Embattled fire budget approved

By Pat Braunagel

Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk gained $30,000 but lost in his bid for two additional fulltime firemen in what has been a lengthy battle over his department's 1974-75 budget.

The $203,000 budget approved for the department by the township board Tuesday night deleted two fulltime positions sought by Ronk and added $37,521 to the department's equipment fund.

In a special session last week, the board had promoted two parttime fire marshals to fulltime positions.

Trustee Jerry Powell, who spoke in favor of increasing the staff by two more men, asked Ronk what effect the new fulltime firemen had on bringing a Tuesday afternoon fire at the Clarkston Cafe under control.

"Had they not been there, we probably would have lost that whole block," Ronk replied.

Traffic dispute goes to county

By Pat Braunagel

Oakland County officials apparently are going to have county taxpayers foot the bill for traffic control at Pine Knob Music Theater this summer.

Representatives of Indusco Corporation, which owns the theater, and of Independence Township will take their financial and police control dispute to County Board of Auditors Chairman Daniel T. Murphey, May 10.

Setting of the new meeting was the only concrete result of a four-hour session Tuesday attended by owners and operators of the theater and officials of both the township and county government, including Sheriff Johannes F. Spreen.

"We did not come to any agreements this morning," Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark told the township board Tuesday night. "It does not look real good to me at this point."

He noted, however, that he'd "like to wait until after that meeting Friday" before asking the board to take any official stand, possibly calling a special meeting.

Township officials thus far have taken a "no pay, no play" hard line on traffic control for the third season of the

The blaze was confined to the basement, where it "ruined the pantry supplies" of the restaurant, Ronk said, noting it also caused extensive smoke damage. He said he was unable to give a cost estimate of the damage done to the downtown business, which was temporarily closed as a result of the fire.

The budget approved Tuesday night will require the full 2-mill levy approved by voters. Last year, the board levied 1.7 mills for the fire department.

Because of increased assessed valuation of property in the township, that levy brought in $163,000 rather than the $150,000 anticipated--"which was not too far out of line in terms of the money intent of the millage vote," Supervisor Robert Vandermark said.

"I think we're being inconsistent," Powell said, noting that he had been voted down last year when he sought the full levy for additional equipment and that this year the other board members were putting a priority on equipment.

The fire department budget has been the subject controversy among board members, mainly at executive sessions.

"We have an $812,000 general fund budget," Powell said. "The other department heads were not questioned. When we come to the fire department, all of a sudden we have five chiefs."

Township Clerk J. Edwin Glennie said he could see the advantages of having two more fulltime firemen, but wanted to wait to see what the impact of the two newly created fulltime posts would be. He might favor adding two more later in the year, he said.

Trustee Keith Humbert said he wanted more reports from Ronk.

"If he can't back up his requests with substantial figures . . . he's going to be in continual trouble," Humbert said.

Powell cast the single dissenting vote on the fire department budget.

Board members adopted a $812,715 general fund budget for 1974-75, down from last year's $831,000.

"It is substantially that approved at the annual township meeting," Vandermark said.

Acting on an advisory vote taken at the annual meeting, the board authorized Township Attorney Richard Campbell to draft a millage proposal for the acquisition of park, open space and wildlife land.

A special election on the proposition which would allow a levy of up to 1.25 mills for 10 years for that purpose will be held at the time of the Aug. 6 primary.

Although the proposal was made by owners of property around Deer Lake, it is not particularly aimed at acquisition of property there, Vandermark said.

Proposed development at the north end of the lake by Hubert S. Garner and Deer Lake Development Corporation is the subject of court cases.

Board members Tuesday night added to a list of about a dozen Garner's application for a class C liquor license for a proposed hotel-restaurant complex at the interchange of I-75 and Dixie Highway. A portion of the property lies in Springfield Township, where Garner also has applied for a class C liquor license.

music theater, scheduled to start June 8. The theater is $34,000 in arrears on its $42,000 contract with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department for 1973.

Joseph Loericchio and Gary Francell, co-owners of Indusco, attended the Tuesday session at the township hall.

"It appears to be their position that they are not willing to pay for traffic control this summer as last," Vandermark said.

"I hope not," quipped Trustee Keith Humbert. "I hope this year they pay."

Vandermark said he understood the Indusco owners would ask the county to pay for the deputies needed to control traffic in the theater area.

The supervisor was unwilling to speculate on Spreen's position

Clarkston El grade 6 readies for fall camp

A week of camping in the outdoors will be introduced to Clarkston School District as a part of curriculum beginning next September.

Sixth graders from Clarkston Elementary School have been designated to take part in the pilot project beginning September 23.

They, their teachers and a number of high school seniors acting as counselors will live and study outdoors at the YMCA's Camp Ohiyesa south of Holly. Clarkston Elementary Principal John Hayden, who has conducted two informational meetings with parents, said preparation for the trip would begin during the last few weeks of school this year among fifth graders.

He said the prime goal of the program, which is being used in Waterford and Walled Lake Schools, is to make children aware of their dependence on natural resources and their responsibility for conserving them.

The social aspects of the students' living together are also cited, as is the use of the outdoors for a natural science laboratory.

Other goals include the development of skills, the perception of beauty and the development of responsibility.

Registration for the program will begin immediately after school opens in the fall, Hayden said. The cost is $33 per child, to be paid by the child. The cost includes nutritional meals which will be prepared for the children.

Hayden noted that provision is being made by the PTA and others to subsidize those children who otherwise would not be able to attend.

While Hayden hopes for 100 percent involvement, he says provision has been made for those students, desiring not to attend, to follow a study course at home or at school under the care of fifth grade teachers.

Hayden said preparation for the trip will begin within two weeks as study courses are set up to coincide with what the children can expect to learn on the trip. They will be reviewed again in the fall, and the effects of the camp are expected to continue through the year as children follow up natural science experiments initiated during the program.

Should the program prove successful, plans are to involve other elementary sixth graders in succeeding years.

Treasurer promises restitution

Springfield Township Treasurer Margaret Samuel told the township board last week she has a personal check for $6,098 to cover missing tax payment deposits since 1969.

She said she did not know which township fund to deposit the check to, and that she was sure the original check would still be found.

Board members told her to use the trust and agency account.

She noted the missing check is a state check, and she said that state wouldn't check back on it.

"I have never taken anything from the township. It's a lost check," she said.

The shortage was discovered during a state audit conducted in the township last winter.

Plowing a straight furrow

Many a furrow has been plowed during the last couple of weeks as the area's few remaining farmers and many residential gardeners prepared for spring planting.

Springfield fights rock concerts

Emotions ran high last week as some 50 Springfield residents attended the township meeting to oppose the "drugs, sex and hard booze" which they felt would accompany a planned series of three concerts at Springfield-Oaks Activities Center this summer.

Supervisor Claude Trim told the cheering group, "We're going to try to get those concerts cancelled."

He said the problem of the concerts has now exceeded the purvue of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission and that he will be taking petitions bearing 563 signatures of county residents opposed to the use of the county owned facility to the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

A resolution, unanimously adopted by the township board, which speaks of the "devastating effect" of the concerts on the area will accompany the petitions. Traffic, noise and the effect on the environment were cited.

And just in case -- the board also adopted a disorderly conduct ordinance which will give the township deputy "jurisdiction over crowds."

The ordinance provides for control of drunks, drug use, profane language and adds provision for prosecuting trespassers, after they've been notified by the owner or occupant of the land.

Stirring fear in the hearts of those present is a County Parks and Recreation Commission contract with Golden Goose and Sunset Productions for three concerts -- the first May 26 featuring The James Gang, the second June 14 featuring Leon Russell and the third July 2 for which no performer has yet been scheduled.

The June program had originally been proposed as country-western and the signing of Russell (who reportedly features both country western and rock) has added fuel to resentment incurred locally by the signing of The James Gang, a recognized rock group.

The supervisor expressed particular concern about the Russell concert. "I've checked with Hudson's and Grinnell's and they report tickets are going well for The James Gang appearance but they say there are a lot more (requests) for the Russell concert."

An unidentified woman, who said she was a Russell fan but opposed to his appearance in the rural community of Springfield, said "Leon Russell is as wild an entertainer as you'll find in Davisburg."

Robert Rothermel asked, "Who's running this township? The parks and recreation commission or the township?" Get an injunction against the commission, he advised. At least make them post a $50,000 bond to insure that all damages would be taken care of.

Some of the objections were fielded by Eric Reikel, Oakland County Parks and Recreation director, himself a resident of Springfield.

"The promoters and the county will be responsible for whatever happens," he said.

Rothermel retorted, "Yet, the Parks and Recreation Commission would use our tax money to fix our property after they wreck it."

Trim discussed the quarter mill levy which finances the park system and said voters would probably make their feelings known at renewal time.

