It's a great time to be a woman, especially if you're one of great talent like Julie Candler.

Readers of Woman's Day magazine should recognize that name. She authors an article entitled "Woman at the Wheel," which the magazine has carried for a long time ... ever since Julie came out with her book by the same name.

I know Julie through her work for Camp Oakland, Inc. She handles the publicity for the camp and has provided us with numerous pictures and stories to say nothing of several special invites.

Through her I got to meet Kelly Harmon DeLorean when that was her last name. Just meeting beautiful Kelly makes me indebted to Julie.

Getting my mind back to where women stand today ... after toasting Julie at the Somerset Inn last week she answered my question of "What are you doing now?"

Mostly because she's talented, attractive and a woman, but partly because she saw the need for a book for women drivers, Julie is in demand.

Two of Chrysler Corp.'s auto divisions have asked her to write articles for their forthcoming magazines copied after Ford Times.

General Motors asked Julie to write a script for a movie on how to read an owner's manual.

Thursday she was to fly to Philadelphia and do a film for Chevrolet on how a woman should go about buying a used car.

If it hasn't always been a woman's world it is now.

Even in our newspapers there are more women than men. There are 6 women to 3 men writers, it's an all-woman office staff, and six of the 11 in the back shop are women. Only in advertising sales do men outnumber women ... that's 3-2.

Now, if we could just get women to outnumber men in the kitchen ...

Some day a real cure for all types of cancer will be found, we sincerely hope. And, with each announcement that a cure has been found there is renewed hope for many sufferers.

However, there must be some skepticism, even open pessimism at each announcement when there have been so many "cures" and so few cured by comparison.

How many cures have you read about in your lifetime?

Today's housewives can choose from over 8,000 food items on the supermarket shelves. But, if necessary, her family could subsist for several months on just 4 foodstuffs, according to a California doctor.

All modern man needs to survive, he says, are powdered milk, cooking oil, fortified cereals and multi-vitamin tablets.

Ninth graders won't be switched from CJHS to SJHS

Some 62 Clarkston Junior High School ninth graders will be allowed to complete junior high school with their classmates, rather than switch schools for a year.

Bus transportation will be provided. The ninth graders are among about 189 Clarkston Junior High School pupils affected by a boundary change which would have sent them to Sashabaw Junior High School next year.

In an attempt to cut back enrollment at the overcrowded Clarkston Junior High, school board members approved the boundary change, involving all of the 108 junior high youngsters in the Knob Elementary School attendance area and 81 from the eastern portion of the Bailey Lake attendance area.

Clarkston Junior High last year had 943 pupils while the larger Sashabaw facility had 844.

Parents of ninth graders involved rose up to protest the switch.

Transferring the pupils for their last year in junior high would be unfair to those who had worked on academic and social achievements, parents maintained.

About 17 pupils were represented by a parent or parents at a special board of education meeting June 25.

They had been informally organized by Mrs. Robert Johnston, 7224 Andersonville Road, who said they are satisfied with the outcome of the three-hour session.

The parents of all students involved in the boundary change are to receive letters this week informing them of the arrangements.

While all seventh and eighth graders involved in the switch will be transported to Sashabaw Junior High, all incoming ninth graders in the affected areas will have their choice of being taken either to Clarkston Junior High or Sashabaw Junior High.

In taking the action, the board made exception to a standing policy that children in the Clarkston School District can attend any school, if there is room and private transportation is provided.

Mrs. Johnston estimated that 95 percent of the ninth graders affected would take advantage of the arrangement and stay at Clarkston Junior High.

Woodhull Week July 9-14

An all-out effort to clean and fix up the playground in Woodhull Subdivision has been set for the week of July 9 to 14, according to Recreation Director Tim Doyle.

Doyle said plans are to restore the tennis court and install basketball backboards and court games, and to paint the fence which separates it from the rest of the property where the old synagogue used to sit.

He said tractor tires have been obtained and will be installed for sandboxes and climbing equipment and that efforts are being made to get giant sewer tile for tunnels.

Doyle reported clean-up efforts last week had resulted in at least three children cut by discarded glass.

Jaycees have offered to help out during Woodhull Week, he added, and there are attempts being made by citizens to get Ackron Contracting Co. to clear out its sewer construction mess.

From empty lot to park

Developer Jack Raisin turns over the deed to a half acre site at Cherokee and Algonquin to Thendara Park Homeowners Association officers Don Shippey and Bill Vandermark as Supervisor Robert Vandermark approves. The area is intended for a park which Shippey says will be fitted as a playground and landscaped.

Don Shippey works 10 hours a day, six days a week but his green thumb is responsible for the transformation of this triangle at Iroquois and Thendara in Thendara Park. A landscaper by hobby, he's recently taken on the job of transforming a recently deeded area into a playground park at Cherokee and Algonquin.

Fay finds temporary sanctuary

Fay Williams has found at least temporary sanctuary in Oakland County Hospital.

Past 50 and confused, according to township officials, she was abandoned by her family and left in a mobile home in Springfield Township on land which was since changed hands.

When police served eviction papers recently, she had nowhere to go, no one to turn to.

Supervisor Claude Trim responded. He called the Oakland County Mental Health Department, Oakland County Social Services Department, the Oakland County Prosecutor, and the hospital. Spokesman at all four places said they could do nothing.

It was only when he contacted a public health nurse at the Oakland County Health Department that the wheels began to turn, Trim said.

Fay was entered in the hospital for 48-hour observation and treatment. Where she goes from there depends on what the doctors learn.

Meantime Trim points out, the family is rid of her, the new landowner is rid of her and the township is rid of her.

He told our reporter, "I want you to write this story to try to make people realize there are others who need help. God put us on this earth to help each other."

Senior citizen village contemplated

An idyllic picture of a community for people past the age of 52 was painted for Independence Township Planning Commission Thursday night by Michael J. Vigilant of Leisure Technology Corp.

His company is now considering the establishment of 2,800 living units for senior citizens on 624 acres in Independence Township, possibly complemented by another 184 acres in Orion Township. Vigilant made no application for rezoning, calling the presentation "informational only" last week.

The property is located north of Waldon Road from Clintonville to the township border. It is largely zoned agricultural.

Similar to senior citizen village the company now has in six other states, the Independence development would provide one-floor living for the elderly, a comprehensive recreation and educational program, free bus service, total maintenance of the property, all in a security-aimed controlled access.

Condominiums, and possibly some single family homes, the condominiums to sell for today's market prices at about $35,000 each, would be built around a lake to be formed in the southeast corner of the Independence property.

A nine-hole golf course is proposed and -perhaps there would be some commercial development in the future, said Vigilant. A theater is also included in the plans.

Vigilant told the commission the development, which would house no children younger than 18, would add $400,000 to school tax rolls and $172,000 to the township tax share.

He said the project would have a $49 million assessed valuation and be built at a density of 4.67 or 3.67 units per acre.

New Jersey senior citizen village owned by Leisure Technology Corp. provides an idyllic setting for retirees.

Ground broken for branch bank

Milo J. Cross, chairman of the board of Pontiac State Bank, Judy Swanson, E. E. Barker Jr., and Keith Humbert, Independence Township trustee, were present for recent groundbreaking ceremonies for a Pine Knob branch of Pontiac State Bank. The bank will be located on Sashabaw Road, north of Maybee.

Officials of Pontiac State Bank have broken ground for a $700,000 expansion program that includes new branch facilities on Sashabaw Road, north of Maybee.

A second branch is planned in the Union-Commerce area.

Both buildings, which are identical in modern design, are 2,400 square feet in size. They will have five teller and two drive-in windows with the ability to increase both the number of teller and drive-in windows as needed.

Newmyer Contracting, Inc. has been employed for the construction, according to Milo J. Cross, chairman, and Edward E. Barker Jr., president of the bank.

Assisting in the groundbreaking here was Judy Swanson of Clarkston High School and local officials.

Tommy Patches

by Pat Braunagel

Tommy. The name caused me to smile and brought ripples of memory.

There was no magic in it. Tommy had been nothing special in my life, provoking now only amusing recollections.

I was perhaps 11 and 12 the years Tommy was the hired boy on my uncle's farm, where I spent a good share of my summer vacations.

Tow-headed Tommy, easily given to blushing, was the most incredibly shy person I have ever met. He steadfastly refused to speak when spoken to, not that I ever had much reason to address him.

But bratty little Jim took it into his head to start a romance between his city-slicker cousin and poor Tommy.

His approach befitted a seven-year-old cupid. Among his techniques, for instance, was placing my milk glass in the center of Tommy's plate at the supper table.

Tommy then had the choice of either piling his food around the glass (snicker-snicker) or summoning his courage and handing the glass to me, face red and eyes downcast (hah-hah).

