Interior decorators do their thing

Don't like your room decor? Do something about it as Bruce and Barry, 12-year-old twins, and Brian, 14, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Collins, 6125 Havelock, have done. The boys this summer drew and painted cartoons on the walls, made beds with storage underneath, painted them black, and covered them in red. Their taste runs to cars more than to women. Yet.

Sophomores report August 22

All sophomores due to attend Clarkston High School this fall are required to attend orientation August 22 at the high school.

Students who attended Sashabaw Junior High School last year are to meet at 8:30 a.m. in the Little Theater at the high school.

Those who attended Clarkston Junior High last year are to meet at 1 p.m. in the Little Theater at the high school.

William Dennis, principal, said the new tenth graders will be completing final registration and obtain schedules. An opportunity to become familiar with the building, policies and personnel will be offered, he said.

Two charged in market, beach break-in Three young men were arrested, one later released by arresting officers, following a cops-and-robber chase at 2:59 a.m. August 8 at Deer Lake Beach.

Township Recreation Director Timothy Doyle who lives nearby on Hillside Drive said he heard noises at the beach, and since there has been vandalism there in recent weeks, he decided to investigate.

As he came through the bushes near the beach house, he saw a man leave the area. He went in pursuit and two others emerged from the beach house, he said. Doyle was able to catch one and called the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Officers from the county and the state arrived and another man was caught, Doyle said, as he fled through the marshy area along White Lake Road. A third man was caught later.

Clarkston District Court Judge Gerald McNally arraigned two men following the incident, setting examination for September 20. Barry Stamper, 18, 8575 Sashabaw was ordered to post $200 bond and David W. Merkle, 21, 26 Buffalo was freed on personal bond.

The two were charged with breaking and entering with attempt to commit larceny. No reason was given for the release of the third man.

Doyle said that as one fled the beach area, a duffle bag was dropped containing some beach house supplies and a cash box holding $20. Other material, later found to have been taken from Rudy's Market the same night, was also discovered having spilled from the bag.

Oakland County Sheriff's records disclose that $43 in cash, 35 packages of cigarettes and a box of Reese's peanut butter cups were reported missing from the market. Entry had been gained, the report said, by kicking in the vent at the rear of the store that same night.

Three youngsters removed from home in neglect case

Detectives are completing investigation this week of a child neglect case which saw three young children removed from their mother's custody Monday and turned over to their father, pending a Juvenile Court hearing.

Oakland County Sheriff's Detective Carl Metheny said the department received a call Monday afternoon to 7019 Felix Drive where the investigating officer found three young girls, aged 15, 11 and 9, in the home by themselves.

Metheny said the house was reported a mess, the toilet not working, and while officers waited for a photographer, the mother, Carol Fraser, 36, appeared with a boyfriend to protest removal of the children.

She contended she returned periodically to check on the children, who told officers their parents were divorced and that the mother had been gone for four days.

The children were taken to Oakland County Children's Center and turned over to the father.

Township officials were contacted for the possibility of condemning the house. Building Inspector Kenneth Delbridge said he was working with the Oakland County Department of Health in pursuit of the matter.

Weeding the township

Weeds occupied most of the attention of Independence Township Law Enforcement Officer Timothy J. Palulian in July.

Of the 226 alleged violations which he processed during the month, 182 involved the noxious weeds ordinance. He handled 40 abandoned and disabled vehicle reports and four violations of the anti-litter ordinance.

Township board considers new fire budget

The Independence Township Fire Department should have a new budget next Tuesday, making use of either all or part of the extra one-mill levy approved by voters June 11.

A new $189,597 budget, requiring the levy of two rather than one mill, has been proposed by Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

The department had a budget requiring a one-mill levy for the fiscal year which began April 1. However, voters in June gave their permission to levy up to one more mill for the fire department.

Township board members, who received Ronk's new proposed budget last week, agreed to decide on the matter at their Aug. 21 meeting.

Major additions to the budget are in the areas of equipment, for which Ronk now is seeking $65,081; new buildings and property, $20,000; and building additions and improvements, $10,000.

Also listed in the budget is $33,900 for salaries, including $8,000 for two fire marshals.

"The hang-up seems to be with the fire marshals," said Trustee Jerry Powell at last week's board meeting. "If that were for equipment, the mill would be spread."

Powell indicated his support for Ronk's proposed fire prevention program, which would require the hiring of the fire marshals.

They would be responsible for checking public and commercial buildings to insure they meet the state code.

"We also have a fire prevention program designed for the schools," Ronk said.

He noted that a master plan for inspecting buildings in the township would be devised so there could be no accusation of favoritism.

Trustee Keith Humbert asked Ronk for a rough draft of his ideas—"to spell out your plan of action."

Humbert recalled that the township board has on its records a resolution to purchase property before equipment for the fire department.

Sentencings due on break-in cases

Michael King 21, 5980 Lakewood, and Ronald Evely, 19, 5940 Pinehurst, plead guilty to the reduced charge of conspiracy to commit a misdemeanor Monday in Clarkston District Court.

Sentencing was due Wednesday. The two had been arrested on charges of breaking and entering last April in connection with burglaries in the Clarkston Schools administration building, the Town Shop and the Clarkston Education Association offices.

Evely is due to return to Germany where he is serving with the U.S. Army and District Judge Gerald McNally said he had requested a probation check with that end in mind.

He said restitution of some $700 in vandalized property has been discussed.

Resigns from village council

Clarkston Village Trustee Lucia Wilford has submitted her resignation from the council effective September 1. Her letter of resignation was read to the council Monday night, but no action was taken.

The Wilfords, Lucia, her husband, Jerry, and their son, Jay, plan to move to Scotland for a year.

Emphasizing their irritation with the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals, residents of Sunnybeach Subdivision Monday picketed the township hall. They obtained an injunction Monday from Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem restraining the township from implementing a variance granted to builders Koehler and Marcum to build on two undersized lots in the subdivision. Hearing on the matter was scheduled for Aug. 22.

School lunches cost 5 c more

The Clarkston Board of Education Monday night raised by five cents the cost of school lunches for secondary and elementary students.

Board members also authorized a hike in the mileage allowance for school employees and approved the replacement of six school buses.

School lunches this year will cost students 50 cents in secondary schools and 45 cents in elementary buildings.

"I'm not even sure a nickel will do it, quite frankly," said Assistant Schools Supt. Milford Mason.

He said the food services budget was $5,720 in the red at the end of the 1972-73 school year, having made disbursements of some $293,000.

He noted that the amount of federal commodities given the district is considerably lower than it was a few years ago—"especially meat."

Mileage allowance for employees using their own cars for school business was increased from 10 to 12 cents a mile. For school-owned cars, it was raised from three to four cents a mile.

Also approved was the purchase of three buses at $15,220 each to replace three which should have been retired this spring, according to Mason.

He said he had learned Monday of a Company which has three General Motors chassis of the type used by the district but no longer manufactured by

GM. These hopefully can be assembled and delivered by November, he said.

Another three buses to arrive during the next fiscal year also will be ordered soon.

The chassis for them will come from the National Chassis Co. of Perry, Ga. and will take the cost of each vehicle up to $18,968.

Parade needs float entries

Anybody got a good idea for a parade float? Got an event you'd like to publicize during the Labor Day parade?

Clarkston Rotarians, Dick Logan in particular, are hoping plenty of people will come up with entries for their 10 a.m. parade Monday September 3. Logan's phone number is 625-2250.

The parade will form at the Clarkston Junior High, proceed down Church to Main and thence out north Main.

Prizes will be awarded immediately following the parade for best costume and best float. Three prizes will be awarded in each category.

Theme of this year's parade is "Shaping up our Dreams."

Juniors, seniors to register for classes

Students who will be juniors and seniors at Clarkston High School this fall are required to register and make out class schedules August 20 and 21, according to Assistant Principal Jan Gabier.

All co-op, vocational and special education students are due to report at 9 a.m. August 20.

Seniors whose last names begin as follows will report Monday, August 20:

O through R - 10:30 a.m.
C through D - 11 a.m.
E through G - 11:30 a.m.
S - 1 p.m.
K through L - 1:30 p.m.
T through Z - 2 p.m.
A through B - 2:30 p.m.

M through N - 3 p.m.

H through J - 3:30 p.m.

Juniors will report Tuesday, August 21, according to the following last names schedule:

M through O - 9 a.m.

H through J - 9:30 a.m.

P through R - 10 a.m.

E through G - 10:30 a.m.

A through B - 11 a.m.

K through L - 11:30 a.m.

C through D - 1 p.m.

S - 1:30 p.m.

T through Z - 2 p.m.

Miss Gabier said students who cannot schedule at the indicated time should call the school to make arrangements at a later date.

Village zoning ordinance hits snags

Clarkston Village Council will meet in study session, probably with members of its planning committee, to iron out problems in its proposed zoning ordinance at 8 p.m. Monday, August 20.

Action on the ordinance is expected to follow at the council's regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. August 27.

Some 30 village residents turned out Monday night to state objections to the ordinance and map—which in effect locks in zoning for prevailing land uses throughout the village.

The ordinance also does away with much of the previous, multiple zoning in the village and limits its new RM classification to those buildings built specifically for apartments. Older homes containing more than one living unit are classified under single family residential as conforming uses.

It also attempts, according to Todd Kilroy, planning consultant, to specifically define the various classifications of zoning and to keep them contained within specified areas.

The ordinance was derived over the past six months by the village planning committee composed of Trustees Ruth Basinger, Lucia Wilford, Village President Richard Johnston, Jackson Byers, Fred Davidson, Carl Hansen, Nancy Prucher, Douglas Roeser, Ted Thomson and Henry Wolfenden.

Kilroy explained that a new section of the ordinance requires that any new use constructed in the village must provide off-street parking according to a formula set forth. It also provides for green belts and proper screening of residential from other uses, and limits sign sizes in all districts.

There are also noise regulations, the sound not to exceed 75 decibels during the day nor 70 at night at the property line of any noisy offender.

Kilroy said the township building department would be used to enforce the ordinance. The section dealing with building permits and occupancy permits is taken from the township, he said.

