

Rowing down the roadway of Dvorak was good for a gag to relieve some of the tension caused by flooding in Goodrich Farms Subdivision last week. With the water level down this week, more conventional means of transportation were possible in the Dvorak-Columbia area.

Goodrich Farms flood subsides

The rains stopped and the waters receded in Goodrich Farms Subdivision in time for Easter vacation.

Who was responsible for the flood at the western end of the subdivision?

"God," answered Independence Township Public Works Director George Anderson. "He made all the rain."

Clean-up meeting is April 22

Citizens interested in a volunteer effort to clean up litter from the roadsides in Independence Township have been invited to an organizational meeting at 8 p.m. April 22 at independence center on Maybee Road.

The cleanup day is planned to coincide with the two township cleanup days during which citizens will be accorded free dumping privileges at Ben Powell Land Disposal on Clarkston Road.

Mrs. Carolyn Place of Bottles for Building reports Powell has agreed to provide free trash bags to volunteers.

"You can't fix responsibility on anyone in this particular case. We had a lot of rain and it overflowed the swamp."

The swamp normally covers a couple of lots on the west side of Dvorak at the end of Columbia Street. However, recent rains sent waves of water over the adjacent streets, leaving the bottoms of ditches out of sight under up to five feet of water.

At places on the streets, the water was two feet deep, according to residents.

Not only were they concerned about transportation and the safety of youngsters because of the water--they also were worried about the snakes and muskrats that ventured onto their lawns as the swamp waters rose.

Fortunately, no child was bitten during the flood, according to Mrs. Brenda Green of 5430 Columbia. She and neighbors sought help from township officials.

"We contacted all of the county agencies that might be involved," Anderson said.

"The road commission put out stakes so that people wouldn't run into ditches," he said. "Other than that, there was nothing anyone could do."

Sheriff's phone

On April 1, the Sheriff's Department changed their telephones to the new Bell Telephone Centrex System. All department numbers have been changed, and are listed in the new telephone directory.

The new number for police emergencies is 858-4911.

The main number for calling the department is 858-4950.

Residents living in the north-west of the county may call the Groveland Sub-Station at 634-4495 or 625-2902.

Growing pains? Cure them at garden clinic

Soil problems or leaf disease affecting your garden? Dave Coulter, Clarkston News garden columnist, has the answer.

In cooperation with Tom Ritter of Ritter's Farm Market, 6684 Dixie Highway, he'll be repeating The Clarkston News Garden Clinic of last year on two Saturdays in May.

Scheduled for May 8 and May 14, the clinic will provide free advice to growers troubled about what to plant, when to plant and how to care for it.

Coulter is a 40-year employe of Ferry Morris Seed Co., traveling all over the United States on trouble shooting sessions and up-to-date on new product information.

Ritter, a landscape architect, is knowledgeable in the use of ornamental horticulture, insecticides and planting information.

Together they plan to be able to answer any questions local gardeners might have.

"Not all rock"

Promoters spell out park program

by JEAN SAILE

No steady diet of hard rock is planned this summer at Springfield-Oaks Park near Davisburg, according to Joe Golden and George Goulson of Golden Goose Production.

They with Sunrise Productions of Detroit have scheduled the James Gang with Guitarist Roy Buchanan, Spirit, and a new group from England called Gentle Giant for the May 26 Memorial Day event at the park. A local group will also be featured.

The event was recently quoted in The Detroit News as the kick-off for a series of hard rock concerts at the county-owned park, and local officials were quick to express objections.

Golden, an attorney, claims that while hard rock is intended as an important part of the fare, there will be various other concerts appealing to different people offered -- perhaps on a one-a-week basis -- if the promoters can get problems worked out with the county.

"We have a one-year contract with the county," Golden says, but he adds that the concerts will have to be scheduled around other activities at the park.

"We're meeting this week with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department traffic division to work out logistics for road patrol, and there was to be a meeting this week with the county park commission to see about fencing which we understand has been planned at the park for some time," he said.

The entrepreneurs also plan a country western concert at the park for June 16, but a recent production featuring Hank Williams pointed out to them that the auto lay-offs have affected country western turnouts. "There may be some changes," Goulson said.

A July 4 concert has not yet been booked, and the two say they also have options on other dates during the summer, but whether they will be presenting concerts on those dates is up to the county parks commission and the control at the first concert, they admit.

"Groups like the Ann Arbor Blues and Jazz Festival are hunting for indoor quarters this summer. We're thinking in terms of several middle of the road acts, and even considering 'Jacques Brel is Alive and Well in Paris' which was offered as dinner theater by Mercy College," Golden said.

The two say their arrangement with the county parks commission provides that they meet all expenses and the county gets a percentage of the profits.

The large Youth Activities Building and the outdoor arena near it on Andersonville Rd. have not paid their own way since the county opened them two years ago, county officials admit.

"Hard rock is a big part of the music scene and Detroit is one of the most sophisticated music markets in the country. Groups want to play here. If they make it here, they'll make it all over the country," says Golden.

"It's not our intention to get in and get out quick. We want this to be an on-going thing," says Goulson who has been involved in show production in the area since 1966. Some of their concerts have included Doc Severance and Ferrente and Teicher, they report.

"We know we won't have all the kinks worked out after the first show," Golden admits. "But we're trying to learn from some of the things that happened at Pine Knob."

"For example," he says, "all tickets will be by pre-sale. That should eliminate a lot of haphazard traffic. All cars entering the grounds will be checked to make sure the occupants have tickets; if not they'll be turned around and started back."

"The park offers free parking and we should eliminate the indiscriminate parking that plagued residents around Pine Knob," he continued.

"We intend to hire local people for ushers and to work with out security force of 25 professionals. Local people can be trained for the security job easily, and we're thinking in terms of high school football and wrestling team members with the funds being applied to scholarships," Golden reported.

"The Davisburg Rotary Club has agreed to handle the entrance and Oakland County REACT will take care of parking," the men reported.

"We'll have noise engineers on the scene both prior to and during the first concert, but we believe the woods will absorb most of the sound," he added.

Enough temporary sanitary facilities to serve the crowd, plus an on-duty medical team operating out of the administration building and circulating in the crowd are planned.

"We don't believe we'll have any more trouble with drugs than Pine Knob or Meadow Brook have had. We're not anticipating problems in that area, but we'll be ready," Golden said.

He added that audiences will be made aware that the continuance of the concerts will depend on their behavior.

The two promoters expect to seat 12,000 to 14,000 on bleachers, built in a U-shape around the arena and on the ground in front of the stage.

We'd like to open at noon to accommodate picnickers, and to dissipate the crowds arriving at the park," Golden continued. Tickets, he said, would be $6 with no reserved seats. Only in the event of top attractions and the need to hike the fee to cover costs would tickets go as high as $8. One ticket would serve for bleacher and ground seats alike, Golden added.

The park is located 4 1/2 miles off I-75. Concerts are now planned to begin at 3 p.m. and conclude before or shortly after dark. "Normally we'll just have three groups performing," Golden said.

Both Golden and Goulson say they need to gauge the market for outdoor shows. "We realize we're running against Pine Knob and Meadow Brook, but we're hoping to draw from Oakland County, Detroit and Flint. We'll have to see if we can," Golden said.

Callouses on your feet are caused by shoes that do not fit well. Either the shoes slip on the feet, or else they are too short. Callouses are not only unsightly, but they can be very painful. If callouses are deep-rooted, consult a podiatrist. Slight callouses can be treated easily. Soak feet in mild sudsy, hot water for thirty minutes. Then dry them carefully and rub the calloused parts with pumice stone. Massage in cold cream.

Board improves police, roads

by Jean Bray
Independence Township Board members Tuesday took action to double the police protection for township residents by approving a $101,700 police budget. The figure included a $71,480 contract with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department which will provide four full-time deputies and two township marked cars to patrol Independence territory.

Police chief, Jack McCall, whose $16,000 salary was also included in the budget, praised the Sheriff's Department agreement as "steadily improving." He said the deputies would be moving into the township hall police quarters as a substation in the near future. McCall also pointed out that most of the deputies assigned to the Independence Township patrol were residents of the township, which he attributes to producing the best job through personal interest.

Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark pointed out that the increased police budget will mean the township will be levying the full one-mill for police protection approved nearly a year ago by township voters. "The chief additional thing we will be getting for that (mill) will be the second patrol car," he said.

Unanimous board action approving a two-phase road improvement program set a milestone. At the recommendation of the township DPW Director, George Anderson, the township will contribute four cents for each lineal foot of public or private roads to be chlorided or oiled this summer. It is the first time the township has contributed toward any maintenance of private roads.

In past years, the township has defrayed chloriding or oiling costs by two cents per foot with the residents paying six cents, but this year the new program will place the project on a 50-50 basis. Supervisor Vandermark estimated that if all residents participated, all roads in the township could be treated for approximately $12,000 matching funds from the township budget. However, since the Oakland County Road Commission will only supply the treatment to public roads, residents of private roads will have to contract for their roads with independent firms.

The second phase of the road program for the township provides for the township to match funds with the county for up to $20,000 worth of road graveling improvements. Some 15 miles of outlying section roads regravelled last year will be chloride treated without cost by the county.

In the wake of Deer Lake development litigation, a proposed new zoning map and ordinances, the township board approved hiring a consulting attorney, James Ginn of Ginn, Kramer and Jacobson Law Firm, Southfield, to supplement township attorney Richard Campbell.

Items on the agenda pertaining to the Deerwood Development drainage easements were tabled by the board for further recommendations until the May 7 regular meeting.

Also tabled until May was the approval of the $190,000 proposed fire budget. According to Fire Chief Frank Ronk, the delay is due to his request for four full-time staff members. Two of the men are currently on a part time basis while the other two are members of the volunteer department. Ronk maintains his request is within the two-mill voter approved fire budget.

The board received sealed construction bids from ten contractors for sidewalk construction near two school complexes. Ranging from a low bid of $14,330.80 to a high of $38,251, the figures were referred to DPW Director George Anderson and township engineers, Johnson and Anderson, for review and tabulation. They will have a recommendation available for the next meeting to speed construction of the sidewalks along Waldon Road between the east boundary of the Clarkston Gardens Subdivision and Eastlawn Street, and along Maybee Road from Dvorak Street to the North Sashabaw Elementary School.

Among the bills approved by board action was $1400 for the recent installation of a fire and burglary alarm system at the township library. The library has had three break-ins at a loss of over $2500 within the past year. Action on providing air conditioning for the facility on Clarkston Road was deferred since only two of the three requested price bids were received.

A newly formed Art Council in the township was officially recognized and encouraged by board resolution at the request of Mrs. Joan Kopietz, acting chairman, and Mrs. Gwen Phillips. The group outlined plans to provide an Artrain and participate in the Bi-Centennial as primary means to bring more art recognition to the area.

Building process has changed

by JEAN SAILE
Once upon a time a newcomer to Independence Township acquired his land and built his home to suit himself.

The old ways have changed and there are now a lot of ordinance requirements and building codes to be satisfied before a building permit can be issued.

Building Director Kenneth Delbridge thinks it's all for the best.

He may be an individualist -- personally preferring a few restrictions as possible -- but he contends now is the time for Independence Township to tighten up and enforce its ordinances.

"We've got professional people in all departments looking into and after development, and now is the time for it. Neighboring townships such as Waterford, which are more developed, may find it already too late to direct their futures. I believe Independence still has that option," he says.

"It's almost a must that building departments be administered by a person who is non-political," says the man who was hired by Democratic Supervisor Gary Stonerock, and who has remained on under Republican Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

"It used to be," he says, "that in smaller community building departments were politically run and some of today's problems derive from that practice."

"There are rights and wrongs in building, and there are codes to follow. Building should not be dictated by a political body," he believes.

Nor does he believe that the laws should be used in selected cases only. "They must be administered fairly," he adds.

The employment by Independence Township of Ordinance Enforcement Officer Tim Palulian last year is hailed as a giant step forward.

"We're the first township in the area to hire a man for ordinances on the books, but none were enforced. Last year Palulian got rid of junk cars at the rate of more than one a day," he reports proudly.

Enforcement of the ordinances is also causing more work for the Independence Township Board of Zoning Appeals.

"It used to be that variances (approval to build where lots or set-backs or zoning was non-conforming) were issued across the building department counter. We don't do that anymore, and stricter regulations make the board's work load even heavier," Delbridge recounts.

"Our biggest problem is non-conforming lots from areas that were platted first for summer cottages. We're attempting to get rid of the non-conforming parcels, asking builders and owners to buy up extra and add them to their own lots. We've been getting cooperation, and I think this can prevent some very serious problems in the future," he says.

Delbridge himself lives on a 50-foot lake lot in White Lake Township, but he and his wife have recently bought six and a half acres off the lake and plan to move there this summer.

A former small builder and electrical contractor, he has plans of fixing up the old home on the property and "becoming a farmer -- as a hobby."

It might have been the fact his father was head of the sewer department for many years in Detroit that headed Delbridge towards public service, but he seems to thrive on it.

"Having been both a contractor and in the enforcement end, you can't help but realize that builders have problems, too. Rising land costs and increasing labor costs have made it difficult to put up homes people can afford to buy.

"We're interested in new materials, but we need some proof of their worth. The materials that used to go into houses were good for 40 or 50 years. I'm not so sure about some of the newer stuff," he confides.

Whatever he does, he keeps the awareness that people here are demanding a first class, well-zoned community. "People who move here from the city seem even more inclined to want protection through the law than those who have lived here for some time," he says.

In the early 1960's, Delbridge was head of the building department in West Bloomfield Township and left there to go into business for himself. It was the state of the economy a few years ago that prompted him to get back into government work. "It's rough on a small businessman," he says.

In Independence Township, his building department is operated almost entirely on the revenue it receives for the issuance of permits.

Now down to a $60,000 budget as compared to $98,000 a year ago, he credits rising land costs and the fact there is little newly platted land in the township for the decrease in building activity here.

The department contains an ordinance enforcement officer, a building inspector, three part time electrical inspectors, a part time plumbing inspector and three clerks.

Delbridge expects that within a year he will have to become certified as building director, even as assessors are now required to be certified by the state. He thinks it's a good thing, insuring more professionalism.

And yet he admits that in the future it may become very difficult to do anything with your property other than live on it. "Right not you have to be careful about where you park your travel trailer, or if your son likes to work on a junk car, or where you store your equipment."

He can recite a long list of obstacles to a person considering building, but he thinks they've come about as a means of protection to the community.

"A man with a conforming lot, must submit to us a plot plan showing where he'll put the house and whether or not he'll be using sewers. We have to check the setbacks. If he's on a road or record, he has to see the county to get approval on a culvert design and to get his driveway cut approved.

"If there are no sewers, the county must be satisfied as to the quality of land and location of the septic tank and well. If he wants to build a fence, he has to conform to height restrictions, and once he's in -- if its strictly residential property -- he can't keep anything but household pets and only a certain number of those," Delbridge reports.

"If the lot was non-conforming, the owner must first seek Zoning of Appeals approval to build," he adds.

"It's a challenge to try to make the building department really work. We're getting more and more involved with various agencies and various other functions of the township government. Public interest is also a lot more evident today than it was ten years ago.

"We're digging into the ordinances, seeing if they work, and correcting them when we find something wrong. I thoroughly enjoy what I'm doing," he says, and he grins as if he means it.

Chloride applications accepted

Residents of unincorporated subdivisions in Oakland County will get more dust control for their dollar this summer and a later deadline for applying the road commission for the service.

These were two changes made by the

Schimmel considers Democratic senatorial race

Louis Schimmel, secretary and former president of the Waterford Board of Education, a member of the Oakland County Allocation Board and a director of Pontiac State Bank, has taken out nominating petitions for the state senatorial seat now occupied by Harvey Lodge.

Schimmel, who said he has not yet fully made up his mind to run, would seek election on the Democratic ticket. He is 37 and executive director of the Municipal Advisory Council of Michigan, a bond consulting firm in Detroit.

