Marking the wind-up of the harvesting season, Clark J. Miller of 2885 Seymour Lake Road, Brandon Township, chops corn for silage on his 203-acre farm. The silage will be used to feed the 60 Holsteins milked on the John W. Cook and Sons farm operated by Miller's son-in-law and grandsons.

Another Clarkston area resident is in the running for the Michigan State Lottery Millionaire Drawing, which was to have taken place Tuesday. David W. Bess, 5309 Sashabaw Road, was keeping his fingers crossed last week. He's sure of $1,000 at least, and maybe -- just maybe -- the big million.

The reaction we liked best to the big Billy Jean King vs. Bobby Riggs tennis match -- "I never did figure out which was Bobby and which was Billy."

The reaction we liked least -- the comments and attitudes of the morning after critics. Billy Jean and Bobby comported themselves well. Too bad the hangers-on couldn't.

Talk about class -- Pat Sherwood, our advertising manager has purchased an outfit "to wallpaper in." Obviously she's never seen our paint splattered hand-me-down sweatshirts and holey tennis shoes, or she wouldn't have told us.

Warning to Clarkston motorists -- sign proclaiming a two-hour parking limit in the commercial area were to be completely installed by the end of the week, and the ordinance is in effect. The issuance of tickets for violators seems sure to follow.

The underground workers' strike is still affecting sewer completion, but village council members are in hopes that the black topping repair program will be sufficiently completed by winter to insure absence of quagmires along some of the residential streets.

The village garage may get a new overhang, and then again, it might get a whole new roof. It sure needs something, according to councilmen, who report that water is dripping down between the bricks and cement blocks from a rotted away overhang. New doors installed on the garage (located at the rear and the lower level of the village offices) have added some measure of security to the building.

Good news for the families of Independence Township firemen -- not to mention the firemen themselves: they will no longer have to perk up their ears every time there's a fire or report of one in any community in the area.

New home monitors to be purchased for the volunteers at a total cost of $6,881 have among other advantages the feature of being tone-activated.

This means the monitors will not be droning constantly--and will operate only when the local firemen are being summoned.

Rex Fenstemaker, an Independence Township fireman for some 30 years, has been promoted to captain.

Fenstemaker will be in charge of the station in Clarkston.

Designated as engineers were Rodney Allen, Neil Ashley, Jack Hess, Paul Roberts, Robert Tilley and Roland Wilson. The six men, filling positions created earlier this year, will be responsible for keeping fire fighting equipment ready for use.

Township Trustee Keith Humbert points out a coincidence in last week's paper -- the letter to the editor decrying inadequacies in the township's weed cutting program and the feature in the home section on how to artistically arrange dried weeds. He wonders if one story might possibly have a bearing on the other. Never thought of it, but...

Keen bean teen Mike Fahrner, who seemed to be doing his own impersonation of an Alka Seltzer ad by the time we heard from him, brought some kind of honor to the sophomore class Friday by consuming 14-plus pounds of beans at the Clarkston High pep rally.

Sharing the triumph with Mike was his fellow sophomore Dave Brown.

Principal William Dennis reported Mike far surpassed the other contestants by nearly emptying a bowl containing the contents of two No. 10 cans--leaving only "two spoonfuls."

Funny, Mike's mom claims he always cleans his plate.

Holly Stephens, who does a considerable amount of home canning, reports the lack of canning lid availability anywhere. Seems the company that made them has been on strike. Her father finally located some for her in Detroit, but he had to purchase the rings as well as the sealers -- which hiked the price a bit.

Your Girl Scout growing up? Mrs. Dorothy Sutphin has volunteered to operate a uniform exchange for Scouts. You can obtain one or sell one by calling her at 625-4967.

Ed Thomas at the Salvation Army Senior Citizen Drop-In Center suggests we use the $7.82 in pennies we now have to buy coffee and paper cups for the seniors there. Sounds like a good idea to us.

In line with the penny thing, Grandma and Grampa think the following poem they clipped out of The Maple Creek News (that's in Saskatchewan) might have some bearing.

THE DOLLAR AND THE CENT
A big silver dollar and a little brown cent,

Rolling along, together they went,
Rolling along the smooth sidewalk
When the dollar remarked (for the dollar can talk).

You poor little cent, you cheap little mite:

I'm bigger and more than twice as bright.

I'm worth more than you a hundredfold,

And written on me in letters bold
Is the motto drawn from the pious creed--

In God We Trust, which all can read.
Yes I know, said the cent, I'm a cheap little mite.

And I know I'm not big, nor good, nor bright.

And yet, said the cent with a meek little sigh,

You don't go to Church as often as I.

Fire levels Brewer house

A late night fire gutted the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brewer, 5230 Waterford Road, Sept. 19 while the couple was away from home.

A neighbor summoned Independence Township firemen shortly before midnight.

"Fire was coming out all the windows by the time we got there," said Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Five trucks from all three township stations were called to the blaze, which was brought under control in about 45 minutes, Ronk said.

Damage to the aluminum-sided frame house and its contents was estimated at about $43,000.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined and is still under investigation.

Home nursing offered seniors

A Red Cross course in home nursing will begin at 1 p.m. Monday at the Senior Citizen Drop-In Center, Church and Buffalo. Joann Wright, Red Cross instructor, will teach the series of six lessons. Classes will take place each Monday, with the exception of October 22, Veterans Day.

Pontiac Tool Co. repurchased

The Pontiac Tool Company, manufacturer of planer-mill heads, converted planer mills, and new planer mills, has been repurchased by Frank Lashmet, its original chief executive, from the Progressive Machinery Corp.

The firm will be operated as a division of the newly-formed Pontiac Milling Machine Corporation and is located at 8075 Big Lake Road, Springfield Township.

In announcing the purchase, Lashmet said there would be no interruption in the firm's manufacture, sales, and service of Pontiac Tool Co. products--and that the product line was being expanded to include manufacture of new planer-type mills, a totally new line of horizontal milling machines, and special milling equipment.

New Clarkston civic center?

Planning commission proposed in village

Clarkston Village Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday to act on an ordinance which would set up a planning commission.

Provision for using such a planning commission, as opposed to the planning committee the village now has, is contained in the recently adopted zoning ordinance.

The village planning commission, once designated, will be charged with drawing up a master plan for the area and with hearing requests for rezoning and passing on site plans, according to Attorney Ed Sosnick.

Lack of the commission has helped delay, for the time being at least, a request by Don Short, general manager of Haupt Pontiac, to rezone property off Main Street near Northview for a new car storage lot.

Short was present last night to tell the council he'd already spent $1,000 on the property, leveling and burying such items as old bedsprings and refrigerators.

He said he'd have attorneys check both the old and new zoning ordinances in regard to the steps he should take, following an opinion by Sosnick that the variance route would be denied him.

Short said an overload of 1973 cars at the time the 1974 models came out had caused the need for additional space. "I have no place to put them," he said. "They're being vandalized."

He also added that a natural screening around the property had enabled him to win the approval of at least two nearby neighbors.

The lot in use is zoned residential, but Short said it was unbuildable. He asked for a commercial type zoning for the property, and he admitted the lot had been put to use as storage prior to his requesting such use from the council.

The lot is owned by Rudy Schwarze.

A downtown civic center for Clarkston, housing township and even village offices -- possibly the village fire hall, is being contemplated by Independence Township Board.

Detroit design engineer Norman Gregor was in town this week reviewing the 6-acre site and buildings formerly occupied by Hawk Tool and Engineering Co. at 20 West Washington.

The property has been for sale since last summer, and a spokesman for the Hawke family said several offers had been received. He added, "We're particularly still live here and we want to see something in there that will be beneficial for the town."

He said he thought a civic center would be great. "We need something to hold the town together."

Asking price of the property is $250,000 to $350,000, depending on whether a purchase would include the private home adjacent to the plant. The plant itself contains 26,000 square feet as compared to the hall's 6,840 square feet.

The Hawke spokesman said, however, the price is negotiable and could even encompass lease arrangements. "We'll work with them any way they want," he said.

Talk of the need for expanded township quarters has been underway in Independence Township for the past two years. Water, sewer and building department expansions are heavily taxing present facilities, according to Building Department Official Ken Delbridge.

"There's been a question of whether we should expand on site, or have a look for more land elsewhere in the township with the idea of building new facilities," Delbridge reported.

Village officials have recently been considering the erection of new quarters to house village offices, and Trustee

Mike Thayer was recently charged with investigation of the possibility.

Also under consideration are new quarters for the Clarkston Post Office, and township officials believe the Hawk site to be adequate for all three, plus the probability of its being able to contain a new village fire hall, also now under consideration by the Fire Department.

The design engineer was to give an opinion on what facilities could be contained in the building and the cost of remodeling the plant into serviceable use, Delbridge said.

"He's going to tell us if we can do it, and how we can do it," the building official said.

The transfer of township offices would in turn free the present township hall for use either by the district court or as a community center, Delbridge added.

The court is presently contemplating a move to county-owned facilities at the Dixie Highway and Grange Hall roads in Groveland Township, because of the inadequacy of present quarters, District Judge Gerald McNally has reported.

Delbridge said the township had received permission from the Hawkes to do a study on the property, but that as yet no financing details had been discussed.

He pointed out also that the parcel, which stretches from Washington Street to Depot Road, contains adequate room for parking east of the creek which traverses it, and that the portion lying west could be preserved as park land.

The westerly portion is shaped to form a natural amphitheater, Delbridge pointed out.

He said a lower level at the rear of the plant could be used for water and sewer offices, providing space to house the trucks used by the departments.

Auxiliary policemen armed for games

The Independence Township Board has taken action which will have the immediate effect of allowing Clarkston auxiliary policemen to be armed while on duty at school athletic events.

The amendment to the township's police protection ordinance adopted by the board provides for the hiring of township auxiliary police officers, who may be armed at the direction of the township board.

