

Relocated Post Office in the works

The Army Corps of Engineers, United States Postal Service agent for real estate matters, has been authorized to acquire a new site and proceed with design and construction of a new post office for the Clarkston area.

The information comes from David L. Cantor, U.S. Postal Service congressional liaison officer, in a letter to Congressman William S. Broomfield, a copy of which was forwarded by Broomfield to The Clarkston News.

While the letter does not specifically state that the new Post Office will be located outside the village, all indications point in that direction.

A proposal that the former Hawk Tool and Engineering Co. on West Washington be considered as the site has apparently been rejected.

Cantor wrote, "We do not believe that it would be reasonable at this point to suspend further action on this project and study the feasibility of modifying Mr. Hawke's building for use as a post office. We feel this would mean a further delay which would be unacceptable to both the Postal Service and the residents of Clarkston."

"However, in the event that unforeseen circumstances should force us to cancel our current planning, I have advised regional officials of the availability of Mr. Hawke's building. In all fairness, I should point out the chances of this occurring are not good."

Cantor added, "The Clarkston project has been cleared through all administrative levels, new construction has been approved as the best course for providing adequate quarters for our employees and customers and the necessary funds have been allocated."

"We have surveyed available sites in Clarkston and selected one site as the most advantageous from a service and operational standpoint."

Several previous attempts to relocate the post office within the village have been rejected both by the population and the postal authorities.

Requirement for space enough for parking and mail sorting operations has necessitated the elimination of several proposed sites.

The Clarkston Post Office is presently in a condition that can only be described as delapidated. Plaster is falling from the ceiling. Postmaster Ray Klein's office is in the former vault, and the mail route trucks are being dispatched from an annex in the Gerry Anderson building on M-15.

Last fall, local officials were informed that the Clarkston Post Office problem had been given a number one priority for this area by federal authorities.

The present postal building is owned by Pontiac State Bank and leased to the federal agency.

Filling out governmental forms is not my favorite pastime. In fact, each form drives me to the brink. We have to figure out how much to pay in a half dozen taxes, which they refigure.

The way I see it one set of figurin' can be eliminated. It's obvious they don't trust us to make out our forms correctly. And, we don't feel them capable of proper form fillin'. So let's all send our forms to one neutral form figurer (outside the government) and accept their filled forms.

We could split the cost, thus saving half the total amount.

A month ago I got a form from our auditors for the state commerce department. I was to certify when the Oxford Leader, Inc. changed its registered office . . . when we moved into our new building.

Our minutes show this decision was agreed to Nov. 3, 1971. MB in the commerce department wrote back that they were keeping our $5.00 fee for filing the form, and would I correct the date since the form hadn't been printed until December.

There's another note in the minutes of July, 1972 that could be acceptable, I supposed, as a change in address date.

Again MB wrote she was keeping our fee and that the forms hadn't been printed until Dec. '72, "would I please adjust the date correctly."

This time I came up with a January date, which isn't correct. I'll bet they accept it . . . unless MB gets a copy of this column.

My Jottings are carried in the Clarkston News and Orion Review as well as the Oxford Leader, and while the next bit concerns Oxford directly, I don't think it will be uninteresting for others.

I decided to do some research on business developments in Oxford since coming here in 1955. The changes are almost unbelievable.

In July of that year the Leader carried a page advertising with names of 91 businesses and industry as sponsors of the ad.

Only 22 of these names remain today with the same ownership.

Only 43 are still in business.

These include those with the same ownership and same line of business, though they may have moved and been sold.

Eight doctors were listed on the page and half of them are still practicing in town.

A few other things amazed me in reviewing 17 years in a small town. I didn't keep track, exactly; however, I remember four kidnappings (all of which were later dismissed or reduced), several violent deaths by shooting and accidents, and of course, a half dozen bad fires. We had four boys killed in Vietnam.

Murder, arson, armed robbery, dynamitings . . . you name it, this small town had it.

All news wasn't in this category. We built schools, municipal buildings, parks, factories, businesses, improved roads, had citizens gain recognition on local, state and national basis.

And there are those who don't know what people do in small towns . . . nothing ever happens.

mined by a school safety committee which has been in action since the first of the year.

Heading the list, the group determined Monday night, is an estimated $5,000 construction of sidewalk from Eastlawn to Snowapple (of which Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark says the township is "tentatively willing" to pay half), a pair of $1,300 flashing Reduced Speed Zone lights for Maybee Road near the Sashabaw schools, and the employment of crossing guards on Waldon between Clarkston Elementary and Clarkston Junior High and on Maybee between the two Sashabaw Elementary schools.

Later improvements would include sidewalk construction along Maybee Road and the installation of the flashers in the Waldon Road school area, according to Assistant Superintendent Milford Mason.

The committee took the position that the school district and the township should work out the financing, Vandermark reported.

Serving on the committee besides Mason and Vandermark were Mrs. Charles Weber, Rev. Robert Walters, Charles Smalley, R. A. Weber, Lynn Jervis, Jack Hayden, Bill Potvin, Duane Lewis, Mel Vaara, Mrs. Robert Jensenius, James McIlrath and Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Jerry Hall.

Meditation lecture free to public

An introductory session in transcendental meditation — "not a religion but a technique of improving oneself and relieving tension and stress" — will be offered free to the public at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music.

Thomas Cote, phone 338-1452, trained by the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, will conduct the session.

Manslaughter charged in auto game deaths

Gerald Cooper, 20, of 6161 Ascension will be examined April 12 before Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally on two counts of involuntary manslaughter.

Deer Lake rezoning will be asked Apr. 12

Full plans for the north end of Deer Lake with requests for rezoning to allow construction of apartments and homes will be presented to the Independence Township Planning Commission at 7:30 p.m. April 12, township officials said.

Recently the developers presented plans for the construction of apartments on 43 acres of the property already zoned multiple.

The presentation next month is expected to include plans for the remainder of the area, bounded by I-75, Holcomb Road and the Dixie Highway.

The Michigan State Highway Department has informed State Rep. Loren Anderson, R-Waterford, that signed contracts agreeing to the participation in the cost of traffic signal installation and maintenance were recently returned to the department by the Oakland County Road Commission.

"We are now in the process of issuing a work authorization covering these signals. In the near future the authorization will be sent to the Oakland County Road Commission who will complete the actual installation," according to H. H. Cooper, traffic and safety engineer for the state department.

He is presently free on $2,000 in personal bonds following the accident Tuesday, March 20, which took the lives of Brian Robert Evely, 17, 5940 Pinehurst and David Young, 13, 6450 Maybee Road.

Michigan State Police who investigated the accident said Cooper and Evely were apparently acquainted and had played a game before which involved each taking to the wrong side of the road as they approached head-on, then switching back just before passing.

This time, police theorize, the two recognized each other on Waldon Road west of Sashabaw, and crossed over to opposite lanes. Cooper stayed in the wrong lane while Evely at the last minute decided to switch back.

They collided, and Evely and Young were believed to have been killed instantly. Cooper was treated for minor injuries and released.

State Police said Evely and Young had to be cut out of their car, demolished in the accident.

Evely, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Evely, was buried Friday at Ottawa Park Cemetery. A senior at Clarkston High School, he is survived also by a sister, Mrs. David Terry of Davison; and three brothers, Ronald with the Army in Germany, John and Norman, at home.

Funeral services for Young, son of Mrs. Hank Shell of Clarkston and Robert Young of Pontiac, were Friday at the Williams Lake Church of the Nazarene with burial in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

Surviving besides his parents are five other children, Robert, Eric, Tracy, Jeff and Melissa.

Those planning to attend are asked to notify the school, 625-4900.

Nursery school has openings

Applications are now being accepted for three and four-year-olds in the Maceday Co-Op Nursery School.

Mrs. Mike Patterson, 4768 Parview, Waterford, phone 623-0385, said openings are available for April and September.

The school meets at Lakeland United Presbyterian Church on Maceday Lake Road with occasional field trips into the community.

The group recently visited the Waterford Post Office where they learned how a letter is processed. They also visited the Northwest Oakland County Vocational Education Center for a tour of the dental department and a demonstration of dental office techniques and the proper way to care for teeth.

Elected chairman of the new board is

Mrs. James Manser. Mrs. Patterson is first vice chairman; Mrs. Phil St. George, second vice chairman; Mrs.

Luigi Antenucci, secretary; Mrs. David Niles, treasurer; and Mrs. Brad Chase, council delegate.

The difference between what a candidate says he will do if elected and what he does is usually as wide as the geographical district from which he is elected. To compound this problem, we, as ordinary citizens, have to discern from political doubletalk what our elected officials mean from what they say.

My wise old Swedish uncle from Cadillac, Elof Johnson, labels this problem the Palavering Politician Syndrome. His definition of the syndrome is "an unwillingness on politicians' parts to get the hay down to where us mules can reach it." He is not trying to slur the public but instead uses the analogy to get to the point he wants to make.