Board of County Road Commissioners in the road commission's calcium chloride program for dust control on gravel roads, according to William M. Richards, chairman of the road agency.

He also gave notice that the charge for the chloriding season may be increased in 1975 from the present $80 to $100 for four applications of chloride per 1,000 consecutive lineal feet of road. The $80 rate will continue this year. Effectively immediately, Richards said, applications for chloriding will be taken until June 1 by the Commission's secretary-clerk. The telephone number is 858-4814. In previous years, the cutoff date had been May 1.

The road Commissioners also removed a source of confusion by mandating four separate applications instead of one double-strength application and two regular applications. The old procedure was at a seasonal rate of 4,000 gallons of chloride per mile. The new procedure of four separate applications will increase that total to 4,500 gallons per mile per season, Richards said.

Springfield road right-of-way approved

The Board of County Road Commissioners has approved 15 changes in its master right-of-way plan for Springfield Township to accommodate to the township's new major thoroughfare plan.

"The changes we approved have been negotiated carefully with the Township and represent reasonable compromises of the plan originally approved by the Board of Road Commissioners in 1971," said Frazer W. Staman, vice chairman of the road agency.

The road Commission's master right-of-way plan, which has been adopted by most of the governmental units in Oakland County, provides for future availability of land, not only for highways, but also for public and private utilities and sidewalks as needs arise, Staman said.

The master plan won an award for Oakland County last year from the National Association of County Officials.

New doctor in town

Doc Denne retires

Dr. Ernest Denne, who has owned the optometry practice at 22 South Main since 1962, welcomes Dr. Donald Hentschel of Sterling Heights.

Dr. Hentschel has taken over the practices as of this week, and Dr. and Mrs. Denne, who assisted him in the office, are taking a well-deserved rest. Dr. Denne has been 43 years in the practice of optometry, still finding time for active participation in Clarkston Village Players and the Rotary Club and his love for bowling.

Dr. Hentschel, who has a bachelor of science degree from Wayne State University and then went on to obtain his doctorate in optometry from Memphis, Tenn., in 1971, plans to move to the area.

He will be adding his specialty in contact lenses to the practice developed by Dr. Denne.

Dr. Hentschel is 29 and single.

I-75 widening due north of Flint

Widening of Interstate 75 Freeway between Flint and US-10 near Bay City is now underway, the State Highway Commission reported today. One lane is being added in each direction.

The 23-mile section of four-lane freeway, inadequate for present traffic volumes of up to 50,000 vehicles a day, is one of the most serious bottlenecks on the state Freeway system.

Widening to six lanes of the 21.4-mile section of I-75 from US-23 near Flint north to Birch Run was completed in the 1973 construction season.

Closure of one freeway lane in each direction at various times beginning this month will be required for construction, according to John P. Woodford, director of State Highways and Transportation.

Shortsightedness

It seems to us that altogether too many people are making too much hay out of our "energy crisis".

We've endured higher gasoline prices, gas station line-ups—we've dialed the thermostat back and cut down on driving—and while the effect hasn't been all bad by any means—we do resent the use of the so-called crisis to increase profits.

Cutting car dealer hours and staff in this area where so many people were laid off from automobile production jobs seems like a sin shortsightedly committed to increase dealer profits.

I guess nobody told the dealers that if people aren't working, they aren't going to have the money to buy cars; and if dealers don't make the cars available to the public at a time the public can shop, there won't be as many sold or produced.

We commend Rademacher Chevrolet Inc. for holding out as long as it could against forced Saturday closings, but it makes us ashamed that the whole situation had to develop in this area in the first place.

'If It Fitz...'

Dr. Brothers bothers me

by Jim Fitzgerald

During 1 lunchtime, Dr. Joyce Brothers should be force-fed all the cheeseburgers I haven't eaten in the past year.

Also, Congress should reopen its investigation of TV quiz shows. There may still be a chance to prove Dr. Brothers is really Max Schmeling in drag.

Joyce Brothers is known today as the psychologist who regularly appears on TV talk shows with her knees locked together. She talks about sex as if it were something delivered to your home once a week in a plastic bag.

We oldtimers remember when Dr. Brothers was the world's greatest expert on prize fighting. Around 1955 she appeared on a TV quiz show and won thousands of dollars by remembering how many beers Ton Galento drank the night before he decked Joe Louis. Nobody could understand how a little lady who looked like a 3rd grade school teacher could possibly know so much about the violent world of boxing.

Then it was revealed that the quiz show was rigged. Several of the contestants admitted they were given the answers backstage before they were asked the questions on camera. TV viewers couldn't have been more shocked if they'd learned Walt Disney's Mouseketeers were a Communist plot to put a rat in the White House.

Nothing was ever proven against Joyce Brothers, although the boys at Stillman's Gym could certainly be excused for making insulting accusations. She simply took her thousands and disappeared for several years. Then she returned to public view with a doctor's degree in psychology. She somehow gets paid for writing a newspaper column and appearing on TV. Her specialty is giving obvious answers to stupid questions, sort of an Ann Landers for people who can spell psychology without looking it up.

("Doctor, I have a college degree and a nice figure so why does my husband say I have no sex appeal?" "Because you wear your cap and gown to bed.")

By now you have probably caught on that I am miffed at Joyce. Why? Because she recently decreed that the sexiest men today are those with paunches and short hair.

I had a brush haircut for 20 years before my wife and kids finally convinced me I'd become an artifact in danger of being cast in bronze or embalmed. Now my hair brushes my ears and I must wash my lousy head every morning to make sure it really isn't.

I had a marvelous paunch but I got sick of hilarious friends asking me whether I wanted a boy or a girl or a beachball. So I quit eating lunch and candy and everything good. I lost 20 pounds and I had to buy new clothes. Now every time I see someone eating ice cream I kick them in their fat stomachs. I drag complete strangers in off the street and insist that they measure all the room left when I put on my old some of them female and fertile.

Samantha, our current six-toed coal black pet (once known as Sam), showed the obvious symptoms early this year. She'd prowl the house, checking closets and developing a particular fondness for a drawer full of pictures in the family room.

We moved the pictures, padded the drawer and sat back to wait.

Samantha chose to have kittens on the couch, a fact which was shrilly announced by our 10-year-old when she screamed, "There's a kitten on the couch!"

"We've got to move her," I hollered at my better half. His eyes glazed. "Janet," I yelled, "help me move her." Janet's eyes also glazed.

I carefully lifted Samantha into a box. She sprang back to the couch. "Janet," I said between now clenched teeth, "Grab the kitten when I lift Samantha."

She did, and it worked. Samantha stayed in the box, where she then produced four other babies. We cleaned the couch.

If she'd been a barn cat, we wouldn't even have known about the big event till next morning.

pants. I no longer have to worry about my friends insulting me because I don't have any.

So now comes Dr. Brothers saying today's women like chubby men. "The phallic symbol is being replaced by the status symbol," she said, and nothing gives a man more status than a paunch and short hair.

Her theory is that times are tough and money is short. "Serious times call for the man with the look of authority and stature," she said, and worried women "are drawn to a father figure."

No one is giving Dr. Brothers the answers ahead of time, so her theory is probably baloney. But women will believe it and there I am... the skinny guy alone at the end of the bar with my hair hanging in my beer. All the dollies are at the pizza parlor, kissing crumbs off sexy guys named Fatso and Tubby.

It is people like Dr. Brothers who make it difficult for people like me to proceed Onward and Upward.

He favors township manager

Dear Editor:

I like Mr. Humbert's idea of adding two trustees to our township board but I hope he would have gone farther and endorsed the manager council form of township government. Political scientists believe that the best form of local government for a community of ten to five hundred thousand population is the Manager-Council form of government. The form of government we have now is for the horse and buggy days, when an independent farmer or small business man would dabble his few free hours with local government.

However, now we are passing through the industrial age to the age of automation and the computer, and have a population ten times that of fifty years ago. With all this, change must come, if not trouble and inefficiency is bound to follow.