Rezoning will be available, Kilroy said, the applicant appearing first before the planning committee (soon to become a planning commission, according to Attorney Ed Sosnick) and the recommendations of that body to proceed to the council where a determination will be made.

Variances under the ordinance will be the province of the Zoning Board of Appeals, Kilroy said.

Objections to the proposal came from several sources.

Keith Hallman of Hallman's Apothecary contended business zoning as portrayed on the map is in-effect strip zoning. "We've got a lot of problems in the business district, and what you've set forth here doesn't help."

Johnston responded, "This is not the master plan for the village. This map has only set out existing uses. Changes can be initiated by owners, he added.

Hallman pointed out that new business would require off-street parking and off-street loading, but he said there wasn't a great deal of area in the business district where new business could locate. He spoke of those areas available as being too small to comply in any way with the ordinance.

Hallman, who has recently been named temporary chairman of a businessman's organization in the village, said, "We feel pinched right into an area that does not allow parking expansion.

Other objections involving individual pieces of property were heard from Frank Russell, Ted Grey, Bud Yoh and Harold Goyette.

Betty Smith, 69 East Washington, objected to use of single family residential property for multiple living units. Support for the ordinance was expressed by Nelson Kimball and Nancy Prucher.

Howard Huttenlocher, chairman of the zoning board of appeals, described the proposed ordinance as essentially the same as the old with a few amendments. He questioned the ease of rezoning which proponents of the ordinance said could be accomplished in individual cases.

Warrant sought in auto death

Michigan State Police said Tuesday they would attempt to get a warrant from the Oakland County Prosecutors Office charging Jerry Wern, Sr., 5357 Sashabaw, in the death of his nine-year-old son Sunday evening.

Jerry Wern, Jr. was killed when he was thrown from the auto driven by his father after the car had attempted to pass another driven by Michael Seffens, 17, of 6080 Waldon. The Wern car caromed off the Seffens car a couple of times and then turned over, police said.

Neither Wern Sr. nor Seffens were reported hurt in the accident, which occurred at 5 p.m. on Sashabaw near Pelton Road.

Officers said they would pursue the warrant either on the basis of drunk driving or manslaughter.

Where there's students, there's smoke

By Pat Braunagel

Students who want to smoke at Clarkston High School will still be able to do so in four lavatories.

Although Clarkston board of education members expressed their disapproval of the situation for various reasons, they failed to reach agreement Monday night on a policy to cover smoking at the high school.

"We have seven board members and at least six opinions," commented Board President David K. Leak.

The present arrangement, which has been in effect for three years, was recommended by a citizens' study committee.

"We have as controlled a situation as I have seen in any school," said High School Principal William Dennis.

While most of the discussion on the controversial matter involved alternative areas for smoking, some board members indicated they favor forbidding all smoking at the high school.

Noting that smoking at the school is "a privilege, not a right," Trustee Charles Smalley said, "If you allow them to smoke today, next year they're going to want to open a bar."

Dennis said a rule forbidding all smoking on the premises would be unenforceable, that students then would smoke in all eight of the lavatories open during school hours and that non-smokers would be intimidated from using the lavatories.

Trustee R. A. Weber said he couldn't see spending money on personnel to enforce a smoking ban when the students are smoking with at least the tacit approval of their parents.

"We're in the education business," he said. Four board members—Leak, Weber, Carolyn Place and Robert Walters—indicated their interest in designating an open area inside the school for smoking.

"I would rather have kids smoking where they can be seen," Leak said.

There is no room available for this purpose and none ventilated well enough, Dennis said.

Assistant Supt. Milford Mason said he has been "bothered by our consent to do this—to break the law."

Mrs. Place wondered if an anti-smoking education campaign or clinics to help students stop smoking might be worth a try.

Supt. Dr. L. F. Greene said a recent study on drug abuse education indicates that talking about drugs at school "seems to increase their use rather than diminish it."

Smalley moved that the board limit smoking to a designated area outside the building, and was supported by Trustee Fernando Sanchez. When the vote was taken, they were joined by board secretary Albert Foster.

Weber and Mrs. Place cast negative votes. Walters initially abstained but then voted no, commenting that "the hypocrisy of it (controlling student smoking) bothers me like mad."

Leak broke the tie by defeating the motion.

He asked administrators to "give some thought to possible alternatives" and to involve the students in the process.

Dennis nodded.

"It's a community problem," he said. "We're only the receivers of it."

Country Music at park

Families and all lovers of country western, blue grass and gospel music are invited to the Oakland County Carnival No. 1 Sunday, August 19 at Springfield-Oaks Park in Davisburg.

The all-day country western music festival and picnic will feature continuous entertainment indoors and out on the grass.

Country-style food will be available and festival goers may bring picnic lunches if they wish.

Concessions will include carnival rides, pony rides, handicraft booths and popcorn, cotton candy and ice cream sales. There will also be games for children and a drawing for prizes.

Well-known entertainers will perform in the outdoor arena where seating is available on bleachers and on grassy hillsides. Other artists will perform at scatter lawn sites and for dancing in the auditorium.

Among those appearing, rain or shine, are Tim Hazel with Brush Creek, The Crossmen, Jack Hillsinger and the Country Cuzzins, Miss Joy Jean and Ford Nix with Carl and Brenda, Casey Clark, Wendy Joe and the Hunters and Capitol recording artist Lori Jacobs.

The carnival is being sponsored by the Oakland County Democratic party, and party members will maintain a hospitality area in part of the indoor facilities at the park.

Tickets are $2.50 in advance and $3 at the gate. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Private roads?

Indications are that Independence Township Planning Commission may be considering private roads as a means of developing ten-acre parcels.

Planner Larry Burkhart says the roads would be maintained by the township and that they would have to meet certain minimum standards. He also adds that this is one means of permitting land holders who have lived and paid taxes here for some time to reap the benefits of their residency, rather than having to turn the property over to developers.

We hope the commission considers very carefully before taking any such steps.

School buses will not run on private roads. Oakland County Sheriff's Department will not run on private roads. Further, there is really no concrete means of keeping such ten-acre parcels from eventually holding more than the three suburban plots which Burkhart envisions as ideal.

Were the land to develop further, we could end up with another Walters Lake situation where the people have been thwarted at every turn in seeking road improvement.

Unless the standards adopted are akin to those of the Oakland County Road Commission, they can't even give the roads away.

Adding to Watergate wisdom

Worrying and wondering about Watergate . . .

H. R. HALDEMAN reminds me of every lieutenant I had during World War 2. John Ehrlichman reminds me of every captain. And John Dean reminds me of the sniveling corporals who always told the sergeants when the privates goofed off.

Of course, I was in the German army. Sauerkraut on a shingle.

PRESIDENT NIXON may not be a burglar but he certainly has been running around with a lot of weird types. I think he hires his help the same way they do on the loading dock. Whoever is first in line at 5 a.m. gets a day's work.

A lot of people wonder why Nixon has handled Watergate so stupidly from a public relations standpoint. If he is so innocent, why won't he release those tapes to Top 40 disc jockeys? People are bound to be suspicious.

I think I have the answer. Nixon wants you to get so steamed about Watergate you won't notice what else is going on. Right now he's probably sorry he wasn't caught driving the getaway car at Watergate. That would have caused such an overwhelming stink you wouldn't have noticed a secondary odor when it was revealed that we bombed Cambodia for 14 months and almost no one knew it except the people getting killed and they never told.

If you weren't so hypnotized by Sen Ervin's eyebrows, you might be wondering what else we've been bombing. Has anyone heard from Castro lately? Or Massachusetts?

A thin corpse

by Jean Saile

I have this vision—accompanied sometimes by a growling and restive stomach—in which my family has gathered for the last reading of my last will and testament.

There they sit, veiled in mourning, eyes dabbed now and again to stem the flow of tears, while the family barrister intones:

"I, Jean Saile, being of sound mind and body, do hereby bequeath to the Saile children, share and share alike, one standing rib roast. To my beloved husband, should he still live, I leave one Porterhouse steak.

"The declared items will be found, sealed in glass at the bottom of the family freezer where I have kept them since 1973, intact from the ravages of time and rot."

Now wait, that's not all!

After the reading is complete, the children clutch each other, my husband nods approval, and they are all flushed with the benevolence of my bequest.

Fie on the fake jewelry I have not worn over the years. Fie on the $20 savings accounts which I have sporadically opened in various banks during fits of optimism over the years. Fie on the heirloom china.

Meat by that time will have value untold. A rarity, it will be solicited for museum display and auctioned off now and then like Van Gogh's paintings at posh gatherings.

The woman who eats a certain brand of margarine will have nothing on the woman who cooks meat for dinner. If she's able to afford meat, she's able to afford crowns.

Already it has evolved to that point that the serving of hamburger at the Saile house is met with the noise of approval. I can remember those halcyon days when the response was a dispirited "Hamburger, again?"

"It's getting to the point where it's an interesting experience to drop in at the butcher shop—to look. The pork chops, the chicken, the short ribs, the bacon all tend to assume an aura of luxury as the supply lessens and the price goes up.

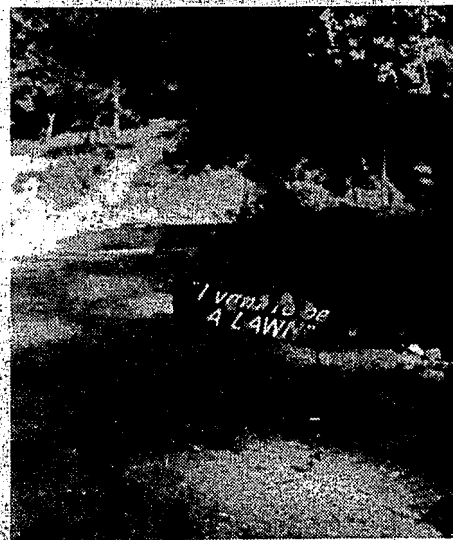

IF I'm fortunate enough to get a glimpse of a round steak, it's a red letter day . . . sort of like seeing the Hope diamond.