If you listen long enough, Uncle Elof will explain that he really doesn't think that our public servants care to let us in on what's happening so they either fill us with speeches that are meant to sound good but say nothing, or they tell us things that, for instance, only an economist could understand, or they just lie.

One case in point occurred a little over a month ago when our President announced that he had ordered the devaluation of the greenback by ten percent. He explained to you and me that this measure would facilitate the lowering of the cost of American made goods exported to foreign countries with the opposite happening to imports, thus effecting a better trade balance. Now, that explanation is just fine for a Wall Street broker, but how many of us understand the complexities of foreign economics? After discussing this action with people who know a lot more about economics than I do, I found out what the President should have said to make the meaning of the action clearer.

He should have said that while his administration has a list of firsts a half a block long, that now included in that list is the first crash landing of the dollar on the international currency market. Or he could have explained it better by saying that the book "how to see Europe on five dollars a day" will now have to be called "how to see Europe on five dollars and fifty cents a day."

Another example of a politician trying to keep the hay out of our reach is our governor. He has proposed a school aid plan with a "local taxation incentive." Sounds pretty good, right? But what the governor didn't want to tell us taxpayers in the Clarkston school system is that under his plan, even though we do have good schools, he wants us to donate some more millage come next election before the state will even shift out of reverse and into low gear with the school aid bucks.

Now that we can understand the correct meaning of the devaluation of the dollar and the implications of the Governor's plan for school financing on Clarkston taxpayers, there are a few steps we can take to keep our wallets from being eaten up:

1. Limit purchases of imported goods, because your dollar is only worth ninety cents in foreign markets.
2. Limit travel outside the United States for the same reason.
3. Tell your governor how you feel about his trying to blackmail you into raising your taxes.
4. Support a school aid plan that will help our district without raising our property or income taxes. There are several of these plans that have been introduced or will be shortly.

And remember, the next time a politician tries to throw the hay over your head, do as I do. Write that mouthy chap and insist that he start telling it LIKE IT IS.

Tell it to Bob by Bob Brumbach | Clarkston Schools Special Services Director

I have struggled for some years now with the conflicts facing seventeen-year-olds and their parents. The laws relating to seventeen-year-olds are often unclear, they are definitely inconsistent, and it is difficult to see how they contribute to constructive behavior by either the individual or his family.

You can discuss the status of seventeen-year-olds with your physician, the police, the Juvenile Court, the Friend of the Court's office, the schools or attorneys and you will very likely be more confused when you finish than when you started. My following comments are based on my experiences with seventeen-year-olds and will hopefully begin to clarify their actual status.

The law does not define a seventeen-year-old as an adult — unless he commits a crime or a driving offense. The Juvenile Court has jurisdiction through age sixteen with a provision for concurrent jurisdiction with Circuit Court for ages seventeen and eighteen (wayward minor section). The Juvenile Court has enough business without involvement with seventeen/eighteen-year-olds and so it is an extreme rarity for a seventeen-year-old to be dealt with as a wayward minor.

The law provides that if you are sixteen or under, you must live in your own home, a relative's home or a licensed boarding home. The seventeen-year-old can actually live where he chooses, but if it is not at home, all sorts of other problems arise. Some people will debate this point, but just try and have the seventeen-year-old placed in the Juvenile Home for home truancy and see how quick the youngster is released. When a seventeen-year-old does leave home, he often gets pressure economically, academically and socially.

Very few seventeen-year-olds can support themselves financially. Living with another family is usually the choice and this can be either good or bad depending on the family.

Schools will sometimes tell the seventeen-year-old student he cannot attend unless he lives at home which is very likely legally improper. The school's intentions are usually good but it is probably best to leave the residence problem to the individual and try to get the student involved with a counselor or social worker.

In contrast to the above situations, a seventeen-year-old finds he needs his parent's permission to join the armed services, to purchase on credit — which makes parents liable, or to receive medical care. He is also bound by the child labor laws, which specifically regulate working hours and conditions.

The seventeen-year-old can purchase alcohol or drugs at about anytime and can easily gain admittance to any rated movie. Yet medical or psychological care is difficult to obtain without parental permission. Special laws have been passed to provide for care to minors in the areas of VD, drug addition and child abuse without parental permission.

Information is often not available regarding birth control, problem pregnancies, VD or other physical problems. The role of the school is often unclear and it seems that the general school staff cannot discuss subjects related to the sexuality of students under seventeen without parental permission. The special staff (counselors, social workers and psychologists) can deal with any subject presented by a student seventeen or over. They can deal with any student problem on a crisis basis.

There are several other situations confronting seventeen-year-olds and their parents that cannot be dealt with at another time. The implications here are that seventeen-year-olds are really adults and should be treated as such. The laws should not be used by the parents to control this age individual.

There are usually plenty of sound reasons for a seventeen-year-old to live at home and go by the home's rules so that coercion is not necessary. Starting early in life to plan with a child will usually lead to the ability to make rational decisions later. Parents need to be their child's advocate early in life and not kid themselves that anyone else will take this role.

School attendance

By William Dennis, Principal
Clarkston High School

The problem of poor student attendance to classes has become increasingly prevalent in all school districts. Clarkston is no exception to this problem. An even more perplexing problem is finding an effective solution. As little as five or six years ago, it was necessary to maintain only a minimal attendance system for the majority of students in secondary schools. During the past five years, however, student absences have increased at an alarming rate and to-date efforts to bolster the mechanics of the attendance system have proved expensive and futile.

Our past attendance policy required parents either to call the school on the day of absence or to write a note excusing the absence on the day the student returned to classes. This procedure placed the school in the role of deciding the validity of the phone call or note. The number of cases of falsified phone calls and forged notes became so prevalent it was not possible to effectively use this method and actually allowed many students to skip school undetected.

From these experiences, it became evident that the problems relating to poor attendance were complex and severe enough to require a completely new approach to the attendance policy.

In an attempt to devise a new procedure it was determined that the school wanted to accomplish two things. 1) Remove the necessity to determine the validity of the absence and 2) maintain communication with the home in an attempt to inform the parents of student absences.

The teachers were asked to make a referral to the attendance office after the fifth absence in any given class. The attendance secretary would in turn contact the home by phone or mail relating this information.

At the beginning of the second semester, January 29, two changes were made in this procedure.

The limit of five absences was changed and instead when the teacher felt there was a problem in the student's attendance pattern he would make a referral. This could be after two, four or more, but no distinct number was made.

The second change was to encourage all staff members to make personal contact with parents concerning attendance, academic progress, attitude, etc. This has proven to be very successful for those who have used it. Finally, the number of absences are reported on the grade report card each marking period. By comparing the number of absences in each class one can easily see the pattern and identify problem areas.

It is my feeling that the most effective method of achieving the desired results in improving student attendance to classes is through adequate communication between the home and the school.

It will be, I'm sure, through the combined efforts of the parents, teachers, school administrators, students and courts that a significant positive change will be realized. The school sincerely encourages all contacts regarding problems or concerns.

(Stolen from the Escanaba Daily Press)

Hal Boyle, an Associated Press writer, often serves up a selection of remarks a bachelor (or a spinster or a fat man or a cabdriver) gets tired of hearing. The Escanaba Daily Press, however, observed that "so far as we know, he has not yet put together a column on remarks an editor or reporter gets tired of hearing. If he did, the entries would probably include these threadbare phrases:

"Please put it on the front page."

"Use the story just as I have written it. The club wants it that way for the scrap book."

"You're invited to our annual dinner tonight. There will be plenty free to eat and drink. And, oh, yes, please bring your camera."

"How come it wasn't in the paper? It was? Well, I didn't see it. Will you please go through the back copies and tear it out for me?"

"I just stopped by to talk a few minutes, but if you're busy..."

"We voted to make you our club publicity chairman."

"I know you have a deadline, but couldn't you just squeeze this little item in?"

"My husband has never been in trouble before, so I don't think his name should appear in the paper for drunk driving and hitting that nasty policeman. Besides, he only had a couple of beers. And there are the children to think about."

"My uncle's brother is one of your biggest advertisers, and I was wondering if..."

"You ran the disaster picture, but you didn't run my first wedding anniversary picture."

"How come you don't print poems by local residents?" (We do.)

"If there wasn't any room for the other picture, why couldn't they run it on another page?"

"If the Chicago Tribune printed it, why can't The Daily Press print it?"

"I know this is a public meeting, but I would like to talk off the record."

Getting red eyes

Cry along with the clown . . . It was a TV commercial, for gosh sakes. For Polaroid cameras. It gave me what my kids call "red eyes." That means Dad is not actually sobbing behind his newspaper, but his control is shaky and better not jiggle him.

The Polaroid pitch shows an old man being visited by his son and grandchildren. Or more likely it's his grandson and great grandchildren. This guy is really old. It appears he lives in some sort of a "home" in the country with other old men. He doesn't get many visitors.

One of those Johnny Cash (pre-Standard Oil) voices is singing mournfully in the background. He sings about how the old guy used to think he could "hold time still in his hands," something like the All-State man. But suddenly time passed him by, whoosh, and here he is in the December of his years with no earthly plans for New Year's Eve.

