Planning ordinance considered

Independence Township Planning Commission is expected to take action on a new master zoning ordinance and map at a public hearing at 7:30 tonight (October 24) at the township hall.

The ordinance and map must still be approved by the township board before it becomes legal.

Controversial aspects of the plan have been worked out since a first public hearing last March. Individual objections have been considered and some changes made.

Businessmen of the area have been mollified by a sliding scale to control sign sizes, which will permit a maximum of 100 square feet of display space in front of their businesses.

Animal control has evolved mainly in the form of an ordinance controlling the physical aspects of maintaining livestock. With sufficient property, a landowner will be able to keep animals (providing they are properly housed and maintained) within any zoning classification.

Zoning for the north end of Deer Lake will be fixed at one and a half acre single family lots with multiples and commercial toward the Dixie Highway. A Circuit Court suit against the township regarding the development was recently dismissed.

Several study sessions have resulted in refining of details for that part of the ordinance, which will control development of a planned retirement community on the township's easterly edge.

To be designated as R-3, a new classification, the one square mile can be developed as single family attached at the same density as regular residence. It will however permit a special option for a retirement community at a little higher density.

Leisure Technology Inc. of New Jersey has been negotiating for months to provide a retirement facility which will have recreational facilities valued at $3 million. They will include a golf course, swimming pool, private lake and the village's own internal radio and television stations.

Total value of the proposed community is well over $100 million, according to Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

Age restrictions will be handled as covenants on the plats, rather than being spelled out in the ordinance. The property will be platted under the state's condominium or "horizontal" plat act, Vandermark noted.

The fact that this is the first such development in Michigan has caused the need for proceeding with extreme legal care, Vandermark said.

Where not to hunt in Township

One of the main characteristics of hunting in Independence Township appears to be confusion.

Both the township police services department and recreation department are receiving frequent calls involving hunting, the primary problem being where hunting is allowed in the township.

Director of Police Services Jack McCall emphasized that no person other than the property owner or occupant can discharge a firearm or bow and arrow within 450 feet of a dwelling or associated building.

Also off-limits is school property.

McCall said a man carrying a gun, presumably a hunter, recently was seen on the Bailey Lake School Property, where some 400 youngsters were playing during recess. An immediate search for the man proved futile, but caused moments of concern by the police and school personnel.

In addition, all of the dark areas on the accompanying map are closed to hunting. The cross-hatched areas -- county and township parks -- are those for which hunting bans now are being sought.

McCall said that a license is required for all hunting in the state, except for persons pursuing small game on their own enclosed farmland.

"You must have your hunting license with you when you carry or transport a gun, slingshot, or bow and arrow in areas where there are wild birds and wild animals," according to state law. "No license is required to carry or transport your gun or bow (unstrung) to a recognized target, trap or skeet range, if it is enclosed and fastened in a case, or locked in the trunk of your car."

Deer Lake case 'far from dead'

By Pat Braunagel

The Oakland County Circuit Court rezoning case involving proposed development at the north end of Deer Lake, which was dismissed by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore, could be back on the legal battleground, as early as next week.

"We will take appropriate action to get the case going again at the earliest possible time," said Joseph Galvin, attorney for Hubert Garner, one of the plaintiffs, who has been suing Independence Township to rezone property for a 372-acre development.

Mahlon A. Benson Jr. of Pontiac, president of the defunct Deer Lake Development Incorporated which has been the other plaintiff in the case, also vowed the matter soon will be back in court.

Moore dismissed the circuit court case Oct. 17 because ownership interest in the case was not proven.

Independence Township Attorney Thomas Plunkett asked that the names of the owners be submitted, a request made on three previous occasions.

When the names were not supplied, Moore dismissed the suit, which has been pending since January.

At the request of attorney Jack Banycky, who now is representing Benson, Moore dismissed the case without prejudice, allowing it to be refiled or started again.

"We thought the property was sold," Benson said, referring to the options Garner holds on it. "The attorney didn't notify me of the hearing, and had I been there I would have told them."

Benson said the owners of the property, besides himself, are Ed McNamara of West Bloomfield Township, John Smith of Elkton, Dr. John Maara of West Bloomfield, Earl Sullivan of Detroit and Lloyd Kirby of Clarkston.

Galvin said Garner holds options from Deer Lake Development Incorporated, a Michigan corporation defunct as of May 15, 1971. The last agent of record was Kirby, with officers, being listed as Benson, McNamara and John C. Helveston Jr. of Clarkston.

While plaintiffs are claiming the suit is far from dead, another out-of-court negotiating session was set up for October 23.

Scheduled to attend the summit meeting were Garner, township officials, attorneys for both of these parties and Louis Basso, a lawyer representing various homeowners' groups who have entered the case.

"We're going to find out where we are, if anywhere," said Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark. "We just can't discuss the options at this point (before the meeting)."

"It's obvious that someone still owns the land and intends, at some point in time, to make use of it," he said. "I've doubted for a long time that Mr. Garner was the controlling party."

Vandermark commented he also hoped "to meet with homeowners and our attorneys to decide where we're at in view of the Judge's favorable ruling."

"Dismissal of this case makes us all very happy," he said. "We should all be aware that the property is still there. The owners will someday want to do something with it. It will be to all residents' advantage to determine what this use will be and how best to coordinate the possible uses with the surrounding land uses."

Meetings on the proposed development has been held on-and-off since the court case started. To aid in their battle, the township hired James Ginn, an attorney who specializes in zoning matters.

"However, it's difficult to carry on any negotiations when you don't know who you're talking to," Vandermark commented.

"They may try to refile the case, but at this point in time it's difficult to tell whether they have any case," he said.

He noted he was optimistic that Moore's ruling would have an effect favorable to the township on a civil rights case Garner and Deer Lake Development Incorporated filed to collect $1 million in damages.

The next hearing in federal district court is scheduled for Nov. 4.

Also having bearing on the matter will be a 7:30 p.m. planning commission hearing Thursday, Oct. 24, at which a new zoning ordinance for the township will be considered.

Vandermark noted that almost half of the 372 acres now is zoned agricultural, with three acres designated for commercial, 43 acres for multiple residential and the rest in single family and suburban farms.

The proposed zoning map for the area bounded by Dixie Highway, I-75, Holcomb Road and Deer Lake calls for three acres of commercial property on Dixie, about 27 acres of multiple residential near the expressway and the balance in one-and-a-half acre residential lots.

Artrain gifts exceed $1,000

Donations for Artrain have now surpassed the one thousand dollar mark according to Gwenn Phillips, General Chairman for Artrain. The latest contributions which pushed the totals over a thousand were twenty five dollars from the Waterford AAUW and fifty dollars from the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club.

Several members of the Artrain Committee, including Mrs. Phillips, traveled to Brighton for the grand opening of Artrain as it returns to Michigan from its tour of the southeastern states. The first lady of Michigan, Mrs. William G. Milliken, welcomed Artrain back to Michigan as she cut the ribbon prior to the public meeting being allowed to tour the train.

Artrain will be in Brighton until October 21 after which it travels to Hudsonville to open for six days beginning October 25, 1974.

Vets Day -- take your choice

There seems to be a bit of confusion regarding the observation of Veteran's Day this year.

The U.S. Legislature changed Veteran's Day from November 11 to the fourth Monday in October recently. That was done to give working people another three-day weekend.

However, Michigan is one of the 40 states that has passed a law returning Veteran's Day to the original November 11 date.

Post offices, since they are federally controlled, are observing October 28 as Veteran's Day and will be closed.

Independence Township offices will close November 11 conforming to the Michigan celebration date. Several banks called by The News also said they will be closed November 11.

But, Springfield Township offices will close October 28.

The general procedure seems to be that federal offices will observe October 28 as Veteran's Day while local government offices will observe November 11.

Fencing

Springfield okays 3 plat plans

A trustee's view

Among the lesser-known duties of township trustees which candidates for the office have not commented on is fence viewing.

Both admitted they are unfamiliar with the 1846 state law which covers the matter.

"I can tell you one thing -- Bob Kraud's not going to sit on any fences," said the Republican candidate for the available Independence Township trusteeship.

"I'd rather be a fence mender," commented Fred Ritter, his Democratic opponent.

Keith Humbert, the retiring trustee, suggested the statutory method as a means of arbitrating some of the issues which come before the zoning board of appeals, like a recent one involving animals.

Kraud, a member of the board of appeals, said he could remember no case in which fence viewing by trustees would have solved an issue.

Ritter noted there are civil engineers and surveyors to deal with property line disputes.

The usefulness of the law, which dates back to homesteading days, came under question at last week's township planning commission meeting.

Humbert noted that the law provides that each trustee be paid $5 to view a fence, while the fee for a board appeals hearing is $45.

Supervisor Robert Vandermark got out A manual for Township Government which noted that "perhaps one of the more unusual, sometimes controversial duties of a township trustee is when he is required by law to serve as a fence viewer to resolve differences regarding fences and property lines.

"Line disputes are perhaps responsible for more emotional, even hysterical, reaction on the part of aggravated landowners than any other problem."

Later on, the manual advises: "A trustee-fence viewer must learn the true meaning of patience, tolerance and understanding, develop a good sense of humor and be able to arrive at decisions which are equitable, just, fair and impartial as well as economically feasible to the disputants. All this for $5.00 a day while pursuing his/her duties as a fence viewer!"

Trustee Jerry Powell was questioned on the matter later.

"I've been waiting for two years," he said. "I have yet to have anyone offer me $5 to view a fence."

Springfield Township Planning Commission has approved three final preliminary plats for single family developments in the township.

At the commission meeting last week, Alfred Salter received a go-ahead for development of 10 lots on 9.1 acres on Hillsboro Road.

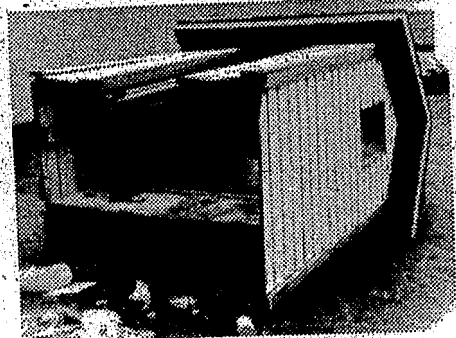

Morgan Investment Co. plans, presented by Salter, for 26 acres at Big Lake and Bridge Lake Road were also approved. They call for 12 lots on the parcel to be known as Springfield Estates.

Keift Engineering also won approval for owner Darrel Adams to proceed with development on Englewood Meadows off Rinke in the Big Lake - Dixie area. Forty-one lots on 25 acres are planned.

Robert Cavanaugh, who previously received the commission's recommendation for rezoning to commercial of 7.5 acres on the Dixie Highway south of Rattalee Lake Road was asked to clear up a legal description. He plans a new Four Seasons Inn and a small shopping center at the front of the property, and the county coordinating committee pointed out that the easement giving access to the rear of the property is not wide enough. The matter has been tabled for further owner action before going to the township board.

A public hearing has been called for 8 p.m. November 19 in regard to a rezoning of frontage on a former gravel pit owned by Al Valentine on Andersonville Road, between Farley and Big Lake roads.

The land was previously platted for residential, but was rezoned to heavy manufacturing at the time the gravel pit was in operation. Valentine proposes to build homes on reclaimed land there, according to Todd Kilroy, township planner.

Don't burn those leaves!

The easiest way may be to burn those leaves that clutter yours and your neighbor's lawn, but the Independence Fire Department reminds residents to do so is illegal.

Under terms of the Environmental Control Guidelines for the Air Pollution Control Act No. 348 of the State of Michigan, the local Fire Prevention Code and ordinances as related to burning, open burning is restricted.

Bag them and banish them is the Fire Department's advice.

GUIDELINES FOR BURNING IN INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP

1. Any type of burning is not allowed unless disposal of material poses real hardship on owner.
 2. Anyone meeting the requirements to burn must have a permit from the Fire Department to do any type burning other than in an approved burner.
 3. If burning is objectionable to any other person because of the hazard created by the fire or a health hazard caused from the smoke and gases, it is to be discontinued immediately.
 4. All burning is to terminate and be completely extinguished by dark.
 5. A fire extinguisher of adequate size or a garden hose charged by a water system either residential or municipal type capable of extinguishing the fire shall be at the point of burning until all evidence of fire has been eliminated.
 6. Any permissible burning of materials shall be kept in small piles for burning.
 7. The only materials that can be burned or a permit issued to burn are: leaves, scrap wood, brush and tree trimmings.
 8. The only materials to be burned in an approved burner are: waste paper, leaves, scrap wood, brush and tree trimmings.
 9. No garbage or the likes shall be burned at any time.
 10. All domestic burners must have a screen type lid to protect from flying sparks.
 11. There is absolutely no burning of any type, allowed on commercial, multiple or industrial properties at any time.
- For special problems related to the burning code, the Fire Department of Independence Township should be contacted.

Time lapse

by Jean Saile

In the mad, young days of our youth, Jim and I vowed we'd throw all the clocks away.

After all, he was an artist and I was a writer, weren't we? And creativity should not be hounded or bounded by clocks, right?

We would do our things as the spirit moved us, we said, and even as we talked we knew we dreamed.

It wasn't clocks that made the first inroads on our self-satisfying bliss. It was babies, and we found out we still didn't need clocks.

The baby told us when to get up, when to go to bed and even performed the additional service of waking us up in the middle of the night.

