Parking removed east of Main

Village President Keith Hallman reports he's been informed in a round-about manner that the State Highway Department on May 9 banned parking on the east side of Main Street from the Wooden Peg to Ortonville.

It has also reaffirmed parking bans on M-15 south of town from the Dixie Highway to North of Waldon Road.

The changes have not yet been posted, and Hallman said he would not know anything about them except for a copy of a letter sent to County Clerk Lynn Allen from the state body.

"It seems a lacksadaisical and poor mannered method of apprising elected officials what is happening in their town," Hallman said.

He added he'd been informed only after seeing stakes placed that the state also intends to construct a right turn lane onto Miller Road for southbound M-15 traffic. "Three maple trees and the encroachment on a fine historic home is the result," Hallman said, "and yet we weren't informed."

The highway department recently let bids for the resurfacing of M-15 for 1.7 miles between US-10 and I-75. The bid, for $113,475, was to include a two-foot widening of the right-of-way and right turn lanes for northbound traffic at Laurelton, Miller and Waldon.

In a meeting Monday, the Clarkston Village Planning Commission discussed the Main Street parking problem at length, deciding that a citizens' committee should be formed to fight removal of parking from Main Street.

Member Ted Thomson will be spokesman for the planning Commission at the next Village Council meeting, where the commission is expecting a large turnout of concerned citizens.

Public invited to commencement

The public is welcome to attend Clarkston High School commencement exercises at 10 a.m. Saturday at Pine Knob Music Theater.

U.S. Senator Robert Griffin is expected to address the 430 graduates, and the school's band and vocal music departments will once again combine for the traditional singing of "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Seating for 5,000 is available in the amphitheater and more can be accommodated on the grass around it, school officials said.

About that 5 mill operating tax renewal for schools

Residents of the Clarkston School District who go to the polls Monday to select two Board of Education members for the next four years, will also be asked to approve a continuation of a 5 mill operating tax, originally passed in 1966.

Approval of the operating tax will not increase the total taxpayers' school bill of $28.21 per $1,000 of their state equalized valuation, but disapproval could amount to a 25 percent reduction in school revenue and a consequent 25 percent reduction in services affecting all areas of school operation beginning in the fall of 1976.

The district this coming year plans to split its millage with $25.07 per $1,000 valuation going for school operation (up from $24.43 this year) and $3.14 for debt retirement (down from $3.78 this year).

School Superintendent Dr. Leslie F. Greene points out that early approval of the continued millage is necessary if the schools are not to lose out on state funding.

Should voters fail to approve the millage by the time it is needed for September of 1976, the schools -- based on current state funding principles -- would lose $677,680 in state aid and $665,284 in local revenue.

The state funding would drop from its expected level of $3.3 million to $2.7 million and local revenue would be reduced from its expected $3.3 million to $2.6 million for a total loss to the district of $1.3 million, or approximately one-fourth of its budget.

Medicine man rides again

Potion grows hair, Clarkston man says

by Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News

It's four ounces of pure dynamite--if you're bald, that is. "Dr. Frederick's Hair Tonic," retailing at $5.50 a four-ounce bottle, actually grows hair--at least that's what Dwight Hurlbut of Allen Road says.

Hurlbut has been bald for 40 years, he said, but after using the clear liquid twice a day for 10 months, he had a new growth of side hair, and is beginning to sprout hairs on the top of his shiny dome.

He doesn't know what's in the preparation--it may be based on champagne, but he couldn't say for sure.

It's maker is a Birmingham bio-chemist in her 50's who apparently prepared the mixture in her basement, Hurlbut and his wife Cora report.

Dr. M. Frederick is not planning to "go national" with the product, they said, which is as yet sold by word of mouth--and at Hurlbut's health food store in Royal Oak.

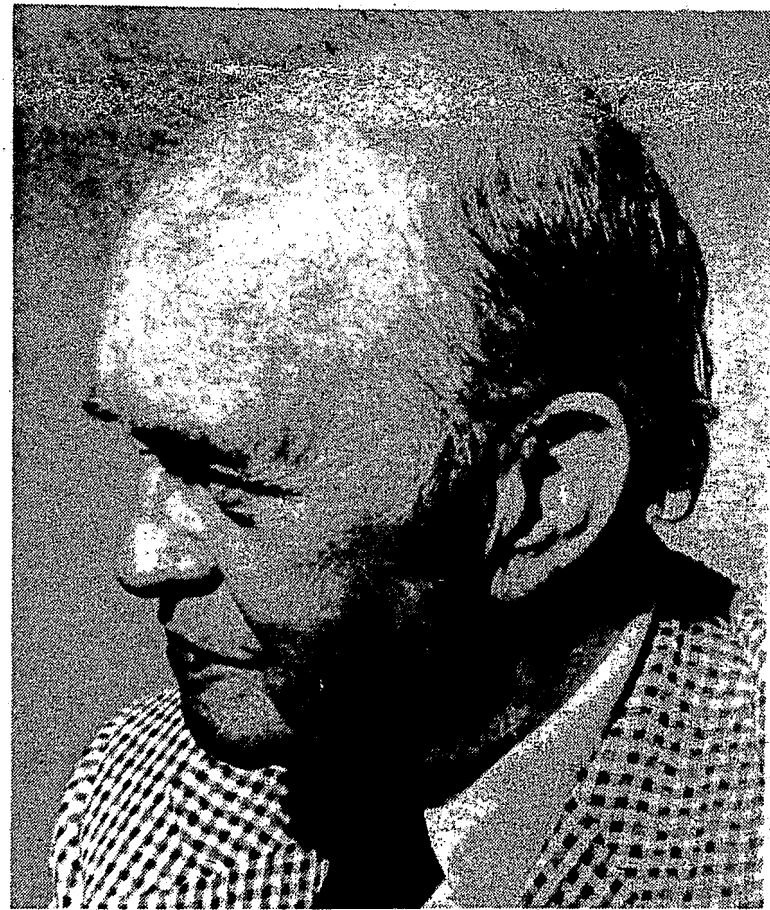

But word of mouth is getting pretty powerful, about the "miracle hair grower." Hurlbut heard about it from Valerie Hilsen, an advertiser with American Royalty who was also doing some work with M. Frederick.

He also got references from some who had tried it before him. And now he is spreading the word among his friends. "Some of whom swear by it."

He sells about four dozen bottles a month at his store, him doing most of the promoting.

And Cora tells her friends to "take a bottle with you--and if it works you can pay me."

"They always come back," she said.

Thems hairs on that there pate.

Hmmmm. But the Hurlbuts don't believe it at first either.

"But I've been bald since my late 20's, so what did I have to lose?" Hurlbut asked. It's what he's gained he's pretty happy about, and Cora thinks he might have a full head of hair in another year.

She thought at first that Dwight's hair was growing because he consumes large amounts of vitamins daily.

But they have friends who do not have the physical conditioning Dwight does, they said, and their hair is growing, too.

There are no apparent side effects to the concoction, they believe, unless you count what happens to the one administering the tonic.

"After applying it to Dwight's hair for so long, I have to have my hands," she joked.

There may even be some side benefits. Dwight says the tonic has cured his dandruff.

Whether or not it also takes care of chilblains, vertigo, rheumatism, heartburn, or athlete's foot, only the good doctor knows.

"After applying it to Dwight's hair for so long,
I have to shave my hands," she joked.

County parks board takes on Davisburg dam, Independence land purchase

Two major purchases for the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department were set in motion by the County's parks commission last week.

The group voted to put $50,000 from quarter mill parks and recreation funding into the capital budget for construction of a new dam at the Davisburg Mill Pond.

It also okayed application for a federal grant which would permit acquisition of 50 acres of hardwood forest adjacent to Independence-Oaks. The property is now owned by Ted Grey.

Parks director Eric Reickel said since the department does not yet know what it will cost to build a new dam, it is still trying to find additional sources of funding. The dam was severely damaged in a storm earlier this spring.

"The dam is within the park boundary, and that park was purchased with land and water funds and park millage. We have to face the financial obligation to do whatever is necessary to keep it in operation," Reickel said.

Also considered for Springfield-Oaks is a new septic field servicing the present golf club house. The club has operated with the use of holding tanks until now, Reickel said.

Three new four-inch wells costing $8,610 will be sunk at Groveland and Independence parks.

Both nines of the Springfield Golf Course will be closed June 15, he reported, with hopes that the new back nine will be in operation by August 1. Severe storms contributing to construction delays have made the shutdown necessary, the director said.

Commissioners approved four concerts including an indoor rock concert this Saturday for the Springfield-Oaks Activities Center. Springfield Township Supervisor Don Rogers said he had not been notified of the plans he received a circular being distributed by promoters.

Harlequin is due to play Saturday night with a Blue Grass festival later this month, a Country Western 4th of July celebration and Circus Vargas later in the summer.

In other business the commission turned down an overture of Browns Tri-City Real Estate of Clawson which would like to sell the nine-hole golf course known as Groveland Valley Country Club to the county. The course is adjacent to the present Groveland-Oaks Park.

Clarkston address for whole township?

How would residents of Independence Township, particularly those with Waterford, Drayton Plains and Pontiac mailing addresses, feel if all the township were given a Clarkston postal designation?

It's something the people of Waterford Township are working on in connection with the forthcoming Bicentennial, and Independence Township Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie thinks it might be a good idea for this area.

Were there little opposition to the idea, a petition drive would follow and state legislators' help would be sought to pressure the Postal Service into doing the job.

"We could ask for Independence Township designation," Glennie said, "but that would mean that every address in the township would have to be changed. The majority of the people now receive their mail through the Clarkston Post Office, and therefore a Clarkston designation would be less upsetting."

He and The Clarkston News would be interested in what you think.

Baseball players won't attend graduation

Ten Clarkston High School seniors will not be graduating with their class in commencement ceremonies at 10 a.m. Saturday at Pine Knob. The ten are members of the Wolves' championship baseball team and due to play in the regionals at that time at Pontiac Jaycee Park.

School officials report they did everything they could to get changes in time agreed upon by the participating schools, but the best compromise was to move the game to 11 a.m. which still wouldn't give the players enough time to attend graduation. Efforts to put play back any later were foiled by Royal Oak Kimball High School.

Clarkston School Board candidates state their positions

Voters at the June 9 election will be asked to approve five operating mills for ten years, and fill two four-year terms on the Clarkston Board of Education.

The school millage vote will not affect the current overall rate of 28.21 mills or $28.21 per $1,000 of state equalized property tax evaluation.

Approval of this millage which helps to finance the district's general fund budget will not provide for media rooms or multi-purpose rooms, or even a new junior high school in the district. If that question eventually comes before voters, as proposed, it will not come before fall.

Seven candidates, including the two incumbents, seek election to the board. The Clarkston News, as in past practice, has solicited statements from each of the candidates and they are printed here in alphabetical order.

DONALD CHARLES BALZARINI

10270 Reese Road

Balzarini, a high school teacher in Pontiac, is married and has two children. With the U.S. Navy from 1956 to 1960, he is currently commanding officer of the Naval Reserve, Construction Battalion in Southfield. His recreation includes skiing, paddleball, swimming and gardening.

He says, "The major accomplishment I would strive for would be to improve the quality of education in the Clarkston school system. Curriculum improvements to include elementary art, music, physical education, and language programs should be incorporated. Imaginative, challenging classes are needed at the high school level with the realization that the large group lecture methods utilized in some areas are often boring and counter-productive.

"Each student should be afforded the opportunity, by the educational system, to achieve his maximum potential both physically and intellectually.

"As a professional educator, I would not be lost by the intellectual terminology sometimes directed toward board members. I am aware of both the capabilities of our educational system and the new and innovative concepts being developed.

"My military experience has taught me leadership and the necessity for leadership, an area of responsibility in which our school administrators must excel.

"Our community has expanded considerably in recent years and many parents, expecting a worthwhile educational system are dismayed at some of the things they find.

"There is an evident lack of communication between some administrative staff members, teachers and parents. This leads to conflict and a resultant loss of educational excellence. Channels of communication must be freely available to insure the schools remain an integral part of the larger society which they reflect."

RICHARD ESSER JR.

21 East Washington

Esser, sales manager for Turtle Top of Michigan, is married and the father of five children, three of whom have graduated from the Clarkston system with two still attending.

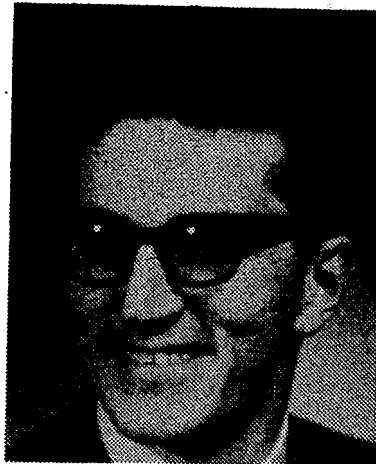

He has served for two years as youth council chairman for the Pontiac YMCA board, is a board member of the Lakeland Athletic Association, current board member and vice president of Independence Township Athletic Association. He has been a resident of Clarkston five years.

He says, "The district needs to explore methods of enhancing environmental awareness at all three levels of education, and develop a curriculum facet designed to improve our recreational pursuits.

"Constant improvement is a necessity. With out administrators and educators across, improved program development is an objective we all have in common. Shouldn't we then have written goals and objectives. How else can we measure improvement and program effectiveness.

"This evaluation technique works and it will result in improved public relations, better community awareness of goals pronounced clarity for all communications objectives, improved administrator and teacher evaluation methods, and better general comprehension of what we all are trying to accomplish.

"We need incorporation of college type scheduling -- electives on a mini-course basis within the regular school semester. Teachers have long suits, special interest areas in which they are enthusiastic authorities. Why not a series of teacher developed courses, presented to and approved by the administration for the students with parallel interest?"

JOSEPH J. FABRIZIO

5033 Low Meadow

Fabrizio, an attorney with law offices in Southfield, is married and has three children, aged 6, 5 and 1. A member of St. Daniel's Church and the Clarkston Area Jaycees, he states, "The most essential accomplishment which I would hope to achieve would be to make the school board more aware of and responsive to the needs and views of the taxpayers, parents and students of the Clarkston School District in order to maintain and improve the quality of education in our district.

"I believe my past experience as an elementary and secondary school teacher and department head, together with the training and experience which I have acquired as a practicing lawyer in this community, provide me with the kind of expertise which will be of considerable benefit to the school board and citizens which it serves.

