

Not 76 trombones

But a 45-piece band proposed for Clarkston

The sum of $2,000 has been set aside for creation of a Clarkston community band which would play once a week during the summer in the village parking lot. Action followed a presentation of Douglas Doty, band director at Sashabaw Junior High School, who spoke of his participation in a similar band in Ishpeming.

He originally asked for $3500 for the season to pay for the director, a secretary-treasurer and librarian, to purchase equipment and to compensate the members as possible.

The sum does not include uniforms, he said.

Doty said he hoped to have a band comprised of approximately 45 adults who would practice one night a week and play in concert one night a week for six weeks of the summer.

Anyone interested in participating is asked to leave his or her name, phone number and instrument played with the village offices, phone 625-1559.

Funds for the band are coming from $20,000 reimbursed to the village by the Oakland County Department of Public Works as money expended by the village in the early stages of the sewer program.

The motion to create the band was made by Trustee Neil Granlund and approved by all members of the council with the exception of Trustee Michael Thayer who was absent from Monday's meeting.

Contract awarded on new Post Office

Clements-Kirk Construction Co of Lapeer, has been awarded the contract to build the new 7,700 square foot post office building serving the Clarkston Postal District, according to an announcement by the U.S. Postal Service Central Regional Office in Chicago, Ill.

Clements-Kirk was the low qualified firm among 12 bidders with a successful bid of $479,000, slightly higher than the cost estimated by Samborn, Steketee, Otis and Evans, Inc., of Flint, Mich., architects and engineers for the project. Occupancy is expected in April, 1976.

The new facility to be erected on Ortonville Rd. (M-15) at the south end of Clarkston will be constructed of beige velour face brick accented with medium bronze anodized aluminum entrance and window overhangs. To reduce the solar heat gain and heat loss during the winter, bronze tinted heat absorbing insulated glass is designed to reduce the energy consumption.

The structural steel framing system facilitates easy building expansion for the increased mail processing requirements anticipated in the future, according to Gordon Lewis, manager of SSOE.

To enable more efficient employe production and customer comfort the facility will be equipped with an energy conserving 30-ton air conditioning system, maximum thermal insulation and a natural gas fired water boiler with standby oil for boiler firing during periods of natural gas curtailment.

Site development includes fully curbed, paved customer and employe parking area with trees and planting utilized to enhance the auto and pedestrian entry and exit zone.

M-15 repair to be done by July 4

The current repair and widening of M-15 from Dixie Highway to I-75 will be completed no later than July 8 and should be done in time for the 4th of July parade.

That's the news given Village President Keith Hallman by state highway department officials and contractors on the job.

Curbing was started Monday, wheel chair ramps being furnished at all intersections. A right hand turn for north bound traffic off Main onto Waldon will be accomplished with tapering at Laurelton. Minor tapering will also be undertaken in the Miller area.

The road, outside the village limits, will be widened two feet on each side in order to bring lanes to the state standard of a 12 foot width.

Final job will be the overlay of new pavement, Hallman said he was told. That will require elimination of parking on Main Street for two days, he said.

Parade takes shape for 4th

The 4th of July parade will take place at 10 a.m. that Friday along Main Street from Church to Clarkston Road.

While the number of entries are picking up, Independence Township Firefighters' Association parade chairman Bill Halsey asks that those not yet registered call him as soon as possible at 625-4057.

The parade will group at Clarkston Junior High School, proceed along Church Street to Main, where it will follow along to Clarkston Road and disband.

Organizations having floats to enter are asked to be at the school between 8:15 and 9 a.m., marching groups to be there between 9 and 9:30 a.m., and horses and bikes in line between 9:30 and 9:45 a.m.

School vandalism

Duane Lewis, assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School, examines the effects of a cherry bomb taped to Principal William Potvin's window. The vandalism occurred over the weekend, nine panes of glass in all having been broken. Cost for replacement is estimated at $400, Lewis said.

Council seeks bids to pave Depot lot

Bids for the paving of the parking lot behind the Mini-Mall off Depot Road will be sought in time for the next Clarkston Village Council meeting July 14. Estimated to cost in the area of $5,000, the paving job would cover approximately 110 by 160 feet and be stripped to include room for plantings, according to Gar Wilson, village DPW director.

Wilson told the council that employees of nearby businesses and offices use the parking lot except on rainy days. He said 18 to 20 cars had been parked in the area Monday at different times. The paving job will still leave room on village property for the Carnival which the Jaycees will sponsor here on Labor Day weekend, council members were told.

A council spectator, Mrs. Fontie ApMadoe, said she felt that once the paving is accomplished, all businesses should be contacted and their employees asked to use the furthest reaches of both the Depot Road and the Main and Washington streets in order to provide room for customers.

She said currently many of the Main Street and most accessible lot spaces are occupied by village employes by nine o'clock in the morning.

Parke Lake access no park

Independence Township property on Parke Lake is not a park. The township board has reaffirmed a 24-year-old policy that the property behind the township hall shall not be used for picnicking, boat launching or swimming.

Board members also ordered that the area be posted as being closed for those recreational activities.

Sewer usage charges cut

Clarkston Village residents, beginning in August, will find their quarterly charge for sewer usage dropped $4.25 from $21.25 to $17.

The good news has been made possible because of an increasing surplus in the usage fund, and Neil Granlund told the village council Monday night that even with increased costs handed on by the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board for sewage processing, the savings can be accomplished.

Of the $17, $10.80 as opposed to the present $8.40 will go to Detroit, and sewer maintenance charges will be hiked 60 cents to $5.12.

It has been found possible, Granlund said, that billing costs could be reduced to $1.08 for a total of $17.

Gas station asks for rezoning

Independence Township Planning Commission was to conduct a public hearing at 7:30 tonight (Thursday) on a rezoning request of Ashland Petroleum Co.

The company has requested that its Payless Gas Station, located on 1.28 acres at 6594 Dixie Highway, be rezoned from commercial to motor vehicle service stations use.

The redesignation would permit the company to put in a self-service computerized station, a three-foot earth berm along the Dixie and Landscaping.

The service station has been a non-conforming usage of land since new zoning provisions were adopted, confining such stations to primarily the major intersections.

Upper Mill Pond cleanup has fall-out

Lower Pond residents object to moving sedimentation

Though residents of Clarkston's Upper Mill Pond are paying for clean water in their area, the project is having adverse fall-out on residents of the Lower Mill Pond.

Clarkston Village Council President Keith Hallman said he has received several complaints from residents of the Lower pond regarding silt flowing through openings at Miller Road due to dredging operations occurring above.

He also noted that the Lower pond has had to have its water level lowered considerably to allow work to proceed in the Upper pond, and several homeowners who use pond water for their sprinkling systems have found that their pipes no longer reach the water level.

More than that, Hallman said, the water level is due to continue low until the middle of next week.

The village council proposed that the village contract with the operator of a wide track bulldozer who is doing work on the Upper Mill Pond to remove accumulated sludge from village-owned property off Miller Road.

That seems to be where most of the flow-through of sludge is piling up, members were told. Should other residents along the Lower Mill Pond want the same work done on their property, they would have to hire the bulldozer at an estimated cost of $35 an hour, and the village would haul away the accumulated debris.

Officials were also to meet with Purves Excavating owner Charles L. Purves to see if culverts into the Lower pond could not be blocked while the Upper refills and a sand sucking operation takes place.

They said they felt such action would prevent further sedimentation from entering the Lower pond.

Hallman said he felt residents of the Lower pond would benefit from the work in the Upper, the Upper having been constructed originally as a settling pond to keep the Lower free of sedimentation.

That pond had since filled up, and sedimentation was finding its way into the Lower pond, Hallman said. Once it is clean, he said he felt the other pond would be cleaner also.

Total cost of the village contribution to clean out its section of the Lower pond is not to exceed $500, the council determined. Members will also investigate to see if the contract with Purves calls for any penalty regarding adverse affects to the Lower pond.

Independence Township officials have identified that Monday morning scum that pollutes the Mill Pond as detergent, and are now in the process of investigating homes up river to see who is emptying the utility room suds into the sump system.

Business community finds strength, friendship in BAIT

BY Jean Saile
of The Clarkston News

A group -- unique in North Oakland County -- meets once a month at Howe's Lanes.

Sometimes the topic is government, sometimes general information, but the members are learning to know each other and finding there can be strength in numbers.

It's the Business Association of Independence Township, organized in April, 1974, and commonly known as BAIT.

Brought together at a time when many business people of the township were experiencing difficulties with the local sign laws, the group has grown to number 60 members and has hopes of attracting at least 20 more.

Joe Tersigni of Times Realty is its publicity chairman, and to Tersigni membership means pride.

He's proud of the group's role in getting the sign ordinance mitigated -- the township board and BAIT members having agreed on acceptable compromise -- its arbitration in various other complaints against local government -- and most of all that business people of Independence Township are meeting other business people, some of whom have been relative neighbors for years, but never knew each other.

While the original reason for its organization has been alleviated, Tersigni is interested in seeing that the group stays together. "We can't organize all over again every time we have a common problem," he reports. "We need to stay together."

The direction of the club, in the meantime, is switching to social emphasis, Tersigni reports, the husbands and wives of members expected to be involved equally with the business people.

Sheldon Fuller, who serves as vice president under Harvey Craft, twice elected president, has been given the assignment of planning events that will keep the members occupied.

"There's benefit to that," says Tersigni. "We now recommend that car shoppers look locally before heading out of the area, and we're in hopes that other businesses are recommending other members for various services."

