Procedures set in motion for parking lot

by Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News

The Clarkston Village Council has set an August 25 public hearing date on the rezoning of village-owned property off Depot Road in anticipation of putting a parking lot on the site.

The council also decided in a meeting Monday to ask the Oakland County planning department to make a study of parking needs in the village.

The action came after debate by council members on whether to go ahead with blacktopping 17,500 square feet of the Depot Road park for parking.

Village Business Association members had requested that the council blacktop what is now a gravel parking area to make additional parking available for business employees and customers.

The council received an opinion from its attorney that the property should be rezoned from its current recreation zoning to vehicular parking.

The push for the county study came mainly from council trustee Ruth Basinger, who said the council should have a plan for the parking lot that is more specific than one drawn up by village Department of Public Works Director Gar Wilson.

Basinger questioned a study made by Village Public Safety Director Jack McCall five months ago, which was made by asking village businesses to estimate the number of parking spaces their business required.

McCall only received about half of the questionnaires he sent out back, Basinger said, so he doubled his total estimate.

McCall's findings were that an additional 120 spaces were needed for parking in the village.

Basinger said the council planning department would base

'American Heritage' theme

"Our Early American Heritage" will be the theme of this year's Labor Day parade sponsored by the Clarkston Rotary Club.

Organizations planning to enter the parade can contact parade co-chairmen Stan Darling, 625-2578 or Bill Foster, 625-4678.

Cash prizes will be awarded for the three best costumes and three best floats.

The parade will be organized at 9 a.m. Sept. 1 at Clarkston Junior High School.

its parking count on the number of square feet in each business.

The village zoning ordinance specifies by square feet the number of parking spaces needed.

That study will not cost anything, Basinger said.

In a letter to the council by Gerald Nechal, District II coordinator for the county planning department, Nechal said his department has made two other studies in other county communities on parking.

Factors taken into consideration would be current usage of existing parking facilities, existing zoning ordinance requirements, the ideal number of spaces needed for existing commercial land uses based upon established parking requirements and the perception or attitudes of shoppers in Clarkston toward the available parking in the business district.

The council was not unanimous in their decision to ask for the county study, trustees Jim Weber and Kathleen McCall dissenting.

Weber had made a previous motion to go ahead with the paving project, but his motion was defeated.

That project would have included 17,500 square feet of blacktopping, enough for 50 parking spaces.

"We're wasting our time," he commented at one point. "We should get the paving over before the end of the band season."

A new bandshell has been constructed at the park, and the newly-formed village band will be playing concerts there every Wednesday night.

Henry Woolfenden, representing the Village Planning Commission, said an informal poll taken of planning commission members indicated they were favorable to the repaving project.

Village Clerk Bruce Rogers said the rezoning procedure will take until the first of September to complete.

Some council members commented that they hoped the county parking study would be completed by that time.

Safety director McCall commented during the meeting that one businessman told him he wasn't going to answer McCall's survey because "he was just plain tired of surveys and studies."

"I would like to see something put down there," DPW director Wilson said during the meeting. "We've been talking about making more parking available for two years."

Pierre and his two sons Claude, 14, and Chris, 13, were congratulated by many customers after the sign [rear of picture] went up at their Sashabaw Road store. The younger boys, Eric and Andre, were at their grandmother's while their mother was in the hospital.

Pierre is a happy papa

by Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News

There was a sign in a candy box, a sign in a cigar box, a sign in the vegetable bin, one in the fruit section, and one outdoors.

"It's a girl," they all read.

And glad Pierre Gourand, owner of Pierre's Orchard on the corner of Sashabaw and Clarkston Roads, was, that it was a girl.

Pierre has four sons and thought for sure the fifth baby his wife just had was going to be another boy.

When the doctors delivered seven-pound, 14 ounce Chantel Denise, Pierre, his wife Nicole and all four boys were happy indeed.

So were the customers, who laughed with Pierre as he jubilantly told about the new arrival.

Female customers were treated to a piece of candy; male customers were treated to a cigar, and all the customers were treated to a happy atmosphere that surrounded this French family after they heard the glad tidings.

Chantel was born at 12:30 p.m. July 24. Her name is French, as are all the children's names, because Pierre and Nicole were born in France.

They came over here in 1951. "We met here," Pierre laughed, "and we only lived a few blocks away in France."

Pierre was so happy Friday he gave this reporter a whole basket of fruit.

Now that's a happy papa.

Pine Knob offer rejected

The Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, in a special meeting July 23, voted unanimously to turn down an official tender for the proposed sale of the Pine Knob facilities on Sashabaw Road.

The offer was made by Joseph Locricchio, president of Indusco Corporation, owner of Pine Knob.

There had been speculation that Indusco Corporation would offer the property to the County Parks and Recreation Commission. This possibly was heightened when the Independence Township Board passed a resolution recommending that the Commission buy the property.

Commissioner Richard Wilcox said, "The Commission has six parks now with master plans that call for 15-to-20 years of development. To consider a property of this scope and its financial management would seriously inhibit the growth of our entire park system."

Commissioner Lew Wint commented, "It is certainly flattering to think that Indusco and the people of Independence Township have the confidence in us to manage such an operation, but it really is out of the question at this point in time."

Clarkston Vulnerable

'Dumping ground for homicides'

"It's become an increasing matter that bodies are dumped in suburban areas. The suburbs have become a dumping ground for homicides," said Lt. Carl Matheny of the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept.

Matheny made the comment following the arrest of a Pontiac man held by Pontiac City Police on an open charge of murder in connection with the shooting death of another Pontiac man whose badly decomposed body was found in a swampy area off Pontiac Lake Road last week.

Oakland County Crime Lab technicians identified the victim as Charles C. Manning, 31, of 81 Ridgemont.

Matheny said Paul H. Radford, 28, of 243 Ridgemont, confessed to the slaying after walking into the Pontiac City Police Station shortly after 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Radford told police he had first stabbed Manning, then shot him after an argument involving a drug debt. Radford allegedly had owed Manning $300.

Radford said the shooting occurred at approximately noon.

July 18, in Radford's apartment. That night he took the body to the Perry Lake Road site, he told police.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies were called Thursday, July 24, after two girls were playing near the Perry Lake Road site, south of I-75, when they smelled a stench and ran to get one of their mothers. The mother came to the site, saw a leg protruding from a bundle and called the sheriff's department.

Deputies said the upper body was wrapped in a quilt and a black plastic trash bag. The victim had multiple small-calibre gunshot wounds including wounds to the head. His hands were tied behind his neck.

"Initially we were not able to tell if it was a male or female, except that it had male clothing," said Lt. Matheny. Crime Lab technicians Donald McLaughlin and Raymon Block worked overtime to identify the body. They made the identification Saturday through print identification.

In commenting on suburban areas being used as a "dumping ground" for slayings, Matheny added, "The Clarkston area is particularly vulnerable from a standpoint of I-75."

He noted that another body was found Monday in the Farmington area. It appears that body was taken there from someplace else, he said. In addition, he commented that last year the body of a known heroin dealer was found in Groveland Township. The murder of the dealer, who was under indictment for sale of heroin, has never been solved, Matheny said.

Manning was booked on an open murder charge. The investigation has been turned over to Pontiac City Police.

The body was found off Whipple Lake Road.

Chicago matinee tie-ups

Several minor accidents were reported during a traffic tie-up at Pine Knob Music Theater Monday afternoon, according to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies.

There were no injuries in the accidents, but extra deputies had to be added to the traffic detail at the theater to help untie the traffic after a matinee performance of Chicago.

An evening performance followed the matinee performance, and the tie up was "just a case of two sell-out crowds confronting each other," according to Lieut. Carl Matheny.

Monday was the first of three double bills being held at Pine Knob this summer.

"It seemed orderly inside," Matheny said of the matinee.

Meeting irons out Little League problems

Robert Davidson, director of the Independence Township Little League program, is not worried about losing his job, he said Tuesday night.

Davidson received favorable comments from many township residents at the Independence Township Board meeting Tuesday, most who stated that Davidson should remain as director.

The township board will be considering whether or not Davidson should remain in his job, but will not be "rushed into any decision," according to supervisor Ed Glennie.

A flare-up at a little league game July 16 involving Davidson and another spectator blew up into a major brou-ha-ha among little league parents, coaches and others, and raised cries for Davidson's resignation.

Davidson was trying to stop a spectator from using pompons during the game, he said. A spectator then called Davidson's son, who was next up to bat, a "S.O.B."

Davidson said he called the spectator a "S.O.B." back, because the spectator was abusing Davidson's 12-year-old boy.

A letter to the editor was then published denouncing Davidson's actions.

"We have had an opportunity to discuss (the July 16 incident) with parents this last week," Glennie told about 25 parents and managers at the board meeting.

"There's a lot more to it than Davidson's job," Glennie said, referring to a statement by James Ladd of Kingfisher that the main reason the group was there Tuesday night was to determine whether Davidson should remain as director.

"The decision has been made that Davidson will not attend any more games this year."

"We feel there's a tremendous amount of concern one way and the other and it's going to take quite a bit of consideration before the board comes to a decision."

"We will have to sit down with our recreation people and come up with a (baseball) program acceptable to the community."

Quite a bit of discussion during the meeting centered around the little league rules, which are 90 percent Michigan Recreation Park Association rules and 10 percent Independence Township's program rules.

Fred Boston of Lakeview questioned whether or not there was a rule specifically stating that his wife could not have pom-poms at the games.

There are no specific restrictions against pom-poms, Davidson told Boston, but it is the managers' duty to control the spectators at games.