But Old Gramps has a Polaroid camera. When the relatives come calling, he snaps like crazy. If they never come back, he will have their pictures to remember them by.

Not only that, but Old Gramps can also show the photos to his fellow residents at the home and brag a little. That's what he does in the commercial. His photos, in color, are perfect. You can count the freckles on the noses.

Which is enough to make me cry right there. I've had a Polaroid for several years and I never get pictures like that. I'm lucky if I can count the noses on the faces. What does the old man know that I don't?

But it really wasn't my camera disability that made my eyes red. It's simply that I'm a sucker for the problems of old people and I'm often ashamed of how younger people treat them. As you grow old, you do not automatically grow less human and less sensitive. I mean, old people care too. Like the old guy with the Polaroid. Or like this:

My wife's 86-year-old aunt dropped dead the other day. A widow, she shared her home with her 82-year-old brother. When he got up one morning, he couldn't find her. She wasn't at her usual post in the kitchen, fixing his breakfast. She wasn't in the living room or in the bathroom. Fearing the worse — she'd recently suffered a severe heart attack — he checked her bedroom.

She was dead on the floor beside the bed. In death, her face was cruelly distorted. The sight made her brother physically ill. He later told us what he did.

With tender fingers, he changed the expression on her face until she looked at peace. Then he put a pillow under his big sister's lifeless head. Then he made the necessary phone calls.

That night, the 82-year-old man went home with his son. He said he could never sleep in his sister's house again.

Cry along with the clown . . .

Letters to the Editor

They like our pictures

They give and give

Dear Jean:

Recently I had an enlightening experience in regard to our local merchants, and frankly, I'm appalled at something that I feel may not be evident to many of the residents of Clarkston. I had a talk with SEVERAL of the proprietors of our fine downtown stores about a donation to a local organization and, though, THEY ALL AGREED TO MY PROPOSITION, I did not accept any of their donations!

By way of questions and conversation, I found that these good hearted people are donating sums up to (and in some cases over) $100 per month EACH to such local causes as bowling leagues, the policeman's ball, sheriff's ball, every play, every band concert, school functions and yearbooks, the local "posse", and about ten to twelve different churches for various and sundry functions. I must say that they were unanimous in the thought that true charity functions were donations that they enjoyed giving—but all these other things? I wonder if the people who are asking for these donations would give $1,200.00 a year to everyone that came along looking for prizes for a bazaar, bridge party, bowling league—or even a sail club? I wouldn't, not $1,200.00 a year!

My point is this, let's support our local merchants MORE and ask them for less... except in the case of true charity! Go and ask Penny's or Sear's, or Montgomery Ward, or any of the other BIG ONES. Or better yet, take your prizes out of your organization's earnings. It might be very interesting to run a profit and loss statement on some of our local organizations, that's what the guys downtown have to do. I think that they are overburdened with gift giving.

Sincerely yours,
Brooke Bennett

Dear Jean,

I want to tell you how great the pictures were that you published this week of the Clarkston Nursery School.

As publicity chairman, I got calls as to how terrific it was, but had to explain that it was not of my doing.

It was just a beautiful layout. Thank you also, for all of my articles which you have published. I was so pleased I couldn't wait to tell you!

Sincerely,
Sally Halsey

Dear Folks at Clarkston News,

My husband and I really enjoy your paper. The kids look through each issue, too, for pictures of others they recognize.

"If it Fitz" is really hilarious when he writes about teens (and weren't we all once). Marilyn Lawrence is also one to make me laugh right out loud because it sure hits home.

Thanks for the enjoyable News.

Adoption vs. abortion

Dear Mrs. Saile:

The abortion question has divided sincere persons of many faiths, but discussion surrounding the Clarkston series on Human Sexuality has uncovered an agreed upon area of need.

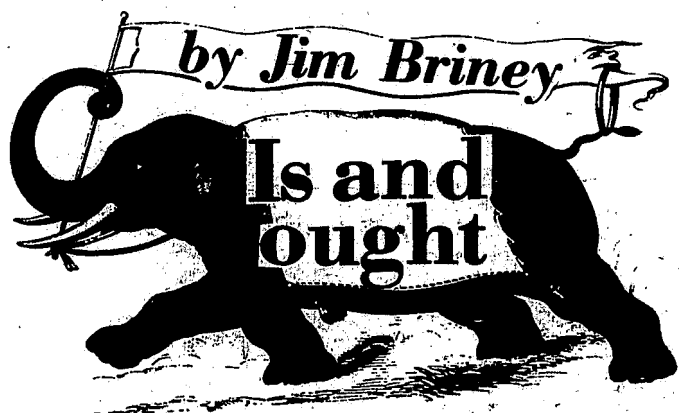

Unwanted pregnancies before marriage too often end in abortion or (and often far more tragically) the child being kept either by inept and unprepared couples who marry too soon or single mothers even less well equipped. Many resulting children are "murdered" cruelly by battering, deprivation and insecurity.

A fact largely missed in the abortion controversy is the immorality of unprepared parents' keeping children irresponsibly conceived. And this immorality is often fostered by supposedly well meaning families and friends. The result is that everyone loses, especially the children.

Those on both sides of the abortion issue can join in urging the adoption of such children and support women in this situation emotionally, physically and spiritually to choose this alternative. "Adoption, not abortion" is an empty cry until we put our support behind adoption as a realistic alternative. The sad fact is that these days it is chosen far too seldom.

Sincerely,
Robert D. Walters

"White racism is the problem and guns are the solution." Those were the words of Ken Cockeral who startled his middle class University of Detroit audience in 1968.

Cockeral, a black militant, impressively articulate ATTORNEY has been an energetic leader in Detroit for several years.

His 18 hour days are paced at a hundred miles an hour. He is a driven man who announced his candidacy for Mayor of Detroit in the last Mayoral election, (Newsweek), only to withdraw in favor of Richard Austin.

Ken knew he didn't have a chance then, and must have figured Austin as a symbol of black pride would be better than nothing. Austin lost narrowly to Roman Gribbs whom Cockeral considers worse than nothing.

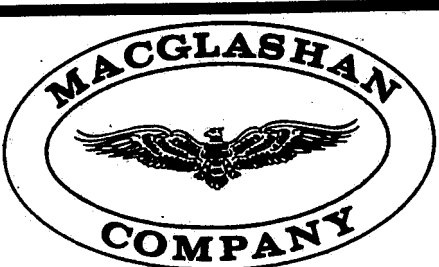

Things are different now. Gribbs has announced he will not seek reelection and my sources tell me Cockeral has considerable and solid support.

A key factor determining whether he will run for Mayor this time is the upcoming Supreme Court ruling on a state constitutional provision that prohibits Senator Coleman Young from seeking the Mayor's job while serving in the legislature.

Young is a man of reputation and long standing in the black community. In many ways he has been a cutting edge for the steam roller movement coming to fruition among blacks as evidenced by the Cockeral following.

Ironical as it is unenviable, Young is in the position of Hubert Humphrey of 1972. The things he had talked about and done for twenty years just weren't current enough to satisfy the demand for more power and a bigger voice.

We shall see what Cockeral and his followers do soon enough. In any event it's a safe bet that Ken Cockeral has come of age and is a most fervent voice to be reckoned with.

The independent view

by Jean Saile

We all breathed a big sigh of relief Wednesday as our 64-page Progress Edition came off the presses. It was a big job, requiring all our efforts for the past three weeks while continuing to put out the regular weekly editions.

We had mistakes. They're probably unavoidable, but it still makes us cringe when it happens.

Two cutlines somehow wound up with the names distorted. It's Jack Beach who is the assistant fire chief, not Jack Bench; and it's Jerry Cattin who is a School Board member, not Tom Cattin.

In the final effort, reports of Tuesday night's governmental meetings shipped to Oxford for final inclusion in the paper wound up with the wrong headlines; and there was some misinformation.

The Oakland County Health Department has not threatened to close all of Pine Knob Resort—just the food establishments on the premises—unless action is taken to clear up septic problems in conjunction with the resort's lagoon system.

Ken Winship's home phone number got put on his ad for Photography by Winship. To reach him at work, call 625-2825.

And there were typos.

But we have already received a great deal of favorable comment on the issue, and overall we're proud of the giant undertaking it represented.

Pam Lay of the Village Sewing Basket does not teach the sewing courses offered by the store. The Lays have professionals to do that. We see Pam sitting at the sewing machine so often, we just assumed last week that she was the instructor.

Jim Stiles can't make up his mind which side of the street he wants to work on. Clarkston Shoe Service is moving — for the fourth time — into the recently vacated Auten Furniture Store at 27 South Main. The big move takes place this weekend and the store will be closed Monday and Tuesday

SPORTS
Go-Round

by Jerry Savoie

In the game of ice hockey, icing the puck is the technique of shooting the puck forward. The puck is shot from defensive territory into attacking territory. This is usually done when the team is shorthanded. The intention of the rule is to forbid defensive stalling by a team that is not shorthanded. However, the rule is not intended to penalize a bona fide offensive attempt which involves sending the puck far up the ice. The penalty for illegal icing is a faceoff in the defensive zone.

