggest the best medication, the best way to administer it, and the best dose. Among other things, it is hoped this will reduce the number of adverse drug reactions.

This is National Pharmacy Week, when our profession looks to the future and to ways in which it can best serve the community and the nation. To a great extent, that future is in the hands of young men and women now in our schools of pharmacy.

They are learning more and more about how to work best with doctors, nurses, dentists and other health professionals. If they are to truly serve as drug consultants, they will find their education will continue throughout the professional life, just to keep up with scientific developments in medicine and pharmaceuticals.

He still does the supervising

Albert (Pete) Petersen is a good supervisor, so his charming wife says. Pete just grins and agrees.

He's 73 now, going to be 74 on election day, November 7.

He says he hasn't been much good since he fell down on the job back in 1965. The job he fell down on was construction and a bad leg ever since attests to the seriousness of the accident.

Somebody's doing a good job at the Petersen home, 6285 Orion Road. The heavily burdened garden is in apple pie order, not a weed to be seen. The fall flowers grow lush on their stalks and the Mexican fire bushes are all in flame.

"Won't be long until the black walnuts are ready," says Mrs. Petersen. "We've got plenty and some to spare."

The Petersens have been residents of the area since 1939, but it was in 1950 that they built their present comfortable brick home.

The route to Clarkston for them was a long one. Pete grew up the son of a Danish farmer, one of nine children.

"My dad had ten acres of ground, nine kids, four cows, a horse, a bunch of pigs, chickens and geese. He never worked for anybody in his life. The farm was how he raised his family," says Pete whose thick Danish accent still remains.

Pete was working summers in a Danish glass mill and winters in a sugar mill when a friend who'd come to America enticed him over here with promises of money and new cars.

Pete can remember landing in Detroit at 2 a.m. one morning in 1924, not knowing anyone, not even able to find his friend.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Petersen, still single, had come to America to stay with relatives of her mother. The two met in a citizenship class in 1929 at Northwestern High School in Detroit.

Pete, though he wound up in construction, started out in the New World as a dishwasher. "I got fired, though," he remembers. "The boss said I used too much soap and water."

While Pete's hearing is going now, he still stays keenly aware of what's happening and his periodic visits to the township board meetings keep everybody alert.

Pete doesn't think citizens get their money's worth from taxes. Part of his four acres he writes off as belonging to the township and mentions something about upcoming sewer bills.

"The only reason we got the sewer was because the village had to have it," Pete says. He's still not sure the township needs it.

He believes township government is currently running about ten years ahead of its time; and he's not entirely sorry that things haven't been as smooth for village residents since the current regime took over.

"It's the fault of the people who live in the township," chimes in Mrs. Petersen. "They don't get out and vote."

And as for the upcoming presidential election on his birthday, Pete feels it doesn't matter much who wins. "The president has got to have a majority from Congress. It's not as important to pick the president as it is to pick Congressmen and Senators," Pete states.

Mrs. Petersen feels it would be better if the country were able to get on with the 1976 election right now. She's ready to write this one off.

Pete doesn't like the Vietnamese war and feels we're into it as a business proposition. He doesn't see "going in to tell somebody else what to do."

"Let them take care of their own business," he says.

And what about youth?

Pete likes young people. It's his four grandchildren and neighbor boys who've helped him and Mrs. Petersen keep the garden clean and healthy.

"The younger generation... they've got no jobs... no money... and no girls. If we spent half the money we spend on jails on the upkeep of young people, we'd be money ahead, he says.

He remembers young friends getting 25 cents for picking up stones and him not getting paid. "It made me mean for a long time," he recalls.

But he also thinks parents are inclined to give their children too much money.

The Petersens are the parents of two girls, and grandparents to four.

"Without them I wouldn't have any garden," says Pete. And to him gardens are important. He rates cow manure, horse manure and money in that order of importance.

And again, he grins when he says it.

Historical group forming here

Preservation of old trees and buildings, the lakes and green spaces which make Clarkston unique in Oakland County is the goal of a newly forming historical group here.