The most memorable encounter Tommy and I had occurred the day I was alone in the tire swing. I lost my balance and fell backward, dangling awkwardly and unable to either pull myself up or slide out of the swing.

I yelled for help. Tommy, on his way to the barn, was the only one within earshot. He came over and surveyed the scene, the most prominent feature of which was the fact that the tire had caught my jeans and by belly button was exposed.

Tommy outdid himself with this blush. He paused only briefly before running toward the house, shouting for my aunt.

I was furious that Tommy had let his timidity stand between my safety and a possible sprained back.

After that, I became much more aggressive in thwarting Jim's match-making fun.

That was 20 years ago. Now we were at a large wedding reception for another cousin.

"There's Tommy," Jim said, explaining with a straight face to my husband that "He and Pat once were sweethearts for a couple of summers."

"Come off it, Jim," I said. "That's an old joke which both Tommy and I fortunately have forgotten. He doesn't even remember me - he ignored me completely when he came in."

Jim would not be denied his fun. (How much of the boy is still in the man?)

He kept at my husband all evening, urging him to approach Tommy and get some of the details of my "first love."

The night wore on. My husband, introduced via aunts, uncles, cousins and neighboring farmers to a part of my past with which he had been unfamiliar, became mellow, more expansive.

By midnight, he decided that going over and talking to old Tommy really would be a pretty good idea.

He walked over to Tommy jovially, presenting himself as my husband.

And, from a safe distance, I watched as Tommy's face reddened.

Bottles shed okayed for A & P

The Zoning Board of Appeals for Independence Township has given Bottles for Building permission to construct a storage shed for glass at the A&P parking lot, Dixie and M-15.

Board members voted 3-0 for approval, Mrs. Carolyn Place of the bottles drive having presented a letter from the owner of the property in which he gave his approval.

Restrictions requiring removal of the structure should the collection cease and reappearance before the board should litter prove to be a nuisance were included in the approval.

Speed with deliberation

There are times when government seems to move depressingly slow. Merchants have expressed that view in regard to the village's new parking ordinance which they hope will eliminate all day parking in front of their stores.

A new office building has accelerated the problem; the employees choosing to park on the street rather than away from the building. Development continuing outside the area has also increased the traffic. The parking ordinance is overdue.

Nevertheless, the fact that government moves without haste is generally of advantage. We have seen too many hastily adopted measures which have turned out either to be unenforceable or had to be rescinded later.

Speed with deliberation is probably the answer. Deliberation with forethought to future needs is probably even better.

The hungry children

By Jim Fitzgerald

In your heart, you know he's right.

Barry Goldwater, of all the stubborn people, threw in the towel on national TV the other day. After 35 years of doing his bit for this country, he said, he now has mornings when he doesn't see much use in getting out of bed. He admitted saying to himself:

"Oh well, what the hell can you do?"

I know the feeling. I think more and more Americans are knowing the feeling. What the hell CAN you do?

Goldwater is mostly ticked off by Watergate. He sees the scandal doing terrible damage to his beloved Republican party. He feels betrayed by people he trusted. He's like a devoted Boy Scout who has suddenly learned his scoutmaster is a pervert.

Watergate bugging me (excuse that, please). The world is jammed with terrible problems that defy solution. There's ecology and inflation and bombing and unemployment and racism.

But most of all, there are hungry children.

A few hours before writing this, I saw the NBC TV show called "Sins of the Fathers." It was about the thousands of fatherless children left behind when U.S. soldiers finally escaped Vietnam.

After looking at the incredibly sad faces of those kids, I couldn't write a funny column if Bob Hope loaned me his battalion of joke writers. And I couldn't write anything indignant about the Watergate mess, either.

After all, if this nation can allow its youngsters to starve, hell'n gully

For the family

by Jean Saile

When I was a kid, we didn't celebrate the 4th of July. We celebrated instead July 1, Dominion Day for Canada.

The day itself was interspersed with such other notable occasions as King George's birthday, which I think was June 14, and Queen Victoria's birthday, which I recall being in May.

While apt enough reason for a picnic and a long weekend, Dominion Day itself was no big deal. After all, we were the generation that stood in movie houses all through the year singing "God Save the King" at the close of the film before departing for home, or wherever.

Those were the days when visible patriotism was a way of life.

I can remember being routed from my bed at 3 a.m. by my mother and father to hear King Edward abdicate the throne of England to his brother, George. The glamorous Wallis Simpson whom he was about to wed was our Jackie Kennedy. What she wore, what she did was news.

Another time, I can remember schoolmates traveling miles across the open prairie to watch the silver streak which was the train carrying George and Elizabeth on a tour of Canada.

Again during the war years, there were midnights spent glued to the radio to hear Prime Minister Winston Churchill tell us, "Never have so few done so much for so many." It was stirring, and it was important in our lives.

What bound a whole empire to the leaders of England? What made their activities so important to remote continents? And if it was important then, why doesn't the same hold true now?

First of all, I think it was the fairy tale quality of royalty. We didn't have television to take us in for close-up views in those days. There was an aura of mystery about crowns and the people who wore them.

During the war, the speeches of Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill helped us renew faith in ourselves. Even in Canada, the war had touched us closely. Neighbor boys went out to Dunkirk and didn't come back.

Families hosted young British airmen sent to Canada to train. We were all bound to one big family, one side (the right side, we felt), and we looked to each other for comfort.

A well-turned phrase, a fatherly and motherly king and queen, could solidify the feeling.

Dominion Day was actually just a family holiday.

them on TV. They are living under unbelievably horrible conditions, packed into orphanages or abandoned in alleys. They are bloated and they have running sores and they sleep a lot because they have no energy. Their eyes are sad and bewildered.

There is no love for these children. The Vietnamese are racists and they scorn racially-mixed youngsters, particularly if the father was a Negro. Long before they are old enough to learn why, the children experience the cruelty of bigotry.

These children are doomed. Things will get no better for them, the man on TV said, because not enough people really care.

In your heart, you know he's right.

why should anyone be shocked that many of our law-and-order politicians are lousy crooks? And those poor kids in Vietnam ARE our responsibility. They were fathered — and deserted — by U.S. soldiers. The soldiers were there, lonely and hungry for sex, because they were drafted to fight an unjust, immoral war that was none of their business.

Now the war scene has changed. The battle is in Cambodia and our warriors are strictly airborne. Their bombs don't impregnate peasants, just kill them. So, as the TV announcer said, there will be no more American-Vietnamese children born to misery. Isn't that marvelous?

But what about the 25,000 half-American kids born before the killing became completely

What the hell can you do?

Tax clarification

Dear editor,

In your reply to Mr. Humbert last week, you failed to differentiate between the increases accruing to a school district because of increased valuations as opposed to increases due to additional millage votes.

While it is true that the state shares in increased revenue as a result of increased valuations, it does not share in increased revenue voted by the people for operational costs.

Were the Clarkston School District voters to approve additional millage, all the funds raised from the extra millage would stay with the school district.

Sincerely,
Robert Vandermark,
supervisor

Bus driver speaks

People of Clarkston:

It's time you knew some of the rotten ways in which your school transportation system is operated.

I was fired because of one accident. People on the scene stated in writing there was nothing I could have done — the road just gave way under the weight of the bus. They took none of these statements into consideration.

The transportation supervisor said, "Mary fell apart at the scene." Mind you, he was not there but that was his only reason for my dismissal.

Assistant superintendent of school just went along with that reason and made no judgement of his own.

The superintendent of school, from his office, stated the following seven reasons:

1. Didn't use seat belt.
2. Didn't use brakes.
3. Shouldn't have gone on the road.
4. Should have taken command of road.
5. Didn't shut off engine.
6. Drove into the swamp.
7. Didn't use radio.

All this and he was not on the scene. Dr. Greene doesn't know anything about driving a bus or about the transportation system or he would not make such stupid statements.

I would like to know how he can sit in his office and know what happened on a bus many miles away.

It seems to me that one man makes a decision right or wrong.

There is no one big enough to tell him he was wrong. They just go along for the ride.

I have tried to get help from agencies such as Legal Aid, or Civil Rights, Civil Liberty, Labor Relations to no avail, although they feel I have been wronged. Unless I were black or on welfare or represented by the union, they can't help me. The fact that I pay taxes doesn't mean a thing.

The bus drivers have in the past seemed able to solve their labor problems with their own association and contract without the use of a union, but after this year, I am not sure they will be able to continue in this manner.

I was told I could take my case before the School Board which I intend to do, although Dr. Greene assured me the decision will remain the same.

If he knows what the board will say, why do we need the school board?