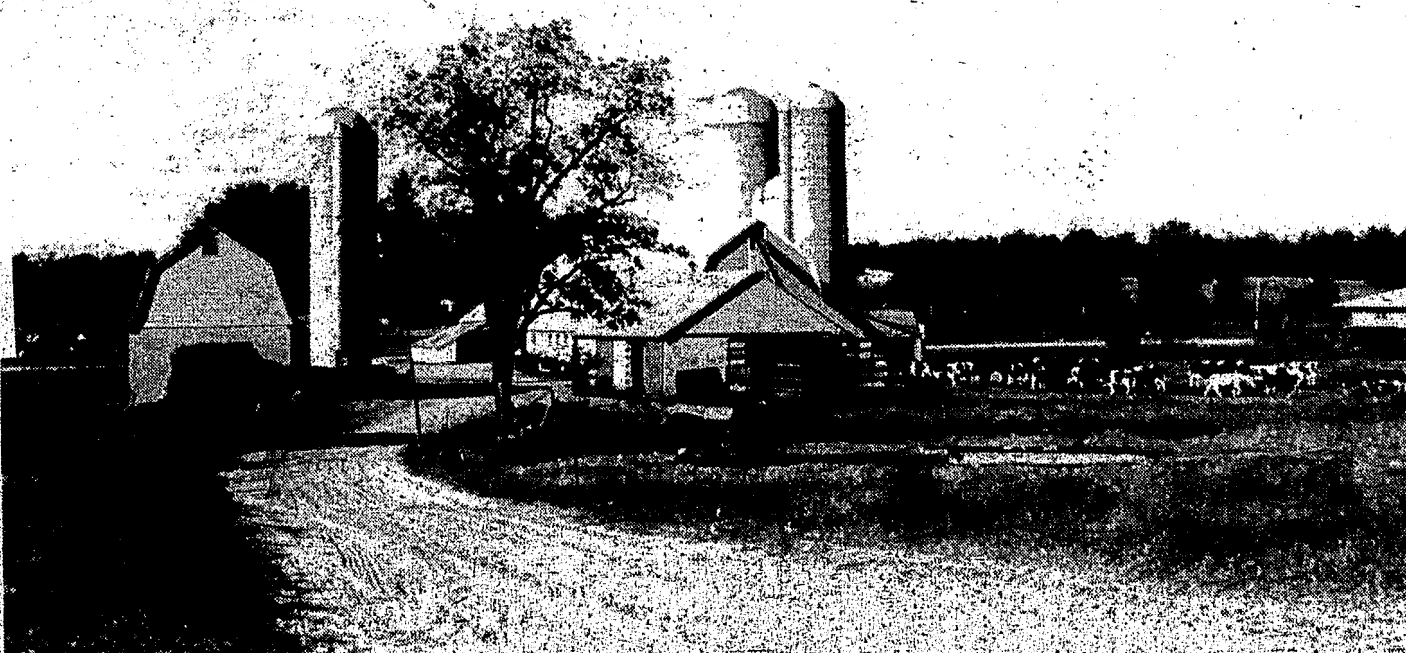

Clarkston auxiliary policemen become township auxiliary officers when on duty at the games. An earlier policy under which they were deputized by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department for patrol at the high school has been discontinued by Sheriff Johannes Spreen.

Although the amendment to the police protection ordinance will not take effect until Oct. 27, all of the auxiliary officers do have citizens' permits to carry guns.

The purpose of the amendment, according to Supervisor Robert Vandemark, is to "institutionalize the arrangement" and to provide that armed officers meet state training requirements, which the current officers do.

Patches

Nicotine snit

by Pat Braunagel

Hacks there a smoker with brain cells so dead who never to himself has said, "Next week, I'm going to give it up?"

We all want to stop. We all know about the medical evidence, the smell, the irritation to non-smokers, the dangers of mislaid cigarettes, etc.

Not since my sophisticated 16s have I run into anyone who actually wanted to smoke.

But I also know I'm addicted—temporarily, I keep telling myself—but nevertheless addicted.

So along comes my friend Mary Anne, who 13 days and 11 hours ago looked at the cigarette she was smoking, said "This tastes awful," butted it and swore off.

Cheers for Mary Anne.

However, my problem becomes determining the bounds of friendship. To what extent must I support her efforts?

"You've got to get used to not smoking in a world which still includes smokers," I told her the other night. "You've got to be realistic—and you've got to tell me where you've hidden the ashtrays."

Lord knows she's getting enough encouragement from both her own husband and mine. Neither has ever succumbed to the weed, and both tend to be somewhat self-righteous about their strength.

My spouse, for instance, used to embarrass me with his total lack of gallantry when I had a cigarette that needed lighting. (Where was he during the movie scenes in which the hands touched tenderly and the eyes met meaningfully as the hero lighted the heroine's cigarette?)

He also refuses to buy me a pack when he's going to the drug store, let me smoke in his ear or kiss me goodnight before I've gargled.

The fact that we crossed religious lines to wed has not had nearly the effect on our marriage that the smoking schism has.

I can't speak for Mary Anne, but the vibes I sense between her and her husband are much like those I get from mine.

So I wish her luck—but I'm not about to become a sneak smoker for her benefit.

I called her on the phone the other day and after a few moments she said, "I can't stand it anymore, Pat. I can hear you smoking."

In deference to her hang-up, I hung up.

I have kept my pack out of sight when I'm in her presence, I endeavor to blow the smoke away from her and I do try to pace my smoking.

But, quite frankly, she's making me nervous—and you know how a smoker reacts who's nervous.

It's been estimated that it takes the average smoker three months to kick a habit. That gives Mary Anne 76 days and 13 hours to go.

Can our friendship survive?

Perhaps the answer lies in letter-writing. But when I write, I smoke—and there's no telling what effect the smell of nicotine-scented stationery would have on Mary Anne.

BY THE THIRD EYE

I blew the Bobby Riggs - Billy Jean King tennis match outcome, but I'm not prepared to say the information I receive is wrong. I am capable of misinterpretation, and my feeling that Billy Jean might not be feeling as well as she should was borne out by her reported illness the weekend prior to the match.

There have been a number of correct predictions however, and I am prepared to give personal answers to people who mail a sealed letter to me in care of The Clarkston News. The letter should be signed by a number or some code identification, so that the writer will recognize the answer as pertaining to him or her.

Speaking of letters, the price of postage is going to go up to 10 cents, but not for a while. It will be talked about long enough to get us used to the idea and we'll accept the hike calmly.

A lot of younger, smart, ecological minded people are going to start purchasing their own generators to use in case of power failure. The generators will be unused for a long time, but the time is coming when they'll be definitely valuable.

Home canning will also hold sway over freezing, because of occasional power shortages and food spoilage. The canning surge will not decrease. It's going to get more popular than ever.

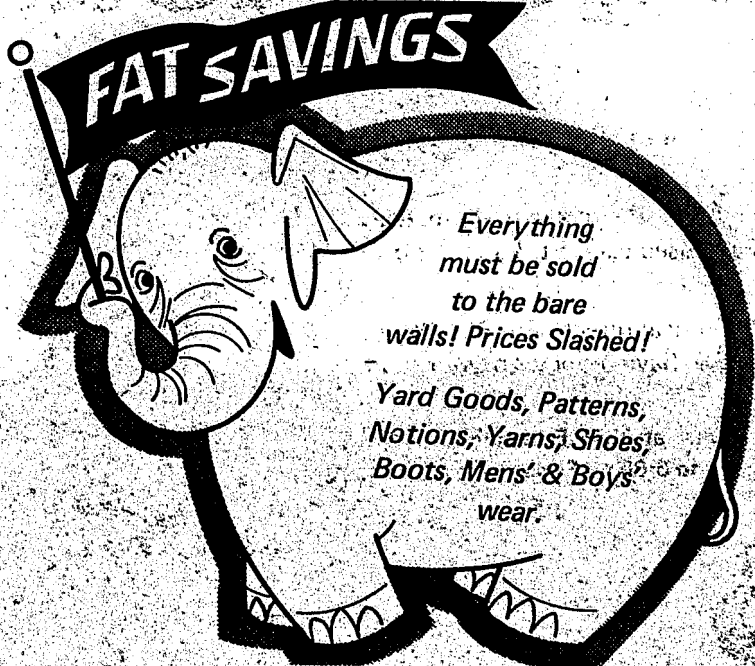

Within five years, we'll have no more teacher strikes. The time is coming when an automatic contract, reviewed perhaps only every five years, will grant cost-of-living increases, but no more big jumps.

This will come about because of parental pressure. Parents are fed up with children being shortchanged on education. They know it's a psychological blow to children to be used as pawns.

The students, whose districts are beset by strikes, lose Christmas and Easter vacations, and the break in routine is important. As a result students are getting resentful and they're losing respect for striking teachers.

The staff and students at Clarkston senior high had the privilege of welcoming to their school and community three FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS. Further words will be written on the viewpoints of the three, all seniors, who arrived from Greece, Japan and Mexico.

For starters, the three exchange students will be part of our annual SCHOOL PICTURE TAKING program. On Wednesday, October 3, they will find the halls filled with students wearing their favorite colors or outfits, all for the glory of looking their best.

Another reason for special attire on October 3 or 4 could be the tryouts for the DRAMA CLUB'S first production of the year. After meeting on September 26th, the club chose Thornton Wilder's stage play, "Our Town".

November 16 should see the curtains of the Little Theater part for the efforts of this hard working drama group, under the guidance of Barbara Gibson.

If bowling is your bag, you can become a member of this year's BOWLING LEAGUE. It meets at Howe's Lanes and applications are limited, requiring registration ahead of time. Interested students are asked to check with Mrs. Fredrickson, during noon lunch breaks.

With the smell of fall in the air getting stronger each day, it's only natural that HOMECOMING activities begin to find their place on the calendar.

The school schedule for homecoming calls for the pretapping assembly,

October 5; tapping assembly, October 12; Powder Puff game, October 13; Queen's assembly, October 18; parade and football game, October 19, with the homecoming dance on Saturday, October 20.

ATTENDANCE RULES have been made clear to the students. Although they are slightly different in each department, they are definite. An excess of absences in some classes could cause the loss of a credit to the student who misses.

Accomplishment is the motto for this year's STUDENT COUNCIL. Although they are still in the organizing stages, the group is anxious to make this a memorable year for getting things done.

A talk with the president of the student council, Dave Arpoika, stressed the fact that this year is set for action and accomplishment.

The action began last Thursday, September 20th, when five of the student representatives attended a "League Meeting" at the Andover high school.

A league meeting is the gathering of student representatives from Clarkston, Milford, Waterford Kettering, Clarenceville and Andover. The five or more students from each school exchanged ideas and plans for their schools.

These meetings are presently held once a month, but it was suggested they be held more often in the future.

Meetings of the student council may be attended by interested students, with a specific reason for attending, by obtaining a pass from Mr. White.

People can affect taxes

Oakland County Equalization Director Herman Stephens has been quoted in the local daily as saying this is the time to write your state legislator if you don't want the state proposed 25 percent increase next year in property taxes.

We're with him.

The 50 percent of market value figure used by assessors in arriving at a taxable figure for property is a legislative order. Michigan's new constitution, adopted in 1963, said only that property should not be assessed at more than 50 percent. It was the legislature which shortly after said it should not be assessed at less than 50 percent.

It would be reasonably simple for the legislature to take steps setting that figure lower, and thereby balance the inflationary cost of property which drives our taxes ever upwards.

People do have power in this regard. An outpouring of mail to elected representatives can have the desired result. It's time to make that impact felt now.

A target for anger

Let's see. I think Le Thai Khuong has got to be it for today. He sounds like the kind of a jerk who would sell tickets to a massacre.

Some days it's not easy being an angry young man. For 1 thing, there's my age. For another thing, there's the matter of priorities. What should I be angry about today? How angry? I want my wrath to be worthy of its target, but I must beware of over-mad. I don't want to waste any giant snarls and sarcasms on tiny villains, and then come up empty, practically sweet, when suddenly faced with a reborn Adolph Hitler.

There is a limit to how much anger 1 man can spew in 1 day. And, once his mad is gone, he is liable to start smiling and smelling the flowers again.

Fortunately, I was not grinning into a petunia when I read about Le Thai Khuong. Up until then, it had been a mild sort of a day and my anger had been used sparingly on such semi-disastrous things as the stupidity of the British people for providing free feed for Princess Anne and her horses. There was plenty of really nasty mad left for Khuong.

Le Thai Khuong is chief of tourism for South Vietnam. He is promoting his nation as a resort area and envisions the day when tourists will bring in an annual income of $100 million. He is advertising his country with posters featuring a sexy Vietnamese girl under the slogan:

VIETNAM - YOU'VE

I had a ball

by Jean Saile

Pro football and baseball games tend to turn me off. I should go out and swelter in the bleachers during the hot summer, or freeze to death in late fall and watch behemoths wrestle each other?

