Tapes of the high school concert band and chorus in their rendition of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" will be available at some future date at the high school office, according to Principal William Dennis. Apparently the woman who called us last week to say they were available now had just jumped the gun a bit.

The septic system at Pine Knob is now under control of the Oakland County DPW and working fine, according to township officials. There's no more of the situation which had women forced to use the men's facilities as it sometimes evolved last year.

Bonus for families, groups or organizations planning to visit Cedar Pointe in Ohio this summer: The Independence Township Recreation Department has discount tickets available — adult tickets which normally sell for $6.18 available for $5.60 and children's tickets normally sold for $5.15 for $4.60. Savings of 58 to 55 cents on each are possible.

There's $1.16 in pennies...proceeds from the pennies the penny giver sends and rent on the antique rocking chair which sits in front of my desk.

The chair was donated to a flea market meant to raise funds for the late doomed County Clerk campaign. Perhaps we priced it too high, for it still remains. And now it helps to raise funds for the various penny projects we have undertaken.

If Larry and Madelyn Mainland ever decide they'd like the chair returned, it's here and a phone call would do the trick.

Jim Arnold, electrician, is leaving the Forrest Milzow office building to take up new quarters in the recently enlarged Custom Floor Covering building at 5928 M-15.

Carpenters' choristers

On stage with the Carpenters at the Pine Knob Music Theatre this week are 15 young singers from Clarkston schools. The children's chorus was organized to appear with Richard and Karen Carpenter for one number, the popular "Sing." They practiced for a week under the direction of Grayce Warren, Clarkston High School choral director. The chorus consists of Robin Smith, Cathy Nichols, Ann Rademacher, Kelly Bigger, Holly Smith, Kathy VanLoon, Laura Acton, Cheryl Stonerock, Kyle Satterlee, Mark Stuemke, Mike Jensen, Jim Siple, Steve Boyer, Ric Huttenlocher and Keith Bryant.

I've been trying to collect clippings and quotes on Michigan taxes to draw some perfunctory conclusion that would make it all clear to me and you.

I admit failure.

Our Governor has said he favors no new taxes this year. Yet even under the tax cut plan signed by Milliken some people will have an increase in taxes.

One might conclude that the increase is not on new taxes, but old taxes. However, that's about the only way it can be figured.

The state equalization board (which may be illegal, but that will be settled in court) has ordered an increase in valuations practically everywhere in the state, but especially in Oakland county. An increase in valuation is an increase in property tax... but that's not a new tax.

If gasoline is taxed again it will not be new, of course.

If the price of hamburger goes up again, more sales tax will be paid, but you guessed it, that's an old tax.

In the same issue of The Morning Friendly that explained the tax plan there was a story of the backers of welfare aid bills and school aid bills.

ving for the increases in taxes. That was Sunday, June 3.

Yeh! I know. It won't be done with new taxes, just increases in the old ones.

It all boils down to a political statement.

Our taxes are going to be higher. What Governor Milliken meant to say was... your tax bills will be higher this year, but they won't be quite as high as they would be if new taxes are passed... and they won't be quite as high as they would be if new taxes are passed... and they might be despite what Gov. Bill says.

Did you ever talk to anyone wearing those reflective sun glasses? It's very disturbing. You have no idea if they are looking at you or even have their eyes open.

All you see is a reflection of yourself and that's like looking at one of those trick mirrors in the fun house.

A news release said a distinguished panel of newsmen discussed "Free Press, Free Speech, and the Right to Know."

In part it was to discuss the news media's role in uncovering the Watergate affair.

On the panel was a tv newsman and 2 radio people.

No newspaper reporters or representatives. It was newspaper reporters who dug into Watergate. TV and radio people report news that newspaper people have made available to the actors of the airwaves.

Heck, if we're going to be left off news discussion panels we might as well take credit for what we can. It was a newspaper man who discovered the earth was round, developed a polio vaccine, and invented the cotton gin... which he has been drinking ever since.

Clowns Bruce Wood and John Edwards assault Dean Callison, driver of Independence Township Fire Department's 1925 Ford Model T pumper. They're getting in practice for the July 4 parade, due to start at 10 a.m. on Miller Road, proceed down Main to Church Street and thence to the Junior High School. Chairman Edwards is looking for bands, floats, horses, bikes, old cars and whatever. Call him at 625-3071.

Mrs. Place says she has "no intention of resigning"

Mrs. Carolyn Place, elected to a four-year term on the Clarkston Board of Education June 4, claims she has no intention of resigning from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

The possibility of a problem in Mrs. Place's holding both positions was mentioned in The Clarkston News' "Township Crumbs" column last week.

It was noted that Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley had stated a member of a township zoning board (which the planning commission has superseded in Independence Township) cannot also serve on the board of education. This opinion was issued in 1962.

Township Attorney Richard Campbell said he had advised Mrs. Place to resign from the planning commission if she wished to avoid the possibility of controversy.

However, he noted she could not be denied a seat on either board unless her dual office holding were successfully challenged in a court.

"An attorney general's opinion is only advisory," Campbell said. "I have no idea whether a court would support it."

He added he thought Kelley's logic was "tenuous" and that he believed Mrs. Place would have a 50-50 chance of retaining both seats if the matter were taken to court.

Mrs. Place's appointive term on the planning commission, which serves the Independence Township Board in an advisory capacity, will expire Dec. 31, 1973.

Zoning, parking ordinances under study

The Clarkston Village Council has called a public hearing on the new zoning ordinance now under contemplation by the village for 7:30 p.m. August 13 at the village offices, 25 South Main.

Meanwhile, the parking ordinance got little farther along its route to adoption Monday night as the council discussed parking limitations on various streets.

Another meeting was called for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 28, to speed the ordinance along.

Under consideration is a two hour parking limit on Main Street, Church, Washington and Depot in front of commercially owned property. The area encompassed is roughly from where the Mill Pond empties into Parke Lake south to Waldon Road, and to the alleys on the side streets intersecting Main.

Police Chief Jack McCall spoke in favor of the ordinance, saying he had enough men to enforce it. Having heard merchants reiterate their problems with parking, he said, "If I don't have the tools, I can't do anything about it."

Again, Keith Hallman of Hallman's Apothecary spoke of the need to provide additional parking through zoning under contemplation in the new zoning ordinance.

Fred Ritter asked for village parking to be provided off Depot Road behind his store to accommodate the cars of employees in the Forrest Milzow office building next to his Town Shop.

