

We're giving away a MODEL T

Character and dependability were adjectives often applied to the old Model T.

We think they're applicable to The Clarkston News, as well, and we're tying the two together in a giant subscription drive which starts this week.

A miniature 1910 Model T, with a 3 h.p. engine, will be given the young salesman or saleswoman who sells the most new subscriptions during the next six weeks, and introduces the most young people to the entertainment and community features offered by your local newspaper.

Now the official voice for both Independence and Springfield Townships as well as the Village of Clarkston, we want to show you — our potential readers — the importance of The Clarkston News in keeping you informed and entertained about what's happening.

We've chosen young salesmen to do the job for us. The contest is open to youngsters 11-14 years of age, providing they're not related to any Clarkston News employes.

A total of 54 prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the contest.

What are they talking about? Why, The Clarkston News big Model T subscription contest, of course. Somebody's son or daughter is going to win a fully operable Model T.

The Model T will be awarded to the grand prize winner.

A black and white television set or a boy's or girl's 20-inch bike, three or five-speed, is second prize.

Choice of tape deck or AM/FM radio is third prize.

A rod and reel is fourth prize.

Fifty McDonald's certificates will be awarded for honorable mention.

In addition, we will feature the "salesman of the week" each week in The Clarkston News.

All you have to do to enter is check in at The Clarkston News, 5 South Main, to receive your subscription book.

By Jim Sherman

My Dad gave up reading this column several years ago. We force the paper on him by sending a copy without charge. And, occasionally I see it somewhere other than the waste basket on my infrequent visits. However, he doesn't admit to reading it.

My ol' man was a railroad man, as the song goes, and we seldom had trouble understanding the exact meaning of whatever he had to say.

Oh, he's well read and educated, but his choice of words for communicating with other railroad men and his children were a great disguise for his command of the English language.

When he explained in his short, precise way what he thought of my Jottings I had no difficulty figuring out what he would like to see done with all material published under my name.

I mention my Dad because what I'm about to say would please him, if not come as a shock, and he likely won't get to feel either emotion. But more than anyone else I'd like him to know how I've come to enjoy physical work.

No, I don't want a job digging ditches, following a horse drawn plow, or mowing hay away in August.

I want to do it my way, without pay, and when I want to do it. Like building a terrace of 80 pound stone, digging the quack grass out of the beach or splitting wood with a 10-pound sledge and wedge.

My body ached and the work caused an early trip up the golden ladder, but such sleep I haven't experienced from a dozen 18-hour days in the office.

Back to dear 'ol Dad again. I really didn't experience the wrath of father the other 2 boys in the family did since I was youngest and smallest. But there was enough said in our one-sided conversations to make me recall his trying to convince people in Durand, 2 miles east, that I would never be capable of work.

I couldn't think ahead. I couldn't even keep my mind on hoeing. I never was able to explain to Dad why I cut off a tomato plant, or cucumber, or pepper, or . . .

And when it came to working that hand planter for corn (3 kernels to a hill, and "scuff 'em over with your right foot") or the potato planter, I would lose my kinship to the Shermans, McKinleys and Blacks. I also lost all forms of intelligence and control over my extremities.

To Dad I became the son of something unknown to me (not necessarily animal), and a blithering idiot with coordination akin to an octopus trying to pick its nose.

"Clumsy" was one of Dad's references to me. "Lazy" was another. At times he'd call, "Hey, Molasses", and I knew to whom he was referring.

Just getting up in the morning, or rather not getting up in the morning, would stir Dad's RR vocabulary. It wasn't nearly as smooth as mother's.

Now even that has changed. I get up in the morning with little trouble. Should Dad have started reading this column he wouldn't have stayed with it long enough to have seen that admission.

Looking back over those early years and recalling them again I wonder at the so-called generation gap. You know what? My kids can't get up in the morning without me losing my temper.

They can't remember a daily duty. They trip over their own feet. They eat with their feet in a trough and dress accordingly.

And, maybe Durand is a little far away for its people to be made aware of my kids' shortcomings, but the people in the neighboring subdivisions have no doubt.

"Lawsuit or referendum"

By Betty Hecker

A decision whether to allow sand and gravel on 500 acres off Ormond Road will be made at the May Springfield Township Board meeting.

"We'll end up with either a lawsuit or a referendum vote," said Chum Rundell, township trustee, at the April board meeting Wednesday.

He made the statement following the request of Emmett Leib to expedite his March, 1972, application to rezone permitting sand and gravel mining.

Leib recounted delays endured by the petitioners, Earl Voorheis, David Field and himself, over an Environmental Impact Study undertaken by the county in regard to the proposed mining operation.

Leib said, "I understand that it (the study) is still in committee; the county has not made the allocation (of funds) for the work to proceed. I can't help but feel that there is holding back on this matter. I can't see how I can get a fair decision on this (from the county)."

"We have not made any demands (of the board); we have gone along with all this all this time; we have acted like gentlemen. It has been over a year now!" he stated.

"I am requesting that this board give me a little consideration. I'm coming here for fair treatment, as a citizen and as a taxpayer."

Claude Trim, township supervisor, reported that in his pursuit of the matter, Jim Dunleavy, County Commissioner District No. 2, gave his assurance that it had passed his committee.

Trim said, "To my mind, I would really like to know what's going on with the county on this matter. I feel that before the board takes action, it (the rezoning) must be duly advertised."

Rundell made the motion that the rezoning application be acted upon at the May meeting, in his words, "Settled—yes or no." All board members voted in the affirmative with one exception, an abstention from Trim.

Township Board Action

The township Board Tuesday night:

*Set $2260 as the residential tap-in charge for sewers, payable over 20 years and an interest rate of 4.789%.

*Set charges based on square feet for non-residential units.

*Adopted a $21.25 per quarter use charge for customers without water service and based sewer charges on water consumption within the water system.

*Authorized the draft of an ordinance to form a Township Police Department, and made arrangements to interview what will be its first officer, an ordinance enforcement man to be paid $9,000 to $9,500 a year.

*Adopted the Township Wet Lands ordinance which sets up a permit system for construction on Map-designated Wet Lands over 10 acres.

*Discussed a special election at the June school election to request a second mill for fire department operation and to put firemen on civil service, but took no action.

*Made the water department superintendent responsible to the supervisor until such time as the DPW head, handling water, sewers, cemeteries and buildings can be employed.

*Decided on water rate hike notification to water customers, necessary if fluoride is to be added to Clarkston Gardens and Pelton Heights systems—about $1.75 to $2.00 according to estimates—and planned a second public hearing on fluoridation.

*Approved purchase of fire hydrant adapters to make the fire plugs fit the fire hoses.

*Approved preliminary plats for a commercial office complex known as Arbor Hills in the Dixie - M-15 area and a four lot subdivision known as Henry's Lake View Estates on Clarkston-Orion Road across from Parke Lake.

*Recognized May 5 as "Walk for Independence Day", and challenged each other to a fifteen mile hike to raise funds for independence center.

*Dropped Sunnyside from proposed name changes for Pine Knob Road south of I-75, those segments to receive Court and Lane designations to the original name.

*Approved 2 lot splits.

*Required a $20 deposit for Township Hall rental due to recent vandalism.

Junior High free of fear

"Fear should not be a factor in attendance at Clarkston Junior High School," said Principal William Potvin at Monday night's Board of Education meeting.

Answering queries made by a parent, he stated students can use the lavatories with safety. "A 'potty patrol' by teachers who stay in the lavs during class breaks has stopped 99 percent of the smoking and insured peaceable use of the facilities," he said.

Noting that there are students involved with drugs at the school, he stated there is "very, very little drug use in school. Selling is limited to friends. There is very little open selling."

Superintendent Dr. L. F. Greene added, "Yes, we have problems and they will recur. The problem is probably greater today because of the number of families and children, the distances from which they come, the tempo of living and the mores of today's society.

Clarkston High School Principal William Dennis reported efforts to eliminate trespassers at the high school who he believes were responsible for selling drugs. He said the measures had been somewhat successful.