My tastes are more refined. I keep telling this nutty family of mine. But sometimes they prevail.

They prevailed last Wednesday night, and that was me hooting and hollering from behind home plate when the Tigers obliterated Baltimore 10-1.

I saw Aurelio Rodriguez bring three men home on a triple. I was there when Bill Freehan hit his home run. I was there when Ike Brown came through with a solid hit, and when the superb Willie Horton did his usual job of fielding and batting.

I saw it all through a dietary collage of peanuts, hot dogs and beer, and to the tune of the super hot dog salesman's pitch of "Hot doggies, get your hot doggies. Yummy, yummy!"

He was nearly as impressive as Frank Howard, the real behemoth of the team who as designated pinch hitter used his 6 foot, 7 inch, 275 pound frame to scare the socks off Baltimore.

Howard has the ability, just by appearing on the field, to make everyone else look like school boys, including the umps.

Fortunately Howard appeared to be a mild-mannered type. Had the Baltimore manager had his physique, the ump's manner in dismissing certain criticism may have been less cavalier.

As it was, having been taken to task by the doughty Earl Weaver over a called ball, the implacable ump on his next called strike against Detroit checked Weaver and tipped the brim of his cap toward the Baltimore dugout.

He showed no respect at all.

Pete and Liz, who accompanied Jim and me, kept embarrassing their father with loud conversation along the lines of "Where's Billy Martin? Is Billy Martin here? I'll bet he's here. I know he was fired, but I bet he's here."

None of our nearby seat mates let on they'd heard. Untalkable, untouchable, it was.

I think the last time I saw a game, Yogi Berra was catching for the Yankees. The Tigers won that time, too. Maybe I'll have to go more often.

HEARD ABOUT IT; NOW SEE IT

How about that? C'mon over and see where all your bombs dropped. See the rubble and shell holes where the peasants died. Watch the orphans scrounge in the garbage cans. Stand on the spot where the boy next door was killed.

I know a young man who certainly has the time to respond to the siren call of the Vietnam tourist bureau. Except it is difficult for him to travel. He can't walk. He can't talk, either, and he can't see very well. He can't feed himself. As a tourist, he'd be a real drag.

But he's already been to Vietnam anyway. That's how he got that way.

Ah, yes. We've all heard about Vietnam. It received free advertising on all the front pages - and obituary pages. Now some huckster named Khuong wants to make a buck out of that bloody notoriety. So I say I am angry with him.

But the tourists throng to Pearl Harbor and other Pacific bloodmarks. They have picnics on Civil War battlefields, in the shade of the monuments, and they stroll along the shores of Normandy, eagerly eyeing the debris of D-Day.

If some guy were selling tickets to a massacre, he'd probably fill every seat and jam the aisles. It is a sick world wherein there is glory in people killing each other proving who is king of the mountain.

My most terrible anger should be aimed at you and me.

Letters to the editor

They're clusters, not condominiums

To the Editor:

Thank you for your coverage of my appearance at the planning commission and my "cluster" concept. This kind of public relations assistance is certainly going to help this new concept achieve approval and I think it will be a real zoning asset to the township.

One slight change would be appreciated in any future coverage. "Condominium" has a very negative connotation in Independence because it is thought of as an "architectural" term rather than a term relating to type of ownership.

Since my proposed concept does not fit the usual public interpretation of condominiums even though they will be condominium ownership, I have tried to use the description "single family clusters." I would appreciate any assistance in promoting this description as much as possible, rather than condominiums because I fear that the negative feelings about condos can't help the cause.

Once again, I appreciate your story.

Very truly yours,
Edward W. Santala

Support appreciated

Dear Mrs. Saile:

Would you please publish the enclosed statement pertaining to the Immunization Clinic which will be held again in Independence Center, 5331 Maybee Road, Clarkston, on October 4, 1973.

We are receiving favorable comment from parents regarding the publicity you are giving these clinics. Many say they find it a good reminder, especially for those mothers who have many things to think of and are inclined to forget dates of clinics. Again, we appreciate the effort you are putting forth in publicity for them.

Sincerely,

Hitchhiking west

Dear Jean,

Hello and greetings from the state of Oregon. Here is a letter to let you know what hitch-hiking from Michigan to the West Coast is like.

To begin with, left Clarkston for a few days at Lake Michigan, then up the coast to the Mackinac Bridge which I walked across with a horde of 30,000 other fellow walkers, including the Governor. The grandeur of design, surroundings of the bridge and electrifying excitement of the crowd made a lasting impression.

Wisconsin held a pleasant surprise. Was picked up by a young fellow driving a VW who drove me through the back country roads to his home. His wife prepared a delicious lunch of fresh grown produce. That evening got a ride to Minneapolis by a trucker.

Next day was hitching without much luck until almost 1:30 p.m., when I caught a ride to my next destination—of course, Buffalo, Wyoming and the Big Horn Mountains.

Visited in Buffalo with old friends. Had a most unusual experience, stopped by to visit with a contractor who had working for him two brothers from Clarkston, Michigan—Kent Ash, 22 (who I graduated with in 1969) and Gary, 32.

Left Buffalo. Went North to state border then westward over the Big Horns. Hitched a ride to Yellowstone National Park.

Woke up early to the excitement of being in Yellowstone. Again an interesting coincidence. The guys that gave me a ride to Yellowstone were from U.C.L.A. In the next campsite was a fellow who went to school with them.

Rode out of the park into Montana's Yellowstone Valley which was overwhelming with Godly beauty, Idaho then Washington State, a journey of 550 miles for one day.

Made Silverton, Oregon where a buddy lives. The two of us are in the process of leaving within the month to hitch hike to New York City to either ship or fly to Europe to visit my parents in Scotland, his in Turkey and perhaps Duffy Uddicoat in Saudi Arabia. For now, I am, Madame,

Thomas of Wilford Manor

Phone caller thanked

Dear Jean:

There have been many humorous ramifications to my "fiasco" in Deer Lake last week, but I did want to let you know that I thought your article was extremely humorous and well written!

There's still one question in my mind regarding this affair. I would truly like to personally thank the person who made the phone call after sighting me in the lake. I wonder if the News would have any way of finding out for me?

I'm sure you know how much we enjoy the paper and the wonderful job that you're doing with it!

My best,
Brooke Bennett

Depot Road, looking toward Main Street, at the turn of the century.

by Jim Sherman

Regardless of what Mr. Nixon says, there are people who like the "press."

A couple people proved it this week with editorial contributions. The first was from Helen Dick, of Oxford. Helen is a graduate of Hudson High. Everyone who has ever touched a football knows about Hudson High.

They've won 45 straight (this is written before their 46th) games on the gridiron, and Helen is as proud as any alumna should be.

From the Hudson Post-Gazette, a paper over 115 years old published by Edward Potter, we have this to stir your sympathy to editors --

If you think you have troubles, pity the poor editor.

If he attends a meeting he's being nosey; if he doesn't he isn't interested. If he writes an in-depth story, it's too long; if he condenses one, it's incomplete. If he takes sides on an issue he is prejudiced; if he doesn't he is a coward.

If he asks for advice he's incompetent; if he doesn't he's a know-it-all. If he expresses an opinion he wants to run the show; if he doesn't he lacks guts.

If he misspells your name, you never forget it; if he doesn't you didn't read the story.

From one of the Leader writers comes 2 offerings of profound wisdom. Olive Skibowski leads into the articles by saying labor, management and any employer-employee group might gain from the thoughts.

"Certainly our weary old world seems to need something to oil up its axis to make smoother turning."

You can buy a man's time,
You can buy a man's physical presence at a given place,
You can buy a measured number of skilled muscular motions per hour a day - but

You Cannot Buy the Devotion of Hearts, Minds and Souls.

You have to Earn these things.

It is ironical that Americans, the most advanced people technically, mechanically, and industrially - should have waited until a comparatively recent period to inquire into most promising source of productivity; namely, the human mind or will to work. It is hopeful, on the other hand, that this search is now underway.

Wolves overcome to beat Holly

By Mike Jewell

Clarkston Varsity football team made it two wins in a row as they had to come from behind to beat the Holly Broncos last Friday night, 21-14. It was the team's second non-league victory, leaving their record at 2-0.

The entire game was plagued with mistakes as two Clarkston fumbles, two Holly interceptions, and four Holly fumbles helped to kill several key drives for both teams.

The game started off with Clarkston in possession but Ken Foster fumbled two plays later, giving Holly the ball. It was then the Wolves' turn to recover a fumble as Rod Rumsey came up with the ball a few minutes later on the Wolves' 35-yard line.

Finally a Mike Dennis fumble recovery set up a Clarkston scoring drive which started near the end of the first quarter and ended at 11:08 of the second quarter. Halfback Dave Whitehead scored the game's first touchdown from a yard out. It was Whitehead's third touchdown of the season and the PAT by Ken Foster was good, giving the Wolves a 7-0 lead.

Clarkston then suddenly found itself behind for the first time this season when Holly scored with 5:40 left in the second quarter. Their quarterback went 6 yards for the Bronco's first touchdown. Their conversion was good for two points giving Holly a 8-7 lead. The Broncos' drive started when they picked off a George Porritt pass and the key play in the drive was a 33-yard run by Holly halfback Al Campbell.

Then it was the Wolves coming up with the big play of the half. With only 3:45 left, it was Holly down on the Clarkston 4-yard line, looking as if they would score again, when defensive end Dan Blower cut around a block, gathered up a stray lateral, and raced 96 yards for a touchdown. It was a new Clarkston record for the longest single scoring play and it gave the team a 13-8 halftime lead.

Holly came out dominating the third quarter both defensively and offensively as they held the Wolves scoreless and ended the quarter with a 12-yard touchdown pass from Hillman to Campbell giving Holly the lead again, 14-13.

