

In memory

A Memorial Day parade is one of the few constants in a wildly changing world.

Respect for the dead, for flag and for country — the solemn tribute of marching children, aged war veterans and civic leaders — turns time back to the way it was last year, and the years before that.

Clarkston's Memorial Day parade and the ceremonies which followed at Lakeview Cemetery, blessed this year by a few hours of sunshine within the rainy weekend, recreated the history of the past.

By Jim Sherman

Frank Angelo of the Detroit Free Press starts some of his columns with: "An editor meets such interesting people, such as . . ."

In my case it's Bob Schmidt, dope fiend.

I know he was in the area to give talks to students and adults, but I hardly expected to see him in my office. I really felt a little uncomfortable.

A public relations man was with him who got the conversation going, else we might still be staring at each other . . . no, that's wrong, because he looked down at the floor a lot at first. I stared.

Schmidt started on marijuana at the age of 11. He was shooting heroin at 15. He's now 37 and has spent 12 of those years in jail. His rehabilitation began 4 years ago. Dope addicts are never cured, he said, they are rehabilitated.

Perhaps you'll find some of his comments interesting;

Unlike cigar smokers who quit smoking, he has no urge for another hit.

Rehabilitation has to come on a 1 to 1 basis. Mass meetings and lectures don't work. Neither will psychiatric help in jail. In this case the regimented life in jail is too much different from facing life outside.

The hardest thing for Schmidt to do when he got out of jail was pick up a lunch bucket. Then came such simple things as paying a light bill, grocery shopping, and meeting new people.

What about the student's argument that saying smoking marijuana leads to taking heroin is no more true than saying drinking milk leads to taking hard drugs?

Schmidt tells these students the difference comes in the buying. The guy who sells the grass also sells the hard stuff, and usually he's on it when you buy at the lower levels, as most beginners do.

And, if the person on marijuana makes his buy at the right time the seller can easily talk him into trying H. H. sells for more money, thus the pusher can make more, faster to support his own habit.

What about the comparison of smoking pot to drinking alcohol?

Schmidt repeats a previous answer . . . the bartender doesn't try to push the beer drinker into liquor, nor the liquor drinker into heroin.

The public relations man said it wasn't easy finding a person who could communicate to kids. Athletes were tried and were people with names in the arts. So were other addicts who had done time.

Schmidt came through the sheriff of Scott Co. Iowa. There are some quarter million people in Scott county, yet this sheriff took this man, 1 to 1, and worked him into talking to groups and final rehabilitation.

How many sheriffs do you know who do as much in fighting drug addictions, 1 to 1?

Schmidt is now vice president of the Davenport Optimists Club, assistant chief jailer for the county and was named "Layman of the Year" in Scott County.

It adds up to a lot of work for the one doing the rehabilitating, a lot of work and sacrifice for the one being rehabilitated, and a lot of acceptance by society . . . all of which could have been avoided in the first place by someone saying "No!"

William Martin to head historic group

A slate of officers for the Clarkston Community Historical Society was approved by the membership at their annual meeting last Wednesday.

Serving for one year terms for president, William L. Martin; vice president, Mrs. James Schultz; recording secretary, Mrs. Daniel Travis; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bryan Prucher; treasurer, John Bisha; and board members, Mrs. Ruth Basinger and Norm Daniels.

Two-year term board members are Mrs. Frank Lambert and Bryan Prucher. Martin in his annual report, encouraged new membership and active participation by present members.

Cultural preservation and accurate data compilation depicting the early way of life in Clarkston is the main objective of the Historic Sites Committee, according to Prucher who serves as its chairman. The nine-member committee has completed research on four Village homes with five more planned for the summer.

Guest speaker Frank Wilhelm stressed the importance of preservation and means of permanently recording the tradition and spirit in which our community developed. He feels Clarkston has many assets that unfortunately could be lost through neglect or unconcern by its residents, as has happened to other similar areas.

The flags waved softly in the breeze, the people stood in solemn silence, and once again John Lynch read the names of all the war dead from the beginning in Independence Township.

The American Legion rifle squad waited for the time to fire its three volley salute to the dead of other wars.

Rev. Robert Walters reminded Clarkston area residents of their heritage.

Dan Schwartz played the echoing "Taps" for the solemn windup to Monday's Memorial Day services at Lakeview Cemtery.

A group of World War I veterans, at least one with experience also in World War II, paid respect to their deceased brothers Monday at Lakeview Cemetery.

Supervisor Robert Vandermark and Commander Ernest Head of the American Legion placed a wreath in honor of Independence Township dead during ceremonies Monday at Lakeview Cemetery.

Insurance expert reviews fire department

Any effort to get insurance rates reduced through improved Fire Department service is going to require some expenditures, according to P. H. Kesselring, manager of the Insurance Services Office of Michigan.

Kesselring's office is the one that accords various fire districts their number ratings, used in turn to set insurance policy premiums. Independence Township currently has a 9 (8 in some areas) on a rating scale of 1 to 10, depending on access to fire hydrants.

Kesselring has advised Fire Chief Frank Ronk to establish a fire prevention staff; up-date fire fighting appliances; eliminate manpower deficiencies; replace or remodel the fire stations at Sashabaw and Clarkston roads and the one in the village; and initiate a community-wide water distribution system.

In a letter dated May 14, Kesselring outlined the functions of a fire prevention staff as including inspection of all multi-dwelling, commercial, institutional and industrial complexes; review of all proposed new construction or remodeling; and all public relations and educational programs pertaining to fire prevention.

He said, "We suggest that you take steps to alleviate this pressing deficiency with the assignment of an assistant chief who would assume the duties of a fire marshal and training officer. If this cannot be done immediately, two part time inspectors would be acceptable as a fire prevention staff in its incipient form."

Relative to fire equipment, he wrote, "It is a nationally accepted standard that all first line fire apparatus be no more than 20 years of age and all reserve apparatus be no older than 30 years. Plans should be made for placing your 1954 International in reserve and replacing it with a new model ... Each first line engine should have 2400 feet of 2½ inch or larger hose available; each reserve vehicle should be equipped with 1200 feet of hose."

Kesselring continued, "In view of the growth pattern of Independence Township, continuation of the volunteer system may very well result in an inadequate fire fighting task force and consequently a weak initial fire attack. With sustained commercial and residential expansion comes increased fire loss potential and increased exposure to fire hazards ...

"Within the next two years, man each station with one full time fire fighter (ten men total), and in the following two years add an additional man to each station in order to have two full time professional men at each location at all times."

With regard to the buildings, he stated, "We have noted that these stations are becoming increasingly inadequate as far as space, general facilities and apparatus egression are concerned. We recommend providing stations which will be adequate for your present and future fire service needs."

Fire Chief Ronk explains the station at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads, a former Case Tractor dealership, has a leaky roof, no ceilings or floors in either the station or the election room, no floor drains for the apparatus area, a bad furnace, and the exterior and windows need repair. He said the Clarkston station is similarly in need of repair on the roof and exterior masonry.

As for the community-wide water system, Kesselring explained, "A grading of 8th class or lower is impossible to obtain without a water system."

The township is currently considering inclusion of such a requirement in a new Subdivision Control Ordinance.

Kesselring said a Class 6 classification would be the lowest rate classification possible and would provide significant savings to commercial and industrial properties within the township.

NOVEC plans summer courses

A full credit towards high school graduation will be available to high school students in the Clarkston School District this summer.

Juniors and seniors will be able to earn the additional credit by attending class four hours a day for six weeks at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center.

Classes, starting June 18, are in marketing and retailing, auto body repair, total office procedures, medical assisting and commercial art.

The classes are also open to adults. Tuition is free for the high school students, but a fee of $60 will be charged adults enrolling in the courses.

High school students have the opportunity of signing up with their home school counselors or contacting Larry David at the vocational school. Adults may register at the vocational school office on Big Lake Road just off the Dixie Highway.

The school is also planning a third section of classes to begin next fall. A 3 to 5:30 p.m. class will augment those being offered from 8 to 10:30 a.m. and from 12 to 2:30 p.m.