Another Clarkston resident and T-ball coach, Dan Meissner, pointed out that rule books were hard to come by.

Managers are handed out the books, parks and recreation director Timothy Doyle said, but the books are not distributed to parents.

"Obviously we have a problem (regarding the rules)," Glennie broke in at one point in the discussion.

"We need to work on them."

T-ball manager Meissner also suggested that the spectators be separated from the little league players.

Karen Foyteck expanded on the controversy around spectator participation in the little league games by saying "I think the adults in Independence Township are ruining our program."

Mrs. Foyteck said she has never heard so many obscenities as she has this summer at little league games.

She also got her licks into the reason for a little league program, saying the kids are there to have a good time.

But the game has developed, she said, into "winmanship," not sportsmanship.

"Bravo," Timothy Doyle replied to Mrs. Foyteck's comments. Dolye said he has never experienced in other states' recreation programs "what I have seen at these ball games."

Many of those at the meeting felt the incident involving Davidson had been blown out of proportion.

"I'm afraid this whole minor incident is overshadowing the good of the program," James Ladd said.

"We came here to defend somebody who was roasted publicly," Robert Gamble said, referring to recent letters to the editor concerning Davidson in area newspapers.

"Our baseball program was roasted publicly and we parents were roasted publicly."

Gamble said the incident should be "thrashed out like adults."

Supervisor Glennie indicated that he thought the meeting Tuesday was doing just that, and he complemented those in attendance and chastised the news media, which has been covering the Little League incident both in stories and with editorials.

"I would like to say to the press," he stated, "that I think this meeting exemplifies the way Independence Township likes to, and intends to, take care of its problems... in an orderly, gentlemanly and considerate manner."

Shine your shoes, mister?

by Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News

learn how to hunt with his grandfather.

What do you do when it's the middle of summer and you want to find a job so you can save up some money to buy a gun and you're 11 years old?

If you're an enterprising young entrepreneur like John Koenig of 7216 Perry Lake Road, you start up a shoe shine stand.

That's what John did in front of Tierra Arts and Design Monday, and by 1:30 p.m. John had served four customers—even one woman, he said—and had earned $1.25.

John was hunting around town for a job when Buck Kopietz of Tierra suggested John try shoe-shining.

So John went home, borrowed his Dad's collection of shoe polish, came back, borrowed Buck's shoe shine stand, drew up a sign establishing his hours and went to it.

He hopes to make $5 this week, and eventually buy a gun so he can John's going rate for one pair of shoes is 25 cents. But if customers continue to tip him the way one did Monday, he might get that gun sooner than expected. The happy customer gave John another 25 cents as a tip.

John will be open Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Wednesday nights are his "day off"—he has rollerskating that night.

John's parents think his venture is a good idea, he said. "They think it's good that I get out and do it on my own—make my own money. Usually they just give me the money for things—I do a lot of work for them, you know."

John has only one stipulation for his business—no white shoes.

"They're too hard," he said. "One little slip and I owe the guy 20 bucks."

The pressure is tough on the Little League field.

Children and adults are both intent on the games.

New band shell sprouts up

Nelson Kimball and Clarkston Village CETA workers were busy Monday constructing the new band shell at the village Depot Road Park. Materials for the shell were donated by the Clarkston Land Conservancy. Kimball said he hoped to have the shell completed by the band concert Wednesday. Above is a drawing of the proposed shell.

"Clarkston 88" will get records

Within two weeks, the Super Bowl gambling raid in Independence Township Jan. 12 should be nothing but a memory to the "Clarkston 88."

The men who pleaded guilty to frequenting a gambling house for the event should have their mug shots and fingerprints returned to them as souvenirs of the ill-fated Super Bowl Party.

After a misunderstanding between attorneys was worked out, new orders for the return of the "Clarkston 88's" arrest records were expected to be signed by Clarkston District Judge Gerald McNally Wednesday.

McNally said he would keep his promise to clear the men's records if they were involved in no more gambling activities for six months. He had dismissed the charges July 2, and signed an order for the return of the arrest cards, mug shots and fingerprints of those who attended the party.

"This was an automatic dismissal of the charges and return of the records," McNally said.

The men were told in their first appearance before the judge that each would forfeit a $50 court cost to cover "probation oversight expenses," he said.

However, it has taken further court action and another order for the records to be released by Chief Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson.

Attorney A. Lawrence Russell, representing the 88, presented the original orders to Michigan State Police Det. Sgt. Donald Chambers, who had coordinated the Super Bowl raid on a rented hall. He learned later that the records had been turned over to Thompson, who said he wanted a check on the legality of the court order.

"My contention all along was that he doesn't have that prerogative," Russell said. "He can either comply or appeal a court order."

Russell obtained another court order for Thompson to show cause why he should not be forced to comply with McNally's first order.

Thompson and Russell were able to work out an "amicable settlement by redoing the order," Russell said.

"All I really care about is that all of the 'Clarkston 88' get their records back pursuant to the judge's orders," he said.

Council to protest road restrictions

The Clarkston Village Council will once again be protesting parking prohibitions set up by governmental bodies for village streets without council knowledge.

The council will be sending a letter to the Oakland County Road Commission asking that part of restrictions recently placed on county-owned Washington Street be retracted.

Washington Street resident Virginia Walter complained to the council that new signs had gone up on Washington from Holcomb Street to the village parking lot saying "no stopping, standing or parking."

"The no-parking provision is okay," she said, "but I object to the no stopping and no standing."

"They're telling me that if someone were to drive me up to my house and let me off, I'd be breaking the law."

Other residents in the audience commented that the no stopping or standing prohibition was an open invitation to gravel trucks to barrel down the street, whereas previously the truck drivers were more cautious.

Village treasurer Art Pappas said he was disenchanted with the gravel trucks barreling through the area, and he planned on writing his own protest letter to the road commission.

The council agreed there was a problem with the gravel trucks, and will also ask in his letter that the road commission re-route the trucks.

The trucks travel from Deer Lake to Holcomb to Washington, as there is no left hand turning from the Dixie Highway coming south into Clarkston.

Village Clerk Bruce Rogers said the new Washington parking prohibition was another case of the council not being informed of road regulation changes until they were in effect.

"We received the letter of notification (about Washington Street) the day the signs went up," he said.

The village council has recently fought with the Michigan State Highway Department over the ban on parking on Main Street north of the Washington-Main Street intersection.

Sewer deficit result of many things

Having to increase the price of sewer service in Independence Township makes a lot of people uneasy, but as far as we can tell there is no one specifically to blame for the lack of needed funds to pay the bonds.

The problem has come about through a lot of causes, the recession being among the foremost. Building which was picking up considerably in Independence Township at the time sewer contracts were made appeared headed for ever higher increases.

The reasons were the sewer, which many developers had been waiting for, was at long last arriving, and the amount of land zoned here for multiple use provided an ideal location for rapid development.

Inflation, coupled with a fuel shortage, turned that picture around and construction waned all over the country.

County contracts with the sewer developers provided that the sewers be constructed and in use a year ago. The bond pay-back schedule was formulated on that basis. While the township probably has enough money to meet this fall's payment, it won't have enough to meet next spring's.

Had the sewers been completed on time and the people hooked up within 18 months after completion as state law requires, money would be arriving in the township till to cover the debt.

As it is, much of the sewer system is not yet in service and revenue can't be expected from tap-in fees for yet another 18 months under the present set-up.

Several remedies are being considered. Probably the foremost idea is to create a special assessment district in the area served by the sewer and charge people annually for sewers whether they are hooked in or not.

Another proposal is to create an ad valorem tax, in which all people of the township would have their taxes increased (some say as little as 2 mills would do the job), and that is justified by proponents in noting that the pipe laid into Independence was planned to be big enough to eventually serve all the township.

The matter of whether or not the township could purchase the capacity to serve all the township remains in doubt.

Whatever the township does, it must hike the cash inflow to meet payments during these lean years. It's not an easy task for the current township board to resolve.

Farmer's Night a hit

There's something about a small town . . .

And if you'd been here last Wednesday night, you would have called in "great."

More than a thousand people came downtown to sell and buy garden produce and handicrafts. Would-be customers wandered the streets munching watermelon slices and snow cones, eyeing such things as macrame and leather working demonstrations, getting a silk screened T-shirt, picking through "treasures", and talking to each other.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., many of them drifted off to the Depot Road park for the second village band concert and later came back to the lot at Main and Washington for a free movie showing, the latter made available through Independence Township Library and Oakland County Children's Village, which loaned the projector.

Friendliness was in the air, and there was no trouble reported to police.

The fledging Clarkston Village Business Association deserves some loud praise for sponsoring such events, as does the Village Council which has taken on the financing of the band.

The next big event will be during the Labor Day observance of Village Days. Hope to see you there!

'If It Fitz . . .'

Mother has a problem

(Jim Fitzgerald is still on vacation. This wilted column is reprinted on demand of the National Lettuce Assoc.)

The evening the kids found out about their mother, I tried to explain the situation to them this way:

"Everyone has some little thing they can't help worrying about. I don't mean a big thing, like the war or health or paying bills. But something little. Like I always worry on Saturday nights that I forgot and set the alarm clock by mistake and it'll wake me up on Sunday morning when the law allows me to sleep in. I keep waking up and checking to make sure it's not set. I lose sleep Saturday nights worrying about losing sleep Sunday mornings.

"Your mother worries about someone taking her salad."