If you intend to paint your house this spring, consider instead carefree aluminum siding from SAVOIE INSULATION CO., 64 S. Main St., 625-2601. It's available in a variety of colors and can be installed by our own experts, or you can get do-it-yourself advice from Dick Dixon. Call for a free estimate. Hours: 8 - 5:30, Mon. - Fri.

HELPFUL HINT: Try to have children pick up toys as a matter of habit since having toys around can be really dangerous.

while things get straightened around. Jim started out on the east side of the street, moved once into the building now occupied by King's Insurance, back across to the present location, and now he's moving west again.

Mrs. Lucille Parrott of Waterford Township tells a heartwarming tale of help offered in a time of trouble during the St. Patrick's Day storm Saturday.

First she tells of interrupting a party line conversation to get help for a heart attack victim on Rattalee Lake Road.

Roy Hatcher and Ron Weaver were the two men talking and they would up giving her transportation and help when she needed it. Stan Rader rounded up snowmobilers, who helped get an ambulance attendant and equipment to the scene.

Fleet Ambulance attendants Tom Gahan and Ron Jones made their way through the storm by snowmobile. Later a specially detailed Road Commission plow opened the road. Two Detroit Edison men, Bruce Searight and Mike Darby, responded to the calls for help, one applying artificial respiration.

Other help came from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the Springfield Township Fire Department and three members of the Holly Volunteers Ambulance.

It wound up with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seaman giving her lodging for four days until she could get home again.

Mrs. Parrott is most grateful, to the extent she has taken out a long thank you ad in this week's paper.

It's nice to hear good stories, and this appears to be one of the best.

We're at $4.36 in pennies and the tree continues to grow. The contributions keep flowing, and it's going to be nice to plant a "penny tree" in the new township park. Plans are reported going well for the purchase of acreage on Clarkston-Orion Road at the bend north of I-75.

Sen. Harvey Lodge and his wife, Rhea, have been getting their names in the papers for a San Francisco trip last fall. High hotel bills are quoted. It is conceivable that such stories might have gone unreported prior to the big Senate fuss about enclosing reporters in cages on the Senate floor. Whatever your feeling about the rightness or wrongness of Lodge's actions, it appears that reporters are now digging deep for "all of the news."

Ailing with a cold Monday, I was treated to a telephone preview of a concert Cranbrook soprano soloist Mary Westcott will sing with Ivan Rouse's accompaniment April 7 at the Hitchcock home on Main Street.

"Id didn't cure by code," but it sure made me feel better, and Ivan relays that several such mini-concerts have been performed via telephone for shut-ins in recent days.

It's a nice idea.

State asked for help in Springfield

By Jean Saile

State Treasurer Allison Green has been asked for help in clearing up a delinquent tax mix-up in Springfield Township.

Supervisor Claude Trim says and Oakland County Treasurer officials confirm there have been several instances where people who have paid property taxes have had notice the land involved is up for tax sale.

Improper accounting methods appear to be the reason, local and county officials state. They deny any evidence of willful wrong-doing on the part of the township treasurer, as does the township auditing firm of Basar and Parish, Rochester.

One such instance, however, cost the township $638.11 this year when it had to buy back the land of Edith R. Hamilton after she produced a signed receipt showing she had paid the 1969 tax bill of $471.59. The error cost the township $166.52 in interest and penalties plus some embarrassment.

County officials affirm that Springfield Township has had similar problems in past years, however most of the time the errors are caught before the land is sold.

A property owner can be delinquent for three years in the payment of taxes, and then the property is listed for sale at the county's annual spring tax sale. Even if the land is sold at that time, the original owner has a year in which to reclaim it by paying the back taxes, interest and penalties due.

Robert Basar, a partner in the township auditing firm, says it wasn't until 1971 that the state finalized its accounting requirements and procedures for Michigan municipalities.

He contends that no further errors can happen under the revised system. His firm took over Springfield accounts in 1969. Prior to that time, he said, the township had no auditors.

He stated his belief that all township funds including those which Trim says Treasurer Margaret Samuel had in a year round open account and on which she could write checks without an order, had been accounted for.

"Funds from the taxes paid but not recorded were kept on the rolls under 'excess of roll' — a fund which governmental units are allowed to round out tax collections," Basar said, "providing it doesn't exceed more than 1% of the roll."

Miss Samuel told The Clarkston News mistakes could happen, but she denied any great number of them having occurred in Springfield Township.

Trim seems to feel the quantity is sufficient to warrant a state investigation. He told Green he became aware of the problem shortly after taking office in 1970 and brought it to the attention of the township board.

After conferring with the auditors, he said, he had decided to close Miss Samuel's year round account and have all deposits made to the township general fund. Such action, taken in 1972, has meant that the treasurer write an order for each check she now writes, he said.

Trim told Green, "In 1972 the Township of Springfield paid approximately $1,935 not including penalties to the county for taxes which appeared on the delinquent tax roll." He said in each instance the owners had produced canceled checks or paid tax receipts.

"The 1970 tax sale is upon us and I have received over $1,342 in bills that the township will have to pay," he continued. The sum includes, he said, the Hamilton property account in which $638.11 has been paid.

He has asked Green, "Maybe I am overly concerned, but I feel the areas listed below must be cleared up."

"How many and to whom did the treasurer write checks out of this account before she had to have an order?"

"What has happened to the money she received from the people who received unpaid tax notices? (I personally believe it was placed on wrong property but I have no way of proving it.)"

"How much longer will this procedure continue and how do we know our actual general fund total?"

"The township has spent $1700 last year on auditing fees and we still don't have any answers."

"The people have become very upset and feel I have the power to do something about it, but as you know the supervisor is not over the treasurer."

"Mr. (Larry) Brill paid 1970 taxes on Lot No. 3, Pleasant Knolls by money order that was dated January 17, 1971. The money order was not cashed until March 30, 1971. This is after the treasurer settled up with the county. The taxes are now delinquent and nothing shows on the monthly report for the township's regular meeting."

Trim has the support of such township residents as Skip Weber who resides on his father's 200-acre farm in Springfield and who was notified of $831.38 due for 1970 tax bills. His father, Harold Weber, now living in California, was able to produce a cancelled check, he said.

"What if he'd paid by cash and lost the receipt?" the younger Weber asked. Another ten cases have come to the township's notice involving 1969 and 1970 tax bills.

Owners in each case were able to present paid receipts, Trim said.

"Racket Club" plans approved

Independence Township Planning Commission approved the site plan for Forrest Milzow's "Racket Club" on Deer Lake Road Thursday night with the condition an earth berm be established on White Lake Road to shield the parking lot from passing motorists.

Chris Nicholas failed to get approval for an addition to the Tally-Ho Bar until he reduces the size of his business sign in conformance with township ordinances. He is also being required to pave the parking area and improve the interior and exterior of the bar.

Jack Andrews, developer of 80 acres in the Morgan Lake area, was given approval for a 144-lot subdivision with cluster design.

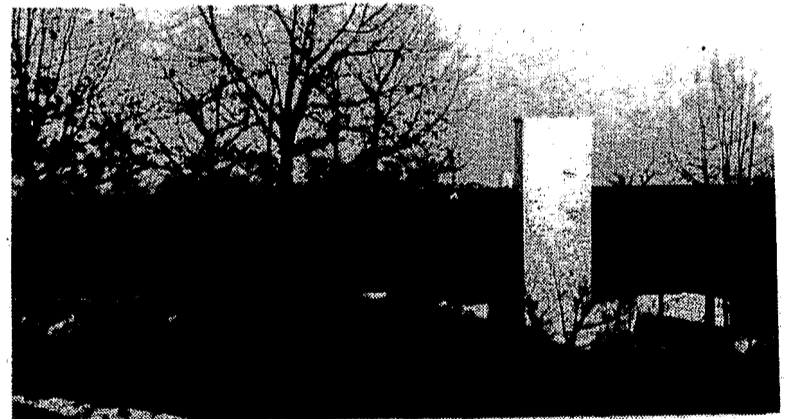

A green belt adjacent to the residential property west of the site is to be maintained.

Lots are expected to sell for $8,000 to $9,000. Andrews promised strict subdivision control on development.

Four indoor tennis courts are planned by Milzow at the location.

Linseed oil is a must for finishing many pieces of fine furniture and woodworking. It is resistant to all sorts of usage. It becomes more beautiful as the pieces are rubbed and cared for. On raw wood, simply allow linseed oil to soak in; then wipe the surplus off and rub the piece well. This is repeated at intervals until no more oil will soak into the wood. Then all the piece needs is frequent rubbing to make the finish glow.

We won't take a back seat to anybody.

Not when it comes to selling cars. Or trucks. Or recreational vehicles.

Let's start right off with car prices. Lots of "big city" dealers make claims about lower prices and higher trade-ins. There's no bigger myth than the volume dealer saying he deals lower because he sells more cars.

Know why?