Another baby followed, and we were doubly timed. Babies need houses to grow up in, backyards to play in, and we even found out eventually that they needed two cars in the driveway.

Houses mean mortgages and cars mean money, and creativity cannot be turned on to produce a flow of cash. The muses of art and writing do not move to coincide with incoming bills.

And so we came to depend on the alarm clock that woke us for work, the kitchen clock that told us what time to send the kids off to school, what time to expect them back, and what time to get to the dentist.

I still do not like clocks, and when a free day comes I tend to ignore them as much as possible. To spend four untimed hours reading the Sunday papers and working the crossword puzzles is my idea of luxury. Dinner comes at no specific time—only after crosswords.

The release of time is due to be an even bigger thing next Sunday, October 27. That's the day we all set our clocks back an hour to coincide with the return to Standard time.

There's an extra hour to be had there. I may spend five hours on the Sunday papers, and then again, I might practice the piano or start the front of the sweater whose back has long since been knitted.

The powers that be have given me a gift, and I intend to enjoy it to the fullest.

If the weather is nice and the sun is warm, I may even "waste" it sitting out in the backyard dreaming—of youth and days not blocked into time segments and the things we might have done had it not been for clocks.

FRIGHT

by Brenda Hopson

One night a while back I was watching a vampire play. The lights were out; the house was black.

As I watched him stalk his prey. His movements were so perfect; His shadow stayed unseen. And in his eyes I could detect A harsh, sadistic gleam. I watched him kill a woman; He drank her blood. What gore! When he was done

He said, "What Fun!" And killed a couple more. My eyes were wide with fear; It was so real, you see I felt that he was near. In the house, alone with me. I turned the TV off; The house was still and dark. I thought I heard a cough. Then my dog began to bark. I'd shut him in the bathroom. And forgotten he was there. When I'd thought to be my doom Was just a silly scare. I'd seen the movie twice. What was I so scared for? I thought, "Twas only Vincent Price," Then I locked the bedroom door.

Watch out for pheasants

by Jim Fitzgerald

What Jim Sparling may not understand is that the pheasants are getting away, for lord's sake. Something has got to be done before this nation is overrun with rampaging ringnecks.

It is a fine thing for Sparling to be against gun controls. But what this country really needs is a law requiring every citizen to own a gun and to kill at least 1 animal per week. Otherwise, they'll soon be a 10-point buck crowding in front of you in the A&P checkout line.

Sparling is a Republican candidate for congress from my district. He recently told a Michigan Deer Hunters meeting: "Firearms don't kill people, people do."

Strip off the back of his conservative gray suit and he'll stick to any bumper.

Sparling was speaking in Lapeer but he gave no indication he was aware of the great danger nearby. He wasn't even wearing a pistol.

Probably his dumb aides hadn't told him about the marauding pheasants taking over the State Game Area just a few short miles north of where he stood, unarmed. Otherwise, he would have sounded a warning: "Firearms don't harvest pheasants, people do. And you'd better get busy."

The Mich. Dept. of Natural Resources (DNR) started the trouble with its Put and Take program. The DNR breeds thousands of pheasants and then releases them at various locations so hunters can harvest them. As I pointed out last year, the hunters wear bibtop overalls, carry pitchforks and drive Allis-Chalmers tractors. Back on the farm, the hired man is shooting wheat.

Put and Take worked fine last season. The DNR told harvesters when and where the pheasants would be released; so attack plans could be made in advance. In our area one weekend, it was possible to muster 3,500 harvesters against 250 pheasants. Under these conditions, the territory was secured quickly with no enemy surviving. The only casualty among the harvesters occurred when an infantryman ran up against a particularly stubborn flip-top beer can and cut a knuckle.

But something subversive infiltrated the DNR this year. Perhaps it all started when a park ranger was scratched by a Communist squirrel. Anyway, an un-American decision was made. There is now no prior announcement of exactly when the pheasants will be released. The invasion can come at any time, without warning. There is no way the harvesters can be prepared. They can't man the fort 24 hours every day. After all, this is a volunteer army and even the most patriotic harvester must spend some time earning a living, helping the hired man shoot wheat.

The fearful result is not surprising. In our game area, a pheasant survival rate of 40% and even 50% a week has been reported. This means almost as many pheasants are staying Put as are being Took. There may well be an escaped pheasant flapping around your home right now, as you read these very words.

This is happening despite the heroic efforts of a few harvesters who have been tracking the trucks that deliver the pheasants to the game areas. A DNR driver recently complained to a newsman: "They're just like hounds. Everytime I go to Put some pheasants, there they are with their shotguns, ready to harvest."

That's good news, of course. But it isn't enough. The DNR has lots of trucks. Many more tracking harvesters are needed. And they must be trained and financed. It is not enough that men like Sparling fight gun controls. What this nation needs is legislation requiring a machine gun in every window and a bullseye on every animal.

Otherwise, there'll be a pheasant in the White House some day.

Letters to the editor

Patrick responds

I am glad Bob wants things aired -- they need to be.

Zoning: Where was a township dump provided? He knew about the County Plan before taking office in 1972, but did nothing. He even prevented the Planning Commission from taking action. He demanded over a Half Million Dollars from a developer, Leisure Technology. This was thwarted by our Democratic Trustee. This would have been another Watergate. He boasted he would make outside developers go out with tears in their eyes. A good development must stand on its merits for the Community, not how well they can cry.

The park, grants, paving of Pelton Road, were all done by the previous Democratic Board. It is nice to fall heir to these things. Remember voting on the park while our present Supervisor was Tax Assessor and working to reassess the whole township?

Finance: The present Supervisor has used our time and money to take financial courses. There is no surplus -- the township hall is a fire trap. No money is available to fix it, although he spent $3,500 with a friend to study the advisability of buying Hawke Tool. We got took! Also we may have to borrow this year like we did last year to pay bills. This is called deficit spending, not "surplus".

Sidewalks? Paid for in part by a developer to appease residents of Clarkston Gardens so the developer could build apartments. Again the idea and ground work was laid before he took office.

Law Suits? The Deer Lake $1,000, 000 suit would never be, except he took action against the advice of the attorney and without the knowledge of the township board. The Supervisor alone must take full credit for it. If he had listened to the Democratic Trustee and the people, much money could be saved to fix up our fire trap of a township hall. (Ask our Fire Chief about it. If there was a way out, he would condemn it).

Fire, Police? Two mill fire, and one mill police tax are doing the job he takes credit for. I resent a politician taking credit for doing what my taxes are doing.

Professionalism? Well, the people hired by your tax dollar have increased from 21 when he took office, to 34 at present. Thirteen new employees is a 59% increase in people, your taxes are paying for. Of course there is no political hassling. Those local "Decision Makers" who used to run the township are well on their way back in. You don't kick a dog that brings your pipe and slippers (Clarkston Village please take note what happened before, particularly around Deer Lake, because of the "Decision Makers", join with the township to stop these people.)

My program? Re-evaluate our spending for goods and services. Use the good office of Supervisor to work for tax relief that has to come from Lansing. The Michigan Townships Association will help. I am afraid that I can't afford the taxes on my own home after I retire. Instead of taking credit for programs I inherited, bleeding developers, not listening, and making promises. I intend to make inroads into the prime cause of inflation, and Government Spending (like increasing the payroll 59% in two years.)

William Patrick
Candidate for Supervisor,
Independence Township

Cronyism charged

To the editor --

After four years as trustee, my biggest complaint has to be procrastination and cronyism.

The county landfill proposed for out M-15 was known about by the present supervisor for years. I kept asking about SEMCOG, the landfill, etc. So we wind up paying the township engineers overtime to do a study when we have our back to the wall. I believe we spent $12,000.

My pet project is protecting our investment in the township hall. This place could have been made safer if we hadn't wasted our hard earned tax dollars on this and similar projects.

A fire hall is needed at Walters Lake. No progress to report.

Cronyism and waste is the only way to describe the Hawk Tool building study. The supervisor's friend put the supervisor's ideas in a report at a cost of $3,500 that was an insult to all of us taxpayers.

The cost of the electricity stolen by the court is to be borne by us taxpayers. Nothing seems to get done -- $5,000 down the drain.

Pine Knob noise and traffic is still bad. I enjoy Pine Knob. It is an asset to the community, but the problems need more than hand wringing and furnishing a crying towel to the residents that have their private property violated.

Claude Trim, the good Democratic supervisor of Springfield Township, shut off the rock music problem after just one episode. He did such a good job, he is well on the way to capturing the House of Representatives seat in Lansing.

I put well over a dozen items on the agenda several months ago. These vital issues had lain dormant for months. I was promised the moon, so far I haven't seen the piece of green cheese. The building department is overstaffed and we foot the bill.

Does anyone care? Don't look at Washington and Watergate, look to our own local spending and government. We deserve better.

As a last note, watch this ad valorem sewer tax. My advice is this must be spread all over the township: Allen Road, Walters Lake, Waterford Hill, etc. We are about broke.

Can the Democrats solve the problem? The present board hasn't done it. The Democrats seem to be our only hope.

Powell recommends --

Dear Editor:

With election time just a short time away, I would like to encourage the voters of Independence Township to vote for all of the local Republican candidates.

Bob Vandermark, Ed Glennie and Betty Hallman have, in my judgement, served our township well since their election in 1972 to their present positions. The current board has acted at all times with the good of the entire township in mind, not just a few special interest groups.

The sidewalk project, road graveling and the road chloride program are just a few of the expanded services the current board has provided to the "forgotten areas" of our township. Legal fees are high and will continue to be high as long as the township board has the guts to protect the community's rights, as well as allow an individual a reasonable use of his land.

While serving on the zoning board of Appeals during the past two years it has been my pleasure to serve with Trustee candidate Bob Kraud. During that time Mr. Kraud has shown a keen interest in the problems and desires of individual property owners while keeping the overall interests of our township in mind. He has served well and will continue to serve well when elected.

Keep in mind while voting November 5th: "As ye sow, so shall ye reap." Vote Vandermark, Glennie, Hallman and Kraud.

Jerry E. Powell
Trustee

Glennie is favored

To all those concerned --

The time has come when we should express ourselves concerning those persons whom we feel conscientiously and efficiently serve us in doing the job we elect them to do.

That is why I choose Ed Glennie as the person to elect for the position of township clerk in this coming election. He is not only a person living in your community that you can trust, but he also has had the kind of experience in the work he is doing for the township that makes him more knowledgeable and capable of doing a good job for all of us.

This same opinion not only applies to Ed Glennie, but also Robert Vandermark, as township supervisor and Betty Hallman as township treasurer.

These people I know personally and wish to recommend to you for election to these offices.

Dear Springfield Township Residents:

On Tuesday, November 5th, we will again be given the opportunity to make our wishes known at the polls. Especially in times like we are now living through, this is an opportunity and an obligation that we cannot take lightly. In my opinion, one of our most important decisions will be who we choose to lead us as our Township Supervisor.

I have known Glenn R. Underwood for several years, and have worked with him professionally. From my experience, I know that he will work to the best of his ability on behalf of the township and its residents. When you compare the education, training and experience of the candidates, it is easy to see why I urge you to support Glenn R. Underwood.

I urge you to vote for the Experienced candidate with PROVEN Leadership and Management abilities: Vote for Glenn R. Underwood.

Sincerely,
Collin W. Walls

Horton support

Dear Editor:

I would like to pass on to the voters in Springfield Township that I personally support Mr. Glenn R. Underwood for Springfield Township Supervisor in the November 5th election.

Now that the primary election is over it's the people's decision to choose the best man for Township Supervisor, and not a party decision!

Glenn R. Underwood is the best qualified for that job. The voter is capable of making that individual decision based on a comparison of the candidates personal qualifications rather than his party affiliation. My primary opponent was able to understand my personal decision while others have accused me of being a traitor to the Democratic party. I am not changing my party but voting my convictions.

It is the personal obligation of the voter to make an unbiased decision based on the candidate's qualifications. Please compare them and make your vote count November 5th at the polls in Springfield Township.

A Democrat for Glenn R. Underwood

Disputes Vandermark Seniors thank coaches

Re: Vandermark's letter of 10/16/74. I would like to discuss some of the remarks Mr. Vandermark made and also some things that he did not.

(1) The Zoning Map is a farce. There are too many errors on it to list here.

(2) Rebuilding of gravel roads - The only thing done was to dump fresh gravel. This has now been pushed aside by the traffic and we are right back to "wash board" surfaces. A planned paving program is what is required.

(3) The recreation department is costing $12,000.00 per month VS income of $4,600.00. These costs have skyrocketed.

(4) His township park, most of it swamp, will cost a fortune to put in condition for public use. It will be ideal for the uncontrollable patrons of Pine Knob who can then spill out of the Knob and into our handy park to continue their nights of debauchery.

How Nice!

(5) Substantial surpluses - Vandermark's regime has not had a balanced budget yet. Without the "hand outs" from Lansing and Washington, the township would be $400,000.00 a year in the red.

Why do we need these funds? Why can't we live within our means? This "comeback" money is not free. It comes from the excessive income taxes we pay these two authorities.

(6) Legal fees. Vandermark claims a reduction of 40%. Sounds great, doesn't it? He refers to legal fees for year ending 3/31/73 VS 3/31/74. Since 4/1, the expenses are at the rate of $4,350.00 per month. At that rate the 40% has vanished.