"I do not believe the needs and views of all of the citizens of the school district have been adequately considered and dealt with in the past due to inadequate dissemination of information. As a consequence, the board has, in the past, had a tendency to make some rather arbitrary and unfortunate decisions, such as in the transferring of elementary school children from one school to another more distant from their homes.

"I believe that the taxpayers, parents and students of the Clarkston School District desire and need to have improved recreational and physical education facilities for elementary school children without unreasonably increasing tax burdens as a result of high costs for unnecessarily elaborate and exotic construction.

incumbent

8135 Rattalee Lake Road

Reickel, director of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, has three children, aged 10, 7 and 3. He is a past president of Bailey Lake PTA, and has been employed in parks and recreation work for the past 15 years. He was appointed to the board last year to fill the unexpired term of Ronald Weber.

He says, "I seek the elected post of Trustee of the Clarkston Board of Education because I developed an interest in the educational process through my activities as a P.T.A. President at the Bailey Lake Elementary School in 1974-75. My interest has increased since my unanimous appointment of the present Board to fill the vacancy of R.E. Weber.

"I am concerned about quality education and am interested in working toward improvement of physical facilities within the district. My experience as a public servant for the past 15 years offers the school district an opportunity to have someone with experience in governmental spending and funding as well as administrative and construction background."

incumbent

5173 Sashabaw

Sanchez, who is seeking his third term on the board, is married and an employee of Pontiac Motor Division. He attends Our Lady of the Lakes Church, is a member of the Knights of Columbus Pope John XXIII Council and the Clarkston Athletic Boosters Club. His hobbies are cooking out, reading and playing golf.

He says, "Living in the area since 1955, interest in community affairs and just being a parent is why I want to continue serving on the board. If elected, I would continue to upgrade the quality of education at all three levels, with emphasis on the basic elementary Reading, Writing and Arithmetic; adding to these are two more R's: Respect and Responsibility plus some discipline.

"A good elementary school should have a pleasant atmosphere where every child can feel valued and successful, a faculty concerned with developing youngsters who delight in learning and programs that respond to each child's needs. I believe we have that here in Clarkston.

"Having my 5th child graduate from this school system and serving two terms as a board member, I feel that the Clarkston School system is one of the best in the area. Our graduates are equal to any in the surrounding communities, which proved that our faculty is doing an exceptional job with our excellent facilities and our administrators are running a sound and top quality system in spite of inflation, increase in cost of living, unemployment and general public attitudes."

JANET R. THOMAS

Mrs. Thomas, a seven-year township resident, is 36 and the mother of four school age children. She is a 1961 graduate of the University of Detroit with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree, and was employed six years with a certified public accounting firm as a staff accountant.

She currently provides financial and accounting services for corporate and private clients, attends St. Daniel's Church and is involved in independence center, PTA and Clarkston Women's Club.

She says, "I believe the basic curriculum can become more responsive to the needs of the students. I would support programs that would encourage proficiency in basic communication skills, such as the current proposals to hire additional reading specialists and a library-media specialist.

"I feel physical education programs can be initiated in the grade schools by hiring personnel and acquiring basic equipment. Supplementary material for individualized learning should be available in all classrooms.

"Greater emphasis should be placed on career education relating academics to long range employment needs. Parents, teachers and administrators working together can develop ways for parents to contribute to the effective operation of the schools.

"If elected, I would work always to be objective in the consideration of priorities and responsible in the use of the resources of this school system."

ROBERT O. VANDERMARK

Another candidate's viewpoint stated

Vandermark is an assessor with the City of Madison Heights and former Independence Township supervisor. He is married and the father of two school age children. He says, "I would like to see the schools have some of the basic programs that have long been accepted by other school districts in the county as standard. Most school systems have long accepted the need for Libraries, Music, Art and Physical Education facilities in the grade schools which we do not have. In addition, some thought must be given toward the poor condition of Clarkston Junior High School. This facility badly needs remodeling. These things all cost money and the taxpayers in these lean times are not going to set still for frivolous proposals. I would like to see the school board begin to work toward improving these things in a level headed way and at a pace that is acceptable to the taxpayers.

"Beginning last year, we saw good improvement in the revenue available to the system. This has been made possible by the Bursley State Aid to the schools formula which is very beneficial to low valuation school districts such as Clarkston. If additional taxes are needed for improvements they will have to be realistic and modest if they are to have voter approval.

"If our children are going to compete effectively in the world, they will need a first rate education. In today's tight labor market only the best people are going to find work and opportunity.

"In the past we have been blessed with a stable well administered school system. With improvements in programs and facilities, we will in time, be able to have one of the best school systems in the county. I would like to be able to say that I helped to work toward that goal.

"I have worked for the last nine years in Municipal Government. I am familiar with matters of taxation and municipal bonding. Having been supervisor of the township and its assessor, I believe that I understand the community and the taxpayers attitude regarding his taxes and the services he receives for them. I understand the planning and zoning problems of the township which definitely relate to planning of future school facilities and programs. I have served the community well for the last four years and I would like the opportunity to serve again in this small way. As a professional appraiser, I am familiar with construction costs and the problems involved in constructing new facilities. The function of the school board is to provide basic direction to the programs and policies of the school system that the administration can work with. I intend to be that kind of a school board member and accept that kind of responsibility. My education and experience as a public official and concert for the education of my children qualifies me to serve on the board."

Steven Neff, two-and-one-half-years-old, took time out Friday to "Sip with Sarah," during Clarkston's Stroll Days activities. Four-year-old Sarah Schultz was selling lemonade for five cents a cup, which appealed to a lot of thirsty strollers. "She's the youngest businesswoman in Clarkston," her father joked.

Home needed for French student

Would you like to give your children the opportunity to speak a foreign language? Become acquainted with the customs of another land? Broaden their viewpoints about the world?

You could do it by calling Township Clerk Robert Lay who is seeking a home for a French high school boy who will be here next year for the Bicentennial.

The student's visit is part of an exchange program being worked out by the Independence-Clarkston Bicentennial Committee. Another student from England is also expected to participate.

The students will attend Clarkston High School next year. All they need is a home that will welcome them.

EDC gives up on court plans

Clarkston's Economic Development Corporation (EDC) has dropped plans to submit bids for the 52nd District Court to be built in the Clarkston area.

Nelson Kimball, president, said "While we are all very disappointed not to be able to solve the court problem, the EDC is not going to be dissolved immediately. By law, we have six months to develop a plan, and after all the organizational work involved, we should be exploring other areas where we could be of benefit before dissolution."

The EDC, formed of Clarkston residents under a new state law which permits the sale of tax-free bonds for construction for a local unit of government, failed in a previous attempt to keep the District Court within Clarkston boundaries. It did not become a legal entity until after deadline for submission of bids on the court to the county.

As a result, the county rejected all bids received and has made a new bid deadline of June 4.

Kimball said the EDC has rejected the previous plans to building the courthouse on the Rose Garden, behind the Mini-Mall off Depot Road, because of negative reactions on the part of many merchants who felt a courthouse located in that area would hurt an already critical parking problem.

He added that the cost of adequate foundations on the Rose Garden were found to be greater than originally estimated.

Kimball said the EDC has been negotiating with the Hawke family, trying to find an economically feasible plan to buy the Hawk Tool property on West Washington and locate the court there.

"Unfortunately the project is too large to be solved within the bidding deadlines established by the county," Kimball said.

Lakeview Cemetery burgled

The office and maintenance building at Lakeview Cemetery, 6150 White Lake Road, was broken into between 10:20 p.m. Sunday and 7:40 a.m. Monday, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies report. A total of $1,204 in tools was stolen, and an additional $250 in damage was gone during the burglary.

The burglars broke a window to get in, forced open a desk drawer and damaged cabinets, and some of the doors, deputies said.

6 bus drivers honored

Six Clarkston Community School bus drivers were among the 156 drivers receiving award at the May 27th awards dinner for Oakland County Bus Drivers. Recipients of this award must participate in the Oakland Schools School Bus Driver Safety Education Program for a minimum of five years. Oakland County is the only county in the United States that honors its drivers this way.

Those receiving awards from Clarkston were Mary Evelyn Smith, 10 years; Katherine Davis, Jeanette LaPointe, Mary Jon Russell, Robert Shagena and Edward Whitaker all received 5 year awards.

The annual event was held at West Bloomfield High School and was sponsored by the Transportation Supervisors Association of Oakland County.

Bike registration protects ownership

Independence Township Police Services will have a bicycle registration from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., June 14 at Clarkston High School.

All owners of bikes are encouraged to register the make and number of their vehicles and to receive the sticker announcing the bike has been registered.

A lot of bike thefts in the area have been reported this spring, according to Director Jack McCall. Those that are registered, or have been registered in previous programs, are more likely to be returned to the proper owner, McCall said.

Vote for millage renewal

Voters are being asked to renew 5 mills operating tax for the Clarkston School District when they vote for two new board members next Monday, June 9.

The operating tax approval will allow the district to maintain its present services, and has nothing to do with providing expanded facilities at either the elementary or junior high level. That question, if it reaches voters, won't come until fall at the earliest.

Your approval of the operating tax is needed. With it, Clarkston still has the third lowest operating millage of any school district in Oakland County. Without it, the quality of education and the staffing available to furnish it would be seriously affected.

Vote YES to continue the five mill operating tax for ten years. Your school property tax will remain at 28.21 mills or equalized valuation. There will be no increase.

State can be highhanded

The high handedness with which the state dictates the fortunes of small villages like Clarkston has been assailed by Village President Keith Hallman.

We think he's right. The State Highway Department, when it makes decisions to ban parking in town or to create turning lanes on Main Street, is affecting the welfare of local citizens and business people, as well as facilitating those who only drive through the area.

For such decisions to be made without informing local officials is a political gaff of the worst order. People who are affected adversely turn to their local officials for support and explanation, and when the answers aren't forthcoming, they're irate—and with some reason.

Yet local officials can't stop what they don't know is happening. And furthermore, they're smart enough to realize that restrictions, once begun, are only a step in the door.

We venture to say it won't be many years before parking is banned in the business area on both sides of Main Street, particularly if the state proceeds later with its intentions of making M-15 four lanes from Dixie to Paramus.

The bottle neck there will produce further widening, and once that happens Clarkston's bad parking problem will become immeasurably worse. The only way the state will have of pushing four lanes of traffic through town will be to ban parking on Main Street.

'If It Fitz . . .'

His elixir is bleeding

by Jim Fitzgerald

Major General Kenneth Houghton didn't mean to, but he reminded me I'd completely forgotten to celebrate the 30th anniversary of a day I swore I'd never forget.

That was May 8, 1945; the day World War II ended in Europe. Yes, poor readers, this is a war story.

When news of the German surrender came, I was in a hospital in a suburb of Munich. I had been suffering there for several days. Back home in Michigan, I had already been hailed as a hero. In the Alibi Bar there was a colorful sign saluting me as their first alumnus to be struck down in battle by syphilis. "He risked his life for us, bravely ignoring the warnings of the training films," the sign said.

Actually, I had the flu. I got sick sleeping on the stupid ground in the lousy rain. That's why, even today, when someone suggests I go camping, I automatically retort: "Why should I, our side won the war, didn't it?"

Anyway, by the time the army shuffled my fever-racked body through several tent cities and finally into a hospital, I was no longer sick. But I kept moaning and even put a hunk of soap in each armpit. It is a military myth that you can give yourself a fever by putting soap under your arms. All it does is force you to walk with your arms tight by your sides.

But I stole a few extra days in bed anyway. I told the doctor I walked that way because I'd swallowed my rifle. I think I offered to prove it by spitting bullets, or something like that. It's been 30 years and I can't remember everything.

You may wonder what's the point in revealing my cowardice at this late date. The point is that I wasn't a coward, I was a typical soldier.

We weren't really chicken, but we weren't fools, either. Happiness was where the bullets weren't. Foot soldiers are the same today.

Whenever you hear a soldier begging the doctor to let him out of the hospital, even though he has 2 broken legs, so he can "Get back to my buddies and kill some more rotten Germans"—whenever you hear that you know there's popcorn for sale in the lobby.

Major General Houghton, who turned my calendar back to 1945, is commander of the 3rd Marine Division. It was his men who attacked the wrong island in the bloody retrieval of the Mayaguez in Cambodia. He beat his breast on TV and explained why it was such a great victory for his boys.

"At the risk of sounding like a warmonger, I would describe it as elixir for morale. These young marines have been training and want to get out and do a job." That's what he said.

An "elixir" is a potion with magical powers to restore and cure. The general is claiming his men get bored and puny just training to kill. It makes them feel much better to experience the real thing—to shoot at live targets and to be shot back at in return.

Of course, the elixir failed the marines who died in the Mayaguez adventure. It didn't do much for those wounded or missing, either. And it probably doesn't help those parents much to know their sons weren't bored when they were killed.

Given a choice, in 1945 or 1975, most marines would pick a weekend in San Diego as a much greater elixir than invading an island.

At the risk of sounding disrespectful, I'd say General Houghton should be selling the popcorn in the lobby.

Slump's on!

by Jean Saile

Ever notice how much harder it is to get up the morning after Memorial Day, as compared to the morning before?

It may not be scientific, but it's a fact my flow of adrenalin slows up beginning with this opening observance of summer and ebbs away until vacation.

Sometimes, it gets restored after the family camping ritual and sometimes it takes until school opens in the fall before the valves begin pumping again.

It depends on the vacation. Bluenose II pulled into Detroit out of Halifax, Nova Scotia, last week and somehow vacation seemed nearer. We're headed for Nova Scotia this year, the Atlantic coast and the lobster dinners, and for once we've decided to do it on a leisurely basis.

Not for us this year that 500 miles a day. Last big trip out we wound up in Oregon and most of the 10 roles of home movies, when developed, showed all the states in between at 80 miles an hour. Obviously, I wasn't watching who was frittering away the film.

Destination is all important, but this year the going and coming is going to be important, too.

Pat will be with us, the first year she's been able to get off work since high school. Mike and Janet are working. They won't be able to go, and though that makes me sad, it is nice to know that those who are left will all fit into one car.

The planning was getting hairy, until we learned they'd be gainfully employed and unable to accompany us.

Doug, who gets a break from his bowling alley job, was initially headed west, but when we started talking Nova Scotia decided that was west enough for him.

He's a great ocean kid, and can find more things of wonderment to the entire family in one afternoon than the rest of us can find in a week.