Every Chevrolet dealer pays the same prices for Chevy cars and trucks. He can sell a thousand of 'em a day but he still has to make a profit. And that profit margin, believe you us, is just the same for the big guy as it is the smaller dealer. So watch it when you get the low, low price pitch.

Something else you ought to know. We're in the front seat when it comes to higher re-sale values. It's a matter of record we do better in this department up here in Northern Oakland County than in Metro Detroit. People just keep their cars in better shape around here. Score a big one for you.

Another thing. We're closer to you for service and warranty needs. No 80-mile round trips. Just down the street a piece where we're committed to make your service visit easier, friendlier, and more satisfactory.

See what we mean about not taking a back seat to anybody?

39 and holding...

by Marilyn Lawrence

By the time you read this, it will be all over. I will be 40. Every girl of twenty-one thinks she has a permanent lease on youth, and smugly goes along believing that everyone ELSE is going to age, but not her ... er, me.

I looked in the mirror this morning, and the bloom is definitely off the rose ... there they were, crow's feet, chin sag, widow's hump, Cooper's Droop, and MacBurney's complaint. I betcha they wouldn't even let me in the Playboy Club for dinner!

When did that rosy cheek start becoming a wattle, the laugh lines go permanent, the back of the legs get waffled? When did my hips begin to look like I was concealing saddlebags?

While other girls were keeping their beauty shop appointments, I was mixing cement for a fireplace. While they were exercising with Jack LaLanne, bike riding and counting calories, I was dozing on the beach, reading a thousand books, fixing gooey desserts, and drinking wine with dinner. While they were creaming their faces and doing their nails I was chasing after downed planes in fatigues and army boots with the CAP. When they had carrot strips and cottage cheese for lunch, I warmed over last night's lasagna ... Even now, when I see what I've become, I sit here eating a ham and cheese on rye (heavy on the mayo)!

It probably began, (the deterioration, I mean) the day I gave birth to my last child, Old Whatsername, in 1965. My hospital roommate was a Bloomfield Hills matron, an executive's third wife, who was totally dedicated to The Body Beautiful. She exercised, massaged, oiled and stretched every working part four times a day, refused all solid food except raw vegetables, and gave lectures on "What alcohol does to the Face," while I ate her desserts. I stubbornly napped while she spent two hours getting ready for visiting hours. First would come the Oil of Olay, then foundation, eye liner, eye shadow, false eyelashes, followed up by the arrangement of a four-foot switch of air, (which she hung on the bedpost and carried a lot). Finally, with the perfume and a fifty dollar bedjacket, she was ready to face the world, a beautiful thing. Once hubby was gone, off would go everything and the Bedtime Ritual would begin, chin strap, oil, eye pads and "creaming gloves." She would lay rigid the whole night, trying not to wrinkle or slip off the bed, and, like an ass, I would nibble chocolates and read for half the night, blissfully uncaring. Today that girl is Ali McGraw and I am whistler's Mother!

On my fortieth birthday I plan to lock myself in a closet, pick lint off a sweater, and have a good cry. Then I will go on a water diet, take the pledge, exercise for an hour every day. I shall have my hair done and buy Oil of Olay, (if it isn't already too late).

That will last for exactly three days, when Gerry will tell me to knock it off and face up to it like a big girl. He's probably right. They say, at forty you get the face you deserve, and I've had such a great time earning this one!

Or, as the poet says,
"I burn my candle at both ends,
It will not last the night,
But ah, my foes, and ah, my friends,
It gives such a lovely light!"

Service/price

With health costs going up, it's nice to know that drug prices are staying pretty stable. But you can help yourself even more by following these suggestions:

- Budget the cost of your health as one of your "living expenses," the same as you do for food. This will cut down on the number of "medical crises."

- Don't buy non-prescription drugs in large quantities unless they are really needed. A bottle of 1,000 aspirins may seem to offer economy, but aspirin deteriorates in time, as do many other medicines.

- On the other hand, if you have a chronic illness that requires using a prescription drug over a long period, your doctor may prescribe in quantities large enough to provide some savings.

- The price you pay for prescription drugs includes not only the cost of the product, but also the professional services and training of your pharmacist. These just can't be cut-rate.

- Price should not be your only consideration. A medicine that is not available, or that is of inferior quality and does not do what it is supposed to do, is no bargain at any price.

- If you should ever move to a new community, choose the drug store you will use before you need the pharmacist's professional services. The druggist who knows you and your "pharmaceutical history" is in a good position to help you and your doctor when the need arises, and to advise you about non-prescription drugs from day to day.

Living's a breeze in this home

by Betty Hecker

Artley and Congolia Snowwhite bought a conventional subdivision house a few years ago on Family Way near Clarkston.

The things they've managed to do with it while raising a family and breeding dogs have necessitated the use of fictional names all the way around.

Like Congolia says, "Isn't it amazing how a little imagination can make a distinctive, personalized atmosphere?"

Take the hassock in the living room. They rubbed Tabasco sauce on it to keep the dogs from chewing it, and discovered their dogs just love Tabasco.

Right now they say they're waiting for the semi-annual appearance of the Kirby vacuum cleaner salesman, and in preparation for his clean-up demonstration they've started redecorating a daughter's bedroom.

"That's her mattress in the hall and her bedsprings in the kitchen," Congolia points out.

A lost sock, a pair of Army field boots, used newspapers and dog hair contribute to the living room decor.