(7) Police service. True, it going to cost us $72,000.00 for four deputies but I haven't noticed any decrease in juvenile delinquency, vandalism, breaking and entering, etc. I never see a patrol car, our enforcement officer or director. They must be confined to Main Street and the coffee shop.

(8) Professional conduct. The conduct is fine but the professionalism is sadly lacking.

(8A) I feel the present Clerk and Supervisor's "track record" for the two years they have been in office indicates they were not qualified to fill their offices. At every turn they have needed "experts" to guide them often expert on top of expert. They have created unnecessary political jobs and expense and it is the taxpayer who has to suffer for their shortcomings.

What was not mentioned: additions of new personnel costing the township $160,000.00 in salaries plus estimated fringe benefits of $40,000.00. How can he justify this?

(9) We are in the midst of rampant inflation. I feel Government is the Chief cause of it. Whether it is in Washington, Lansing, Oakland County or Independence Township, our Nation is being bankrupted by the reckless spending of taxpayers money. The policy of "tax and tax and spend and spend" is all the go.

(9A) If our nation is to survive it is

To the Editor:

As you know the Seniors trounced the Juniors in the Annual Powderpuff Game by a score of 31-14. But without the help of our coaches - Mr. Rosso, Mr. Webster and Mr. Hartwell, we would have been rolled over like bowling pins!

Our defensive coaches, Larry Rosso, and Howard Webster took a bunch of weaklings and made tigers out of them! We held the juniors to only 2 touchdowns which is a feat in itself.

There is not enough to say about our Offensive Coach, William Hartwell. He made our line so tough that all 11 Juniors would have to plow through to get to our quarterback. Our backfield worked together as well as if we had practiced for 2 months instead of 2 weeks. Without his humor and spirit we would of fallen apart.

We know we will never be able to repay you three for all the things you have done for us. We not only won the game for the seniors; we won it for you!

Thank you,

With Love,

Want to start a club?

Birds of a feather flock together — especially snowbirds who've discovered the fun of owning and driving snowmobiles. Mutual interest makes for great new friendships and now, with snowmobiles, a new way of life over the winter months. If there's not already a going snowmobile club in your locale, why not get one going?

Your local dealership is a good place to begin. He knows pretty well how many snowmobiles have been sold in his area, and to whom. Put a note on his shop's bulletin board inviting prospective members to write or call you about forming a snowmobile club. Start a word of mouth campaign among owners, and prepare a short "news release" about the new club idea for the sports pages of your local newspaper.

You'll get response — and chances are, you'll wind up as the club's first president.

Identify your club with a good, topical name — something that denotes snowmobiles and action.

Harry Karman's motor sports business is in for bigger things and more of them.

His Clarkston Marine and Motor Sports business is now called Loon Lake Marina. He has relocated further south on the Dixie Highway near Sashabaw Road from his previous spot near White Lake Road.

The new facilities, which measure 13,000 square feet, are four times the size of those at his former location. Docking facilities for 54 boats and launching facilities are available at the new location.

Karman said he will continue his full line of Polaris snowmobiles comprised of the Colt, the wide track Electra and the T-X racing series.

In addition, Karman said he plans to carry a full marine line by the summer of 1975. The marine line will include Starcraft boats, Drummond canoes,

Triple Crown time trials announced

Michigan's Triple Crown of endurance racing has announced time trial dates for the three associated races. Alpena's Thunder Bay 250, the Traverse City TC-250 and Sault Ste. Marie's I-500 make up the Triple Crown.

At Alpena, the real action will start January 2 and run through January 7 as machines up to 440 cc battle for a spot in the top 35. On January 12, those successful qualifiers will compete on a half-mile oval for $11,000 in basic purse, plus contingency money.

Snowmobiling is fast growing sport

Michigan's 1.5 million snowmobile users spent more than $264 million on the state's fastest-growing winter family sport during the past 1972-73 winter season, according to an official of the Michigan Marine and Snowmobile Dealers Association.

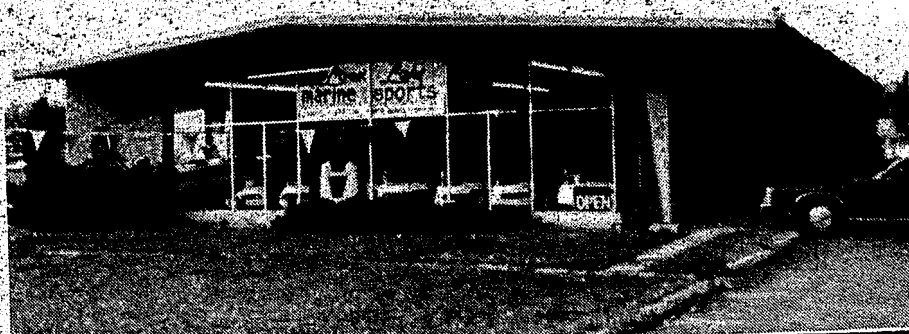

Don Stewart, Executive Director of the organization, said the $264.1 million total exceeds by $8.3 million or three percent the $225.8 million spent by Michigan snowmobilers during the 1971-72 winter season. "The slight increase was recorded despite minimum snow in Southeastern Michigan and the resultant falloff in snowmobile sales," Stewart said, "and reflects the growing number of snowmobile enthusiasts in the state spending at about the same year-ago rate".

Snowmobile sales in Michigan during the 1972-72 season totaled approximately 52,000 compared with 60,000 the previous season. There are 372,142 registered snowmobiles in the state and an Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission survey shows that each machine during an average season has 4.2 different users.

Twin-Alume pontoon boats, and a complete stock of boating and fishing accessories.

Loon Lake Marina also offers 10-speed bicycles and Tri-sport three-wheel all terrain cycles.

Besides larger facilities and boat docks, Karman said the new location is more convenient because there is more traffic and more people in that area.

Clarkston defeats Clarenceville

by Bill Condon

The Trojans of Livonia-Clarenceville tried hard, but even then were unable to stop the Clarkston Wolves from taking their fifth victory of the season, last Friday. The final score of that game, played at Clarenceville, was Clarkston - 34; Clarenceville - 12.

The Trojans started the scoring early in the first quarter, as they slowly, but surely, brought the ball down toward the Clarkston goal line, after the Clarkston kick-off by Rick Moshier. From the Wolves' two-yard line, Trojan quarterback Tony Phillips carried it into the endzone for six Clarenceville points. The kick for the extra point was unsuccessful.

Clarkston came back a little later in the first half as quarterback George Porritt handed the ball off to Jerry Molina on the Wolves' 23-yard line. From there Jerry was able to make it around behind the Trojan defense, from where he was in the clear to run the rest of the way for the Wolves' 1st touchdown of the game. An on target kick by Rick Gunter put the Wolves out ahead with a score of 7-6.

The next score came early in the second quarter as the Clarkston offense took control of the ball on their own 20. From there, the amazing Clarkston offense, by means of a 17-yard pass from Porritt to Wayne Thompson, a 15-yard pass to Mike Fogg, a 15 yard run by Mark Blumeneau, a 23-yard run by Gary Molina, and a 13-yard run by Porritt, brought the ball down to the Trojan 1-yard line. This probably was the best the offense looked all night, seeing that in the above plays, the Wolves earned 5 out of nine (ten, if you count the one they got by means of a penalty) first downs of the entire game. From the 1-yard line, Gary Molina plowed through the Trojan defense for the touchdown. The kick by Gunter brought the score to 14-6.

In the few remaining minutes of the first half, it didn't look like the Wolves would have a chance to score until after halftime, what with Clarenceville now in possession of the ball. The tables turned, however, as Clarkston's Paul Breninger intercepted a Trojan pass. Shortly thereafter, the Wolves added some more points to their score on a 15-yard run by Steve Klein. The on-target kick by Rick Gunter put the Wolves 15 points ahead.

On the Trojans first play after the kick off, quarterback Tony Phillips threw a beautiful pass, only to have it intercepted by the Wolves' Tom Ross. But this time it was too late in the first half and the Wolves didn't have enough time to use the opportunity.

The Wolves started out the scoring in the second half, as Steve Klein scored again this time on a long 42-yard run. Rick Gunter Kicked the ball over the cross-bar for the extra point.

The next score of the game took place in the fourth quarter, as Keith Sipperly recovered a Trojan fumble on the Clarenceville 11-yard line for Clarkston. From there Porritt passed to Ed Leightnam for the touchdown. This time the kick for the extra point was blocked, but it didn't really matter because at that time the Wolves were ahead by 28 points, with the score at 34-6.

You have to give the Trojans credit because they never gave up. The last touchdown of the game was theirs as quarterback Phillips scored on a 2-yard run to make the final score Clarkston - 34; Clarenceville - 12.

There's no telling what the score would have been if the Wolves hadn't gotten so many penalties. As it was, the Wolves lost 97 yards in penalties, the Trojans lost 15, and the Trojans received 4 of their 8 first downs of the night.

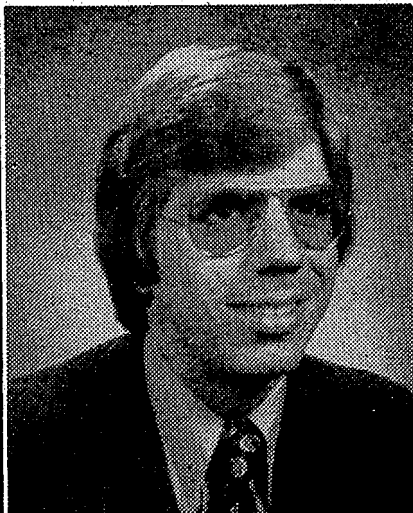

While I am on the subject of penalties, let me just say that I am very impressed with the fans that attended the game. Not only were there about twice the number of Clarkston fans as there were from Clarenceville, (remember that this game was played at Clarenceville, which is way down in Livonia), but they were all so polite. They showed the utmost respect for the decisions of the men in striped shirts (I am talking about the referees, not escaped convicts... or is it the other way around), and I think that it is a credit to Clarkston that they behaved in this manner.

In case anyone is interested in watching Clarkston defeat the West Bloomfield Lakers, the game will be this Friday, October 25. It will be the Clarkston homecoming game.

Mark Blumeneau 32 carries the ball for Clarkston.

Ron Feneley may be only 11 but his dreams of being a football lineman may some day come true. Here he contemplates glory in the new Pontiac Stadium.

Ron, 11, beats them all in PP&K

Dreams are coming true for 11-year-old Ronald Feneley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Feneley, 7095 Clintonville Road.

The North Sashabaw sixth grader has won three play-offs in the Ford Motor Co. and Jaycee sponsored Pass, Punt and Kick Contest, and his next appearance on the leg up to national acclaim will be November 17 at Tiger Stadium.

Ron has already won the local contest, the zone contest in Royal Oak and the district contest in Dearborn.

"He hopes to go straight through to the top," says his mother. "He's a natural at it and a real determined kid."

In his estimation, nobody else can win."

For Ron the victories are doubly sweet. On a diet all last year, he still weighed too much at 143 pounds to be accepted by the Independence Athletic Association Chiefs.

With dreams of pro football in the future, he still has time to have a paper route and to enjoy basketball and baseball, as well.

There's also support at home. His dad, Larry, will miss the first opening day of deer season in years to escort Ron to Detroit for the Tiger Stadium appearance.

If Ron's determination holds, he just might be appearing at the Superbowl December 29.

Dynamites are new flag football champs

A new champion team was crowned in Independence Township Recreation flag football action Saturday.

The Dynamites by virtue of a 13-12 squeaker over the Dolphins became Junior League champs.

The Dolphins scored first in the tightly fought game on a long pass from Mike Tower to Gene Buchheister. The extra point was no good.

Ross Williams brought the Dynamites back into scoring action with a pass to Dan Rathsburg. Yale Lowell scored the extra point.

In the second half the Dolphins scored on a long scramble by Scott Weaver to make it 12-7. But, it was to no avail as Mike Ramano scored allowing the Dynamites to win 13-12.

Other members of the Champion Dynamites include Jim Walker, Craig French, Scott Ferguson, Mark Reene, Jeff Barnfather and Eric Willis.

In other action the Vikings whipped the Jets 18-6. Scott Waterbury, Brian Rexford, and Rick Shebor scored for the Vikes as they evened their record to 2-2. The Jets finished 1-3.

The other game was a 14-13 victory for the Raiders over the Chargers. The Raiders finished 2-2 and the Chargers 0-4.

In Pee Wee action the big game was between the Jets and Chiefs. The Chiefs won 31-12.

This was the battle to see who would stay in the ranks of the undefeated. The chief's Dean Callison rose to the occasion with five touchdowns. This gives Dean a whopping total of 76 points in four games. Scott Spencer scored the Chief's extra point.

The Chief's defense also turned in a sparkling performance in holding Jets standouts Dan Kloc and John Spiker to a touchdown apiece.

In other action the Colts defeated the Sizzlers 18-6 behind Peter Ottman's three touchdowns. The other game was 19-0 victory for the Tigers. Eric Kline and Greg Kulazeuski were the big stars for the undefeated Tigers.

This winds up the season for local youngsters except for a playoff game in the Pee Wee Division. The Chiefs and Tigers will square off in a battle of the undefeated Saturday morning.

Homecoming

This week is our Homecoming game and I urge everyone to attend. Our team over the last two years has won 13 out of their last 16 football games. This is a great accomplishment for the players and no one should miss an opportunity to see the Wolves play.

The next three games will determine how successful our football season will become. The victory over Clarenceville gave us our second straight winning season.

