

Weekend of fun planned for Labor Day

A full weekend of activity will mark Labor Day and the last fling before the start of school September 3.

Clarkston Rotarians plan their usual long and varied parade at 10 a.m. Labor Day. It will proceed down Main Street from Church to Miller and is due to be televised this year.

Two meals will be provided, Independence Township Firefighters planning their first annual Labor Day pancake breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m. that morning; and the American Legion once again serving its annual corn roast following the parade and all afternoon at Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63 on M-15 just north of I-75. The menu includes hot dogs, corn, beer, pop and potato chips. Meals will be served both in the post and outside under tents.

Two sailboat regattas are planned that afternoon -- the Deer Lake Sail Club taking on all comers who register at the skipper's meeting at 11 a.m. at Deer Lake Beach. Parke Lake will feature a smaller race for boats of the Sunfish class.

Boaters on Deer Lake will once again be competing for trophies. About 35 participated in last year's event.

Going on throughout the weekend -- beginning Friday -- is Village Days which for the first time will be held at the Clarkston Eagles site on Maybee Road, just east of Sashabaw.

Rides like The Hustler, The Patrol and The Swinger will be on hand to give thrills. Games will include a football throw, dunk tank, big wheel stein game and color pans, and a 50/50 raffle will be conducted by the sponsoring Clarkston Area Jaycees.

Firemen's breakfast to aid MD

Independence Township Firefighters will serve a pancake breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m. the morning of September 2, Labor Day, in the downtown fire station.

Proceeds from the event, to be presided over by Chef Dean Callison, will be donated to the fight against muscular dystrophy.

Firemen will conduct their annual water battle following the 10 a.m. parade on Washington Street.

Pine Knob will answer complaints

People who have complaints about Pine Knob Music Theater performances or audiences should call the theater's night number, 625-8711 and file a complaint.

So says Joey Nederlander, theater owner, who expressed surprise at the number and degree of complaints made by neighbors of the theater at a recent township board meeting.

"If the sound is too loud, and sometimes the noise level does creep up, we have to know that it's bothering people before we get it turned down," Nederlander told The Clarkston News.

"We have really had no idea until a few days ago there was as much vandalism of private property in the area as there seems to be. It would be simple for us to put some Rangers (Pine Knob employes) out in the residential areas to take care of the problems," he added.

"When you have 10 to 20,000 people at some of these events, it's inevitable there will be some rotters who misuse property and litter. Most of the people that attend the concerts are good people, but we will take steps to control those who aren't," he said.

"The important thing is to let us know immediately," Nederlander stressed. "We feel ourselves a part of that community, too, and we've done a lot of things like widening Sashabaw, lighting the bridge and hiring Sheriff's deputies to try to become good neighbors. "We've even started the noisier concerts an hour earlier so we could get people out of there by 10 o'clock," he said.

School safety problems aired

Parents who are protesting a 45 mile per hour speed limit along Maybee Road in front of the Sashabaw schools will meet with township and school representatives at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, August 22 at the township hall.

Residents became incensed over the lack of safety precautions following the death of a visitor to the neighborhood earlier this summer.

Carl Krueger's office is his truck and his clients are horses.

Foot doctor to horses

They call him a farrier, and Carl Krueger, 80, says he never forgets a foot.

Last week he was out at Circle C ranch making his own shoes to fit a horse he hadn't seen in quite a while.

"This horse hits his knees and cross fires. You wouldn't know what that means," he grins and proceeds to demonstrate with horseshoes this particular animal's movements.

"Now these are race horse shoes, and I've tapered and rolled this one to take care of the crossfire," he explains and looks up at you through dark rimmed spectacles.

He tells a story about a doctor who came out to watch him shoe horses in Franklin and wound up by saying that Carl had to be as much of a doctor as a doctor.

A resident of Waterford Road, Carl came to Michigan from Ohio in 1922 and came back again permanently in 1923. Prior to that he'd worked at a buggy factory and rode a freight for three years, and if you quiz long enough you'll find out he also did a stint in the oil fields. He knows how to splice a steel cable, he'll tell you.

Carl was also once accredited as a veterinarian in Ohio, but it would have taken six more years of school here. "I said the heck with it," and he waves the thought away.

Shortly after setting up in business as a farrier in Michigan, he "corrected" a one ton horse used by the City of Pontiac, and it wasn't long before he was handling all the city horses, plus all the horses used by the creameries in town including the 36 head used by the old Detroit Creamery.

He's been kicked about 400 or 500 times, he allows, but the only time he lost a day's work was when a horse he was working on fell asleep and landed on his instep.

Carl's weatherbeaten face crinkles. "The owner and me were friends," he says, "and this was a nice gentle horse. We was standing there talking and I was shoeing the horse. Had one foot up, and that horse just went to sleep. Its other leg buckled and it went right down." He shakes his head, still disbelieving.

Carl used to work seven days a week from 7 a.m. to past sundown. He's slowed down some. Now, he says, he only works part of a day six days a week.

The rest of the time is spent with friends he's accumulated over the years. "A lot of times people want me to advise them on a horse, and I will, but I won't charge unless it needs work," he confides.

Carl also owns to a history as a horse trader. "I had 25 horses at different times for five or six years. I was in horse trading.

"At that time, gypsies were still running the roads with 18-20 horses behind, and I'd let 'em camp in an acre behind my business. Then on Saturday and Sunday we'd trade horses."

"If he ever got 'took', Carl isn't admitting it. 'We'd generally wind up with just as good a horse as we gave and $2. to boot,' he grins.

"What we always looked for was a good looking horse with some fault. One time I had a beautiful roan tied up by the shop, but the horse was wind broken," he remembers.

"Farmers would come in, and maybe they had another like it at home and they wanted a matched pair. So I'd trade and get $10 to boot. Got that horse back five times," Carl chortles.

"Folks might come back and ask for their money, but that was horse tradin'," he says.

"You know we never paid over $25 for a horse in those days," he muses. "Now there's about as many horses in Michigan as there once was, but they're light." He refers to riding horses as opposed to big draft animals.

And as for horse shoeing schools, Carl hasn't got much good to say about them. "You can't begin to learn in eight weeks what you've got to know," he says. He makes all his own shoes, too, and doesn't think a whole lot of the ones that come ready made.

"Once they sent me to Burden Horseshoe Co. in Milwaukee to tell them how to make shoes. I was about 25. I told them, and the boss says, 'This man is right, but it costs too much to change the dyes.' They use dyes, you know. So they never did change them," he remembers ruefully.

Leisure Village hits zoning snag

Planned retirement community zoning, proposed for nearly a section of land along Independence Township's eastern border north of Waldon Road, may wind up as Single Family Attached.

The planning commission in a study session Monday night heard the recommendations of Township Attorney Gerald Fisher for a designation more compatible with the balance of the township zoning ordinance.

The site is planned for use as a retirement community by Leisure Technology Inc. of New Jersey. Developers have asked for a 4.6 units per acre density while the average for R-1-A residential zoning is 2.2 units per acre.

Fisher said he will meet with attorneys for the developer and township planner Larry Burkhart to justify or make alterations on the requested density.

Fisher added that with planned retirement community zoning, the land would revert to surrounding property status should the community concept not materialize.

"The project as proposed is single family attached, and it would be natural to go to that designation," he said.

The zoning decision will be finalized prior to a public hearing on a proposed new zoning ordinance for the township at 7:30 p.m. September 12 at the township Hall.

Jaycees prepare carnival

Labor Day Jaycees Carnival Chairman Don Foote and Jaycees Internal Vice-President Ron Crites show off the dump tank they will use as one of the booths at the carnival. Don says Jaycees President Jim Brueck will be first one into the tank.

Appeals Board settles dispute

by Mary Warner

A confrontation between two neighbors on Reese Road in Independence Township over the keeping of animals on suburban farms has been settled by the township Zoning Board of Appeals.

But the larger question of what constitutes a piggery is still unresolved.

And according to Township Building inspector Kenneth Delbridge, the township has been left in the position of considering the raising of any pigs in the township a piggery—in which case, according to the zoning ordinance which prohibits piggeries, no one in the township is allowed to raise pigs.

The Zoning Board of Appeals worked out a compromise settlement between the Donald Beaches, 10250 Reese Road, and the Donald Balzarinis, 10270 Reese Road.

The Balzarinis had complained that the Beaches' lambs were not contained on their property, and objected to the odor caused by the Beaches' pigs. The board allowed the Beaches to keep their present animals—seven lambs, five pigs and three horses, until November 13.

At that time, the Beaches must cut down the number of pigs and lambs they own to three apiece, to conform to the number of horses allowed in suburban farm zoning.

The Beaches must also move the pen for the pigs 75 feet in back of their barn to reduce the odor, and must construct additional fencing to keep the lambs contained.

But the decision was a special exemption permit under the additional uses provision of the zoning ordinance for suburban farms.

As it stands now, according to Delbridge, someone could conceivably make a complaint about anyone who raises pigs in the township. The pig raisers would then have to go through the procedure like the Beaches—the obtaining of a special exemption.

A number of residents in the Reese Road area expressed concern at the board meeting over restrictions of animals. They said they also grew animals for their own use, and questioned whether strict observance of the ordinance wouldn't take away their animals, also.

But Delbridge said he is not going to go after anyone who is technically in violation of the ordinance until a clearer definition of a piggery is found.