Some interest was expressed by the council in fixing up the village-owned property there after sewer construction is complete.

Early deadline

Deadline for copy and ads for next week's issue of The Clarkston News will be noon Friday, June 29. Due to the July 4 holiday which falls on Wednesday, we will publish a day earlier.

Have a happy holiday!

$2,000 in; but they're still collecting

Nearly $2,000 from 84 hikers has been turned over to Clarkston Area Jaycees for presentation to independence center, as a result of the May "Walk for Independence".

Mike Luchenbach, chairman said collections from another 114 hikers are still outstanding and he asks that money yet arriving be turned in at four collection points:

His home, 5725 Dvorak

The home of John Schoff, 6250 Overlook

The Town Shop, 36 South Main (between the hours of 9:30 and 5:30 Monday thru Thursday and until 9:30 p.m. Friday)

Independence Center, 5331 May-bee Road (between the hours of 9 and 4 weekdays).

Luckenbach said the Jaycees would like to make the presentation of funds to the center July 21.

Ball listed in good condition following car-bike accident

Larry Claude Ball, 19, 9376 Sashabaw Road was listed in good condition with multiple abrasions and a leg fracture Friday morning following a Thursday-evening accident at Clarkston and Perry Lake roads.

Oakland County Sheriff's Department traffic records showed Ball had been eastbound on Clarkston Road when a westbound car driven by Almina Martina Morgan, 61, 7785 Allen Road made a left turn in front of him.

Ball was reported pitched over the car by the impact. The county traffic record bureau reported Mrs. Morgan was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

A passenger in her car, Myrna L. Garwold, 64, of 5479 Clarkston Road, was reported as having sustained minor injuries.

Jean Harding Brown, widely known for her series of Metropolitan Detroit Prints, has come to Clarkston to sketch. Here she catches the Post Office in ink. The prints will be on display at a later time, she says.

Parking lot still has problems

Despite issuance of some tickets to people congregated in the Village Parking Lot, Main and Washington, the lot continues to draw the kind of traffic that had at least two downtown merchants complaining Monday at the Village Council session.

Police Chief Jaek McCall said two tickets had been issued concerning the consumption of alcohol in a public place.

He asked council members, considering a new parking ordinance, to bar parking in the lot after midnight, except perhaps in the case where special permits have been issued to nearby residents who may have to park their cars there through the night.

Fred Ellison, owner of Clarkston Auto Parts, had complaints from his customers and said some of them were afraid to park there. Ellison spoke of a tire being stolen from his car there during the afternoon.

Darwin Johnson, vice president of Pontiac State Bank, assured the council that his employees park there and have had no unpleasant incidents.

Nearby merchants agreed, however, that as soon as police clear the place, the crowds congregate again within a matter of minutes.

"Perhaps if our new parking ordinance takes all day parking off the streets, it will force all employees downtown to park in the lot and there won't be room for congregations," said one observer.

Hawk Tool for sale

Property occupied for years by the Hawk Tool and Engineering Co. at 20 West Washington has been listed for sale, according to Bud and Earl Hawke.

Earl is currently operating the Nason Co. offices from the location until the sale. Bud said hopes are to attract something that will be beneficial to the town.

"We've had a couple of chances to sell that wouldn't have been, and we turned them down," Bud said.

Revolving tax fund

Clarkston, Independence Township, Springfield Township and the Clarkston Board of Education may be able to budget the full amount of their tax rolls as a result of steps undertaken by the county.

In this area less than 5 percent of the taxes are delinquent, but the municipal units to which they're owed have had to wait as long as three years to recoup the money.

Under the county proposal, a delinquent tax revolving fund has been established and bonds sold so that local units can be reimbursed immediately for late taxes. The county then collects and gets the penalties and interest due for its trouble.

Both Independence Township and Clarkston have tabled action on the proposal for further study. They will be required to sign an agreement if they wish to participate.

Village parade route nixed for Labor Day

Clarkston may be enjoying its last parade down the route that has brought the village some fame this next Wednesday.

Village Police Chief Jack McCall said State Highway Department officials have rejected the system of detours used to get traffic around the village during a parade, and that it was only after four requests that approval was finally given for the July 4 route.

Traffic has been routed down Waldon Road to Sashabaw, thence to I-75 and back to M-15. The state is objecting to the use of an expressway as a detour.

McCall said it might be possible that future parades, forming either at St. Daniel's Church of the Clarkston Junior High School would be permitted on Main only between Church and Washington and would have to use Holcomb for the rest of the route.

McCall asked that parade viewers attempt to adhere to the boundaries set up by police cordons. "Sometimes there's not enough room for the parade, the people crowd so far into the street," he said.

Nobody can say Clarkston is a one-horse town. It's a two-horse town as Denise Johnson [from left], Lesley Short and Debra Johnson, all of Rattalee Lake Road prove. They rode Black Lady and Lightning into town Friday to pick up their junior high yearbooks.

Dixie zoning due for hearing

In an effort to update Independence Township's zoning map, the planning commission is recommending a change in zoning along much of the Dixie Highway.

Zoning in areas that are part of existing subdivisions is recommended changed from its present commercial status to residential. Much of that area south of I-75 along the Dixie to the northeast is recommended for office use, and the commercial that exists in front of Independence Square apartments is recommended for multiple.

The changes are due for public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday July 12 at the Independence Township Hall. Planner Larry Burkhart said the reason for the recommended changes is to give the township more control over development occurring on the Dixie and to get away from the present strip commercial zoning there.

He said the planning commission feels, for example, that at present there are enough restaurants along the Dixie, but office zoning would not for all time preclude additional restaurants. He said the courts tend to view commercial and office zoning as similar except for the heavier traffic necessitated by commercial usage.

Village street improvement considered

The possibility of having all village streets resurfaced, not just those areas torn up by sewer construction, is under consideration by the Clarkston Village Council.

A quite of $21,000 to complete the job was reported by Trustee Mike Thayer, who is presently getting further bids for the project.

The village has $35,500 in its street fund and had planned to have the streets resurfaced after sewer work was completed.

Thayer said the bid received was from one of the contractors doing asphalt work within the village was probably lower than they could obtain later.

He said plans are to add 2½ inches of asphalt in all areas and to take care of varying street surfaces and widths in the process.

Meeting cancelled

The July 2 senior citizen meeting at the Salvation Army, Church and Buffalo, has been cancelled due to the holiday, according to Ed Thomas, director.