In reading the resolution to the crowd, Trim said, "If this were a private project, promoters would first have to get rezoning and then provide the facilities."

He spoke of the county standards put to use in gravel mining because of detrimental effects on the environment, and said the concerts would have a definite adverse effect on the community.

Questions from the audience included such items as parking, deputy patrol, and "what about people who have their houses broken into, or the abuse they'll have to take?"

Charles Brown said that when The James Gang played Pine Knob, police were not able to handle the crowds. "They were afraid they'd get stoned to death," he averred.

Reickel said he believed inappropriate handling of ticket sales had contributed to the Pine Knob fiasco and he pointed out that all tickets for the Springfield concerts will be advance sale.

Laughter greeted his expressed worries about "curiosity seekers" the planned series would attract due to the "notoriety" the concerts have received in the media.

He added there had never been any intention to make Davisburg the "center of har... jock."

"There were 20 concerts proposed originally, and the indication that all of them were to be hard rock is complete fallacy," he said.

Several references to drug use at the site drew Trim's observation that the county spends thousands of dollars to save youth already committed to drugs, but here we're taking tax dollars to save youth already committed to drugs, but here we're taking tax dollars and promoting it."

He did remind the audience that most of the topics covered during the meeting were "the worst" that might happen. "We'll hope for the best, and I hope you'll all use the best discretion you can," he told those present.

It was reported that indoor rock concerts had taken place last winter at the county facility and that results had been fine, however attendance was limited by the size of the building.

Businessmen organize in Independence

A newly organized Business Association of Independence Township has elected Harvey Craft of Waterford Hill Florist as president.

Sheldon Fuller of Sheldon Real Estate has been named vice president and Tom Rademacher of Rademacher Chevrolet Inc. is secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Barbara Howe of Howe's Lanes and Morton Schwartz of Medallion Homes make up the board of directors.

Purpose of the organization, which will have a general membership meeting at 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 22 at Howe's Lanes, is primarily informational, according to Craft.

The by-laws, however, contain the goals of encouragement of business interest, the elimination and reform of abuses, the encouragement of friendly exchange among businessmen, and promotion of civic ends.

Two firemen and a policeman added

By Jean Saile

Two part time Fire Department positions have been elevated to full time in Independence Township, and a volunteer has been named second in command of the fledgling township police department.

The township board in special meeting Thursday night approved the fire department changes in time to get the men listed in the township pension plan at increased benefits.

Created were the positions of assistant chief or inspector at $13,500 a year and maintenance inspector at $12,500.

They were offered to Jack Beach and Dale Bailey.

Fire Chief Frank Ronk had originally asked for two full-time engineers in addition to Beach and Bailey, whom he said would be used to continue the area fire inspection of commercial and new buildings.

The two engineers were to be considered in another meeting as the township board debated the annual fire budget.

The additional policeman is Tim Reetz who has been volunteering 40 hours per month since October as an auxiliary, according to Police Director Jack McCall. Reetz will be paid $5 per hour.

He has been a police officer for seven years and worked with the Clarkston Police Department for one-and-a-half years prior to its merger with the township. Reetz will be field supervisor for the ten auxiliaries, McCall said.

The board, which voted unanimously in both requests, debated the priorities for new fire equipment versus full time personnel, but opted in favor of a more progressive pursuit of fire prevention through inspection.

Ronk had previously stated the fire inspection program was in trouble without additional personnel. Mechanical maintenance has been taking the majority of one part time employee's time, he said.

The need for inspection was given a top priority in a report prepared for the board by the Insurance Office of Michigan, he related.

Ronk, who was displeased with the decision to approve only two full time employes at the Thursday night meeting, spoke of the two mills approved by voters for the department and the levy last year of just 1.7 mills.

"The next time I need two men I'm going to request ten," he said. "I've tried to budget honestly, but no more."

Ronk said the department has been averaging a run a day, and that response time on the average was three minutes and 20 seconds. That is the time lapse between when the call is received and the truck leaves the station, he explained.

The average report time to an emergency might be between ten minutes and half an hour, he said, and the most critical stare in a fire is within the first four or five minutes.

He described more sophisticated equipment which the department is receiving -- purchase of a rescue truck, pumper and ladder or bucket truck is contemplated this year -- and that it becomes increasingly difficult for volunteers to handle the equipment.

"If the engineers are not put on this year, you as a board report back to me why not and we'll pass on to the public why you don't think the department should be at their house in five minutes," he told the board.

"We're now on a plane with most townships who have full time people," Ronk continued.

He said engineers would provide 24-hour service, rotating between fire halls.

Clerk J. Edwin Glennie noted that the $20,000 which would be used to hire engineers could be expended in equipment. Supervisor Robert Vandermark said, "The cold hard fact is that there is not enough money to do all the things we'd like to in one shot."

"Would you wait until we can hire the men for all three stations at once?" Ronk asked. "If we get started now, we can add men annually or semi-annually. Dumping 10 at once into the budget will be political suicide, and somebody will die because of it (the wait)."

Further board consideration was to be given the matter Tuesday night.

Supervisor says fire money should be used for equipment

Supervisor Robert Vandermark has given equipment a top priority for Independence Township Fire Department needs.

The priority issue has arisen as a result of Fire Chief Frank Ronk's request for two full time engineers in addition to two full time inspectors and maintenance men, approved by the board last week.

Vandermark said the basis for his observations is a meeting April 24 between Ronk, himself and Harry Westhouse of the Insurance Services Offices of Michigan.

Here are the recommendations Vandermark made to the township board:

It appears to me that in dollars and cents, also with the current emphasis that is taking place in the fire prevention area, that we should work first on a good prevention and inspection program, second on acquiring the buildings and equipment that we need to meet minimum fire safety requirements, and third, improving our availability of manpower. We are presently responding to calls with adequate manpower. We are deficient in the area of buildings and equipment at each fire hall that is adequate to respond to a structure fire under the minimum requirements, which is two pumpers and five or more men on each vehicle. Specifically, it appears to me that in this order we need to:

1. Begin a full time fire prevention and inspection program. This is strongly recommended by the National Commission on Fire Prevention and Control, in the I.C.M.A. Manual on Municipal Fire Administration, by our Fire Chief, and by the Insurance Service Office of Michigan.
2. Order a replacement pumper for station #1.
3. Purchase an additional pumper for #2 and #3 fire halls.
4. Proceed with a new fire hall in the area of fire hall #2.
5. Put in a new bay on fire hall #3.
6. Purchase a new ladder or platform truck.
7. Remodel or replace fire hall #1.
8. The existing building, located at #2 fire hall will function well for equipment maintenance and training, and may also serve as a storage area for voting machines and the public works department.
9. When these goals are achieved, full time engineers or on-call firemen could be considered at each hall.

It appears to me that we will not be able to afford equipment and facilities that we need for adequate fire fighting if we move too early toward additional fire full time personnel. We are in a position where we need to catch up from a facilities standpoint, to the needs of the township and it will take all of the resources of the Fire Fund to do so for the next few years.

The creation of a large scale community water system is the only additional thing that will improve fire safety. Over the years, as we require developers to provide water systems, we will be working toward this goal. The existence of this combination of equipment, buildings, personnel, and a water system will ultimately give us the lowest possible fire safety rating achievable.

Fire response time averages 3.20 minutes

The following statistics regarding response time of the Independence Township Fire Department during 1973 has been compiled by the township.

Response time was computed as from the time the call was received until the first piece of fire fighting equipment left the station.

The study determined that the average response time for 275 fire calls is 3 minutes 20 seconds.

- Station #1 (150 calls): 2 minutes 49 seconds
- Station #2 (45 calls): 3 minutes 59 seconds
- Station #3 (66 calls): 3 minutes 55 seconds

During the hours from 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., the average response time for 95 fire calls is 3 minutes 17 seconds.

During the hours from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m., the average response time for 118 fire calls is 3 minutes 39 seconds.

During the hours from 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m., the average response time for 38 fire calls is 4 minutes 11 seconds.

Ruin a good thing

There's always somebody who'll abuse a good thing.

Free dumping provided by the township last Saturday and this coming Saturday should have helped solve the litter problem.

Instead, some people have been turning the Eston-Clarkston Road intersection into a dump since the beginning of last week.

Among vehicles surreptitiously using the spot, which is accredited only for the two Saturdays named, was a dump truck which Tuesday deposited a whole load of appliances at the site.

Powell Disposal Co. reportedly spent hours there Wednesday in removing six truck loads of illegally deposited trash, and the build-up had started again on Thursday.

Nearby neighbors are worried the spot will be so inviting that people will continue to use it, and that transients—seeing the junk there—will feel it a good spot to get rid of their unwanted articles.

The Eston-Clarkston Road spot was first of all for small articles only. Secondly, it was to be used only on the two Saturdays. Thirdly, it was designated only as a convenience to residents of the northeastern portion of the township.