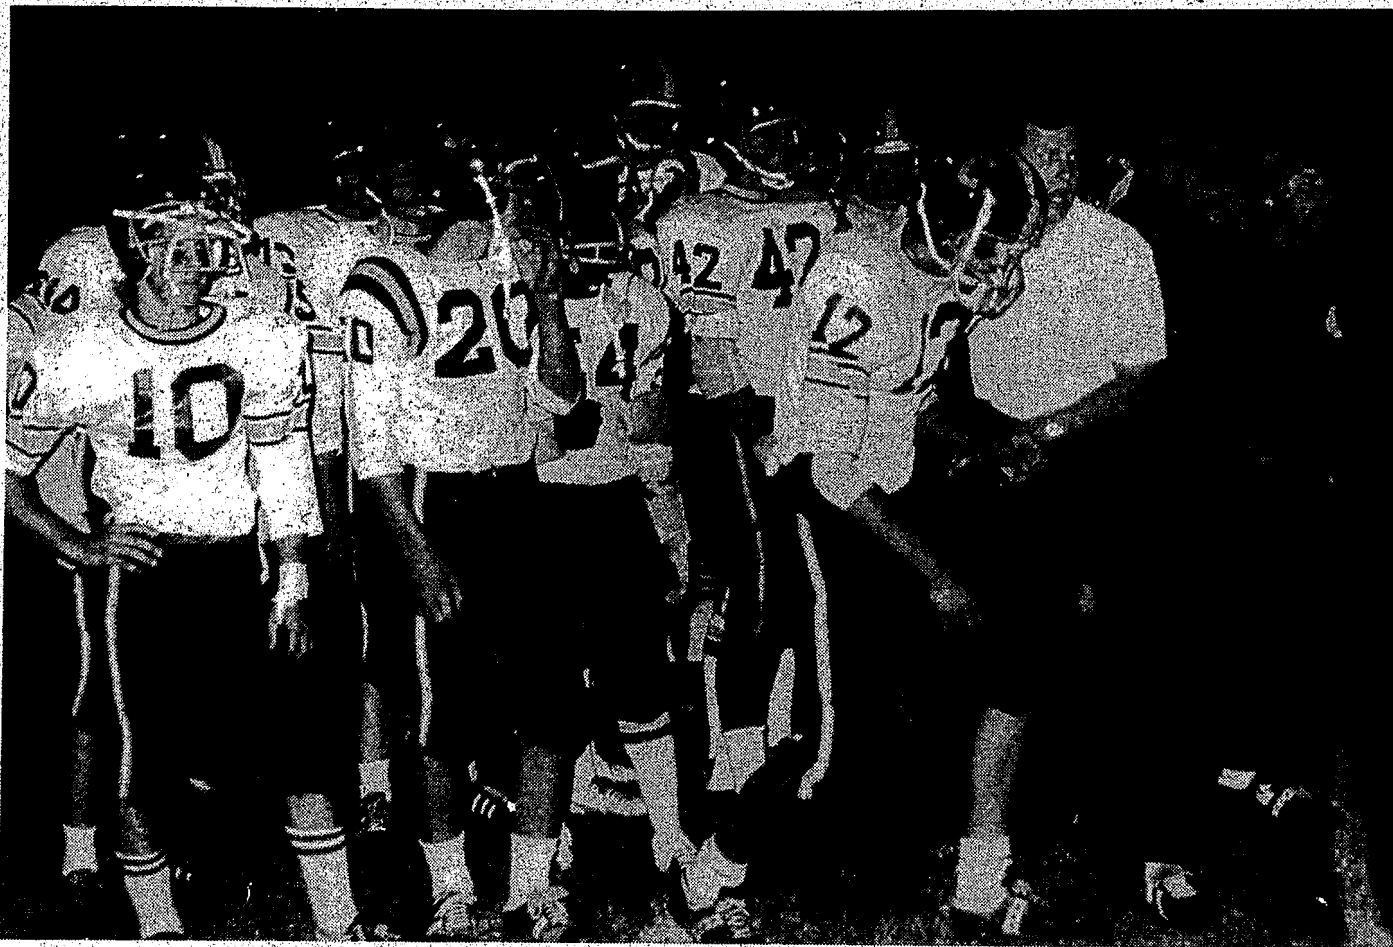

The fourth quarter started off with the ball going back and forth as neither team seemed able to generate a drive. Then with about 9:30 left in the game, the momentum changed and the Wolves started to play for keeps.

The offense got the ball on their own 15-yard line and started a long determined drive down the field. The key play in the drive came with 6:37 left, as quarterback George Porritt ran

Tennis tourney

Trophies will be awarded during a two-day tennis tournament October 6 and 7 at the Clarkston High School courts. Entrants will compete in the men's doubles for those 18 and over, the junior singles for those 18 and under, and -- if enough interest is shown -- the ladies' doubles for those 18 and over.

Participants must be prepared to play at least two matches each on Saturday and Sunday. Registration will be at 10 a.m. at the courts. An entry fee of $1 per person will be charged.

Wolves, who defeated Oxford in their first game, continued the winning streak by defeating Holly Friday 21-14.

for the needed first down yardage on 4th down and 6 yards to go. The list of game heroes grew as the 85-yard drive ended with Porritt hitting receiver Brian Powell in the end zone for the game-winning touchdown with only 4:23 left. Dave Whitehead made the two-point conversion, leaving the final score at 21-14.

Holly's plans for a last minute drive ended when the Wolves' Byron Pointer came up with another Holly fumble which insured the win for Clarkston.

Quarterback George Porritt was impressive with his passing as he was 7-11 for a total of 76 yards, with two interceptions marring his performance.

Brian Powell was the leading receiver for the Wolves with 36 yards for two catches, one being the touchdown.

The running attack rolled up a total of 176 yards, 110 yards credited to rushing leader Dave Whitehead. Total offensive yardage for the Wolves came to 252 yards, with 15 first downs, and the team had only 20 yards in penalties.

The defense gave up a total of 242 yards to Holly and Clarkston didn't have to punt at all during the game.

The team will sorely miss the services of tailback Tom Anderson who is out for the season with a broken hand.

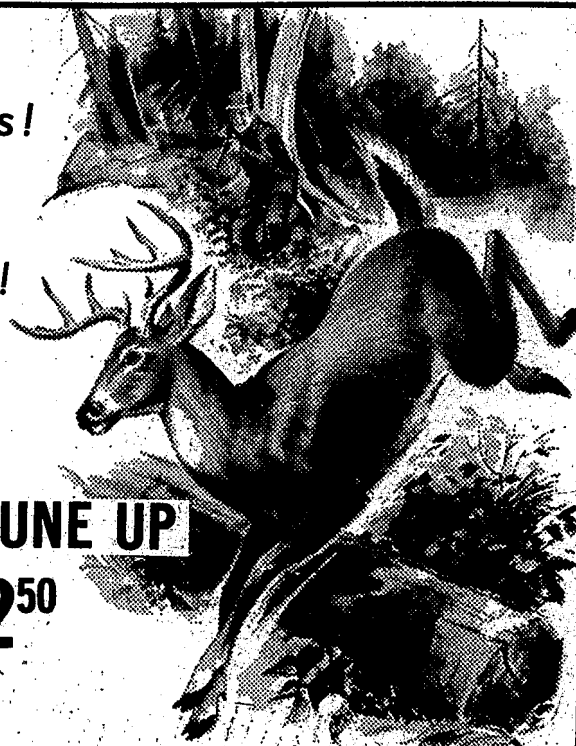

The Wolves first league game will be home against the Milford Redskins Friday, Sept. 28.

Rod Brumback, John Tisch, and Scott Kassuba get some practice for the Jaycee-sponsored Pass, Punt and Kick contest set for 10 a.m. Saturday at Clarkston High School football field. Early registration will begin at the field at 9 a.m.

Intramural sports underway

Clarkston Junior High School students have begun their fall intramural sports program, including girls basketball, flag football, tackle football and a cross-country conditioning club.

The flag football program, under the direction of Gerald Granlund, will begin next week with 36 boys presently registered.

Three eighth-grade tackle football teams will begin working out Oct. 1 under coaches Richard Powers, Ray Cooper and John Matheus.

The girls basketball program is being run in the fall this year for the first time to coincide with high school girls basketball. Mrs. Mary Colwell and Mrs. Marge Dever will direct the program which is scheduled to begin Oct. 1.

Approximately 15 boys have been working out regularly after school in the cross-country conditioning club directed by Charles Keegan.

The ninth-grade interscholastic football team has been growing steadily, with 46 players now on the team coached by Larry Sherrill and Gary Warner. The next home football game is 7 p.m. Oct. 3 on the high school field.

Varsity golf 4-4

By Mike Jewell

Clarkston Varsity Golf Team is holding an impressive 3-1 league record, being 4-4 overall. The team's latest victories were last week over Clarenceville and Milford. The win over Clarenceville was by a whopping 30 strokes and they also buried Milford by 13 strokes.

The team's only loss in the last four meets was to Davison, considered to be one of the top four contenders for the regional title.

Shooting the best golf so far this year is Lee Booker, with the best round going to John Anderson when he shot a 3 under par 33.

Football tickets available here

Football tickets for University of Michigan home games are available through the Independence Township Recreation Department, according to Tim Doyle, Director.

They include the U of M - Wisconsin game October 20 and the U of M - Navy game September 29. A fee of $5.50 payable in advance includes bus fare from Waterford Township High School.

The excursion is meant for fathers and sons, Dowle said. Those interested should sign up at the Independence Township Recreation Department, and plan to be at the Waterford high school at 10 a.m. on game days.

Holly 12-6 last Thursday.

After a scoreless first quarter it was Keith Sipperly blocking a Holly punt that set up Clarkston's first scoring drive. Halfback Jesse Diaz ended the 40-yard drive as he scored the game's first touchdown from 3 yards out. The defense then held off Holly giving Clarkston a 6-0 halftime lead.

Holly finally tied the game a little way into the third quarter with a short touchdown drive after they had gotten the ball in good field position. It was then Clarkston taking over the rest of the third quarter as they put together a long scoring drive capped by a 27 yard touchdown run by Tom Bosquez. That was all the scoring there was as both teams' defenses took over forcing a scoreless fourth quarter.

The Wolves' defense was tough in the fourth quarter, as it was Mike Kelly sacking the Holly quarterback halting Holly's last drive of the game. Steve Pearson led the defense with 2 tackles. The JV's next game is next Thursday night at Rochester Adams.

Frostbite regatta due Sunday

Deer Lake Sail Club will run its Frostbite Regatta, the last sailboat race of the season, Sunday, September 30. A skippers' meeting has been called for 9:30 a.m. at Deer Lake Beach, with races due to start at 10 and 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. providing the wind is favorable.

Vince Luzi reports that should light winds prevail, the last two races will be delayed until noon and 2 p.m.

He said life jackets are required on the boats and that warm clothing is recommended. Motorboat owners are invited to participate as patrol boats, mark boats or as race committee boat.

Trophies will be awarded during a club social hour following the races.

Anyone interested in entering is invited to call Bill Pfahlert, Vince Luzi or Brooke Bennett for more information.

Tennis offered at Racquet Club

Tennis lessons, sponsored by the Independence Township Recreation Department, will be offered at the new Deer Lake Racquet Club on Deer Lake Road beginning October 15.

Classes are scheduled 8 to 9 a.m. and 9 to 10 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays for ten sessions. The reduced rate fee is $25, according to Recreation Director Tim Doyle.

Lessons will be taught by Greg Stevens, club pro.

Doyle said the maximum class size is between 10 and 12 people, who will be enrolled on a first-come, first-serve basis. He said those interested should sign up at the recreation department and pay the fees there.

Courts at the clubs are now open, Doyle reported, but carpenters are still at work on the building.

Asthma & Sports

Most children with asthma can take part in school sports and athletic activities without much trouble, if their disease is under control. And they should be encouraged to do so, according to the American Academy of Pediatrics.

It urges proper medical management, and warns that over-fatigue or the emotional upheaval associated with athletic contests may trigger asthmatic attacks in some cases.

The group suggests that severely asthmatic children avoid body-contact sports. Tennis, gymnastics, archery and swimming should be encouraged, allowing for the child's individual limits.

The Academy says every effort should be made to reduce or minimize restrictions on the asthmatic's place in school activities. These restrictions should be on a personal basis, rather than being invoked routinely.

School athletic programs should be modified carefully, to avoid making the child feel inferior or different. Written records of periodic checkups should be on file in the school nurse's office.