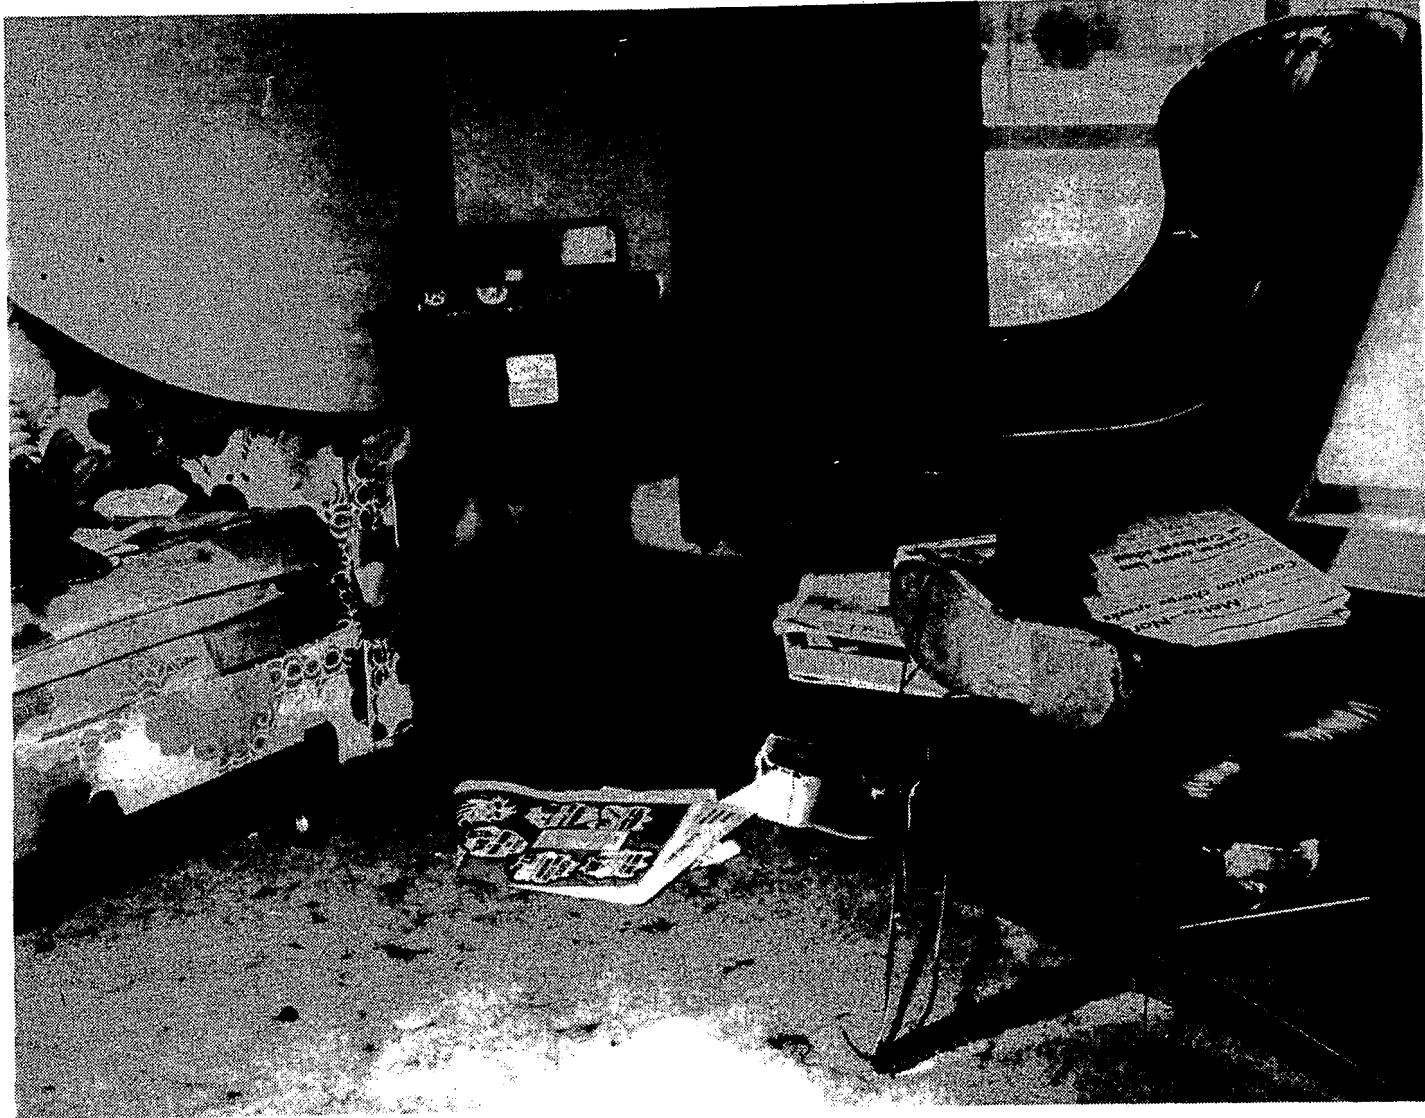

The trim bathroom, also ready for redecoration, features a half-slip, a girdle, a pair of hose and panty hose drying atop the shower curtain.

The kitchen, dominated by a pile of drying dishes and a sinkful of dirty ones, has a missing light panel.

"That's where a wine cork went through. The kids tried to patch it with grape jelly, which sticks better than baby food, but it melts every time I make pasta," Congolia smiled.

Relating she's a great cook, the relaxed housewife looks forward to summer. "I cook lots of health foods, and I can't wait for the dandelion season. We have the best crop in the whole subdivision," she stated.

In the bedroom, the easy-to-keep theme of the house is carried out even to the sheets. "These are just great,"

Homes were meant for living, the Snowwhites think.

Congolia offers. "They were white when we bought them, but my husband thinks they're beige and black print."

Shell pest strips add a novel note throughout the home. Congolia confides she's allergic to flea bites, and they do have dogs.

As you may have gathered, they also have a sense of humor, and since April Fool's Day comes Sunday and the lovely and immaculate homes we feature weekly are not the way most of us live all the time, it's a pleasure to present "the other half."

Annual treasure hunt April 7

Janet Thomas and Linda Lamphere who with Connie Morgan, chairman, are planning the April 7 Clarkston Community Women's Club Treasure Hunt snicker over an unlikely place on the map. It's they who will be sending hunters out on a string of clues designed to get them to the ultimate destination for dinner that night.

Long lines of obviously lost cars in the area can be expected the night of April 7 as Clarkston Community Women's Club once again hosts its annual Treasure Hunt.

Beginning at 8 p.m. in the Village Parking Lot, participants will be handed the clues to lead them on a far-flung chase.

Cost of $8 per couple includes a buffet supper to be served at 11:15 p.m., dancing, cash prizes for the first three cars and many door prizes donated by local merchants.

Participants are warned to bring paper, pencils, flashlights, an Oakland County Road Map and a Pontiac Area Telephone Book.

Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Michael Morgan, 5447 Guyette, Clarkston, at 623-0460.

Storm aftermath

Springing up
by Betty Hecker

"What a mess! It was just awful!" said Betty Hallman, telling about their flight home, after two "beautiful weeks in Florida" last St. Patrick's Day.

Betty and Keith Hallman, 6024 Overlook, and Jim and Margaret Vollbach, 6371 Simler, were to depart the Miami Airport at 1:45 on a huge 747 jet.

Betty said, "I'm a white-knuckle flier, anyway, and when the pilot revved up the engines, there was a terrific explosion. Keith said he saw flames leaping out of the engine. The pilot slammed on the brakes and skidded to a stop. Then he fired up and we started moving again, and there was another explosion. The pilot spoke to us, saying there would be a delay while the ground crew checked the plane."

"In the meantime, our son Mark left home, in all that storm, to go to Metro Airport to meet us at 4 p.m. After waiting until after 4:30, he was told the flight had been canceled. He went back home."

"In Miami, we were served lunch on board the plane at 5 p.m., after which was a long time after our 8 a.m. breakfast. After we had eaten, we were transferred to another plane, and at 6, we were served dinner."

"We arrived in Detroit at 9:30., and there was no one to meet us. Keith called home and our son, Dan, came to pick us up. You know mothers, my stomach got so upset. Dan did a wonderful job driving. It took an hour just to get out of the Metro Airport parking lot. Cars were stuck everywhere. We almost made it all the way home but got hopelessly stuck in a huge drift at Phelan Drive and Dixie. We walked on to the Vollbach's, me in my high heels and light raincoat and no hat."

"They had other house guests, for their sons had friends in who were stranded."

"It was quite an ending to a wonderful vacation!"

Elaine and Dave Haddon are the proud parents of a baby boy. Michael David Haddon was born at 5 a.m. March 22, weighing a hefty 8 pounds, 3 ounces.

Michael is the first grandson for Mr. and Mrs. Winstow Haddon of Waterford Township, and the fifth grandson for Elaine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harris of Clarkston.

Jeffrey Hawke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle G. Hawke of 5646 Hummingbird, was admitted to Phi Eta Sigma freshman honor society at Kalamazoo College. He was one of 29 men earning membership through a 3.5 or better grade point average.

Miss Bailey's third grade class at Andersonville School surprised her on Monday, with a "Happy Birthday Party." With the help of the school principal, Mrs. Mousseau, the children decorated the room with crepe paper and balloons. Cake and punch were served by several mothers.

The children chipped in to buy Miss Bailey an "Owl" to go in her collection. How old are you, Miss Bailey?

Charles Fletcher is home from his recent trip to Poland and Russia. Chuck and 12 other Southeastern Michigan manufacturers, sponsored by the Michigan Department of Commerce and the U. S. Department of Commerce, formed a trade commission to travel to Warsaw, Poland, and Moscow, Russia, for three weeks of what Chuck described as "very successful, businesswise."

"The food in Poland was excellent! The Polish people are much more western than the Russians, and much friendlier. The Russians were quite reserved; the Russian food left much to be desired."

"The Polish engineers were very informed, much more than the engineers in Moscow. Moscow Circus was superb! And the Russian Art Museum was worthwhile seeing. We all enjoyed seeing the restoration of Warsaw, and knowing how meticulously everything was restored, so that it was exactly like it was before the bombing in WW II."

"The weather was unusually mild there, just as it was here, with the temperatures in the high 30's and 40's."

"We all noticed the hotel laundry and dry cleaning services. They were excellent, better than any you would receive here."

"The shops and stores for the citizens were badly understocked, but the shops for the tourists carried high quality merchandise at reasonable prices."

Chuck brought his wife, Jean, a crystal vase that she is very proud of and likes very much. Chuck said that there were great buys to be had in the Russian crystal and linen shops.

Yellow daffodils decorated the tables at the monthly Sunday evening get-together at Andersonville Community Church. This month the meeting featured a "farewell party" for Jim and Alice Halsey and their three children. Jim, who is the constable for Springfield Township, and his wife, Alice are moving to their farm in the Upper Peninsula.

Jim has been a member of Andersonville Church all his life. The minister presented Bibles to each of them in behalf of the church members, as a way of saying, "You will be greatly missed by the church and by the community."

Valerie Ganther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ganther, 5577 Hummingbird, Clarkston, is on tour with the Grace College Concert Choir. The 40-voice Choir is touring the states of Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Michigan.

Miss Ganther is a sophomore at Grace College, majoring in music.

Roland and Ellenjean Phelps and their children are home from a "marvelous weekend" in Ewart, Michigan. Ellenjean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Tiedt celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. Their children planned an open house for them, inviting over 200 guests. Ellenjean said, "It's funny to see how members of the family that you haven't seen for a while have aged. Boy, they sure look older than we do! We really had a fun weekend, looking at all the old pictures and seeing everyone!" The Phelps live on Crosby Lake Road in Springfield Township.

Joyce Adkins rode a snowmobile to work the Sunday of the big snow. Joyce is a nurse's aide at the infirmary at the Colombiere College, and surprised everyone when she arrived. After her truck had been stopped by a snow drift, her neighbor, Jim Patton came to the rescue, and won a convert for the snowmobile enthusiast club.

"I want one!", said Joyce. "Boy, it was fun, going over a twelve foot drift on Big Lake Road. I'm going to get one, too!"