Mary Sweat

He witnessed accident

To whom it may concern:

Last Wednesday, May 16, I was riding in the back of the pickup truck that was passing the bus as it slipped into the swamp on Rattalee Lake Road.

As far as I'm concerned, this accident could have happened to anyone; as there is a lot of new gravel with water on both sides of the road. There are no soft shoulder signs or warnings of any kind. In fact, as the truck, I was in, pulled over to the other side, it sank in about four inches.

As for the driver, I thought she kept pretty calm and had control over the children.

William H. Boadway

He was mowing grass

To whom it may concern;

On May 16, 1973, I was mowing the lawn at 8294 Rattalee Lake Rd. About five p.m. I saw a Clarkston school bus off the shoulder of the road with the right front wheel and right rear dual in the water, at the edge of the road. I ran down to help out. After the children and driver (which was the last one off) was safely off the bus, at the request of the driver I entered the bus to call the garage. I was unable to get the call through. I handed the mike out the window to the driver, she also failed to get through and gave the mike to another man (Mr. Boadway the driver of the pick-up truck). He was able to get the message to the garage.

When I got off the bus the driver was very efficiently taking care of the children, getting them off the road and back on the lawn to safety. She was a little upset but in control at all times.

This section of the road, I am very familiar with, had just been raised approximately 18 inches and widened on and before the day of the accident. There should have been soft shoulder signs or some kind of warning signs to warn all drivers. The moment she moved over from the traveled section of the road to pass the pick-up or to let him pass, she began to bury into the soft shoulder of the road and it was impossible for her to cut back on to the road. At this point the bus traveled about six feet to the edge of the water then continued on parallel to the road with the right front and right rear dual in the water about 30 feet.

This accident could have happened to anyone and especially someone not familiar with the road. In my opinion the driver of the bus had good control of herself and of the children.

The airman is a 1972 graduate of Clarkston High School.

DEAN L. FREEMAN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell L. Freeman of 9770 Ortonville Road, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force communications specialist course conducted by the Air Training Command.

The airman, who learned to operate teletypewriter equipment used in the world-wide Air Force communications system, is being assigned to Wurtsmith AFB, Mich., for duty with a unit of the Strategic Air Command, America's nuclear deterrent force of long range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Airman Freeman, a 1970 graduate of Adelphia Academy in Holly, Mich., attended Union College in Lincoln, Neb., and Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich.

Navy Operations Special Second Class ROBERT W. STUDEBAKER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch H. Studebaker of Three N. Holcomb, recently visited the British Virgin Islands in the Caribbean.

A former student of Clarkston High School, he joined the Navy in January, 1970.

He arrived here aboard this tank landing ship, which was the first U.S. naval vessel ever to visit these islands.

Marine Lance Corporal GARY A. JOYCE, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Joyce of 5607 Warbler, was promoted to his present rank while serving at the U.S. Marine Corps Base here.

He joined the Marine Corps in May 1972.

by the third eye

I do not feel John Dean is telling the whole truth in his testimony before the Watergate hearing committee. More people are going to be hurt as a result of the investigations, and I feel there are going to be some deaths connected with it.

I am very upset about the returning POWs, because I feel that some are overlooking the fact that each man has his own point of no return and pain. Most of those men have experienced some unusual type torture, not experienced during the other wars. The pointing of fingers at this late date is a tragedy. I feel if it continues there will be more murders and suicides over it.

There's going to be a scandal in the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, involving some of the deputies and a woman. That will surprise everyone, but Sheriff Spreen will not cover it up. As soon as he investigates and finds proof, he will relieve one deputy of his job. Another will resign and a third, clear in Spreen's eyes, will remain on the job.

Several adults and children in the southwest part of the county are going to contract measles this year.

Closing the Oakland County Hospital is going to be a big mistake, because it's going to have to be opened again and opened in a hurry. A disease causing vomiting and high fever will spread, and operating hospitals will reject the patients because of lack of space.

Either Bob Vandermark or his brother, Bill, will be limping on the left leg. Maybe he's stepping into a chuckhole to hurt it.

He was passing

To Whom It May Concern:

I was going West on Rattalee Lake Road. I approached a newly constructed area and was not aware of the road conditions. I met a school bus and we both gave way. I almost got stuck. Due to the fact of the weight of the school bus, it pulled her into the soft shoulder, which was not noticeable. Then I noticed the bus being pulled in, by the soft shoulder. I then stopped, my brother and I went back to see what we could do. Another fellow then came to the scene also. We then proceeded to take the children out of the bus. We got them all out safe. When they were all out, we went into the bus immediately. The bus driver tried to call in several times, but could not send. Then the other fellow tried and couldn't get through, then I tried and got through. We then took everything out of the bus and gave it to the children. The bus driver told the larger children to take care of the smaller children. Then immediately they moved up the road, to the nearest house.

Sincerely,
Howard Boadway

Committee report

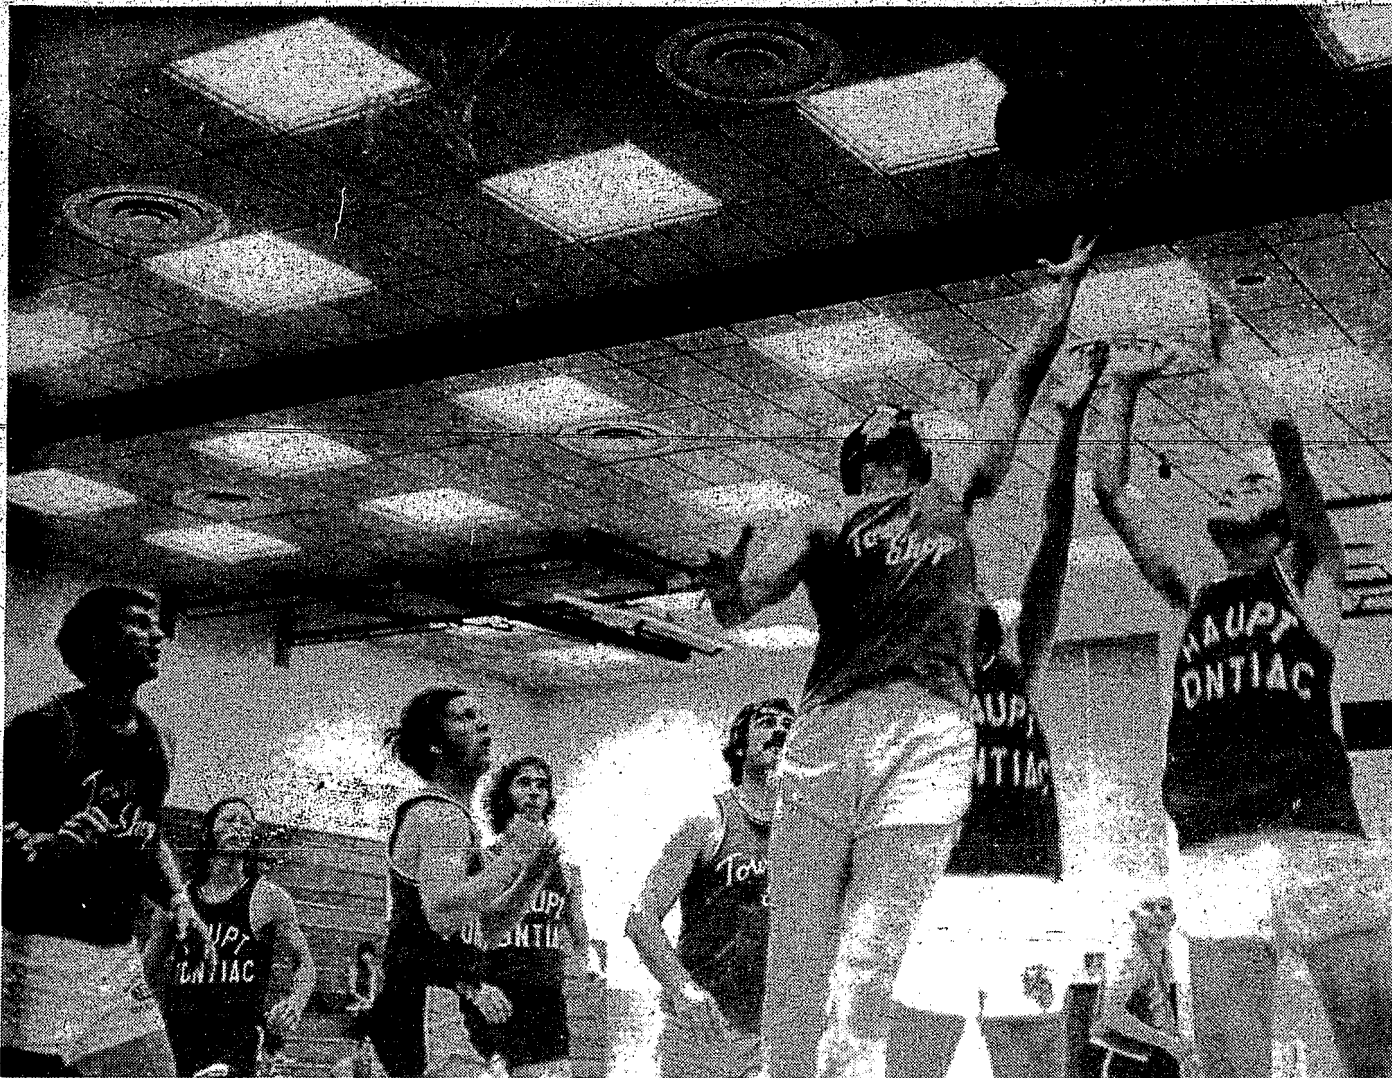

To whom it may concern:

On May 19, 1973, at 9 a.m. we met with Mr. Mason and Norm (Marge, Pat, Ruth and I — Nora). We met to discuss Mary's accident on May 16, 1973.