Too bad so many had to pervert the idea.

'If It Fitz ...'

There's no business like ...

by Jim Fitzgerald

What impressed me most about the President's TV show on releasing tape transcripts was his packaging. He showed a lot of class and show business savvy. But I can't help worrying about his encore.

Nixon was sore about being forced to make a "major unprecedented exception to the principle of confidentiality of the presidency." It's not easy for a President to reveal publicly that "expletives" written on the Oval Office wall don't look much better than dirty words above the urinal.

Under the embarrassing circumstances, Nixon could have been excused if he'd dumped the transcripts into Pat's old hatboxes, tied them with clothesline, and hired the neighbor's kid to deliver them to the judiciary committee in a wheelbarrow.

But not our leader. He had those (expletive here) transcripts bound in leather with the covers suitably embossed in gold, describing the contents and giving date, destination and return address. Which, by the way, explains the President's delay in responding to the subpoena. In most print shops, a job like that takes 2 months.

Then came Nixon's classiest move. He piled the transcripts next to his microphone when he went on TV in the latest episode in the continuing series "The Waltons Wouldn't Wallow in Watergate."

The program was brilliantly choreographed. Every few minutes the camera would switch from Nixon's face to the pile of transcripts. This provided viewers with physical evidence of how many millions of confidential words they can read if they subscribe to the New York Times and have the summer off.

And let's just see that (adjective deleted) Rich Little and David Frye impersonate a pile of books.

All in all, it was a brilliant show. But can Nixon top it in the next episode? As Milton Berle could attest, the public is fickle and a performer is only as good as his last show.

A lot of (unintelligible) Congressmen are still not satisfied. They want tapes, not transcripts. And they are interested in more than Watergate. They keep asking about the milk deal, the Ellsberg breakin, and a lot of (adjective deleted) nonsense like that.

It is likely the President will be forced to allow further breaches in the confidentiality of the presidency. But the American public may not accept a rerun of the old transcripts-on-the-desk routine. They'll want something fresh. And that's the problem Nixon will have to solve if he wants to maintain his TV ratings.

Maybe a soliloquy by banker become brilliant and amenable, the dogs and the cats might straighten up, the vacuum cleaner might work right, and we might finally finish remodeling the living room.

No wonder Napoleon and George Washington and a few of those other notables wore tri-corner hats.

They probably knew where the whole scene was at.

Letters to the editor

Colombiere grows

Dear Neighbors and Friends: Peace! As neighbors and friends... we feel you may be interested in knowing of some of the plans and programs we have and will be initiating in the near future here at Colombiere College.

You may have noticed that this winter we started to fence in a section of our property bordering along Big Lake Road. A number of people thought we were putting up the fence to keep people out, but in reality we were fencing in an 80-acre pasture area for grazing cattle. In fact, the fence was put up to keep in a herd of 36 whiteface Hereford yearlings which arrived at Colombiere on April 27, 1974. This is one of our projects to help the poor of our country and is called Colombiere Food Cooperative. This program is designed to provide meat for the Soup Kitchens in Detroit and is a non-profit program under the sponsorship of Colombiere College.

The Colombiere Food Cooperative consists of a revolving fund of $10,000.00 which each year is used to purchase a herd of beef steers (this year 36 steers weighing a combined total of 21,000 pounds) which is purchased from Mr. Bob Wright in Ohio, sent to Colombiere to graze during the summer, and in the Fall is returned to Ohio to be fattened. As the steers are being unloaded in Oion, they are again weighed and the difference in weight from when they were shipped to Colombiere and the time they are returned to Ohio... is the amount of fattened beef cattle which will be then given to the Soup Kitchens. It is estimated that the 36 head of cattle will probably gain 3000-4400 lbs. of weight during the summer at Colombiere and then this amount of meat will be given to the Soup Kitchens.

You can help, in two ways, to make this program a success:

1) In helping reduce the malicious destruction and increased vandalism in our area. Should you observe any such damage being done to our property, your cooperation in telephoning the County Sheriff would be greatly appreciated. We would also appreciate it if you would call us (625-5611) and leave a message for Gene Gonya, S.J.

2) If you or anyone you know, like a church organization, rotary club, etc., would like to help in cutting down on the costs involved (like shipping the cattle, slaughtering, etc.), we would be happy to hear from you.

Currently, we are also considering putting in a baseball field with a back stop and metal shelter on the corner of Edgar and Foster Roads. The YMCA has expressed an interest in using the area for summer programs for your youth. We are in the planning stage now. Anyone interested in participating in developing such a park would be most welcome. Call Gene Gonya, S.J., at Colombiere College.

Sincerely yours,
Gene Gonya, S.J. Director

Concert would be ok

Dear Editor

I really find it difficult to believe, Springfield Township Supervisor's reason for not wanting the James Gang at Springfield-Oaks Youth Activity Center. I mean that the reason for the building is so people can group together for one thing or another. Not just for a circus, rodeo, or country music concert. I live near Pine Knob and I don't think they ever had a problem except once. Give the youth a chance to prove themselves or be afraid of your own children.

Ingrid is loved

Dear editor:

My sister Katie Smith wrote a letter to you why our mother should be mother of the year. Well her reasons were the nicey girl reasons. But she should be mother of the year because she is not like any other mothers I know from other kids. She is smart. She is fair and she is a good person to people and animals. You can talk to her about anything. She does not get mad or hit anybody. Every single day she drives somebody to college and picks them up for years. She really never has a day to herself or a vacation. Other ladies have folks. She can't even see her mother ever. She spends her own money to help people. She knows famous people all over the country and some awful poor ones and treats them equally. She takes some of us when she gives talks or tapes at a radio or TV too. That is fun. People tell you you are lucky to have her for a mom. My mother sees good in everybody, even the worst rats. My oldest sister said our mother is her best friend, I agree. The rest Katie told you.

Our mother is Ingrid Smith, 6360 Eastlawn, Clarkston, Michigan. Our telephone is 625-4432. She is married to dad for 25 years. So half of her life she did for 8 kids and one father. She was an only daughter, and had everything. Go to Germany, and you know what I mean. I could tell you lots more, but I won't.

Yours,
A Smith (her son)

Here's 15 cents

Dear Editor:

Please find enclosed fifteen cents. It's my contribution toward Mrs. Buckhejsten's subscription to The Clarkston News. I cannot make a big contribution like Mrs. Sherwood. I am going to school and work part time and I too am making payments on a bicycle, a pair of roller skates and a tennis racquet. I am also trying to save enough money so I can fly to Europe on my vacation.

Sincerely,
Barbara Holder

Support legislation to deny apartheid

To the Editor:

Upon completing a study of the apartheid conditions that exist in Southern Africa, the United Methodist Women of the Seymour Lake Methodist Church are asking your assistance to have bill HR 8005 passed at the federal level. It passed the Senate in late December by a vote of 54 to 37 and is now in committee at the House, so prompt action in writing your representatives is needed.

Under the South African system of apartheid, a person's legal rights and privileges depend entirely on the color of his skin. 4 million Whites makes the laws, including a law which says the 15 million Black Africans cannot vote. By limiting the wages Blacks can earn, by controlling where Blacks can live and what jobs they can take, the government ensures a cheap labor supply for the benefit of the White minority.

Since January 1, 1972, when the Byrd Amendment ending U.S. participation in United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia went into effect, the fact that the U.S. buys chrome ore from Rhodesia has been a source of tremendous moral support to the White minority government and populace.

By importing this chrome, we give our support to this forced cheap labor system. It is also hurting the U.S. ferro-chrome industry as two plants in Ohio have been closed.

The U.S. has a treaty obligation to carry out the sanction program which we co-sponsored in the United Nations. Our sanction program which we co-sponsored in the United Nations. Our sanction-breaking (under the Byrd Amendment) undermines our proclaimed posture of adherence to international law.

Renewing sanctions will not threaten our national defense. President Nixon has proposed disposal of more than 5 million tons of excess chrome ore and ferrochrome from the national stockpile because they are not required for defense needs. Sanctions also cooperate with other factors to bring economic and political pressure on the African regimes of the minority.

Apartheid, the doctrine of White supremacy has been condemned by the United Nations as a crime against humanity. Apartheid means no right to vote, jail without trial, no right to strike, no freedom of movement. These basic human rights are denied to 68% of the people living in South Africa. We must end discrimination wherever it is found from South Africa to the United States.

Fiorello

By Phillip Purser

The Clarkston Village Players presented the musical-comedy "Fiorello" last Friday and Saturday nights, May 3 and 4, 1974, at Colombiere College Auditorium. "Fiorello", which won a Pulitzer Prize and other drama awards, when it appeared on Broadway in 1959, concerns itself with a sixteen year portion of Fiorello H. La Guardia's life.

