High water creates lake problems

Flooding problems causing road problems have been relatively minor in Independence Township this spring, according to DPW director George Anderson.

He said some roads like Reese had bad spots, but that overall roads had held up quite well.

Where the problems have occurred have been in lakes which are higher than they've been in the last 18 to 20 years, according to Robert Vandermark, supervisor.

Sandbagging operations carried on last weekend on Walters Lake averted serious problems there, and release of water from the Mill Pond and Dollar Lake kept flooding to a minimum in those areas.

"There isn't a lake in southeastern Michigan that isn't at its highest level in 18 to 20 years," Vandermark said.

2 injured in blaze

Two Independence Township firemen were injured while fighting a garage fire on Eston Road Saturday afternoon.

Neil Ashley sustained first and second degree burns on a hand, his arms and face, according to department officials. While bringing the fire under control, Robert Tilley also was burned on the knee.

A garage fire at the South Eston Road home of Robert Castleberry at 4:18 p.m. Saturday resulted in an estimated $9,000 damage to the frame and brick veneer unattached building, and $5,000 to contents which included one car stored inside and three just in front.

An alert Independence Township Fire Department, prepared for trouble during the electrical storm early Friday, had three trucks out and rolling while the siren still sounded for a smoke investigation at 2:35 a.m.

The call came from the home of John Wagner, 4659 Eddystone, where a portable TV was reportedly causing trouble.

The storm caused power interruption along the Dixie Highway and reportedly left some Springfield homes without electricity for as long as eight hours.

Paving, chapel considered for cemetery

Independence Township Board meeting as the Board of Health will consider bids for the one-lane paving of roads in the new section of Lakeview Cemetery at 7 p.m. June 4 at the township hall.

DPW Director George Anderson said the paving, estimated to cost between $8,000 and $9,000, would provide for better appearance and make winter maintenance easier. He said the gravel roads must be constantly chlorided in the summer and that stones are constantly flying into the grass during the summer where they cause problems for the lawn mowers.

Anderson said about $90,000 in the cemetery perpetual care fund would be tapped for the work. He said he would also like to get the board's approval to hire an architect to complete drawings for a small chapel on the property.

The chapel would be used to conduct services during poor weather, he said.

A neighbor and a representative of the Oakland County Drain Commission lower the dam on Dollar Lake near the Dixie Highway to get rid of an excess 14 1/2 inches of water which was endangering lakeside homes Friday.

Springfield may lose 2 concerts

Springfield Township objections have prevailed in the matter of two of three scheduled concerts contracted by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission for Springfield-Oaks Park on Andersonville Rd.

Arrangements have been made with Pontiac City Commission to move the scheduled June 14 appearance of Leon Russell and an unscheduled July 2 performance to Wisner Stadium in that city.

Residents and township officials were unable, however, to budge the county from its presentation May 26 of the James Gang in concert at the park. Further discussion is due at Parks and Recreation meeting at 9:30 a.m. May 24th at the county parks office.

More than 3,000 tickets have reportedly been sold for the concert and E. Frank Richardson, chairman of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission and a member of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, told a Springfield delegation Thursday it was too late to change the performance.

The commission recently allowed Golden Goose and Sunrise Productions the opportunity of selling tickets to the concert at the park gate. Previous plans had been to limit tickets to advance sales, but the commission increased the $6 price to $9 for on site purchases.

Commissioners blamed bad publicity as an adverse affect on concert attendance for the need to open up gate sales. Some 10,000 concert goers could be accommodated at the park, which is now being fenced as a security measure for the concert and other events slated later this summer.

Springfield residents have objected to increased traffic, noise, and the possible use of drugs, and liquor at the concerts.

Supervisor Claude Trim and a delegation of 15 people attended the Oakland County Board of Commissioners meeting Thursday to present petitions bearing the signatures of 500 Springfield and Oakland County residents opposing the concerts. Another 1,800 signatures of people, living for the most part outside Springfield Township, had been collected by those favoring the concerts, but were not presented.

Trim told the Board of Commissioners Springfield Township had not been notified regarding the concert series, despite its previous policy in which the township had endorsed such attractions as the rodeo in prior years.

He said the contract had been signed without the knowledge of the township or the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, and that road and noise studies had not been made.

Concerts featuring rock music have been held previously at the park, but always at its indoor facility, and crowds have reportedly not exceeded 800.

Gerard Lacey, park manager, this week prepared a fact sheet for the James Gang concert which calls for a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 23, prior to the concert to brief all people participating in-concert patrol. About 120 are expected to attend.

Lacey said traffic from Andersonville and Davisburg roads will be brought into on-the-ground parking lots and along Hall Road. When those are filled, the golf course parking lot across Andersonville Road will be used. There are also plans to use a 7-acre meadow a quarter mile from the arena if necessary.

Parking will be coordinated, he said, by the Michigan Emergency Radio Team working with citizen band radios.

Lacey said the stage and its cover is being set up so that the greatest part of the sound will be vectored into the woods and swamp.

Plans have even been made to sleep workers at the Methodist Church in Davisburg, if necessary, Lacey said. All workers will be identifiable by marked Tee-shirts, he said.

End of school nears

Seniors will complete their schooling at Clarkston High School on June 4, but will have to be in school for periodic events until their commencement at 11 a.m. June 8 at Pine Knob.

The last day of classes for underclassman is June 13, report cards to be mailed June 20.

The senior awards assembly is 9 a.m. June 8 in the high school gym.

Meet school candidates

Clarkston Jaycees and the Clarkston Education Association will host a "Meet the Candidates Night" at 7:30 p.m. May 30 at Clarkston High School lecture room.

Candidates state their positions

Three candidates will vie June 10 for the open four-year term on the Clarkston Board of Education.

Also on the ballot is a 4-mill operating tax increase, which educators say will be offset by an accompanying decrease in the school bonding levy, leaving the total school tax package at or near its current 28.21 mill levy.

Seeking election are incumbent David K. Leak, 42, 6195 Middle Lake Road, current board president; Gayle A. Bila, 31, 4981 Farley Road; and Mrs. Katherine A. Fortin, 5438 Boyne Highland Terrace.

Leak, married and the father of three, is controller for Federal Mogul Corporation, Southfield. A graduate of Clarkston High School, he has a bachelor of arts degree from Albion College.

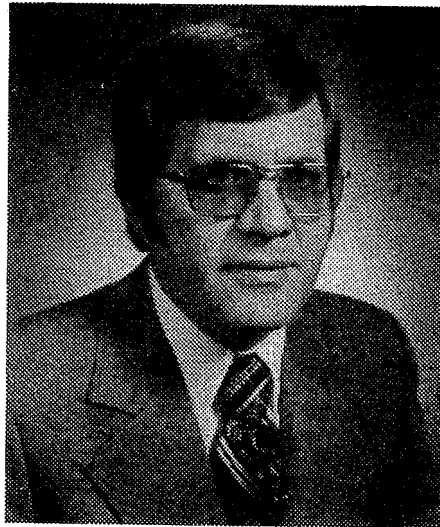

He is a member of the executive council and finance chairman of the Michigan Diocese of the Episcopal Church.

Leak says he believes it's time to see if taxpayers wish to support an expanded school program.

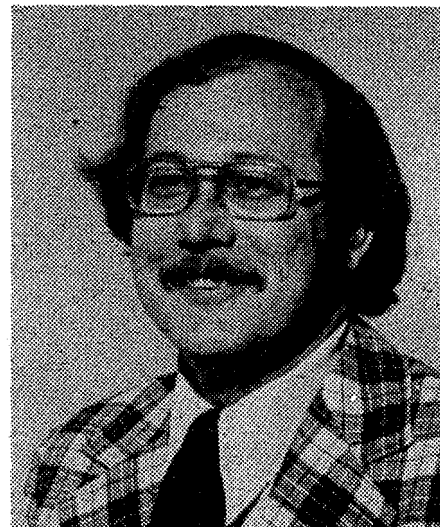

He contends school policy should be flexible, discipline in the schools should be firm, and the curriculum should tax the ability of students at all capacity and grade levels.

A conservative in the handling of money, he believes in maximum use of school buildings and prefers that salaries relate to performance rather than to years of service or course credits. He maintains that Clarkston taxpayers receive more educational value per dollar than any other district in the metropolitan area.

He says it is the school's main function to help the parent in the education of children, and that the quality of education depends as much on the parent as the school system.

David Leak

Gayle Bila

Katherine Fortin

Bila, who works with the Community Education Department of the Waterford School District, has a bachelor's and master's degree from Michigan State University. He is a member of the National Community Education Association and the Michigan Community School Education Association.