Even Pete and Liz are saving their money for the trip, but Pete will be broke. He's due at a Civil Air Patrol encampment a week prior to our leaving, and he's got holes in his pocket the same as his mother when it comes to something like that.

The maps have been pulled out off and on for weeks now, people plotting courses and camp grounds. We've looked over the trailer we'll be taking, and it looks good. Friends of friends with experience in Nova Scotia are relaying advice, and the tempo is picking up.

All except in the normal course of business—like I said the adrenalin is ebbing.

Career night helpful to many Army Sgt. Ron Cullison said his table was busy—more are interested in a service career considering the current job market, he said.

by Mary Warner

A number of students and parents took advantage of career counseling last Wednesday at the first annual career night at Clarkston High School, sponsored by Clarkston Rotary Club.

Parents and students had an opportunity to ask representatives from the armed services, the state police, John-Wesley College, Delta Airlines, and many other career fields what their jobs are all about.

Students got a chance to find out what kinds of preparatory classes they should take for their desired career, how much college is needed in their field, and what kinds of job opportunities are available.

Leif Gruenberg, a sophomore at Clarkston High, thought he might be interested in law enforcement, and was busy collecting data from the state police trooper. Leif thought this type of career counseling was "okay, but some of the stuff is kind of weird."

What's weird, for instance, he said, were categories like mortuary science and post office work.

"But I suppose if kids are interested in that, they'd be glad it was there."

He said it's not difficult, contrary to some opinions, to get career counseling well in advance for high school and junior high students—"All they have to do is go talk to a counselor."

Brian Johnson was looking into the Air Force, although his main interest is photography, he said. A 10th grader at Clarkston High, he thought he might also want to be a pilot.

Checking out the state police, also, was sophomore Sharon Morgan. She asked the trooper where she would have to go to school for police work, how long it would take, and "if the men and women went to school together."

Sgt. Ron Cullison said there was a lot of interest at his army table for possible service careers, a lot of the interest generating from the current tight job market, he said.

"I think kids are realizing that they need experience and training to get a job these days."

A lot of activity buzzed around the Delta Airlines table, according to reservations agent Linda Larson. Airlines and service jobs are the most glamorous, according to Rotary head Jack Frost.

A lot of the other fields were represented by Rotary members, such as medical, engineering, plastics, and barbering, to name just a few of the 23 categories covered.

Some categories, such as pharmacy and journalism, had to be explained to inquiring students.

Marie Rathsburg [right] and other classmates find out career opportunities at Delta Airlines from reservations agent Linda Larson.

Holding down the journalism section was Neil Munro, associate editor of the Oakland Press.

Voc school art show

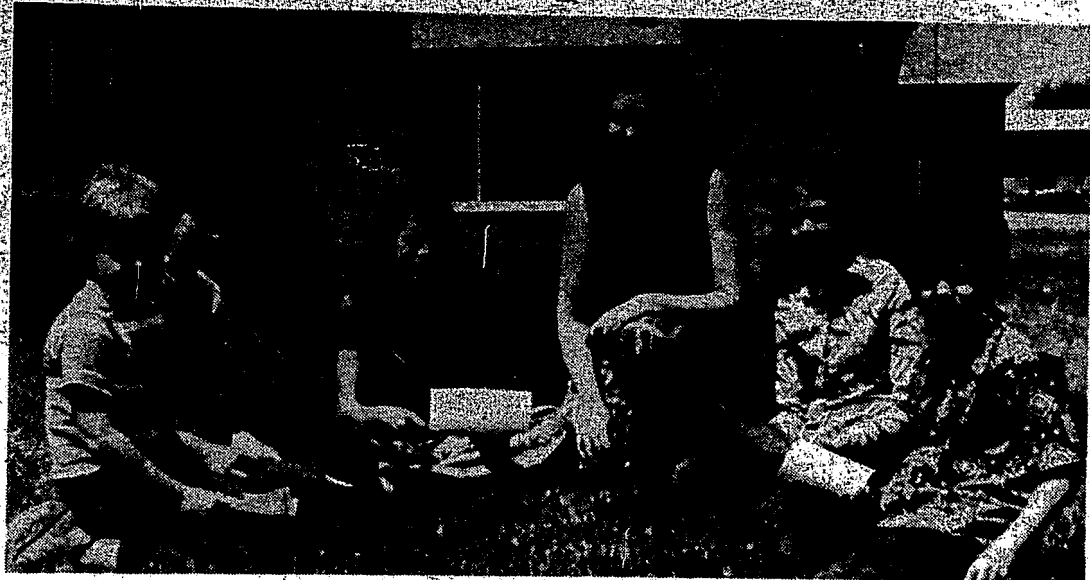

Cindy Purves had an ad for Time on display.

Larry Keech, commercial art teacher at the Northwest Oakland Vocational School, was the object of this poster, one of hundreds tacked up in the workroom of the commercial art class. The room drew as much interest from visitors to the school's commercial art show last Wednesday as the displays in the library, Keech said.

Checking out the commercial art displays during the Northwest Oakland Vocational School commercial art show was Pam Brooks, a junior at Clarkston High School. Pam will be taking commercial art this summer, she said.

Bailey Lake Elementary students received certificates of award Thursday for their entries in the art reflections contest sponsored by the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mike McCormick took highest honors for the school, winning both a school, school district and district 7 award for composition.

Mike wrote a poem about Davy Crockett.

Winning both school and school district awards for their entries were Mark Manuszak, for a drawing of the pilgrims, Angela Balzarini for a drawing of a steamboat, Julie Eriksson for a silhouette of Abraham Lincoln and Paul Gilchrist for his drawing of a rocket ship.

The theme of the contest was "Our Heritage."

Winning honorable mentions for Bailey Lake were Mariann Dunn, grade 5, Alyson Dunlop, grade 5, David Stevens, grade 1, Steven Willis, grade 2, Andy Balzarini, grade 4, Ruth Acton, grade 1 and Mark Vackaro, grade 6.

New Improved Services for Clarkston Customers.

Beginning Saturday, June 7, new electronic telephone office equipment will go into operation providing new long distance service for customers in the 623 and 625 telephone exchanges.

New long distance service. Now you can dial person-to-person, collect, credit-card and bill-to-third-number calls. Even from coin phones.

Here's how it works:

Within your 313 Area: Dial 0 (Zero) plus the number you want to reach.

Outside your 313 Area: Dial 0 (Zero) plus the Area Code and the phone number.

In either case, an operator (assisted by high-speed computer) will intercept your call and ask, "May I help you?"

Dialing person-to-person calls.

Simply tell the operator the name of the person you're calling.

Dialing collect calls.

Just answer, "Collect..." and give your name.

Dialing credit-card calls.

Give the operator your credit-card number.

Dialing bill-to-third-number calls.

All you do is say, "Bill to..." and give the Area Code and telephone number.

In each of the above situations your call is being automatically routed through while you are giving the operator the necessary information.

No change in the way you direct dial station-to-station long distance calls.

Within your 313 Area:

Continue to Dial 1 plus the phone number you wish to reach.

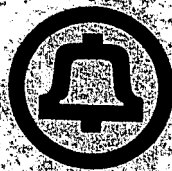

Outside your 313 Area:

Dial 1, then the Area Code and the phone number.

No change in making emergency and assistance calls.

Do as you've always done. Dial 0 for "operator".

We're doing everything we can to make the changes as smooth as possible for our Clarkston area customers. And if you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call your Michigan Bell Business Office at 332-9911.

CJH wins all-sports trophy

The Clarkston Junior High baseball team grabbed the CJH-Sashabaw All-Sports trophy for their school this year with their win May 22 over Sashabaw.

The Wolverines beat the Cougars 22-1 in that game, which put the all-sports score between the schools at 7-5, with only one more game, a girls' track meet, to be played.

Clarkston won that meet too, winning the trophy eight games to Sashabaw's five.

Tim Fogg pitched against Sashabaw the first six innings of the deciding game, only giving up one run and striking out eight batters.

Tim Birtsis finished up the game on the mound, striking out all three batters in the last inning.

Fogg, Skip Kulaszewski and Steve Sawyer were top hitters, with three apiece. Grabbing home runs for the Wolverines were Rory Tarp and Brian Snyder.

The Wolverines finished up their season with games against Rochester Van Hoosen and Lake Orion West Tuesday and Thursday.

They lost to Van Hoosen 6-2, but beat Lake Orion 11-4, making their record for the season 7-7.

Tim Birtsis pitched for the Wolverines in that game, with Tim Fogg acting as relief. Snyder, Kulaszewski and Mark Foster picked up the most hits with two apiece.

The junior high will honor its players at a spring sports banquet June 10.

by Dave Johnson

Coach Ray Warner's JV baseball team concluded its 1975 season with victories over Brandon and Rochester Adams. Clarkston squeaked by Brandon 26-1 and nipped Adams 17-2. The Wolves finished their impressive season as Wayne-Oakland league champions with an 8-2 record. Last week's victories increased Clarkston's over-all record to 15 wins and 2 losses.

On Tuesday, Clarkston hosted Brandon in a non-league game. By the third inning the game was all but over, as the Wolves held firm control with a 19-1 lead. Clarkston scored seven additional runs in the final four innings, to take the victory 26-1.

Kevin Ridley, Mark Czinder and Dave Johnson led the hitting attack with four hits apiece. Ridley, Johnson, and Doug Manigold each contributed home-runs in the contest. Ridley and Johnson added five RBI's apiece, Bob Kratt knocked in four, and Manigold had three.

Don Blower pitched the entire game, scattered five hits, walked two and struck out sixteen. The victory was Blower's fifth against no losses.

On Wednesday, Rochester Adams invaded Clarkston in hopes of upsetting the Wayne-Oakland League champs. But on the contrary, the Wolves banged out fifteen hits, committed no errors, and decisively beat Adams, 17-1, in Clarkston's season finale.

Jeff Schatz picked up his sixth victory in seven decisions, but needed relief help from Todd Himes in the process. Schatz gave up six hits in six innings, walked five, and struck out ten. Himes received his first save while pitching the final inning, gave up two hits, walked one and struck out one.

Doug Manigold, Don Blower, Mark Czinder, and Dick Armstrong each had two hits. Blower picked up four RBI's and Manigold knocked in three. Blower also belted his fourth home run of the season.

Clarkston's 1975 Jr. Varsity baseball team rewrote the record book by breaking fifteen of the JV records. Among the team records were most wins (15), fewest tosses (2), most homeruns (15), highest team batting average (.373), most runs scored (169), and highest winning percentage (.882).

Individual records broken by the 1975 JV Wolves are most home runs (Don Blower - 4) highest batting average (Kevin Ridley - .550), and most victories by a pitcher (Jeff Schatz - 6).

Coach Roy Warner wants to thank all of the fans who came to see the JV Wolves and sends special thanks to the parents of his players

Wolves headed for regionals

by Dave Johnson

Clarkston's Varsity baseball team lost out on their bid to sweep both tournaments in which they played, but did succeed in winning the more important District Tournament.

The Wolves advanced to the George Gary Invitational finals by defeating Walled Lake Western, 12-1, and Birmingham Brother Rice, 5-4. Unfortunately, the Wolves lost the final game, 5-3, to highly rated Hazel Park.

Clarkston had little trouble with Walled Lake Western in the Gary Invitational quarterfinal. Tom Ross pitched an excellent ballgame, gave up five hits, walked six and struck out nine.

Both Ross and Dan Blower picked up three hits apiece, including a triple. Blower also hit a fourth-inning homer while collecting three RBI's.

The victory over Walled Lake Western enabled Clarkston to play Birmingham Brother Rice in the semi-finals. The Wolves won a thriller by breaking a 4-4 score in the seventh inning. Kevin Hesse drove in the winning run with sacrifice fly to left. It was Hesse's third RBI of the night.

Winning pitcher Steve Howe

went the distance, held Brother Rice to three hits, walked three and sent eight batters down on strikes. The victory was Howe's 8th of the year against no losses.

Clarkston went into the finals against Hazel Park as underdogs. The Vikings had held their opponents scoreless in the tournament for 30 straight innings and were eager to make it 37.

Hazel Park crossed the plate five times through the first six innings while shutting out Clarkston. This increased their consecutive streak to 36.

The Wolves made a gallant effort in the seventh inning to tie the score, but fell two runs short. Hazel Park won the tournament with a 5-3 victory.

Dan Blower won the Most Valuable Player Award in the George Gary Tournament for getting nine hits in thirteen trips to the plate.

On Saturday, Clarkston resumed their quest for the District Championship; and they won. The Wolves blitzed Waterford Township in the semi-finals, 2-0, and defeated Pontiac Northern, 5-2, in the finals, to win the championship.

Clarkston scored the only runs of the game against Waterford in the fourth inning. Jeff Ferguson led off with a single and was advanced to second on a sacrifice. The Waterford Township pitcher relinquished two walks to load the bases. Ferguson scored on a grounder when the second baseman threw the ball wild to the plate. The second run scored on a fielders' choice.

Steve Howe won his ninth game of the season in pitching his second consecutive three-hitter, walked zero and struck out seven.

The victory over Waterford Township meant that the Wolves had to face Pontiac Northern in the finals that same afternoon. The Huskies advanced to the finals by defeating Milford earlier that morning.

The game was scoreless through the first four innings, but Clarkston broke loose for five runs in the fifth. Mike Hooper walked and was followed by singles from Dan Blower, George Porritt and Paul Breininger to score two runs. A sacrifice by Steve Ronk and a Huskie error allowed three more Wolves to score.

Pontiac Northern rallied for two runs in the seventh inning and had a chance to tie with the bases loaded, but couldn't do anymore damage.

Pitcher Bill Mathews won the game, gave up six hits, walked six, and struck out six, but needed relief help from Steve Howe to preserve the victory.

The Wolves have a game scheduled against Brandon on Monday, in preparation for the Regionals which begin on Saturday, June 7, at Jaycee Park.

CJH track team wins JH league

Last Thursday night the CJHS 9th grade track team rounded out a very good season by winning the Central Oakland Junior High School Athletic League meet. The team totaled 68 points with West Bloomfield on their spikes with 64.

The 880-relay of Jeff Boyer, Bill Singleton, Chris Leaf, and Ray Bell placed 2. In the hurdles, Rick Jenks shone in both the high and low hurdles winning both and setting a newschool record of 17.0 in the highs. Bruce Collins placed 2 in the lows.

John Baker also turned in a stellar performance by winning the long jump, the 100 and 220 yard dashes and anchored the winning 440-relay which was also manned by Bill Singleton, Chris Leaf and Ray Bell.