Plat Act author says

Effective land use control is a dim vision

There's not much hope for local land use control in the mind of the state's Plat Act author.

Robert D'Amelio, director of the Property Services Division for the Michigan Department of the Treasury, admits that the people who really do the planning are the developers.

Past attempts at getting some kind of teeth installed in land use laws have met largely with futility, D'Amelio says.

A proposed State Land Use Act, subject of hearings around the state last fall, has been sent back for further study. There was too much protest over the controls provided, he said.

Efforts continue to be made as people, such as those in Independence Township, become more and more concerned over the future of their areas, the director said.

Currently under consideration is a state bill requiring site plan approval for construction. Though Independence Township now requires such approval, there has been no state law to back up such forward thinking units, D'Amelio added.

A condominium act, containing some administrative regulations, has been approved at the state; but so far apartments and commercial developments are without state control, he said.

And the philosophy of the courts, in D'Amelio's belief, is that "if somebody has been permitted to do it in the past, you've got to let them do it again."

Independence Township is even now winding up three court cases instigated by referendums which overturned previously granted zoning. One — for the development of a shopping center on the Waterford Hill Country Club site — is now in the hands of the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Considerable concern is being expressed about proposed development of the north end of Deer Lake, which could see 1,500 new living units — mainly condominiums and rental apartments — built there along with a single family area and a commercial center.

There seems to be little hope for control at the national level as well, D'Amelio reported.

"The National Land Policy and Planning Act of 1972 was reported out of committee last year, but got no further. The purpose of the bill was to provide for national land use planning and provide incentives to states to enter into the planning process on a state-wide basis," he said.

D'Amelio appears to feel that if any enforceable development restrictions are forthcoming, they will be tied in with roads.

Right now, he says, a developer applying for subdivision approval on one side of road can be required to dedicate and pave roads to service the area, while the same developer, if he were to erect condominiums on the other side of the road, could avoid road expenses. There's no road requirements in the Condominium Act, D'Amelio said.

The only hopeful spot in D'Amelio's view of the problem is that large developers on the whole have recognized the wisdom of going along with reasonable controls.

"They know they have to if they're going to stay in business" he said.

"The ones you have trouble with are the one-time developers and those presently outside any state act. These people figure largely on geographic and demographic information about location, but it's not their business to be concerned about social aspects," he said.

And he added, "And of course, there's the scrap about local tax base." New development adds to the tax base, and as long as municipal income is figured heavily on property values there's going to be a rub, he indicated.

Meanwhile, he says, "Present enforcement is based largely in terms of health standards. It's hard to envision a lot so bad it would be unhealthy to build on."

Seniors to hear crime talk

A representative of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department will tell senior citizens "How to Protect Yourself Against Crime" at 1 p.m. Monday, April 16 at the new 50+ Drop-In Center in the Salvation Army, Church and Buffalo.

Dave Vanaman as Captain Von Trapp plays the bosun's pipe in "The Sound of Music" to be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Clarkston High School. The pipe was obtained by Mary Ellen Hanson, properties director, through her son-in-law, Jack Frost, who serves aboard the USS Sea Devil, a nuclear submarine. The pipe is inscribed both with the name of the ship and "To Clarkston High School."

Counselors did do job

A total of 16 contacts were made with the parents of a young girl whose mother complained to the Board of Education last month of a breakdown in counseling procedures at Clarkston High School.

She had removed the girl from the Clarkston School System, but has since returned her to classes here, it was reported.

Assistant Superintendent Milford Mason, assigned to investigate the problem, said he and several other school authorities had met with the parent and that they had agreed the contacts had been made.

This home at 4690 Hillcrest has become a source of worry to the neighborhood. Subject of condemnation procedures, it is not yet to the point where the township has the legal right to board it up, according to Township Attorney Richard Campbell. Children have made it a play area, neighbors say, and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department was called a couple of times last weekend to clear out the premises.

School budget okayed amidst financial confusion

A $6.3 million preliminary budget has been okayed by the Clarkston School Board for presentation to the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board.

The needs demonstrated to the allocation group will, to a large degree, determine what portion of the 15-mill unvoted tax will be awarded to the schools.

This year the schools have 8.21 mills of the total 15 in the Clarkston area, the remainder being split between the county, county schools and the township.

The new budget counts on an allocation of 4 additional mills, an unlikely event but, .79 mills additional would bring locally raised school revenue past the 22 mill mark, a criteria under the recently passed Senate bill for full state aid.

Superintendent Dr. L. F. Greene noted, however, that because school financing is still so unsettled, the budget had been figured according to the present state aid formula.

The state now allows $715 per child within a district less the revenue raised by 20 mills. There are 7,060 students in the district this year, and the state contribution comes to $462.44 per child. The sum of $252.56 is raised locally in that $715 gross allowance leaving the additional 1.21 mills levied to bring in $15.28 per child for a total of $267.84 in local funds per child.

Greene also explained that using the present formula, the district's considerable increase in assessed valuation, probably to somewhere near the $100 million mark as compared to this year's $89 million total, will not help local schools that much.

"Another $30.73 will be raised locally and the state will cut back by that sum. The only net increase will be the change in the amount brought in by millage levied over 20 mills. That should make

Brickley to speak

Lt. Gov. James Brickley will address the Lakeland Optimist Breakfast Club at its special "Respect the Law Week" dinner at 7:30 p.m. May 3 at CAI

$1.86 difference per child," Greene said.

He applied the estimated valuation to an estimated enrollment next year of 7,200 students.

The Bursley bill, which has passed the Senate, would provide $38 per child for every mill levied up to 22 mills, Greene said. The formula would raise $805.98 per child in the Clarkston School District, up nearly $91 over the present year, with the state contributing $511.39 based on present allocated and voted millage.

If the levy could be increased to 22 mills through the offices of the allocation board, the district would stand to get $530.21 per child from the state, Greene said. The latter circumstance would furnish a total of $836 per child in the Clarkston system.

And while the Bursley bill has a slider, in that it permits funds for increasing local millage over the next three years, Greene believes it would still benefit the district more than the present state aid formula does.

And the extra money that might be forthcoming? Greene says he'd like to see it put in the instructional section of the budget. He said indications are that the county will cut back its allocation for special education and that the difference will have to be made up otherwise.

In preparation for a Title I cutoff, the board last night terminated the program thereby making the seven tenure teachers who took part in it eligible for placement in other teaching positions next year.

The action was taken despite Green's stated belief that the state will move to take up some of the federal funding slack. He said termination of the program was necessary to protect both the board and the teachers.

Action to terminate the contracts of 25 probationary teachers was considered, but put off in the hopes it will not be necessary. Similar action has been taken by other area school boards with the idea, that if money becomes available, they can be rehired.

Merit of 6 school library books questioned

At least two Board of Education members are going to be reading books which Ed Manley, former chairman of the Clarkston NAG Chapter, says are "filth" and without merit despite their presence in Clarkston school libraries.

Trustees Dave Leak and Charles Smalley volunteered to review some of the six books on a list of 20 which Manley says are being fought in the Flint school system.

School sidewalks on docket

The Clarkston School System will foot half the cost — up to $3,500 to build sidewalks along Waldon and Maybee in the interests of student safety.

The board voted Monday night to allocate the money when it was told Supervisor Robert Vandermark has indicated the township will pay the remaining portion of the cost.

The sidewalks were recommended by

He noted they were for the most part written by black authors and proposed that "Surely there must be some black authors who write meaningfully."

Assistant superintendent Mel Vaara said the six books available in the libraries which Manley complained about are "Soul on Ice," "Algiers Motel Incident," "Black Panthers," "I am a Darker Brother," "Soul Brothers and Sister Lou" and "The Black Boy."

a school safety study committee and are planned from Eastlawn to Snowapple along Waldon and from Mary Sue to the North Sashabaw School driveway along Maybee.