"It is important that the patient and his family recognize, in the early stages of the disease, that certain adjustments in daily routine may be needed," the Academy noted.

"However, these limitations should be balanced by the needs of the child to take part in physical activities with as little restriction as possible."

Independence Township home affords lake view.

Sheraton table large enough for family gatherings.

Family found 'ideal' home

By Betty Hecker

A diagonally centered kitchen -- open to the living, dining, family and sun rooms -- is the hub of the Art and Jayne Williams home.

Its placement makes for differently shaped rooms, furnished attractively and highlighted with family heirlooms.

The Williams family moved into their Independence Township lakeside home years ago, finding it ideal for their needs.

"All the furniture belonging to the previous owners was almost identical to ours, the same style and the same color. We were able to move right in. We didn't have to redecorate at all," Jayne remembers.

The pale green living room walls are cool background for the moss green carpeting and the green and white furniture, arranged in two conversational groupings. One sofa is white brocade and the other a green on green damask. Celery green drapes frame the two ten-foot picture windows which overlook the long redwood deck and the lake.

The Sheraton table in the dining room opens wide enough so everyone can sit down for dinner at the holidays, Jayne reports. When they moved into the house, there were five children at home. Now one son is in the Marines, one daughter is married and another daughter is away at college.

The paneled family room is furnished in a colonial motif and opens onto a soundproof sun room via a large glass doorwall. Used as a breakfast room, the sun room overlooks the lake and has access to the kitchen through a pass-through window.

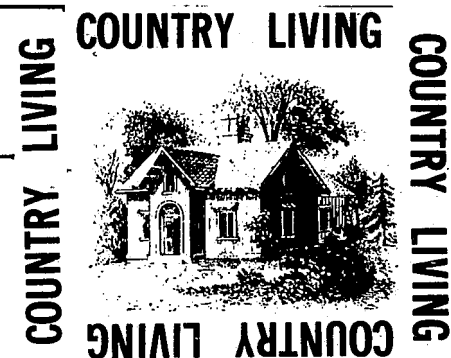

White floor tile and a light paneled ceiling with accompanying coopertone appliance and gold - veined white Formica countertops over the U-shaped storage area make the kitchen a bright place to work.

"This house is set up perfectly for our family," Jayne says. "One wing is decorated in pink and red, very feminine. It even has a pink bath.

"The boys' room is done in blues, and I wish I could say I had done the decorating, but again, the lady that lived here before was a wonder. This house is really geared for children."

The walkout basement "dormitory" recreation room is paneled with candy strip carpeting. Featuring a bookcase holding more than 2,000 books, a pool table, a ping pong table, bar bells and fishing gear, it still has lots of room for a play area.

Two other bedrooms and a bath lead off the recreation room.

The nearby fishing and the 37 wild geese which feed in the Williams' backyard create an ever-changing natural panorama.

COUNTRY LIVING

An old chest, when first opened by the Williams, was found to contain three white baby dresses, wrapped in Civil War newspapers. All three are handmade, sewn with delicate stitches so small and uniform they look machine stitched. The Williams' daughter, Jayne and her son, Wesley, who wore one of the dresses for his own christening, display them proudly.

The gracious country life combined with metropolitan convenience. Two and three bedroom Country Homes priced from $30,900. Including such standard features as: two-car attached garages, full basements, deluxe kitchens with dishwashers, carpeting, central air conditioning, swimming pool, tennis courts and much, much more.

Land and people

Freedom to choose

by Dr. Roger Marz

Suburbs creep ever outward, and land use and land planning has become an increasingly important part of government responsibility, as efforts are made to preserve for future generations some of the natural inheritance of our own.

Dr. Roger Marz, professor of political science at Oakland University and chairman of the Oakland County Planning Commission, has agreed to put into a column his views of the land saving process.

He says his thoughts are his personally and do not represent the views either of Oakland University or the Oakland County Planning Commission. The editor.

The way the land around us is used is the single most important factor in the kind of life we live. As patterns of land use change, the kinds of life styles available to us expand and contract.

Consider a family consisting of a husband, wife and two or three school-age children. First, if they want a reasonable amount of living space they will almost certainly have to live in a single-family home on its own lot. Since this style of housing consumes a lot of land, the people who live in the area will be spread rather thinly. Therefore, the main wage earner in the family will almost certainly commute to work by car.

This commuting will cost him an hour to two a day out of sixteen waking hours. Since everyone else is driving too, a lot of the land will have to be taken up by roads. If a second adult in the family works, and as land prices go up this may be necessary to purchase or maintain the home, a second car is needed. The children will likely go to and from school by bus.

Purchasing the food and clothing takes still more driving time. In later years, the children's social life and opportunities will be geared to the family car or cars as well.

Now this is not a bad life style, if you like it. It does require skill in scheduling vehicle use approximating that of a professional traffic dispatcher as the children approach teen years, but some people thrive on it. The point is that regardless of income level, unless you are either super-rich or destitute, you don't have much choice. As suburbs spread across the land, absorbing small towns while central cities decay, it is the life more and more of us must lead.

We are losing the freedom to choose.

We ordinarily assume that the more prosperous we are the wider range of choice we will have. This is true for the individual in so far as food and clothing and consumer goods are concerned, but it is not true for us collectively, because of the pattern of land use into which we have fallen. The range of choice in basic living arrangements is far narrower now than it was fifty years ago, although our society is much richer. Fifty years hence it will be narrower still unless we begin to do something about it.

Most people are not used to thinking about their lives in this way. But, until more of us appreciate now how our range of choice is narrowed by how the land is subdivided and provided with services (because these things in turn control our choices of where we work and how we live) we are in trouble. Until more of us know about these things and care, we will have fewer and fewer choices despite being more and more prosperous.

This column is about people and land use. It is not meant to cram any particular set of tastes down anyone's throat. I have my tastes, but I can't think of anything worse than a society run to suit me. One of the main things to learn is that no simple formula will give you the answers to the problems of land use.

Apartments aren't good or bad. Then roads, gravel roads, shopping centers, saloons, even sanitary fills (a gentle name for dumps) aren't good or bad in themselves. It is where they are put and how they affect adjacent uses and life styles that makes them desirable or not.

I live in Oakland County, Michigan, so a lot of the illustrations will focus on land problems here. We have 900 square miles and just under a million people to care for. We will eventually have more people but we will never have any more land.

But the rest of the country and the rest of the world have the same problems, so some columns will go far afield. I hope you like it.

The Art of Home Decor

by Boris B. Bronson

Wall painting is coming back this time with an additional flare. At one point, in the last third of the 18th century, it was the style of interior decoration to paint one's walls with murals. These paintings often consisted of scenes from nature, although later, geometric designs became the style. Today, you can paint your own things whether it is a scene or a design straight out of modern painting. And when you are tired of it, just paint over it with today's extra-cover paints!

TO THE GAS CUSTOMERS OF CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

NOTICE OF HEARING ON MOTION FOR PARTIAL AND IMMEDIATE GAS RATE RELIEF

On April 18, 1973, Consumers Power Company filed an application with the Michigan Public Service Commission with supporting testimony and exhibits in Case No. U-4331, which requests authority to amend its gas rates so as to increase its gas revenues by approximately $50,400,000 on an annual basis and, at the same time, Consumers Power Company filed a Motion for Partial and Immediate Rate Relief which seeks authority, on an interim basis, to amend its gas rates so as to increase its gas revenues by approximately $33,729,000 on an annual basis. On August 27, 1973, Consumers Power Company also filed a Motion for Partial and Immediate Rate Relief in its pending electric rate proceeding, Case No. U-4332. At the hearing hereinafter noticed, the motion for partial and immediate electric rate relief, Case No. U-4332, will be heard concurrently with the motion for partial and immediate gas rate relief, Case No. U-4331. In its motion, Consumers Power Company has stated that substantial increases in the cost of capital, gas, taxes, wages, equipment, materials and supplies have had a serious adverse impact upon the earnings level of its gas business and that it has not been able to attain the level of earnings in its gas business found to be reasonable in the prior gas rate order of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The Michigan Public Service Commission has scheduled a hearing on the motions for partial and immediate rate relief filed in Case Nos. U-4331 and U-4332 and has ordered that notice be given that:

A. A public hearing on Consumers Power Company's motions for partial and immediate gas and electric rate relief will commence at 9:30 a.m. on October 8, 1973 in the offices of the Commission, Law Building, Lansing, Michigan 48913, and will continue, if necessary, on the succeeding days of the week of October 8 at the same location and at such time as shall be determined by the presiding officer until the matter has been fully heard.

B. The parties who have already intervened in the above-entitled proceedings shall be entitled to participate as parties in the hearing on Consumers Power Company's motions for partial and immediate rate relief. Any additional persons or entities seeking to intervene for the purpose of participating in the hearing on the motions for partial and immediate rate relief shall file with the Commission five (5) days prior to October 8, 1973, an original and eleven copies of the petition to intervene with proof of service upon Consumers Power Company and the other parties to this proceeding. A service list can be obtained from the Secretary of the Commission, Law Building, Lansing, Michigan 48913.

C. The interim rate increases described in this notice have been requested by Consumers Power Company. The Michigan Public Service Commission may either grant or deny the requested increases, or may grant lesser or greater increases than those requested.

Jurisdiction of the Commission in this matter is pursuant to Section 4 of Act 419, PA 1919, as amended (MCLA § 460.54); Sections 4, 6 and 6a of Act 3, PA 1939, as amended (MCLA §§ 460.4, 460.6, 460.6a); and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1954 Administrative Code, as amended, No. 54, R 460.11 et seq.

A summary of the proposed interim rate changes showing the requested increases by classes of service in terms of dollars and percentage is set forth below:

Another day

Clarkston was a mill town

by Connie Lektzian

Saginaw Trail wound a vine-like path northward since the time of the Indians. This road was the reason for many towns springing into being after white men began to settle in Michigan.

Out of necessity, stage coach stops were built along the way. These became taverns that offered not only a change of horses for the coaches, but food and lodging for the passengers. It was a very brave driver that dared such poor roads in the dark.

The little communities that swelled around these taverns during the day of the stage coach shriveled when the railroad came along. Unless a town had something more to offer than a rest stop for tired horses and people, it lost its reason for existing.

Clarkston did serve as a stopover for the stages in the early days not because it was, but because it wasn't, built directly next to the Saginaw Trail. That stretch of the road that reached from what is now M-15 to White Lake Road was mired out of sight during heavy rains. Travelers were often forced to turn off toward Clarkston and detour up Cemetery Road to get back on the trail. On their way, they often stopped overnight, or at least for a meal and a rest, in the village.

But Clarkston's early survival was not due to the stage coach lines. Very early, mills were built in the village. These mills brought the settlers struggling out of the woods and the plains with their corn to be made into grist, their wheat to be turned into flour - and very importantly, their logs to be sawn into boards.

Butler Holcomb, who had been here since 1831, built the first mill two years later. Shrewd and energetic, he first saw the potential of water power. His mill was built on the east branch of the Clinton river. Butler dug, or had dug, a ditch nearly a half mile long to bring the water to the mill. Roswell Holcomb, his brother, was the sawyer.

The settler's wife could pound the corn to a coarse meal to make johnnycake or corn bread but her husband must have lumber for the barns. So most often the saw mills came before the grist and flour mills.