An opinion was given by township attorney, Gerald Fisher as to what constitutes a piggery.

But in spite of the opinion, Delbridge said the township is still fuzzy on what kind of animals are allowed under existing zoning. He said he has asked for a clearer definition in the new zoning ordinance being drawn up by the township. Until that new ordinance which will be in effect a few months from now, he will probably waylay additional complaints, he said.

In Fishers opinion, "there are no clear definitions of the term 'piggery' in the Michigan Statutes and Case Law."

But Fisher said that based on several Michigan Supreme Court cases he believes "the mere keeping of pigs is not a piggery, so long as there is a substantial amount of land involved and the pigs are not being fed garbage."

"Where pigs are kept in great numbers on small acreage parcels, implying that the hogs, along with their wastes, are maintained in a concentrated area, the use must be termed a piggery."

"Where garbage, refuse, offal and the like are brought onto the premises for the pigs to eat, even where the number of pigs is small, the use is a piggery."

The Beach land is only five acres, and Zoning Board chairman Mel Vaara said he felt there was not enough property to keep the number of pigs, lambs the Beaches presently have.

The Beaches and the Balzarinis said they are, for the most part, happy with the settlement, Mrs. Beach stating that "I think the majority of the decision was very fair. I think the board was trying to appease both of the neighbors."

Mrs. Balzarini said that she had no objection to the setting up of the limited number of pigs per number of acres, but would like to see the township enact an ordinance specifically stating the uses of the land according to zoning for animals and containment of them.

Working to pay legal bills

Residents of Deer Lake are prepared to work to raise money Saturday to pay legal fees which Citizens to Save Deer Lake are incurring in their efforts to prevent development at the north end of the lake. James Lafnear [from left], raffle committee chairman; and Haydn Cook, car wash chairman, watch the efforts of Jayne Lafnear, John Fletcher, Steve Cook and Steve Lafnear. A bake sale and ethnic dinner are also scheduled.

Mining operation tabled

The Bit-Con Corporation request to conduct a temporary gravel mining operation in Independence Township has been tabled by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Bit-Con had failed to begin operations in the months allotted to them under previous board approval for the operation, and were asking to begin the first of 3 three-month operations this fall.

The company plans to remove 600,000 yards of sand and gravel from 15 of 23 acres of land owned by the company on the corner of Stickney and Sashabaw Roads.

They then plan to develop the residential property into single-family homes.

Independence Township Engineers Johnson and Anderson, represented by Harry Mosher, stated that there may be a drainage problem at the site after completion of the mining.

The request to begin fall operations was tabled until the Building Department engineers could look into the water run-off problem.

About 10 township residents who live near the proposed mining site expressed their concern over possible water run-off into nearby yards. They were also concerned about the amount of noise and dust created by the project, and the possible hazard it would be to neighborhood children.

Mosher said the property is already an attractive nuisance, and it had been previously mined by a former owner. He said the property needs to be graded property and made usable.

Bit-Con representative Al Hardy assured those concerned that the area of operations would be fenced, and the company would take precautions to keep the noise and dust levels down.

The Appeals Board had granted the original request in January of 1973, but the company was unable to bring their equipment in at the specified time, and were seeking a change in the three-month span in which they could work.

The Board also approved a request for variance by the Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road. Church officials are planning to build a new addition to house classrooms, nurseries, and conference rooms.

And the board granted a special exemption permit to Martha McDonald, 6480 Waldon Road, to allow her to operate a home occupation in her garage. Ordinarily, home occupations are not allowed under the zoning ordinance, if they are conducted in accessory buildings.

But Mrs. McDonald plans to operate a beauty shop only part-time there, and had the approval of her neighbors before she asked for the variance.

The pre-school, located at 5314 Grange Hall Road, one and one-half miles east of the Dixie Highway, is holding its annual open house and fall registration Sunday, August 25 from 1-5 p.m. There will be refreshments. The school is a non-profit organization, for children 3-5 years old, and will have a certified teacher for the children. For more information, call 634-3843.

Jim Shiff, 17, is a pilot

He never got lost, but he did get off course a couple of times says Clarkston's youngest and newest pilot.

Jim Shiff, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shiff of Perry Lake Road made the momentous flight to Bad Axe Thursday where he passed his Federal Aviation Administration flight test and became a licensed pilot.

The official recognition came after four months of flight lessons at Pontiac Flight Service with instructor Jerry Rouse and after 48 hours total air time.

Jim worked as a bus boy to earn the money necessary for lessons, and when he wasn't busing, he was cutting grass for the neighbors or doing odd jobs.

The dual flight instruction -- 12 hours in Jim's case before he was permitted to solo -- cost $23. After that, the price dropped to $15 as he made his solitary cross country trips to Lansing, Jackson and around the state.

Jim will be an 11th grader this year at Clarkston High School. He's interested in a job connected with aviation after he graduates.

Watch those U-turns!

Impatient patrons of events at Pine Knob will soon be risking a traffic ticket if they persist in trying to outflank a bottleneck of departing left-turn traffic by turning north on Sashabaw Road and then executing a U-turn to southbound Sashabaw.

The board of County Road Commissioners has acted on a request by Supervisor Robert O. Vandermark to bar U-turns on Sashabaw, according to Frazer W. Staman, vice chairman of the county road agency.

"We have ordered a ban on Northbound U-turns on Sashabaw between the Pine Knob entrance and a point 500 feet to the north," said Staman.

Helveston plans get final okay

Independence Township Board in a special meeting Thursday night approved Jack Helveston's final plat for Deer Wood Subdivision.

To contain 121 lots with an overall density of one home to 3/4 of an acre, the development will be built on a cluster plan so that every lot backs up to a park or common lands.

Supervisor Robert Vandermark said the developer, a resident of Independence Township, had managed to preserve all the trees that there is and small lake contained on the land.

The subdivision, located east of M-15 and north of Cranberry Lake Road, is just about ready for construction, the supervisor said.

A sewer connection has been laid across I-75 at the developer's expense, which Vandermark said could amount to future savings to Independence taxpayers of $600,000 to $800,000. Tap-in fees for the homes to be built as well as those existing along Perry Lake Road have been paid. Roads have been laid out and the drainage work is in progress.

"We expect him to apply for permits for the models within two or three weeks," Vandermark said.

The homes to be constructed are expected to sell for $60,000 plus, he added.

In other business the board expanded its gravel program as a result of lower bids than anticipated on gravel supply.

"We'll get additional gravel with the savings, and should be able to rebuild and regrade all subdivision roads in the township which are maintained by the county," Vandermark reported. Already programmed for improvement were the mile gravel roads.

Those to be improved include the Woodhull and Sunshine Acres -- all developed area on both sides of Pelton east and west and adjacent to Sashabaw Road.

Cost of the program is $30,000, of which the township is responsible for $10,000. The remaining cost is to be shared by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners and the Oakland County Road Commission.

District court rent to be raised

One way or another, the Oakland County Board of Auditors is going to be faced with a bigger rent payment on its Clarkston District Court facility, particularly since Independence Township officials have been presented with a $4,907 overdue electricity bill for the building.

The township board has turned negotiations on both matters over to Director of Public Works George Anderson, who is in charge of the township's buildings and grounds.

Pressed for additional space for township offices, the board decided in March not to renew a long-term contract to lease the court building behind the township hall. At the same time, the county is seeking more room for the court, with a number of sites being considered.

Therefore, the rent is to be handled on a month-to-month basis after the five-year lease expires at the end of the year.

Township Clerk J. Edwin Glennie, who was on vacation at the time of last Tuesday's board meeting, sent a memo reminding his fellow board members that a determination should be made on the rent, taking into consideration the overdue utility bill from Detroit Edison Company.

The board was notified last month that a snafu which apparently occurred when the county renovated the building in 1969 resulted in an estimated $4,907 worth of electricity going into the building unmetered.

Under its agreement with the county, the township pays utility bills for the court facility.

There remain unanswered questions on responsibility for the bill and its amount, which was based on averaging a year's usage.

Supervisor Robert Vandermark said the area is "hazy" but that township attorneys have advised that the township is responsible for the bill.

"We owe the money, but the county has a certain amount of responsibility because their electrician made a mistake," commented Building Department Head Kenneth Delbridge.

It was agreed that the amount is subject to negotiation.

"There is no way you can estimate electricity for three years," Anderson said.

He is to attempt to reach a fair settlement with Detroit Edison by the board's next regular meeting.

Anderson also was given the task of recommending an equitable monthly rent for the building.

Noting the crowded conditions on the township property, Anderson commented that "we shouldn't give them a rent that would encourage them to stay for any length of time."

The current rent, which is $1,210 a quarter, is low because of the improvements the county made in the building, Vandermark said. However, he noted the conditions of the original agreement have been met.

"Good office space in the township now is renting for $4.50 to $5 a square foot," he said. At $4.25 a square foot per year, rental on the 3,700-square-foot court facility would be $3,900 a quarter, he said.

Board members also heard complaints from two homeowners seeking an adjustment in the township's noxious weed ordinance which would permit fields to be maintained as wildlife sanctuaries.

Clyde Bemis, 8970 Beechwood, said he recently was notified he would be assessed $60 for the weeds which were cut down on four lots he owns on Maplewood, adjacent to his yard.

He said he had received no notification of the cutting, which deprived rabbits and ducks of their homes and killed several rabbits.