Ooh! The pain

by Pat Braunagel

Any man who doesn't wed a nurse has made a bad marriage. (Unless, of course, he has the good fortune to snag a doctor.)

This revelation came to me as I contemplated a pinched nerve — my husband's. Complicated by a pitched fever — mine.

Three weeks of sustained suffering have driven me to reading Florence Nightingale's biography. And the Book of Job.

Somewhere, I hope, I can find inspiration to assume the patience necessary to survive my husband's ordeal, which the doctor assured us would be lengthy though "not serious."

Through colds I have comforted this man. Through a tonsillectomy. And inner-ear infection. And the Lions blowing their Super Bowl chances.

Nothing in my experience had prepared me to assist in the healing process following this latest catastrophe. (OK, Flo, forget the healing bit — at this point I'm just grasping for some tolerance.)

Please believe that I am not making light of his agony—I know his pain has been real. I would not deny that.

But what am I to do?

I started out well. I couldn't have been more understanding on the day following The Accident—that fateful dive into a friend's pool.

He left work in midmorning. I called the doctor, took him to the doctor, followed the doctor's every instruction.

I followed my mother-in-law's instructions ("Keep that hot water bottle hot and make him eat, even if you have to spoon-feed him"), ignored my best pal's advice ("Leave him.") and listened to countless tales of friends' friends who had had the identical problem.

But most of all I have listened to him. I could write a book entitled "Travels With My Pain."

"It's going down my arm," he reports from his pallet on the living room floor. "Now it's going around to the front. My shoulder hurts the worst. It's a dull throbbing with sharp shooting pains" . . .

Then there are the regrets: "If only I could lie in some position other than flat on my back. If only I had exercised more. If only we hadn't gone swimming. If only we had never met them in the first place."

You think pregnant women get weird cravings? Listen to this patient.

"The Dairy Queen won't close for another 10 minutes—you've got time to go get me a malt."

Or: "I know this is going to sound strange coming from a health food cereal freak, but what I'd really like is some Cheerios. I guess it's because Mom always gave us Cheerios when we were sick."

Or: "Is there any place around here that sells candy apples?"

Sometimes I do feel I'm a good wife. There are those tender moments when he puts his good arm around me and hugs me close.

Then he looks over my shoulder out the window and says, "Gee, the grass seems to be getting out of control . . ."

The Dealers Four

EDITORIAL

Watch those bikes

Clarkston school students have been involved in at least four motorbike-car accidents since the last few weeks of school. There have been no deaths, but the injuries have been severe. Police have warned parents that unlicensed children driving unlicensed vehicles on the public streets operate without the law. They have been cracking down on violators. Still, that doesn't remove the very real danger from the rash of car-motorbike accidents. Good safety practices by drivers of both automobiles and the bikes are about the only thing to have effect.

The Township Board of Appeals should move cautiously, deliberately on the Fox Den cluster housing proposal. Section 10 (2) of Ordinance 51 clearly states the complex filing requirements to be met by the developer. The Appeals body must be completely satisfied with every aspect of the plan before it can act.

Among other things, the developer must submit a "declaration of restrictions," which would include deed covenants for the subdivision. This device serves to insure that the plan will not be changed in midstream. Also the Planning Commission must undertake a thorough study of the proposal, to be followed by its written recommendation to the Appeals Board. In particular, the Planning Commission must determine whether all facets of the cluster subdivision are "Compatible with existing development."

Cluster housing can be superior to the monotony of typical rectangular subdivisions. But it must be done right. For example, house placement on each lot must be planned in advance. Sideyard and set back distances must vary to avoid a canned sardine illusion.

House style is important. Two story homes are preferable, or should at least dominate, in order to conserve land use. (Such homes require less square footage at the base, thereby leaving more of the smaller lot for yard, etc.)

However, if lots are to be only 10,000 square feet, "extreme topographic conditions" must exist. Otherwise the reduction would be limited to 13,500. And overall density may not exceed that which would be obtained by "standard platting practices." This is key.

If a pond would have remained under standard platting, the density would have been lowered even for the larger lots. Therefore the cluster plan must start with this larger equivalent.

Under Ordinance 51, the Township has the right to prescribe rigid controls. This is because the proposal is basically a variance from the standard zoning, thereby necessitating close supervision of that which is granted.

However, the Appeals Board in exercising the administrative powers granted it by State Statute, must adhere to logical and consistent standards. These three men will need the assistance of the Building Department Superintendent, the Planner, and the Township Attorney.

If this Board gets the proper help, and if they do their job with imagination and boldness, the long standing gripe and notoriety surrounding "Fox Den" could turn into something to make the neighbors proud.

Obits and gas

by Jean Saile

When Pablo Picasso died earlier this spring, his obit read: "He died unexpectedly at the age of 91 at his home on the French Riviera." I thought what a glorious way to go. I am aiming for the same kind of ink in the 21st century.

The gas shortage, which hasn't seemed to affect too many local gas stations too seriously yet, has become the panacea of all time. Consider:

The gas shortage will facilitate the opening of the North Shore pipeline in Alaska.

It may cut down on some of the stringent gas-eating emission control systems for automobiles which researchers are beginning to question.

It should give rapid transit a boost.

It can probably do away more effectively than any other means with this controversial issue of cross-district school busing.

It could aid zoning in that the number of applications for gas stations in non-conforming areas should diminish.

It might even eventually put an end to the eyesore caused by abandoned stations.

And if you're a big dealer, it means that all that niggling competition from the small time operator is sure to end.

How's that for one swell foop?

And another thing—we've had lots of complaints recently regarding the Blue Cross-Blue Shield computer system. Apparently anyone who in any way has altered policy coverage gets informed that subsequent bills were not covered by insurance. Once in a while, we don't mind. When it's a universal sort of problem, seems like something ought to be done.

Always a Stan Kenton fan, I was shocked last week at Pine Knob to see how old he looked. You don't suppose I look that much older, too, do you?

I am pleased to report, however, my heart is still young. His music was as glorious as ever.

I doubted my age for a while, though. The Four Freshmen, they of the rolling tones, were first on the bill and while the intros to their numbers were great, it began to be more and more apparent to me that they sing through their noses.

I never thought that 20 years ago.

Alcoholism is a threat

Michigan governor William G. Milliken and Detroit mayor Roman S. Gribbs have declared June 25 through July 1 Alcoholism Detection Week.