Tersigni is much in favor of shopping locally, and an advertising campaign towards that end has been initiated. To be paid for out of the $25 annual dues charged each member, he admits the budget is small. But if the organization continues to grow and gain strength, who knows?

Will it become another Chamber of Commerce? Tersigni hedges on that question, stressing that a fast rule of the organization is to remain non-political in nature.

The board does go to bat for its own members, though. BAIT backed Ed Krause's request for rezoning of Nickelodeon property. It stated its feelings about county politics used in the original rejections of bids for the Clarkston 52nd District Court.

"There are a lot of gripes we hear, but about which we do nothing," Tersigni adds. "For the most part, the business people are treated fairly in Independence Township."

He notes zoning board of appeals members who made themselves available at a meeting last winter to answer questions in regard to possible expansion from the present three-man appeals board.

"We heard them out and decided they were right," said the publicity chairman. The zoning board of appeals remains at three members.

The group has also participated in a donation to Artrain which visited the community last fall, and is now making plans for Bicentennial participation.

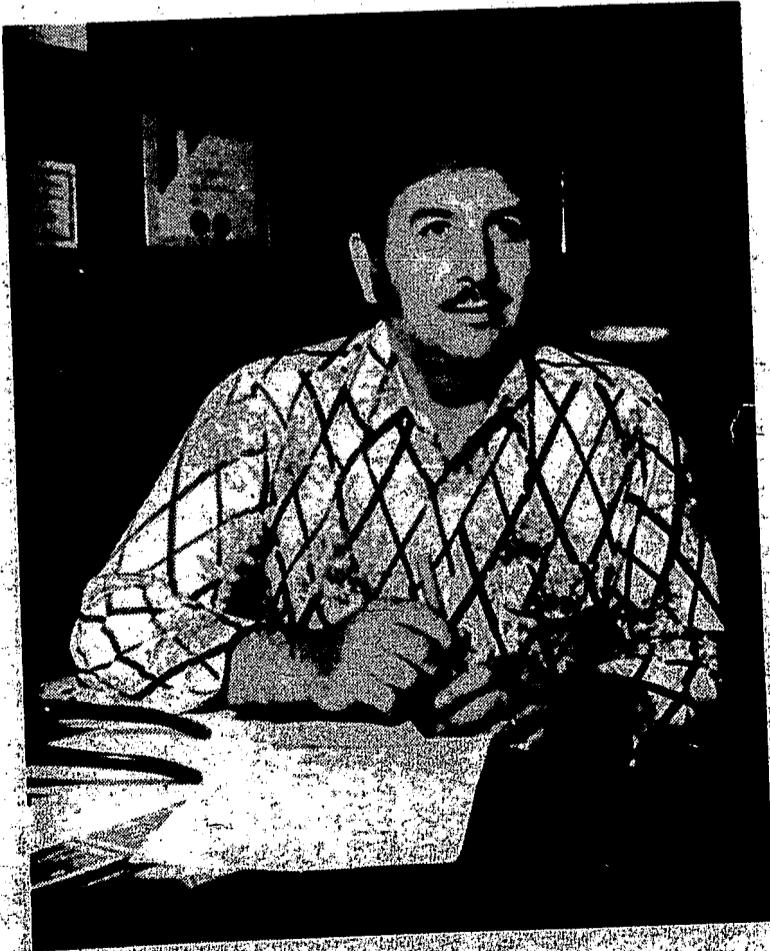

Recently it heard a spokesman from the township Parks and Recreation Department tell of the difficulty in finding sponsors for Little League baseball teams.

Tersigni feels that as a result of that meeting, there will be more sponsors. He also thinks that a recommendation made by Mrs. Barbara Howe, an officer, may end discrimination by money amongst teams.

Some sponsors, able to afford more in the way of uniforms and equipment, have attracted better players. She suggested the money per team be standardized and a sponsor wishing to contribute more could sponsor more than one team.

Things are happening. Who knows? The group, in the future, might want to make an input on development guidelines for the area.

It's all possible, according to Tersigni, if the group stays together and stays strong.

Sheriff, State Police disagree on private road vehicle law enforcement

by Jean Saile
Of the Clarkston News
So you own a mini-bike and you drive it on one of Independence Township's 24 miles of private roads.

If a State Police officer comes along, and you don't have a driver's license or a helmet and your vehicle is not registered, don't fret it.

State Police officers are not writing citations of that nature on private roads.

But if you're tootling along and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department comes by, watch out.

They'll get you, and they may even make a test case out of you to get ambiguities in the law cleared up.

Root of the problem seems to be Public Act 138, signed into law on June 5, 1974, by Gov. William Milliken. It's been interpreted differently by different policing agencies, and that's where the rub is.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies last week received an order from Undersheriff John Nichols that all laws regarding motor vehicles, motorcycles and cycles with motors will be enforced on private roads.

Private roads are those defined as privately owned and maintained but allowing access to more than one residence or place of business and which are normally open to the public.

Nichols based his order on an opinion from Assistant County Prosecutor Ron Covault who has informed the department legislative intent of the act was to require licensing of all drivers and registration of vehicles when they are used on private roads.

"It would subject to citation and prosecution the full range of traffic violations that may be committed now upon public highways," Covault maintains.

He bases part of his findings on Section 906 of the act which reads, "Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, a police officer may enter upon such a private road to enforce violations of this act."

At the Pontiac State Police Post, Sgt. Fred Snowaert reads a little farther in his "Michigan Laws and Amendments Affecting Law Enforcement" as compiled by the Michigan State Police in 1975.

He says because there is no provision for posting private roads, that State Police are only enforcing the more serious violations such as those involving accidents, driving under the influence of alcohol, impaired driving, reckless driving, drag racing and careless driving.

Under old Public Act 300, the motor vehicle code, Snowaert points out that such vehicles are not required to have licenses if they are used only on private roads.

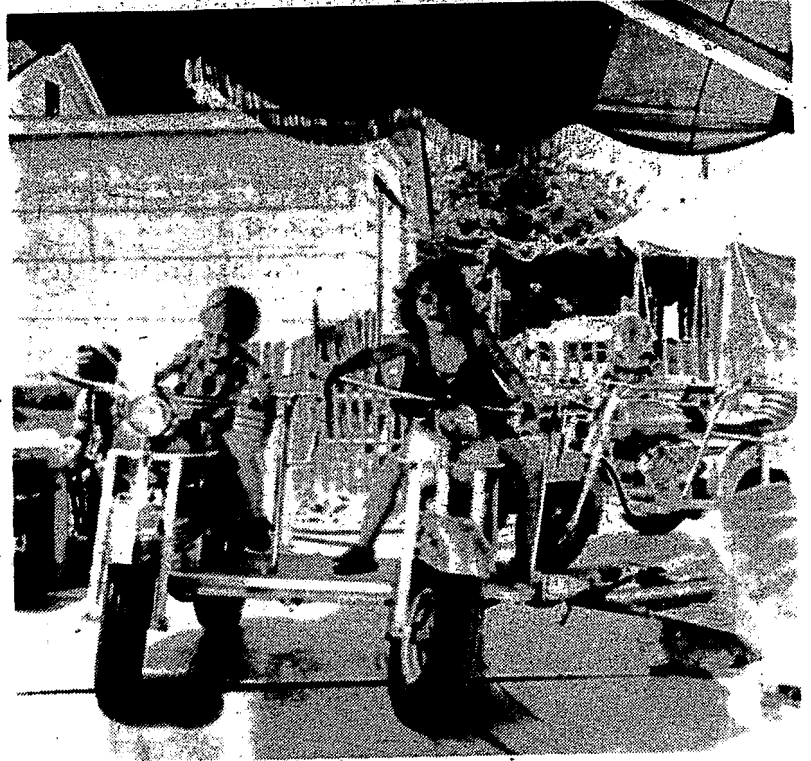

Though Independence Township has a local ordinance controlling such use, Snowaert says the state officers are not permitted to enforce purely local ordinances.

Sheriff's Corporal Jerry Girarde believes a test case will have to be made of such a violation to get the law straightened out. Meanwhile the county is writing tickets.

Village seeks to curb Main widening

Clarkston Village Council will attempt to negotiate with the Michigan Highway Department to see that contemplated widening of M-15 through Clarkston does not take place for at least 20 years.

Council President Keith Hallman told the council Monday night that a 20-year needs study done by the department last year foresees a possible need for widening in the years 1989 to 1994.

He said that since the village had not been consulted on the matter and since state law contains the provision that any such plans shall be arrived at by mutual agreement of the local unit of government with the state, there is a chance action can be deferred even later.

By that time the trend to smaller autos and the continuing gas shortage may have obviated the necessity," Hallman said.

He also noted it is possible that by that time the area might be designated as a Historical District. As such, said Jennifer Radcliff of the Historical Society, federal funds can never be used to disturb it and most often states build their highways with federal funds. Mrs. Ruth Basinger and Jim Schultz are members of the committee who will negotiate with highway department officials in regard to the future plans.

Grants asked to enlarge Independence Oaks park

Chances are that the county owned 750-acre Independence-Oaks Park on Crooked Lake could be expanded by 140 acres.

Applications for grants to the Land and Water Conservation Fund of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation have been requested by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

The most recent application, made last week, is for $50,000 to purchase 50 acres of hardwood trees adjacent to the park. Estimated cost of the total parcel is $100,000, half of which would have to be raised from local sources.