Lentil soup is something we haven't had at our house in a long time. I have the feeling it's going to become an increasingly common item on the menu—like bone or potato or split pea soup.

Yechh!

My only satisfaction is in knowing that as the family gathers for that last reading, they will have buried a thin corpse.

"I WANT TO BE A LAWN"

Sign speaks plaintively of the results of sewer construction in Woodhull Subdivision.

By Jim Fitzgerald

REMEMBER THAT marvelous movie about Dr. Strangelove? There was that delicious scene when the Pentagon brass got into a squabble while discussing policy in the war room. And the President brought them quickly to heel with the stern reminder that: "There is no fighting allowed in the war room."

Which naturally brings us to Robert Seamans, Secretary of the Air Force during all those months when Cambodia was being bombed. He admits he didn't know about the bombing. That's what makes this country great. President Nixon lies to everybody, no matter what their race, creed or station in life.

Has anyone seen Peter Sellers lately? I think he is Robert Seamans.

IF J. EDGAR HOOVER had only died a few years earlier, the Nixon administration could have blamed him for inflation, continuation of the Vietnam war, and Dutch elm disease.

When John Ehrlichman hinted that Hoover might have been soft on Communism, Efram Zimbalist Jr. grabbed a plunger and stormed the White House, insisting he wanted to be a plumber.

MOTHER ASKED me please not to write anything about Watergate because she is sick of reading about it. What she doesn't understand is that, these days, if a columnist doesn't write wise things about Watergate, he might lose his job.

Which would put me back in line at the fruit pickers' hiring hall, hunting for a day's work. Do you want your son to end up as a Presidential assistant?

Mother?

Places to go, things to do

Aspiring young gardeners, flower arrangers and handicrafters will have an opportunity to enter exhibits in the Pontiac Mall Flower show again this year.

This event is scheduled for the week of September 17-22 but prior to that time, several workshops will be held at Drayton Plains Nature Center for the youngsters.

This year's theme for the show is "Galaxy of Beauty" and the Junior Section classes follow "The Twister" which carried Dorothy, the little girl from Kansas, over the rainbow to the Land of Oz.

On Thursday, August 23, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, instruction will be given in making constellation pictures, with string ("To Watch the Stars"), and sand paintings ("To the Sand Pits").

On Thursday, August 30, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon leaf and shaved crayon pictures ("To the Rainbow's End") will be made along with people and animals made of recyclable materials ("The Tin Woodsman and his Pals").

Saturday morning, September 8, will be devoted to making figures of vegetables and fruit for "The Horse of a Different Color and his Pals," "The Cowardly Lion" and "The Scarecrow."

Saturday morning, September 15, has been slated for flower arranging: "The Twister," using flowers and curved branches; "The Emerald City," using foliage only; and "The Lollipop Guild," small arrangements of fresh and/or dried materials.

Some materials will be furnished. For more information please call Mrs. Ray Allen, 628-8347; Mrs. Alfred Nicholls, 673-1081; Mrs. Don Rottenberk, 623-0931 or Mrs. E.L. Winderer, 673-2815.

Twenty enthusiastic farmers from the Oakland County Farmer's Market will provide everything from the farm and garden for the Pontiac Mall's Farmer's Market, August 17 and 18. For two days, the farmer's garden fresh flowers and produce will transform The Mall into an old-fashioned market place.

The two-day Farmer's Market will be conducted in the South Mall on Friday and Saturday from 9:30 until 5.

Care-A-Fair '73 a week long display featuring the services of 22 Pontiac Area United Fund agencies, will begin at the Pontiac Mall on Monday, August 20, and continue through Saturday, August 26.

Action displays, slide presentation, live demonstrations and photo exhibits illustrating PAUF agencies' services in the areas of health, education, recreation, character building, research and social work will be featured.

A benefit concert featuring a marriage of two Holly residents, Dennis Duncan and Sherry Bost, will be 3 to 8 p.m. Saturday, August 18 at Springfield-Oaks Youth Activities Center. Sponsored by Space-Time Inc., the concert will feature Debbie Fears, a Cass-Corridor blues singer, and several local entertainers. Admission is $2 per person.

The next concert is scheduled for September 3 to benefit Jeffrey

VanCamp, four-year-old heart disease victim.

Oakland County residents who are planning to go to "Sea World" can save money by purchasing their admission tickets from the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Tickets are available at the Administrative Office, 2800 Watkins Lake Road, Pontiac; White Lake-Oaks Golf Course, 991 S. Williams Lake Road, Pontiac; and Groveland-Oaks Park Office, Dixie Highway, Holly.

19th Congressional District Republicans will gather for hot dogs and beer and a chance to meet Gov. William Milliken and Congressman William Broomfield from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday, August 18, at the home of Sheldon Smith, 6450 Maybee Road. Admission is $3 per person or $5 per couple.

A carnival to raise funds to fight muscular dystrophy is planned by Mr. and Mrs. Al Halley at their home, 6580 Saline, Waterford Township, beginning at noon Saturday, August 18.

Al is an employee at Haupt Pontiac Motor Sales and wants his Clarkston friends to know about the band, magician, spook house, pony rides, clowns games and prizes planned for the day.

Orchard Lake Ladies Auxiliary will sponsor cocktails, a fashion show and dinner at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 22, at the Royalty House in Warren. Proceeds of the affair will benefit the Orchard Lake Schools: Saint Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Saint Mary's College and Saint Mary's Preparatory.

An art show featuring local artists is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, August 24 and 25, at the Old Orchard Shopping Center, located on the southeast corner of Maple and Orchard Lake Roads. Exhibits and demonstrations will include painting, metal work, jewelry, macrame, weaving, candle making, batik, leaded glass and enameling.

Once again Highland Lakes Campus of Oakland Community College will offer a cooperative play session center free for children of parents enrolled in classes there. Registration for the fall term begins September 4. Further information is available by calling 363-7191, extension 262.

Letters to the Editor

She had fun

Dear Editor:

This summer I had the most fun ever playing baseball. Thank you Mr. Doyle and Mr. Davidson for letting me join. Thank you Mr. Winship and Mr. Nasi, you are nice. So is Mrs. Winship and Mrs. Nasi. Next year we maybe cream them.

I was a happy first baseman. All the Big Macs were nice.

Mary Smith

The Clarkston Education Association official whose wife is expecting their first child will be the proud father of a son. A little girl will follow.

Independence Township Library will benefit from a $200 donation, no strings attached, to help swell its waning book purchase fund.

There may be a total of 33 bodies, all told, found in the Houston sex slayings. One might be a girl, because I see a skirt. I suppose it could be a boy dressed as a girl.

Old skeletons will be unearthed in Springfield as new development takes place. There'll be a furor for a bit, but things will settle down peacably.

There will be a lot of hot weather in October and the first part of November, but winter will be short and frigid. I see a spring thaw, the ground refreezing, and then more snow.

A knife fight involving out of state students will make the headlines from Central Michigan University this year. An Ohio and a Wisconsin student will tangle over football.

A series of small burglaries may plague Clarkston Gardens residents this year. I see a weasel. The thefts may be the work of an animal. The type of thing taken will be of the sort that most people will think they've just been misplaced, until they start to compare notes.

Splurging

I'm just one of those wild, wonderful, impulsive persons who understands completely how Jackie feels when she drops into one of her favorite little boutiques and comes out 20 minutes later having made Ari $3,700 poorer.

My impulsive extravagance was a 79-cent jar of macadamia nuts.

I was accompanying my friend, Arlene on a supermarket outing one evening when I was overcome by acute hunger pains. I knew I could not make it through the store, let alone back to Arlene's house, without sustenance.

Responding immediately to this emergency, I raced to the snack section. I needed to stave off starvation. (One glance will tell you I spend a great deal of time staving off starvation.)

At the same time, I checked my resources. There was 84 cents in my billfold.

(It's at times when I have less than a dollar between me and payday that my extravagant impulses tend to be strongest.)

Checking the shelves, I discovered little jars of macadamia nuts cost only 79 cents. Prior to that, slightly less little jars of macadamia nuts had been, unattainably priced at over $2.

Here was my opportunity to stop the gnawing in my stomach and gnawing at my curiosity simultaneously—for the gourmet goobers had fascinated me for years.

Other than their price, I knew little about them, except that the few macadamia trees under cultivation are on islands in the Pacific. Also, I had once read in a gossip column that someone famous had invested in a macadamia plantation.

My pleasure at my purchase was to be short-lived, for macadamia nut jars (or at least this particular one) have lids that are not to be removed.

Arlene's daughter, Missy and I worked on it while waiting for her mother at the check-out counter and in the car on the way home.

In her driveway, Arlene grabbed the jar with a look she surely must have meant for Missy but aimed at me.

She tried to open it. Her older children, including a strong 12-year-old son, tried. The neighbor boys were called upon. Various implements were put to the test.

During all of this, I had to keep my "team's" spirits up with a running pep talk on macadamia nuts, which had not immediately excited them.

"They're grown on only two small islands in the Pacific," I said. "Mick Jagger owns one of the plantations and no one knows who owns the other."

Patches by Pat Braunagel

Arlene came to my aid: "You kids don't know how lucky you are. Here's your mother, 35 years old, and she's never had a macadamia nut. Some of you kids will be chewing them with baby teeth."

At last, because of a deftly wielded butcher knife, the jar opened.