We were at the fancy Steering

Wheel restaurant in Detroit. It was the first time the kids had been in a place which presented so many threats to their mother's salad. At home, all Pat has to worry about is the cats. But hovering around the Steering Wheel diners are dozens of waiters, waitresses, stewards and water boys. Not to mention a wedding party whose white clothing made my nervous wife embrace her lettuce.

At the completion of the meal, Pat went to the restroom, thus giving me a chance to explain her conduct to the children. It had been quite a dinner.

6 courses: appetizers, soup, salad, stuffed pancakes, the main course, sherbet and coffee. Notice that salad was number 3. The idea is to eat one course at a time, with the waiter removing the remains of the previous course before bringing the next one.

Pat's problem is that she wants to keep her salad throughout the entire dinner and she is afraid the hired help doesn't understand this. At some point in her early childhood she was badly scarred by a graspy waitress. Little Pat's chopped garden with French dressing disappeared half eaten, and then the prime rib never materialized. She went to bed hungry that night and had nightmares about sneaky waiters, stolen Roquefort and starving children in China. She awoke shook but determined. She vowed to never again part with her salad until after dessert.

At the Steering Wheel that night, every time a restaurant employee neared our table, Pat's arm encircled her salad and she automatically said those now familiar words: "I'd like to keep my salad, please."

Before that long meal was over, everyone in the restaurant knew Pat wanted to keep her salad. When the piano player asked for requests, Pat requested that she be allowed to keep her salad. And he sang it for her.

The doorman went into the middle of the boulevard and warned traffic to keep moving and stay away from Pat's salad.

The bartender became so concerned he tried to call a policeman to stand guard. But you can never find a policeman when you need one in Detroit.

Anyway, that's how it went. And I was glad when Pat went to the ladies room, so I could explain her phobia to the kids.

They looked at her with more understanding when she returned to the table and took her salad out of her purse and resumed eating it.

Saturday Night

by Jean Saile

Remember angle parking on the Main Streets of the world?

I guess I'm getting reminiscent because of the bang-up success of Farmer's Night last Wednesday in Clarkston.

It made me think of Saturday nights when I was still a girl on the farm, and the really big deal that going to town to see all your friends and neighbors was.

Piapor, our nearest town of any size, boasted two general stores, an Oddfellow's lodge, a shoe repairman, a lumberyard, some assorted garages and a livery stable, but you would have thought it the center of the universe come Saturday night.

Farm folk drove from 30 miles or more away to angle park along the Main Street, do the week's grocery shopping, and chat about the weather, the crops and the sewing circle.

When the shopping was accomplished, and maybe after a dinner at the Chinese restaurant, the older folk returned to their cars on Main Street and held court for all the pedestrians passing by.

Kids under 10, like me, fortified with a brown paper sack of hard candy or an ice cream cone, flitted back and forth between cars and friends, or on a rare night when a movie film had been lured into town, we sat on folding chairs in the local meeting place and watched films. The ones I remember were horror strips.

It was delicious.

Everybody knew everybody else's kids and cared about them, even as they did about the parents. It was a benevolent loosening of apron strings that, in fact, admitted you to the society of about 50 more parents, who were also keeping an eye on you.

My 'about to be sister-in-law' clerked at one of the stores, and that set me a cut above my peers as far as status was involved. She knew my name and usually took the time, if she had it while making up huge grocery orders, to engage in a little conversation.

Those were the days of yard goods lining a table not too far from the hats and the hats displayed not too far from the hardware, and the hardware not too far from the peanut butter.

It was a treasure trove all done up in one neat package.

Saturday nights had many pleasures. They were a break from the hard work of the farm. It was a time when my parents caught up on the chit chat of the area, and one where I ran relatively free.

Davidson tells a "different side" to story

Now that Fred Boston, Dennis Foley, Ed Blunden, Jean Saile, Dennis Martin and Robin Roberts have had their opinions heard concerning "Little League" in general and Independence Township in particular, it is my turn to tell a different side of the story that, to date, has been untold, forgotten or purposely ignored by the press and the malcontents that speak so loudly against sandlot baseball and recreation.

I want to tell this story for three reasons: First, I am personally involved in a rather long 25 year career of amateur sports; second, some very fine adults have done some exceptional things that go unnoticed year after year for the youth of their communities and; third, not every youngster has had a bad experience in Little League or similar programs; for many they have had just the opposite.

As a youngster (age 9) I was first on the receiving end of a junior baseball program, a part of an organized team, just a little boy with dreams of growing up to be a Mickey Mantle or Joe DiMaggio. I never fulfilled my little boy dream and I never met my heroes, but along the way in sandlot ball and later in school sports, I did meet some of the finest men I have ever met and as a teenager and young adult I modeled my values and view of society of the lessons I learned from the fathers, coaches, teachers, boy scout leaders, YMCA and Boy's Club directors that worked for little pay, a lot of grief and heartaches, and very little personal gain or recognition.

As a child on the streets of Pontiac, I was lucky to meet and be taught the real lessons of life by men like John Waterman, a grade school gym teacher, a Boy's Club director, a mailman whose name I've forgotten, George Gary, Herc Renda, Art Van Ryzin, Bill Slossen, Mr. Sherwood, Bill Graham, Lenard Buzz, Bob Emery, and a host of other adults who took the time and patience to work with me and hundreds of other kids in different rec programs, school sports, and community centers. I've never thanked these men for the efforts they invested in my future, but they must know thousands of kids like me they helped in small but appreciated ways. Their many hours in gyms, on dusty ball diamonds, school playgrounds, YMCA pools and camping trails did not create wealth or national reputations for them. Some have retired, some have died, several are still actively working for the youth in their communities, providing endless hours of wholesome recreation.

This is not only true in Pontiac, Waterford and Independence Township. Every neighborhood, every suburb and every city has many (but never enough) good men and women who give of themselves in service to youth, other adults, and the aged, as public-service oriented humans trying to promote fair play, honesty and good sportsmanship as they teach the lessons others taught them in similar situations. These people are far too often ignored, pushed aside and forgotten by other people who never learned their lessons as children.

The ugly incident that took one minute, out of one ball game, on one summer night in suburbia grabs the spotlight, gets uncalled for press coverage in sensational headlines and the thousands of good people, doing good works for others get lost in the shuffle and forgotten in the gossip and rumors that run rampant.

One man who has spent 15 years of his adult life working with children in positive-value programs, came to the defense of a twelve year old boy being verbally abused by another man and a group of over-zealous parents at a little league game. This has cast a negative shadow over our entire community and a large 1,600-player recreation program. It becomes the issue for the press and the malcontents, and all the good people suffer and are made to look like fools.

Not every adult working as volunteers and as paid professionals for the youngsters in their communities are frustrated, over-zealous individuals with misguided values. And not every child is being mangled mentally and abused physically by the competitive aspects of little league or similar programs.

Robin Roberts and Ed Blunden did not become the men they are today without some adults in their childhood extending a hand, a smile and a lot of love in their direction. They did not become a professional athlete and a crusading editor alone; they were taught, guided, and loved by sandlot coaches, fathers, classroom teachers and other adults in their environment.

The time simply came when one individual, on one dusty baseball diamond, let himself be heard. I would have been a poor father, not much of a man, and less of a baseball director if I would have allowed a group of over-zealous parents to take away from the 30 children directly involved and hundreds of others, their chance to participate in sandlot baseball.

Few, if none, of these 1,600 youngsters will grow up to be lucky or skilled enough to be major league ball players, but the majority will learn the positive lesson of sports and recreation programs. They will remember the adults that helped them become adults, and they will pass along to their children a lot of the good, and some of the bad, things they learned. They will learn there is a right way and a wrong way to behave, a smart way and a stupid way to be an adult.

Ask help for Rudy's Day

This letter is being sent to you to ask for your participation and/or support in forming a Committee for the planning of "Rudy's Day" in honor of Rudy Schwartz, owner of Rudy's Market and long time resident of Clarkston.

We are hopeful that many residents, businessmen, organizations etc., of Clarkston will be honored and glad to help out with this project.

The sole purpose of "Rudy's Day" is to present an all-day affair to honor Rudy and to show him that the residents are very grateful for the numerous hours of work and various deeds he has done for all of us.

There are no exact words that we can ever say or anything that we could ever do to show our gratitude to this man, but we hope that this event will at least express a little of our gratitude and how we all feel.

If you would be interested in offering some of your time to help plan for this event, please contact

Bert Allen (625-1718), Chairman, of the Independence Township Firefighter's Auxiliary, or any member of the Auxiliary.

We would like to have a Committee formed and functioning as soon as possible so that this day could be held yet this fall, or possibly next spring.

Hoping to hear from you soon, we remain

Sincerely yours,
Independence Township

Say parking lot needs planning

Open letter to the Clarkston Planning Commission:

As private citizens it is our opinion that there is a need for business parking south of Depot Road. However, any conclusions we might draw from our own observations, or from a poll of business people, or from a parking lot count, cannot substitute for the method recommended by professional planners - the Oakland County Planning Commission among them.

The approved way to determine the needed number of parking spaces is by compilation of individual business needs, based on floor space in each and its type of activity. In a small, unsophisticated village like Clarkston, this can be accomplished in a few days.

Since any benefits of additional parking will accrue directly to business and only indirectly to the residents at large, we are confident that the business community will want the most impartial and accurate appraisal of its needs available.

In addition to asking the majority of taxpayers to forgo the services that $5000 could buy, we are asking them to give up irreplaceable park land.

We feel that they are entitled to a professional landscape design there, which will be in keeping with the character of the land and the wetlands natural function for flood control.

There should be an ample number of trees to shade this site which is exposed to the heat of the afternoon sun; business employees, who are to use the lot, are entitled to the same consideration for their comfort as business patrons.