Norm answered Marge's questions that the accident was just poor judgment. Norm felt that she did not keep calm. Norm said Mary's record was clean otherwise. I asked if anyone could see their record. Norm said yes. Norm said he didn't want to be responsible if Mary had a more serious accident. We discussed the fact that other drivers had had accidents just as serious and not one of them were fired. Norm said he did not have the authority at that time to fire anyone. Norm said his decision was mainly due to her losing her composure. We then visited the scene of the accident. Norm explained his view. We then returned to the garage, the committee left. The committee then had a meeting and felt that Mary did everything possible at the time of the accident. We feel that Mary should have her job back with full pay.

Dressage facility proposed

A 32-acre equestrian training facility on Clarkston Road northeast of Pine Knob Resort will be built if the Independence Township Board follows the recommendation of its planning commission.

The commission Thursday night recommended rezoning from agriculture to C-5 (commercial recreation) the land where David R. Lackey of Walled Lake proposes to build a 40-stall horse barn and paddocks for the instruction of dressage.

The rezoning was recommended with the idea that once the new zoning ordinance is approved, the land could be classified as rural residential, and safeguards built in to keep the facility from ever becoming a public riding stable.

Neighbors were present to state their feelings at a public hearing the commission had scheduled. Most fears seemed to resolve around future use of the property, however some indicated they feared loose horses destructing their property.

Lackey told those assembled the value of the horses ranged as high as $25,000 and $40,000 and that none were allowed to run loose. He said some paddocks and corrals would be built, but that the horses were in the main stalls. He said the rear of the property would not be developed.

Dressage is a dance form for horses, with its best known practitioners the Austrian Lippinzaners.

Faithful fans at the Independence Township men's basketball games include Mrs. Tom Allen [right] and family of Rob White — his son Geoffrey and wife Nancy, holding daughter Natalie.

People purchasing advance tickets to the Loretta Lynn Longhorn World Championship Rodeo August 23 - 26 at the Oakland County Youth Activities Center in Springfield Township will be helping to support the North Oakland YMCA.

Twenty percent of advance ticket sale proceeds will be delivered to the Y, according to Gerry Lacey, activities center director.

The rodeo, one of the largest traveling groups in the world, will be presenting a program of bareback bronco riding, bull riding, steer wrestling, calf roping, saddle bronc riding and women's barrel racing. A purse of $200,000 in prize money will be offered.

Those people not purchasing tickets for themselves are invited to purchase $2 tickets for underprivileged youngsters, Lacey said. Family tickets are available for $8.

Checks and money orders are to be made payable to Oakland County Parks and Recreation and mailed to the department with the notation, "Longhorn Rodeo" at P.O. Box 146, Davisburg, 48019.

Fairwood gets multiple site plan approval

Final site plan approval for the construction of 896 living units (some of them rental apartments and some townhouses which the developer hopes to sell to the occupant) was received Thursday night by Fairwood Corporation.

Leo Sklar of the corporation said the intention is to begin construction this fall on the 90-acre parcel lying north of Maybee Road with a strip abutting Sashabaw south of Pine Knob School.

Density of the development is proposed at 10.2 units per acre, a figure approved under the old township zoning ordinance. Fairwood also owns about 40 acres zoned commercial on Sashabaw and Maybee and "another 40 to 45 acres" north of the multiple unit which Sklar said he hoped to develop as office research.

Approval for phase 1 development was obtained by Fairwood on April 20, 1972, however the restriction made at that time was that a community center, located in phase 2, should be started at the same time construction began on the living units.

Plans are to hook into the sewer trunk which runs along Maybee Road to the south of the project, officials said.

Carriage Trail Estates planned

Owner and developer Gerald Frericks won pre-preliminary plot plans approval for 46 lots on 116 acres between Tindall and Eaton Roads in Springfield Township at the Springfield Township board meeting last week.

Two parcels of land are involved, one containing about 80 acres and almost 40 acres in the other. There is one six acre parcel, land locked, with only a 60-foot easement for access. This piece is in violation of the new zoning ordinances in Springfield Township, it was determined.

Supervisor Claude Trim suggested that this six-acre parcel might be used as a play area for the residents, with ball diamonds to be used by the Little League.

Frericks said, "At this point I would certainly be agreeable to study the park idea."

The Springfield Planning Commission had previously approved the pre-preliminary plat plans.

Fox Den hearing delayed a month

Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals is still awaiting information from the Planning Commission in regard to cluster housing for Fox Den Subdivision off Maybee Road.

The matter, originally expected for consideration last week, will not be heard until the material is on hand, perhaps by the July 10 meeting, according to member Jerry Powell.

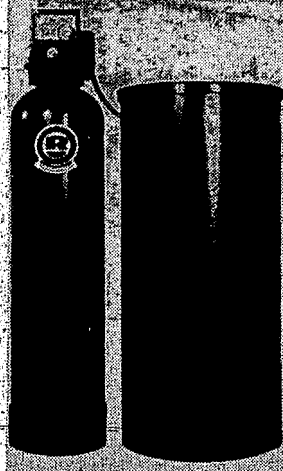

Name the room

Paul Rice, owner of Clarkston Cafe, is conducting a contest to name the new room due to open later this summer. Dinner for two is the grand prize.

The room, now taking shape in former Clarkston Shoe Service quarters on Main Street adjacent to the Cafe, is to be furnished in a Civil War era motif.

The commission approved the plans with certain restrictions: rubbish containers are to be landscaped, the fire department is to approve firefighting provisions in the plan, an easement adjacent to Pine Knob School should be made available to the school, plans should be further delineated for the community building and two pools proposed, more recreation areas, including tot-lots, should be set aside throughout the project, enclosed storage for recreational vehicles should be provided, and a berm or fence should be built along the road which runs adjacent to school property.

2 youth injured in bike collision

Two Clarkston area teenage boys were listed in guarded condition Friday morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital following what appeared to be a head-on collision between motorbikes on Allen Road.

The accident occurred about 8:30 p.m. Thursday, according to Sheriff Department traffic records. Drivers of the bikes were Patrick E. Johns, 13, 9285 Allen Road and Steven M. Strzelecki, 14, 8141 Reese Road.

Sheriff's deputies said the impact occurred at the crest of the hill on Allen Road.

Tax assessor resigns

Ken Smith of Livingston County has written a letter of resignation to the Board of Trustees of Springfield Township.

Smith was hired in April to work with Supervisor Claude Trim as assessor.

Smith cited personal problems and the rising gas prices as his reasons for resigning.

The supervisor will look into the matter of finding a replacement.

The independent view

Six incidents of arcing wires, brought about by lightning strikes during the last week of rain and thunderstorms, were attended to by the Independence Township Fire Department. Part of Waterford Hill and an area off Allen Road were without power for a time. Lightning struck the fuse box off the wall at R&D Welding on the Dixie Highway and in a home on Allen Road, Fire Chief Frank Ronk said.

A total of .70 inches of rain was recorded Tuesday by Ron Bogner at the time tornados struck in Avon and Birmingham. Another 1.04 inches was spilled Thursday, he said.

The new Independence Township Lakes Board is having a bit of a problem getting organized.

The board was formed primarily to provide residents of the Upper Mill Pond with a vehicle to start a special assessment district for pond cleanup.

Membership will include Township Trustee Keith Humbert, Oakland County Drain Commissioner George Kuhn, a representative of the Department of Natural Resources and a county commissioner.

Two dates have been set for the group's first meeting, but members had schedule conflicts.

Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark says he's going to take a third crack at getting them together.

Hang in there, Mill Pond residents.