An earlier application asked for $45,000 which would pay half the estimated cost on 90 acres along the Clinton between the county-owned park and Independence Township Park, which is now in development. Roads and ball-fields are being constructed in the township's 40 acres.

Meanwhile work proceeds on phase I at Independence-Oaks. Due for use there next summer are roads, picnic sites, a boat launching facility, beach and bathhouse and toilet facilities.

The county has applied to see if it can get matching funds for the second phase development, estimated to cost $400,000. If that application is successful, it would enable the county to build a boat rental facility, visitor information center, fishing piers, nature trails, roadways and parking areas.

Deer Lake case appeal dismissed

An appeal of an Oakland County Circuit Court case involving proposed development at the north end of Deer Lake has been dismissed by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The appeal was dismissed Monday, June 20 because attorneys for Hubert Garner and the Deer Lake Development organization had not met the deadline for filing a brief.

They had filed a claim of appeal on Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore's earlier dismissal of the case involving development rights for 352 acres at the north end of the lake.

The big story

by Jean Saille

County dictatorship in effect?

Ever since the one-man, one-vote ruling, the Oakland County Board of Commissioners has had its fun playing party politics.

Back in the early years, a couple of Democrats defected the majority party in return for chairmanship of some Republican committees, and there's been some sleight-of-hand work when it came time to elect a chairman.

Always, though, a gentleman's agreement seemed to prevail whereby the minority would at least have its say, if not its way.

That seems disappearing under the current administration of the board. Within the last month, we've seen the chairman refuse to consider pertinent amendments to motions, refuse the opposition party the right to speak on "points of information," and use its majority power to turn around a question so that no matter how opponents voted, they were sure to get a costly soil survey study.

The actions speak of dictatorship and though the Republicans are clearly in the majority—and should have no trouble promoting their pet projects—it seems to this American, at least, that the minority ought to have the right to speak and go on record as to reasons for opposition.

The conduct of the board has reached new lows in recent weeks—the chairman threatening a Democratic commissioner he would "be in trouble" if he didn't sit down and be quiet, and raillery against some of the more honest hardworking press occurring during meetings from the dais.

In the meantime, it has been possible to note commissioners from the chairman's own party yelling and shouting and conducting themselves in a most unseemly way on the floor.

I think somebody should tell Mr. Houghton that what is sauce for the goose is also sauce for the gander, and elections have been known to change the balance of power.

I guess it doesn't hurt to talk sometimes about the newspaper business in this column. After all, that's the name of the game, and it's kept me turned on for close to 30 years.

Last week was one of those occasions when a country weekly editor can feel pretty good.

We had wind of the proposed Pine Knob resort sale to the county parks commission a full week before we could get it in the paper.

Pictures were taken a week early, calls were made—some each day of the succeeding work week—and every night we held our collective breaths for fear the dailies had picked it up.

They never did—not for a week—and thus The Clarkston News came to have one of the year's big scoops.

While a scoop doesn't get you a raise or a medal, it does allow you to tilt your nose for the time being, anyway, at fellow reporters from the dailies. Everybody deserves that once in a while, particularly if the story has been handled well.

My first commercial venture with newspapers began the summer I was 15. A small weekly in the Saginaw area was looking for reporters to write neighborhood columns, and while the pay was zero, the writer got to keep all the money from subscriptions sold.

I made out like a bandit that year. It was my first initiation to the fact that people really do like to see their names in the paper and they'll pay to do so.

Constant coverage of the comings and goings of the residents of my area spurred circulation hugely. The news rounds were made via bicycle, me going door to door until a rapport had been built whereby not much happened unless I knew about it.

Personal contact is one thing difficult for the big dailies to accomplish. Their lack of space prohibits many of the more personal items from receiving ink, and yet that's the fabric of our life—much more so than big city crime waves, scandals at the state or national level, or even trouble between nations.

Local papers don't cause many ripples—they only attempt to tell it like it is. And that's why it's particularly fun when a big story breaks, and your paper is the only one who has it.

The night had awakened quietly Gossiping clouds floated by,
whispering, whispering
Nesting creatures taking over frail old trees
Brittle leaves scurry to safety in the breeze
Lonely grass waving to stars in the sky
Sudden fear strikes the life of night:
A soft glow rose to power and
The night went away, whispering, whispering.

Lawyers should advertise

by Jim Fitzgerald

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled unanimously it is illegal for lawyers to fix their prices. That same week, most of the doctors in my favorite town, in concert, raised the price of office calls.

How come Dr. Welby can do what Petrocelli can't?

No honest lawyer (that's not redundant) will deny his profession has been violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. This act forbids frisbee manufacturers, for instance, from getting together at lunch and agreeing no frisbee shall be wholesaled for less than $2 each, even if it costs only 25 cents each to make them. Thus price competition is effectively removed from the market place and a lot of kids are forced to smoke pot because they can't afford frisbees.

Since before Perry Mason, bar associations have established "minimum fees" to be charged by area lawyers. So much per divorce, so much per tax return, so much per rape, etc. It was OK to charge more than the minimum, just so long as the total fee did not equal an amount twice the assessed valuation of the state in which the lawyer practiced.

But it was another thing for a greedy young lawyer to charge less than the amount suggested by his peers. The penalty varied from state to state. In some areas the offending lawyer was merely ostracized by his local bar association, thus forcing him to play golf by himself and to show up for trial needlessly because no one would tell him his client died 2 years earlier.

The severest penalty on record was slapped on a lawyer who discounted a divorce fee simply because his client became a widow 10 minutes after she hired him. The poor guy's fellow lawyers ganged up and elected him district judge, thus cutting his income by 96%.

It is lovely that the Supreme Court has ruled this price fixing is illegal. But if the idea is to save the consumer money, the court must go further. Lawyers must be allowed to advertise. What's the sense of having a sale on zoning appeals if no one knows about it? Lawyers should push their services the same way McDonald sells hamburgers. There is more than one way to give yourself a break today. Find yourself a drive-in lawyer who knows how to prepare wills ahead of time and keep them warm. All you need do is fill in the blanks, as easy as adding ketchup.

Bar associations object to advertising because, they say, it is degrading to professional people. It is to laugh. Almost everyone convicted in the Watergate mess was a lawyer. Nixon and Agnew are lawyers. In my hometown, a lawyer admitted he hadn't filed his income tax return for 10 years. A Mich. Supreme Court justice has stepped down while being investigated on bribery charges.

The members of the legal profession could hardly be further degraded if they advertised by sky writing over drive-ins showing porno movies. Lawyers would probably gain dignity through a series of TV commercials starring that same guy who wants to say a few words about diarrhea.

When the Supreme Court is done with the lawyers, the justices should turn their attention to the doctors. I wouldn't accuse any medical society of fixing prices. Even if the doctors do share the printing costs for 2 million office signs announcing price hikes caused by "The Rising Cost of Malpractice Insurance" tra la la.

Surely there are some cut-rate tonsillectomies out there. But where? The doctors should also be allowed to advertise. This shouldn't be too degrading for a profession that pickets hospitals.

Proud of our deputies

On the evening of June 16, 1975 there was a serious accident near my home at the corner of Pine Knob Lane and Maybee Road between a automobile and a motorbike.

As we were in our yard at the time, I immediately called the Independence Township sheriff department requesting a patrol car and ambulance. Within three minutes after calling a patrol car with officer Anderson was at the accident. Within three or four minutes more two more patrol cars arrived and also three members of Independence Fire Department, a Donald Nolen, Dennis Meyers and Bob Campbell who immediately passed out flares and gave aid to the accident victim.

I am sorry I did not get all the names of the sheriff officers who responded to the call.

Also Fleet had an ambulance at the scene within five minutes. I for one am proud of our fine

Police, Fire and Ambulance service of our township.

Sincerely,
Fred Luth

Jaycee wives have garage sale for fun and profit

Janeen Galligan makes a sale at the Jaycee garage sale while holding on to her son, Gregory. He was among the youngsters who showed varying degrees of interest in the financial proceedings of the event.

A wary customer for a pair of pointed-toed, spike-heeled dancing shoes was 5-year-old Heather Luchenbach, who shares her amazement at the old-fashioned styles with her mom, Carol Luchenbach, wife of the Jaycees president.

Independence apt to help fund Clinton River study

County officials say Independence Township will likely be asked to help fund an $8,000 flooding study of the Clinton River.

"No decision has been made, but it was mentioned that Independence (which contains the headwaters of the Clinton) should be asked to share," said Michael T. Niemann, county public information officer.

Local officials were not invited to a June 16 meeting at which Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy proposed that Ernest F. Brater, a University of Michigan professor, investigate the causes of the 1974-75 flooding and attempt to determine the likelihood of reoccurrence.

Also included would be the effects of operating the gates at Dawson Dam in Pontiac, the effects of changes in the drainage basin, and feasible methods of reducing the flooding.

Murphy recommended that each community involved participate in the study.

"The county could foot the entire $8,000 cost," Murphy said, "but I believe the study will have greater credibility and efforts to solve this problem will receive greater cooperation if local units of government participate."

Court variance sought

Warren Newsted, successful bidder on erecting a new 52nd District Court for the Clarkston area, was to appear before Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals Wednesday night, seeking a variance which would allow him to build the facility on property at 5873 Dixie Highway.

Newsted does not own quite enough frontage on the Dixie to build the court there under present ordinances. The fact that Shell Court runs alongside the property, off the Dixie, was expected to lend credence to his request.

The Oakland County Board of Commissioners last week authorized the county to proceed with a lease for the facility Newsted was building. He will charge the county $23,000 a year rent and all utilities.

