M-15 may have four lanes State discussing change of Dixie area

by Mary Warner

M-15 may be in for some changes by the State Highway Department not foreseen in their original improvements program for 1975.

Highway Department spokesman Edward Boucher said the traffic and safety division is looking into the possibility of widening to four lanes 900 feet of highway north of US-10.

They are also looking into the possibility of adding a right-turn lane on M-15 for access onto Waldon Road, and the addition of a taper lane for access onto Laurelton on the east side of M-15.

Plans are not definite for the improvements, Boucher said, as funding for the additional improvements has not yet been authorized.

The State Highway Department will be letting bids in February of 1975 for the four-foot widening of M-15 from U.S. 10 up to the southern village limits; they will also be widening 2 feet on either side of the road just north of the village up to the pavement of I-75. And they plan to blacktop the whole portion of M-15, from the Dixie Highway north through Clarkston to I-75.

The changes, if made, will be done for safety reasons, according to Boucher, who said design engineers had surveyed the area and recommended the additional safety features.

The additional work might involve the acquisition by the state of additional rightaways, he said, but would only involve "a few feet here and there."

Boucher stressed that the project would not affect the status of M-15 within the village limits as far as changes in the number and width of lanes is concerned.

But according to Oakland County planning Commission District Coordinator Jeff Kaczmarek, the highway department "works in strange ways."

Kaczmarek said the county received a map from the highway department just recently showing the possible widening to five lanes on a portion of M-15.

Kaczmarek related to Clarkston Village Planning Commission that the map did show such a possibility, and the group will be investigating the matter further.

Independence Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark also said that the highway department is prone to making decisions involving communities without contacting their local officials.

"It makes me mad that the highway department comes up with these plans, and they never consult local officials about what their plans are," he said.

Vandermark said there was no doubt that some kind of improvements were needed south of the village to relieve the congestion generated by the many businesses in that area.

Village President Keith Hallman also said that something is needed to be done to relieve the traffic problem on M-15 south of the village. But he said all possible measures should be taken to circumvent any highway changes that may alter the old-style character of the village.

One of the ways to circumvent any widening of the residential area just north of the Clarkston business district, or prevent the abolition of parking on Main Street, was discussed by the Village Planning Commission on Monday.

They thought perhaps the recognition of Clarkston as an historical district might limit the amount of federal funds that could be spent for such changes.

One of her own best customers, despite the threat of losing a tooth or two, is seven-year-old Sonya Stanley. The Marvin Stanley family of 10551 Davisburg Road, Springfield Township, is among those in the area selling home-grown apples to motorists taking color tours on these brisk autumn days.

Springfield asks liquor license control be local

The Springfield Township Board has adopted a resolution requesting state action to keep control of the issuance of SDD and SDM liquor licenses at the local level.

A recent court case has given the Michigan Liquor Control Commission basis for deciding that licensing is strictly in the state hands, Supervisor Claude Trim reported.

Pine Knob traffic due for review

Representatives of Independence Township, the Oakland County Road Commission and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department were expected to meet later this week with Wayne Nederlander of Pine Knob Music Theater in an effort to iron out traffic problems at the theater site.

"We're considering traffic signs, signals and ordinances that might reduce the need for so many deputies at the site," said Independence Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

"We should have policies regulating theater performances that would be most effective in maintaining order and making it so the surrounding residents can function reasonably through the summer months.

"I think we owe it to the theater owners and operators to come up with concrete proposals on which all the different governing bodies agree and which can be reasonably accomplished," he added.

Price Bros. garage burns; barn destroyed

A garage and tool shed, including a half dozen trucks and some loader equipment stored in or near it, were destroyed in a blaze last Wednesday night at Price Brothers Co., 8270 White Lake Road.

The building lies 100 feet within the Springfield Township line and fire departments were called from Independence and White Lake townships. Springfield Chief Charles Hillman said he was not notified of the blaze until 7 o'clock the next morning.

Cause of the blaze remains unknown, Hillman said. Workmen had been in the building until 11 a.m. prior to the nightwatchman's report of the fire at about 11:30 p.m. They had been doing repair work, but Hillman said they reported everything was okay when they left.

Several gasoline storage tanks exploded during the course of the blaze. Detroit Edison Co. was on hand to cut off power to a nearby utility pole, and eight trucks were saved when firemen drove them away from the burning building.

A small barn filled with 250 bales of hay was destroyed in a blaze reported at 5:42 p.m. Thursday at the home of Jim Smith, 10350 Reese Road. Independence Fire Assistant Chief Jack Beach said children playing with matches were blamed.

The department pumped a hundred gallons of water in an effort to keep the fire from spreading, but the building was nearly totaled by the time the men got there, Beach said. The property was not covered by insurance.

Firemen from Independence and White Lake answered the alarm for this blaze at Price Bros. Turned out the fire was in Springfield Township.

Fire station may be located at Dixie and Rattalee Lake

Oakland County Road Commission has indicated it will give Springfield Township a 99 year lease on an acre of property at Dixie Highway and Rattalee Lake Road as the site for a future fire station.

Before action is taken, the road commission has requested a site plan for development of the property and Planner Todd Kilroy has been instructed to prepare one at a cost of $300.

Should the new station be built, plans are to use the recently built Davisburg station as an architectural model.

Big Lake folks want hunting ban

Property owners on Big Lake have requested that their area be closed to hunting, and the Springfield Township Board has put in process the routine to that end.

Petitions signed by most of the residents of the lake will be presented to the Department of Natural Resources, which is then required to hold public hearings in regard to the matter.

Board members pointed out it would be well if the Susin and Dixie Lake area, as well as the Davisburg area, were included in the proposed ban, however no action was taken.

A similar attempt about four years ago was turned down by residents of the township.

Deputy patrol costs headed up

County board says townships should pay

by Jean Saile

Area Townships, dependent upon the Oakland County Sheriff's Department for police protection, may face a sizeable cost increase for the service during the next three years.

The County Board of Commissioners voted last week to continue subsidizing townships at the rate of $2,740 per man for one year, however by the end of three years it anticipated that townships would be paying the full costs.

Action was taken by the board in regard to those deputies who will be hired by Independence, Orion, Oakland, Highland, Avon and Commerce townships under terms of Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds made available recently by the federal government.

Independence plans to hire such a deputy this fall and can expect to pay at least $5,350 for his services over and above what the county and the federal government will pay.

However, wage negotiations now in progress with the deputies are expected to increase actual costs of one man from the present $20,590 level. The additional sum would also have to be picked up by the townships.

CETA provides $12,500 towards the cost of a deputy's salary. The county this year will pay $2,740, but expects to halve the expense next year and wipe it out the year following.

The action taken by the board, while having no direct bearing on contract terms for deputies paid solely by the townships, can be expected to influence those contracts when they come up for renegotiation here next May 1. Independence now pays for four such deputies at a cost of $17,850 each. Costs are met by the special 1-mill police tax, approved by voters.

The board course last week, was determined by two amendments added to a resolution which originally required townships to pick up some $8,000 difference in the amount funded by CETA and the actual cost. Under that plan, the county would have paid nothing.

While some commissioners were pointing out the need to consider county priorities above township needs, others turned to previous board action in which $200,000 of general fund moneys had been committed to aid the Social Services Department in its handling of increased relief cases, and the probability that another $400,000 will have to be appropriated before the year is over.

The issue became largely a matter, with some notable exceptions, of the city vote versus the country vote on the board.

Proponents for continued policing subsidy for the townships pointed out that most of the county's park lands lie in the northern townships and some policing subsidy would be only just and fair. "Many of our city dwellers use the county parks," said Niles Olson, D-Orion. "Better policing would be of benefit to the whole county."

Gabler retorted, "Many of the rural people also use facilities in the city, but we don't subsidize city police departments."

Ann Hobart, R-Waterford, pointed out that Waterford and some other townships (including Springfield) have chosen not to spend CETA money for policing because of the likelihood the funds will be unavailable in three years, and townships would then have to pickup the full bill.

Commissioner Frank Richardson, R-Waterford, noted, "We have to decide whether to provide road patrol service in North Oakland County. It's possible to run ourselves out of the market, and force those municipalities into providing their own police services. There is some obligation and some benefit to have the Sheriff patrol in North Oakland County. If those units (who plan to participate in CETA) could have afforded extra help, they would have had it by now."

Five commissioners voted against the final motion. They were Olson, Jack Douglas, D-Pontiac, Richard Vogt, R-Berkley, Bernard Berman, D-Oak Park, and Lillian Moffitt, R-Birmingham.

The board's action did not sit well with the Oakland County Township Supervisor's Association, a group formed of all township supervisors.

The association which met Thursday in Springfield Township voted to oppose any increases over and above the normal increases arising from union contract negotiations.

Supervisor Claude Trim of Springfield noted the county action to increase prices stems from the old problem between the north and south parts of Oakland County.

"It's time we sat down and tried to find how much of the county budget goes for services in the south end of the county and how much in the north end. I'm discouraged," he added, "because Commissioner James Dunleavy had promised the association he would try to get the voting on the deputy subsidy postponed until the supervisors had the opportunity of making some input."

He noted that Waterford Township's supervisor has indicated the township cannot afford federal grants, because of the need at the time of the program's demise to pick up the bill.

"If he can't afford it, how can they expect the more rural and smaller townships to do it?" Trim asked.

Independence Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark noted, "If the cost of hiring county deputies gets too high, we'll have to get our own department. The costs appear headed in that direction and though we really don't want to, we may have to start our own full-time department."

Giant radishes, Michigan rattlesnakes, giant squashes, skunks and now we give you a seven-headed sunflower, compliments of Donald Rosenfield, 5261 Bronco. "I've never seen one like that before," he said. The seed was taken from a three-headed plant he and his wife grew two years ago.

Most decry surtax proposal

Only one person interviewed in a random telephone sampling of area residents Tuesday morning believed a proposed 5 percent surtax on income would do any good in halting inflation.

David Leak, controller with Federal Mogul, said, "Within two years we'll all be living on a lower scale." He said the tax would retard the ability of people to buy and would therefore reduce demand and help stop inflation.

"The government is forcing the people to do what they are not willing to do themselves, and that is stop buying," Leak said.

Dr. Forrest Hunt, a Clarkston dentist, exploded, "It's about time they gave an incentive to people who work. I think such a tax is unfair to those people who are conscientiously supporting our government. The harder you work, the less you get."

He continued, "I don't know what makes them think that people in the higher income brackets necessarily have more money. They have adopted a different standard of living and they pay higher taxes in the form of real estate. Their status in the community demands more money on which to operate."

