

Time to sign up for recreation

Now is the time if you've any idea of putting those long winter evenings to good advantage and some fun.

Independence Township Recreation Director Tim Doyle warns that those who put off signing up for a program or course until too late may find the course has been canceled due to lack of expressed intent to participate.

In the meantime there are still openings for beginning crochet and crewel embroidery which meets Wednesday evenings for four weeks at Clarkston Junior High School. The fee is $4 for four weeks, and if you wish you can take another four weeks for another $4.

An introductory course in karate still has openings. The class meets Mondays for 12 sessions on the second floor of the township hall. The fee is $45.

Independence Singers, a group to be led by Grayce Warren of the Clarkston High School music staff, will meet Tuesday evenings in the high school chorus room beginning January 23. There are still openings.

Gymnastics for boys in grades three through nine has openings. The first of its six sessions starts January 27 at the Clarkston Senior High gym. The fee is $3.

Fly tying, an avocation for the fisherman, can be learned Wednesday evenings beginning January 24 at Clarkston High School Room 405. Cost for the ten sessions, not including materials, is $10. More students are needed.

The recreation department in seeking to offer as wide a range of programs as possible has formed an alliance with the Pontiac YMCA. Teen swimming and gym will be offered 13-18-year-olds Saturdays from 1 to 3:30 p.m. for eight weeks beginning January 27. The cost is $8.

A family gym and swim session exclusively for Independence Township residents is 2 to 3:30 p.m. Sundays at the Y beginning January 21. Cost of the 10 sessions is $30 per family and includes use of the pool, game room, gym and locker rooms.

There have been a few other changes in the recreation lineup. The men's open gym class for those 30 and over meets 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Mondays at the Clarkston High School gym.

Gymnastics II for girls begins Saturday at the Clarkston Junior High School in place of Clarkston Senior High School. A basketball clinic for grades one to three has been moved to Sashabaw Junior High. Grades one and two meet from 9 to 10 a.m. and grade three from 10 to 11 a.m. Saturdays beginning this week.

Also moved to Sashabaw Junior High School is the Bidy Basketball League for grades four to six. The group meets from 9 a.m. to noon for 12 sessions.

Wrestling times for grades two to seven have been settled. Eleven and 12-year-olds will wrestle from 9 to 10:30 a.m. Saturdays with the 10 and under group coming at 10:30 a.m. and working out until noon at Clarkston High School.

The last time I talked with Don Bishop he seemed like a sane and reasonable man. The State Senator from Rochester spoke perfectly clear, had kind words about life in general and was as pleasant a chap as one could hope to have represent him in Lansing.

I haven't seen Don in a few months, though we do hear from him via his news releases. His latest indicates senility has crept into his mind. One wonders if he shouldn't have taken a junket to the Miami dog tracks with other senators to let the warmth induce thinking more in keeping to the times.

Let me tell you what this man has done.

Bishop's Jan. 9 news release states this Republican of the 16th district is introducing a bill in the legislature to cut the state income tax.

His mind must have turned to mush. House leader Ryan is suggesting there may not be a need for raising taxes in the next three years. Oh, maybe an income tax for education, but nothing for the general fund.

That's a statement from a politician we can understand.

Bishop's is different.

He says, "Michigan taxpayers have experienced greater tax increases over the past five years than most other states. We now have the opportunity to reduce taxes while maintaining a balanced budget."

The increase is 87 percent since 1967-68. State coffers will have a surplus of $100-$150 million in June. Bishop's tax cut, from 3.9 to 3.5 percent, would cut $92.6 million from revenues. That would still leave a tidy black figure.

Last year the State took $100 million from the uninsured motorists' fund and put it in the general fund. Much more has been added to this motorists' fund since and it will be discontinued Oct. 1 because of the new no fault insurance bill.

You know that money and its interest will go into the general fund.

Millions more will be going into the general fund from the lottery.

Then there is the gas tax increase taking effect next month, and, of course, the federal revenue sharing money (that's taxes reduced 50 percent as they toured Washington). And, increase in property tax.

Right at this point in writing this column, 4:30 Thursday, Jan. 11, the Oakland Press arrived at our office. The headline tells of Gov. Milliken's proposed cut of $370 million over 2 years.

I read it thoroughly before proceeding. When I finished I had the feeling it was another political promise. A "I'm going to propose to the legislature" sort of a thing.

Even in re-reading Don Bishop's release a feeling of sincerity remains. I kind of wish I hadn't started out by questioning his sanity, but then, I wouldn't have made him bristle a little.

He is no longer in our senatorial district, but I feel that he is representing me . . . and you.

Change in bottles collection

Starting January 20 the Bottles for Building drop-off center at Independence Township Hall will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each Saturday with an attendant on duty to help with the transfer of glass.

Collection points at Food Town, the A&P store and the Clarkston-Orion fire hall will no longer accept glass.

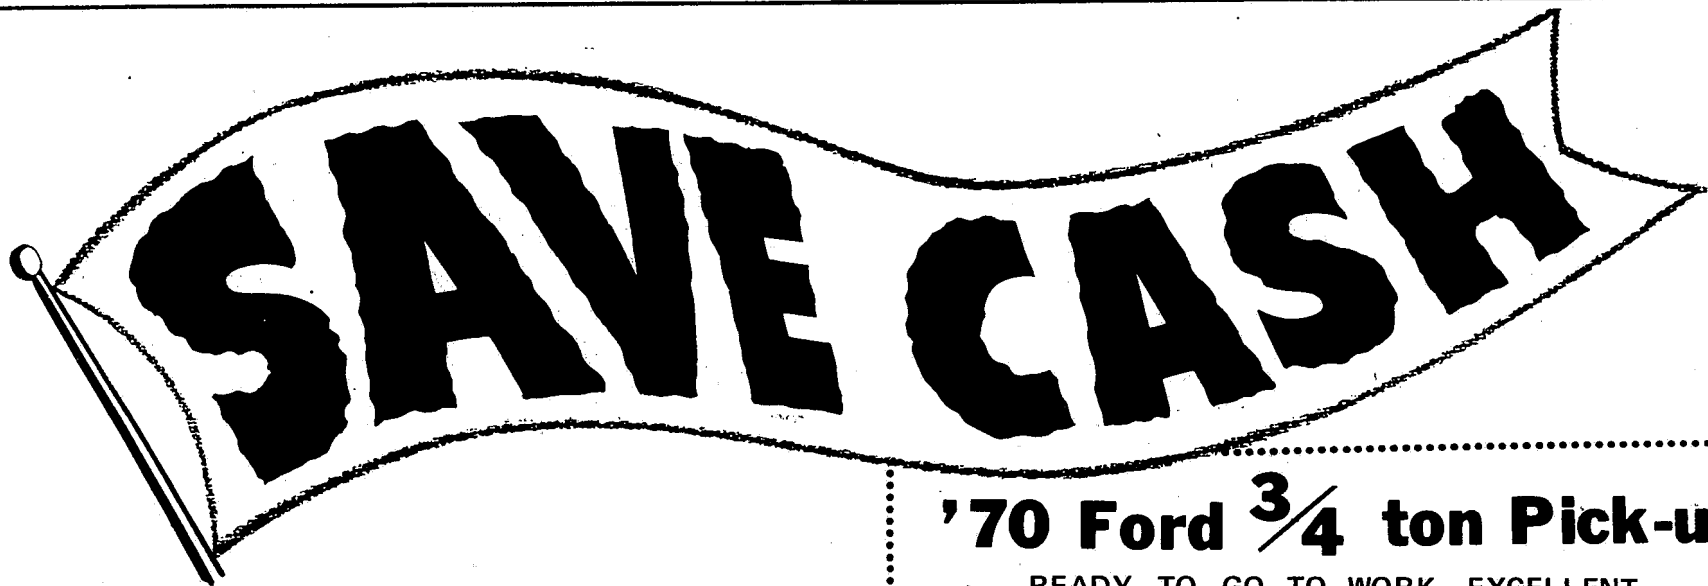

Bundled newspapers and reusable aluminum cans will also be accepted at the township hall site.

The case of the missing basin

Somebody snafued. Supervisor Bob Vandermark isn't sure who, but he knows but for the good graces of developer Harold Foreman there'd be problems at Rattalee and Allen Roads.

Foreman, developer of a 40-acre parcel there to be known as Bessie Foreman Estates, has agreed to construct a retention basin to catch the runoff from the sloping property, Vandermark said.

He pointed out that Foreman wouldn't have to because somehow the plans for the basin, on preliminary plats, was missing from the final plat when it was approved last year by the township board.

Since Forman has filled a sink hole on the property, the water is going to be running off much more rapidly, Vandermark says. Without the basin it would be flooding across both roads onto the neighbors' property.

Vandermark thinks the only answer is for township engineers to review all subdivision plats and site plans. He thinks there's been a breakdown in function of the County and State Plat Boards which are supposed to check all new subdivision plats for just such problems.

They are to review it before it comes back to the township board, for final approval. In this case the missing retention basin was completely overlooked by all concerned, the supervisor said.

"I think the drain commission should have caught the error if they spend any time at all reviewing the plats," Vandermark said.

Daniel T. Murphy, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Auditors and a member of the County Plat Board, said the duties of plat board officers are to make sure new plats have gone to the various offices such as the Drain Commission and the Road Commission for inspection.

He said the plat board must check the title against all known property owners and make sure that all parcels of land are accounted for.

He said he was not aware that the retention basin plans had been dropped from the Bessie Foreman Estates plan.

Councilman appointed

Neil Granlund

Sashabaw Junior High teacher Neil Granlund has been appointed to fill the vacancy on Clarkston Village Council created by the resignation of Bob Jones, who is moving to Florida.

Granlund is an unopposed candidate for a one year term on the council in the March 12 election.