The plantings should be designed to make an inviting approach to the park and to conceal the cars and blacktop as far as is possible from the homes on Holcomb Street. Drainage should be carefully engineered because we are paving wetlands.

Clarkston's business district is an historic part of the 19th century town which the entire community is working to preserve. The businesses are important to it, not only because they are traditional, but because the independent businessman is an American institution which also is deserving of preservation.

Not only does the big mall shopper lose his personal contact with the merchant, but the very bigness of these malls make them difficult to oversee, and many people will want to turn to the security of local shopping.

If Clarkston's business community needs additional parking, they are entitled to have it provided through proper procedures, free of any suggestion that the sources of information on which the decision was made right have been self-serving.

Is baseball program for kids?

To whom it may concern:

In regards to Independence Township's baseball program sponsored by the recreation department:

In recent weeks there has been much turmoil arisen due to the qualifications of umpires. Prior to the start of the season, the recreation department began a list of all those interested in umpiring.

The response was mainly from 14 and 15-year-old boys and girls. It is for this reason younger people are umpiring the games. It seems no older people are really interested in the umpiring until it comes to complaining.

It is true that some bad calls may be being made, which in turn is due to the fact the kids are so young, but is it fair to constantly complain, call the umpires names, and literally chase them around with baseball bats? Is this setting a good example as to how the kids are supposed to act?

The main reason for the baseball program, which is very often overlooked, is to give the kids something to occupy their summer with, and at the same time teach them baseball fundamentals and most important of all good sportsmanship.

Is this displayed by adults?

It seems that whenever a game is lost it was due to bad umpiring. Someone has to lose and children need to realize that they are not always going to win. How can this be acquired when they see their own parents and coaches always blaming the umpires?

Much pressure and bad feelings are being placed on these kids, and it's really too bad. That is not what the program is all about.

Is junior baseball an adult program or one for the kids?!!

Deputy's report

by Doug Hummel

In time of trouble or need of assistance, can your house be found by police, fire or ambulance service without a needless delay in time?

Many times officers are dispatched to a possible serious injury or crime, on a private roadway or drive, and are unable to find the house quickly, due to the lack of a number on the mailbox, or not being visible from the street.

It would be to everyone's advantage to check and make sure that the house number is visible on the mailbox at roadways in the front of the house or invest a few cents and buy the large reflectorized type numbers

In the cases of a call of a break-in in progress, it can mean that the responsible will see the light from the patrol unit's spotlight as the officer attempts to locate the right house, and give the culprits that much more of a head start in their escape.

Deputy Bray has pointed out that there have been an increasing number of reports of malicious destruction of property in the Walters Lake subdivision area and request that residents in the area call in and report when they see people breaking up their neighbor's property.

David Kurko, owner of the Sportsman Bar on Dixie Highway reported to the department that the bar had been broken into and two money bags containing a total of $800.00 had been stolen.

A home on Pine Knob Lane was broken into and ransacked. It was unknown what is missing until return of owners, who is on vacation.

A residence on Cherrywood was entered and two .16 gauge shotguns valued at over $200 were taken.

A residence on Hubbard was broken into and a color TV set was taken. The owner was on vacation at the time.

An Independence Township volunteer fireman reported his van broken into and a Plectron fireband receiver valued at $150 removed.

A Harley Davidson Sportster valued at $2,200 was reported stolen from the parking lot of Greens Lake Apartments.

Crime so far this year has paid very well, as computer readouts for the Independence Township area show a loss of $18,456 through June, 1975.

Again, officers request the citizens call if any suspicious persons or vehicles are in their neighborhood.

New assistant principal appointed

John Kirchgessner, former assistant principal and athletic director at Sashabaw Junior High, has been appointed assistant principal at Clarkston High School, administration officials said Monday.

Kirchgessner takes the place of Connie Bruce, who has taken over as athletic director for both the high school and two junior highs.

Kirchgessner was replaced at Sashabaw Junior High by high school biology instructor George White.

Kirchgessner, 28, has been assistant principal at Sashabaw for three years, and taught at that school for three years previously.

He has a masters degree from Michigan State University, and is currently working on a specialist's degree at Eastern Michigan University.

White, 29, has been a biology teacher at CHS for seven years; he is a former Clarkston Education Association president and a former CEA negotiator.

White resides at 8050 Pine Knob Road; Kirchgessner at 7520 Dilley Road, Davisburg.

Mel Vaara, assistant superintendent of Clarkston Schools, is currently interviewing science teachers to replace White.

Clarkston youth dies in crash

A 19-year-old Clarkston Youth, Joseph Allen Echlin, died in a one-car accident at Holly Road and I-75 at 2:15 p.m. Sunday, July 27.

Witnesses report he was traveling north on I-75 when his car left the right lane passing through the left lane into the median and crashing into the East Holly Road bridge abutment.

There appeared to be no attempt to stop, Oakland County Sheriff's deputies report, as no skid marks were visible.

The youth, a 1974 graduate of CHS was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Echlin of 9519 Whipple Shores Drive, Clarkston.

He is also survived by his sisters Diane Cushman of Ortonville and Kelly Echlin.

Grandparents surviving him are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Echlin of Independence Twp. and Mrs. Hazel McLaughlin of Drayton Plains.

The funeral was scheduled for Wednesday, July 30 at the Goyette Sharpe Funeral Home, Clarkston with burial at Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Tennis is a swinging activity

Jim Kursava bats one out during tennis practice Friday.

When you are applying make-up, always start with a clean face. Use a cleansing lotion or soap to make sure your skin is scrupulously clean. Pat dry with a towel. Next, evaluate all your beauty needs, begin with your eyebrows. Are they scraggly and do they need attention? Now is the time to do it. Next, evaluate nose and mouth; decide what will help them look their best. If your skin tone in general lacks evenness, now is the time to apply moisturizer and foundation.

You will get many beauty tips as a client of "SALON OF BEAUTY" BONNIE JEAN'S HAIR STYLISTS, 5488 Dixie Highway. Call 623-1411. Open 6:30-8:30. Sat. 6:30-3. We sell and apply Duralash Eyelashes. Styling, Coloring, Permanents, Sale and Service of Hairpieces, Continental Cutting, and Eyebrow Arching.

BEAUTY TIP:

Cleansing your neck is like cleansing your face; use cleansing cream or other cosmetics with the same enthusiasm.

More than 200 people are expected to take part in tennis programs offered this year by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department.

Many of them will be playing in a tournament slated August 16, 17, 23 and 24 here.

Tournament divisions are broken into singles play for men and women 18 and over, and boys and girls 17 and under and 14 and under.

Dick Swartout, tennis director, reports that if enough interest is shown, a division will also be included for men and women 35 and over.

He asks that those interested sign up by August 13, and that pairings will be listed by 10 a.m. August 16 at Clarkston High School. Call the recreation department, 625-8223.

Swartout is particularly impressed with the growth of junior tennis programs, having expanded from eight participants three years ago to the current 50.

The school district provides 11 public courts for the program at present, however another four will be added with development of the township park. Reservations for space may be made at the recreation office, Swartout reported.

New classes for both beginning and advanced adults are due to begin August 5 at Sashabaw Junior High School, the director reported. The classes will be at 6 p.m. for beginners and 7 p.m. for adults on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Precision Pipe wins

Precision Pipe Class D baseball team from Clarkston clinched a berth in the Michigan Connie Mack tournament Sunday, but they did it the hard way.

In the first Pontiac playoff game Saturday night at J.C. Park, Precision tied West Orion in the seventh inning five to five, only to lose as Orion came back with all they needed to win in the bottom of the eighth.

Bill Matthews was the losing pitcher in the 6-5 decision, as Precision was forced into a must win situation to make the tournament.

By the fourth inning Sunday at Wisner Field, things were looking pretty dim for Precision. They found themselves on the wrong end of a 13-1 score, piling up errors almost as fast as Hager Sanitary was piling up runs.

But in the bottom of the fourth, Precision ran out of things to do wrong and began to do things right, starting with a seven run show of strength from the offense.

A fine relief job from pitcher Don Blower, coupled with two more runs in the fifth and eight in the sixth was enough to shock Hager 18-15.

In a total team effort, every man in the lineup figured in the scoring.

Tom Ross led the team with 4 for 4, Jeff Ferguson had a 2 run home run and Jim Dyke, Dan Blower, Mike Hooper, Don Blower and George Porritt each had two hits.

Team members not before mentioned are Ken Grable, Mike Coulter, Ron Fraley, Larry Bennett, Paul Brenninger, Rod Hool and Kevin Ridley.

Coach Dave Blower would like to thank the over 70 fans who came out to watch the team Sunday. The fine support Precision has had all year, has greatly contributed to the teams never give up attitude.

The first Connie Mack playoff game for Precision will be at J.C. Park, Thursday at 11 a.m. Come and support your Clarkston boys and see some good baseball.

Powell, Rangers tied for first

Ben Powell Trucking handed State Tire its second defeat of the season, to knock State Tire from a tie for first.

The four-way tie of three weeks ago is now down to two teams, the Truckers and the Pine Knob Rangers.

The Truckers had their hitting shoes on as everyone in the line-up contributed to the easy 17-1 win.

The Pharoahs stayed within reach of a playoff with a 12-2 victory over the winless Clarkston Chargers.

Larry Sherill threw a three-hit shutout over Rademacher as the Credit Union won easily, 7-0.

Duane Lewis, Dave Bill and John Craven had two hits apiece to pace Credit Union.