"They'll take our money and give it to some communist country," he added. "They don't treat us fairly when it comes to export and import taxes. I think we should be treated the way they treat other countries. If we export a car to Germany, the taxes make the prices so prohibitive the Germans can't buy it. When Nixon did try to raise the tax on imports, the other countries all screamed and so we took it back. When Pam Am lands in another country, it costs them $1,400 to land, yet another country's plane can land here for a minimal fee."

Roy B. Sorles of 9900 Hadley Road, a retiree, says the tax wouldn't bother him much.

Mary Miller, employed at a local real estate company, is married and has two children.

"I don't like any additional taxes. I can't see where further taxing of the working man, which is basically who this is going to hurt, is going to help inflation."

"I think if they really wanted to do something, they'd put some kind of curb on the non-necessities of life. People's food, housing and transportation are needed to keep the country going. Any taxing to deprive people of those needs won't help the country," said the Mrs. Miller.

"Both my husband and I work everyday," she added.

Another working woman, Linda Dennis, a teacher at Clarkston Junior High School, who is married and has two children, noted, "It sounds to me—at first glance—like the middle class working man is going to take it in the neck again for everybody else."

"A family income of $15,000 is not enough to pay the bills as it, let alone have an extra tax added to it. I just wish they'd close some of the tax loop holes for multi-millionaires. Too many rich people are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer."

"Michigan beet sugar profits are outlandish," she added.

Don Vachon, who owns a drive-in dairy store, said he didn't like it. "Even the average workers are making $12,000 to $13,000 a year anymore," he noted.

Bob Jones, a former banker, said, "I think it's the most terrible thing that ever happened. You can't legislate prosperity. There's just too many laws and they should leave those things alone."

"I'm afraid, even to death, what this will amount to. I can't understand the government thinking they can do a better job than we can do ourselves. Every time the government gets involved in things of this nature, it turns out unsatisfactory. The government is trying to do too much," he said.

Commission wants say on Deer Lake

The Clarkston Village Planning Commission moved Monday night to recommend that the village council intervene in the current court suit involving Independence Township and Hubert Garner over development of the north end of Deer Lake.

The motion read that "the planning commission recommended to the village council to instruct the village attorney to petition the court for leave to intervene in the suit on the behalf of Clarkston against the Deer Lake development."

The motion, made by commission member Henry Woofenden, was unanimously approved by the commission. The action came after a recommendation made by Oakland County Planning Commission District Coordinator Jeff Kaczmarek, who said that the village should have a say in a possible consent judgement made between the township and Garner.

The commission also spent considerable time discussing the possible establishment of Clarkston as an historical district. Clarkston Historical Society members Ruth Basinger and Jennifer Radcliff described a procedure whereby the historical district study committee, set up in 1973, could set up Clarkston as a historical district.

Those steps include researching houses to verify if they are fifty years or older, sending in forms to the Michigan Historical Division of the Department of State, having the applications then sent to the National Park Service, and then having the area approved as a district by the Park Service's National Register of Historic Places.

The steps would also include the passage of an ordinance by the village council, setting aside Clarkston as an historical district and setting up a historical commission to administer the district with regard to its preservation and intended use.

The establishment of the historical district was looked at by the commission as a means to forego any possible widening of village streets and other developmental impacts on the village, as well as a means of preserving the village heritage.

The commission also passed a recommendation that the village council spend not more than $500 on a structural feasibility study of the Old Methodist Church on Buffalo Street.

The commission made the recommendation on a request from council member Ruth Basinger.

The vote was 5-2, commission members Doug Roeser and James Mac Arthur voting no. Mac Arthur said that he didn't think it was the council's duty to fund the study, even though he favored the church's restoration.

The commission's extended agenda includes a November visit by the Business Association, a December talk by Nelson Kimball of the Clarkston Land Conservancy Committee, a January discussion by the Village Bi-centennial Commission, a February meeting with the Clarkston area Jaycees, and a March discussion on the possible annexation of parts of the Deer Lake Development.

COMMEMORATING THE BICENTENNIAL OF THE 1776 AMERICAN REVOLUTION 1976

THE SPIRIT OF '76

Symbolic of the spirit of the American revolution, the ragged, ill fed and poorly equipped Continental Army marched into battle to the tune of drums and fife sustained by a passion for freedom. This great idea, that men were willing to die for made them finally unconquerable.

The original "Spirit of '76" painting, by Willard for the Nation's Centennial celebration, vividly captures the spirit and determination of the Continental Army.

Editorial

Come on fellas;

We need government, not politics

There was a time when I used to believe our Oakland County Board of Commissioners did good work. I'm getting disillusioned.

First, they compounded the mistakes of the state legislature in snarling the unified county government concept, and it could take as long as two years to get that ironed out.

Now they're backing out, as fast as they can, from any financial obligation to provide Sheriff's Department services in the northern townships.

While I've been more or less restrained in my political views in this paper, I can't help but think politics is playing a large part in their actions.

Unified county government was pushed this year largely by county Dems, but in years past many Republican members of the county board have also spoken of the need for a means to get rid of some of the autonomous boards and commissions which presently fragment county government.

The Republican dominated board has however managed to screw up the unified concept and set up a series of hurdles that it will take any elected county executive some time to surmount. That's not to say the same thing might not happen under other circumstances.

Now, once again, we've got a rural-city split emerging in the county. The city dominated board has decided to opt out of any police subsidization program in the townships. Let the townships provide their own policing protection for south end visitors to our county parks; let them take on the full responsibility for road patrol whether it's economically feasible or not. Just don't expect south end residents to subsidize us.

Carried to its extremes, such an approach would be untenable and do away entirely with the need for county government; whose job is to provide the county as a whole with the services local units cannot provide for themselves.

The action can only eventually constitute an erosion of the sheriff's powers and encourage the formation of local police departments, so we will again have an example of two layers of government duplicating services at double costs.

Until such time as the northern communities reach a metropolitan status (God forbid), I think we need the sheriff's services, whether he be Republican or Democrat.

Let's save Christmas

by Jim Fitzgerald

There should be no Christmas this year.

Now that I'm a Presidential advisor, that's my advice. Please indict me quickly so I can pay the group rate for my legal defense.

President Ford asked the American people for suggestions on how to cut the cost of living and save energy. I can give him the perfect answer in one word: Scrooge.

Think about it. To fight inflation, you should not buy anything you don't really need. You shouldn't waste anything. You should be willing to make personal sacrifices. And you should increase your productivity without demanding an increase in your wages.

Last night I looked in the back of my sock drawer. This is where I hide toilet kits representing Christmas past. Someone is always giving me fancy boxes containing bottles of awful liquids that sting and stink. I don't need or want that stuff. The only reason I save it is a fermentation hedge against the return of Prohibition.

In another drawer are 1,456 white handkerchiefs, all received for Christmas. For some strange reason, perhaps because Prohibition didn't work, I never get colds. I am not required to blow my nose 10 times a year.

And then there is Christmas morning when the Mad Burner strikes again. That's what my family calls me. What I burn is gift wrappings and ribbons and, I'll admit, an occasional gift by mistake. Since the invention of Scotch tape and little kids, it has been impossible to open a package without tearing the paper which quickly piles eye-high. Old uncles

by Jean Saile

Diaper rash is no longer a hot topic of conversation with the old Winry Drive gang. The quality of babysitters have assumed a relative unimportance, and most of us have even learned to cope with mothers-in-law.

The group, once young marrieds with houses full of kids, is in its 40s now, and some of the men are even talking about early retirement.

For the most part we show the effects of the years—all but Mary, who turned up at a recent reunion looking like she was still 21. Her eyes sparkle, her cheeks glow and she could put Twiggy to shame. We may forgive her—in another 20 years.

Winry Drive was a great street. We shared and shared alike. We grinned and ate peanut butter sandwiches towards the end of the pay period, and passed along usable clothing from house to house and child to child.

We had a central clearing house for items like ice skates, and most of our problems were eased, if not solved, in a mutual sharing over mid-morning coffee.

Biggest day of the year was the first day of school. We threw schedules to the winds and enjoyed freedom like it had just been invented.

Some of those youngsters we were so happy to wave goodbye to are now well over six feet and well into advanced schooling or careers, we learned.

There were times back then when we thought they'd never grow up.

All the neighbors remembered old Skeeter, the Saile family dog, and her constant attacks on the mailman. We attempted to keep Skeeter penned in the backyard, but the neighborhood toddlers who strolled constantly in and out of the play area never failed to let her out before mail delivery.

First we got notification from the mailman that our delivery would be discontinued unless that dog were kept penned. The next government missile carried the information that the whole block would not have mail delivery unless she were penned.

Old Skeeter was saved only by the invention of pepper under pressure, and Marvin, the mailman, decided to keep risking his anatomy.

A generally lovable dog, Skeeter—whom we reluctantly put to sleep just last summer—had a thing for mailmen, and in particular for Marvin.

Most of the "remember when" stories were told under segregated circumstances. Nothing had changed. The men were gathered in front of the television set to watch football, and we women had most of the catching up to do.

We did it well. It even intrigued the men enough so that they occasionally tore themselves away from the tube long enough to throw in a story of their own.

Kuthy responds

To the Editor:

As the Democratic candidate for county executive, I must disagree with some of the statements made in your editorial entitled "Politicos Pervert 'Unified' Concept" on September 26, 1974.

All of the confusion over this law rests squarely on the lap of the Republican Board of Commissioners, who are attempting to use their 18-9 voting advantage on the Board floor to deliberately sow doubt of the wisdom of this reform passed overwhelmingly by the voters little more than a month ago.

I do not believe that their irresponsible actions will endure past the November election. Not only is it likely that some of them will be voted out of office, but the fact that there will be a man holding the office of county executive with veto power over board actions will make a dramatic difference in commissioner's attitudes.

It is one thing to be irresponsible when there is no one to check your actions by counter-action; it is quite another to be irresponsible and face the outrage not only of the press and the people, but also of a man with veto power over your actions.

I believe that the current transparently political charade being put on by the Republican Board will vanish with the November election; it is more a cause of disgust than alarm.

Artrain, the beginning

Some Clarkston residents have raised the question as to why the Arts Council decided to bring Artrain to our community. This is a legitimate and fair question.

The Arts Council readily admits that it was a serious and time consuming proposition to decide to have Artrain visit. This is particularly true since the Arts Council is a new group, and this is its first project. But, the Arts Council feels that the goals it is trying to accomplish may be the same goals as other Clarkston groups or individuals may have nourished for some time.

It would be short-sighted of the Arts Council to think only of itself or Artrain in the planning for Artrain's appearance. Artrain can be just a five-day experience or it can be the first in a long series of projects within the community. It can be a spectacle or a showpiece, or it can be much more.

