More than 5,000 see July 4 parade

More than 5,000 people turned out for Clarkston's annual 4th of July parade, sponsored by the Independence Township firefighters Association.

More than 100 entries, including 13 floats and the longest line of fire engines anyone ever saw, kept spectators interested at a high level.

Old cars, horses, bikes and motorbikes turned out to document transportation through the ages.

Top float prize of $50 was won by the Firefighters Auxiliary depiction of an ice cream parlor. Second place of $25 went to State Rep. Claude Trim's float depicting a boy lying under a tree near a fishing pond and a return to the "good ol' days". Third prize of $10 was awarded to the Bicentennial Committee's reproduction of the old Clarkston Methodist Church.

Non-float prizes of $25 and $10 were presented the Eagles' motorcycle drill team and the Oxford High School Marching Band.

This youngster took his garden along to the parade.

More than 5,000 people lined the streets for Clarkston's 4th of July parade.

Flag wavers were everywhere—young and old.

Irish visitor sees dim future for his homeland

by Jean Saile
of The Clarkston News

An interested spectator at Clarkston's 4th of July parade was Peter Wilson, 17, of Belfast, Ireland.

There haven't been many parades in Belfast during the last three years, Peter reports. There's too much chance of violence, and he doesn't think it's going to get better.

A house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Blachura of Parview, he has been corresponding with their daughter, Kathy Hammond, for the past year. While in Toronto to visit his sister and her husband, he was lured to Michigan by the Blachuras who met him three years ago at a summer report in Northern Ontario.

Peter, now a police trainee in Belfast, has hopes of immigrating to Toronto and joining the police force there in the next year.

A Protestant, he is yet able to feel sorry for Catholics because he says they have been discriminated against in his native country.

When he stands up for them, he runs a risk of alienating his friends whom, he said, are against the Catholics.

But Peter feels the civil war ripping his city apart is more than a religious thing. "There are many factors," he reports in a well modulated voice, "not the least of which is the English-Irish thing."

The Irish have for years looked on England as an oppressor.

Part of it, too, he feels is the exorbitant taxes the people must pay -- to the point that many choose welfare rather than jobs and lots of people with free time contribute to the street unrest.

The income tax, Peter reports, is at 35 percent. Gas is $2 a gallon. The taxes on everything but food is 25 percent.

Living in Belfast with his widowed mother and sister, he has seen a machine gunner shoot down a garbage man at 8 in the morning just 50 yards from his home.

A pub, the Mountain View Tavern, about 400 yards from his home was bombed because the owner refused to pay protection money to militant Protestants. He rebuilt and was bombed out again about a month after the job was completed, Peter says.

Peter has seen school buses bombed, but he notes the violence has stayed pretty much out of the schools in that they are segregated by religion.

Even the offices in Belfast are divided by religion. All the Catholics sit on one side and all the Protestants on another, he says.

His sister is a secretary in a stationery store, and her place of business has been bombed three times, he reports.

"You can't go out of your own area without transport," Peter reports. "It's hazardous any time of day. There have been shoppers machine gunned."

"Everytime you go to town, the chances of your getting back are dimmer," reports Peter who lives a mile from the center of Belfast.

While he wants out, his mother and sister want to stay. Southern Ireland is nice, he affirms, but even the youngsters of the north have been taken into the war.

"The hatred is just being passed on. I don't see it ever getting any better," he admits.

Kathy Hammond and Irish friend, Peter Wilson.

CDA funds allocated by HUD

Springfield and Independence Townships and Clarkston Village will be getting a joint total of $44,100 in federal Community Development Act (CDA) money by July 23 or shortly thereafter.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has granted $904,000 to Oakland County, of which Springfield will receive $8,100, Independence $31,000 and Clarkston Village $5,000.

The grant was approved last Friday, and comes from a sum left over in the Detroit HUD office at the end of the fiscal year June 30. An additional $50,000 will come Oakland County's way in a month, after the Detroit HUD office's new budget is set, according to Mike Neimann, public information officer for county executive Daniel Murphy.

When it does, Springfield and Independence could receive additional contingency grants of $900 and $2,500 respectively.

The contingency funds might also be allocated with the original grants, Neimann said.

Oakland County originally applied for $947,000. If $50,000 in additional monies is allocated, there will be an extra $7,000 that has not been allocated by the county yet.

That means Springfield and Independence could get even more money than they were allocated originally, which was $9,100 and $33,500 respectively, including the contingency fund.

Oakland County will begin releasing the funds five days after July 18.

An environmental study found that there was no adverse impact on the environment from the intended use of the funds, but Oakland County residents have until July 18 to write CDA director, Harold Martin with any objections.

Residents should address their statements to Martin, in care of Fred Houghten, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, 1900 N. Telegraph, Pontiac 48053.

Springfield has allocated $2,000 for the construction of road crossing drains on Big Lake Road and North Bay Drive.

The township also intends to spend $5,100 on park development, $500 for planning and management and $500 for administration of next year's CDA program.

Independence will use its allocation to cover the cost of an ingress-egress lane on Clarkston Road into the new township park.

Clarkston Village will use its money for improvement of the Depot Road park and other recreational improvements in the village.

Neimann said there would probably be no hold-up in the funds' distribution after the environmental impact study deadline, as the county did not expect any big objections.

She's a bird nurse

Alexandra Licis, 8-year-old granddaughter of Main Street resident Mrs. J. S. Wilford, brought a little visitor with her when she came to Clarkston last weekend. Joseph or Josephine [depending on its sex] was discovered by Alex in her Cincinnati home's driveway last Thursday. The baby robin is now being fed grated hamburger, hard-boiled egg and apples, and is beginning to be a plump old bird indeed. The only problem Alex is going to have with her patient is figuring out how to de-tame Joseph-Josephine and send the bird back out into its natural environment.

Holly Country Fair

Old fashioned pet shows, turtle races, a senior citizen pancake race, watermelon eating contest, penny scramble, bed race and cow chip throwing contest will keep things lively during Holly's Country Fair Days July 18 and 19.

Sponsored by Holly merchants and the board of Commerce, the fair coincides with the Northwest Oakland County Historical Society's 6th annual Antique Show at Middle School on North Holly Road.

Carnival rides, arts and crafts booths, refreshments and food will be offered, and the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department's Skatemobile and Puppetmobile will be on hand Saturday in downtown Holly.

Holly Jaycettes have sponsored a merchant's decorating contest among the downtown businesses.

A children's magic show, kiddies' music program and art fair are scheduled. Little "Miss or Mr. Country Fair" will be crowned by the Holly Board of Commerce.

Competitions are sponsored by the board of commerce, Jaycees, Jaycettes, Kiwanis and Lions clubs.

During Celebrity Day festivities Saturday, residents will have a chance to dip local officials in the Dipping Machine.

Entertainment under the stars will culminate each evening's celebration. On Friday the Wasnickis will present live music and dancing for square dance, round dance and polkas. Saturday will feature "Boogie Night".

Poor planning, politics and recession blamed for snafu

Sewers should have cost more than $3,000

by Jean Saile
of The Clarkston News

The fee to tap into Independence Township sewers should have been more nearly the $3,190 originally suggested, and not the $2,260 eventually arrived at.

It was poor planning, abetted by an economic recession, that has resulted in Independence Township's current problems in meeting payments on the $10.1 million worth of bonds sold for the project in early 1972, Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie told the Clarkston Rotary Club Monday night.

He added that failure to complete construction a year ago as planned had resulted in the township being forced to make payments on a product not yet ready to sell.

Glennie appeared with Oakland County Department of Public Works Don Ringler before the group, and Ringler attributed the holdup primarily to problems with pumping station construction. He noted also that one of the contractors had gone bankrupt and delays occurred when it became necessary to find a new contractor to replace him.

Ringler added that all the sewer is in the ground with the exception of 433 feet on Pinehurst in Clarkston. The system is 75 to 90 percent complete, said Glennie.

The $2,260 figure had been based on an estimated 375 housing starts a year, Glennie said. The recession has dropped that figure to less than 70, he reported.

The cost analysis resulting in the insufficient figure was arrived at by former Supervisor Robert Vandermark with the help of financial consultants Billie Farnum and Don Keylon, Glennie said. He blamed "politics" for the downward revision from the original $3,190 and admitted that the township board had approved the revised figure based on consultant advice.

"We currently have 94 commercial establishments and 2400 residential parcels that could be hooked up to the sewer. Only about 1,300 are connected," he added. "Of those 900 are homes, and we're way down from what we could be."

Glennie and Ringler explained that commercial units can bring in more revenue than residential units. Commercial charges are based on multiples of a single family residence, depending on square footage, facilities available and the approximate amount of water used.

Several businessmen in the audience protested the formula as unfair. One businessman, owner of a funeral home, said he would have to pay $850 a year in usage charge alone under the formula. Both hook-ups and usage are based on the unit formula, it was explained.

The supervisor added it is the intention of the township board to downgrade its current $21.25 per quarter usage charge, so it reflects only maintenance and treatment charges. The sum has included funds to help pay off the bonds, but Glennie said in retrospect such a charge did not seem quite fair.

He noted, however, that if the maintenance charge is lowered the hook-in fees would have to be escalated to take the slack. He said auditors are currently working on some "realistic" figures and that they would "probably be slightly higher than what was originally set down in the ordinance."

Rotary members were told several alternatives are available to the township to make up the required funds for bond payments. An ad valorem tax over the whole township could be charged, but Glennie tended to reject that plan in that people who wouldn't have sewers for years would be required to help those who do have them pay for them.