School concern lacking

Once again a school board election is rolling around, and once again it's safe to assume that voter turnout will be notoriously low - even with the added one mill for the Independence Township Fire Department also on the ballot. More tax money and more items that affect your children are involved in proper school board selection than any other area of municipal affairs; and yet people stay away from the one place their feelings can have effect - the polling place.

School - community relations at the policy making level received a boost in the arm this spring with formation of a school safety study committee, and the outgrowth of that was sidewalks for two areas. Perhaps the community is growing large enough that the only way we can really be kept interested, informed and knowledgeable is through a continuation of such school - citizen group. It's an item for consideration.

News from the auto industry

By Jim Fitzgerald

The 1st resignation and 3rd wedding of swinging John DeLorean was the most exciting news to come out of the automotive industry since Henry Ford fired Bunkie Knudson. Which should tell you something about the ho-hum products rolling out of Michigan these days. You need a degree in automotive engineering to distinguish a Cadillac from a Chevrolet at 30 paces. The hucksters say you should buy a so-and-so model so you can split diamonds in the back seat without smashing your thumb. Or so you can drive down the railroad tracks without spilling your glass of nitroglycerin all over your tie. There's even a car you should buy so The Flying Wallendas can do their high-wire act on your hardtop while you speed down the freeway. (In the warranties, it says if the car is recalled the owner is allowed to retain custody of the Wallendas and the diamond cutter.) In view of such nonsense, it is not surprising that the newspapers are eager to do a complete job of in-depth reporting when the auto men finally do something significant - such as quit or get fired. You probably remember the marvelous job done by the media when Bunkie Knudson got the heave-ho as Ford president. Reporters even interviewed the Knudson garbage man to see if there had been any fall-off in the quality of the Knudson trash since Bunkie's income had been cut from $10 million a week to only $8 million. The most revealing moment came when Knudson had to admit he was so distraught he couldn't answer a reporter's penetrating question concerning his personal cars. Bunkie couldn't remember whether he had 7 Fords and 10 Lincolns or 10 Fords and 7 Lincolns. Thanks to compassionate and thorough reporting such as this, the world was able to weep along with Bunkie. Now comes handsome John DeLorean's resignation as vice president of General Motors. Why would he do it? Everyone knew he would some day have become president and then chairman of the board and then secretary of defense. Why would a man walk out on such a glittering future? It is a puzzlement. You might as well ask why a man would give up being Ricky Nelson's brother-in-law? Or why would a man stop being the son-in-law of Tom Harmon, the football hero who became a war hero who became a sports announcer who became an eater of Kellogg's Product 19 on TV? John DeLorean lost all these marvelous things at once recently when he was divorced from the gorgeous Kelly Harmon. But he has also gained some things. At age 48, for instance, he just married a 22-year-old Hollywood starlet named Cristina Ferrare. Some newsmen have suggested DeLorean may have been eased out of GM because his life style doesn't fit the image of the president of the world's largest corporation. I don't believe it. All the world loves a lover and this includes GM board members who could doubtless see that a man of DeLorean's talents could open grand new horizons for all of them (his old address books might become corporate property). I saw Cristina Ferrare in a TV movie the other night. Wow. As far as I'm concerned, DeLorean quit GM simply so he could stay home every day. Ford never had a better idea.

hill 'n gully

The prototype

by Jean Saile

As most people may have guessed by now, I am not a television fan. Who are the Waltons, anyhow? I was trapped into viewing the Emmy awards recently, and the funniest thing happened all night was Don Rickles getting carried away by the sound of his own venom and throwing the whole program into a time bind. Too bad they couldn't have encored him later through the festivities. Also I'm disappointed. One of the few shows I do watch with some anticipation and enjoyment is M*A*S*H*, and dear old Alan Alda didn't get a thing. He'll probably get recognized next year. They just got around to learning that Mary Tyler Moore was on, and that's another show I sometimes watch.

Guess what intrigues me about her show is the news announcer. I once worked for one just like him - a beautiful deep/resonant voice that had echoed so long through the upper stories of his brain there was no room, anymore, for anything else.

He was a news announcer in Houston, Texas, and I wrote his show. We lasted all of three months. It wasn't listener disinterest that killed us; it was crossing some of the taboos of Texas in the '50's which had to do with education for blacks and the inane and ineffective liquor laws which gave the city a very high incidence of drunks loose on the street.

The announcer really never cared much what stories we carried, as long as they were written with well-turned phrases that gave scope to his resonance. Nevertheless we did have some good stories. That was at the time Houston was just beginning to boom. Howard Hughes' Shamrock Hotel was the place to go, and the arts were just getting established. The town was wide open, and well suited to a news program. There was FHA scandals, hot lunch program denials in the schools, a woman who said she had been to Mars via flying saucer, drug problems, motel murders, burlesque shows and horse thieves, and we covered them all. I don't know where the announcer went to after the show folded, but I suspected he headed for the West Coast. After all Mary Tyler Moore needed some prototype for her announcer.

Letters to the Editor

Township cramps

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter in hope that you, too, would have some concern about the future tax burdens of our children and their children.

It has been pointed out that our township budget is about $1,000,000. There has been further indication that we have a population of about 20,000 people. That seems a little high, but when you don't keep a close eye on the maternity ward you know a few hundred could get by real easy. My arithmetic shows that we are faced with $50 per head township government cost. Is it real or fair to hit that newborn baby with a piece of swamp land for a park to play in and where is it? For the majority of little children it is so far away their parents will have to take them by car. A car without gasoline, if the environmentalists win their contest of hysteria.

These self appointed ecologists we have around us remind me of me of around forty years ago. There were numerous basement and garage religions that were yelling, "Come on in and bring your money with you. The end of the world is here."

I am sure when these self-appointed experts on ecology have to walk twenty miles home from their no longer air conditioned or heated office, take a cold shower, if they believe in it, drink a hot beer and crawl under an electric blanket that is cold — death from ecology will no longer be a problem of survival.

The latest performance cramp the township has accumulated is the alleged D.P.W. and its supervision. As I understand it, this individual receives approximately the total of salary, car and benefits, that are in the total of $20,000 ($17,000 actually) and for what. He isn't able to keep the weeds and grass mowed in the township. If he isn't able to get the mowing done, how do you think the sewers will run?

I saw the grounds of the Sashabaw and Clarkston fire station. The weeds were more than a foot tall and they had gone to seed. Now, I have read our obnoxious weed ordinance and this situation at that fire hall violates the law. Why shouldn't this head of the DPW be prosecuted for violating the law. He is responsible for the property. He might have the alibi that it rained, other areas of the township were rained on and they were mowed.

If he was in the real estate business or a business man in this township, they would have him in court once and they would spend thousands of dollars to violate their civil and constitutional rights. One of the things that causes me great concern is the constant intrusion upon the legal and civil rights of the businessmen and the realtors of the township. This should be stopped immediately, for they are the real backbone of the area's growth.

I believe there has been more corruption in politics and local government than there has been in real estate effort. It is time that the local government changes some of its performance. It should be remembered that when they violated these businessmen's rights, they are also violating the law.

Gloomy as it may seem, we have one hope in this township. We have a paper, with an editor that is really interested in the people. It is nice to know that she will tell it like it is.

James Harmon

The other side

To the Editor,

Concerning your article of May 23, 1973, referring to one of the Clarkston School bus drivers being dismissed, does your reporter find it beyond his or her means to gather ALL of the facts?

Had your reporter taken either the time or interest in reporting the case, the readers would know that the bad judgment used was only the OPINION of a few people who did not even witness the accident.

The Clarkston Community Schools Bus Driver Association has compiled information and facts to a large degree.

This information has been turned over to Dr. Green, superintendent of Clarkston Schools. We are now awaiting his decision.

The association feels the driver of the bus was unjustly dismissed for an accident beyond her control. We further feel the blame must be placed where it rightly belongs, in the lap of the Oakland County Road Commission, as they neglected to post danger signs at the scene of a newly constructed causeway in a swampy area. This has been a problem area as the road commission is well aware of. The road has been under water for some time. The sides of the road would sink under one's feet up to three feet from either edge.