La Guardia was a New York City attorney, congressman and later three-term mayor of New York City. As a politician, he made his mark by being an honest scrapper who took on the Corrupt Tammany machine and won. The two-act play is simple, not startlingly original, but honorable, liberal and decent. It is an uneven musical which is frequently lively and enjoyable. Like many musicals it has its share of flat scenes, but it also has some that are sparkling, amusing, and moving.

The lead is ably played by Gene Sherwood as Fiorello La Guardia, who was a man who was not always lovable but was usually colorful. Sherwood makes La Guardia come alive in the musical scenes. The more rousing the song, as when he shows the female strikers of the garment factory how to be effective, the more appealing he becomes.

Dora, a girl Fiorello befriends early in the action, is played by Pein Christy. She sings and flirts with the cheapness that the role demands. She was particularly charming and cute in her biggest number, "I Love a Cop."

Near the end of the first act Fiorello's adoring secretary (Pat Schmidt), his first wife-to-be, Thea (Carol Arend), and Fiorello sing the prettiest song of the score "Till Tomorrow." Fiorello then leaves for Italy to serve with the Air Force during World War I, but not before promising to return and marry Thea while Mar... his secretary, is heart broken.

The second act is highlighted by a brief, but sparkling performance by Tammy Hughson in the role of the alluring chorus girl, Mitzi. Russ Inman as Morris, Fiorello's long-suffering and faithful right hand man, displays fine acting talents throughout the evening.

During the second half of the show we are treated to the cute and satiric spoofs on the Tammany graft and the boys in the smoke-filled backrooms in such songs as "A Little Tin Box."

"Fiorello" is lightweight comedy which offers a glimpse of a man who had a flair for the dramatic in his public life. It is mostly fun and it is always refreshing to find a politician who is honest and incorruptible.

The Clarkston Village Players will perform the musical two more times next Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m. at Colombiere College on Big Lake Road in Springfield Township.

Nearly a mile of sidewalk construction in front of both Clarkston and Sashabaw junior high schools will get underway after classes are dismissed June 13.

The Independence Township Board, in special meeting Thursday, awarded construction bids for the project to Polsinelli Construction of Warren at a cost of $14,330.80.

Polsinelli was the low bidder by $1,400 of two bids received.

Cost of the project is to be shared with Clarkston Community Schools.

Bikers will also be included in this year's marathon to raise funds for the volunteer center. Walkers are expected to leave Clarkston High School at 8 a.m., and a bike safety program will be conducted by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at 9 a.m. for bikers who are expected to leave later. Refreshments will be available at the high school upon the travelers' return.

Carpeting, canoe, tires stolen

Approximately 30 square yards of carpeting which had already been installed in a new apartment was cut and ripped off the floor in a recent burglary in southwest Independence Township.

The carpeting stolen from an apartment under construction at Andersonville and Parview roads was valued at $300.

The burglary was spotted shortly after midnight April 30 by Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy J. A. Peloquin, who noticed a broken window in the apartment while he was on patrol and found that a brick had been thrown through it.

During the same night, a canoe valued at $250 was stolen from the backyard of Ronald Herron, 6315 Maybee Road, according to sheriff's deputies.

They are also investigating the larceny of two wheels and tires from a car on the Radmacher Chevrolet lot, 6750 Dixie Highway. The wheels and tires, valued at $160, were stolen during the night of April 30 and May 1, deputies said.

Dust control program for roads

It's time to start thinking about summer dust control if you live on an unpaved road in Independence Township--and the sooner, the better, according to officials.

Deadline for applying for the Oakland County chloride program is June 1.

The Independence Township Board has agreed to pay 100 percent of the cost of chloriding stretches of road that were regraded through a matching fund program with the county last summer. This will account for some 15 miles of roadway.

For all other nonpaved roads, the Ambulance seeks aid

Springfield township board is studying the request of Holly Volunteer Ambulance Service for $20 for each emergency call into Springfield Township.

The sum, in a year, could amount to approximately $1,000 according to Supervisor Claude Trim.

Jack Johnson said ambulance service could run into financial disaster in the future even if 1,500 people -- as opposed to the current 900 -- take annual $12 subscriptions to the service.

A subscription eliminates the $50 initial charge for ambulances and costs to subscriber just $1 a mile from Holly to the hospital.

township will pay 50 percent of the cost of chloriding or oiling programs.

The Oakland County Road Commission's chloride program costs 8 cents a foot, with the township boosting its share from two to four cents a foot this year.

Residents on private roads must obtain their own contracts. They will be reimbursed for 50 percent of their dust-control programs when they present a receipt indicating the footage treated. These receipts must be taken to Township Clerk J. Edwin Glennie.

Any person having further questions should contact the Oakland County Road Commission or Independence Township Director of Public Works George Anderson.

Hooded (that's all) in woods

A youth believed to be a Clarkston High School student indecently exposed himself recently to a girl walking to the school through the woods between the school grounds and Birdland Subdivision, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

They said the youth, wearing only a dark ski mask, reportedly called out the 17-year-old girl's name as she walked to school.

Raid nets $1,285 in drugs

Drugs with a street value estimated at $1,285 were confiscated in a Sunday night raid by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department in a Springfield Township mobile home park.

Six persons were arrested in the raid, including the couple living in the trailer at 17108 Canterbury Circle in Oak Hill Estates, Anthony and Laura Hufford, both 20.

Hufford was charged with possession of phencyclidine (PCP) and hashish and his wife with possession of PCP.

Charged with being disorderly persons frequenting a house of illegal occupation were Charles Tolbert, 19, of 8930 M-15, Clarkston, and three Pontiac residents, Evertt Fife, 24; his wife Roseann, 26; and Danny Deering, 21.

Deering pleaded guilty at his arraignment before Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally, while the others stood mute. All were released on bonds.

Sheriff's Detective Keith Lester, who led the raid Sunday night, said the trailer had been under surveillance and investigation for about six weeks. Lester and five uniformed officers confiscated 54 grams of hashish, 1,500 capsules of PCP and six ounces of marijuana from the Huffords' trailer, he said.

This was the second drug raid in the area in the last 10 days. Sheriff's detectives arrested six in a raid in Drayton Plains April 26.

Reward offered in pump theft

Fred Proffitt of 8250 Foster Road has offered a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who stole a water pump from his yard Saturday night.

Proffitt told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies he had been using the $200 pump for several months in his front yard. Whoever stole it cut the hoses leading from it to haul it away.

Junior high drive blocked

Clarkston Junior High School drive, which extends between Church and Waldon roads, will be blocked soon as a safety measure to protect students using the athletic fields and tennis courts.

Due to a number of close calls in the past years, school officials have opted for the driveway closing to protect mingling of students and cars.

The drive will be unblocked each day at approximately 3:10 p.m. after busses have left.

Broomfield would limit fees

Congressman William S. Broomfield says any serious campaign reform should include legislation to prevent future abuses of the honorarium system by eliminating payment for speeches by elected officials in excess of out-of-pocket travel expenses.

"In many cases the so-called honoraria are nothing but political contributions that go directly into the legislator's pocket for personal use," Broomfield said.

He cited figures for 1971 and 1972 which show that senators collected over $1.4 million in honoraria, and he said a close look at the sources indicate that much of the money came from special interest groups.

Broomfield has proposed a bill prohibiting Congressmen and Senators from accepting payment from any source, other than for out-of-pocket travel expenses, for speeches, articles, discussions or personal appearances.

"It is important for Congress to make every effort to remove any public doubts concerning the exchange of votes for financial gain, and passage of this bill would be a giant step in that direction," Broomfield said.

Cougars down Wolverines 16-7

Sashabaw Cougars outhit and outscored Clarkston Junior High Wolverines Saturday, chalking up their second win of the season, a 16-7 win over the home rivals.

The game was close the first four innings, but in the top of the fifth inning the Cougars scored six runs, aided greatly by walks and fielding mistakes of the Wolverines.

The Cougars went on in the six inning to put the game out of reach by scoring another five runs.

The Cougars collected ten hits with Mark Czinder having 3 and both Jeff Leach and Ron Fraley 2 each. Dan Blower pitched the entire game for the Cougars scattering 8 hits.

Earlier this season the Cougars lost to Bloomfield Hills West Hills 13-2, to East Hills Junior High 5-0, and to Walled Lake Western 4-3, but they came home the victors April 30 when they defeated Bloomfield Hills Junior High 10-1.

In their season opener at home April 23, the Cougars were as cold as the weather. They did not get a base hit. It was a close game until the seventh inning when Bloomfield Hills West Hills scored 8 runs.

On April 25, a combination of poor base running and fielding mistakes led to the Cougars' defeat by East Hills Junior High. The Cougars actually outhit East Hills 9-6 with Don Blower having 3 hits and Ron Fraley with 2 hits. Mark Czinder pitched for the Cougars allowing 2 earned runs.