Our manager at this time of our development would be a civil engineer with knowledge of management, the clerk a lawyer, the treasurer a CPA. This is not ludicrous, but what we have is. What company of hundred million dollars capital can have anything less and still survive.

Too often in this present form of government we have elected popular people or ones pushed by certain groups. They may not be good administrators. Also there are people who would make excellent trustees, but have to keep their jobs. These trustees would be free of the headaches of administrators and could face their policy and appointive duties more independently.

Of course these people would receive more pay than now, but it would be worth it. A good example is the Deer Lake situation. If we had politicians the last twenty years, who knew the laws of easement and eminent domain and health laws, we would not have this problem. We would now have a general sewer setup which cost thousands and thousands less than now. We would not be in the situation to hire a consultant for the lawyer, when one in the first place in our stage of development should have been a zoning specialist. How asinine can we become. The present administrators have to judge their own work. Our federal constitution in its wisdom has separated the powers of government. Should an administrator have to make continually political decisions? This manager is appointed by the board and can be removed if his work is not satisfactory. The change of the board would not effect the manager for public opinion would keep him in if his work was good.

There are certain interested parties against this, and many people are afraid of a change. This kind mentality kept our country from having social security and unemployment insurance until a depression forced us to face reality, after millions of people suffered. This plan has to come, the reality of the situation demands it. As sure as night follows day it will, but do we have to wait?

I am happy to see the Democrats have backed up the Save the Lake Group. There are some who like to think this is only for the people around the Lake. These people do not realize the many who use the Lake for swimming, boating and fishing. We must remember God made nature to use; not to destroy.

I remember rather well of being invited to a group of rather frustrated men, and with my Notre Dame Spirit and suggestions the day looked brighter. I have always considered myself a Democrat ever since as a boy of nine I delivered Al Smith posters in Riverdale, New York, and with my father's cousin a Justice of the Supreme Court of New York, we Smiths of 54th Street were Democrats.

Let's dream dreams and work to get them in action. We have the talent and goodness but just lets take it from under the basket. This next election, whether you vote yes or no, should be a signal that we are destined to be the Greatest.

Phys ed in schools

Dear Mrs. Saile:

Recently, at a nursery school meeting, I was made aware of the excellent education our elementary children are receiving. However certain other, and I strongly feel, equally important aspects of their education are being neglected - namely, a structured physical education.

If a child is raised in total academia, without structured diversions, he will not be a total person. Realizing that the classroom teacher makes the most of recess time to release pent up energies, the child also needs to be guided in physical activities just as he also needs the 3 R's. Running on a playground certainly is physical activity but most definitely is not physical education.

I understand that one mother is giving of her personal time to make sure her child is receiving an art program. I too, would be willing to do the same. But as a taxpayer, I would hope to see these programs adopted by the Clarkston Schools. They are an integral part of a child's education.

Although, no one likes the thought of a tax increase, I think serious thought must be given to an improved school system. A good school system will improve property values.

We moved to Clarkston from Berkeley where our 900 square foot of living space sprawled over a 40 by 100 foot lot netted a $600 plus tax! Our living space has doubled as well as our lot size and living conditions are indeed much more pleasant, and further our taxes are less. This is all well and good, but at the price of our children's education??

President Nixon will never make it to Moscow for his summit meeting. I still see him resigning, but I can't say how soon.

Golda Meier will continue with the Israeli government until her death. She may step down for a very short period of time, like a month, but she will be back. The Arabs did her the biggest favor they could by attacking Thursday.

Moshe Dayan is playing political footsie. He wants more power and say, but he's biding his time. He will come to power very strongly.

John Mitchell will be found guilty, but not much will come of it. He and Martha will get back together again.

The Kissinger marriage will be happy and fruitful. I see one pregnancy.

Jerry Cavanaugh will be battling Governor Milliken this fall. He will recuperate from surgery in time to enter the governor's race. Milliken will defeat him.

Good investments for 1974 are AT&T, American Motors and chickens.

General Motors will come back strong, and I feel it will be because it will have bested the unions in some way. The same goes for Ford. The companies will pare a lot of chaff.

American Motors will outsell some of the bigger car companies in some lines.

I see two people wanting the Clarkston Town Shop, but a heavy set man with dark hair will get it. The right side of the shop will go strong, but on the left side I see occupants coming and going.

Hard rock concerts at Springfield Oaks will go fairly smooth, but Pine Knob will be upset. The Springfield Oaks concerts may cease.

Paint job your goal?

Is this the year the old homestead gets a new coat of paint? Make the job a little easier with some tips from Jim Boyd, extension housing specialist at MSU.

"Let the weather warm up a bit before you tackle an outdoor paint job," Boyd advises. "At temperatures below 50 degrees, paint gets thick and difficult to spread."

Don't wait until the hottest day of the year arrives, either. At temperatures higher than 80 degrees the paint tends to dry too quickly, making it difficult to put on a uniform coat.

To make the job easier on yourself, plan ahead so you can paint in the shade. Work on the west side of the house in the morning, the north around midday, the east in the afternoon and the south side either in early morning or late afternoon.

"Be sure the surface to be painted is clean," the specialist says. "Dust can be washed off with a hose. Peeling paint will have to be removed before a new coat is applied. Otherwise the new paint will peel off along with the old."

Either oil-based or water-based (latex) paints can be used. Latex paints are often more practical for the do-it-yourselfer because brushes, rollers and paint-splattered people can be cleaned with soap and water. Latex paints can also be applied when the weather is damp or if the surface to be painted isn't completely dry.

Cleaning up oil-based paint required using a solvent that may be a problem to dispose of properly, Dr. Boyd notes.

"No matter whether you use an oil-based paint or a latex paint, use a good quality paint," the specialist says, "and be sure to read the instructions on the can before starting."

Social Security director tells need for reports

Reports! Reports! It seems that everybody wants to know everything these days. My desk down at the Social Security Office is loaded with reports. I have to know what's going on to do my job.

We need reports from people who are getting Social Security checks once in a while, and now is the time for many of you to make a report. What I am getting at, in a round-about way, is the report we need from people who earned over $2100 last year.

This report tells us whether or not an individual got the correct amount of Social Security benefits. It is particularly important for the year a person first starts drawing checks. It will take a couple of sentences to explain that, so check the next two paragraphs carefully.

By the time they retire, many people have already earned well over the $2100.00 figure, and we start paying benefits based on the fact that they don't expect to work much, if at all, after they retire. We also ask them to estimate how much they have earned in that year. We need this annual report now to get the exact amount that they earned, and to verify that they stayed retired.

Most people can give us a pretty good "guesstimate" of what they earned, and most people in this area don't work very much after they retire, but there are enough exceptions that the reports are needed to find out who those exceptions are.

This report asks four different questions:

1. How much did you earn as wages in 1973? (You have your W-2 by now, so that's easy.)
2. What months were there last year that you did NOT work, or that you did not earn over $175.00? (In other words, the months that you were retired.)
3. Were you self-employed last year? (Here we need information about net profit and the months you did NOT run your business.)
4. Do you expect to earn over $2400 in 1974? (If you say "yes", we need an estimate of about how much you will make.)

The $2400 figure is not a mistake. Congress changed the law so that a person on Social Security can earn as much as $2400 this year, and still get all the checks due him (or her). If a person goes over the limit, nothing really drastic happens. You lose $1 in benefits for the year for every $2 you earn. A person can earn quite a bit and still get some money from Social Security.

And there is another provision in the law that can add flexibility to your planning. Regardless of what a person earned in an entire year, we have to pay them for months that they do not work at all or in which they do not earn much money. (That limit was $175 in 1973, and $200 in 1974.) This means that a person can pick any month of the year to retire in, and know that he can get benefits no matter what was earned before.

With all those facts to get straight, no wonder we need reports. If you have any questions, contact our office, either call or drop in and we will be glad to help you.

The Pontiac Social Security Office at 142 Auburn, Pontiac, is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The telephone number is 334-4711.