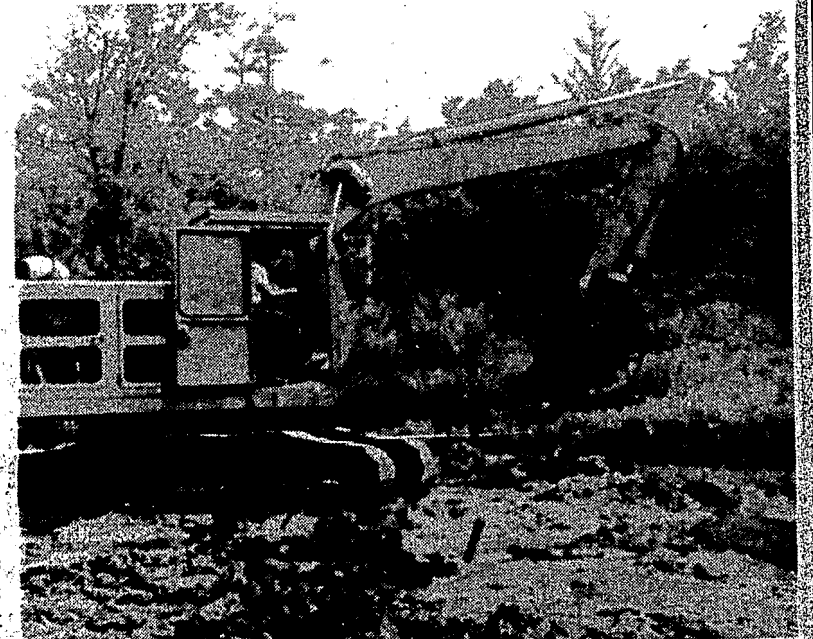

He seemed to favor a special assessment tax in which people who have the sewer available to their property would be charged regardless of whether they hook in or not.

He said such action would step up revenue receipts from 12 to 18 months. State law now provides that a homeowner may wait 18 months before connecting to the sewer.

What will be done about those people who have already hooked in either on time or cash payment remains to be determined, Glennie noted. Whether they will have to bear additional charges or not has not been determined, he said.

Clean-up in the Pinehurst area of Clarkston has been started again by sewer contractor Rocco Ferrara Construction Co. The company must clean out the canal there and build a temporary bridge for their equipment to traverse, according to Don Ringler, director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works. The DPW and Ferrara have been squabbling over the completion of the last leg of sewer installation, but worked out an agreement Tuesday. The laying of the last 430 feet of sewer line will begin just as soon as the clean-up is finished, Ringler said, probably in two weeks.

Racquet Club liquor license sought

Forest Milzow, owner of the Deer Lake Racquet Club, has been put on Independence Township's list of those who wish a class C liquor license.

The township board was asked to approve his application to the state liquor control commission for a license to sell beer, wine and liquor in a planned addition to the Racquet Club on White Lake Road.

But the Board needed to check a procedure on okaying the license by the liquor investigation division of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department before it approved the license, and just decided on the interim list procedure.

Milzow plans a two-story addition on the northeast side of his building, plus an addition adjacent to the two-story building which would house two indoor tennis courts.

The top of the two-story addition will be open to the public, and will house the bar, if Milzow obtains the license, a limited-menu restaurant, and an observation deck.

The bottom half would contain handball courts and a swimming pool.

The existing building has a pro shop, lockers and four indoor courts.

Milzow originally sought a private club liquor license, but found there were none to be had, he said. Because of that, and because the new facility will hopefully draw in new members, Milzow went the class C route.

Milzow expected to begin construction this week, he said.

Fire insurance headed down

State legislative maneuvering has begun on action that could drop your insurance rates $35 to $50 a year, according to Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Ronk said that while he expected no action for at least two years, he is happy that a new look is being taken at the rating system.

Independence Township has rates of 8 and 9, from the national Insurance Services office. The 9 rating is accorded rural areas without water and the 8 those rural areas with water.

Ronk feels that the fact that Independence Township has a manned station, continuously updated equipment and trained manpower should also be considered when the ratings are set.

Furthermore, he noted that the accessibility of water credit is given only on those buildings located within 1000 feet of a fireplug, and feels that nearby and accessible lakes should also have influence on the rating.

The legislation currently proposed calls for the setting up of a state board to oversee the rating system. Ronk feels that if such a board is set up, it should have more fire industry representatives than currently proposed. But he's not entirely sure such a board is necessary. He feels that working more closely with the ISO would produce the same results without the added expenses of creating an official board.

Ronk's opinions are considered pertinent enough that he has been to Lansing to testify in regard to the matter.

WHEREAS, the citizens of the Township of Springfield as well as other Townships, cities and Villages throughout the State, are suffering from the effects of a great economic depression, which, although national in scope, has had particular impact upon the State of Michigan, and

WHEREAS, this inequitable and unjust taxation upon real and personal property has been accomplished within the apparent guidelines of Article 9 Section 3, of the State Constitution but in equally apparent violation of the Rights of due process and equal protection afforded by the constitution of the United States, by forcing local and county assessors, through a state equalization technique to assess real property at a full fifty percent of fair market value, and

WHEREAS, our local assessor is powerless to prevent the imposition of this inequitable and unjust burden imposed upon the owners of real and personal property within the Township, because any effort by him to hold levels of assessment at more realistic levels is prevented by the arbitrary imposition, by the state, of an equalization factor, and

WHEREAS, the citizens of the Township of Springfield support the position of the Supervisor and the Township Board and do hereby direct the Township Board to take prompt steps, separately or in concert with other communities similarly affected, to initiate a lawsuit, and/or by the initiative petition directed to the State Legislature, attempt to force relief from the oppressive and arbitrary taxation upon Real Property, and to achieve more equitable distribution of taxation throughout the State of the financial burden of conducting State government.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that Springfield Township support Commerce Township, Financially, Morally, and Physically, in its lawsuit to get relief upon Real Property Taxation.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution, be directed to every member of the House and Senate of the State of Michigan, to every member of the Board of County Commissioners of the County of Oakland, to the Governor, the State Tax Commission, the Oakland County Equalization director, to every local unit of Government in the County of Oakland including any and all school districts.

It makes me sick

by Jean Saile

Our credibility gap

The credibility gap, existing between Clarkston Board of Education and some of its electorate, was widened further last week when the board arbitrarily on a 4-3 vote eliminated its regular July 14 meeting.

The July 1 meeting, billed only as an organizational meeting, was instead expanded to include all pertinent business with the exception of those items that had been tabled or put over for the July meeting. Matters of citizens committees for career education, building expansion and busing for younger elementary students have now been delayed until August.

Whether the majority of the board agrees with implementation of those items or not, the moral thing would have been to proceed as planned—letting those interested have their democratic say at a time when they could possibly affect policies which would presumably go into use for the new school year.

An August meeting makes that likelihood seem impossible.

There is a tendency to be frightened of outspoken groups of voters, and while we agree they are oftentimes in the minority, they still deserve to be heard. It is then the board's duty to make up its own mind on the basis of information presented, and while that is sometimes hard politically, it is the job members took on when they ran for the office.

We would like to commend the board for its action in expanding the regular meetings to include four which will take place next year at area schools.

Constant talk of a communication gap between the board and electorate might be overcome through such a policy. It will, however, behoove those parents in the meeting areas to take advantage of the service the board has accorded them and turn out for the meetings.

Otherwise the experiment will have proved to be a failure.

A good life

People need breaks from routine once summer comes, and we couldn't have been delivered a nicer one than the recent 4th of July weekend.

The weather was perfect, and the people of our area, at least, went all out to combat the growing myth that America is becoming a land that doesn't care.

More than 5,000 were at the parade. Several subdivision parties where neighbors enjoyed each other were scheduled, and there were family reunions and family outings everywhere.

Deer Lake Beach was the scene of the picturesquely beautiful sailboat regatta, nearby parks were filled, and crowds enjoyed Pine Knob and Springfield-Oaks offerings.

We've still got the good life here.

There has been a small tragedy at the Saile home. A fledgling bird, attacked by a neighbor's dog, was picked up and cared for by Liz and a friend.

They ministered to it for most of one day, and I was home to see Liz' reaction when the poor thing inevitably died. Neck lacerations due to the dog were my immediate diagnosis, and no matter what Liz or her friend had done, I don't think they would have been able to save it.

Nevertheless the demise was unsettling. Liz became frightened as the poor thing flipped on its back, fluttered its wings and went into death throes. Nevertheless she stood bravely by, still attempting to administer first aid via an eye dropper and was there until the bitter end.

The next morning I came to work only to learn by my morning Free Press that youngsters had gotten into the Syracuse, N.Y. zoo and killed some 30 animals in the children's section there.

The director had gone on at great length to state he didn't believe the killings had been pre-meditated—that they were something that just happened as a bunch of kids without supervision had gotten loose among the pets.

I think the director made me madder than the kids did. I am so tired of people trying to explain away evil—and surely the senseless killing of helpless animals is evil—that I could just barf.

Anyone who has ever been a kid knows that kids are part savage, but it seems to me primarily the parents' job to see that the baser side of nature does not take over.

Whatever happened to righteous indignation?

And don't tell me about the suffering egos of the children who finally got sense enough to realize what they'd done. Bruised egos and suffering ids are a part of growing up, and people who brush over lightly the things that should make our ids suffer are doing us no favor.

Somewhere in this world we have lost the idea of restraint, and the idea of implanting restraint in our children.

We are the poorer for it.

Once upon a time i met you
But you didn't care

I loved you with all of my heart
But you didn't care

I told you this
But you didn't care

I sat crying at night calling out your name through millions of tears
But you didn't care

Yesterday i went away to a place where i could hurt no more
But you didn't care

Ordain the bartender!

by Jim Fitzgerald

Tavern owners in Milwaukee are currently upset because 8 Catholic churches have applied for unlimited licenses to sell beer. Which naturally reminds me of a flip-side time when a group of young sons wanted to get their favorite bartender ordained a priest.

The Wisconsin Tavernkeepers Assoc. has filed suit against the city, the churches, and the Archbishop, seeking to block the beer licenses. "We don't mind if the churches want to tap a keg 25 times a year for their bingo games," said Carl Schetter, executive director of the tavernkeepers association. "But with these unlimited licenses, they can open up every night what's to keep the churches from starting little clubs where guys stop in for a beer after work? I can just see it now. Right below the sign that says St. Sebastian's there will be a flashing neon beer sign . . . it's unfair competition."

My sympathies go out to the tavernkeepers. It is a threat to the American system of free enterprise to put a potential sinner and the tempting sauce so near to the confessional. The middleman faces elimination; I wish the tavern people well with their lawsuit. But if it fails, I suggest they try another line of attack—the Alibi Scheme.

The Alibi Scheme was formulated at the close of World War-2 by about 10 young Catholic veterans who had trouble getting to Mass on Sundays. Please recall that this was 30 years ago when it was still a mortal sin to miss Mass on Sunday.