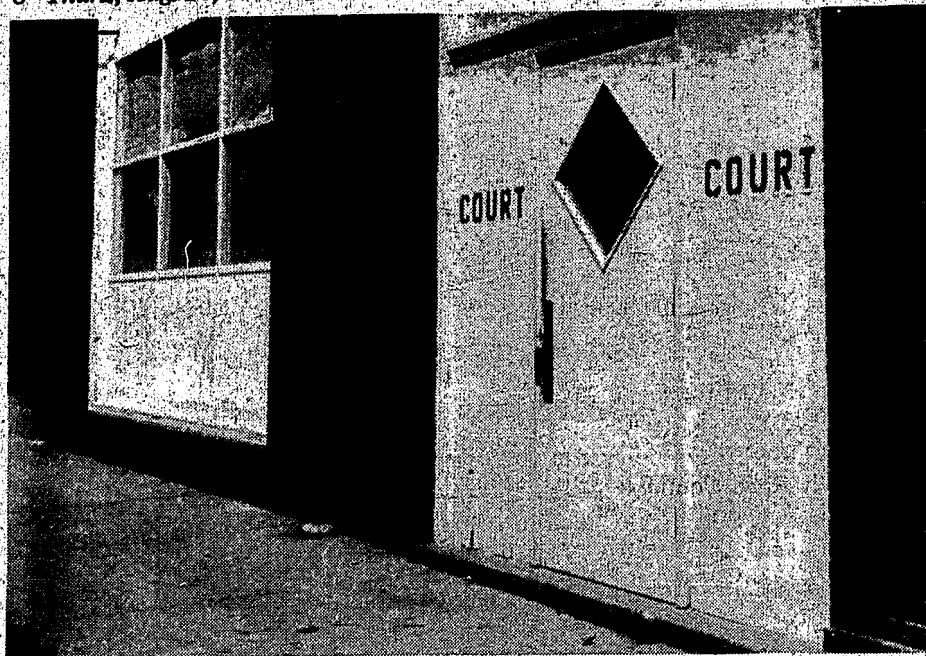

Each of my helpers was allotted three nuts. Arlene's daughter Beth decided to go back for seconds—a handful that she stuffed in her mouth and that made her "I love 'em" barely audible.

"Great," I snapped. "Because this jar now is going to be resealed and opened again at your wedding."

"But I'm only 11 years old," she whined.

"So be it," her benefactress declared, bringing yet another gay acquaintance to mind and not

Sprucing up the hall

Workmen were to begin this week to spruce up the exterior of the Independence Township Hall and the courthouse behind it.

The improvement project will include painting and aluminizing of the trim, replacement of gutters and downspouts, repair of the front steps and a new roof.

Contract for the new roof was awarded by the township board to Hartford Roofing and Siding of Waterford Township for $3,721. The work is to begin next month.

Tom Higginbotham Roofing and Siding won the contract for aluminizing the overhang between the brick and the roof and for replacing gutters and downspouts. Higginbotham's bids, the lowest of those received, totaled $2,807.

Township Clerk J. Edwin Glennie also was to seek bids and award contracts for painting of the trim on the hall and the courthouse and for repair of the township hall's front steps.

Streets with new names to get signs

Street signs soon will be sprouting up throughout Independence Township to label streets that have gotten new names during the last year.

The township board has allotted $3,500 to start a road signing program, giving priority to the more than 40 streets whose names were changed in November and April.

The Oakland County Road Commission has been authorized to erect signs on the streets, taking them in alphabetical order, until the $3,500 has been used.

Costs of one new post with two signs is $75. However, it is expected that most of the streets involved will require only one sign to be replaced.

For private roads, the township will pay half of the cost of the sign.

The township board moved ahead with plans for the signing program after approving the final name change agreed to by the road commission and residents. Pine Knob Road between Clintonville and Sunnyside roads will hereafter be called Pine Knob Lane.

Stop and go traffic

A traffic light at the corner of Maybee Road and Dixie Highway has eased traffic problems for residents of Birdland Subdivision considerably. In operation since last week, it stops highway traffic to allow emergence from the side road. The light was petitioned for about a year ago. Still due is a widening of Dixie from Maybee to M-15 to permit turn-off lanes.

Truck sales up

GMC Truck dealers posted record deliveries both for the full month of July and the final selling period, according to Alex C. Mair, General Motors vice president and general manager of GMC Truck and Coach Division.

Retail truck deliveries for the month amounted to 19,921 surpassing by 25 per cent the previous July record of 15,934 in 1970. Sales a year ago numbered 15,917.

Sales for the first seven months of 1973 total 137,839, and increase of 19.7 per cent over the 115,172 deliveries in the comparable period of 1972.

Board's role in negotiations?

The role of the Clarkston Board of Education in negotiations between the school district administration and the Clarkston Education Association was mentioned briefly at Monday night's board meeting.

Schools Supt. Dr. L. F. Greene passed out to board members the offers and counter offers made at the negotiation table.

Board members recently declined briefing from CEA representatives.

Board President David K. Leak said members could look at the material and call either Greene or himself if they wanted additional information.

New member Robert Walters asked about the board's role in negotiations. Leak said it was his opinion that the board shouldn't get involved.

"If our negotiators come to an impasse, there should be somewhere to go to someone who hasn't been involved," he said.

Walters asked if it would be wise for him to attend a negotiating session as an observer.

Greene replied in the negative. "We keep the public from these meetings," he said. "You are a member of the public unless you're appointed by the board to attend."

Sailing, whether you are an amateur or professional, takes a certain amount of skill and coordination. Captains of sailing ships, however, have never since enjoyed the heydays that they had before the turn of the century. In fact one ship, the CHAMPION OF THE SEAS, went 465 nautical miles in twenty-three hours—on a maiden voyage in December of 1854. This was an average of 19.97 knots. She was running before a northwesterly gale.

Adult basketball scoreboard

By Linc Smith

The Adult Basketball League initiated its playoff schedule last Wednesday night at Clarkston Junior High. The first game was a mild upset as Griswold's defeated Haupt 62-59. Gary Hayward led all scorers with 20 points as he played most of the game under the boards. Haupt just seemed unable to hit with consistency as Griswold's held Haupt's leading scorer, Mark Warren, to only four points.

In the second game of the evening, the Chiefs won a lopsided victory from the Credit Union 112-75. All of the starters for the Chiefs scored in double figures with Mark Walters scoring 32 points for top honors.

The double elimination tournament will be completed at Sashabaw Junior High at 6:45 p.m. August 22.

Mike pitches a shut-out

Mike H. Stefanski pitched a shut out game against Times Realty in the championship playoff game Monday night, August 6.

Mike and his teammates on the Coleman Furniture team in the Pee Wee Division won the game by a score of 11-0.

Football physicals

Athletic physicals will be given to all Clarkston Junior high 8th and 9th grade boys planning to participate in tackle football beginning at 8 a.m. August 21.

Dr. James O'Neill will administer the physicals at the school. Cost is $3.

Clarkston kids do well at golf tournament

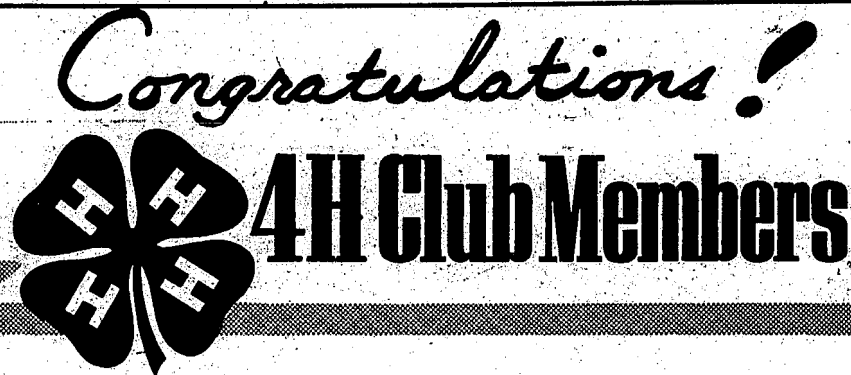

Several Clarkston youngsters brought home honors from the Sycamore Hills Junior Invitational in Fremont, Ohio, recently.

Chris Skellenger took a second place in a four-way play-off with 69-76—145 total in the 16-18 year division. Lee Booker shot 78-73 in the 16-18 year division, but didn't place.

Vivian Booker took a 1st with 84-82 in the girls 13-15 division. Allison Booker was 3rd with 84-86; Mary Anderson fifth with 94-86; and Teri Thomson shot 96-88.

Eric Booker placed 4th in the 10-12 year division with 88-92. Scott Turnbull attending his first tournament in Ohio shot 138-114.

There for the competition were Mrs. Gerald Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turnbull and Liz, Mrs. Ed Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Skellenger, Mrs. Thelma Booker and Geri.

Wage Loss Benefits

QUESTION: What kind of benefits can I receive of any wage loss?

ANSWER: You will receive your regular earnings (minus 15% to make up for the fact that there is no income tax on insurance benefits) for a maximum of $1,000 a month and a total of 3 years if unable to work. (Sec. 3107 (b)).

For example, if you earn $5.00 an hour for a 40-hour week—$200.00 a week—you would receive $170.00 a week ($200 minus 15%). If you can prove your income tax would be less than 15%, then the actual amount of your tax would be deducted. (Sec. 3107 (a)).

QUESTION: What is the maximum earnings I will receive benefits for?

ANSWER: $1,176.47 a month (Sec. 3107) $1,176.47 minus 15%=$1,000.00.

QUESTION: What if I earn more than $1,176.47, can I receive more?

ANSWER: NOT from mandatory no-fault benefits. However, if the other person was at fault you can sue. (Sec. 3135(2) (c)). However, no-fault benefits would be subtracted so you wouldn't collect twice. You may voluntarily buy a policy covering wage loss in excess of $1,176.47, then you wouldn't have to sue to collect.

QUESTION: What if I am off work six months, go back to work for a few weeks, but can't "cut the mustard" because of the injury? Can I still get benefits?

ANSWER: Yes—if you can't continue to work because of the injury, you can get benefits any time in the 3 year period from the DATE of the accident. (Sec. 3107(b)).

Fifth grade band defeated

New Clarkston Board of Education President David K. Leak was defeated Monday night in his attempt to reinstate the fifth grade band program this year.

On Leak's request Administrative Assistant Mel Vaara compiled and presented a report on the program which was discontinued three years ago because of a shortage of funds.

Vaara said that renewal of the program would require the hiring of a fulltime teacher, who would be responsible for fifth and sixth grade bands and spend one and a half hours a day teaching vocal music.

This would free the secondary music teachers who could use the time they're now spending with sixth graders to give more attention to junior high students, Vaara said.

However, he noted that the additional teacher is not high on the list of priorities submitted by Keith Sipos, chairman of the music department.

