Art Council wins village recognition

The area's newly formed Arts Council, recognized last week in Independence Township Board, has gained formal recognition from the Clarkston Village Council.

Joan Kopietz, temporary chairman of the council, said confirmation has been received from the Michigan Arts Council that the Michigan Artrain will pull into Clarkston Depot some time this fall.

The train carries a collection of art and attempts to give visitors some insight into various art trends.

Mrs. Kopietz spoke of plans for an art festival some time next year, and the possibility of getting free art exhibits from time to time through the state group. She said she would like to see a Youth Art Council formed.

One major goal of the council, Mrs. Kopietz said, would be assisting the area with its celebration of the Bicentennial.

Anti-rock petitions due at county

Petitions containing more than 500 signatures of Springfield Township residents unhappy with plans to present a series of rock and other concerts this summer at Springfield-Oaks will be presented Friday to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Supervisor Claude Trim said he will present the petitions to the commission at that time.

"There is a contract to allow these concerts to proceed, but I don't ever want one man deciding this kind of thing for the whole county again," Trim said.

"If the concerts proceed, the county has to be responsible. I don't want this thrown back on Springfield Township," he added.

Millage ok shouldn't increase tax

by Jean Saile

The issue which Clarkston Board of Education will take before the voters next June 10 shouldn't cause any appreciable increase in local tax bills, according to Dr. Leslie F. Greene, superintendent of the district.

Voters will be asked to approve a 4 mill increase in the operating fund, but an expected decrease in the current bonding levy of 7 mills should keep the total 28.21 mill package at or near its current level, Greene said.

"It is possible that in the fall voters will be asked whether or not they wish to pay more taxes," Greene said. At that time the Board of Education has indicated it will take to voters the question of whether they want to pay more for better physical plants in the school district.

The fall question will depend upon a favorable response on the June ballot, members of the board and administration are agreed.

Greene explained that under the recently adopted Bursley Bill to finance education, local districts can expect to be rewarded significantly for the first time in many years for increases in local taxes.

"Until this year," Greene noted, "increases in local revenue were largely erased by accompanying cutbacks in state aid. Though local people were paying much more in school taxes due to rising assessments, the overall school operational budget remained static or increased in small proportion.

"Now," Greene pointed out, "the state is willing to reward local districts for their tax efforts. But they've set a standard for ultimate rewards which Clarkston at its present 21.21 mill operational levy will forfeit."

Greene explained that the Bursley Bill carries the provision that local school districts should levy 22 mills for their operational budgets this year and 25 mills next year.

The 4 mills sought by the board in June would meet that contingency in the Clarkston District. The state pays about 60 percent of Clarkston school costs.

It has also been pointed out that were the operational millage to remain static, the bonding indebtedness levy would decrease and Clarkston School District residents could expect an overall smaller school tax.

"We are now the lowest operationally funded district in Oakland County," board spokesmen report. "We do not believe area residents would want to see any further cutbacks in school funding."

Greene has pointed out that those districts meeting state criteria would have a budget (due largely to increases in state aid) that would provide them with $3,700 more per classroom than Clarkston could hope to get without the millage increase.

"This would put us in a bad position to compete in the area of teacher salaries, and it would eliminate our hopes of being able to purchase portable classrooms to alleviate over crowded conditions at some of the elementary schools," Greene said.

"It would also make it difficult for us to fulfill the requirements of the Mandatory Special Education Act which requires that space and facilities be provided for special education in each of the buildings," Greene continued.

Greene said representatives of the board and the administration will be available for speaking engagements before local groups. A call to the board office at 625-4402.

Think "4th of July"

Independence Fire Fighters are already making plans for the area's big Fourth of July parade. Floats, cars and marching groups are being solicited in line with the parade theme, "What is Freedom?"

Three cash prizes for $50 for best float, $25 for best non-float, and $25 for second best float will be awarded.

Anybody interested in entering is asked to call Bill Halsey at 625-4057.

Halsey reports that the traditional practice of throwing candy from floats will be discontinued this year because of the safety factor.

Apply a bit of eye cream to the upper lid of your eyes, immediately above the roots of the lashes. Now draw a line with your crayon, working well in between the lashes with up and down strokes. Pitch In May 4 is cleanup

Pitch In in Independence is what community groups are calling their cleanup effort scheduled for May 4. A planning meeting Monday night was attended by Boy Scout leaders, service organizations and churches, and assignments to various areas of the township in need of cleanup were made with the help of Township Ordinance Enforcement Officer Tim Palulian. Any group not represented at the meeting, but desiring to take part, is asked to call independence center after Monday for its assignment.

Free bags will be provided by Powell Disposal Co. and can be obtained next week during working hours from Independence Township Hall and independence center. They will also be available Saturday morning, May 4. Lunch will be served to workers at Sashabaw Presbyterian Church on Maybee Road. Those people unable to assist with the cleanup, but willing to help with food preparation, are asked to contact Joette Kunse of Clarkston Community Women's Club or Marietta Bullard of the Farm and Garden Club.

Large items, such as refrigerators, stoves, etc., are to be left at the American Legion Post on M-15 or at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Maybee Road. These will be picked up for recycling by Ortonville Salvage Co. Smaller items may be left at Eston and Clarkston roads, and any items may be taken to the Powell Landfill on Clarkston Road.

Make believe war

Israeli-Arab conflicts may be making the news, but in Independence Township the cowboys and Indians are still at it. Chief Michael Glennie attempted Saturday to demolish rough-tough Tasha Vaara, but when last seen the two were headed hand-in-hand for the playground.

Watch those trash burners!

Carelessness is blamed for the 25 grass fires attended by the Independence Township Fire Department in the past week. Uncovered trash burners and deliberate setting of fire in fields is cited by Fire Chief Frank Ronk for the rash of blazes. A fire Sunday, he reported, burned 12 to 15 acres off Perry Lake Road. In all the department has spent 40 to 45 hours fighting grass fires in the last week, Ronk said. Ronk says it costs the department a minimum of $200 to $250 for each fire call answered. He advises that homeowners first see that trash burners are covered, and then that permits are obtained from the department for any major burning contemplated. The department has recently received delivery of a new four-wheel drive pickup truck and is awaiting the fire fighting unit which will convert it to a rescue-grass fire vehicle. The new truck will be housed at Station 2 on Clarkston Road, Ronk reported.

Personal taxes removed from sewer billings

Clarkston Village Council has moved to amend its sewer ordinance and absolve businessmen from the personal property tax which raised $5,000 last year toward sewer construction. The amendment was taken on the advice of attorneys and followed several complaints by village businessmen that they were being taxed twice to pay for the sewers. Business people pay property tax on their buildings and property, but the way the sewer ordinance was originally written they also had to pay tax on the contents of their stores and offices. It was reported that the three delinquent personal tax bills left over from last year are being met. Two businessmen have paid and the third is expected to shortly, the council was told.

Whether Clarkston will do its own billing for sewer services or let the township do it is still under study. The council is investigating costs of mailing out prepared cards for the $21.60 quarterly use charge, as opposed to letting the township handle it by computer. Council members are now checking collection costs, should banks and businesses be solicited as collection points.

Cost to the village for the first year if the township should handle the billings was estimated at $2,531.

Township hall open

Independence Township Hall is now open during the noon hour to accommodate residents. The township board voted recently to stagger lunch hours to provide for a full eight-hour office day. The new schedule went into effect Monday. The offices are now open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday.

Village plans to spend its money -- $245,000

Though the village of Clarkston budgeted $60,000 in its general fund last year for village operational costs, it spent only $27,460.

This year it has budgeted $46,295 with the idea that most of it might be spent on the cleanup and fix up in the aftermath of sewer construction.

Another $136,682, raised by the village's special 12.5 mill sewer tax last year and this, will be applied to sewer bond payments as they begin to fall due this year.

The sum of $62,522 is allotted for street improvement and maintenance, the funds coming from state gas and weight tax rebates and reserves carried over from previous years.

The general fund monies will be raised by a continued 2 1/2 mill levy. They could be increased by another $17,000 previously expended from the general fund for sewer engineering, legal and financial fees, which officials believe might be reimbursable from the sewer levy.

Increases in village expenses are seen in the $2,000 appropriated for park development along Depot Road; another $2,500 allotted for sidewalk repairs; $2,500 for street light improvements; and $3,500 for tree planting, removal and maintenance.

Increases in village expenses are seen in the areas of increased salaries, voted a month ago, which hike the total council salary package from $1,440 to $3,600.

The village's new planning commission has been given a $1,000 operating budget this year; $5,000 has been set aside for village hall maintenance needed to meet fire inspection standards; and new purchases, including a typewriter, calculator and adding machine are budgeted for the village clerk and treasurer.

The street program includes an estimated $35,000 in repaving of streets, some of which were torn up by sewer contractors and are to be repaved at the contractor's expense. Also included is the paving of some gravel streets.

The village has set aside $4,500 for an equipment reserve with an eye to building up a fund to provide for the purchase, when needed, of a new truck, tractor and other street equipment.

Village President Keith Hallman, noting the high figures, declared the projects contemplated are of emergency status. "We've been levying the 2 1/2 mills for a lot of years and not spending it," he said.

The vote in favor of adopting the budget which for general fund, streets and sewers totaled $245,218.79 was unanimous.

We're officially Bicentennial area

It's official! Clarkston is an official Bicentennial Community.

A telegram from Congressman William Broomfield to that effect was read to the Village Council Monday night.

Application for formal recognition, which could pave the way for Bicentennial grants for local projects, was made by the Clarkston Community Bicentennial Commission, headed by William Martin.