Today you call the church and ask what time Mass is and the priest asks what time you can get there. If you can't get to church by 5 p.m. Sunday, don't worry about it. For people like you they now have Sunday Mass on Saturday afternoon. The Theologian who devised this miracle of the calendar used to be circulation manager for the Saturday Evening Post which came out on Wednesdays.

But in 1945, if you missed Sunday Mass you faced eternal burning in hell. Even worse, your mother might find out.

Many mothers quizzed their sons at Sunday dinner. "What was the sermon about?" "Did your cousin sing a solo?" "Did Father McCormick announce when the K of C picnic will be?" "What color of sox were the altar boys wearing?"

These were hard questions to answer if, for medical reasons, the son had been forced to skip Mass and limp to the Alibi Bar. But never fear, John the bartender was there. He always went to Mass and he had a marvelous memory. John could recite the sermon and sing the anthem. He knew whose uncle took up the collection and whose aunt fainted from the heat. John's recitations saved the skins of many sons who took notes on the inside of matchbook covers.

However, there came a time when the sons sickened of the Sunday sham. They tired of living a lie. They decided they should really attend Mass. John should become a priest! A collection was taken up to send him to the seminary and a glorious "Goodbye Father John" party was organized. There was even a pilgrimage to neighboring shrines. It seemed like a marvelous idea at the time.

It was sometime the following Monday that it was discovered all the seminary money had been spent on beer. Back behind the bar, John. Back to the sham.

As you must have guessed, this story of the Alibi Scheme was told to me by a friend. I wasn't there myself (Honest, Mother). And I never saw any reason to repeat the tale until now, when I feel duty bound to share it with the Milwaukee tavernkeepers.

The solution to their problem is evident. If the churches insist upon selling beer, the taverns should hire married priests and other renegade clergy to tend bars on Sundays.

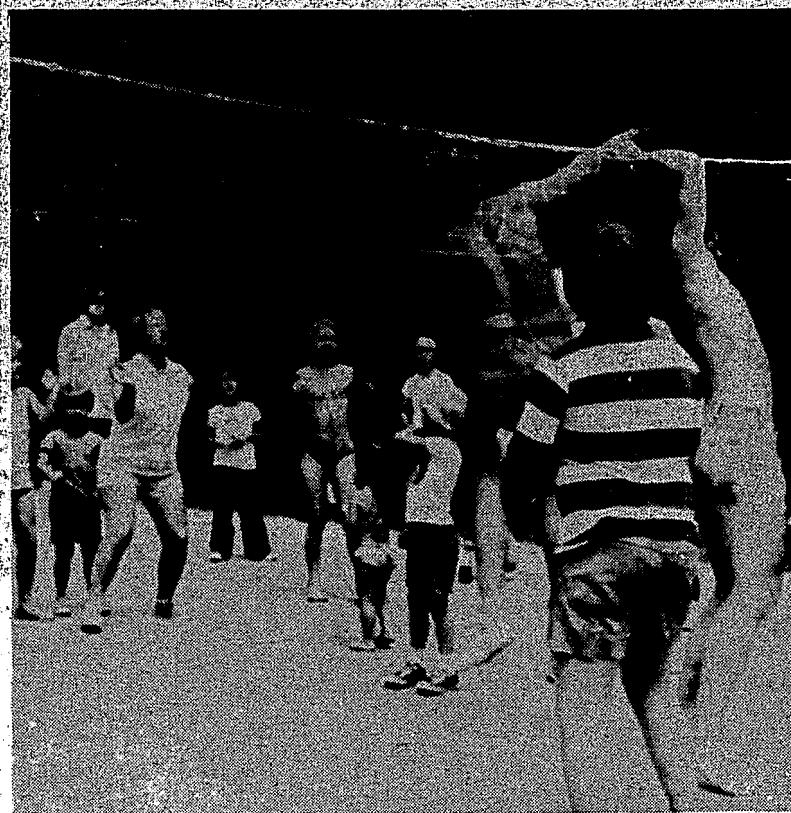

I would not be so sacrilegious as to suggest actual Masses might be said from behind the beer spigots. But scriptures could be read. Hymns could be led.

And bingo numbers could be called. That might make those 8 churches cry in their beer.

Residents of Pine Knob Subdivision at Clarkston Road and Pine Knob Road enjoy a volleyball game the afternoon of the 4th while they waited for a whole pig to finish roasting.

Walt's missing from the bowling alley

by Jean Saile

of The Clarkston News

It's not going to be the same around Howe's Lanes. Walt won't be there anymore, egging youngsters on to do their best, betting on football games, or sponsoring his two bowling teams.

Having made his home with Les and Barb Howe since 1947, Walter D. Morey, 90, died July 1. Funeral services were Thursday from the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home with Rev. Paul M. Cargo officiating. Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery.

Walt, who worked 25 years for Detroit Edison Co., was inherited by the Howes when they purchased the old Sunoco Gas Station at the foot of M-15 on the Dixie Highway.

The previous owner, J.O. Nelson of Fenton, told them they'd not only taken on the gas station but Walt, as well, who at that time made his home in a trailer behind the station.

Walt was born July 20, 1884, in Syracuse, N.Y. He's been orphaned at a young age and he and his brother and sister were all sent to different homes. The sister died about five years ago, but Mrs. Howe reports Walt never knew his brother. He had also been married, but his wife died when he was a young man.

When Walt retired from the Edison Co., he did odd jobs, which included taking care of the Howe's yard and the bowling alley when it was built. He became a familiar at the old McNeil's Fruit Stand where Hahn Motor is now located, and he had his own lawn mowing service which he kept up until he lost his driver's license.

Mrs. Howe relates Walt sponsored two bowling teams out of his own money. When the first team won a trophy two years ago, he told the group he'd had a dream. He said he'd gone to the Golden Gates and St. Peter had refused to let him in. The saint had told him he'd need a trophy from the other team before he could pass through.

This year the second team won its trophy, Mrs. Howe reported.

Walt would have loved to live long enough to go to a football game in the new Pontiac Stadium, she feels. Much of his interest centered on football and he was known to make a few bets.

He also liked to watch the kids bowl. Mrs. Howe said one youngster told Walt he'd have to quit bowling because of family difficulties and Walt paid the youngster's bowling for the whole season. He also purchased shoes and at least one bicycle for kids he thought deserving, she says.

Oftentime, he'd sit in the bowling alley and watch a youngster make a strike. He'd pull a dollar out of his pocket, and tell the bowler if he'd repeat the performance the dollar was his.

Walt was a built-in babysitter for the Howes' two children, Linda and Gordie, and kept a sharp interest in their affairs, as he did those of the whole community.

BICYCLISTS HAVE RIGHTS TOO!!

They have the same right to the use of public roadways as do vehicles. Along with their rights, bicyclists also have to obey many of the same traffic laws as do the drivers of motor vehicles.

Keep in mind, when riding your bicycle on public roadways that you must keep as close to the right edge of the roadway as possible, and ride with the flow of traffic!! When coming to a stop sign or stop light, you must come to a complete stop. You must have an understanding about all traffic advisory signs, as these give you an idea of what to expect from other traffic on the road you are traveling.

Some areas allow sidewalk riding, and it is best to check with local village and township officials. If allowed, remember that pedestrians always have the right of way. When riding a bicycle, do not ride double unless the bicycle is built for more than one rider.

The Michigan Vehicle Code directs that all bicycles have a rearview mirror, a horn or other sound device capable of giving a signal audible for at least 100 feet, except that they may not be equipped with a siren or whistle.

When riding at night, the bicycle must be equipped with a lamp on the front visible from a distance of at least 500 feet and a

They enjoyed story

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for printing the article concerning my father, Arthur Barlow (in your June 12th issue) relating to his 80th birthday.

Your article both surprised and pleased my father and our family will cherish the thoughts of his pleasure at reading the article. We are extremely proud of his 80 years, especially since having lost our mother at the early age of 43 years due to cancer.

For myself and the entire family, again let me express our sincere gratitude for your printing of this article. Thank you.

red reflector on the rear visible from all distances from 50 to 300 feet to the rear when directly in front of lawful upper beams of head lamps of motor vehicles.

Clinging to other moving vehicles is against the law, and if the rider is going to the store and will be bringing back articles, he must have a carrier for this purpose, keeping both hands on the handlebars at all times.

If you own a pedal bicycle with helper motor, you must be at least 15 years of age to operate it on streets. This type of bicycle is defined as having helper motor less than 1 brake horsepower transmitted by friction and not by gear or chain which produces only ordinary pedaling speeds up to a maximum of 20 MPH.

At this time, I know of no officers who have written traffic citations against bicyclists, although we observe violations all the time. With the increase of riding bicycles, perhaps enforcement will have to follow.

If you would like further information of bicycle safety, booklets are available free of charge at Independence Township Police Services, 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston.

Break-ins reported to the department involved a residence on Andersonville Road in Springfield Township in which culprits did not get anything, having been frightened off by five dogs kept at the residence. A residence on Hadley Road, Clarkston was not as lucky, as they reported the theft of a color television, stereo equipment and a rifle, total value over $1,000.

An air compressor, chain saw and a heavy duty battery charger, plus some other small tools were reported taken from a shed behind a residence on Sundale in Independence Township, total loss $808.

A $500 color television was reported taken in the break in of a residence on Tappan in Clarkston.

The Clarkston Eagles reported the break in of business on Maybee Road, and the loss of $40 cash, with an undetermined amount of beer and whiskey.

A resident on Mohawk reported going to the beach for a short time and upon arrival home finding that the tools and radio he left on the garage floor had been taken, total loss $350.

Three bicycles were reported taken, a Schwinn from a residence on Cramlane, a girls Huffy from South Sashabaw Elementary, and a Sears 3-speed from Transparent.

A 9 shot .22 caliber revolver, 23 channel CB unit, and a 8 track stereo tape deck were reported stolen from a semi-tractor parked at Eames and Marconi, total loss of $427.

Saturday night

by Jean Saile

Late called reservations a recent Saturday night would have meant we had to wait until 10 p.m. for dinner at the Old Mill Tavern, but an 8:30 seating was reported still available at the Villa Inn in Lake Orion.