Once the variance is granted and the lease signed by the county, Newsted has 120 days in which to build the court. He plans to tie it into a car wash he now owns on the property and another building, currently occupied by the Drayton Transmission. Newsted has said he will convert the car wash to private offices, with the transmission building being available for future expansion.

Deputy's report

by Doug Hummel

This week as a service to all residents of Oakland County, officers from Oakland County Sheriff, Pontiac City, Waterford Township and Bloomfield Township will be at the Pontiac Mall with a display on Crime Prevention Techniques. They will also be available to answer citizen's questions on ways to secure their businesses, homes and vehicles from theft.

Deputy Dan Daniel from Independence Township will be representing Oakland County Sheriff

Department and advises that all officers will be glad to give advice on prevention of house break-ins, shoplifting prevention, and mechanical techniques in all crime prevention.

We would encourage any resident in the area that will be doing any shopping at the Mall during the week, to stop by and ask questions of these officers.

Engravers are available on loan free of charge from Independence Township Police Services at 90 N. Main Street, to those residents who wish to engrave their driver's license number on their valuables. Residents of Springfield Township can contact Deputies Ferguson or Evans at 625-8600 or 625-2902.

Again this week, several house break-ins and larcenies from autos and residences were reported to officers.

A Grand Rapids resident visiting the Herron Lake Beach reported that he witnessed a subject enter a vehicle owned by Donald Maxim, of Independence Township, who is the manager of the concession stand. Investigation of this complaint resulted in the arrest by Deputy Dan Martin of Michael Hunter, age 18, and the recovery of $30 worth of inflatable rubber swimming rings.

Deputies Jim Snover and Ron Anderson of Independence Township investigating a call of a break-in of a residence on Wabban-see, responsible having been frightened off, resulted in the arrest of Matthew Fearnow, 7080 Andersonville, Waterford, and Jeffrey Weisel, 9519 Cedar-grove, Clarkston, both 18 years of age.

Federal Steel on Dixie Highway in Springfield Township reported the break-in and theft of $2,500 worth of property from the business.

A residence on Clark Road was broken into and $50 in small change was taken from the kitchen counter, and a residence on Sashabaw in Independence was broken into and theft of $50 in change occurred.

For the second time in six months, a residence on Eastlav was broken into and stereo equipment valued at over $1,000 was taken.

A 14-foot aluminum boat was reported taken in a break-in of a summer cottage on Tindall Road in Springfield Township.

The owner of Keyte's Lock Shop reported his van broken into and tools and locks valued at $1,083 taken from the van which was parked in the driveway next to the business.

Nearby on Meyers street, a citizen reported his vehicle broken into and a $190 8-track stereo tape deck stolen.

A Wellesley Terrace resident reported his vehicle entered and property valued at $90 removed.

A three speed 26-inch bicycle was taken from the garage of a residence on Floretta.

Deputy Dan Daniel reports that while investigating a civil matter at Pine Knob, Irene Hubbell was arrested as a result of an altercation. Deputy Daniel reported receiving scratches and being bit on the arm, with Irene Hubbell being charged with resisting arrest.

After effects can be fatal for near drowning

Anyone who is rescued from the water and revived after a near-drowning incident should be rushed to the hospital. Regardless of how he or she feels.

Near-drowning says Dr. Jerome H. Modell, interferes with the blood-gas exchange in the lungs. Serious complications can follow, sometimes even "delayed death" a few days after apparent recovery. The hospital is the only place where near-drowning victims can receive the breathing assistance and intensive pulmonary care necessary until the danger is past.

Speaking at a post-graduate medical course sponsored by the American Lung Association of Louisiana, Dr. Modell said the highest incidence of drowning is among people aged 10 to 19. Eight-five percent of the victims are male. Many can swim. Yet they drown in boating accidents because they are not wearing life jackets, in under-water endurance swimming after hyperventilation, or by trying to swim too far. A teenage boy who is trying to impress his girl friend is a prime example.

No one knows how many Americans nearly drown each year, but it is probably in the thousands. U.S. drowning deaths have averaged 6,000 a year for the past 15 years; more might be saved if all near-drowning victims were taken immediately to the hospital, Dr. Modell said.

by David McNeven, Coach

In 1719 James Figg became the first bare-knuckle champion boxer of Britain. Though his boxing was more a kind of fencing with fists, he developed it into a true art. Through Figg's enthusiasm, authorities tell us, the sport became a popular entertainment and drew big crowds. These further increased when fights were arranged — illegally — for money. This was the birth of the prize fight, and of boxing as we know it today.

We are an authority on all types of sporting equipment. Stop by and visit COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457 when looking for supplies. # How does your garden grow?

By Greg Patchan
Submit all questions to Greg Patchan, Cooperative Extension Service, 1205 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, Mi. 48053. All questions will be answered.
Dear Plant Doctor:

We have a wild cherry tree in our yard and there are several web like tents full of worms on the branches. The worms are eating the leaves. How can we stop them? T.W.

Dear T.W.
Tent caterpillars have invaded your tree. You can destroy them by removing and burning the web and worms. A less disfiguring method of control is to spray the tree with Sevin, which is a low toxicity insecticide.

Dear Plant Doctor:
Some kind of a borer is making holes in the trunk of our pine tree. Strangely the holes almost appear in a uniform pattern. M.G.

Dear M.G.
What you described is not insect damage but bird damage caused by sap suckers. Usually the damage is not severe enough to injure the tree if decay doesn't set in. "Scare crow" devices such as dangling aluminum pie tins may be helpful.

Dear Plant Doctor:
We just planted several hardy ferns in our yard and I have noticed that many of the leaves are producing many small round bodies. What is going on? L.N.

Dear L.N.
Your ferns are producing spores. Ferns reproduce by this asexual method rather than with seeds from pollination and flowers. So relax there is nothing to worry about.

Dear Plant Doctor:
I have noticed that the leaves of our oak tree are misshaped by clusters of round swellings. What malady has struck our trees? B.V.

Dear B.V.

The condition you described is called oak gall. The galls are caused when a small wasp like insect stings the leaves and lays eggs. The galls are most unsightly than they are destructive and nothing can be done now to eliminate them. Chemical controls are seldom required, but you can reduce the problem by spraying with Lindane when the leaves are emerging. Nearly one hundred different galls have been found on oaks.

Dear Plant Doctor:
Nearly all our broccoli plants are wilting and dying. Watering doesn't help so what can we do? N.H.

Dear N.H.
I suspect your problem is being caused by cabbage maggots tunneling in the root system of your plants. This destructive insect also attacks cabbage, brussel sprouts and cauliflower. Carefully dig out one of your plants and inspect the root system. If maggots are the culprits, you will find small, white worm like insects in the roots. Transplants should be treated with Diazinon (Spectracide) to prevent this problem; however, there is little that can be done now. You can still have broccoli this season by seeding directly into the garden in late June for a fall harvest. Be sure to thin the plants to stand two feet apart in rows of three feet apart. These plants will produce late into the fall. Do not forget the insecticide treatment.

Mike Madison hit a two-run home run for the winners and Mark Warren hit a solo blast for the Rangers to account for all of the scoring. Higginbotham Roofing won its first game of the season with a mild upset over the Clarkston Chargers. The Roofers won it in the bottom of the 8th inning on a wild throw to the plate by a 4-3 score.

This week's action saw Ben Powell Trucking defeat the Pine Knob Rangers for sole possession of first place by a 2-1 score.

In other games, State Tire destroyed the Credit Union team and the Fayrohs defeated Rademacher Chevrolet.

Combine fun, fund-raising

Hoping to clean up financially and improve ball facilities in the township while they're at it are the some 1,200 youngsters selling tickets for the Independence Township Baseball Fun Day, to be held July 12 at the high school. Among those looking forward to the event are [from left] Eric Schnabel, Pee Wee Division; Tom Lowery, Widget; Jef Fisk, Midget; Trisha Butler, Girls' Softball; and, dusting home plate, Marty Gamble, a T-Baller.

Precision Pipe in Pontiac Class D 1st place

Clarkston's Precision Pipe team is tied for first place in the Connie Mack division in Pontiac Class D. baseball.

At the end of the first week's action, Precision has collected 18 runs on 27 hits, while holding its three opponents to 2 runs on 6 hits. Dan Blower leads the offense with six hits, while Jeff Ferguson, Tom Ross, and Don Blower have four hits each.

Rain forced a 6th inning cancellation in Tuesday's game against P.A.L. Griswold. Tom Ross had a fine one-hitter going as the game ended in a 1-1 tie.

Bill Matthews gained his first win Wednesday in a three hit shut-out against Milford. Speed played a big part in the 3-0 win as Precision had five stolen bases.

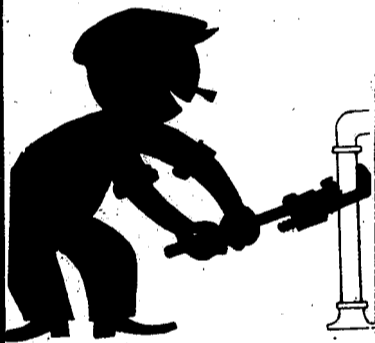

Coach Dave Blower got a special birthday present Friday as his son Don pitched the team to a 14-1 six inning victory. Don came through offensively too, as he and Rod Hool both had three hits. Anyone interested in seeing future games can obtain a schedule by calling Dave Blower at 623-1285.