Springfield ponders motel, restaurants

Two requests for rezoning that, if allowed, would permit construction of a four-story motel and two restaurants on the Dixie Highway have been tabled for further study by the Springfield Township Planning Commission.

Involved are 13 acres at the Dixie Highway and I-75, part of the Deer Lake development proposed by Hugh Garner in Independence Township, and 7½ acres at Rattalee Lake Road which Robert Cavanaugh proposes be used for construction of a new Four Seasons Inn, a small grocery store and a barber and beauty shop.

Both parcels are now zoned residential, and the 50 people present at the commission meeting last week expressed objections to change.

Garner was represented at the meeting by Attorney Abe Singer who requested a C-3 classification for the Deer Lake property, which abuts 17 acres in Independence Township proposed for commercial by the developer. He says plans are to build a four-story motel and a Stouffer's Restaurant.

Hadyr Cook, 6241 Simler Drive, president of the Deer Lake Association, representing homeowners in Independence Township, asked the commission not to make any decision until current litigation involving Garner and Independence Township is resolved.

Singer contended, "We think we're projecting the best use of the land. We don't think that it will impose a burden on the homeowners in the area. Things are changing and logic would determine that C-3 would be the best use for the land."

Lee Meyers of Kind Road expressed the sentiment of many present. "You say things are changing. That property is the same as it's always been . . . The only way it will change is if we allow it to be rezoned."

Michael Barren of Dixie Highway agreed in part with Singer. "I tend to agree with the developer," he said. "Maybe that would be the best use for the land, but not now. Maybe way in the future."

He pointed out, "A short time ago an oil leak in our township showed up immediately in Deer Lake and presented them with a problem. If there's a fire, I don't know if our volunteer department could handle a four-story motel."

Glenn Underwood added, "I don't see how the board can make a decision until we know what Independence Township is doing."

Cavanaugh asked for C-1 zoning 400 feet along the Dixie Highway south of the present Four Seasons Inn. He said the existing liquor license would be transferred to a new Bavarian chalet type building.

The parcel proposed for rezoning extends back to Dixie Lake, however Cavanaugh asked that only the front part be rezoned.

Douglas Ferguson of King Road was opposed, fearing pollution that might be caused by future expansion of business onto the lake. Harry Tinson, of Rattalee Lake Road, said he would favor business over multiples in the area, for which there is already nearby zoning.

Sophomores to get word

Parents of next year's sophomores at Clarkston High School have been invited to a pair of meetings to learn about curriculum offerings.

Sashabaw Junior High students and their parents are asked to attend at 7:30 p.m. May 1 in the high school auditorium, and Clarkston Junior High students and parents are invited for 7:30 p.m. May 2.

Counselors Mrs. Marilyn Hanson, Mrs. Margo Lay and Bill Bonnell will spell out classes available to the students next year and through their whole period at the high school.

Questions will be answered and refreshments served.

We Americans sure do love our comfort.

And why shouldn't we?

We work hard to put bread on the table. And a little extra in the bank. So we can afford comfortable homes, comfortable clothing, comfortable cars. We don't see anything wrong with that at all.

Fact is, out here in Oakland County, where a car is more of a home away from home, the most popular cars are still full-size—like our Caprices, Impalas, and Chevilles. And we maintain, energy shortage or not, they're still the best and safest value-per-mile you can find on wheels.

Something else. The difference in gas mileage between a smooth, well-tuned Chevy V-8 and a smaller car is surprisingly little when it's driven with care . . . when the air conditioning (if you've got it) is used only when needed . . . when the plugs and air filter are kept clean.

So, why don't you come in and chat. We'll show you why you don't have to give up the comforts of home. Even when you're out on the road.

Jaycees elect Jim Brueck

Jim Brueck has been elected president of Clarkston Area Jaycees for a one-year term beginning April 17. He succeeds Mark Pankner who has become chairman of the board.

Brueck, who hopes to top senior citizens experience and abilities for the benefit of the community this year, will be assisted in office by Mike Luckenbach, administrative assistant; Ron Crites, internal vice president; Marty Durlacher, external vice president; and Greg Galligan, ways and means vice president.

Other officers are Brian Dearsley, treasurer; Rick Shreeves, recording secretary, Jim Lindsey, corresponding secretary; and Rick Fornier, Rick Migrants, Dave and Rick Hall, Darryl Sinclair and Mike Foote, directors.

Brueck said that besides offering seniors a chance for community involvement through the club, he would like to relate individual priorities to community betterment.

"Those members who are sports minded can find a niche in our youth programs -- junior golf, youth job counseling, drug programs, etc.," he said.

Theme for the coming year is "People Progress", Brueck noted.

A Jaycee since 1971 having served as the club's internal vice president, its corresponding secretary and publicity chairman, Brueck is employed at GMC Truck and Coach in the truck design engineering department.

He is married to Ruth and the father of John, 4, Jim, 3, and Mike, 2. They live at 5995 Middle Lake Road.

Two cyclists hurt as season starts

Area motorcycle accidents have injured two young men--one seriously--recently as the cycling season gets into full swing.

A 22-year old Holly Township man has been under care in Pontiac General Hospital since Tuesday, April 16, when the motorcycle he was operating collided with a car at Holcomb and Bluegrass roads in Independence Township.

Initially in the intensive care ward, Robert Krafcik of 10900 Holly Road was listed in satisfactory condition early this week.

The driver of the car involved in the 3:55 p.m. accident, Michael Steutzer, 20, of 9440 Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township, was not injured, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

A 16-year-old Davisburg youth, Hugh Hutchins of 11999 Scott was released from the hospital after being treated for injuries he sustained in a motorcycle mishap Saturday, April 20.

Deputies said Hutchins was driving a motorcycle west on Big Lake Road when it hit gravel and slid into a tree about a mile west of Andersonville Road and Springfield Township.

During the weekend, police answered several motorcycle complaints and patrolled particularly troublesome areas according to Independence Township police.

They reported talking to 19 violators in the southwest portion of the township on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, giving them initial warnings. In the case of minors operating the vehicles, parents are notified.

Local and county officers also received reports of church services being disturbed by the noise of motorcycles.

New rules to learn in school financing

Now—before the pressure of an immediate election—is the time for school district electors to acquaint themselves with the facts behind the Board of Education's decision to seek a 4-mill operational increase on June 10.

Speakers from both the board and the administration have volunteered to appear before groups to spell out district financing and what the additional funds will mean.

They will also point out that an increase in operational millage does not, at the present time, mean an increase in the overall school tax package. A planned reduction in bonding millage should just about offset the operational increase, administrators have determined.

School financing is absolutely new this year under terms of the recently adopted State Bursley Bill. There are new rules to follow and learn about, because the old ones don't apply any more.

'If It Fitz...'

Little people remind us

by Jim Fitzgerald

The Little People came and I was reminded again of several important things, including how much fun it is to skin the cat once or twice but not all day, for Lord's sake, not all day.

First the grandchildren came to visit. That means 4-year-old Michele and 16-month-old Melissa. Naturally, they are unusual children and, like it or not, I am going to tell you about them. (The boys at the Alibi Bar are now turning to the next page. I can't be Peck's Bad Boy every week, fellows).

Michele is the world's biggest ham. A camera clicks 5 miles away and she automatically poses. My wife has taken so many snapshots of her she could make one of those Walt Disney nature films that record a plant's growth minute by minute. Flip through our photo file and see an infant grow into a kindergartener before your very eyes in just 5 minutes. Drive downtown and see the handsome drugstore financed by the poor sap who pays to have the film developed.

Melissa is husky from continual exercise. She gets the exercise hunting food and cramming it down her gullet. I won't say she has thick thighs, but she has already been drafted by the Detroit Lions. She is probably the world's only 16-month-old granddaughter who weighs more than her grandfather. Some day she will make some lucky man a wonderful steam shovel.

That's them. But that's not all. A few days later my sister and her family came calling. This was not Terrible Jean who is my oldest sister. This was Dumb Linda, my youngest sister. Linda is not really dumb in the usual meaning of the word. She can read and write and charm. It's just that she's never had time to keep up with current events. I remember my dear father advising Linda as she prepared to cast her first vote in a Presidential election. "She was surprised to hear about the death of Abraham Lincoln," he told me later.

Anyway, Linda is young enough to still be productive in fields left fallow by her ancient siblings. (The boys in the Alibi Bar wouldn't understand that sentence anyway). On Easter she and husband Tony introduced us to their 10-day-old son. And he has 3 big brothers, but none bigger than 7 years. When they all arrived at the front door I thought the nursery class had been excommunicated from the church across the street.

But those 3 little boys are a platoon confined to barracks. They don't make a move without an advance OK from Sgt. Linda who could teach Hitler how to goose step. They say please and thank you and pardon me. They clean up their messes and they don't touch their dessert until they've finished their potatoes. After they left I kicked both my teenagers in the shins 5 times simply because it seemed like the right thing to do.

Get this: 7-year-old nephew Tommy was warned not to eat some candy because he'd spoil his dinner. "I would spoil my appetite, not my dinner," he said. "The dinner will be the same no matter what I eat before it."

Geez. He reads to his mother every night before she goes to sleep.

But I started to tell you about skinning the cat. Do you know how it's done? I'm an expert, so I'll tell you. You get a little kid to stand in front of you and wrap his hands around your thumbs. He then walks straight up your legs and stomach. Pretty quick his shoes are at your chin and his head is near your belt. You then flip him into a backward somersault and he lands on his feet with much laughing and pleas to "do it again." This is skinning the cat. 3 skins are fun but 15 are exhausting and 50 in 1 day are impossible for a man over 40.