The Pine Knob Rangers easily handled Higgenbotham Roofing by a 10-0 count. Mike Turk, Ben Lawrence and Kurt Richardson had two hits each for the winners, while Randy Miller, Don Foote and Ed Leichtman had two hits apiece for the Roofers.

Standings are as follows:

Jim's Jottings

by Jim Sherman

Three years ago various newsprint manufacturers in Canada were struck. It meant trying times for their customers here.

Our supplier, Abitibi wasn't struck. However, like automobile companies in Michigan, the unions pick and choose who they will hit next. We knew this and planned for the next go around.

For a long time trade publications carried the demands of labor and the stance of management. Like always, it sounded fierce and unresolvable.

Contracts expired April 1 and I thought all was resolved. At that time I had an inventory of newsprint of between 3 and 4 months. So, with no space left in the plant for storage, I cancelled June and July shipments.

Last week Abitibi had 4 of 6 newsprint plants struck. It included our source at Fort Williams, Ontario.

That was just a week after we'd contracted the Waterford Schools adult education papers which take maybe 2 weeks supply.

Right now we have 4 weeks inventory of newsprint... and after that careful planning and tying up of over $8,000 at the wrong time.

Abitibi tells us there is hope of getting print from another of their plants, but not from the usual supplier. They really expect a long period for settlement.

One thing in our favor is that other newspapers kept a closer tab to proceedings and built up huge inventories.

And, just maybe someone we helped out 3 years ago will want to return the favor.

Oh, well! We all live from crisis to crisis anyway, don't we?

Our dogs take delight in digging under one of our cedar trees so we hung some dog repellent pills on the low branches. The dogs love it.

Next year the same pill will be on the market as a dog attractant.

I'm convinced sweet corn growers do something extra each year to make their product more delicious.

James M. Perry, political writer for the National Observer, followed President Ford to Mackinac Island and wrote:

"He is honest, straightforward, open, frank, genuine, loyal, decent, kind, agreeable, friendly, respectable, and upright.

"So's my Uncle Harry. Presidents of the United States are supposed to be honest and genuine, decent and respectable."

Thank you, Mr. Perry for reminding me.

Harry Chapin Review

by Eric Mobey

Harry Chapin and his brothers, Tom and Steve, played a one-night stand at Pine Knob July 22.

Despite a number of empty seats, the audience was treated to a full performance. The listener reaction was very positive as the applause roared long and loud.

Tom Chapin opened the show with several songs from his new album, and was later joined by his brother Steve and an excellent back-up band.

Tom is the host of the Emmy award-winning children's show, "Make a Wish". He described the show as being geared for six to eleven-year-old speed freaks.

Nevertheless, "Make a Wish" is in its fifth year and Tom's singing on the show has helped to build that success.

About the time Tom and the band had the audience ripe, on walked Harry. From the very first song he took control of the excited crowd. Harry's strong husky voice and friendly stage presence contain a magnifying charisma.

Chapin is a most prolific songwriter and his songs spin tales of lonely people; frustrated disc jockies, and characters we can all relate to. It is this story-telling quality that has put Chapin in the Top Ten many times.

"Cat's in the Cradle", perhaps Chapin's most popular tune, was even more convincing when performed live, as were "W.O.L.D." and "I Wanna Learn a Love Song".

Harry Chapin has developed quite a following in the last year and his fans represent a broad cross-section of ages.

This blend was apparent among the Pine Knob audience. They were so appreciative of Chapin's performance that they gave him five standing ovations prior to the encore.

It was obvious that the Chapins were enjoying this response as they played the entire evening without a break.

Midway through the performance, Harry yielded to brother Steve, whose sensitive voice and piano were very good. Brother Tom added a country rock number called "Southern Line". It was indeed a pleasure to see three brothers share a bill and generate such talent.

Harry's last song in the regular set was "Taxi," the song that started it all for him. "Taxi" is the epitome of Harry's story-telling expertise, and in my opinion was the standout song of the performance.

The emotion-laden songs Harry Chapin performed along with his believable delivery, made his concert a memorable one.

Rotary benefit at Pine Knob

Clarkston Rotary Club is selling tickets to the Johnny Mathis concert at Pine Knob August 21, part of the proceeds to benefit the local club. The money will be used for the club's sponsorship of the Bicentennial parade next year. Tickets at $7 are available from any Rotarian, Hallman's Apothecary, Postmaster Ray Klein, Keift Engineering and the Board of Education.

They heal with their hands--and God

Alan Hinz demonstrates the required procedures for spiritual healing on his wife Beryl in the church's healing room.

by Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News

Twenty-six years ago Clarkston resident Allan Hinz was putting on his boots, and one of the tendons in his left hand ripped.

Hinz' middle finger then flopped down into his palm, and would not extend outward.

Hinz went to the doctor, who told Hinz he could either have an expensive operation to fix the tendon, or the finger could be amputated so it would not get in the way.

Hinz wouldn't accept that verdict. Someone suggested he go see spiritual healer Rev. Robert Beattie. Beattie put his hands around Hinz' damaged hand and prayed that the hand would be cured.

That night, Hinz taped up the finger. The next morning, tape off, the finger was once again able to extend normally.

When Hinz' son Lanny was four years old, he had a hernia. Again, Hinz and his wife Beryl went to the doctor. Lanny could have an operation, the doctor said, or wear a truss (a round metal support worn around the hips.)

Perhaps in a year, the doctor said, the hernia would go away.

Two weeks later, Mrs. Hinz was watching Lanny play in the truss, and said to her husband "why don't we try Rev. Beattie again?"

Lanny was taken for three treatments to the faith healer. After the third treatment, Lanny got up one morning and promptly went back to bed for four hours.

When he got up again, the lump where the hernia had been was gone--never again to reappear.

"All (Rev. Beattie) did to him was lay his hands on him--and that was it," Mrs. Hinz said.

In the year following, the Hinz' began to delve into the world of spiritualism and spiritual healing, Hinz trying it out himself.

But on January 5, 1954, the Hinz' faced the most awesome test of their new-found faith.

Homebound from a Florida vacation, the Hinz' car collided with a truck making a left-hand turn on Highway 411 near Chattanooga, Tenn.

The accident was disastrous. "Mrs. Hinz was in the back seat with (the Hinz') 7-year-old daughter, Mary Lynn. Mrs. Hinz was hurled over the front seat, through the windshield and against the back of the truck," a newspaper account said.

"Mr. Hinz was literally crushed between the seat and the steering wheel. Their son, Lanny, was thrown against the front of the car and was knocked unconscious, a gaping wound in his head."

Mr. Hinz sustained five broken ribs, a broken collar-bone and a punctured right lung.

Mrs. Hinz had compound fractures of both legs, a brain concussion, a severe cut on the forehead and an injured right hand.

Lanny received a severe head injury, a fractured arm and a fractured leg.

Mary Lynn, luckily, escaped with only a black eye.

Mrs. Hinz and Lanny were both thought dead at the scene. They were taken to a hospital in Chattanooga and lay unconscious for ten days.

Mr. Hinz was taken to a hospital in Cleveland.

The doctors said Lanny would be a vegetable the rest of his life. They said Mrs. Hinz would never walk again.

But Lanny survived intact, and Mrs. Hinz is walking.

The Hinz' attribute their survival of that accident to their new-found spiritualism.

During the recovery period, Hinz was constantly praying for his family's recovery, as were members of Spiritualist churches and other churches.

Mrs. Hinz said that during her unconscious state, her mind traveled to the side of her husband, 30 miles away--a supernatural act of transference.

Today, Allan and Beryl Hinz have expanded their own spiritualist healing experiences to include a countless number of others.

Hinz helped make the Spiritualist Church of the Good Samaritan in Clarkston a reality, and 11 years ago became its ordained minister.

The church is "just like any other church," one visitor said. Pews face what the Hinz' call the "platform," or altar. A blue cross (one Hinz said he saw in a vision before the church was even built) looms large in the back of the pulpit.

A small fountain trickles water beneath the cross.

In the back of the church, a door leads off to the "healing room." In that room is a ceiling-high statue of Jesus Christ, a rubber plant given to the church by a healed arthritic and two wooden stools facing the statue.

During Sunday evening services, those in need of healing are tended by Hinz or other licensed healers.

The healer places his hands on the shoulders of the person.

A very simple prayer to God is said.

Once, Hinz said, he was asked to cure a 10-month-old baby with a "club" foot. Two sessions later, the baby's crooked foot was straight again. And now the little girl, two years old, "walks as good as me," Hinz said.

Another time two regular members of the church brought in a friend with a large goiter on her neck.

Hinz administered to the woman, who went home and the next day vomited the goiter out--with no blood, and not even a trace of loose skin to show where the lump had been.

"We are just a channel," Mrs. Hinz explained of the phenomena. "This all comes from God. Just as if a hose is connected to a water spout--we are the hose."

Healing is one of several different psychic phenomena the Spiritualist religion delves into.

Other phenomena include spirit guidance, clairvoyance, and the trance state.

Every last Wednesday of the summer months the church holds Silver Teas, where mediums come in and give readings to members.

"The things we do in the way of psychic phenomena are all defined in the Bible," Mrs. Hinz explained.

Jesus healed the blind man, the crippled man, the lepers--and it is this type of healing that the Hinz' practice today.

"Nearly four thousand years ago, rulers healed people of their diseases by the laying on of hands," a spiritualist pamphlet reads.

But although the practice of "working miracles" in the manner of the Bible has carried over to modern times, it has not been a path of roses to follow for the Hinz' and other healers.

Hinz said a news reporter about four years ago "gave us a bad name" by blasting the Spiritualist Church.