This swamp has taken several other vehicles in the past few weeks. The drivers of the vehicles live in the area yet could not avoid being sucked in as the road gave way in the same manner as happened with the school bus.

We might add this road was built up and graded beautifully, awaiting any unsuspecting victims.

As is "par for the course" the road commission left a job only half done.

The Clarkston Community Schools Bus Driver's Association
President, Sallie Franks

Attend the meeting

Parents and Taxpayers of the Clarkston School System:

Very soon there will be a special meeting called by the Board of Education. The meeting will be to decide if books that contain obscene language will remain in our school libraries.

The Board of Education is charged with the right to determine which books will be available in the school library, but these people are or should be the extension of the community.

If you, as parents, want your children to read books with obscene language, that downgrade the Bible, God and our country, then stay home.

There are people who say children should have the right to read anything, and that that right should take precedent over the right of the parents to decide what books they want their children to read.

The Michigan State General School Laws, Act No. 328, P.A. 1931, Penal Code D, section 142, titled Furnishing Obscene Books, says that it is against the law to furnish obscene material to a minor. In many instances this law is either forgotten or pushed aside.

As a parent and taxpayer in the Clarkston School System, I strongly object to the schools' furnishing this type of book, using tax dollars to pay for this type of filth, and the breaking of the General School laws, by furnishing obscenity to a minor.

I am asking parents of students in our school system to attend this special meeting and make their feelings known. If you, as parents don't care what your children read, don't ask the School Board to care.

If you would like to obtain some of these books so you will have some prior knowledge, some I have objected to are: Soul On Ice by Eldridge Cleaver, The Black Panthers by Gene Marine, Black Boy by Richard Wright, Conversations with Eldridge Cleaver by Lee Lockwood.

There are others, but you will be able to decide for yourself after reading some of these books.

Please care what your children are reading, attend the special meeting coming up.

Thank you,
Edwin L. Manley

Wolves advance to semi-finals

Clarkston's Varsity baseball team won the second round in the State High School baseball tournament by defeating Davison 2-1.

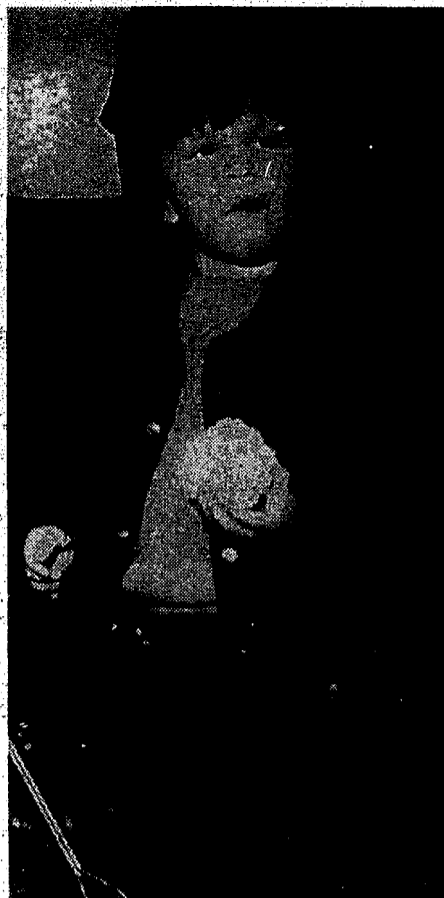

Clarkston scored one run in the first inning on a double by Al Hux, after Kurt Hesse walked and John Walts singled.

However, the big blow came in the sixth when Greg Swanson hit a home-run to break up a 1-1 deadlock. Dave Partlo was the winning pitcher, credited with striking out 9 Davison batters.

The Wolves have now defeated Pontiac Central and Davison in tournament play and carry a 12 won and 9 lost record to the semi-finals of the District. Clarkston plays Waterford Kettering in the semis on Saturday, June 2, at 1 p.m. in Davison.

The winner of the Clarkston-Kettering game will play at 4 against the winner of the Rochester-Waterford Mott game (10 a.m.) for the District championship.

Park cited

Davisburg and its Springfield-Oaks Park Golf Course and Activity Center are cited as top state vacation attractions in Automobile club of Michigan's May Motor News magazine.

In an article titled "What to See and Do in Michigan," Auto Club's 1,100,000 reader-members are told that the Center will stage a "Scout-a-Rama" North Oakland County Boy Scout Camporee June 1-3, followed by the Miller-Johnson Circus June 10-12 (sponsored by the North Oakland County law enforcement agencies) and the Loretta Lynn Longhorn World Championship Rodeo Aug. 23-26.

Clarkston 9th grade drops 2 track meets

Clarkston Junior High's 9th grade track team dropped two close meets last week.

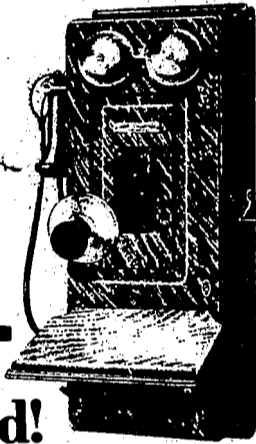

On May 15, they lost to Walled Lake Western by a score of 66-57. CJHS took 7 first places and 6 seconds, but lost the meet by losing 2 relays. Wayne Thompson took 3 first places to lead all scoring.

On May 18, Clarkston lost to East Hills Junior High by a score of 68-55. Despite the loss, several school records were set. Paul Glowzinski set the previous 2 mile record with a time of 11:09.5. Wayne Thompson set two records. In the 100 yd. dash he ran 10.7 records, his 220 yd. dash record time was 24.3 seconds. Numerous runners had their best times of the year.

On Thursday, May 31 the Central Oakland Junior High 9th grade League Track Meet will be held. This will be hosted by Clarkston this year and held at the high school track. Twelve schools will participate with field events beginning at 4:30 and running events beginning at 5:30. Refreshments will be sold by the Boosters Club, so come out and make an evening of seeing the top 9th grade track athletes in the area compete for the track championship.

Tennis club to be ready in July

Now under construction and planned for use by late July is the area's first indoor tennis facility.

To be known as the Deer Lake Racquet Club, the brick and vertical steel building will house four carpeted courts, an air conditioned lounge overlooking the courts, an air conditioned private club room with banquet facilities, complete locker room facilities, a nursery, and a whirlpool and sauna baths for men and women.

The club, a subsidiary of DPM Properties, is owned by Harold Doremus, Forrest Milzow and Bud Patton.

Patton reported Mark Reznick, 27, of Dearborn who traveled with Jean Hoxie as an assistant coach, has been engaged as club pro.

Depending on response from the community, there are plans, Patton said, to add another four courts, handball courts and possibly outdoor courts plus an Olympic size swimming pool to the complex next year.

Memberships in the club are now being accepted at 39 S. Main. The phone number is 625-8686.