Joseph Rhoades of 8865 Woodlawn suggested that the township make some provision for lots which serve as wildlife sanctuaries, noting he owns an acre which he has preserved for woodchucks and birds as part of his interest in conservation.

Vandermark said it is a township policy not to cut weeds unless a complaint has been filed and that henceforth property owners will be notified of a cutting through first-class mail.

Individual rights need protection, too

We've learned in Independence Township that the keeping of pigs is illegal under current ordinances.

For an area that considers itself still largely rural, that's a contradiction. In our opinion, people who move to the country should expect country living—and that sometimes includes pork chops on the hoof.

People who wish to keep pigs must now get permission from the Zoning Board of Appeals. It's good there's a way around it, but it's also expensive. It costs $45 to take a plea before that body.

We've written of the sign ordinance controversy between businessmen and the township—and apparently there's been a meeting of the minds (which we commend) and some steps taken to write a compromise law.

We've never been able to fault the businessmen for being upset at the current ordinance. New businesses in particular (and they are the ones most affected by the ordinance) need all the advertising they can get. Yet, we must admit we like the aesthetic value of controlled signs.

Recently there was a ruckus when a trustee started a small fire while installing a new water heater in his own home without a permit. We tend to sympathize with him in that instance. Besides having to pay for fire damage, he had to belatedly get a permit.

Officials can cite good reasons why each restriction is written and enforced, but sometimes we feel bureaucratic red tape stifles and thwarts individual rights more than necessary.

Increasing population means there have to be some restrictions, but anything above the minimum to insure health, safety and welfare is an infringement of our personal rights.

The township has done a good job in controlling development in this area, yet we'd like to see moderation with more thought given to individual rights as well as responsibilities.

Sometimes the red tape is more than we want (or can afford) to put up with—like mandatory seat belts and shoulder straps in cars. In many instances, most of us are still capable of using our own good judgment.

'If It Fitz . . .'

I married a hardhat

by Jim Fitzgerald

What really bugged me was when she said, "It needs more grout." Grout?

That's when I decided to tell you about the mushrooms, even if she does kill me and she will.

I mean, my wife said grout the same way I'd say potato. Everyone knows what a potato is. But what the devil is a grout?

She was trying to put me down. I knew that. Grout had something to do with the $400 tiling job a workman was currently doing in our shower. She was cutely pointing out that we had to pay him $400 because I was too dumb to do the job myself. I was so dumb, in fact, I didn't even know what grout was. She was remembering the time she sent me to the neighbor's garage to swipe a pair of pliers and I came back with a monkey wrench.

I wouldn't give her the satisfaction. I simply nodded my head wisely and said, "Right, more grout is needed. Now more than ever."

Then I ran out of the house, jumped in the car, sped to work and grabbed the dictionary. Grout is "a thin mortar used to fill cracks and crevices between masonry."

Now how in the hell did she know that? What did I marry, a bricklayer?

That night, at dinner, I casually remarked, "Remind me to check the grout in the shower. For $400 I want to make sure he didn't miss any crevices."

"You looked it up in the dictionary," she said.

So if she's going to treat me that way, I'm going to tell you about the mushrooms. That's how we discovered the shower walls were leaking and water was seeping everywhere. One morning I leaned over to wash between my toes and I saw a cute little mushroom growing between the tile crevices (That's where the grout goes, you know).

So help me, I am telling you true. It looked just like the ones that grow on the golf course. Naturally, I was excited. After all, how many people do you know growing mushrooms in their shower?

"People are not going to believe this," I said. "I will have to take a picture of that mushroom and put it in the newspaper. Our bathroom will become a tourist attraction. The kids can sell tickets and cotton candy."

"You write anything about that awful thing and I will kill you," my wife said. And she heartlessly ripped the mushroom out of the wall and flushed it nearby.

"It is not a mushroom," she added, "it is a fungus; a dirty

To be perfectly fair, I once saw her at the kitchen sink and her hands were soapy, and somehow her room and the bathroom do remain in fairly satisfactory condition.

Dog days are also a time of a.) broken lawn mowers; b.) green swimming pools; and c.) who wants to cook anyway?

But the apples are ripening, and the tomatoes are turning red, and we've already stuffed ourselves on corn.

One of these mornings there'll be a nip in the air, and August will have been safely laid away for another year.

Dog days

by Jean Saile

If your husband comes home and announces he's just put the down payment on a sailboat, and you answer, "So what? You didn't put the garbage out last night."

Or . . . your children announce that all their friends are really rotters, and those kids that they pleaded with you to let spend the night are not worth talking to anymore . . . "besides they're on vacation."

And . . . you kick the dog, throw out the cat, and snarl at the can opener . . .

Don't worry. You're not losing your marbles. It's simply the August dog days.

There's something about August -- we've already had two months of summer vacation and there are those of us who will admit it gets to be a bit of a bore -- that makes the beginning of school look like the gates of Heaven.

Routine is comfortable, and Labor Day signifies the return to routine. Alarm clocks, school lunches, regular meals, and club meetings are the fabric of life.

The other day the whole family gathered for a meal and I found it hard to recognize some of them.

"You with the long hair," I said, "have some beans."

"Ya know I never liked beans," said the veritable stranger who turned out to be a son that we've seen only at odd moments all summer, like when he needed the car or the dog was sick.

It's nice though. He's been working, and there are benefits. He hasn't conducted a wallet raid in months.

There's another one, visible most often in mid-morning, emerging in a cloud of steam from the bathroom, head, swathed in a towel and muttering a.) I haven't got time to clean my room, I'm going to work; b.) I haven't got time to clean the kitchen, I've got to get to work; or

To register bikes

A program to help the owners of stolen bicycles get them back will be initiated at two shopping centers in Independence Township this weekend.

Independence Township officers and Oakland County Sheriff's deputies will register bicycles from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, August 24-25, at the A and P Shopping center near Dixie and M-15 and at the Pine Knob Plaza, Sashabaw and Maybee.

Plans for the following weekend have been altered since a previous announcement and the registration will be conducted at Clarkston High School August 31 and September 1 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Officers will put a numbered sticker on each bike, along with engraving the number on the bike. They also will give cyclists advice on safety and how to protect their bikes from being stolen.

toadstool. People would think I am the world's worst housekeeper. It grew because the mortar behind the shower is always soaking wet. This shower will have to be torn out and a new one installed."

Mortar? I think she is still paying union dues.

A few dinners later we had cauliflower, which I hate. "If you grew this in the washing machine the Maytag people might put you in a TV commercial," I said.

And she said a few more of those words you might expect to hear from a construction worker, pounding the table with her hardhat.

After my wife reads this column I shall restore peace to the family by taking her out to dinner. And I will tell the waitress to put a little grout on the toadstools.

Onward and Upward.

Letters to the editor

Pine Knob harassed

Dear Pat,

I read the article concerning Pine Knob with much dismay.

Why must people and government be so devisive? It appears that the township, county and state governments work overtime trying to think of new taxes, assessments, and other forms of harassment to inflict on Pine Knob. Really do you have to go back to an 1846 statute?

Pine Knob has spent tens of thousands of dollars for building roads, for police extra duty overtime, and many many other burdens while generating much in the way of local, state and federal taxes. These taxes supposedly should be used in part to provide services to private enterprise, not bureaucrats to harass them.

I'm aware that there are traffic jams and vandalism and also occational problems with noise; however, let's not forget the year around employment for a lot of our children and "something for them to do."

I'm sure that of the many individuals, groups and elected officials, probably not one has gone to them and asked, "What may we do to help you?" I believe a little kindness, understanding and conciliation are in order.

Let us as individuals, church groups, scouts; etc. go over to them with suggestions and some innovations. Maybe having someone like Billy Graham give an inspirational program on some afternoon the theater isn't in use. I'm certain there are many other programs they could and would bring to our area if we just ask.

Let's thank them for the benefits to our ski clubs and maybe some of these members could help clean up along the road and get the township to put up signs --

This is beautiful Clarkston Look, see and enjoy Leave only your footprints And take away only your Many happy memories.

Sincerely,
James A. O'Neill

Saddle Club's busy

Dear Mrs. Saile:

On behalf of the Dixie Saddle Club I wish to thank you every so much for the prominent place in the Clarkston News for the article about our Competitive Trail Ride.

Almost every day there are new people moving to this area and many of them horse oriented families, who probably never before have heard about Dixie Saddle Club and the various activities that we are sponsoring.

In addition to organizing two horse shows a year, two social trail rides and the competitive trail ride, we do usually, as a group, participate in both Clarkston Parades and have been actively represented in Ortonville at that town's centennial celebration.

I shall be more than glad to supply you with more information, if you wish, including the date and place of our regular meetings, which take place: Every second Saturday of the month at the Independence Center on Maybee Road in Clarkston, at 8 p.m.

Thank you again for your interest and support.

Sincerely yours,

Check the children

Dear Editor:

I am a little disgusted and want to relay some thoughts that will hopefully be read and acted on by Clarkston parents.

Many downtown buildings are being painted, remodeled and fixed up. Much more is in the planning. But - it is demoralizing to have these improvements vandalized and ruined. I refer to the new smoked glass lighting fixture recently smashed with rocks after it had been up only three weeks at the rear of our store.

I wish parents would impress on their children that this is their town. I am sure they would rather it be a clean, neat town than a run down dirty town that it could be if no one bothered to fix up anything because it was sure to be undone by vandalism.

A good question to ask ourselves is: Do we know where our children are and what they are doing?