The Villa exaggerated a bit, but their comfortable lounge chairs in the bar made the half hour wait easily bearable.

Prime rib was the order of the night, and it couldn't have been better nor more ample. A visit to the salad bar previously resulted in loaded dinner size plates, and everything we sampled was good.

Watch out for their hot peppers. They are really hot.

Two wedding receptions were going on in the main dining room as we ate, and while it was unusual to mix in with private parties the affairs went off well. They were not too distracting to the casual diners.

Following the good meal, which with a couple of drinks each came to under $25, we left for a nightcap at the Old Mill bar. A tremendous piano boogie man, Bob Seeley, a young old gnome of an artist, kept us enthralled until midnight.

If you've ever enjoyed boogie, you'll find a visit there rewarding.

Amusement dollars tighter

The star, and how badly people want to see him, is the factor dictating whether or not people will turn loose of amusement dollars this year at Pine Knob.

Theater officials report sell outs at concerts presented by the Eagles, Blood, Sweet and Tears and Paul Anka.

While Richard Pryor drew a good crowd, Smokey Robinson failed to bring spectators out in any numbers.

Frank Sinatra and Chicago are sold out, but Ray Charles drew barely two thousand to a recent Sunday night performance.

Jack Ray, public relations director for the theater reports that amusement dollars are less than they were last year, but a good performer can still turn out the crowds.

Ample seating and a much alleviated traffic situation makes it easier for local people to attend this year, he pointed out.

This Sunday take a relaxing drive to the new Old Mill and join the Brunch Bunch

One big feature of the new Old Mill is a tremendous SUNDAY BRUNCH served from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

You'll find buffets lavished with fresh plump strawberries, pineapples, grapefruit halves, chilled juices, smoked salmon, coleslaw, waldorf salad, barbecued short ribs, hot cakes made to order, eggs, crispy bacon, sausages, Danish pastries, hot blueberry muffins... and more!

JAMES TAYLOR by Eric Mobey

James Taylor opened a three-night engagement at Pine Knob on Sunday, July 6th and, in spite of a rather slow beginning on the first song, went on to give an excellent performance. The show was a well-knit blend of Taylor's standard concert tunes (written by such people as Woodie Guthrie and Holland, Dozier and Holland) and plenty of new material.

"Close Your Eyes" was the opening song of the first set with Taylor soloing on acoustic guitar. His almost bashful stage-presence gave way to a humorous rendition of "Baby It's Cold Outside" when Taylor sang harmony with a prerecorded tape of his own voice in this love song to himself. Both voices thanked the audience (and each other) generously for the laughs and applause.

Throughout the rest of the concert, Taylor was backed by Leland Sklar on bass, Russ Kunkel on drums, Danny Kootch on electric guitar and Clarence McDonald on keyboards; collectively, they form one of the finest backing groups in the rock business. J.T. and his old cronies were really cooking on such numbers as "Machine Gun Kelly", "Country Road" and the old Marvin Gaye hit, "How Sweet It Is".

As usual, Taylor's voice was clear and fluid on such ballads as "Blossom", "Long Ago and Far Away" and the proverbial crowd-pleaser, "Fire and Rain".

James Taylor is a veteran of the music business at the age of 27 with several gold records and successful albums to his credit. His new album, "Gorilla" is selling well after only a few weeks of distribution and, after hearing "Lighthouse", and "Mexico" from that album, it is certain that Taylor will continue to be a success.

Jeff Lynne, guitarist and lead vocalist, then announced that they would perform "Eldorado" which is the title of their critically acclaimed album. The "Eldorado" set is a trilogy of songs that conjure up illusions of knights, kings and returning warriors.

While performing "Can't Get It Out of My Head" and "Boy Blue", the vocal arrangement of Lynne and Michael de Albuquerque bear a strong similarity to Lennon and McCartney. However, the total sound is clearly original. In fact, E.L.O. possesses the ability to blend two contrasting types of music (classical and rock) successfully. A good example of this blending was the performance of a rock and roll number entitled "Illusions in G Minor".

The group went on to do several solos including the explosive drumming of Bev Bevan and the fine electric violin of Mik Kaminski. Cellist, Michael Edwards created additional excitement as he moved all over the stage sawing away at the wailing cello.

The last song was another rocker called "Ma Ma Belle" and the audience responded enthusiastically, screaming for more. For the first encore, they chose the standard "Roll Over Beethoven" and again, the super crowd yelled for more until E.L.O. came back to do the Jerry Lee Lewis rock and roll classic, "Great Balls of Fire."

J.T. and the band closed the concert with a hearty helping of "Steamroller Blues" and chose the popular "You've Got a Friend" and "Sweet Baby James" for encore tunes. Throughout the evening, Taylor performed over 20 songs in his airtight opening at Pine Knob.

ELECTRIC LIGHT by Eric Mobey

A capacity Pine Knob crowd was treated to a generous sample of the versatility of the Electric Light Orchestra, July 1st. "E.L.O." is not your average English rock band. In fact, their sound is based on an electric classical symphonic sound. The trademark of the seven-man band is an odd conglomeration of instruments including two electric cellos, a moog (keyboards), lead guitar, bass, drums, and an electric violin.

The group opened the concert with a classical lead-in that soon flowed into the familiar "Showdown", from their second album. They continued through other earlier material covering such classics as "King of the World" and an excellent version of "Bluebird". The orchestra was clearly in control of the audience from this point on.

Cricket reached the United States towards the middle of the eighteenth century and, until the advent of baseball, was pursued with zeal. The first American international match took place in 1841, when members of the New York club went to Toronto, and there beat the Canadian eleven. Eventually cricket had to give way, however, to the much more lively and dynamic game of baseball. The original bat was a primitive club, used for attack and defense.

Equipment for baseball, tennis, golf, badminton and other sports can be found at COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main St., 625-8457, and we have fishing licenses, Golf clubs by Wilson, golf bags and accessories, equipment bags for all types of sports, tennis balls and racquets, and quick drying 100% nylon swim suits are handled. Hours: 9:30 am-6pm daily, until 5pm Sat.

Independence team wins Oxford tourney

The Independence Township softball team, the Pine Knob Rangers, "put Clarkston back on the map," team manager Ben Lawrence said, when it beat 24 other teams for first place honors in the Oxford Gravel Festival softball tournament last weekend.

The Rangers, sponsored by Joey Nederlander, went undefeated in six games during the tournament.

The tournament, the second annual Oxford Class C statewide softball tourney, was sponsored by the Oxford Area Softball League. Teams from all over Michigan were invited to the tournament.

"Everyone played superb ball," Lawrence said. "There were really good teams." Teams played Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Only the Rangers were undefeated.

Ranger Ed Brown of Pontiac was voted most valuable player of the tournament.

The Rangers are currently tied for first place with only one loss in the Independence Township Men's Softball League.

Members of the Rangers besides Brown and Lawrence include Craig Collins, Bill Bildstien, Mark Warren, Mike Turk, Dave Powell, Bill Craig, Rick Reis, Rick Prasil, Kurt Richardson, Dave Partlo, Dave Galligan, Dick Moehling, Lyle Walter and Toby Dill.

Cynthia is on her way to the pro golfing tour.

Clarkston girl begins pro golf career

Cynthia Booker, 1973 graduate of Clarkston High school, is on her way to the pro golfing circuit.

Cynthia was one of nine women golfers who qualified to play on the pro circuit after the Ladies' Professional golf school June 30-July 2.

She left for her first professional tournament, Monday, the Borden Classic, which is being held in Columbus, Ohio this Wednesday through Sunday.

She was fourth highest golfer during the golfing school with scores of 72, 77 and 74 for 18 holes.

Cynthia has been playing golf since she was 10 years old, and was the first girl in Michigan to play on a men's high school golf team and to go to the state finals.

Now 20, Cynthia is spending her time training. For the past two summers she worked under Elmer Prieskorn at Pine Lake Country Club and during the past two winters, worked at Palm River Country Club in Naples, Fla.

A party honoring her admittance to the pro circuit was given at her home last weekend, where 150 friends gathered to wish her well in her career.

Cynthia will be playing in the U.S. Open Championship in Atlantic City, N.J. after she completes play at Columbus.

Cynthia's family are all golfers. Her sisters Vivian and Allison, recently helped the Clarkston High School girls' golf team bring home a state golfing championship.

And brother Lee, a 1974 CHS graduate, just left for Oklahoma with 1975 CHS graduate John Anderson to compete in the Western Junior National tournament.

Trophies awarded in Deer Lake Sailboat Club Regatta

Deer Lake Sailboat Club awarded three trophies during its July 4th regatta. While the full three races were run Friday, only one was run Saturday because of lack of wind, and it was a drifter, according to Mrs. Robert Ward of the club.

Trophies were presented to Don Slaven of Bloomfield Hills and Jim Roettger of Clarkston in the catamaran division; Jim Filardeau and Dale Lage in the board boat class, and Ron Chambers of the monohull class.

Twenty-three boats took part in the races.

Greg Whitenton and his father, Ken, rig a Shear Water for the 4th Regatta.

Bob Ward, commodore of the Deer Lake Sail Club, raises the main-sail on a Shark with the help of Dave Bixby prior to the July 4th Regatta.

Pine Knob tax assessment quizzed

How could a property sell for $10-$15 million and only be assessed $2.8 million, Clarkston resident Russell Buller, 6965 Rattalee Lake Road, questioned the Independence Township Board about Pine Knob last week.

"There must be something wrong with the assessment or some special consideration given," he told the board.

Township Supervisor Ed Glennie replied that "I don't feel the assessment is a bit out of line since it was posted December 31, 1974."

The question arose out of a recent Clarkston News story reporting that the facility may be sold to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Glennie said the assessment does not take into account the as yet uncompleted improvements on the property such as a sewer system and a new golf course.

Glennie elaborated on the tax situation at Pine Knob, saying that any loss to the tax base for the school district would be compensated for by state aid.

The school district gets $70,000 of the $100,000 property taxes collected from the property, he said, while the township receives $8,000 and the county $22,000.

The township would not be hurt that much by the $8,000 loss, he said, and personal property taxes would still be collected from private vendors within the complex.

And the township probably spends more than it collects in taxes to police the facility, he added.