Schools Supt. Dr. L.F. Greene encouraged the board to table consideration of the matter because the report was not complete, including no figures on the number of instruments necessary for the program.

"We don't have enough facts," Trustee Charles Smalley said.

"I'm disappointed we don't" commented Board Treasurer Robert Walters.

Trustee Carolyn Place said she was surprised to hear "such negative report" from an administrator who was asked if he would like to expand his program.

In addition to Sipos' comments, Vaara also read those from elementary principals, three of whom said the program would create space problems.

Assistant Schools Supt. Milford Mason said many teachers do not like to have their pupils taken from their classrooms for band.

Leak maintained that the fifth grade program would require no more instruments than are needed for the present sixth-grade instruction.

"I think it's a very simple question myself," he said.

Walters, moving that the program be reinstated, was supported by Mrs. Place.

The motion failed in a voice vote.

Testimony ended

Testimony was concluded Friday in the Michigan Employment Relations Committee hearing regarding teacher representation for the 11 employees of the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education. No decision is expected until after school opens, representatives of the Clarkston Education Association said.

The association has contended it should be the official bargaining agent for the vocational teachers; the Clarkston School District opposed.

Dump court date Aug.31

Full hearing on a Foster Road landfill being challenged by Independence Township is scheduled for Aug. 31 before Oakland County Circuit Judge William Beer.

The township this week was going to seek reinstatement of a temporary injunction which had been lifted last week by Beer.

Jerry Fisher of the township attorney's staff planned Wednesday to ask for temporary circuit court injunction until the full hearing.

The township has charged Frank Saylor, owner of the property, and Leon Clark with operation of an illegal landfill dump on the south side of Foster Road at the township's western border.

Clark, formerly thought to be leasing the property, is neither leasing nor buying it, according to Fisher.

The suit contends that Clark illegally has been dumping trees, tree stumps and building materials into a large ravine on the property. The defendants maintain they received all the necessary county permits for the operation.

Bus drivers hire attorney

Clarkston school bus drivers Tuesday added attorney Gary Allen to their negotiating team in a meeting with school board representatives.

Allen was hired to help bus drivers with the language they are seeking in their contract, according to Sally Franks, president of the bus drivers association.

Allen, of Walled Lake, is a former Clarkston resident.

Drivers are to meet Thursday, Aug. 23, to consider the last offer made by the school board's representative, Administrative Assistant G.W. Barrie.

Their negotiators have scheduled another meeting with Barrie Aug. 24.

Liz and Scott Turnbull admire a 15-inch cucumber grown in the family garden at 6451 Oakhill. They've got banana squash coming along like giants, as well, and wonder about some other prize-size vegetables that might be grown in the area.

Pre-school screening

Parents whose pre-school children missed vision, hearing, motor control and speech and language screening last spring may take advantage of a delayed examination scheduled for 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. August 31 at the Special Services Building adjacent to Clarkston Senior High School.

Those attending should present a birth certificate, according to the Special Services Director Bob Brumback.

As a result of last spring's program some 400 children were processed and 75 of them attended three summer school readiness programs.

Brumback said seven young students will be placed immediately in a special program as a result of the screening. In other years when such screening was unavailable, it might have taken a year or two to determine the problems and provide suitable solutions, the director said.

Diet and Appetite

If you know how a thermostat works to control heat, you will understand how the body's "appetstat" works, turning your appetite on and off. When it's properly set, you don't overeat — or at least, not very much or not very often.

This stop-and-start appetite signal is medically known as the hypothalamus, deep inside your brain. It is a gland also involved in regulating body temperature, blood pressure and so on.

One group of cells in the hypothalamus sends out a signal telling your body it is time to eat. Another tells you when you've had enough.

There is some speculation that one cause of overeating and some obesity may be a defect in the appetstat cells. Animal tests show that when the "go" cells are damaged, rats will starve to death, even if food is nearby. And rats with damaged "stop" cells eat two or three times their normal intake.

One effect of a realistic, medically controlled diet is that the appetstat cells gradually adjust to your reduced intake, just as you would turn down the thermostat on a furnace. You end up wanting to eat less. You have changed your appetite pattern, and the fat stays off.

On the other hand, crash diets and fad diets don't allow enough time for such an adjustment, and you put weight back on very quickly because your appetstat is still "set too high."

Clarkston Village Attorney Edward Sosnick reports two convictions recently on Clarkston's disorderly person ordinance. Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally fined the two youth apprehended in the Village Parking Lot $12 each.

He said the Clarkston ordinance, in place of being a "suspicious person" ordinance, concentrates on the obstruction of traffic on streets, sidewalks and parking lots and is therefore more defensible than ordinances drafted by other municipalities.

Clarkston News advertising director Fred Korte is going to have to go some if he wants to keep up with his 77-year-old father-in-law, Stanley Prusik of Farmington. Stanley shot his second hole-in-one last week at Independence Green in Farmington. It was 155 yards. Back in 1969 he did the same thing. Fred's wife, Sophie, and her sister had a trophy engraved to present to him.

One of life's thrills we could do without is driving between two bicycles on a street or road.

We don't understand what causes cyclists to split-one swerving to the other side of the road--when they see an oncoming car or hear one behind them.

We do know that driving through the eye of this "needle" while wondering if the other cyclist is going to swerve too or the first is going to swing back is a guessing game we'd rather not play, thank you.

Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals members would feel better if an error regarding a lot size Sunny Beach Subdivision were corrected in this issue. Size on the third lot which they refused to split was 21,000 square feet, not 28,000 square feet as it was reported to us last week.

Meadow Brook bill

John Sebastian was to open Meadow Brook Festival's eighth week with a concert at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 15.

The Thursday and Saturday evening concerts this week will feature the charming and expressive French pianist Philippe Entremont. A four-time winner of France's highest record honor, the Grand Prix de Disque, Entremont is especially noted for his sensitive interpretations of the romantic writers.

Guest conductor for the two concerts will be internationally renowned Hiroyuki Iwaki, chief conductor of the Hague Philharmonic.

Pete Fountain returns at 8:30 p.m. Friday after a sell-out concert last year. A star of television and the concert circuit, Pete's clarinet virtuoso has made him a national celebrity.

Victor Borge brings the festival to a grand finale with an evening of Mirth and Merriment at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, August 19.

Pine Knob bill

Independence still 70% undeveloped

Independence Township may be in the throes of development, but at the present time more than 70 percent of its surface lies undeveloped or zoned for agricultural use.

The figure is one being used by Independence Township Planning Commission as it prepares a general land use plan in anticipation of adopting a new zoning ordinance and map to replace those formulated in 1966 and 1967.

While the 70 percent figure represents 16,316 acres within the township, Planner Larry Burkhart points out the classification includes water bodies, hills, tree stands and forest as well as lowlands, wetlands and swamps.

Only about 100-200 acres are actually used for farming, he said.

Though these large tracts of land exist in the township, a distinct land use has been approved for some of it.

Approximately 650 acres will be used around Crooked Lake for Independence-Oaks County Park, while nearly 40 acres abutting the Clinton River and Clarkston-Orion Road will be a township park facility.

Other figures evolving as a result of the study show 2,017 acres developed in three acre to ten acre residential parcels, with another thousand zoned for that purpose.

There are 3,069 acres zoned single family residential—minimum lot size 15,000 square feet—another 4,000 plus ready to go, according to Burkhart's figures.

While there are only 35 acres of existing multiple development in the township with another 21 for mobile home parks, land zoned for multiple totals 802 acres, Burkhart said.

Another 76 acres are used as commercial, but 450 are zoned for that purpose. Fifty-three acres are zoned for industrial purposes, with 185 total zoned industrial, he added.

Commercial recreation involves some 590 acres in the township, sand and gravel mining taking another 162. Utilities own 778 acres in rights-of-way and facilities locations.

The land still zoned agriculture amounts to 8,025 acres, Burkhart said, even though double that figure is as yet undeveloped.

At present single family residential takes up 13.23 percent of the township area, larger residential lots 8.71 percent, with the next highest category being commercial at .32 percent.

Rodeo tickets free at Clarkston News

One hundred free admission tickets to the Longhorn Rodeo August 23-26 at Springfield-Oaks Park, Davisburg, will be given away to children under 12 and senior citizens who present this article to The Clarkston News beginning Thursday morning.

The tickets have been made available by donation to Gerard Lacey, park director.

Rodeo performances are slated for 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday with a 2:30 p.m. performance on Sunday.

Bareback riding, steer roping and bulldogging are among the attractions offered.

New drivers take to the road -- Clarkston turns out 600 of them

Some 600 new drivers, products of the Clarkston School District driver education program, are taking to the roads this fall, having completed one of three 3-week courses offered at Clarkston High School this summer.

Another contingent of would-be drivers will be offered classes after school and on Saturday this fall, according to Assistant Principal Conrad Bruce.

He said an experimental course last spring which produced 36 new drivers will be repeated -- classes and road driving to take place after school and range driving on the high school parking lot offered on Saturdays.

The fall course, date as yet undetermined, will last six weeks, Bruce said. Applicants for the course will be chosen on the basis of age, he said.

Three teachers have been employed for the after-school classes, while eight of them have worked full time for the summer sessions. Cars were made available for the courses by Rademacher Chevrolet, Hahn Motors and Haupt Pontiac Sales and Service.

COUNTRY LIVING

by Betty Hecker

The plaque of the field stone fence in the front yard reads, "Hilltop Haven—Built in 1940 by Joseph Conrad in his seventieth year."

This handsome brick house, built after the style of Early Americana with a classic "I" floor plan, is the home of Clarence and Sharon Catillo and their two young children, Curt and Cara.

Sharon and Clarence love antiques and things warm with nostalgia. Sharon said, "There's a mixture of new and old in our house."

The large center living room, one step up from the foyer, features an enormous fireplace with a railroad tie mantel, rough plaster in the squares created by authentic hand hewn barn beams which criss cross the ceiling, and pine board paneling varnished and aged to a warm reddish color.

The hardwood pegged floor is set off with a thick tapestry rug in the conversation area before the fireplace.