Trackmen drub Cranbrook

by MIKE JEWELL

Clarkston Wolves Varsity Track Team clobbered Cranbrook here last Thursday to increase its record 3-0. The victory, 84-39, was a first for Clarkston against Cranbrook.

The win followed a 90-33 demolition of the Clarenceville Trojans Tuesday at Clarenceville.

Clarkston took a majority of first places against Cranbrook clinching 11 of the total 15 events.

Tim Doherty chucked the shot 46'8", the best toss by a shot putter this season.

Wayne Thompson jumped 18'11" and Bill Rondo 18'4½" to finish first and second in the long jump, and Dave Brown cleared 5'4" to take second in the high jump.

A fine effort of 11 feet by Tim Humphreys was good enough for first place in the pole vault. Chris Vosie cleared 10'6" to tie for second place.

Junior Mike Nurenburg earned 9¼ individual points by taking a first in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:04.8 and a second place in the 440-yard with 54.8. He also helped the mile relay team of Vern McVety also earned 9¼ individual points, taking a first in the 100-yard dash in 10.6 seconds, the best yet this season. He finished second in the 220-yard dash, running it in 25.5 seconds, and ran on the 880-yard relay team finishing first in 1:36.7 with Bellairs, Rondo and Thompson.

The 440-yard relay team of Rondo, Thompson, Lee Booker and Steve Klein finished first with 46.3.

Bellairs ran the 440-yard dash in 53.7 to take first and Mike Crosby scampered to a first in the mile with 4:41 time.

Paul Glowsinski again won the two-mile with his best effort yet, a time of 10:31.7. Jeff McIlrath was right behind at 10:41.4.

Booker chalked up second and third place finishes in the 100 and 180-yard dashes. Dale Barger finished second in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Sophomore Wayne Thompson led the Wolves to their easy triumph over Clarenceville. The Wolves finished first in 12 of 15 events.

Thompson earned 12½ points, taking a first in the long jump with 19'4", the longest jump recorded this season. Rondo was second at 19'1½" earning 3 of his 8½ individual points.

Thompson also finished first in the 100-yard dash at 10.9 seconds, followed closely by McVety in 11 seconds.

Both Rondo and Thompson were part of the 880-yard and 440-yard relay teams which finished first. The mile relay, run by Dave Kras, Howard Phelps, Bellairs and Nurenburg, also finished first in 3:47.2.

Varsity shuts out Davison 5-0

by MIKE JEWELL

After losing to Waterford Mott 9-3, last Wednesday the Clarkston Varsity baseball team came right back last Thursday to clean up Davison 5-0.

Dave Heffernan, who wasn't well and could hardly talk, let his pitching do the talking as he gave up only 3 hits, struck out 4, and walked just two batters. The win gives him an overall record of 1-1 so far this season.

The Wolves opened up their attack in the first inning when Mike Hooper doubled in Tim Thompson and Dan Blower who had each walked earlier.

Clarkston collected two more tallies in the following inning when Dan Blower came up with a clutch single to score Paul Breninger and Jeff Harvey. Breninger had gotten on by leading off with a single and followed by Harvey getting on thanks to a Cardinal error.

Mike Hooper, who is the team's leading hitter with a .600 average, kept his hot hitting up in the sixth inning, ripping the ball for his second double of the game. He was then knocked in by Kevin Hesse who followed Hooper with a double of his own. The Wolves only struck out twice against Davison.

In the game against Mott the Wolves were hurt by costly walks and errors.

Starter and loser Ken Foster, who gave 8 of the runs, gave up only 2 hits as he struck out 4 and walked 5. Steve Howe, in relief, gave up the other run in the 6th inning, giving up two hits, walking 4 and K'ing two Corsairs.

The only bright spots of the game were the facts that Clarkston out hit Mott six to five and the Wolves struck out only three times.

The Wolves got off to an early 1-0 lead when Mike Hooper scored on a wild pitch. The Wolves ended up

Bill Mathews hurled the entire game for Clarkston striking out 5 Davison batters and giving up only 2 hits. He also walked 4 batters, one of those forced in the only run against the Wolves as the bases were loaded.

Rod Hoole collected 2 of the Wolves total 8 hits as his two singles knocked in two of the Clarkston runs. The longest hit was a three-bag smash by Steve Pearson that ended up knocking in the only other Clarkston run.

Doug Manigold also had a strong showing at the plate as he ended up 2-3 with a single and a double. Jeff Ferguson, who batted twice, also connected for a double.

leaving the bases loaded in that inning and gave up 5 runs to Mott in the mistake-filled second inning.

Clarkston picked up its second run in the sixth inning when Thompson singled in Dan Blower who had already singled and stolen a base. Blower, on the day, was 1 for 1 along with 3 walks.

Hooper, who ended up 2 for 4, doubled in the final inning to knock in Kevin Hesse who had singled earlier.

Take your pick. Then come to Pontiac State Bank and save as much as $80 on a new car loan.

Our rates are lower on practically every loan—new cars, used cars, trucks and motor homes. They're all included because we don't have a tie-in with anybody. Your loan costs less when you deal direct.

We're also giving away a free highway kit in the bargain. Jumper cables, gasoline siphon, trouble light and four other items. Free as long as they last—even on used cars, 1970 or later.

Any PSB office will handle all the details. Or come to our Loan Center at 3245-Elizabeth Lake Road. It's open till 4:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday... till 6:00 on Friday... and till noon on Saturday.

Memories of long-time Clarkston residents were triggered Monday with the Detroit Free Press account of now deceased Peter Grate in its series on steel truckers.

The story began... "It was a spring day in 1966, and a tall, hulking man was walking across the field of his Clarkston, Mich., (in reality Springfield Township) farm listening to the faint buzz of a small plane overhead.

"Suddenly the plane swooped down, its buzz changing to an avenging roar. Now the man was running from it, taking in great gulps of air.

"I wanted to chop him up in the propeller," said the man who was at the controls, almost tearful. But the plane passed over without harm and climbed back into the sky over Oakland County."

The story deals with Grate's having obtained $600,000 in truck and trailer loans from the First National Bank of Allen Park and the near ruin of the bank that followed. The plane, it turns out, had been flown by bank officials in search of some of the trucks that the loan had ostensibly been issued to buy.

Grate's farm was the old Knox place in Springfield which burned more than a year ago.

The story relates... "Peter Grate in grandiloquent moments, called himself Ellsworth G. Grate (in reality his name, local people say.) His first wife, a schoolteacher many years his senior, had died and left him a man of means, with a 212-acre farm in Clarkston and real estate scattered throughout Clarkston, Pontiac and Flint.

"He had dabbled in other enterprises, buying trucks and leasing them to businesses and warehouses in Flint and Detroit. For a brief time, he operated a cab company in Keego Harbor, and he dropped at least $40,000 on a finance company that crashed in Detroit.

"But his first love was farming. He thought nothing of stomping into a meeting of bankers, attired in overalls, his boots still dripping mud from the field.

Ron Becker, in business just since last August in the outdoor recreation line, has breathed a sigh of relief that the gas shortage appears over and the outlook for summer good. His Becker's Campers is reporting an increase in sales and rentals of all kinds of travel trailers. Just within the last month he reports he's sold 10 big self-contained motor homes. The dealership is located at 16745 Dixie Highway.

Two Clarkston Schools administrators and two members of the Board of Education are returned from a five-day National Association of Schools Boards convention in Houston, Texas, with the idea that in a lot of respects this school district has fewer problems than a lot of others cross the country.

There were 18,400 delegates at the meeting including Superintendent Leslie F. Greene, Assistant Superintendent Milford Mason, Board Chairman David Leak and Board Trustee Fernando Sanchez.

Attorney General Kelley's action against two out-of-state land developers for violation of the land sales act has resulted in a court order prohibiting them from selling in Michigan. The developers involved are The Glenarm Land Company, Inc. which has been promoting White Fence Farms in Arizona, and Select Wester Lands, Inc. which has been promoting Sunshine Valley Ranchettes and Deming Ranchettes in New Mexico.

Attorney General Kelley said: "This court order gives consumers who have purchased land from these two companies the very significant right to cancel any contracts which they entered into after October 1, 1973, when Michigan's land sales act went into effect."