Headed for Bloomfield Hunt show

by Jean Saille
of The Clarkston News

Sonia Mills was nervous this morning. She and her big bay quarterhorse, Braumiester, were to enter the amateur/owner working hunter section in today's Bloomfield Hunt Club Detroit Horse Show.

It's the first time for both in such a large event, and though Sonia took a 5th place ribbon last week at the Metamora Hunt Club Show, she was still excited.

At age 18, she's finding this summer's shows a bittersweet experience. This fall she'll be entering Michigan State University, interested in the legal field, and Braumiester who has been her ally for three years will have to be sold. That doesn't mean she's going to give up horses, though.

"I'm saving the money, and as soon as I get out of school, I'm going to get another horse -- maybe a thoroughbred," she says.

Meanwhile there's MSU's Block and Bridle Club and a host of activities that will enable her to keep her good riding seat.

Her two brothers, Gary and Chris, are members of Clarkston 4-H Wranglers and have horses of their own, so she'll still have horses in her life.

Sonia's love affair with horses started six years ago when she was 12, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mills, moved the family to Clarkston from Warren.

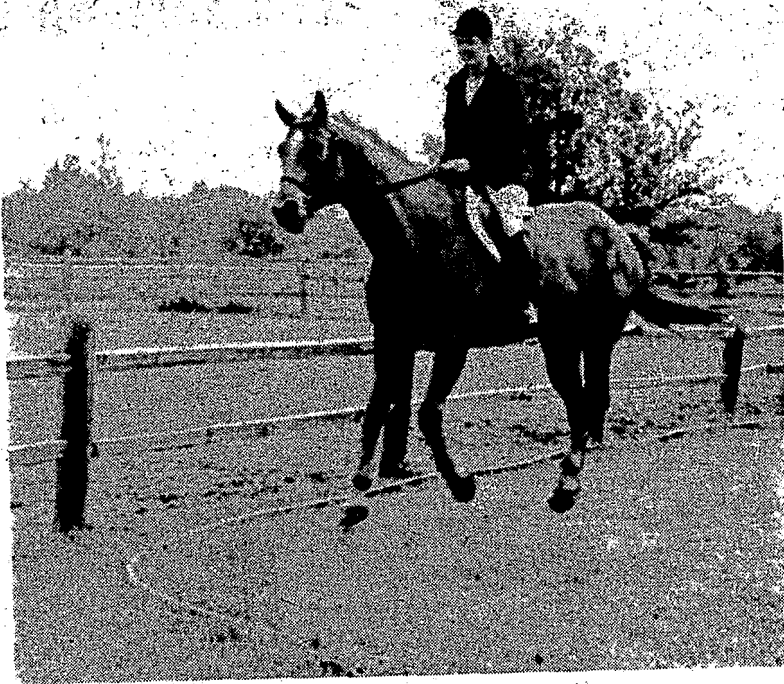

According to Mrs. Mills, the move was a good one. The family immediately purchased horses for their Perry Lake Road property and the youngsters became members of 4-H.

Mrs. Mills is an avid promoter of 4-H, noting that the kids have done all the work connected with horse keeping, and that the club has kept them busy.

Sonia spends two hours a day riding, besides the grooming and feeding necessary in the care of a horse. As show time approaches, the training gets more intense, and before the summer's over she will have competed in 10 A Circuit shows plus several quarter horse shows.

Braumiester is of even temperament, one of the qualities of his race, and he's done well in the pleasure and jumping classes, Sonia reports.

Sonia Mills and Braumiester are warming up for their first appearance in the prestigious Detroit Horse Show at the Bloomfield Hunt Club.

EFFECTIVE: July 26, 1975

An ordinance to describe areas closed to hunting, special local regulations for hunting and to provide for the safety of persons and property within the Township of Independence, Oakland County; enacted under the authority of Act 159, Public Acts of 1967 (M.C.L. 317.331), being identical to the State Administrative Rules filed in the Office of the Secretary of State.

June 26 - July 3 & 10 enough for a reason. Those who have endured such events know what I'm speaking of. The work we put ourselves through to make a good impression is frightening in retrospect.

The "good thing" we reasoned is that it got us to do some things that we'd put off in favor of doing what was necessary.

Like finishing off the inside of our garage and painting it. "In case it rains we'll set up tables and eat in the garage and you wouldn't want all Luan's friends seeing the mess you have in there with things hanging all over the walls and and and..."

Sometimes these instructions come without punctuation marks.

I was further told it mattered not what color I chose. A more-knowing husband told me later how wrong I was to accept that statement. I chose my mother's favorite color, yellow.

I must consult the Guinness Book of Records to see if that one wall was yellow for the shortest period of time. The whole garage is now an acceptable bland tan.

The yard, of course, had to be manicured. There wasn't a blade in sight longer than 2 inches. We had never trimmed along all the shoreline, but it's clean now thanks to a borrowed hedge trimmer. It took 2 days and each day the mosquitos took 2 pints of blood.

The 340 marigolds were free from weeds, the boulders I'd been saving in a pile in back of the house for a rock garden were moved, and everything washable was washed including the concrete walk.

Naturally, 2 days before the open house our well had to be pulled. The screen was clogged. That led to all sorts of dripping faucets. Let it be noted that a cleaned screen puts pebbles in the lines and they all settle under the washers.

One gets to the point where he wishes the appointed hour would get here so he could start mingling with the guests and hear them rave about how nice everything looks.

Of course, that doesn't happen. Through suggestion you can get maybe one or two people to stop talking about their golf game long enough to say, "Yeah, the yard looks good but how come you didn't get the brick chimney painted yellow?"

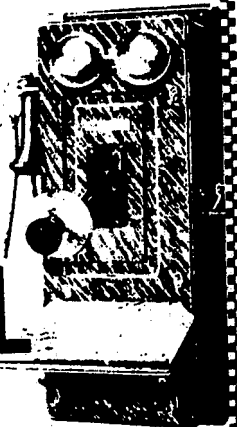

No one told Hazel how clean she got the windows, nor me how clean the flower garden was. Surely they don't assume it's that way all the time.

The story of our open house preparations is not meant for a "can you top this" lead. I'm sure you've had more trials and tribulations. And, I'm equally sure that in the end they all turned out like ours, absolutely great.

I suppose preparations for a big party, such as an open house for a graduating child, can be interpreted as a good thing if one searches hard

Sources say that Gray Graham, who attempted to help Clarkston's Economic Development Corporation obtain the new County District Court for Clarkston has at least temporarily lost out on another project.

The Oakland County Board of Commissioners failed to approve $30,000 for Bicentennial planning last week, and it is rumored that Graham was the man to head the project.

***

Even before the start of the Bicentennial, members of the Springfield Township Planning Commission found themselves back in the "good old days" at their June 17 meeting.

About halfway through the session, stormy weather brought a power failure and the lights went out.

Commission Chairman Al Lopez called his wife Janice for help. Township Clerk J. Calvin Walters reported.

"The rest of the meeting was conducted by the light of two old pedestal-type oil lamps and a couple of candles," he said.

A bill introduced by State Representative Claude A. Trim (D-Davisburg) to require the larger restaurants to set aside a seating area where smoking is prohibited is ready for House debate and vote.

The Bill was placed on the House calendar after being reported out by the Committee on Public Health with the recommendation that it be passed.

Trim explained that the proposal would apply only to those eating places with a seating capacity of 50 or more.

The non-smoking sections would be designated by signs of sufficient numbers and in such locations as to be readily seen by customers. In addition, a sign indicating the availability of a non-smoking area would have to be posted at the entrance of the eating place.

Clarkston's Dan Blower has been named to the Detroit News 1975 All-Metro baseball team.

People who would like copies of Independence Township's new zoning ordinance and map may get them from the township hall at $5 per copy.

Low-income volunteer families with school-age children are needed for Perfect Grow—a self-help garden undertaking sponsored by the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency. Garden plots and equipment will be provided in the Pontiac, Waterford, Walled Lake and Royal Oak Township areas.

The families will prepare the land, plant seeds, harvest the crops, consume and sell a portion of the produce. Excess produce will be sold and distributed to low-income families.

Project Grow participants will also have the opportunity to attend workshops on nutrition, gardening, preservation of food and first aid techniques.

Additional information may be obtained from James Corr, Project coordinator for Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency, at 858-5143.

Blower, a catcher-third baseman previously selected to All State Class A teams, batted .471 with 33 hits in 70 at-bats. He blasted five homers, four triples, and four doubles during the winning season.

Dan has accepted a football scholarship to Saginaw Valley College this fall.

Clarkston is going to have its own village band, according to council action taken Monday.

Instead of calling it the Clarkston Village Band, we think it should be called something like the Maccabee Temple Band, after one of the largest and earliest structures in the village.

What do you think?

***

There's still an impasse as far as the completion of Pinehurst sewers in the village of Clarkston. Rocco Ferrara Co. which has the contract says the county owes it $40,000 because of misrepresented soil conditions in the area. The county says it will pay $30,000, but wants the clean up job to proceed at once.

Last word was that if nothing was done by June 20, a new contractor would be obtained to finish the job. There was no new news by Monday night's council meeting.

***

There's been minimal progress made between the Clarkston Education Association and the Board of Education administrators as they bargain for a new teachers' contract.

Both sides report the process is working better this year and that there are indications of some meaningful action about to happen.

It won't happen until after mid-July though. A two-week recess in bargaining has been called to permit some negotiators vacations.

Should 'Bottles for Building' be taken over by the township?

Recycling project future in doubt

by Pat Braunagel
of The Clarkston News

Tons and tons of throwaways can get to be tiresome—especially when just a few people have the responsibility for recycling them every week.