He lives at 53 E. Church.

A chance to gripe

People who don't like the new assessed valuation affixed to their property in Independence Township will have a chance to settle differences this week and next week with representatives of United Appraisal Company.

The company was hired by the township to reassess all property more than a year ago. All residential reassessment is now complete, said Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

Homeowners who have a complaint are advised to make an appointment with the representatives by calling the township hall, 625-5111. They are instructed to bring their 1973 assessment notices with them which includes the parcel number of the property involved.

The notices were being mailed out last week with the information included as to new valuation figures.

Appointments will be available 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. January 18, 23 and 25; 9 a.m. to noon January 19 and 26; noon to 5 p.m. January 22; noon to 7 p.m. January 24.

People who don't have township notification of reassessments are asked to contact the township office for information and an appointment if they wish.

Sewers promised by July

Sewer service by July 1, 1973, is the promise of the Oakland County Department of Public Works for Independence Township residents.

The contract calls for all pipe to be in the ground, tested and ready for use by that time, according to Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

He noted that almost all of the township contractors (there are five involved with the sewers here) are running ahead of schedule; however, village construction was expected to start only this week.

Problems with sewer depth held up work in the village, but contractors were reported ready to start with double crews this week.

Since some of the township sewer lines flow through the village lines, it will be necessary that those be completed before the full township system can be put into operation, Vandermark said.

He reported that residents living within 200 feet of a line have 12 months from the day of inspection in which to connect to the sewer system.

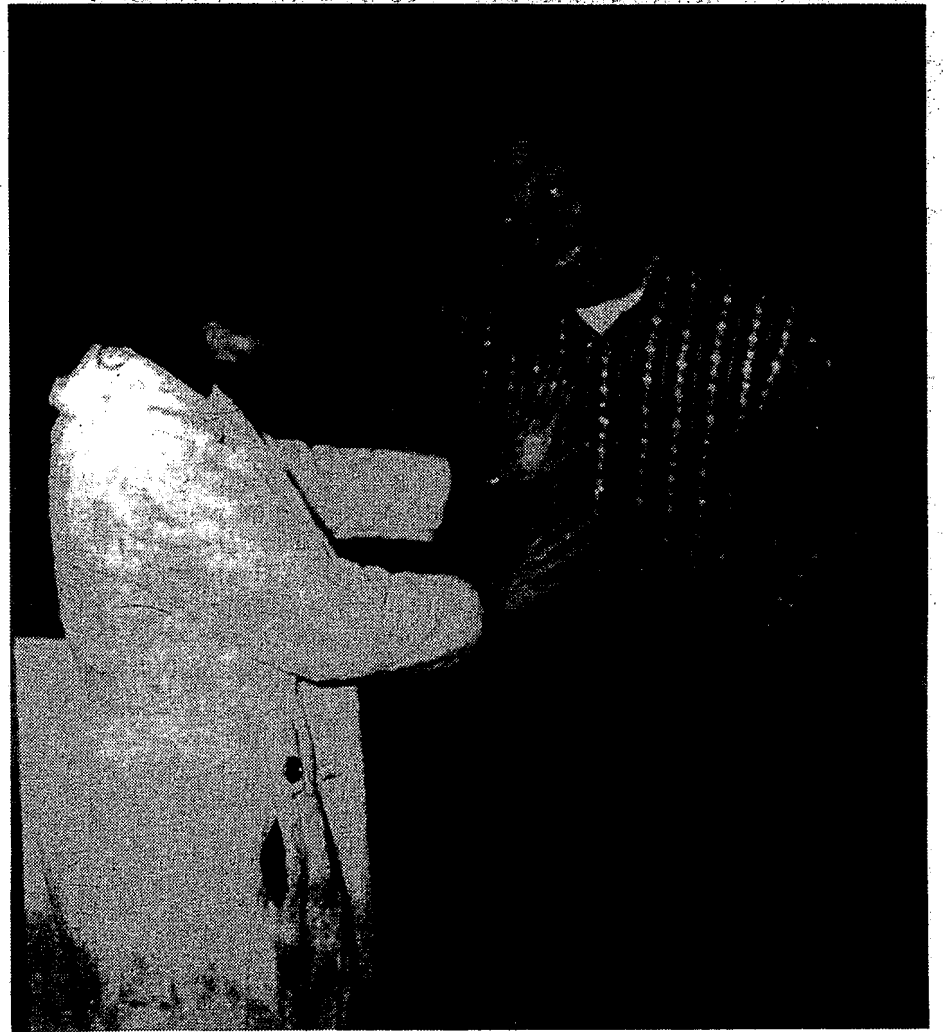

The cost for township residents will be $2,550 (payable over 20 years) plus inspection fees and the cost of construction of house leads (that part of the householder's plumbing necessary to carry sewage from the house to the tap-in on the property line.)

In the village, it is proposed that an ad valorem property tax be spread, and whether that first assessment will be included in this summer's tax bills has not yet been determined, said Village President Richard Johnston.

Financing details are to be worked out at the village council's January 23 meeting, he reported.

Johnston noted that the first payment on bonds is not due until 1974. The township has a like lag in payment schedules, afforded by federal and state grants which are meeting the early stage payments.

Vandermark added that contractors have six months in which to clean up and restore property to the condition it was prior to excavation. He said township engineers have pictures of all rights-of-way as they were before the construction started, and contractors have agreed to restore the property to that condition as much as possible.

Pat Breidenbaugh and Homer Biondi have an exchange during rehearsals for "Forty Carats," adapted by Jay Allen from a play by Barillet and Gredy to be presented next month by Clarkston Village Players.

Deer Lake proposal a big one

A plan to build 1470 apartments, condominiums and single family residences plus a 34 acre commercial development on 372 acres at the north end of Deer Lake was presented to the Independence Township Planning Commission for consideration last week.

No action was taken on the request presented by Hubert Garner of Farmington who said he has the property on option, subject to rezoning, from Mahlon Benson Jr., the owner.

The development would follow I-75 from the Dixie Highway to Holcomb Road and extend down Holcomb as far as to encircle St. Daniel's Church there. Homes would sell for $50,000 to $60,000, townhouses for $30,000 plus and apartments would rent for $1975 to $275 a month, developers said.

The commercial property is proposed at the corner of the Dixie and I-75 where 7.7 acres in Independence are now zoned commercial and where developers said they hoped to get further commercial zoning from both Independence and Springfield townships.

Single family homes are proposed on 49.5 acres behind the church, while apartments and condominiums would be lined up along a road traversing the property from Holcomb to Dixie. While 43 acres of the property under consideration is now zoned for multiple, another 186 acres would be needed in that classification, the commission was told.

Victor J. Shrem, an urban designer hired by Garner, called the property "one of the most scenic in the area."

He noted variations in contour of as much as 160 feet in the largely forested area.

Shrem said plans at present would involve multi-level buildings — two-and-a-half story at the top of the hills with the elevation dropped to four stories at the lower part of the hills.

He said such development would preserve the natural beauty of the area, and that a considerable amount of marshy land near the lake entrance would be preserved as open space with some of it probably used for a club house.

He added that the only marine facilities to be included in the project would be for sailboats. No motorboats would be allowed, he said.

The roads, he said, were planned for a maximum 6 percent grade with entry alongside St. Daniel's Church and just south of the I-75 exit along Holcomb. Exit at the other end would be just south of the I-75 interchange off the Dixie Highway.

Facilities such as a shopping center, motel or hotel, bowling alley, and cinema are under consideration for the commercial area off the Dixie.

An overall density of 3.95 units per acre is being considered, according to developers.

Developers said they were counting on being able to extend the 21-inch sewer pipe which is being constructed north along Holcomb. While township officials admitted the pipe could probably accommodate the sewage flow from the development, they pointed out that at present the township has only 3,200 uncommitted sewer tap-ins and the development would take nearly half of them.

The commission will further consider the matter at its meeting January 25.

"Get-tough" helps Legislator backgrounds

In Lansing

by Cathy Lessard

The drug situation at Clarkston High School is easing and there are probably any number of parents who are drawing a sigh of relief.

We think it was the school's get-tough policy that did it, and we commend them for it.

Despite arguments as to the merits of punishment, it appears it can still act as a deterrent to people not solidly committed to a drug oriented life.

As is noted elsewhere in this paper, five suspensions and one expulsion were meted out, and since Christmas there have been no more reported drug cases.

Are you persecuted?

by Jean Saile

There are times when the world turns persecutor.

Ever have to make a lot of telephone calls on a soliciting jaunt for the PTA or some like group and get an inordinate amount of busy signals and no answers?

They know you're calling and they know what you're going to ask and they either leave the phone off the hook or don't answer.

When you play solitaire, do you notice how often the two of diamonds is the last card buried?

It's planned that way so you can't begin piling up your card stacks.

When you planned on using the leftover roast beef for diener hash, does yours disappear from the refrigerator just minutes ahead of the time you were going to use it?

That means you've got to defrost another main course.

If you're reading a book and you finally get to the interesting part, company comes.

That's planned too.

You've scheduled wisely, and finally you have a free day and you find that one of your family can't keep a dentist appointment, so you have to keep it for them.

And you spend your free day with a mouth that won't work.

You buy a lottery ticket and the numbers are 341 and 064, and 143 and 406 win.

You have to go to the bathroom and every available child has picked that moment to take showers.

That's not funny.

Or you get to the bottom of the laundry hamper and the last load is swishing merrily in the automatic and another kid comes in with the news he's cleaned out his room, and there's another whole day's work.

They watch for those kinds of opportunities.

Or you get this really great idea and everybody says, "How corny can you get?"

And you do it anyhow, and it really was corny.

Maybe you finally get dishwashing down to a schedule, one child per night, and that child suddenly gets a club meeting which effectively removes him from the arena?