Sincerely,
Village Sewing Basket

Fun Day coming up

As announced in last week's Clarkston News, Save Deer Lake Fun Day will be held this coming Saturday, August 24th at various locations in and around Clarkston. A multi-family garage sale, and bake sale, will be held at the vacant lot alongside the Clarkston News at the corner of Main and W. Washington Streets. Indications are that there will be a wide variety of goods available for purchase at both sales. In addition, there will be a car wash behind Berg Cleaners, 6700 Dixie Highway. Entrance to the car wash will be between Berg Cleaners and Ritter's Farm Market. All of these events will be held continuously all day Saturday.

Those who enjoy German or Hungarian food will be able to find it at the George Lehner Residence on Deer Lake. Tickets for these dinners can be purchased by calling George at 625-5213. Finally, a Save Deer Lake raffle is being conducted by Jim Lafnear. Tickets may be purchased by calling Jim at 625-5982 between now and Labor day.

Remember that all monies collected from Fun Day will go toward our fight to keep large scale development off Deer Lake. Enjoy Fun Day this Saturday and help save Deer Lake at the same time.

Candidate thanks

I want to express my sincere appreciation to the people of the 17th state senate district for giving me their vote of confidence on Primary Election day. During the campaign, we worked hard to demonstrate that government could be both responsive and responsible.

I am now convinced, more than ever, that people do want honest and representative government, and are willing to take whatever steps necessary to insure that their elected officials provide good government.

It is my intention to work toward the goal of good government. And it is my belief that our efforts will produce good government.

Again, my thanks to the people of the 17th district.

The centennial festivities were dotted by colorful long gowns worn by women in honor of the church's 100th birthday.

The Seymour Lake United Methodist Church Bi-centennial celebration got off to a rainy start last Friday, but that didn't deter area residents from coming to sample the ice cream at the ice cream social.

SENTRY INSURANCE

A big insurance company doesn't have to act like a big insurance company.

Independence Firefighters Association chef Dean Callison checks up on supplies at Rudy's Market for the firemen's first annual Labor Day pancake breakfast. They'll be serving from 7 to 9 a.m. at the downtown Clarkston fire house. Proceeds will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Drive.

Revenue down

The Village of Clarkston will receive $3,683 in motor fuel tax revenue for the April through June quarter. The figure compares to $3,621 received for the same period a year ago.

The State Highway Department, which administers the tax, said increases in license plate taxes and interest earned on revenue produced at 2.2 percent increase over the last year. Fuel tax receipts alone were down 6.5 percent.

"This is small comfort in the face of sharply rising costs of road construction and maintenance," said John P. Woodford, director of State Highways and Transportation. Road building costs on a national average have jumped more than 36 percent over the level of 12 months ago, Woodford said. They mainly reflect steep rises in costs of such basic materials as steel, asphalt and cement, he added.

Officials have speculated that the decline in gas tax revenues could well be the result of reduced driving speeds, stemming both from the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit imposed nationwide this year and the increase in the cost of gasoline.

JV, Freshmen gear for football

by Mary Warner
Sports Editor
Clarkston High School Junior Varsity football coach Paul Tungate anticipates "less work in fundamentals and more concentration on the game of football," when the JV's begin practice Tuesday, Aug. 27.
Tungate anticipates a good season this year, based on the good record of previous junior varsity teams (7-2 last year), plus the fact that both of last year's freshman teams where Tungate will draw his players from had a better season than they have ever had before.

Tungate also thinks he will get some cooperation from the players' parents, who in the past have contributed their support and enthusiasm to the team. He said he thinks the players "have really been great," and that even though in the past the team has played larger league teams, he thinks his players are catching up in size.

Size must not be everything, because the junior varsity team has been a consistent winner over the years. That could be attributed in part to the fact that Tungate usually has an average of 40 players to work with, as opposed to smaller schools who use many of their junior players on the varsity squad, he said.

Tungate considers that his job is to teach the sophomores he gets from Clarkston Junior High and Sashabaw Junior High the offensive and defensive techniques the varsity needs.

With that idea in mind, Tungate will begin conditioning the first week of practice, spend some time on fundamentals like tackling and blocking, and then get on to the business of improving offensive and defensive strategies.

Tungate will be assisted by John Craven in trying to mold his team into what in essence he feels is a "minor league for the varsity."

former coach Al Dood left the school system.

Krueger's new assistant will be Nick Kyros, a first-year teacher in science and physical education.

Krueger feels that he and the team have "a lot of work ahead of them," but said, "We expect that if we all work as hard as we can, we can start the school year off with a winning note and a smile.

"We're going to be small in numbers and size," he said, "But I'm going to try and make up for our smallness with speed and execution."

Krueger said his competition this year will be tough, "because all the junior highs we're playing are larger in size."

The Sashabaw Cougars also have to face their biggest rival in the first Sashabaw game the Clarkston Junior High Wolverines.

The two teams are traditional rivals, but Krueger said he will treat the game "just like any other game."

Krueger will be emphasizing "giving the boys a good fundamental base of football knowledge," and hopes to play all the team members every chance he gets in order to give them the experience they need to participate in high school football.

He will be running plays the high school teams use, only at a more limited level. "I'm also going to try to bolster their enthusiasm and confidence that they can win football games," he said. The team went 2-6 last year.

Girls' basketball starts

The Varsity and junior varsity girls' basketball program at Clarkston High School will begin early this year, with a switch from a winter to fall schedule.

Team tryouts for Clarkston begin next Monday, August 26. The early switch is part of a state-wide change to avoid the conflict playing at the same time as the boy's basketball program has created in the past.

The conflict between the girls' and boys' basketball programs is due in part to an increasing participation by girls in basketball programs.

The first practice sessions are tryouts for those in grades 10, 11 and 12 who are interested in playing this fall, and will be held twice a day Monday through Wednesday.

Try-out times are 9-11 a.m. and 3-5 p.m. Girls are urged to attend all six sessions by team manager Jan Modesitt, who said he anyone has any major conflict with the tryout schedules, they should contact her at 625-3864.

Practice for the Sashabaw Junior High School freshman football team began Monday night with a new head coach and new assistant.

Christian Krueger, math and reading teacher at SJH, began his duties as head coach with the belief that "if the players are willing to go the extra mile, we should have the best season we've ever had."

Krueger was assistant freshman coach at Sashabaw last year, and was elevated to the head position when

Warner says team has work ahead

Wolverine coach Gary Warner

"We're going to have to work harder and be in better condition than we were last year," he said.

Warner said he and co-coach Larry Sherrill have a lot of work ahead of them, because they will have to teach the players "A whole new offense, as they have never been in the system before."

The boys are also smaller this year than last year, he said, but he has a lot of good athletes. "We're going to have to use that athletic ability to win."

Warner's objectives are to have a winning season, and to try and play as many boys as possible.

Warner will be facing what Sashabaw coach Krueger termed "green-recruits" also, and plans to concentrate on "teaching kids what football's all about."

"If you can teach them that at the freshman level," he said, "then they're on their way to becoming decent football players."

Blocking and tackling fundamentals will get heavy concentration, he said, "And we also have a lot of conditioning to do. We have to prepare ourselves physically, first off, and also have to prepare for more and harder contact than the boys are used to."

As to the first-game confrontation with Sashabaw, Warner also plans to play it like any other. That game is Sept. 18.

Practice for the Cougar rivals, the Clarkston Junior High Wolverines freshman team, will begin Aug. 26.

Coach Gary Warner will be back coaching this year after racking up an impressive 6-2 season last year. "We're going to have to work twice as hard to better that," he said.

The Big Sweater

"In" again for the upcoming season!

They double as outerjackets and as a component of the layered look, bringing about a wealth of antique and futuristic styles. Not only nostalgic letter sweaters, waistcoats and grandfather warmers, but a flood of button-fronts, snap-and zip-fronts, collared and collarless models.

The one shown in the drawing here is handknitted of "grease wool" (the natural lanolin has been left in). Whether you use the grease wool yarn or not is no big deal! What is a big deal, is if you hand knit one of these gems. . . you save yourself a bundle! The going price on these biggies (a recent inspection was made a Somerset Mall) is in the neighborhood of $85.

Financial help is needed to bring a Michigan Artrain to Clarkston November 22 to 26. Donors can be sponsored ($25), patrons, ($25 to $100), or benefactors (over $100). Contributions are tax deductible, and donors' names will be listed in the program. Checks to be made out to Artrain may be sent to P.O. Box 362, Clarkston.

The story of Independence Township's piggery puzzle has made the Associated Press wires. Zoning Board of Appeals Chairman Mel Vaara, who hales from Ironwood, Michigan, reports the story was carried in the Ironwood Daily Globe on page 1 and occasioned at least a couple of calls from old friends there last week. The story concerned a legal interpretation of how many pigs in a piggery, and wound up concluding that pigs are illegal in the township.

Like we told Mel, "Now Independence Township is famous for its pigs, which we don't have any of."

Residents of Clarkston and Independence Township have it made. After a tour of northern resort and vacation areas, we've concluded there are as many and sometimes more summer recreational facilities available right here than there are in some of the highly touted developments up north.

Our numerous lakes, the entertainment provided by Pine Knob and Springfield-Oaks, tennis, handball and assorted sports facilities, saunas, and access to good restaurants leave little to be desired. Most of our residents have as much or more privacy -- the ability to get away from it all -- than some of the northern spas have.