It can, for instance, be a catalyst which helps Clarkston to look at itself and to inventory its resources. Such a new look would be aimed at changes in our environment.

While community improvement may be the ultimate goal, education lies at the heart of the matter. Education is the long range goal of Artrain. Artrain will hopefully be an event that will teach people that they can bring about change and improvement in the quality of life in this community, not only in the arts but the whole atmosphere of community life.

Artrain can be a bridge between various groups and segments of the community. Art is a form of communication and this form of communication can take place between young and old or traditional and new. Art can be a way of bringing about a deeper understanding of each other that every spirited community needs.

The Arts Council will be successful in bringing art, in the initial form of Artrain, to Clarkston. Along with visual and performing art for a five day period centered around the train depot, there will, hopefully, be a vision of the Clarkston that could exist in the future—Clarkston with a rich cultural atmosphere.

Artrain is a demonstration project and the way our citizens respond to this project can help to chart a new course for Clarkston as we look to the future.

Bottles has $10,000 in trust for community center

Oakland County Jail trustees lead another collection of papers, glass and aluminum for recycling at the Oakland County Recycling Center. Such contributions have enabled Bottles for Building to play $10,000 in trust for a new community activities building in Independence Township. To date, Independence Township has collected a total of more than 1,100 tons of glass and 184 tons of paper. The drop-off is located on M-15 in the A&P shopping complex. Papers and magazines are to be bundled. No bi-metal or steel cans can be accepted at the site.

Springfield building action

Springfield Township has readopted its basic building code, using BOCA standards, and made provisions for a building board of appeals under terms of state law which become effective November 6.

The same fee schedule as before will apply, the board determined.

Also adopted was a land development review ordinance which provides for site plan approval for all projects other than single family homes and mobile home parks. The review ordinance sets a new and higher fee scale, provides for the issuance of permits and construction review.

Last month was the biggest month this year for building starts in the township, Supervisor Claude Trim reported.

Sixteen permits were issued for projects which included eight homes. Total estimated cost of the construction underway is $245,700, the supervisor reported.

The board also gave final approval to Gerald Frericks for a 16 lot development on Tindall Road, a half mile south of Rattalee Lake Road. Two homes have already been started and the roads are completed, Frericks reported. The density is an average one home per 2.2 acres, he said.

Rotarians aid Honduras victims

Rev. Al Hinz of Spiritualist Church of the Good Samaritan turns over clothing collected for Honduras storm victims to Harold Goyette and Jack Frost of the Clarkston Rotary Club. The clothing will be picked up by volunteers from Teamster Local 299, shipped to the Honduras via Standard Fruit Co. ships and distributed to the needy by the Honduras Rotarians.

Dems host Pumpkin Ball

Independence Township Democrats will host "The Great Pumpkin Ball" at 8:30 p.m. Friday, October 11 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 5660 Maybee Road.

Guests who have indicated they will attend to ball include Richard Austin, Secretary of State; John Bruff, candidate for Michigan State University Board of Trustees; Libby Maynard, Democratic State Central Committee vice chairman; Betty Howe, Oakland County Democratic chairman; Gene Kúthy, candidate for Oakland County Executive; George Montgomery, candidate for Congress; Claude Trim, candidate for the State House of Representatives; and Kerry Kammer, candidate for State Senator.

Tickets are $5 per person. They include the cost of the band for dancing, beer, pop, set-ups, snacks, contests and prizes. They are available by phoning 625-3275 or 625-4110 or at the door.

Center needs volunteers

Can you spare four hours one day a week as a driver for independence center?

There is a vital need for drivers to transport someone to a doctor or dentist appointment, which we are finding difficult to supply.

Other volunteers at the center spend four hours in the office one day a week on a set schedule. We would like to set up such a schedule for drivers.

Volunteers could select the day and time convenient for them. They would operate on a stand-by basis.

If you can possibly help, please call independence center at 673-2244.

Fifth-grade teacher Marie Luzi has a lot of work to do getting her modular classroom organized—including the heaped-up pile of supplies on her own desk.

Students move to modulars

Two fifth grades and one kindergarten class moved out from the main building of Andersonville Elementary to the new modular classrooms in back of the school, Monday.

Jim Sanford's fifth grade will be in one of the modulars. His former classroom will be converted to a special services room, including Title I reading, speech, a social worker and a learning disabilities center.

Also moved outdoors was Mrs. Sue Kattin, who was holding her classes in the school library. And fifth-grade teacher Mrs. Marie Luzi moved her class to the modulars, making room for another special services center.

The school's principal, Mrs. Doris Mousseau, said she was informed that the building were ready for occupation on Friday, but electrical work was still being completed Monday morning, along with some plumbing.

Mrs. Luzi, when asked what she thought of teaching in modulars, said, "It's going to be an experience. The worst part is getting organized, but we're going to have a lot of fun--and work."

Mrs. Marie Luzi's fifth grade class streamed into their new modular classroom Monday carrying bundles of supplies from their old room.

Flanagan hearing transferred

The preliminary hearing for Bruce and Jerry Flanagan, area residents charged with the murder of their stepfather, has been delayed until October 11.

The Flanagans will remain in the Oakland County Jail without bond until 10 p.m. Friday, when Judge Martin Boyle of the Walled Lake 52nd District Court will determine whether the brothers should be bound over for trial. Judge Gerald McNally of the Clarkston 52nd District Court, changed venue last Thursday because he said he had too much prior knowledge of the case.

McNally ruled that since he had issued the murder warrant for the brothers, and had also ruled on some minor charges brought against Bruce Flanagan previously in his court, he had sources of information "not subject to the rules of law."

The law provides that in a multi-district court (the 52nd District has three), the judge who has issued the warrant should allow one of the other courts to examine the defendants.

McNally also denied a request by defense attorney David Stellar to set a bond for the Flanagans, stating that "It is to the defense's advantage not to have a bond set at this time. Then the ruling judge for the exam will not rely on any figures I might set."

Stellar said the alleged murder of Michael Soloway of Pontiac "was clearly a matter of self-defense," and plans to plead not guilty.

Soloway was found dead in the basement of 9760 Sashabaw Road Sept. 25, shot once with a shotgun and at least twice with a .22 caliber rifle.

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP RIGHT-OF-WAY REQUIREMENTS

New road right-of-way plan

Springfield Township has adopted the above master road right-of-way. Main change according to Supervisor Claude Trim is a "route under study" which would circumvent Hillsboro where it traverses the Big Lake residential area. It also provides for a future access road to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park Authority land in the southern part of the township. The right-of-way plan tends to prevent development of any sort on areas which might be needed in the future for road widening.

Building activity remains slow

Building starts continued low in Independence Township last month. Permits were issued for four houses, as compared to 10 a year ago. Permits were also issued for three churches, one new one and two additions to existing structures.

Estimated value of the construction for which permits were issued was $473,371.

A lot of people have SENTRY people. The folks who have all their auto insurance needs handled by us, SENTRY Insurance. Why us? For a very good, old fashioned reason. We don't act like a big insurance company even though that's what we are. So our adjusters will get SENTRY policyholders a new bumper if the chrome is cracked. We don't just get it straightened and spray some new paint on. Our way of looking at it is: whatever your auto insurance needs are, you're entitled to personalized protection. The kind of protection an adjuster would want for his own car. See the SENTRY man above for all your auto insurance. You'll like his attitude.

A big insurance company doesn't have to act like a big insurance company.

Mobile home expansion to be subject of hearing

A public hearing in about 30 days will determine whether or not Springfield Estates Mobile Home Park will be allowed to add 103 home spaces to the 190 now in existence.

Mel Hutchison, new owner of Springfield, said he has already spent $100,000 at the park since taking it over last May, and that the facility as it is now is an economically losing proposition.

Requested by the township to install fire hydrants in the existing park, he said the additional estimated $5,000 cost would be a further investment he could not afford. Were he allowed to expand the park, it might become economically feasible, he said.

Complicating the issue is the fact that zoning for the park is tied up in a consent judgment issued by Oakland County Circuit Court. Any move to allow the trailer park owner additional property a zoning change would have to be approved by the court.

Hutchison said he would expand to the south of the existing facility on land designated as multiple property. Approval would have to be obtained first from the township before the court would act, it was reported at Wednesday night's meeting.

Several people were on hand to commend Hutchison for improvements he has made at the park, however the board pointed out that he knew when he purchased the facility that zoning was tied up under a consent judgment. They also pointed out that only 127 of the 190 lots available are now being used.

Hutchison said he is proceeding at present in an attempt to get a water system for the hydrants use into operation this fall. His plans have been approved by the Springfield Township Fire Department.

Girls notch two more wins

by Jan Modesitt

Last week the Clarkston girls' varsity basketball team added two victories to its season record which now stands at five wins and no losses.

On Tuesday the team traveled to Walled Lake Western where they breezed to a 52-31 win. Leading the scorers for Clarkston was Cindy Hunt with 15 points. Nancy Foster had 12 points, and Kathy Rush came off the bench to pour in 11 points for the team. Clarkston shot 37.7% from the floor, helped greatly by a 50% field-goal shooting average during the second half. Laurie Miller was the high rebounder for the evening. Cindy Hunt had 9 steals, and Nancy Foster aided the over-all effort with 6 assists.

On Thursday, Clarkston's Wolves opened their Wayne-Oakland League competition at home against Livonia-Clarenceville. Although Clarenceville has improved considerably over past years' performances, Clarkston had little trouble getting by them with a final score of 54-29.

Once again Clarkston had three players scoring in double figures, with Cindy Hunt scoring 13 points, Nancy Foster 11 and Dede Miller 10 points. Clarkston made 25 of 72 field-goal attempts for the evening's average of 34.7%.

Laurie Miller pulled down 10 rebounds and Cindy Hunt had seven. Dede Miller had eight steals, while Diane Curry and Cindy Hunt each had five assists.

The JV team had a successful week as they added two victories to move their season record to 3-2. In their game against Walled Lake Western, the JV's outscored their opponents 36-20. Cindy Steel scored in double figures with 10 points, while Mary Anderson added nine points. Kathy Glowzinski was high rebounder with seven. Kathie Warren played an aggressive game as she came up with 12 steals and four assists.

The JV's game on Thursday with Clarenceville was "no contest" from the opening jump ball. The half time score was Clarkston 34, Clarenceville 0. It was late in the second half before Clarenceville scored their only field goal of the game, and the final buzzer showed a 46-2 victory for Clarkston. Jill Vedder led the JV scorers with 12 points, followed by Kathy Glowzinski's eight points. Marie Rathsborg pulled down seven rebounds.