Only one person called Ron Bogner, our would-be tornado alert man, to offer services following his story in The Clarkston News. With the weather we've had since the story was printed, seems like there might be others who are interested in weather watching. Call him at 674-2575.

Ron was in Farmington on Tuesday when the tornados touched down in Avon and Birmingham. He saw trees being split over there, he reports.

Saw Godspell last Wednesday at the Fisher Theatre, and late-comers managed to cheat me out of 20 minutes of the show. Whatever happened to that old rule whereby no one was seated after the beginning of the play, or until the act break anyway?

Better Maid, the housekeeping service which advertises in The Clarkston News, says it must be the area — either there are a lot of working mothers or people can really afford their services here and they're putting on a special staff to take care of the Clarkston area. Word comes back from those who've tried it that the service is super.

Jean Wilson, secretary at Andersonville School, is picking tomatoes these days from that hydroponically grown vine we've been taking pictures of all spring.

Well, whoever sent those pennies a couple of weeks ago for our psychic's identification, wore baggy blue pants and had a headache. It might be a woman, and she might be expecting, but whoever it is, our giver is preparing to go camping at a deluxe spot with built-in swimming pool.

The penny giver has a computer quick mind, but takes delight in disguising it. There's probably a stream with a small waterfall that flows through his backyard....and there's great grandmother or a great-great grandmother whose name was Heidi.

The psychic believes that four people reside in the giver's house...and she'll still holding fast to the idea of the blue truck (but maybe just for a ride.)

We've $1.58 in pennies.

The gasoline shortage is creeping up on us—and promises to get more obvious as the summer rolls along.

Motorists in the area may find gas station attendants refusing to "fill 'er up" and, in fact, limiting the number of gallons purchased.

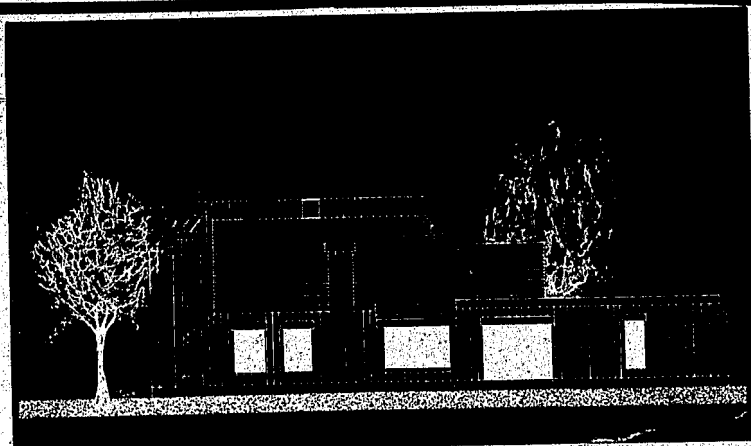

Locally, some stations have reported "no problems so far."

Others have been limited to monthly allocations of gasoline equal to their orders last year, allowing no room for sales expansion.

One was told flatly, "Don't go after new business."

There was a turtle that got away Thursday behind the Radcliffe residence at 33 North Main. Fred Ellison described the animal as 15 inches in diameter "with a mouth this big." By the time the photographer got there, the turtle somewhat angry at having been hoisted around by his tail, had remained and we got his picture disappeared. Only a smaller painted version of the underwater amphibians instead.

Check soil before building

by Ellis G. Humphrey

Last year about 3.4 billion dollars of new construction was contracted in Michigan. Houses, shopping centers, roads, pipelines, and other new construction are literally changing the landscape of our state. About 275 different kinds of soil occur in Michigan's landscape. Many of the soils have severe limitations for construction. They are too wet, unstable, too steep, too clayey or are subject to flooding. To overcome these limitations construction becomes costly. Are you planning new construction? Soil maps will help you select the most suitable soil to build on.

Soil maps with accompanying soil interpretations are provided by a soil survey. These surveys are made by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and cooperating agencies. Last year 500,000 acres of new soil surveys were made according to Arthur H. Cratty, State Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service. He adds: "We now have modern soil surveys for approximately 10,000,000 acres of Michigan's land. This year soil surveys will be completed for Clinton, Eaton, Washtenaw, and Wayne Counties." This will provide soil information for more than 1 1/2 million acres of land where housing and industry are rapidly expanding.

The soil maps show the kind and distribution of various soils and provide information about their properties to a depth of 5 feet. The aerial photograph background makes the maps easy to use. The accompanying soil interpretations rate each soil as to the kind and degree of limitations for various uses. Soils are rated as having slight, moderate, or severe limitations because of wetness, flooding, frost action, permeability, slope, stability, shrink-swell potential, depth to bedrock, and other features. Soils are rated for residential development with or without public sewers, small commercial development, local roads and streets, recreational development, and for other uses. The suitability of a particular kind of soil as a source for roadfill, sand and gravel, and top-soil is also rated. Other information, such as drainage, pond reservoirs, embankment material, and erodibility is given. Using a soil map and interpretations in planning new construction will help to avoid excessive cost that results from construction that requires drainage or other special engineering techniques to make the site suitable. Soil maps will not eliminate the need for sampling and testing at sites involving heavy loads or excavations deeper than 5 feet. Even in these situations the soil map is useful. It indicates the kinds of problems that may be expected and provides a basis for planning detailed field investigations.

"Soil maps and interpretive information are available for parts of Oakland County," said Bill Humphrey, District Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service. Builders, contractors, engineers, surveyors, and other persons involved in construction may obtain soils information, if available, at the Soil Conservation Service's Office, located at 4515 Highland Road, Pontiac, Michigan 48054.

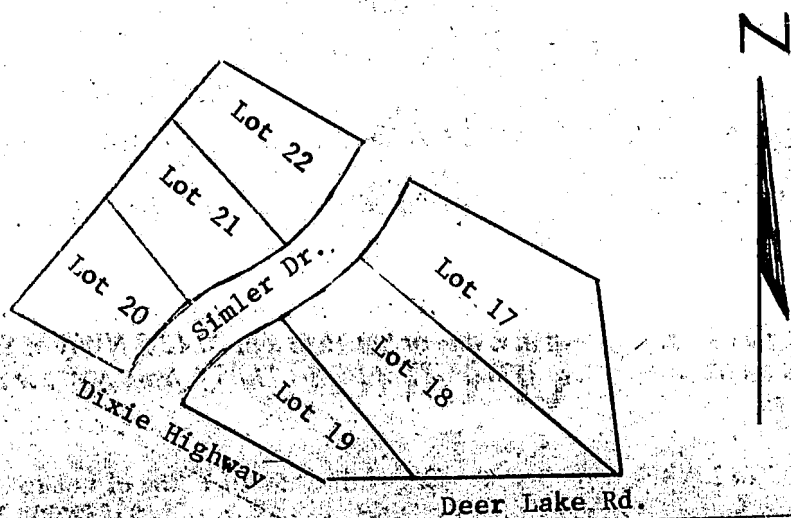

Motorcycle run?

A target for complaints from Hi-Wood Village Subdivision residents is the easement on Clarkston Schools' property along the north side of Goldfinch. Clearing the easement for sewer-line construction, they note, turned the quarter-mile stretch into a track for snowmobilers this winter and motorcyclists this summer.

Flying model airplanes not child's play

By Pat Braunagel

You don't say "Up in the air, Junior Birdman" to Fred Puskas.

You don't say it to a grown man of his size.

And you especially don't say it after you've seen the "bird" he's piloting.

"Some people look at model airplanes as toys," said Puskas, 4610 Edgewood Drive. "They're not toys—they're quite sophisticated."

Aeronautically, the little eight-pounders can accomplish any maneuver their conventional big brothers can—and then some," Puskas notes.

Anyone who considers a radio-controlled model airplane a toy had better take a look at the price tag.

"Equipment can run from $100 to $500," Puskas said. A pilot in competition may have as much as $600 invested in his plane, which he has built himself.

Puskas, president of the Pontiac Model Airplane Club, has been back at his hobby for about four years. He started flying models when he was in the sixth grade, then dropped out when he entered college.

He now is among the growing band of enthusiasts who have made model airplane flying the fourth largest recreational hobby in the world.

The National Academy of Model Aeronautics currently boasts 70,000 members.

Puskas calls it the "friendliest hobby" he's ever participated in, noting that it draws participants from all walks of life.

Visitors are welcome at either of the Pontiac club's two fields—off Pontiac Lake Road behind the Pontiac Mall and off the Clarkston-Orion Road at Flemings Lake Road.

Some of the club's 60 active members are both sites on Saturdays and Sundays after 10 a.m. and frequently on weekday evenings.

Puskas cautions would-be participants against buying a lot of equipment and attempting to fly it immediately. This usually results in a crashed plane and a disillusioned novice, he said.