Rick June, vacationing last week on the East Coast, released a balloon with card attached while traveling through Ohio. He received the card back a few days later from Ron Grosswiler in Norwalk, Ohio.

Just prior to the lights going out momentarily Monday on the west side of Main street, several people were able to stay dry downtown and witness it raining on Main Street at Waldon Road. The dividing line stayed for a number of minutes until the rain moved north and drenched some of the watchers.

Robert Lay, owner of the Village Sewing Basket in Clarkston is doing his part to Keep Clarkston beautiful by painting the village litter barrels.

Lay did a sample barrel to show the Village Council his plans for the renovation for the entire litter barrel community in Clarkston.

The council in return agreed to finance $20 for the cost of the paint, and sent Lay a letter thanking him for his interest in his community.

Lay plans to replace some of the barrels at a cost of $3 each by soliciting village businesses for barrel donations.

As an ironic reminder that Pine Knob Shopping Plaza will be one of two places area residents can get their bicycles registered this weekend, two 10-speeds were stolen from there Monday evening.

The two thefts were among a current rash which local and county police are attempting to counter with the registration program, which was initiated in Avon Township before being put into effect here.

Traffic at Pine Knob not only can get tangled, but can get pretty tenacious about it at times.

An example is an incident which took place at the Sashabaw exit of the music theater last Saturday night, when Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Bruce Tippin tried to tell a motorist that if he didn't turn right he'd be wrong.

The driver, who had traveled to Pine Knob from Ann Arbor, was supposed to head north on Clarkston Road after the show, a fact which Tippin indicated to him.

The driver stopped in the lane, blocking traffic, and "refused to turn right because it was out of his way," Tippin reported.

He further said he would make the turn if the deputy would pay for the extra gas, an offer Tippin declined.

Finally, the driver got out of the car and declared that if he had to turn right he would rather go to jail.

He did -- where he was booked for failing to obey a lawful order.

The Board of County Road Commissioners has agreed to participate financially with the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation in installation of a traffic light on Dixie Highway at Watkins Lake Road. Installation is to cost $8,614 with the county body paying $2,871.

SYNOPSIS SPECIAL TOWNSHIP BOARD MEETING AUGUST 15, 1974

Agenda: 1. Deerwood Sub -Final Plat
2. Road Gravel Program

Meeting called to order 5:10 p.m.

Present: Glennie, Humbert, Vandermark
Absent: Hallman, Powell

1. The Township Board gave final approval to the plat of the Deerwood Sub. located north of Cranberry Lake Road and Perry Lake Road in Sections 16 and 17.

2. The Township Board agreed to authorize the graveling of County maintained roads in subdivisions as per Oakland County Road Commission priority list to the extent that previously committed funds would allow.

Meeting adjourned 5:35 p.m.

J. Edwin Glennie
Independence Township Clerk

Not only that, but since Watkins Lake Road crosses the Grand Truck just before entering the Dixie, the traffic light on the highway will be interconnected with the railroad traffic crossing signals to avoid conflicting signals.

The Road Commission says it will apply $17,280 worth of gravel to Springfield Township roads October 1 to 7 and $31,648 to Independence Township roads October 8 to 21. Projects are under a three-way cost split between the township, the county and the road commission.

Students have drive in this course

By Pat Braunager

Talk to a guy who's about to enter high school.

Talk to a girl approaching "sweet 16."

What are they looking forward to, anticipating with eagerness?

In one word -- wheels. In two words -- a driver's license.

That's why Edward Johnson and seven other drivers' education teachers at Clarkston High School have each logged about 250 miles a day this summer. They've prepared more than 600 young people to take to the roads and streets of the area.

They're sure they've taught them the mechanics of driving, and they hope they've instilled a sense of responsibility in these future motorists.

The most difficult thing about learning to drive is for students "to drive ahead of themselves," Johnson said, explaining they need "to be alert, aware of the entire car and cars around them and to think ahead to what could happen."

"You really can't teach that," he said.

With their summer jobs completed, the drivers' education corps split up Tuesday.

What did they plan to do with the remaining nine days of summer vacation?

"Some will get caught up on work around their houses," Johnson said. "And we'll try to look a car in the face again, get in it and drive it somewhere."

They've already spent nine weeks driving "in rain and shine."

The teachers have completed their jobs and the students have earned that almighty right to get behind a steering wheel.

Then they have the mobility considered necessary in a community such as Clarkston.

Not only is driving a social factor, it's important to young people who have after-school jobs, Johnson noted.

But having a driver's license is definitely a status symbol here and throughout industrialized Michigan, Johnson said.

"Just look at the high school parking lot," he said. "Look at a kid with his or her first job. The status symbol is the car, not the job."

Therefore, Johnson and his fellow teachers have had just about as enthusiastic a bunch of students as any educator could hope for.

"They really are enthusiastic," he said. "They'd jump through hoops if you asked them to."

It is this situation that produces an attitude Johnson believes is unique to drivers' education.

The students place a great deal of importance on passing the course, because failure means they'll have to wait another year to try again.

Virtually every student who passes the course will pass his or her state licensing test, Johnson said.

He is certain that "anyone can learn to drive, given the proper amount of time."

However, not every young person can learn in the three-week course.

"We get a few that cannot handle it," he said. "Some work it out in the course, and others don't. For some, being able to use the brake--or even finding it--just doesn't work out."

A young person may be a super scholar in the classroom and still have difficulty when he gets behind the wheel of a car.

Johnson, who has taught drivers' education for two summers, said his biggest problem is with the students who don't pass the course.

Even their parents tend to get more upset, he said.

A fine arts teacher during the school year, Johnson noted it's a rare parent who will call the school when an offspring does not pass a course.

Not so with driver education. Parents call, and they complain.

"They feel like it's being deprived of a right, when we may be saving a life," he said, emphasizing that driving is "not just getting in a car and steering it."

Village tables Garner plat request

How to legally sit on a fence will be one of the questions posed to Clarkston Village Attorney John Steckling when the Village Council consults him this week on a proposed preliminary plat offered by developer Hugh Garner.

The council tabled until next Monday a decision on approval or denial of the plat so that they could consult their attorney on what their options were if they denied Garner's request.

The matter came up when Garner representative James Scharl told the council that they only had until August 29 to act on Garner's request.

The council only just received the village planning commission's recommendation for denial at the Monday night meeting, and felt they needed to have more time to find out some of the legal implications of their decision.

Scharl warned the council that state statutes require that municipalities must act within 90 days of a plat approval request, and stated that if the council were to deny approval, the matter would most certainly go to court.

The preliminary plat involves one whole lot and parts of four others in a 115-lot subdivision at the north end of Deer Lake fronting on Holcomb Street in Clarkston.

The total 372-acre proposed Deer Lake development is currently in litigation between Garner and Independence Township. Council members expressed their hope that a settlement including the entire portion be made before the council took any action on the acreage lying within village limits.

Making the fence-sitting suggestion was trustee Michael Thayer, who said that "I would really like to sit on the fence until the major portion of the property development is settled."

Other council members agreed that Thayer that an immediate decision on the request would not be advantageous to either the council or the developer.

The council also expressed concern that traffic created by the proposed development would inundate city streets.

Trustee Kathleen McCall stated that the portion of the development lying within the village is the "mouth of the whole development" meaning that primary access onto M-15 from the subdivision would be through Holcomb Street in Clarkston.

Steckling, a consultant in engineering and surveying for Garner suggested a remedy to the possibility of a traffic problem would be the widening of some of the streets leading onto M-15.

Village President Keith Hallman suggested that the council could deny the request until Garner presented plans for improving the access routes and paying for improvements.

Steckling said that the tentative preliminary plat is only the foundation work for later development plans and approvals by municipalities and at present only seeks approval on lot size, lot orientation, and street layout.

He maintained that an earlier decision by Independence Township to deny the preliminary plat on the 115-lot proposal was not valid in that the questions of sewage and drains were usually not worked out until later plat approvals were submitted.

But the council's main concern was the traffic problem that might be engendered, and village president Keith Hallman felt that any denial based on a problem of traffic "would be laughed out of court."

Hallman said that the Deer Lake development problem has become so complex that it is hard to make a decision on it in the face of so many obstacles, including what would seem like a direct affront to the township board if the council were to approve the request.

The council will have to come up with some kind of decision regarding the proposed plat by next Monday night at their scheduled meeting, whether it be to straddle the fence on it, approve it, or face possible court action should they deny it.

Council to review zoning ordinance

The Clarkston Village Council will be reviewing portions of their current zoning ordinance in order to resolve questions on building permit approval requirements and terminology which makes zoning uses unclear.

The matter is due for a hearing by the council in the near future, and council members will be examining possible problems in the Ordinance brought to their attention by village attorney John Steckling.

Some of the problems pointed out by Steckling included the unclear terminology of the word "use" as stated in the B-1 zoning requirements, and the stipulation that any building permit approval for certain stipulated building activities will not be required if the cost of the project is less than $200.

Tools stolen

Some $410 worth of tools were stolen from Process Paint Service, 4866 White Lake Road, during a break-in Thursday night or early Friday morning, August 14 or 15 according to Oakland County Sheriff's detectives.

The Raskins used barn wood for home

by Mary Warner

It took ten years to build, but the one-time summer cottage of Evelyn and Henry Raskin has now evolved into a full-fledged year-round chalet type home.