On Tuesday of this week both the

Sports watch

Varsity and J.V. teams played Walled Lake Central in non-league battles. On Thursday, Oct. 10, Clarkston travels to West Bloomfield as their Wayne-Oakland League competition continues. Looking ahead at the Wolves upcoming schedule, both teams will play two away contests (Oct. 14 at Livonia-Stevenson and Oct. 17 at Andover) before making their next home appearance on Thursday, Oct. 24th, against Waterford-Kettering.

Clarkston suffers first upset

by Bill Condon

The Barons of Bloomfield Hills Andover surprised the Clarkston High School Wolves last Friday, by walking off with the 28-20 victory in that big Wayne-Oakland League game.

The Barons, led by sophomore quarterback Jim Breaugh, were able to keep up with the scoring of the seventh-rated Wolves, finally jumping ahead of Clarkston in the fourth quarter, and holding on to the lead until the end of the game.

The scoring started early in the first quarter, as Clarkston slowly moved the ball down field after the kickoff from Andover. The Wolves earned three first downs, as they pushed their way toward the Andover goal line. Then, from the two-yard line, Clarkston quarterback George Porritt pushed through the Andover defense into the end zone for the first touchdown of the evening.

It didn't take long for the Barons to retaliate, however, as they too pushed their way downfield. From the seven-yard line, Breaugh threw a pass to Andover halfback Larry Thompson for a touchdown. A straight kick from Terry Henderson, put the Barons in the lead with a score of 7-6.

The next score in the game came in the second quarter, as Clarkston took advantage of an Andover fumble recovered by Jerry Whitehead for Clarkston, and once again worked their way up field. From the Andover two-yard line, halfback Jerry Molina was able to score another Clarkston touchdown. A successful conversion run by Gary Molina put the Wolves ahead by seven points with a score of 14-7.

Late in the second quarter, Andover again pushed deep into Clarkston territory, where, from the two-yard line, Breaugh scored for the Barons. Once again Henderson's kick was good, and the score, which remained intact until the fourth quarter was Clarkston 14, Andover 14.

Both teams played on fairly even terms throughout the third quarter, each team moving the ball so far, then possession returning to the other team. This was true until the very end, as the third quarter ended with the Wolves on the Andover 23-yard line.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, the Andover defense caught Porritt in the backfield, for a four-yard loss. But Porritt got his revenge on the next play as he whipped a 27-yard pass to Ed Leightnam, for Clarkston's third touchdown. An intercepted pass on the try for the conversion left the score at 20-14, in Clarkston's favor.

Andover, however, was not intimidated, and came back shortly to score again as halfback Larry Thompson carried the ball over the Clarkston goal line. Another successful kick by Henderson put the Barons one point ahead with a score of 21-20.

Clarkston was not able to move the ball far, and after an unsuccessful fourth-down attempt, the control of the ball returned to the Barons.

Andover wasted no time getting deep into Clarkston territory, but they did have trouble scoring. Finally, on a fourth down attempt, Jim Breaugh threw a sidelines pass to end Jerry Meter, who carried the ball the necessary three yards for the Andover touchdown. Once again Terry Henderson made the extra point kick good. That put the game out of reach for the Wolves in the few remaining seconds left to play in the game.

The Wolves will be playing their rivals in the Wayne-Oakland League, the Waterford Kettering Captains, this Friday night at Clarkston. Clarkston hasn't beaten the Captains for as long as anyone can remember, but this year the Wolves will be ready.

Clarkston fans should not give up their thoughts of the Wolves winning the Wayne-Oakland League title, because Andover will be playing the only other team that is undefeated in league play. In fact, the West Bloomfield Lakers haven't been beaten at all, and Clarkston will play West Bloomfield later on this month. Oct. 25. So the Wayne-Oakland League race is still up in the air.

JV's take fourth

The Clarkston Junior Varsity football team racked up its fourth victory of the season last Thursday, beating Milford 14-8.

The game was similar to the Wolves' previous clash with Rochester-Adams, where the score was tied at the half 8-8 and both teams held the other's score down.

JV coach Paul Tugate said the Milford team played good pass defense, stopping the Wolves' passing game and making it difficult for the Wolves to sustain a drive.

Clarkston scored in the first quarter after the opening kick-off, on a reverse dive by Mark Czinder. Tim Boucha ran a sweep for two more points, and the Wolves were ahead 8-0.

But the game was tied up after a successful push by Milford in the second quarter, when they ran for a touchdown and the two conversion points.

The opening of the second half saw Clarkston surge ahead again, though, when Czinder scored on the same reverse and dive that he scored the first touchdown with. Tim Boucha's run for the extra points was stopped, and the score remained 14-8 until the end of the game.

Milford looked like it might pierce through the Clarkston defense during the fourth quarter, when they brought the ball deep into Clarkston territory. But Clarkston's Tim Boucha intercepted a Milford pass and ran it back 30 yards to the Milford 40-yard line, stopping Milford.

Clarkston then ran the clock down, and stopped Milford from scoring again.

Mark Czinder played a big part in the Wolves' victory, and defensive end Geoff Becker was in on many key defensive tackles.

The JV's play Bloomfield Hills Andover this week, at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Next week the JV's will host Livonia Churchill. A previously scheduled game with Waterford Kettering Oct. 17 was cancelled when the Kettering JV's dissolved their team.

Cougars beat Walled Lake

by Dave Austin

It was a cold night last Wednesday, Oct. 2, when the Sashabaw Cougars met Walled Lake Western and beat them 12-6.

The opening kick-off was received by the Cougars Scott Hool, but the Cougars failed to move the ball and had to punt to Walled Lake.

Walled Lake scored in three plays, and the score was 6-0 Walled Lake.

In the second quarter Scott Hool ran 15 yards up the middle for a touchdown. The extra-point attempt failed, and the score was tied at the half 6-6.

The Cougars scored again in the third quarter on a four-yard pass from Craig Czinder to Craig Grable. The extra point attempt failed, and the score remained 12-6 until the end.

This win gives Sashabaw a 2-1 record for the season. They were to play against East Hills Wednesday at home.

CJH wins cross-country

by Dave Austin

Clarkston Junior High finally got a leg on the All-Sports trophy by beating the Sashabaw Cougars in Cross-Country last Tuesday. The final score was Clarkston 16, Sashabaw 43. Paul Mass of the Wolverines set a winning time of 9:55. Gene Mullen of the Cougars set a new school record of 10:57.

White's Wolves

Wolves will rise

By Rob White

I am beginning this article with the benefit of watching our Andover game films several times. Our team did not let anyone down last Friday night.

Every player gave his best throughout the game. If we had to play the game over again, we would not prepare any differently or change our game plan. We gave 48 minutes of total effort.

I am not excusing the loss—it is the most bitter defeat we have ever encountered in three years. We made many football mistakes which allowed our opponents to win.

An appropriate slogan is "the greatest accomplishment is not in never falling, but in rising again after you fall." This is what we must do this Friday against Waterford Kettering.

No Clarkston team has ever defeated the Captains. Kettering will not be taken lightly by the Wolves this week at home.

Beauty

by JEAN

A bath should be a time for enjoyment. So prepare your bath with care. First of all, for safety's sake, put a rubber mat in the tub so you will not slip getting in or out. A couple of large, thirsty towels are a must, as is a soft bathmat, for stepping out with dripping feet. Don't forget a bath brush, a pumice stone for rubbing callouses from feet, a soft washcloth, a mild or neutral soap. Remember that bath oil makes the tub slippery, so be very careful when getting in or out of the tub.

Be careful when selecting a hairstyle. Come to "SALON OF BEAUTY" "BONNIE JEAN'S HAIR STYLISTS, 5488 Dixie Hwy., Waterford. Tel. 623-1411. Open 7-8:30. Sat. 7:30-3. Coloring, Cutting, Permanents, Styling, Sale and Service of Hairpieces.

HELPFUL HINT:

Rubbing the body with a few drops of bath oil after the bath can give the effect of bath oil without making the tub slippery.

CJH cagers win two

by Dennis Bronson, Coach

The Clarkston ninth grade girls' basketball team earned a hard-fought 26-21 victory over a rugged Avondale team last Tuesday, Oct. 1.

Avondale, as well as many of the teams Clarkston will play this year, has a three-year interscholastic program for their junior high giving them more experience.

But despite their strength, Avondale could not contain Clarkston's 1-2 scoring punch, with Marcia Mason and Anne Vaara scoring 10 and eight points respectively. Pat Killian chipped in six points also, as well as four steals.

On Thursday, Clarkston stopped Romeo Powell and their over six-foot "Big Dude," Glenda McAlpine, winning by a score of 18-17. Anne Vaara put Clarkston ahead for the first time in the game with 14 seconds showing on the scoreboard. Jane Tatu led the team in rebounding with eight. Marcia Mason scored eight points and held McAlpine to six.

Wolverines shut out West Hills

The Clarkston Junior High Wolverines freshman football team beat West Hills 20-0 last Wednesday, making their season record 2-1 thus far.

The Wolverines played a good defense, according to coach Gary Warner, holding West Hills scoreless and paving the way for the Wolverine offense to score their victory.

The first touchdown was scored in the second quarter on a 23-yard run by quarterback Tim Fogg. John Baker ran for two more points, and the score was 8-0 from then until the half.

A two-yard run by running back John Baker in the third quarter netted the Wolverines' second touchdown. The extra-point attempt failed, and the score was 14-0.

The Wolverines' third touchdown came on an 8-yard look-in to split end Jay Noonan in the fourth quarter. The extra-point attempt again failed, and the score remained 20-0.

A drive by West Hills during the last part of the fourth quarter was stopped by safety Greg Wells when he intercepted a West Hills pass and ran it back 25 yards.

Brian Snyder and Tim Fogg put in excellent performances both defensively and offensively. Fogg had his best defensive game of the season, Coach Warner said, making 10 individual tackles and two assists.

Snyder had 65 yards rushing, Fogg 66, and John Baker 77. Coach Warner said that West Hills was the first team the Wolverines played so far that have had ball players equal in size to Clarkston--their opponents have been bigger than them previously.

The Wolverines play Milford at home this Wednesday, and will travel to Keego Harbor to play West Bloomfield Oct. 16.

Wrestling coach Tolbert Carter is busy discussing the upcoming wrestling season with CHS junior Rowland Hayward. Hayward is one of Carter's leading wrestlers, who won 14 of 19 individual matches last year.

Wrestling coming

by Bill Condon

Although it seems like a long way off, preparations are already being made for the upcoming wrestling season at Clarkston High School. Tolbert Carter, the varsity wrestling coach at the high school, predicts a winning season this year. In fact, he expects to win the Wayne-Oakland league title. He also predicts that wrestling will be strong at Clarkston for the next two years.