Our opponent this week is West Bloomfield, the next week Rochester Adams and the following week Avondale. All of these teams will give us strong games.

Rochester Adams will be the strongest opponent regardless of their win-loss record.

I've read recently that West Bloomfield is tough and very hard to beat. Of course, they were impossible to beat last year, too, but we won! We will simply pump up our shoulder pads with air and try to compete with our rivals from West Bloomfield who currently own a 5-1 record also.

A few words about last Friday's game against Clarenceville are in order. A team never plays as well on the road as it does at home. We were flat and played a mechanical game rather than an emotional game.

It is very difficult to be at an emotional peak for all nine games. We played well considering the circumstances and limitations we were playing under.

Our fan support was great, as it has been throughout the season. However, the gold football helmet award goes to the fan responsible for making me laugh on the sidelines for the first time in my coaching career.

The comment came after Clarenceville's second touchdown with one minute left in the ballgame. He said, "Clarkston 34 -- Referees 12!"

This bevy of lovelies cheered the Powder Puff senior girls onto victory Saturday at Clarkston High School. Bob Wilkinson is the demure miss in the center.

He came to forget... and found adventure you'll always remember!

Varsity girls face first loss, but bounce back

by Jan Modesitt

On Monday of last week, Clarkston's girls' basketball teams traveled to Livonia-Stevenson High School where they encountered their stiffest competition thus far this season.

The Varsity girls led in their game at the end of the first period 13-9. They pulled out to a 13-point lead at 22-9 midway through the second quarter, but Stevenson persisted and came back to tie up the game at 26-26 for the half. The score was close throughout the second half, even though the Wolves were shooting a "cold" 15.5% from the floor. Due to excellent free-throw shooting (18 for 24 or 75%) the Wolves were not out of the game until the final buzzer showed Clarkston down by three points at a score of Clarkston 40 - Stevenson 43. Cindy Hunt was the leading scorer of the game with 15 points, including 9 of 10 free-throws. Dede Miller helped out with 7 points, while Diane Curry and Nancy Foster each added 6 points toward the total. Laurie Miller was the high rebounder for Clarkston. Nancy Foster played a hustling defensive game as she nabbed 7 steals, while offering 3 assists to Clarkston's offense.

Clarkston's J.V. team also came up short of points in their game with Livonia-Stevenson. The game's score was Stevenson 29 - Clarkston 19. Leading the efforts of the Jr. Wolves were Marie Rathburg with 8 points and Jill Vedder with 10 rebounds.

The Varsity girls continued their

Wayne-Oakland League competition on Thursday by meeting and defeating Bloomfield Hills Andover by the score of 43-30 to maintain their first place standing in League play. Cindy Hunt scored 13 pts. (all in the first half), while Nancy Chartier and Nancy Foster each tossed in 6 pts. Clarkston's rebounding efforts netted them the highest number of rebounds for one game so far this year. Laurie Miller hauled down 22 of Clarkston's 58 rebounds, while Dede Miller came down with 10 rebounds. Clarkston's defense stole the ball from Andover a total of 32 times, led by Dede Miller's 9 and Nancy Foster's 7 steals. Nancy Foster and Cindy Hunt each tallied 3 assists on field goals.

On Thursday of last week the Jr. Varsity Wolves took on the Varsity team from Waterford Township High School and wound up with a 37-28 victory. Leading the scorers were Cindy Steele with 12 pts. Tammy Campbell came off the bench in the second half and sparked the team by tossing in 8 points. Barb Lohff and Jill Vedder shared the honors in the rebounding category. Cindy Steele and Kathie Warren played tough, aggressive defense as each girl came up with 8 steals from the Waterford Township team.

Clarkston's Varsity team currently holds a 8-1 season record, while the Jr. Wolves' record stands at 6 wins and 3 losses.

The teams' only games this week will be on Thursday (October 24th).

Open-air classroom at Pine Knob

Viewing a deserted birds' nest, which they decided had probably belonged to a robin, are Ardith Abbott and Ralph Messing.

By Pat Braunagel

The area around Pine Knob Elementary School is more than just a playground for recess fun and games -- it's also an open-air classroom for many of the pupils.

Besides the part of the property that is being developed as a nature center, there are the woods, marsh and pond already provided without aid of man.

What the kids can learn there ranges from the obvious ecological lessons to art and math techniques.

Take the sixth graders in Herley Moore's class, who recently took to the fields surrounding the school with enthusiasm.

"We schedule one outside field trip around the school yard every month, so the kids can make comparisons to see the contrasts," Moore said.

They use a camera to record the seasonal changes in their environment. But, mainly, they use their own eyes to capture the significance of what's happening to the flora and fauna so close to their school.

They look for various plants, animal tracks and, hopefully, catch sight of some animals.

"We also do a unit on rock identification," Moore said. "There are many fossils in the sandstone here."

The youngsters also do maintenance work of the shrubs and other plants which are growing around the school.

Several different trees have been planted in the nature center to supplement the oaks which grow there naturally.

The most popular area is the pond, which now is just boggy but gets to be as much as four feet deep in the spring.

More activities are planned outdoors in the spring, and the students spend much of the winter getting background on what they will see then.

Holding a 'wooly worm,' teacher Herley Moore tells Sandra Head the legend about their being winter weather predictors.

Besides the organized trips, the pupils also are encouraged to make their own inspections of the area during recess and lunch hours.

The youngsters not only learn about nature, but they use it to add interest to their other fields of endeavor.

In math, for instance, they measure the circumference of trees. They stake out spaces to learn about directions.

"For art, they can use the patterns of nature," Moore said.

Although there is not direct connection to language arts, the pupils write articles and learn how to take notes on what they've observed.

For our benefit, Patricia Hendrix and Ardith Abbott hastily compiled a list of some of the things they've seen so far this year:

1. A squirrel running up a tree.
2. A big spider.
3. Some chipmunk tracks.
4. A gardner snake.
5. A red squirrel.
6. A snake hole.
7. A salamander.
8. Some poison ivy.
9. A blue bird and a crow.
10. Some dandelions.
11. A boy on a motorcycle.
12. A catail.

While they were busily jotting these down, their classmates were running up to announce still more discoveries, to ask questions and to offer theories.

Brian Bellant peers over the heads of his classmates to get a glimpse of an antihill they've discovered.

Having collected various specimens of fall flora, David Glavach [left] and Bill Innis are intrigued by the signs that a tree limb will bud next spring.

Sitting amid Pine Knob Elementary School's nature center, Amy Pennington takes notes on what she observes.

The woods around Pine Knob Elementary allowed David Mallett to collect a variety of leaves.

Dear Committee Members

The Clarkston Education Association is proud to place the Clarkston News in nomination for the 1975 School Bell Award.

The mere thickness of our entry indicates at a glance the volume of educational coverage the Clarkston Community Schools have received in this award year. However, we know winning entries are not chosen by the pound and we are eager for you to scrutinize the "in-between."

Photo and editorial features abound as you can see and share their prominence with "hard-news" articles. The quality of weekly coverage is maintained at uniformly high levels. We feel some "big city" papers could take some cues on covering the education beat.

The editor and staff (small as it might seem) never stint in providing their readership with stories and pictures geared to giving insight into what is occurring in Clarkston's varied education programs be it pre-K, K-12, vocational education, special education, school board, recreational program... you name it! Stories include negotiations, priorities, reading, recess, accountability, finance, health, elections, music, and sports, and all articles are written with clarity and attention to accuracy in details.

We hope you will agree with us that the Clarkston News is a "winner" from every angle and award them a richly deserved and coveted School Bell Award! The members of the CEA gratefully acknowledge this annual opportunity to express our high opinion and praise of a fine weekly newspaper.

Sincerely

Larry Rosso

Candidates tilt at Jaycee meet

by Jean Saile

Ninety people attending the Clarkston Area Jaycees candidates' night last week at Howe's Lanes were witness to continuing tilts between state senatorial candidate Kerry Kammer and incumbent Harvey Lodge.

Once again Kammer charged Lodge with having abused franking privileges, traveling expenses privileges and "clouding the issue and throwing sand" in regard to Kammer's charge that Lodge's wife obtained her state press relations job through the senator's influence.

"My criticism was of the senator and not his wife," Kammer said. "Lodge has said it was an attack against his wife. She's lovely and talented... but she got her job through political string pulling through Sen. Lodge's office, and the state has had to pay $5,100 to the man who was wrongly displaced."

Lodge responded with his record on integrity and common honesty. "I resent this attack," he said. "All my life I've given to the people of this area."

Kammer, he said, "needs a lot of experience to take over this kind of job."

Lodge confirmed he'd paid $250 in mailing charges on literature which Kammer charged was political in nature and which had originally been mailed out under frank.

"I was entirely within the law on the mailing, but I paid so as not to be bothered with it. I contend the closest thing to the political message was the invitation to write my administrative assistant," Lodge said.

The missive had recounted much of Lodge's senatorial duties and positions, including his place as president of the Senate.

Last week he pointed out to Independence Township residents the bill he'd introduced in the Senate to prevent a landfill from being located here. It required, he said, a contract with the local community before the county could proceed.

Lodge said he'd led the successful fight to defeat another bill which would have allowed counties to come in and take over land in local governmental units.

County executive candidates, Dan Murphy and Eugene Kuthy, presented varying appeals.

Said Kuthy, "When Wall Street makes front page news, it's time to head for the hills. If you keep Republicans in office, there will be an uprising of indignation that will threaten the whole society. Electing Democrats this year can solve the crisis of confidence."

Murphy's appeal was more for voter recognition of individuals. He spoke of four years he headed county government under Democratic rule. "An elected executive works to try to get both sides of the aisle to work together. An elected executive must still do the administrative job and must be a good leader."

Murphy admitted the "county executive" title conferred upon him by the County Board of Commissioners was a plus in his campaign, but he noted that Democrats had also voted with Republicans to give him that title.

Kuthy, whose campaign has been based on "getting rid of the fat" in county government, said Democrats had voted to keep "an innocuous administrator in that position," but when it comes to vote for an elected policy making leader he said he didn't think they'd vote for Murphy. Kuthy was instrumental in getting the elected county executive position - as opposed to the three-man board of auditors which formerly headed county government - before the people in last August's vote.

Vying for the 60th House of Representatives seat were incumbent Loren Anderson and Claude Trim. Speaking of his experience and certification in various fields as well as his 30 years in a supervisory position at GMC Truck and Coach, Trim spoke of the effects of higher taxation on the elderly.

He promised the voters three things should he be elected: a fight against higher taxes, the retention of neighborhood schools, and the raising of moral standards in the communities.

Anderson spoke of his responsiveness to the people since his election in 1966, and accepted responsibility for everything he's done and said.

He discounted the problems of the rock concert last summer in Springfield Township, and though Trim called media reports of the affair as having "gotten out of hand", he contended that young people themselves had told him the facilities at Springfield-Oaks were too small for that kind of concert. "We had small rock concerts all winter long in the park buildings," he noted.

Anderson, who said he'd been on the scene during the concert, noted, "We did find things happening that were against the law. But if those people had not congregated here, the same thing would have been going on in smaller areas."

He also told questioners in the audience the bulk of state lottery money goes into programs for mental health, education and social services.

"We haven't lowered taxes, because it would upset a lot of educators and school budgets," he said.

Rep. William Broomfield (R-19th District) was unable to attend the forum, having been called back to Washington regarding the Turkey foreign aid cutoff which President Ford had vetoed.

Goerge Montgomery, his opponent, spoke of the need for cutbacks in military or defense spending and pointed out that $5 million more per year is now being spent for defense than during the Vietnam War. Several areas could be cut without threatening the nation's security, he said.

Jack Sinclair, Broomfield's administrative aide, noted that Broomfield also is in favor of cutting the military budget and is further against the surtax. In response to Montgomery, he noted that Broomfield had voted $1 million for the Watergate investigation and had been active in campaign finance limitation efforts.

Montgomery pinned much of the cause of inflation on high military budgets and added that the nation's near brush with an imperial presidency was the fault of Congress for letting the president get out of line.

Pine Knob traffic study underway

Traffic control around Pine Knob Music Theater has been the focus of recent meetings involving theater operators and officials of both Oakland County and Independence Township.

Negotiations are expected to continue next week when the Oakland County Road Commission will have developed cost estimates on some of the ideas which have been discussed.

"Cost estimates should be back to (theater manager) Wayne Nederlander by the end of this week," said Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark.

"We looked over the site Thursday and came to some conclusions as to what kind of signs would be helpful," he said.

With Vandermark on the inspection tour were Richard Folkers of the Oakland County Road Commission, Cpl. Gerald Girard of the Sheriff's Department and James Brennan of the Oakland County Board of Auditors.

As soon as the music theater season ended, negotiations on controlling and speeding traffic flow began.

Theater owners have thus far agreed to pay for chloriding on Pine Knob Road.

"We're trying to come up with a system of traffic controls and signal lights which will protect the safety of deputies and theater patrons," Vandermark said.

The major ideas considered so far are overhead signs on the freeway at the Sashabaw exit and directional signs throughout the area.

"We've also talked about signal lights at the Sashabaw entrance to the theater that will help save deputies from being hit by cars," Vandermark noted.

Girard was one of the deputies being hit by cars," Vandermark noted.

Girard was one of the deputies hit by an auto as it left the theater this summer.