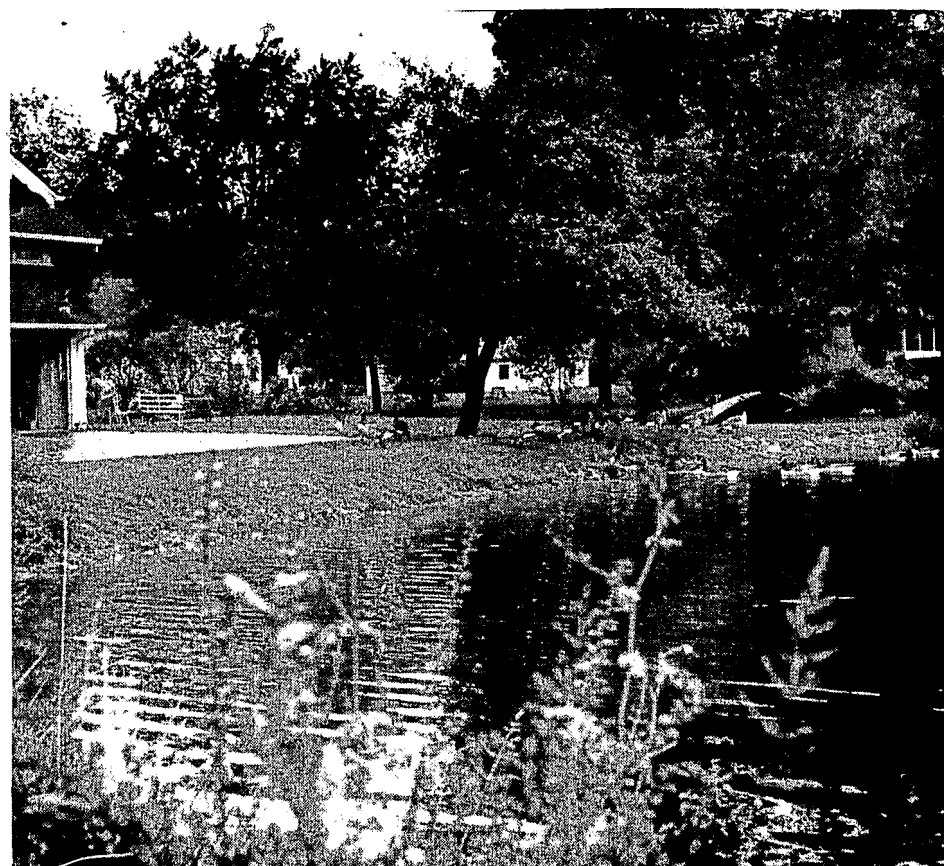

Mrs. Betty Adams of the Oakland County Historical Commission and Jeffrey Jones of the Romeo, Michigan, Historical Society told a group Sunday how Clarkston might achieve recognition by state and federal authorities as an historical district.

The group included such diverse people as Mrs. Frank Lambert, a long time resident; Ivan Rouse, a native born Clarkstonite; Mrs. David Travis, a three-year resident; and Mrs. Malcolm McCord, a resident of the township.

Other residents interested in the goals of the group were invited to contact Mrs. Jerome Wilford at 625-1977; Mrs. James Schultz at 625-3062; or Mrs. Lyle Bassinger at 625-1781.

That's a butternut squash Mrs. Petersen displays for Pete's approval.

Big break brings Wolves victory

Coach Rob White and his quarterback Greg Swanson talk to each other at the same time with their hands.

By Craig Moore

Clarkston's Varsity got a big break just when they needed it to give the Wolves a boost toward a 26-20 victory over the Holly Broncos Friday night.

Clarkston came out to win, but Holly's stunning offense kept the Wolves from gaining possession of the ball until late in the first quarter. The Wolves did make up for lost time when quarterback Greg Swanson climaxed a 67 yard drive with a 1 yard sneak into the end zone. The Wolves led 6-0, but their slow defense soon began to give them trouble.