Bell placed 2 in the 100 and Singleton nabbed a 3rd in the vault. Paul Maas placed fourth in the mile and Barry Davis was 5th in the 440. In the 2-mile Matt Harris ran one of the toughest races of the meet, placing 2 behind W.B. Schrader.

Girls finish season 7-7

The girls' varsity softball team finished the season with a 7-7 record after defeating Waterford Mott and losing to Waterford Township in District play.

Saturday, May 24, Clarkston squeaked by Mott with a score of 13-12. Clarkston pulled out to an early 1-0 lead, but Mott regained the lead and held a comfortable 7-3 lead going into the 6th inning. In the top of the 6th inning Clarkston collected 6 runs on walks to Diane Curry and Dede Miller, hits by Mary Anderson, Vicky Verch and Autumn Matlock, and 3 Mott errors.

Mott added 2 more runs in the bottom of the 6th to tie the score at 9-9. After a walk and an error, Diane Curry sacrificed in the go-ahead run. Dede Miller then collected 2 RBI's on a base hit. Mott errors and another hit by Nancy Chartier put the game just out of reach for Mott.

This Saturday Clarkston was eliminated from state tournament play after a 12-7 loss to Waterford Township. Clarkston held an early 4-0 lead, but township collected 7 runs in the 3rd inning with the help of a 3-run homer and a bases-loaded double. Clarkston had 9 hits opposed to Township's 6 hits, but Clarkston errors and Township's power hits put the game away for the Skippers. Leading Clarkston hitters for the afternoon were pitcher Dede Miller with 2 hits and 4 RBI's and Jody Combs and Kathy Rush with 2 hits each.

Seniors Cindy Hunt, Lynette Marino and Michelle Strobehn will be greatly missed on next year's team. Catcher Cindy Hunt has received honors as first team all-league for the last two years, and was selected second team all county this year. Besides being an outstanding defensive player, Cindy has a .383 batting average with a home run and 5 triples to her credit. Cindy demonstrated her versatility by taking over the short stop position for tournament play. She proved to be a fine short stop, as well as catcher.

Michelle Strobehn is a three-year veteran outfielder. This year she contributed 2 home runs, a triple, and a double. Michelle has also given the team many exciting moments with her "speed" on the base paths.

This year was Lynette Marino's first year of varsity ball, and she came through with key hits when they were most needed. Lynette played outfield and third base. Her enthusiasm was a great asset to the team.

Top CHS athletes

Clarkston High School athletes of the week, as chosen by administrators and coaches, are Dan Saunders, a senior, and Dede Miller, a junior.

Dan, son of Mr. and Mrs.

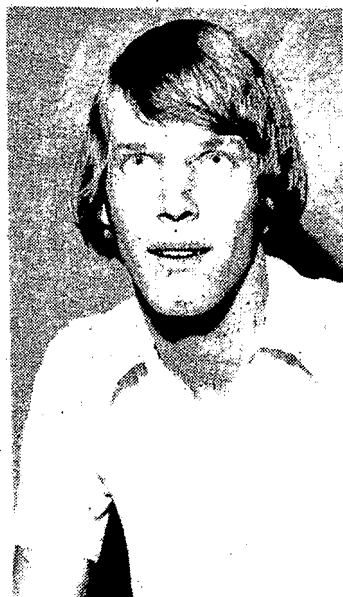

James Saunders, 5050 Oak Park, played 1st singles in tennis throughout the year. Playing at first, Dan ran into very tough competition, but was able to run in the best win-loss record at 13-7. He was also the only player to win at regionals. Playing at the league meet, Dan was seeded third and went to the semifinals to prove the seed correct.

Dede is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, 7245 Deer Lake Road. She was the only pitcher on varsity softball most of the year, her record standing at 7-5. She also pitched the winning game in the pre-district round against Mott. Dede collected three hits in three trips to the plate against Mott and was on base five times. Her season batting average is .367.

Win state skating awards

Five Clarkston area students took honors recently in the Michigan State skating championships, held at the Skate World in Troy.

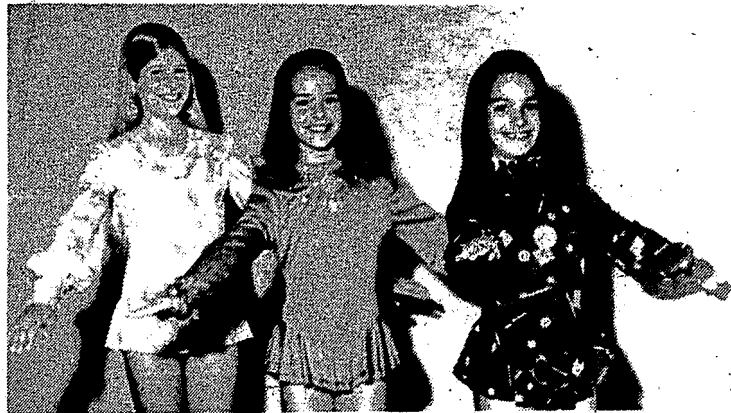

Maria Petrucci of Olympus Street took a third in elementary girls' figures. Kim Campbell of Sashabaw Road took a first in freshman girls' singles and a second in freshman girls' figures.

Kim also won a first with her partner in freshman international dance, and a first with her partner in freshman pairs.

Kim's sister Terry won the freshman international girls' single and with her partner Greig Patton of Balmoral Terrace won the free dance.

Greig singly won the freshman boys' figures. His sister Stacey won second place in elementary girls' figures, and with her partner took a third in elementary international dance and a third in elementary pairs.

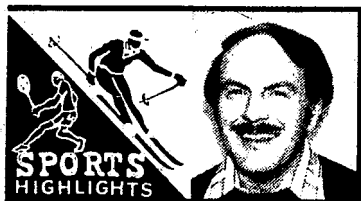

The students will be competing in regional skating championships at Akron, Ohio over July 4.

Maria Petrucci, Kim Campbell and Stacy Patton took honors in the Michigan State skating championships.

Greig Patton and Terry Campbell took honors for the free dance.

Experts tell us that all over the world, the greyhound has been employed as the most reliable and efficient chaser among dogs. Even Neolithic man used the greyhound for a runner, and a hunting dog. When dogs no longer were used to catch prey to supply their owner with food, coursing came into its own as an independent, legitimate sport. In Roman times, the courser was advised to pet his dog after the chase, so it would be sure to feel its owner's appreciation.

Be sure you see the experts at COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457 before buying any sporting goods. Don't forget Father's Day, June 15th. We have a variety of tennis clothing, tennis balls, racquets and equipment for badminton, racquet and paddle ball as well as tennis. Open: Daily 9:30am-6pm, Sat until 5pm.

TIP FOR THE WEEK:

Remove hard water stains from glass by allowing them to soak in sour milk for a day or two.

First championship team remembered

The first Wayne Oakland League baseball championship was won back in 1955 by a team coached by Gus Birtsas, presently principal of Sashabaw Junior High School. Twenty years have elapsed since that first championship and the Wayne Oakland baseball title has eluded all other Clarkston teams until Paul Tungate's charges won the title this year.

In recalling the players on the first championship team, Birtsas commented that it was a veteran team made up mostly of seniors, many of whom settled in and around the Clarkston and Michigan areas after graduation. The team revolved around the pitching of senior, Bob Yahnke, who later pitched for the Tigers at their Norfolk, Virginia, Class B minor league team.

Other seniors on the team were Vern Carmean at 1st base, Richard Johnston at 2nd base, Roger Johnson behind the plate, Lanny Leak at centerfield with Joe Remback, Gordon Campbell and Jack Brooks sharing outfield duties.

Junior Gary Nelson held down left field and was the number two pitcher and also batted clean up for the Wolves. Other juniors who participated were infielders, Clyde Kizer and Gary Robertson. Two underclassmen who played very important parts on this team were sophomore George Lang, who filled the spot at shortstop and freshman Leroy Parks, who held down 3rd base. Others may also have been on the team but these above players were the predominate ones.

Birtsas also recalled that this was a very competitive team that would never give up no matter what the score. He felt that it was defensively a very sound team with power in the lineup from top to bottom. He also mentioned that most of these students were honor roll students in the classroom and had great leadership qualities.

That year of 1954-55 was a great year in other sports as most of these boys participated in either three or four sports. In the fall they won the Wayne Oakland football championship under Coach Ed Hintz and continued their success in basketball under Coach Dom Mauti by winning the district championship and going to the finals of the regionals before being beaten by Troy. Also in track, with Mauti again coaching, this group set many records that are still Clarkston High records or were only recently broken.

The graduates three

When the Alan Solleys got together June 15 for a graduation open House, they will have to have three cakes, three toasts and a triple set of everything else.

Because the Solleys have three graduating in their family--Mrs. Beatrice Solley, her son Alan Jr. and exchange student David Ginez.

Mrs. Solley, whose husband Alan Sr. owns Solley's Furniture and Appliance on M-15, will be graduating from Waterford June 9. Alan and David will be graduating from Brandon High School June 10.

Mrs. Solley went to Waterford Township High School for two years part-time to get the degree she has wanted since 1938, when she dropped out of school in Ortonville to marry Al.

She always said she would go back, so she finally did, much to the surprise of son Alan, who thought "she never would."

But her family is happy about it, she said. Only thing Al Solley will have to worry about now is paying for three graduation gowns and all the other graduation necessities.

Plans for the trio include college for Alan and David--David returning to Ecuador this month--and a helping hand for Al by Beatrice, who has been helping out in the store in the past.

DANCE RECITAL

"Dancing Is," will be presented by the students of Mrs. Sandy Marion Sunday at 4:30 p.m. at Clarkston High School.

The dancing recital will feature Shari Kent, Andrea Stelmach, Mindy Marion, Colleen Marion, Lori Stenborg, Lynn Downs, Madeline Hehl, Heather Srock Christine Hrynyk and others.

School for 4-year-olds probable in Clarkston

Thurs., June 5, 1975 15
Clarkston (Mich.) News

It's conceivable that your four-year-old might be going to school in Clarkston next year under the aegis of a federally funded Title I pre-school program.

Robert Brumback, director of special services for the Clarkston School District, reports his office is currently investigating like programs in Redford, Wayne Intermediate and Southfield school districts.

The program involves parental cooperation, a parent needed to come to school at least one morning a week, the use of high school students who can obtain credit for working with the pre-schoolers, and a program designed to insure the child's learning readiness when they do enter kindergarten.

Brumback says the program could conceivably involve school on two or three days a week from October to May for those children referred by parents to the program. Emphasis would be put on development of visual, auditory, language and motor skills and self-concept.

The program would be worked much as the current pre-school screening program is now handled, but children found to be lacking would have the opportunity to catch up during a full year as opposed to the six-week summer class now offered.

Priority would be given, Brumback said, to those children definitely in need of learning skills assistance, and to those whose parents are willing to volunteer time.

"Often learning ability is based on the environment of the child, and a program like this gives us an opportunity to work through the family," the director said.

Soil survey due in county

Oakland County is committed for at least the first year of a five-year program to conduct a complete soil survey throughout the county.

Total cost of the project is $465,000, however, federal funds would provide $240,000 of the cost and Michigan State University, which will likely do the survey, will provide another $30,000.

The remaining $195,000 owed by the county will be covered for its first annual $40,000 payment with funds available from the federal Community Development Act.

The decision to use the CDA funds was pushed through the county board last week largely at the prompting of Board Vice Chairman James Dunleavy, R-Highland.

After more than an hour's finagling with parliamentary procedure, opponents learned that whether they voted yes or no, they'd be getting the soil survey out of CDA funds.

Dunleavy contends the survey will be a boon to developing areas in regards to proper subdivision development and proper road construction.

He said that many times construction borings cannot tell the full story regarding the makeup of the land, and that as a result roads become impassable and dangerous and subdivisions are subjected to flooding conditions that could have been prevented had more knowledge been available.

Rogers protests county allocations

Springfield Township will only get $37,000 in county-allocated operating funds this year, despite efforts by township supervisor Don Rogers to get a larger millage allocation from Oakland County.

Rogers was informed at a meeting of the county allocation board Friday that any increases inoperational millage for Springfield would result in a decrease in the amount allocated to Holly School District.

Rogers had protested at a May 27 allocation hearing that one mill, or $37,000 yearly, was not enough for Springfield.

The township is growing, he said, and deserves a more equitable allocation to keep up with surrounding townships.

Springfield has, in addition to the allocated millage, a one-mill voted levy for fire and police protection.

The county board gave final figures for all the school districts and townships Friday. Independence Township remains at 1.32; Clarkston School District at 8.21 allocated millage.

Holly and Brandon School Districts each get 8.53 in allocated millage, which accounts for the problem with Springfield Township's millage.

If Springfield Township were allocated 1.24 as Rogers asked, residents of Holly and Brandon School Districts would be paying more than the 15 mills allowed by law to be levied by the county.

CEA endorses candidates

About 30 citizens, most of them either members of the Clarkston Area Jaycees or connected with the schools in some manner, were present Monday night for the Jaycee/Clarkston Education Association "Meet the Candidate" night at Clarkston High School.

The CEA general membership upon recommendation of the CEA Public Affairs Committee endorsed four of the candidates as "Preferred and Well Qualified", two as "Well Qualified" and one as "Qualified" upon the basis of a candidate questionnaire.

Receiving the top rating were Donald Balzarini, Joe Fabrizio, Janet Thomas and Robert Vandermark. Incumbents Eric Reickel and Fernando Sanchez were rated Well Qualified and Richard Esser was rated Qualified.

CEA officials said the rating was made on the basis of knowledge of educational issues, leadership capabilities and teacher concerns.

Pine Knob facility appreciated

Dear Mrs. Saile:

On Saturday, June 7, Clarkston Senior High will again hold the graduation ceremony at Pine Knob Music Theater.

For those residents who remember the difficulties involved in the ceremony being held in the gymnasium, they can well imagine how crowded it would be for this year's class of 430 seniors.

There is no longer a problem due to the generosity and cooperation of Pine Knob Music Theater. I wish to extend my appreciation to Mr. Wayne Nederlander and Mr. Matt Locricchio for their sincere efforts and cooperation in assisting another potentially memorable ceremony.

Sincerely,
William J. Dennis
Principal

Candidates field school questions

by Jean Saille
of The Clarkston News

About 50 of the 9,000 registered electors in the Clarkston School District turned out Wednesday night to meet the seven candidates who seek the two four-year terms on the school board in the June 9 election.