In their proclamations both officials state that alcoholism is the most serious drug problem existing in our society today in terms of number of victims, physical damage to the body and its organs, and cost to society.

Both state that alcoholism ranks among the major national health threats, along with cancer, heart disease and mental illness.

And both conclude in their proclamations that alcoholism can be curbed and abetted by making people aware of its symptoms and encouraging alcoholics to seek aid.

How to lose 20 pounds

By Jim Fitzgerald

My family has declared me the most obnoxious puncher in captivity. They reached their decision midway through the candlelight ceremony in which I punched another hole in my belt.

What I mean is, in the last 2 months I have lost 20 pounds but no humility.

All you fatties are wondering how I did it. It was easy. All you need is steel willpower, a flair for dramatics, and gall enough to kiss your wonderful self 150 times a day.

Forget the tricky diets and the wonder pills. Just cut the size of your meals about 50%. Eat absolutely nothing between meals, not even giant Hershey bars with almonds (be still, my beating heart).

When the agony of hunger hits you, don't keep it a secret. Let the world know how you are suffering. Scream and sob and writhe on the floor. The other day I fainted face-first into my skinny son's ice cream. Another day, when my wife filled the house with the smell of baking bread, I banged my head against the oven until I was overcome by blessed unconsciousness.

(Incidental intelligence: during the oven flagellation I accidentally broke the oven timer, thereby discovering that my family functions by the buzzing of that timer, something like a Pavlov reflex. They set it to remind themselves to do all sorts of important things, such as wash their hair, eat a biscuit, feed the cats, make a phone call, and touch their toes. Once I spied a daughter talking into the oven and I was going to call the men in white coats. But she was simply timing an oration for speech class. During the week the timer was busted, it was pure chaos at our house. People stumbled around with dazed looks, wondering what they were supposed to be doing, and the cats moved into the neighbor's garbage can.)

But let's see, where was I? Oh yes, coming to the most important part of how to lose weight. After you have quit eating, and suffered loudly, your pants will get too big and your necktie will appear from beneath your chins. The scales will tell you what a splendid thing you have accomplished with your marvelous willpower. Now you tell the world. I mean, brag about it.

For instance, I invite strangers in off the street to bear awed witness while I plunge an icepick into my belt. If the high school band can't make it, I play Sousa records and hire my daughter to turn cartwheels and lead cheers ("Let's hear it for Slim Jim").

I dazzle guests with a startling exhibition in which I prove there is now room in a pair of my old pants for me and the living room couch.

When I visit relatives for the first time in months, I am visibly enraged if they do not immediately express admiration for my lithe figure and the magnificent willpower that made it possible. I tell them how I did it, just as I am telling you, even if I have to chase them around the block.

I am not hurt when people call me an obnoxious bore. I realize they are simply jealous. And if they are truly tired of hearing how I lost weight, I will change the subject. I'll tell them how I quit smoking.

Misery loves company. You may quote that, and perhaps embroider it on your bib.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks, but no thanks

To the editor:

If we voted more millage to run the Clarkston Schools as proposed by the editor of The Clarkston News, we would only get a third of the increase, the county would take the rest.

I have offered to be tax advisor to our editor before and will offer again. Taxes are a complicated business. An increase in taxes may be just an increase in taxes, with no or little benefit to the payer.

As I reported in The Clarkston News some months ago, Clarkston supports the schools from property tax to the extent of 37.53%. The state gives us 62.10%, largely from the sales tax. Oak Park gets 89.64% from the property tax, 9.87% from the state.

So if we vote an increase in operation, the state will withdraw their aid, give it to Pontiac or someone else. (The editor did not see fit to print the chart, but maybe you saw it in the Pontiac Press.)

A Mr. R. Clinton of the Oakland Intermediate School District on the west side of Telegraph Road at Pontiac Lake Road has an extremely well put up financial comparison of all the school districts in the county. Get one. Study it. Then vote only for millage when a new school is absolutely necessary.

Keith A. Humbert
Trustee

Editor's note: I think if Mr. Humbert were to re-read the editorial, he might find that it was only a proposal for a millage vote to let the people decide, much as he voted April 24 to let the people decide in regard to the township fire millage. I also think, if he checked his records, he would find that the state — not the county as he says — is the vehicle which tends to share in any voted increase for schools. State aid is withdrawn on a sliding scale comparable to the amount raised locally, however some of the voted increase sticks.

Our editorial was meant to point out that for the past two years incumbents have been defeated when they sought reelection to the Board of Education. The board has probably been best known for its attempt to keep taxes low. In so doing it has eliminated for a time some of the enrichment programs, a measure which may be causing the defeat of incumbents.

Psychic experiences are not as foreign to most of us as some would like to believe. Many of us have shared to some degree in unexplainable occurrences, and some of us have felt at times we've "been there before" as we engage in new undertakings.

The Clarkston News has asked me to write a column, a collection of events I have been able to foresee, and while they will cover the general aspects of life such as weather, government, etc. — I will be happy to give short personal answers to questions mailed to The Clarkston News. While a signature would facilitate my answers, no names will be used in the column.

It's going to be hot and rainy until August and I see August as a nice month, but July will be dark. I see umbrellas going up and down, and the roads are going to be ferriable.

Governor Milliken is going to pull a rabbit out of a hat, but he may not run again. If he does run, he'll be elected. The only man who could defeat him is Richard Austin, Secretary of State, but I do not believe Austin will choose to run just yet.

I see a fair haired young man, as young as possible, claiming the Michigan Senate seat which serves our district.

I believe there will be a bad car motorbike accident soon on the Dixie Highway in front of the A & P.

Martha Mitchell is about to be spanked.

I am happy to report that those I told there would be trouble with the Skylab launch and the predictions I made about the submarine deaths off Florida will bear out my accuracy.

Questions "mouse"

Dear Jean,

In the Township Crumbs column of last week's paper, the "Townmouse" indicated there will be a problem in seating Carolyn Place on the school board, citing a 1962 ruling by Attorney General Kelley that a person cannot concurrently serve on a Planning Commission and school board.

The Clarkston News assures me that in fact there is such a ruling. Be that as it may I must, however, question the motives of the "Mouse."

When did this bit of information come to his attention? An average person during the course of a day would not happen upon such information unless he deliberately set out to look for it. A lawyer or law student would be the only one to hit upon it by chance.

If the "mouse" were aware of this ruling before the election why wasn't it brought to the attention of the candidate as well as the school board. Or was the information withheld to cause a disruption later?