You attempt to change the schedule and everybody else complains, "That means I have to do dishes twice each week." And you sob a lot.

Nobody ever said life was fair.

Every other year, for the Michigan Legislature and staff, the beginning of the New Year comes about two weeks late, and by constitutional mandate it always comes "on the second Wednesday of January at 12 o'clock noon."

It's the opening of a new legislative session; an opportunity to start all over again at attempting to solve the state's problems, and it is looked forward to with great anticipation.

Eighty-three seasoned members and 27 freshmen returned to Lansing last week for the beginning of the 77th legislature. The two days of sessions were primarily organizational in nature with members choosing the House floor seats they will occupy for the next two years and electing the leadership of the House, which is of course Democratic because of the 60-50 Democratic-Republican split which now exists.

The first order of business after the clerk bangs the gavel to call the House into session is the recitation of the oath of office by all the members. This year Chief Justice Thomas M. Kavanaugh administered the oath to both old and new House members.

It is a rather solemn moment as all the members rise at once and repeat in unison, "I, do solemnly swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of Michigan and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of Representatives in the State Legislature for the term beginning January 1, 1973, according to the best of my ability."

Did you ever wonder what some of these people do for a living; or if only a certain few occupational groups ever have a chance of becoming legislators? The answer is, "No, they are not all lawyers."

While it is true that there are larger numbers of some groups such as attorneys and educators, the Legislature is made up of individuals with diverse backgrounds.

Looking at a roster of members and the occupations they list, one finds that the highest percentage of them list former political office as their occupations before coming to the Legislature.

Twenty-seven of them list themselves as former mayors, county commissioners and the like. Educators are the next most populous group with 16 members. After that it's pretty spread out with 12 attorneys, nine farmers, five realtors, nine business executives and four engineers, as well as insurance salesmen, former union members, accountants and pharmacists. One doctor and one barber, one decorating contractor and one former law enforcement official, and one banker and one printer just about complete the survey.

Probably the most significant occurrence of the first two days of session (which is now recessed for two weeks to conduct recounts in certain elections) was the presentation of the State of the State by Gov. Milliken. The high point of that message you have already read much about: the proposed tax reduction.

The reaction to the governor's message was rather cautious. Democrats and many journalists accused him of beginning his reelection campaign, and even most Republican legislators were skeptical about the feasibility of lowering taxes. Most legislators would like to support such a proposal IF it were possible. The governor's task now will be to present the figures which prove that a tax cut can be made while still meeting the state's obligations and without necessitating a tax increase again next year.

As most observers here know, Gov. Milliken has never used the State of the State message as a vehicle to delineate his entire program for the forthcoming year. Rather it is a general message which sets the tone for the coming year, but specific proposals come later in specialized messages.

It's not funny, Carol

By Jim Fitzgerald

When TV comedians such as Carol Burnett and Tim Conway do take-offs on old people, shuffling to their rocking chairs, I find it hard to laugh.

Likewise, it is going to be difficult to write anything funny about today's subject which is old people (excuse me if I don't say "senior citizens." That stuffy euphemism bugs me. It sounds as if someone might be ashamed of growing old. When you consider the alternative, it is nothing to be ashamed of).

The publisher of my favorite newspaper thought it would be a good idea if delinquent subscribers received a personal note from the editor (that's me), reminding them to pay up or become nonsubscribers. Some of the answers I've received are a real kick in the heart.

The most common reason for old people quitting the paper is they can no longer see it. Their eyesight has failed.

"I've been reading The Press every week for 75 years," one woman wrote, "and always enjoyed it. But now I find I must stop taking it. I am going blind and can no longer see the print."

Geez. Couldn't a younger relative stop at her house once a week and read the paper to her?

Then there are the many old people who stop taking the paper because "I don't recognize any of the names anymore. Everyone I knew is dead."

I shut my eyes and see the last leaf on a tree, withered and cracked, but still hanging on. Alone. Completely alone. No one cares if the leaf falls, or doesn't.

Geez again. Certainly there are some younger people who know this old lady whose friends are all dead. Why don't they call on her once in awhile? Give her some new friends?

Some of the old people renew their subscriptions, and their notes can be poignant, too. Like this one from an old woman: "Thanks for the reminder. Enclosed find check for $10 for 1 more year. My son came last week to get my husband settled in a rest home. Next year it may be me."

Ah. Let us hope the son is good for something besides transporting his parents to a rest home and then forgetting them except at Christmas.

I hope I'm not boring you young people. I hope I'm making you uncomfortable. And, before someone asks the sharp question, I herewith make a confession: There are several old people who deserve a lot better from me than they are getting. My wife takes care of those things at my home. She visits the old folks and drives them places and takes them gifts. I stay home and do the important things, like watch TV and play pool.

I am among the many who should be ashamed of the way they treat old people. Which is probably why I can't laugh when Carol Burnett and Tim Conway put on wrinkles and complain about their no-sex lives.

It is not funny to be old and forgotten. If all you young folks will resolve to remember that this year, so will I.

Tell it to Bob

by Bob Brumback

Clarkston schools special service director.

Just how much do you influence the behavior of your children? Regardless of age, does your youngster(s) behave as he does because he is tuned in to do what others expect of him? Is his behavior consistent with what he was raised to believe? Has he grown to make his own conscious choice most of the time? Does his behavior follow the "pleasure principal?"

A team of Canadian researchers who studied nearly 9000 drug abuse cases in Toronto has concluded that drug taking is a behavior that is often learned in the family environment. They further concluded that to make significant inroads into adolescent drug abuse would require changes in parental behavior — often in families that did not know they were influencing their youngster's use of drugs so significantly.

Similar findings have emerged in behavioral research programs around the country regarding other problems that often confront individuals and families. There is a rapidly growing body of professionals that approach problems as resulting from patterns in families rather than there being something "wrong" with the individual.

Consider the significance of that! Maybe little Sally is not just emotionally disturbed but has learned to act the way she does through her involvement with the people she lives with. And maybe John is not just a delinquent but a boy who learned to be rebellious right in his own family.

This does not mean that parents are to blame for their children's problems — or that young people are just victims of their parents. It does imply that you might quit analyzing all the psychological reasons behind behaviors and be more aware of how you are contributing to a behavior. This approach says the family has the problem, not the individual, and that each person is important to creating change. It says that children have responsibility for conflict the same as adults, but no one is just "to blame." It also says that your behavior is a strong influence on your child's behavior.

Have you ever said, "Do as I say not as I do?" Sounds great! It is great for the person speaking — it gives him freedom to do anything he wants without having to worry about his influence on others. The fact still remains though — if behavior is learned then the behavior of parents is the strongest influence on their children's behavior.

The Canadian survey found that parents who use mood-changing drugs (alcohol, tobacco, tranquilizers, etc.) are far more likely to have children who turn to more dangerous drugs.

In my work, I find a great deal of concern by parents regarding their children's "drug" use — often to the point of encouraging the use of alcohol as an alternative. Yet available information points to a far greater loss of human resources through problems associated to the use of alcohol and tobacco.

A survey of Clarkston youth last year found only 15% of the students using "drugs" but almost 40% using alcohol. Of the high school students, 30% were found to have experimented with drugs while 63% use alcohol and 34% already are regular smokers.

Now we all know statistics can be interpreted many different ways. The point is that funneling out from our family relationships are a host of problems that will be faced by most all young people. How we deal with our children will greatly influence how they deal with their life situations.

Some points you might consider in your own situation: (1) be in control of your own behavior first, (2) be consistent in applying love, understanding and discipline. Love can be sharing a problem, understanding may be assessing a situation from more than your own perspective, discipline may mean being strong enough to live by what you believe in. (3) Don't just be judgmental. (4) Take a positive approach to other humans and remember that your own family members are human.

Communication is the beginning of understanding!

2 school bus accidents

Two school bus accidents last week involving minor injury to two students were reported by the Michigan State Police, Pontiac Post.

David Hutchins, 16, of 5180 Stephens Road reported neck pains as the result of a two-bus backend collision Monday on Waldon Road at the high school drive.

The accident occurred as a bus driven by Mrs. Loretta Graham, 4875 Pine Knob Lane, waited to make a left turn onto the high school drive. Another bus driven by Linda Honeycutt, 1332 Bald Eagle Road, struck the first when the brakes failed as the bus traveled at about three miles an hour, police said.

Michael Burdick, 12, of 180 Glenburnie was kept under observation at Pontiac General Hospital Thursday morning following an accident on East Washington near the corner of Main Street. State Police reported it appeared that he had run into the path of a bus driven by Mrs. Betty Prevo of 8553 Claridge.

She told police she didn't see the boy until he hit the bus.

Both accidents occurred prior to 8 a.m.

Summer credit

Plans to offer tuition free credit courses to the seven participating high schools which send students to the Northwest Oakland Vocational School have been announced.

Principal Herb Olson said high school students could get extra credit by enrolling for the six-week 8 a.m. to 12 classes in office, dental, medical, shop, printing, radio and TV, appliance repair, commercial art, auto body or retail classes.

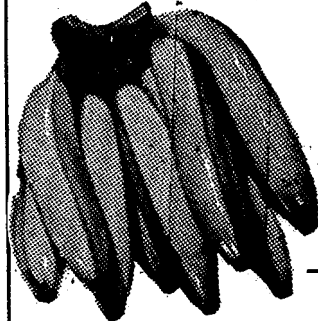

Application is to be made through the high school counselor at the student's home school, he said. Those students not now enrolled in vocational courses are eligible.

Township takes on village inspections

Independence Township has assumed all building department functions for the village of Clarkston. Payment will be on a fee basis with the same cost to residents as when village inspectors did the job.

The change was effected by the Village Council last week in an effort to avoid a conflict of interest arising from Gar Wilson's part time employment by a village builder. Wilson had been doing the inspections.