The Pontiac club has a structured program for beginners, who are assigned to experienced teachers.

To be sanctioned to fly radio-controlled planes for about three and a half years. Having won a trophy in 1971 for being the most improved junior pilot, she now is looking forward to building her own craft.

The most difficult stunt for her right now, she said, is a triple roll.

There are three basic maneuvers—the inside roll, outside roll and axle roll—with many variations of each.

Winter finds the club members involved in different aspects of their hobby. There are occasional trips to meets in the South, just as southerners come up here in the summer.

They also have a building program for underprivileged children, in which each youngster gets to build and fly his own small model.

But many of the club members' leisure winter hours are spent designing and/or building new models.

Puskas, an advanced woodshop teacher at Royal Oak's Kimball High School, estimated he has "about nine models."

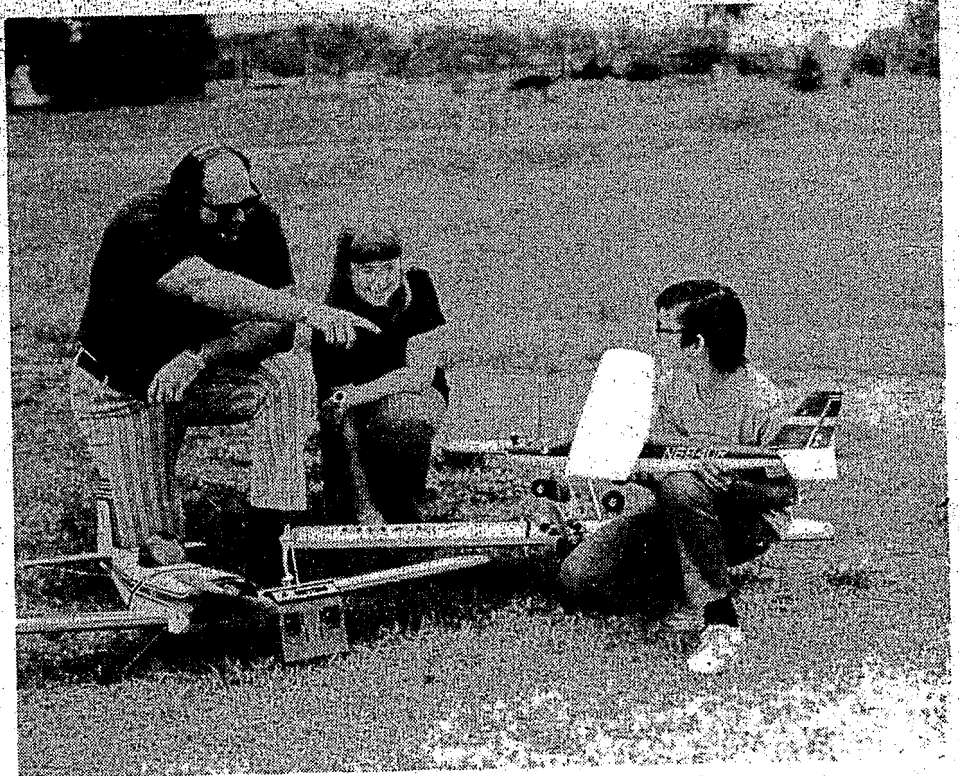

With wing spans of about five feet, the radio-controlled models have one-and-a-half-horsepower engines. They run on alcohol and are lubricated with castor oil.

Besides the radio-controlled craft, Pontiac club members also fly free-flight planes, hand-launched gliders and U-control planes.

Landfill to locate in Springfield

By Betty Hecker

Springfield Township Board voted unanimously June 27 to grant a permit for operation of a landfill, to be known as L. A. Marlowe and Sons, located between Shindler and White Lake Roads in the southwest portion of the township.

Two 80-acre parcels will be used, starting on the eastern edge of one parcel.

Shindler Road will not be used as an access road for the trucks in the landfill operation. Only White Lake Road will have an entrance.

The report on the inspection made by the Springfield Township building inspector stated, "I find that the property has been misused and in violation for several years. I see no reason for the board to deny the permit."

Mel Marlowe, speaking before the board, said, "We made application some time ago. We withdrew it until you (the township) finished the new ordinances in the master plan. We have topography here, showing roads, both access and egress. We have at this point quite a bit of money tied up in this project, over $100,000."

The hours of operation will be set at the time the permit is issued from the building inspector's office, and will generally be between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Trucks may come into the area later. There will be no burning. A trench method will serve as the fencing around the land fill area. This will be a 20-25 foot mound of dirt. Marlowe said that this catches more than a fence.

One area resident, Bill Harris, asked, "Projected, how long will it take to fill this area in?"

Marlowe stated that it all depends on the volume, but five acres a year was his maximum estimate.

F. J. Evans asked, "When do you expect to reach capacity in Rose Township?"

Marlowe replied, "We will close before it reaches capacity. We hope to rezone from agricultural to residential and subdivide."

One reason for the change of land fill area is that the existing landfill is in an all clay area. "Have you ever been up there in the spring?" asked Marlowe. The new site has more sand and gravel, he said.

Oscar Boyer, from the Oakland County Health Dept. reported the geographic survey division of the Department of Natural Resources went over the boring on this property and came to the conclusion that the site is generally acceptable as land fill. The water in subsoil water tables generally flows southwest. Water tables were found at various depths in the area; as fill operations move, the Department of Natural Resources geologist will determine trench depth for operation.

The state makes inspections every three or four months in landfill operations, and the county makes inspections bi-monthly, it was reported.

Ray Ditmyer expressed concern for people living around Big Lake and asked Marlowe, "Are we going to get a lot of carryover of smell from the south?"

Along this same thought and concern, Evans asked, "The land is quite low and the proximity (about two miles, I understand) to the new proposed park — has all this been considered?"

Marlowe assured them, saying, "There is no problem of leachage or blowing or smell for the park or the residents."

Before the motion was made that the land fill permit be granted, Supervisor Claude Trim asked Marlowe, "if you violate ordinance No. 6, the permit will be withdrawn. You do understand that don't you?"

Pine Knob gets warning

Pine Knob Music Theatre operators have been given their first notice of an Independence Township noise ordinance violation.

Ordinance enforcement officer Timothy J. Palulian issued the notice following the June 27 concert at the theater, which featured Quicksilver and the Electric Light Orchestra.

The action was prompted by several complaints, including a call from Rep. Loren Anderson (R-Waterford), according to Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

Vandermark and Palulian monitored the concert with a decibel meter and claim the sound hit 63 or 64 decibels a half mile from the theater.

The sound level limit set by the township ordinance is 55 decibels — a normal conversation level — at the theater's lot line.

The violation notice was given to theater manager Wayne Nederlander at a meeting with township officials June 28.

In addition to the noise, complaints

Jack Belby, secretary of the Independence Township Planning Commission, has resigned. He is being transferred to Pennsylvania, he told the commission Thursday night.

also were made that the concert extended after the 11 p.m. deadline set by the theater, with the performance lasting until 12:30 a.m.

"We received repeated assurances that this wouldn't happen again," Palulian said.

The meeting was called in an attempt to reach an understanding between township and Pine Knob Music Theatre officials.

One problem they share is that performers frequently bring their own sound systems to Pine Knob. Palulian plans to write a standard letter to be given to performers explaining the township's ordinance, the performers' responsibility to the community and the consequences if they fail to keep their sound level within the lawful range.

The sound ordinance violation notice came on the heels of a notice issued to owners of the Pine Knob complex for violation of the township's anti-litter ordinance.

Indusco Corp. was given that warning June 18, when Palulian sighted litter along Pine Knob Road apparently relating to construction work on the ski slopes.

He said he has been assured that condition also will be rectified.

Palulian is to reinspect the construction site and keep monitoring the concerts. Failure to comply with the ordinances could lead to a ticket and a court case.

New home offers country living

COUNTRY LIVING COUNTRY LIVING COUNTRY LIVING

"Larry has always lived in town and I never thought I'd get him to the country," said JoAnn Tarp, talking about their move to a new home in Springfield Township last March.

The wide open spaces, and fields appeal to JoAnn. She likes a place where she can raise German Shepherd puppies without bothering close neighbors.

The main color theme in the large colonial home is a cool olive green. The living room has olive sculptured carpet, pale green walls, olive green velvet drapes tied back over open ribbon weave sheer curtains.

The long camel color sofa is Mediterranean styled, as are the two blue/green tropical flowered print chairs. The wall around the fireplace is paneled with dark wood, and matching Mole problems?

Are moles making a mess of your lawn? The best way to get rid of them is to eliminate their food source, according to John Newman, research technician at MSU's Department of Entomology.

"Moles use grubs for food," says Newman. "If you get rid of the grubs, you'll get rid of the moles."