State law has strictly regulated the practice so that healers must be licensed, and cannot make diagnoses or prescribe treatments.

Some religions, the pamphlet states, say that those who heal are doing the work of the devil.

But, Hinz relates, even the doctor who treated him after the accident believes that something other than standard medicine played a part in his cure--a cure that saw him walk out of the hospital a month before he was expected to be able to.

The Hinz' are simple doing the work of God, they said. "Jesus said 'he that believeth in Me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these he shall do,'" the Hinz' repeated often.

There's varying viewpoints to 'spiritual healing'

by Hilda Bruce
of The Clarkston News

Area physicians and clergymen have varying ideas on spiritual healing. However, it is the feeling of most of those interviewed that man can disregard neither faith nor medical science in the healing process.

Reverend Paul M. Cargo of the Clarkston United Methodist Church stated that God works through medical science, and it would be unwise to neglect medical aid.

"Man is an integrated being, the mind (faith and thought) effects the body. Thus the ministry of faith is essential", he said.

Like Reverend Cargo, Father Weingartz of St. Daniel's Catholic Church believes that faith and medical science work together for the betterment of mankind. The Catholic Church does use the laying on of hands in the Sacrament of Holy Anointing.

"Other sacraments are also healing sacraments, such as the Eucharist and Penance," he said.

He does feel that the Church has been neglectful of informing its members of the power of the renewed Rite of Holy Anointing.

"Some people do go to extremes", comments Father Weingartz. Again he stressed, "Don't neglect medical science."

He also said that St. Joseph Mercy Hospital has an office of Pastoral Healing, stressing the importance of faith to medicine.

It is Dr. Ronald LaPere's view that "people realize doctors do what they do because someone gave them the power to do it." Also he feels that "the faith of a patient in his physician is essential to that patient."

Dr. James O'Neill stated, "In the strict sense it is God who heals, not the doctor. The instructions, medications and surgical procedures of doctors aid the patient in his recovery."

"A broken bone will not heal just by someone believing it will", he commented. He continued, "Most illnesses are self-limiting. The patient will either recover or die. No one is more aware of the limitations of the ability of doctors, the use of drugs and other procedures than the doctor himself".

He also stated that many illnesses go into remission by themselves; it is their nature. "Medicine is an art, not a science," he stressed.

He stated that approximately 85 percent of the different signs and symptoms of a physical nature are psychological. "If the symptom's can't be stopped, depression results. Self discipline, positive thinking and a good self image are the healthy person's attributes."

"Faith healers are positive people. They have usually managed to come through some tragic or trying experience by themselves and realize that others can help themselves too."

"No one has time to talk or to listen," he said. "Patients need intelligent discussion of their illness, even if there is nothing the physician can do. People need someone to care."

Lewises a busy, young family

COUNTRY LIVING

by Hilda Bruce

of The Clarkston News

The Lewis's first child, a son Christopher, is the newest swimmer in the family. At three months he "enjoys the water if it's hot", says his mother, Rosemary. Matter of factly she states, "He starts swimming lessons at the Y in September." With a backyard pool it's probably a good idea.

Duane and Rosemary wanted a home on a lake when they came to Clarkston from Ohio. They settled for a house with character and added the pool last summer.

Their poolside entertaining usually includes a paella party. Since being introduced to paella at a family gathering they have made it a summer tradition. "We've never cooked it inside. That's why it's a summer tradition", laughs Rosemary, who also liked to cook Italian food.

Besides cooking, the Lewises enjoy antiques. Their greatest find is the original Jenny Lind Crib for Christopher. "It didn't cost as much as a new crib would have", Rosemary says amazed, pleased at their good fortune.

A rocker, child size, found in an uncle's cornfield complements the crib. "It was well weathered", shudders Rosemary, "and needed a great deal of reconditioning."

Whinnie-the-Pooh and Tigger prance around the nursery walls. Duane and his sister-in-law quickly decorated the room when Christopher arrived early in April. Rosemary's sister added her touch with a needlepoint lion and the bunny painting was contributed by Shelley Conners.

The brass bed in the master bedroom almost got away. "We found it at an auction in Ohio. The sale was Monday. We had to leave on Sunday. But my grandfather went to the sale and bid on it for us." Rosemary said with relief.

Many of their antiques are family pieces like the covered soap dish, washbowl and pitcher that belonged to Rosemary's grandmother. Others came from friends' garages and basements, such as the kitchen cupboard that serves as storage space in the family room.

Lewises interest in antiques led to collections of rug beaters and bottle openers. Five years ago Rosemary began collecting the rug beaters. She now had 15, 13 of which are different in design.

"The shapes are interesting. They look pretty on the wall. I'm glad I don't have to use them," she laughs. She has her eye on three more but is debating the price.

When friends visited Europe she asked them to watch for a rug beater. Her "European Rug Beater" is actually a woven straw flyswatter.

Duane's collection is getting expensive. More people are now collecting bottle openers. At the last show they attended, an alligator shaped opener was priced at $45. "It was a very unusual piece!" emphasized Rosemary.

It's the fun of getting a good deal that seems to intrigue the Lewis's. Although they like antiques their decor is eclectic. "We like a mixture", said Rosemary indicating the very modernistic painting above the family room couch. It was done by a friend, Bruce Scharfenberg, an up and coming artist.

Nearly unexplainable, it was painted in acrylic automobile paint on a chalk board then buffed to a high sheen. "He's doing one for the living room for us", she relates somewhat anxiously. He also contributed a fantasy dragon to the nursery. It hangs above the crib emphasizing the Lewis's appreciation of old and new alike.

The Lewises enjoy art and crafts shows, but most of their art pieces were done by friends and acquaintances. An exception is the mushroom grouping made of Petosky stones found at the art fair in Saugatuck. Their attendance at the fair is another of their annual traditions.

Duane, assistant principal at Clarkston Junior High School, doesn't have much time for outside activities. He's presently attending classes for his EDS degree. But sometime between classes and school functions, he managed to remodel the bathroom.

He added a vanity, new flooring, ceramic tile. Rosemary then took over the decorating. The shutter inserts she made from unbleached muslin and paint. Plants, an oil of flowers and a needlepointed flower arrangement add a colorful touch.

"I'm a dabbler", quips Rosemary. Her plants hang from her own macramaed cords, from the ceiling and also from the stand of an antique ashtray. The pots of the latter are conductors turned upside down.

Her weaving is found throughout the house and she made the curtains for the kitchen and bedroom - the latter named the Blue Room, the Red Room and the Green Room, so we'd know which room we were talking about", she laughed.

She also does artsy things like making her own Christmas cards. "If I have time", she sighs as if there is never enough time to do all the things she's like. She is a teacher at Clarkston Elementary School.

Despite the fact that their interests must be fitted around the schedule of events of two schools, they do find time to indulge them. Trips to the Eastern Market are not only enjoyable but also supplement the Lewises vegetable garden harvest. It is there that Rosemary buys much that she cans and freezes.

Duane is interested in service organizations but doesn't have time for more than the professional organizations he belongs to. Rosemary is active in the American Association for University Women.

Rosemary checks out part of the cold weather entertainment area, the family room bar.

The opening from kitchen to family room was originally a window to the outside.

Family room corner displays part of Rosemary's rug beater collection and plants.

Christopher enjoys being rocked

Swedish Air Cadets here in Independence

Clarkston area families are playing host this week to 10 Swedish air cadets, while an Independence Township youth is abroad representing Michigan in the International Air Cadet Exchange sponsored by the Civil Air Patrol.

Cadet/Major William F. Hagen, son of Thomas Hagen, 6536 Cranberry Lake, left July 15 for Washington, D.C. and Rhein-Main, Germany. He was bound for Great Britain, where he was to visit industrial plants, aviation and aerospace centers and other points of interest.

He also will spend time with local families and young people to become acquainted with their ways of life before returning home about Aug. 8.

Meanwhile, Clarkston is the last stop on a two-week visit to Michigan by 10 youthful goodwill ambassadors from Sweden, where they are members of an organization similar to CAP.

They are being accompanied on tours in the area by families of cadets in the Clarkston Composite Squadron CAP and by senior CAP members. Their schedule left some time for them to enjoy the recreational facilities offered by Oakland County's lakes.

Tuesday evening, the Swedish guests were introduced to the American pot-luck supper, when CAP members from Clarkston, Walled Lake and Waterford Units attended a dinner in their honor at the home of Oakland County Group Commander Lt. Col. Clifford Moore, 6650 Amy.

Host families in the Clarkston area include the Moores, Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Debniak, 6701 Amy;

Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Hoopingarner, 6416 Church; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Maierle, 8220 Reese; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Palmiter, 6560 Cranberry Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. James Saile, 6290 S. Main.

The Clarkston unit has been represented by Cadet Hagen, 19, at other special activities. A member of the squadron since 1969, he has received the Earhart Award. Hagen, who graduated from Clarkston High School in 1974, will be a sophomore at Michigan State University this fall.

More homes sought for exchange students

Township Clerk Bob Lay is hoping three more families in the Clarkston area will open their homes to foreign exchange students during the coming school year.

The exchange program, promoted by the Bicentennial Commission, is designed to create further understanding among countries, and Lay reports a local family has already been found to accept a French student.

The commission now has the opportunity to sponsor a German boy of high school age, one with a musical background and proficient at the piano and organ. A musically inclined family would be ideal, he feels.

A Philippino youth, aged 17, might be best placed with a Rotary family, Lay thinks. The lad's father was president of his Naga City Rotary Club and his mother was president of that city's Rotary Anns.