The grapevine is a sporting term as well as one that reminds us of refreshment. In wrestling, the grapevine is a hold—quite a complicated one—in which one leg is wrapped around an opponent's leg. If each leg secures a hold on each of the opponent's legs, it's called a double grapevine. This hold is different from a scissors hold. In a scissors hold both of the holder's legs are interlocked with each other.

Waddell to speak at Jaycee Bosses' Night

Don Waddell, 49th President of the Michigan Jaycees, will be the guest speaker January 25, at the Annual Bosses' Night of the Clarkston Jaycees.

The 35-year-old Waddell is former President of the Campbell County (Kentucky) Jaycees, near Cincinnati. He is employed as Data Processing Manager by the R. L. Polk and Company, a 102-year-old Detroit based publishing firm.

Waddell served as a State Vice President in Kentucky prior to moving to Michigan in 1968. Since then he has served as State Vice President and Internal Executive Vice President, prior to being elected President of the Michigan Jaycees. He has been named to the Senate of Junior Chamber International, the highest honor possible for a Jaycee.

As the President of more than 12,000 Jaycee "young men of action," Waddell believes "there is nothing stronger in our way of life than the volunteer sector and their unique ability to accomplish objectives that elude industry and government alike." The Jaycees are a "basic foundation and training ground for this volunteer sector."

Waddell and his wife, Neal, live in Huntington Woods with their three children.

Two late to file

Two township candidates who failed to win election last November had not filed expense vouchers with the Oakland County Clerk as of Monday.

Chester Hensley who ran for trustee as a Democrat says he just forgot about it. "I didn't spend more than $100 in the general anyway. I did file after the primary," he added.

Mrs. Karen Herron, who ran as the Democratic candidate for clerk, said she, too, had just forgotten about it. "I didn't spend anything hardly," she said.

The law gives candidates ten days to file vouchers on campaign expenses following an election.

Moffett teaching

A Clarkston resident, Dennis E. Moffett, is helping Oakland University students to become more competent in relation to adults' dominant concerns which are different at various stages of the life cycle.

Robert J. Havinghurst, noted educational authority, has found that the dominant concern for those in the 20-30 age group is focusing on the life ahead. Collecting one's energies is typical of those in the 30-40 age group, and between age 40-50 the focus is on exerting and asserting oneself. During the 50's the concern is on maintaining position and changing roles. By age 60 the emphasis is on deciding to disengage and how. After age 70 the focus is on making the most of the disengagement.

Moffett, an attorney with Fulkerson, Moffett & Fulkerson, instructs legal terminology, one of more than 100 credit-free evening courses offered by Oakland University's division of continuing education beginning the week of January 22. Adults who wish information and to register for courses can call 377-3120 for prompt guidance and easy registration.

Now we can have private clubs

Independence Township Board in special meeting Thursday approved an amendment to the township zoning ordinance to permit operation of private golf clubs in the area.

The amendment is to be delivered to Circuit Judge James Thorburn, who last fall restrained the township from interfering in the construction of a shopping center on the Waterford Hill Golf Course property.

Thorburn at that time held the ordinance confiscatory and said that a change permitting what amounts to more profitable private clubs might cause him to change his opinion.

The case came to court as a result of a citizen referendum which overturned a township board rezoning decision. Developers then took the case to court.

Eggs are not only an inexpensive versatile food but one of the most nearly perfect protein foods for mankind, report Marketing division officials of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Drug use down at high school

The drug problem at Clarkston High School appears under control, according to Principal William Dennis.

The expulsion last week of one student and the suspension of five others just prior to the holidays when drug abuse appeared at its highest seems to have done the trick, Dennis said.

"There have been no cases reported since that time," he said.

Sometimes you have to sit down to talk about what you stand for.

We Four Chevrolet Dealers have joined together to serve our customers better. We intend to raise our standards of operation to new heights of excellence. We intend to get more involved in what we consider the North Oakland "community." Quite naturally we hope to benefit. More importantly, we want you to benefit by finding it more reasonable, convenient, and profitable to buy from one of us here — in your own community.

HERE ARE THE THINGS WE STAND FOR:

- 1. Personal Touch — You won't be involved in any "Big City Maze" or caught in the crowd. To us you are not just another nameless face. You're an individual... a neighbor. In a sense, our reputation in the community rides on every deal. When you buy from us, we know it. If you have a problem we can fix, we know it. If you are happy or unhappy, pleased or displeased, we want to know it.
- 2. Straight Talk — we will not double-talk you, con you, or make promises of deals we have no intension of keeping. We are honest businessmen who talk straight. This assures you of one of the most important elements in any deal — confidence.

- 3. Fine Cars, Fairly Priced — if you can get a better deal — either from one of us or any other dealer — on similar type cars, we'll tell you to take it. We may have to swallow a lump in our throat, and we'll probably advise you to look at all angles of the deal, but we'll have to admit the fairness of your viewpoint. But we're confident enough in our individual pricing policies to feel that deal for deal we will match or better any other dealers — particularly Detroit dealers.

- 4. Good Service — we are fully aware that service is one of the most irritating aspects of car ownership. People are only human, mistakes are made and customers get impatient. We are determined, individually — and we have each talked to our people — that we will do our human best to give you prompt, courteous and efficient service — priced as low as our costs permit.
- 5. Used Cars — We serve many customers by running good used car departments. We will continue to do so. We will give as much care and consideration to a used car customer as to new. All customers are citizens of the North Oakland Community.

Also elevated to vice president are A. Joseph Stanéff of Dearborn Heights, operations officer and an eight year PSB employee and Wilmer E. Bryant of Pontiac, commercial loan officer and a seven year employee.

Mrs. George Carlson of Auburn Heights, who joined the bank in 1947 and is manager of the Auburn Heights office, was named assistant vice president.

At the same time three new officers were named to the position of assistant cashier. They are Mrs. Albert Williams of Pontiac, collection manager; John Kemler of Rochester, mortgage officer; and Gordon Miller of Warren, manager of Bloomfield Square office.

Mothers march January 29

Mothers will march January 29 in the annual Oakland County National Foundation March of Dimes March to raise funds for the Salk Institute and Birth Defects Research.

Birth defect clinics, prenatal clinics and public health education in Oakland County is funded by the march.

Volunteers are needed, according to Mrs. Barbara Williams, community chairman for Independence Township. Mothers, fathers, teens, youth groups and Scout organizations are asked to contact her at 394-0172.

Each year a quarter of a million babies are killed or maimed by birth defects and a half million parents suffer physical and mental anguish because of a severely handicapped child. At least one of ten babies born in this nation suffers the grief of being crippled in body or retarded in mind. Statistics show that 700 infants are born each day with serious birth defects.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald, 1102 North Foster, Lansing, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Christine, to Michael Warren Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lynch of Clarkston. A February 3 wedding is planned in Lansing.

Doctors and hospitals

Springing up
by Betty Hecker

Last Sunday I had terrible chest pains. Bob rushed me over to the Village Clinic. The pain had me mentally primed to hear the doctor say, "I'm sorry, Mrs. Hecker. You have suffered a coronary. I'm afraid you'll have to cancel your Cub Scout den meeting tomorrow."

But he didn't say that! He said, "I think you have a teatsie condition."

Really, Doctor! That doesn't sound like it has any class at all.

And did you ever think that someone would cheer a cyst? My friend, Kristy Rice, was told that she had a tumor on her thyroid gland. Surgery last Thursday at St. Joseph Hospital disclosed a benign tumor - a simple cyst.

That's when I cheered.

***

Have you missed Janet Manley's smiling face the last couple weeks when you've been in the Clarkston branch of Pontiac State Bank?

Janet is home on Greenhaven, sitting up (very straight) with a "bad back." But, she's not lonely, for the rest of the family is home in varying stages of recuperation.

Daughter Beth is hobbling around on crutches after spraining her ankle ice skating. Pat and Susan are both home with bronchitis.

And Ed is home, caring for all of them. Stay well, Ed, you're needed at the Manley Infirmary.

Another family with problems is the Bill Pfeiffer family on Bridge Lake Road. Bill has been home from his teaching job at Crary Junior High School in Waterford all this year. He has a pinched nerve in his spine.

Friday, his daughter Sheri, fell on the Andersonville Elementary School playground and split open her bottom lip. The school secretary called her parents and asked Donna (Mrs. P.) to rush Sheri to the doctor for her twelve stitches. Donna said, "If she had to fall, I wish she hadn't gotten blood all over her brand new coat."

"It was the first time the boys have ever been anywhere," said Kay Fortin, talking about their recent trip.

Kay, her mother, Betty Smith, and her sons, Eric, Patrick, David, Paul and Jerry all loaded the station wagon and drove to Florida.

While there, Kay visited with Verna Leighton, a girlfriend from college days who has settled in Tampa. Traveling on, they visited Busch Gardens, Cypress Gardens, and Disney World before resting a few days in Pompano Beach at the home of Christine Stickney, Kay's aunt.

Doug Fortin flew down to join his family and bring them home after a "busy ten days."

***

Last week Lorna Little called one of her Davisburg Jogger friends and said, "I'm weak but so happy to be home to my little castle on Bigelow Road." Her happiness was short-lived, for on Saturday, she was rushed back to the hospital. Best wishes, Lorna.

Lloyd Virgin is home on Scott Road, recuperating after some heart trouble hospitalized him for about two weeks.

***

Eileen and Cleon Kortge and their sons, Chris, Joel and Gary went to Custer, Michigan near Ludington, for a weekend of family fun with their snowmobiles. They are visiting Eileen's parents, Joseph and Dora Bedker. The Bedker farm borders on the Manistee State Forest and Eileen said, "Dad shows us trails to follow on the state property."