The small group involved in the project in Independence Township since 1971 would like to see it handed over to someone else—preferably township officials.

The Independence Township Board last week said it would give some temporary aid in the form of manpower through the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) Act 6.

However, township officials retracted the offer after checking with Township Attorney Richard Campbell, who said public funds time and materials cannot be given to a charitable organization.

The people who have been supporting Bottles for Building Inc., therefore, would like to see it transferred into the public realm, becoming a governmental agency.

Township officials are investigating the feasibility of such a proposal, with generally cautious interest.

A request from independence center for a CETA office employe was turned down by township officials earlier this year.

Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie was on vacation last week and part of this week.

Trustee Fred Ritter has asked that Director of Public Works George Anderson study the financial feasibility of the proposal and report back to the board at its July 1 meeting.

Carolyn Place, chairperson of Bottles for Building Inc., plans to attend the session to urge board members to save the organization from folding.

Trustee Jerry Powell said he was sympathetic to Mrs. Place's cause but was not ready to make a full commitment on behalf of the township at this stage.

A study of the matter would have to include consideration of the future of CETA funding, which is supposed to end early in 1976, and of recycling programs in other communities, Powell said.

Clerk Robert Lay said he thought transferral of the program would bring the necessity for vehicle and property purchase.

"I just don't see how we can be ready to take it over very soon," he said.

"I think we have a lot to consider before making a decision," said Treasurer Elizabeth Hallman.

Campbell said the township would be on legally firm ground in taking over the recycling project "if it's within the public interest, and a public purpose can be shown."

He noted there is lengthy precedent on the matter. As an example, the Detroit Common Council was once forbidden to help support the Detroit Institute of Art, until operation of the facility was turned over to the city, he said.

Ritter said he felt the bottle-aluminum-paper recycling effort in Independence Township does serve a public purpose.

"We're not going to make any money on it, but I think keeping the township clean is a good idea," he said. "The fire department doesn't make any money either, but it provides a needed service."

Mrs. Place has flatly said that Bottles for Building will be discontinued if help is not forthcoming.

"We'll request that the township take it over entirely or we'll dismantle," she said.

Her commitment to recycling has not diminished, she said, but the time available for her to devote to it has.

Mrs. Place will continue to serve on the board of the Oakland County Recycling Center, which she helped to organize after the drop-off center was established here.

She said she would like to see Independence Township take a leadership role in committing itself to recycling. The project has been in continuous operation here since January 1971, "longer than any such project in the state and possibly the nation," she said in a letter to the township board.

The project has been supported through the dedication of volunteers, who for the last two years have received help from the Oakland County trusty camp in transporting bottles from the drop-off site on M-15 near Dixie Highway to the county center in Pontiac.

Paper is hauled away from the drop-off site once or twice a week, and it is temporarily stored on property on Dixie which the owners have loaned to the recycling organization.

The township has never made property available to the Bottles for Building program, although Mrs. Place said she had requested consideration on the matter from the last three township supervisors.

In her discussion with the board last week, she emphasized the need for manpower.

Someone should check the site daily, she said, "making sure the glass is placed in the appropriate barrel, checking the aluminum to be sure that it is just that and not bi-metal or steel, and making sure that the newspaper is either bagged or tied, a job I estimated would require between 15 to 20 hours per week."

Mrs. Place said that for the past 22 months, this task has been handled by a person paid $15 a week by the group. However, it recently has been brought to the organization's attention that the individuals in Bottles for Building have made themselves extremely vulnerable because they've carried no liability insurance on the person.

A township employe, whether paid through CETA or not, could be insured by the township, she said.

Wages for a township employe to spend the necessary amount of time at the site would run about $120 a week, Anderson said.

This estimated outlay does not include the cost of acquiring and maintaining vehicles for the project.

Mrs. Place noted that the Oakland County Department of Public Works has 10-ton containers which can be made available to communities which provide a fenced drop-off site in a properly zoned area.

Purchase of vehicles would not be necessary, she said.

The organization currently is making between $400 and $600 a month, selling glass for $27 a ton and paper for $4 a ton.

She would like to see the program conducted on township property to do away with double handling of the material.

The more than $12,000 which Bottles for Building has earned toward financing a community center is only one indication of the interest citizens have in recycling, Mrs. Place said.

Hundreds of individuals and families in the area save their glass, aluminum and paper to take to the drop-off site, she said.

"Thousands of people in our township and the surrounding communities have developed a new consciousness for the concept of reuse of materials as opposed to dispose, disregard, throw away, litter or bury in a landfill," she wrote in her letter to the board.

As one benefit to the community, Mrs. Place described the incentive provided by the Oakland County Recycling Center, which awarded $100 certificates for nursery stock for every 50 tons of glass delivered to their location.

The local share was $1,000 which allowed each school in the Clarkston district to get $100 worth of nursery stock.

Mrs. Place said the total amount of glass collected since the program went into effect here is 1,108 tons. In 1974, the average was 14.33 tons a month. Since paper recycling was added to the program in August 1973, Bottles for Building has collected 217.12 tons, or an average of 10.85 tons a month.

She admitted that one of the flaws in the Bottles for Building program has been its loosely structured organization. While many groups have become involved in the project, responsibility has remained with a relatively few people.

"Three or four people still are hanging in," she said.

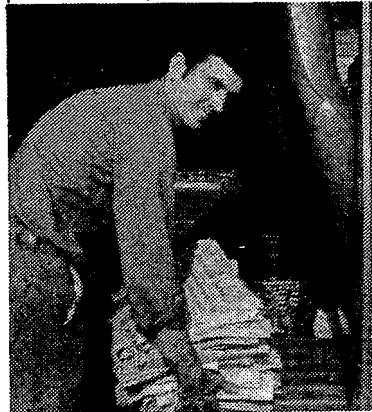

But now the community has to decide where it's going with recycling, she said: "We have got to look forward, have got to do planning."

Girls survey recyclers

Jeff Still, 8956 Davisburg Road, Springfield Township, unloads a week's supply of paper and glass.

Carol Marsch, 5650 Eagle Road, Highland Township, has just started using site.

B. J. Hanson of 6155 Snowapple, Independence Township, has the recycling habit.

Harold Fitch of 5744 Hummingbird, Independence Township, hands papers over to Tammy Mosier.

Joe Cadwallader, 9220 M-15, Independence Township, delivers bagged papers to the drop-off center.

To get some impression of who uses the Bottles for Building drop-off site and why they use it, a couple of local 4-Hers involved in the recycling project conducted a mini-survey this week.

Tammy Mosier and Liz Place, members of the Clarkston Conservationists, interviewed people who came to the drop-off center during a one-and-a-half-hour period Sunday and a similar amount of time Monday morning.

The Clarkston Conservationists, who are hauling paper from the drop-off site to a van on Dixie this week, constitute just one of the groups whose efforts support the recycling program and whose coffers are enriched by it.

The persons interviewed by the two girls seemed to view the site as a service for their families rather than as a community project. Only one, B. J. Hanson of 6155 Snowapple, Independence Township, knew that the money raised through the program is being put in an account for a community building.

For most, the stop by the drop-off site is made once a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bell of 3329 Sashabaw Road, Drayton Plains, have been using the drop-off site ever since it was established for bottles and paper in 1973 because "we hate to throw them away."

Jeff Still, 8956 Davisburg Road, Springfield Township, shared their sentiments about waste. He's been using the drop-off site for two years, "since I saw it in the parking lot."

Bottles for Building Inc. members are quick to admit they owe much of their success to the location of the site in the parking lot of a shopping center at a busy intersection.

Carol Marsh of 5650 Eagle Road, Highland Township, first noticed the enclosed area a month ago, and made her second trip there this week.

"We might as well save them, rather than throw them away," she said.

Harold Fitch, 5744 Hummingbird, Independence Township, has been participating in the program since it started "because I think they use it for a good reason."

Hanson said his involvement in saving glass started back when the Bottles for Building program conducted Saturday drives in 1971.

"I started saving during the Saturday drives and never quit saving," he said.

Hanson said he originally had been made aware of the program by reading about it in the paper, as did Joe Cadwallader of 9220 M-15, Independence Township.

Cadwallader said he stops at the drop-off site about once a week, leaving glass and paper so "somebody can get some use of it."

The girls added one comment of their own: that the people utilizing the drop-off site were doing so in 90-degree weather.

They might also have noted that the people working at the site were doing so in 90-degree weather.

Fritz likes the home created by his parents in one of Clarkston's "middle-aged" houses.

From Grayling, with love

COUNTRY LIVING

By Pat Braunagel

When Tom and Sally Lamm came to Clarkston 15 years ago, they brought a bit of their home town with them.

When they bought their first house five years later, more and more bits of Grayling began to arrive to become an integral part of their home decor.

As with most young couples starting to furnish a home, the Lamms drew heavily on family hand-me-downs, many of which have now crossed over into the heirloom category.

The Lamms had another factor going for them--Tom had been an inveterate collector of "old things" since he was a boy. And with his woodworking ability, he began to create a place to best display and utilize the objects he and his wife had collected.

Tom teaches industrial arts at Clarkston Junior High School. After arriving in Clarkston, Sally taught kindergarten for six years before retiring to start a family. The two Lamm children are Janet, now "nearly 9," and Fritz, "nearly 4."

The Lamm house is about 45 years old, the same vintage as most of the others in their neighborhood.

They have, however, changed it structurally to suit their needs and added their personal, straight-from-Grayling touches.