Holly's Don Pluta put the Wolves into temporary shock with 2 consecutive touchdowns.

Holly took the ball on their own 13 yard line, but Pluta made moving the ball seem easy as he gained 50 yards on a single carry. Pluta ended the 87 yard drive with a 2 yard run across the goal line. The 2-point conversion run was successful and Holly led 8-6. The Broncos didn't stop there.

The Wolves gained little on their next series of play and were forced to punt.

A short Clarkston punt gave Holly control on the Clarkston 40. The Wolves defense couldn't hold the Broncos as they moved to the Clarkston 1 yard line. Pluta advanced the needed yard for a touchdown. The extra point conversion run failed and Holly led 14-6.

Things were looking bad for Clarkston. The Wolves were 2nd down and 23 to go on their own 35 yard line late in the 2nd quarter. Bill Hamilton grabbed Greg Swanson's screen pass and raced to midfield where he lost the ball as he was hit by a Holly player. Then came the lucky break.

Clarkston's Vern Wiley, who had been following the play, caught the fumbled ball in the air and hoofed it downfield and into the end zone with 3 Broncos hot on his back. Dave Whitehead tied the score 14-14 with a successful conversion run.

This gave the lagging Wolves an extra spark and early in the third quarter, Clarkston swept into the lead.

Greg Swanson connected with Dave Partlo for a 42-yard touchdown pass which gave Clarkston a 20-14 advantage.

The Wolves defense stopped Holly and the Broncos were forced to punt.

Clarkston took the ball on its 20 yard line. Swanson alternated Hamilton and Whitehead and moved the ball to the Holly 25. Partlo caught Swanson's next pass for 22 yards. With 3 yards to go, on the next play, Swanson handed the ball to Whitehead, who ran it into the end zone. The attempted run failed and Clarkston led 26-14.

Holly's Don Pluta cut the Wolves' lead down to 26-20 early in the fourth quarter on a 5 yard scoring run. That ended scoring as Clarkston held off Holly for the remainder of the fourth quarter.

Greg Swanson completed 10 of 15 passes for 148 yards and the Wolves gained 132 yards rushing. Holly moved 250 yards on the ground and only 21 yards in the air.

The win gives Clarkston a 1-1 record and a big boost for the first league contest of the season, Friday, September 29 with Bloomfield Hills Andover Barons. Game time is 8 p.m. at Andover.

This was also the first victory for Rob White, who is in his first year coaching the Wolves.

Coach White commented on the game, "The game shows that our defense needs work. Offensively, we played only an average game. Holly is a quick team. We had trouble with them because we aren't a quick team." He added, "It's nice to go into the first league game of the season following a win."

CJH drops Sashabaw in season opener

The Clarkston Junior High Wolverines picked up their first victory of the 1972 season last Wednesday night by defeating the Sashabaw Junior High Cougars 26-12. The game was played before a near record crowd at the high school field.