Action to purchase flashing speed zone lights and to employ adult crossing guards was delayed until the board is able to determine what local enforcement will be available.

The township has budgeted for two police officers during the coming year.

He noted the first three books had been checked out 11 times in the high school, and the latter three which are in the junior highs had been checked out less than 20 times.

Vaara said all the books were on standard catalog lists, and provided a copy of the criteria Clarkston schools use in selecting books.

Manley responded, "I am not questioning the overall subject matter, rather the mode of writing, the language used, the things described." He said he had glanced at five of the books but had not sat down to read them.

He advised the board to read the books. "If you want your children to read them, let me know," he said. "I don't think they add anything to education."

Smalley suggested removing the books and replacing them with others which would be better read.

Trustee Fernando Sanchez offered that books of that type in this community where there are few blacks can do some good.

"Maybe it will help them understand later. Sure it's nasty, but in the long run it can help the child," he added.

Manley agreed that students ought to have knowledge of black authors.

Leak, who was chairing the meeting, said he didn't believe any books should be taken out of the shelves until the board has decided for itself whether they have merit. It was then that he suggested he would review one.

Smalley said, "Some of this garbage we shouldn't have in our homes."

Leak added, "I suspect if the books are as bad as reported, they'd have had more readers."

A woman in the audience stated, "I assure you if the only way my son has to learn is through pornography, I hope he's an idiot."

What with all the "crime is down" reports issuing from the metropolitan areas, Lucky Fletcher has taken it upon himself to check out Woodhull. He says there've been no watermelons, peaches, chickens or green apples stolen in the last six months. Two people disappeared not long ago, he reported. They suspected foul play for a while, but located them later at the bottom of one of the chuck holes in the street system.

Response has been less than spectacular to Clarkston Youth Assistance Committee's search for good teens to honor at its Youth Recognition Dinner in May. We all know good kids, and the good ones deserve some recognition. Forms for their nomination are available at the schools, the township hall, independence center and The Clarkston News.

Surely, somebody's got a dependable baby sitter or a youngster who's always available for some community project. Let the committee know.

Tom Wilford, Clarkston's vagabond, has just returned from the World Hot Air Balloon Championship races last February in Albuquerque.

Tom worked on ground and chase crews during the meet and had the opportunity to ascend with Chancey Dun of Denver and Jim Knight of North Carolina. He tells about soaring 10 feet over the ground, rising to spectacular views of the mounts and desert around Albuquerque.

He also had an opportunity to meet Charles Dollfuss who is at 82 the world's oldest living aeronaut and a balloon history buff. Dollfuss keeps a ballooning museum in Paris, Tom said.

High points of the festival were to Tom the successful chase over desert and into the mountains of the floating missiles, the champagne celebrations at successful landings and one episode when he and others were inflating one of the giant bags at the Albuquerque airport when they all got caught in the backwash from a 747. For at least one crew member it was unpremeditated flight, Tom said.

He also had the opportunity to take part in the world's largest mass balloon ascension. Now he's after his ballooning license.

As an add to our shoftlifting story of last week: Bowling shoes are disappearing from Howe's Lanes. The Howes probably devote more energy and money to youth leagues than most lanes do, and so far their repayment has been scores of missing bowling shoes. They didn't tell me about it; but it does seem that parents might wonder where the extra bowling shoes are coming from that the kids bring home.

Clarkston Wranglers 4-H Club traveled to Michigan State University recently to see the Block and Bridle Horse Show. Members thoroughly enjoyed themselves, according to Debbie Wentz and Chris Mills.

One of the nice things about working for The Clarkston News is the cooperation received from the community. That's why it hurts so much when we fail to give recognition to somebody like Roger Bower who spent hours preparing last week's front page montage on the Sashabaw Junior High School fair. His photo credit was on the copy, but it wasn't there when the paper came out. Roger, we do love you.

We're at $5.12 on the pennies, and I guess I really don't know yet who the donor is. I thought I did, but the note this week led me to believe I'm wrong. The pennies have been arriving since last fall at the rate of 2 each day for Publisher Jim Sherman and me. They've been used to purchase a POW bracelet, inspired the donation of a flag and pole for independence center, and are now being put towards purchase of a "penny tree" in the new Independence Township Park. Just goes to show you shouldn't underestimate the value of a penny.

A woman called to say she was very interested in our meat boycott story last week, but wondered how many of those not buying meat were eating out, and how many were serving the kids fish and eggs and going to the restaurant to eat steak. Would our people do that?

More than 6,000 pieces of state-owned used equipment — ranging from a large power concrete mixer to size 48-D brassieres — will be sold at public auction Friday and Saturday, April 13 and 14 by the Michigan Department of Administration in its annual spring clean-up sale, according to a recent release.

I don't know what I'd use the

Land use controls

People are vitally concerned, both in Independence and Springfield Townships, over developments proposed for their areas.

The total plan for development of the north end of Deer Lake is due Thursday night at the Independence Township Planning Commission. A township board decision on whether to grant rezoning for a 500-acre sand and gravel operation in Springfield Township is due there next month.

As one Springfield Township trustee noted, a decision is apt to result in either a law suit or a referendum. Referendums in Independence have had little effect except to present the populace's opposition. Law suits, undertaken by thwarted developers, have had much more success.

Yet, there's a state act which might have put some teeth into land use control that's now back on the drawing boards due to the protest it generated during hearings last year.

The people who support such controls would do well to make their feelings known at the state level, instead of waiting until the problem hits close to home before taking action.

We believe land use control will become a reality in the future. To insure that it does, the forward thinking politicians, who are facing the wrath not only of developers but of every landholder who believes he might at some future date be able to turn a profit on property, need generalized wide-base support now.

That's the only way there'll ever be teeth in the laws designed to protect our areas.

GOOD POINTS

Sketching is a sort of creative way of doing things. It gives you a feeling that you know what the world looks like without seeing it with your own eyes. You keep adding things to it. My sister does sketching in her free time. That's when I started. She gave me the feeling of everything. My good points about school is that I'll only go for one year. I'll just take molding, sculpture, face drawing, animal drawing and architecture. I've learned everything about faces except the nose, mouth and ears.

My good points on my career is that my life will hardly interfere with it. All I'll have to do is sketch at home and then drop it off on my way to someplace. The cost for school is somewhere around $500 for one year. My salary will be about $50 a week. The job opening will be a cinch. Their opened all over.

BAD POINTS

There really isn't very many bad points about sketching except almost all of the colleges are filled with drugatics, and I would hate to be around when they started passing it around.

Another thing, I don't know what kind I want to go to. A big one, a small one, private, or public. The real bad thing is where am I going to go. California, Michigan, Rochester, Lansing or Saginaw.

My mom wants me to be whatever I feel like. I told her sketching and she said there are too many sketchers in the family. But I'm going to be a sketcher.

SALARY

My salary is good. It will be good enough for eating, buying furniture, gas, heat, etc. Salary is what people usually get a job for. To keep their family wealthy and healthy. The salary I will be receiving is $50 a week. That is enough money to buy everything because I have relatives (mother and dad?) who leave money in our bank.

JOB OPENINGS

I can get a job real easy. My dad doesn't retire until he's in his 90's and he could get me a job, just like that. My father is a sketcher, too. If my dad wasn't a sketcher, I would go to the job opening centers. Because lots of people want to be sketchers. They're all filled up with sketchers. At least 50 people try to get in. But they're just all filled up. I'm glad my dad has a job opening for me.

NUMBER OF YEARS IN SCHOOL

I only need to go one year, because my sister and father already taught me almost everything. Although growing up, I may forget. Then it would be about four years in college.

COSTS

It will cost $500 for one year. But for 4 years it will be $2,000. Plus books, $200, supplies, $400, furniture, $100, blankets, $50, dormitory, $200, and food about $90. This total is $3040. So it will cost me $3040 when I grow up to be an architect.

SUBJECTS

I will take artistry, sculpture, painting, designing and building looking.

The wrong kind of father

By Jim Fitzgerald

And then I wrote . . .