They heard talk about "opportunities" for the district and concern expressed that voters have not separated in their minds the difference between the five-mill operating tax renewal which will be sought at the June election from a proposal requiring increased millage for building expansion.

"People just don't understand that the renewal being asked is the one we've always paid for, and does not have anything to do with media centers and multi-purpose rooms at the elementary schools," said Mrs. Iva Caverly, a member of the audience.

That election -- if there is one -- would not come until at least fall, the school board and administration only now boiling down requests into what will probably be several alternative programs for building which would then be left up to the voters to decide.

The incumbents, both of whom seek reelection, and the five new candidates are asked if they would support additional millage for multi-purpose rooms and media centers. Though the reaction was mixed, most declared themselves in favor of added physical facilities.

Fernando Sanchez who has served three terms on the board said he didn't know whether he would support the proposed request for increased millage or not. He contended that declining enrollment may make the use of existing facilities available.

Two other candidates -- Janet Thomas and Robert Vandermark -- put qualifications upon approval. Mrs. Thomas said she believed the most important thing now is to acquire books and teaching aids and to make such programs as art, music and physical education available in the elementaries with existing facilities.

Vandermark said any proposal to the voters would have to be very specific before he would approve it.

Candidates universally called for better communication between the people and the board, and Richard Esser said the board should provide the leadership to inspire an enthusiasm for education.

"We've had some great sports teams this year, and we should capitalize on it," he said.

Incumbent Eric Reickel, while calling the district of the past "ultra conservative", said that in some cases such an approach had been justified. "In some cases we haven't readjusted fast enough," he added.

Vandermark, who resigned earlier this year as township supervisor, was asked if he would resign again where he to be elected. A firm "no" was his response.

Reickel quoted figures of new school construction in other areas where costs had been as low as $30 a square foot. The $50 being cited here for additional facilities, which reportedly also includes cost of furnishings and legal fees, etc., was quizzed by several people present.

Alternative education was also a topic, and Reickel said he would like to see more encouragement for teachers to get involved in the program.

Sanchez, while admitting the program might be good, also stated, "When a child learns at his own pace, it means he does what he wants. The request for alternative education could have been handled quieter." He added he would only like to see proven programs introduced in the district.

Donald Balzarini, another candidate, contended the program has already been proven, and that some of the older, proven programs are not working. He spoke of the lecture system for social sciences and called it an impossible situation.

Candidates asked what they'd do in the event Dr. Leslie F. Greene were to be replaced or retire, said a replacement should be sought from as broad a base as possible. Sanchez felt a smaller number should be screened from among names suggested by the State Board of Education.

Joseph Fabrizio, who called teachers the most important item in a classroom, spoke of the need for state laws to help retain educational associations for morale and professional purposes, "but avoid the irreparable damage to students caught in the middle of a labor dispute."

Kindergarten interest up

A total of 431 children who will enter kindergarten next fall have been screened in an early problem-detecting program in the Clarkston School District.

As a result of the turnout -- 30 more than last year -- school officials are anticipating that this year's final kindergarten enrollment will be bigger than the class of 459 which started out last September.

The pre-enrollment screening program has resulted in several children being diverted to learning-readiness programs offered in six-week summer school, according to Robert Brumback, director of special services for the Clarkston School District.

"By the early screening process, we've been able to detect problem areas that in earlier times wouldn't have surfaced until the second or third grade," Brumback said.

The children are given health and learning readiness tests at the time they are enrolled for the fall session of kindergarten.

Heaviest turnout for enrollment came in the North Sashabaw area, Brumback reported, where 103 children were screened. Another 94 were processed at Bailey Lake, 84 at Clarkston Elementary, 80 at Andersonville and 70 at Pine Knob.

12 S. BROADWAY — LAKE ORION

Board delays granting horse show permit

Permission for David Lackey of 5381 Clarkston Road to hold a horse show this July was waylaid by the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals until the matter could be checked into further.

Lackey asked for a special exemption permit to hold a charity horse show near his dressage barn for about 600 people July 11, 12 and 13.

The board tabled a decision until June 11, and in the meantime will be checking with Jack McCall, township public safety director, to ask about crowd control and the effect the show would have on Clarkston Road traffic.

The board will also be checking into the minutes of Lackey's original property rezoning as about eight neighbors opposed the granting of the permit, saying Lackey had promised not to hold shows on his property if the rezoning was permitted.

His property was rezoned from

R-1A to R-1-R about a year and a half ago, board chairman Bob Kraud said.

Two applications for 60-foot silos were denied by the board in other action. The current ordinance allows only a 35-foot maximum height, but petitioners, Sashabaw Products and White Lake Plastics had already purchased the higher silos when they discovered they would be in violation of the ordinance, they said.

The silos would be used to store plastics material for the use in making what is primarily auto parts.

The action came after James Owens, part owner of M.O.L.

Investment Club, the two businesses' parent organization, said that his company was considering chopping the silo for Sashabaw Products in half.

Board members said they would rather see the silos halved if possible and stay within the township ordinance.

A larger height variance might also set a precedent, they said.

Member Mel Vaara voted against both denials, saying in White Lake Products' case that other buildings in the area also had high silos.

White Lake Plastics manager David Duncan said that in this case one large silo would be more desirable than the two silos at Sashabaw Products.

Sashabaw Products is located at 6460 Sashabaw in a limited industrial area, White Lake Plastics at 5020 White Lake Road in a heavy industrially zoned area.

The board also approved two applications for yard setback variances.

Ware, Piddington Associates was allowed a 25-foot front yard setback and a 36-foot side-yard setback, instead of the required 40-foot setbacks, for a home being built at 1140 Crestview.

Neighbor Walter Stickley, 4765 Crestview, opposed the variance, saying he wanted a home to maintain the 40-foot required setback.

That would be nearly impossible, the board told him, as the property had a large ravine running along its back portion.

The board also granted James A. Jensenius, 5168 Drayton Road, a five-foot side yard setback, instead of the required 10, for an unattached garage on his property.

And A.T. Mack was allowed a variance in the size of a barn he is building at 8366 Pine Knob Road.

Mack has a number of horses on his property, board secretary Jerry Powell said, and wants to store grain in the hayloft.

A total of 2,400 square feet was allowed for the barn, instead of the required 1,500 square feet.

Mediation sought in township pact

Independence Township American Federation of Municipal Employees (AFL-CIO), which represents some 20 township employees, has reportedly asked the Michigan Employment Relations Commission for mediation in wage negotiations with the township.

The union recently rejected township offers, which held wages at their previous level. The contract under which the employees work expired April 1.

STATE OF MICHIGAN THE PROBATE COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF OAKLAND No. 120,047

Estate of Ray T. Bowers, deceased.

NOTICE OF HEARING

TAKE NOTICE: On the 21st day of May, 1975 at 9 a.m., in the Probate Courtroom, Oakland County Courthouse, Pontiac, Michigan, before the Honorable Donald E. Adams, Judge of Probate, a hearing was held on the petition of Barbara J. Shaw. The Will of the deceased dated May 22, 1973 (codicil dated 4/8/75 is applicable) was admitted to Probate. Administration of the estate was granted to Barbara J. Shaw the executrix named in said Will. Creditors of the deceased are notified that all claims against the estate must be presented said Barbara J. Shaw at 302 North Shore Drive, Lake Orion, Michigan 48035 and proof thereof, with copies of the claims, filed with the Court on or before August 12, 1975. Notice is further given that a determination of the legal heirs of said deceased will be made on said date at 9 a.m. Notice is further given that the estate will be thereafter assigned to the persons appearing of record entitled thereto.

Before heading for the mouth of the Two Hearted River May 19 one of my fishing partners called the DNR office. He was told we couldn't have picked a better weekend. The steelheads were coming in from Lake Superior and hitting.

Two hours later we were in waders floating spawn bags (the recommended bait) down the river. Would you believe in those two hours the steelhead run was over. Only the suckers were hitting.

Before heading out on South Manistique Lake at Curtis May 20 for some walleye fishing we asked a DNR officer where they were hitting. He told us one spot and suggested we contact Gordon's. The walleyes were hitting in front of that house around the corner that has the stone terracing.

And they were hitting in that cove over there where the other boars are gathered.

In less than an hour we were floating minnows (the recommended bait) in the depth of South Manistique lake. We three fishermen caught 3 perch that may have totaled 12 inches and an 8 inch walleye over the next 9 hours.

We didn't stop for lunch.

Back home 4 days later Tom Opre was writing in the Free Press about the walleyes hitting at South Manistique Lake. The dateline for his story was Curtis, Mich.

May 21 we didn't get any Muskie in Pull Up Lake. We didn't get anything else either.

May 22 we fished Millecoquins Lake for 12 hours with about half that time spent looking for pan fish. We were skunked.

May 23 we chanced on some people in Naubinway who reported great catches of 12 inch perch in Millecoquins "yesterday".

We stopped into King's fish market in Naubinway 3 days in a row and each time found them out of fish.

After that 3rd day, one of my fisherman friends headed for home with the comment, "It's pretty bad when you can't even buy fish."

If you have followed this column with any consistency over the years you have noted other unsuccessful fishing trips. In fact, there has never been a successful one in terms of a "catch".

As you can see we haven't quit going. And, we haven't quit being disappointed. But it doesn't last long. Nor is fishing the primary reason for our taking off for a week or so.

Certainly none of our wives expect us to catch fish.

What they do expect, and what we expect is a good time. A little fellowship, a little relaxant, and a little rest.

We have never missed this "run" or "catch", and we don't have to clean 'em.

Well man Jim LaLone likes the story we did about well digging last week but he wishes we'd correct the price mistake in the store. Four inch wells cost $9, not the $8 quoted, and he says he's been getting calls from people wanting to know how to get one of those $8 wells. Sorry about that.

Osiris, a young band from the West Bloomfield, Birmingham area captured the title, "Champion of Champions" in the Super Bowl for Bands recently at Springfield-Oaks Park.

There may be a new hearing on boat use laws for Deer Lake. Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie said last week that if residents of the area would petition the township board, the Department of Natural Resources would be required to reconsider its position.

Motorboat use on the lake is now confined from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., and several men in the audience said they'd like to be able to fish after they return home from work at 6 p.m.

Max Soulby, an employee of Independence Township for 22 years, has received high commendation from both the township board and its auditors for his bookkeeping abilities.

Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie reported last week that auditors had said our books were second to none and that they had given Max highest commendation for his work.

A new station wagon for the fire department, costing $4,223.44 plus tax, will be purchased from Rademacher Chevrolet Inc. Rademacher's was the lowest of three bids presented to the township board last week.

The wagon will be used by the chief, his present vehicle being assigned to the assistant chief, according to Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Five Springfield Township officials took day to attend a seminar in Ann Arbor on master land use planning.

Don Rogers, township supervisor, Patricia Kramer, township board trustee, Glen Vermilye, trustee on the board and representative to the planning commission, and Roger Horton and Al Lopez, members of the township planning commission, all attended the day-long seminar, which was put on by the Michigan Township Association.

The session was informative, Rogers said, covering such things as what makes a master plan legally correct, why a master plan is needed, and how to go about revising one each year.

An anonymous contributor last week added $500 to the coffers of independence center. Funds continue to grow and the recent contributions from the Clarkston Village Stroll Days has put the center at the three-fourths mark of its needed $4,000 budget for the year.

Because of paper towels were left on a functioning toaster, a resulting fire at the Richard Heath home, 4725 Pinedale, caused as estimated $1,100 damage. The blaze occurred in the evening of May 28, according to Independence Township Fire Department.

Lesco Corp. of Lansing is donating a Bicentennial flag to the village of Clarkston. It's to fly from the parking lot flag pole with the new American Flag recently installed there, according to Bill McClean of the Independence-Clarkston Historical Society.

Township ok financially except for sewers and water funds

Independence Township is in good financial condition—except for its water and sewer funds and they're going to require some work.

That's the word from John Nantes of the township auditing firm of Doren, Mayhew, Grove and McNamara of Ferndale. The township general fund ended its fiscal year on March 31 $4,009 in the black.

The firm has the potential, Nantes said, to provide computer information for a reworking of sewer financing, and as for the water department, that's going to require township board action if it's to operate in the black in the future.

When the board does evaluate its sewer rate structure, Nantes says his firm has the potential to forecast construction in the area and to evaluate what's occurred so far.

Whether his firm does it or not, the board has determined that something will have to be done with the whole sewer financing picture to enable the township to meet future sewer bond payments.

More specifically, it learned Tuesday night that it might also have to reevaluate that part of the ordinance that calls for a $2,260 cash sewer payment at the time building permits are issued for new construction.

John Moore appeared with a client asking that the cash payment be waived to permit construction on a new house on Paramus to begin. He said his client could not afford the sewer Ole fishin' hole?

Turn the area on Parke Lake back of Independence Township Hall into an "ole fishin' hole"? It might happen.

The township board has been asked for rules concerning the use of the privately owned lake at that point.

While rules some years ago prohibited any use of the area, township officials said they might consider walkways to the waterfront and fishing privileges there.

Boat launching seems out of the question due to lack of facilities and swimming out because of lack of a lifeguard, however recreation, police and insurance officials will be asked for their opinions in time for the June 17 meeting.

payment until he had closed out on the sale of his present home, and that meantime building for his new home might be delayed as much as two months.

Moore called the requirement a hardship, common only to Independence and West Bloomfield townships in Oakland County. He said other areas permit time payments on new construction.

Clerk Bob Lay reported that Attorney Dick Campbell had advised no variance be allowed. "If we start this, there'll be continual requests from both private citizens and developers on a large scale," Lay reported Campbell as saying.

Trustee Fred Ritter, who alone voted against denial of the variance, said "It is almost prohibitive to get into a new home in Independence Township." He was outvoted by other members of the board, who said they'd prefer not to get into variances now until the whole financing picture is straightened out.

Bernie Feldhauser appeared before the board requesting permission to hook onto Jack Helveston's extension of the sewer north

3 lieutenants added to FD

Three new positions of lieutenant and the filling of a district chief's post with the volunteer fire department were approved by the Independence Township Board Tuesday.

The three new lieutenants, chosen by written and oral examination, are Donald Nolen, Mike Thayer and Dean Callison. They will receive $25 a month in addition to normal fire run pay. Thayer also serves as dispatcher at the additional sum of $200 a month.

Robert Morse was named to take the district chief's position formerly held by George Keyser, whose other responsibilities have made his resignation necessary. Morse will be paid $100 per month in addition to regular fire run pay.