The best thing about skinning the cat for grandfathers is it gives you much opportunity to hug the kid and nuzzle her neck and smell her fragrance and feel again the best feeling of all.

...and remember how it used to be.

Taking a dive

by Jean Saile

They're calling me "Grace" this week, and they tend to snicker when they do.

Though now close to 44 years, I guess I have never fully outgrown the early teen syndrome of having the furniture automatically fall down whenever I entered a room.

My nose sports a gigantic and undignified bandaid, and my knee doesn't work very well, but I'm not sick enough to stay home and hide from my detractors.

There are those who are suggesting that somebody finally caught up with the editor of this newspaper, others eyeing my husband wonderingly (and he deserves it though not for the reason they have), and the kids are fractured.

My great loss of dignity came about because I got thirsty at 4 a.m. Monday morning, and being a thoughtful wife I did not turn on the light to make my way to the kitchen.

The guardian angel which sometimes perches on my shoulder was obviously still asleep, and I forgot totally the carpet we'd rolled and stowed in the living room to await the cleaners.

Looking back on it, I guess you could say I executed a half gainer that didn't finish well. My left foot caught the carpet and I catapulted through the air landing on my nose and my right knee.

Then I lay there—bleeding to death, I was sure—waiting for someone to come rescue me. The house slept on—even my husband in the room next door. The crash had not disturbed him, he snored evenly.

It dawned on me that any rescue effort would have to be self-propelled, unless I chose to lie there and scream loudly.

Balancing the results one way and another, I struggled painfully to my feet and made a mad dash for the bathroom and the medicine cabinet.

I turned on the light as I was limping back to bed, and my husband opened one eye, looked at the clock, and asked, "What in heaven's name (or something like that) have you got the light on at this hour for?"

That, friends—as we say at The Clarkston News office—was when the brick hit the pan.

He has really been quite solicitous since.

Letters to the editor

She's unhappy

Dear Editor:

I did not know until now, how much I was missing by not reading the Clarkston News. When you have to work like I do for fourteen to sixteen hours a day just to live in this Township and pay your taxes, there is not much time left for reading. When you have to work six weeks out of the year to pay taxes on the house you live in, there is no way to accumulate five dollars for a subscription. So I have to read a hand me down Clarkston News.

What made the most interesting reading, in your paper was the alleged need to preserve Deer Lake as it is. The best plan suggested indicates a cost of about two million dollars or about $480 on each family in the township; of course part of that is for maintenance and office expense. The effort should be headed by a Forest Ranger at $20,000 per year. These people must have the best.

I think it would be a great idea to surround the lake with a thirty foot Green Belt, cat tails and all. No one should be allowed across the Green Belt, not even the present property owners. Take all power boats and other craft off the lake; power boats are not a part of virgin scenery. Remove the swimmers, for beer can tossing swimmers while they are brawling and sprawling do nothing for virgin scenery. Besides the ammonia content of the beach would be lowered ninety nine percent or more.

I believe the Deer Lake request and petition to the Township came from average U.S. citizens. I asked my acquaintances what the financial status was of the average citizen on the petition and around Deer Lake. All seemed to agree that the Deer Lake Boosters could afford only one new Cadillac or Mark 4 per year but not both makes new at the same time. Further check showed they had a two or three car garage containing three or four motorcycles, three or four snowmobiles and a yard tractor. In the driveway was three or four automobiles and that included the new Cadillac. Also there was a cruiser and a camping trailer, both illegally parked according to Township Ordinance. This group needs the lake for their view, except two weeks in the summer and two weeks in the winter, while they are Trans-Aming across the country.

Since these people can't afford their own scenery, it will be up to people like myself, that come home with $60 per week, to furnish them with something to look at during their sober moments.

Now this scheme may work if we keep it out of the newspapers, so the minorities in Flint and Pontiac won't hear about the Public property that ties into Deer Lake. If they yell loud enough that beach and lake will be wide open to the Public.

Fair is fair is fair

Letter to the Editor:

I have not exactly been a friend of developers. I felt the people had rights which were being violated when I ran for Trustee four years ago. Time proved me correct. But fair is fair is fair.

Certain things can be done for the community legally, others can be tried for by coercion. This is wrong, and I will have no part of it regardless of the "high" motives. The community and a developer are in the quandry now, with the safety on M-15 just north of the freeway involved.

A small shopping center is planned on the west side of M-15 at Cranberry Lake Road. The developer was required to put a deceleration lane along M-15 on his side of the road. This was a necessary requirement of the State Highway Department. The lane will be costly, for the developer, but it will serve only him. A passing lane was also deemed necessary on the east side of the road because if someone coming from Clarkston had to stop to make either a left turn into the shopping center or onto Cranberry Lake Road, another car coming from behind could hit the waiting car. Since this is a corner, the passing lane would serve the community as well as the shopping center. There is no mechanism for cost sharing of the roads with the State Highway Department as there is with the Oakland County Road Commission. A "NO LEFT TURN" sign can be put up if a problem develops. The land was zoned for the use when the developers came in for site plan review. Every effort was made to resolve the problem on the drawing board and in the planning stage. The attorney, planner, Engineers and the Highway Department were all consulted. Coercion of the developer would only result in a lost law suit.

Your planning commission is trying to serve the community. They are doing a creditable job in an imperfect world. This report is to show one knotty problem to which there is no known solution. We tried, now we hope for the best.

Keith A. Humbert

Rounded education

Dear Mrs. Saile,

During the past few years, our children have been enrolled in the Clarkston Nursery program and have received what we feel to be a well founded, complete educational and social learning process for that level.

Our son is ready to enroll in the first grade and our daughter in kindergarten this fall. We are concerned with the educational program beyond kindergarten in the graded levels.

It is now difficult to remember my grade levels and the enjoyment derived from the formal Physical Ed and Art programs at our schools. Where are they here? Now?

We, I suppose, are once again to provide the so-called frills and untalented or less than professional, our results will be less than desirable. We do now want little professional athletes or artists, but feel that a regular diet of P.E. and art will be in their best interests and round out the "3-R's."

Even the best teachers has difficulty maintaining interest throughout the day with children whose activity level is high. A controlled release both of physically and creativity will help channel this energy productively.

One might suppose that a very talented child could slip through the elementary years without being recognized. That is an awesome responsibility. Talent and ability do not begin in the seventh grade.

Can we have the board's thoughts? We, as parents are more than willing to help. We want our children to have the opportunity to be fully educated.

Concerned parent

A thank you

Dear Editor:

We would like to express our appreciation for being honored by the Clarkston Eagles Order No. 3373 on their "Liberty under Law Day." It was indeed a great honor and the dinner and evening of entertainment was enjoyed by our association.

Thank you

Write legislators

Editor:

A corps of concerned recovered alcoholics are seeking the active support of fellow recovered alcoholics in the area served by your newspaper.

We are aware that for the second successive year, the State Legislature may dawdle and delay passage of a bill that would decriminalize public intoxication.

We ask that you publish this information as a letter to the Editor in the hope that other concerned recovered alcoholics who read your newspaper will thereby be stimulated to encourage their representatives in the House and Senate to work for passage of House Bill 4008.

Acceptance of alcoholism as a disease by the suffering alcoholic is the best first step towards recovery.

The American Medical Association

agreed a decade ago that alcoholism is a disease.

A number of hospitals in the state offer treatment for the disease of alcoholism.

About 16 other states have passed laws decriminalizing public intoxication and establishing programs for prevention and treatment.

Added federal funds for treatment programs are promised to states if these states will decriminalize alcoholism.

Let's stop putting people in jail because they are sick!

Will every recovered (or recovering) alcoholic or any other concerned citizen who reads this please contact his legislators by mail or by phone and demand action now.

Will Hardy, President
National Council on Alcoholism

Independence department heads get raises

Non-elected Independence Township officials have received salary boosts ranging from $880 for the building department director to $2,000 for the ordinance enforcement officer in that department.

Building Department Director Kenneth Delbridge's salary was raised to $16,880.

The salary of ordinance enforcement officer Timothy J. Palulian, who was hired into a newly created post last year, was boosted from $9,500 to $11,500.

Other increases for department heads were from $15,000 to $16,500 for Planner Larry Burkhardt, from $14,500 to $16,000 for Fire Chief Frank Ronk and Director of Police Services Jack McCall, from $15,000 to $16,000 for Department of Public Works Director George Anderson and from $13,000 to $14,000 for Assessor Richard Huffman and Recreation Director Tim Doyle.

Delbridge, Anderson, Ronk, McCall and Huffman also retain use of township vehicles under provisions of the wage package approved by the township board last week.

Ordinance update viewed

Possible updating of village ordinances to conform with township laws is being studied by Clarkston Village Council.

The similar ordinances would provide for easier enforcement, Clerk Bruce Rogers told the group Monday night.

Clarkston shares the cost of the Township Police Department and benefits from Oakland County Sheriff's Department patrol in the area. Similar ordinances for the entire township and village would make the enforcement job easier, he said.

Litter, junk cars, intinerant merchants, nuisance and the criminal code are among those laws being reviewed.

Some of the current village ordinances reportedly date back to the 20's and 30's and are too vague for strict enforcement.

The rank of Chevalier is the highest honor which the International Supreme Court can bestow upon a young man for outstanding service to the fraternity. The time and place of the conferral of this high investiture will be announced at a later date.

horn, exhaust system, windshield wipers and washers, glass areas, driver and car credentials.

An "Important Information Bulletin" has found its way from the Pontiac School System to The Clarkston News. Turns out it's a policy on streaking which provides that female employees streak on odd days, male employees on even days, and all employees on paydays.