Allowing for the benefit of the doubt and assuming that the "mouse" learned about this ruling after the election - wouldn't it have been a much more sensible approach to first notify the school board and candidate and allow them to seek the proper legal advise?

When I called the Clarkston News to inquire as to the identity of the "Townmouse" I was informed that its name is withheld and the "mouse" is permitted to write as a devil's advocate. I think this an excellent policy, but I question and have serious concerns as to this advocate's motives and methods.

Unhappy with appeals

To Residents of Independence Township:

There are many non-resident property owners in the township who, without any regard to ecology, or density, apply for rezoning and/or variances for no other reason than increasing the value of the land to increase their profit on the sale after the rezoning and/or variance. This practice will eventually create many problems to resident property owners, all in the name of the almighty dollar.

Illustration in point—a non-resident owned vacant property adjacent to my home. I have offered to purchase property many times in the past 10 years but was told owner was planning on building himself. Recently notice of appeal for variance was filed and owner stated publicly to residents and also at Appeals Board Meeting that he owned property for many years and felt he should get variance to build. He stated emphatically that he was building for his own family. All interested parties stated they had no objection as long as owner was planning on building for his own family.

At no time was selling the property mentioned, but immediately after obtaining variance, property was sold. When adjacent property owners checked with the township it was discovered variance was issued to build or sell. Why wasn't this brought out at the appeal. Why can't variances be cancelled when obtained under false pretenses? Every property owner in the area would have objected to the issuance of the variance for land speculation. Adjacent property owners would have purchased vacant land rather than increase density in the area. In this instance I am very dissatisfied with the ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS.

THE DUKE

"A man who doesn't forget his friends... one of the remaining greats," Duke Ellington will be in the county this week to share his music and his life with the local citizenry.

Thanks to sister Barb, I had the pleasure of knowing Duke Ellington and son, Mercer. In fact these past several weeks I have behaved as an Ellington groupie. Shortly after meeting the Ellingtons and road manager Jimmie Lowe, (who learned the business as an advance man for Robert Kennedy and John Lindsay), I met them again in Chicago while visiting friends.

Last week, upon completion of my teaching schedule at MSU, I spent sometime in Houston, Texas with relatives and friends, only to find Duke Ellington at the fabulous Shamrock

Hilton. (A politician-between-jobs has the time if not the means to travel about).

In celebration of another sister's anniversary, "The Duke," Dr. Edward Kennedy Ellington, played the anniversary waltz and dedicated "Satin Doll" to her as he stood with her husband of nine years, in the spotlight.

Friday, June 29, Duke Ellington will be in the spotlight at Meadow Brook for an evening of incomparable entertainment beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Born in Washington, D.C. 74 years ago Duke Ellington has taken his seasoned troupe around the world many times, and they are still going. They've been back to the capitol several times to play at Kennedy Center and have entree to the White House.

The Duke hasn't quit. In addition to his work with the band he scores films, and is even working on a ballet and a book in his spare time.

Mercer, traveling with his father since he was seven, is now an accomplished musician in his own right in addition to handling much of the travel and business arrangements. A knowledgeable individual, he could have made it in several fields, but people are his first love and music is communication with all people.

Right now Duke Ellington is enjoying the height of recognition he so richly deserves. I have the impression he stopped doing it for himself a long time ago, if he ever did. He's taking a lot of people around the world with him and making a lot of people happy along the way.

Last time he was in Michigan he invited local talent to play or sing with him, giving an assist in the tough world of show business.

A Houston woman, Anita Moore, will be with him at Meadowbrook, along with super entertainer, Tony Watkins.

Great people. Supurb sounds. Don't miss them.

Eagles to move lodge to Maybee

Eagle Lodge No. 3373 is moving ahead with plans to build a new facility on the north side of Maybee Road, just east of Sashabaw Road.

Ten acres of property there have been rezoned by the Independence Township Board from suburban farms to commercial designation to permit construction of the clubhouse.

The Eagles' former headquarters at 6696 Dixie were gutted by fire March 17.

The Independence Township Summer Basketball League's top scorers continue to be Rob White of the Town Shop and Jerry Ostrum of the Credit Union.

The first game of the weekly Wednesday night three-game marathon at Sashabaw Junior High saw Ostrum score 30 points in a losing effort. Jerry's Credit Union team was able to play the first place Chiefs to a 56-56 standstill after three periods. A consistent fast break and better ball control paid off for the Chiefs at the end, however, as four of their starters ended with double figures in an 80-72 victory.

In the second game, Rob White tallied 27 points as his Town Shop team was defeated by Griswold's 81-76 in a battle for third place.

Haupt defeated McGill 79-58 in the third game of the evening.

Did I hear someone yell "Foul!"? Yes, Beth Cowen, a physical education major at Central Michigan University blew the whistle on me recently in a "letter" to the editor. You may recall that four weeks ago, on May 24, I wrote about the differences between girls' basketball and men's basketball. Well, I gave my age away on that one. As Beth put it, I was "Peekin' into the Past", telling it as I recalled it. She very graciously pointed out my mistakes and brought my readers up-to-date with the current rule differences. Thank you, Beth. I'll probably never win an olympic gold medal but I am always trying to be a good sport.

Bus accord reached

Some accord between the Independence Township Recreation Department and the Clarkston Board of Education over use of school buses for the summer recreation program has been reached.

Officials for both groups said contract wording for the use of school facilities has been reached, and that the board is expected to act on it at its July 9 meeting.

First scheduled use for the buses is July 13, Tim Doyle, recreation director, said. Trips on six Fridays during the summer, the first five of the intra-playground type and the last an excursion outside the area, have been planned.

State aid for schools

Clarkston School District is due to receive $635,592 in State Aid by August 1, according to figures released by Rep. Loren Anderson.

Another $24,945 is due in Title I funding, Anderson said, and the sum of $131,456 is due the Northwest Vocational Education Center.

Drainage improved

A bid in the amount of $5,006 has been awarded Sewer Contracting Corp. of Detroit by the Michigan Highway Department to correct a drainage problem on US-10 at Waterford Hill terrace. Completion is expected in July.

Mrs. Al Hamilton and Mrs. Milford Mason [standing left] presented a check for $404, proceeds of the Rotary Anns' rummage sale and other club activities, to Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults director Nancy Ramsey. Carbon Tet Professional dry cleaners and industrial machine shops abandoned carbon tetrachloride as a solvent some time ago, but it is still widely used in many homes, despite the danger from its fumes.