For the third straight game the Cougars faced a Bloomfield team April 30, defeating Bloomfield Hills Junior High 10-1. Blower, the winning pitcher, and Czinder divided the pitching duties. The Cougars collected 10 hits with 2 each by Doug Sorles, Fraley, Rick Hensley and Jerry Walker.

Walled-Lake Western visited Sashabaw on May 2. Lack of hitting led to the 4-3 defeat. The pitching for the Cougars was excellent with Czinder and Leach each pitching 3 innings while Blower pitched the seventh.

The team was to play Tuesday at Milford and host to Lake-Orion East on Thursday.

Clarkston Junior High's spring sports schedule is officially underway this week with both the baseball and track teams competing against other schools.

Clarkston's ninth grade 16-member baseball team, coached by Bob White, opened the season April 23 against Mason Junior High and lost 6-1 to a strong Mason team.

The ninth grade track team's 24 members are coached by Charles Keegan. They opened the season April 25 against East Hills Junior High at Andover.

Ray Cooper and Richard Powers coach the 73 students who make up the seventh and eighth grade track teams.

Fifty-seven girls under the coaching of John Matheus, are looking forward to their first meet May 8 against Sashabaw Junior High.

Girls softball team wins 2 more games

The girls varsity softball team remains undefeated after last week's victories over Andover (34-3) and Clarenceville (22-3). The girls' record now stands at 4-0.

Strong Clarkston hitting and weak Andover fielding accounts for Andover's 34-3 setback. Clarkston collected 30 hits in the game with Billie Carroll and Nancy Chartier collecting 5 each. The biggest hit of the afternoon came in the fourth inning when Cindy Hunt connected for a grand slam home run.

Clarenceville's 22-3 loss came as a result of pitcher control problems. The 16 walks awarded to Clarkston and the 14 stolen bases allowed almost everyone on the team to score. Autumn Matlock hit a triple and collected 4 RBI's. Clarkston displayed fine defensive play committing only one error in the game.

Veteran pitcher Billie Carroll was credited with both wins. Against Andover, Billie allowed 4 hits in 5 innings; and against Clarenceville she gave up only 2 hits in 5 innings. Billie's fine pitching has made it possible for sophomores to gain pitching experience in the late innings.

The JV team had only one game last week, a 15-14 victory over Andover. Lori Anderson and Vicky Verch each collected 3 hits in the exciting see-saw game. Anne Van Loon was awarded the win after pitching the full 7 innings. The JV record now stands at 1-2.

The next home game for both teams is Monday, May 13 against Milford. All home games begin at 3:30.

Truck sales on increase

GMC Truck and Coach Division of General Motors posted its second biggest truck sales month in history with 20,348 deliveries in April -- a record for the month and the highest monthly total in more than a year.

Alex C. Mair, GM vice president and general manager of GMC Truck and Coach, said the sharp sales upturn "could be a strong indicator that the entire motor vehicle market is on the rebound."

He noted that truck activity is "usually a sound barometer of the general state of the economy and consumer confidence."

Sashabaw cheerleaders

Sashabaw Junior High School cheerleaders for next year include Debbie Chuba, Pat Duva, Sue Frazier, Teri Hall, Sabrina Lussier, Cathy Nichols, Shari Scribner, Starla Serda, Laura Simkins and Leslie Cowling as alternate.

Sashabaw hosts playday

More than 100 9th grade girls attended a Play-Day at Sashabaw Junior High recently. Girls from Clarkston and Sashabaw spent the day playing in volleyball and basketball tournaments and participating in gymnastics. The day was jointly sponsored by Mrs. Sue Koslosky from Sashabaw and Mrs. Mary Colwell of Clarkston.

In the tournament between the intramural volleyball teams, Sashabaw's Pam Benzing, Karen Himes, Chris Smart, Kathie Warren, and the top scorer, Gayle Joyce, finished in first place.

Pam Benzing, Debbie Burzyck, Karen Hutchinson, Chris Smart, Kathie Warren, Janice White, and high scorer, Sue Mallett, comprised Sashabaw's winning basketball team.

The games are officiated by girls from the high school who donated their time in order to make the day successful. These officials were Sharon Bachand, Cathy Bunton, Jane Church, Nancy Foster, Laurie Miller, and Sheryl Stickley, and Varsity Power Volleyball Coach Mrs. Linda Denstaedt. Kim Hamilton was aided by Gay Stelmach in supervising the day-long gymnastics participation.

Through the cooperative efforts of both junior high schools, the girls were able to have a fine day. Because of its success, a Saturday next spring is being set aside for another Play-Day by Mrs. Koslosky and Mrs. Colwell.

Negotiations on a new contract between the Clarkston Board of Education and the Clarkston Education Association, representing the district's teachers, are reportedly proceeding satisfactorily.

The CEA made its proposals recently, reportedly starting at salary figures lower than some other settled districts within the county, and the board was to present its proposals Monday.

Rock may be what's making the headlines at Springfield-Oaks Activities Center these days, but Girard Lacey, park manager, points out that Circus Vargas -- featuring the largest tent in the world -- is scheduled there July 16 to 18, and the Longhorn World's Championship Rodeo will be there August 22 to 25. The 4-H Fair is scheduled July 29 to August 4, and the Antique Car Show is September 14 and 15. There is variety, after all.

Because of the impossibility of setting up detours, the traditional Memorial Day parade route will not be followed this year, according to Independence Township police.

The Oakland County Road Commission would not grant permission for the proposed route, announced last week in the Clarkston News.

Groups marching in the May 27 parade will gather at 9:30 a.m. on Washington Street east of Main Street. At 10 a.m., they will proceed west on Washington to Holcomb, south to White Lake Road and out to Lakeview Cemetery.

Boy Scout Troop 49 of Clarkston became the first unit in the Clinton Valley Council to earn the Guardian plaque for sustaining membership enrollment efforts. The troop is sponsored by the Campbell-Richmond Post American Legion.

Mac Morrow is scoutmaster; Bob Morse, unit SME chairman; Terry Evans, neighborhood chairman, and Roger Olney, zone chairman.

More than $1,000 of memberships were sold.

Springfield Township Supervisor Claude Trim has asked for the cooperation of residents in identifying people who dump litter along the roadsides.

He said Bridge Lake, Big Lake and Rattalee Lake roads are all being hit by people who choose not to use the dump for getting rid of garbage.

"We're checking license plates, and we're getting pretty good results, but we're unable to keep up with it on our own," he said.

One man's junk is another man's treasure and we hear several people who stood by the litter depots Saturday, both in Independence and Springfield townships, went home with what they consider treasures. The junk pickers will have another bonanza this Saturday in Independence Township as the clean up continues.

Michigan week is May 18-25. Be proud and think positive, its backers exhort.

Fifty cents from Lucky Fletcher and another 15 cents from Barb Holder has started us on our way to another collection. This time it's for a subscription to The Clarkston News. Actually there's 80 cents in the tin cup, but we can't recall where the other 15 cents came from.

That really was snow you saw fluttering down Monday, May 6.

Mrs. Ethel Buckheister has ordered her own subscription to The Clarkston News, thank you. Her check was received Tuesday morning. We're glad to have her as a member of our reading family.

The money we've collected will be turned over to the American Legion for its Poppy Day sales.

New home building in Springfield Township reached 13 last month, a figure which Trim said was comparable to last year. "Things are coming back up," he said.

Dem friends vie for Springfield post

Two friends, both of whom want just about the same kind of government for Springfield Township, will vie for the Democratic nomination for supervisor in the August 6 primary.

Roger Horton, 34, of 8484 Eaton

Road, a trustee for the past four years, and a member of the township planning commission for two years, would continue the supervisor's job as a part time position.

Donald Rogers, 29, of 9254

Semindale, township constable for more than a year, would quit his job with Detroit Edison's marketing division and make the supervisor's job full time with regular office hours.

Horton, a senior technical writer for GMC Truck and Coach, and Rogers are both members of Davisburg Jaycees: Horton a past president and Jaycee International senator, while Rogers is the chapter's treasurer and was formerly treasurer for Jaycee District 21.

Rogers, an unsuccessful candidate for township treasurer in 1972, and Horton both agree the township is in good shape, thanks to the administration of Supervisor Claude Trim who is this year seeking election as a member of the State House of Representatives.

They'd both like more enforcement of local ordinances. Both would like to see a new site for a firehall. Both see future growth of the township as presenting new problems which will have to be dealt with as they arise, even as the township is now facing the question of rock concerts at Springfield Oaks Activities Center.

Horton, a member of Davisburg Methodist Men's Club, is married to Myrna, and they have two children -- Ronald, 11 and Kim, 8.

Donald Rogers

Rogers, who is a member of St. Daniel's Church and the Knights of Columbus of Livonia, is married to Donna, and they also have two children -- Sandra, 6, and Donnie, 4.