New radio equipment costing $2,919 to update the present base installation and four remote units will be purchased from Motorola Co., whose bid was the second low of three submitted.

of I-75 to service 20 lots, eight of which contain homes, on Little Walters Lake. He said several of the lots would not perc, and that the developer would pay the estimated $37,380 cost for the extension. He noted that while present homeowners would not be charged, they would have to hook up to the available sewer within 18 months.

Feldhauser added he hoped that the township would allow the developer to recoup costs from owners of the vacant lots at the time they were built upon and hooked into the system. Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie noted a similar request had come from Helveston, and he added it was the inclination of the board not to get into a pay-back system, at all.

Secretary approved for boards

Independence Township Board has okayed the employment of a secretary to take notes for the Planning Commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Township Clerk Bob Lay says he'll watch how the experiment works before making any decision about requesting a minutes taker for the board.

Planning Commission Secretary Jim Smith said he would like to use the secretary only during important hearings when it becomes difficult to get the names and the rationale behind the decisions correctly written in addition to taking part in discussion.

Trustee Jerry Powell, who is also secretary of the Zoning Board of Appeals, said such an employee would be used in every meeting. "We consider many different cases, and oftentimes in the course of getting everything written down, the important decisions are being made mostly by the other two members of the board."

Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie was the only board members to vote against the additional help. He said a secretary's job is discretionary, and that minute taking is the responsibility of the person appointed or elected to that spot.

Snakes alive! They're rattling in Clarkston

by Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News

Well, they've turned up all over the place—near Little Walters Lake last year, on Northview earlier this spring and now, they're hiding out in the high grass east of Holcomb.

They're mostly small little guys, with stripes and a funny little thing on their ends.

It's rattlesnake season again, and the latest of the Clarkston rattlesnake saga occurred last Wednesday at the home of Wendy Parker, 7256 Holcomb.

Wendy's dog started barking outside, she related, and she went to investigate. When she saw the snake the dog was barking at, she called neighbor Linda Yantiss for help.

Linda brought out her trusty hoe, she said, and chopped the little thing's head.

Jack McCall, Independence Township public safety director and an Oakland County Sheriff's deputy then came out to investigate.

"And from a 15-foot distance," Mrs. Yantiss joked, "they positively identified it as a snake."

The two women have called the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to find out what to do about the snakes, and that agency told them to either shoot the snakes or club them—preferably with a very long club.

So, Wendy and Linda were out marking what they think are snake holes in an adjoining vacant lot Wednesday.

There's a not so light-hearted side to this story, though. There are children in the area, and while some authorities say the small rattlers do not inflict fatal bites, they could be very serious for a child.

The women believe the snakes are slithering out of a swamp on the Clinton River behind their homes—a swamp currently being dredged by the township to use to dump Mill Pond muck in.

Not only that, there is a drainage problem in the vacant lot that probably helps draw the snakes to the area, they said.

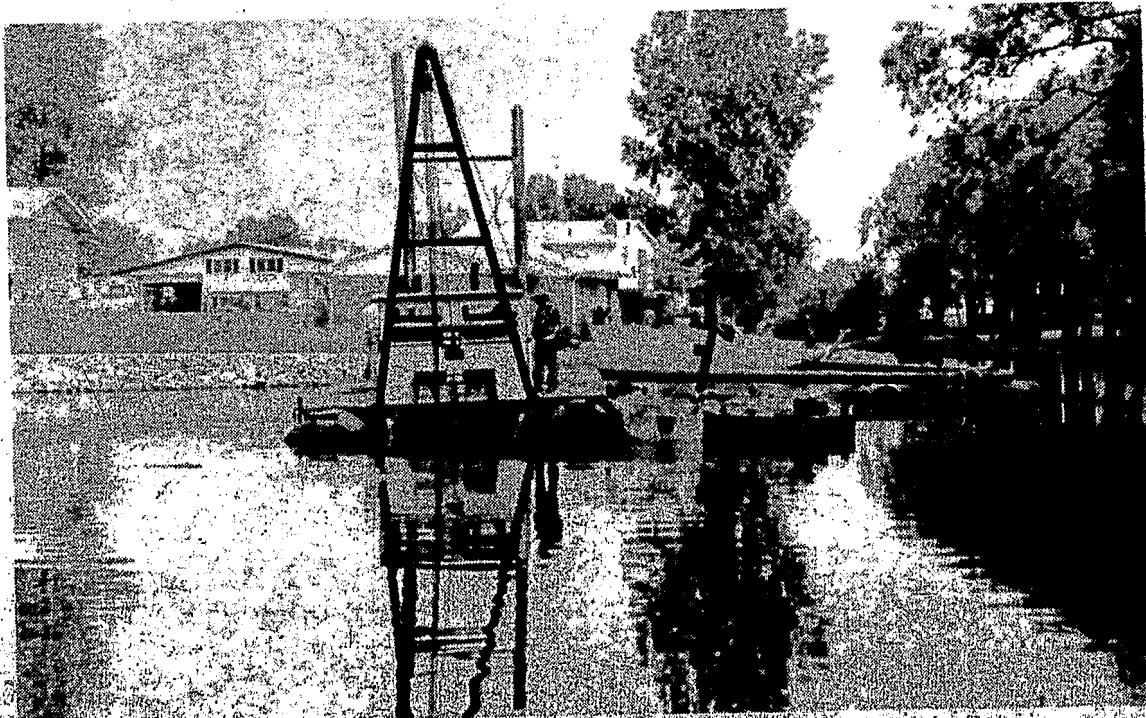

They think if they could get the lot cleaned up and dried out, the little devils would go somewhere else.

In the meantime, though, they're looking to find someone to tell them more about snake holes, snake bites, snake breeding places—and all those "snakes in the grass" they think may be causing all the "rattling about" over there.

Hunting hearing rescheduled

A hearing originally scheduled for June 10 regarding the banning of hunting and use of firearms in certain areas of the township, most of them south of I-75, has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. June 16, according to Independence Township Clerk Robert Lay.

The hearing will also involve land south of Hubbard Road and along Perry Lake Road.

Purves Excavating Co. began dredging operations on the upper Mill Pond Monday with a dredging machine that will go down as far as 20 feet. The muck is being transported through a pipe to a swamp north of the pond.

COUNTRY LIVING

by Jean Saile
of the Clarkston News

Richard and Judy Rosenberger's neat frame house in the northeast corner of the township is a catalog of past travels, and a tribute to the ingenuity of young Americans.

Their move a year ago from Seymour, Indiana, was their 14th in the ten years they've been married, and the home is the first they've purchased.

Dick's job as manager of Grant City on the Dixie Highway has entailed much movement, most of it within the Ohio-Indiana area, and the "renter's tools" he once used have been replaced with tractor mowers and the various equipment suitable to homeowner maintenance.

A small basement workroom attests to his pride of possession. Lying just off Judy's summer kitchen and the family's summer living room, it holds a neat array of workman-like looking objects.

The downstairs living area is replete with bar and television, located to fend off the heat of summer and ideal for Craig, 6, and Michele, 5, to while away long summer days.

Perfect for entertaining, it has easy access to a second stove and refrigerator stashed in Judy's laundryroom. A poster of the famous Bert Reynolds' Cosmopolitan center spread helps keep Judy's mind off the rigors of cooking.

A smaller, former living room upstairs adds to the amenities of entertaining, as does a family room with its view of spacious backyards, located between kitchen and garage.

Everywhere is evidence of ingenuity. Two round coffee tables in the basement living room were created from wire drums and made most presentable through the use of ebony stain and the addition of round formica tops.

Judy's 'dough art' her painting and various craft projects provide decorator touches. Rugs in both the basement room and Craig's bedroom were put together from samples and provided unusual and eye appealing delights.

Several antiques, obtained either from relatives or at rummage sales, catalog places they've lived and activities they've enjoyed.

An old wicker bookshelf in the family room had to have five coats of paint removed, Judy using nails to clean out the difficult braids, before it assumed its present pristine white. Old trunks have been attractively redone, providing storage both for children's possessions and for the elder Rosenbergers.

A high desk, obtained free at a rummage sale when the previous owner could find no buyer, has taken on an antique green, and a former piano stool now serves as an interesting plant table.

The Rosenbergers were introduced to the Whopee Bowl in Springfield Township shortly after their arrival here and that "recycling center" has furnished several finds for the Rosenberger's own "recycling center."

Judy reports she furnished Craig's entire bedroom for the munificent sum of $8.50 -- rummage sales, redoing and creativity blending into a perfect whole.

Having moved as many times as they have, the Rosenbergers have adopted the philosophy that the only way to become part of a community is to get out and get involved.

Judy was teaching Bible School for Clarkston United Methodist Church shortly after moving into the area last year.

"You've got to get out of the house," says she. "You've got to know you can make the move work. The children must find an identity within the neighborhood, and sometimes that's difficult," she remembers.

"But this neighborhood is great. We're all pretty much the same age, and you know that if you need help, you can call. There are several children here, and though the kids know they won't live here forever, they have accepted it. We can plant a tree and know that we probably won't see it grow, but the fun is in the planting."

Judy, who trained as a dental nurse, has gotten involved in fashion shows again, having recently narrated one for Fashion Gallery. She's written radio commercials and done other writing as well.

Carpet samples stitched together by Judy form the attractive rug in the basement bar.

The feet are the most abused part of the body, experts tell us. Many people act as if they hate their feet. Drive them, pinch them, punish them, shut them in the dark and ignore them. The truth is, if you have good, straight-boned, well-arched feet that cause no trouble, it is probably none of your doing. But aching feet make wrinkles, the beauty experts tell us. If you do not believe it, just look in the mirror and pretend that your feet hurt. See, your facial lines are being distorted because your feet are uncomfortable.

What is disrespect?

For many years we have been trying to figure out what it is parents mean when they complain that their child is disrespectful. It seems that disrespect has as many forms as there are parents.

Some parents interpret a child's refusal or resistance to instant compliance as disrespect, while others feel that "backtalk" is disrespectful and the child should be punished. Others see little disrespect in whatever a child does or says and still others see a disrespectful child as one who does not say "yes, sir," "no, sir," and "thank you, ma'am."

In general, most parents might agree that disrespect means a hostile or indifferent attitude toward authority figures. In this definition, momentary rudeness would not be included as disrespect especially if the child were young. It is easy to judge young children by adult standards and, therefore, to expect that a child should never say to a parent "I hate you." Such outbursts should be expected occasionally from a normal child if he is being disciplined and, therefore, frequently told "no" to something he may very much want. If the outburst is temporary and most of the time the child is loving and respectful, an angry retort may not mean that you have a disrespectful youngster. However, the parent should let the child know that the parent doesn't like that kind of talk. A child has to have limits placed on both the expression of feeling and the context of feeling sometimes.

Sometimes children may sound disrespectful when they are actually emulating what they have heard older children or adults say. The behavior may appear silly, rude, or inappropriate to adults, but the child may be trying to break away from childishness and assert some independence. This would be the case if a child told to come in from play when it started raining said, "What's it to you?" Again, the behavior might be corrected although not considered serious.

True disrespect involves a basic rejection of parental authority as well as the authority of other adults. A truly disrespectful child will ignore the rights and feelings of most other people without having a reason for doing so nor without selecting certain people to disregard.

Parents should not, however, expect respect just because they are the parents. Sometimes parents are disrespectful in their manner of handling a child or in their way of dealing with other adults in the child's presence.

A disrespectful child may be expressing unhappiness and hostility or may be asking for more authority and strength from the parents. We do not recommend a rigid ferreting out of all so-called "disrespectful" words or actions. Children need some breathing and growing space to learn to be themselves and to be independent. Perhaps, each parent deserves some amount of respect for assuming the responsibility of trying to raise another person. Good commonsense without undue rigidity will go far in raising a respectful, healthy child.

Davisburg was 'two times better'

by Jean Saile

of The Clarkston News

The fellow who gets on television and carries on about 'two times two' and 'two times better' should have lived in Davisburg at the turn of the century, according to Mrs. Eunice Tremper, now 76.

The Nelsey Road resident, raised as an orphan by an aunt and uncle in Davisburg, reports, "There were two of almost everything -- two churches, two grocery stores, two blacksmith shops, a two-room school, two doctors, but only one undertaker."

Though Dr. Wayne Good has recently been heralded as the first doctor in Davisburg, Mrs. Tremper can remember Drs. Carr and Chapman when she was small.

There was an old hotel, called the Norton House, which burned in the early 1900s. It was owned by Gene Wickham, grandfather of Norris Walls, according to Mrs. Tremper. She can remember standing with her aunt and watching the flames a half mile away.

William Newman had a grocery store in the building which now houses a candle factory and which was for many years the Masonic Temple. Mr. Newman had a covered wagon in which he delivered groceries to the farmers for miles around, she says.

There was also the Davisburg 'Surrey with the Fringe on Top.' Owned by Al Hubbard, he used it as a horse taxi to deliver vacationers on Friday night to the half dozen summer cottages on Big Lake and then to bring them back again Monday morning.

Davisburg was a prosperous town. Farmers brought their milk in every morning to be shipped by train to Pontiac," she recalls.

Mrs. Tremper chuckles when she tells the story of Bobbie Kirkby, who was Mae Pennell's father.

"One Halloween, some of the young men (and some are still alive, she winks) gave him too much hard cider and then put him in Mr. Hill's horse drawn hearse and pulled him into the cemetery.

"The boys hid behind some tombstones, and come daylight, Uncle Bobbie woke and crawled out, yawned and stretched and said, 'Well, I'll be -- Resurrection morning and I'm the first one up.'"

"I know that story's true, because he came to our house for breakfast afterwards," Mrs. Tremper grins.

Mrs. Eunice Tremper of Nelsey Road looks over a 1905 graduating program from Davisburg School. She is one of the few survivors of that class.

The Davisburg depot agent and his helper load the cans of milk for the morning train.

Selling a house by yourself is being penny wise and dollar foolish. Comparison is the name of the game, and you have but ONE house to show. In a purchase of this importance, buyers want to shop around. They think you are already prejudiced and they may not even ask you questions that are easily answered. If you follow up, it may seem that you are mighty anxious to sell. You may never see the potential customer again.

Cottage pilfered

A cottage owned by David Piltz of Detroit on Lake Lane in Independence Township was broken into last week Oakland County Sheriff's deputies report.

Burglars threw a rock through the window to gain entrance, deputies said, sometime between Tuesday and Thursday.