Coach Carter will have nine returning lettermen from last year, but five of the varsity positions will be filled by sophomores. The sophomores, according to Carter, are products of the wrestling programs at the two Clarkston junior highs, especially Sashabaw, which had a winning season last year under the direction of coach Bernie Biddinger.

Five teams have been added to this year's schedule, which includes eight tournaments.

The wrestling program at Clarkston High School improves every year, according to coach Carter. Carter said he moved into the Clarkston area recently so that he would be available to further the wrestling program. In addition, the Clarkston School Board has approved an assistant for the wrestling program.

One of the problems with the wrestling season is that it coincides with the basketball season, and it is basketball, not wrestling, that draws all of the crowds and attention.

Right now the wrestling team doesn't have any place to practice. The room used last year now contains the high school's large weight-lifting machine, which had to be moved from its previous location because of the shortage of classroom space at the high school. But Carter is sure that arrangements of some kind will be made before the team starts practicing.

Golf team fights for wins

The Clarkston High School golf team has "seven more times to get even on our record," according to coach Doug Pierson, whose team thus far has lost seven matches and won six.

The team may be helped along by senior John Anderson, who has been medalist for the team for their last five matches.

The team got a few days off last week after almost continual play, Pierson said, and he hopes they're in shape for the Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday matches this week. The toughest of those games is Thursday's upcoming bout with Andover, who along with West Bloomfield are leaders in league play, Pierson said.

Andover beat Clarkston in a previous match 164-173. But Pierson is hopeful of a winning season.

In other matches, the golfers lost to West Bloomfield 164-168, John Anderson and senior Mike Sloan each scoring 38 for medalists.

The golfers won their match against Waterford township 165-172; Anderson again was medalist with 38. They lost to Lake Orion 166-170, Anderson medalist with 40, and won their game with Clarenceville 161-190, Anderson winning once more the medalist title with 38.

The team also finished eight out of 29 teams at the Plymouth Best Ball Tournament Oct. 1 with two two-man teams playing best ball and scoring 157.

They also participated in the Oakland Press Invitational Oct. 7 and shot 344 for a four-man 18-hole series.

Tuesday the team played Milford, Wednesday Kettering and Thursday they will have their big match against Andover.

Springfield Township's fight against operation of businesses in residentially owned areas is proceeding in the courts, according to Supervisor Claude Trim. Clarkston Disposal Co. has been ordered to sell three of its five trucks and is now in Circuit Court attempting to get permission to house the other two in a garage on residential property.

Trim, who has spearheaded the fight, remarked ruefully, "They're talking about selling three of the routes so the other trucks will probably be scattered around now on other residential property in the area. We've spent a lot on money, and..."

Springfield Township is prepared for the November 5 election. It recently purchased two new voting machines. The first voting machine used in the township was one rented in 1952 for $150, according to Treasurer Margaret Samuel.

Old engine 321 has been retired and sold by the Independence Township Fire Department.

The engine was purchased in 1954 from the Howe Fire Apparatus Co. of Anderson, Inc. The truck was originally stationed at Number 2 Station, Sashabaw and Clarkston Roads, at the time when Station 2 came into operation.

The engine originally served as front line pumper and serviced the eastern side of the township until it was made a second alarm truck in 1970. Since that time Engine 321 has been used as a utility and hose truck in all three fire stations in the township.

Another new pumper has been ordered by the department and one of those currently in service will be moved back to utility status, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Changes in the revenue sharing laws, by which local governments now get back part of the federal income taxes paid by their residents, are being anticipated at the Oakland County Courthouse. Auditors and budget directors were recently interviewed in regards to the fund sharing program. Their idea is that the changes are forthcoming, probably in part because the legislators who voted the federal revenue sharing program, are not getting the credit they think they deserve for the bounty now accruing the local governments.

Somebody stole the TV, its antenna and remote control from the Barber shop at 620 Broadway in Davisburg last week. Carroll V. Sharp said the shop is open only on Fridays and Saturdays so the theft could have occurred anytime during the week. Entry was gained through a rear door, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

Three bikes, a Honda mini bike and a lawnmower which were chained together at the rear of the house were reported stolen October 5 by David Burhans, 4722 Monterey.

A guitar, coin collection, savings bond and two watches were taken from the bedroom of the Ellis Humphrey home at 10365 M-15, he told deputies October 5. Entry was believed gained through a rear window.

A $1,000 diamond ring was reported missing by a resident of Parview.

Some 15 area girls have signed up for the Jaycee sponsored Junior Miss Pageant which will be November 6 at Clarkston High School. The girls are now meeting weekly to develop talent routines and prepare for the contest.

Bill Patrick of Independence Township Democratic Club recently presented a check for $25 to Haydn Cook of the Save Deer Lake Association to help in the payment of legal bills.

The Clarkston Women's Club netted 109 units of blood this year after their annual Blood Bank last Thursday. The total collected exceeds the normal 80 pints of blood collected yearly by 30 pints, and Women's Club members are very happy about it.

Chairman, Nancy Gruenberg and JoAnn Darling added their thanks to Clarkston area residents "for making this year's Blood Bank such a success."

"We hope for an even better average next year."

VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING Sept. 23, 1974

Meeting called to order by President Hallman. Trustee Granlund was appointed acting clerk by President Hallman.

Roll: Present—Basinger, Granlund, McCall, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Absent—None.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Moved by Schultz to pay $27,439.56 in interest to the Clinton-Oakland extension of the Village Sewer System for sewer payments. Seconded by Thayer. Roll: Ayes—Basinger, Granlund, McCall, Schultz, Thayer, Weber. Nays—none. Motion carried.

Township Building Dept. Director Ken Delbridge was present to discuss the Building Code of 1970 and the State Construction Code which the township is adopting. He recommended that the village also adopt this code. President Hallman wants time for the council and the planning commission to review this and to make sure that local control is still retained. It was decided to have our attorney work with the township attorney on an ordinance appointing the township as the enforcing agency on building codes, and to adopt the state code.

Trustee Thayer stated that the sidewalk replacement work should be starting soon.

President Hallman said that sewer clean-up work is still not completed, but that work is being done in the area behind the Town Shop.

Trustee Basinger reported on the duck problem in village lakes, which is caused by people feeding them. The council discussed the situation. It was agreed to have the Village Council request of citizens to refrain from feeding the migratory waterfowl.

Trustee Basinger also stated that future traffic generated by the proposed Deer Lake development should be studied, and the attorney instructed to look into this problem. A discussion followed.

Moved by Basinger to instruct the clerk to write the Oakland County Partners in Planning to reactivate the study of the traffic that would be generated by the proposed Deer Lake development on village streets. Seconded by Schultz. Motion carried.

Moved by Basinger that the Village Attorney be instructed to carry out intense and careful research for that part of the law which support the Village objective, which is to divert traffic generated by the Deer Lake development from the Village streets, and to prevent the widening of these streets. Seconded by Schultz. Ayes—Basinger, Granlund, McCall, Schultz. Nays—None. Abstain—Thayer, Weber. Motion carried.

President Hallman stated that no agreement had yet been reached on the possible village purchase of the Hawk Tool property. Contact with both the post office and district court people was not optimistic, but discussions are continuing.

The council unanimously agreed to grant the Historical Society permission to hold a sale on Oct. 18, 19, and 20.

Moved by Thayer to adjourn. Seconded by Weber. Motion carried.

Neil Granlund, Trustee
Acting Clerk

Some pet!

Tom Will, 10, and his brother Jim, 7, of 4411 Dora Lane, have an unusual pet, and they don't take it for walks. "Bo" is a three-foot boa constrictor, and the personal pet of Tom.

The snake lives in a heated cage in the boys' bedroom, directly across from another cage housing white mice. The white mice are being raised by Jim to please the appetite of Bo.

Bo won't always be three feet long. In another two years he will be more than likely be nearly eight feet long and weigh close to 50 pounds.

Tom and Jim are students at Proper Elementary School in Gingellville.

Hail, Columbus

"Columbus sailed the ocean blue in fourteen hundred ninety two. October 12, in '74, Columbus Day hails forth once more."

But did you know that the Clarkston Knights of Columbus, named after Christopher Columbus because he first brought Catholicism to the Americans, won't be able to do anything to honor Christopher this year?

Pope John the 23rd Council, 5436 Knights of Columbus, are too busy remodeling their hall on Maybee Road to celebrate Columbus Day. They will be having a Fall Harvest Ball this Saturday though, which will include a dinner and dancing, and perhaps be celebration enough.

The Knights have been busy remodeling the entire hall, adding 75 feet to the building and dropping the ceiling, among other things, since March.

They hope to complete their remodeling -- done largely by themselves -- by Nov. 3, but Grand Knight Raymond Smiecinski says it looks more like the work won't be done until next spring.

The Knights of Columbus is a community organization which welcomes anyone to join or use their facilities for community activities, Raymond said. The club's motto stresses "unity, fraternity, and patriotism," which includes a lot more than the goal of the first Knights of Columbus organization.

That K of C, begun in 1882 by Father McGivney in New Haven, Conn., was started as an organization to help widows and orphans of the McGivney parish.

But Raymond says you don't have to be Catholic to join now, and everyone is welcome to come enjoy the club's many activities.

Richard Peck surveys his undersea kingdom

New fish store offers 125 varieties

More than 125 varieties of fresh water tropical fish swim in a colorful undersea world at 3700 Sashabaw.

Richard Peck, owner of the recently opened Moby Dick store, says the fish and the business are the results of a hobby which just grew.

Dozens of tanks line the walls of the attractive Mansard roofed store, and the dim light and bright tank life transports a customer into another world.

Peck, who is owner and president of Consumer Film on Williams Lake Road, said the business resulted when he couldn't find a store where he could buy whatever he wanted.

He says Moby Dick, which is open seven days a week including noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays, now is one of the most complete tropic fish stores in Michigan.

Specimens, which come from all over the world and are shipped into warehouses in Detroit, include a fresh water sting ray, walking cats and red devils. Their home waters include Africa, Brazil, Australia and South America.

Peck is the kind of fish fan who likes to spend time with his customers filling them in on the background of the specimen's they choose. He has reference books galore.

"Most people who keep tropical fish start out too small," Peck believes. "They want $100 worth of equipment for $20. They'll buy a ten gallon tank, progress to a larger one, and finally end up with a 55-gallon tank, which they should have purchased in the first place. Meantime, they've bought expensive accessories for the various sized tanks, and they're stuck. We've got a time payment program to start them out on the way they should start out," he reports.