In 1838, Butler sold his mill - and all milling privileges at this point to Jeremiah and Nelson Clark. They built a dam 200 feet long near the mill enabling them to get a water fall of 22 feet. They sawed enough lumber to build a grist mill, completed in 1839.

The Clarks did things in an expansive manner. The new mill was 40 by 50 feet in size, two stories high with a deep basement and two run of stones. A few years later, a third run of stone gave the mill a capacity of 350 bushels every ten hours.

Nelson and Jeremiah were good businessmen but not millers. They hired that work done and found the best miller available. His name was Thomas Farmer and for as long as he stayed in Clarkston, the mill had a reputation for turning out the best and finest flour for many miles around.

Later the building was further enlarged and plaster mills were built in connection with the grist mill.

Judge Melville Dorr built a second sawmill in 1834. This was on the north west quarter of section 19, north of Deer Lake. Moses Garter and his son later bought this and it was in operation at least through 1877. Near the outlet of Crooked Lake, Jeremiah Clark put up a third sawmill. It was abandoned shortly afterwards for lack of power.

Carding mills were built that were powered by water carried in an underground truck from Park's Lake. At one point, woolen goods were manufactured here, but apparently not for very long. There is a record that a foundry was also operated in connection with the carding mills.

Eventually, the necessity for the flour mill began to die. Farms dwindled. Store bought bread became cheap and plentiful. Somewhere in the move toward a life that was less back breaking, people lost pride in a living, that from scratch to finish, was the work of their own hands.

On January 23, 1917, the Pontiac Gazette carried a small item about Clarkston. The flour mill was being torn down by "some Detroit men". The best of the lumber was shipped off to Detroit, the worst of it sawed up for stove wood. John King obtained a section of the old mill, a slab of wood twenty feet long and an inch thick. It was in sound condition and part of it was used to make the King's a new rowboat - lumber that had been turned out on Butler Holcomb's old mill in 1838. On that day, a special era came to an end in Clarkston.

Home tour- modern to vintage decor

Clarkston Community Women's Club will conduct its annual Home Tour Sunday, October 7, from 1 to 5 p.m. beginning at Independence center, 5331 Maybee Road.

Four different area homes will be featured. The California contemporary home, designed by and built for Jack and Andy Hardy, has many windows and glass doors, easy care paneling, a glazed brick floor, and open closets and cabinets throughout to reflect spaciousness of design.

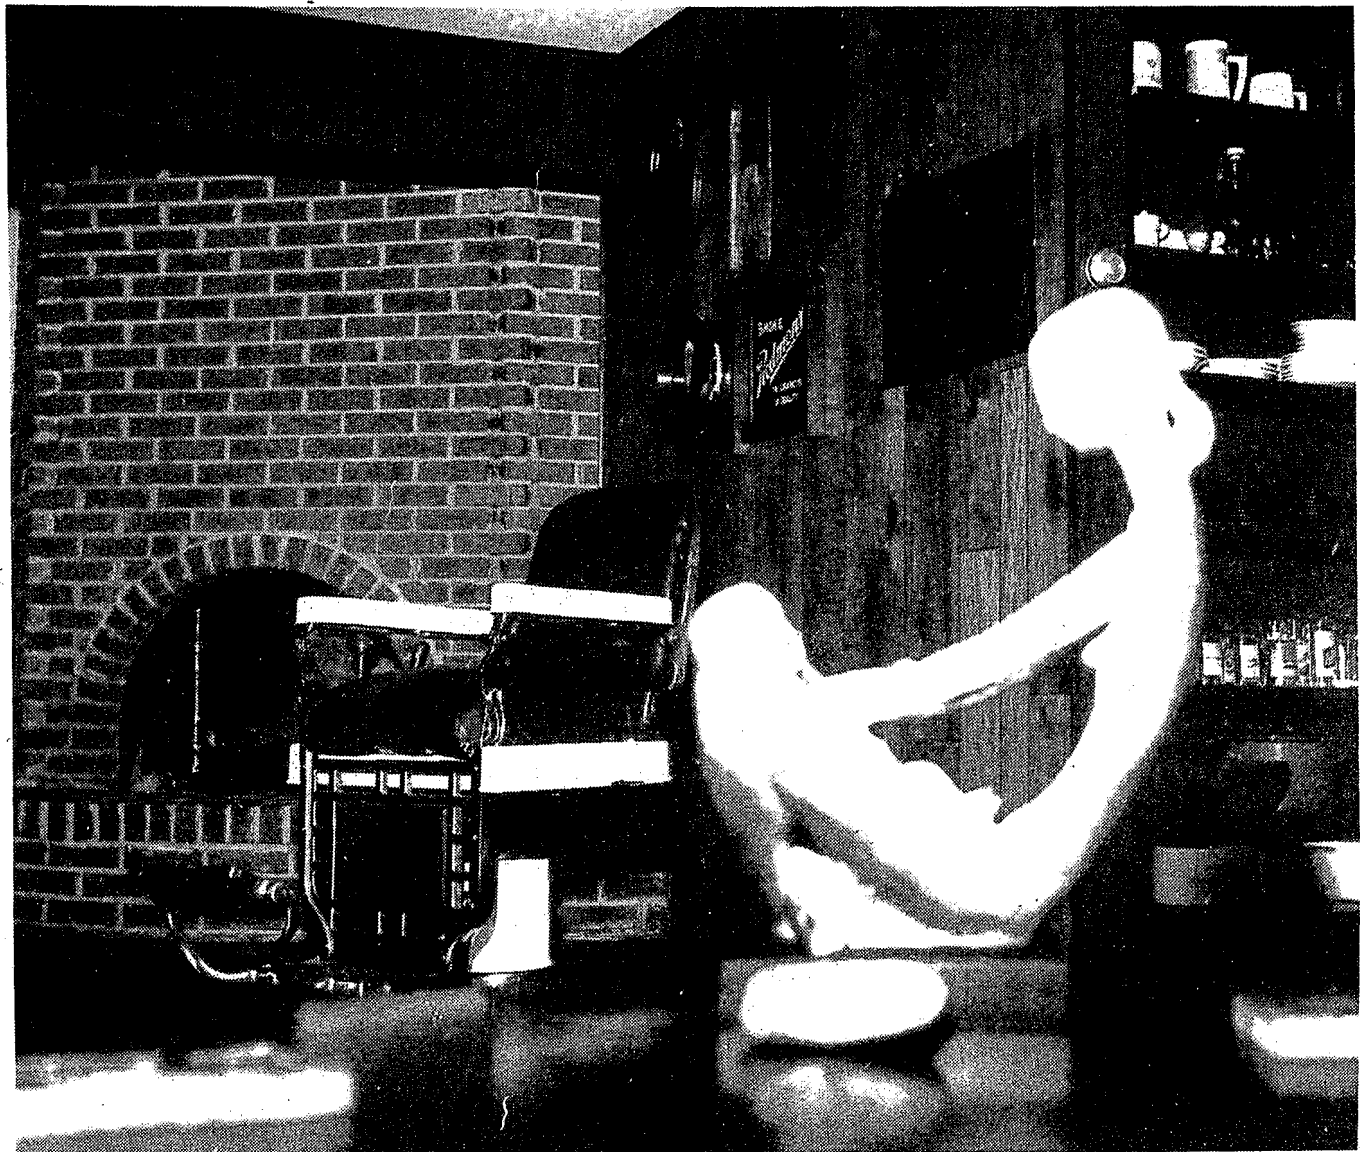

The Victorian style home of Brian and Nancy Prucher, built in 1886, features a Waterford crystal chandelier in the dining room, has a unique sun room with lattice trim and arched ceiling, and original stained glass curio cabinets from a turn-of-the-century ice cream parlor.

A combination of elegant furnishing, vibrant colors and modern features are incorporated in Leon and Barbara Blachura's one-year-old home. Especially attractive is the formal dining room, decorated in bright yellow. The downstairs recreation room, complete with a play area, a bar and comfortable conversation area is spacious and inviting.

James and Marilyn Weber have only been in their 52-year-old, two-story home for a year, yet they have done much to redecorate and furnish it to their liking. Reflections of the past catch the eye in the living and dining room, with a vintage wooden ice box, an oak glass-doored bookcase, and a 100-year-old burl walnut ship captain's desk.

Tickets are $2 and are available at the Clarkston News, Independence Township Library, from Clarkston Women's Club members, and at the door. Proceeds will be given to local charitable organizations.

A boutique and gift shop at the center from 1 - 5 p.m. will feature hand made items.

Tasula aims for psychology

From the second largest city in Greece -- Thessalonika -- comes Tasula Pavildov, 17, a senior this year at Clarkston High School.

A guest of Howard and Carole Webster, 6508 Placid Court, Tasula brings an attractive, if shy, smile and a pleasantly accented manner of speaking.

She's also brought Howard, a special education teacher at the high school, Greece's equivalent of worry beads -- large wooden spools strung on silken cord which she says old men manipulate as they sit and talk in the Greek sunshine.

Daughter of a taxicab owner and driver in Thessalonika, Tasula has until now attended an all-girl Greek Orthodox School. From a 14-subject load which consisted of the study of modern Greece, ancient Greece, its history, anthropology, physics, chemistry, biology, mathematics, psychology, geography, French, Latin, religion and gym, she has dropped to the required six subjects here and finds the transition unusual. For one thing, there were 70 to 80 students in each of her classes in Greece, she says.

Her city living -- life in an apartment with her parents and two sisters -- afforded no view of the green grass and softly whispering trees contained in the Webster's backyard. Nor were there many dogs in Greece, she relates. Dogs were expensive to own, and there was no place to keep them, she recounts.

She did like the even temperatures of Greece. For about one month of the year the temperatures get as low as 50, she reports.

She finds the people friendly in Clarkston, she says shyly. Her experience with people of another country may help her with the career in psychology she anticipates.

Tasula Pavildov introduces her host, Howard Webster to the intricacies of Greek worry beads

Meanwhile she helps her host one hour a day in special education, noting that in Greece there are no classes for such students. "They're just left home," she says.

Tasula's English, derived from special tutoring at home, is still halting, and the Websters speak no Greek.

They're communicating, however. The smiles on both sides help a lot.

"Springing up"

On the fritz

by Betty Hecker
625-5726

The next episode in the life of Fritz, Hecker's German short-hair hound, is another sad one. Fritz was in the road, running with the boys who were riding their bikes, when a car came along and couldn't miss him.

Fritz, that contraption on your back leg is a splint!

The Independence Township Firemen held a potluck picnic Sunday, September 23 at Fire Station No. 320, at Clarkston-Orion and Sashabaw roads. Most of the firemen and their families were able to attend.

The children were entertained with games, balloon blowing contests, penny scrambles, and ball throwing contests. The picnic was interrupted once, as all the dads were summoned to answer a fire call.

Jack Hess reported that his day was great -- because, "Jack Beach and Neil Sage managed to lose two out of three games of euchre to Bud Keyser and Jack Hess."

Bobby and Larry Emery of Villa Crest in Springfield Township were admitted to St. Joseph Hospital last Thursday to have their tonsils removed. Their Dad reported that it was so quiet at home with the two boys gone, "you could hear a pin drop."

Bobby and Larry will be going back to Andersonville School as soon as the soreness abides enough to allow the boys to eat solid food again.