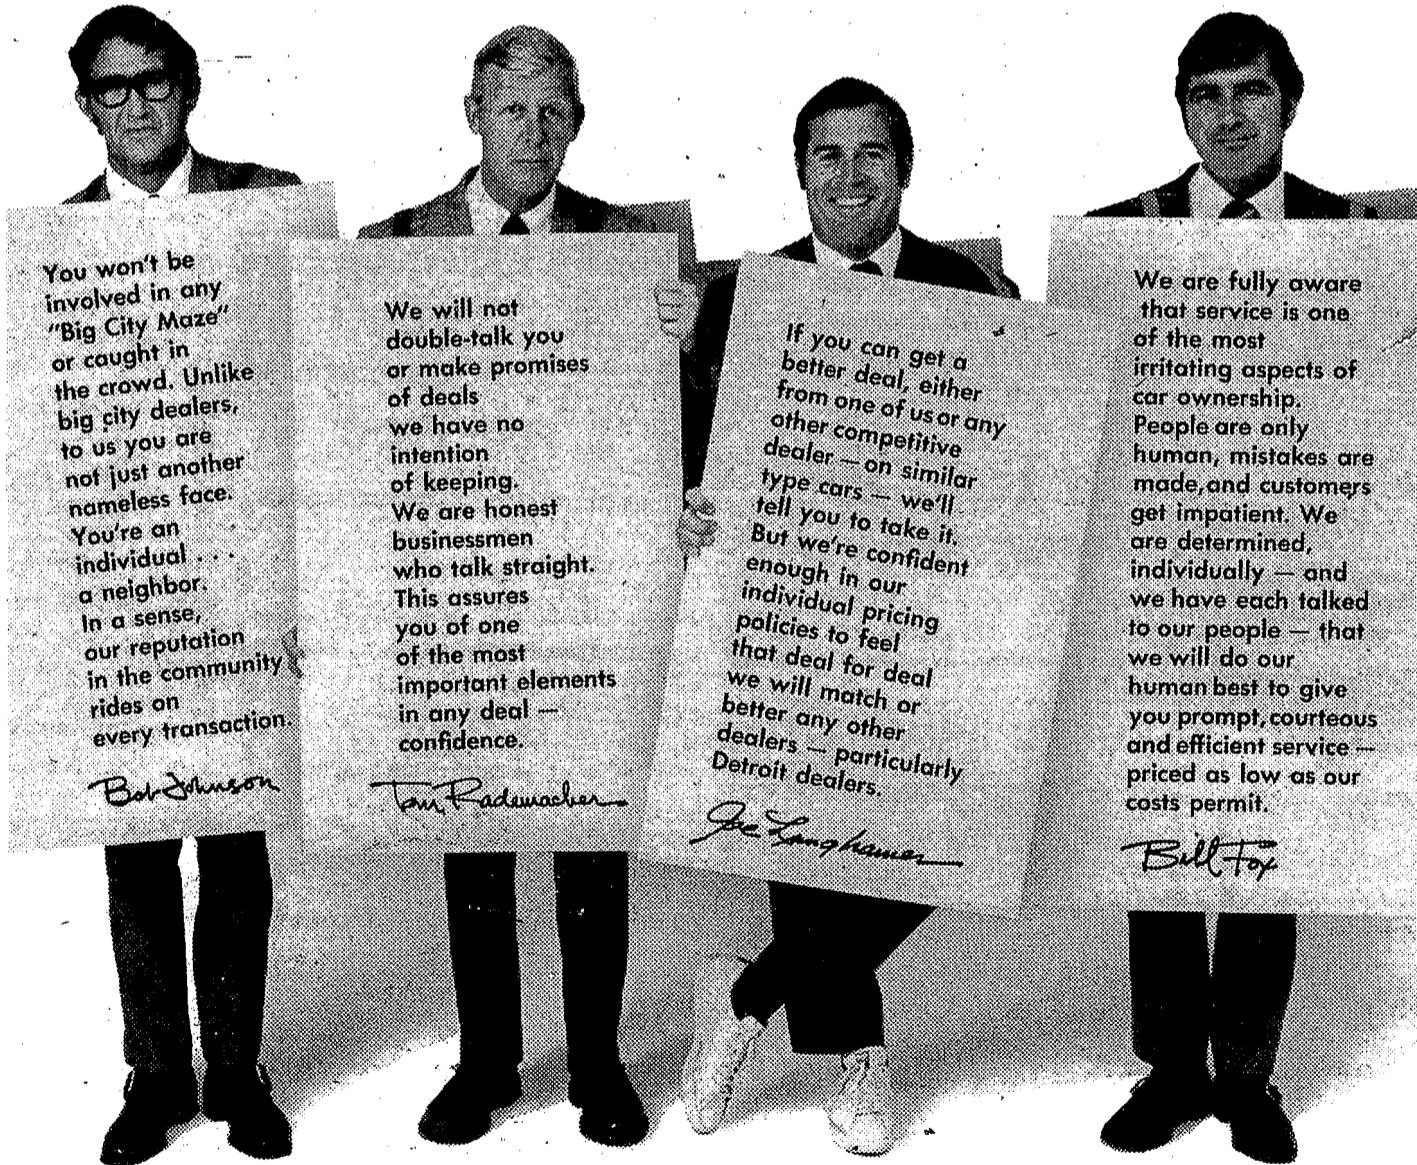

Records fall

The Clarkston Junior High School 7th and 8th grade track team increased their record to 4 wins and 1 loss with their victories over Bloomfield Hills Junior High and East Hills Junior High.

In their 78-49 victory over Bloomfield Hills, three records were set and one tied. Greg Moore set a new 440 dash record of 59.5 seconds. Jeff Breckenridge's 220 time of 26.3 broke the old record of 27.7. Duane Davidson tied the 100 yard low hurdles record, while the 880 relay team consisting of White, Ballard and Beyer set a new record of 1:49 at the East Hills meet this relay team broke their own record by 2 tenths of a second, while Jeff Breckenridge and Mark Baker ran 11.2 for a 100 yard dash record. John and Mark Baker set records in the 75 and 60 yard dashes with times of 8.6 and 7.0 respectively as Clarkston won 98 to 29.

We think you ought to know who you're dealing with.

You won't be involved in any "Big City Maze" or caught in the crowd. Unlike big city dealers, to us you are not just another nameless face. You're an individual... a neighbor. In a sense, our reputation in the community rides on every transaction.

Bob Johnson

We will not double-talk you or make promises of deals we have no intention of keeping. We are honest businessmen who talk straight. This assures you of one of the most important elements in any deal — confidence.

Tom Rademacher

If you can get a better deal, either from one of us or any other competitive dealer — on similar type cars — we'll tell you to take it. But we're confident enough in our individual pricing policies to feel that deal for deal we will match or better any other dealers — particularly Detroit dealers.

Joe Linghamer

We are fully aware that service is one of the most irritating aspects of car ownership. People are only human, mistakes are made, and customers get impatient. We are determined, individually — and we have each talked to our people — that we will do our human best to give you prompt, courteous and efficient service — priced as low as our costs permit.

Bill Fox

A car is most likely the second most important dollar purchase you can make. That's why we think people ought to know who they're dealing with before that decision is made. And that's also why we want you to know us by name and to recognize us for the way we run our business. And the way we keep our promises.

Come on in. And shake hands with the guys who want you to keep coming back as customers. And as friends, too.

High School sports year has some pluses

Donald Jesse and Susan Ball of the Bailey Lake Bulldogs proudly display bowling trophies presented Friday at a luncheon at Howe's Lanes. The two are of a class of 10 Bailey Lake students taught by Mrs. Sharon Marsden, assisted by Mrs. Vera Torr. Scorekeepers for the day's bowling were Mrs. Hazel Armstrong and Mrs. Mary Russell, bus drivers. The class bowled each Friday this year, and averages for the group, ranging in age from 6 to 14, were 21 to 51.

The Clarkston High Track Team racked up another dual meet victory on May 17. The final score was 69½ to 53½.

The only reason the Wolves won the meet was because Flint Powers High School had their prom on the same night. Quite a few of Power's best men did not compete.

Clarkston scored big in the field events and it was their performance here that won the meet. Tim Dougherty won the shot put, Bill Rondo won the long jump, Greg Becker leaped to victory in the high jump and Joe Ruhala took the pole vault competition.

Otto White took a first in both hurdle events. Mike Crosby scored the last Clarkston first place finish in the 2 mile. The rest of the running was dominated by Flint Powers.

By now you must have heard about Sue Latter. Sue was the only girl track winner from Clarkston and she took first in the State in the 440 and 880 yard dashes. The guys did not have anyone in the State Finals because nobody placed in the Regionals.

Last Thursday, the Wolves' baseball team rolled over Andover by the score of 9-1. Larry Miracle was the winning pitcher. On Saturday, Clarkston won their first State District game by defeating Pontiac Central.

Steve Rose, one of our main men on the tennis team, who is teamed up with Lewis Pope has a 12-2 record. However, Steve was eliminated in the tennis tourney the same as the rest of our team. Steve Mauti went the farthest, he made it to the third round.

Hitting skills honed

Clarkston boys in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades will have an opportunity to participate in a baseball clinic June 25 to 28. The enrollment fee is $5.