Peck obviously believes in quantity. Some 3,000 gallons of water provide the habitat for his colorful fish. He also believes in proper water temperature (78 to 80 degrees), the correct PH factor, the proper diet (without overfeeding) and proper filtration.

Some fish have lifespans of 25 years, he says, and he points to a large Oranda which swims in a queenly fashion in a thinly stocked tank.

"Fish grow according to their environment. If you put a baby in a box, it will grow stunted. The same applies to fish," he believes.

"Fish are a good hobby," he insists. "You can go away for a week and not worry. Automatic fish feeders can take care of your work."

Washboard band

Independence Center will sponsor a program by the Waterford Jaycees 1894 National Washboard Band November 2 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 5600 Maybee Road. Music, comedy and song starts at 9 p.m. Proceeds from the donations of $1.50, each will provide for the continuation of services at independence center. Tickets may be purchased at the center, The Clarkston News or from any board member.

CHS has active night life

Mrs. Richard Robertson, 75 Clarkston Road, goes through a typing exercise last Wednesday night.

Barb Bentley, instructor for the Clarkston Adult Education caning class, shows Jessie Glenn of Pontiac how to go about caning this chair. The class lasts six weeks.

Clarkston Civil Air Patrol cadets get a lesson on aircraft identification. The course began its first of five weeks of classes last Wednesday, to be held at the high school.

Monday it's English, political science, oil painting, chess club, first aid, and men's gym recreation. Tuesday it's astronomy, weight-watchers, sociology, and occasionally girls' basketball. Wednesday it's typing, caning, and psychology. Thursday it's historical geology, cake decorating, wood working, and flower arranging. And occasionally girls' basketball and JV football.

No, this isn't a day-time class schedule for a local school. It's a list of the activities currently scheduled for Clarkston High School at night.

The school is almost as busy at night as during the day, according to assistant principal Jan Gabier, who oversees the nighttime activities.

And there's more to come during the winter, she said, as the winter night schedule is usually heavier than the fall's.

And many groups also use the school for a meeting place. There's the Boosters Club, Artrain, the Junior Miss pageant, the CAP meetings—and many more.

But the problems of controlling the influx of the nighttime crowd are few and far between, Jan said.

The classes are part of Clarkston's Adult Education program, and many of the recreational activities are sponsored by the Independence Township Recreation Department.

COUNTRY LIVING

You're hanging your pictures too high, ladies

by Mary Warner

The biggest mistake women make when they decorate their homes is hanging their pictures too high, according to interior designer Stewart Nystrom.

"You should hang pictures no more than five or six inches above the furniture, so that a person can follow along the wall with his eye comfortably, without looking up," he advised.

Nystrom is an interior designer for the House of Maple on the Dixie Highway, and has spent many years with home furnishing stores and helping women and men decorate their homes.

Nystrom says women usually have no problem choosing the right colors for drapes, carpeting and wallpaper.

But he said people should strive for the collected look in furnishings, rather than buying all the couches, end tables, chairs, etc. with the same style design and wood.

Interior designer Stewart Nystrom canvassed one of the homes in the Clarkston area to help point out decorating do's and don'ts. The pictures include some "before" and "after" shots, and above all illustrate the fact that women don't have much trouble blending color and choosing the right drapes, wall paper and carpeting. They just need to know how to balance and contrast things better.

Furniture bought all together looks like it came out of the store, rather than from an integrated variety of the person's own tastes and living style, he said. Buying furniture all together also leaves little room for adaptation when people move to a new and different home, he said.

Nystrom would begin decorating a living room by first determining the size and shape of the room, looking for traffic patterns, and then picking out two or three basic pieces of furniture.

"You have to eliminate some wall and floor space already. You don't want anything in the way for someone to trip over."

Then Nystrom let the homeowner pick out the basic pieces letting them set the mood to their tastes. He said a lot of people are sticking to the traditional styles of furniture that don't date so easily, such as early American and Italian. "Eighty percent of the market nowadays is early American," he said. "Thus there are many more manufacturers of that style and you get a greater variety with a greater variety with a greater price range than other styles."

Nystrom said you have to consider things such as whether the home has children, no pets, a television set, or a family room, so that the decorator can plan things around the families style of living.

If the living room also serves as a television room, or if Dad has a special chair he reads his newspaper in, you should plan in accordance, including buying tables with storage space in them "so you can have built-in housekeeping." You should place near where reading will take place, and set the larger lamps farther along the outside of the walls and smaller lamps towards the center.

After you get the basic pieces, and assorted end tables and lamps, you begin the wall hangings and miscellaneous furnishings, he said.

"With pictures or wall groupings you should do three things," he said. "You must tie everything together, you must show something of the dwellers themselves, and should make them interesting for guests to look at."

"Over the sofa, the worst thing to do is hang one big picture—it looks like you're building blocks," he said.

You should put a wall grouping there and put up things that show what your family is like, he said. "For instance, you could use pieces of knick-knack wood, and if the husband fishes, take some of his tackle and mount it and frame it."

Nystrom suggests that the easiest way to hang a wall-grouping is to spread everything on the floor in front of the couch, arrange it a you like it, so that it looks in balance, and when the eye travels over everything uniformly, hang it in the exact position on the wall as you had it on the floor.

Nystrom warned that there is no rule of thumb for making accessory furnishings "right." "Your eye tells you everything. If it's jumping around and not relaxing, you want to eliminate that."

For the mix and match look, Nystrom says to follow a sense of balance, rather than uniformity of design. Many different styles of furniture can be put together if they are the right size for each other and the room they're in.

And you don't have to do it all at once, Nystrom says. You can keep on adding and changing things, according to your tastes and your pocketbook.

These two oval pictures are placed correctly for viewing from directly below the stairs. Nystrom points out. But another oblong hanging should be placed above them to add to the upward movement of the eyes created by the stairs.

"This room's beautiful," Nystrom announced when he saw the kitchen. Nystrom really liked the way the house has been rebuilt in the style of a rustic farm home, and only suggested that more hanging accessories be placed on the overhead beams.

Balance makes the difference

This before and after comparison shows what a little rearranging, plus the right knick-knacks, can add to furnishings. Nystrom added a round tablecloth and more flowers to the table, and transformed the bare piano with a delightful array of homey objects. He also suggested that the upper beam traversing the room would be perfect for the placement of a shelf for pictures and other collections.

This corner in the family room was transformed by adding a larger chair, taking away the trophies [the trophies could be placed on the living room shelf Nystrom proposed] and by adding a vertical wall decoration instead of the smaller picture.

COUNTRY LIVING

Nystrom changed this corner of the living room by taking down an over-sized picture and adding a pot of flowers. The stereo should really be moved out altogether and placed in the upstairs balcony, he said.

Nystrom suggested that since a couch sits kitty-cornered to this chair and picture, the chair and picture should be removed and a bureau be placed there.

Mugs hanging on one of the beams paraphernalia could be hung all the way around the kitchen on the beams, Nystrom said. He suggested that similar kitchen

Unplanned-for accessories have to be accounted for when you are choosing fabrics and planning decorating schemes.

LIVING

A planned bureau for this corner should not be placed there, Nystrom said. The stairs create an upward movement of the eyes that should not be broken by something horizontal. He suggested placing this rocker here, rather than in a corner suited to a horizontal piece of furniture.

Local stables gaining prominence

Huge stables lie nestled on the hill.

by Mary Warner

The "winningest horse stable this summer," which is the "most active, most successful and one of the top three dressage barns in the United States" is lying nestled in a hill in the Clarkston area.

And to prove their success, Cornerstone Farm just recently sponsored the winner of the national junior dressage championship for 1974—Cindy Miller of Birmingham.

The barn is destined for greater achievements, according to the owner of Cornerstone, David Lackey. Dave, who had a college degree in chemistry, but says he "wouldn't take half of what I'm making now to go back to chemistry," says he hopes to show some of his horses against the Olympic team next year.

Dave got his start in horses by first riding them in competitions when he was young. He went on to jumping, and won the United States Equestrian Team challenge trophy.

He later got into the training aspect, and trained with some of the best trainers in the United States and Europe—including Chuck Grant and Otto Heuchereth.

When Dave returned from four years as a chemist in Germany, he began his own horse operation, leasing part of Centaur Farms in Walled Lake. Lackey then built Cornerstone, and moved he and his family and 33 horses out there April 15.

Since then, the farm has flourished. In May, part of the farm's entourage of trainees and horses ran off with 35 per cent of all the dressage class winnings at the Chicagoland Dressage Show in Hinsdale, Ill.

The farm has a unique type of set-up, Lackey said, that may be the reason the stable has been so successful.

"Most stables are purely commercial," Lackey said. "Ours is set up as an educational enterprise—we have no beginners here, and we don't have school horses for beginners to ride on. One thing is to produce top quality horses and riders, that will someday compete in the Olympics."

The barn is used mostly for teaching dressage, an English style of riding where the rider and horse's movement is intricately bound in complex maneuvers.

Lackey has 42 horses altogether—most of them belonging to riders who board them with Lackey and contract with him to train the horses. He also has 22 people training under him, ranging from 13 years old all the way up to 55 years old.

A lot of the trainees are young girls, who sometimes come to spend the summer in the basement dormitory room set up in the basement of the Lackeys' home. The home and barn is situated right next to each other, which Lois Lackey, Dave's wife, thinks is ideal for the kind of work they're doing.

Lois lends a helping hand to Dave, having also been involved in riding and showing horses when she was young.

A possible future dressage champion is the Lackeys' son, two-year-old Carl. But Dave isn't going to push him into the horse business. "That's up to him—not me. He's going to make his own decision."

The Lackeys will be stepping up their training activities during the winter months. During the summer they are involved in a lot of shows. They plan to put on their own dressage shows next spring when the rings they are now building behind the barn are completed.

Training a horse and rider in dressage is a difficult sport, Dave said. "Horses have always been a difficult sport to understand," he said. "It's not a sport of kings and the rich. The guy that works the hardest gets the most."

A dressage rider must be a special person, he said. "It takes a great deal of self-discipline. The horse can only be as controlled as his rider—the horse will adapt to the degree of mental discipline the rider has. The rider must also be consistent, and mentally very stable."

Dave said the funniest thing about watching and teaching his pupils is that the pupils' desire to learn sometimes exceeds their readiness to proceed.

"It's so funny to watch doctors and lawyers make an attempt to do something they're not ready for, and then have to sit back and admit they can't do it yet."

"I tell them that nothing can ever be 100 per cent right," he said.

The Cornerstone group is very close to one another, according to Lois. They work as a team, and when it shows, they try to win for the stables as well as for themselves.