John DiPietro of 6279 Snowapple has won the Michigan State Lottery 33 times, but he's never won the $1,000 prize nor the $10,000 prize, even though he's had as many as seven chances at a time. He's been one number away several times, and he figures the law of averages is operating in his favor. DiPietro buys 50 tickets a week, and so far, he says, he's ahead of the game.

Bud Parker passes along word about the death of James Carter, 43, staff representative for the American Federation of State County, and Municipal Employees, who served as Independence Township staff representative.

The policy also provides that men with tattoos of butterflies, roses or elves will streak with the females.

Louis Schimmel who had begun to circulate nominating petitions for the Senatorial seat now held by Harvey Lodge finds his candidacy a luxury he cannot afford.

Carter had just negotiated a new contract with West Bloomfield when he was stricken April 18. Burial was Monday, at Roseland Park Cemetery, Royal Oak. Carter is survived by his wife, Helen, and two children.

"Junior executives may carry their brief cases while streaking; however the usual rule applies -- junior executives may never carry any business papers, but may carry the usual, such as a box of Kleenex, lunch, wife's shopping list and Playboy magazines."

He says attorneys have advised him he would have to resign as director of the Municipal Advisory Council of Michigan, the Pontiac State Bank and as secretary of the Waterford School Board.

Motorists in the area are advised the motor vehicle inspection team from the State Police and about 40 other agencies are preparing to start their 1974 random check lane programs. Of the 302,857 cars and trucks checked last year, 41 percent passed the initial test. Inspection items include tires, brakes, lights, steering, turn signals,

If the would-be streaker's physique might be confused as belonging to the opposite sex, participants are required

"There is no way I can live on a Senator's salary," Schimmel said. "I wonder how many other qualified candidates do not run because of that reason."

Some of the people planning to participate in the Police-Fire Clarkston Flyers benefit hockey game last Friday were taking no chances. They talked of an after-game party in Pontiac General's emergency room.

It's time to start saving old newspapers again. Boy Scout Troop 126 will be collecting May 11 at Clarkston United Methodist Church. Contributors are asked to deliver bundled papers to the truck there at that time.

Larry Rosso, president of the Clarkston Education Association, reports that the 400 teachers who live or work in the district are being contacted Among the team members fielded by the Police and Fire Departments were Jack Beach, Larry Miracle, Jim Sturgis and Mike Fahrner. They beat the Flyers 8-7.

Boating classes offered at Y

In cooperation with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the YMCA of North Oakland County will sponsor a Pleasure Boating Course, beginning Tuesday, April 23, 1974.

The course is required for youngsters 12 - 16 years of age who plan to operate a motor boat by an engine of 6 or more horsepower. The course consists of five classroom instructional hours, divided between two consecutive Tuesday evenings, April 23 and April 30. Parent attendance is encouraged. All course materials are supplies to the student without charge, and instructors are members of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. A Boating Safety Certificate is issued to those who pass the course.

Get your licenses

Independence Township now is in the business of licensing dogs and fishermen.

Previously, dog licenses could be purchased at the township hall only between Dec. 1 and March 1, according to Treasurer Betty Hallman. After the March 1 deadline, township residents had to go down to Oakland County Animal Shelter to buy the licenses at twice the price, she said.

Although the price of the tags still is increased from $3 to $6 after the deadline, they can be bought at the township hall in Clarkston as of this week, she noted.

Mrs. Hallman also has become a state agent authorized to sell fishing licenses this year, she said, commenting that this is an expansion of the township's parks and recreation program.

Mistakes costly to Varsity ball team

By Mike Jewell

The Clarkston Varsity baseball team dropped its record to 4-5 by losing 3 of last week's 5 games, mainly due to mistakes and errors when on defense.

To start off, they lost to Pontiac Northern 13-8 last Monday, even though they out hit the Huskies 10 to 9.

The Wolves were behind the whole game as starter Ken Foster relinquished 10 runs and 7 hits in the first four innings. Mike Counter did a good job in relief as he whiffed 8 batters and gave up 3 runs on 2 hits.

Kurt Hesse had his best showing of

JV team now 3-0

By Mike Jewell

The Clarkston Wolves JV baseball team increased its record to 3-0 last Saturday, sweeping a double header from Royal Oak Kimball.

In the first game the Wolves were behind 2-0 until the sixth inning when they came up with 3 clutch runs. Jim Dyke sacrificed in Clarkston's first run. Tom Bosquez later on in the inning singled in two runs to win the game for the Wolves. Bosquez came in as a pinch hitter for Bob Kratt who's hot bat made him 3 for 3 for the game.

Jeff Schatz pitched the entire game to earn his first win striking out 7, walking only 2, and giving up 2 runs on 6 hits.

The second game was a close back and forth type affair, the Wolves ending up on the good side of a 6-5 score.

Clarkston got off to an early 2-0 lead but tied at 4-4 going into the final inning. Again they came up with some clutch runs as Tom Bosquez doubled in a run to put Clarkston ahead. Doug Manigold then singled in Bozquez to earn what was eventually the winning RBI. Jim Dyke also had a fine day at the plate as he singled and doubled in 3 tries.

Todd Himes started the game, struck out 3 batters, walked 4, and gave up 4 runs and 7 hits. He was relieved by Steve Pearson in the sixth inning. Pearson, who received his first win, did a fine job in relief as he gave up only one run on one hit.

Hole-in-one for Rothbart

First Hole-in-One of the 1974 season at Holly Greens Golf Course was scored by Ron Rothbart, of Clarkston on the 190 yard 8th hole with a three iron.

Rothbart, a GMC Truck and Coach employee, has been playing golf for 37 years and this was his first Hole-in-One. He captains one of the two teams sponsored by Holly Greens Golf Course in the Michigan Public Links Golf Association and plays to a four handicap.

Pre-school classes

Classes in diving, swimming, water skiing and gym exercise have been scheduled for pre-schoolers by the North Oakland YMCA beginning next week. Infants as young as six months will be accepted for swimming instruction.

the season at the plate doubling twice to knock in 3 runs. In the third inning Dan Blower collected 2 RBI's as he smacked the team's first home run of the season. The ball, with a hop, ended up on the football field. Coach Paul Tungate said it was the longest hit ball he's even see at Clarkston. Tim Thompson also knocked in 2 RBI's with a double and a sacrifice while Jeff Harry also had a decent day at the plate with a single and a double.

The Wolves fared better last Wednesday, when they swept a double header from Rochester Adams.

In the first game, George Porritt went 2-3 with 3 RBI's to lead Clarkston to a 9-6 victory.

One of Porritt's hits was a two run double in the fourth inning to give Clarkston a narrow 4-3 lead. The Wolves then came up with 5 big runs in the 5th inning to clinch the team's total 9 hits to keep himself at the top of the team's batting average.

Dave Heffernan went the distance to increase his record to 2-1 as he struck out 2, walked 4, and gave up 6 runs on 6 hits.

The second game was a tighter battle with the wolves again coming out on top 4-3. Mike Hooper, who was 1-3 for 2

RBI's, knocked in the winning run in the 3rd inning, to give Clarkston a 4-2 lead at the time. Dave Blower knocked in the Wolves 2 other runs while Kevin Hesse had a hot bat with 2 hits and 4 tries.

Steve Howe pitched the whole game, striking out a season high 10 batters, walked 5, and gave up 3 runs on 7 hits. Howe's record now stands at 1-0.

Last Saturday the Wolves increased Kimball's record to 7-0 as they dropped both games of a twin bill to the Royal Oak team.

Clarkston lost the opener 7-2 despite out hitting them 7-4. Dan Blower knocked in Clarkston's only runs with a two run double in the opening inning. Jeff Harvey was 2-2 as he rapped out two singles.

Mike Coulter's record dropped to 1-1 as he struck out 9, walked 9 and gave up all 7 runs on only 4 hits.

Clarkston fell 5-1 in the following game even though Ken Foster, now 0-3, pitched a one hitter. Foster also struck out 3 and walked 5. The Wolves lost the game in the 4th inning as they gave up all 5 runs due to 4 errors.

Clarkston again out hit them with only 3 hits while their only run came in the 5th inning because of an error.

The Wolves' record is now 4-5. Coach Paul Tungate's said, "We're out-hitting and out-pitching our opponents but we're losing because we're not out-fielding them."

Parents now responsible for child's littering

Hey, Dad! State law now says you're presumed to be responsible for any litter the kids toss out of the car while you're at the wheel. Same with Mom if she's the driver.

That's one result of amendments to Michigan's anti-litter law which went into effect March 29. All are designed to deter the litter-bugs who dirty the Michigan landscape, and its lakes and rivers.

State police now are enforcing the new law and its expected to enable them to increase the number of arrests and convictions for littering. Last year, state troopers made 376 arrests for littering, resulting in 236 convictions. Local lawmen also made many arrests, but the total is small in comparison to the millions of unreported acts of littering.

The new law raises the maximum fee for littering from $100 to $400. It retains the maximum 90-day jail sentence.

Another new provision declares that "the driver of a vehicle or vessel is presumed to be responsible for litter which is thrown, dropped, dumped, deposited, placed or left from the vehicle or vessel on public or private property, or waters . . ."

Further, in any proceedings for a littering violation, the registered owner of the vehicle or boat from which littering is shown to have taken place is presumed to have been the driver.

Michigan's anti-litter law still empowers judges, in lieu of a fine and/or jail sentence, to sentence litterers to a period of litter pickup.

The Department of State Highways and Transportation expects to spend approximately $1.25 million for litter-gathering along the 9,250 miles of state highways this year.