By far the largest conversation piece in the Lamm home is a roll top desk that was in the office of an old lumber company in Grayling. Hanging near it in the family room is a clock from the Ford dealership in the Northern Michigan town.

These are in the section of the house which Tom added on during a three-year construction project done in phases.

The project included a totally remodeled kitchen, featuring cupboards Tom built. Sally noted that in an older home, the owners are forced to do much of the work themselves or have it custom done.

Fortunately, Tom likes to work on the house and Sally enjoys sewing.

The remodeling project at the Lamm home--their backyard utility room and full bathroom and adding on a family room and deck.

From the deck, the Lamms have access to what may currently be the handiest portion of the Lamm home--their backyard. Separated from the original yard by a fieldstone fence are two lots the Lamms added later.

The lots are the play area for the children, enhanced by a playhouse made by their father.

"It's been everything from a Dairy Queen to a grocery store to a castle," said Sally, whose children were given a child-sized building on which their imaginations could go to work.

Back inside, the imaginations of Sally and Tom have come to the fore in adjusting a thrice-owned house to their personal needs.

Two of the outstanding features of the house are a stone fireplace in the living room and a sideboard along one wall of the dining room.

Sally noted how handy the sideboard is for entertaining, when she spreads a long runner on it to serve buffet meals.

It's also a storage area and ideal spot for display of some of the Grayling mementoes--among them an old pharmacist's scale and potato mashers and large wooden knitting needles owned by Sally's grandmother.

Also from her side of the family came two butter churns Tom converted into living room lamps.

On the mantel is one of the first acquisitions--an old clock which didn't work and was given to him by a man whose lawn he mowed.

Some not-quite-so-old things decorate Fritz's room, where his father's boyhood furniture was used. The tim drummer bedspread and drapes follow the motif set by a former toy of Tom's.

Janet's room in bright pink and apple green, is now being converted from nursery rhymes to a more sophisticated theme befitting a young lady of nearly nine.

In the paneled master bedroom, Tom has recently added shutters and Sally has made a canopy.

The Early American furnishings throughout the house are augmented by at least three generations of Grayling memorabilia.

Massive roll top desk is center of attention in Lamms' family room.

Sideboard in dining room is highly utilitarian.

Tips for bottle collecting from a pro

Bottle collector Donald Guye offers facts and information for would-be bottle collectors.

"Bottles are all over, just look and you can find."

Be aware that age alone does not mean that a bottle is valuable. Example - A 1853 Mason Fruit jar is old, but since there were millions of them made, they are worth only 25c to 50c each.

Dates on bottles don't mean the bottle is valuable. It could be only a mold marking, a patent date, or a forgery.

Original fruit jars were made of crockery. First glass fruit jars had wax sealers over glass fitted tops.

The procelain lined screw-type lid preceded the glass top wire-baled closure.

Ground tops on jars were made before 1890.

Bottles with smooth tops were machine made after the 1890's.

The original color of glass is aqua. In order to make it clear, bottle manufacturers began to add magnesium. In the beginning, they sometimes added too much and as the glass was exposed to the sun's ultraviolet rays, the chemical reaction turned the clear glass to amethyst, (1885-1915).

BY THE THIRD EYE

We're going to have heat off and on all summer long. It will be a nice hot summer, accompanied by periodic rains. The crops will do extremely well.

Meat and gas prices are going up, but they'll taper off for a while, come down and then go back up again. People make money while they can.

Another likely subject for inflation is the cost of ice skates this winter.

The Detroit busing case will be confined to Detroit. And that will take a long time happening, even in Detroit. We will never have cross district busing in our area.

Women will be taking on more active roles within the church, including the formation of doctrines. Efforts to set them back now won't have much effect. Besides the current Episcopal furor over women priests, the problem will surface in the Presbyterian Church, but there it will have much more acceptance.

There'll be a settlement between teachers and school board in plenty of time for the start of school. There will be no strike here this year.

The Jaycee Carnival will make more money this year than last. Members will have to watch for a lack of control that may cause some problems.

President Ford will fire someone, hire someone else and rearrange cabinet appointments. People will be surprised at his strength.

A chief justice will die soon.

Sugar will fluctuate in price, and amazingly enough, so will canning jar seals and rings.

Fred MacMurray will make some headlines. I see him smiling.

night stand at Pine Knob Friday, June 20th. This was also the first concert date of Stills's nation wide tour. It was obvious that Stills and the group have not quite polished their act to the usual standards of his reputation.

He opened the show with "Love the One You're With" and moved through "Wooden Ships", a Crosby, Stills and Nash tune. As Still's introduced new songs from his latest album, he failed to sustain the momentum built from his earlier songs. It was only after he performed the "Loner" that he was able to revive interest.

The second set was a solo acoustical set with Stills performing smoothly on "Change Partners" and the blues classic, "Cross Roads". Again, as he introduced new songs, the performance seemed to break down and the audience talked throughout several songs. Stills picked up on the lack of interest and brought the crowd back with a fine version of "4 plus 20".

For the third set, the band which included Dallas Taylor on drums, Joe Lala on percussion, lead guitarist Donny Dacus and Rick Roberts on rhythm guitar, played two songs without Stills and were well received. Stills rejoined the group by playing lead guitar as Roberts sang "Colorado."

The last set was the best with the band and Stills performing very tightly in "Johnny's Garden" and other "Manassas" material. Stills ended the show with "The Treasure of New Orleans" and did "Suite Judy Blue Eyes" as an encore.

In general, Stephen Stills performance was good with excellent vocals and solid guitar playing. However, the introduction of new songs seemed to slow the pace of what could have been an excellent concert. As the Stephen Stills tour continues and the newer songs become familiar, the band and Stills should begin to gel.

New shoe store open in Drayton

The delightfully decorated London Shoe Shoppe sits behind a bright orange front at 4528 Dixie, north of Frembes.

Opened recently by Carrol Reis and H. Boughton Rees, it is managed by Roger Ellingsworth.

Decorated in old English, it features deacon benches, rough sawn display cases, Victorian furniture and a couple of mirrored walls which emphasize and reemphasize the decor.

Mrs. Reis, formerly an employe of Penthouse Fashions, has been a resident of the Maceday Lake area for 23 years.

The store, under its Welsh dragon coat of arms, carries imports in addition to men's shoes by Freeman, Dexter, Pro Keds, and Jack Purcell. Women's lines are by Cobbies, Socialites, Grasshopper and Dexter, while children can look amidst the Buster Brown and Keds.

Bar/restaurant planned on Dixie

Approval of the site plan for a new bar and restaurant on Dixie Highway has been recommended by the Springfield Township Planning Commission.

M.E. DePorter, who currently operates the Four Seasons Inn at 10197 Dixie, submitted the plans in behalf of the B.J.E. Company, which plans to erect a new building just south of Oakhill on the northeast side of Dixie.

While the building initially will provide space for just the bar and restaurant, plans allow for the addition of rental units in the future. The site plan will next be considered by the Springfield Township Board.

Egg entrepreneurs

by Mary Warner,
phone 625-3370

Would you give an egg to a cheerful cheerleader?

Would you buy an egg from one?

These two thought-provoking questions will have to be considered by friends and relatives of Clarkston Junior High School cheerleaders Saturday, June 28, when the girls conduct an "egg exchange."

Traveling in pairs, the girls will approach persons in their own neighborhoods with the novel means of raising funds.

The system works thusly: the first person is asked to donate an egg to the effort, then the second person is asked how much she or he would pay for the egg. The procedure is repeated until the girls are through scrambling for funds for the 1975-76 season.

And they're serious about the project -- it's no yolk.

Days were settlers from England

The engagement of Pamela Jeanette Slade to Ronald J. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Morris, 4595 Oak Vista, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Slade, 8626 Pine Knob. An August 9 wedding is planned.

The home at 61 Church Street, now occupied by the Frank Green Family, dates from the 1870's, according to Maurice E. Day, 6582 Church.

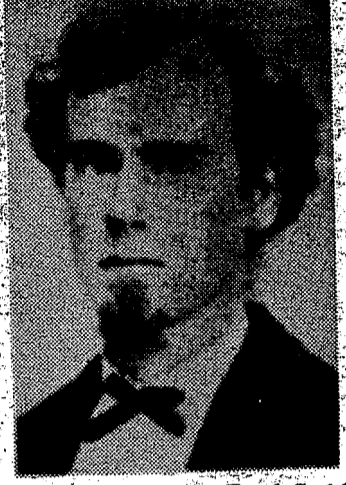

It was the home of Frank Smith and his wife, Hannah Maria, who came to Michigan from England. They were married February 16, 1871, at Orchard Lake, and proceeded to have seven children, all but one born in Clarkston.

Of those children, Leonard, Eleanor and Louis all graduated from Clarkston High School. Leonard, the eldest son, founded the Powermatic Machine Co of McMinnville, Tenn., and Louis was one of six founder-owners of the Griswold Motor and Body Company of Detroit. Eleanor married Elmer E. Day, also one of the Griswold owners. Another daughter, Ethel, married Edward Otis Belding of the Belding Brothers Silk Mills family before moving to Belding in 1902-03. He was known as Frank, the father, worked for Ditcher Smith, family records recall.

Spiritual Message

SUMMER IS (A THIRD) OVER

"The harvest is past, the summer is over, and we are not saved."
Jeremiah 8:20

If summer, for us, is June, July and August, one-third of it is now gone. Even if fooled by the long hold of cool weather, we should have noted our calendars. It's bare-foot time (if you can get away with it) and swimming time and camping time and travel time!