The court's order also provides that both companies are permanently enjoined and prohibited from doing business in Michigan until they meet the requirements of the land sales act. None of the developments involved have been registered as required by that act.

There's speculation to the effect that Allen Zemmol, former chairman of the 18th Democratic Congressional District who ran against Congressman William Broomfield in 1968, may try again this year in the 19th District. Zemmol lives in Southfield Township. An already announced Democratic contender is George Montgomery who faced Broomfield two years ago.

There may be a new motorcycle, color TV, lawn mower or grill in your future. Those items will be given away by Clarkston Power Center, 6560 Dixie Highway, on April 18 to 20 in celebration of the firm's grand opening in new quarters.

From the Tombstone Epitaph -- "The Midnight Skulker wants to know what these streakers think they're doing, anyway. After all, he invented the art, making a dash for life when some husbands arrived home unexpectedly. Old Skulk says he's always done it in the preservation of life and limb, but he thinks the younger set nowadays are just attempting to advertise -- something which he never found necessary."

The Depot, a new ice cream shop which Gene Sherwood plans to open in mid-May, is sparking interest in downtown Clarkston. To be located in the former Kings Insurance Agency, 23 South Main, the store, we hear will feature a wide range of ice cream concoctions and sandwiches in a train station decor.

Sherwood is married to Pat Sherwood, The Clarkston News advertising manager, and is lately a national ad man himself. They live on Deer Hill Drive.

Grandchildren welcome

By Pat Braunagel

Over the hill to Grandmother's house Danna and Michael Glennie frequently go—and they generally think it's worth the trip out from Clarkston.

Their paternal grandparents, Jim (Red) and Billie Glennie, have the kind of home that's attractive to children.

It's also a house that's comfortable for adults, one that the lady of the family obviously had a hand in designing.

The Glennies wanted a ranch-style house with the master bedroom, family and living rooms all on the same side—to afford a view of the lake on which their hillside lot faces.

"We just couldn't find any, so we finally drew up our own plans and took them to the builder," Billie said.

The desired view is provided by large windows along the side of the house facing the lake, which also has a balcony running the entire 60-foot length of the house.

A woman's touch in the design of the house can be seen in the abundance of storage space available in convenient locations.

The entryway alone has two double closets—one for coats and the other for general storage.

Danna and Michael, children of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Glennie, feel quite at home at their grandparents' house, having lived there for eight months while their own house was being built about three years ago.

"They both like to spend time there," said their mother, noting that each youngster has laid claim to one of the three bedrooms in the house.

However, the children have not confined their interests to one room. Seven-year-old Danna eagerly helped with a description of the living room decor, which, she noted, "has a regular furniture style."

Pale blue plush carpeting covers the floor here, in the one bedroom visible from the living room and in the more casual family room. The walls throughout the house are off-white.

Accent color in the living room is purple, which shows up in the velvet upholstery of a love seat and among the flowers in the pattern of a davenport.

A favorite of both Danna and her grandmother is the walnut piano with carved legs, which was among Billie's college graduation gifts.

The dining area features a long built-in sideboard, an idea Billie borrowed from her grandmother's house for handy storage and easy buffet serving.

There is a definite change in mood from the cool airiness of the living room to the warmth of the panelled family room, one wall of which has a fireplace centered between built-in bookcases. A red, white and blue color scheme prevails here.

A kitchen full of storage space features laundry facilities behind folding doors and a walk-in pantry designed by Billie. Also for her convenience, a work island was constructed in the center of the room.

She added some personal touches at the room's three windows, with a macrame curtain and hand-painted shades.

With 2,000 square feet of floor space on the living level of the house, each of the rooms is ample.

The Glennie grandchildren amuse themselves in the family room of the hillside house which features an expansive lake view.

Retiree finds pleasure in tack collection

By Jean Saile

Frank Minton retired from Pontiac Motors in 1969, and one of the first things he did was get out a keg of horse bits he'd been collecting for the last 35 to 40 years and start to work.

Minton, a native of Arkansas, put them in an empty cement mixer to get rid of the rust and then shellacked them and mounted them on a wall of his basement work room.

Now he's got one of the biggest collection of bits in the area -- 250 of them including such collector's items as a wooden bit, an engraved silver Mexican bit, a U.S. Cavalry bit, one he made himself, one that former Clarkston blacksmith Carl Krueger made, and another dating from the Civil War.

The collection has been added to as the Mintons travel the United States and Mexico in their travel trailer. Auctions, flea markets and antique sales are prize features for the travelers.

And the scope of the collection has grown. Minton has begun acquiring a good bit of Americana -- much of it connected with horses -- as the years have passed.

He's got a slick fork saddle with horse hair lariat dating from 1870 to 1880, an Army saddle of 1890 vintage which he restored, and a U.S. Army bridle used on mules which pulled the artillery wagons during World War II.

There's also a mule bit -- fashioned out of a bicycle chain, Spurs, including Cavalry and Mexican silver engraved have found their way into the collection.

Minton displays an old cast iron tether block, used once to hold a grazing horse. He picks up an old hand scale and demonstrates that the block weighs 16 pounds.

Below the bits along the wall is an old hand cranked corn sheller. Farmers once put an ear of corn into the meat grinder gizmo and turned the handle to scrape the ripened kernels free.

Nearby is a foot operated grindstone which Minton says is more than a hundred years old. He got that from his wife's grandfather's farm in Decker-ville.

There are old hames and collars, some of them dating back to his boyhood in Arkansas, and brass hame ornaments which he says some people like to use now for towel rack holders.

A cowbell, a sheep bell and even a turkey bell have found their way into the collection, as have a couple of giant logging chain hooks and an old hand cranked surveyor's chain.

Old tools -- even a pig ringer for putting rings in pigs' snouts -- are there. There's even a relic of prohibition days -- a bottle capper -- once used to seal home brew.

Just down Waterford Road from his home he found a hand carved cane shaped to look like a snake. Lanterns he's collected include one 100-year-old Dietz, which was once strapped on the side of a wagon for illumination. It has a bullseye reflector, and minton theorizes it might have once been used to shine possum and roccoon.

Part of the wall is reserved for horse show ribbons which Minton won aboard his Palamino, Pop Corn. A founder and past president of Dixie Saddle Club, he's still an honor member of the group.

Minton's three children, all of them still living in the surrounding area have shared his enthusiasm for horses. His wife, Shirley, doesn't, but she's acquiesced to the collection.

The tomato

by Dave Coulter

The tomato is as American as apple pie, or corn on the cob. While many people may believe that the tomato is of Italian origin, biologists know that it is native to the lower slopes of the Andes Mountains and it persists in expressing its preference for an environment of warm days and cool nights, despite whatever the plant breeders have done to change it.

Tomatoes still come in almost the same shape and colors as the ancients knew when they called them tomati, tomate or tomates. About the only major changes the plant breeders have achieved, in recent years, has been the introduction of F1 hybrids and the incorporation of resistances to various diseases.

Because the tomato flower is a classic example of self pollination it is a costly, time consuming, hand operation of yearly nature, to hybridize tomatoes. To hybridize tomatoes, two lines of inbreds must be maintained. The stamens of the female inbred line must be removed from the flower before they shed pollen. When the pistle is ready to receive pollen, it is gathered by a fine brush, wielded by a dexterous hand, from the stamens of the male parent line and dusted on the pistle of the female line, which has been protected from open pollen by a gelatinous capsule covering the flower after removal of the stamens.

The female line flower is re-encapsulated to insure against open pollination, until the hybridization "takes". Because of this amount of hard labor, hybrid tomato seed costs about $300 per pound.

It is natural to ask why hybridize if it's this costly. Hybridization insures two characters, greater vigor and yield and much more fruit uniformity. One caution should be observed by the home gardener who prefers to grow hybrid tomatoes and that is to go easy, with nitrogen fertilizer. Hybrid tomatoes will respond vigorously to nitrogen and produce tall, heavy plants, less prone to set a heavy production of fruit. Consequently a fertilizer formula like 5-10-10 or 6-24-24 is preferred for hybrid tomatoes.