Maintenance engineers estimate that less than 40 percent of the total is spent to pickup loose stones, tree limbs and other debris that might be a hazard to traffic. The other 60 percent will be spent to pick up paper containers, bottles, cans and other trash tossed or dumped beside state highways by litter-bugs.

Shopping centers increase

The number of existing and proposed mobile home sites in Southeast Michigan jumped from 26,110 in 1968, to 42,793 in 1973 -- a 64 percent increase -- according to a recent report by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The report further indicates that the 1973 figure accounts only for existing and planned sites in developed mobile home parks which includes 85 percent of all mobile home sites in the region.

The remaining 15 percent -- mostly single mobile homes on private property -- boosts the total number of mobile homes in Southeast Michigan to an estimated 50,347, according to the report.

"The steady increase of new mobile homes as a proportion of all new housing units has established mobile homes as an important part of the housing market in Southeast Michigan," the report says.

The report, the only regionwide survey of mobile home sites in Southwest Michigan, was prepared by SEMCOG in cooperation with each of the seven county health departments.

Retarded get new chance

"I feel sorry for them because of their condition. Some can't talk. Some can't walk. Some can't feed themselves.

"When you look at them, you feel thankful for yourself and your health."

Speaking is a nurse aide helper at the Hoover Convalescent and Rehabilitative center in Warren. She works a special 140 bed pediatric unit for the mentally retarded, aged three months to 14 years.

The ironic thing about her statement is that the nurse aide helper is also retarded.

The concept of having the retarded help the retarded was conceived by Marty Dettloff, pediatric supervisor at Hoover, who created the unique nurse aide help positions.

Dettloff said, "We felt that because we are the type of facility that we are, we owed them a chance."

Dettloff has a sister who is retarded, so Dettloff had confidence that the retarded would be able to handle the duties. She gave them responsible duties -- not the typical mopping up the floors or sweeping -- their duties assigned to the retarded.

"The nurse aide helpers," Dettloff explained, "help to free the nurse aides from time consuming duties, so nurse aides can now spend more time with the children. For example, because nurse aides are so busy with helping the children to feed themselves, they have little time to clean up the feeding area. A little duty, such as taking a child downstairs to catch a bus, proved time consuming.

"Now," Dettloff continued, "the nurse aide helpers help to clean the feeding areas and take the children to meet the bus. This has allowed the nurse aides to become more involved in the children's programs, such as helping the children walk or talk.

Dettloff mentioned the idea of hiring the retarded to help the retarded at a meeting with staff of the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center. The staff suggested she contact the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, which she did.

She then wrote up the description of the jobs. The duties were kept very simple, such as helping the nurse aide pass nourishments, making beds, and folding and putting away clothes.

"I did not want the nurse aides to handle the residents, until I got to know them better," Dettloff said. "So, they were told not to change diapers or remove the children from cribs, or to feed the children.

"Right now," she continued, "I am watching them closely. If they do a good job, there is a possibility that I will allow them to become regular nurse aides."

Since last December, Vocational Rehabilitation has sent 10 women around 20 years old to Hoover. Six have become regular employees at Hoover.

"On the whole, the women are very conscientious," said Dettloff. "They get to work on time and there is little absenteeism. At the beginning, since they lacked confidence, I could not make them deviate from the routine duties. Now, I can give them little side orders like, 'Go to the kitchen.'

"I don't know if they correlate their retardation with the little kids. After you get to know the women, you have to ask yourself 'Are they retarded?' They carry on a normal conversation.

The first six weeks the women worked, Hoover was reimbursed by Vocational Rehabilitation. After the six weeks, they became regular Hoover employees -- subject to the same rules and benefits as other employees.

When asked what she did with the money she was earning, one nurse aide helper gave a pretty normal answer.

"I spent it," she said.

John McAuliffe Ford

"All American Ford Team"

Stop In & Meet Herb Orvis

The Detroit Lions All American
& Their All Pro Team

In this day and age when every car maker has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it is really difficult for you to decide where to go for a new car. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say which car really is. Obviously all the cars on the market today must have their good points or they wouldn't have survived the ups and downs of the business. We, therefore, can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy it from.

The ideal dealer to buy a car from offers a fair price on the new unit, as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in. However, the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car year after year.

The writers of the 1974 Review would like to point out a dealer that considers the most important part of selling a car is the quality service he can offer you after the sale. We are talking about John McAuliffe Ford at 1845 South Telegraph Rd. in Pontiac, phone 335-4101, dealers for the famous '74 Ford automobiles. See them today for a new or quality used car, and you'll see why we say "Customer Consideration" is their byword.

Planned series rocks Davisburg

By Betty Hecker

Proposed hard rock concerts at Oakland County Springfield-Oaks Park on Andersonville Road in Davisburg inspire different reactions among area residents.

Of the people interviewed last Friday morning, six were very much opposed to the idea of hard rock, while two others thought it would be a great idea.

Earl VanLeuven of 10290 Rattalee Lake Road said, "I'm not in favor of them for us, especially for a small town like Davisburg. If they'd go into the sticks, someplace where there aren't any people around, I guess it'd be alright."

VanLeuven

Howarth

Cliff Schoenhals, owner of Davisburg Hardware Store, said, "We have been trying to get as many signatures on petitions as we can to stop them. There are two reasons, first is the traffic problem. We can't handle it (if the concerts draw as many as 15,000 people) here in this small town." His second reason was a personal one, as he said, "I don't have much use for hard rock music."

Nancy Howarth thinks that the idea is "Terrific!" but that there is "a lot of excitement over nothing. I do not believe that there will ever be 15,000 people out here. Davisburg is an unlisted town," she said, indicating the telephone directory. "How will they ever find us?"

Nancy's husband, Leonard Howarth, Davisburg's only attorney, promoted and brought the first rock concert to the park last summer.

Marlene Hillman has lived in Davisburg all her life and thinks that "There shouldn't be hard rock all summer long. That's not what the park and the activity center were originally meant for."

Hillman

Tatro

Al Tatro of the Town and County Grocery Store, the only grocery store in town, knows that he could probably sell a lot of cold pop and beer, but he's opposed to hard rock concerts. "I can work two ways. The problem would be with all the people that would not be able to get into the concert. Where will they go and what will they do? Will I have to put bars up on my windows and doors, and hire someone to sit here holding a shotgun to protect my store?"

As far as I am concerned, Davisburg can't handle it. The roads just won't handle the traffic."

George Prose lived on Andersonville Road very near the park. He said very emphatically, "No! I don't like the idea of hard rock concerts and I'll tell you why. That park is supposed to be used for our kids, our county and the 4-H, not for hard rock and people from all over Detroit."

"A few rock parties would be alright," Elmer Krause of Tindall Road said. "And it would be great if they bring in some good Country Western music. They have a good building there, and it's a nice place to have the concerts. We have too many nice people coming out here to deal with the Detroit trash."

Prose

Krause

One woman, who wished not to be identified, said, "I signed the petition against rock concerts, but only because of the neighbors. If they didn't see my name on the list, they would probably ostracize me. But you know, if we vote that traffic would be the great problem, will we also sign petitions against traffic for the 4-H Fair, or the police sponsored circus, or the rodeo?"

Springfield prepares to clean up

Springfield Township's annual cleanup has been slated for the week of April 29 to May 4, with a concentrated effort made May 4.

Trash may be left behind the township hall any day during the week, but plastic bags will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 4.

Residents having or knowing of junk cars are asked to contact Don Rogers at 625-1664. He'd also like volunteers to help with the job.

Food will be served to all workers on May 4, and Marlowe's Landfill on Rose Center Road in Rose Township will accept Springfield trash free of charge on that day.

Rogers adds that people having washers, dryers or other big items for which they need transport can call the township hall at 625-4802 or 634-3111 for pickup.

Garden editor views Xenia destruction

BY Dave Coulter

Clarkston News Garden Editor

April 18, 1974 - The Ohio State Highway Patrol is still maintaining road blocks at the entrances of Xenia, Ohio, because looting is still being practiced, two weeks and a day after the tornado devastated this town.

Xenia, in the heart of Greene County, is situated a few miles southeast of Dayton and consequently only a few miles from I-75. The topography of Greene County is that of gentle, rolling land. The fields are green, the forsythia and dandelions are in bloom and outside of town all the promises of spring are there. Xenia is the crossroads town with the two main streets running almost east and west-north and south. In the northeast corner of the intersection of the main streets stands the Greene County Court House. It is American Gothic of grey field stone blocks, has a tall spire, and had a rose window. It could have passed as a church. Downtown Xenia ranges the four directions from the court house and resembles hundreds of other American small towns, or it did until about 4:45 p.m. Wed., April 3rd, when the tornado struck!

Following the typical southwest to northeast tornado pattern this storm wreaked havoc comparable only to World War II's bombing of European cities! The still standing trees remind you of World War II's shelling of Pacific atolls. Stripped of all but a few major branches, some of these still cradling debris, they stand lonely and naked.

Pictures most of us have seen of tornado funnels show a vortex only a few yards wide, which snake, over the landscape; but this funnel touched down low, the snaking vortex was almost a half a mile wide. Utter destruction was left in its path.

My customer's place of business, a farm store, is situated in the southwestern quadrant of Xenia and the funnel cloud touched down about a half mile southwest. His business was located on the southern run of the path of destruction. Only a few yards from his retail complex, buildings were undisturbed.

Dave Masters, store manager, reported the radio made several announcements of the imminence of the storm, but preoccupied with the pressure of business he, and his employees had only about two minutes' warning before the storm struck. It was seen only a half mile from them. They had no basement in which to shelter. They crawled under desks and tables, and just one girl got a minor scalp wound.