The fireplace wall is used to exhibit rugged tools used in a time when the land was cleared and trees were downed. Sharon's sense of decorating balance combines a delicate bird's nest and a lovely dried flower arrangement to compliment a two-man cross-cut saw, logging tongs, and an oxen yoke.

A ten-gallon copper pot in front of the fireplace was a Christmas gift to Sharon one year, but when she got it, it was black, for it had been an old soap making pot.

"Clarence worked on it for ages, and nearly burned his lungs out with muriatic acid, but now it's shiny," Sharon reported with pride.

"The first thing my husband ever refinished was the old library table. We cut it down to make a cocktail table, and it was the best buy we ever made."

What was an old fashioned cracker-barrel is now a lamp table, and a former ice cream parlor table forms an attractive grouping with 3 cane seat ladder back chairs.

Homespun natural color drapes hang at the many tall casement windows in the living room. Sharon said, "I'm not much on frilly curtains and such. The drapes came with the house. And as you can see, there are no curtains in the kitchen or dining area."

The rustic dining area is two steps down from the foyer level. It has pine wainscoating with cedar shake shingles above. Sharon said, "Cedar shingles are about the least expensive way to cover the walls. We did this whole room for less than $20." Clarence beamed the ceiling and also used rough plaster, to coordinate it with the living room.

Antique tin advertisements for Sc Havana and Flyer Cigars, several coach lanterns and a collage Sharon made in college adorn the walls. A round butcher block ("from my husband's father's butcher shop") holds a terrarium, sea shells, and different colored rocks and stones.

An aquarium of tropical fish on an antique linen chest started from "two gold fish from a Spic and Span offer.

We kept them in a mayonnaise jar for the longest time."

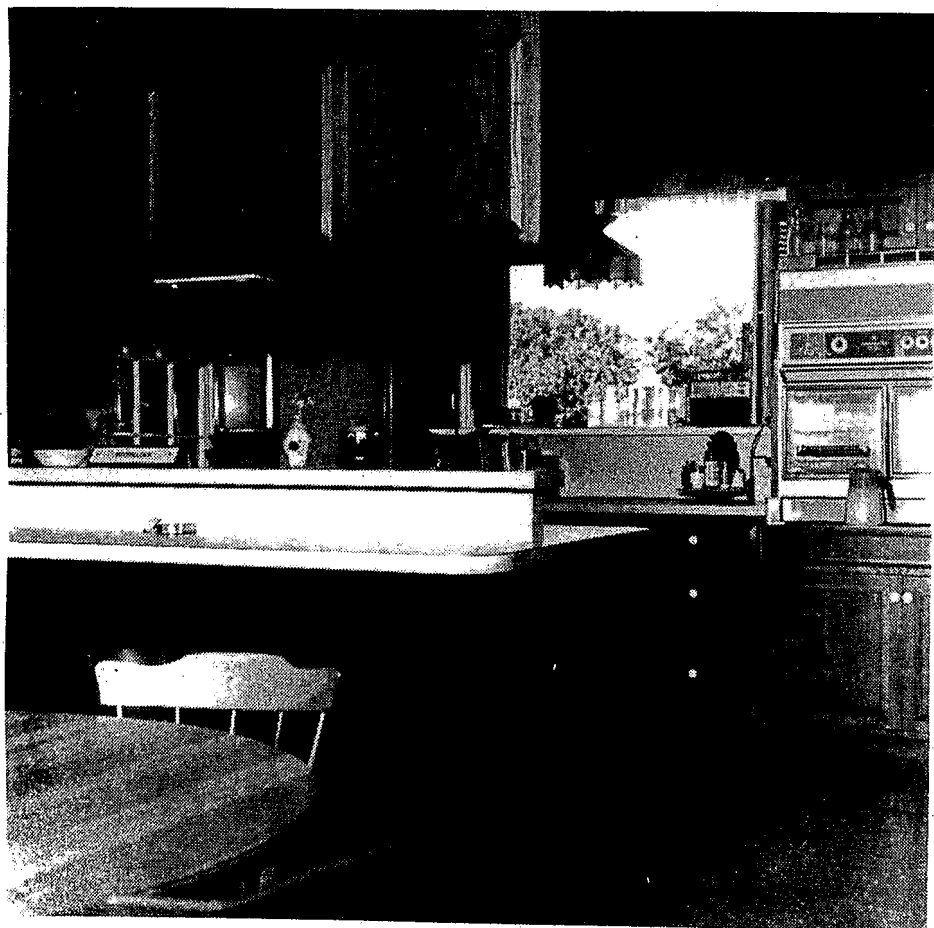

The remodeled and modernized kitchen now has a tiffany lamp hanging over the sink, wormy chestnut cabinets, wallpaper of lemons and yellow grapes in a striped pattern, and mellow green appliances.

The floor bed in the master bedroom allows Sharon to say, "I don't have to (Continued from preceding page.) worry about dust under the bed." A dark red ceramic tile fireplace there has a copper hood. Windows on three walls, with the long wall having a large bay window, look out over both the front and side yards.

The children's rooms are on the second floor. Curt's room is very large, and features a peaked ceiling which follows the roof line. Cara's room, also big, has a cove wall and ceiling. Both the bedrooms feature alcove dormer windows.

Two rooms lead off the end of the living room. Two steps up and you are in a very unique and different television room. Dad's TV chair is an old barber chair. The walls are paneled with the wooden slats that had once been the crates from their motorbikes. Rough sawn and unstained boards were used to build a wall unit for the television and book shelves. Brown tie dyed curtains modernize the large bay window and two tall casement windows. The other room is used as a rainy day playroom and sewing room.

Sharon and Clarence love country living. Sharon said, "This whole place is nice! I was dragged out here kicking and screaming! Now, I wouldn't move back for anything."

"All our entertaining is done here. It has such a relaxed atmosphere. We have never gotten into the out-to-dinner routine, so we feel comfortable entertaining here."

Library table turned coffee table.

Egyptian houses were built with a central court or in the form of a compact block of rooms. Sometimes houses were built in an L-shape with the other two sides of the rectangular yard enclosed with walls. This same form was common throughout Greece and Rome. ## Developer's dream

A community for horse lovers

Harry Bloch has parlayed his interest in horses into what may be a unique idea for a residential community.

Bloch, president of Bloch Brothers Corporation of Drayton Plains, is planning a 306-acre development called Equestrian Village on either side of Oakhill Road in Independence and Brandon Townships. The development will be the first in Michigan to create a neighborhood for horse lovers, according to Bloch.

Homesites, ranging from about three acres to 10 acres, will have space for houses, barns and meadows in addition to other equestrian conveniences not available in an average suburban backyard.

Envisioned in the plans are white board fences in the style of Kentucky bluegrass country and 30-foot-wide bridle paths separating sites.

"Equestrian Village residents will ride where they live, instead of driving 30 to 60 minutes to a boarding ranch as most of suburban horsemen are doing now," according to Bloch.

Bloch has had preliminary discussion with the Brandon Township Planning Commission and Independence Township Planning Director Larry Burkhart on his plans for the property between Sashabaw and Perry Lake Roads, all of which now zoned for agricultural usage.

His preliminary plans for the 126 acres of the development in Brandon Township call for two five-acre lots, with the rest to be 10-acre homesites.

The 180 acres lying within Independence Township would be divided into four 10-acre sites, one five-acre site and 41 lots of approximately three acres each, according to Bloch's plans.

Besides rezoning, he also apparently will need a special exception permit from the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals to use one or two farm buildings already standing on the property.

Bloch notes that bridle trails at boarding ranches have limited availability, especially on weekends. Consequently, persons who board their horses or keep them on their how small farms frequently ride on the back roads of the county.

Equestrian Village is planned to avoid the hazards of traffic by providing maintained bridle trails around every site and through the various public easements in the development. Motor cycles, snowmobiles and other annoyances to horses will not be permitted.

Bloch estimates it will be possible to ride for as much as three hours without crossing a road or one's own path.

In addition to allowing horse owners to keep their horses where they live, the development will provide a whole neighborhood of riding companions, Bloch notes.

Cooperative buying of feed and equipment is envisioned for Equestrian Village residents, who also may put on their own horse shows in the indoor and outdoor rings planned for the development.

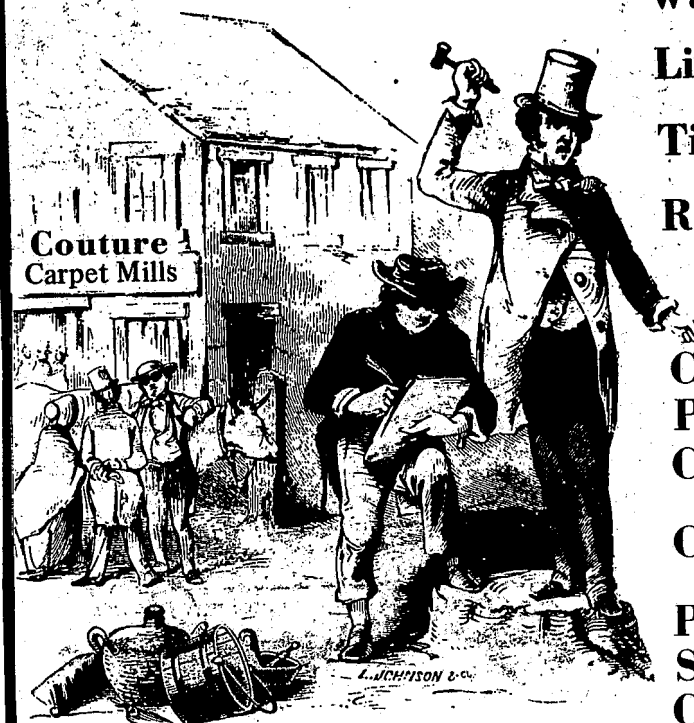

Bloch, who now lives on Allen Road in Independence Township, plans to build a home of his own in his dream development for equestrians.

A whole community of equestrian-oriented homes, like his own pictured here, is proposed by developer Harry Bloch for a site in Independence and Brandon townships.

Heatleys live a dream -- the findin

by Jean Saile

Everyman's dream—finding and sharing in sunken treasure—is not going to make any great change in the lives of Dr. and Mrs. William F. Heatley of Shelley Drive.