"Street lights also might help," Vandermark said. "We're also looking at things to improve the situation at the corner of Pine Knob and Orion roads."

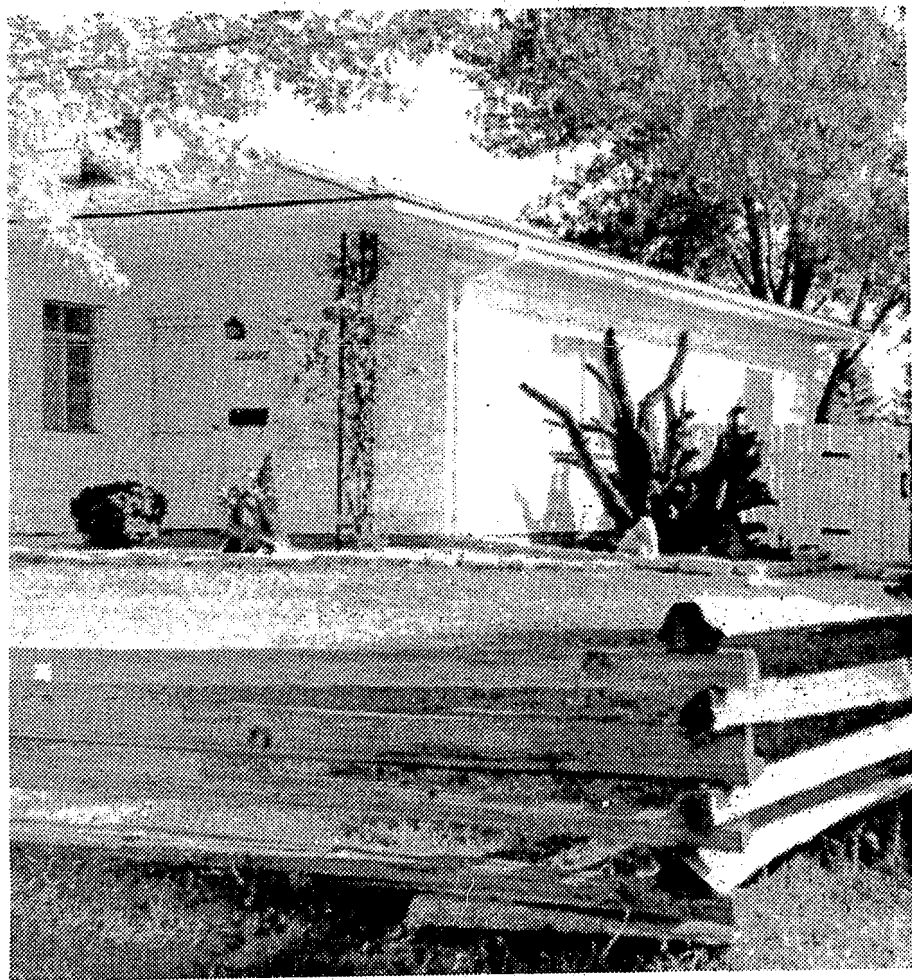

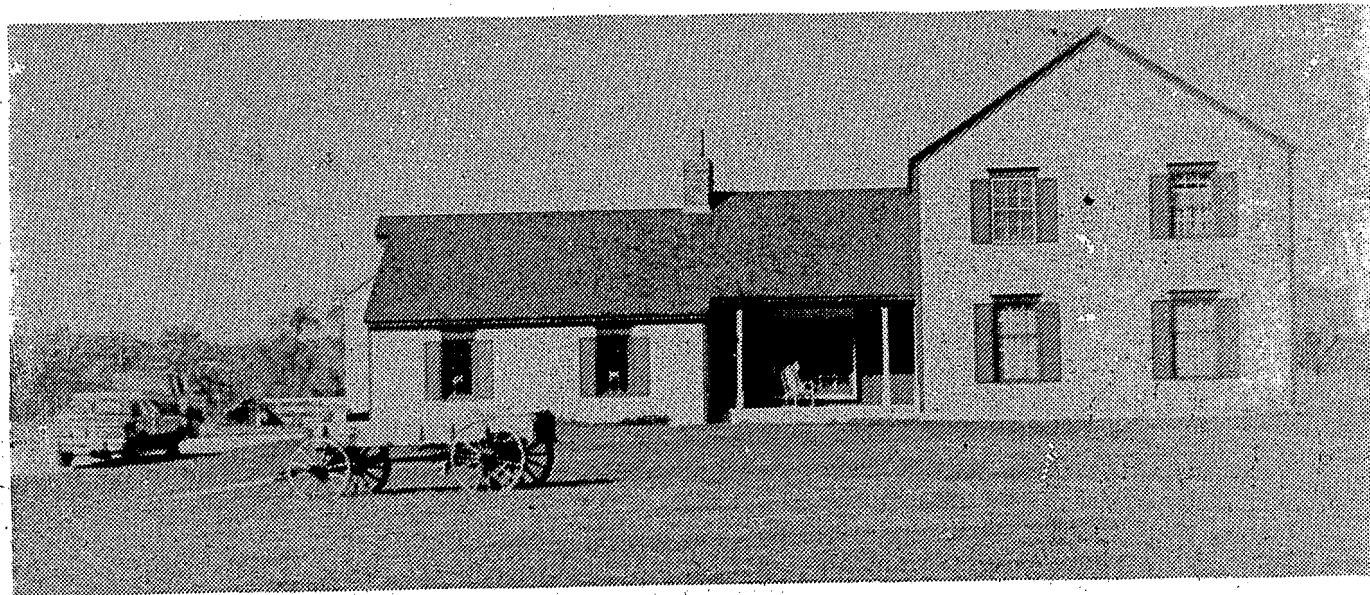

The supervisor is putting together a proposal on street lighting and what it could be expected to cost.

Overall plans will be presented to the sheriff's department for comments before meetings with Nederlander continue.

Man's home is his castle

by Jo Ann Carlson

English professors are sometimes known for words of wisdom, whether their own or taken from some old classic.

I remember one not so old English literature prof who threw this bit of philosophy my way one day.

He said to me, "Jo Ann, each person is the hero of his own life."

In all honesty, we may not all be heroes--but we're individuals--and we express our uniqueness in various ways.

One man may be in love with his sports car, another with his well-kept lawn. A woman may be justly proud of her apple pies or her children.

Where the whimsy takes over, though is in the decorations with which we surround ourselves. A person's home is his castle, and what adorns the outside of that castle can become an expression of the inner person.

Sometimes even a mailbox can be a castle of sorts. Just as a yard decoration might stand for the family coat-of-arms.

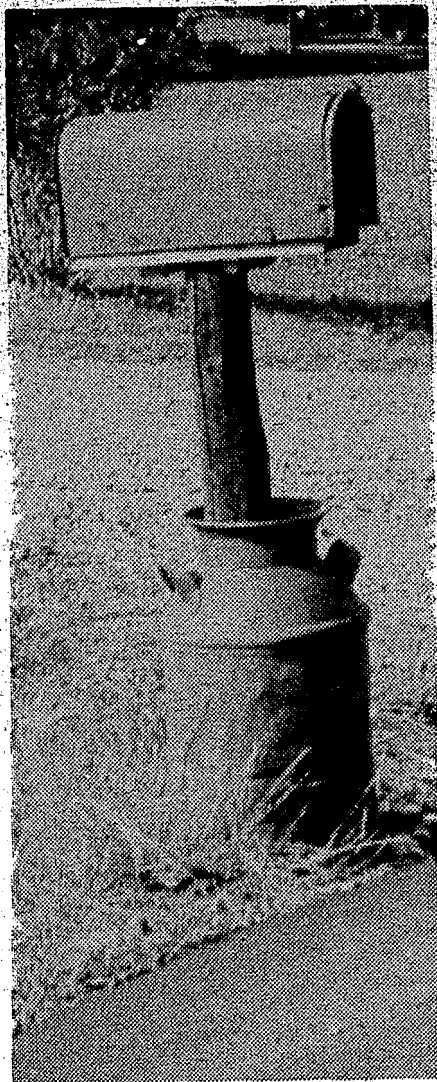

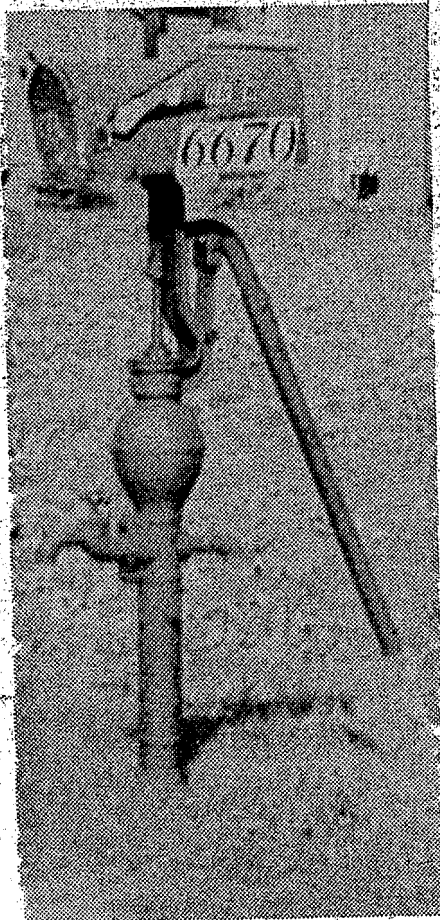

With a bit of fancy, you can speculate on each individual hero simply by observing a wagon wheel in the front yard or a mail-box camouflaged by leaves.

... the mailbox, his coat-of-arms

Bills, bills, bills! At least when you own a home it doesn't all go down the drain, month after month, vanished forever. Each time you open your wallet hard earned cash disappears so you don't even know where it went. The feeling of being on a treadmill makes you want to throw in the sponge and go hide somewhere. At least when you own a home, you are forced to budget some savings each and every month. Mortgage interest and real estate taxes are deductible from your income tax, and principal savings grow like a nest egg annuity to supplement retirement income.

Township hall sewer bid awarded

Work was expected to begin this week on connecting the Independence Township government complex to the sewer system, thus rechanneling the sewage which has been seeping into Parke Lake from the three buildings on the site.

Director of Public Works George Anderson said he has noticed that waste from the township hall area has been going into the lake.

"There's evidence it's been doing it for quite some time," he commented.

The township board opened four bids from prospective contractors for the project last week, with the amounts ranging from $1,570 to $3,558.

Board members decided that the wide span in the bids required that they be reviewed further. However, because of the need to hasten the tap-in, they authorized Anderson to scrutinize the bids and award one.

Noting there was little difference in the work each proposed doing, Anderson contracted with the lowest bidder, Shamrock Construction Co. of St. Johns to do the work.

Your mother is just going through a period where she needs loving thoughtfulness and special treats to make her feel that she is someone special. Your father will have a little more difficulty for a while, but the future shows positive progress for better health.

Your road is within the area and not too far from your home is where you will find greatest happiness -- definitely within the State of Michigan, though you will travel to a few outside states for vacation.

I feel marriage within a few years to someone totally unknown to you at this time -- six children in rapid suggestion.

Thank you very much for the letter. I enjoyed it.

In the upcoming election, I would like to make a few predictions. I see Milliken winning a close race against Levin for governor.

There's really no doubt about how the Secretary of State and Attorney General races. Austin and Kelley will regain office.

Harvey Lodge will defeat Kerry Kammmer in a close race, but not as close as some people think. Loren Anderson will squeak past Claude Trim.

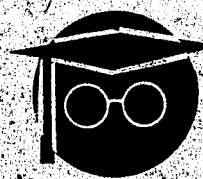

Dan Murphy will beat Eugene Kuthy for county executive. I thought Kuthy would win, but he backed Spreen and I believe that is his mistake.

Richard Wilcox and Niles Olson will regain their seats on the County Board of Commissioners but Frank Crowley will replace James Dunleavy.

Democrats will wrest control of the County Board from the Republicans, but they won't be much better than the Republicans.

I'd also like to add that the winners I've called are not necessarily my personal preferences.

I'm not going to tell my predictions for the local races, but I have them on file at The Clarkston News. We'll let you know later how they were.

The Homecoming Queen and her court were chosen last Friday at the Tapping Assembly held last hour at Clarkston High School. The queen is Gay Stelmach, and her senior attendants are Brenda Lewis and Tracy Gray. The King is Steve Palace. The Court Jesters are Jon Saylor and John Lyons. The class maids are Lynette Marino, Senior maid; Rachelle Rosser, Junior Maid; and Jeannie O'Rourke, Sophomore maid. Also announced at the assembly were the choices of the Junior Powderpuff team for their Powderpuff Princes. Chosen were Larry Bennett and Eric Cowen.

Remember, the Homecoming game, which will feature the Clarkston Wolves against the West Bloomfield Lakers, is this Friday. Also on Friday will be the Homecoming parade, which will be downtown and will start at 3:30. Following the Homecoming game will be the Alumni Coffee Hour, at the High School in room 412. There will be no school on Friday, as it is an in-service day for the faculty.

The annual Homecoming dance will be Saturday night, at the high school from 8-11:30 p.m.

Now that the Powderpuff game is over with, it was held last Saturday, and the seniors were victorious with a score of seniors - 31; juniors - 14, things at the high school are beginning to get back to normal. Before the game, there is quite a bit of rivalry between the two classes, and even a bit of open hatred, but after the game the two classes no longer hate each other. In other words now they are both against the sophomores.