The new pitching machine purchased this year by Clarkston Athletic Boosters Club will be put to use teaching hitting skills. The machine throws both curve and fast balls at various speeds.

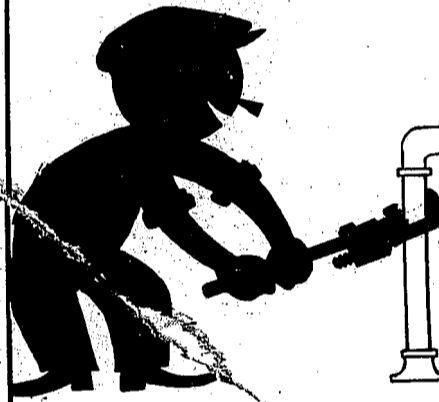

The clinic will run from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday at the Senior High School Varsity baseball field. In case of rain the batting cage in the high school gym will be used.

First week for men's basketball

The first week's play in the Independence Township Recreation Department's men's basketball league saw Griswold Sporting Goods, Haupt Pontiac and Brighton Athletic Club topping their opponents.

Rob White scored 52 of the Town Shop's 90 points against Haupt's 95. The BAC's 91-66 defeat of McGill Plumbing and Heating was aided by the 26 points scored by Lou Sullivan. Griswold beat Clarkston School Credit Union 97-79.

SPORTS
Go-Round
by Jerry Savoie

In swimming, the individual medley is an all around individual event. The swimmer swims the first third of the course breaststroke, the second third backstroke, and the last third, any other stroke than these two. Usually swimmers pick the crawl as being the fastest and easiest. The intercollegiate distance for this most taxing competition is three hundred yards. At the end of this, most swimmers are exhausted as may well be imagined, and most spectators are glad the event has been a spectator sport.

You'll be glad you visited SAVOIE INSULATION CO., 64 S. Main St., 625-2601 if you're a do-it-yourselfer; our experienced staff can provide you with expert do-it-yourself information. Facing the voters

A crowd of 50 heard candidates express their feelings about the schools last week.

Carolyn Place [from left], Iva May Sommers Caverly, Robert Walters and W. J. Cattin, four of the five School Board candidates seeking election to 2-year terms June 11, appeared in public forum last week to discuss their views. Richard L. Funk was detained by business.

School candidates discuss issues

An audience of approximately 50 people turned out last week at the high school to hear four of the five candidates, seeking Board of Education election June 11, state their views.

The forum was co-sponsored by the Clarkston Area Jaycees and the Clarkston Education Association.

Richard Funk, incumbent trustee, was unable to attend due to business reasons, it was announced; however, W. J. Cattin, also an incumbent seeking reelection, Mrs. Iva May Sommers Caverly, Mrs. Carolyn Place and Rev. Robert Walters were there to speak and answer questions.

The candidates were asked to address themselves to the questions of school financing, teacher tenure, enrichment programs, school attendance, drugs and smoking, and year-round school.

Cattin reported that since Clarkston is the poorest of the 28 school districts in Oakland County, he couldn't be anything but in favor of a change in the financing system. He said all schools should have enrichment programs, but Clarkston can't afford them on its current income.

He said the goal of the district is to provide the best school system it can consistent with the resources of the community.

On the subject of teacher tenure, Cattin said it had been necessary in the beginning as a means of protecting professors who discussed controversial subjects with their students, but that it had gone beyond that now. "I don't think a good, competent teacher needs it," he said. "The system keeps a lot of incompetent teachers working."

Noting that he believed the new attendance policy to be working, he added he feels the administration is dealing with the drug problem as best it can.

"If parents can't tell their youngsters are involved with drugs, how can the schools? What is the responsibility of schools in drug usage? The schools are not a police force," he said.

He added he supported the policy of allowing students to smoke at the high school.

Year-round school, he said, was

Five Clarkston men to graduate

Graduation exercises Monday, June 4, for 57 employes of GMC Truck and Coach Division who have completed management education programs will involve five Clarkston residents.

feasible anyplace and will probably come here. Noting that scheduling problems would be "terrific," he said he felt increased enrollment and the use of computers could solve them.

Mrs. Caverly, a former teacher, put enrichment courses second to improved reading courses. She also asked for smaller classes in the first three grades, and said she believed there should be a new elementary school built in the northwest area. "Elementary students should live closer to their buildings," she stated.

As for year-round school, she said it would be better than half day sessions.

Mrs. Place, a remedial reading specialist now engaged in private tutoring, spoke more of the need for good communication between teachers, administrators and parents. She felt better use of buildings and buses would tie schools more closely to the community.

She felt, she said, the school board should assume the financial responsibility if necessary for the Title I reading program, and that it should be expanded to include not just those students meeting low income criteria.

Rev. Walters said, if elected, he hoped to raise the level of school information available in the community and to raise the expectations of parents in regard to schools.

He pointed out several shortcomings in the district: no physical education in the elementary schools except for outside play; only two elementary schools with separate instruction rooms for daytime use; one elementary library located in a 20 by 25 foot storage room — two in the halls; a music room in a store room — another in a hall; three elementary schools where sick children lie on a cot in the hall until parents arrive.

In the secondary schools, Rev. Mr. Walters said three counselors have an impossible caseload attempting to serve 1,500 students; and spoke of the possibility of getting federal funding for the school's cooperative education program.

On the plus side he said he was glad to see field trips resumed, the initiation of a kindergarten screening program; and the plan between the township and schools to build sidewalks on Waldon and Sashabaw roads.

He said he favored school financing

Firemen support millage

Independence Township Volunteer Firefighters Association, composed of the men who fight the fires, has started a drive to convince voters of the necessity to vote an additional mill June 11 for Fire Department operation.

The men will be distributing 2,000 handbills door-to-door and answering questions taxpayers may have other than the property tax, had mixed feelings about teacher tenure, put the problem of school attendance on home motivation, and wanted enforcement of drug and smoking laws. He said he felt year-round school not feasible here because of the number of parents who take summer vacations.

Possible use of modular classrooms to solve schoolroom overcrowding, the need for 12 percent general fund equity to get the district through the summer without borrowing, the need for more playground supervision, the possibility of a millage election in which the people would decide whether they should vote more money for schools, and the current book investigation in the school libraries were also discussed.

Fireman Bill Halsey also spoke in support of the need for an additional mill for the Independence Township Fire Department, a question which will also appear on the June 11 ballot.

The engagement of Dianne Dunsmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Keith Dunsmore, 4824 Whitlow, Commerce Township, to Howard G. Bliss Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Bliss of Cecilia Ann, has been announced. An August 17 wedding is planned.

Expectant parents classes offered

The Health Department is offering a Summer series of Expectant Parent Classes beginning Wednesday, June 6.

Topics covered by the series of eight classes include mental health of the family unit; growth and development of the baby before birth and immediately after birth; labor and delivery; and the care and feeding of the infant.

Film and other audio-visual aids are used to illustrate some of the topics. One of the classes is a tour of the hospital.

The classes, taught by Public Health Nurses are co-sponsored by the Oakland County Medical Society and various adult education departments in Oakland County.

The classes will be held weekly for eight weeks from 7 to 9 p.m., in Committee Room "A" in the Supervisor's Auditorium located in the Oakland County Courthouse, 1200 N. Telegraph Road, Pontiac.

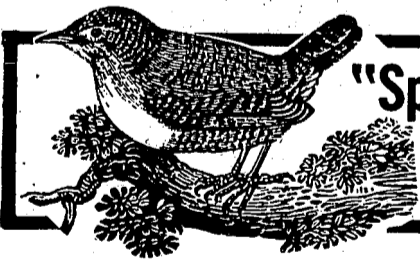

To register please call the Oakland County Health Department, 332-9255 and ask for the Education Office.

Festival

The Frankenmuth Bavarian Festival is June 10 to 16 this year. Festivities will open at 1 p.m. Sunday June 10 with a parade depicting "Bavarian Folklore." That evening Drüm and Bugle Corps from surrounding states and Canada will compete. Heritage Park Festival Grounds will be open daily, noon until midnight, with stage entertainment in the 'Spas Platz', old world top name bands, Bavarian food, decor and costumes, family tent, arts and crafts exhibitors, children's playground and small animal farm.