It also took three barns. Practically every piece of wood in the home excepting the rafters, but including doors, paneling and crossbeams is old wood taken from barns.

And, it took the combined efforts of Evelyn and Henry without the help of an architect or builder. They "invented it just like a piece of sculpture."

But the Raskins completed their home and went on to different "projects," as they call them. One of those projects is the creation of a turn-of-the century village shopping center called the "Battle Alley Arcade," located in Holly.

The Raskins, along with partners Jim and Ellen Hilty, have converted a building there into a unique old-fashioned cluster of shops, which they are still working on, redecorating and for which they are still shopping for antiques to fill Evelyn's antique store.

The Raskins have been involved in creativity for a long time. Evelyn spent many years painting professionally, which Henry has recently began painting and having showings in Detroit.

Henry is a retired veterinarian who used to own clinics in Royal Oak and Springfield. Evelyn has had art shows in New York and Detroit.

The couple's flair for design led them to create a very interesting and unique home. Using a combination of antique and modern furnishings, they designed their home in a collage of contrasts.

A balcony surrounds two sides, and looks out upon a lake surrounded by trees. Inside, the house has two levels, with the upper portion opened onto the lower floor like a loft.

A set of stairs on either side of the upstairs middle room leads down to the lower part of the house, the stairs consisting of boards set crosswise on a cut-out barn beam.

Throughout the house, the Raskins' interest in art and antiques is evident, with paintings abundant everywhere, and old wall hangings, and samplers set next to wide, low modern couches and chairs.

The even have a pot-bellied stove in the kitchen -- "We use it, too," Evelyn said.

The house's location in a country atmosphere reflects their taste for "the serenity, beauty and peace of the country."

"I'd never go back to the city," Evelyn said, referring to the four-floor home in Detroit she and her husband and their seven children occupied before they moved to the country.

The Raskin children are now grown up, so the couple has plenty of time to pursue their creative activities.

USE OUR LAYAWAY PLAN

Jim's Jottings

by Jim Sherman

We now have 3 on the counter, 2 small hanging racks on the wall, one spindle on the wall and a crock on the floor.

Besides that there is one in each bathroom and I have one on my desk at home.

No one can find any of the things one of these dumping areas is designed for. For instance: The other day son Jim wanted a rubber band. There are no less than a million in our house. I've picked that many up in one room in 3 days... any 3 days.

He settled for a wire tie from a bread wrapper.

That's another thing of which there are too many of until you want one. Wire ties. Try to find one when you get the garbage bag all twisted at the top. Don't tell me to buy the kind with the tag attached to the top. It's either missing or tears a hole in the bag when removed.

I'll tell you what I did find in the tin can catch-all on my desk. While looking for that aforementioned rubber band I found a straight pin. It stuck in my finger as I pushed things aside looking for the rubber band.

I jerked my finger out of the can and dropped it and contents on the floor. I found another pin later. It jumped out of the rug and into my toe.

Now this isn't the first time I've dumped a catch-all container. I have even done it intentionally. Usually, it is the last recourse to prove that what you are looking for is not there... right where you put it.

In my tin can, painted by one of the kids as a school project—thus it can never be discarded—is a sorry collection of nothings: I have 2 unusual shaped light bulbs. I haven't the slightest idea where they go.

There are several pins from new shirts. Never know when you need one—to stick in your finger. I have buttons to jackets long since sent to the Salvation Army, the "ruptured duck" pin received when discharged from the Navy, a thing that looks like one of those small tops you spin between your fingers—only that ain't what it is, etc., etc.

You get the idea. You have the same kind of collection. I'll bet you even do the same thing with the stuff I do when you spill it accidentally or on purpose.

You put it all right back in there. We may not know why we put that object in the box in the first place, but it will come to us some day and we'll know right where it is. Oh, yes we will.

I'm sure every home has a catch-all box or basket in a high traffic area. That is, I'm sure every home started with one catch-all container.

We started with one 3 years ago on the corner of the kitchen counter.

You are invited to our very special summer sale of Harden, Thomasville and North Hickory upholstered furniture.

Speedboat control favored by Parke Lake residents

As a result of the recently published township Watercraft Control Ordinance for Deer Lake, an informal poll of the Parke Lake property owners has made by one of the residents, Nelson Kimball, to determine what restrictions would be desired for Parke Lake.

Fifty landowners with beach rights on the lake (including the Robertson Court subdivision) were asked to reply to a questionnaire, Kimball said. Thirty replies were received, of which 25 asked either to eliminate high speed wake producing power boats or to prohibit power boats completely. Five residents asked to have speed boats allowed, but for limited hours.

Kimball who said he intended to approach the township board with the results of his findings, reported that Supervisor Robert Vandermark has outlined the procedure for obtaining a lake ordinance.

The township resolution requesting the Department of Natural Resources in Lansing to conduct a local public hearing on controls is the first step, Kimball said. The DNR will then establish a set of rules taking into consideration information presented at the hearing, and the township then has the option of confirming the DNR rules.

Keith Hallman, president of the Clarkston Village Council, has enthusiastically endorsed the restriction program, Kimball said, and will support a corresponding village ordinance.

For the last two year sailboats have replaced the high speed power boats on Parke Lake, Kimball reported. He said there are sailboat races there each weekend.

Kimball said that the personal reactions he received from those questioned indicated that the elimination of high speed wake producing boats, but allowing low speed fishing and float boats was felt to be a reasonable compromise for Parke Island.

In effect, he said, an ordinance will hardly change today's status quo, but if an ordinance is not passed, it is inevitable that some day there will be new property owners, tenants or visitors who will want to churn up the lake again with fast boats and skiers.

Bell protoge David Tharp has a year to succeed

David D. Tharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney B. Boose of Clarkston has one year to prove his worth to Michigan Bell and if he succeeds he will move into a high management position next year.

Tharp, 23, is one of 12 new employees selected for Michigan Bell's Initial Management Development Program (IMDP), a one-year program to rapidly train and develop management employees during their first year on the job.

Participants in the program, selected on the basis of high achievement potential, college academic success and personal interviews, are given sufficient responsibility and challenge to determine their potential to function effectively in middle management positions.

Tharp received his bachelor's degree in business management in 1972 and his master's degree in business administration in June, both from Western Michigan University.

Money Maker has a local twist

Clarkston area people will be playing Money Maker which looks suspiciously like Monopoly but features local businesses as the property to buy. Distributed by Pontiac State Bank at the Clarkston and Pine Knob offices as long as the supply lasts, it makes its owner eligible for a free trip to Disney World. A drawing will take place October 15 by Advanced Marketing, creators of the game. Such properties as Pine Knob Pharmacy, Couture's Custom Floor Covering, the Fashion Gallery, Oak Hill Auto Parts, A-C Firestone, Howe's Lanes, Richardson Farm Dairy, and Beattie Interiors make the game locally interesting.

Sewer tie-in deadline extended

The Clarkston Village Council Monday night voted to amend the village sewer ordinance to extend the deadline for sewer tie-ins from 12 months to 18 months.

The council took the action to conform to a state regulation requiring the 18-month limitation on sewer tie-ins.

That way, according to Village Clerk Bruce Rogers, the Village could avoid troubles other villages are having in enforcing the deadline by turning the job of enforcement over to the state.

The council amended sections 3.01, 4.01 and 5.01 of ordinance No. 70, changing just the date for required connection to sewer facilities from 12 months to 18 months.

Section 3.01 of village ordinance No. 70 will be changed to read "structures in which sanitary sewage originates located in the Village area served by the system for which there is an available public sanitary sewer of the system shall not be used or occupied after the effective date here hereof, unless said structures are connected to the sewage disposal system. Provided, that structures within the Village in which sanitary sewage originates before availability of the system or any part thereof to serve said structure shall be connected to said system within 18 (changed from 12) months after publication of a notice by the Village in a newspaper of general circulation in the Village and county, of the availability of the system."

Sewer tie-ins began Aug. 6, and only the downtown business section of Clarkston has yet to make the transition from the old system to the new one.

The village is currently setting up schedules for sewer usage assessments, and appointed former village treasurer Marjorie Pappas as bill collection manager.

Village clerk, Rogers will be sending out letters notifying property owners of the availability of the new sewer system and the schedule for sewer use payments as soon as they are completed.

Down in front!

by Eric Mobey

Some rock groups are well known for the quality of their live performances. Such groups as the Faces, the J. Geils Band, and The Grateful Dead are as well known for their concerts as they are for their recordings. In the past two years, Loggins and Messina have earned quite a reputation for bringing the house down as well.

They gave the August 15 audience at Pine Knob a healthy shot of their stagmanship. They started out the show rather low-key with "Don't Do Anythink Mellow at The Whiskey" and the standard "Danny's Song" but the stomping soon began when the back-up band joined them for "Listen to A Country Song". The electric fiddle and tight harmony got the clapping starting early.

Hardly stopping between songs, they quickly led into "Angry Eyes", a few short seconds the sound had changed to a very fine jazz. In concert, Loggins and Messina stretched their tunes much longer than on record. The sound picks up and improvisation of any musician is most impressive.

Most of the acts I have seen at Pine Knob this year play way to the back of the stage and close to the band. I was really nice to see Kenny Loggins and Jim Messina go right out to the edge of the stage and energize the audience. At one point, Messina lured the fiddle player, Lester Garth to front center stage as they played a great version of "Vahevala".