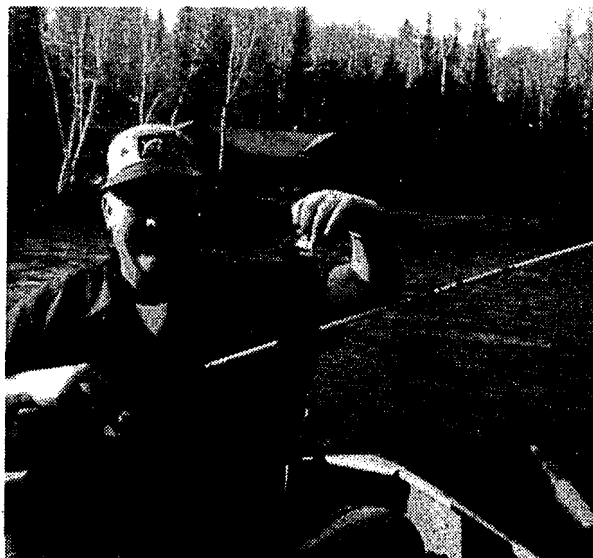

He recommends drenching your lawn with chlordane and water to get rid of the fat, grayish-white worms that feed on grass roots below the ground surface. Be sure to follow the directions that come with the chemical. "You may have to make a second application to kill all the grubs," Newman continues, "but once you do, you'll eliminate the resident population of moles."

Baiting and trapping are not generally recommended for killing moles, but there are some other methods of control.

"Mothballs placed deep within the tunnels will repel moles," says Newman. "And a rotating pinwheel placed at the entrance to a tunnel will also repel them, because their ears are sensitive to the constant vibrations. These measures are usually successful when used in the early spring."

COUNTRY LIVING

wood boxes on either side of the raised, slate hearth save trips outdoors for more wood on long winter evenings.

The formal dining room has the green carpeting, and identical drapes. The top half of the walls are papered in olive, mellow, and beige muted stripe, bordered with dark woodwork.

A small colonial table is a family heirloom, over 100 years old, and has been passed through three generations in Larry's family.

A large Mediterranean oval dining table has a matching glass doored china cabinet and hutch.

The large country kitchen has a big food preparation area with lots of countertop and cupboard space. The floor and all the appliances are a soft avocado green.

The breakfast nook has bright orange open weave drapes on the doorwall window. A bunch of bright red artificial fruit hangs next to the door. The decorations on the wall behind the oval breakfast table are black wrought iron pot racks, full of bright enameled pans, and a weather vane rooster clock.

Each of the three boys in the family has his own room.

Terry's room is a patriotic red, white and blue, with paneling on the back wall in those three colors. Blue and white twin chests, a red bedspread covered with big white stars, and blue shag carpeting complete the color scheme. Terry had three fish, now he has 21—in two tanks.

Randy's favorite color is orange, so his bedroom walls are painted orange . . . and his carpeting is orange. Brown spreads on the twin beds blend in to the color scheme. His shelves are full of models he has constructed, mostly truck models.

Blue is Rory's favorite color. Blue and green shag carpeting, light blue walls, a blue baseball print bedspread, and colorful pennants on the wall accent his room. Model building is also his hobby, and his models are of warships, tanks and planes. Rory reads all the materials he can find on World War II.

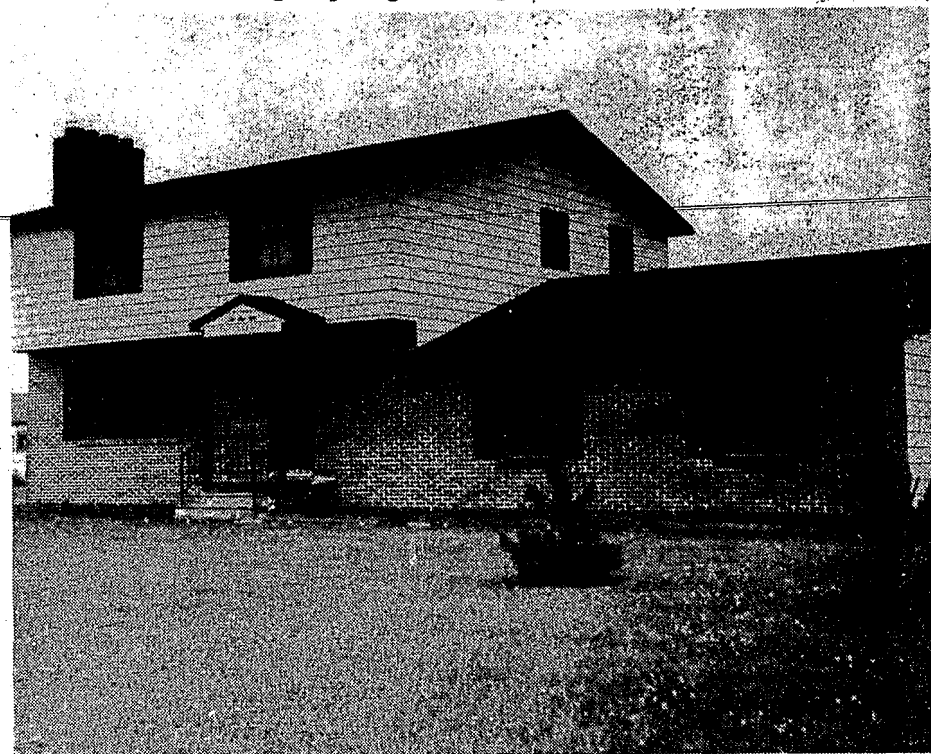

The dramatic master bedroom is decorated in red and white. The Mediterranean style furniture and all the woodwork and doors are stained dark. Red velvet drapes with matching swags are vibrant against the white walls.

A white fur bedspread hangs to the floor and to the red shag carpeting. The dark furniture has red velvet panels behind the wooden grillwork.

A single red rose in a crystal vase graces the dresser.

There is a great deal of nostalgia about today concerning Colonial America. But one must remember that much of the housing in colonial times was both inadequate and unsanitary. That is why we are lucky today to be able to have the best of both worlds. We have the styles of the early days of our country blended with our own best modern knowledge of convenience, roominess, and, of course, plumbing!

You're sure to get results working with the knowledgeable sales staff at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., 625-5821. HOSPITAL SUPPLIES LOAN Closet - independence center has available several items of hospital equipment for loan to those in need. In the closet at present is equipment for washing bed patients, several canes, etc. Anyone wishing to borrow these items may inquire at the center.

There is a need for additional equipment of this nature to have available. If anyone has hospital equipment or supplies they are no longer using please contact a volunteer at independence center. The center can not store large items like beds, but if you have one to loan, please call and leave your name at the center. Something will be worked out.

CENTER NEEDS: In the Odd Job area there have been several requests made at the center for mature women to aid the semi-invalids who live at home. They need help 2 - 4 hours a day with meal preparation, etc. Anyone interested may contact a volunteer at the center.

Seniors to hear of independence center

Senior citizens attending the Salvation Army Drop-in Center at 1 p.m. Monday, July 9, will hear Zella Benson of independence center describe the center's work in the community.

"Springing up" Jogging to a new tune by Betty Hecker 625-5726

Every couple weeks I mention the Davisburg Jogger's All American Kazoo Band, the senior citizens' group that plays their brand of music for nursing homes, church groups, and anyone that invites them to perform. Well, now is your chance — for the band will be playing at the Pontiac Mall on Friday, July 6, at 7 p.m.

Herman Jaenichen, the band percussionist, reports that the group has received some music written for them by Bill Drollinger, a songwriter from West Bloomfield, Michigan. Two of Drollinger's songs that the Joggers will play are "Michigander" and "Joggers."

Bill Pfeiffer of Bridge Lake Road in Springfield Township is home from the hospital. On Tuesday, June 26, Bill underwent back surgery at St. Joseph's Hospital in Pontiac to repair two ruptured discs. The surgery was at 8 a.m. and at 8 a.m. the following morning, he was walking and feeling better than he'd felt for six months.

Donna Pfeiffer, Bill's wife, reports that Bill said the nurses were pretty and their hands were warm.

Yes, sir! He's much better!

Butch (Arthur) Hubbard is home. Several Clarkston area students were from his week long stay at the Michigan Christian Youth Camp in Attica, Michigan. His mother, Evelyn, said, "Driving down the trail into the camp, we saw all the little kids sitting on their suitcases, waiting for the parents to come pick them up. Well, we found Butch's suitcase, but he was off playing, getting the last minute fun in before he had to go home. He really had a good time for himself."

And next Saturday, July 7, Butch will be 9 years old.