"That may be one of the reasons we win," he said. It also makes for some very jealous competition—something other stables will no doubt have to put up with increasingly as Cornerstone keeps growing.

Two-year-old Carl, son of Dave and Lois Lackey, plays with Shada with his mother in the dormitory.

Deanna Crane, 21, of Farmington, is the residing housemother for the visitors that stay in the Lackey's basement dormitory. Here she engages in her favorite past-time of reading with her favorite dog, Shada. Deanna also helps Dave in the stables.

Artrain book sale raises $150

More than 150 dollars was raised in the first two days of the Artrain's used book sale last Friday and Saturday. With the addition of several larger donations of fifty dollars or more, the Artrain Committee has now collected over 900 dollars.

The present total of funds raised represents about one half of the money needed to prepare for and sustain Artrain during its six day visit to Clarkston in November.

The book sale will continue on Main Street in Clarkston Friday and Saturday, October 11 and 12. Also offered for purchase will be old pictures which have appeared in The Clarkston News, and collections of old records.

Individuals and businesses wishing to donate money or services to Artrain, may contact Gwenn Phillips, general chairman of Artrain, at 625-1739, or Joan Kopietz, activities chairman, at 625-2511.

The Art of Carpeting & Draperies

by Ron Gray

Antique it! . . . the cry heard 'round the home. Lend a shaded and textured appearance to surfaces painted with one or more colored glazes. Turn old or unpainted furniture into the talk of your room. All it takes is a little time and lots of care and patience. Clean the piece and sand it lightly. Brush on undercoat of colored or wood tone paint. Work it well into wood, brushing with the grain. Do not flatten by cross brushing. Let it dry overnight. Brush a light, thin coat of color glaze over the surface and let it stand until tacky. Using cheesecloth, wipe glaze for shaded effect. Stroke long and straight with the grain and that's all—handsome!

New carpeting and draperies from CUSTOM CARPET INTERIORS, 6670 Dixie Hwy., Clarkston, 625-5229 can also be the talk of your room so stop by today and let us show you our fine selection. We will gladly come to your home or office to measure and give you a free estimate. "Quality carpeting and draperies at economical prices." Hours: Daily 10-9, Sat. til 6.

BY THE THIRD EYE

In an experiment recently I was handed the pictures of political candidates in unmarked coverings and asked to report what I saw.

The pictures, which we will not identify, were a scattering of state, county and local candidates. Not all were represented.

You might find it interesting to tie together some of the findings with the probable candidate.

This man lives in a white house with pillars or posts. There are children around and a blue or green, or maybe both, cars in the driveway. The man has a pot belly. He writes his signature with a flourish. Something is happening that involves water coming out of a pipe on the ground. His pocketbook is very thick. He wears a heavy ring. He might take money under the table.

I smell heavy perfume or cologne around this man. I feel very heavy—my head so full of knowledge. This person has to be into things deeply and is sometimes overbearing. He might suffer from some indigestion. There's a tree swing and deep dish apple pie and money in a money bag. I see him leaving in a cloud of disgrace.

This person has a good sense of humor. He's intelligent but his emotions rule more than his brains. He thinks a smile will get him everything.

There's a tornado funneling in this one's house. Disaster within. I see bags packed.

Enjoying the autumn countryside

This person is nervous, doodles a lot. Looks to books for reference. I see unhatched eggs, brown, scuffed oxfords and the tail end of a brown horse. There's a stuffiness in the nose—sinus.

The next one, I see coins pouring out. Somebody grabs and gets their hand slapped. More money is coming their way than they anticipate. They're very lucky. I also see an iron fist in a gold glove. This person is stronger than people give him credit for. I see boxes packed, and I feel there will be a lot of travel.

This person reminds me of pink baby roses. They're sweet, soft and gentle, but inside like granite. A strong will. They want no deviation from the straight and narrow, or else they suffer congestion and a hot burning sensation in the chest. There's a violin and a step-up job-wise.

This person is extremely psychic and I feel a beautiful future.

Dear Puzzled,

Indeed you are confused and wanting a rainbow that is not to be doesn't help.

There will be no future for the two of you that would be lasting. Keep your eyes forward to the future as there will be a tall blonde that will put a diamond on your finger. You will have the opportunity to have a long and happy life with him if you can curb your temper and jealousy. There will be no reason for either.

Thank you for letter, and God Bless.

Fire prevention week

by Mary Warner, phone 625-3370

This week is fire prevention week. No wonder people walking by me have started putting my cigarettes out for me. Smokey the bear must have been watching when I set a whole pack of matches on fire.

Seriously, Independence Township Fire Chief Tink Ronk says that 12,000 people are killed and 300,000 injured annually in fires in the US. A whopping 11 billion is lost in property damage, insurance and medical bills.

That's something to think about this week, as the fire hall is conducting their fire prevention programs in area schools and at the fire hall.

Tink says that many community groups are going through the fire hall, as they too are trying to promote fire safety.

The department is also conducting programs daily at all the elementary schools, this week, promoting an operation called "red ball", where the kids put stickers on their bedroom windows and doors to help firemen find them in case of fire.

Tink said children and elderly people are the largest group of fire victims.

The safety measures the department hopes people will incorporate in their home include fire extinguishers, fire alarms, and a planned evacuation route. The route would not be effective without home fire drills, though, he said and urged all families to conduct them monthly.

Herbert T. Baynes of Clarkston took his wife, Isabell, out to dinner and dancing Monday night. But it was no ordinary evening, as 450 Masons of the Bay City Consistory and their wives attended the dinner at Bay City. It was ladies' night, and the show included Sale.

big-time entertainment acts and a sit-down dinner served by high school girls.

Multi-Lakes American Business Women's Association has elected Barb Jacobson, president; Carmen Curtis, vice president; Marsha Ritter, recording secretary; Virginia Davanno, corresponding secretary; and Jo Göhl, treasurer. The group will meet for the program on flower arranging at 7 p.m. October 16 at Pontiac Country Club.

Laura L. Maas has been named a Merit Program Commended student by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, according to Clarkston High School Principal William Dennis. She is among the 38,000 commended students named on the basis of high performance on the 1973 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude test National Merit Scholarship. Qualifying Tests. Commended students are in the upper 2 percent of those who are expected to graduate from high school in 1974.

Scouts of Troop 49 enjoyed a spaghetti dinner October 1 at the American Legion on M-15 and then took part in a Court of Honor. About 50 scouts and their parents were present. Some of the boys and their dads then attended a Christian seminar October 4 through 6 at Camp Agawam in Orion Township. They're also planning a Camporee October 18 to 20 at Groveland-Oaks Park.

"Halloween costumes at a reasonable price" will be one of the featured attractions of the Mt. Bethel United Methodist Church annual Fall Harvest

The sale will be Thursday, Oct. 17 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the church, located on the corner of Jossman and Bald Eagle Lake Road in Groveland Township.

The sale will also include all sorts of "big and small things," including furniture, halloween costume materials, and "good country homemade baked goods."

Proceeds from the sale will be used for repair work needed on the church foundation.

Clarkston Junior High teacher Barb Tyrrell was honorary guest at a baby shower given her by friends Sally Granlund, MaryLynn Colwell and Sandra Deach Monday.

The shower was held at MaryLynn's house on Princess in Clarkston, with many of Barb's friends from the Junior High attending.

The shower was for seven-week-old Adam Tyrrell, who will be adopted by Barb and her husband Jim within the very near future. Adam will be the Tyrrells' first baby, and Barb plans to quit teaching until next fall to spend full time with Adam.

Barb is breaking in a substitute right now, and she has already resigned. Jim teaches also, only at Sashabaw Junior High. Good luck to them both on the new addition to their family.

Clarkston Women's Club members are (or should be, according to President Linda Irwin) busily preparing for the club's upcoming auction sale.

The sale will be held at the club's regular meeting Oct. 24 at 8 p.m. All visitors (and prospective customers) are invited to attend the auction, which will feature items handcrafted or baked by club members. Proceeds from the sale will be put into the club's general fund and doled out to various organizations.

Clarkston Senior High girls are busy gearing up for the Oct. 19 Powder Puff football game, and can be found huffing and puffing at pre-game practice. The girls are also preparing and speculating on the upcoming selection of the 1974 homecoming court. Court selections will be made this Friday, and final selections of queen, runner-up and so forth will be voted on the following Friday.

Probably the greatest day of the year for elementary schools is when the annual picture-taking day rolls around, according to Holly Stevens of Drayton Plains. Holly said her six-year-old son David went to school scrubbed and rubbed Tuesday for the occasion, and the picture-taking day "is probably the only day of the year everyone comes dressed up and scrubbed behind the ears." David goes to Sashabaw Elementary.

Steve Wheeler of Clarkston was one of 25 Olivet College Freshmen selected to participate in the annual freshmen fall retreat. The event was held September 27, 28 and 29 at Circle Pines Center in Delton, Michigan. Upperclass students and faculty were also included in the weekend activities which included discussion groups, skits, and general recreation.

Frank Crowley expected to host a group of well-wishers for his county commissioner's campaign at an open house Sunday afternoon at the Crowley's Deer Lake Road home.

Church sells cookbooks

Looking over the checkbooks they'll be selling to raise money for their new church are Ralph Claus, pastor of St. Trinity Lutheran Church, and Molly Hessler, president of the Ladies' Guild.

The cookbook is called "The Ladies' Guild Cookbook," and will be sold along with homemade baked goods and handicrafts at the Pontiac Mall Charity Bazaar Oct. 14-19.

The church will have a booth at the bazaar, and will be collecting money for the building fund for the planned church on Sashabaw Road near Pine Knob.

St. Trinity's is temporarily located at 5680 Andersonville Road now, and cookbooks can be ordered there or through members, in addition to the bazaar. Prices are $1.50 for the first edition and $2 for the second edition.

Evangelists at First Baptist

The Joe Talley Team of Greensboro, N.C. will be at the First Baptist Church, 5972 Paramus, Clarkston, nightly at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at the regular church services, beginning Tuesday October 15 through Sunday.

They will present a mini-concert during the Sunday school hour on Sunday.

Talley plays the trombone, banjo, and steel guitar. Mrs. Talley plays the piano and organ.

This musical team has recorded five record albums and their ministry has extended to nearly every state of the United States.

Rev. Clarence Bell, pastor of the church, has extended an invitation to evenings of good music and preaching.

Spiritual Message

A couple of weeks ago, I saw an example of new life -- Christians often call it resurrection -- in one of our schools. A number of parents were very upset when they heard of the possibility of their children being transferred from Bailey Lake to North Sashabaw Schools. They worked hard to influence a different decision and were deeply disappointed when the plan was adopted.