Sunny Beach picnics together

by Marion Wood

The Sunny Beach Country Club Property Owners' Association of the Walter's Lake area has once again staged an evening of lively entertainment. Every summer a host of energetic members gather together to plan, organize and carry out what has become known as Family Night. This year, Family Night was held on Sunday, August 18 at the association's largest beach and was attended by hundreds of children and adults.

The evening began with a bicycle parade with prizes given to the children having the best decorated bicycles. This was followed by several other contests, for both children and adults, including a straw scramble, bubble gum blowing contests, water balloon toss, sack races, three-legged races, and several races into Walter's Lake to wrestle for greased watermelons!

Winners of the events received many fine prizes donated by area merchants, and even the "losers" received candies or bubble gum passed out by two jolly clowns.

Those folks who attended were eligible for the grand drawing towards the end of the evening, winning such great prizes as a camera, tape recorder, cordless grass trimmers, free dinners, movie passes and tool sets, to name a few, again donated by area merchants. The celebration ended with plenty of watermelon for all, about a cozy bonfire.

The Family Night celebration was planned and carried out this year by Sharon Shall, chairman, and her committee; Tom and Jo Wolocko, Elsie and Ed Merritt, Anita and Clay Evans, Sallie and Bob Franks, Jim and Elaine Gardiner, Charlie Shall, Ellen and Jesse Harris, Connie and Andy Brzezinski, Korrene and Vince Alonzi, Mary and Duane Proctor, Cynthia Williams, Marion and Web Woods, and Judy and Bob Rabideau. The "jolly clowns" were Andy Brzezinski and Vince Alonzi.

Free immunizations

An immunization clinic will be held at Independence center, 5331 Maybee Road, on September 5, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This service is being offered to infants, pre-schoolers and school age children by the Oakland County Health Department. There is no charge.

For further information, call independence center, at 673-2244.

Band rehearsal

Clarkston High School band students will meet for marching band rehearsal from 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday, August 27 at the school. Participants are asked to bring music, instruments and Lyre. Anyone needing a school instrument must come early, according to Keith Sipos, band director.

The mill stream

Three Smiths left Clarkston July 2 for Germany -- they were joined there by a fourth -- but only three came home.

Ingrid Smith of Eastlawn, who grew up near Munich, took Mary, 9, and Katy, 12, to her mother's place in Schafflarn. It was Mary's first trip and Katy's third, and Katy has remained behind as a student next year in the Schafflarn Gymnasium.

It's a boarding school supported by an estate which provides the animals and even a mill to feed the school, and its been in Ingrid's family for many years, she says. Katy will remain there under the care of Ingrid's mother, Maria Falter, now 78, and she'll enter the equivalent of first year junior high.

Telling about the "fabulous" trip, Ingrid reveals the night before they were to leave for Italy, she received a phone call from her son, Conrad, 19, who is a medic with the U.S. Navy stationed at Parris Island.

"I'd sent him a card that said, 'Wish you were here, and there he was. He arrived in time to spend a week with us in Italy. We crossed by the Brenner Pass and came back by way of the Euro Bridge, which crosses the whole range of the Alps'."

While in Italy they went to Gardasee on the Italian Riviera, which boasts tropical weather and mountains all in one.

They also visited Venice and though Venice's canals have a reputation for smelling, Ingrid said she didn't think it was much worse than Clarkston's defunct septic system. "There are some places that are just bigger than a smell," she said.

While in Italy, they saw Romeo and Juliet's balcony and the kids had the opportunity of watching the world championship soccer matches at the Munich Olympic Stadium. "It was wild," Ingrid said. "Forty thousand Dutchmen paraded the streets prior to the game."

Mary, who was the first girl in Little League T-Ball here, bought a soccer ball and started playing the game.

The estate which supports the school boasts a farm life that intrigued the kids, Ingrid said, and short trips almost every other day made the vacation very special.

Another bit of good news, Ingrid said, is that her daughter Ursula who is with the Army Medical Corps at Brooks Medical Center in San Antonio has just learned she will be posted to Germany for a year in February.

Ingrid said German reaction to Ford as opposed to Nixon as president is favorable. "They couldn't understand how America tolerated the Watergate scandal and all the things that happened," she said.

Jane A. Kottke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Kottke of 6686 Shelley Drive and Teresa A. Rademacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Rademacher of 7859 Reese Road, both graduates of Clarkston High School, will be participating in a special Alma College Freshman Seminar Program taking place the week prior to the start of fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Hanson of Snow Apple, have recently returned from a visit to their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Frost at Kittery Point, Maine. Highlight of the visit was a visit with grandson, Jack, who's now six months old.

Accompanying the Hansons were Mary Ellen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C.F. Dietzell of Cadillac and Arizona.

A lot of good seafood meals and a lot of Maine rocky coast sightseeing were included in the trip, B.J. reports.

A fabulous trip

by Mary Warner, phone 625-3370

Former Clarkston students Lee Willis now of Grand Rapids, Cindy Harris, Claudia Carlson, Jenny Smith and Susan Lobo are back home again after a week's study and work at Northern Michigan Music Camp at Marquette. The girls were accompanied by Grayce Warren, music instructor at Clarkston High School. This was Susan's third visit to the camp, and she reportedly enjoyed it as much as previously.

Susan's brother, Jim, was home for the weekend visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loba of Middle Lake Road. A cadet at West Point, he was met by his parents in Fort Knox, Ky., where he'd just completed tank training.

Accompanying him to Clarkston was his friend, Cadet John Sprowl of California. They attended Beth Bigger's wedding and had a jam-packed weekend.

Dennis, another Loba son, is backpacking in Montana with five other boys, three of whom--Rick Butler, Kirt Bowden, and Randy Allen--are also from Clarkston.

Dennis called Saturday night. They'd seen snow the night before, and he said he's never seen anything so beautiful as the country out there, his mother reports.

John Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Morgan of Overlook, has recently completed an Oakland Community College course on auto emission and tune-ups. He'll be a senior this year at Clarkston High School. His mother and dad are really proud of him, particularly since the Morgans have the Clarkston Marathon station.

The early part of this week, John's been up at the Soo and Escanaba with Dave Bickerstaff, also of Clarkston.

Lew and Diane Wint with their children, Joy and Bill, have just returned from a week in Florida, staying at Disney World for three days. Diane says, "We didn't miss much there, and then we went down to Daytona Beach for another three days." They liked the Polynesian Village best.

The Wints also visited Lew's aunt and uncle in Florida, enabling the children to meet their great uncle and aunt for the first time.

Diane reports it was the first all family vacation they've been able to enjoy, and it was really worth it.

The Muscats recently attended a Zwicker family reunion at the home of Len and Bernice Kelly in Commerce Township. About 50 relatives gathered, including Mary's Aunt, Lena Kirkland and her son Roy, and his wife, Kay from Beaumont, Texas, and her uncle Peter Zwicker and his wife Laura, from Foley, Alabama.

Frank and Mary Muscat and their son, Dan of Robertson Court entertained about 40 members of the Our Lady of the Lakes football team last week. The team was second division champs last year, and players were preparing to launch this year's team along the same lines. Dan plays tackle on the team. He'll be a junior this year.

Three area students are candidates for University of Michigan degrees this summer. Linnie Keith Lee, 7953 Easton, expects a masters in public health; Arthur Patrick Rose, 7902 Dixie, a bachelors in education; and David Donald Arsen, 6675 Wellesley, a bachelor of arts.

New youth pastor

Dan Beach of Spencerport, New York, is the new youth pastor at First Baptist Church. Mr. Beach attended college in Rochester, N. Y., and has been active in children's evangelism and camp ministries. He has taught junior high at University Christian Schools, Jacksonville, Fla., for the past three years.

St. Steven offers Art Show

A flea market, used book sale, and arts and crafts display, and a bake sale will be part of the featured attractions at the St. Steven Lutheran Church's fall Arts and Crafts Show, Sept. 28.

The show will last from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and is sponsored by the Ladies Guild of the church. The show will be on the church grounds.

This is the first year the church has put on such a crafts fair, and people who want to exhibit their crafts are needed for the program. If anyone is interested in bringing their arts and crafts for the show, they should contact Thelma Burgin at 887-2498, or Betty Evanson at 673-8149.

Organic club meets

The Nature Center Organic Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. August 28 at the Drayton Plains Nature Center. Topics to be discussed include cover harvesting of crops and their storage. New members are welcome.

County offers classes for expectant parents

Oakland County Health Department will offer a fall series of Expectant Parent classes beginning at 7:30 p.m. September 5 at the department's auditorium, 1200 North Telegraph Road.

Registrations are being accepted by the department at 858-1394 or 858-1280. There is no charge.

Topics covered by the series of eight classes include mental health of the family unit, growth and development of the baby before birth and immediately after, labor and delivery, and the care and feeding of the infant.

Films and other audiovisual aids will be employed, and one class session will feature a tour of one of the local hospitals.

The classes, taught by public health nurses, are co-sponsored by the Oakland County Medical Society and various adult education departments in Oakland County.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Tompson of Evansville, Indiana, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kandy Jean, to Michael Charles Dougherty, son of former Clarkston residents Mrs. Ruth Dougherty of Tampa, Fla., and Charles E. Dougherty of Jacksonville, Fla. An August-31 wedding in Evansville is planned. The bridegroom-to-be is a graduate of Cumberland College in Williamsburg, Ky., and tennis pro at the Tri-State Racquet Club.