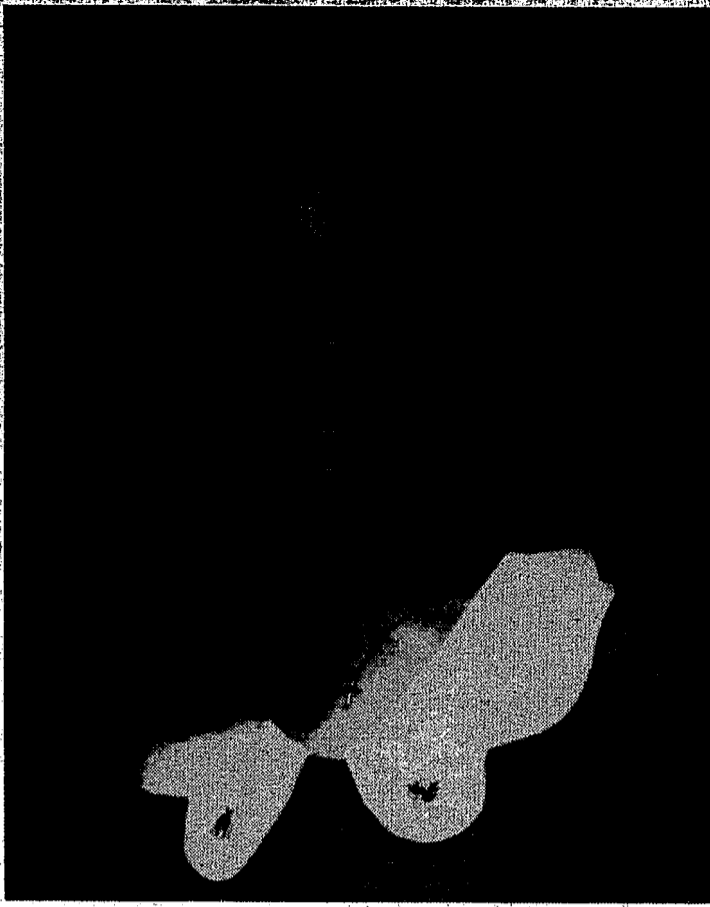

Mark Edward Cowen, 6079 Middle Lake Road, has been named to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society at the University of Michigan.

"People helping people help themselves"

By Holly Stephens

The engagement of Terri Sue Barnett to Lawrence Currin has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barnett of Whipple Shores Drive. Lawrence, a student at the University of Michigan, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Currin of Warrington, Waterford.

"Psychology in Everyday Life"—a course designed to help people identify and deal with their problems, will be offered at independence center, 5331 Maybee Rd., Clarkston, starting Tuesday, April 10 at 7:30 p.m. The six week course will be directed by Dr. A. Crawford from North Oakland Community Mental Health Center.

The sessions will help people learn to handle the pressures of modern living. Dr. Crawford said, "We are in a time of rapid social change which means that more and more people are being subjected to more and more pressure. Under this increase in pressure people bend or break as evidenced by increases in drug abuse and divorce."

This program on applied psychology will assist adults to become aware of and consider psychological principles, to consider application of psychological insights to areas of expressed participant concern, to provide some support of participants who are ready to engage in problem solving activities.

Anyone interested in attending may call the center in advance or register the first night.

Immunization Clinic—The Oakland County Health Department will offer an immunization clinic at independence center Thursday, April 5 from 1 to 4 p.m. The shots are given to infants, preschoolers, and school age children. There is no charge for this service.

Center Needs—The center's Food Closet is in need of canned meat products, tuna, spam, etc., to help provide a nutritious meal to those with an emergency need.

There is a continuing need at the center for volunteer drivers. Transportation requests come from people who need to go to Pontiac General Hospital Out-Patient Clinic for some type of regular treatment, to the Social Services Building, or to the Health Department for dental care. This is a service anyone can provide by calling the center and asking to have your name placed on the list of volunteer drivers. It is a very rewarding experience to spend some time each week helping someone else.

IHS OR IRS?

What do these initials stand for? Well, the first represent the first three Greek letters of the name of our Lord, Jesus, and for centuries have been used as a symbol for His name on crosses, altars, banners, etc. IRS, especially pertinent at this time of the year when most of us are struggling with out income tax forms, are the initials of the Internal Revenue Service. Okay but so what? Why link them? What do they have in common? Nothing, actually, except they both confront us to face them truthfully. They both make legitimate demands upon us—not conflicting demands but very serious ones. And, if you will recall, our Lord said that they both should be met: "Render, therefore, unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's."

However, the thought which came to my mind and which prompted my connecting these two sets of initials is, "Which one is most denied the tribute which is properly owed them?" I would think that out of sheer numbers alone, since everyone is not necessarily subject to income tax but certainly is to God, that the answer would be, "Jesus Christ." However, regarding the lies, subterfuges, loopholes, intentional oversights, legal technicalities or whatever people may resort to in order to escape paying what they justly owe, let them not forget that, although they possibly might be able to get past the scrutiny of the Internal Revenue Service, they cannot hoodwink God in Christ nor escape His judgment. And, how many people, although scrupulously honest in paying their taxes, find all manner of excuses for evading their duty to God? To them and to everyone else I would pass on this warning that St. Paul gave to the Galatians, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that also shall he reap."

Home Gardening

(Editor's note: Dave Coulter of 6207 Delhi, Clarkston, in the garden seed business for 38 years, has volunteered to write a home gardening column for The Clarkston News. Married with four children, only one of which is still home, Coulter has lived in the Clarkston area for 18 years. He's always had a garden.)

Large, juicy homegrown tomatoes, fresh crisp lettuce and succulent sweet corn can be available to Independence Township homeowners this summer with a little investment of time and cash.

Home gardening is a hobby that pays well in these days of increasing food prices, and it can bring to the table vegetables and fruit of a quality unavailable in the supermarket.

After the end of World War II's victory gardens, there has been a continuing decline in home gardening. Better, more rapid, and until recently, cheap truck transportation, improved cultural practices by commercial growers, varieties designed by plant breeders to serve the commercial growers' needs and improved packaging have given the homemaker an almost constant availability of fresh and processed vegetables.

As home gardening has declined, homeowners have become fascinated with ornamental gardening and lawn care. Suburban homesites are much larger than village or city lots and while lots are larger, landscaping of these lots, locations of septic tank drainfields, driveways and so forth generally have not included vegetable gardening spaces.

Thousands of homeowners have found that generally home grown tomatoes are of higher quality than commercially produced tomatoes so they have found room on their lots for a few tomato plants, perhaps some peppers and some trellis cucumbers on their fences. They take as much pride in these as in a beautiful rose or a crabgrass-free lawn.

But here we are in 1973 when a multitude of factors have skyrocketed food costs. Certainly the single factor that has influenced these costs is unfavorable weather in almost all of the vegetable producing areas of the country.

Concurrently with the weather factor, transportation costs, unionization of farm labor, inclusion of farm labor into the Social Security and Workman's Compensation systems and the increased and increasing costs of all the multitude of items the commercial growers buy have to be passed on to the consumer.

The current high prices of fresh vegetables should decline as the year progresses and more localized production areas come into play.

If you do decide to grow a vegetable garden this year, believing and hoping that you can cut your food costs, your savings will be in direct proportion to your planning of the garden, the tools you already have and your acceptance of some blisters, broken fingernails, dirty hands and sweated brows.

You will meet frustrations and disappointments, but when you harvest those first vegetables they will taste better than those that you buy.

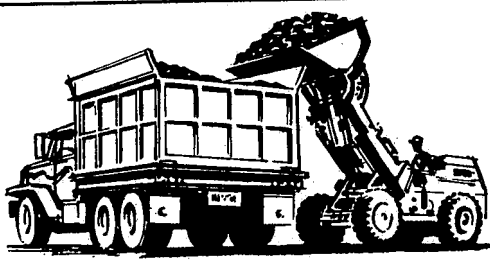

The director of vegetable research of one of the major garden seed firms often says, "A whole generation of Americans have grown up without knowing the good flavor of home grown vegetables because in our breeding work, we have designed vegetable varieties to withstand the rigors of mechanical harvesting, mechanical washing and packaging and to be shipped 2,000 miles without breaking down. Taste qualities have been sublimated."

In the following weeks I plan on presenting the following subjects for your help: Plan your garden, beans and peas, sweet corn, row crops, vine crops, tomatoes and finally to have a discussion clinic.

Cougars clinch Biddy title

The Sashabaw Cougars rolled by the Clarkston Colts, 20-14 last Saturday to end the season 7-0, and champions in the Independence Township Recreation Department Biddy Basketball League. Ron Feneley and Scott Himes led the attack with 8 points each. Rick Emerson was high man for the Colts with 8 points.

Tom Wendorf wrapped up the individual scoring championship with 14 points for the Andersonville Hawks as they defeated the Clarkston Killers 26-23. Gregg Dudler was next with 10 points. John Pappas had 15 points and Rick Schiebar 8 for the losers.

"Tall Tom" led the entire league with 68 points in 6 games for an 11.3 scoring average. He also holds the individual game scoring record of 18 points in the second game of the season. Hot-shot, John Pappas was second with 57 points, followed by Ron Feneley with 53, Scott Himes with 52 and Scott Waterbury with 51 points.