The Heatleys are investors in Treasure Salvors Co., which July 4 started bringing up gold and silver bars and Aztec artifacts from the Nuestra Senor de Atocha, a Spanish galleon which sunk in a hurricane more than 300 years ago off Key West near the Marquesa Island.

The Independence Township residents have been led to believe the total find at today's price might be in the area of $600 million, but they're quick to point out their share will be much smaller and delayed a few years. The state of Florida takes first cut and the remainder is split among hundreds of investors they say.

Manifests from the Atocha and a sister ship, the Marguerita, confirm their estimates of the total trove, however. The ships were two of three treasure vessels in an 18-ship Spanish flotilla making its annual trek to South and Central America, gathering booty for King Philip of Spain.

The third treasure vessel, the Rosario, was recovered shortly after by the Spaniards, who, according to Dr. Heatley, invented the first diving bell to aid them in the recovery.

Outward bound the ship had carried slaves which were sold in the West Indies. The purse from that sale plus the booty collected from the Aztec kingdom and the riches obtained by overland trading with Pacific going boats, and further calls at the Honduras and Cuba had succeeded in enriching the coffers.

The Heatleys were aware many previous attempts had been made to find the trove.

A researcher employed by the salvage company decyphered old records to the point that it was decided all the islands off Key West had once been called the Maticumbes. Using that knowledge plus the fact that the captain of the Marguerita was called Marquesa helped the explorers pinpoint the spot.

An ancient coral reef about eight miles off the Marquesa Islands, some 38 miles out from Key West, was picked for exploration.

The company's specially equipped boat -- complete with mineral detector and prop wash deflectors which enable them to sweep the ocean floor -- first struck pay dirt in an unexpected quarter. An old English frigate -- the Norwich -- which had gone down in the early 1700's was found and has since yielded ivory tusks and silver plates.

But the Spanish find -- estimated to be much richer -- was finally made in 20 feet of water.

Conflicting ocean currents and the prop wash energy have combined to yet make the salvage operation hazardous according to Dr. Heatley.

The Heatleys were invited to take part in the operation last month. At the time finds had been confined to a few coins, some mini balls and pottery, but they recall well what happened July 4.

"We were standing at the rear of the ship where the salvage equipment is located when all of a sudden this fellow jumps out of the water yelling 'Beads!'"

"He had a gold rosary in his hand. Things began to happen in a hurry. We threw a line down and pulled up an 83-pound silver bar and then two more. The bars were encrusted but the gold was shiny, just as it was when the ship went down.

"Within three hours there were all kinds of small craft around. The find had been radioed into shore and even a National Geographic crew showed up," they remember.

A tragedy has since occurred involving the small son of a National Geographic photographer who fell over board and was sucked into the props,

Pine Knob Plaza to expand

Site plan approval for new construction which will nearly double the size of the present Pine Knob Plaza at Sashabaw and Maybee was given Thursday night by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Members viewed site plan elevations presented by Clark Easley, showing enlargement of the present facility -- to be taken over completely by Food Town, Easley said -- and construction of a new 180 by 90 foot building directly to the north of the existing building.

The new building will house Pine Knob Pharmacy plus at least three other businesses, the owner said.

Mansard roof lines with cobblestone and grey brick will be used. Berms and plantings will be used to break the parking lot expanse along Maybee and Sashabaw roads, and a 6-foot masonry wall will be erected to the west. Bench planters will be positioned in the area, Easley said.

Township Planner Larry Burkhardt agreed questions regarding drainage had been satisfactorily resolved.

Gold bars valued at $10,000 each as collectors' items were among the booty.

Dr. Heatley relates he was informed recently by telephone.

The Heatleys are deeply religious -- believing they were meant to share in the find for some purpose which they have not yet determined. The finding of the golden rosary with its precious jewels was to them a deeply moving experience.

Off the top of any money they get from the find will come an investment of some type "in God's work," they've promised. Later might come the new house they'd planned to buy, the money for which was invested last Easter in the treasure expedition.

Treasure Salvors Co. employs Mrs. Heatley's son, David Palmeto, which is probably the prime reason they became involved. But looking for buried treasure is not new in the amateur archeologists.

They're just not returned from desert exploration in Colorado and Utah with 80 pounds of high grade silver ore they took out of old mines and ghost town settlements. Another such expedition is planned next year to mines which can be reached only by backpacking.

Mrs. Heatley has also been involved for four years in the exploration for silver in Missouri, and her interest in Indian artifacts in this area keeps her busy much of the time.

While not trained formally for the search for "treasure", she has read voraciously and has the full support and interest of her osteopathic physician husband.

For them the search and the History is the important thing. "Any money we get will not change our lives," they insist. "We like what we do."

The first factory for weaving yarn carpeting was started in Philadelphia in 1791 by W. P. Sprague. In 1841 Erastus Bigelow successfully harnessed a steam engine to an ingrain loom raising its daily production more than three times its former rate. The first carpet looms produced fabrics three quarters of a yard wide. These were cut into lengths and sewn together. It was not until the early years of the twentieth century that the first broad loom began making carpets on a larger scale.

Independence center will be offering a September training session to prepare people who wish to work at the center.

The training is conducted by Dr. A. Crawford of Oakland County Community Mental Health Center. The sessions run for five weeks and help participants develop greater self-understanding so they in turn can assist others to solve their problems.

Helping at independence center involves spending three hours at the center once a week. Volunteers make daily calls to the homebound senior citizens to let them know someone cares and check on their well being. Other volunteers provide emergency transportation, or assist those with personal problems find an agency with a professional counselor who can help them.

Helping others on a person to person basis can be very rewarding to both individuals involved. If you wish to be involved, please contact the center and leave your name.

CENTER NEEDS -- The center's Food Closet is running low on some items required to provide a nutritious one day emergency menu. Canned meat products like tuna, chicken, etc. and dry milk are needed. If you would like to donate any items please leave them at the center between 9 and 4 daily.

Ice cream social

An old fashioned ice cream social is planned from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, August 19, to raise funds for the ongoing restoration of the Governor Moses Wisner historic house and grounds.

Scheduled for the grounds of Pine Grove, 405 Oakland Avenue, Pontiac, the program will feature the Franklin Village Band.

Strawberry, chocolate and vanilla ice cream, homemade cake and lemonade will be served by members of the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society.

Parking will be permitted in the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church across the street from the Wisner house.

Ayres-Rayman vows

Cynthia Rayman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rayman, 8900 M-15, became the bride of Charles Ayres, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ayres, 5689 Maybee Road.

Judge Gerald McNally performed the wedding ceremony August 6 at Clarkston District Court.

The bride chose a long light blue dress trimmed in flowers and a garden hat. She carried carnations. Janet Booth, her sister, wore a long blue and white flowered dress as maid of honor. Charles Booth, the bride's brother-in-law, was best man.

The reception was delayed until September when the bride's brother, Pvt. Michael Rayman, will return home on leave from Camp Pendleton, but immediate families gathered at the Clarkston Cafe following the ceremony.

Trains which have played such a big, though unique, part in the performances offered by Clarkston Village Players got into the spotlight last weekend at the Depot Theater.

A work train crew making noise outside the depot during the performance was invited inside for the debut presentation of "Star Spangled Girl" and the burly workmen in coveralls were invited to take curtain calls with the cast.

We've never been to a Players' performance except that at least once during an evening the play was halted while the night special went roaring through on adjacent Grand Trunk tracks. It becomes a feature one looks forward to with anticipation, and provides the ideal setting for the cast to ham it up in pantomime until the tracks clear and the play proceeds.

There are two more performances of "Star Spangled Girl" scheduled this Friday and Saturday at the Depot.

The Kids of Birdland want to wish "the Vans" -- Mr. and Mrs. Theron Vadawaker -- a happy birthday. The kids have grown up taking a mighty walk with "the Vans" and August 4 was different only in that surprise birthday cake had been prepared for their joint birthday. The Vans are in their 70's.

Sonia Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mills, 7370 Perry Lake Road, who won a reserve championship in the Hunter Seat Equitation class last week at the County 4-H Fair, is going to Michigan State University August 21 to compete in the State 4-H Show. A senior at Clarkston High School, she is member of the Clarkston Wranglers. Her horse is "Braumeister".

Cynthia Booker, Clarkston's up and coming young woman golfer, won the Lakeland Junior Invitational recently in Fostoria, Ohio, shooting 73-76.

She also played in the Trans National Women's Amateur meet in Mount Snow, Vermont, qualifying with a 78, winning her first match with a play on the 20th hole and lost the next match.

Cynthia is in New Jersey this week for the U.S. Women's Amateur August 13-17. Her parents, Gordon and Thelma Booker, brother Lee and sister Vivian are there to watch her.

An open house August 6 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ford Sutton Jr. of Waterford Township honored his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ford Sutton Sr. of Orlando, Fla., on their 50th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Rothbarth of Clarkston were co-hosts. About 60 people, including the Suttons' three grandchildren and one great-grandchild, attended the party.

The Rothbarth's daughter, Kathy, was entertained by the Suttons at a pool party in honor of her 14th birthday Sunday, August 12. Among the guests were the grandparents from Orlando, Fla., and a grandmother from Sacramento, Calif.

Jeff Lawrence and Beverly Moore, members of Clarkston Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol, are attending CAP-sponsored Cadet Officers School through August 17 at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama. Jeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lawrence of Wealthy Street and Bev is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Moore of Amy Drive.

August is wind-up month for the activities of the Women's Silver Lake Golf League now playing at Spring Lake in Clarkston.

Forty of the forty-eight members signed up for tournament play on the afternoons of August 7th and 14th. First and second winners in each of the four flights will be announced later.

"Doe Day" and the third picnic of the summer is slated August 28. Two previous picnics were total successes.

When rain threatened at the June get-together, the gals moved indoors at Pat Coughlin's attractive home on Loon Lake. The rain that washed out the golf game on July 31st failed to halt the festivities at the Ackermann quadrivale on Montebello. After a big buffet lunch, three floors were given over to poker, bridge and pinocle.