The right kind of a father spends his weekends doing jobs around the house and playing with his odd kids.

Or something like that. Sometimes it is difficult to understand exactly what my wife is saying, especially when she talks at the same time she is doing something else, such as hitting my ears.

Anyway, it was Saturday and the sun was shining and the air was warm. Perfect weather for outdoor athletics. And that's what I was doing - watching some outdoor athletes on TV.

"Come out and play basketball with me," my son Eddie asked.

"I'm too old for that game," I answered.

"Gee," he said, "What kind of a father are you?" my wife asked. "Your only son asks for your companionship but you'd rather watch TV."

"Speaking of TV," I said cleverly, "I keep seeing these commercials where the mother and daughter are frolicking together and they are both so well-stacked no one can tell which one is the mother until she opens her mouth and you see it is full of Grape Nuts. But you never see commercials where no one can tell the son from the father. The reason is that Dad works too hard to stay young and trim, with soft hands. He is too busy making money to buy jeweled identification bracelets for his wife and daughters so they can tell each other apart. I think I'm going to cry."

"If you don't play basketball with Eddie, you will have something to cry about," my wife said (or was it my daughter?).

Anyway, I played. And in only 5 minutes my weary legs buckled and I fell hard to the ground. I heard a rib crack. Every kid in the neighborhood was watching. I wanted to bounce right up to show them what a great sport the old man was. Except I couldn't move.

"Are you ok, Dad?" Eddie asked after he'd picked up the ball and made 2 points while standing on my hand.

I assured him I'd live. The only question was whether I'd ever get on my feet again. I kept hoping my moaning and screaming would bring my wife to the door, tears in her eyes. But she never showed. I finally staggered into the house and collapsed at her feet.

"The bulb over the sink in the bathroom just burned out," she said. "Change it."

"Don't you care that I have been mortally wounded while making my son my buddy?" I asked.

"Do you want to shave in the dark?" she answered.

I had to stand on the sink. A huge globe enclosed the bulb. It stuck. I jerked. The globe fell, breaking into millions of pieces and smashing a hole in the side of the sink.

I do not make these things up. Just stop by and ask to use our purple rest room. Move the soap dish a few inches and you'll see the hole which shall remain in our family forever as a reminder that the man of the house is not the right kind of father.

Onward and Upward and my ribs still ache.

Letters to the Editor

She's using it!

Dear Editor,

This letter is about your article concerning Vocational School students after graduation.

I attended Voc. School in my junior year and graduated from the 1 year course for dental assisting. During my senior year I moved to California. I attended the high school here for 9 weeks and received early graduation from Clarkston Sr. High. After 1 week of job hunting I found an excellent job as a dental assistant. And this is in California!

I also wanted to tell you that I resent the fact that you said the students do not use the education received at Vocational School. I know more people who are using their education than not.

Of course, I can't say everyone who attended Voc. School are or everyone will use their training. All I know is that I will use mine and so will a lot of other people!

Sincerely yours,
Anne Elert
Concord, Calif.

P.S. Special thanks to my Voc. School teacher, Miss Bonnie Kremer!

Home Gardening

by Dave Coulter

I've encapsulated a lot of determining what vegetables, you plan to grow. The chart may be cut from which a great deal of information may be gleaned to aid you in the next step of planning your home garden; which should be Gardening knowledge into a chart out of the Clarkston News and pasted to cardboard so you can keep it for future reference.

Enough slums

To the editor,

The request for the rezoning of the land around the north end of Deer Lake is a blatant example of suburban sprawl at its worst. The destruction of rural and farming areas is bad enough for unneeded shopping center monstrosities, but to destroy one of the few unpolluted lakes in Oakland County for speculative purposes is nothing but unadulterated greediness without regard for future consequences.

The proposed rezoning, the subsequent tenement apartments, the honky-tonk atmosphere of a shopping center would forever destroy the tranquility and a quality of life, only to satisfy the unsatiable greed of the developer.

Detroit, Pontiac, Dixie Highway with their boarded up and vacant stores like spreading cancer sores stand in mute testimony to the hop-scotching of developers into unused suburban areas, leaving behind the existing cities and businesses to die.

There are enough slums that once were thriving cities; there are enough cesspools that once were clean lakes; the time to stop the sprawling urban destruction is now.

Oscar Edwards and the new teacher

by Marilyn Lawrence

The school was small, old, dirty and perfectly matched the neighborhood. While walking from my car, I noticed a small baby napping in a beer case on a sagging front porch. The New Teacher, wearing a skirt, white sweater and pearls took one look at the basement Art Room, with its leaking hot water pipes, high, dirty windows and mentally discarded a few dreams of scrubbed, eager children — also white sweaters and pearls. If nothing else, it was gonna be an interesting year, one they never prepared me for in Education 101!

I spent the next four years there, in loafers and dirty paint smocks, trying to get the custodian to fix the pipes, but he was a big man in the numbers racket and needed his sleep. He was the only one in the building that drove a Cadillac, and didn't have much use for teachers, anyway. He did wash the windows, because my room had the best view in the school of the brothel across the street. This being a family paper, I won't go into detail except to say that it was an interesting distraction, and the teachers' unofficial lunch room.

Oscar Edwards came in with the First Grade class — an obvious mistake. He was HUGE, a big round blob of a boy who looked somehow unfinished. He gave me a beautiful, energetic smile and took a seat.

"Uh, Oscar, are you sure "That Oscar, he always in the First Grade," piped up one of the kids. Oscar grinned proudly, settled back, and seemed to doze.

At the end of the period he ambled up to the desk and handed me his paper. He had drawn a square box of a house. There was a chimney on top with a few squiggles of smoke. In the center was a door. At the bottom he had printed "rasco."

"That Oscar," said his neighbor, "he always write backwards."

"That's lovely, Oscar, but next time would you put a window in your nice house?"

He shook his head, grinned cheerfully, and said, "New Teacher."

As the class left, one of the girls took me aside. "Oscar don't make no windows," she confided. I was dismissed.

At lunchtime I collared the principal, a lavender and lace white-haired little lady who looked like someone's maiden aunt. This deceptively fragile creature had a core of stainless steel, the heart of a lion, and the voice of a drill sergeant. She could strike terror in the heart of a drunken, angry parent, break up knife fights, and single-handedly toss a vagrant out of the building.

"Oscar is waiting for placement in a school for retarded children," she explained. "He's been waiting for three years now, and they still can't find room for him. If he caused trouble, or I had any complaints about him, he'd have a better chance of getting placed. I don't dare promote him, or they'll never take him," she sighed. "We'll just have to keep trying."

So try we did, and for the next four years we had Oscar, and Oscar had us. He got bigger and bigger, but no brighter. He never learned to read, write, or count to ten. If he spoke, it was never more than a word or two, but he was contented and slept a lot. After a couple of years he had to sit in with the Fourth Grade because he couldn't get his knees under the small desks. The kids led him from class to class, like a pet. For some reason they never made fun of him, though they were expert in refined cruelty to each other. Oscar never missed a day of school.

We had a ball those years, painting, sculpting, doing murals. We made puppets, plaster carving—the works. We went to museums, gave our own art shows, and even sent an exhibit of our work around the city. The kids loved Art, and I loved teaching it, but Oscar had me by the gorgle. It never failed. At the end of each class he would march up to me, grinning triumphantly, and present his work. It was always the same, a house with a chimney, same smoke coming out of the chimney, same begged, pleaded, bribed and showed him how, over and over. He'd just shake his head, say "New Teacher," and take his seat. If we were making Easter Bunnies with gum drops, paper doilies and pipe cleaners, Oscar would absentmindedly eat the gumdrops, shred the paper and clean his ears with the pipecleaners. I always made an extra one for him to take home, and he never forgot my picture. But no window.

We had finished building our house in the country, so I reluctantly handed in my resignation and said my goodbyes. The authorities had finally made a decision about Oscar. Since his Mother wouldn't sign the papers, it was decided that Oscar would "sit through" Junior High.