Maude Davison of Eastlawn underwent surgery at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital last Friday. "She is coming along fine," reports her daughter.

Norma O'Roark.

Friends will be able to visit Maude at Norma's home after her release from the hospital.

Cheryl Adkins of Hillsboro Road also had a recent stay at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital. On Saturday, September 15, was admitted and after undergoing many tests for several days, was operated on and her appendix removed.

Cheryl is home and recuperating quickly.

Airman 1/c David Kirby has been transferred to Humosa, Spain, where as a power plant specialist, he will be working at a United States Radar Station.

Since he will be stationed there for two years, his wife, Brenda and two-month-old son, David, will be leaving Clarkston on Thursday to join him.

They will be living about 15 miles outside Madrid.

David is the son of William and Stella Kerby of Clarkston Road.

A sign in the window at 53 East Church has proclaimed the advent of Jason Neal September 24, first child of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Granlund. Weighing 7 pounds, 6 ounces, he made an unexpectedly fast debut, according to his father. The parents arrived at the hospital at 6:10 and Jason was present and accounted for by 6:19 p.m.

His arrival makes the unofficial score 10-1, says Neal. Since Sashabaw Junior High School opened, there have been about 10 boys born to staff there and only one girl. Neal is also a village councilman.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Turk of Davisburg spent a weekend with their son and new daughter-in-law, Cpl. and Mrs. Christopher J. Turk, in Quantico, Va.

The newlyweds were married Sept. 14 in Fairfax, Va. The bride, the former Lynne Ayamae Fujioka, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Massoa Fujioka of Kaneohe, Hawaii. The couple will make their home in Quantico while Christopher finishes the last year of a four-year enlistment in the Marine Corps.

Mrs. Frank Lambert has announced the graduation of her daughter, Ann Lookadoo from Eastern Michigan University. Ann has received a Bachelor of Science degree in physiology.

Pastor Bob Walters

Spiritual Message

Yesterday (September 23) I took in Sunday afternoon Little League football at the Clarkston High School field. My sons, 5 and 9, wanted to see some of their friends play. We saw the last of the "freshman" game.

The kids on both the Clarkston and Troy teams played well and seemed well coached in my layman's eyes. The officiating was concerned with sportsmanship as well as the formal rules. Aside from a few comments like, "Get one of them—they got us the last four times," the stands were admirably filled with sensibly cheering parents, friends, brothers and sisters.

As I was about to leave, I met Pastor Chuck Kosberg and we soon were trying to put this whole thing into perspective as we talked. Not for anyone else, but for ourselves.

So I've mulled it over since then. Here are large numbers of people, from age 5 to whatever the upper limit is, spending a great amount of time on football. Physical fitness, teamwork, and sportsmanship are stressed. Also, aggressiveness, and strong competition are encouraged.

The former traits are commendable. The latter can be good or bad, depending upon the framework in which they are placed. I pray that the welfare of the persons involved is always placed higher than winning. I pray that kindness and gentleness (as when Jesus welcomed the little children to him) are seen as manly too. I pray that competing at being helpful remains as worthwhile as being "up" to beat the next opponent.

The ultimate goal of Little League football could be playing for the Detroit Lions. And that would end at age 35-40 or so. (Unless your name is George Blanda.)

I pray parents and youngsters will put as much time, energy, and effort into their relationship with God as they do with a football.

Maybe more.

THAT never ends.

The questions people ask about . . .

NO FAULT

COSTS

QUESTION: This all sounds pretty good -- but won't it cost me more?

ANSWER: Many people will pay less, some will pay more. The new no-fault system will save much of the money that now goes for lawyer's expenses, duplication of other insurance programs and so-called "pain and suffering". This saving is being used to provide more adequate benefits to more people for medical bills and lost wages.

Whether you will pay more or less than you do now will depend on how much insurance you have now, the make and model of your car, your income level and number of dependents, where you live, the deductibles you select, and last, but not least, which insurance company you have. The price of auto insurance varies substantially from one insurance company to another. No insurance company will know for sure what the new system will cost until several years after it goes into effect. So in the meantime each insurance company will have to base its prices on its own estimates of what the new system will cost. Which means that it will pay to shop around.

By Mike Jewell
Mike Crosby set a new school cross country record for Clarkston's course as he finished first with a 16:55 timing, breaking the old record set by Thor Olafson by two seconds. Jerry Adams finished second in that meet and, in fact, Clarkston runners swept the top ten places of the meet as they skunked Waterford Township 15-50.

Clarkston started off league play with a 45-15 loss to West Bloomfield. It was a strong Bloomfield effort leaving Clarkston 0-1 in league play, 3-3 overall.
One of the better runners on the team, George Bellairs, told me that he predicts Clarkston to finish at 10-3 and go undefeated the rest of the season.

It's cider and doughnut time

Tangy cider and hot, fried doughnuts will draw thousands of Southeast Michigan residents into the countryside this fall to favorite cider mills, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Visiting a cider mill and watching giant presses squeeze tons of red, ripe apples into pure, sparkling juice has become an annual outing for many families," states Joseph Ratke, auto Club touring manager.

To guide motorists to some of the local cider mills, the accompanying map gives the locations of 18 operations where pressing can be observed.

"Each cider mill has its own personality," Ratke states. "Presses range from the vintage, gear-driven to the modern hydraulic type, and operations vary in scope from large enterprises to family operations."

Visitors to mills can either purchase cider by the glass or bottle. Freshly fried doughnuts are also available either singly or by the dozen.

Peak crowds will visit cider mills over weekends until the weather turns cold. Auto Club points out that the best way to avoid long lines that form Saturdays and Sundays at some operations is to visit cider mills on weekdays.

"A visit to a cider mill does not have to be taken only in the fall, although this is the preferred season," states Ratke. "Many operators stay open during the winter, some into the spring until stored apple supplies are exhausted."

Persons who wish to watch the pressing process are advised to check by telephone before leaving home. Although most cider mills are open seven days a week, pressing operations are often on an irregular schedule, dictated by the availability of apples and the demand for cider.

Persons who want to be sure of the cost for cider or doughnuts also should check in advance since prices are subject to change.

Is cityhood the only answer?

Township management under debate

By Pat Braunagel

The diagnosis is simple: Independence Township government is suffering from growing pains.

The cure is not so obvious, with township officials recommending diverse prescriptions.

Eventually, some of the township's cumbersomeness will be cleared by incorporation as a city, both Supervisor Robert Vandermark and Clerk J. Edwin Glennie agree—but they have different opinions as to what to do in the meantime.

When it comes to cityhood for the township, Treasurer Betty Hallman has "no comment."

"I think the people of this township should realize that some day this township will incorporate," Glennie said, although neither he nor Vandermark would estimate when incorporation might be necessary.

"Currently and for the near future I don't see any reason why the present system cannot work well and serve the township well," Vandermark said. "There are townships in Oakland County considerably more populous than ours that function very well administratively, which indicates to me that incorporation is a ways down the road."

Meanwhile, there are organizational problems which need to be solved.

"We've got to face the fact that we're all elected," Glennie said at the last township board meeting. "And we are not elected because we're qualified management persons."

Vandermark, on the other hand, said the three fulltime administrators and two trustees are qualified enough to make their own staff analysis.

"I think we can do it," he said. "It looks challenging to me."

"I don't have the time," Glennie countered. "You don't. Betty doesn't. And I've got problems I don't see answers to."

Glennie favors getting some outside experts to analyze the day-to-day operations at the township hall and to make some recommendations on improving them.

However, he joined other board members in balking at the idea of hiring Corporate Planning Inc. of Birmingham to do the job, as suggested by township engineers at Johnson and Anderson Inc. The management consulting firm has estimated the cost of their analysis at $4,800 to $7,200.

Trustees Jerry Powell and Keith Humbert suggested the Michigan Townships Association be contacted for possible guidelines. Officials also plan to check with highly developed townships in Oakland County that seem to be operating efficiently—Bloomfield and West Bloomfield.

"The current township board is capable of coming up with an efficient management structure, with advice from other communities and from our existing consultants," Vandermark said in an interview after the meeting.

Glennie shook his head.

Mrs. Hallman agreed the township needs help, but said she thinks the problem can be handled internally.

All three support Glennie's statement that "probably no community at this point in its development was any different than we are."

With a population approaching 20,000, Independence Township finds itself with a governing unit which employs about twice as many people as it did four years ago.

The township hierarchy is one area that could use some clarification.

"We're like a company with three presidents," Glennie said, noting that the township board arrangement amounts to "management by committee."

He maintains that the three fulltime administrators have equal authority—the supervisor being in charge of assessing and law enforcement, the clerk responsible for elections and record keeping, and the treasurer handling revenues.

Vandermark, while noting he is not Glennie's, not Mrs. Hallman's boss, said he is the head administrator and chief spokesman for the township.

Michigan law describes the supervisor as the titular head of the township—"whatever that may mean," Vandermark said.

"Independence Township in the past, by convention, operated with the clerk doing an awful lot of the administrative function of the supervisor," he said.

"Now we have a supervisor who is interested in being the administrative official of the township, a clerk who wants to handle the clerk's job and a treasurer who wants to be treasurer," he added. "A lot of our older employees are not used to this."

Glennie said township employees frequently are "confused about where to get answers."

When there were fewer employees, he noted, "everyone looked out for himself."

"Every time you have two or more employees in the same area, one has to have relative authority over the other," he said.

Johnson and Anderson has identified 13 functional areas "that report directly to the township board as administrative head."

The lack of management hierarchy can be alleviated in a city in which elected officials are policy makers and a city manager is responsible for the day-to-day management of the unit.

By law, the five-member township board serves as both a policy making and administrative body.

"Township government is similar to a city whose charter—which lays down the structure of government—has been written by the state legislature over a period of more than a century," Vandermark said.

"Because of this, there are many conflicts and inconsistencies regarding the proper structure and duties that township officials should function under."

"Most townships that currently operate efficiently under this set-up have worked out gentlemen's agreements among themselves whereby they have a titular head and the kind of management structure that is proper for modern operations."

"The amount of sophistication that individual units have achieved across the state in practice depends on the population and complexity of the problems that are faced by the individual township. It is precisely these kinds of problems that ultimately cause townships to incorporate, write city charters and form cities."

"The ability of township officials to cope with management problems and work out the kinds of relationships among themselves that are necessary for a smooth operation can go a long way towards staving off the day when a township must incorporate under a charter of its own."

Vandermark said he has talked to state legislators about the "bad situation" created about the many conflicts in the state law.

Perhaps the answer for Independence Township lies not in cityhood but in some yet-to-be-devised form of township government, Glennie noted.

He described as "chaos" the present situation among township employees who are in need of a management manual.

One effort to work out township personnel problems has been the institution of monthly meetings of department heads, initiated about four months ago.

Perhaps this is one of the means by which management problems can be worked out internally.

However, Glennie remains dubious that the situation can be improved without outside help.