Senior potluck

Senior citizens from the north end of Oakland County are invited to a potluck dinner at noon June 5 at Colombiere College. Ed Thomas of the Clarkston Drop-in Center has charge of the arrangements.

Hospital report

by Betty Hecker
625-5726

Clarence Ingersall of Snowapple Drive underwent surgery on Monday at Pontiac General Hospital. He is in room 303 and is able to see some friends. He and his wife hope that he will soon be home.

Last Wednesday, Elton Lockwood was released from the hospital and is home on Andersonville Road. May 2, Elton suffered a heart attack, and spent the next 8 days in the intensive care unit.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cummings of Clarkston Road recently returned from a two week vacation to Atlanta, Ga., St. Augustine, Fla. and Cocoa Beach, Fla. to visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Stephen and Patricia Sutton.

The annual piano-organ recital for the students of Mrs. John M. Cook of Seymour Lake Road will be held at the Seymour Lake United Methodist Church Saturday, June 2, 1973.

This year the recital will be divided into two parts. The afternoon recital beginning at 2:00 will feature the beginning and intermediate students.

Advanced and adult pupils will be participating in the evening recital beginning at 7:00. The public is invited to attend.

Clarkston Co-op Nursery morning students, mothers and grandmothers recently went to Wildwood Park for fun and games and a lunch to mark the end of term. Another group visited Hawthorne Park.

The nursery parents will be active during the summer, hostessing teas during July to introduce new members to the nursery board.

Those interested in enrolling four year-olds, should contact Mrs. Stephen Stamas at 625-3835. Classes are filling rapidly, we're told.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Clarkston United Methodist Church is sponsoring an Antique Show and Sale on Thursday and Friday, June 7 and 8, from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Marianna Vascassenno, chairman of the window decorating committee, is working with Alicia Duncan, Doreen Grey, Ruth Mast and Marietta Bullard. They have decorated and displayed antiques in many of the windows of the businesses in downtown Clarkston, to advertise the upcoming show.

Over 25 selected dealers from Michigan and Ohio will offer authentic antiques and collectors' items for sale.

And as in years past, the Tea Room will be open.

It was fun to march in the Memorial

Day parade through Clarkston. I was able to see so many friends and people I didn't know. I would be especially proud to know the two people who stood at the south end of the Mill Pond. As each and every American flag passed them, these two people stood at attention with their hands over their hearts, as all Americans should.

The Zelenaks of Visgar Drive in Waterford were well represented in the Clarkston parade. Jim, (father) as the assistant troop leader, marched with three sons Mark, Paul and Jim for Boy Scout Troop No. 189. Isobel (mother) and son Dennis both marched with Cub Scout Pack 133. Jeannie marched with her Girl Scouts, No. 155.

Joyce didn't have her uniform, but she did walk most of the parade route.

Isobel said, "This is the day I've been waiting for. All my family is in scouting marching in this parade."

"People helping people help themselves"

By Holly Stephens

Alice Salzano, coordinator at independence center is leaving the center May 31. She will be replaced on an interim basis by Zella Benson, who has a degree in social work and has been chairman of the Food and Clothes Closet at the center this year. Alice and her family will be moving to Arizona in June.

It is with deep regret that the members of independence center make this announcement. Mrs. Salzano was one of the people involved with original concept that lead to the formation of the center. She has devoted herself exclusively to the center for two years. Alice could be found at the center on stormy winter Sunday nights planning the next week's activities.

Many miles were put on the Salzano car driving needy clients to doctor appointments, dentists, and night school classes. She spent hours attending meetings that resulted in "Service With Love" and various training sessions and classes at independence center. And, way back in the beginning, Alice wallpapered, stripped and refinished wood work, and did a whole lot of painting. Whenever the center is spotlessly clean it's usually because Alice was there with her vacuum and furniture polish.

Alice will be missed by all those involved with independence center. Members, volunteers and clients would like to thank her for all she has done and wish her the best of everything for the future.

Steak dinner

The Eastern Star will serve a Swiss steak dinner from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday, June 3, at the Masonic Temple, Washington and Main, Clarkston. This will be the last dinner of the season.

If Darrol Robinson, 176 N. Holcomb, will call the Clarkston News, he will receive a free pass to the Clarkston Cinema to see "Jeremiah Johnson."

Teaming up for the fight against Muscular Dystrophy June 5, is Clarkston chairwoman Nancy Gruenberg with M.D. poster child Darryl Ayers and Detroit Lions' quarterback Greg Landry, general chairman of the 1973 drive.

Spiritual Message

JESUS ASCENDS INTO HEAVEN AS TRIUMPHANT LORD

"When he had said this, as they watched, he was lifted up, and a cloud removed him from their sight. As he was going, and as they were gazing intently into the sky, all at once there stood beside them two men in white who said, 'Men of Galilee, why stand there looking up into the sky? This Jesus, who has been taken away from you up to heaven, will come in the same way as you have seen him go.'" Acts 1:

Forty days after Jesus rose from the dead, he gathered his apostles together near Jerusalem. When he finished speaking to them, he was lifted up before their eyes into heaven. Two angels told the apostles that some day Jesus would return to them in the same way in which he left this earth. This event related in the Acts of the Apostles is called the mystery of the ascension. It marks the triumphant return of Christ to his Father in heaven. This is the feast that we celebrate this Thursday in many of our churches. But I suppose if this feast of the Ascension were in a popularity contest with the other feasts of our Lord it would very likely come out last. And this is really a shame because, in a certain sense, the Ascension could be the greatest of our Lord.

Why? Because it is his supreme glorification. The life of Jesus was restored in the resurrection but that life was brought to the full in the ascension. Jesus rose from the dead, not to continue his earthly existence which began in the womb of Mary his mother, but to receive a new, heavenly existence in the place of honor at his Father's right hand. The ascension completes the resurrection.

Citizens seek recruits

The Michigan Citizens Lobby today announced the appointment of Doreen Braverman to head the Lobby's operations in Oakland County.

Goodrich camp

A series of camp sessions, including a Christian Sports Camp has been scheduled by Camp Lakeview at Goodrich this summer.

Professional coaches and nationally known professional sports personalities will assist in physical fitness programs which include baseball, football, basketball, swimming, canoeing, archery, hiking, jogging and conservation projects June 11 to August 4.

Grades 7, 8 and 9 will be accepted June 11 to 23, grades 9 through 12 June 25 to July 7, and a leadership camp will be July 9 through 14.

Christ Under Stress is the theme of the camp July 16 to 28. The camp is designed to help young people learn how to handle stress and discover the real inner person.

A week for girls who will be in grades 9 through 12 this fall will feature in-camp recreation and a Christian charm course July 30 to August 4.

A free descriptive brochure is available by calling 627-2530 or writing General Manager Sterling Desmond, Camp Lakeview, Goodrich.

According to Miss Braverman, a special education teacher residing at 6521 Red Maple Lane, Bloomfield Township, "The purpose of the Lobby is to give the solid majority of our citizens, the taxpayers, a more effective voice in government at the local, county and state levels. The rich have a powerful voice and so do the special interests, but not those of us who work for a living."

Miss Braverman stated that MCL is not a Nader-type group. "We simply want to show people that they can make government and politicians responsive to their needs and to ensure when important decisions are made that we have a say in those decisions."

Miss Braverman requested all interested persons to contact her at 642-2747 or write to her at 6521 Red Maple Lane, Birmingham 48010.

Free pap tests

Free pap smear tests are being offered at the Graham Health Center on the Oakland University campus between 9:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. June 11 to 15. Appointments may be made by calling the Michigan Cancer Foundation, North Oakland Unit, at 332-5620 or 332-8679.

Hernias

When speaking of hernias, most people mean the inguinal variety, in which a section of intestine protrudes through a weak portion of the abdominal wall.

Actually, there are 30 types of hernia, a medical term used to describe any protrusion of any body structure through the wall of the cavity which normally contains it.

Inguinal hernia is the most common type, and occurs 35 times as often in men as in women. The abdominal wall weakness usually begins before birth, and occurs more often in the development of the male fetus.