Glennie said that if the property is sold to the county for a park, he hoped part of the agreement would be a change in the zoning to drop provisions for a 1,000-unit multiple dwelling.

He also said in the advent of county takeover, the county sheriff's department and the road commission would be more concerned with helping out with traffic and other related problems from the music theater and ski area.

Phys ed teacher appointed to park commission

Nancy Hanes, a 32-year-old physical education teacher at Davisburg Elementary School, has been selected by the Springfield Township board to serve on the township Parks and Recreation Commission.

Miss Hanes takes over a vacancy left by Collin Walls, who recently resigned from the commission. She will serve until 1976.

Miss Hanes was nominated for the position at Wednesday's board meeting by treasurer Patricia Kramer. Hers was the only nomination made by board members before she was selected.

Members of the park commission have indicated they are not satisfied with the appointment, but were unavailable for further comment.

The commission was to make a recommendation to the board on what its choice was for the position.

But according to township supervisor Donald Rogers, the commission's choice was passed over in favor of Miss Hanes.

Indications are that there will be a further break-up within the commission after the matter is discussed at the upcoming commission meeting July 21.

Springfield supports tax suit

The Springfield Township Board has decided to support "financially, morally and physically" Commerce Township's lawsuit to get relief for real property taxation.

A resolution passed by the board Wednesday states that "the citizens of Springfield Township as well as other townships, cities and villages are suffering the effects of a great economic depression."

The word is nothing will be done at the county level about Pine Knob until the County Parks and Recreation Commission receives an official tender of the property from Indusco Corp.

Pine Knob officials had reportedly offered the 500-acre facility to the county through the office of civil counsel. The offer was made known to the parks commission in executive session several weeks ago.

They're waiting, they say, for some official offer before proceeding even with feasibility studies regarding the proposed sale.

Could be that one reason Prosecutor Brooks Patterson has started his own reward system for information leading to arrests on more serious crimes is that Tom Plunkett, his predecessor and political rival, is heading up the North Oakland Chamber of Commerce's "Silent Observer" program which has been doing the same thing for a number of years.

Octagon shaped, tinted eye-glasses, gold-framed, have been found in the street and turned in at the office of The Clarkston News. If they're yours, come and get 'em.

Low water isn't over for residents on the Lower Mill Pond. The level will have to be lowered again in the next two to three weeks so that an inspection of clean-out work done on the Upper Pond can be undertaken. At that time, too, the township will see what additional repairs need to be made to the west bank of the Lower Pond. Cracks and slides developed a couple of weeks ago when the level of the pond was dropped to a new low.

Could be an exciting baseball game coming up. The Oakland County Sheriff's Department is due to play Independence Township employees at 5 p.m. July 20 at Clarkston Junior High School.

Bob Vandermark and Mike Luchenbach, president of Clarkston Area Jaycees, carried an enormous check for $1,154 to Pontiac State Bank, Clarkston Branch recently. The poster size affair represented the proceeds from the Jaycees walk for independence center and jelly week sales which are being turned over to independence center.

Trading for goods has lost its charm

But bartering is not dead yet

Twenty to 25 per cent of E. Leonard Howarth's attorney fees are collected on trade.

By Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News

Unlike the olden days, when a packet of furs could be exchanged for some good chewing tobacco, a slab of jerky, and a year's supply of flour and sugar, today's world has switched over to the money system of exchanging goods.

And bartering, for the most part, has fallen by the wayside, according to area merchants.

In the old days at Rudy's Market, Rudy Schwarze related, farmers used to bring in fresh produce, chickens, pigs, butter and eggs to his market.

They would trade for goods for other groceries, Rudy related, and no money ever passed hands.

Today federal regulations prohibit selling meat that has not been government-inspected, so Rudy no longer takes in anything but a few squash, rhubarb and raspberries for trade.

Perhaps, though, son Bob said, the Schwarzes could let people pay bills the way they used to at the Main Street Store — by giving the store owners old guns, watches and other paraphernalia in lieu of a cash payment.

Rudy still has old watches he used to take in trade, he said. And son Bob is thinking of bartering for an unpaid bill now.

He said he has even done a little bartering himself — he bought a freezer for the store in exchange for a side of beef from the market.

But transactions like that aren't "kosher" to Uncle Sam, Hallman's Apothecary owner Keith Hallman explained.

That's why Keith has never done any trading in his drug store — such exchanges must be recorded and taxed by the state and federal government.

'My first fee was a barter,' Howarth said...

'I charged (the client) $40 and 10 bushels of wheat.'

"The biggest reason bartering can't be done is because it's a method of cheating on taxes," he said.

A few businessmen indicated that buying a new car and trading in old ones was perhaps the only widespread use of bartering any more, but Tom Rademacher of Rademacher Chevrolet says even now used car prices are pretty much fixed by auctions.

Thus, when a man comes in with a used car, the dealer has a standard price to set for the auto depending on mileage, make and year.

Of course, there's still cases of speedometers being set back, Rademacher said, but now doing so is against the law.

And not many cases such as the dealer on Livernois who took diamonds in on trade crop up any more, he said.

"Oh sure, there's always some unusual trade going on—such as taking in an antique car or a tractor," he said.

"But there is very little of that going on."

Farmers would seem to be the ones that would exchange their crops for other goods and services.

Springfield Township farmer Robert Losh said that he will occasionally trade wheat for work he wants done.

"Just last week I traded Danny Stack (another farmer) a hayfeeder for a drive belt," he said.

"But if I came down to Charlie's," he grinned as he looked at Charlie Oaks, owner of the Davisburg Marathon gas station, "with five bushels of hay, he probably wouldn't trade me anything."

Charlie agreed, saying that he has no use for most of the trading goods that have been offered to him in the past.

"The biggest problem with trading anything," he said, "is what are you going to do with it when you get it? How are you going to get rid of it?"

"Most people don't ask for trades anymore anyway," Charlie said. "They just ask for credit."

Elwyn Hillman, co-owner of Davisburg Lumber, was also down at Charlie's and told of a trade he made two years ago that is still a problem.

The company took a piece of land in Canada in exchange for a bill due them two years ago—and now they can't sell the land.

For one Springfield businessman, though, bartering is not dead.

E. Leonard Howarth, a 32-year-old ex-flower child turned attorney, estimates that he takes 20-25 percent of his fees in trade for either goods or services.

Operating out of a small building in Davisburg that was painted like the American flag by a client he helped in a child support case, Howarth often represents those who don't have the necessary lawyer's fees in cash.

As a result, he had had scores of people give him anything from an antique cabinet in his office to a large semi-truck instead of cash fees.

"My first fee was a barter," Howarth said. "The guy owed me a $50 fee, so I charged him $40—and 10 bushels of wheat."

What did he do with the wheat?

"I fed it to my chickens. I took first place with them at the state fair that year and got an $8 prize."

Often he won't trade, but instead hold an item until the person has made his fee payment. Like the stereo he is using in his home right now that belongs to a client.

The 1961 GMC tractor that's sitting in his back yard is part of another trade. A client was arrested in a breaking and entering case, and gave the truck to Howarth as payment.

Howarth in turn had another client paint the truck olive drab—with a white star on it.

But the man who "marched in" 1963 against the Viewman War—when KENNEDY was still in office", has a wife and two children to support now, and sometimes his income suffers from the trading.

"My wife gets mad when the bills aren't paid," he acknowledged. But then again, he has come out smelling sweetly after some trades.