The plant breeders have incorporated resistance to several major tomato diseases and they are: fusarium, verticillium, tobacco mosaic and nematodes. Fortunately for gardeners in this area none of these diseases are of deep concern.

However one disease of tomatoes is entrenched locally and that is alternaria or early leaf blight. Early leaf blight is caused by a fungus and bacteria, and is controllable. A preventative control program is more effective than a cure program, because generally when you see and detect early leaf blight, it's almost too late.

Early leaf blight first shows as small dark brown spots on the leaves. These may occur even on seedlings or transplants. The dark brown spots will enlarge and the flesh of the leaves will begin to yellow. Later almost complete defoliation of the leaf and the leaf clusters will occur. If you suspect that early leaf blight may be in your tomatoes and are unsure if you have correctly identified the disease, break off some of the diseased portions of the plant, take it to your favorite garden store or to the County Extension Agent for proper identification. Either of these agencies will recommend a fungicide for control of the disease.

Because almost everyone, even apartment dwellers grow tomatoes or love apples as they were known to Americans in the 19th century, next week's article will deal with cultural practices for tomatoes, how to select a variety for yourself and should you stake or not stake your tomato plants.

by Boris B. Bronson

Use hobbies as accessories and put them on display. Don't let them go to waste by having them hidden in closets and stored in cupboards. What good is crystal if you can't see it sparkling in a lighted niche? Next to lamps and pictures in importance, hobbies on display are also a tremendous source of pleasure to everyone who sees them. They supply some of the conversation pieces which every home should have to maintain interest. More than most accessories, they stamp your home with your personality. A hobby flatteringly reveals your personal preferences.

If your home decor is early American or colonial, you'll want to see the outstanding furniture collection at HOUSE OF MAPLE, 6605 Dixie Hwy., 625-5200. # Jim's Jottings

Why don't you take the time between now and June 2 to go to the Detroit Institute of Arts and see the "Twilight of the Medici?"

That's something new for me . . . promoting an art exhibit. No one has read anything like that in this column in its nearly 19 years of existence.

Last week I offered to drive some "Humanities" students to the Institute. I offered because my daughter was one of the students. I did not know that "Medici" was being exhibited.

When I saw what it was I remembered seeing something about it in the Sunday paper and skipping over it.

I further figured Medici was an

Winners

Clarkston's two junior high schools will be represented by 31 entries in the state finals of the Michigan Industrial Education Society's competition.

Going on to the state contest are first and second prize winners in the recent regional competition.

Earning second place prizes from CJH were Geoff Becker, Mike Bailey, Mike Burdick, Kari O'Neill, Don Hawkin, Steve Sawyer and John Philpott.

First place honors in the regional competition went to six Sashabaw Junior High School students--Joe Brown, Ruth Dennis, Steve Cartier, Steve Evans, Mark Brown and Steve Criger.

Students from SJH with second place awards are Bob Hall, Mark Stevens, Tom Gay, Bill McLeod, Ron King, Randy Cummings, Don Polasek, Keith Staley and Rick Langdon.

artist. However, while waiting in the lobby I read what "Twilight of Medici" was all about. Wow! Medici was a family of bankers and merchants who ruled for over 300 years, 15th to 18th century.

They were collectors of art. And, besides collecting, they commissioned artists to do sculpture and paint.

In the last will of the last Medici their entire collection was given to Florence, Italy with the provision it would never leave that city. The last of that family, Anna Maria Luisa, died in 1743 and this is the only time the collection has left town.

It is a big collection of tapestry, bronze sculpture, silver work and canvas paintings.

The woman who explained various features to us said it was the largest work of its kind to be exhibited at the Institute.

She along with others working on this exhibit spent considerable time researching the entire project to do it justice for the visitors. Her explanations and descriptions made the trip even more enjoyable than just viewing the works . . . though that was most impressive.

It costs $1.50 for adults and 75c for children. And, like their advertisement says, "If you miss it in Detroit, you'll have to go to Florence." It will only be shown in Detroit and Florence."

Apparently, we've got to find a way to stop cows from burping. They're polluting the air.

According to the publication, the Oregon Motorist, researchers for the Environmental Protection Agency report that the car industry has a lot of help in polluting our air.

They have released a report which shows that cows burp 50 million tons of hydrocarbons into the atmosphere every year.

The report states that 10 cows burp enough gas in a year to heat a small house.

It doesn't say whose small house. Would someone kindly tell me who authorized the expenditure of our money to research the gaseous problems of the cow?

Once we have their names we can ask why their research included only one end of the cow and why not the jackass . . . which probably brings us back to the name of the person who started spending our money in such fashion.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Pepper are proud to announce the birth of their first child, a boy.

Charles Michael was born on March 19 and weighed 6 pounds 13 ounces.

Mr. Michael Pepper is in the Naval Reserve stationed at Glen View, Illinois. Mrs. Pepper is the former Carol Ann Broadway of Clarkston.

The happy grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Pepper of Ferndale and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Broadway of Northview. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Westover of Drayton Plains and Mrs. Emma Pepper of Brown City. Congratulations.

An idea - Moms, when you don't think you can take four teenagers in the family, do as Mrs. Frobe Gruenberg of Deer Lake did. When son Kurt had his birthday on April 9 (putting him in the teenager class) mom called station WDRO and had Kurt (the Q man) placed in the "All-Gone Plant"! Did it work?

Howe's Hi-Shooters, ladies' Tuesday morning bowling league, had their banquet on April 10 at White Lake Oakson Williams Lake. Everyone received a bowling towel and their name on it (I call it a crying towel).

The Ding-a-Lings were the first place team. Pat Harrison, Mary Lou Van, Betty Schlutow and Nancy Postal are the winners. Congratulations team!

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bradley of Snowapple, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Allard of M-15 and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Powell of Sunnyside just returned April 8 from a four day visit in Las Vegas.

They stayed at the Holiday Inn while there. They did a lot of sight-seeing, saw as many shows as possible (Wayne Newton, Petula Clark and Robert Goulet were the main liners) and the "Lido". They also took a tour to Hoover Dam.

We understand they came home tired, broke and happy! It's fairly easy to get hooked on the one armed bandits!

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ripley and children of Amy spent Easter weekend with Mr. and Mrs. John Tate of Onaway. It's always a nice time visiting family and friends.

The Easter Bunny had been told in advance that the Ripley children would be to grandma's this year, and he had no problems finding them.

The dance floor was literally jumping with jitterbugs the night of the Women's Club "50's Happy Times Dance." The eighty-plus couples present included those from the leather jacket crowd to mouseketeers.

After a delicious ham and turkey buffet dinner, everyone was hopping to the sounds of "The Count Fore Band." Many door-prizes were given out, and the $230.50 in the 50-50 raffle was won by J. Stechow of Keego Harbor.

Connie Morgan and her committee should be commended for their enthusiasm and organization in getting the dance together. It was a jump back into the past that every one thoroughly enjoyed.

Beginning in August the senior Larges will start a year's work in Washington, D.C. with NISBCO, the National Inter-religious Service Board of Conscientious Objectors. For the past two years they have worked with the Amnesty Information and Action Center in Michigan. Prior to that they worked a year with the Arab refugees in Palestine.

One of Rev. Large's sermons at Central Methodist Church in Detroit is credited with inspiring Mrs. Carolyn Place to form "Bottles for Building" in Independence Township.

Dr. and Mrs. Durand Benjamin, Jr., 7840 Foster Road, attended the 15th annual Clinical Congress of Abdominal Surgeons at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, Nevada, last week.

Dr. Benjamin is a Fellow of the Several members are on the sick list and some are hospitalized.

Not enough men were present for election of officers and both the men and women are planning to have election of officers at their next meeting Saturday, May 11.

All World War I Veterans and wives are especially invited to attend and become a part of this organization.

Early traveling

by Connie Lektzian

"In the year 1844, a family composed of mother, father and four small children left their home in New Jersey to go to Ohio. They traveled to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in a covered wagon, and from Pittsburgh to Ohio they traveled by canal boat."