That last day, he brought up his picture, as usual. There was the house, the signature "rasco," with one magnificent difference. Over his name he had drawn a tiny window!

"Oscar," I was in tears by now, "why didn't you ever put the window in the house?" He shook his head, and left.

I learned two good lessons that day — that you can't change the world by next Tuesday, and that Oscar Edwards just plain didn't want no window in his house.

Tell it to Bob

by Bob Brumback

Clarkston Schools Special Services Director

Child abuse is a frequently discussed topic in our society. Books have been written on why people abuse their children and laws have been passed to try and protect the physically abused child. Yet I don't think that most physically abused children are "seen" by society or would even be labeled that way if seen.

The severely abused child may show up in the doctor's office for treatment or appear in school having had an "accident." Some cases are brought to the public's attention when the child dies or a neighbor calls the police. Often the child learns to live with the abuse and may become an abuser as a parent himself.

But what about the child who gets slapped across the head for misbehaving or shaken harshly to "get him to think?" What about the teenager whose parent knocks him down because he was getting "a little too big for his britches?" How about the parent who grabs a youngster by the hair so that he can look directly in the eyes when disciplining? Are these forms of abuse or are they normal parental disciplines?

If you think the previously mentioned disciplines are necessary, remember that thousands of youngsters receive permanent damage each year from such tactics. The number of children receiving brain damage from such disciplines rises each year. Most often well intentioned parents were involved who just wanted to be good parents — but were frustrated or got carried away. Most of us, at one time or another, have disciplined in anger and wished later we had used other tactics.

Discipline is a relationship and an activity that occurs between all parents and their children. What is most effective with one child may not be the most effective with another. What is effective at one age is not always effective at another age and vice versa. It is an area that must always be dealt with by a parent and how it is handled will have a great effect on the child's development of self discipline.

I do not mean to imply that you shouldn't make a mistake as a parent. We all make them and will continue to do so. It is possible to reduce them, though, by thinking about how to discipline and talking it over with a spouse, friend, or someone whose opinion you value. If you try to assess your child and what will work with him and assess your own abilities and weaknesses you will probably be effective with your discipline.

When you discipline consider if it will achieve the result you want. If you know it won't then maybe something else will be better. Or possibly there are other reasons that you can't "see" right now. Some discipline only relieves the parent and does nothing for the child. This is sometimes necessary but if you can recognize it you may choose a less destructive form.

Discipline is a process with many stages. Effectiveness in one stage makes the next stage easier to handle. I personally feel that there is a great deal of unnecessary violence imposed on children by parents under the guise of discipline. Yet I do believe in physical punishment at early ages. Regardless of the techniques used a child must learn that there are limits to his behavior and that mom and/or dad are in control. Excessive use of force teaches the child that violence is ok and often causes other means of discipline to have a declining effectiveness. There needs to be a gradual progression of techniques with the eventual goal of concept of self discipline being developed by the child.

Parents headed back to school

By William Dennis, Principal
Clarkston High School

In an attempt to create a better line of communication with the home, the Senior high school is planning the first of several day-time parent visitations. Through this program it is hoped that the participating parents will have an opportunity to meet the many persons who play a part in the educational process of their children.

The first group of one hundred parents, invited to attend April 17, were selected through a random method which allowed for proportional numbers of sophomore, junior and senior parents.

The day will start with all parents meeting briefly in the auditorium to meet the people responsible for special programs of both curriculum and extra curricular nature. An attempt will be made to answer all questions presented at this time. After this the parents will be free to tour the building, visit class rooms and in general see the entire school in operation.

All parents participating in next week's visit will be invited to have lunch in the school cafeteria; and before leaving they will be asked to respond to an attitude survey in an attempt to gain a better insight as to the general feelings and concerns about the school and its operation.

There's lots of activity at Pine Knob Elementary School where students are preparing for their annual school fair and arts and crafts display from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, April 13. Prizes, clowns, a white elephant sale, games and desserts are all on the docket along with such projects as the students have created. At left, Mrs. Joyce McCurdy with Shelia Atkinson, Denise Weir, Ronald Bourbon, Theresa Manus and Don Lambert view their fourth grade Indian display. In the center, Jodi Smith, Kaylyn Porter, Kathy McNeil, Mike Loba, Cliff Parr and Tanya Dismuke stand in the doorway of Michael Donovan's fifth grade cave. At right, early wildlife is displayed by Robert Frick, Judy Wesol, Tommy Ash, Alice Ridgeway, Penny Beardslee, Vera Lindberg and Bill Ruelle.

The winning Bucks

Bucks defeat Lakers

The Clarkston Bucks today reign as sixth grade basketball champs due to a 32-27 victory over the Clarkston Lakers last Saturday.

It was a close game which saw the lead change hands several times. The difference finally came late in the third quarter when the Bucks started to take command of the boards. The Bucks' surge was led by Dave Brown and Scott Brumback who tossed in 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Bucks' guard Jim Brittain played a strong floor game with many assists and added 9 points.

Greg Robertson had 10 points for the Lakers with Jim Willoughby, Scott Curry and Pete Saile adding 4 apiece.

Paddleball champions

Named champions of the Waterford Hill Doubles Paddleball Tournament at Waterford Hill Sauna were Don Balzarini and Tom Metzdorf who defeated defending champs Al White and Bud Alden 21-14, 12-21, and 21-7.

Thirty-two teams took part in the three-day event.

Balzarini and Metzdorf defeated Dave Vanderveen and Jay Delessandro 21-13, 21-10 and White and Alden edged Syd Paul and Ed Mehlberg 7-21, 21-15 and 21-17 in the semi-final round.

Cindy named 1 of 10 best junior golfers in the nation

Cindy Booker

Cindy Booker, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Booker, 7901 Holcomb, a senior at Clarkston High School, has been selected as one of the 10 best junior golfers in the nation by Trans Mississippi Golf Association.

Cindy this past winter in Florida won the low amateur trophy in the Naples Lely Classic, an LPGA event; came in second in the Orange Blossom Classic, another LPGA event; and tied for third in a field of 192 amateurs in the Port St. Lucie Tournament.

She also took part in the Pro-Am event, coming in second on a team with pros Betsy Rawls and Kathy Farrar and three other amateurs.

Cindy, who shoots with a handicap of 4, has been golfing since she was 12. She has visions of becoming a professional golfer, and will be furthering that goal by playing in the North-South Tournament April 23-27 at Pinehurst, N. C.

Starting at Waterford Hills Country Club, of which her dad was a part owner, she's lately been taking lessons from Laurie Purola, a touring pro of the 30's.

He's working on endurance, she's working on distance with her woods, she says.

The whole Booker family has the golf bug. A brother, Lee, 17, plays with the CHS' golf team. Twin sisters, Vivian and Allison, won varsity letters on the girls' golf team this winter in Naples, Fla.

SPORTS

Go-Round

by Jerry Savoie

In weight lifting the snatch is all important. In the snatch the barbell is laid horizontally in front of the lifter's feet, gripped with both hands, and pulled with one continuous motion from the ground to arm's length, and carefully raised vertically overhead. While this is being done, the lifter must stand without moving or springing on his legs, and the weight must be held above the head for two seconds. The snatch is one single motion. That's what makes it so beautiful.

CAP awards

Girls definitely in the running

This spring for the first time more girls will be involved in athletic competition than boys. The current trend toward more involvement by girls in athletics began last year with a ruling from the Michigan High School Athletic Association that girls could not be discriminated against in athletics.

At the present time 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls are involved in an intramural basketball program. Approximately 130 girls are divided into 16 teams and compete four days a week after school. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Mary Colwell and Mrs. Jane Miller.

Girls 9th grade track will begin on Monday, April 9. Thirty-four girls have signed up and a schedule is being developed for competition against other schools. The ninth grade girls' track team is being coached by Barbara Tyrrell. An intramural girls' track program is also being sponsored for 7th and 8th grade girls. Seventy girls have signed up for this program which will be under the direction of Linda Palace.