The storm continued on across town destroying homes, stores, gas stations and its wake must have left a trail of terror. School had been dismissed about an hour before the storm struck or the toll would have been in the hundreds because the fury of the storm hit the school.

After exiting Xenia, the storm hit a dairy farm, destroying most of the farm buildings and the herd. Dead cows were found in the branches of still standing trees. At the store I visited, a packet seed display stands empty, all of the seed packets having been sucked away.

The mental pictures I retain from Xenia will linger long in my memory. I will continue to compare them with the bombed out sections of London and Plymouth, England, which I saw during World War II.

Thirty years ago, perhaps, I was insensitive to the problems of bombed out England, but Xenia is close to home and I can understand the utter terror Xenia residents felt those three to six minutes of horror.

One other impression remains, working amidst the rubble of Xenia was a group of Amish men, in their simple clothes, and summer straw hats. They were doing all they could to help others in need of help, and I am reminded, clearly, of Gordon Sinclair's record that was so popular last Christmas time, "The Americans." There was no evidence of help from wealthy Japan or Israel, or France or West Germany or any other country Xenians have aided.

Jim's Jottings

by Jim Sherman

An editor spends a certain amount of time checking out leads to what turn out to be rumors, some with and some without a traceable starting point. But check we do in case there is something the readers would be interested in.

I received a call one Thursday morning about 9:30. Bill (I'll call him that) said he hadn't slept all night because of a story an acquaintance of his had told him of a friend finding a skeleton in a field off Pratt Road.

Pratt Road runs west off M-24 to Hadley and beyond.

Bill said, "I'm not going to tell you any more about it until I check it for truth. I will tell you this. I'm not spending another night holding onto this information. I'm going to tell someone. I'm on tranquilizers now."

"I'll call you back when I check it out."

A couple hours passed before Bill got back to me. "It's true," he said. "They want me to go huntin' with them and we're supposed to casually 'find' this skeleton. It's the remains of a child about 3.

"Now they tell me it isn't just the man who found the skeleton, but he had his wife and child with him. The wife's a nurse and she's the one who determined the age of the body.

"Not only that," Bill went on, "but they didn't find the skeleton this spring, they found it last fall.

"I'm a nervous wreck. I can't live with stuff like this. I told them if they didn't go to the authorities by 5 o'clock I was going to tell someone."

About 6 o'clock I received a phone call at home. It was good old Bill. He said the people hadn't told anyone and he told them he was going to. "I'm telling you, Sherman."

It's on Pratt Road, Lapeer county. You may know the guy. He used to work for a car dealer around here. His name is . . ., I think," and Bill left the phone with the final reminder, "It's up to you now, I've told somebody and I hope I get some sleep tonight."

I debated with myself on what to do. Lapeer county is not in our circulation area, and it seemed like a good idea to get another newspaper involved. Besides, if Bill could relieve himself of the responsibility by telling me, I could do the same by telling Jim Fitzgerald, editor of the Lapeer County Press.

Jim contacted the Captain of the State Police Post there. No one by the name I had listed anywhere. That took much of Friday. Monday Fritz and I got back together.

The state police had spent hours tracking down this story. They had questioned all the people who Bill had been told knew anything about the skeleton. It led to a farm on Pratt Road, but the people there knew nothing of the incident.

More state police checking . . . and back to that farm again. And, confronting the man who lived there again.

He had told his 'story' at a dinner one night, never believing anyone would take him seriously. Someone had told him a 'story' earlier, and he tried to top it. I think he did.

MAKE A MENTAL NOTE

New era in mental health services

BY JAMES AND ELLEN WINDELL Psychological staff members of the Oakland County Juvenile Court and Clinical Resources, Incorporated

Traditionally, people who were in need of help because of emotional upsets have gone to a psychiatrist, if they could afford it, to a minister, or a public mental health agency. Frequently, they found a sympathetic friend or they may have done nothing, somehow allowing nature to take its course. In far too many instances a person who was experiencing an adjustment problem didn't really know where to turn.

An important change is now occurring in the mental health field. Psychiatric clinics are springing up to meet the demands of people who now have mental health coverage with Blue Cross. Due to union efforts, particularly in the large automotive plants, workers and their families can now have adequate mental health services. This provides a new option for hundreds of thousands of people: private psychotherapy.

The clinics that offer these services are designated as outpatient psychiatric clinics and they offer diagnostic and counseling help as well as frequently a variety of other services. There are now perhaps more than a hundred such clinics in Michigan and for the first time, many people will live close to a facility which offers adequate crisis and on-going health care.

It has long been known that there was in this country a shortage of diagnostic and psychotherapeutic personnel. The trained professionals and even the community agencies were often concentrated in the cities so that people who lived in rural areas were deprived. The problem has been increasing in Michigan because it is a state that is subject to extreme economic pressures, but has also had many rapidly growing rural and suburban areas. There has recently also been a new emphasis on the rapid return of mental hospital patients to the community. Perhaps one in ten people in normal times requires some type of professional counseling help at some point during their life time.

A traditional drawback to receiving private treatment from a mental health practitioner has been the cost. The average family, paying for an hour's therapy on a weekly basis would be a financial hardship. For many Blue Cross families, however, this problem, to a large extent, has been eliminated.

No longer is money, if the major wage earner of a family has a Blue Cross policy which includes out-patient psychiatric treatment, a barrier to services in a dignified, professional setting.

The private out-patient psychiatric facilities are organized around psychiatric and medical supervision. Psychologists, social workers, educational specialists, and other auxiliary services are often found in one clinic. Previously, such a large array of services could only be found in an urban well-endowed clinic or in a large hospital with an extensive psychiatric and psychological staff.

More people can now avail themselves of such services in their own community. We all, however, still have much to learn about when and how to use such services. Some people still feel a certain stigma attached to going for help. Nevertheless, some of the barriers to receiving such help are being eliminated and the new look in mental health care is the local comprehensive mental health clinic.

Okay, so I'm weird—but I still have a big soft spot in my heart for Blanche Smith.

And I'd take her as a Grandma any day.

Apparently, Norristown (Pa.) Judge Frederick B. Smillie feels the same way, because he sentenced the 76-year-old lady to only six years of unsupervised probation recently after she admitted in court that she had been selling heroin.

Reports have it that, from her wheelchair, Blanche had a hard time convincing the judge she was a criminal. He finally had no choice but to convict her, and he gave her the light sentence because he had enjoyed the food she had prepared in a local restaurant she once operated.

One can ponder what the sentence might have been if she were 50 years younger and had never cooked a meal for the judge before in her life—but that's beside the point.

I guess I have a thing for Little Old Lady drug pushers—who seem to flourish in Pennsylvania.

There was a story last year about a woman in her 90s who was picked up in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh as a drug runner, although she maintained she was just going to the neighborhood playground to fetch her grandson.

She further claimed that the $16 or so she had in her purse was what was left of her Social Security check plus $2 she had been given to buy groceries for a friend.

A pusher is a pusher and despicable, regardless of his or her age, my husband maintains.

He's right, of course—but Little Old Ladies have been too much maligned in our society, and it does my heart good to see one with spunk.

She may not attempt to disguise her age with makeup and by wearing clothes befitting a teenager, but she is Now. If drugs are to be peddled, why not give Little Old Ladies a piece of the action and let them supplement their Social Security earnings?

Arthur Godfrey was quoted recently—and others before him have said the same thing—to the effect that he'd like to be shot at 92 by a jealous husband. He has a right to his fantasy, and Blanche Smith has a right to pursue hers—until she's caught.

I personally would prefer that Blanche had spent her Golden Years pushing Acapulco Gold rather than the hard stuff, but I'm stuck with the story as published.

There's another side to this issue, too. If, in fact, there is a network of Little Old Lady drug peddlers in Pennsylvania, it's an idea that could well be adopted in other states.

Can you imagine a kid going to make a buy and discovering the pusher is his grandmother, or even someone who looks very much like her?

It's enough to drive him to drink—a problem which authorities seem to have a little better grip on.

The tomato

by Dave Coulter

Prior to continuing the information about tomatoes, let me remind you of a few things.

It's time to take stock of your garden tools. Are all the handles of your garden shovels, hoes, rakes and hand trowels smooth and sound? Are the blades of these tools burnished and bright, because they'll work easier if they are? Is the cord of your garden row maker strong or is it like mine water-soaked and weak and needing replacement?

Is the yard stick you use to measure the distance between rows intact or did you break it swatting flies, or the dog or cat? If not, replace it now. It's really frustrating to start a garden and be unprepared. Have you a paper plan or a mental image of your vegetable garden prepared? If not, times a-wasting!

The season has now progressed to the time that it is safe to plant: onion sets, plants or seed; garden peas, early cabbage plants or cabbage seed for direct seeding; spinach, radish, carrots, and very early sweet corn.

Commercially, tomatoes are considered a vegetable, but botanically they are a fruit. Like fruit, they range in size from that of a small tart cherry to a big baking apple. In California they grow one shaped like a short banana, called 13L. Breeders are endeavoring to elongate this variety so it may be sliced as a banana. There are pear-shaped tomatoes, too.

Tomatoes range in color from pink through many shades of red, and there are yellow/orange colors too. Flavor of tomatoes are tart or acidic through sweet, non acidic. The sweetest are the yellow/orange colored varieties. So, with this range of fruit type and flavor, with the range of plant size, with the availability of open pollinated or hybrid types, how do you choose a variety adapted to your area and to please your palate?