Another student from Greece is also available, Lay said.

If you believe you could provide a warm home for these young people, he hopes you will call him at the township offices, 625-5111.

Real estate company faulted for attempted sale

Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals has advised Earl A. Rumpz to get his $45 hearing fee back from Bloch Brothers' Real Estate.

Rumpz said he and his brother have options to purchase two small adjoining lots at Paramus and Delmonico, and that they each hoped to build homes on the property.

One lot is less than 8,000 square feet and the other 12,093 square feet. The Independence Township Zoning ordinance calls for a minimum lot size of 15,000 square feet, however the building department has the right to issue building permits on lots of record if they are 80 percent of that size.

The board, in denying the request, cited that portion of the ordinance reading that two abutting lots under the same ownership shall be considered as a single lot of record. It had been pointed out that the owner is the same for both parcels.

"What this means," said chairman Robert Kraud, "is that the guy who owns them can't sell them to you as building sites." Vice chairman Mel Vaara added, "You'd better get your $45 back from Bloch Brothers. They are familiar with the ordinance, because we've had similar applications on land they've handled in the past."

In other business, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoskin who hoped to operate a nursery business on residential property along M-15 near Oakhill Road were told they have to increase their less than five acres to ten before the ordinance would permit such activity.

Their request, first heard two weeks previously, was denied on the basis that a nursery is not within the definition of a home occupation, that the sale of produce on the premises would be a commercial venture, and that any kind of stand erected on the property would create a traffic hazard.

Also denied was the request of Mrs. Winifred Beach, who operates a Standard Oil fuel oil service on M-15, to drop restrictions imposed by the board in 1973 when it gave her permission to increase underground storage by 60,000 gallons. The property is in a commercial zone, while fuel oil storage is contained in a major industrial classification. Mrs. Beach said the restrictions imposed about not increasing the volume of her business or letting the tanks remain were the ownership of the business to change hands were impossible to live with and would restrict the sale of the business.

She said she had never installed the additional storage, using instead above-ground tanks on White Lake Road to see her through the oil shortage. She added that restrictions against above-ground storage made it necessary to look for more underground storage.

The board said it did not have the power to increase a non-conforming use and advised her to petition the planning commission if she would like to have zoning changed, or to see if fuel storage could be removed from the industrial to a commercial classification.

Two variances were approved. Neil McKinstry of 5450 Whipple Lake Road was allowed to proceed with construction of a cow barn, and David S. Cartier of 9480 Sashabaw Road was allowed to proceed with enlargement of his home.

Village wants feedback on new band

HEALTH HINTS
BY Keith Hallman, R. Ph.

Properly used, drugs are among the greatest of boons to mankind. But there is a growing careless or indiscriminate abuse of drugs, which are being used for reasons (or under conditions) no health professional could approve of. Learn all about drugs and their potential for abuse.

The Clarkston Village Council wants to hear from village residents before it okays an additional $1,500 allocation to the newly formed village band.

A motion to allocate the funds for continuance of the band this summer was defeated 3-2, those voting against expressing the desire to hear some feedback from residents about the new band.

Trustees Michael Thayer, Kathleen McCall and Ruth Basinger indicated they wanted to wait to see if the new band was indeed welcomed by the community.

The question of what the original $2,000 allocation to the band was spent for was also brought up.

President Pro-Tem Neil Granlund said he wasn't sure exactly where the money was going, but explained that $500 of the $2,000 was spent by band director Doug Doty on music.

The 38 band members also receive $7 a concert, he said. Doty told Granlund that there was enough money left in the original allocation for two or three more concerts.

Anyone wishing to express their viewpoints on the band should contact or write the Clarkston Village Hall.

Springfield's population jumps 31 per cent

Springfield Township's population jumped 31 percent between 1970 and 1974 while Independence Township's rose 10.2 percent and the village of Clarkston's 2.5 percent.

However, the boost in the numbers of persons living in each of the communities was greatest in Independence Township, according to figures recently released by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, (SEMCOG).

The population comparisons were made between April 1, 1970 and July 1, 1974.

Between those dates, Springfield Township gained 1,362 residents, according to SEMCOG, taking the township's population from 4,388 to 5,750. The 1,673-person increase in Independence Township increased that community's population from 16,327 to 18,000.

In Clarkston, the figure rose 26--from 1,034 to 1,060.

While the village was described as having "little change," the two townships fell into the "moderate increase" category of under 5,000. Oakland County Townships with greater relative population changes during the first four years of the decade included Brandon, Groveland, Rose, Highland and Novi.

The report also listed the changes in numbers of dwelling units. Springfield Township reported a 464-unit increase, from 1,196 to 1,660 for 38.8 percent. In Independence Township, the 788 new dwelling units took the total from 4,212 to 5,000, marking an 18.7 percent increase. In Clarkston, the increase was 12.1 percent--from 348 to 390 units.

Springfield gets $36,700

Springfield Township has been allocated an additional $36,755 in federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds, which are grants to hire the unemployed.

Springfield's CETA funds, $55,901, were due to run out in February, but with the new allocation, the CETA program could run until June 30, according to Springfield Township supervisor Donald Rogers.

The additional funds might also be used to hire a full-time assessor for the township, Rogers said.

The township must take application for the funds to Oakland County by Monday, and Rogers will have to call an executive meeting of the township board to find out whether it wants to accept the funds.

The Federal Housing Administration, through which many people find financing for their homes, deals only with lending institutions. You must go to your bank first, either directly, or through your real estate professional. For a small fee you can get an appraisal of the house you intend to buy. The big advantage of F.H.A. home financing is the low down payment-maximum of mortgage feature. On houses up to $15,000 in price, only three percent down-payment money is required, and the lending bank will be insured against loss up to 97 percent.

The real estate professionals at BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., 625-5821 can help you with all the details involved in buying and selling real estate including financing. Serving the area's real estate needs for 28 years, we invite you to call us first with your listing for extensive exposure to qualified buyers through MLS. Hours: 9-9 Mon-Thur; 9-6 Fri, Sat; 1-5 Sun.

A child's blue denim purse was found Wednesday night during Clarkston's Farmers Market on the wood chips surrounding the parking lot facing the film screen. Mrs. Judy Koenig, the finder, says a family was sitting on the curb prior to her discovery of the purse. It is now in The Clarkston News office.

If the Longhorn Rodeo due next month at Springfield-Oaks is not a success, it's the intention of the County Parks and Recreation Commission to cancel future performances.

As a result, members of the commission are promoting it heavily. Said Commissioner James Dunleavy, "It's one of the finest rodeo's I've attended, better than one I saw in Dallas."

The fact that it can be performed out-of-doors at Springfield as opposed to inside shows most often offered is seen as a big plus for the entertainment.

Tuson Builders have turned over a labor dispute involving construction of 22 apartments at Chalet Villa on Andersonville Road to the National Labor Relations Board.

That board is seeking an injunction against Carpenter's local 998. The carpenter's union staged a picket line in front of the Tuson construction site last week in protest to the company using non-union carpenters.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Sevegney Jr. of 296 White Lake Road, report that there may be a group of thieves operating in their neighborhood.

Mrs. Sevegney said her home was robbed between 4:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. last Friday night. Thieves took $1900 worth of belongings from the new Clarkston residents, including a stereo, shotgun, two cameras, a tape recorder and records.

Monday, Mrs. Sevegney said, her husband was talking to some boys in the neighborhood, and found that four of them said their homes had been burglarized, also.

One of the boys said he saw the burglars in his home, went to a neighbor's and called the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

The boy said the sheriff's department never responded to the call. The thieves left the boy's home and then came back, the boy told Sevegney.

"If the sheriff's department had responded to the call," Mrs. Sevegney said, "they would have caught the robbers."

The Sevegneys are going to check out the stories, and hope maybe this time the sheriff's department will listen to them.

Gene Komarynski, land director of Occidental Development Co., informs us his company hopes to have models open for viewing this fall on its projected 243 home development in the Sashabaw-Maybee area.

Komarynski also adds the project still needs final plat approval; what it has is final preliminary plat approval and underground work is ready to go forward on that basis.

Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals in January of 1974 granted the company the right to cluster the homes, saving segments of the property for public use. Komarynski says however, that none of the individual lots will be smaller than 11,000 square feet.

Chances appear dim for any Land and Water Conservation Funds to help with the development and acquisition of land at Independence Oaks Park.

County Parks and Recreation Commission Director Eric Reichel informed the commission Friday he'd been notified that there are 334 such applications involving $22 million in projects and there's only $3 million available.

The Independence park had hoped for $200,000 to complete the second phase (or day use facilities) of the park as well as funds to help purchase part of the Ted Gray property and that land along the Clinton River which joins the county park with the new township park off Clarkston Road.

The Clarkston Village Council has voted to apply for an additional $8,776 in Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds.

The additional federal funds for the unemployed will help extend the date six Clarkston CETA workers can work until mid-March or the end of March, instead of February.

To date, the village has received CETA grants of $70,000.

***

Plans are moving ahead for the visit of 55 Special Olympics athletes to Clarkston August 10.

The Clarkston Jaycees have arranged to have the Kansas athletes dine at Pine Knob for lunch, and have arranged for a trip to Greenfield Village. Fifty-five gallons of gas will be donated for the buses to Clarkston for the trip to Dearborn by Total Oil Co.

Use of the buses was donated by the Clarkston School District, and bus drivers are being rounded up for volunteer duty.

A dinner will be held at the Clarkston United Methodist Church with State Rep. Claude Trim acting as guest speaker.