I did internal somersaults at the recent North Sashabaw open house when I overheard several of these parents talking to the principal. They weren't griping or complaining or "getting back" at him, but rather suggesting a new plan for teaching math that their youngsters had experienced before.

When people can put the welfare of others (in this case their children) above their own winning or losing, I call that an example of resurrection. Not dramatic or earthshaking, perhaps, but the everyday, on-going kind of new life God promises if we are open to him.

John, one of Jesus' close friends, put it this way, "The Word had life in himself, and this life brought life to men. The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has never put it out."

It's important to realize that this is an ordinary, every-day promise, as well as an extraordinary, last-day promise.

When we're faithful, one leads to the other.

Repeating our parents' lives

by James and Ellen Windell

A woman in therapy said recently, "Sometimes I feel like I'm living my mother's life all over again." She had married a man much like her father and her childhood, filled with unhappiness, now seemed like it was being repeated.

A man in his late twenties was concerned because he saw all of the things he disliked in his father becoming more and more a part of his own personality.

How can it be explained what we seem at times to be repeating aspects of our parents' lives? Sometimes it seems like a "repetition compulsion" which we must carry out, even against our will. It is almost like the old Biblical curse that the sins of the fathers being visited on the children.

Perhaps, this happens because we must unconsciously and in an almost competitive way repeat and even try to out-do our parents. Maybe, since we lived so closely with and so dependently on our parents in the early years, that we actually had no opportunity to learn alternative ways of coping with various aspects of life. If a person is depressed, for instance, it is a safe assumption that at least one of the parents was depressed.

Another way of understanding the phenomenon is to consider the "messages" that each of us receive from parents and other important adults in our lives. We receive "messages" from our parents because of their behavior which we observe and from what they say that we hear. Some messages may then register with us in terms of behavior ("Be anxious", "Be compulsive" or "Marry a wealthy man"), while others are registered as feelings or attitudes ("Don't get too close to others - you might get hurt," "Be independent," "Be depressed when things don't go well" or "Don't feel secure").

These messages are usually not actually spoken or told to the child, they are really the behavior and feelings of the parents which children come to see or feel as important. When a person feels he or she is "repeating" his or her parents' life, it is usually the result of carrying out these "messages." However, in a therapeutic situation a person can learn that these messages can be rejected or no longer followed.

Her own drawer

by Pat Braunagel

As I sat there in her kitchen drinking coffee, I had never realized how wonderfully selfish my friend Mary Ann is.

And then she stepped over to the counter and opened a drawer.

"This is a drawer," she said. "My drawer."

I could not argue with her logic. It was, in fact, a drawer.

It was the same drawer out of which I had seen her take scissors, address books, bits of yarn, scraps of aluminum foil, rulers, buttons and assorted other items for projects of her own or her offspring.

"But it's empty!" I exclaimed.

"Right. It's a drawer, my drawer, and that's what it's going to remain—a drawer."

"Empty?"

"Quite."

She stuck out her lip in a determined manner.

"I cleaned it, and it's going to be mine," she insisted.

Now, here is a woman who, as far as I can see, has never wanted for anything. She is well-fed, well-clothed, well-traveled.

Her husband never forgets a birthday or anniversary and is prone to throw in little love gifts for good measure.

Why she coveted an empty drawer was beyond me.

I, personally, could use another kitchen drawer or two for the odds and ends that seem to wander about the house leading lives of their own.

Where is the tape measure? Where has our tininess screw driver disappeared to? Where, oh where, is the masking tape?

"There's a place for everything," my husband insists, and that place generally is our solitary junk drawer.

If only the always-misplaced items could realize this.

The truth about Mary Ann's drawer finally hit me, although it took another full cup of coffee.

The empty drawer would serve as a magnet. Left unattended, it would attract the wandering objects which no one could find simply by using their wits.

Just as nature abhors a vacuum, so do these troublesome little tools and scraps view an empty drawer.

They'll find their ways back. The drawer will be full.

And all will be right with the world.

Driving costs rise 20% in year

It now costs Michigan motorists a whopping 20 percent more to own and operate an automobile than it did a year ago, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"With new car prices continuing to rise and gasoline increasing 13 to 16 cents a gallon in the last 15 months, it should not shock Michiganders that the expenses of driving and maintaining an auto have skyrocketed," states Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

"The cost of driving a full-sized, American-made car is 19.8 cents a mile compared to 16.5 cents per mile in 1973," Ratke points out.

"For the motorist who drives 10,000 miles annually, his operating expenses will be $1,980, a $333 increase over costs for a full-size auto last year," he adds.

An auto driven 20,000 miles will cost its owner $2,681, or about 13.4 cents per mile. The reason for the lower cents-per-mile figure at 20,000 miles is that fixed costs (insurance, depreciation and license fee) remain basically the same as for 10,000 miles.

Data on the expenses of operating a motor vehicle are included in the 1974 edition of the AAA pamphlet, "Your Driving Costs." The 19.8-cent figure is computed on 5.7 cents a mile for a variable costs (gas, oil and maintenance) and 14.1 cents a mile for fixed costs.

Auto Club points out that this year's driving costs are computed on driving a 1974, eight-cylinder four-door hardtop Chevrolet Impala with standard features, including automatic transmission, power steering, power disc brakes and radio.

"While persons buying some 1975 cars may find fuel economy, resulting in slightly reduced operating costs, this cost reduction will be more than offset by the higher prices of new models," Ratke states.

The recently released booklet also compared operating costs for various size cars in both low-cost (rural) and high-cost (urban) areas.

For example, motorists driving in Michigan's less populated areas will find the cost of owning and operating a full-sized car 16.4 cents a mile, or 3.4 cents per mile less than drivers in such cities as Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids and Lansing.

Based on annual mileage of 10,000, it costs approximately 12.1 cents per mile to operate a compact, six-cylinder model car in a low-cost area and 17.9 cents a mile to drive the same vehicle in a high-cost location.

Motorists can figure an additional 20-cents-per-day increase in operating costs for air conditioning.

The booklet also points out that motorists interested in improved fuel economy should consider weight as the greatest fuel penalty, ranging from one to two percent for every 100 pounds.

"In urban and suburban driving, the fuel economy of a 5,000-pound car is about 50 percent lower than that of a 2,500-pound vehicle," says Ratke.

Air conditioning and automatic transmission further increase the fuel economy penalties. The average loss in fuel economy from air conditioning is about nine percent, but it can be as much as 20 percent with stop-and-go driving in hot weather. An automatic transmission can reduce fuel economy by as much as 15 percent.

The use of radial tires can improve mileage from three to 10 percent with steel-belted radials generally producing the better mileage.

A recent Auto Club fuel economy test showed that good driving habits also are essential to fuel economy. Driving at a steady speed of 50 miles per hour on highways instead of 60 or 70 miles per hour can improve fuel use by 15 and 25 percent, respectively.

Senior citizens keep up on the news at monthly gatherings of the Pioneer Club.

He doesn't know what to do with it yet, but James Jennings, 7653 Foster, does know how much this giant squash weighs—77 pounds. Jennings grew the squash in his large garden at the back of his house, and said the man he bought it from called it an Indian squash.

But Greg Patchan, horticulture agent for the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, says the squash sounds more like a "Hungarian mammoth," a squash that can grow up to 100 pounds. The squash is said to be "great for country fairs."

This notice was actually posted in an American factory in 1872 as a policy statement for employees of the Mount Cory Carriage and Wagon Works. Effective Sept. 15 the following rules will apply:

1. Office employees will daily sweep the floors, dust the furniture, shelves and show-cases.

2. Each day fill lamps, clean chimneys, and trim wicks. Wash the windows once a week.

3. Each clerk will bring a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's business.

4. Make your pens carefully. You may whittle your nibs to individual tastes.

5. This office will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. daily except on the Sabbath, on which day it will remain closed. Each employe is expected to spend the Sabbath by attending church and contributing liberally to the cause of the Lord.

6. Men employees will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if they go regularly to church.

7. After an employe has spent 13 hours of labor in the office, he should spend the time reading the Bible and other good books while contemplating the Glories and building up of the Kingdom.

8. Every employe should lay aside from each pay a goodly sum of his earnings for his benefit during his declining years, so that he will not become a burden upon the charity of his betters.

9. Any employe who smokes Spanish cigars, uses liquor in any form, gets shaved at a barbershop, of frequents pool and public halls, will give me a good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity and honesty.

10. The employe who has performed his labours faithfully and without fault for a period of five years in my service, and who has been thrifty and attentive to his religious duties, is looked upon by his fellowman as a substantial and law abiding citizen, will be given an increase of five cents per day in his pay, providing a just return in profits from the business permits it.

Just to show you how things get lost on my desk, on May 30, 1971 Stimson Travis brought in the following article:

This notice was actually . . .

The United States was born of the conviction that government was the people's business and responsibility. Now it may be dying from the belief that the people are the government's business and responsibility.

The government tells us what cereal to eat, what we can drive, where our kids will go to school, what they will think and where we can live.

One third of the people in the United States work for some level of the government. Close to one third are on welfare of some description. The other third of the nation's population is producing to support the first two thirds. Is anyone tired?

Ronald Weber, retiring member of the Board of Education, has produced a 1906 picture of the Clarkston Station baseball club. The players are identified as Owen Vergin [from left, standing] C. Horn, William Rockwell, Captain B. Barnes, S. G. Morgan [father of Dick Morgan of Clarkston's Marathon Station], and seated from left, H. Burt, R. Spencer, Oscar Vergin [who was director of the Clarkston Station School District], G. Morgan, Tim McNamara and J. Horne.

Springfield-Oaks antique show

They came...
they saw...
they bought

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bach of Northville considered themselves fortunate to find a 1906 wooden box intact. The box, once used to ship embalming fluid, will be a Christmas gift for their son, a Boston pathologist who collects bitters bottles and needs something to keep them in.

Taking a respite in a rocker among the hustle in her area of the Springfield-Oaks Antique Show is Norma Barry of Southfield. Business and browsing was brisk at the show which wrapped up the antique season at the county facility. Dealers from all over southern Michigan and parts of Ohio have brought their wares to the shows.

A Royal Oak couple, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Pollard, leave the Springfield-Oaks Antique Show Sunday with their acquisition, a tiny wicker rocker. The Pollards were among the last crowd of the season to attend the show, which had been drawing an average of 2,000 persons on the first Sunday of each month since July.

Eight-year-old Sarah Hallett and her mother Mrs. Douglas Hallett of Holly cast wistful eyes on a collection of bisque dolls at the Springfield-Oaks Antique Show Sunday.