Housewives use it as a "spot cleaner" for clothing, and their husbands may use it to clean their tools. It is readily available in hardware stores, though it has been banned from the shelves of government warehouses.

One problem, of course, is that people don't read (or follow) the safety directions spelled out on the container.

Exposure to the fumes of carbon tetrachloride can result in unexplained disorders of internal organs. When it produces hepatitis, for example, the doctor may try a variety of treatments without realizing that his patient is repeatedly exposed to "carbon tet" and undoing all his therapy.

Dr. Bertram D. Dinman, of the University of Michigan, said recently that "it is regrettable that industry's abhorrence of this solvent has not been clearly transmitted to the community at large."

He urged substituting other solvents that are much safer. Methyl chloroform, for example, is considerably less harmful to the body and is not flammable.

If carbon tetrachloride must be used, follow the safety directions explicitly.

Happy Brownies at Bob-Lo.

Cookie sale profits financed Clarkston Brownie Troop 190 on a trip to Bob-Lo Island recently. Accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. Robert Kline and Mrs. Floyd Wright with Mrs. Tom Bullen and Mrs. Wayne Viergever, they caught the boat in Detroit, spent the day on the island and wound it all up with supper at McDonald's.

It was a fitting end to two years of activities. On May 31 the troop was guest of Pine Knob Brownies for a songfest, and traveled June 13 to Canada where they appeared on CKLW's "Bozo, the Clown" show.

The show is to be aired on three separate dates, July 4, 31 and August 24.

Members of the troop are Sandy Bullen, Debbie Foote, Pam Forsyth, Lori Hamlin, Kathy Kent, Sheila Kline, Natalie Mitchell, Christine O'Rourke, Kim Viergever, Dianna Walker, Cherie Wilson and Nancy Wright.

Pastors Mark Caldwell [from left], Alex Stewart with Rev. Fr. Francis Weingartz were among members of the Independence Township Pastors Association saying farewell to Salvation Army Brigadier Mary Aspenden at a recent luncheon at the Stewart home. The brigadier plans to spend some time touring the country by bus before returning to her native Manchester, England, and retirement. She has been in Clarkston the past two years.

Plane folds up, can be driven

Dewey Bryan of Highland Township likes to yell, "Fill 'er up" as he rolls his road-tested airplane into a gas station.

He did just that Monday morning at the Marathon station, corner of M-59 and Airport Road following flight tests for the unique craft at Pontiac Airport. Bryan believes the fold-up feature of the plane will help to solve the coming plane facility shortage.

"This craft can be stored at home. You can land at a strip, and even while you're taxiing off the runway, have the wings folded and the license plates attached within 35 seconds," he said.

The third of a series of prototypes that Bryan has worked on the last 20 years, the plane is due to be entered in a show the end of July at Oshkosh, Wis.

Bryan says she's capable of cruising at 130 miles per hour and hitting 90 on the road.

The inventor, at 49, has been flying ever since World War II. He's a project mechanic at GM Proving Grounds at Milford.

The first plane he built he remembers as being "a bucket of bolts and bailing wire." The second, however, was awarded a first place at an air show for outstanding experimental design.

Bryan also has a patent on a toy helicopter which he believes manufacturers ruined in process.

Dewey Bryan surprises gas station attendant Mike Pyles as he drives up for service.

State highways gear for holiday traffic

A halt to all construction and maintenance work on state highways over the Fourth of July has been ordered by State Highway Director John P. Woodford.

The order, effective 5 p.m. Tuesday (July 3) until 8 a.m. Thursday (July 5), bans all but emergency highway and bridge work over the holiday.

Woodford also ordered suspension of movement of heavy construction equipment across or near highways and ordered every precaution be taken to eliminate hazards and minimize inconvenience to the motoring public due to road and bridge construction activities.

For the first time since 1962, the Fourth of July falls on Wednesday, making holiday travel predictions more difficult. On the basis of past holiday travel, motorists are expected to log 282,500,000 vehicle miles on July 4.

Traffic predictions also show more than normal travel throughout the week, with many motorists using the "Fourth" to finish or start a five-day weekend.

Heavier than usual traffic throughout the week is anticipated on Interstate 69, Interstate 75, Interstate 94, Interstate 96, US-10, US-23, US-27, US-31, US-127, US-131 and M-37.

In another step to keep I-75 traffic moving, the Chevrolet Division of General Motors has again volunteered to suspend shipping operations on the Saginaw River during heavy traffic periods, thus reducing the number of openings of the I-75 Zilwaukee Bridge northeast of Saginaw.

Throughout the week motorists on I-75 will encounter some inconvenience from widening now under way between Flint and Birch Run.

About five years ago, the Mauti's moved into a Tudor style brick, cedar shake shingle, and stucco house in a private and secluded section of the village of Clarkston.

Built some 45 years ago by A.B. Wompole, the house is surrounded by trees, shrubs, and decorative rocks.

One of the patio stones is hand cut with the information - Byersville, N.Y. July 12, 1935, leading one to wonder if all the flat stones there were collected on trips or vacations from different parts of the country.

"This type of house gives you a lot of living," Louise Mauti said. "And the first time I saw it, it gave me a feeling that we were up north, with the trees, and the pines all around the house."

The large living room has pale seafoam green carpeting and a floral couch under the front window. Facing the fireplace are solid color Mr. and Mrs. chairs and the antique wooden rocker that was a birthday gift to Louise from Dominic.

An antique brass pot, sitting on the hearth, was purchased at a flea market in Spain. There was no way to pack it, so Louise had to carry it. Others on the plane kept teasing her, she remembers, about her antique pot.

Dom has paneled the wall behind the fireplace and built in a bookcase in a dark warm walnut wood. He made a Mediterranean style hanging lamp, using bands of metal, gracefully connected with curving strips. The lights and shades are on the bottom band, and it is all enameled black.

The table under the lamp holds a large basket of marble eggs, colorful and full of memories. The eggs were collected over the years during family vacations.

The dining room has an oval antique table, antique chairs, and tea cart. The centerpiece on the table is an attractive dried flower arrangement. Dominic said, "Louise made it."

Louise added, "And Dom built in the wall unit here." The wall unit is a buffet and two china cabinets on each side of the window, hand rubbed to a rich mahogany color with antique brass knobs and pulls on the doors and drawers.