He says,

"Because of my experience with all facets of the school community, I feel that it would be easier for me to relate to the needs and concerns of the total school community. And, in meeting these needs, I would know whom to go to for information and answers. I would also be better able to interpret information from school officials and not rely entirely on these officials for explanation. For your further information, I have listed several feelings I have regarding education.

"If our schools are going to meet the total needs of the youngsters, a balanced school program must be offered. This would, in part, include an adequate physical education program, music, and good library facilities in all buildings. It may be necessary, and desirable, to re-examine our spending priorities at all levels and see if we are meeting the greatest needs with the dollars spent.

"I am keenly aware of how difficult a problem discipline has become, especially in the secondary schools. But, I am just as aware how important sound and fair discipline enforcement is to a good education. It is absolutely necessary that we guarantee each youngster a learning atmosphere in which he can achieve his highest goals. This is not an easy task, but through proper and consistent action it can be achieved.

"Public Act 379, which provides for collective bargaining for public employees, is in need of revision, establishing definite guide and time lines for the negotiating calendar. It must have built into it fair settlement procedures for all parties concerned and not allow a situation where either side boxes itself in and a strike becomes unavoidable.

Mrs. Fortin, 35, is a clinical instructor at Oakland Community College.

An Independence Township resident for nearly four years, she is married to a sergeant in the Pontiac Police Department and has five children.

She received her training in dental hygiene from the University of Michigan and has since completed two years at Wayne State University.

She says she would like to see a little less of the conservation element represented on the Board of Education. As a parent in the Bailey Lake district, she thinks overcrowding of classrooms a prime concern.

She'd like to see trained parent volunteers to augment the school's present cross-age helpers program. "I know there are many parents who would be willing to serve," she says.

Landfill discovered, now being covered

Two men who have been operating an unlicensed landfill in Independence Township for about 18 years, reportedly unaware that they were in violation of the law, have been discovered and are initiating full cooperation with county and township officials.

According to representatives of the Oakland County Health Department, the operation has been going on in the swamp behind the homes of Liston E. Wilson, 5011 Waldon, and Everett Dennis, 5021 Waldon, near the southwest corner of Waldon and Clintonville roads.

"They said they were not charging for the dumping, that they just wanted the swamp filled in," said Independence Ordinance Enforcement Officer Timothy Palulian.

General refuse, excluding garbage but including building materials and appliances, was being dumped on the property, Palulian said.

Since being notified of their violation of state laws, the men have been "very, very cooperative," according to Palulian.

Wilson and Dennis have a pallet making and rebuilding operation between their homes, county health officials said.

Although the total property owned by two amounts to about 10 acres, only about three were being used for dumping, said Oscar Boyea, associate director of the Oakland County Health Department's environmental health division.

He and Kazim Shushtari, county sanitarian for this area, attended a May 15 meeting with the owners and township officials.

"We have received very good initial cooperation from both persons involved," Boyea said. He reported that Wilson and Dennis immediately set up wooden barricades to keep persons from dumping on the property.

They also set to work to meet health department orders that the trash be compacted and covered with a minimum of six inches of clean earth within seven days, Boyea said.

"Eventually, the whole area has to be covered with a minimum of two feet of earth," Boyea said. "We hope this final cover can be provided within 30 days, but we know how difficult and expensive it will be to acquire."

Recently discovered landfill hidden from roads.

Health department officials will seek assurances that Wilson and Dennis are proceeding in good faith, he said.

Heard about our used car operation?

If you haven't, we think it'd be worth your time. And we promise not to bore you. Not for a minute!

You see, we pay an awful lot of attention to our used car business. We take extra special steps to give every car we take in trade a deep-down physical. And if we decide a little surgery is required, we remove the trouble right then and there.

If we consider one of our trades a hopeless case, we get rid of it. As mercifully as possible. After all, we can't afford to pass somebody else's miseries on to our used car buyers.

Why this kind of extra care? Well, out here in Oakland County, we meet our friends and customers every day. In the coffee shop. At the bank. On the street. We can't afford to let a fast buck downgrade our longstanding reputation for fair dealing.

When we stick an OK Used Car label on one of our used cars, you know that car's got plenty of life left in it. And our fees are ridiculously low.

That's exactly how we operate.

War declared on landfill plans

By Pat Braunage

The Independence Township Board and a vociferous delegation of residents have made it clear that they do not want a massive sanitary landfill located in their community.

"We...do decisively and emphatically reject the resolution for a county-wide landfill plan proposed by the Oakland County Department of Public Works," stated Clerk J. Edwin

Break-in suspects captured

Three young men were arrested in connection with four break-ins after a two hour man hunt in Springfield and White Lake townships Friday afternoon, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

County officers were investigating a Springfield Township burglary in which 15 antique guns had been stolen when they were asked to assist White Lake police in pursuit of break-in suspects.

The guns of undetermined value, a box of ammunition, $19 in cash and a blank check book had been stolen from the home of Leo Newton, 10960 Crosby Lake Road. An attempted break-in at the Gerald Connors home at 7600 Crosby Lake Road was unsuccessful because of a burglar alarm, deputies said. The suspects are believed to have been involved in these two incidents and three break-ins in White Lake Township.

Called in for the man hunt through wooded areas in southern Springfield and northern White Lake townships were White Lake officers, four Oakland County Sheriff's deputies and two Michigan State Police Troopers, with tracking dogs.

William D. Cutajar, 22, of Pontiac was arrested near the corner of Hillsboro and Shaffer roads. James E. Bradley, 19, and Glenn R. Allen, 19, both of Waterford Township, were taken into custody by White Lake officers near White Lake and McKeatchie roads.

Charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling with the intent to commit larceny, the three were arraigned before Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally Monday. All stood mute, and their preliminary examinations were scheduled for May 30.

Glennie in his motion which was unanimously supported by fellow board members.

"We do absolutely and unequivocally object to any consideration of Independence Township as the general location of a landfill to help serve the needs of Oakland County," the motion continued.

Also in the motion, the board took note of "not only our own feelings, but the unanimous feelings of those residents present" at its Tuesday night meeting.

The resolution is to be sent to each member of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, although there was little certainty about its effect—other than as a declaration of war against location of a large landfill in the township.

Ammunition available for the fight also is an unknown quantity, with the state apparently holding the biggest gun—a law which requires every county and every municipality of more than 10,000 population to have a solid waste disposal plan by July 1, 1974. In addition, there is the threat of proposed legislation to ease condemnation proceedings should the county pick a definite site.

Currently, one of three proposed landfills for the county is a dot on a map west of M-15 and north of Hubbard Road.

George Shutte of the Oakland County DPW, who started an approximately three-hour discussion with a presentation to the board and more than 50 residents, emphasized that the landfill could wind up anywhere within a 15-mile radius of that dot.

The resolution for which the county DPW is seeking support from local governmental units "holds in abeyance of a final plan," Shutte said.

"If we find a better way...we're going to go with it," he commented. Shutte noted the county is planning a landfill of about 200 acres to serve basically seven townships in the northwest portion of the county, plus parts of Orion, Waterford and West Bloomfield townships.

Aiming at having it in operation in two years, the county would expect it to handle about 290 tons—or 50 to 75 truckloads—of trash a day. By 1995, the daily amount could be up to 960 tons, Shutte said.

Referring to a 1971 landfill report prepared for the township, Trustee Keith Humbert, the lone Democrat on the board, chastised his fellow members for not pushing harder on the issue until now.

The board also came under fire from former Democratic Supervisor Gary Stonerock, who described the present predicament as "an 11th hour situation."

"If I were sitting there tonight, we would not be in this blitz situation," he said, commenting that it is the result of politics and that "we've been sold short by the representation of this board to the citizenry."

Other members of the audience pleaded for township unity rather than partisanship on the matter.

Dam silly business

There may be an excuse—due to the high water level experienced by the whole of Southeastern Michigan—but the fact remains that Dollar Lake residents never had flooding problems until the Oakland County Drain Commission put in a $13,940 dam last year.

The water flow rate cannot apparently be speeded up enough to accommodate large rainfalls, and it is true that some of the problem experienced Friday was due to the lowering of the Mill Pond dam to alleviate flooding in that area.

Nevertheless, from where the people who are footing the bill sit, the dam, which it will take them four years to pay for, was "dam silly."

' If It Fitz . . . '

Go forth and digress

by Jim Fitzgerald

Once again it is the season for me to write the commencement address I won't deliver in person because speeches make me itch. Besides, no one asked. I am something like Spiro Agnew sitting in a Greek bar waiting for the phone to ring.