Episcopal Church to add space

Site plans for a 1200 square foot addition to Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 6490 Clarkston Road, have been approved by the Independence Township Planning Commission.

To contain additional space for a nursery and add room to the parish hall, the addition will be constructed as soon as possible, according to Rev. Alex Stewart, pastor.

The church services 125 area families.

Spiritual Message

"HAVE A GOOD VACATION"

It is still vacation time for many sights, hear new sounds, and share folks. All of us look forward to in many new experiences. It is vacation time when we see new refreshing to our body, mind, and spirit to have a change of setting and a change of pace.

Our vacations provide us three kinds of pleasures. There are the pleasures of anticipation we gain as we plan for our vacation; there are the pleasures of realization we have when we are on that vacation; also, there are the pleasures of reflection as we look back on the events of that vacation.

There is an opportunity for spiritual growth while on vacation. It may offer us more time for thought about the meaning of life. It offers time for unhurried prayer and worship in new settings.

There is also a great opportunity for the family to be drawn closer together. It might even be a time to get re-acquainted with each other. This is the one time of year when father is around twenty-four hours a day. Of course, we have to like family life if this is going to happen.

We come home from vacation with a new perspective of our role in the home, the community, the church, and our work.

To those on vacation we say, "Have a good vacation."

In Christian bonds,
Frank A. Cozadd

New Pontiac State Bank manager

Joyce Huntley has been appointed manager of the Clarkston Branch of Pontiac State Bank. She replaces Darwin Johnson who has been assigned temporarily to the new Oxford branch.

Mrs. Huntley, a resident of Rochester, has been employed by the bank 11 years. She has most recently been manager of the Bloomfield Square branch.

Wilcox named MAC chairman

Elected President of the Michigan Association of Counties at their 76th Annual Conference on Mackinac Island was Richard R. Wilcox, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners. In assuming the office, Wilcox called for strength and unity in county government. He particularly noted that all 83 counties are participating members of the Michigan Association of Counties. In addition, Wilcox, in his brief remarks to the more than 500 people at the Banquet, called for Michigan counties through MAC to take a stronger role in obtaining equal federal aid for all counties, regardless of their size. Wilcox, R-Ortonville, represents this area (District 1) and is chairman of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

Inconsistent discipline patterns

by James and Ellen Windell

Psychological staff members of the Oakland County Juvenile Court and Clinical Resources, Incorporated

Some parents present a curious kind of inconsistent disciplinary pattern. Cynthia, a pretty fourteen year old, expressed her feelings about it this way:

"My mother used to punish me for dumb, little things, but not for big things. Once she hit me because I told her I hated her when she was trying to make me take a nap. Another time I was hiding and jumped out and scared her as a joke. She hit me for that, too. But, she didn't do anything when I left the block or when I didn't go where I said I was going."

Cynthia thought to herself that either her mother didn't know how to handle problems and, therefore, handled little problems as if they were big crimes, or that she didn't really care what Cynthia did.

Reflecting on her behavior and how her mother had handled it, Cynthia said that she came to dislike her mother, adding, "I just wanted to do anything she told me not to do."

Many parents seem to fall in this inconsistent and irrational way of handling children. They may over react to relatively minor problems, while failing to take appropriate action for major misbehavior. To young children, this must be very confusing.

Since children expect punishment and limit setting for "bad behavior", and when a parent does not come through, the child has to try to figure out why the parent did not react in an expected way. As in Cynthia's case, it may be that the child will see the parent as being inadequate or as not liking them.

One way, then, for a parent to be consistent is to behave appropriately when misbehavior occurs. Little and fairly inconsequential behavior only deserve lower-level parental reactions, while serious misdeeds should receive more attention by the parent.

There'll be a good turnout for Clarkston Village Days, even if they're not going to take place in the village. I don't feel any records will be broken, but a lot of people will find their way out to Maybee and Sashabaw and the Eagles property.

Labor Day itself should be mostly sunny with a few sprinkles—maybe one good rain. Seventy-five percent of the time it will be nice.

A Clarkston area member of the clergy will be leaving to take a rest within a year.

Somebody is going to come into The Clarkston News, madder than a hornet. The number 6 is a key to it -- it might September 6 or in six weeks. It may be a result of misspelling a name.

Cyprus will be a hotbed for a while, but it will cool down. No American troops, other than those with the UN, will become involved.

I believe Pine Knob will send a letter to neighbors asking for a meeting, and the majority will accept the outcome of that meeting. There may be hangup, though. It will be worked on 'all for one—one for all' and if one won't accept the solution, none of them will benefit.

Some vandalism at an area church will be traced to a parishoner. It is not the same church which has complained about Pine Knob theater goers. It will point up a desperate need for the clergy to be more informed on how to spot mental illness. As a result some steps may be taken for an in depth study of symptoms, so ministers can help their parishioners in the early stages.

I think the beginning of 1975 will see a definite change beginning within the township. There will be a greater spirit of cooperation, and hope will arrive on the scene. Definite progress will be made in many areas.

There'll be another scandal in the Air Force Academy, involving a firing of a teacher plus four to five boys who will be deeply involved and two more on the fringes. It will be for something other than academic cheating.

Back-to-school shopping is special

Debbie thought she looked pretty in a harlequin patterned jersey sweater and matching slacks.

Steve donned first a checked two piece suit featuring a shirt jacket. He figured he'd wear it to school most of the time.

BY Jean Saile

Remember what it was like to be six-years-old and have Mom take you shopping for a new school wardrobe?

Things haven't changed all that much, and for today's crop of six-year-olds it's still a special experience.

We asked Sharon Kent of the Sashabaw PTA to bring her totheaded twins, Debbie and Steve, last week to Judy's Fashions for the Young, 5903 Dixie Highway.

There the appeal of new styles and the "new" smell of never worn garments produced that old, familiar reaction.

Steve, who with a glint in his blue eyes allowed he doesn't like school, confided he might grow up to be a crook or a policeman or an ice cream man. Debbie, who says she likes noon recess because of the food, figured she'd be a nurse and give shots, not because she likes shots, but just because . . .

No matter what they say, their mother says they're good students.

Steve thought he'd wear the printed jersey shirt and jeans to church sometimes.

A long checked skirt and matching blouse gave Debbie that comfortable stylish feeling that permitted her to browse through some of the books at Judy's.

Debbie liked the attractive pants suit, thought it was worth an extra peek in the mirror.

Steve, in a jeans jacket and pants, confided math is the worst thing about school, " 'cause it's so hard." He got stars and clowns in math, though, last year.

A recent study suggests a married woman who is over 25 when she enters a more likely to remain in the 'Shangri-la' a dream for many

Almost everyone stores in the back of their mind a dream place--somewhere they can be free and happy--a shangri-la.

"Shangri-la" -- imaginary land depicted in the novel Lost Horizon by James Hilton: a remote beautiful imaginary place where life approaches perfection -- Utopia.

Photos and interviews by Mary Warner

FARMINGTON, MICHIGAN - boyhood home of Ken Michlin, which 15 years ago epitomized the essence of country living.

"I'd like to find someplace in the country with lots of trees, and no hustle and bustle. Someplace where I can keep horses and go on early morning rides before work. Someplace where you can sit and contemplate as long as you want."

A place unlike the large apartment complex where he currently resides in Troy when he is not working at the House of Maple on the Dixie Highway.

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP - specifically 3191 Dixie Highway, which is Nancy Hawe's dream come true, where Nancy 'likes the area, likes the countryside, likes the trees, likes the neighborhood, and likes her church'.

"It's not that I don't like to leave my home--I would love to visit Hawaii, Palm Beach, Fla., and Phoenix, Ariz. But I'm always so happy when I get home. I like my children and my church, and the only thing I could ask for is that the house be moved back 100 feet and that the climate warm up a bit."

KABAL, AFGANISTAN - village in Eurasian country south of the Soviet Union and northwest of India, where John Mangliers, 4903 Muriel, Warren, spent seven months before coming back to the states to work for the Deer Lake Excavating Co. "It's my favorite place to live."

A mountainous country populated by nice, easy-going people, with Persian influence contributing the art of weaving and other handicrafts.

"I've traveled to many countries, but I like Kubal best. Living is slow and easy, and working in the handicrafts, like carpet-making, is really interesting."

HOUGHTON, MICH. - Dream home for Faith McLintock, 4894 Oak Park, as revealed by her when she was filling her car with gas at a local station. Five acres in the Keweenaw Bay area on the edge of a beautiful cedar swamp, owned by husband, given by father-in-law, quiet and semi-secluded. "It's nothing real fancy--just happy."

A land of snowmobiling, deer that eat apples out of your hand, black and brown bears that wander into gardens, and old mining shafts ready for exploration.

A COUNTRY LANE, U.S.A. - Place where Butch Van Hentenryck, 6981 Tappan, would like to drive down in a fast car with a nice girl sitting beside him. "Ever since I was little, I just thought that would be nice, because I like open roads with no one around."

BOSTON, MASS. - place chock full of American History, which Mike Juliano, 4605 Pinedale, Drayton Plains, would love to investigate.

An old city, with a lot of history in it, and "a lot of stuff to see." "I'd like to see the whole East Coast, really--Lexington, Concord-- look at the liberty bell."

"I'm going to Oakland University to study pre-dentistry in the fall and when I become a dentist, I'll for sure go there."