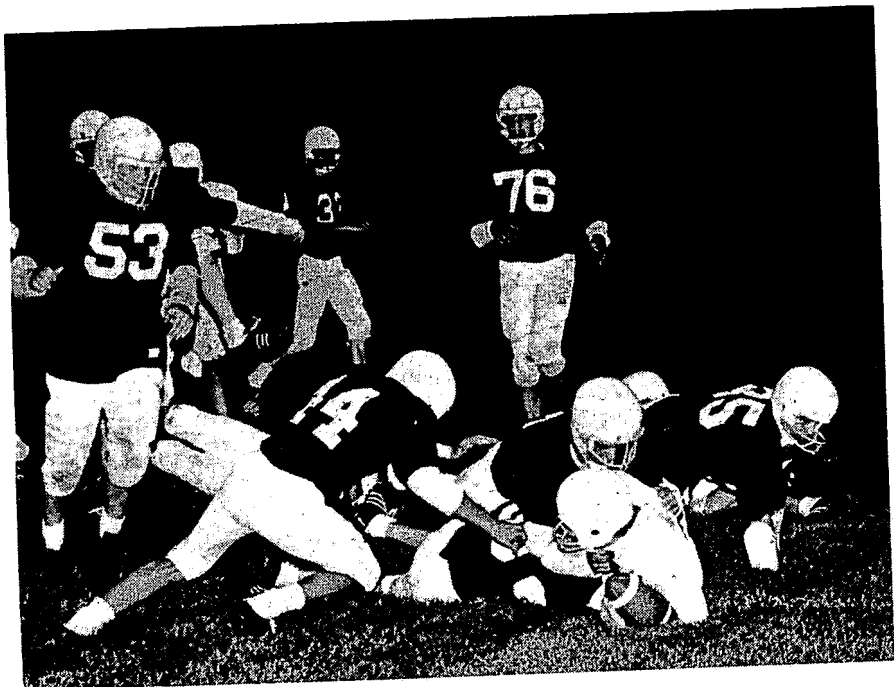

The Wolverine quarterback, Wayne Thompson, led the victors' scoring attack with two touchdowns. Thompson's first touchdown came on an end sweep on the first play from scrimmage. For the evening, he carried the ball 12 times for 92 yards and completed 5 of 13 passes for 63 yards.

Clarkston's other two touchdowns were scored by Larry Bennett and Ron Brittan. Bennett carried the ball three times for 23 yards and Brittan scored on a quarterback sneak from inside the five yard line. The remaining two points were scored by Mike Fahrner on a run after touchdown. Other offensive players receiving recognition were Ron Haggadone who gained 39 yards and Tim Westover who gained 32 yards for the game.

Defensively the Wolverines showed strength forcing Sashabaw into 14 fumbles. Scott Searight received special praise for leading the team with his 10 tackles.

Both scores for Sashabaw were made by runs by Jesse Diaz.

Cougars Todd Himes, 53; Randy Smith, 32; Brian Comstock, 76 and Jesse Diaz, 44 circle the action as a Clarkston Wolverine is downed.

Another pile-up in Wednesday's game in which Clarkston Junior High defeated Sashabaw 26-12.

Golfers win 6 out of 7

By Roger Zander

The Clarkston Varsity golf team is off to an excellent start this season, winning six of their first seven matches.

The teams the Wolves have defeated so far this year are: Holly, Lake Orion, Oxford, Waterford Kettering, Waterford Mott and West Bloomfield, the defending state champions.

Clarkston's 25 match winning streak, including the 1971 season, ended with a surprise victory by Fenton.

The Wolves have approximately a 150 team average.

The members of the varsity golf team are John Anderson, Cindy Booker, Lee Booker (averaging under par), Ken Johnson, Don Short and Bruce Souby.

Cubs busy

Cub Scouts of Pack 126 went to Kensington Park for a nature hike and weiner roast during September and are now making plans for trips to The Oakland Press, Cranbrook, a rodeo, the Shrine Circus and a spring Tiger game.

Openings are still available in the pack for boys 8 to 10 years of age. The pack meets at 7:30 p.m. the third Wednesday of each month at Clarkston United Methodist Church, according to Cubmaster John Geukes.

Chiefs split 2-1

The three-unit Independence Township Chiefs entertained the Lakeland Lakers in a Suburban Midget Football Conference tripleheader on Sunday, September 24 at the Clarkston Senior High football field.

An opening day crowd of more than 600 spectators watched the three games under partly sunny, humid weather. The Chiefs brought much sunshine and many smiles to the local fans as they won two of the games.