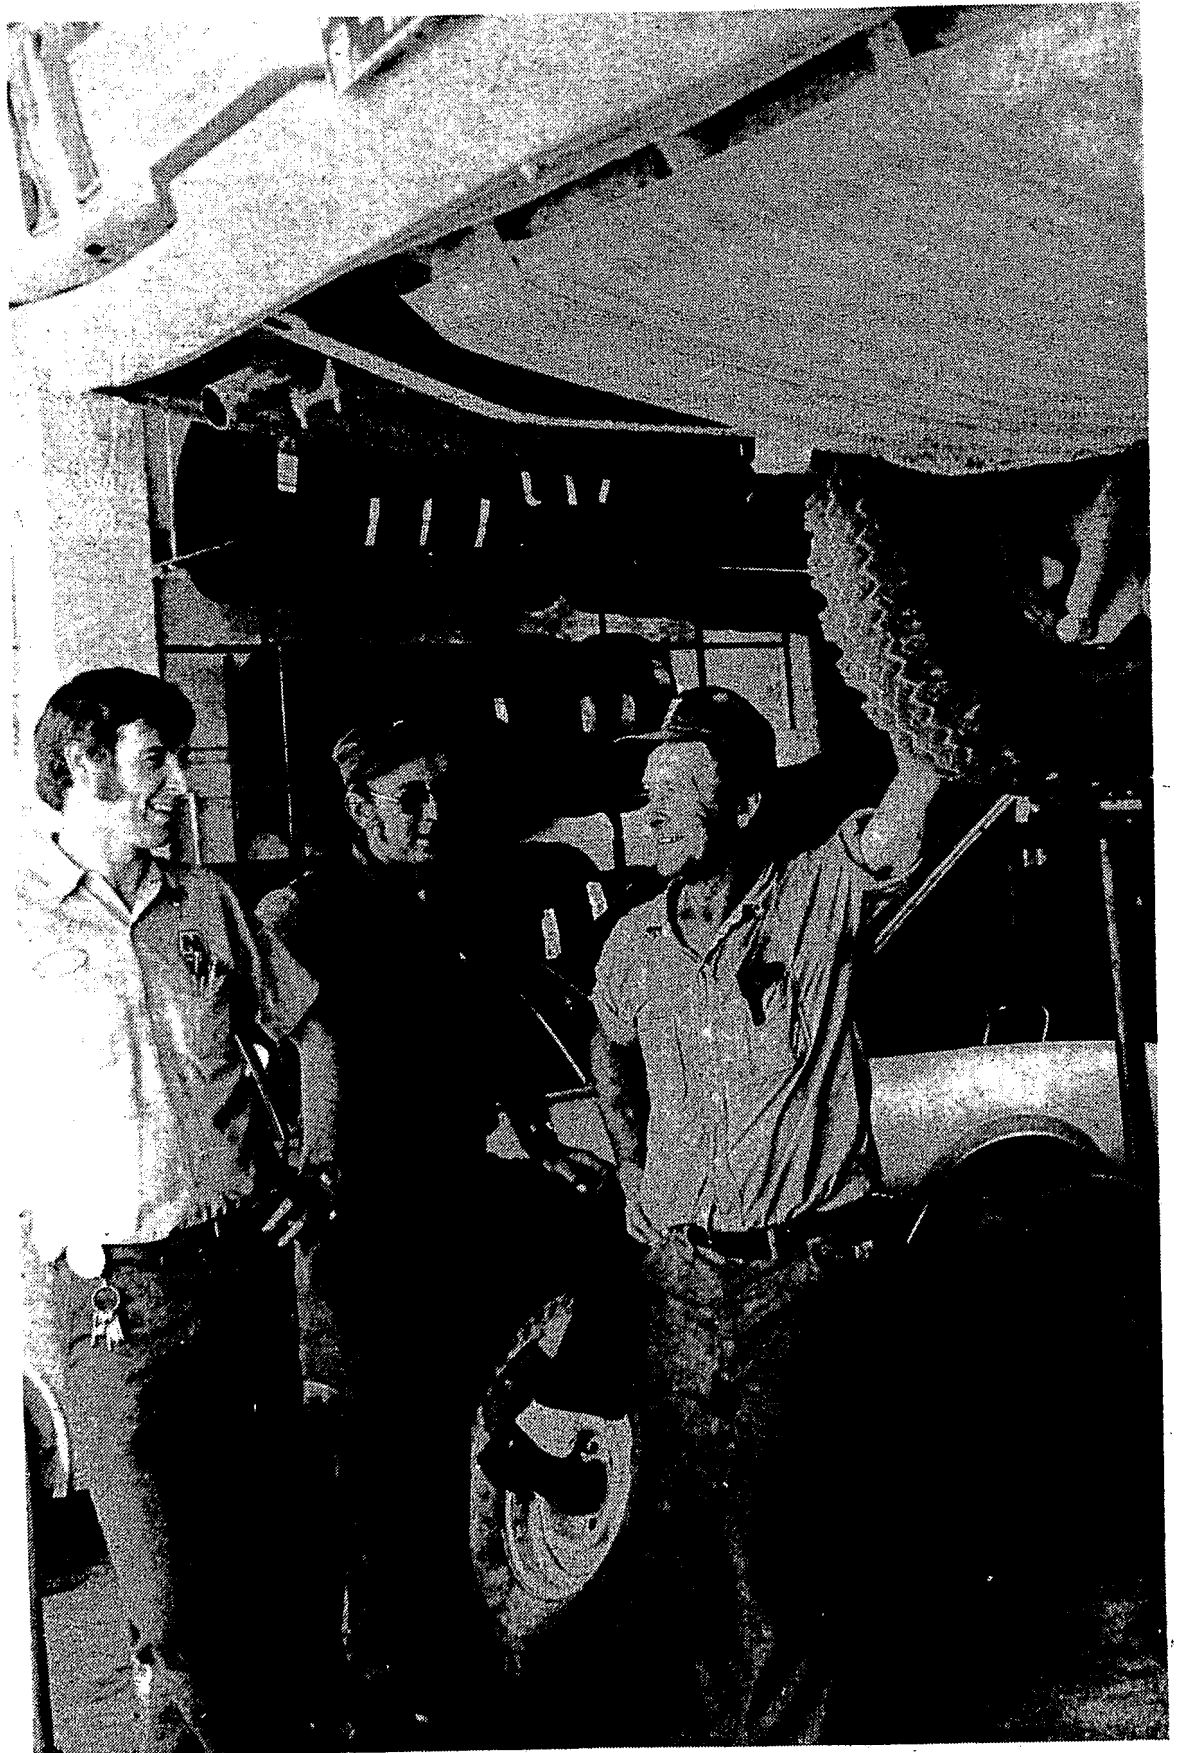

He took a 1969 Chevy pickup for a fee, he said, drove it for a year, and sold it for $400.

He then set up a man in a fruit stand business with the $400 and $100 more—and had doubled his investment by the end of the summer.

Spirit of serenity in Hall home

COUNTRY LIVING

by Hilda Bruce

Clarkston is home to the Dick Hall family. "We've had many opportunities to move out of state but we have no desire to," says Dee. "There is so much available to us here."

The Halls enjoy Pine Knob in both summer and winter. They also enjoy boating, the Detroit ethnic festivals and the many dining spots in the area.

The family is oriented to the outdoor life, at least Dick and the children. While son Greg, Bernadette, their daughter, and Dick pursue tennis, swimming, biking, baseball, or bowling, Dee curls up with a good book.

He latest reading involves a growing interest in and collection of wines. Delightedly, she has found that domestic wines can be as tasteful and of the quality of European wines and not nearly as expensive. Dick and Dee enjoy going in search of new wines and visit Uncle Bob's at Keatington Village frequently.

Although both Dick and Dee were city dwellers, they enjoy the country life, having lived in the Clarkston area 20 years. Dee, a native New Yorker joined the Air Force to escape the city life. Stationed in Michigan she met and married Dick, who was also in the Air Force. After Dick finished his tour of duty near Cape Cod, they returned to Michigan. Dick's family was originally from Vermont coming to Detroit before Dick was born.

New England has left its imprint upon the Halls. One evidence is the pewter collection which graces their home. It began with a piece of the original forged type which Dee gave Dick as a gift, from Plymouth Village, Massachusetts. The collection includes many types, from the more crude forged to the highly polished and bright Holland tea set, a gift from Dick to Dee; from the very dark Scandinavian to the light of a chalice being saved for a friend now attending seminary.

This atmosphere of their shaded ranch home is conducive to quiet, relaxed living. The green-gold color scheme which prevails is as soothing as the soft patina of the pewter. The subdued lighting that Dee prefers adds to that quality. The gas fireplace in the living room was designed and built by Dick, who had the Italian Marble cut to his specifications. The fireplace seems to dictate the traditional setting which extends into the dining area. This atmosphere has been ten years developing as Dick has turned his hand at various endeavors.

The fall colors continue into the kitchen from the dining area. Here the colonial seems to prevail. It is cozy with its breakfast booth.

In their own domains, Bernadette and Greg have veered from the overall scheme. Greg's room, done in blue and red, reflects his interest in sports. The window sills seem to sprout a growth of trophies. Actually they've been collected over a period of time as a member of many winning teams. He is presently working on another as a member of Howe's Lanes Baseball team.

Bernadette's room reflects her interest in today. Keeping the traditional gold, she has added white and black in a eclectic setting. The black rattan chair is the perfect spot to rest and escape with her music after a day spent with mortgages at the bank.

As traditional flows into colonial, the formal flows into the informal. Dick has spent many hours developing the family room, "men's room", and study. The study is paneled in blue; relaxing but not dulling the spirits of those who use it. It's the spot to study, do book work or visit on the telephone. It's soundproof! Conducive to thought of a serious nature, it is also a room in which to dream and reminisce. The book lined shelves contain snapshots of the Hall's nieces. A watercolor of Mt. Vernon on the opposing wall adds just the right touch as it seems to reflect to the coloring of the many books.

In the family room the fall colors are again in evidence. Dee was quick to point out that the red found there is soon to go. Those pieces will be antiqued gold; among them a family heirloom, a tea table once belonging to Dick's aunt.

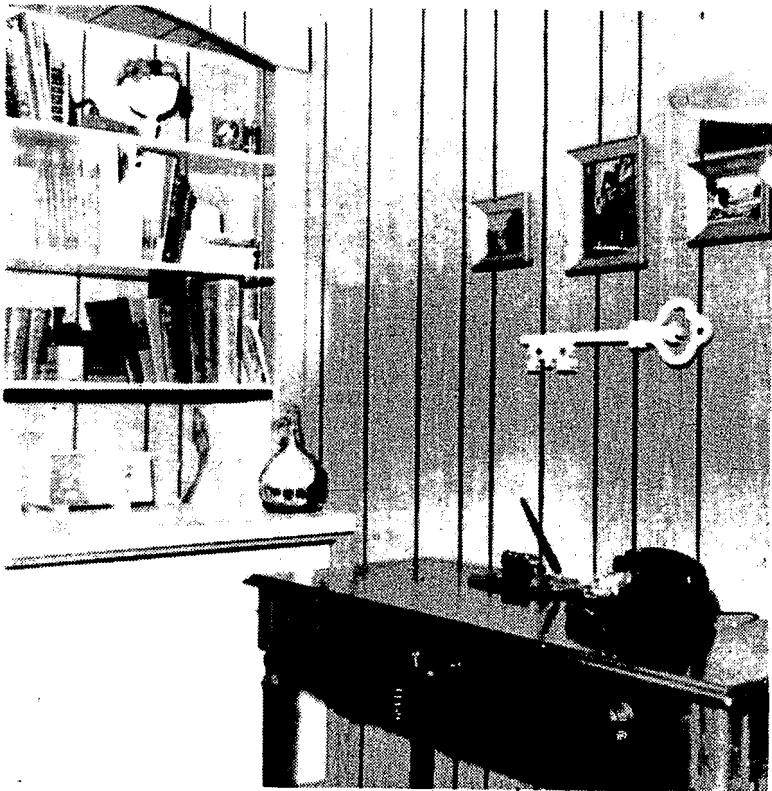

They subdued, relaxing atmosphere is present even with a pool table in the middle of an adjoining room. This is the "men's room". The walls are of a soft brown paneling, the windows shuttered to match. The New England influence is present again, this time in the copies of historical documents that accent the room.

Here as in Greg's room and the study the colonial scheme brings with it red, white and blue, into valances, the flooring and matching bar top, and the wallpaper behind the bar.

Not only is the bar accented by the red wallpaper, but also by a cedar shake roof supported by turned posts. The small refrigerator and wet sink makes this an ideal spot for the men to retire, uninterrupted by trips upstairs. There is also a room for dancing which the Halls, who are members of the Chatham Dance Club, enjoy.

Downstairs work area is a retreat for Dick.

Greg Hall sets up for a game of pool in the family recreation room.

Patio furniture on the deck provides a pleasant outdoors retreat.