***

Wayne Bisball of Springfield Township and his brother, Doug, from White Lake Township entered their snowmobile racing machines in the "Thunder Bay 250" endurance race last Saturday near Alpena. "We blew an engine a quarter way through the race," reported Wayne.

Bad luck seems to be with the men in their first year in competing in the long endurance races. Saturday one of their team was injured and will be in a hospital for about six weeks.

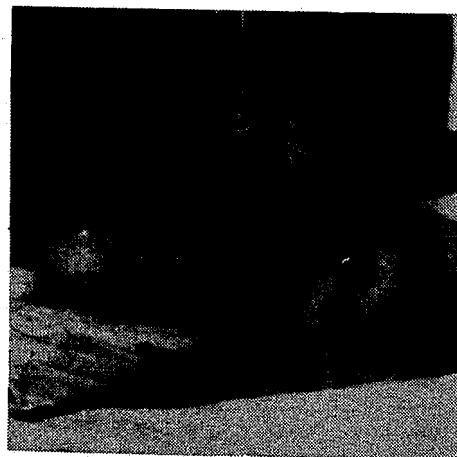

Wayne's wife Norma said, "They just have machine trouble. They did much better last year in the sprint races, running laps on an oval track."

Four Clarkston students have been awarded degrees at Western Michigan University. They are Cynthia J. Ford, bachelor of arts, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold G. Ford; Richard W. Johnson, bachelor of science, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood W. Johnson; David D. Tharp, bachelor of business administration, son of Mrs. JoDean Boose; and Russell B.

White, bachelor of business administration, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. White. Congratulations!

Some stories have a happy ending. The pictured dog turned up at the Pope home, 9045 Bridge Lake Road, last Saturday courtesy of young Jeff who found it trapped in a barbed wire fence.

The Popes sent the word to school last Monday about their surprise guest and it turned out to belong to Mrs. Guerrero of Villa Crest.

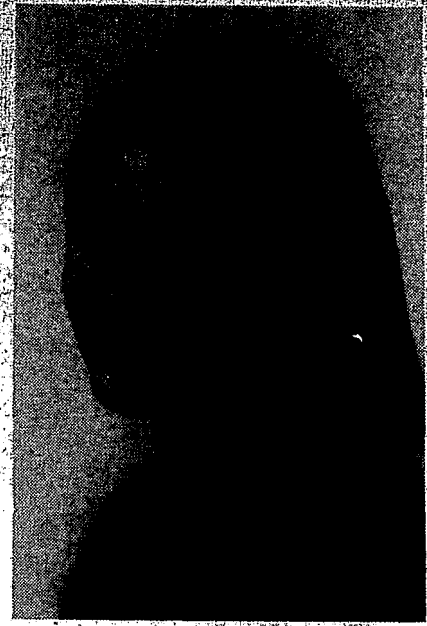

It was a happy homecoming. The dog when found was full of cuts and almost dead from starvation and exposure. The Popes thawed her out and fed her but she was still too weak to stand up.

Leader Dogs completes successful year

Established by Lions of Michigan in 1939, the Leader Dog School has grown to be the largest producer of its kind in the world.

During the year 1972, a record total of 241 Leader Dogs were provided for blind people of the United States, Canada, Mexico and other countries.

The Leader Dog School makes no charge for its services. Board and room are furnished while the students stay 4 weeks in a comfortable dormitory, working out twice daily on the streets of Rochester, Birmingham, Royal Oak and Pontiac.

The cost of training each Leader Dog team is approximately $2,600.00, however there is no charge. Lions Clubs provide majority support. Additional support is provided by sorority groups, various organizations, Michigan United Fund and individual contributors.

Most dogs used are German shepherds, Labrador and golden retrievers between 1 - 2½ years of age. Crossbreeds favoring shepherds and retrievers are also used. Dogs being contributed must be friendly, even to strangers, healthy, good looking and willing to accept responsibility.

Graduating Leader Dog teams are quickly able to take their rightful place in the community, for as one graduate said, "I feel like I have been released from a prison." Another said, "I never dreamed that my initiation into the Leader Dog training program would lead to so much happiness for me."

Spiritual Message

Luke 2, Verses 25-35
Simeon said to Mary His Mother, "This child is destined to be a sign which men reject, and you too shall be pierced to the heart."

THROUGH SUFFERING TO GLORY! Simeon was another of those fine people who, cherished the hope of Israel's redemption. It was a great day for Simeon when he was able to take the child Jesus in his arms and utter his Nunc Dimittis. He was now ready to die, for he had seen God's Salvation - a fight to the Gentiles as well as for Israel.

Here he sounds that note of universalism which is a recurring theme of the Gospel, and a truth in which Luke especially delighted.

In speaking of a 'light' that will be a revelation to the heathen, Simeon was not simply anticipating subsequent Christian teaching. There were good men of the Old Testament in the pharisaical emphasis on rational exclusiveness.

Simeon glimpsed another great truth which is enfolded throughout the gospels. A truth which even Christ's closest companions failed to grasp - that the way to glory is through humiliation and suffering. It was so for Christ, and it is so for His followers.

The Symbol of Christianity is the Cross, primarily the Cross of Jesus, but also the Cross His followers are called upon to bear.

Are we prepared to be identified with Christ in His shame, as He was willing to be identified with us in our need - or do we want the way of Pride and Self-indulgence.

"People helping people help themselves"

The newly elected Board of Directors of independence center took office at the monthly meeting January 10. They are: Don Place, chairman; Don Hamaker, vice chairman; Alma Harthun, secretary; Janet Thomas, treasurer; Alice Salzano, coordinator; Holly Stephens, publicity; Judy Brumback, ways and means; Bernard Speace, church liaison; Zella Benson, food and clothes closets; Dorothy Neff, seminar series.

The new board is looking forward to a second year of serving the needs of the people in the Independence Township area.

Fish at I.C. — The Fish Organization, a group set up to serve emergency needs of people, joined forces with i.c. several months ago in this area. The existing food and clothes closets were turned over to the center. One of the goals of independence center is to consolidate community services. All Fish calls in the area are now referred to the center.

The clothes closet is short at this time on children's clothing. Bedding — blankets, sheets, etc. — pots, pans, dishes, and washing machines are also in constant demand. There is a present need for a wheelchair to be used on a long term basis.

Benefit dinner — The Sashabaw Neighborhood Mothers are sponsoring a "Taster's Choice Dinner" on Thursday, January 18 at 7 p.m. at independence center. They will charge 25 cents at the door and 10 cents per serving of any dish. Proceeds will go to the center. Anyone having a favorite recipe they wish to prepare to be served at the dinner please contact Bonnie Moss, 673-3518.

Thanks to Campfire Girls — The Board of Directors and members of independence center would like to thank the local campfire girls for distributing the i.c. flyers, and for the further assistance they have pledged by adopting the center as their service project for the year. Thanks for helping the center to help others.

by Marilyn Lawrence

Jack was here the other night.

Five years ago he was fifteen, gangly, almost good-looking in a loose jointed sort of way. I taught one of his sisters, but for the life of me, can't remember when we sat down and talked for the first time.

Most kids his age find it hard to carry on a conversation with adults, but not Jack. That's what struck me first — that and his overwhelming, insatiable curiosity. Then, there was the smile. He had one of those smiles that lit not only his eyes and face, the joy of it lit up a whole room. He enjoys every minute of every day he lives, and that sort of thing is contagious, I found.

We would talk music, art, philosophy, a whole slew of things, jumping from one thing to another in long, rambling conversation. I could cook, clean, fix meals for the kids while we talked. The whole afternoon would go by and we'd still be at it, until his Mother would call and tell me to point him in the direction of home.

I had to hear the new records, see the poster or painting he'd discovered, discuss something he'd read or heard in a class, until one day it dawned on me that he had one of those rare, brilliant minds every teacher unconsciously looks for. He loved the learning and had to share each discovery to increase the joy of it. The papers didn't get corrected, things would burn in the oven, my husband would appear and dinner would be late, but I wouldn't have missed it for anything.

Jack had a motley of odd jobs in the neighborhood. For a buck and a half an hour he'd clean garages, basements, or do yard work, which drove his mother crazy because Jack was a Thing collector. He was forever carting home Things people threw out that he thought were interesting and beautiful.

I had this dead piano in the garage that had fallen over when we moved. What do you do with a dead piano? Jack took it apart, demolished everything but the harp, which he begged for. I knew his Mom would kill me, but I gave it to him anyway.

It took Jack and three husky friends to walk it the three blocks to his house, and it sat in the den for weeks until he figured how to get it up to his room — a mad collection of his Things. That room was the despair of his parents, with the wild colors, posters, black light, and God knows what else, but he loved it.

He was "into" everything, a laughing, incorrigible free spirit. He was all over the city, knew all the strange and different shops buried away in Detroit. He never saw the ugliness, squalor, or hate that seethed around our rapidly changing neighborhood. He knew it existed, accepted the fact, and went right on finding new and exciting people and places in the midst of it.

I never saw him angry. I can't recall that he hated anything or anyone. One day he was beaten up badly by a gang of black teenagers on the way home from school. They gave him a concussion, along with a slightly rearranged face. He told me about it, laughed it off, and promptly forgot it. I guess he was just too busy to take the time to get mad.

I once asked his Mother, a comfortable, friendly woman who honestly enjoyed her large family, how it was that her oldest was such a special person. She gave me the shadow of his smile, shrugged, and said, "Damned if I know He's been that way since he was born. I can't take any credit for it. He can drive you right up the wall sometimes, but he takes his life as a gift, and never wastes a minute of it. I never know what he'll do next. Did you see the water pipe he gave me for my birthday? Lord knows where he got it, but he loved the carving on the bowl. I'll probably never use it, but I love it too."