A secluded hideaway

Colorful striped shag carpeting in the master bedroom contrasts the dark finish on the antique bureau and chest. The antique phone table was inlaid with enameled Greek designs and flowers. Pictures, plaques, and mementos of ball teams that Dominic coached in high school cover the wall area around the doorways.

The three bedrooms upstairs each reflect the young person who lives there. All the bedroom have wall units of shelves, some holding sport trophies and encyclopedias; others with books and magazines, what-knots and dried flowers.

Split rail fencing encloses the back yard garden, full of cabbages, tomato plants, rows of carrots, and peas.

An electric drill is practically a must if you are the handyman at your house. Not only does this tool drill, but it can also sand, polish, grind, and trim the hedge. Remember that a light-weight drill should only be used with light jobs. Under heavy loads they may overheat. Go by the manufacturer's reputation when purchasing a drill. Drills are available with saw or pistol grips. The pistol is more convenient for use with attachments.

Eggs do taste different

If you think eggs taste different today, you're right. Marketing division officials of the Michigan Department of Agriculture say one reason for the change is the difference in the hen's environment and diet. Laying flocks do not have access to feeds which cause strong flavors and eggs are gathered frequently so their porous shells do not absorb odors from the environment.

Garden in the sunshine outside and warm decor inside characterize the Mauti home.

If you decide to buy an older house, make certain it is in good condition. Check to see what is in need of repair or replacement. Check roof, walls, ceilings and floors. Remember, there are certain advantages to buying existing homes. The price of land, labor, and materials has increased steadily through the years, and an older home can perhaps provide you with more for your money. Weigh this against possible repairs that will be needed. Don't disregard the possibility, however, of purchasing a newly constructed house and the advantages it offers!

Getting it back together

Clean-up time frequently is complaint time on sewage construction projects, and the Independence Township project is no exception.

Contractors are required to restore private property "to substantially its original condition." Property owners who have grievances can voice them to several governmental officials responsible for the project.

Heading the list is Jim Lueders, project engineer, and his staff of inspectors at the Oakland County Department of Public Works. Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark is answering calls from persons who feel they have not gotten satisfaction from the DPW.

Also keeping their eyes on the restoration are inspectors from the Oakland County Road Commission, whose specifications call for three-foot shoulders and ditches 18 inches deep from the level of the roadbed to provide for adequate drainage. Thus, many homeowners are finding that their lawns slope into a deeper ditch than before the project started.

Vandermark noted that most complaints stem from the slowness of the clean-up work. While it may not seem so to anxious homeowners, contractors are working against a deadline — Oct. 1.

Contractors continue with their ditch-digging in Hi-Wood Village Subdivision, part of the restoration of property following sewer-line construction.

Roads chairman asks county for support

Chairman William M. Richards of the Oakland County Board of Road Commissioners has called on the chairman of the Board of County Commissioners to put computer-use of County agencies on the back burner in favor of responsible action on what Richards called "the highest moral priority in the county today"—massive improvement of gravel roads.

Responding to an invitation from Paul E. Kasper, chairman of the county's legislative body, to discuss mutual problems with County departments heads June 22, Richards noted the agenda concentrated on use of computers.

"That may well be an important administrative problem," said Richards. "But in no way can it be seriously regarded as paramount to the urgency of avoiding recurrence of a clear and present threat to life and health of county residents in the form of complete failure of many gravel roads during the recent thaw and heavy rains."

"Your agenda contains no reference to this critical problem," Richards added, "even though the body over which you preside has been obstructing remedial action for three months."

A $350 wedding gown marked at $150, a Gino Rossi ensemble that was $135 and a handmade leather suit from Turkey are among the offerings at Encore Boutique, newly established at 4468 West Walton, just off Dixie Highway.

Evelyn Palmer, who sells the gowns — some of which have never been worn and some which have been worn only once or twice, has a good background in retail sales and she feels the store will fill a need in this area.

"The girl who has good clothes doesn't have to give them away, and the working girl can take advantage of the bargains to become very well-dressed," said the former manager of Alvin's in Pontiac, Troy and Flint and former employee of Jacobsen's.

Many of her former customers in those shops are now contributing to the select stock offered in Evelyn's new venture. Some of it comes from people who have suddenly dropped or gained weight, some from those who can afford to tire quickly of purchases.

The boutique gives no impression of being a second-hand shop, and in fact Evelyn is thinking about adding some new lines in the accessory department.

Selling strictly on consignment, this five-year resident of Independence Square wants goods that are dry cleaned and saleable. She calls her business a "fashion exchange."

bow headpieces. Their outfits were in different colors.

Maid of honor Diane Joyner of Davisburg wore gold; Becky Gaves, apricot; Cheryl Teal, Mediterranean blue; Joanne Cummings, Nile green; and Sandy Cummings, light pink.

In a lilac dress, the bridegroom's sister Becky Cowdrey was flower girl.

Kathleen Ann Baty, a teacher in the Davison schools, became the bride of Charles Bartlett Horsch June 23 in a nuptial mass at St. Ambrose Church, Parchment, Michigan.

The groom, a teacher in Clarkston, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Horsch, 6595 Eastlawn, Clarkston.

Martha Webster of Kalamazoo served as maid of honor and Mrs. Mary Ann Corning and Mary Ogg both of Davison, and Mrs. Jackie Thomas of Kalamazoo were bridesmaids.

They wore kelly green and yellow cotton with white picture hats trimmed with kelly green ribbon, and carried baskets of white with yellow daisies.

Cathy Corning of Davison was similarly attired as flower girl.

Play ball!

Eileen Squiers would receive the friendly thimble award from the Coleman Furniture junior baseball team — if they had a friendly thimble award. When the team shirts were received from the factory, one of them had not been stitched with the team name. To send it back would mean that one of the players would be without his team shirt for almost the whole ball season.

Eileen took the shirt and embroidered the team name on it — beautifully, and the whole team wants to say, "THANK YOU, MRS. SQUIERS!"

Kevin Williams and Rod Wyman are expected home this weekend from their two weeks at baseball camp in Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

Darrel and Fay Williams and Tom and Andrea Wyman made a vacation weekend of the trip to Pennsylvania, leaving on Friday, touring Gettysburg and that area on Saturday, and delivering the boys to camp on Sunday.

During the two weeks, the boys received baseball training 5 hours a day on "a beautiful infield and diamond" according to Fay.

Jennifer Rene was born June 13, 1973, to Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Boggs (nee Jolene Schultz) of Waterford. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Davison of Wompole Drive in Clarkston and Mrs. Verlin Boggs of Arthurdale, West Virginia.