Although the lifting of heavy objects is often blamed for a hernia, it is much less common than a simple chronic cough, or strain during urination or bowel movement.

Hernias are usually detected by an abnormal bulge in the groin, which may be accompanied by a burning sensation or pain. The protrusion may be seen only when the patient is standing, to recede while resting or when the bulge is pressed upon.

If the hernia is minor, your doctor may recommend a truss or a padded harness that keeps pressing the bulge back in place. We will be glad to help you with such a prescription.

However, the problem is too serious for self-diagnosis and treatment. Your doctor will often insist on surgical correction because neglecting an inguinal hernia can lead to severe complications. The intestine may be pinched in the opening or blocked, causing a painful swelling and reduction of blood supply.

Martin home reflects yesteryear

by Betty Hecker

William and Lorraine Martin have "come home." They feel that the quiet, shaded streets of Clarkston are where they belong.

Their home on Main Street is the old Smith House, built in 1852 for Nicholas Bonaparte Smith and his family.

Remodeled about ten years ago, the Martins have worked to keep the house and its furnishings of the era in which the house was built.

The large living room has a unique dome, pine tongue and groove board ceiling, painted white. All the woodwork, the door casings, the many built-in shelves, and the wainscoting are white.

A grandfather clock in the living room has an integral part. Mrs. Martin's mother, Carol Thompson said, "My family name was Sanford, and they were from Plymouth, Mass. While my husband and I lived in Milwaukee years ago, we found this clock, signed on the back by the maker, "Sanford of Plymouth". I'm sure it was made by one of my ancestors."

The wood frame of the living room loveseat is hand carved with fruit and flowers. Bright floral print upholstery matches the accompanying side chair. On the table in front of the loveseat is a unique and old glass domed centerpiece. Mrs. Thompson said that she had been told that it was part of the furnishings of the original Smith household.

Antiques have beauty

Under the glass dome is a wax basket and delicate wax flowers in pastel colors. The formal dining room has a full wall of built-in shelves, filled with Lorraine's collection of antique china. On a side table sits a slender and graceful old chocolate set.

Other china pieces are displayed on the buffet. The corner cabinet is reserved for their collection of mustache cups. "At one time, we had more than 150 of them, but not so many now. We have given many away to friends."

The music room has bronze carpeting, gold flocked fleur-de-lis wallpaper, a settee, and a rocker, and of course, the musical instruments - an organ, and a mandolin that once belonged to Lorraine's father. The music room is also a gallery for old family photographs.

The library is paneled, both ceiling and walls, with the tongue and groove boards. The wooden shelves covering two of the walls have scalloped edges.

A Jenny Lynn crib with its bright patchwork quilt sets in the library. "All my grandchildren have slept in that crib," said Mrs. Thompson.

The quilts on the twin Jenny Lynn beds in the front bedroom account for hours of loving labor to make the thousands of tiny stitches.

Matching chests, separated by an antique mirror, stand against one wall papered with pale yellow roses.

The spread on a bed in the upstairs bedroom is hand crocheted. The quilt in this room is also handmade. The night table holds a small bronze candle light and old fashioned china pieces. The small rocker in this bedroom has a round cane seat and back.

The Martins spend much of their leisure time in the family room, originally a wood shed. Comfortable and attractively furnished in an Early American style, the room has a large window that views Parke Lake.

Copper pots and plates adorn the dark beam mantel of the brick fireplace. Wood carvings, of geese in flight on wooden plaques and graceful free standing sculpture were carved by William Martin's father.

YMCA to operate camp

The North Oakland YMCA will operate three 10-day sessions (Monday-Friday) at Day Camp Arrowhead for elementary school-age boys and girls.

Camp Arrowhead happens on 200 acres of property owned by Colombiere College in Springfield Township and the Pontiac Branch YMCA.

Arrowhead is conducted primarily in the natural out-of-doors setting to help campers develop a sense of appreciation for nature. Instructions in camping skills, nature study, and Indian Lore are the core of the program. Additional activities include hiking, singing, fishing and swimming (at the YMCA). Prime importance will be given to encourage each camper to learn and grow in his ability to relate and interact with others.

Transportation will be provided to the campsite. The YMCA bus will leave the YMCA at 8:45 a.m. and will make pick ups along Dixie Highway. Camping ends at 4 p.m.

Camp sessions begin June 18, July 19, and July 23. Program fees are $28 per period for YMCA members, $33 non-members.

Home Gardening

by Dave Coulter

Because the seed that produce the vine crops requires soil temperatures in excess of 65° F. for rapid germination and emergence, I have deliberately delayed discussing them until soil temperatures should have reached that point.

Of the vine crops, cucumbers are by and large are the most popular in home gardens. The major classifications of cucumbers are "slicers" and "picklers" and their names declare their usage.

These cucumbers are sub classified as "Black Spines" and "White Spines". They are so classified because the tiny spines that emerge from the warts are so colored. To the home gardeners spine color is unimportant, but it is important that you know that the black spined varieties turn a yellow orange in color when the fruit is mature and the white spined fruit turn a pale white when mature. It is important to you to remove the fruit that have disclosed this color change, because this change signals the plant to put its vigor into seed production and minimize the formation of new and more fruit.

Hence--pick all cucumbers from the vines when they show this color change if you want high production. Pick your cukes frequently and thoroughly.

All of you know that there are many many seeds in each cucumber. For the formation of properly shaped cucumber fruit, it is mandatory that pollen transfer from the male flower to the female flower occurs! Bees are best at this pollen transfer and they must carry and transfer two grains of pollen for each seed in the cucumber; crooked, top-shaped or ball-shaped fruit result from incomplete pollination.

When you select your cucumber seed I urge you to carefully read the packet label. Most of the seed racks contain packets that are labeled "hybrid" and many of these hybrids are what are called "Gynoeicious Hybrids". This is technical talk that indicates hybrids so labeled have a predominance of female flowers. Most of these hybrids will "set" a fruit at each node of the vine; and consequently the grower can achieve a very high yield from a fewer number.

Recommended varieties are for pickling: Crispy, gynoeicious hybrid, National pickling and Wisconsin S.M.R. 18, both open pollinated. S.M.R. in the latter variety indicates that this variety is resistant to Scab and Mosaic, two major cucumber diseases.

For slicing I recommend Straight 8 - Long Marketer, Marketmore and Improved Long Green. Tabletreast is a gynoeicious hybrid that is very good and Burpee's Burpless hybrid solves personal problems for those who like to eat cucumbers, but are embarrassed by their return.

Cantaloupe: Of the open pollinated cantaloupe about the best bets are Honey Rock, which can make in about 85 days, Early Delicious No. 51, Hales Best, started in peat pots and generally these are hybrids. Of the hybrids, Burpees Hybrid has the best acceptance. Goldstar is also a good melon. All of these, recommended, are ribbed and netted. It takes exceptional skill and luck to successfully grow Honey Dews or Casawbas in this area.

While Squash are considered a vine crop there are many varieties of bush squash that do not vine and they are considered summer squash. If you have a small garden and still want to grow squash, these types are recommended: Favorite varieties of summer squash are Yellow Summer Crookneck, Early Prolific, Straightneck, Zucchini (Grey Green, flecked with almost yellow), Dark Green Zucchini, Cocozelle and White Bush Scallop. All of these are early, easily grown and prolific.

The vining or winter squash require room! Some vines will grow 12-15 feet in length. If planted to closely to other crops they can dominate as the summer turns into fall. Table Queen (acorn), Butternut, Buttercup, Delicious and Hubbard are all good. Botanically Butternut is a pumpkin and perhaps its more easily grown than the others because it resists the squash bore, which can take the others out of production.

If the kids insist on some pumpkins for Jack-O-Lanterns, a variety by that name is the best bet for smaller gardens and Large Yellow or Conn. Field. may be grown if you have lots and lots of room.

The "Ice Box or Midget" watermelons are seedy as all get out, but because they are exceptionally early, they seem the best bets for this area. Sugar Baby, Market Midget and New Hampshire Midget are readily available and good. To my mind and taste, if you have the room for large watermelons a fairly new one, Crimson Sweet, is the best. It will grow to 20-25 pounds, has a flattened globe shape, is striped and has a beautifully crimson flesh thats very sweet.