Jack was the only babysitter the kids ever wanted. He never SAT of course, but would appear with the albums, books, black light, and some new Thing. He'd run experiments in the kitchen, dance with the little girls, or play some new stringed instrument I'd never seen before. It was like renting a combination magician, clown, teacher, and mad scientist. He left the place a mess but I never complained, or even cared. The kids had their Pied Piper, and followed him around like puppies.

When we moved to Clarkston, Jack was one of the people we hated to leave. His family moved to a farm near Rochester a year later, but he said the fresh air, peace and quiet, was not for him. He needed the city, the people, the noise and all that went with it. At Rochester High they asked him what he'd been reading at U. of D. High. He told them Moliere, Mann, Proust, and Tolstoy, and asked what they were reading. "Airport," the teacher said, and threw up his hands. For that whole last year he studied in a small room they gave him, counseled students, arranged jazz and rock concerts, and generally had the run of the place.

Every year, around Christmas he appears, with a big bear hug, the grin, and his latest Thing. We talk about everything, but never mentioned what he planned to do after graduation. We both knew anyway.

Jack is back in his city, in his second year at Sacred Heart Seminary, still "into" everything, still lighting up rooms with his special kind of joy. He came about ten o'clock the other night, looking like an unfrocked monk, with enough hair and beard to stuff a couch. I got the usual bear hug, and the word went through the house, "Jack's here!" Then came the stories, and all the news. He'd done his first batik print and brought it along.

He has a job this summer in a rundown old parish in Ecorse. The pastor needs help with the neighborhood kids, and I hope the man has a strong heart and a great sense of humor. I smiled, and fixed him a drink. It's gonna be a great year.

Jack was here the other night.

Varnishing has always been a good way to finish wood floors. And there are certain ways to care for these floors that will always keep them looking like new. Varnish that is scuffed and soiled can be refreshed by washing with soap and water; then rinse, let dry and apply another coat of varnish. If soap and water does not get rid of the dirt, heavy sandpapering or bleaching may be in order.

When home repairs are in order, get your materials and supplies from BOB'S HARDWARE, 60 S. Main St., 625-5020. Our large inventory includes a complete line of Trewax floor and furniture products, Fabulon fast-dry wood floor finish, and the most complete selection of Sherwin Williams paint in the area. Hours: 8-6, Mon.-Sat.

HELPFUL HINT:

Varnished floors should never be soaked with water. Spills should be wiped up immediately.

Copies cost more

A Township citizen who requested 51 copies of Board minutes and used a Township employee's time for 40 minutes as well as tying up the Township copying machine, is going to have to pay more next time he wants service.

The township Board hiked the cost of copies from 10c to $1.00 each.

The $2300 plus bill owing a court stenographer in the Waterford Hill case was cited. "If she gets $2.25 a page, and we get 10c, I think our price should be hiked to somewhere in between," said Clerk, J. Edwin Glennie.

Township owned vehicles - 4 cars and two trucks - will bear the Township inscription in the future. The Board has decided not to restrict employees from driving the cars home, due to a lack of parking facilities at the Township offices, and noted that with the marking they would be kept track of by citizens.

The Board approved the preliminary plat for Spring Hill Estates No. 2 off Maybee, across from Spring Hill Golf course to contain 30 lots on 20.8 acres. The plat will be checked by Township engineers for drainage.

Drainage problems at Allen and Rattalee Lake Roads, allegedly threatened by development of Bessie Foreman Estates Subdivision there, appear on the road to resolution.

The Oakland County Road Commission has promised cooperation with the Township Board, and engineers for the developer have agreed to install a retention basin to catch run off water so that it does not flow onto neighboring property.

Whether the Road Commission will maintain the basin remains to be resolved.

The Board has gone on record asking the Road Commission for removal from plans of a covert which would have carried the drainage flow across the intersection.

Background information is on page 3.

New planning member

Jim Smith, 56, of 8551 Allen Road, President of Howard & Smith, Inc. of Madison Heights, is the new member of the Independence Planning Commission. He was appointed Tuesday night by the Township Supervisor.

Smith resides on 30 acres north of I-75 and will represent the residents of the agriculturally zoned land on the commission.

Court needs more room

Clarkston District Court, quartered in the annex behind the Township Hall at 90 North Main, is outgrowing the facility.

The Township Board has been asked by the Oakland County Board of Auditors if it would object to the placement of a portable building at the north of the annex, the two to be connected in one facility. The annex is currently leased from the Township by the County and all costs of expansion would be borne by the county.

Supervisor, Robert Vandermark, noting the parking problem caused by traffic to the court as well as at the Township offices, proposed that an attempt be made to get the count to also purchase extra parking area.

"It's very helpful to have a court close by," Vandermark remarked.

Township briefs

The Township Board has voted to accept bids for the demolition of a Woodhull Lake House which building Chief Ken Delbridge testifies is more than 75% destroyed by fire. The owner was previously notified to tear down the building, and since he has not, the job will be done by the township with the cost billed to the owner.

There is no provision in the Independence Township Ordinances to clean up litter and bill the cost to the property owner following proper notification. Supervisor Robert Vandermark noted, however, that the ordinance could be amended.

Outside water meters a thing of the future for water system users? They would facilitate meter readings greatly, according to Clerk J. Edwin Glennie.

A certificate of deposit by the financially pressed Water Department is being sold to the Cemetery Fund. Interest accrued to the present on the $8,850 bond will be attributed to the Water Department, future revenue to go to the Cemetery Fund.

Action on whether to pay $881.66 for membership in the Clinton River Water Shed Council was tabled for another meeting. A presentation was made to the board by David Brauer, executive secretary.

Snowmobile safety classes

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission in cooperation with the Sheriff's Department is conducting classes to certify youth between the ages of 12-16 to operate a snowmobile.

Classes are free of charge and will be held at the Waterford Oaks Park Activities Building, 2800 Watkins Lake Road, Waterford Township.

The first class is Monday, January 15 from 7-9:00 p.m. Class is limited to the first 75 who pre-register by calling 634-9371.

vice chairman and Jack Belby secretary.

Membership on the commission remains one man short. No one has yet been appointed to replace Joseph Rhoades whose term expired at the end of the year and who has since refused to accept reappointment.

The group decided to have two regular business meetings the second and fourth Thursdays of each month as opposed to the present one study session and one regular meeting the second and third Thursdays of the month.

It was hoped to speed up action on requests for site plan, subdivision plat and rezoning requests.

Lighting costs more

Township residents who had an increase in their special assessment for street lights included in their December tax bills are helping to pay back the township general fund for money it paid out for them, according to Clerk J. Edwin Glennie, and they're also meeting utility rate increases.

"There was a street light fee increase after the last assessment and before this one. We are billed and we pass the costs on to the people," he said. "Since the township must pay a year in advance, the payments levied on the people are retroactive. If there are no further increases by the utilities next year, the bills might be lowered next year," he said.

Most homeowners are now being charged between $9 and $12 per lot per year, Glennie said.

VACANT HOUSE

By Helen Janet Miller

There is nothing here but the wind in the trees,
A challenge toward the north;
And the odor of musk, and the lap of the lake,
And a chair that rocks back and forth,
And back . . . and forth . . .

(Ed. note - Jim Briney, Republican candidate for the State House of Representatives in the Waterford-Pontiac area now facing a recount, has offered to resume the column he wrote for this paper last year. First the recount - and then a Briney story.)

At the state level the legislature is a singularly curious outfit. State legislators are responsible for seating their own members. They make the rules as to who will be seated at the beginning of each session.

This year three "members" of the Michigan House of Representatives have been seated prior to completion of recounts involving their contests which could seat others in their place.

I sympathize with those already "sworn in" who have recounts hanging over their heads. And I empathize with those waiting recount results to discover whether they will have an opportunity to serve.

I filed for a recount of the vote in the 62nd legislative district because of information leading to the conclusion that the amount of votes cast in the general election for that race is not accurate.

Whether I am seated or not I want to insure that whomever is has indeed won without benefit of error. This is important if our faith, even our concern, for honest, effective, and efficient government is ever to prevail.

I blame no individual for the dubious vote totals. A lot of confusion centered on this particular race due to the complication of a write-in attempt.

In regrettably typical fashion the entire one hundred and forty-eight member legislature will be in recess for two weeks while nine select members travel from the Upper Peninsula to Pontiac to officiate at recount proceedings.

A few other legislators will participate in public hearings.

The recent holiday season was the first in 20 years that I did not hear from Hopalong Cassidy. We corresponded regularly.

It all started when I sent the good guy in the black hat a tiny gun made of gold. The gun actually worked, and I used to watch for him to use it during his TV show.

I don't think he ever did, but I figured out all kinds of ways that mini-six-shooter could be hidden, and employed to help Hoppy escape from a desperate situation.

Hoppy sent a personal letter that Christmas thanking me for the toy. From then on we were friends, and I his lasting fan.

As the years passed and Hoppy's greetings arrived to find me at various schools and places of employment, I always enjoyed explaining to disbelieving friends that it really was a card or letter from Hoppy.

The missives were signed "Hoppy and Trippy," something I can't explain.

Others are convinced Hoppy's horse was Topper, and that tripped me up trying to explain the name with Hoppy's. The best I could do was speculate that Trippy was his wife... or he'd gotten another horse.

Anyway, Hoppy's gone now. His portrayer, William Boyd, died last year. We can remember him fondly now through re-runs on faint UHF channels, or by listening to Don McLean's record album and poetry, immortalizing Hopalong Cassidy in yet another art form.

I shall remember him best by his familiar greeting each winter: A belated, though lasting, and prosperous "HOPPY NEW YEAR."

AN ANGEL LOOKS BACK

By Helen Janet Miller

I was so anxious for the streets of gold,
The flowing robes, the finely feathered wings,

That bartering my body for these things I squandered all my senses too, and sold
The Quiet sound of night, the moon's high mirth,

Fall's fragrance, summer's light and winter's snow.