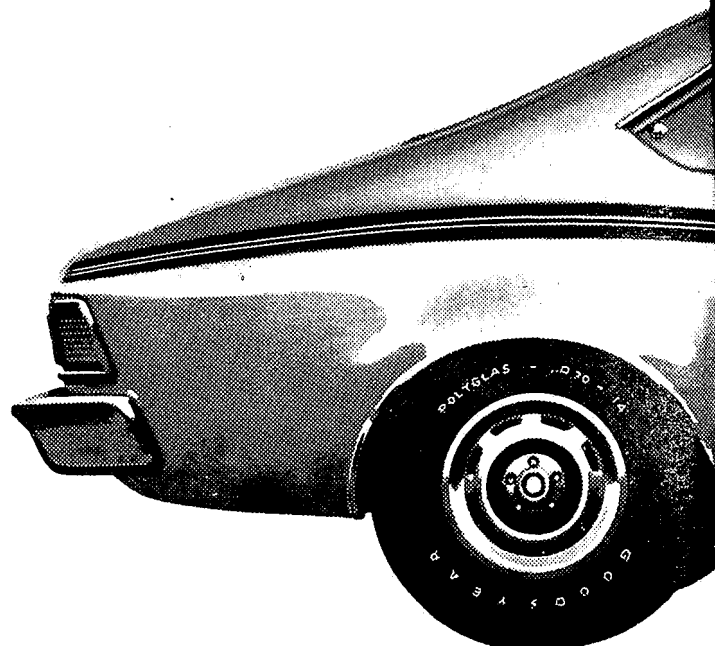

The freshman unit won in exciting fashion 12-6. The JV lost 8-0. In a great offensive display the Chiefs' varsity unit won 26-6.

The spectators were entertained throughout the afternoon by the 3-unit Chiefs' cheerleading squads. Mrs. Agnes Hool is in charge of all cheerleaders and works with the freshman unit. Mrs. Janice Helzer is in charge of the junior varsity unit, while Mrs. Barbara Hokesma works with the varsity cheerleaders.

On Sunday, October 1, the Chiefs play the Walled Lake Eagles at Walled Lake Western High School.

Next home game for the Chiefs is scheduled for Saturday evening, October 21 starting at 6 p.m.

Hunter safety classes offered

The Pontiac Area Army Reserve and the Pontiac Jaycees will sponsor hunter safety programs September 30, October 1, 7, 8, 14 and 15 at the United States Army Reserve Training Center, 2650 Withins Lake Road.

Classes begin at 8:30 a.m. and participants are asked to bring a lunch.

As of September 1 last year all first time hunters 12 through 16 years of age are required to obtain a hunter safety certificate in order to acquire a first time Michigan hunting license.

Further information about the program is available at 334-1841 or 338-2908.

Hockey season starts at Lakeland

The Lakeland arena at M-59 and the Lakeland Hockey Association's youth hockey program kicked off its winter program Monday.

Practice sessions are being conducted from 5 to 7 p.m. Monday, 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday and 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday. Saturday and Sunday practice sessions are scheduled from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The ice fee is $2 for each of the several sessions. Hockey players are required to have a helmet with mouth guard, elbow pads, hockey stick and ice skates.

President of the association is Ray Graham. Other officers include Ray Riley and Al Auch, vice presidents; Don Shingler, secretary; Al Emsley, treasurer; Ron Goebel, referee in chief; and Tom Helfrich, public relations.

Lots of skaters tested the ice at the new Lakeland Arena on M-59 near Williams Lake Road last Friday. The arena, owned by Harold and Frank Richardson and Roger Reynolds, has a special Irish room in honor of Charles Irish, long time amateur hockey promoter.

Old and new in home tour

The very modern and the very old will both be shown during the Clarkston Women's Club home tour from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, October 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beach of Reese Road will put their nearly century old rebuilt farmhouse on display. Nearly destroyed in a home fire two years ago, it has since been rebuilt largely by the Beaches' own efforts and now provides a comfortably old, yet conveniently modernized, retreat.

Of mellowed old brick, it carries the brick and barn board theme into the interior. Lots of windows provide excellent views of the surrounding rural countryside.

The Arthur Roses moved out of the house they owned on the Dixie Highway and took up residence in the barn. Now completely remodeled, it features a two-story dining room with giant chandelier, a large sitting room looking out over a lagoon and Deer Lake beyond, and a gymnasium for the Rose boys on the third floor.