A girls' intramural softball program will be starting after Easter vacation. This program will be open to all 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls and will be under the direction of Gerald Granlund.

A boys' and girls' intramural tennis program is being planned. Fifty 7th, 8th and 9th graders have signed up so far. At the present time a director for the program has not been chosen.

Sunglasses

In choosing sunglasses, you have to consider more than the price and the fancy shape of the frame. What you need are quality glasses that will reduce glare and protect the eyes from the sun's invisible infrared and ultraviolet rays.

Gray, smoke or green tints give the least color distortion, according to the American Optometric Association.

They are campaigning, too, for shatter-resistant lenses of either plastic or heat-treated glass. Plastic lenses are lighter than glass and are less apt to fog, but they scratch more easily.

It's important that your sunglasses have distortion-free lenses, because the tiny flaws in poor quality lenses make your eye muscles continually adjust to compensate for the irregularities.

Because of the millions of tiny nerves needed for ordinary vision, your eyes use 25% of your nervous energy, and an even greater strain is put upon them by constant adjustments. This can sometimes cause headaches, fatigue, irritability and nausea.

Too much exposure to the sun's infrared rays can coagulate the protein in the eye's lens, and make it opaque — much as the heat of cooking affects the white of an egg.

Never wear sunglasses while driving at night. Though they would reduce the glare of headlights, they would also shut out the light that is needed for full vision, resulting in real danger.

Also avoid wearing sunglasses indoors; this bad habit can eventually bring on an increased sensitivity to ordinary light.

Baseball registration due April 13

Boys seven through eighteen have been registering for summer baseball in all nine Clarkston schools this week. If your son did not receive a card in school, you can register him at the recreation Office, 90 N. Main Street. Deadline is Friday, April 13.

Between 800-900 boys are expected to register this year. They will be organized into six leagues and fifty-some teams at the player selection meeting of managers to be held at 7 p.m. next Wednesday (April 18) at the Township Hall.

The Recreation Department is in need of managers in all age divisions. If you would like to be a manager, please contact the department at 625-8223.

The age limit has been lowered to seven this year. These boys will play in a newly-organized T-Ball League. Boys 8-9 will have their choice of playing T-Ball or in the Pee Wee League.

A special Saturday morning fundamentals clinic will be conducted by the Recreation Department beginning the first Saturday in May for all boys registered and eleven (11) years old or younger.

The 7th and 8th grade track team, coached by Raymond Cooper and John Matheus, has approximately 50 boys out this season. Their first meet will be on Thursday, April 19 against Abbott Junior High School and will be held at West Bloomfield High School.

The Wolverine baseball team under coach Rob White has made final cuts and presently has 18 players. Season opener is Thursday, April 12 against the Clarkston Senior High School 10th grade team and will be played on the Clarkston Junior High field. The first Clarkston Sashabaw baseball game will be played Tuesday, April 17 at the Clarkston Junior High field.

Busy Kids

The Clarkston Kids emerged from a couple of tournaments the last few weeks with quite a few medals. The Van Dyke Tournament on March 24 produced six medal winners, plus a couple fourth places.

First place awards were won by Jeff Kellogg, Warren Gritzinger, Jeff Howe and Tim Detkowski.

Second place honors went to Chris Howe and Mike Oagans; and fourth places were won by Robert Martin and John Potter.

This weekend at the Regional Tournament to determine what wrestlers would go to the State tournament, six boys placed and four became eligible for the State meet.

First places were taken by Tim Detkowski and Warren Gritzinger. Second places went to Jeff Howe, Mike Oagans and Chris Howe. Third place was won by Fred Davis.

The boys we'll be seeing in the State meet are Tim Detkowski, Warren Gritzinger, Jeff Howe and Mike Oagans.

Buildings --

Going up and coming down in Springfield

By Betty Hecker

The Springfield Township board has unanimously voted to complete rezoning of a 40-acre site to multiple, for a condominium and apartment development on Dixie Highway, north of I-75.

The developer of the Blue Water Bavarian Village, William Dinnan, told the board last week of the plans for the village: a $32,000 to $42,000 price range for the condominiums; four apartment buildings designed for rental to senior citizens at $165 a month; and another section of apartments with rentals from $220 to $400 a month.

Dinnan said, "We plan to save the natural stand of trees adjacent to I-75, and to build two separate recreation areas."

Townships combine to stop "illegal" use

Springfield and Independence Township are joining forces to restrain Paul Eghigian from stockpiling tires and mining sand on 25 acres he owns off White Lake Road at the Grand Trunk Railroad track.

The parcel, zoned suburban farms in Independence Township, lies in both townships, according to Independence Township Attorney Richard Campbell.

Formerly site of the Ann Arbor construction Co., it was the scene last year of a giant tire fire which sent blackened smoke into the sky so high it was visible for ten miles.

Eghigian contends the tires are the property of a renter and that he is not responsible for them; however, the townships are holding that the owner of the property is responsible for its uses.

The Eghigians also contend that previous mining was permitted on the property and that the non-conforming use then in effect should be extended.

The township has taken the position that a non-conforming use abandoned for six months is no longer permissible.

The defendants also point out Zoning Board of Appeals approval granted recently to Al Valentine to mine a parcel at White Lake and Andersonville roads.

"Valentine conformed with the ordinance, posting bonds, and providing before and after topographical maps," Campbell said.

Trim reported the project is in keeping with the master plan for the township and that it had received the unanimous approval of the planning commission.

Action has been taken pursuant to ordinance 23, with a show cause public hearing set for April 26, for condemnation of nine buildings the health department has found to be dangerous and unsafe.

The list includes the remains of a fire destroyed modular house in the Robert Bruce Subdivision, owned by Gil Homes in Detroit; a house at 8716 Bridge Lake Road owned by Peter Miller; remains of a house partially torn down and owned by William Peavey of Davisburg; the remains of a motel owned by Emil Hove of Pontiac; a house on Big Lake without adequate heat or water which must be brought up to code by owner John Ponio of Union Lake; apartments which have reportedly never been up to code as rental units and junk to be removed by owner Thor Olafsson; a house under construction on a voided building permit in direct violation to Springfield Township Building Code and owned by Olafsson of Davisburg; also, a house on Rattalee Lake Road owned by R. Dieball and D. Arsen of Clarkston; and a building in Davisburg owned by Grace Kolb.

After the board voted to proceed on the condemnation, Dr. O. J. Fusilier said, "I congratulate the board for taking this action; it's about time an administration started cleaning up our township."

Another legal action question involves Paul Eghigian, who had a tire fire in Independence Twp. last fall. The remains of these tires are being bull-dozed into Springfield Township, into a "hole just about the size of Davisburg," according to Supervisor Trim.

On the recommendation of Chum Rundell, who said, "Get 'em out!", the township board voted to authorize the township attorneys to take action against Eghigian, to force the removal of the tires from the township.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department representative, Carl Metheny, reported 661 calls the department answered in Springfield last year.

Metheny said, "I think we can work out a program for contract renewal. Burglaries and larcenies are the biggest problems in the township; and the area that's having the most problem will get the most coverage."

***

The board hired Johnson and Anderson of Waterford to be the civil engineers for the township. They will be paid on a fee basis.

***

Ken Smith was employed to work with Trim as assessor at a salary of $8,500 yearly, and car expense of $84.25 a month plus 5.1 cents per mile.

Smith will take the assessor's test in June and is confident that he will be certified at Level 2 on July 1.

Smith said, "My abilities are very much up to par; I've worked as a surveyor and tax clerk; have my real estate license, and have done many appraisals; and I am familiar with all the codes and symbols used in the county equalization department."

***

Mark Cooper was hired on an hourly basis as caretaker of the Davisburg Cemetery.

Township clerk, Cal Walters, read a letter of resignation from constable James Halsey, who is moving from the township.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News

Treasurer welcomes state audit

Springfield Township Treasurer Margaret Samuel says she is prepared to welcome state auditors, requested last January by Supervisor Claude Trim to investigate tax records.