Now I would trade my soul, I think, to know

A little of the beauty that was earth.

TEST RESULTS

Vitamins, tranquilizers, birth control pills and all the other medicines we swallow by the millions each year can alter the results of medical tests. They can even lead to unnecessary surgery, according to Dr. Raymond Randall, of the Mayo Clinic.

"The medications usually pose no threat to a patient's health, but they can change normal endocrine or thyroid test results so drastically that a physician may be led to believe disease is present.

"Worse, they could cause a real disease to go undetected."

Some cough medicines, face creams containing estrogen, the heavy and prolonged use of aspirin - even iodine applied to a cut - can produce similar problems.

The answer, Dr. Randall said, is to make certain your doctor knows just what pills you have been taking. He can then either make allowance for them, or you can temporarily discontinue them until the test is completed.

However, many people take pills by habit and don't think of them as medications. Even when the doctor asks, they forget to mention the drug, and test errors can result. Fortunately, most doctors are alert to the danger and are persistent enough to get a full list of medications, especially when tests suggest the presence of disease.

TWO HOUSES

By Helen Janet Miller

You have an old house
Scanty of means,
And I have a new house
With copper screens.

Your house has battled
And met defeat,
But mine rises proudly
On its paved street.

My shiny new house
Has artful schemes,
And your tattered old house
Is rich in dreams.

Your house to my house
Is one far cry,
But I want an old house
Before I die.

The independent view

by Jean Saile

An Egyptian mummy was X-rayed at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital recently. Found to be much younger than originally thought, the mummy couldn't possibly have felt any worse than our Betty Hecker did over the last weekend as you can tell from her column.

Teresa Hoopengartner, teacher of distributive education in the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center's special needs class, has a special need of her own. The class needs a cash register to learn from, and Teresa's budget just does not allow for cash registers. Anybody got an old one they could spare?

She says this particular group of students must learn by repetition, and right now the only register available has to be shared by another class of 25.

One of the township officials has suggested the conversion of one of the rooms at the rear end of The Clarkston News into a town meeting room, where people with free time could gather to discuss the news. I think he's thinking in terms of a pot bellied stove and a pickle barrel. As the female editor of this establishment I am right now ruling out spittoons, but without spittoons is anybody interested?

The girls in Mrs. Ruth Montney's home ec class at Clarkston Junior High School were in a tizzy last week. They were preparing dinner for their boyfriends to be served Monday night. With an audience like that, they thought the dinner had better be good.

What with last week's two school bus accidents in Clarkston, there are school officials who are eyeing the 45 per mile speed limit in front of the Sashabaw schools along Maybee Road. Past efforts to get the speed reduced have been fruitless, they say.

Remedial reading may be on way out

The 120 children now involved in a remedial reading program in four of five of the Clarkston elementary schools may be without help come July.

Mrs. Dorothy Neff, who has charge of the federally funded program, said the act which has provided $47,945 in federal funds to Clarkston this year for the Title I program, is due to expire June 30.

She reported last week to the Title I Parent Advisory Council that students enrolled in the Clarkston program have gained an overall 1.3 year impetus in reading ability due to the program.

Mrs. Neff cited statistics showing that about 15 percent of all school children in the country have reading problems of some type.

She said that while the program is for second and third graders in Clarkston, it has excluded Clarkston Elementary School because not enough of the students were able to meet the 10 percent economically disadvantaged criteria of the program.

Attempts to have the program extended have been initiated locally by letter-writing parents and there was some discussion of asking the local Board of Education to assist in the funding of such a program if the federal program is not renewed.

The ideal goal seen by those present at the meeting was to have a remedial reading program in all the grades, kindergarten through 12.

Gramps is 81

by Betty Hecker

Frank Halsey is one of the most respected men in Springfield Township. He has been a resident since April 2, 1917, when he moved lock, stock, and livestock, too, into a railroad boxcar in Wayne, Michigan, to be delivered to the Andersonville Grand Trunk Depot.

"We bought the old Harpley farm in February of '17 and it was an old house even then," Gramps said.

Frank Halsey is "Gramps" to almost everyone who knows him. He said, "When my kids started to school over here, all the other kids called me "Paw" when I'd go out and umpire their ball games and such. When the grandkids came, everyone called me "Grandpaw", now it's just "Gramps."

Frank was born on a farm in Troy, Michigan, on January 16, 1892, and has been a farmer and dairyman all his life.

In 1914, the daily inspector suggested that Frank enter a pure milk contest. He entered and won—receiving a large sterling silver loving cup and recognition

Year round school at NOVEC

There are plans to bring Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center to a year-round fulltime school.

Principal Herb Olson said an extended class, the third section, will be offered during the day to students of the seven participating high schools which the center serves.

Night school courses take the daily schedule to about 11 p.m. each night, he added, and summer school plans for next year will leave the building out of use for only about a month.

"It's air conditioned and there's no reason not to use it year around," Olson said.

for having the best milk in the state of Michigan.

As we talked he remembered their first years at 11350 Andersonville Road. "Old Doc Sutherland and Ada Scrace brought son, Payse into the world" on September 5, 1917.

"Doc was one of the kinda fellows that always got there in time. He lived over in Clarkston, and somebody would go over and get him with the horse and buggy, but he most times walked home."

"At one time, I knew everybody in the territory. We used to go threshing down past Davisburg this way, then over the other side of Clarkston, and down 10 (Dixie Highway) where that big shopping center is now, there was a big farm."

"There used to be two houses between the church and my place, now there's 25." The church has always been a very important part of Frank's life. In January, 1947, when the people organized the Andersonville Community Church, Frank became a charter member. The Andersonville Church property and building was owned by the Presbyterian Church. In 1954, Frank purchased and presented them to the community in memory of his wife, Gladys.

Gramps takes pride in ringing the 100-year-old church bell four times each Sunday, precisely at 9:30 a.m., 10 a.m., 11:00 a.m., and 7 p.m. He said, "People tell me that old bell has the sweetest sound."

Once he agreed to "help out" by digging a grave back in 1941 when the regular gravedigger wasn't available. In 1971, he retired and was presented with a plaque to commemorate 30 years of labor at the Davisburg Cemetery. He is still a sexton and the caretaker of the Andersonville Cemetery.

Recalling the coldest time he ever had digging a grave, he said, "The temperature was 13 degrees below zero and the wind was blowing so hard you couldn't get the tent up. My ears were nipped and my fingers sure froze."

Another time he agreed to help out Charlie Hillman for three or four days at the Davisburg Lumber and Coal Company. That "help out" lasted over 13 years with Frank working as the yard manager, and to quote Hillman, "a good one".

On Monday, January 15, Gramps treated his five children, sons Payse and Donald of Andersonville, and daughters, Alice Miller of Owosso, Ethel Piniero of Ann Arbor, and Reta Dodd of Farmington, and their wives and husbands to dinner at Harvey's Restaurant in Waterford to celebrate his 81st birthday.

Cliff Schoenhals of Davisburg put into words the way many people feel about Gramps. Schoenhals said, "He's a wonderful man. He has been honest, straightforward, and kindly. He has devoted his life to his family, his community, and his church."

The Trojans did a little catching up in the second quarter, but the Wolves were still ahead 32-29 at the buzzer.

through the third quarter and by as much as 7 points.

In the quarter, Clarkston scored only 6 points and Clarenceville with 14 had a 43-38 edge at the end of the period.

The Wolves moved back up and the game was neck and neck late in the final quarter, but Clarkston outplayed and outscored the Trojans 19 to 11 for the 57-54 victory.

Michael Dougherty, named most valuable tennis player at Clarkston High School twice and ranked first in Michigan State High School Athletic Association regional and conference play, has been appointed year round resident pro at the Tri-State Racquet Club in Tampa, Fla.

Dougherty, 23, apprenticed in tennis instruction at the Sabin-Mulloy Tennis Camp in Florida under Wayne Sabin, former Davis Cupper who is recognized as one of the top figures in tennis instruction and Gardner Mulloy, hailed as one of the most illustrious names in tennis.

He attended Central Florida Junior College in Ocala and was awarded a full scholarship in tennis at Cumberland College, Williamsburg, Ky. He has done graduate study at the University of South Florida.

Scott Newhart, 40, stands by as Barry Miller, 51, wrestles with a Laker during the Junior Varsity game Friday which the home team won 49-32.

Dirk Feneley, 44, reaches for the basket as Dave Partlo, 14, and Larry Miracle, 54, ready for assistance. The Wolves won 57-54.

Sashabaw-Clarkston clash Saturday

By Pat Shaw and Rick Langdon

Sashabaw Cougars face their archrivals, Clarkston Junior High School on the basketball court at 7 p.m. Saturday, January 20 at Sashabaw.

The weekend will also see another clash between the rival schools, as ninth grade wrestling teams meet at 7 p.m. Friday at Clarkston High School.

The Cougars have recently snapped a two game losing streak by defeating West Bloomfield Lakers Thursday, January 11, on the Sashabaw court.

The Lakers came to Sashabaw with a 4-1 record and it was a sweet win for the Cougars.

The Lakers committed many fouls during the first half and lost their center to an injured ankle. The West Bloomfield team led 9-6 at the quarter and 16-14 at the half.

The second half was again riddled by fouls. The Cougar offense was far from flawless but the defensive efforts in their zone defense were outstanding.

With approximately four minutes to go in the game, the Lakers led 21-20. At this time, however, the fans were treated to high spirited Cougar offense going on to win 40-26.

High point man for the Cougars was Tom Ross with 12 points.

On Tuesday, December 8, the Sashabaw Cougars suffered a tough loss to the Bloomfield Hills Lancers, 58-48, on their court. This defeat evened up the Cougar record at 2 wins and 2 losses.