Both agree the biggest difference they have is the question of whether the supervisor position should be full or part time.

They investigate past, plan future

By Pat Braunagel

Living in a 110-year-old house has made history buffs out of Robert and Marge Parke, and has also converted them into amateur detectives.

"The house was built in 1864 by a family named Sibley," Marge said.

The Parkes, moving to Clarkston a year and a half ago, bought the house from Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henry, who had owned it for 35 years. After using it as a summer home and wintering in Florida, the Henry's decided to move permanently to the Sunshine State.

Robert and Marge have picked up a lot of what they know about the house from Lloyd Sibley, who was born there, and from Bob Henry, who now lives next door.

They've done a bit of sleuthing around the house themselves too, as they've worked on remodeling it.

Lloyd told them the bookcase in the living room had been built into the entrance of the staircase which had once led to the maid's quarters.

The master bedroom was once a parlor and one can barely distinguish through the wallpaper the outline of a former archway and the place in the ceiling where an oil stove was vented.

"The house was apparently built in three parts, but we aren't sure how," Marge said. "We think the smaller bedrooms probably were added to the original building, and we're sure that the garage was added last."

The attached garage had been converted into a sun room and has now been redone as a family room.

Formerly a summer home, the 11-room house has had to be equipped for year-round occupancy.

"There are so many things that we're doing to the house that don't show," Marge said. "We've had to insulate, carpet and heat it."

The second story of the house is an apartment currently occupied by friends of the Parkes.

"Eventually, we want to fix it up so the kids will have a place to entertain their friends when they become teenagers," Marge said. "Since we have so much room in the house, we might as well use it for them."

The day when the upstairs of the Parke house becomes a haven for teenagers is still a bit in the future. The eldest offspring, Tim is eight, while Rodney is six and Juli three.

Marge, who had had no particular interest in antiques when they lived in a relatively new house in Rochester, now is looking for furniture suitable for a house in its second century.

Among that the Parkes were fortunate enough to obtain was the Henrys' nine-piece dining room suite of heavy carved oak. Other items in the dining room include an ornate plant stand which Marge bought for $3 and then had to pay $20 to have stripped.

Although she has done most of the furniture refinishing herself, the carved design on the stand was just too intricate for her to tackle.

Special treasures of Marge's are a 140-year-old black walnut dresser brought from England by her great-grandmother and a wooden ice box purchased by her grandmother in 1924.

The ice box now is a bar in the family room.

Throughout the house are various items--mainly ceramic--crafted by Marge.

"I figure that way I have something a little different," she said.

Other personal touches include Marge's story book doll collection in Juli's room, enlarged through trips her parents made to Spain and Mexico. The theme of the orange, green and white room is dolls and flowers, with two small tulip lamps hanging from the ceiling.

Spanish bullfight posters are among the paraphernalia in the boys' red, white and blue bedroom.

The Parkes now are turning their eyes to remodeling the kitchen, where Robert has his heart set on installing a range that is modeled after the old wood burners.

As the Parkes continue to bring the house into the 20th century, they also will still dig into the past.

"You know," Marge muses, "there's no fireplace in this house, and we can't figure out where it could have been. But all houses of that era had fireplaces, didn't they?"

The iceman cometh only with an ice bucket to this 50-year-old appliance that is now a bar in the Parke's family room.

Rows of dolls are second-generation treasures in three-year-old Juli's room.

Chancel and nave dedicated at Calvary

Calvary Lutheran Church, 6805 Bluegrass, dedicates its newly decorated nave and chancel Sunday, May 12, at the 10:30 a.m. service. The work was led by planning committee chairman Bob Filbert and Property Committee Chairman Jim Kiso and carried out by members and friends of the congregation.

The remodeling includes a new free-standing altar of birch crafted by Pete Stemborg and finished by Dave Bixby, a re-designed chancel in the half round with matching altar rail, a reredos or rough brown paneling, with Chuck Harwood leading the installation, red carpeting installed by George Tuson, and new paint, applied by Les Johnson and others.

Original impetus for the project came from high school members Mike McClean, Esther Hoffman, Tim LeVigne, and Kris Lehto who held an auction last summer.

Others who helped are Carol and Amy Bixby, Harry Hoffman, Dick Butler, Dave Skillman, Mike Haglund, Bev Moore, Bob Heazlit, Paul and Marj Hood, Tim LeVigne, Dale Hunt, Waino Lehto, Bob Kent, Ed Bey, Lois Navarre, Russ and Sharon Scott, Betty Kratt, Glenn Brancheau, Bill and Phyllis Meredith, Sue Filbert, Roger Graves, Art Salerno, and Elliot's Cabinet Shop.

Real estate appraising is a specialty and those who have need of appraisals should make it a point to inquire into the training and experience of those they engage. Hire only persons who are members of the outstanding qualifying organizations in the field. No appraiser who is worth his salt, will mind an inquiry about his credentials. Especially if no mortgage-loan commitment is being sought, it is wise for the seller of a property to have at least one or possibly two appraisals of his property.

The courteous professional staff at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., 625-5821 is at your service with maximum service; we offer maximum exposure to our sellers and maximum selection to our buyers. And we will handle the entire transaction for you, from appraisal through financing. Hours: 9-8 Mon.-Thur; 9-6 Fri; 10-4 Sat; 2-5 Sun; & by app't.

by Boris B. Bronson

Lighting brightens your home with warmth and pleasantness. It also adds a charm and welcome to every home. Light can be direct or indirect, used singly or in combination. Indirect light is directed against a wall or the ceiling, and the rays bounce off to diffuse the room with a shadowless, pale light. Direct light comes from table or floor lamps. Indirect light is impersonal, the pool of light tends to draw people into its circle with quiet and intimacy. Direct light brings out textures and shadows and makes things more attractive and interesting. Adjustability is desirable in both. A dimmer in the wall switch and three-way bulbs will enable you to tone your lighting for the occasion.

Your home will surely look more attractive and interesting with furniture and accessories from HOUSE OF MAPLE, 6605 Dixie Hwy., 625-5200. Our wide selection of lamps includes hanging lamps, table lamps, and decorator lamps. We also feature a fine array of wall accessories to add the finishing touches to your decor. Hours: Daily 9:30-9; Tue & Sat til 6.

Spiritual Message

Many years ago a shepherd turned King wrote, "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." God's Word, the Bible, the Scriptures can be the source of direction and instruction in our everyday life.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Mavis Sturgis, housewife, piano and organ teacher, and organist at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church wrote:

A STRONG SHIELD
God has given me a taste
That brought a newfound appetite;
It consists of learning scripture
As an inner guiding light.

Sometimes it seems impossible
To memorize each phrase;
I want the words a part of me
So the Lord can show His praise.

As His words speak out their message
And I visualize each thought
I am open for His working
And more ready to be taught.

In this age of Satan's power
When the cults are grasping prey,
What could be a better shield
Than God's Word used everyday.

The Apostle Paul in a letter to his "disciple" Timothy wrote: "The whole Bible was given to us by inspiration from God and is useful to teach us what is true and to make us realize what is wrong in our lives; it straightens us out and helps us do what is right. It is God's way of making us well prepared at every point, fully equipped to be good to everyone."

God's word Endures!

Home gardening

Another all American

by Dave Coulter

Prior to the 1500's the word "bean" was as indefinite as the word "vegetable". In early literature "bean" was used almost synonymously with seed. As explorers to the New World began returning to Europe they brought with them seed of new and, to them, exotic plants.

As earlier reported to you these included seed for the tomato and also "phaseolus vulgaris" and "phaseolus lunatus". Phaseolus Vulgaris is the botanical name for the bean family that includes Green Snap Beans, Wax or Yellow podded beans, Red kidney, White kidney, Great Northern, Marrowfat and White Navy beans. It is doubtful if you need to stretch your imagination as to why vulgaris is added to phaseolus.

The lunatus branch of this family tree are the Lima beans as we know them. Through the 1800's and until well into the early 1900's, most of the home garden varieties of green beans were of pole or vining type, flat podded and stringy and as the pods matured, quite fibrous. Hence the term has stock and we still call them string beans. Many gardeners still prefer the old pole types and are willing to take the trouble to "string" the bean pods to enjoy their special flavor.

At the turn of this century, plant breeders developed the "bush", "bunch" or dwarf green and wax varieties. Further development gave greater strength to the bush to hold its load of pods from the ground, eliminated the strings and made the pods become oval, rather than round, with slow seed development and less fiber.

Today beans are among our most popular vegetables. They will accept a wide range of climatic conditions, but are tender when the temperatures drop to 32°F. They grow in almost any soil type, except organic or muck soils. Diseases are rare and generally found only in large commercial acres.