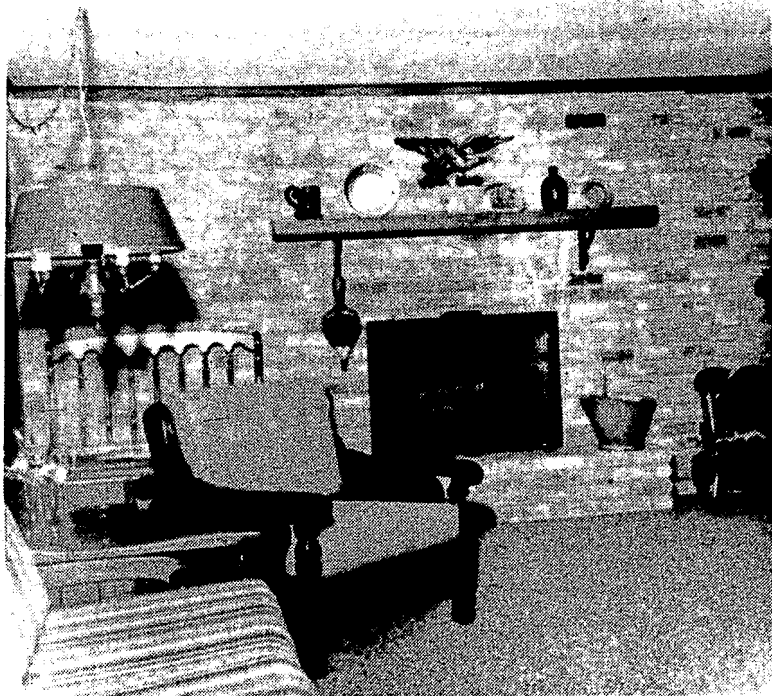

The deck at the rear of the Hall house is next in line for remodeling.

Dick's projects have added to home

Dee relaxes in comfortable upstairs living room.

Husband arraigned on charges he shot wife

A Union Lake man was arraigned Tuesday in Clarkston's 52nd District Court on charges that he tried to murder his wife in Springfield Township. A July 17 preliminary exam date was set for Anthony Bercheny, 28, who is accused of shooting his wife Debbie, 21, in the woods in back of a home at 11710 Davisburg Road Monday.

Bercheny is currently being held in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of a $250,000 bond set by District Court Judge Gerald McNally.

Bercheny was apprehended shortly after sheriff's deputies received a call from Diane Shepard of 11710 Davisburg Road, who told deputies she found a woman that had been shot draped over her car in the driveway about 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Shepard brought Mrs. Bercheny into her house, and deputies found her on the couch, observing that Mrs. Bercheny had five wounds inflicted by a handgun in her midsection, forearm and near her left eye, deputies reported.

Mrs. Bercheny was taken to Pontiac General Hospital, where she was listed in fair condition Tuesday.

Sheriff's deputies set up a road blockade and brought in a tracking dog and helicopter.

Bercheny was apprehended when an unmarked police car was sent to investigate a hitchhiker on Andersonville Road.

The hitchhiker was spotted on Andersonville near Clark Road, and turned out to be Bercheny, deputies said.

Bercheny ran to the car, thinking he would be given a ride, and was arrested.

Paint booth catches fire

Clarkston firemen have not yet determined the cause of a blaze Tuesday morning that swept up an exhaust duct at Service Processing, Inc., 4866 White Lake

The adolescent female hitchhiker

by Jim and Ellen Windell

Psychological staff members of the Oakland County Juvenile Court and Clinical Resources, Incorporated

Make a mental note

"It's my favorite thing to do. You meet a lot of interesting people that way".

These are the words of a fifteen year old girl who was talking about hitchhiking. She has hitched rides to Indiana, Florida and Chicago. She says she had not had any "real bad" experiences yet, but she feels if someone did try something with her, she would always get out of it.

Another girl, also fifteen, hitchhikes around the state every weekend, usually with a girlfriend. She has had several close calls and talks nervously about the "weirdos" who have picked her up. But, she continues to hitch rides and to feel that somehow she will continue to be lucky.

A seventeen year old girl by the name of Vickie, reported an experience several girls have told us about. She and a friend accepted a ride from a couple of men who seemed nice at first, but later refused to let them out of the car. After driving around for several hours, threatening in angry language to rape them, with the girls becoming more terrified, they were allowed to "escape" several miles from home. Vickie has another girlfriend who was raped, so Vickie no longer hitchhikes by herself.

Why do girls hitchhike when the danger seems so obvious?

One girl was described by a friend as trying to find "love", but other girls say they do it because it is the easiest and quickest way to get where they are going.

Looking at the phenomenon from our vantage point, it appears to be a by-product of many sociological changes in the last few years. The increasing number of trancies and the need to find a simpler way of life seems to be involved. Surely, too, the "we" feeling engendered by Woodstock and other mass gatherings has promoted a feeling of camaraderie that is untempered by caution.

The increasing liberation of females and their need to participate in activities that were in a past reserved for males also seems to be involved, as does a certain amount of sexual stimulation.

The period between ages fourteen and twenty-one or twenty-two has its frustrations and anxieties and the automobile in the mid years of the twentieth century has been a ready means for expressing frustrations and problems. Previously, it was used for speeding and dare-devil reckless behavior. Now it seems to be a secondary factor in a new type of risk-taking and tempting fate that perhaps, too, is associated with blowing-off-steam and rebellion.

When adolescents are angry or upset, they may take more chances as their orientation toward responsibility becomes weaker and their judgement decreases. During the teen years, there is often a feeling of invulnerability and omnipotence which with greater maturity is reduced to manageable proportions.

Hitchhiking may have some fadish elements which increases a feeling of belonging and allows a means of rebellion, self-expression, communication and identification. Some girls feel that if the guys who pick them up smoke a joint with them, everything is going to be okay. Other girls have found through experience that this is a poor test of one's safety.

For a parent, unable to effectively control a teenager's behavior out of the home, some assurance can be found in the fact that risk-taking behavior declines after the teen years. This may be a small consolation for the girls or their families when this dare-devil typically adolescent behavior has unhappy consequences.

Birdland holds bike, trike and wagon-decorating contest

Birdland toddlers turned out early Friday morning prior to the July 4th parade for a bike contest and Todd George (from left) who won third place, Heidi Weger, first prize and Renee Stalker, second prize. Helping out were clowns Pat Cooper and Joan Weger, social chairman for the event.

Did you know that eyebrows are often a woman's most neglected beauty feature. And yet, brows are so easily corrected, and the results can be so complimentary! Pluck scraggly stray hairs, thin, if necessary. If brows are too thin and sparse, use a pencil to provide a more substantial line. When plucking, follow the natural formation of your brows, evening out and cleaning up stray hairs, to make the line as pretty as possible. After you establish the line you like, you will only have to remove a few hairs as they appear.

Bigger brothers and sisters also had their own contest. Winning first was Sandy Bullen, Michele Barks and Derek Place.

If your eyebrows need attention, come to "SALON OF BEAUTY" BONNIE JEAN'S HAIR STYLISTS, 5488 Dixie Highway, Waterford where we do eyebrow arching. We sell and apply artificial eyelashes by Duralash. All phases of beauty treatment including coloring, cutting, permanents, styling and more. Open 6:30-8:30. Sat. 6:30-3.

BEAUTY TIPS:

Eye-brow pencil should never be obvious, so be sure to use it, sparingly. Apply with light quick strokes.

The second big event put on by the Hi-Wood Village (Birdland) Homeowners' Association was "a great success," according to social committee chairman Joan Weger. The newly-reconstructed association put on a bike decorating contest for the kids in the neighborhood last Friday.

The kids then wheeled their bikes, tricycles, and scooters, etc. from Birdland to the junior high school, where they joined the Fourth of July parade.

Ice cream treats were given out after the parade. One little girl commented that it was much more fun being in the parade than watching it. Joan said.

Social Security recipients who also purchase food stamps may find they have to pay more for their food stamps beginning in July, when an 8 percent boost in Social Security payments takes effect.

Since the cost of food stamps is linked to the amount of net income received in each food stamp household, the Social Security increase may mean an increase in the cost of food stamps for some families.

However, the Social Security increase generally will not affect the cost of food stamps in a household now receiving less than $300 in Social Security benefits.

Persons who believe they may be affected can obtain information from their County Department of Social Services.

A&P store now lottery center

The A&P store at 5785 Ortonville has been designated by the Bureau of State Lottery as an official claims center. The store is authorized to accept prize claims for $25 and special bonus prizes in the 50 cents "green" game and $25 winners in the $1 triple play daily game.

All the prize claims will be sent to Lansing where tickets are validated and prize checks mailed to winners.

Old cemetery found

Headstones dating back to the early 1800s peek out of trees in a one-acre Springfield Township cemetery rediscovered last week. The cemetery, located on Bridge Lake Road just south of Waumegah Lake Road, was probably a family plot donated to the township long ago, township supervisor Don Rogers speculates. The township discovered the old cemetery while going through a list of tax exempt property in the township.

Springfield passes pension

Springfield Township employees can have 10 percent of their annual salaries set aside for a pension as a result of township board action Wednesday.

The board passed an ordinance establishing the pension, which gives any employe including the township supervisor, treasurer and clerk the option of joining the program.

Under the plan, employes will pay one quarter of the 10 percent being set aside, and the township will pay the other three fourths.

That means the township supervisor Don Rogers, with an annual salary of $13,000, would pay $325 while the township picks up the other $975.

The plan is effective upon publication date of the new ordinance; employes must work at least six months before getting a refund if they drop the pension plan.

Rogers said that as far as he knows, Springfield is the only township in the county without a pension plan of some sort.

Board okays 78-acre plat

Final preliminary plat approval for 78 acres of property being developed by John Helveston on the east side of M-15 at Hubbard Road has been given by the Independence Township Board. Helveston has platted 122 lots in the Foxwood subdivision. The new subdivision is an extension of the Deerwood subdivision developed by Helveston.

The action was taken on the recommendation of township engineers Johnson and Anderson and the Independence Township Planning Commission.

THE SALVATION ARMY
Captain Kenneth E. Johnson

Spiritual Message

WE ALL NEED AN "ENCOUNTER"

The following short article appears in the July 19, issue of The Salvation Army weekly, "The War Cry". It is written by Mrs. Colonel Loyd Robb.