Anyway, speaking of vice presidents, it's probably only fair that Gerald Ford be allowed to give all commencement speeches this year. He should always have a speech scheduled tomorrow so he can explain he didn't really say what you thought he said about Nixon yesterday.

But I digress. My commencement address has added importance this year because my daughter Chris is graduating from high school. I have a lot of important things to tell her if I ever see her again. She only comes home to wash her hair and change overalls. I run into her in the hall once in a while but by the time I've finished introducing myself she is always called to the phone.

I'd like to tell Chris I remember her but I've forgotten the formal dress she wore to that dance a few months ago. Even though I sobbed gently at the sight of the price tag, I do not recall if that dress was red or pink, lace or burlap. So why couldn't she wear it to the prom this month? Why do girls insist they can't wear a formal twice in the same world because EVERYONE will know it's OLD and no one will dance with them for fear of catching boll weevil fever from cotton sabotaged by Eli Whitney's slaves?

There was once a gangster who wore his sox only once and then threw them away. I'll admit I thought that was pretty classy. I figured the neighbors would be mightily impressed by an ever-growing pile of sox under my bedroom window. But I don't have nerve enough to look under Chris' window. It must look like Saks 5th Avenue blew up.

Come to think, proms have become strange things.

When I was a two-stepping youth, each guy got a dance card and a pencil stub as he entered the hall. The first thing he did was fill out the card by finding a dozen guys willing to dance with his date while he danced with theirs. Everybody was thereby contracted to stay until the last dance (It's 3 o'clock in the morning . . . aahhh). There was only an occasional sneak out to the parking lot while a guy appealed to a girl's patriotism (It probably be fighting in Germany or Japan 2 weeks after graduation and we

The big event of the week, however, was the Sunday afternoon concerts. After a big dinner, generally with company, we adjourned to the front parlor for a piano-violin-guitar rendition by my two brothers and me.

Sometimes the older folks stood around and sang hymns, or some of the more rollicking western tunes, and often a guest sat in to entertain and earn his dinner.

On occasion I am wont to recall these events for the benefit of the kids. They think we led a dreadfully dull life. I'm not so sure.

At today's proms, the kids dance once and then see how far they can go for a late dinner. By the time the last dance is played, some of them are having their luggage checked through customs. If they wanted to say goodnight to the band leader, they'd have to send a postcard.

But I digress. I always digress. In fact, that is the theme of my commencement address: "Students, go forth into the world and digress. To digress means to stray from the main subject. The main subject is usually a big pain and it is only while digressing that you smell the flowers, hear little children giggle, and look at girls' legs."

What this world needs is more digression. Just be sure to signal before turning. Sideways can be sweeter than Onward and Upward.

Schools off-limits

Dear Jean:

The Clarkston Board of Education at its regular meeting on May 13, 1974, directed that police departments, news media, recreation department, and all schools in the system be given copies of two policies of the Board relating to use of licensed and non-licensed vehicles on school properties adopted August 12, 1968.

The safety of children is repeatedly being jeopardized by persons misusing the grounds. We urge the cooperation of everyone involved and request police of any appropriate jurisdiction to take proper action against those who will not cooperate.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

4. Operators of licensed or unlicensed motorized vehicles that violate the above regulations shall be subject to such reprimand, restriction, order, or arrest, as shall be deemed necessary by school officials or by any law enforcing agency.

LICENSED VEHICLES

The School Board does hereby authorize and request police personnel or any municipal agency legally operating in the Clarkston Community School District area to use their credentials to warn, order, or arrest any individuals parking outside the designated parking areas, operating a licensed vehicle in an unsafe or reckless manner, or exceeding the 15 mile per hour speed limit while on school property.

NON-LICENSED VEHICLES

The School Board does hereby request the police personnel legally operating in the vicinity of the Clarkston Community School District to restrict the use of non-licensed motorized vehicles on the Clarkston Community School properties.

Learn and vote!

Registered Voters of the Clarkston School System:

Your Schools are just what you (the voters) let them become. Your own vote does count and does make a difference.

Our school board does notice how many in each area vote and how they vote, how the trend seems to be -- to help them decide how to plan our school programs.

Do you deserve what you get by not knowing what the school elections are about and/or by your not voting?

Tell your school board, principals, your superintendent, your neighbors, your relatives and then tell anybody else what you want, what you will pay for, and how you want the money (which you pay in taxes) spent.

They aren't to tell you -- you are the big boss. Act like it!

Andersonville, Maceday Lake, Sashabaw, Walters Lake, Allen-Reese-Bridge Lake areas, plus all the other neighborhood areas in our own school district: You get what most of you vote for. It takes more than bitching. It doesn't make any difference if you live in the township of Independence, Springfield, Waterford, or Orion, if you are in this Clarkston Area School District.

As for the school millage election -- how can there be any state assurance of what that money will be used for?

Do you understand the two separate school funds paid by your property tax -- the operational and maintenance fund as compared to the other building and site fund?

Portable buildings (modulars) are allowed to be paid for from the operational fund. It takes a bond issue if more money is needed for permanent buildings. The "make-shift" classrooms have a habit of staying and staying where they get parked first.

Independence Township has a precedent set already at the church on Bluegrass -- at the northern end of Clarkston where school board member Rev. Robert Walters is pastor.

By parking "those questionably needed" school portables at the Clarkston Elementary, these sub-standard buildings would be confined to the area already used to it. It would also keep the Special Services classroom and office near each other, but not isolated from students of all ages and sizes.

Clarkston Elementary boundaries could be changed this time, instead of the other neighborhoods that are always getting pushed around from year-to-year, and school-to-school.

Then these "make-shift" temporary rooms would not be tolerated as long. They'd be ever visible and used by a greater number of Clarkston Area School voters who would then "see the need: for their own permanent classrooms.

Wake up! Study the issues. Decide for yourself and your family. Believe in your own worth and vote -- all of you!

Just one taxpayer and parent

Editor's note: In all fairness, it must be reported that Clarkston Elementary boundaries have been expanded within the last two years. Clarkston School District encompasses parts of Independence, Springfield, Waterford and White Lake townships.

Our apologies

Dear Editor:

In response to your editorial of May 9 regarding the trash problem at the Clarkston-Eston Roads intersection, we feel obligated to reply on behalf of the Homeowners we represent.

It is generally an acknowledged fact that the cleanup and dumping privilege was abused at our pickup point. Witnesses have noted that stake trucks with full loads were dumping trash at the intersection. Most of us knew the rules and most of us were informed of the details through The Clarkston News. We feel that it is very unfortunate that a few individuals took advantage of a good will Community oriented gesture such as this clean up project.

We would publicly like to apologize for this disservice to the Community. The Township deserves better Citizen participation. However, we also feel that the majority of the abuse was not initiated by the Residents of our subdivision. The township and Powell Disposal Service will have our full cooperation and participation in the future to assure that this does not happen again.

Sincerely yours,
Rod Landry, President
Thendara Park Homeowners
Association

Thanks again to each of you.

The House of Representatives voted 240 to 153 not to adopt the metric system of weights and measures.

The New York Times says, "Failure to pass the bill, one that has been stalled in Congress for 100 years, was due in part to concern over the cost of conversion."

"Cost of conversion" should have stopped a few other pieces of legislation in the Congress.

However, The Times also reported Rep. John B. Anderson, (R-Ill.), said that failure to pass the measure would place the United States with Trinidad, South Yemen and Tobago as countries that have not converted to the metric system.

It's comforting to know there are other forward looking countries that have gotten away from metrics and Roman numerals.

Those "metric" countries still drive on the wrong side of the road, too, don't they?

Last week I wrote about "Media and the first amendment". You've probably read over the past 3 years of reporters refusing to give sources of information before the grand jury.

One such reporter, Peter J. Bridge of New Jersey, went to jail for 21 days. Not only that, now after 2 years, he can't get a job.

He said the case made him a hero, but also a potential liability for a news organization.

Some times you can't win for losing.

Man's home is his castle. Sounds like something that might be embroidered in the vestibule. But the thought prompted me to recall some of the simple things that make being home nice.

Like going to the refrig and taking a drink of milk right from the bottle, or licking ice cream off a knife, or wearing old, stained but comfortable clothes.

Like laying on the floor with the dog, putting my foot on the arm of a chair when I tie my shoe, or having a daughter scratch my back.

Like not shaving all day, or having or not having a fire in the fireplace, or slouching, or hugging my wife, or kicking a kid.

Another thing about that castle, if you have some pride, is that it has to be kept up.

The trees and shrubs have to be pruned, the flowers planted, and grass mowed and fertilized.