Time has shortened the distance between Pittsburgh and Monroe, New Jersey. Today that trip could be measured in hours. But in 1844, for Robert and Delilah Struble, it may well have been a week-long journey, painfully difficult and tiring with an infant son and three small daughters.

A minimum of protection and privacy, the flapping canvas kept out little of the dust or cold or rain. Delilah must have welcomed the restful ride of the canal boat.

Canals and the barges that plied their surface gave great impetus to the westward migration. With a placid, slow moving pace, these clumsy broad vessels held huge amounts of freight.

Because of their apparent safety, they were often dangerously overloaded.

"At one place the canal boat began to sink. All the women and children were taken to shore, and the men set to work to save the boat from going down. As a result of this, the father of this particular family was taken ill with what was called 'ague', a disease of chills and fever."

This disease had more names and blames than any other ailment. Described as the agers or the shakes, it was said to be caused by a miasma rising from newly plowed ground or from the damp mists that roll out of swamps or streams. Some thought to blame mosquitoes and others held that the smell rising from stagnant waters was responsible. Tea from sassafras bark was used as a cure and the tree, really only a large bush, gained the name the-ague-tree.

"After about a week of travel on canal boat, the family settled in the southern part of Ohio. Here today lived for about seven years and two more children were born. It was an ideal pioneer life, the mother cooking, spinning and weaving in a hewed log house built by the father.

"Because of a lack of schools, the family decided to move to Illinois. Here they lived for about two years, but as the climate was so different here they became ill and finally moved to Michigan. The journey from Illinois to Michigan was made in a covered wagon, starting in September. This, for the young people, was a pleasure, but was quite a hardship for the mother and father. In nice weather the cooking and eating were done out of doors but during time of storms they would go into a farm house, never finding any people uphospitable. During this journey, they at one time had to ford the Wabash River... In places the horses swam and the wagon reeled on the water. The rest of this journey was made in safety after about a month of travel."

There was much about the Struble's that was typical of pioneering. As with many, once the home ties were broken, they migrated again and again. There was vacant land to be taken up in so many places and there were some who wanted to sample it all. Robert and Delilah finally settled near Maceday Lake in a settlement of New Jersey people, and at one time lived in Davisburg.

The struggles of pioneering took its toll. Robert Struble died at 45, Delilah died ten years later. In a hidden corner of the township, in Case Cemetery are marked the last records of this couple who braved so much in their search for a better life.

Mrs. Mary Hines of Clarkston recently received a letter from a cousin, telling this family history, much of which is quoted here.

Spiritual Message

"AFTER EASTER—WHAT?"

Toward evening of that first Easter Day, two men were going to a village named Emmaus, about seven miles from Jerusalem, talking about all the sad things that had happened in Jerusalem the past few days. The resurrected Jesus drew near and walked with them but they didn't recognize him. So for at least some of the followers of Jesus, maybe the worst day was the third day after Jesus' death, Sunday, which for the Jews was like our Monday, with everything around them returning so completely to normal that it was hard to believe that either His life or His death was going to make any difference to the world at all. He had made great promises and done great things, and a lot of people had placed their greatest hopes in Him. But now He was dead. Of course, there were rumors about the tomb being empty. But rumors are only rumors. So they were going back home to Emmaus.

We have all walked that road to Emmaus. Emmaus is a trip to the movies just for the sake of seeing a movie to get away from it all for a while. Emmaus may be buying some new clothes, or a new recreation vehicle. Emmaus may be reading a second rate novel or watching TV all evening. Emmaus is whatever we do or wherever we go to make ourselves forget that the world holds nothing sacred; that even the wisest and bravest and loveliest decay, die, or are destroyed; that even the noblest ideas that we have heard—ideas about love and freedom and justice—have always been twisted out of shape. Emmaus is where we go, where these two went, when we feel there is no hope.

But, at precisely such times as these, the resurrected Jesus comes. Not usually in a blaze of light, not in the midst of great religious emotions, but on a dusty road, or at the supper table.

The sacred moments of our lives are often the everyday moments, the moments which, if we do not look with more than our eyes or listen with more than our ears, reveal only a stranger coming up the road behind us, or a meal like any other meal. But if we look with our hearts, if we listen with our whole being—what we may experience is the resurrected Jesus.

After Easter—this is what the followers of Jesus have experienced down thru the centuries. After Easter—what is life going to be to you?

In Christian bonds,
Frank A. Cozadd

ME AND MINE

By Pat Sherwood

Recycled furnishings

An old packing crate, painted white with a board on top, makes a thrifty lamp table. So what else is new? Well, take a closer look at that "painting."

It started out as four butcher's trays, the kind you get with your lamb chops at the meat counter. These were glued open side down to heavy cardboard, painted white and framed. A strip of wood was added to provide contrast.

It's enough to give you pause on your next trip to the incinerator.

KID'S STUFF!

If I had a Purple Monkey
If I had a purple monkey,
You know what I would do?
I would get a purple bed and lay down his purple head.
Suppose I lay down his head and
he turns dead,
Suppose I buy a purple casket,
And he wants a purple basket.
Suppose I give him a funeral
And he starts to cry.
What would you do?
Take him to the zoo?

GREAT NEW RECIPES FROM FRANCE

Lamb en Daube

Serve with a mixed green salad, crusty bread, and a bowl of fresh fruit.

- 2 pounds lean lamb, cut in 2-inch pieces
- ¼ cup dry red wine
- 2 medium onions, cut in wedges
- 1 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 8-ounce can stewed tomatoes
- ½ cup flour
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 beef bouillon cube
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon grated orange peel
- ¼ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1 green pepper, sliced
- ½ cup sliced ripe olives

Marinate lamb in wine with onions and herbs in the refrigerator at least 4 hours. Place in 3-quart casserole. Gradually blend tomatoes into flour; stir into lamb mixture. Add celery, bouillon cube, salt, and orange peel. Cover and bake in 350° oven 1½ hours. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and continue cooking for 1 hour or till meat and vegetables are tender. Remove bay leaf. Garnish with orange slices, whole olives, and parsley, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

MY DOG SLED

We have a dog named Teddy, he is a Newfoundland. Teddy pulls a sled, he once took my sister and me for 2 miles. We went from Bailey Lake School to Boyne Highland Tr. back to Caberfae Tr. and back home to Clarkston Rd.

Then a few days later we logged wood for an hour. We put wood on but did not realize how heavy it was. He was a real help. He took a lot of work off our hands.

General Manager Cindy Weeks explains an organization chart of the Lester Hill Corporation, a simulated business operated by the junior block office class at Clarkston High School.

Students have viable business

Stock control clerk Val Gilmore.

Jill Breckenridge [left] and Jeanne Berquist start a purchase order on its way through the various departments at Lester Hill, which is "one of this country's largest distributors of institutional equipment and supplies."

Teacher Patricia Crowley, vice president of Lester Hill, views the work of the four departments in the simulated corporation.

Maria Arizaga, foreign exchange student from Ecuador, prepares to model at convention.

Seniors demonstrate charisma

The 22 girls in the senior block business class at Clarkston High School this year added charisma to the curriculum which centers in office skills--and then they put on a practical demonstration of their charm.

Students in the simulated office class earn some funds by doing typing for businesses in the community. They used their profits this year to pay for a course called "Charisma," taught by the Pontiac Business Institute instructor who came out to the high school.

At the end of the charm course, they had an excellent opportunity to put their lessons to use by modeling in a fashion show at the Michigan Business Educators Association convention at the Detroit Hilton.

Big Sisters needed

Big Sister volunteers are needed to provide friendship and guidance to girls in need between the ages of 6 and 13. Requirements are a year's commitment on a two hour per week basis.

Are you a mother or guardian whose daughter could benefit from a close relationship with a mature adult? To either volunteer or for more information call the Pontiac Y.W.C.A., 334-0973.

Connie Ford demonstrates her charisma at business educators' convention

Diane Bey [standing], manager of Lester Hill's sales department, watches as Lorie Cross types up an order. Also in the department is Maryann Huff.