With this complex range of characteristics, how to arrive at a variety that will please you? Check the varieties that are available in the packet seek or starter planter displays in your favorite store. They have been selected to perform in your area. Or ask the sales people at your garden center for the variety they prefer. Large flattened globe shaped tomatoes tend to be meaty, tasty, late in maturing, rather knarled on the stem end and to crack, and generally they do not can too well. Examples of these are Big Boy and Ponderosa or Beef Steak.

Globe-shaped tomato varieties are the most generally accepted type and represent the largest varietal range. Usually they are freer of cracking than the flattened globe varieties. The very early varieties, such as Fireball and New Yorker, are good early, but have to be used early as they get soft. The range of mid-season globe shaped varieties is almost endless and the better varieties are: Ace, Marglobe, Rutgers, H1350, Campbell's 28, H1409, H1439, among the open pollinated varieties. Midseason hybrids are Moreton Hybrid, Super-sonic, Jet Star and Better Boy. I feel safe in recommending Glamour as an early open pollinated varieties.

The pear-shaped varieties, which are used for whole canned tomatoes, are Napoli, Roma, Chicho III, San Marzano and Chicho Grande. They are low acid types, have quite short cores and because they are very meaty, a plant or two of them will furnish enough fruit which may be added to your regular tomatoes for canning to thicken tomato juice, catsup or chili sauce.

Sunray is about the only yellow/orange tomato available and has about the lowest acid of any variety. They are globe shaped and their distinctive color and flavor will please the eye and tempt the palate.

Cocktail or cherry tomatoes include Red Cherry, Tiny Tim, Atomic and Husk or Ground Cherry.

To you who can tomatoes, it will add zest and interesting flavor to your home canned tomatoes, tomato juice and catsup if you include a few sprigs of basil to the empty jar prior to putting the product into the jar.

Staking a tomato plant offers some real advantages: the fruit is held off the ground, is cleaner, less prone to incur ground rot and mature earlier because the fruit has better exposure to the direct rays of the sun. However, staking is very time consuming as the tying, pruning and training takes time. A second method of keeping tomato fruit clean and freer of ground rot and to stimulate earlier harvests is to lay down a strip of black plastic and punch holes in the plastic for transplanting the plants. The plastic keeps down the weeds, keeps the soil warmer and aids in earlier maturity. Recently some tomato growers have been using woven wire fencing about 30 inches tall, forming the wire into a basket, setting the wire basket around the plant about at bloomtime and utilizing the basket to hold the vines and fruit from the ground.

The tomato worms are the major insect problem with growing tomatoes. They are big, green and ugly as a dragon. Their appetite is enormous and they can defoliate a plant almost overnight. Now on the market is an insecticide named Dipel, which is biological not a chemical and may be safely applied to the plant the same day the fruit is to be used. Check your local gardent center for this material, as this is the first year its been available to the home gardener.

Jack Hess likes coaching

by JEAN SAILE

When Little League teams take to the field this spring, Jack Hess will be there with his 15 boys, just as he has for the last ten seasons.

Jack started coaching because the son of a good friend couldn't get on an organized team. "I just got enthusiastic and kept on," he says.

That it was eight years until he own son Todd, now 9, could play makes his feat unusual, but he considers the time well spent.

"It given the kids a lot of fun. It seems great to see them go out there and do something, whether they're any good or not," Jack says.

He'd rather see not so much emphasis put on winning. "Sometimes you'd think they were playing for a million dollars," Jack reports. He likes parents who sit back and let the manager do his thing, in place of getting involved in the game.

Jack tells the story of that first team when he had only one player until the week before the season started. "I went up to the school and rounded up enough other kids to make a team, and we won only one game that year. Next year, though, we were league champs," he grins.

Village Clinic has been Jack's team sponsor for the whole ten years he's coached. Every year they've put on a picnic and a father-son ballgame and Drs. Al Hamilton and Ron LePere come out and play with the kids. "I think they deserve a lot of credit," Jack volunteers.

The veterans coach says the three most important things in coaching are: Having an understanding wife (his wife Gail is one); having understanding parents (they let you make the decisions); and having good sponsors (they pick up the tab and avoid a hassle).

The best time, he thinks, is when young kids are first issued their shirts and hats. "You should see the look on their faces," he says.

Some of the boys, like Jeff Jones, Steve Ronk and Mike Fahrner, he's had since they were seven. Steve and Mike will be helping him this year as assistant managers.

Jack thinks it's fine if girls want to play on Little League. "We had some last year, and young Mary Smith on T-Ball was a real good player," he reports.

He insists, however, that ability is not the criteria for team membership. "I've had a lot of kids other managers wouldn't take, and by the end of the year they were as good as any. I remember one boy who couldn't bat or field and was afraid of the ball, and at season's end he was named most valuable player."

When he's not coaching, Jack drives a truck for the Oakland County Road Commission, serves on the Independence Township Fire Department and has another part time job.

"There's no excuse not to help out because of time," he insists. "If you're interested, you'll find time."

He hopes some other men will

become interested enough to call the Independence Parks and Recreation Department to volunteer their services.

"We've got more than 70 teams now, and when I started out there were only five or ten for all age groups," he remembers.

Jack expects to be in the coaching business a long time. His other son Larry is just 2.

He'd prefer less emphasis on winning

Kite flying at St. Daniel's

Many of the kites flown Saturday at St. Daniel's were made by Oliver Herbert using tissue paper and yard sticks. Herbert says he's been making kites for 60 years.

Fr. Francis Weingartz, pastor of St. Daniel's, could have had a little help from the other end. His kite soared to 500 feet.

Gina, Kim and Kevin Thomas were present to try out their kites.

Shopping centers growing

Southeast Michigan has gained 5.6 million square feet of new shopping center floor space in the past five years, according to a study by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The study states that total square feet of retail center floor space in Southeast Michigan jumped from 23 million in 1968 to 28.6 million in 1973, an increase of five percent.

The study also indicates that the trend toward construction of "super-centers"—centers of a million square feet or more—has somewhat abated in the region since the period 1963-68.

During those years the supercenter share of retail floor space construction climbed from 27 percent to 37 percent. This share has continued to increase since 1968, but to only 40 percent of all shopping center space in Southeast Michigan, according to the study.

Another day Young farmer, Amzy Dennis

... by Connie Lektzian

Amzy Dennis

Amzy Dennis was 20 years old when he began his diary in 1870, the earliest journal that has been handed down in his family. Home was the farm on Clarkston-Orion Road several miles north of the village. Here his parents, Ezekiel and Mary had settled when they came from the east in 1849 or 50.

Amzy kept good records and while these accounts are often brief, they manage to be descriptive. Farming life wasn't easy and there was nothing in the diaries that showed he expected it to be. But there were very few complaints, even though in the spring months he was too tired to write any more than, "I plowed all day", and he made this same entry day after day for several weeks.

He had an exuberant love of life and even after recording a day of almost backbreaking work, he was able to say "It was a great day".

Only three decades had passed since the first settlers had poured into the area, a brief time where history is concerned. Earlier accounts of this section of the township had told of Indians passing by on their way to get treaty money in Detroit. There had been tales of wolves haunting the edges of cattle pens. The trip to Detroit or even Pontiac was a slogging journey on foot or by ox cart.

Now in 1870, life, by comparison, was easier. These hardships of an earlier day had been all but forgotten. There were a few new inventions to aid the farmers but the biggest help was the spirit of friendship in the neighborhood. It showed up in everything from a stone bee to barn raisings. There was very little farm machinery. A threshing machine made the rounds of the farms in the fall and everyone shared the work. A farmer who came during the harvest season to help Ezekiel was repaid by Amzy, his sixteen year old brother Gabe, and ten year old Jack who husked corn for a day and a half.

Some of the places Amzy spoke of are gone now. There were church meetings and writing schools held at the Wilson school and the Block school, places close enough for him to walk when his buggy needed a new tire. Amzy's handwriting took on a new look when the professor began writing lessons two nights a week. The script was embellished with curlicues and swirls and he took twice the space to record his day's events.

He wrote of places such as Dogway and Mahopac but gave no clue to the location. He and young Jack went to a spot known as Elbe Centre and Amzy described it as four miles north of Hadley village and 22 miles from home. This was a blackberry expedition and there must have been several wagonloads of youngsters. Four or five brought their music along. It was a picnic that lasted almost three days but the two boys still managed to take home 89 quarts of berries to their mother.

What today might be considered a laud of equipment was compensated by bringing in more people. Amzy kept the records of the several hired men who worked during the year, and each spring he brought a woman from the village to stay several weeks and do the sewing. Girls came in to help with the housework and the cooking when they could be spared from their own homes. When they left, Amzy had to scurry around to neighboring farms to find more household help for his mother.

There was no job that required so much versatility as that of a farmer. When it was decided to remodel the farmhouse, Ezekiel and his sons did most of the work. When a new well had to be dug, Amzy put in solid days of digging and stonework.

Yet, there was plenty of time taken for pleasure in the winter and early spring before planting. Dances and parties were held that lasted until the wee hours of the morning. Over 40 people attended a party at the Dennis home and several days before relatives and neighbors came in to help with the cooking. Amzy, with obvious delight, wrote that they had a fine time. The fact that he spent the next day helping return many of the overnight guests to their own homes didn't dampen his enthusiasm.

Lori Helzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Helzer, of Maple, is in Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital following a freak accident.

It seems Lori was practicing cheerleading for the tryouts, that will be held soon, when she had a fall. She sustained a broken neck and now will be out of school for some time. She has been a cheerleader for Little League football, so cheerleading has become a real special part of her life.

We know she would appreciate some cards from her friends and neighbors. She is in room 214 - bed 4. Get well soon, Lori.

While Mr. and Mrs. Don Place of Chickadee were Easter vacationing in New York they had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Belby, former Clarkston residents, now of Westchester, Pa.