The house has to be painted, sprinklers put out, and rubbish can't be allowed to collect.

It's all part of having a castle and sometimes the keeping it up is as pleasant as kicking a kid.

Mill Pond cleanup

Clarkston Village Council Trustee Jim Webber has announced that Clarkston Mill-Pond will be lowered ten feet June 7, 8 and 9 to allow residents to clean up their beach areas.

Webber said Earl Hawke who controls the dam on Washington Street had agreed to the cleanup prior to the swimming season.

13-year-old stars in "1,000 Clowns"

Lewis Sanborne

In the Clarkston Village Players' latest production "A Thousand Clowns", one of the major roles is played by an extremely talented young man, Lewis Sanborne. Lewis is thirteen years old and is handling an adult sized part in this play in a very capable manner.

"A Thousand Clowns" is not Lewis' first venture on stage. Way back in the second grade he played the lead in "George Washington Smith." By the time he was a fourth grader, Lewis portrayed Brutus in "Julius Caesar". Clarkston audiences will no doubt, remember his performance in "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates" at the United Methodist Church.

Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Sanborne, and has two older sisters. The Sanborne family are formerly from Toledo, Ohio, and have lived in Clarkston for two years. Lewis attends Clarkston Junior High School where he plays trombone in the honors band. Other off-stage activities that keep him busy include Boy Scouts, reading and construction of models.

Play dates for "A Thousand Clowns" are May 31, June 1, 7 and 8. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. at the depot theatre. Tickets are available from Dr. Denne's office, the Clarkston Cafe, or from any member of the Village Players.

ME AND MINE

By Pat Sherwood

Glasses, glasses on the wall

Here's a way to augment meager kitchen storage and get your glassware nearer your bar or table. A unit like this one assembles quickly from ready-made components, or—if you're handy with small tools—you can make it from scratch.

It all started as three separate unfinished cabinets, complete with sliding glass doors. The three were bolted together, and the custom-made bottom shelf was added. To make it, buy a board the same size as the bottom shelf and cut notches for stemware. Attach it with screws, using 1x2-inch lumber for spacers.

If you can't find ready-made units, here's how to build them. Plan and measure thoroughly, then have a lumberyard cut 1-inch wood to size. Assemble simple boxes, with ¼-inch plywood backs, put together with wood screws and glue.

If you want doors, tack in plastic door track and fit glass or tempered hardboard cut to fit. Sand, paint, and fasten to the wall with molly bolts driven through the backs.

Weather delays Sashabaw games

Poor weather conditions hampered the baseball games Sashabaw Junior High baseball team had scheduled during the past two weeks.

Instead of playing four games, the Cougars played only two.

On Tuesday, May 7, the Cougars traveled to Milford. Mark Czinder turned in another excellent pitching performance but lost the game 2-0 on unearned runs. Czinder allowed only two hits. The Cougars were only able to collect three hits with Kevin Brennan collecting two.

The Cougars' game that was scheduled for May 9 with Lake Orion East was cancelled due to very cool damp weather.

Lake Orion West hosted the Cougars on Tuesday, May 14.

The Cougars took an early 2-0 lead but West went ahead on a 3-run homer in the third inning.

Each team scored a run in the fourth inning. In the top of the fifth, the Cougars scored three runs aided by a 2-run single by Rick Hensley.

West also scored three runs in their half of the fifth to maintain a 1-run lead--7-6.

In the sixth inning, Don Blower, finally, put the Cougars ahead to stay with a 3-run homer to deep center field following singles by Czinder and Glen Curtis.

In the Cougar half of the seventh, Dave Callahan walked and Hensley followed with a 2-run homer over the left field fence. Again, with Czinder and Curtis on base, Blower hit his second 2-run homer of the afternoon. This blast traveled to deep right center field.

On Tuesday, they will host the Wolverines of Clarkston Junior High for the All-Sports Trophy for 1973-74 school year. In competition against each other, each school has won 4 sports events during this school year.

Jeff Leach, starting pitcher for the Cougars, did an excellent job, before being relieved by Czinder in the third inning. Czinder pitched the rest of the game to pickup his first victory of the season. Final score: Cougars 14, West 7.

Leading the 12-hit attack for the Cougars were Curtis with 3 hits and Czinder, Blower, and Hensley with a pair each.

On May 16 the Cougars were scheduled to host their archrivals the Wolverines from Clarkston Junior High but an all day raid forced postponement of this game.

3 days of sailboat races planned over weekend

Wolves title chance improving

By Mike Jewell

By winning their last two league games the Clarkston Varsity baseball team has increased its chances for the leagues number one spot. The Wolves record in the league is now 3-3 as the team drubbed Milford 5-0 last Monday and stung Clarenceville 8-3 Monday of this week.

Ken Foster went the distance against Milford as he gave up no runs, 7 hits, struck out 7 and walked only one. The team backed him up with a total of 9 hits and 5 runs. The Wolves opened up their scoring in the first inning when Kurt Hesse doubled in Hoopengartner who had singled earlier. Brother Kevin Hesse followed with an RBI single in the second to make it 2-0.

Jeff Harvey, who singled and doubled in 3 tries, drove in one of the runs scored by Clarkston in the third inning. Ken Foster helped himself out by singling in the other run scored that inning. Mike Hooper, who was 2-4 with the bat, rapped in Clarkston's final run in the sixth inning.

In the game with Clarenceville on Monday of this week the Wolves ripped out 12 hits for 8 big runs to drown any Trojan hopes for victory. Mike Hooper got Clarkston off to an early 1-0 lead as he let loose with an RBI single in the first inning. Things stayed that way until the third inning when Clarenceville came up with 3 runs by way of a 3-run homer.

Ken Foster put the Wolves right back into the lead, and for good, as he smashed a 3-run homer of his own in the bottom of the third inning. Kurt Hesse and Jeff Harvey, each who went 2-2 at the plate, singled to get on base before Foster popped the ball over the fence.

Clarkston iced the game up in the fifth inning when they came up with 4 runs.

Dan Blower knocked in one of those runs with a double while Kevin Hesse hit two more in with a single with the bases loaded. The Wolves scored their final run on a wild pitch. Jeff Harvey, who scored three of the runs, moved his average up to .322 with a single and a double in 4 at bats. Harvey, who had the hot bat, had only a .276 average four games ago. Ken Foster again pitched and increased his record to 2-4 as he gave up 3 runs on 7 hits and struck out 12.

In the game with Waterford Township last Tuesday, one that the Wolves lost 3-0, a controversial decision by the umpire in the 4th inning cost Clarkston a run or two. An interference call by one of the umpire's was argued over and over by Coach Paul Tungate but was never clarified. So Coach Tungate brought in the whole team and told the umps he wasn't going to play until the rule was clarified. Well the umpire, after being shown the rule out of the rule-book, said he wasn't playing by those rules but under a different book of rules. the rule was never really clarified and the game went on.

Steve Howe started against the Skippers and received the loss, thus dropping his record to 2-3. Clarkston came up with only 6 hits with Ken Foster and Jeff Harvey each going 2-2 for the only bright spots hitting wise.

In the final game played last week, that being Wednesday afternoon, the Wolves fell 4-0 to Utica.

Utica scored all four of their runs, as Waterford did also, in the first inning. Barth Hoopengartner smacked the Wolves' only hit while Dave Heffernan's record dropped to 3-4.

The Wolves' overall record is now 9-12 with a big league game against Waterford Kettering on Thursday of this week.

Clarkston runners beat Milford

by MIKE JEWELL

Neither wind, rain, or Milford could stop the Clarkston track team last Tuesday as they ran by the Redskins 73-50.

Tim Doherty was the field events top figure for Clarkston. His toss of 46'1 1/4 in the shot put was for enough for first place. The Wolves also picked up some more points in the event as Mike McClean took third with a throw of 39'3".

Wayne Thompson picked up 3 of his 12 1/4 individual points in the long jump as his leap of 18'17 1/2" carried him into second place. Dave Whitehead finished right behind Wayne as he jumped 18 feet exactly. Thompson also finished second in the 100-yard dash. His 10.7 time was good enough to beat Steve Klein's run in 10.5 seconds. In the 220-yard dash it was Thompson all the way as he broke the string in 23.6 seconds. Vern McVety, though, wasn't far behind and his 23.8 time put him in second.

Both Vern McVety and Wayne Thompson were part of the first place 440-yard relay team which also consisted of Rick Gunter and Steve Klein. The foursome put it all together to beat Milford by a whole second running it in 45.9 seconds.