Cathy and Jim Hubbard gave a first birthday party for their son, Timmy. The Hubbards live in Lake Orion and invited about 30 friends and family, including Jim's mother, Evelyn Hubbard, and Cathy's parents, George and Emma Rheindress, to help Timmy have a good birthday.

Raymond L. Chenoweth, 9531 Whipple Shores, Nancy A. Vollbach, 6371 Simlar Drive and Lenore D. Weaver, 8701 Thendara were honored by Ferris State College at the annual Academic Honors Banquet recently. Consistent academic excellence was the basis for invitation.

awarded degrees and certificates at Ferris State College Commencement exercises June 10. Among those honored were Hugh P. Brockman, 9533 Pine Knob, a B.S. in advertising; Raymond L. Chenoweth, 9531 Whipple Shores Drive, A.A.S. in automotive service; Jerry B. Cobb, 9212 Eve., A.A.S. in machine tool; Brian W. Hoxsie, 37 E. Washington, A.A.S. in technical drafting; Marvin G. Pacer, 3663 Bird, A.A.S. in refrigeration, heating and air conditioning; Nancy A. Vollbach, 6371 Simlar Drive, an A.A.S. in dental assisting.

The Davisburg Joggers Senior Citizens will meet Saturday, July 7, for a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rioux, at the Rioux Estate, 9997 Davisburg Road. The potluck dinner is at noon.

The Junior Baseball Fun day was Saturday, June 30, and it was just that — a fun day!

Foot races, booth games, hot dogs and pop punctuated the 30 baseball games played during the day.

The ballplayers had a chance to "strike" back at the umpires too. Bob Davidson arranged for a dunk tank, using the umpires as the tank sitters.

The umpires also had their fun when Davidson took his turn in the tank.

The winners of the four bikes, awarded to the boys who sold the most Fun day tickets were:

Steve Davidson in the T-Ball and Pee Wee Division who sold 165 tickets (at $1 each) and won a 5-speed bike.

Gary Reed and Guy McCullum each won orange 10-speed bikes for selling 166 tickets and 151 tickets, respectively, in the Widget Division.

In the Midget, Pony and Umpire Division, Gary Wells sold $85 in tickets to win another 10-speed bike.

Congratulations, boys!

George Bennett of Snow Apple finished the spring term at the University of Michigan last Saturday. He is majoring in accounting and will be a senior next September.

Diane Hoff of Clarkston and Laurel Little of Drayton Plains have been named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at Northern Michigan University, Marquette.

Picnic on new church grounds

An old-fashioned 4th of July picnic beginning at 1:30 p.m. is planned by members and friends of St. Trinity Lutheran Church.

The church, which presently meets on Andersonville Road off the Dixie Highway, has purchased property on Sashabaw Road north of Clarkston Road. The picnic will be held on the new grounds, and the property will be dedicated and the sign of identification unveiled.

Ralph Claus Jr., picnic chairman, said activities will include races, contests, games and softball for all ages. Music for the festivities will be provided by the Jacob Ramig Jr. band.

Assisting Claus are Mark Altemann, Cathy Altemann, Mrs. Helen Dooley and Mrs. Irene Klemm.

Families attending are requested to bring their own table service, meat, and a dish to pass.

Bike parade heralds daily Bible school

A bike parade at 1 p.m. July 7 will herald daily Vacation Bible School beginning two days later at Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church.

Bikes will be judged on the basis of decorations and their promotional value for the school. Prizes will be awarded to two groups: children of 3 through the 3rd grade, and 4th through 9th grades. All children in the area are invited to participate.

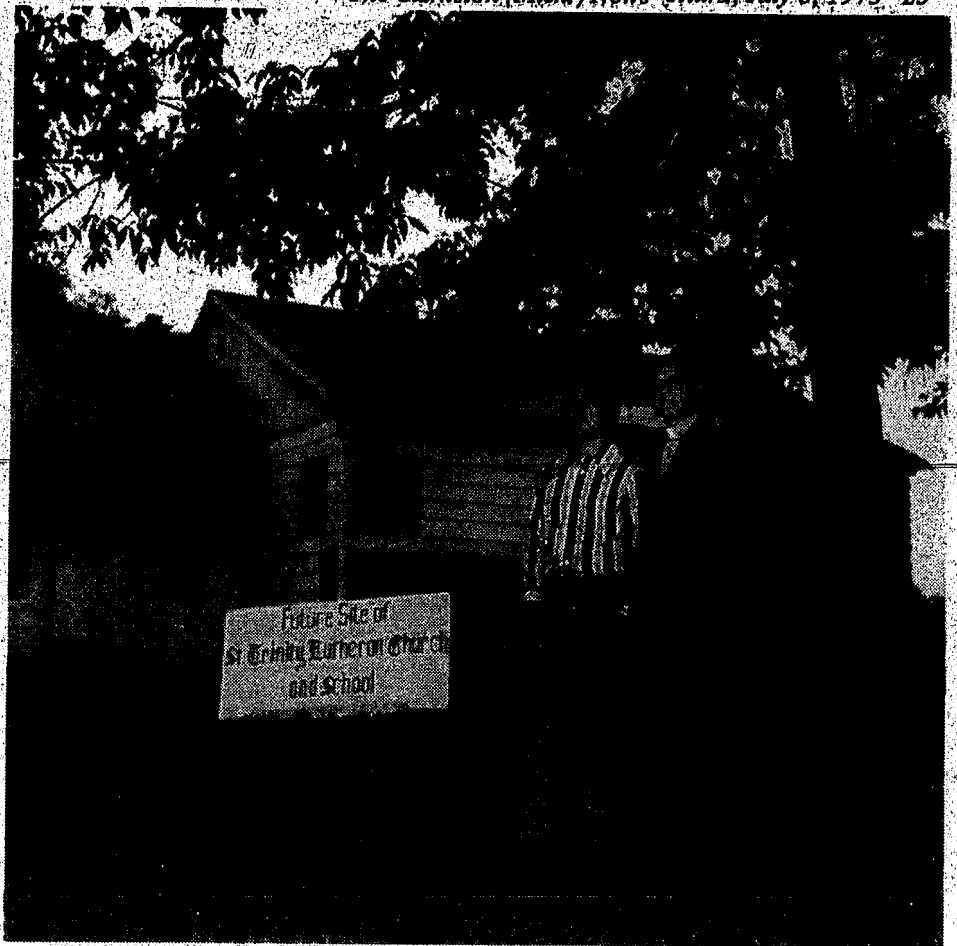

Three clowns will lead the parade as it winds from the church, Maybee Road and Winell, down Winell, Heath, Frankwill, Summerhill, Pinedale, Oak Vista and Pelton.

Tent meeting

Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church, Maybee Road and Winell, will host an old fashioned tent meeting July 8-15.

The program, in cooperation with "Key 73 Calling our Continent to Christ," will feature Rev. Orestes R. Tessaro, an evangelist who has served crusades in Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay and Spain.

Rev. Clancy J. Thompson said Sunday services will be at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. with weeknight meetings set for 7:30 p.m. The church choir, a teen choir and "His Kids Band" directed by Les Dietzman of Pontiac will provide music.

Ralph Claus Jr. and his father, Rev. Ralph Claus, look over the grounds on Sashabaw just north of Clarkston Road where they intend to move St. Trinity Lutheran Church. A picnic is planned July 4 for the congregation which currently meets on Andersonville Road just west of the Dixie Highway.

Spiritual Message

If you read nothing more this week, please read the 8th Psalm: "Lord, our Lord, your greatness is seen in all the world! Your praise reaches up to the heavens, it is sung by children and babies...

When I look at the sky, which you have made, at the moon and the stars, which you set in their places—
What is man, that you think of him; mere man, that you care for him? Yet you made him inferior only to yourself; you crowned him with glory and honor.

You made him ruler over all you have made; you placed him over all things: sheep and cattle, and wild animals too; the birds and the fish, and all the creatures in the seas.
Lord, our Lord, your greatness is seen in all the world!
Though it is easy for us to take it for granted, we live in a beautiful township. Deer, Walters, Woodhull, Cranberry, Dollar Lakes and the many more are God's gifts to us, not only to swim and boat in, but just to look at and relish. The animals are near to us as well as lakes and trees. I nearly broke up the other evening as I led a wedding rehearsal and looked over the bride and groom's shoulders out the front door and saw three rabbits cavorting around. (Who needs rice?)
We can first hand appreciate what the Psalmist is talking about, even as we consider the gravity of the responsibility God has given us:

to rule over His creation and use it wisely.
More and more people are staying home on the Fourth of July. Why fight the traffic when you can look around and find a pleasant peninsula?
Thank God for what we've been given. May He point us beyond our own selfish interests to be worthy of this trust He has placed in our care.