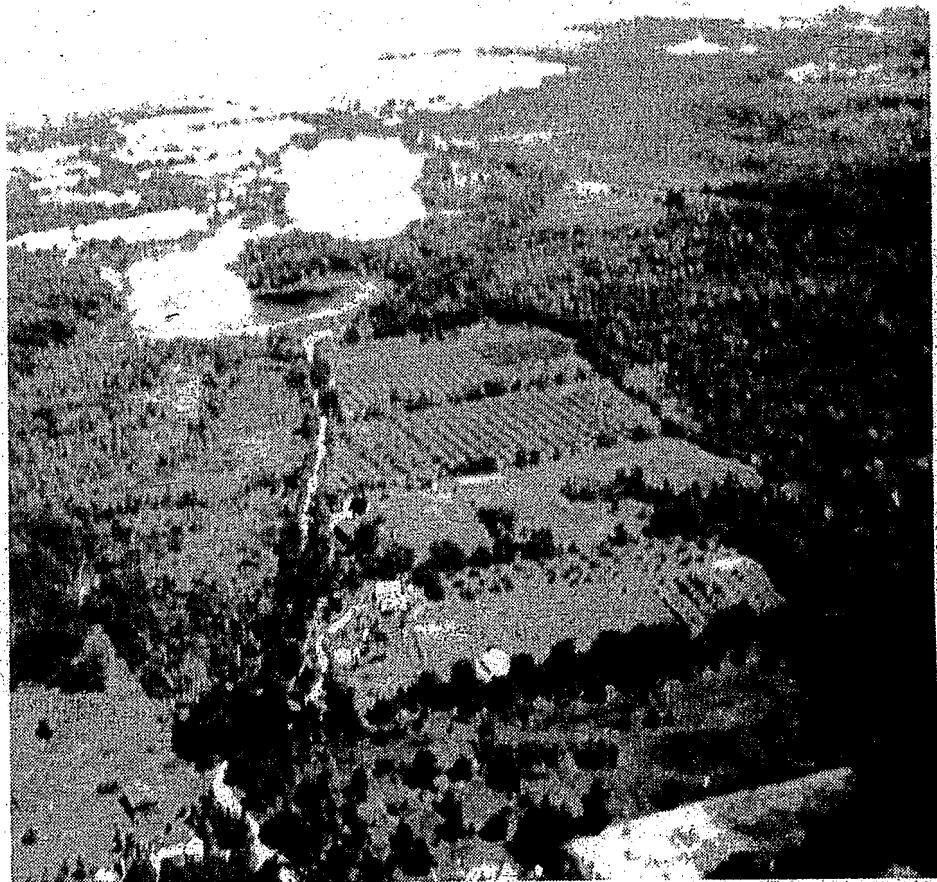

"I'm less patient," he said.

"I'm an optimist," Vandermark said. "If it takes 90 hours a week to work it out, I'll take 90 hours a week."

Private roads public to some extent

To what extent is a private road public?

Under Independence Township's new motorcycle ordinance, private roads and "areas like the A & P parking lot" are considered public, according to Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

The ordinance adopted Sept. 18 prohibits persons from riding vehicles of up to three wheels on private property without the written permission of the property owner on their person.

Conviction of the offense carries a fine of up to $500 and/or 90 days in jail.

"Litter has been a real problem on the large private parcels used by motorcyclists," Vandermark noted.

"Under law the property owners are responsible for the litter. With this ordinance they can control who's on their property."

The supervisor noted the new ordinance "is sound and will solve about 90 percent of our problems."

The ordinance provides motorcycles officially can use private roads, but other "public" restrictions are being considered, Vandermark said.

"We're going to be drafting a general traffic ordinance soon, and I think it should apply to private roads as well as public roads," he reported.

"Theoretically, you could do 90 miles per hour on a private road now and a deputy couldn't stop you."

To buy communications sets

Some $20,000 in communications equipment—half of it for expansion and the other half for replacement—is going to be purchased by Independence Township.

The building department and water and sewer department will initiate an RCA communications system, with a base set and five mobile units in the building department and four mobile units in the water and sewer department. Cost of these will total $8,811.

Some $4,405 will be spent to replace the remote unit at the Sashabaw-Clarkston Road fire station with a permanent Motorola base and mobile units.

A $6,881.50 contract has been awarded to Peter F. Payette of Grosse Ile to provide new home monitors for the volunteer firemen.

While the equipment for the three departments is being purchased from different firms, it is coordinated so that all units could be operated together in the event of an emergency. Heads of the department involved conferred on the purchases before they were authorized by the township board.

ACCOUNTANTS' REPORT

The Board of Education
Clarkston Community Schools
Clarkston, Michigan

We have examined the balance sheets of the General Fund, Debt Retirement Fund, and the Building and Site Fund of CLARKSTON COMMUNITY SCHOOLS and the Northwest Oakland County Vocational Center, as of June 30, 1973, and the related statements of revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The statements have been prepared, as in prior years, on the "modified accrual basis of accounting". Under this method, generally, revenues are recognized at the time they become receivable and expenditures are recognized when incurred. An exception to this rule is the purchase of transportation equipment, the cost of which is not recognized as an expenditure until payment is made; when transportation equipment is acquired on contract, only the current payments are recognized as expenditures during the year. Also, on the modified accrual basis, inventories on hand at June 30, and the related accounts payable for supplies applicable to the following year are not reflected in the balance sheet.

Our examination did not extend to the child accounting records of the school system. However, State school aid payments which are based on such records were confirmed by us directly with the State authorities. We also inspected a letter from the County superintendent of schools which stated that the child accounting records had been audited during the period and found to be correct and to comply with the laws of the State of Michigan.

In our opinion, the accompanying balance sheets and statements of revenues and expenditures present fairly the financial position of Clarkston Community Schools at June 30, 1973 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with accounting practices generally followed by Michigan school districts as set forth in Bulletin 1022 issued by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Improved school safety studied by committee

Steps to solve traffic problems generated by Clarkston High School may culminate in the opening of another access -- possibly toward Maybee Road -- from the school property.

The problem of traffic and the safety hazard to young kindergartners who walk unattended along Middle Lake Road were discussed Thursday night by a township-sponsored safety committee comprised of Trustee Jerry Powell, Jan Weber, Principal Bill Dennis, Cliff Irwin and Bob Osgood of the Oakland County Road Commission.

Under immediate consideration is the use of radar cars to check the speed of traffic entering and leaving the school grounds. Mrs. Weber who lives on Middle Lake Road contends that cars approach 50 and 60 miles per hour on the unpaved and pitted subdivision street.

Also due for study is the blocking of the Middle Lake exit from the school parking lot during the noon hours to prevent student car traffic from conflicting with kindergarten pedestrian traffic.

Future possibilities under consideration include another access which would allow east and south bound traffic to depart towards Maybee Road and eliminate much of the left hand turn traffic on M-15 from Middle Lake Road.

The paving of Middle Lake Road was discussed. Supervisor Robert Vandermark contending that costs should be assessed according to benefit and that the school should bear the major portion of the cost.

Improvement of the Waldon Road access was also discussed.

Dennis reported sophomores were not permitted to drive to school, and that 250 parking stickers had been issued to eligible students. He said, "The parking lot is now too small for the amount of students who drive."

He said a new bus traffic pattern for the junior high school is under consideration, the idea being to route buses along the privately owned Roselawn behind the school to prevent conflict with pedestrian traffic and to ease the traffic tie-up which occurs at Waldon in front of the school.

Recent school injuries involved buses, plus the increased traffic around the schools and the need to divert some of that traffic from Clarkston Estates No. 1 west of the high school were cited as reasons for undertaking the study of new traffic patterns.

Collector goes for "strings attached"

By Betty Hecker

Maud Morley of Reese Road has 240 candles in search of a candle club.

An avid collector, she's quizzed candle shop owners all across the United States about the possibility of organizations for people like herself.

Maud was turned on to collecting several years ago when her daughter, Beverly, gave her a couple candles that she says "were too pretty to burn."

"It wasn't long before I had enough candles to fill a little china cabinet," she remembers. Shelves in the family room, shelves in the recreation room, and shelves in the dining room followed.

"My husband says I'll buy anything if it has a string attached to it," she grins.

The unusual and different appeal to Maud. She says, "Sometimes I like the novelty and forget the quality."

Her favorites are a pair made from good quality beeswax hand-carved and hand-painted into the shape of an old man and woman. "They are a work of art, they were never meant to be burned," she says.

A whipped wax pair purchased on a trip to Maine depict a lobster fisherman and his shanty.

Another, which Maud thinks might be a green tree, was purchased on a trip to San Francisco, which she calls the "candle capital of the world."

When the many-branched affair was boxed, she remembers it was too large for her suitcase, so she decided to keep it with her on the plane during her flight home.

Things got a bit sticky, she recalls, when the stewardess told her she couldn't hold it on her lap, and she learned it was also too big to fit under the seat. By that time it was also too late to have it shipped back to the baggage department.

The solution arrived when the box was securely strapped into a first class seat, while Maud flew home in her seat in the second class section, she remembers.

Other memory pieces include the baseball purchased in 1967 in St. Louis, the day the Detroit Tigers won the pennant; and the moon-candle with its astronaut purchased in Florida on December 7, the day of the landing by the Apollo 17 crew.

There's also a blue twisted candle that burns from both ends, a seven-pound orange mushroom, a whale from Disneyworld, a grasshopper from Mackinaw Island, a black poodle, cheese with mice, Venus de Milo, a Swazi Warrior, and many novelty shelves.

It's quite a collection, and somewhere Maud thinks there are others. She'd like to meet their owners.

Maud Morley displays the candle she thinks might be a tree.

Places to go, things to do

Family and Children Services of Oakland will offer a six-week course for volunteers beginning at 9:15 a.m. October 4. Special emphasis will be placed on work with the elderly and unwed mothers. Sessions will take place at the South Oakland office, 2351 West 12 Mile Road, Berkley, and at the Pontiac Office at 50 Wayne Street. Those interested in attending can call Peggy Frank or Clair Voetberg at 548-8411.

Oakland University orchestra has vacancies in its string and brass sections and will accept qualified area musicians, conductor David Daniels has announced. The orchestra especially needs double basses and French horns, but additional players can be accepted in all string sections, the percussion sections, and some woodwind sections, Daniels said. Interested people should call him at 377-2030.

Street vacation opens council debate

There's still some legal checking to be done, but it appears that Village Clerk Bruce Rogers may have picked up an additional 49 feet of frontage on Parke Lake.

Rogers, who lives at 29 East Washington, owns property that abuts the vacated northerly end of Buffalo Street.

Whether the street was legally vacated is currently questioned, but Rogers said the property description had been added to his tax billing since 1971.

Village Attorney Ed Sosnick reported the council by resolution in 1968 vacated the street, but failed to record the vacation until after the 30-day deadline had elapsed. It was recorded, however, in 1969, he said, and his perusal of the law led him to believe, he said, that it became official at that time.

Subsequent action by the council in 1971 to reopen the street was therefore invalid, he reported.

Since the Rogers property is the end lot in the subdivision, it falls, Sosnick says, that the property would revert to him.

Rogers purchased the land in 1971 from former Clarkston Councilman Don Cooper.

Mrs. Ruth Basinger, opposed to the street vacation, asked what the village would get in return for the property.

New Councilman Keith Hallman recalled that at the time of the vacation, lakefront owners had wanted to keep the lake private with no public access.

These two photographs by Alice L. Sayles, owner of Sayles Studio, 4431 Dixie Highway, were selected for display at the 82nd Annual Exhibition of Professional Photography in Chicago. They are among 793 prints out of 4,000 chosen for the show.