Both Gunter and McVety are parts of another relay team, the 880-yard, which also includes Lee Booker, and George Bellairs. They also had things clicking for them, including the clock at 1:35.6 and another first place.

The other relay team, that being the mile, of Mark Harris, Dave Kras, Mike Nurenborg and again George Bellairs, also finished first as they raced around the track in 3:37.9 minutes.

Mike Nurenborg, as usual, won the 880-yard run with a clocking of 2:00.2, one of the county's best times in that event.

Thelmond Barger turned himself loose to win both the 120-yard high and 180-yard low hurdles. He did the 120-yard high event in 16.9 and the 180 lows in 21.7. Steve Klein, though, was right on Barger's heels in the 180 yard lows as he finished right behind him in 21.8 seconds.

Clarkston's next first place was claimed by Paul Glowzinski in the two-mile run in 10:21.7 to beat out the Milford runners by inches.

The Wolves' final first place was earned by George Bellairs as he smoked the 440-yard dash in 52.2 seconds.

Clarkston's other points came with a second-place finish by Mike Crosby in the mile who was followed by Paul Brown. Clarkston is now 3-2 in league, 7-2 overall.

Sue Latter to run in state meet

Clarkston High School Senior Sue Latter, 17, winner of two state girls' track championships last year, will apparently be competing again this year in the state meet June 1 in Grand Rapids.

A question of Sue's eligibility arose last weekend as she and three other Clarkston High School girls prepared to run in the regional meet at Madison Heights.

Because Clarkston did not field enough girls for a girls' track team, the co-eds had practiced with the boys' team and run practice in their meets.

They almost ran afoul of a new athletic rule which says that a boy or girl must elect which team they will enter competition with.

A school official explains it that if a girl decides to play with the boys' tennis team, for instance, she cannot play with the girls' team.

But there was no girls' track team at the school, and state officials were unable to put a clear cut ruling on the girls' case.

For a time, it looked like they might be barred from regional competition, but the school, unable to get a clear cut decision, allowed the girls to run Friday.

Sue came home with second places in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, which qualified her for state competition. Her championships last year were won in the 440 and 880-yard runs.

Her team mates -- Vadna Seyler, Judy Henderson and Nancy McAlevy ran in the regional meet, but did not qualify for the state finals.

Clarkston school officials said the district had no intent of violating the intent of state rules, and they're hoping Sue will run unhindered in two weeks.

As a result of this and several other mix-ups throughout the state, Clarkston Athletic Director B.J. Hanson said a review and probably rewriting of the rules which allow girls and boys to compete in each others' events will be forthcoming next year.

Girls defeat Andover

The girls' varsity softball team split two league games last week, losing to Milford by a score of 10-7 and defeating Andover 19-11. The league leading Wolves have been idle much of the time due to rainy conditions.

The loss to Milford was the first of the season for Clarkston who currently sports a record of 5-1. Clarkston bats were cold with the exception of Michelle Strobehn who collected a single and a triple. Billie Carroll did a fine job pitching in relief as she gave up only 3 hits and struck out 5 in 4 2/3 innings.

Clarkston was more fortunate last Wednesday as they came from behind to defeat Andover. The game was tight until the 6th inning when Clarkston exploded for 6 runs to put the game out of reach. Nancy Chartier and Michelle Strobehn contributed 4 hits each to lead Clarkston's hitting attack. Autumn Matlock provided the power with a solo home run and a triple. Jane Church and Michelle Strobehn also hit triples. Winning pitcher was Sophomore Dede Miller.

The JV's fate was similar as they lost to Milford 28-12 and defeated Andover 15-6. The JV record is now 2-3.

In the Milford loss, pitcher Anne Van Loon aided her own cause with 4 hits one of which was a triple. Allison Booker also had a perfect day with a 3 hit contribution.

The JV's displayed fine defensive work in defeating Andover 15-6. Collecting 3 hits each were Sherry Nowicki, Vickie Verch, and Denise Gee. Jody Combs added a double as Clarkston collected 18 hits. Anne Van Loon was the winning pitcher.

Dr. and Mrs. William Heatley of Independence Township have some more good news regarding treasure operations they're involved with off the coast of Florida. Last year the exploration boat discovered such trove as gold crosses and golden necklaces from a ship that went down many years ago. After a rest this winter, they report the searchers, with the help of a magnometer, have discovered the presence of metal in such quantities in another area as to be particularly significant. The Heatleys are anticipating what divers will find. And no, they still have not benefitted monetarily from the original find. The state is keeping the treasure until the whole site is explored.

Hot dog! The Bailey Lake Elementary School library is going to get a half-dozen new books because of the supersalesmanship of six of its pupils. The youngsters, who live along South Eston Road, held a neighborhood hot dog sale May 11 and earned $20.

Taking their profit to the school, each youngster picked out a book that was his or her personal choice to be added to the school's library shelves. The half-dozen young bibliophilic philanthropists are Scott Ferguson, Audrey and Alexandra Campe, Chris Seavey and Lisa and Keith Erkfritz.

Even though gas gallonage sold has decreased, state gas and weight taxes increased during the first three months of the year. Clarkston will benefit from the first quarterly payment in the amount of $4,949 as compared to $4,707 last year.

Oakland County Democrats aren't missing a trick. They've announced the "first cut in the price of food since Richard Nixon took office."

The price for the Phil Hart dinner, which will be June 8 at Waterford Oaks Activity Center, has been reduced from $10 last year to $9.96 this year.

All funds received will be used to help finance the 1974 Democratic campaign in Oakland County, and it just so happens that Betty Howe at 334-0971 has tickets available.

Creativity displayed at Book-in

By Pat Braunagel

Parents of the South Sashabaw pupils will be able to follow the intrigues of a good mystery story and/or skim over a science fiction fantasy and/or dig into a tale of derring-do within a relatively short span of time.

They can sample several books of fiction and non fiction-- and throw in a couple of poems for good measure-- during the school's one-and-a-half-hour open house Thursday, May 23.

The 7 p.m. Book-in will be the culmination of the creative efforts of students in the three grades at school, plus the publishing expertise of their teachers and parents.

The work of the adults has amounted to several hours of listening, block printing, typing and binding the books of the youngsters.

Every child at the school has had the opportunity to have his or her own book printed and bound, and to illustrate it if the author deemed it appropriate.

The stories to be published in cloth-covered books were selected by teachers and pupils from the youngsters' work during the year.

Most of the stories are original--the teachers gave no "story starters" or topics to be written about to their class. Much of the work on the books was on an individual basis.

"I would just ask them to pick something they wanted to write about," said first grade teacher Pat Smith. Once the Subject was picked, she would help each pupil along by asking questions.

"You want to write about a rabbit. What would he do? What could happen to him?" she's ask.

As the youngsters began to think his story through, his teacher would start taking dictation.

Mrs. Smith is one of the four members of the book-in committee, the others being Jessica Gard, Norma Stalions and Susan Fedigan.

All are pleased at how the project has inspired the creativity and originality of the youngsters.

"We were not concerned with the structure as much as with the thoughts of the children," said Miss Fedigan. "Children at this age don't spell very well. We are not hung up on their spelling grammar."

The aim was to let the youngsters know that "any idea of theirs was worth putting down," said Mrs. Stalions.

Although some of the third graders printed their own books, many dictated them to their teachers or the approximately 25 parents who became involved in the project.

"The actual writing down of a story can frustrate a child, if he can't get his thoughts on paper in time," said Miss Fedigan, a third grade teacher.

Subjects for the books spanned a variety of interests.

"I got topics all the way from family situations to fantasies about dinosaurs," said Mrs. Gard, who teaches second grade.

"Some were concerned about the energy crisis and a couple about the president," said Mrs. Stalions, who also has a second grade class.

The pupils also participated in the creation of classroom books. For instance, Mrs. Stalions' class devised a book about parts of the body. The large book is shaped like a girl, with each page dealing with a part of her body.

There's a page for her brain, on which pupils recorded their ideas of what could be done with it: "You can add with it." "You can get a concussion if you fall on it." "You can get to third grade if you use it."

Among the individuals novels to be displayed Thursday are these two by first graders:

The Car That Never Liked to Drive

By Richard Guerin

Once upon a time a car that never liked to go anywhere sat in the yard. He was very sad because he never liked to drive. It was too hard for him because he had a flat tire and he was very old.

And then the next day somebody came to buy him and fix him up. First they fixed the tire. Then they painted him a shinney red. Then they fixed his engine. And now he was so happy that he could not wait to go for a Drive. The End.

The Little Island

By Joe Hutchinson

Nobody would like to come on the little island because it was too little. One day a man came and his boat sunk so he had to stay there. When the island saw him he was no longer sad. He turned happy again.