Several complaints of tax payments not having been attributed to the property for which they were paid have evolved in the township, and Miss Samuel attributed the problems to several circumstances.

She said at one time two sets of tax books were kept in the township and that one was not kept as up-to-date as the other.

She also said sales by land contract are not recorded and in some cases it is impossible to notify the current owners.

She also complained that lot splits of township property were being carried out without current taxes having been paid.

Two residents, Ted Doris and Larry Brill, were present to outline difficulties they have had in paying property taxes.

Doris said, "In 1971, it took me more than eight hours to get my taxes paid. On the rolls, my neighbor's property was listed under my name, and my property under his name. I never received a tax bill on either property."

Brill spoke of the period when he was in service and his wife and mother had to go to Miss Samuel's home to pay the taxes. "You had never mailed a tax bill," Brill said.

Dr. O. J. Fusilier, a former supervisor stated, "Having the state auditors come in is not a reflection on Margaret (Miss Samuel). It's just good business."

Trim agreed. "The sooner they come the better. I think the state will put pressure on the township auditors (Basar and Parrish of Rochester). I don't feel they've ever done the job they were hired to do."

Lake access control sought

Senator L. Harvey Lodge of Waterford has introduced a Senate Bill to regulate the acquisition, control, use and maintenance of public access sites on inland lakes.

The bill provides for local review of such acquisitions with public hearings and the establishment of criteria for purchase. It also provides for sight regulation and state contributions for enforcement.

Lodge said the bill would eliminate public access site acquisition on lakes of less than 160 surface acres and where more than 75 percent of the coast line is developed for residential use.

It also provides that public access sites about a major or secondary public highway "not presently overloaded according to highway department criteria."

Lodge said, "We've got to stop unreasonable purchase by the state of lake access sites. They affect the living of people who pay very high taxes to live on the lake."

Young authors display their wares

Chosen by contest to represent Bailey Lake School at the authors' get-together are Laura Saunders (from left), second grade; Julie Eriksson, fourth grade; Carol Harris, first grade; Amber Shanahan, third grade; Erica Zander, fifth grade; and Mary Ann Humphrey, sixth grade.

"Gee, this house is a lot bigger than it looks from outside," is a comment Judy and Bob Livingston hear frequently from friends on their first visit to the new home.

Judy designed much of the six-month-old house, taking a basic plan from a three-bedroom ranch and expanding it, making the house three rooms deep, instead of two.

"We used to live on Reese Road and never thought we'd find another place we liked as well, until we saw this property. Now, we love this place, the view is magnificent — the canal to the lake, the peninsula that the kids call 'their island.' Oh, it's just great!"

The Mediterranean hilltop house sits on three and a half acres. Judy said, "You know what we'll be doing this summer, putting in a lawn. We've ordered 250 evergreens to plant on the property line and on the hillside in back. And, I plan a 'really big' garden this year. We have to — to fight food prices."

Inside, Judy has decorated the living room in a Mediterranean style, with a red and natural print sofa, red velvet chair and ottoman, a black recliner, red and black wrought iron hanging lamp, and dark oak tables.

"This room is my pride and joy!" Judy said, "and the first piece of furniture we purchased was the breakfront. I fell in love with it! I thought my mom would die when I told her we had ordered white carpeting for this room."

Judy designed a unique "three section" bathroom, decorated in navy, red and gold colors. The floor covering and shower curtain are the same floral pattern in the tub and stool area. On either end of this center section are sink and vanity areas—one near the three children's bedrooms, and the other sink and vanity off the master bedroom.

The kitchen has a special double sink, one side extra large and extra deep. The regular size side has a Dishmaster unit, alongside the special soap and hand lotion dispensers.

The kitchen and family room colors are coordinated, with the lemon yellow table top and pale olive green dining chairs blending with the green and gold shag carpeting in both areas.

The family room drapes on the doorwall overlooking the "fantastic view" are of the same green, gold and orange as the leaves were last fall when the Livingstons moved into their home. Judy said, "It was so beautiful outside, I had to try to bring some of those colors inside."

One of the nicest things about new houses today are the floor coverings. Judy loves the floor in her foyer, saying, "It's so easy to clean, it just wipes up." And the floor in Keith's bedroom looks like ceramic, but is a shiny vinyl in a black, brown and white geometric design.

In fact, Judy said, "This house is much easier to keep clean, it's so open, and I love it!"

Bob and Judy both graduated from Waterford High School. They think they have a wonderful area to bring up their three children, Keith, Michelle and Eric.

Acknowledging that boy pets as well as girl pets are responsible for the soaring pet population, the Michigan Humane Society announces a new birth-control program designed to encourage more pet owners to neuter their pets.

All pets, male or female, cats or dogs, adopted from the M.H.S. Society are now eligible for a special $10 birth control subsidy. Upon presentation of written proof of castration or spaying within six months after obtaining an animal from any of the M.H.S. Society shelters, the owner will receive $10. The bonus is intended to encourage responsible persons to utilize the services of any veterinarian to reduce the birth of unwanted animals.

The society continues to spay most adult cats and dogs before adopting them. The new program is intended to increase the numbers of animals neutered particularly those puppies and kittens which are too young for surgery at the time they are released. It also acknowledges the urgent need for cooperation of responsible pet owners if the production of surplus pets is to be restricted.

The M.H.S. also reports that research into lower cost alternatives to animal birth-control methods continues. Birth-control shots and chemical implants are still 2 to 3 years away according to most experts. A unique $5 alternative—a canine inter-uterine coil

A water hammer is not a new type of tool! Rather, it is a thump in the pipe when a faucet is turned off. The more quickly the faucet is turned off, the more violent the hammering becomes. This is caused by the momentum of the water as it flows in the pipes. If you stop the flow from the faucet without stopping the flow at the other end of the pipe, hammering is bound to result from this action. In the best type of plumbing arrangements, an air cushion is what prevents this momentum from turning into a hammering.

For the best type of tools for the job, shop at BOB'S HARDWARE, 60 S. Main St., 625-5020. We feature Stanley hand tools and Sentry power tools as well as a wide selection of garden tools. The area's Detroit Edison Agency, we offer free exchange of light bulbs and fuses, accept payment of electric bills, and repair small electrical appliances. Hours: 8-6, Mon.-Sat.

There's been a question raised about a $1,900 line item in receipts for the township recreation department, budgeted this year at a total of $25,410.

If V. J. Zukowski, 6101 Overlook, will stop at The Clarkston News he will receive a free pass to The Clarkston Cinema showing of "The Young Winston."

Recreation funding might lose source

The $1,900 is based on projected income from the United Fund, a source used in planning township recreation programs since 1969.

Dick Lewin, acting executive director of the Pontiac Area United Fund, says the allocations were made originally to the Independence Citizens Recreation Committee and that the PAUF does not allocate to municipal units.

He admits, however, that there are some programs jointly sponsored by municipal units which do receive PAUF funding.

Recreation has become primarily the responsibility of Tim Doyle since his employment here last year as Township

Recreation Director.

"I was just basing the figure on income received in previous years," Doyle said.

He noted township recreation programs had received $1,575 from the PAUF in 1969; $1,667 in 1970; $1,715 in 1971 and $1,801.11 in 1972.

"No application has been made yet for the 1973 program," Lewin said. "We haven't had to deal with this kind of question before."

Clean lakes conference subject

The Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University and Waterford School's Environmental Education Program will combine to sponsor a "Clean Lakes Action Conference" from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 14, at Mott High School in Waterford.

Displays, literature and demonstrations of many types will be available for inspection, including Oakland County's new Aquatic Weed Harvester—a 40-foot long self-propelled vehicle with underwater cutters capable of extracting more than 6,000 pounds of nutrient-rich foliage per hour from any lake contracting for its services.

Planning goals due for hearing

Independence Township Planning Commission will have a public hearing at 7:30 p.m., April 26 to go over a set of goals and policies members have agreed upon in regard to future planning.