The Ronald Fallis home on Scenic Ridge reflects modern building styles. Of post and beam construction, it features a conversation pit in the lower level family room, an alcove game room, and a light and lively kitchen with a domed skylight. Deer Lake can be seen in the distance from the windowed front.

At the Tom Bullens on Kingfisher, new colonial construction is the perfect showcase for antiques which the Bullens favor. Beams in the family room were obtained from a grandparent's farm in Mason. A backyard living area features a sunken pool and patio appurtenances in a secluded setting.

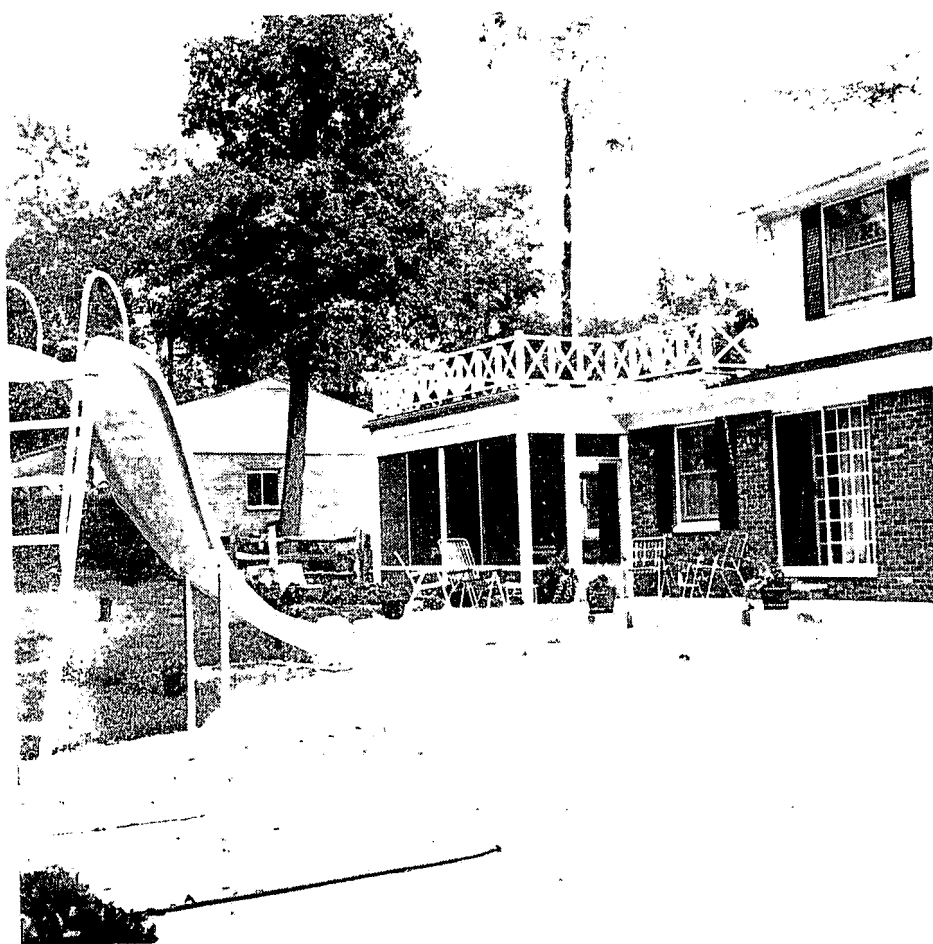

The tour will start at the library where refreshments will be served. Tickets are available at the library and at The Clarkston News, according to Chairman Holly Stephens.

Built in 1875, the Donald Beach home has been restored from fire damage two years ago.

The modern Ronald Fallis home nestles among trees overlooking Deer Lake.

The backyard is made for living at the Tom Bullen home.

An old chandelier highlights the Arthur Rose 2-story dining room.