Soon more people came on it. They made a road leading to the island so more people could get on the island. Then he got real happy.

Here's a sample of the free form poetry from second grader Andrea Corpus:

A cactus is like a person. Because it's branches are like arms.

The top is like a head.

It's pickers are like chickenpox on a person.

From second grader Philip Watson came the following fantasy:

What Would Happen If I Got Fat

If I got fat I wouldn't like that.

One day I ate a lot then I got fat--so fat I couldn't get through the door.

So I tried and tried then I broke the door down.

Then my mom got mad at me so she gave me a spanking.

So then I went outside. Then when I walked in the yard my feet made holes in the ground so my mom got mad again. So she gave me another spanking.

Then I started to walk on the street and my feet made holes in the street. So my dad came home then and he saw the holes in the street. He got mad. He gave me a spanking.

Then I went up to my room. I laid on my bed. Then my bed broke.

Then my dad got real mad. He gave me a spanking. Then he grounded me.

I couldn't go out on the street or go outside to play so I went up to my room and started to cry.

Then I went to sleep. When I woke up it was dark, so I went downstairs and made myself a sandwich.

My mom and dad heard me and they told me to go to bed but I couldn't. It was broke.

So I went up stairs, but I couldn't lay on my bed so I layed on the floor. The floor went down.

Then my dad and mom woke up and turned the lights on. They went upstairs and when they saw what had happened they both got mad and gave me a spanking.

Then I began to shrink. I was my normal size again.

It had only been a dream.

By the time youngsters arrive in third grade, their development of stories gets to be more involved and, thus, more lengthy, said Miss Fedigan.

She offered as one example of work done in her room a poem by Lynn Harding:

There Once Was A Silly Old Witch

There once was a silly ond witch.

She captured two frogs in a ditch.

She named one Pog and the other one Fog.

But she could not tell which one was which.

Just the titles of the third graders' creations tend to be provocative.

Will parents be able to resist picking up books with titles like "The Enormous Yell From Talabooma" by Kim Aiken or "The Grasshopper and the Broan Cat at the New Land Where Little Elve's Play, and Funny Thing's Happened" by Dawn Best?

First grader Janine Miracle tells a tale about a rabbit to Sharon Kent, one of about 25 parents who have volunteered their time to get the young South Sashabaw authors' works published.

Pine Knob golf course construction proceeds

Independence Township Planning Commission has approved plans for the construction of the first nine of an 18-hole golf course at Pine Knob.

It has okayed construction of a gate house on Waldon Road east of Sashabaw, which will serve as the main entrance to a condominium complex which will be under construction within six weeks.

Joe Loericchio of Induseco Corp., owner of Pine Knob, said the first phase of the golf course should be completed by October. Condominium structure, eventually to include 1,000 units, will begin with 40 on the 407-unit first phase. The condominiums will sit on high ground along the low-lying golf course, Loericchio said.

Tree cutting now underway off Sashabaw is for the golf course, he explained. He said only 8,000 cubic yards of dirt would have to be moved for the first nine holes.

The owner said a former gatekeeper's mansion located near the nursing home will be refurbished for use as a half-way house for the golf course and for the central facility for eight tennis courts to be constructed near it.

Loericchio said drainage plans had been approved by Johnson and Anderson, engineers, and that existing ponds, plus a natural drainage way which flows across Waldon onto property owned by Dr. Harley Robinson would be utilized.

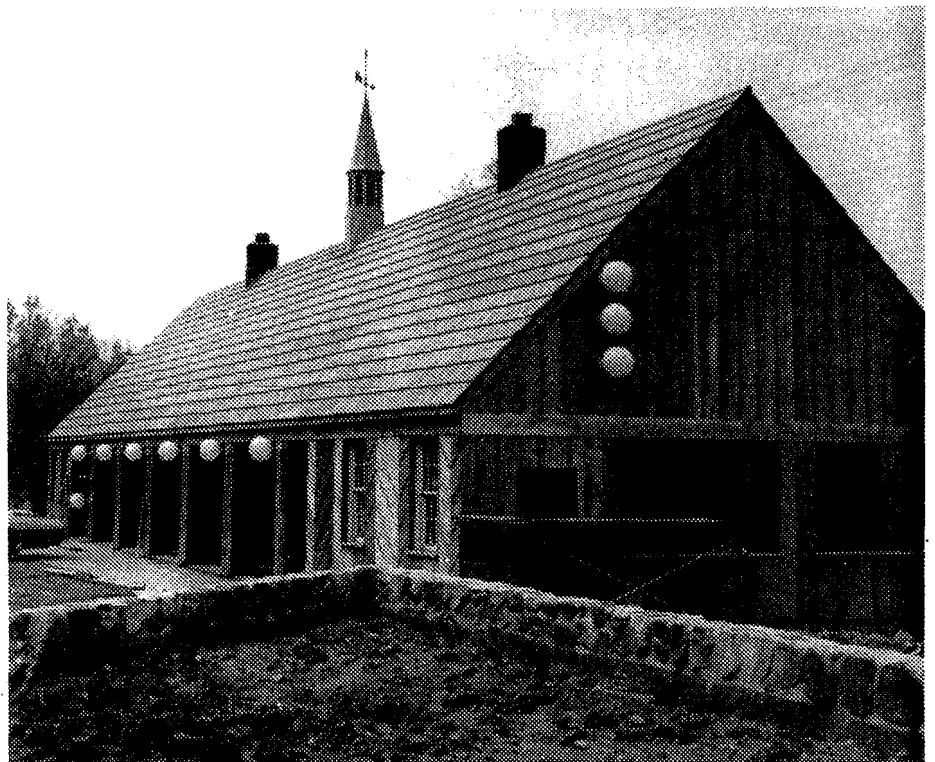

He said Robinson had purchased 57 acres from Pine Knob south of Waldon, where he intends to construct a new nursing home. The old Pine Knob Nursing Home has been purchased by Pine Knob in a 69 acre parcel owned previously by Robinson and will be refurbished as a country clubhouse.

Serpentine garden wall is uncovered at Pine Knob.

Travel - 1873

... by Connie Lektzian

In the 1830's, a man by the name of Schooley Dennis left his home in New Jersey and came to Michigan. He settled in the vicinity of Sashabaw Plains in company with some of the other branches of his family. Their journey here from the east had all the hardships of pioneer traveling, all the inconveniences and grinding hours of riding in a jolting wagon.

By contrast, his great-nephew made a reverse trip some 40 years later. Amzy Dennis traveled in comparative comfort to visit the aunts and cousins who still remained in New York and New Jersey. Despite the miles between them, the family seems to have remained quite close. Amzy didn't sound, in his journal, as if he were visiting strangers. There may have been many journeys back and forth but, unlike his relatives, the young man from Sashabaw recorded his trip.

Naturally, it was winter when he made the visit. A working farm could be left at any other time of the year. January 1, 1873, found him in Sparta, New York, where his relatives entertained him with sleighing parties and an evening attending the Christy Minstrels. One gathering of the clan brought out 73 people and he wrote of dancing until two in the morning.

A three-hour train trip brought him and his cousin Sam Dennis to New York City. There were horse drawn trolleys and carriages to take them through the city and they explored the town. They sampled operas and lectures and boarded what was then the second largest ocean vessel in the world, the Adriatic, but not for a trip, just out of curiosity.

The eastern seaboard at that time was a network of train tracks. Travel was easy and fairly cheap and convenient. Only a two-hour ride got them to Philadelphia. Accustomed to the wide open spaces of a farm, Sam and Amzy were fascinated by the factories. They saw potteries, foundries and a place called the wire works. Amzy noted that his supper, lodging and breakfast bill came to $3, and he seemed to think it was worth it.

All the historical spots in Philadelphia and New York got his attention. The uncles, aunts and cousins seemed determined that he miss nothing. Most of them still had their farms in the east and he often spent part of the day helping with the chores. He also recorded the chilling fact that on January 30 the temperature fell to 34 degrees below zero. Several times in February he mentioned the snow burying the roads from fence to fence.

Toward the end of February, Amzy began to make plans to go back to Michigan. His own farm was never far from his thoughts. He had ordered peach trees from the great eastern orchards to set out on his own land and he was anxious to return home. March would signal the beginning of the spring work and the dawn to dark chores that kept farmers busy until the following winter.

Saying goodbye to an army of relatives, he started for Detroit. Not being one to miss anything along the way, Amzy planned a four-hour layover in Niagara Falls.