While I'm on the subject, this year's sophomore class is having a little trouble getting it all together. I base this opinion on some posters that were found on the walls of the halls at the high school. On the posters, which were meant to announce a class meeting, sophomore was spelled "Sophomore" or "Sophomore", but I am sure that this spelling difficulty will be cleared up in time, the only problem is that in one year they will have to learn how to spell "Junior".

The Clarkston High School Drama Club will be presenting two one act children's plays for Halloween. The plays, which are titled "Witches Brew" and "The Magic Word" will be Thursday, October 31, and Friday, November 1 at 4:15, and also Saturday, November 2 at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. at the high school's Little Theater. The price of admission for both plays is a mere 50c for children and adults.

The mill stream Beautiful autumn!

by JoAnn Carlson, phone 625-3370

Oh, those beautiful autumn days. Overhead, trees explode in gorgeous arrays of color. Underfoot, the leaves swish and crackle. The air carries faint traces of burning leaves.

Last Wednesday was such a perfect day. People were out everywhere enjoying the last lingering days of warmth before the cold of winter blows in.

Ten little boys on bicycles knew the secret of how to spend the day. They were pedalling out to Ortonville. For no special reason, one said.

He was right. The weather was reason enough.

The Al Hamilton family recently returned from one of their frequent excursions to their home away from home on Marco Island, Florida.

Mrs. Hamilton told me that they fly down once a month throughout the winter for a few days of resting and fishing.

This time Mrs. Hamilton said they hauled in quite a good catch. They kept the good eating fish like drum, cheap head, red fish, and flounder, and threw away the "cruddy" fish.

There is a difference between the catfish caught in the South and those caught in Florida, she indicated. Apparently, Florida catfish do not make for good eating.

Daughter Linda and Dave and Ruth Anne Couture with sons Mike and Tom accompanied the Hamiltons.

Their next trip to Marco Island will be a cozy twosome. Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton.

The Women's Auxiliary to Pontiac General Hospital will sponsor a Hi Fever Frolic at Bay Pointe Club, 4000 Haggerty Road, Walled Lake, November 2nd from 7:30 p.m. until 1:00 a.m.

For more information contact the Frolic Chairman, Mrs. Richard Jorgensen, 6880 Bluegrass Drive, Clarkston, Michigan, phone 625-2922.

Faith Elizabeth Tarvestad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Tarvestad of 7786 LaVon Drive has been elected sergeant at arms for Sigma Lambda Delta Literary Society at Bob Jones University, Greenville, South Carolina. A 1973 graduate of Clarkston High School, she is a sophomore in the school of Business Administration.

The Waterford Branch of the American Association of University Women will meet Thursday, November 7, at 7:30 p.m. at independence center on Maybee Road. The program for the evening will be titled "You Be The Judge".

It is a report on the courtwatching done by a group of the members this past summer at Waterford's 51st District Court.

Guests involved in the program will be the court bailiffs. Female college graduates interested are welcomed. For further information call Mrs. William O'Conner, 673-1591.

Clarkston Board of Education and its administrators will fete retiring member Buck Weber at a dinner party October 30 at Ben's Bull Pen, Lake Orion. Buck served on the board for 25 years.

Ten female cadets from the Clarkston Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) are part of the drill team that will represent the Great Lakes Region of CAP in the national competition in Dallas, Texas, October 24-27.

The Clarkston cadets had been practicing since March. They won the Michigan Wing competition.

Eight more cadets were needed to "fill the ranks" of the Clarkston team so it could compete in the nationals.

The supplemental members were chosen from the South Macomb and Wayne-Romulus Cadet Squadron drill teams who lost to the Clarkston team at the state finals.

The last practice session for the team was held over the weekend in Clarkston. Over the summer the cadets had met in Clarkston at least one weekend per month for concentrated drill sessions. Out-of-town members of the team were hosted by the families of local cadets.

Members of the Clarkston Composite Squadron who will compete for National honors in Dallas are Lori Martin, drill team commander; Ann Glover and Cheryl Thomas, assistant team commanders; La Ree Klann, Lu Ann Klann, Patricia Matthews, Nancy Moline and Beverly Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodard, Parkview, have a new grandson.

Thomas Lee Edwards, Jr. was born October 16 to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee Edwards of Flint. Mrs. Edwards is the former Pam Woodard.

Six cub scouts from pack 341 had the time of their lives last Tuesday when Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hall treated the boys to a ride in their private plane.

After Mr. Hall explained plane safety and fueling procedures, the plane took off from Oakland-Orion Airport with 3 boys at a time.

For some of the boys, it was their first flying experience. One Scout who has flown on commercial jets indicated that flying in a small plane is quite different than flying in big jets.

The cub scouts pretended they were reenacting World War II fighter bombers. One boy commented that landing was like a bomb. Mr. Hall assured him of a smooth landing.

The plane was flown over each boy's home and over Bailey Lake Elementary School so the boys could see what everything looks like from way up there.

David Easley, Greg Ellis, Keith Holyard, Tom Hall, Brian Vedsei, and Tom Muhleck were the six lucky cub scouts.

Kevin Nancarrow of cub scout pack 341 received the Arrow of Light award from Cub master Dennis Kline at the October 17 pack meeting.

The award is the highest a Webelos cub scout can receive and shows that the recipient is prepared to enter Boy Scouts.

A cub scout has to work on many achievements and receive many primary awards prior to the Arrow of Light.

Kevin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee

Nancarrow of Clintonville Road, has been a cub scout for four years.

An 8 pound 12 ounce boy was born to Roger and Janet Erickson August 27. Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Erickson, 6140 S. Main. Their new grandson is named Jeffery Scott.

Jan and Terry Lopucki, 6341 Peach, were blessed with the birth of a daughter October 8. Jenna Kara weighed in at eight pounds one ounce upon her arrival at Pontiac General Hospital. Her two big sisters Jill, 6, and Jody, 2, even got to welcome Jenna into the family while she was still in the hospital nursery.

Mrs. Mary Powell of Clarkston Road is recuperating at home after a cataract operation on one eye. She's progressing well, but slowly, according to son, Jerry.

The Fred Willockx family of Davisburg have two sons serving in the U.S. Navy. The Willockx's are enjoying the company of both sons now, but soon will have to say goodbye for awhile.

Jim, 19, leaves Thursday for boot camp at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center in Chicago. Fred, 20, joined the navy last November, must be ready to pack his bags and ship out November 1.

The two brothers had a bit of unfortunate coincidence this summer. Mrs. Willockx indicated to The News.

Jim was supposed to report for boot camp July 23. He received a three month deferment when he broke his foot in a motorcycle accident. When Fred came home on leave in August, he was also suffering from a broken foot. Fred's mishap occurred while at sea. And, for each brother, the broken foot happened to be the right one.

Mrs. Willockx said her son Fred will be gone for a year.

The Civil Air Patrol Cadets held their annual cadet conference October 12-13 at the Holiday Inn in Howell. One hundred thirty-five cadets from all over the state of Michigan attended. The cadets attended seminars on techniques in ground search and rescue, recruiting and cadet council.

Miss Michigan Wing was also chosen Saturday evening at a banquet and dance. Bob Dominas provided the entertainment for the evening. Cadet Lt. Cheryl Boren from Five Points Campsite squadron in Farmington was chosen Miss Michigan Wing. Runner-up was Cadet Lt. Beverly Moore from Clarkston Composite Squadron.

Other awards were given to Patti Matthews, LaRee Klann, Luann Klann, Mike Klann, Jim Martin for their completion of the Leadership and Fundamental Training Session they attended in Alpena this past summer. Cathy Connelly also received a trophy for her behind the scenes work with Miss Michigan Wing. Everyone returned home Sunday afternoon with pleasant memories and new friends.

Geri Wertman will be conducting wall covering instruction classes from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays November 4 through 25 at Bob's Hardware, 60 South Main. The cost is $15. Instruction will be given in what goes where, surface preparation, hanging and what's available.

All you Mexican food lovers should take advantage of the Clarkston High School Spanish Club's "una cena mexicana". In South-of-the-border language that means a Mexican dinner.

For $2 a plate, you will get a scrumptious enchilada, a tasty taco and a serving of unbelievably delicious "frijoles refritos"-refried beans for those unversed in the Spanish language.

The Spanish Club is trying to raise enough money for a trip to Mexico this summer.

"Una cena mexicana" will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Maybee Road east of Sashabaw Road. November 6.

All club members will be selling tickets. To buy or reserve tickets call 625-4670, 625-1543 or 625-1743.

Spiritual Message

"A MATTER OF FAITH?"

Next Sunday when the annual UNICEF project gets under way, youth from several township churches will participate. Perhaps others will not join in for ideological reasons, although we still manage fairly well to cover the area and people respond warmly to this solicitation for the United Nations Children's Fund. But this separatism by churches is not all blameable on differences over political ideologies. There is a nagging seed of conviction that it may be an ingredient of our religious life.

For instance, only a fraction of the churches above share in this column, although we all seem to agree on advertising. And a perhaps different segment of churches agree on the matter of private church day schools.

Still a different alignment of groups is concerned about abortion reform, and so on, and on!

The question arises whether we are divided over deep differences in the articles of our belief, or whether we just don't trust one another over more intangible grounds of custom or culture in our practices.

Regrettable as this cleavage appears, progress has been made. Surely things are better now than twenty years ago, even between splinters of my own communion where two kinds of Presbyterian churches in one village were excused by the flip remark that the United Presbyterians were just mod Presbyterians.

In our community a new ray of hope is the upcoming invitation by our local government to all churches to respond to the needs of our non-sectarian help center which does too much vital work to abandon. Maybe we can agree on something more than advertising after all.

HAV seeks Groveland subsidy

There are 55 Groveland Township families who believe their township should join with Springfield, Holly and Rose in a subsidization program for Holly Volunteer Ambulance Service.

They'll be meeting October 23 in an effort to come up with a plan to convince the township board to rescind its previous vote of non-subsidization.

That action was taken when a funeral home director in Ortonville, who offers private ambulance service to part of Groveland, objected on the basis that if the Holly service were to be subsidized, he should be, too.

Members of the Holly service believe they're in a different position. A non-profit operation, Holly Volunteer Ambulance Service pays only one full-time clerical employee. Volunteers are paid at the rate of $5 per run, in order to entitle them to workmen's compensation.

The service was organized July 1, 1969, by area Jaycees when ambulance service to the northwest area of the county was discontinued by Dryer's Funeral Home, Holly.

Calls began coming in at the rate of about 30 a month and have now nearly doubled, workers say.

The service sells $12 memberships to residents of the four townships, which entitles them and members of their families to ambulance service to the hospital of their choice at the rate of $1 a mile one-way.

Some 1250 people have joined, but the rub comes, workers say, from failure to collect from transients involved in accidents in the area of young people having overdosed with drugs at some of the area parks.

The service has sought and won the promise of $20 subsidy from three of the four townships for each run made in the area. Costs are roughly about $1,000 a year for participating townships.

This is the first year all of Springfield has been served. Services was previously limited to residents of the Holly School district only.

The group has three ambulances, one of which was partly financed by a state grant, but the other two paid for entirely by memberships and gifts.

They are manned by 77 active volunteers who maintain a 24-hour service. Each volunteer has been certified by the American Red Cross as an ambulance attendant and 30 of them have taken 81 hours of advanced training.

All volunteers attend 10 training sessions a year.

Pine Knob emphasizes recreation

By Pat Braunagel

The Pine Knob Country Club and Resort is rapidly becoming a reality as Indusco Corporation continues its development of the complex which has thus far centered on its ski lodge.

Construction of facilities for the private club which have been completed to date give some idea of the scope of the proposed facility.

"Right now our main thrust is the Pine Knob Country Club and Resort," said Mike Kinney of Indusco.

Single family and condominium residential units which will be included in the 600-acre complex are still on the planning boards, he said, although a mile and a half of on-site sewer lines to serve them have been installed.

Eventually, the view of Pine Knob from surrounding property should be vistas of either the golf course or wooded areas, Kinney said. As construction progresses, plantings also are being made to improve the landscape.

Membership in the private club, to be limited to about 400, will provide access to an 18-hole golf course, tennis courts, swimming pool and facilities for horseback riding, skeet shooting and fishing, as well as a gourmet restaurant, Kinney said.

"We're planning to stock Flemings Lake," which is on the western edge of the parcel, he said.

Associate memberships in the club, for those not interested in golfing, also will be available.

The 6,700-yard golf course, to cover about 140 acres, has been roughed out this summer.

"Eighteen holes have been cut out and the fairways roughed out," Kinney said. "Nine holes are actually seeded and will be ready by May 1975. The entire course should be ready by late summer of 1975."

The first tee will be beside the former Col. Sidney Waldon mansion, to be converted into a clubhouse.

"From this hill on a clear day, you can see downtown Detroit and Flint," Kinney commented, refusing to speculate whether members could watch Lions' games at the Pontiac Stadium from the hill.

To be completed by May of 1975 is the demi-clubhouse between the ninth and 10th holes of the course. There, besides provision for outdoor and indoor luncheon or refreshment stops, tennis courts and a swimming pool will be available.