Stolen was a $350 movie projector, a $150 sport coat, a $60 calculator, 50 to 100 records and a pair of binoculars.

Clarkston area service news

Airman Jeffrey B. Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce L. Lane of 9156 Davisburg Road, has been selected for technical training in the U.S. Air Force munitions and weapons maintenance field at Lowry AFB, Colo.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., where he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Lane is a 1974 graduate of Clarkston Senior High School.

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Michael A. Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dennis of 6635 Eastlawn, was graduated from Basic Electrician's Mate School at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The 12-week course includes instruction on the operating principles, assembly, adjustment and repair of electrical circuits, and on blueprint reading and basic hydraulics and pneumatics.

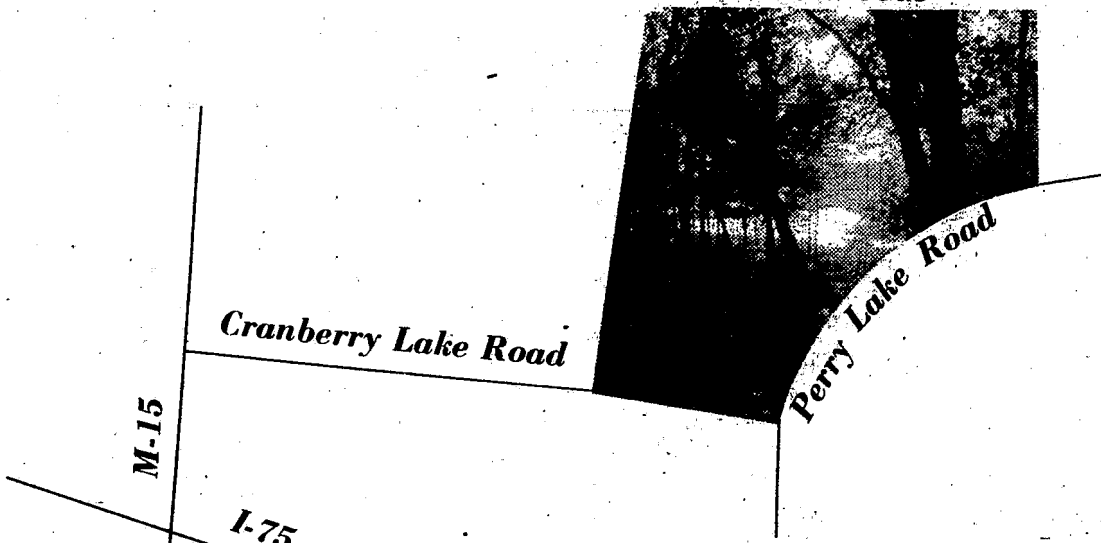

A 1974 graduate of Clarkston Senior High School, he joined the Navy in October, 1974.

Airman Martha A. Hutchins, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy C. Hutchins of 5180 Stevens Road, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for plumbing specialists.

Airman Hutchins, who learned to install and maintain water supply and distribution piping systems, is being assigned to the 682nd Radar Squadron at Alameda Air Force Station, Calif. Completion of this course enables her to receive academic credits through the Community College of the Air Force.

BY THE THIRD EYE

Clarkston's current graduating class will have some success stories in the future. There'll be an airline pilot, a nurse working with a famous doctor, a well known writer mostly involved with movies, a model, a well known singing star and one girl will marry a Pulitzer prize winner. One coach may wind up at Notre Dame, and we'll have our share of scientists.

A couple will come back as teachers to the Clarkston Schools, and another will make the news about the age of 45 in connection with a land deal in Northern Michigan or Wisconsin.

We'll have some close calls this summer, but only one fatality due to drowning. The victim has long hair. I see a boat sinking in one of the township lakes, maybe as the result of a collision.

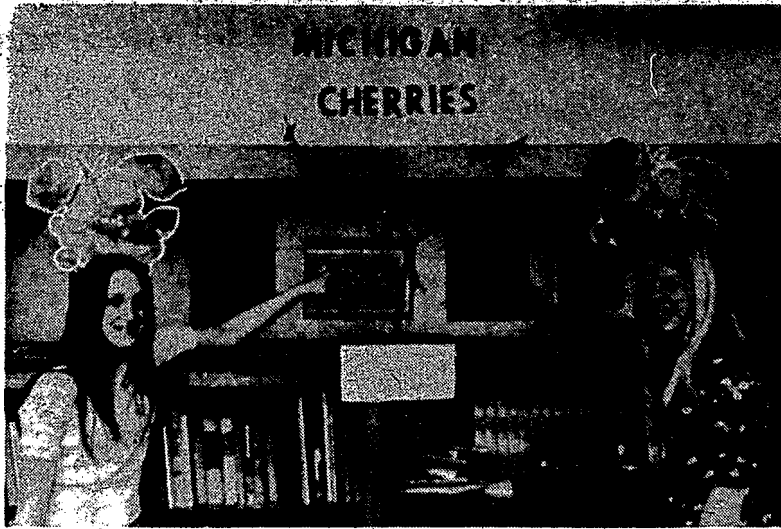

Some youngsters will be caught for some reason in the area of Cemetery Lake, chewed out and handed over to their parents.

Pine Knob will still get complaints over some problems this year with repercussions at the township hall.

Few homes will be constructed in the area until September, when I see a flurry of activity. There's a sold sign in front of the old Methodist Church on Church and Buffalo.

It will pay people to wait until later in the summer for some fabulous summer sales. The first sales won't be as good as ones to follow.

Some dealers will try to make exorbitant profits on canning lids and seals, but I see their business being ultimately hurt by the effort.

Insurance review cost $800

A review of Independence Township insurance policies, requested by a previous board, has cost the township $800 and hasn't provided it with much new information.

Rick Huttenlocher of the firm of Huttenlocher, Kern, Norvell of Pontiac was present to field questions in regard to insurance policies of last week's meeting, but representatives of Risk

Research Insurance were not.

The firm had prepared a 15-page report, including two pages of suggested improvements, which Huttenlocher said had been proposed to and rejected by previous boards.

A meeting with Huttenlocher, representatives of the research firm and members of the board will be set up for further evaluation.

Pd. Pol. Adv.

A short talk with Dick Esser.

Candidate for the Clarkston Board of Education.

What bugs me most is probably what bugs you most. How do we challenge our young people? How do we turn them on to education? How do we excite and prepare them for the basic knowledge our educators want to pass on to them?

Well, why not take the most positive, successful, dynamic thing in the Clarkston school system—and expand on it? Expand on it until the entire school system is positive, successful and dynamic?

What is that one thing? Where are most of the victories? The excitement? The dedication? The school identification? The success stories?

Aren't they in athletics? Isn't athletic involvement always characterized by a winning spirit? Can't you always spot it in the boys & girls who are active in sports and really give it their all?

Now, what if we take this positive element and spread it evenly throughout the athletic and academic system? The stock in our entire educational organization should go nowhere but up.

I stress athletics first, because of the success we've had in this area. Obviously, I am in favor of continued support and improvement of this program, with expansion into the elementary schools. We should emphasize sports from kindergarten through high school, giving every child a maximum opportunity to become involved and contribute. Isn't a winning student body a united student body? Let's give these kids something solid to rally around: a sports program they can call their own and grow with... point to. And doesn't it follow that every school in Clarkston would be better off for it?

Now, imagine an academic program that also offered something to everyone. A chance to become involved, a chance to learn and an incentive to learn new skills and to improve them. A chance to win at something.

It can be done. Athletics and academics have much in common. They both require the same key ingredients: enthusiasm, team spirit, discipline, a chance to excel, a chance to become involved, a chance to be recognized.

We know the mind and the body cannot be separated. And since they both come to school in one package, we and our educators have a sterling opportunity to challenge and educate both. And to watch them work beautifully together.

Isn't this whole idea of education more than just going to school at a prescribed time, hitting the required number of classrooms and going home? Isn't it really an exposure to a wealth of experiences, a flood of ideas and as many people, subjects and situations as a schedule permits?

Now, you may say, "Great. It shouldn't cost more than a ton of bucks and then we'll get right on it." Don't think of it in these terms, because it's mostly a matter of attitude. After all, what's the going price on school pride?

This is my position. It's primarily a matter of attitude and spirit: Winning spirit. The kind I'd like to bring to the Clarkston School Board.

Space does not allow me to elaborate on my views of specific issues, but I'd be glad to discuss any of them with you at length if you'd care to call me at my home (625-8128). I've instructed my kids not to tie up the phone during this pre-election period. In the event I'm not home for your call, please leave your name and number. I promise to call back as quickly as possible.

In the meantime, ask this question of yourself and our educators: "What are we doing today with our talents and resources to prepare our young people for tomorrow?"

Brenda aims for France

Brenda Lewis, who will be 18 in August, is saving her money. She's put aside the $300 she won as Clarkston Junior Miss runner-up, saving everything she can from her job at Wonder Drugs, and hoping to acquire a bonafide French accent by this time next year.

A three-year French student at Clarkston High School, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ad Lewis, 6291 Church, has been accepted as an exchange student to France by International Cultural Exchange. She'll live there a year with a host family and attend that country's grade 13 in school.

She hopes to be living somewhere near Paris, because the three years of French she's had at Clarkston is the Parisian French, and she thinks she'd like to be able to understand what's going on.

Brenda has also received $50 toward the total $1,775 cost of the program from the Pioneer Club of Clarkston. She'd like to get other sponsorship to enable her to meet that July 10 flight from Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

She has been active in sports, cheerleading, student government and the drama club at school.

Methodists plan church school

United Methodist Church of Davisburg will sponsor a Vacation Church School June 23 to 29 from 7 to 9 each evening.

Classes will be offered for various age groups including pre-nursery, nursery, kindergarten, grades 1 to 3, grades 4 to 6, junior high, senior high, and adults.

The week will end with an open house during the 10:30 a.m. June 29 service and a congregational potluck dinner that evening in Fellowship Hall. "The Spokesmen" of Fraser will provide musical entertainment.

United Methodist's summer church schedule begins June 15 with worship at 9:30 a.m. and Sunday school at 10 a.m.

Andersonville school fair

Andersonville School will conduct its annual school fair from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at the school. Entertainment will include games, booths, a raffle, bazaar, moon and cake walks.

Celebrating citizenship

by Mary Warner,
phone 625-3370

A party Saturday night at the home of Karen and Jim Lafnear celebrated the obtaining of United States citizenship by Mary and Haydn Cook.

Friends, neighbors and relatives threw the bash for the Cooks, who petitioned for their citizenship May 21.

Neighbors each brought something for a buffet, and the Cooks received a number of gifts, including a flag given to them by Rep. William Broomfield that had flown over the U.S. Capitol May 28.

They also received a British flag to fly alongside their new country's flag. "It was the best party I've ever been to," Lin Carlson, a neighbor, said.

The Cooks came to America in 1967 after Haydn was offered a job at Lockheed in Georgia. Haydn was laid off then, and came to the Detroit area seeking a job in the automotive industry. He had worked for a subsidiary of General Motors in England, Mary said.

He is now working as a process engineer at Pontiac Motors.

The Cooks, who live at 6241 Simler, have three children, two in elementary school and one in junior high, who will also obtain citizenship when the Cooks get sworn in and sign some final papers this month.

They decided to become citizens because they knew they were going to stay here, and what with all the friends they have made here, "it would be as hard for us to leave here now as it was for us to leave England."

Besides, Mary said, you can't vote when you're an alien and you have to report every year.

So Mary and Haydn took a citizenship course at Waterford Mott, and when they appeared at the courthouse for the papers, they answered all but one of the questions posed for them.

That question was how many representatives are there from Michigan in Congress, and how are the number of representatives from a state determined.

How many of us could figure that one out?

Rose Fiedrich of Sundale in Drayton Plains will be 94 years old on Sunday. Her daughter, Edith Young is planning a birthday party for her mother at her home that day. Congratulations, Rose.

Pastor Bob Walters of the Calvary Lutheran Church and layman Therm Nicols will be attending the Michigan Synod of the Lutheran Church in America this weekend at Ferris State College in Big Rapids.

They will be gone Thursday through Sunday, and in the meantime lay members will conduct the Sunday services. Yvonne Lowe and Bonnie Hartzman will each conduct a hymn sing for the morning services.

The pastor and Therm will be among representatives of 135 congregations belonging to the lower Michigan Synod.

Mark B. Witherup, son of John L. Witherup, 6530 Waldon Road, has completed degree requirements for his English major and been awarded a teaching certificate at Albion College.

Rev. Fred Hubba, executive secretary of the Baptist State Convention of Michigan and president of the Midwest Baptist Evangelistic Association, will conduct a weekend revival June 6 through June 8 at the Clintonville Baptist Church, 5301 Clintonville Road. The revival is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. David A. Sherrill will be song leader for the revival; for more information call Rev. Dwight L. Young at 673-7614.

Sunday the Methodist Church will also hold a "Breakfast with Blomquist" at 7:45 p.m. sponsored by the Flint District United Methodist Men. Paul Blomquist is the district superintendent for the church.

Harold and Norma Goyette of Main Street joined Jack and Char Frost on a five-day camping excursion over Memorial Day weekend.

The foursome traveled down to the Great Smokey Mountains Park in Tennessee, leaving on Thursday. They visited Cade's Cove at the park, and also went to Cherokee, N.C. and visited an Indian village.

The group returned to Clarkston last Tuesday.

Congratulations to the Eric Havens of 15 E. Church. Nancy Haven gave birth to a seven-pound, one-ounce baby boy May 23 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The baby was named Christopher Lyle, and is the Havens' first child.

Christopher is also the first grandchild for the Richard Weisses of Main Street--Nancy is their daughter.

Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Stewart hosted a potluck dinner in farewell to Rev. and Mrs. Frank Cozadd, who are leaving Clarkston and going to Ann Arbor.

Members of the Independence Township Pastors' Association attending were Pastor and Mrs. Robert Walters, Rev. Mark Caldwell, the Cozadds and the Stewarts.

The Cozadds will also be honored at a reception Sunday afternoon at the Clarkston United Methodist Church from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Jimmy Ray Holloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holloway of 9880 Clark Road, Davisburg, a freshman at Bob Jones University majoring in Bible in the School of Religion, appeared in the school's production of "Cyrano de Bergerac" last week. Appearing with him was David Jonathan Vanaman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Vanaman of 6600 Almond, Clarkston. Davis is a freshman majoring in physical education in the School of Education.