His trip had the beauty of leisure. There was none of the present day hassle of bumper to bumper freeways, no desperate desire to see how many miles could be covered in one day. Not only was his trip a contrast to the one endured by his great-uncle, it had a lot more going for it than some of today's journeys.

In spite of all he saw and enjoyed in all the big cities of the east, Amzy was glad to get back. He spent the first three days at home helping his father and two brothers catch up with the chores. Then, in a time when love and courtship seemed unhurried, he called on Augusta Hammond, who was clearly his intended. He officially ended his trip with the note in his diary "at last, home with my love."

Cucumbers

by Dave Coulter

In last week's article I pointed out that cucumbers are classified as either white or black spined types. Over the years the white spined types have found favor in the South, where in the growing season the temperatures seldom drop below 65 F, and the black spined typed have been used in the North.

This has come about because each type has developed resistance to diseases that flourish in the two respective areas. Plant breeders are now testing white spined varieties that will survive in the north and black spined varieties that will survive in the south, and black spined varieties that will accept the climate of the south because each type possesses some strongly desired characteristics.

Most home gardeners grow cucumbers for slicing. The favored varieties for this area are: Long Green, Straight Eight (which was developed at nearby Rochester), Marketer, Long Marketer and Marketmore. A new slicer that's finding favor is Burpee's Burpless, and the reason for its popularity is found in its name.

The fruit of slicers generally get about 8-9 inches long and about 2 1/4 - 2 1/2 inches in diameter. The vines get 3-4 feet long so they need plenty of room.

Marketmore, may be hard to find but it offers more resistance than other slicers and it is worth seeking this improved variety.

In 1973, Michigan produced 27,000 acres of pickling cucumbers to lead the nation. About 92% of this acreage was machine harvested by harvesters that pull the vines from the ground and snap the fruit from the vines.

So, with this impressive record it's easy to conclude growing cucumbers for pickles isn't hard for Michigan gardeners. Generally pickling varieties are shorter vined than slicers, and most varieties are about three times as long as their diameter. Popular pickling varieties, and almost all of these are black spined, are: National Pickling, Wisconsin S.M.R. 18, Ohio M.R. 17, and Boston Pickling.

Cucumbers, melons, squash, in fact this whole family have male and female flowers. The male flowers (there are about 12 - 15 male flowers to each female in cucumbers) may be identified by the fact that the flower is supported by the tiny cucumber fruit. Inside the fruit are the seed ovaries. For proper development of each fruit, pollen transfer from the male flower to female flower is mandatory. Bees do most of this pollen transference, and as they fly from flower to flower, they should transfer two grains of pollen from the male flower for each seed ovary in the fruit. To insure high yields of quality cucumbers most commercial growers rent at least one hive of bees for each acre of pickles.

To achieve very high yields of cucumbers, breeders have made available a new family of cucumbers, and these are called Gynoecious Hybrids. With this family, theoretically all flowers are female flowers and seed from regular varieties are blended with the gynoecious line to provide enough male flowers for proper pollen supply.

These gynoecious hybrids set a cucumber at every node of the vine and generally increase yields from 30 - 50% over regular varieties. Gynoecious hybrids are available in both slicers and picklers. The slicers are: Hybrid Ashley, Tabletreast and Gemini.

New resident continues flag crusade

Mrs. Harold W. Austrow, separated from the group of commemorative stamp crusaders she headed in Connecticut, still continues to fight for recognition of the designer of the Great Star Flag of the early 19th Century.

When Mrs. Harold W. Austrow moved from Fairfield, Conn. to Independence Township, she did not leave her crusading spirit nor her crusade behind.

For nearly seven years, Mrs. Austrow has labored to gain what she feels would be a fitting recognition for one of this country's lesser-known heroes, the designer of the United States flag which Mrs. Austrow says is the basis for the present one.

Not to be overlooked for her role is Mary Jennings Reid, who stitched together the flag designed by her husband, Capt. Samuel Chester Reid.

Mrs. Austrow is among a group of steadfast workers who would like to see the Reid's efforts commemorated on a U.S. postage stamp.

"It would take as many as 20,000 letters to the Postmaster General or the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee," said Mrs. Austrow, noting these will be forwarded by local congressmen.

Capt. Reid, Naval Commander credited with saving New Orleans from the British during the War of 1812, designed the Great Star Flag five years later, coming up with a format which would allow for the addition of new states without altering the basic design.

The original flag composed of 13 stripes and 13 stars was adopted by Congress in 1777. On Jan. 13, 1784, after two more states had been added to the Union, the number of stripes and stars was increased to 15.

By 1816, when Tennessee, Ohio, Louisiana and Indiana became states, it was obvious some change was desirable in the flag to limit the size.

Capt. Reid suggested that the stripes be limited to 13, to represent each of the original states, with stars for all states arranged to form one large star. This pattern was to be used on buildings, with parallel lines of stars to be used on ships.

Mrs. Reid, with the assistance of neighbors, made the first Great Star flag. President Monroe approved the new flag act in 1818 and it was hoisted over the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Austrow, who had moved to Connecticut from Kalamazoo, said it is difficult to find copies of the Great Star flag. She also noted it was not among the 10 historic American flags pictured on stamps placed on first day sale July 4, 1968—ironically the 150th anniversary of the Great Star flag.

Mrs. Austrow, 6511 Cranberry Lake Road, first became interested in the Reids and flag they created in 1967, while serving as senior president of the Thaddeus Burr Society, Children of the American Revolution. After finding mention of Mrs. Reid in the history of Fairfield, Conn., she pursued the story of the couple's place in history.

And Mrs. Austrow has a deep pile of books and various correspondence to prove she has fought her battle tenaciously.

Birgitta promotes jobs for women

If you chance to tune in Channel 4 at 1 p.m. on June 23, you'll see an Independence Township woman deeply concerned about promoting women's studies and opening careers to women.

Though not a member of Women's Lib nor otherwise politically involved, Birgitta Vance, 6168 Balmoral Terrace, is a widow with two children to support. She realizes the importance of a job.

An assistant professor in the foreign language department at Flint's University of Michigan, Birgitta became involved with the Michigan Women's Studies Association when it held its spring convention there.

Involved in promoting the study of women in literature and history and the psychology of women, to the fact that they are able to do many of the jobs they've always been told only men could do.

"It's exploding myths," she says, and yet she adds that she realizes most of the stories about women in business one hears regularly now are of that nature.

"There was a woman in Flint, no background, who applied for a job as foreman at A-C Sparkplug. She got the job. Things like that have been happening since the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have begun insisting that women have equal employment opportunities," Birgitta contends.

What she believes women miss out on the most at present are the informal chit-chats where job opportunities are discussed, and job hunters informed of employment possibilities.

Speaking with a delightful accent that may have derived partially from her childhood in Vienna or her time in England during World War 2, she believes that the "old boy" syndrome in regard to job information applies here.

"American men basically don't like women," she thinks. "Most men are uncomfortable around women, and if women were to attend some of their club meetings, they'd cause embarrassment," she feels.

Part of the problem she admits, is the reluctance of women to insert themselves in such situations where job information is bandied about.

Birgitta, who dropped out of high school in England at the age of 15, came to America as a war bride when she was 18 and obtained an American Association of University Women scholarship which enabled her to complete her education at Wayne State University.

Her husband, before his death three years ago, was a teacher of Type A special education. She has two children, a boy, 11, and a girl, 7, whom she hopes will grow up to be anything they really want to be.

"Girls don't have to be nurses and stewardesses," she says, "and yet most of those graduating from college are sticking with the traditional occupations."

Equal opportunity for women has been a gradual happening, she thinks, a result of slowly changing attitudes.

Her mother, she recalls, was a non-practicing gynecologist who even when she was working still "had to do all the dirty jobs around the house."

And she gets upset with psychological studies done principally on men, which are supposed to apply equally to men and women.

"I asked a man who'd done a study on aggression if he'd interviewed any women, and he said that women didn't have measurable aggression. I don't think he ever heard a mother yelling at her children," she grins.

Kindergarten screening re-offered

Clarkston Community Schools will be providing a pre-school kindergarten screening program for all youngsters who were unable to participate in the initial screening during the first week of April.

Registration and screening will be at the Special Services Building on May 29, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Parents are requested to bring their child's birth certificate.

The pre-kindergarten screening program is designed to enable parents, teachers and other school personnel to provide the most effective learning experience for each child. Specific areas to be evaluated are vision, hearing, speech and language development, gross motor development and ability assessment.

Parents with a child planning to enter school in the fall of 1974 are encouraged to enroll the child through this program.