Insect pests seldom are a major problem in home gardens. If insects become pestiferous usually they can be minimized by benign, rather than harsh chemicals. Beans have high yields and the more they are picked the more they will yield, unless some pods are missed from the pickings and mature and then the plant may tend to rest.

So, in beans we have a vegetable that will produce a great deal of highly nutritious food, easily grown, easily harvested, low in actual calories when used "green" or immature, (remember it's the butter, bacon, ham or almonds that carry the calories), adaptable to most any environment that has plentiful sunlight and where the plants don't get wet feet. The range of varieties, types, flavors and uses seem almost limitless.

Wax or yellow podded varieties now are almost all bush types. The most commonly available of these are: Stringless Green Pod, Contender, Tendergreen, Topcrop, Bountiful, Tennessee Green Pod and Commodore.

Newer green bush beans are almost all white seeded. The white seed varieties were developed for the canning trade because the varieties with colored seed will tend to cloud or discolor the liquid in which they are canned. White seeded ones do not. These canning types include Harvester, Provider, Tendercrop, Slimgreen, Avalanche, Bush Blue Lake and Sprite.

A variety named White Half Runner is neither bush nor pole, but is a bush type that sends out runners, short enough not to need poling. It has a unique flavor, but tend to be on the fibrous side. In some areas it is by far the most popular variety.

Most widely available of the pole beans that require a tepee of poles, or some other support for its runners, is Kentucky Wonder. It is one of the few string beans still in use and is preferred by many for its flavor. Pole Blue Lake beans, unlike Kentucky Wonder are round podded, stringless and renowned for sweetness.

Two sub types of green beans which grow either bush or pole are the Horticultural which are grown only for the "green" or immature seed, the pods are almost inedible, and only the seed is eaten, and bush or pole Ramanos. These are sometimes called "Italian Beans". They have long flat pods uniquely "beany" in flavor.

Now for good old phaseolus lunatus or lima beans. They also come as bush and pole type and are almost as adaptable as phaseolus vulgaris. Like the horticultural, generally only the "green" or dry seed is eaten. Seed size varies from that of a dime to that of a quarter. Favorite Bush varieties are: Burpee's Improved Bush, Fordhook #242 and Thorogreen. King of the Garden is the best known pole lima.

I'd like to thank those of you who stopped to chat at the Clarkston News Clinic at Ritter's last Saturday. Thank you also for the ideas you left with me for future columns, and special thanks to Jean Saile and the Ritters for the publicity and hospitality.

Young Sarah Griswold

by Connie Lektzian

The small train of wagons wound its way slowly out of Pontiac, headed for Springfield township. Fourteen-year-old Sarah Griswold clung to the sides of the jolting ox-cart and peered through the morning mist.

So this was the Saginaw Turnpike, this wagon track of bumps and bogs. In places the woods stood so close to the trail she could reach out and touch the branches.

Shivering a little, she drew her shawl tightly around her. The damp, chill Michigan air penetrated even its thick, heavy-knit folds. Spring in Covington, New York was much more pleasant. Sarah swallowed the hurting lump of homesickness that rose in her throat when she thought of her home town.

Right now, back home in Covington, all the friends she had to leave behind were scurrying about, caught up in the early morning bustle of preparing breakfast and getting off to school. School! Most of all, she would miss school. What kind of a life was she going to have in this new country? Certainly nothing like the pleasant orderly life she might have had back east.

Sarah blinked back the tears as she remembered the stunned disbelief they had all felt when her father had come home and announced they were moving west, moving to some place called Michigan where there was a lot of vacant land, and not many towns and few schools. It was 1835 and the wave of Michigan fever that was sweeping over the eastern seaboard had struck her father.

When the Griswolds finally arrived in Pontiac, they found other families ready to head northward up the Turnpike to Springfield. Additional supplies had been put on at this county seat, crowding the carts and wagons. Sarah had been perched aboard an ox-cart, seated for the remainder of the journey on a bag of grain.

Punching out a hollow spot in a pile of sacks, she had leaned back, remembering this past month. Back east, there had been an orderly but hurried sorting out of household goods, selling what they didn't need, packing what they could use in their new home. Into the bundles and boxes had gone many home remedies many old 'receets'. Sarah had overseen this for next to her schooling, she loved taking care of the sick.

Part of the Griswolds' migration had been by railroad. It was a little faster, but not without discomfort, for there had been no escape from the soot and cinders that showered down on them. Sarah longed for a bath, a clean dress, but most of all she longed for some privacy. Everyday of travel had been a day crowded about with people. Now, she stared down the Turnpike toward her new home and wondered what she could do in this raw, unsettled land.

In the years that followed, Sarah found out what she could do. In a few years, she was back in school - as a teacher earning a dollar a week. Most of all she found her niche helping sick people. There were no doctors for miles around, and at all hours she was called upon to help. With her own hands, she often made swaddling clothes for the new born and shrouds for the aged.

She grew up to marry John Davis, of the family for which Davisburg was named. He was a dashing young man who had received his lieutenant's commission in the militia from Michigan's first governor, Stephen Mason. John and Sarah had a marriage that happily endured for 60 years.

BY THE THIRD EYE

People will be given an opportunity to realize what they're placed on earth for. The whole purpose of life is birth, love, and death. The term "love" is a continuation of everything that God, Jesus, Mohammed and the religious leaders of today preach, but most people think of it as a short term physical affair.

If people lived by the precepts of the church and the true teachings of the Bible, there would be a natural order of life which would create peace all over. There would be no more demonstrations. People would want the best for their fellow man because they love.

If you love truly, you want others to be well. You want to help them over the rough spots and lighten their load by sharing their burden.

Too many people are now unwilling to get involved and they never notice the burden of another soul.

Prince Charles and Princess Caroline will get married, but not to each other. She will opt for someone Spanish or Italian, and he'll marry a blueblood and a Protestant.

Patricia Hearst appears to have a vacant look, like she is in a coma or a hypnotic state. I don't believe she will ever return to her family.

Service news

Marine Pvt. Douglas E. Williams, husband of the former Miss Lori A. Lorenz of 5255 Whipple Lake Road, has reported for duty at the Marine Corps Base at Twentynine Palms, Calif.

There are many people who think that life in America isn't ever going to be as good as it was again. America will remain a world leader for a period of years, but the pressure on day-to-day life will continue.

There's a new birth for the nation in 1976 or 1977, and new births are always accompanied by birth pangs. Everyone will feel them. The nation will be in for a rough period as it changes, because as a whole it will have to reevaluate its standings and go back to basic programs.

Happiness, however, as it's always been, will still be available. Those people who have the facility to withstand problems will achieve contentment.

Any residents wishing to take advantage of this Township sponsored and financed project can get rid of their trash and other items no longer wanted by the following means.

1. All large items should be taken directly to Powells landfill on Clarkston Rd. (between Flem Lake Rd. and Perry Lake Rd.)

2. All other items should be properly bagged or otherwise packaged for easy handling and can be left at any of the following locations.

1. Powell's landfill
2. Legion Hall on M-15 north of I-75
3. K of C Hall on Maybee east of Sashabaw
4. Corner of Orion Rd. and North Eston Rd.

Jim's Jottings

by Jim Sherman

by Jim Sherman

In Spring a young (as you feel) married man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of fishing, but realistically to the lawn.

How many joined me in having to clean up after sewer installers? I can see why they like to do the work in winter. First of all the mess is quickly covered with snow.

Then—property owners can't see the gouges made by back hoe teeth, they are told the mound of dirt will settle when the snow and frost go out in the spring, and the clean up job is in the distant future.

The future is now. The frost and snow are gone, but the mound remained. I soaked the area, God soaked the area and shook it a little too, but many shovels of dirt had to be removed.

It didn't settle. However, it will. And when it does you know it will have to be filled with expensive top soil. The grass doesn't grow in gravel.

Ah, sewers. Looking back I wonder why I was for them.

None of us in North Oakland will be around to see if they really protect the health of future generations... it's too far in the future.

Working in the yard does give a man a chance to think alone. If you can keep your mind busy you hardly mind the hoeing, raking, or mowing. Of course, too much concentration leads to decreasing the number of tulips one has and puts scars on the newly planted flowering crab trees.

Here is an interesting article that

MAKE A MENTAL NOTE

It sometimes appears to us that depression is the most common emotional symptom in our country these days. Most people at one time or another show depressive symptoms. The National Institute of Mental Health has estimated that one out of every eight people in the United States will require help for depression during their life time.

It has been reported recently by the American Institute of Family Relations that depressive feelings are a serious problem for at least half of all high school and college students. In April, 1974, the Acting Medical Examiner of Oakland County has said that the suicide rate in Oakland County is headed for a fifty percent increase over 1973 and that suicides have been increasing since 1970.