The Clarkston Steelers defeated the Pine Knob Panthers, 33-28, scoring highs for both teams. Scott Waterbury had 14 points and Tracy Hillman 6 for the Steelers. The Panthers were led by Paul Brown with 10 points, Roy Phillips and Terry Powell were next with 6 points each.

The Hool Brothers led the Sashabaw Eagles to a 22 to 18 victory over the Andersonville Warriors. Matt and Nick each had 8 points for the winners. Four Warriors hit 4 points each in a balanced attack. They were Kevin Williams, Den Leichtman, Matt Novosel and Tony Lasswell.

Bucks, Lakers share honors

Sixth grade basketball ended Saturday with both the Clarkston Bucks and Clarkston Lakers getting victories and thus sharing the championship with 5-1 records.

The Bucks beat the Pine Knob-Sashabaw Warriors by a score of 37-4. Jimmy Brittain played a strong floor game and came up with 18 points. Dave Brown also added 8 for the victors.

The Lakers dumped the Andersonville-Bailey Lake Celtics 33-9. Scott Curry and Greg Robertson led the Lakers with 10 and 9 points, respectively. Pete Saile also added 6. Jeff Williams led the Celts with 7.

Next Saturday the Clarkston Bucks and Clarkston Lakers will play two teams from Waterford at Sashabaw Junior High. All parents are invited to the noon game.

Top ten scorers:

1. Jim Brittain, Bucks, 84 points.
2. Greg Robertson, Lakers, 55 points.
3. Scott Curry, Lakers, 51 points.
4. Jim Walker, Lakers, 40.
5. Bill Kratt, Celtics, 36.
6. Scott Brumback, Bucks, 34.
7. Dave Brown, Bucks, 32.
8. Matt Jameson, Celtics, 28.
9. Matt Ballough, Celtics, 28.
10. Jim Willoughby, Lakers, 20.

Flyers go for league champ

Clarkston Flyers, having defeated the Detroit Javelins in the first game of the league play-offs by a score of 5-1, will face their final contest in the play-offs at 11 p.m. Saturday at Norshores Arena in St. Clair Shores.

Goal getters against the Javelins were Mark Johnson assisted by John Dickie, Tom Shingler assisted by John Schmit and Ron Livingston, Dan Friberg assisted by Dickie, Shingler assisted by Al Freiberg, Livingston and Mark Kushman.

Clarkston man coach of the year

Eldon Rouse, a former Clarkston resident, has been named Coach of the Year by the Detroit Free Press and the Michigan High School Coaches Association.

Now in his fourth season at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School, he posted an overall career record of 298 victories and 150 losses.

A basketball coach for 24 years, his selection for the honor was "overwhelming," according to reports.

A graduate of Clarkston High School and Michigan State University, Rouse and his wife, Val, and their five children live in Ann Arbor.

Card of Thanks

Thank you, from the bottom of my heart, all you kind people who answered my calls for help March 17 in regard to a heart attack victim on Rattalee Lake Road in Springfield Township.

I did not know you before, but I feel that I do now and I am most grateful such people as you work and live in our area.

Thanks to:

Stan Rader who rounded up snowmobilers.

Bruce Searight and Mike Darby, Detroit Edison linemen working in the area, who offered assistance.

Tom Gahan and Ron Jones of Fleet Ambulance Unit No. 1 which became stuck in the snow and who transported equipment to the house with the help of snowmobilers.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The Oakland County Road Commission.

Donna and Dan Gillespie and Dan Goodearl of the Holly Volunteers' Ambulance.

The Springfield Township Fire Department.

Roy Hatcher and Ron Weaver who gave me transportation on that bad day.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seaman who gave me lodging for four days until I could get home again.

(Mrs.) Lucille Parrott

WE WISH to express our sincere appreciation for the cards, flowers, memorials and expressions of sympathy extended to us during the loss of our loved one. A special thanks to our dear friends, Estelle and Marion Emery for all their help; Lew and Diane Wint for their kindness and understanding; Reverend Cozadd for his comforting words. Mrs. Jess R. Berg and family

Dan Fife a Twin

While a baseball game was going on between the Detroit Tigers and Phillies Tuesday afternoon in Lakeland, Florida, Dan Fife was traded to the Minnesota Twins. The Tigers got 36-year-old Jim Perry.

Tiger coach Hoot Evers informed Fife of the trade, however the News was unable to contact Dan or his parents for a personal reaction.

Tiger public relations man Hal Middlesworth said Dan packed and left for the Twin Camp in Orlando, Florida after told of the trade.

In Orlando, Twin public relations man Tom Mee, said Fife would be working out with the AA Twin farm team of Orlando. This team trains in Melbourne, Fla.

Orlando is in the Southern League, of which Mee said, "Fife can just as well jump to the majors from Orlando as from a Triple A team." Their AAA team is in Tacoma, Wash.

Mee told the News there was talk in the Twin camp in 1971 of Fife and that their farm people have been "extremely high" on him the last couple years.

He said the Twins are set with 5 starting pitchers now, but there was a likelihood that Fife could make it up in 1 or 2 years.

Fife was an All-America basketball player at Clarkston High School and starred in baseball and football as well. He went to the U of M where he played first string basketball for 3 years and was captain his senior year.

He was also a starting pitcher for the University. Last year he pitched for the Montgomery, Ala. Tiger farm team.

Johnson is clinic's grand champion

Todd Johnson shot, passed and dribbled his way to "Grand Champion" in the Independence Township Recreation Department Basketball clinic.

Todd's combined total score of 845 points in the six basketball fundamental contests put him in first of the 40, 1-3 grade students who attended the 8-week clinic. Todd is in 3rd grade at Clarkston Elementary.

Clarkston Elementary school produced all the grade winners as well; with little Brad Schoff leading the 1st graders with 585 points, and Joe Gambel leading the 2nd graders with 765 points.

Kevin Teague 3rd grade, Pine Knob, was runner-up with 840 points. Kevin made 8 out of 10 foul shots to win that category and scored on 9 of 13 shots in the 30-second shooting contest. He also scored highest in four other contests. Johnson did 40 wall jumps to Kevin's 21 to give him the five point edge in overall scoring.

Other high scorers in the clinic were: Dave Lewis, 2nd grade, Clarkston elementary, 715 points.

Steve Davidson, 2nd grade, Pine Knob, 700 points.

Dean Collison, 2nd grade, South Sashabaw, 634 points.

Adam Kline, 3rd grade, Baily Lake, 650 points.

Swim competition at Oakland University

More than 700 area youngsters between the ages of 8 and 17 will compete in the annual Friends of Oakland Swim Meet at Oakland University March 31 and April 1.

Competition in the Sports and Recreation Building will begin each day at 8 a.m. and continue until approximately 11 p.m., with preliminary and final events in the various classifications taking place on both days of swimming. Admission is 50 cents per person.

The competition has been changed from a Class A to a Class B meet to open it to more male and female swimmers in the area, OU sponsors said.

The swimmers will have slightly slower posted times under American Athletic Council designations than in the Class A category. Seven classifications of competition will be held, age 8 and under, ages 9 through 10, ages 11 through 12, ages 13 through 14, ages 15 through 17, open competition for those 18 to 24, and masters competition for those 25 and older.

Fishing show

The Michigan Steelhead and Salmon Fishermen's Association will present their annual Spring Great Lakes Sport Fishing Show again this year at 2 and 7:30 p.m. March 31 at the CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake Road.

The shows are comprised of expert fishing technique, tackle displays, movies and free door prizes.

Part of the show consists of "how-to-do-it" techniques. The members of the organization who demonstrate these techniques are some of the finest fishermen on the Great Lakes.

The horsey set

By Chris Mills and Debbie Wentz

At the Clarkston Wranglers' last meeting one of our members' mothers, Mrs. Vanderlind, presented us her slides and pieces of art on her hobby of weaving. She intends to help the club learn the weaving techniques she knows.

Also two more members gave their reports; they were Ed Vanderlind on weaning foals and Nancy Rekawek on stomach worms.

LOVE IS EATING at the 8th Table Inn

Mrs. Jan Wronski's home economics class is getting practical experience as members operate the 8th Table Inn, a Friday restaurant at the school.

Some 30-40 meals have been served once a week since the end of semester.

Customers choose from menu cards, prepared by the business classes at the school. "LOVE IS EATING at the 8th Table Inn" is the headline.

Complete lunches are offered for $1 and the menu varies according to what is available.

The 10th and 11th grade girls participating in the project have made enough money from the operation to buy all the food, make the tablecloths, the centerpieces and the aprons worn by the workers.

The 8th Table Inn, in operation every Friday at Clarkston High School, draws an assorted clientele. Last Friday, for $1, they were served roast beef, hot potato salad, apple crisp and a beverage. It was also possible to order a fruit plate, tuna salad or bean soup a la carte.

Debbie Dobleske and Vicki Howe had charge of cooking and serving the standing rib roast.

There are always dishes to do and Pat McCormick and Cindy Wiegele were the ones who got the cleanup job.

Cheryl Johnson and Nancy Stephans dished up hearty bean soup.

Pat Schreiber and guest enjoyed luncheon a la carte.