Mary is 8 years old and managed very well. She probably was less exhausted than some of the older walkers. Congratulations Mary!

Kim Blasey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blasey of Middle Lake, was one of the students honored for scholastic achievement at the recognition dinner held at Sarvis Center in Flint recently.

Kim is a junior at the Hurley School of Nursing.

The Clarkston Area Girl Scouts had to postpone their weekend encampment for a week because the campgrounds were a mite soggy. I'll keep my fingers crossed for better conditions on May 25 and 26.

Two year old Fritz Lamm is spending a week with his Grandma and Grandpa (Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith) of Grayling.

Mom and Dad, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lamm and sister Janet of Robertson Court are finding out it really can be quite lonesome without a two-year-old running about. Don't worry, a week will go by fast and you'll be back picking up those toys again.

Kevin Hamaker son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hamaker of Kingfisher was guest of Mr. and Mrs. Norm Phelps also of Kingfisher for a weekend at Maton.

They picked some morel mushrooms and Kevin caught a real nice brown trout. Sounds like fun.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilton and Matt and Jan of Paramus and Mr. and Mrs. Art Ripley and Karen, Wendy and A.J. spent this past weekend at the Tulip Festival in Holland.

They were pleased to see our neighbor, Brandon High School band participating in the parade.

The children liked the idea of being in Holland and Wyoming in the same day! A good time was had by all.

Did you ever hear of a lady locking her keys in the car? Well, that's not so unusual. A knight in shining armor came to the rescue and got the door open, and then gallantly drove off.

Then this lady found she had left the key on, guess what? a dead battery. Would you believe a second knight gave the battery a boost and all was well.

It's not everyone who has 2 knights in one day!!

Spiritual Message

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

"Remember to keep holy the sabbath day." Exodus 20:8

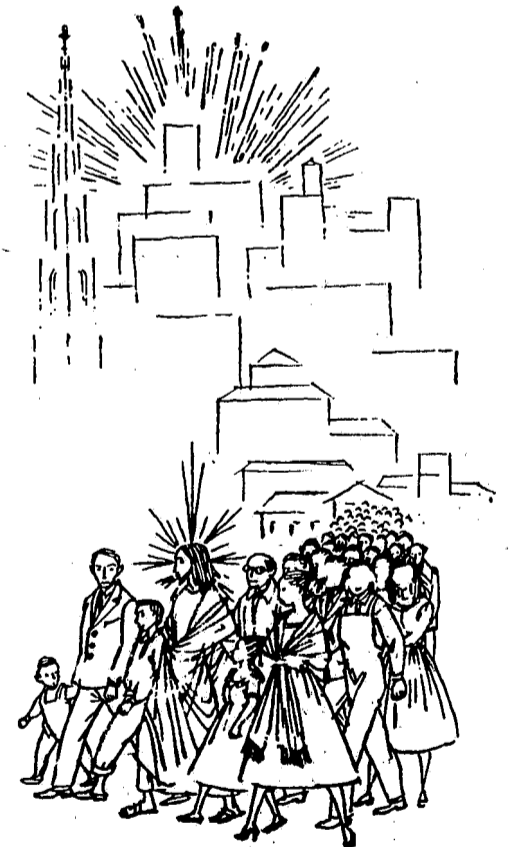

"On the Lord's Day come together, break bread, and hold Eucharist." [The Didache 14.1]

There is a very strong reason why going to Church on Sunday is necessary to keep the Christian life alive and to fulfill the duties of a Christian. It is this. There are certain things in life which gain a greater impact from being experienced together.

For example a great symphony would lose much of its power if you were the only one listening to it in a music hall. A baseball game would lose much of its thrills, if you were the only one watching it in the stadium. Eating at a banquet table all by yourself would have little impact. Doing these various things with others would have greater impact and power than doing them alone.

And so it is with worship. It is true that we can worship alone and we should worship alone at times. But we should also worship together at least on one day a week. We should come together in Church and worship the Lord. We do need the Church and the Church needs us. And so come together on Sunday and worship the Lord. Togetherness is an essential part of worship.

Clarkston Elementary P.T.O. 1st Community Auction Chairman Art Ripley is shown with a cord organ and lamp he and wife, Pat plan to auction Saturday, June 1.

Clarkston Elementary School will be accepting items for auction [except animals and clothing] on June 1. The registration booth will be open at 8 a.m. and the auction will commence as soon as practical after 9 a.m. Sellers will receive 80 1/2% of the sale price of their items. Donations will also be accepted.

The public is invited to come and buy or just enjoy the fun and excitement generated. A lunch wagon will also be available. Any questions can be answered by calling 625-2215.

Arts Council seeks community involvement

Bringing a great awareness and enthusiasm for the arts to the Independence Township area is the goal of the newly formed Arts Council.

The Arts Council, headed by Joan Kopietz, hopes to be viewed as an organization for everyone in the Clarkston area. A person does not have to be an artist nor have a special knowledge about art in order to work with the Arts Council, she maintains.

The Arts Council would like to inspire more interest in creative and performing arts of all types. Their interest is not only in painting and sculpture, but pottery, jewelry, dance, music, film and the theatre, Joan says.

At the present time the fledgling council is composed of a small but determined group of people who have ideas, some of which are ambitious about improving the cultural horizons of the community.

One of the major interests is to form a Junior Arts Council for young people. The council hopes to have a float in the Fourth of July parade. To do this, they need to hear from persons of all ages who would be interested in planning and working of the float to promote the interests of the council.

Perhaps in the future Clarkston could have its own art museum. Next year it is hoped that Clarkston can hold its first festival, but present plans are to bring Artrain to Clarkston later this year.

Artrain is a six-car train filled with some of the greatest works of art ever created, including paintings, sculpture, ceramics, armor, and carved wooden figures. It boasts works of art by such legendary artists as Picasso, Renoir, Degas, and Van Gogh. It also includes a studio where artists demonstrate their skills in a number of areas.

In order to bring Artrain to Clarkston or to accomplish any other of the Arts Council goals, much planning and involvement of people will be necessary, Joan reports.

She looking for anyone with a strong sense of responsibility for providing more community exposure to all of the creative arts.

Anyone interested in supporting the arts is welcome to attend the next meeting. It will be held on Wednesday, May 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston High School library.

Clarkston El program

by Bettjean Collins

On May 22 the Clarkston Elementary students will be making music in the Clarkston High School Gym at 7:30 p.m.

Second and third grade voices will be singing folk songs from around the world.

The combined voices will sing "America", "This Land Is Your Land," and the theme from "Sesame Street".

Theft announced

Four wheels and tires valued at $600 were stolen from a car on the Haupt Pontiac lot Thursday night after the dealership had received a telephone warning that the theft would occur last weekend or next.

Representatives of the dealership at 7151 N. Main Street told Oakland County Sheriff's detectives that they had received the threatening call Thursday.

The thief or thieves left the car from which the wheels were stolen resting on cement blocks.

MD drive June 4

Nancy Gruenberg, 7290 Deer Lake Road, will head this year's Muscular Dystrophy Drive in the Clarkston area.

The solicitation of funds will be conducted from 5 to 9 p.m. June 4; and volunteers are needed to assist in the collection. Those interested in helping are asked to call MD volunteer headquarters at 398-0477.

Proceeds will support medical research and patient services for victims of the disease. As yet incurable, it primarily attacks children and is nearly always fatal.

Local victims receive free diagnosis, therapy, braces, wheelchairs and social services at Detroit's Muscular Dystrophy Clinic, which is supported by the house-to-house campaign.

Moved by Thayer to accept the bid of $2140.00 from Great Lakes Paving Co. to blacktop the alley from Depot Rd. to W. Washington St. Seconded by Basinger. Roll: Ayes, Basinger, Granlund, McCall, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Nays, None. Motion carried.

The planning committee reported that their study of some township ordinances would be ready for the next meeting.

Ted Thomson questioned the wording on the new Zoning Ordinance Amendment No. 72-1. He said that it had caused some confusion. A meeting will be set up with the attorney to study this.

The next council meeting will be on May 20, since May 27 falls on Memorial Day.

Trustee Thayer gave the council the fire inspection report on the village hall. Gar Wilson will be asked to get prices on a fire escape and fire extinguishers which were some of the fire dept. recommendations.

Trustee Granlund reported on bids he had received for printing quarterly sewer usage bills.

Moved by Basinger to authorize Trustee Granlund to purchase the necessary supplies for sewer bids from Forbes Printing Co. Seconded by Schultz. Roll: Ayes, Basinger, Granlund, McCall, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Nays, None. Motion carried.

Meeting called adjourned by President Hallman.