Ground was broken Saturday at the Girl Scouts' Camp Sherwood in Lapeer for a new camp building. The new $250,000 structure will provide expanded facilities for winter and summer camping programs and dining facilities for the 320-acre camp when it is completed next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Baynes, 5741 Parview, will be celebrating their 56th wedding anniversary June 4. The Baynes were married in Southfield in 1919, and have lived in Clarkston since 1924. They have three children, 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Happy birthday to Mrs. Eleanor Gunter of Eastlawn, who will be celebrating that event June 8.

Mark B. Witherup, a junior at Albion College, has been initiated into its national theatre honorary society, Theta Alpha Phi. He is the son of John L. Witherup, 6530 Waldon Road.

The Andersonville Elementary School Parent Teacher Association will be holding their annual school fair Saturday, June 7, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The fair will be held on the school grounds, and will feature a bicycle raffle, hourly mini-raffles, a moon walk, a bazaar, garage sale, dump tank, cake walk and other games.

Mark Christie, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Christie of Laurelton, was awarded a bachelor of architecture degree from Lawrence Institute of Technology, Southfield, in commencement ceremonies Sunday.

Nick Bell, brother of Leslie Bell, 7995 Perry Lake Road, has been presented a track letter by the Leelanau School, Glen Arbor, during Sports Award ceremonies at Commencement Week there.

Five hundred Cub Scouts are expected to attend day camp which will be sponsored by Clinton Valley Council Training and Activities Center for five weeks at Camp Agawam near Lake Orion. Each period consists of four days, Monday through Thursday, beginning June 23. Cost is $10 per cub, which includes luncheon beverage, craft materials, camp badge and a chicken barbecue. The program features swimming, archery, crafts, nature hikes, games, sports, campfire and other cubbing activities. One adult leader from each pack is required for six cubs.

The annual piano-organ recital for the students of Mrs. John M. Cook of Seymour Lake Road will be held Saturday, June 7.

The recital will be performed at the Seymour Lake United Methodist Church at the corner of Sashabaw and Seymour Lake Roads.

Beginners and intermediate pupils will play at 2 p.m. and advanced and adult students at 7 p.m.

Caroline Sanborne of Clarkston was named to the scholastic honor roll at Rocky Mountain College in Billings, Montana for the spring semester.

Caroline, a freshman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.D. Sanborne of 12 S. Holcomb. She was among students who achieved grade averages between 3.4 and 4.0.

A shower recently honored Lee Ann Lindahl and Gerald Van Develde of Clarkston. The couple will be married July 19. The shower was given by Mrs. George VanDevelde, Mrs. Edward Deporter and Mrs. Larry Thomas at the Metropolitan Club in Pontiac. Seventy guests from St. Clair Shores, Clarkston, Ortonville, and Jackson were present.

Nia Kraud will always remember March of 1975. The daughter of Bob and Denyse Kraud, Holcomb Road, was selected as a summer intern to go to Washington, D.C. through the University of Michigan. She will be working with the National Council of Senior Citizens. Over 300 persons applied to the program and only 50 were chosen as interns.

After being reelected president of her University of Michigan dormitory, Helen Newberry Residence, Nia was chosen outstanding dorm resident and received the Helen Newberry Joy Award. Her name will be engraved on the plaque she previously won in 1973.

Nia has also been selected to serve as assistant president to the University Activities Center (UAC) next year. UAC sponsors cultural events such as concerts, films, plays, the Ann Arbor Street fair, a lecture series and other campuswide activities. UAC serves over 35,000 students as well as accommodating the Ann Arbor metropolitan area.

Springfield-Oaks July 4 country music festival

Spirit of '76, a country and western music festival featuring the Diving Daredevils of the Wide World of Sports and several Grand Ole Opry Stars, will be presented beginning at 3 p.m. Friday, July 4 at Springfield-Oaks Davisburg.

Appearing with the daredevils will be world record holder Bill McQuire. Opry stars include Danny Davis and The Nashville Brass, the Bobby Helms Show, Stonewall Jackson and the Minutemen, Jimmy C. Newman, the Homesteaders, Lois Johnson, Don Silvers and the Nashville Junction and Bobby Lewis.

Tickets are $6.50 and can be purchased at Hudson's, Sears and Grinnell's.

McGill-Barker vows said

Jacqueline Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Barker of Waterford Township, became the bride of Stephen H. McGill of Clarkston in ceremonies May 24 at Four Towns United Methodist Church. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McGill, 6625 Eastlawn.

Rev. Edward Auchard performed the candlelight ceremonies in a church decorated with white gladioli and red carnations before 150 guests.

Her gown of white silk organza and venice lace featured a high neckline and full sheer sleeves. She carried white stephanotis and white roses.

Jeannette Barker, as maid of honor, wore pale yellow in a long hooded gown. Similar gowns were worn by the bridesmaids, Katie Stoyka of Pontiac, Jeanne French of Waterford and Kathy McGill of Clarkston. All carried daisies.

James Bonfiglio of Bloomfield Hills was best man. Other attendants included Douglas Milkey, Norman Barker, Jerry McGill and Travis Barker.

A reception at Morey's Golf and Country Club, Union Lake, followed the ceremony.

The newlyweds will reside at 6063 Princess Lane.

DIRECTION

One of the greatest experiences a man may have is to receive direction from God through prayer. It is an unforgettable event. However, there looms an ever present question: "How can I receive direction from God?"

Let me share from the life of George Muller. "Many asked Mr. Muller how he sought to know the will of God, in that nothing was undertaken, not even the smallest expenditure, without feeling certain he was in God's will. In the following he gave his answer: 1) I seek at the beginning to get my heart into such a state that it has no will of its own in regard to a given matter. 2) Having done this, I do not leave the results to feeling or simple delusions. If so, I make myself liable to great delusions. 3) I seek the will of the Spirit of God. The Spirit and the Word must be combined. If I look to the Spirit alone without the Word, I lay myself open to great delusions also. 4) Next I take into account providential circumstances. These plainly indicate God's will in connection with His Word and Spirit. 5) I ask God in prayer to reveal His will to me aright. 6) Thus through prayer to God, the study of the Word and reflection, I come to a deliberate judgment according to the best of my ability and knowledge, and if my mind is thus at peace, and continues so after two or three more petitions, I proceed accordingly. In trivial matters and in transactions involving most important issues, I have found this method always effective."

And did this plan work? Mr. Muller replied, "I never remember in all my Christian course, a period now of sixty-nine years and four months, that I ever sincerely and patiently sought to know the will of God by the teaching of the Holy Spirit, through the instrumentality of the Word of God, but I have been always directed rightly. But if honesty of heart and uprightness before God were lacking, or if I did not wait patiently before God for instruction, or if I preferred the counsel of my fellow men to the declarations of the Word of the living God, I made great mistakes."

The prophet Jeremiah was affirmed by God when told, "For I know the thoughts and plans that I have for you, says the Lord, thoughts and plans for welfare and peace, and not for evil, to give you hope in your final outcome."

God has your best in mind. Search for His direction!

Take that, men--she'll do it herself

What do you do when you're a 28-year-old single woman and you just bought a house and want to build a garage?

You build it yourself, if you're anything like Janet Servoss of Snowapple in Clarkston.

Janet, an accountant at Fisher Body in Pontiac, bought her one-story home in Clarkston in August of last year.

"You wouldn't have believed this house if you'd seen it then," Janet said, as she described some of the remodeling she's done since.

Like re-carpeting portions of the living room, kitchen and study.

Like putting up a cork wall in the dining room.

Like the paneling and wall-papering in the kitchen, dining room and study.

Now, she wants a garage, and with the help of a friend, who is in construction, she's going to saw and nail away until she gets that, too.

Basically a "do-it-yourself" person, Janet has been putting her mind to quite a few projects that are usually thought of as the province of men.

Like the drawing she did of her proposed garage, which she had to take to the zoning board of appeals for a variance.

She did it herself, drawing to scale and showing exact widths, depths, lot lines and proposed setbacks.

"Did you have an architect to this?" one board member had asked her. No, she told them, she drew it herself--the first time she had ever done anything like it.

"Like everything else I do, I just asked around to find out how it was done and then just started doing it."

"I believe a woman can do almost anything a man can do," she explained. "That doesn't mean we have to compete with them--just accomplish things on our own."

She does get a little manpower, though. Her father and friends helped her re-shingle the roof. A boy across the street helped her chop up the old carport drive in preparation for her garage.

And she will have the help of a (male) architect for the garage effort.

But soon, her dream is to build her own home--the garage will simply be a learning experience.

An avid cyclist, softball player and racquet ball player, Janet may become a first-class builder some day.

And show all those guys what a woman can do if she puts her mind to it.

Janet Servoss knows the working end of a wheel barrow.

Groveland FD to get its lease

The Groveland Township Sheriff's Department substation will remain open, under terms of a lease which the County Board of Commissioners is expected to execute at its June 5 meeting.

The county planning and building committee has recommended that the building be leased to the Groveland Township Fire Department for $1 a year, the substation to remain on a rent-free basis, and the fire department to assume the $8,000 annual maintenance expense of the building.

The lease was presented to the county commissioners at their meeting last week and held over under normal procedure for action at the next meeting.

Rumors of county abandonment of the substation last winter caused heavy protest in the north county area. The county has subsequently revised its plan to move sheriff's personnel out of the building, providing the fire department assumes the expense of building upkeep. The fire department has been using the building for several years.

Residents along Big Lake Road in Springfield Township were making long detours this week to get either east or west of the Grand Trunk railroad tracks. Grand Trunk closed the road on either side of the tracks last Friday to make repairs on the crossing, that will include new tracks, a new bed and a new section of road.

Historical group names McClean

William McClean of Middle Lake Road, president of the Independence-Clarkston Bicentennial Commission, has been elected to a one-year term as president of the Independence-Clarkston Historical Society.

He will be assisted by Mrs. Lysle Basinger as vice president, Steve Marsen, treasurer, Mrs. H.H. Butterfield recording secretary, and Mrs. Thimas Hunter corresponding secretary.

Two new board members, Mrs. Tudor ApMadoc and Michael McBride were named to two-year terms, while Mrs. Harry Radcliff Jr., appointed for one year, will serve with Mrs. Richard Huttenlocher's whose term has a year to go.

The group has confirmed September 26 and 27 as the days for its Craft and Cider sale at the corner of Washington and Main. Bicentennial flags and wall bracket kits for flags will be sold, as well.

Retiring president, Mrs. James Schultz, reported quilters will be needed the end of June to help put together the Bicentennial quilt being made for a later raffle. The quilt depicts local historical scenes.

NOTICE

The Springfield Township Board of Appeals will hold a meeting Thursday, June 19, 1975, 8:00 P.M. at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg, Michigan to hear the appeal of:

1. Albert Graham, 9106 Marquait Dr., Davisburg, Mich. to build a garage on a parcel of property described as part of Out Lot A of Maple Row Subdivision, for which he is asking a variance of a side yard set back.

2. Marvin and Marita J. Persky, 9152 Sherwood Dr., Davisburg, Mich., to build a garage on a parcel of land which is part of lots 46, 47 and 48 of Supervisor's Plat #8, for which they are asking a variance for a side yard set back.

The song "Soul Food" played by the stage band brought forth cheers and foot-stomping from the approving crowd during the fair.

Susan Sutphin won a blue ribbon for the hat she made in seventh grade sewing.

CJH fair displays students' skills

Even though the Clarkston Junior High fair was cut somewhat short by a thunderstorm Friday night, it could still be termed an unqualified success.

Parents and students swarmed the place looking at the hundreds of displays from home economics, art, industrial art, science and social studies entered by CJH students.

Winning grand prizes in the industrial arts department were Doug Roosa, for ninth grade shop, Craig Giroux for eighth grade shop, Dave Brown for seventh grade drawing, Mike Burdick for ninth grade drawing and Gus Diemer for seventh grade woods.

Doug, Craig and Gus won 1/4-inch drills, and Dave and Mike won drafting sets.

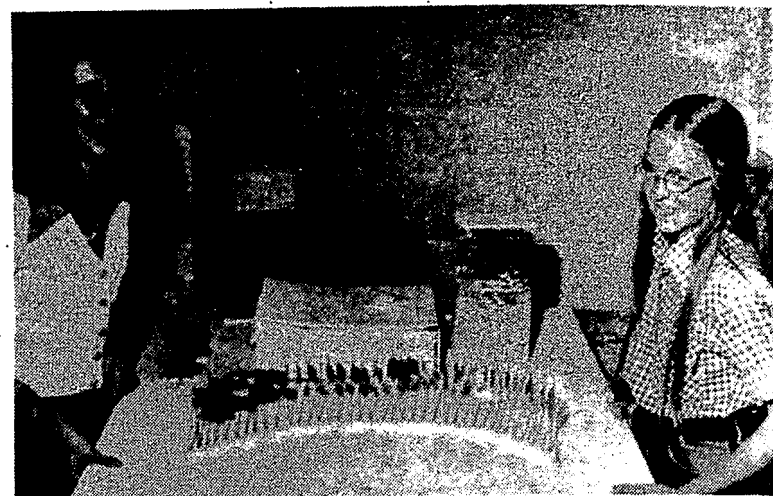

Eighth graders Lynn Johnston and Amanda Hertler won grand prize in the social studies department, receiving worldglobes for their model homes and a replica of the United Nations building.

In art, Erica Zander took grand prize for seventh grade, Michele Boldin for eighth and Karla Ripley for ninth.

The home economics department gave eight grand prizes, including six for foods and clothing in three classes, which went to Peggy Western, Stephanie Cornell, Jenni White, Cathy Carpenter, Kathy O'dea and Jeannie Bigger.

Sue Guekes won for needlepoint and Jim Prieto for Chef's Club.

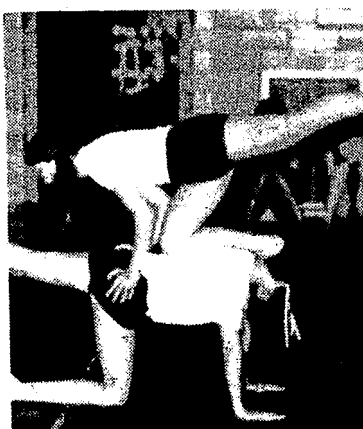

No grand prizes were given out in the science department.

Lynn Johnston [left] and Amanda Hertler took the grand prize in social studies. They fashioned historic homes out of popsicle sticks, and made this replica of the United Nations building out of sugar. Below, home economics displays.

The industrial arts department entered many of the displays at the fair.

Tumbling exhibited.