As of last Friday, June 22, 1973, Marcia Fahrner is a graduate of Hurley Hospital School of Nursing. On Sunday, 70 guests came to honor her for this accomplishment at an open house held by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fahrner on Robertson Court in Clarkston.

Her mother said, "Now she's a nurse. It's what she's wanted to do ever since she was a little girl. She just loves it!" Marcia starts working at Pontiac General Hospital on Monday, July 9.

The Clarkston Campfire girls were treated with a trip to Bob-lo. This was a prize they received for each girl selling an average of 48 boxes of candy. I didn't learn who sold the most, but Lynn Sonmers sold 144 boxes. Lynn lives on Clark Road in Springfield.

The Robert Carrs of Waterford Hill Terrace are home from their Florida trip. Joan and Bob visited Bob's mother, Pherne Carr in Lake Worth. She lives about a mile from the municipal beach at the ocean, so although the weather was hot, they were able to keep cool at the beach.

The four Carr boys, Wayne, Brian, Paul and Glenn enjoyed the day at Disneyworld, too.

A new baby boy was born Monday,

June 25, to Sue and Kirk Mathews of Bridge Lake Road in Springfield Township. Weighing in at 6 pounds 7½ ounces, his parents have almost decided to name him Michael. His big brother, 5-year-old Mark, said, "If the baby had been a girl, we would have had a name for it."

Grandparents are Ward and Louellen Carpenter of Springfield Township and Charles and Leone Mathews of Lapeer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Wilford and Jay of Main Street plan to leave in mid-August for one or two years in Scotland. "It's something we've always wanted to do," said Lucia.

Having just returned from a short vacation there, she reported they'd found a house in Rhu, near Glasgow. Jerry will continue work with his same employer and Jay will enter school there the latter part of August.

Lucia is intrigued about the prospect. She speaks of the old city of Glasgow, the rhododendrons that grow wild in the fields, and the sea locks that bring activity to their part of the world.

A whole fistfull of Clarkston students at Oakland University have qualified for university grade honors during the winter term. Winning the Students of Great Distinction rating were Patricia Adams, 5934 Kingfisher; Beth Blackerby, 5776 Kingfisher; Diane Collins, 4741 Meadowbrook; Susan Davis, 5741

Clinton Ridge; Michael Kaul, 5919 Warbler; Terry MacDougall, 7095 Hillside; Robin Ridley, 7291 Mustang; Sheri Saxe, 5625 Parview; and Deb Hoopengartner, 6365 Orion Road.

Spiritual Message

GOD'S PURPOSES

One of many verses from God's Word which jolts our thinking is one found in II Timothy 2:21 (b) "—so that Christ Himself can use you for His highest purposes." It sets our minds racing to sort out and discover God's purposes for and in our lives.

To begin with, we must understand that we are instruments made by His design, and through this instrument He communicates His purpose. Take for example the South Sea islander, a cannibal, whose life was given him by God, but used and lived by the practices of his tribe. Other islands were raided, their people taken captive and hauled away — to have their skulls smashed on the "killing stone" and then their bodies were devoured. One day, through a courageous missionary, the Good News was given to the islanders. The chief accepted Christ as his Lord. As a church was erected some time later, the chief had the "killing stone" moved to the church where it became the "baptismal font" for all men who found Life in Christ. And so it goes, that men who discover God's purpose in life also submit material possessions to be used according to His purposes.

Then, we make additional discoveries about God and His purposes. Many times God prepares His instruments for specific occasions and times. The preparation must be understood or interpreted as building of character, a refining process which removes characteristics or selfish thinking that would interfere with His plan. This is difficult for us to understand.

Take a look at Peter, one of Christ's disciples. We condemn him and abuse him for his denial of Christ at crisis time. But apparently, in God's divine thinking and programing, that denial and the circumstances surrounding it were allowed — to teach Peter a lesson in basic honesty and loyalty which would never be forgotten. It prepared him to become useful "for Christ's highest purposes" later on.

And you? Could it be that the frustration, the agonizing experiences, misunderstandings and conflicts of life are part of the preparation program of Christ in your life for "His higher purposes?"

Park gets go-ahead grant

Some $500,000 will be spent this summer to begin development of the 759-acre Independence Oaks County Park around Crooked Lake.

The sum will allow the park to be opened for the use of about 1,600 persons but will keep the site in its "primitive" state.

Sparking initiation of work there is a $256,000 grant approved this week by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The funds will be matched by an allocation from the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Eventually, the commission hopes to spend $3 million to develop the park.

The first phase this summer will include construction of a service road into the park from Sashabaw Road, the eastern boundary of the site.

Other improvements will be construction of an entrance station on Hoyt Road, improvements along Perry Lake Road and establishment of a primitive camping site on the north end of Crooked Lake.

Total development of the park is expected to take between five and 10 years, depending on the availability of funds. Ultimately, it will provide recreational activities for about 4,000 persons.

Planners of the park are Ellis, Arndt and Truesdell Inc. of Flint, who have devised a variety of low-density uses compatible with the types of terrain located on the site.

They noted the area is unique in this part of the state for the diversity of its wooded areas, which include 53 types of trees.

Focus of activity in the park will be Crooked Lake, "a 68-acre body of water of good quality," they report.

There will be no swimming nor boats with motors allowed on the lake.

Creation of two swimming ponds on the Clinton River is planned.

Four camping areas eventually are to be operated in the park, ranging from one with water, sewer and electrical services to one designated as an "outpost camp site."

With terrain varying from wooded hills to marshes, the park is well suited for environmental education, planners noted. A center for these activities will be located at the southern end of the lake, complete with camping facilities for school groups.

Several areas will be set aside for nature study, on either a day-by-day or camping basis.

While trails will be provided for hiking, biking and cross-country skiing, no recreational motor vehicles will be allowed.

Winter activities are to include tobogganing, skating, ice fishing and sledding.

Planners indicated that the park will be within 45 minutes' driving time of any Oakland County resident.

The tranquility of Crooked Lake will not be disturbed by motor boats or swimmers in the Independence Oaks County Park.

A few fishermen, novices as well as old-timers, already have discovered that Crooked Lake is a good place to test their talents—or just enjoy lazy summer relaxation.

The variety of flora growing in the Independence Oaks County Park, unique in this part of the state, makes it an ideal locale for ecological studies.