They had pre-arranged the meeting at a great Italian Restaurant, the Ashoka, in New York City.

They enjoyed a good meal along with great conversation. After all, there was a lot to catch up on.

While up north recently, we drove over to Rogers City to see Dave and Shanna Nadolsky and children, former Clarkston residents.

They are doing real well. They love the north and recommend it to all their friends.

Shanna was saying a whole new world opened up for the children. The world has become one huge sandbox. (They live on Lake Huron) Of course Shanna and Dave don't mind those evening strolls on the beach either. Some class. We are real happy for them and hope to see them again.

A special "get well soon" to John Roy of Dale Court. John has been in Pontiac General for a week with pneumonia.

According to his wife, Maryann, he is chomping at the bit and ready to come home. It surely is a good sign, so we hope to see him around real soon.

April 20 at the Davison Country Club the old Saturday Night Dance Clubs held their fourth annual reunion.

The two clubs had ceased to exist, and the idea occurred to revive the clubs four years ago. They then began their annual reunions.

Mrs. L.V. Cushman of Holcomb and Mrs. Roland Allen of Washington made the arrangements for the dinner dance. They had the big band sound with music by Don Smith and his 15 piece band!

Sixty-six couples took advantage of the occasion and had a wonderful time.

Judy Brumback of Church flew to San Francisco April 11 to join her husband, Bob, who had been attending a business conference.

They stayed in San Francisco until Easter then flew to Los Vegas. Before returning to Clarkston on April 18, they had the pleasure of seeing Glen Campbell, the Jackson Five, Frank Gorshin, the Mills Brothers and they even had their pictures taken with Bill Cosby who was just visiting. It really sounds like they had a great time, wish I were there.

Fourteen year old Greg Whitenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whitenton of Cramlane, is recovering at home after surgery and a two-week stay in the hospital.

Greg is doing fine, but it will be another three weeks before he is able to go back to school.

He would thoroughly enjoy a call or a card from his friends. Get busy kids - Greg is waiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Siegle of Sunnydale are proud to announce the birth of a son, Robert Todd born April 18. He weighed 7 pounds 11 ounces and was born 11 minutes after seven.

Spiritual Message

"For ye were sheep going astray; but are now returned to the Shepherd and Bishop of our Souls." I Peter 2:25.

The semi-annual "Alumni reunion" for many Christians, or perhaps we should say "Christian alumni", has come and gone once more. A Christian alumnus has been defined as a worldly person who once had a close relationship with God in Christ through His Church but now feel no need to continue that relationship on any regular basis except on occasion to acknowledge the fact that He exists and is worthy of special recognition. This is the "alumni syndrome"—many people are "from" Christ's Church but not "in" it. They follow the pattern of secular education which, in most cases, ceases once the hurdle of graduation has been overcome. The subsequent process of earning a living and seeking leisure time pleasure rings down a very real curtain on their pursuit of learning. It no longer is important to them and very frequently what knowledge has been attained soon is forgotten.

Although their "graduation" is an imagined and strictly self-confessed thing, many Christians follow this same path. Caught up in worldly pursuits and pleasures they neglect their religious "alma mater" and tragically fail to grow in grace and in the knowledge and love of God.

There are some who easily would dismiss this problem with the remark, "They are only hurting themselves," but this isn't so! The world, our nation, all human society, desperately needs spiritual renewal, a recommitment to God in Christ, and it won't be accomplished by an "alumni", even if they regularly attend the "reunions", but by those who know that there is no such thing as a graduation from Christ and His Church and who throughout their lives continually are learning and growing in Christian stature, whose relationship with God in Christ is not a remembered thing but is alive and active. Who is there who can say that their Christian faith is so full and complete that they can advance in it no further? Can you? By the way, what is the status of your faith? Are you an active, learning, growing Christian? Or, do you consider yourself one of the "alumni"?

WESLEY FISHWICK

Recital Sunday

Pianist Wesley Fishwick will appear in recital at St. Augustine House this Sunday at 4 o'clock. The appearance here will preface his entry in the Tchaikovsky competition to be held in Moscow, Russia this summer. Fishwick is a 24 year old pianist who, as a boy, studied with his father. For the past ten years he has been a student of Mischa Kottler. He also is on the staff of Clarkston Conservatory of Music. In the Tchaikovsky competition, Fishwick will compete with other pianists around the world. Each will present three lengthy and difficult selections. They will be judged by piano authorities also from around the world. The competition will be broadcast live on Soviet radio and TV. Father Arthur C. Kreinheder, of St. Augustines, invites the public to preview Fishwick's talent. There will be no charge of admission to the recital. St. Augustines is located at 3316 E. Drahrer Rd., Oxford.

Remodeling tips can add comfort

If you're building or remodeling a house and you plan to live in it for some time, consider building in features that will make comfort conditioning easier.

Proper insulation is a must for efficient heating in winter and cooling in summer, declares Jim Boyd, extension housing specialist at Michigan State University. Storm windows and doors and caulking and weather-stripping are also important.

Landscape planting can shield the east, west and south sides of your house for the sun to help keep it cooler inside. A stone or masonry patio, on the other hand, will reflect heat into the house. Covering a patio or shading it with trees and shrubs will reduce the heat bounced into the house.

For a roof that reflects rather than absorbs the sun's heat, use light colored shingles, Dr. Boyd suggests.

Prevent the accumulation of hot, moist air in your home by installing exhaust fans in the bathroom and over the range in the kitchen and by venting your clothes dryer to the outside.

Humidity is usually a problem in Michigan during the summer months so you should consider having a dehumidifier built into your furnace system, or a portable unit, the specialist suggests. Dry air will cool you faster than moist air and will cause fewer problems with mold and mildew.

Youth arrested with stolen jewelry

A 17-year-old Waterford youth who state police said they caught in LaDuc Jewelers with about $1,200 worth of jewelry early Sunday morning has been charged with breaking and entering the independence Commons business.

Arraigned before Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally, Kevin McCort was being held in the Oakland County Jail early this week in lieu of a $1,500 bond.

Examination was set for May 10.

Troopers said they caught the youth in the store at 5887 Dixie Highway responded to a burglar alarm shortly after midnight. Apparently McCort had entered the building by throwing a stone through a front window, they said.

50's dance

by Bill Condon

The Student Government of Clarkston High School will present a 50's dance this Friday, April 26, at the high school gym. The dance, which will feature the music that was popular about 20 years ago as performed by the 50's rock group "Angel Baby and her Daddy-O's," will start at 8 p.m. and will finish up around 11. The dance is open to Clarkston High students and will cost a mere $1.25 per person, or $2 per couple.

Because of the 50's dance, the school day on April 26 has been declared nostalgia day by the student council.

What this means is that the students are to come to school dressed as students did back in the 1950's. Those students that are going to the dance should wear their outfits their also.

"There is a very simple and economical solution to the energy crisis," according to Cranston P. Hoffingsway, a student at Clarkston High School, who claims to have discovered that solution. Cranston's solution took him only three months to develop into the workable theory that he has today.

In simple terms, Cranston's idea is based on the common wet cell battery, which produces an electric charge when two dissimilar metals are brought together in a corrosive solution. His plan is to construct two huge 3,000 foot long electrodes, one made of cooper and the other made of zinc, and place them on opposite sides of the Atlantic Ocean, which will act as the corrosive solution, thereby creating a giant battery.

Cranston estimates that the amount of electricity produced by his invention in one week would be enough to supply all of the electricity needed by the town of Waterloo, Iowa for the next 138 years.

As of yet, Cranston has been unable to interest the government in his project. He thinks that the reason they are not interested by his invention is because of wide spread corruption of government officials by the oil, gas, and electric companies. However, he remains hopeful that someday his dream will become a reality.

BY THE THIRD EYE

Meat prices will undergo a sharp increase in hot weather. I see people barbecuing and happy to have hamburger.

I believe meat cooperatives will be former. People will get together to buy cattle now from the farmer and butcher later as the meat is needed.

The next big shortage I see is material for clothing.

The Old Mill will be sold and the new owner will have heavy financial backing.

A barn in the northwest part of the township will burn.

There'll only be a couple hard rock concerts at Springfield-Oaks and most and most of the rest of the concerts

Davis-Custom Home Builders

Herbt C. Davis, Owner

There comes a time in each married couples' life when they decide that they no longer want to live in a small apartment or pay rent to someone without getting any return on their money.

When that time comes and they start looking into buying a home, they often realize that the pre-built homes available are not just what they have been looking for. The kitchen may be in the wrong place; the bedrooms too small; there is no garage; or the homes are in the wrong neighborhood.

If this is your situation then all you have to do is call Davis Custom Home Builder located at 4915 Irwindale Dr. in Pontiac, phone 682-8650, is one of the finest custom home builders in this area. They know the home building business completely and can help you with the entire project. Some of the finest custom-built homes in this area have been built by Davis Custom Home Builders and you can rest assured that when you contact this firm you will be treated fairly and your home will be what you expect it to be in every detail.

offered will be folk and country western. The concerts will be handled well, and the series will turn into a smaller version of Pine Knob. There may be a problem getting top flight stars.

President Nixon will develop a cold and enter Bethesda Naval Hospital. When he comes out, he will resign the presidency.

I do not know whether this will happen before or after the elections. If it happens before, more Republicans will be elected to office. If it happens after, there is a nip and tuck race for the 60th Representative District.

In New York City a socially prominent woman will murder her husband.

The new ice cream store in Clarkston will succeed. Dips will be a little bigger than that offered elsewhere and a weekly drawing will keep customers enthusiastic. I like the way I see the store being decorated.