Citizens will have the opportunity to add their ideas to the statement during the public meeting, planning officials said.

Overall the commission is recommending:

* That an orderly growth pattern be encouraged; that the township be prepared to control growth; and that the township be encouraged to maintain a pollution free environment.

* This would be done by encouraging a cluster approach to urban development; establishing areas that are to remain in open space and conservation; adopting development codes and ordinances; and adopting development performance standards for all urban uses through zoning.

* In the residential area, the commission recommends creation of residential patterns so that community facilities and services can be efficiently and adequately provided; and the creation of attractive residential areas.

* This would be done by concentrating urban development within specific areas of the township; encouraging curvilinear street patterns through subdivision regulation; and encouraging the preservation of natural features when development occurs.

* Commercially, the commission recommends provision of the safest, most convenient shopping locations for residents; provision of a useful distribution and heirarchy of commercial developments so that the majority of families are conveniently located adjacent to commercial areas.

* To do this it would zone properties at certain intersections for commercial development and not allow strip commercial development along highways; and allow commercial districts in close proximity to residential districts.

* In the industrial area, the commission recommends its encouragement

* By reserving areas of sufficient size which have locational and service characteristics necessary for industrial development.

* In the area of recreation and commercial, the commission proposes provision of recreation for the residents of the township as well as the residents of Southeast Michigan; and the preservation of the natural features of the township to insure enjoyment for people and a perpetual habitat for wildlife.

* It would do this by designating areas with recreation potential and regulating the development through zoning; and by establishing an active program of open space aquisition with federal, state, county and local officials and agencies.

A stream as a boundary line for a piece of property is an interesting incident in real estate law. It seems that if a stream is the boundary for your property, you own half the stream. Your line extends down the middle of the stream. If it is the sort of stream that is big enough for boats, etc., then you own only to the high water mark. You may call the low water area yours, too, but it is subject to the rights of the public.

It pays to horse around

Springing up
by Betty Hecker

Beatrice Fisher, daughter of Gloria and George Bellairs of Big Lake Road, competed in the two day English riding and schooling show held at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

Beatrice and her three-year-old thoroughbred, Shalom, took four ribbons in the four classes they entered.

On Saturday, they took 3rd placed in the senior amateur class and 4th place in the senior open.

On Sunday, they were awarded 4th place in the 1st level training test, and a 5th place ribbon in the senior equitation event.

Bea has been training with Mike Sutton at Centaur Farms. Her sister, Yvonne, has been training at their farm in Springfield Township.

"We did it! A girl!" Judy and Douglas Roeser are excited about their new daughter, Carrie Rebecca, born on March 27, 1973.

Carrie was just a day late arriving, to celebrate her Grandmother Roeser's birthday. But her two brothers, Jeff (who will be 4 in May) and Bart (2 years old) were on hand to wish Grandma a happy birthday.

Herman Jaenichen reports that "a bunch of the (Davisburg) Joggers (a senior citizens group,) have just returned from Hawaii." Hilda Hansard, Leta Hansard, Lillian Brendel, Mary Schlep, Milton Poole, and Russell Garner really had a wonderful trip, and a fun time, too, as some of their comments indicate.

Russell Garner told Herman that Milton Poole "was sweet on all the girls over there." Milton countered by saying that Russell had learned to "do the hu-la-la."

And Hilda and Lillian said they had learned the hula and would perform the dance for the Joggers Kazoo Band. "I bet it will be great!" — Herman.

Mary said, "My hinges are too rusty!" when asked if she had learned the hula.

In a story last week, I made a mistake in the article about Leonard Kelt. I gave the wrong electrical company credit for installing the special circuit for the kidney machine. Leonard said, "He is a new company and needs all the help he can get, so let's give him a word in the paper." The correct company is Astro Electrical of Clarkston.

Boy, have I received suggestions for a name change for this column. Kristy Rice and the "little people" have come up with such winners as "Betty's Bombshells," "Startling Statements," "Things your mother never told you," "Things your husband wishes your mother hadn't told you," "Intellectual Insights," "Games People Play," and "True Confessions," among others.

She adds, however, "Actually, "Springing Up" is an excellent title and your column delightful (even though your garden tips are lousy) and you are beautiful.

Letters like that make the day worth getting up for.

Jayne Lafnear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lafnear of 6434 Simler Drive, will attend the concordia College

Norwegian Language Village this summer in Minnesota. The village program seeks to acquaint students between the ages of nine and 18 with the language and culture of a foreign land in the context of a summer camping experience.

Fifty-four outfits for Clarkston High School's presentation of "The Sound of Music" last weekend and again this weekend were made by fourth hour Home Economics students at the school.

Nancy Bryan, Pam Mihalcheon, Cindy Easler, Bev Fearnow and Clarise Stutzer spent three weeks whipping the $350 worth of material into showpiece costumes. Mrs. Yvonne Wilson was costume director.

The group used 50 yards of chiffon and taffeta for the blue satin sashes; 38 yards of black for jumpers and the costume for the Mother Abbess; 40 yards of red print for other outfits; and 30 yards of white cotton for blouses.

BUILDING USE—The use of independence center by responsible community groups is encouraged. The center may be used for meetings, coffee hours, dinners, etc. Groups using independence center for such purposes are responsible for total clean-up and are asked to make a contribution to support the work of the center.

Requests may be made by contacting the center's coordinator, Mrs. Alice Salzano.

EASTER BASKETS—Any groups of individuals who would like to help the center provide Easter Baskets for needy families may contact a volunteer at the center daily from 9 - 4 p.m. Food, new Easter outfits for the children, or traditional candy filled baskets will be accepted for distribution.

Please contact a center volunteer for information on items needed or further help.

THANK YOU—The Board of Directors and members of independence center would like to thank the girls and leaders in the Clarkston-Ortonville Camp Fire Bluebird Association for the contributions of food and financial support they have given the center.

Thank you for helping the center to help people help themselves.

CENTER NEEDS—Zella Benson, Food and Clothes Closet Chairman, has had requests this week for a set of bunk beds, a chest of drawers, kitchen table and chairs, a high chair, and crib.

Please call the center before you discard any used furniture. There is usually a needy family that could use it.

At conference

Winifred Beach, Marian Richley, Frances Stewart, and Patricia Beach were among members of the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Clubs who attended a conference on "Women Helping Women" at Shanty Creek recently. They heard Osta Underwood, past national president, urge young women to seek the best education possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cooper of 5990 Middle Lake Road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Vicki Dee to Mark Owen Stuart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert C. Stuart, 4806 Hillcrest, Waterford.

Spiritual Message

CALVARY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. Robert Walters, Pastor

A life that completely remodeled our understanding of God.

A man that showed us how it's possible to relate to each other.

Jesus, whose marriage is much less schmaltzy than we're often led to believe, can inspire and bring us closer to God, in the same spirit he inspired his follower Paul to write:

"Best of all is the following way.

I may be able to speak the languages of men and even of angels, but if I have not love, my speech is no more than a noisy gong or a clanging bell. I may have the gift of inspired preaching; I may have all knowledge and understand all secrets; I may have all the faith needed to move mountains—but if I have not love, I am nothing. I may give away everything I have, and even give up my body to be burned—but if I have not love, it does me no good.

Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous, or conceited, or proud;

love is not ill-mannered, or selfish, or irritable; love does not keep a record of wrongs; love is not happy with evil, but is happy with the truth. Love never gives up: its faith, hope, and patience never fail.

Love is eternal.

When I was a child, my speech, feelings, and thinking were all those of a child; now that I am a man, I have no more use for childish ways. What we see now is like the dim image in a mirror; then we shall see face to face. What I know now is only partial; then it will be complete, as complete as God's knowledge of men.

Meanwhile these three remain: faith, hope, and love; and the greatest of these is love."

Holy Week, starting Sunday, is a perfect time to start again, to be open to God's gifts, and to meet him in Jesus.

See you in church.