For old Jeremiah, the weeping prophet of Israel, harvest and summer were two separate seasons, but both were two chances at different foods to store for winter. If harvest of grains failed from April to June, they still had a chance for the summer fruit. But if that too dried up or blighted, then famine was staring them in the face.

This beautiful, sad elegy of missed harvest and lost fruitfulness was caused by drought or invasion. Either way spelled tragedy, and brought the prophet's question of pathos, "Is there no balm even in Gilead?" His eastern horizon usually gave hope of supplies of herbs and resins to soothe and heal wounds. But no food to nourish; no balm to heal this year!

Screaming headlines of various colored disaster might seem to throw us to seats with fellow-sufferer of old, Jeremiah. But even leaving him to his tears and elegies, what have we done so far this summer to say him nay?

Have our travels yet brought us to share faith in worship with strangers who say the Lord's Prayer a different way and embarrass us? Have we changed cool shorts for hot dress clothes long enough to greet a bed-held friend whose pain goes right through summer? Have we let our religion show sufficiently to be caught on the edge of a national park devotions? Have we cracked a Bible for guidance since school let out? Have we helped mow our church's lawn that one week we were home? Have we climbed a stadium seat for a different form of God's Word among the crowds? One month down, two to go. How about it, people of God?

So you're moving...

You may be in for a shock!

If your family is one of the 16 million expecting to change homes this year and you have not moved for the past five or ten years, you may be in for a shock-- or perhaps a number of them.

And even if you have moved as recently as two or three years ago you can expect to encounter several new developments such as inflated prices and interest rates, variable rate mortgages, expanded moving-cost deductions, homebuyers' tax credits and other innovations.

So whether you are acquiring a larger house to accommodate a growing family, moving into a less expensive place, giving up home ownership in favor of renting, or being transferred by your employer, you might benefit from one or more of the pointers that follow.

Often, a big question is: What kind of a home are you likely to move into? If you are already a homeowner, the answer is probably something pretty close to what you are used to, for the inflated price of what you will buy should be largely offset by whatever you receive from the old place; inflation is nationwide.

If you are planning to move from rented quarters into a home of your own, things may be a little more difficult. According to a recent study by the Congressional Joint Economic Committee, the average price for a new home is $41,300. For an existing one, $35,600.

The committee estimates that to meet the payments on a $41,300 home your annual income should be $23,300, and to handle the $35,600 house you should be making $21,170. Since the home of the average family is only about $12,000, there is an obvious gap.

The congressional committee found, though, that builders are cutting down on frills to bring home costs and families' ability to pay closer together. Until that is accomplished, many families will continue to rent.

But if you can arrange a mortgage loan, even at inflated prices, buying a home may be cheaper than renting one over the long haul. That is because of allowable tax deductions from your real estate taxes and from the interest on the mortgage. For a great many families, these represent their biggest tax deductions.

The higher your tax bracket, the lower the effective interest rate on your mortgage. In the 25 percent bracket, for example, your tax deduction brings an eight percent mortgage down to six percent. In the 50 percent bracket, the effective rate falls from eight percent to four.

With mortgage money somewhat more available than it was a year ago, the return of competition among lenders has brought variations in interest rates, so once again it is worthwhile to comparison shop.

Lending institutions in various parts of the country are offering imaginative types of variable rate mortgages, ones on which the interest rate rises and falls with prevailing conditions. If you have to, you might look into these, but there are often serious shortcomings that make them inferior to fixed-rate mortgages.

One bright spot in the home relocation picture is the tax credit Uncle Sam is giving to buyers of some new homes. Unlike a deduction, a tax credit is an amount that can be subtracted dollar for dollar from your tax bill.

The home buyers' tax credit is good for five percent of the purchase price up to a maximum of $2,000. It applies if:

--The home was erected or under construction before March 26, 1975.

--It is a completely new house, not a remodeled one.

--It is purchased at the lowest price at which it has ever been offered.

--The contract to buy is signed before January 1, 1976.

--The buyer makes the house his principal residence before the end of 1976.

The government is attempting to stimulate home sales in other ways, too. For instance, new regulations authorize federal savings and loan associations to grant mortgage loans of up to $55,000 on single-family homes. Also, the S&L's may make home improvement loans up to $10,000--twice the former ceiling.

If, in selling your home to buy another, you achieve a capital gain, the Internal Revenue Service allows you to defer the tax on the gain if your new home costs as much or more than the price you received for the old one. Congress recently extended the time permitted for acquiring the replacement home; you now have 18 months to move into an existing one, two years in the case of a house you build.

If you have trouble selling your old home because potential buyers are unable to qualify for a mortgage, consider granting the mortgage loan yourself, if you can afford to leave your equity tied up. There are two advantages to being the mortgage holder: you earn the high interest rates that now prevail and, by making the proper installment sale arrangements you may spread any capital gain over a number of years. If you are reinvesting in another house, of course, these considerations may not apply.

In selling your home and/or buying another, you will go through the "closing" procedure, where all loose ends are tied up and the transfer of ownership is made official. At the closing, many fees have to be paid, mostly by the buyer--to lawyers, title guarantors, etc. Under a new law, effective June 20, the mortgage lender must give the borrower an itemized list of these extra costs at least 12 days before the closing. The same law bans certain extras such as referral fees or kickbacks. At the closing, you will receive receipts and other documents, all of which should be saved as they may be important for insurance, tax and estate settlement purposes in the future.

If you are moving because of a business transfer and your employer offers to protect you against any loss on the sale of your home, do not be too anxious to take advantage of it before weighing the possible tax consequences and alternative ways of handling the sale.

Some employers allow transferred employees the difference between the sales price of the home and its appraised value. Others give the employee a percentage of what he receives for his house. Still other companies buy the house themselves.

In such arrangements, any gains resulting from the employer's generosity could be treated as taxable income.

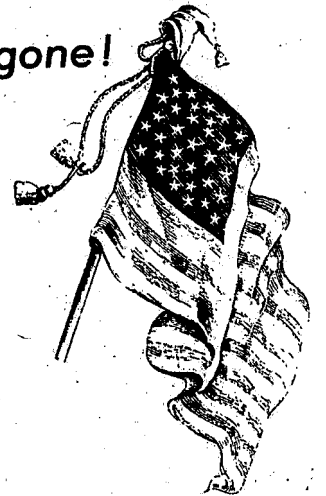

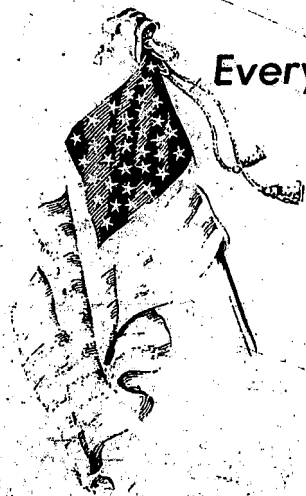

The same is true of employer reimbursement for moving costs, to the extent that the payments exceed actual expenses.

If you pay those moving expenses yourself, they may be tax deductible if your former home is at least 50 miles farther from where you now work than from where you used to work. Items deductible may include transporting your family and household goods, pre-moving househunting trips, rental of temporary quarters at the new location and certain expenses of selling your old home or settling a lease.

Changing homes can be a lot more complicated than it was a few years ago, but the dark clouds all seem to have silver linings. Select the new house wisely and may you enjoy it for many years.

They help people who hurt

"Call Connie" invites one of the brochures at the new Waterford Branch of Catholic Social Services.

Who are the people who take Connie Schnell up on the invitation, who go to her for family services counseling?

"They're people who are scared, who feel there's something wrong with their marriage, who don't feel they're good parents, people who are frustrated or angry—people who hurt," answers the social worker.

She's the district supervisor of the three-person staff for the new Waterford office, at 5913 Dixie in Independence Commons Shopping Center.

The new branch is one of two opened up recently in suburban Oakland County communities, the other being in Highland. Prior to that, Catholic Social Service personnel worked out of either the Pontiac or Royal Oak office.

While the Waterford branch offers the full spectrum of social services, family problems and substance abuse counseling rank high on the list of current priorities. Available at the office is a fulltime representative of the Talbott Center for substance abuse.

Persons seeking help from Catholic Social services may get it through individual, conjoint, family or group treatment.

The facility is called a family mental health clinic because that generally is the approach of the counselors to problem solving. No individual operates alone, without family ties, even if those ties no longer are active, Schnell said.

She noted that people who are overwhelmed with stress can investigate alternatives or changes they can make to aid in seeking solutions.

"I am supportive, but I also would want you to look at how you are setting yourself up to lose," she said.

In her group sessions, Connie employs Transactional Analysis and Gestalt psychology.

For people who need services other than those provided through Catholic Social Services, referrals are made.

Consulting psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers and marriage counselors are available.

Flexible fees are determined by a sliding scale based upon a client's ability to pay, Schnell said.

She emphasized the confidential nature of her counseling and cautioned against persons with problems trying to be "do-it-yourselfers."

"You wouldn't set your own leg if you broke it at Pine Knob," she said.

Included under the broad spectrum of services offered through the agency are problems involving drugs, family relationships, foster home care, physical illness or handicap, unwed parents, individual personality adjustment, adolescence, aging, educational and vocational adjustment.

Also available is premarital counseling and help with housing, marital difficulties, adoption, alcoholism, employment and parent-child relationships.

The number at which Connie and her associates can be called is 623-9660.

Connie Schnell is available at the Waterford Branch of Catholic Social Services to help people "who hurt."