Rawley Hallman and his Barbershop Quartet will entertain during dinner.

The Jaycees are looking for donations from groups and individuals to offset the cost of the dinner and the Greenfield Village admission charge.

Lunch at Pine Knob has been donated by McDonald's.

Some of the Jaycees and their wives will be traveling to Mt. Pleasant for the Special Olympics August 9 to meet the Kansas delegation.

The Bicentennial Village proposed for Springfield-Oaks Park has also received a setback. The project has been dropped, mainly because a presentation was never made, by Bicentennial grant funding reviewers.

***

The Clarkston Area Jaycees are looking for interested groups or individuals who would like to sponsor some kind of activity during the annual Clarkston Village Days, Labor Day weekend.

"We really want to get the community involved," Chairman of the Event, Jim Brueck, said.

Those interested can call him at 625-5371.

***

Special summer property tax payment provisions for senior citizens, disabled veterans, servicemen, widows of veterans, the blind, paraplegic and quadriplegics have changed in Clarkston this year.

Instead of applying for an advance rebate on their income tax, those eligible can have their property tax payment deadline deferred until February 15, 1976.

The normal deadline would be September 1.

Those who wish to apply can pick up applications at the Clarkston Village Hall on Main Street.

***

The Clarkston Village Council has voted to put $40,000 in sewer revenues into a short-term savings investment. Sewer revenues will more than cover the next sewer payment in October, Village Treasurer Art Pappas said, and the $40,000 isn't needed for the time it would be invested.

Fern Wertman of Glenburnie was 90 years old Sunday. So the beauticians at Pat's Beauty Salon gathered together Friday to honor one of their favorite customers with a birthday celebration. Mrs. Wertman "threw up her hands," when she found out the birthday party included a picture.

Senior citizen members of the Pioneer Club gathered at the Clarkston United Methodist Church for their monthly meeting on July 24th.

A buffet lunch was served at noon, followed by a business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Adesta Glick.

Member Richard Peters presented a chalk-talk relating to several timely topics. The next meeting will be held on August 28 and will feature a "Show and Tell" presentation.

Richard B. Shelton, son of former Clarkston resident Dorothy and Don Sheldon has been promoted to superintendent of oil movements, Operations Division, of the Sugar Creek Refinery, AMOCO, in Kansas City, Mo.

Sheldon, a graduate of the University of Michigan, served formerly as a buyer in the Chicago Purchasing Department.

He plans on living in the Independence, Mo. area with his wife Marilyn and two children.

Lorraine Susan Whetsel of 9879 Klais has been selected to be included in the 1975 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Lorraine and other women across the United States are chosen by clubs and women's organizations for their outstanding achievements in their chosen professions and civic activities.

Lorraine and other nominees are now being considered for further state and national awards. One from each state will be chosen outstanding woman of the year. Out of those 10 outstanding women of America for 1975 will be selected.

Davisburg Joggers will meet for a potluck dinner August 2 at Springfield Township Hall. Officers will be elected for the coming year.

A flag hand-knitted by Joyce Bailey of 5490 Console will be shown by crafts show host Carol Duvall on her program July 30 at 9:55 a.m. on Channel 4.

Carol hand-knitted an original Betsy Ross flag, which won a second place in a hobby show of the Spring Rally of the Airstream Caravan Club.

An avid club member, Joyce got the idea for making the flag because she knew the club was going to be meeting at an international rally June 28 - July 4 in Brandon, Manitoba.

Carol has sent the flag as a gift to the new international president of the Airstream Club.

She will make more flags for anyone interested. Contact her at 623-0392.

The North Oakland Civitan Club is beginning to collect old sports equipment for their October 11 fall sports sale. Anyone with old skis, skates, sleds, golf clubs or any other old sports things can drop them off at independence center, 5331 Maybee Road.

The sale will be held at the center. Those donating can affix their own price tag to the item, and will receive back 75 percent of that price. The other 25 percent will go to the Civitan Club, which will in turn donate the money to charity.

Speaking of the Civitan Club, members Norm Daniels, Bill Kunz, Bob Gillis and John Dumas, all of Clarkston, will be heading up to Mount Pleasant August 9 to help out with Special Olympics. The club will also be helping the Clarkston Jaycees welcome a special delegation from the Olympics August 10.

Nearly 90 friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the Errol Solleys of Hadley Road for the Solley's second annual lamb roast Sunday. Besides indulging in a great deal of eating, the guests played softball, baseball, badminton and volleyball.

Michael Allan Jacks, a Central Michigan University junior, is a member of the Summer Repertory Theatre in the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts there. The company will do "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers," "Wait Until Dark," and "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" this summer. Jacks, a member of the technical production crew, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Jacks, 10575 Clark Road, Davisburg. He is a graduate of Clarkston High School.

Jill Brown, of 4857 Waldon Road, celebrated her 18th birthday July 30 with a pig roast and a night out.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Odell of 57 Fernbarry in Waterford Township celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Thursday, July 24. The Odells were married in St. Louis, Ill. in 1925 and have lived in the Clarkston area since 1927. They have two children, 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Jim and Jim went to Canyon Lake in Mecosta, Mich. for a bit of camping, fishing and hiking.

Jim's brother John got to go with his Dad on a similar trip last month when it was John's sixth birthday. So this time it was Jim Jr.'s turn to trek off with old Dad into the wilds.

A surprise party welcomed in Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Craft's 25th year of marriage July 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jahnke, Mr. and Mrs. William Bildstein and Steve Craft threw the party for the Crafts at the Green Lakes Community Building.

Pastor Robert Walters helped Marilyn and Ken re-speak their wedding vows in front of 50 close friends and relatives, including people from Indiana, Saginaw, Alma and Roseville.

The Crafts' anniversary was Tuesday.

A correction on the classes being held at the Calvary Lutheran Church for vacation bible school August 4 through 8. The classes will be held for children four years through eighth grade.

The theme for the bible school is "Followers of Jesus." Registration forms are available at the church, 6805 Bluegrass.

Laurel Little, a 1972 Clarkston High School graduate, and her sister Leslie, a 1974 CHS graduate were recently named to the Dean's List at Northern Michigan University.

Laurel had a 3.5 grade point average and Leslie a 3.25. Both received academic scholarships for the coming year.

Tipacon Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association meet for dinner August 6 at the Oxford Hills Golf and Country Club, Draher Road, Oxford.

Jack Featherston, Pontiac Postmaster, will be guest speaker.

Mary Newton, an employee of the Oakland County Clerk's office, will be the vocational speaker.

Calvary Lutheran Pastor Robert Walters christened his new backyard patio area with a party celebrating his 40th birthday last week. Approximately 20 couples were in attendance to "see him over the hill."

Probably the greatest gag gift of all was a set of disreputable handballs which could give Bob a perfectly legitimate excuse for a poor game.

Mary Jean Head, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerle H. Head, Clinton Drive, received her nursing cap in graduation ceremonies Sunday from Mercy Center, Farmington, Michigan. She trained at Mercy School of Nursing in Detroit.

It's sample sale time at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 6490 Clarkston Road. Pat Nasi [left], secretary of the Episcopal Church Women and Carreen Gilbert, president of that organization, were busy admiring some of the clothes that will be on sale at the church August 1 and 2. Friday the sale will begin at noon and last until 9 p.m., Saturday the sale will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Heritage days at Seymour Lake Church

Seymour Lake United Methodist Church will be holding its first summer fellowship heritage days August 15 and 16 at the Brandon Township Fire Station 2, located on Sashabaw Road near Seymour Lake Road.

The heritage days are an offshoot of the church's centennial celebration, and will include an ice cream social, square dance and a Saturday luncheon.

Festivities will kick off August 15 at 6:30 p.m. with the ice cream social. Tickets for the social are 50 cents apiece.

Following the social a square dance will be held.

At noon on Saturday, August 16, the church will hold a luncheon. Tickets for the dinner are $3 for adults and $1.50 for children 6 years and under.

A program will follow the luncheon. Jim Theodore of the First Methodist Church of Mt. Morris, Mich., will be guest speaker. Morris is a teacher and leader in the Spiritual Life Mission.

Children are welcome at all the festivities.

The Church plans on making the heritage an annual event.

Spiritual Message

"The apostles said to the Lord, 'Increase our faith,' and he answered:

"If you had faith the size of a mustard seed, you could say to this sycamore, 'Be uprooted and transplanted into the sea,' and it would obey you.

[Luke 17:5-7]

THE POWER OF FAITH

In the Gospel, Jesus says to his Apostles: "If you had faith the size of a mustard seed, you could say to this sycamore, 'Be uprooted and transported into the sea,' and it would obey you." These words tell us that faith is the greatest force in the world. Remember that it was the custom of the East to use language in the most vivid possible way and so there is a bit of exaggeration here for the sake of emphasis. This saying means that even that which seems completely impossible, becomes possible, if it is approached with faith. Faith is a great power. Faith is a dynamic force. It gives us the ability to do. It gives us the ability to accept. It gives us the ability to bear.

Just think of the recent scientific marvels, heart transplant, sending a man to the moon. Fifty years ago these accomplishments were considered impossible. Whenever we approach a thing, saying, 'It can't be done,' it will never be done. If we approach it saying 'It must be done,' the chances are that it will be done. We should always remember that we come to no task alone but with it there is God and the power of faith. Remember the book, 'The Song of Bernadette.' In the front of the book are these words: "To those who believe, all things are possible. To those who do not believe, nothing is possible." We all want to have this great force in our life-faith, and so we pray with the Apostles in the Gospel: "Lord, increase our faith."