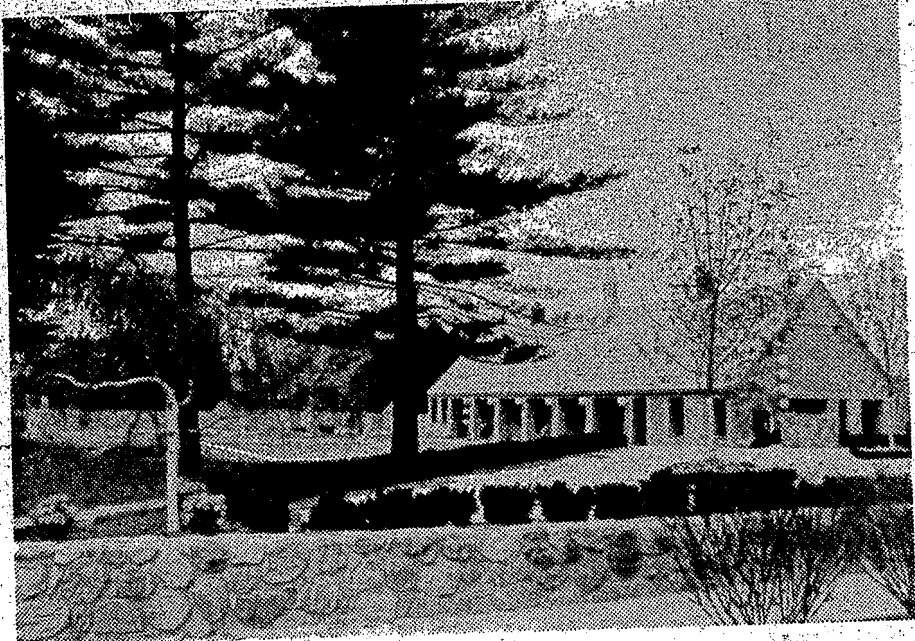

Kinney estimated that the development will cost about $27 million, not including the $4 million music theater which Indusco leases to the Nederlanders nor the $3 million which the corporation has spent on improving the ski lodge and slopes since it purchased the property in 1971.

"We now have the longest run in southeast Michigan—and the highest elevation, by about 80 feet," Kinney noted in reference to the ski slopes.

With work in the ski area continuing, Pine Knob presently has 14 runs. There are five chair lifts and 10 rope tows, according to Dave Delpiere, ski manager.

"We had about 105,000 skiers last year," Delpiere reported.

For the time being, then, emphasis at Pine Knob will continue to be on recreation.

This demi-clubhouse, halfway along the Pine Knob golf course, will provide a place for golfers to pause for refreshments and for other members to change for swimming or tennis.

What is your style? Only you can decide that. But when you choose clothes, choose something that fits your style. Choose "high-style" clothes—exaggerated or way ahead of current fashion in your area—only if you have a fine figure, a generous clothes allowance, and expect your clothes to be noticed and discussed. On the other hand, remember that understatement in clothing can become dull and monotonous.

Attempting to green up the Pine Knob site while there's still time for planting this season, a workman lays sod beside the entrance to the country club and resort.

Five generations of Frosts gather

Five generations of Char Frost's family got together for a family dinner at the Frost home on Cramlane last Wednesday. The occasion was a continuing celebration of Mrs. Frost's grandson Jack C.'s christening which took place October 13. Mary Scott of Holly represents the first generation. She is 92. Little Jack, 8 months young, is the latest addition to the family. He represents the fifth generation. The span of 92 years and five generations brought an interesting observation from Jack Frost, Char's husband: "Mrs. Scott made her first journey in a covered wagon and her latest in a jet." From left to right are Char Frost; Willa Gallis, Char's mother; Mary Scott, Mrs. Gallis's mother; Jack W. Frost, Char's son, and baby Jack C., Jack W.'s son.

VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON MINUTES OF REGULAR MEETING October 14, 1974

Meeting called to order by President Hallman.

Roll: Present—Basinger, Granlund, McCall, Thayer, Weber.

Absent—Schultz.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Some residents of Holcomb St. and Miller Rd. were present and voiced their opinions against any future widening of Holcomb and wanted to know the present status of the proposed Deer Lake development that would divert traffic on village streets. They wanted to know if the council was considering entering into the present lawsuits on this matter and if the council was undertaking legal research on the future traffic problem.

President Hallman and all of the trustees present stated their opposition to any widening of Holcomb or other village streets and the diverting of traffic from the proposed development on village streets. President Hallman also stated that the village was watching the progress in the court suits and negotiations between the township and the developer on this matter, and that we felt that it would be best to wait and see what happens first.

Village Attorney John Steckling stated that we shouldn't enter any legal action yet, as this could hamper any progress that may be taking place now. He felt that it would be a duplication of effort and expense to intervene with the township and he may end up worse for it if an agreeable compromise could not be reached.

Township Supervisor Robert Vandermark also said that he felt that it would be unwise for the village to intervene in legal action at this time. He said that the township would not settle for any traffic increase that would overload Holcomb beyond its present capacity. He discussed the traffic situation with the residents and the council. Upon his recommendation, the council appointed Trustee Basinger to represent the village at an attorneys meeting on this matter Wednesday.

Truck traffic on village streets was also discussed. Trustees Thayer and Weber will investigate the possibilities of banning thru trucks, and President Hallman will check with the attorney on erecting signs for this on N. Holcomb. He recommended that the Planning Commission study alternatives for all traffic on village streets for present and future use, and officially informed planning commission member Doug Roeser of this request.

Moved by Thayer that the following bills be paid:

Street Wages	$1426.88
Municipal Services	419.37
Administration	475.17
Clarkston News	797.55
Legal Fees	1212.10

TOTAL $4331.07

Seconded by Weber. Roll: Ayes—Basinger, Granlund, McCall, Thayer, Weber. Nays—none. Motion carried.

A proposed Subdivision Plat Act Fee Ordinance will be studied by the council and the planning commission for future action.

Moved by Weber to pass the following motion as requested by Police Chief Jackcall: BE IT RESOLVED that the Village of Clarkston requests that parents keep their young people within the family circle during the nights preceding Halloween, and most particularly on the night before Halloween. Devils night in the past has been a time of malicious destruction by area youngsters, therefore be it resolved that Devils night is officially abolished and the continued cooperation of everyone is requested. Seconded by Granlund. Motion carried.

The clerk read the minutes of the recent planning commission meeting, and their recommendation that the council intervene in the Deer Lake development lawsuits. In light of the opinions expressed at tonight's meeting, the council chose to delay action on this request until the planning commission has time to study these opinions.

The planning commission also recommended that the council proceed with a structural evaluation of the old Methodist Church, expenditure not to exceed $500.00. President Hallman stated that a county engineer told him that they felt that it would be too expensive for them to remodel either the proposed Groveland site or the Methodist Church, but that they were still interested in keeping the District Court within the village. A discussion followed.

Moved by Thayer that in light of the above information, that the council deny the planning commission's recommendation of spending up to $500.00 for this study. Seconded by Weber. Ayes—McCall, Thayer, Weber. Nays—Basinger, Granlund. Motion carried.

Moved by Basinger that if the private sector will contribute $250.00 to this structural study, then the village will pay the balance of the difference between this and $500.00. Seconded by Granlund. Ayes—Basinger, Granlund, Thayer. Nays—none. Abstain—McCall, Weber. Motion carried.

Meeting called adjourned by President Hallman.

Cost of dieing is too high

Area residents object to that final expense

"Outrageous, ridiculous!" That's what some Clarkston area residents say about the cost of dying nowadays.

Doris Lyons of Davisburg said she thinks the cost is so ridiculous that she and her husband plan to donate their bodies to science when the time comes.

Some consumer groups are backing a measure to revise state laws governing funerals, according to recent reports.

As now proposed in committee at the State Legislature, the bill would require funeral homes to offer inexpensive caskets. Caskets could also be rented for viewing purposes in cases of cremation or donations of bodies to science. Various other measures are included in the proposed measure to help lower funeral expenses.

The President of the Michigan Funeral Director's Association, Joseph Peterson, was quoted in one newspaper as saying that most of the things in the measure are already part of state law or are done voluntarily by the funeral homes.

Louis E. Wint, Clarkston Funeral home owner told The News he agreed with Peterson.

"I already do offer inexpensive caskets," Wint, who is secretary of the local district's funeral director's association, said.

Regarding casket rentals, Wint said, "My feelings are that most people would prefer not to use a casket for their loved one that someone else has already used."

Doris Lyons Ruth Warner

Most of the people The News talked to said they did not mind the idea of second-hand caskets.

"I'm not too keen on cremation," Ruth Warner, a Clarkston area resident told The News. "I really don't care if the casket costs $200 or $2,000. And I don't see anything wrong with having a used casket, although I've never thought about it. It seems like a sensible idea."

Loren Brewer said he did not like the idea of a used casket.

Loren Brewer Ned Carmichael

"But, I do think the cost of dying is too high. You can't get a decent funeral for less than $3,000," he added.

One Clarkston businessman, John Collins, suggested a term other than 'used casket'. "How about 'previously occupied?'" I don't think a person should have to buy a new casket. Why not come up with something new? In the case of cremation, why not use something else besides a casket for viewing?"

John Collins Gwen Strehle

Gwen Strehle took a few moments away from her mail delivering duties to tell The News that she did not think all the "pomp and circumstance" of funerals is necessary.

"People shouldn't have too worry about such high expenses during a time of grieving," she said.

George Clara Ernestine Perkins

George Clara expressed a similar view. "Funeral directors oversell. There's no doubt about that. They catch people when their emotions are high and take advantage of them."

Ernestine Perkins said she feels funeral directors play on one's feelings of guilt. "I'm all for getting the costs of funerals down."

"Everybody goes to see you after you're dead. Why don't they come to see you while you're still alive?" Ned Carmichael asked.

Curse you, foul villian

Players resurrect an oldie

Clarkston audiences have a real treat in store for them with the Village Players present "A Curse of an Aching Heart" November 1, 2, 8 and 9 at the Depot Theater on White Lake Road.

The depot is the perfect setting for this melodrama. "Curse of an Aching Heart" has everything a true melodrama should have- from the dark oily mustached villian, ably played by Pete Rose, to the beautiful blonde heroine portrayed by Linda Porter. The lovable hero is played by Rick Gaff.

The plot involves villian Windemere Hightower who cons lovely Melody Lane into a fake marriage ceremony and then involves her in a nefarious scheme to take away the ranch of poor old Hiram Abernathy.

By the time the 10:40 p.m. train roars by, you can bet the hero, Lucius Goodenough, has the situation well in hand.

When Carol Arend tells Bob, her husband in real life, "Bless you my son!.. justice has got to triumph.

It all adds up to a fun-filled evening for the whole family.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the door.

Boy Scouts collect old newspapers

Boy Scout Troop 126 will be collecting bundled newspapers Saturday at Clarkston United Methodist Church. Pickups are available by calling Harold Sutherland at 625-3356 or Sandy Sanborne at 625-5311.

Giving all of their dues this week to Artrain, members of Brownie Troop 692 are hoping to set an example of other scout troops in the area who would like to help the cultural endeavor. Ruth Vecsei of Artrain committee accepts the donation—totaling $3.20—enthusiastically.

INDEPENDENT view

Chuckle -- chuckle. Dick Morgan of Morgan's Marathon ran out of gas on the Dixie Highway the other morning. He ought to check his tank, for gosh sakes.

We've recently heard about a group of kids from Clarkston Junior High School who are the kind we like to hear about.

Around 10 CJH students are lending helping hands -- and heads and feet -- to serve as escorts for the kindergartners at Clarkston Elementary.

They're using part of their free time to walk some of the young'uns to and from school. They're looking after the children who are not bussed or escorted to the school by their parents and yet live far enough away to find traffic threatening.

Kindergarten teachers Pat Johnson and Anita Davison are extremely pleased with the arrangement, and we betcha there are a few parents who are grateful too.

Youngsters sticking their hands into wet sidewalk cement in Clarkston are getting a thumbs-down signal from village officials.

"We're taking a dim view of the creative efforts of kids in the cement," said Director of Police Services Jack McCall. "Those 'artists' who are apprehended will be prosecuted."

Two 15-year-olds who were caught writing messages in wet cement last week are scheduled to be interviewed by local police this week, McCall said.

It is National Business Women's Week, and The News talked to two married couples who share the responsibilities of a family business.

Jim and Lois Stiles have been running the Stiles Shoe Store for somewhere in the neighborhood of 18 years.

When asked about the virtues of a husband-wife management team, Mr. Stiles said, "You know where the last word comes from."

Mrs. Stiles indicated that the one that is there first does the work.

"But," she adds, "I flatly refuse to do anything in the repair shop. That's where I draw the line."

Mrs. Stiles insisted that her partnership with her husband has nothing to do with Women's liberation.

"I'm not for the women's lib thing. That was probably a dirty trick pulled on us by some man who wanted women to get out and work."

Bess Rice, who owns the Clarkston Cafe along with her husband Paul, said the husband-wife team works out well.

"We try to agree. We both work out specials for the menu. What he doesn't think of, I do."

She added that the Clarkston people have been tremendous in their support of the Clarkston Cafe.

JV Wolves beat Livonia

The Junior Varsity Wolves beat Livonia-Churchill Thursday 26-14 in what Coach Paul Tungate termed "one of the best games played by the team so far this season."

Mark Czinder opened the scoring for Clarkston with a 45-yard reverse dive in the first quarter. The second touchdown in the quarter was scored on a 40-yard pass play from Don Farnsworth to Czinder.