This will be the last of these columns for awhile. It would help me immensely to plan future columns to learn what you think is important that I omitted these past months. Will you please be free in commenting to The Clarkston News what you believe to be my errors of omission and commission. It has been a pleasure for me to perform what I hope has been a community service. My thanks to Mrs. Saile for her acceptance and encouragement.

Jim Tolbert, Lori Lewis, Kathy Dewey, Trina Bailey and Patty O'Rourke were among Clarkston Elementary School fifth graders who have the One over to the empty lot next door to The Clarkston News last week as their part in a pollution project.

If you've decided to install prefinished paneling in your home, here is some handy advice. Furring strips must be applied to concrete or masonry walls before paneling can be installed. Attach with 1½ inch masonry nails, flange-type fasteners or perforated anchor nails. Nail or cement paneling to furring. If you nail it, nail to studs or furring strips at intervals of 8 inches along the panel edges, 12 inch intervals elsewhere. Remember to start panels from a corner and make sure first sheet is true and straight. Paneling will install quickly and easily.

Nickelodeon spruces up

By Betty Hecker

The Nickelodeon is a delicatessen and party store on Ortonville Road, north of Clarkston.

Two and a half years ago, Ed and Jeannette Krause and their sons, Kevin and Eric bought the old neighborhood gas station and garage. In the midst of building and rebuilding, they installed a nickelodeon, the granddaddy of today's juke box.

Ed was busy with hammer and saw, and soon the appearance of the building changed. Cedar shake shingles went up, the roof line changed, windows went in, the old car lift in the garage area became the center of a sunburst design as a brick floor was added.

When they opened for business, they began to build their reputation for delicious sandwiches. And to go with sandwiches and party trays, they sold a complete line of imported and domestic wines and beers.

Jeanette baked nut breads, brownies, and cookies for a time to sell in the shop. Later, they contacted a bakery to furnish their line of baked goods. But, some of their customers still wanted the "homemade" kind, so 10-year-old Kevin went into business. Kevin took over the nutbread, brownie business, and his mother proudly said he receives orders sometimes, ("and he gets so excited"). "One week he made over $6; we give him 20c on everything he bakes."

Major remodeling has meant moving the furnace, the hot water heater, the cooler compressors, the chimney and taking down a wall. But it was all necessary and it's almost all done. Two rest rooms have been added, equipment for the kitchen, tables and settees have been ordered and in only a matter of weeks, the Nickelodeon Tavern will open.

The Tavern will have a turn of the century atmosphere, with the brick floor and fireplace, hanging Tiffany lamps, exposed beams and ceiling, animal skins on the walls, and of course, the Nickelodeon.

"We think we have a nice place here. We make good sandwiches. Now we'll open a nice place to have a sandwich, a beer and some homemade soup. It'll be a friendly tavern," said Ed.

Historic war buffs gather

A colorful Civil War Exhibition will take place June 2 and 3 at Addison Oaks Park.

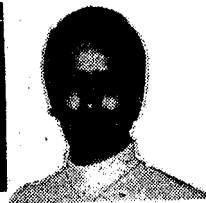

In addition to displays of Civil War cannon, artifacts and equipment of the period and collections of items more than 100 years in age, a dozen teams of Civil War buffs from Michigan, Ohio and the northwest area will compete for prizes in nine events Saturday, firing authentic Civil War muskets, carbines and revolvers.

On Sunday the teams will parade in authentic uniforms of the "War Between the States", both Union and Confederate, and then compete in team events, firing at breakable targets.

Women and children wear beautiful homemade gowns and dresses of the period.

The public is invited to all events. The park is located on Romeo Road, two miles west of Rochester Road (M-150).

Mortgage payments are a problem for many people. When you are financing a house, keep in mind that inflation can make a difference, either for good or bad, in your monthly house payment budget. Interest rates rise with inflation, so you pay less for money you have borrowed. Your mortgage is also written on the basis of a dollar worth. This means that you pay back with a cheaper dollar money which was worth more when you borrowed it. On the other hand, house payments that are too high begin with may become even more of a burden when non-housing costs also rise.

The experienced salespeople at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., 625-5821 can knowledgeably advise you on the many considerations involved in choosing a new home and can often save you many costly mistakes. We invite you to call us with your listing also for extensive exposure to qualified potential buyers. Open: 9-8, Mon-Thur; 9-6, Fri, Sat; 12-5, Sun.

NOTICE

Beginning June 4th Through August

Ben Powell Disposal Service Will Begin Summer Schedule of Two Pick-ups per Week Pick-up Days Will Be The Same As Last Year.

The independent view by Jean Saile

Mike Dennis and Beth Tower enjoyed dinner at Addison Oaks during Saturday night's prom festivities.

Senior prom

Bill Hamilton escorted Cathy Thompson of Milford to the Clarkston senior prom.

Joe Ruhala fixes Meg Williams' shoe during the Clarkston Senior High School prom Saturday at Addison Oaks.

Attendance at parent back-to-school days at Clarkston High School is picking up. Only four parents responded to the special day in April, but 25 showed up Thursday. That was gratifying to Mrs. David Bickerstaff, one of the original four, who termed the day "really worthwhile."

It's interesting to note the effect of good weather on people's mobility. We see twice as many people on a sunshiny day in the office as we do on a dull one.

Five members of the Clarkston Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol have had their introduction to battlefield situations. They were assigned Wednesday night to guard a downed plane in Ann Arbor and found the plane and surrounding area still littered with parts of bodies.

The penny giver has suggested I ask the "sensitive" I interviewed recently who he or she is. I did, and the sensitive feels the donor may have been recently swathed in bandages. The person who comes to mind is John Sackrider, recovering now from a bad auto accident. Am I right?

At any rate, the giver offers, "We're here in this world to help others! I've heard this refrain o'er and o'er; If it's true that we're here to help others — Then what are the others here for?"

The donor also adds, "Please tell Mr. Sherman for me that since he has not mentioned his share of the pennies in the last 6½ months, his are being discontinued and added to yours."

Consider him told, the ingrate!

The pennies now total $9.91. We're almost there.

There's something about a Memorial Day parade that evokes for me the era of the early 1900s. Even though the observance was not officially established until after World War I, it has to be most reminiscent of the Victorian gatherings of that era when we had time to stop and pay homage and to savor the elements of life.

A newsletter called Pine Knob Chatter is being distributed by Pine Knob PTA. Besides including many of the students' writings, it offers the information about a "planting party" Saturday to beautify the school grounds and recognizes that Mrs. Aleta Beck and Mrs. Pauline Davis will be honored at a teachers' luncheon June 13. The two are retiring this year.

There are also jokes: Wife: Dear, do you have a good memory for faces? Husband: Of course, you know I do. Wife: Good, I broke your shaving mirror today.

We have been flooded with press release packages from the new Meyer L. Prentis Cancer Center of the Michigan Cancer Foundation which is due to open May 19 and 20 in Detroit. Somehow I'd rather have seen most of the money needed to present the sleek information kits spent on cancer research.

Pine Knob Elementary School now boasts a full set of World Book Encyclopedias, won by the school for its record sales in the state of the PTA magazine.

An item forgotten while writing the story of our seeress: We asked if she always believed the messages received from the dean. "No," said she. "If I believed them while they lived, I believe them now, but there are some who I didn't believe here and I don't believe now."

Dan Campbell in a Class E Scow of 28 feet was the largest sailboat competing. The boat carries 325 feet of sail and is normally sailed on Torch Lake.

Sandy Sanborn's canoe was the smallest entry in the Memorial Day Regatta on Deer lake, but he had to drop out before completion of the race.

Memorial Day regatta

Sails lined the beach prior to Monday's race. Of the 22 entries, Vince Luzi was first, Brooke Bennett second and Bill Pfahlert third. Three more races are scheduled next Sunday at Deer Lake, skippers' meeting called for 10 a.m. Trophies will again be awarded.