The final outing will be held at the home of Myrtle Carlisle on Lake Angelus Road. Trophies and prizes will be awarded and new officers selected for the coming year.

John Richard Craven, 6666 Wealthy, was awarded a degree in history by Central Michigan University at spring commencement ceremonies.

Jeffery Hawke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Hawke of 5646 Hummingbird, was named to the spring quarter Dean's List at Kalamazoo College. He obtained an average bettering 3.75 to become eligible for the nomination.

Pete Preseau, 5310 Winell, has taken part in the annual Ferris State College Summer Music Camp. During his two weeks on campus, Dave received extensive instruction from music specialists and was able to attend a pair of free outdoor concerts.

Virginia O'Dell, 5975 Paramus, entertained at a neighborhood luncheon Wednesday noon. About 20 guests turned up, each with her own favorite salad for sampling and enjoyment. Two new neighbors, Adele Powell and Jeannette Haviland, were introduced to the group. Both recently moved to a home on Sunnydale.

A couple's barbecue, campfire and sing is planned in September by the same group. It's a repeat version of what has come to be an annual affair.

Clarkston Community Women's Club reminds area residents of its fall boutique being offered this fall in connection with the Fall Home Tour October 7.

Applications for saleable items, the club to take ten per cent of sale price, are still being accepted. Further information is available from Jeannette Vandermark, phone 394-0745.

Donald Moody, 6683 Northview, recently visited the American Museum of Atomic Energy, Oak Ridge, Tenn., which features demonstrations and displays on peaceful uses of the atom.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lord and son, Jeffery, returned Tuesday to their home in Vero Beach, Fla., after spending several days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lord of South Holcomb.

Sunday the Lords and their guests attended church in Warren, Michigan, where a younger son, Richard, is pastor. All later enjoyed at family dinner at Rev. and Mrs. Richard Lord's home in honor of their father's 70th birthday.

Donald and Richard are graduates of Clarkston High School, and the Lords have lived in the area 40 years.

World War I Clinton Valley Barracks No. 2803 met for a picnic August 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Landon on Oakhill Road. William Cornell became commander of the barracks following the death last July of Clifford Lucas. Next get-together of the vets and their wives will be noon September 8 at Davisburg Township Hall.

Brandon Cooperative Nursery has openings in its three and four-year-old classes for fall. Parents interested in enrolling their children have been asked to attend a coffee hour August 23 to get details. Further information is available from Donna Gibson, 628-2336.

Something to sell? Try a flea market

The Gamma Theta Chapter of the Sigma Beta Sorority is planning a flea market September 15 at the Clarkston High School parking lot.

They hope to attract all kinds of booths, and offer a little bit of everything to the shoppers.

But they need dealers! Maybe you could hold your garage sale at the school that day!

Four attend youth event

"With Eyes Wide Open" was the theme of the eye-opening all-Lutheran youth gathering a Clarkston quartet attended in Houston, Texas last week.

About 200,000 young people participated in the event, according to Karen Dryfuss, counselor for the group from Clarkston's Calvary Lutheran Church. Accompanying her were Clarkston High School students Cindy Heazlit, Esther Hoffman and Mike McClean.

During the gathering, called Discovery '73, five mass meetings were held at the Houston Astrodome. Those making appearances included singers Johnny Cash and Mary Travers, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and evangelist Tom Skinner.

Karen mentioned that during the programs the Astrodome's scoreboard was used as an "electronic hymnal".

Gamma Theta has sent letters to organizations and churches, advertising the fact that they have booth space to sell at the Flea Market.

Linda Marcum, Clarkston's member, explained that you can send your money ($5.00) and a self addressed envelope to her—Linda Marcum, 6925 Hubbard Road, Clarkston, and she will send you back a map telling you exactly where your booth space will be. She said that you will need to provide your own generators and tables, and asks that you please enclose a note saying what you will be selling.

The profits of the day will be spent for the three charities that Sigma Beta sponsors annually—Indian Education, the Kidney Foundation, and Cystic Fibrosis.

Spiritual Message

HIS WOUNDS HEAL OURS.

In I Peter chapter two, verse 24 you will find words to this effect: "For His wounds have healed ours". Jesus Christ suffered and in a real sense we find that His wounds heal ours even as His Word states:

Wounds can be and most of time are, other than physical. Wounds can come from disappointments in life, hurt feelings, broken friendships, misunderstandings, bad habits, hang-ups, etc. Christ's death and suffering make possible a healing of these wounds—if we ask.

A little bird accidentally flew into the entry way of a church. The custodian closed the glass doors without knowing the little sparrow was on the inside. The little creature flew into the glass doors repeatedly trying to find a way to escape. Soon his head was bruised and bloody. He became exhausted and dropped to the floor. A man happened on this scene and tried to rescue the little bird, but the bird, frightened and in panic crash into the glass again and again. Finally the man slipped his hands over the trembling body of the bird and gently lifted the bird and carried him to the security and freedom of outdoors.

How often we resemble the little bird. We run into problems, hang-ups, difficulties and troubles—and keep battering our heads through sheer stubbornness into life's "glass doors", that is, our seeking impossible answers within ourselves, even when God comes along and offers answers. In fact, when we come to the end of ourselves, then we turn feebly to God. What a pity we do not turn to Him when we first encounter problems and let Him give us freedom.

Since we carry wounds, let's remember that God has a way to heal wounds—His Son Jesus, will heal, if you ask Him.

Woodhull asks site corrections

Park Street

Playground

Leaky manhole

Weedy lots

Woodhull Lake Property Owners Association Inc. has sent letters to the Independence Township Board and to Ackron Contracting Company requesting improvements members feel are due the area.

To the township board, the association reported an eroded association lot, a problem of four years standing, caused by the flushing of water pipes into Woodhull Lake at a time the township took temporary measures to bring water to the subdivision during initial sewer construction and the drying up of wells.

"Although we have been promised restoration of the property, the work has never been done. One excuse we were given was that the township had arranged with the sewer contractor to fill and grade this property. The sewer contractors pushed a small amount of sand into the lot and also more debris," said the letter.

The association asked, "We would like this property graded and filled and the lake cleaned of silt so that we may make use of this area."

To Ackron, sewer contractors for the area, the Woodhull Association wrote in regard to unfinished in five locations:

1. Our boat landing. Although gravel has been furnished, our fence is still not in and the silt has not been removed from the lake bottom.

2. The large pile of brush and debris in the center of Park Street is still there.

3. Only one resident's yard has been restored. We have been waiting over a year for our yards.

4. The roads are still atrocious.

5. Our property on Lots 71-74 has been partially restored but still has not been finish graded or seeded.

CONSERVE ENERGY AND SAVE MONEY:

With your present air conditioning—portable or central.

Proper use and maintenance can keep efficiency up and operating costs down. Some of the things that help a lot are: keeping your air conditioner clean, not overcooling and keeping it covered or indoors in the winter.

With the air conditioner you may buy.

EER.

You'll get the best air conditioning results if you buy a unit that's the right size for your room or home. It also should have a high Energy Efficiency Rating (7 or above). You may pay more, but its high efficiency will save on operating cost and conserve valuable energy.

With the right ventilation, shade and landscaping.

The outdoor portion of the unit should be shaded as much as possible, at least during the warmest parts of the day. Shading your home with trees, awnings, or vines can help even more. Light-colored paint and proper attic ventilation are also important.

With our free booklet.

We have lots more tips for you. Pick up your copy of "How To Get Your Money's Worth From Your Electric Air Conditioner" at your nearest Detroit Edison office. Or write us: Detroit Edison, Room 473-CB, 2000 Second Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

School districts share vocational director

Clarkston and Brandon school districts have hired a shared-time vocational education director, whose salary will be split between the two districts and the state.

The new director, Dian Lee Shaw of Ortonville, will spend approximately 70 per cent of her time in Clarkston and 30 per cent in the Brandon district. The division of her time will be made on the basis of the relative number of students in each district.

Clarkston Schools Administrative Assistant Mel Vaara announced the hiring of Mrs. Shaw to the board of education Monday night in reporting that there are 47 staff changes for the coming school year.

These include five new employees: an additional home economics teacher at Clarkston High School, a girls' counselor at Clarkston Junior High School and three teachers at Sashabaw Junior High School.

A boys' counselor for Clarkston Junior High School is still being sought, Vaara said. He noted the new teachers at Sashabaw are in industrial arts, science/physical education and English/social studies.

All smiles after judging in the mare and colt class was owner Elaine Clos, 12, of 7125 Hogback Lake Road and a member of the Davisburg Hoofbeats 4-H Club. Her entry received the reserve championship award.

Diane Huffman has a whole slew of awards earned during the Oakland County 4-H Fair including some for her Toggenburg goats. Diane lives on a farm in Independence Township and belongs to the Ortonville 4-H Club. She entered 10 categories and won blue ribbons on everything she entered. Diane credits her mother, livestock leader in the Ortonville Club, for a lot of help. Diane's entries included a pair of gold hip hugger bell bottoms in the sewing division, a knit gold vest in the knitting competition, poultry, eggs, ceramics, crafts, and a scrapbook on the goats.

Bill Seavey Jr. used a scrub brush and lots of soap to prepare his 955 pound champion medium weight Hereford steer for auction. Bill, 11, goes to school in Davisburg and has been in 4-H for two years.

Smiles displayed at county 4-H Fair

Paul Rasmussen of Rattalee Lake Road shows a Silkie Bantam chicken, a fancy breed with blue skin feathered legs and five toes. Not for eating, they're a hobby bird, he says. Paul won five 1st place ribbons and three 2nd place ribbons for his eight poultry entries in the 4-H fair. He also entered eggs and vegetables.

Wendy Brendel, 14, weight 85 pounds and entered two steers in 4-H competition, showing only the "lightweight" at 1,035 pounds. She asked a friend to show the one which weighed 1,120 pounds. She's pictured here with third place best of show in the novelty cake division. It took her a week to fashion the daisies, roses, violets, forget-me-nots, hyacinths and chrysanthemums which cover the cake. She also entered an afghan which took two months to knit.