Depression can take a very mild and transient form of underactivity and a dejected mood. In the mildest form it differs little from a normal state of discouragement. Or, the symptom may take the form of unrelieved sadness from which the individual cannot be cheered. In a more serious form, a person may feel unworthy, inadequate, and even sinful. In the most extreme cases, a person has an all pervasive sense of worthlessness and this feeling colors the person's view of himself and his environment.

Some surveys have shown that older adolescents and elderly people are most likely to experience depression. For adolescents and students the depressive symptoms may include tiredness in the morning, self-blame, things not turning out as they want them to, lack of friendships, lack of feelings of acceptance, and withdrawal with little or no wholesome social life. It is at this time that a person may have thoughts of suicide. The National Institute of Mental Health has reported that the psychological characteristic most often associated with suicide among the young is isolation and withdrawal from others. Children who have committed suicide have generally had no close friends with whom they could share confidences or receive some psychological support in times of emotional distress.

"I have many qualifications. I've been a preacher with much success and also have had some success as a writer. Some say I'm a good organizer. I've been a leader most places I've been. I am 50 years of age.

I have never preached in one place more than three years. In some places I have left town after my work caused riots and disturbances. I must admit I have been in jail three or four times, but not because of any real wrong doing. My health is not too good, though I still get a great deal done. The churches I have preached in have been small, though located in several large cities.

I've not got along well with religious leaders in towns where I have preached. In fact, some have threatened me and even attacked me physically. I'm not good at keeping records. I have been known to forget whom I have baptized. However, if you can use me I shall do my best for you."

After reading the letter, the committee member looked at his fellow members and said, "Well, what do you think? Shall we hire him?" The others were aghast. Hire an unhealthy, trouble-making, absent-minded ex-jailbird? Was the man who read the letter crazy? Who is the applicant anyway? Who would have such colossal nerve?

"Oh," said the man who had read the letter, "It's just signed, 'The Apostle Paul'."

The age of depression

BY JAMES AND ELLEN WINDELL Psychological staff members of the Oakland County Juvenile Court and Clinical Resources, Incorporated

symptoms may include tiredness in the morning, self-blame, things not turning out as they want them to, lack of friendships, lack of feelings of acceptance, and withdrawal with little or no wholesome social life. It is at this time that a person may have thoughts of suicide. The National Institute of Mental Health has reported that the psychological characteristic most often associated with suicide among the young is isolation and withdrawal from others. Children who have committed suicide have generally had no close friends with whom they could share confidences or receive some psychological support in times of emotional distress.

When elderly people are depressed, the symptoms are likely to include sleep difficulties, feeling alone and helpless, a gloomy outlook on the future and an inability to control the future.

Even though it is normal to feel "down" or to have the "blues," when this feeling persists for more than a few days with a profound despondency along with some of the above symptoms, it is serious.

When you identify that this is happening in yourself or to a loved one, professional help should be sought. It has been recognized that depressive feelings respond to treatment. There are some homemade remedies for low spirits, (which we will explore in a future column), but if the depression lasts, then talking to a doctor or psychotherapist is recommended. Often, anti-depressant drugs are quickly successful so that the immediate despondency is relieved and counseling can help prevent a frequent recurrence.

Necklaces for the oval face should extend to the hollow of the neck. For the round faced or large woman, an extra nice necklace is good if it reaches about two inches below the collarbone. Chokers are good on a woman with a long face and neck. Delicate necklaces are for the dainty or feminine type. Pearls can be worn at any time. Bracelets look well especially on tall slender women, for they tend to diminish height.

Backward look at commencement

by Pat Braunagel

Where am I going, and where have I been?

It's a ponderous question that may come to the minds of many as the time for commencement--beginning--approaches.

Thoughts about the future come naturally enough to young people anticipating graduation.

Their elders have a somewhat different perspective on both past and future.

The Clarkston News asked a few if they currently are doing what they thought they would be when they left school. Their lifestyles and reflections varied.

"I guess so," was Lewis Baker's initial reply. "I've been in the Army, worked for Consumer's and helped build one church," said the 46-year-old sexton of Hillview Memorial Gardens in Springfield Township.

Lewis dropped out of high school halfway through his junior year in the hopes of joining the Merchant Marine.

"But the draft board wouldn't release me off the farm, so I stayed on the farm anyway," he said. "You really need high school today, but book learning is not enough--there should be more training schools."

Lewis Baker

Lewis is pretty satisfied with his family life.

"We've had seven children, which we didn't expect," he said. "But we got five boys first and wanted a couple of girls. You know how spoiled girls can get anyway, so you can't raise just one."

Clarkston hosts Grand blanc band in spring concert

Clarkston High School band will host Grand Blanc's band in an exchange program for the spring concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 15 in the high school auditorium.

The Clarkston band was to travel to Grand Blanc today (May 9) for a similar program there.

Grand Blanc's David Ryan will bring a 70-member concert band and a small stage band for the Clarkston program.

Musical numbers will include Broadway songs, marches, novelty numbers and popular music.

Debbie Thompson, Clarkston junior, will be featured in a performance of the Piano Concerto in A Minor by Edward Greig.

Refreshments will be served after the program by the Band Booster Club.

STAMPS

GENERAL DELIVERY

Betty Phillips

"I like my job," commented Betty Phillips from behind the counter at the Clarkston Post Office. She's worked there two years of her total of eight with the Postal Service.

"I really never had any ambition to be anything other than a housewife," said Betty, 44-year-old mother of four. "I didn't start working until my youngest was in kindergarten."

Holly Stephens

Holly Stephens' life has turned out to be somewhat of a surprise to her.

"When I graduated from high school, I wanted to go to med school," she said. "I didn't because I met Trent."

She and her future husband dated throughout college, while Holly earned a bachelor of science degree in biology.

"Then I did what I wanted to -- combined a career and housewifing nicely," Holly said.

She now describes herself as "a wife, mother, teacher, student, planning commissioner, scout co-leader, volunteer for independence center and freelance writer."

Rev. Alex Stewart, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection in Clarkston, also is following a path different from the one he set out on.

"I was in industry for 10 years, with the Ford Division in general sales," he said. "I had my masters degree."

Rev. Alex Stewart

Rev. Stewart had entered college with the idea of preparing for a career in law.

"I got my bachelors in political science, but that was interrupted by the service. Then I got a masters in business administration.

"It probably always was in the back of my mind to enter the ministry. A lot of things came together, and I made the decision."

The 51-year-old minister made that decision--based on an "impulsion"--18 years ago and was ordained three years later.

2 seek township liquor license

Two applications for Springfield Township's one available liquor license were made Wednesday night to the township board.

Robert Kostin of Davisburg appeared on behalf of Roland Clouse to request the license for Nanjoe's Restaurant on the Dixie Highway near the Whoopee Bowl, and Clouse presented plans to expand the restaurant should the license be made available.

Robert Rothermel, who says he has been applying since 1961 for a license, restated his intention of converting the old David Wright mansion at the Dixie and Holly Roads into a "Zehnder's-type" facility.

"I'm ready to get an injunction if the license is issued to anybody else," he said.

Rothermel fought the now aborted award of the license to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission for use at its Springfield-Oaks Golf Clubhouse.

Someone else who's quite happy about the way things have turned out so far is Walter Brydges, 32, of Davisburg.

Walter Brydges

"I've wanted to own my own store ever since I was 17 years old," he said. "I finally got it three years ago."

Before buying S and H Tile and Carpet in Davisburg, Walter had worked as a carpet layer in Union Lake.

His family also brings him contentment.

"I've got a beautiful wife and three daughters," he said. His wife helps him in the store, of which both speak with pride and hope.

"It's going to be a lot bigger before I'm through with it," Walter said.

Jerry Hunter and daughter Sarah.

Jerry Hunter, 41, of Clarkston, believes she "ended up differently than I ever expected, even when I graduated from college."

"That's because I got married," she said. "I was a social worker, and I just kind of thought I always would be. I had worked for 11 years before I retired."

"But I say, it's more fun bringing up my own family than someone else's," commented the mother of three.

Trash takes a trip

Girl Scouts and their leaders stage a tug o' war with a long-discarded couch along Maybee Road.

Sorting bottles and papers collected during Independence Township's clean-up program Saturday are [from left] Don Place, F. J. Benfield and Carolyn Place, chairperson of the campaign.

Another load of trash is delivered to Ben Powell Disposal Company's landfill dump on Clarkston Road. This was among 478 pickup trucks, 90 cars and four dump trucks that brought trash to the company, which also gave away about 1,500 trash bags.

Joette Kunse [left] and Diane Stephen work in the kitchen at Sashabaw Presbyterian Church, filling cups with orange drink from a dispenser provided by McDonald's. The approximately 150 volunteers who worked last Saturday on Independence Township's clean-up also consumed some 400 sandwiches.

Civil Air Patrol members concentrated on ground work along Waldon Road as they participated in the first day of Independence Township's clean-up campaign.