In the second quarter Churchill made a touchdown. Then with 15 seconds on the clock Ron Fraley threw a 10 yard pass to Czinder for another touchdown. The extra 2 points were scored on a sweep by Farnsworth bringing the halftime score to 20-8.

Farnsworth came into action again in the third quarter with a touchdown on a 25-yard sweep.

Churchill scored another touchdown in the last quarter to bring the final score to 26-14.

The Clarkston JV's record now stands at 6-0.

CJH girls still winning

Clarkston's ninth grade girls' basketball team had difficulty adjusting to Avondale's "glass backboards" Tuesday, October 15.

Shooting a poor 16 percent from the floor, the team came up on the short end of a 20-19 final score. Anne Vaara led the team in scoring with 8 points and Marcia Mason had 7 points and 9 rebounds.

"There's no place like home" was the way the team played Thursday, October 17. Clarkston had beaten Romeo-Powell by a mere 1 point earlier this year, but this time it was an easy 31-20 victory.

The girls played tough defensively and everyone on the team joined in the action. Marcia Mason displayed excellent outside shooting and also broke Jayce Lafnear's single game rebound record of 10 by grabbing 11. Helping out in the rebound department was Jane Tatu with 8. Clarkston out-rebounded Romeo 45-31.

Marcia Mason led all scorers with 12 and Pat Killian chipped in 8. Kay McMillan stole the ball from Romeo and scored her first point of the season. Diana Rutherford also scored her first point of the year.

Other scores in the game were Ann Vaara, 3; Jane Tatu, 2; and Jayne Lafnear, 2.

Cougars down East Hills

A Cougar comeback sparked by Scott Hool saved the day for the Sashabaw eleven last Wednesday as they defeated East Hills 34 to 6.

At half time East Hills lead 6 to 2, until Hool broke through on a 30-yard punt for the Cougar's first touchdown. Chris Campe followed the lead and made touchdown runs of 59 and 66 yards.

East Hills went into a spread formation in a desperate attempt to get back into the game and Syd Stanring received a pitch out from the East Hills quarterback and ran 30 yards for another touchdown.

Steve Fenton booted the first of his two extra points of the night. With the help of a 25-yard run by Don Ferguson, the Cougars were able to score again.

Cougar girls win both LO games

Sashabaw's girls basketball cagers beat Lake Orion East last Tuesday with a score of 29-21, giving the girls a 5-1 record.

Sue Frazier was high point girl with 11 and Gayle Graham took 8 points. A touch and go fourth quarter in the team's game later against Lake Orion

West still wound up in victory for the Cougars. Despite West's ability to score 10 points in the fourth quarter, the final score remained 22-19.

The team will meet Romeo Powell this Thursday and Clarkston Junior High on Tuesday, October 29.

Wolverines tromp West Bloomfield

The Clarkston Junior High Wolverines tromped West Bloomfield last week 40-6, making the team 4-1 for the season thus far.

The Wolverines are tied for first in their league now, and played the other league leader, Pierce, on Tuesday.

The first Wolverine scores came right at the beginning of the first quarter. After West Bloomfield received the ball and then punted, defensive end Bill Singleton recovered a fumble on that punt and ran for a touchdown.

John Baker ran for two more points, and Clarkston took the lead, 8-0.

They entrenched their lead by making another touchdown early in the first quarter, on a four-yard run by Baker. The extra-point attempt failed.

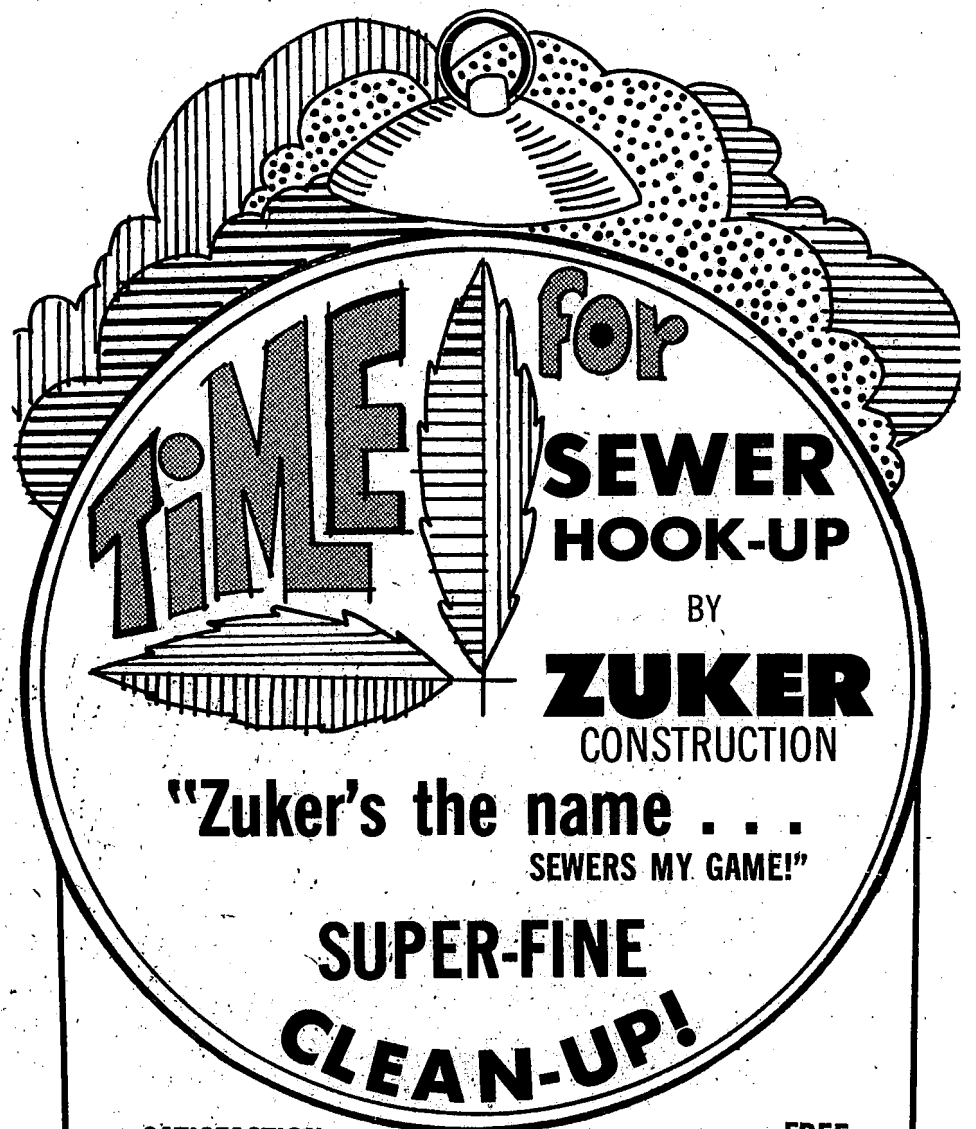

The Wolverines scored again in the second quarter on a ten-yard run by quarterback Tim Fogg. Brian Snyder ran for two more points.

An intercepted pass by Sean Robinson netted Clarkston its fourth t.d., Robinson running it back 30 yards for the touchdown.

John Baker ran for another t.d. in the second quarter, and at half Clarkston was ahead 34-0.

Clarkston scored again in the third quarter on a 27-yard reverse by Chris Leaf. Mike Lee and Brian Snyder each stopped West Bloomfield drives by recovering fumbles.

The only West Bloomfield points were made on a ten-yard run in the fourth quarter.

A newcomer's view --

We have nothing to fear except --

Fear exists here in such great quantity. I wonder if people know that out there in other places there really isn't the kind of fear there is here.

Why is it here? I can't answer. I'm a newcomer to these parts and the intricate pattern--all the subtleties escape me.

It's funny how quickly one gets the idea. People here are so glad that they've escaped the ills of living in the city, that they've been able somehow to separate themselves from all those evils.

But I've just come from one of those cities not so far away and when my child went to a small local school there we, the parents, were sent a list of the children in the class with their parents' names to help us in getting to know each other so that we could, among other things, form car pools. Car pools not only save time for about 80 mothers just ferrying kindergarten children, for example, but also to save GAS by cutting down on those 80 cars making relatively the same trip twice a day. (You can see how the numbers grow to an equivalent of 160 cars daily in kindergarten alone.)

However, here in Clarkston, where you don't have the kind of pressures of city living, when I recently asked for a list of the children in my daughter's class, I was informed by the teacher, "Office policy does not allow us to give out a list of names and telephone numbers of our classes."

I have been sitting here all afternoon trying to think of what devious use a class list given to a parent would or could be put to and while I suppose there may be some, I can't conjure them up.

What it all came down to is that old question of fear. I really just wanted to ask some playmates over occasionally to help my daughter and perhaps find some new friends, and maybe in the process form a gas-saving, time-saving car pool.

How disappointing to come back and back again to the divisive nature of fear. It's too bad it's so strong.

By Kathy Roberts

One of the most popular new television series this year is The Little House on the Prairie. The refreshing wholesomeness of the Ingalls family in contrast to our daily diet of t.v. violence is a delight to children and adults alike. I loved the "Little House" books by Laura Ingalls Wilder when my fourth grade teacher read them to us in 1955. And children today love the books equally well. There are nine books in the series beginning with The Little House in the Big Woods.

Laura Ingalls' father disliked being closed in. When too many people moved to the big woods in Wisconsin, he put his wife Caroline and daughters Mary, Laura and Baby Carrie in a covered wagon and moved to the Oklahoma prairie. The "Little House" series follows the Ingalls family from Oklahoma to a sod house in Minnesota where they survived a grasshopper blight. The family was in debt and Mary was blind so Pa went to work at a railroad camp in South Dakota. It was there that Laura met Almanzo Wilder. (The third book in the series, Farmer Boy, is a story of the farm childhood of Almanzo Wilder, Laura's future husband.) When Laura was sixteen she took a teaching job to keep Mary in a school for the blind.

Laura finally married Almanzo Wilder and moved to a small prairie homestead. But life was still not easy. The last book in the series, The First Four Years, tells of the hardships of the Wilders, their love for each other, and their determination to succeed.

President Ford asks us to go into an austerity program. When was the last time you were frivolous with money?

Doesn't it seem like you've been pinching pennies all your life? Save your money, he says. Turn out your lights and walk more, he says.

The way things are going you'll be walking your way to a dark poorhouse.

It's good we can make light of his urgings, but it does seem like we are always conserving, trying to save for the future and not quite making it.

Another thing in the news this past week leaves me confused as to which way we're going.

Some farmers killed over 600 calves in Curtiss, Wisconsin because it cost more to feed them than they estimated they would bring on the market at maturity.

They probably know what the costs will be, but do they really know what their beef will sell for a year or two from now?

Regardless, that's not my point. They killed 'em 'cause they couldn't afford to raise 'em. Now then, at the same time the farmers in Michigan, who had fed their cattle feed with some fertilizer in it received millions of dollars from the Farm Bureau people for the mistake.

The whole thing sounds like some government program where we sell wheat to Russia because we have a surplus, then find we've driven the price of bread up at home and buy back the wheat from Russia which never really left the United States in the first place... and it didn't bring down the price of bread because the Russians charged us twice the price they paid.

People in Oxford village and Oxford township must be a little envious of the people in Independence and Orion Township when it comes to sewer installations.

When the ordinances were passed here the state law was cited that said "12 months" were allowed to hook up to sewers if they pass your house.

The Independence and Orion officials say they're complying with the state law that allows 18 months for the hook up.

It would have been nice to hang onto that money a little longer.

By the way, whatever happened to the proposed legislation in Lansing that would provide funds for local units of government which were combating pollution by installing sanitary sewers?

There was hope a few months ago we might be relieved of such a burden. As it is we'll be paying heavily in sewer construction and usage costs and again when the assessor tells us how much more valuable our house is now that Detroit is getting the effluent.

Tell me again, Mr. Ford. How do you propose we save money?

M-275 intersections plotted

Treatment of crossroads and interchanges proposed by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation for the segment of M-275 from M-59 to I-75 has the approval of the Oakland County Board of Road Commissioners.

Chairman William M. Richards, of the County road policy board said MDSH&T has proposed interchanges at the M-275 intersection with M-59, White Lake Road and Andersonville Road before M-275 merges with I-75 just north of Davisburg Road and East of Eliza Lake.

He said the MDSH&T proposal also calls for five overpasses without entrance to exit ramps. These would carry Davisburg, Big Lake, Shaffer, Brendle and Grass Lake Roads over the expressway.

Plans call for interrupting three roads that presently cross the proposed M-275 route, Richards said. McKeatchie Road, west of M-275, would be diverted and dead-ended into Grass Lake Road. The short portion of McKeatchie east of M-275 would be closed.

Farther north, in Springfield Township, Scott Road would be closed on both sides of the expressway, Richards said, but the portion east of M-275 would be joined to Clark Road, just east of M-275, by a new road link roughly paralleling M-275. Across the expressway, Clark Road would be closed just east of its intersection with Dilley Road.

The twirlers step lively to the beat of the Clarkston Marching Band.

Toot! Toot! Toot! Pam Benzing blasts on her trumpet in preparation for the half-time performance. "I tell you I'm in the right key!"

Dennis Boberg spices up the percussion section. He is ever ready with those cymbals.

The Clarkston High School Marching Band has its field routine all worked out for Homecoming Day.

For Wayne Carr, band practice hours do not always run smoothly. The fellow behind him just misses his ear with the long "thingy" on the trombone each time he plays a note.