There has been so much recent publicity on teen drinking that the public is apt to think this is a modern day phenomenon. Not so! A case in point is Dave. Since age 16, David had indulged in hard liquor, at times to the point of being oblivious to his surroundings. He never quite got around to saying what had started him on this disastrous course. He did become well known to the police, however.

"Until relatively recent times, the only solution to public intoxication was arrest, creating what had become known as the "revolving door syndrome"—in jail until so-bered up, then out on the streets again, without any effort being made to help the drinker with his problems."

"But back to Dave! In 10 years time, he was arrested 392 times for public drunkenness. He finally wandered into a men's social service center where he managed to stay sober for 11 weeks—a record for him. But Dave couldn't stand so much success and disappeared for two months."

"Remembering the good feeling he had when sober brought Dave back to the center and a second chance. For 11 weeks he participated in the program and finally began to understand that he needed God in his life. One day, while kneeling beside the director's desk, Dave made the most important decision of his life, for now, as he said, he will "give God a chance."

Thank God we do not all experience what Dave did—But we all need an "Encounter" with God. The place is not important but the personal transaction between us and God is. I pray that your encounter leads to a complete commitment of your life to Jesus Christ.

Amendment to subdivision ordinance tabled

Action was tabled last week by the Independence Township Board on an amendment to the subdivision control ordinance. Some concerns were expressed by developers that the amendment would restrict the developer too much. The amendment requires that developers submit a final plat for approval that includes everything submitted for preliminary plat approval.

The amendment would eliminate piecemeal development in sections of a subdivision, thus preventing some of the problems subdivisions like Clarkston Estates and Cranberry Lake Estates have had with varying types of drainage and road systems, according to township supervisor Ed Glennie.

James Scharl of Kieft Engineering said that the amendment would be "giving developers less flexibility than they need."

"A lot of things could happen to the 1 to 4 years it takes sometimes to develop these subdivisions. During the course of platting, changes could occur in construction costs, the financing picture and market conditions.

"It's going to create a hardship to the developer," John Helveston, developer of Deerwood subdivision, said.

"It's also going to create a lot more problems for township officials and engineers."

Helveston said the current subdivision control ordinance regulates many of the same things as the new amendment, such as engineering, required in the beginning stages of platting.

Glennie said the amendment is being considered in part in expectation of the platting of a 160-lot subdivision by Occidental Development Co. east of Sashabaw Road near Maybee. But Glennie and other board members were unsure of the exact intent of the amendment, and decided to wait until township planner Larry Burkhardt returned from vacation for a final decision on the matter.

Such contributions shall be secured from the general fund of the township. Each person within such class of officers and employees shall be responsible for the remainder of the premium or charges and the township treasurer is hereby authorized to deduct the same from each person's pay, salary or compensation and to apply the same to such person's responsibility.

B. Each employee who is employed on the effective date of the annuity or pension plan shall be eligible for coverage on that day provided he or she then meets the following requirements, otherwise to be eligible on the first policy anniversary on which he or she meets them:

If the notice is received after the individual has been covered, his coverage under the contract shall cease as provided for in the contract.

SECTION V.

Jim's Jottings

by Jim Sherman

My morning ritual includes lying back in a lounge chair reading the first and last sections of the friendly Free Press and having a cup of coffee. I don't give myself enough time for other sections . . . finance and women's . . . neither of which have my fullest attention at 6:30 a.m.

Seldom is my routine interrupted. Thusly, unusual sounds are not welcome. Like the dripping of water in the kitchen ceiling light fixture.

The instant it dawned on me what was happening, I realized I'd been subconsciously hearing the water running upstairs, and the toilet not filling.

With the water and electricity shut off, I pondered whether to call an electrician or a plumber. I settled for the latter and told him of the coincidence of the toilet not filling, but the globe getting plenty of water.

After opening a couple holes in the kitchen ceiling and retracing water lines several times plumber Howard Thatcher concluded the real coincidence was that when it rained the roof leaked.

A little pebble had lodged in the john that prevented it from closing.

But a leaky roof had brought water into the attic, down through the second floor via a hot air duct, and into the light fixture.

When my father sees something of interest in another newspaper he clips it for me. We've always respected his judgment and reprinted the item here.

It is understandable if you don't recall his last offering. I've been here 20 years and he's given me clippings just twice. That's about how often items in other newspapers interest him.

Here's his current knee slapper—A branch of the Canadian tax department at Toronto received an unusual letter, along with a tax return.

"I haven't been able to sleep since cheating on my income tax," the letter read. "Am enclosing a check for $500. If still unable to sleep, will mail you the balance."

I, too, clip others papers. This item is close to the profession.

"Writing editorials is a little like wetting your pants while wearing a dark blue suit; it gives you a nice, warm feeling and nobody notices."

Don't you expect an itch to be forthcoming when you spot a mosquito full of blood on the bathroom wall in the morning?

The one I spotted this week prompted the thought—How long does it take a mosquito to rid itself of that full belly?

It would seem to be a lifetime supply.

One last note about mosquitoes . . . A news release this week said the worst of their season is ahead of us, like the first 2 weeks of August.

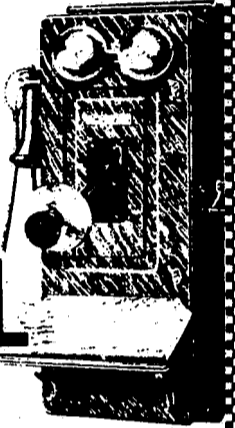

I had the same feeling after reading that item I had when in March an economist said he could see no end to the recession.

Bottles takeover nixed

Bottles for Building won't be taken over by Independence Township for now.

The township board moved last Tuesday not to take over the charity organization that collects glass, papers and aluminum from a drop-off center on M-15 just north of the Dixie Highway.

Bottles for building sought township takeover at the last board meeting because the task was becoming too much for the handful of residents who were burdened with the project.

Trustee Fred Ritter dissented in the board decision, saying he wanted to have the township take over the project "more for the end result — it would be a service provided by us like police and fire protection."

The board agreed, however, to go ahead and supply Bottles for Building with a Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) worker to help out with the project.

The CETA worker began Monday.

The organization has also announced it will no longer provide newspapers and aluminum collection.

As of Monday, no more aluminum or newspapers will be accepted at the Drop-off Center on M-15.

Pontiac will continue to have Wide Trace races despite the death last weekend. Better guards will be constructed for the people watching. More people will continue to come.

A schooner, fitted with high masts, will go down on the Great Lakes. Fatalities will result. Mackinaw figures prominently whether the victim is from there, the boat is going there or hails from there.

I don't believe there will be as many drownings this year as there have been, but next year will be a record high.

The high price of gas won't keep vacationers home. People will stay closer to home, but the resort areas won't suffer. People will cut out something else in order to buy the gas.

The movies, "The Exorcist" and "Jaws", have been box office superhits. The next one will center around an airplane crash with the passengers disappearing. First they blame outside sources and then it turns out it may be cannibalism for survival.

We're due for a repeat performance of good weather on the Labor Day weekend. It may be cool, but it's still going to be nice.

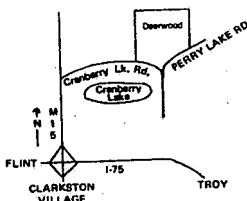

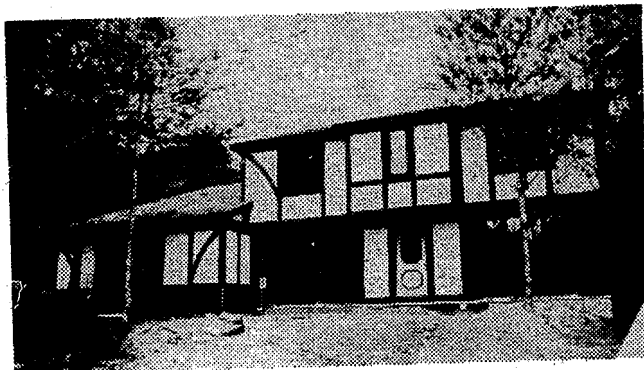

A famous writer will die. The cause is natural, but there will be tremendous sadness and sense of loss. Richard Burton will make headlines again, but I still say he and Elizabeth Taylor will get back together. He's making a concentrated effort to quit drinking.

There'll be some problems in Hawaii. The governor is talking to the mainland about something. Aid is indicated.

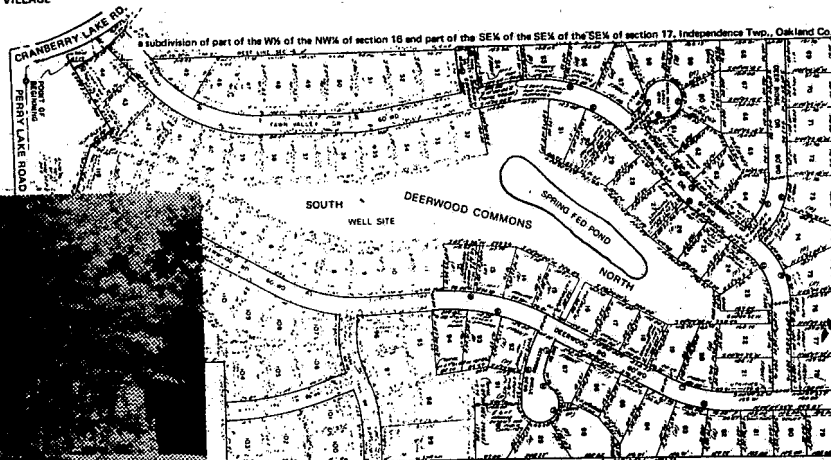

Airplane fares will be reduced again. By January there should be a new announcement of a cut. More than one airline will join forces for a streamlined program.

Open this weekend. . . a new life awaits you in. . .

... for you to inspect this Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. It's right in Clarkston Village at 21 East Washington and includes beautiful lake frontage on Parke Lake.

Inside you'll find rooms that just go on and on ... beautiful banistered staircase, huge family room, large kitchen with adjoining formal dining room and lovely front parlor ... upstairs the bedrooms are many and the challenge of establishing a lake view artist's studio is possible. There are so many possibilities with this charmer ... so be sure to stop by and see it Sunday.