First quarter action saw both teams having a difficult time getting rolling with a Lancer lead of 6-5. The second quarter was frequently delayed due to fouls but was a 21 point quarter with Bloomfield Hills heading into the locker room with a 27-14 lead.

Third quarter action was much the same with the Lancers taking control 46-28. The Cougars rallied in the fourth quarter, but with little success, losing 58-48. High scorers for the Cougars were Steve Pearson with 13 points and Tom Ross with 11 points.

Clarkston Junior High's basketball team presently holds a record of 2 wins and 4 losses in inscholastic play.

On December 14, the Wolverines lost a close game to Crary Junior High 63-59. Larry Bennett led Clarkston scoring with 15 points. Wayne Thompson and Dave Brown had 14 points each.

The Wolverines fell to their third loss on December 19 by losing to East Hills Junior High 65-42. East Hills dominated play and won easily. Tim Westover led scoring with 18 points while Wayne Thompson added 10.

The Wolverines picked up their second win on January 9. They defeated Walled Lake Western by a score of 62-50. Dave Brown led scoring with 19 points. Tim Westover and Tom Bosquez added 13 and 11 points respectively.

Clarkston's record came to its present 2-4 with a loss to Milford January 11. Milford won the game 64-57. Tim Westover led Clarkston, scoring with 16 points. Wayne Thompson scored 15 while Tom Bosquez and Dave Brown added 11 and 10 points.

On Tuesday, January 16, Clarkston travels to Pierce Junior High for a 3:45 game.

Debbie Gibbs, Debi Willits and Diane Rizzuto lead the cheering.

The crowd was in good spirits with the two wins.

For the horsey set

By Doug Dennis

If you like horse riding or even learning about horses, you'd probably like being in a 4-H horse club. One 4-H Horse Club in the area is the Davisburg Hoofbeats. We meet the third Monday of every month (which was two days ago, but don't despair, you can always come next month.)

The 1972-73 officers appointed to the club are Cathy Clos, our president; Marlene Porter, our vice president; Pam Clos, our secretary; Dawn Broegman, our treasurer; and Marilyn Porter, who takes care of our recreation.

At the meeting this month Bob Parsons spoke to us about trimming horses' hooves and other things that horses' hooves need (like shoeing). Mr. Parsons does that sort of thing professionally. People with that occupation are known as ferrisers.

Coming in the next month or so, there will be classes on leather tooling. We'll be leather tooling belts. The cost is about $5 for the supplies.

We meet at the Davisburg Town Hall in Davisburg. If you want to join the club, the only qualification is that you must be at least 12 years old. You don't need a horse to join.

Men's Basketball League

In the first game of the new league, G and M Sunoco led by Doyle and Williams, with 14 and 12 points respectively, defeated Clarkston School's Credit Union by a score of 54 to 39. Clarkston School's Credit Union was led by Tom Allen with 19 points, the high in all games.

The second game, the Town Shop defeated Haupt Pontiac 59 to 53. Leading scorers were Madison, Powell and Boomer for the Town Shop with 16, 15 and 14 points respectively, and Thomas and Ernest with 14 and 11 for Haupt Pontiac.

STANDINGS:

	Won	Lost
Town Shop	1	0
G and M Sunoco	1	0
Clarkston School's Credit Union	0	1
Haupt Pontiac	0	1

CJH wrestlers

Clarkston Junior High's wrestling team is now preparing for their first home meets of the season.

On Wednesday, January 17, the Wolverines will wrestle Avondale at the high school at 7:00.

On Friday, January 19, the first meeting between Sashabaw and Clarkston will be held.

Tickets for both matches will be 50 cents at the door and wrestling will begin at 7:00 in the high school gym.

Clarkston's season record presently stands at 2 wins and 2 losses.

Flyers in first place

Clarkston Flyers, tied for first place going into their game Sunday, went on to beat the Detroit Javelins 3-1.

Goalie Chuck Schoeneman gave his usual outstanding goal tending performance. Goals for the Flyers were scored by Tom Schingler with assists from Mark Cushman and Ron Livingston; Jack Hagen, assisted by John Dickie; and Mark Johnson, also assisted by Dickie.

The team plays again Sunday at Lakeland Arena on M-59 against Lakeland. There is no admission charge for the games.

Moved by Basinger to accept with regrets the resignation of Trustee Robert C. Jones from the Village Council, effective Dec. 26, 1972. Seconded by Wilford. Motion carried unanimously.

A letter from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission was read to the Council, concerning the renewal of the Liquor License for the Clarkston Cafe on S. Main St. The Council voiced no objection to a License renewal, so the state will thereby renew this Liquor License for the 1973-1974 year, effective April 30, 1973.

Independence Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark and Building Superintendent Ken Delbridge were present to discuss with the Village the usage of Township Building Inspections for building within the Village. The present Village Building Inspector, Gar Wilson, had resigned these duties, effective Jan. 1, 1973. Since both the Township and the Village have the same building codes, it was felt that it would be beneficial if the Township took on Village building inspections.

Mr. Vandermark said that a Resolution from the Village to the Township on this would be needed. He and Mr. Delbridge discussed with the Council what should be included in this Resolution. Any fees would be collected by the Township, and any appeals would go to the Village Appeals Board.

Moved by Basinger to adopt the following Resolution:

WHEREAS there are too few applications made to the Village of Clarkston for Building Permits to warrant Village employment of a full time Building Inspector, therefore be it

RESOLVED that the Village of Clarkston designate the Township of Independence Building Department to provide the necessary services required to perform the Building Department functions for the Village of Clarkston, which shall include, but not be limited to, the issuance of Building Permits for residential building, based upon Village Zoning Ordinances; as well as the issuance of Building Permits in Multiple, Commercial and Industrial Districts, upon approval of the appropriate Village reviewing body.

Further, that the Superintendent of the Township Building Department shall be authorized to enforce the Zoning Laws and Building Codes. Compensation for the performance of these services shall be the Permit fee schedules as are enforced at the time of the issuance of permits.

Seconded by Auten. Roll: Ayes - Auten, Basinger, Weiss, Wilford. Nays - None. Abstain - Tower. Motion carried.

Mr. Delbridge mentioned that a portion of the Building Permit fees on Mr. Milzow's new apartments off Surrey Lane should be retained by the Village since the Village did part of the inspections.

Moved by Weiss to remit 75 percent of the inspection fees on Mr. Milzow's new apartments to Independence Township as compensation for their inspection services. Seconded by Auten. Roll: Ayes - Auten, Basinger, Tower, Weiss, Wilford. Nays - None. Motion carried.

Mr. Farnum was present to discuss the proposed Village Sewer Ordinance with the Council. Further details on it are currently being worked on.

Mr. David Leak and Mr. George Gray were present to voice their objections to the proposed Village golf course on the property behind the Town Shop. Their objections included: possible harm to the surrounding lakes due to fertilizers, spraying, grass clippings, etc.; noise from extra traffic and golfers; and the possibility of noise from snowmobiles that may drive over the golf course in the winter. They felt that the property should remain as a natural wildlife sanctuary.

Trustee Basinger mentioned that the Village Planning Committee had met on the previous evening, and that it was their unanimous feeling that private enterprise should not be encouraged to develop public land.

Moved by Tower that the Council concur with the unanimous opinion of the Village planning body relating to the proposed golf course. Seconded by Basinger. Motion carried unanimously.

The Clerk mentioned that since only the minimum number of candidates filed for the Annual Election on March 12, 1973, that no Primary Election will be required. The candidates are: Clerk - Bruce Rogers; Treasurer - Artemus Pappas; Trustee (one-year term) - Neil Granlund; and three Trustees (two-year terms) - James Schultz, Michael Thayer, and Lucia Wilford. All the candidates filed under the Republican party.

President Johnston recommended that the Council appoint Neil Granlund to fill the vacancy caused by Trustee Jones' resignation.

Moved by Tower to appoint Neil Granlund as a Village Trustee to fill the recent vacancy on the Council. Seconded by Basinger. Motion carried unanimously.

Meeting called adjourned by President Johnston.

JAN. 14-20

John Sackrider, President '72-'73, Clarkston area Jaycees.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT THROUGH COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

Jaycees offer leadership training through community development for young men between 18 and 35. The Jaycees is designed specifically to meet the needs of the young man seeking to make his place in community and business ranks. In working toward these goals, every young man is offered the opportunities of a voice in community affairs, a practical leadership development course, the chance to try new ideas and improve old ones, and social contact with other men.

Here are the main reasons why young men join the Jaycees:
THE DESIRE FOR SELF-IMPROVEMENT. To learn how to accept responsibility, to make decisions, become effective speakers, learn management techniques, to be better employees, employers and citizens.
THE DESIRE FOR COMMUNITY IMPROVEMENT. To have a hand in searching out community ills and then to plan and execute constructive action projects to remedy them.
THE DESIRE FOR FELLOWSHIP. To meet progressive young people in their own age bracket, with similar interests - similar goals. The friendships made are not confined solely to the local community, but extend nationally and internationally as well.

For many years, the Michigan Jaycees, young men of action, has been a group of political and social activists dedicated to American ideals and principles.

The Jaycees has initiated, developed and supported numerous worthwhile and meaningful projects designed to increase opportunities for our young people and strengthen our communities, our state and our nation.

The more than 12,000 Michigan Jaycees throughout our state aspire to the highest of goals -- goals not within easy reach, but requiring commitment and dedicated work.

Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, hereby urge all citizens to give appropriate recognition to the past accomplishments of the Michigan Jaycees, and to lend future support to the Jaycees' efforts to improve the quality of life in our state.

Given under my hand on this fourth day of December in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred seventy-two and of the Commonwealth one hundred thirty-sixth.
