School to look into rec program

by Mary Warner

The Clarkston School Board has requested its school administration to look into possible 'improvements of services and communications' with the Independence Township Recreation Department.

Trustee Albert Foster moved that the "board request from the administration a report—guiding within our realm, improvement of services and communication with the recreation department, and positive suggestions on methods to improve the image some people believe the school board should contribute to recreation in this community."

Foster made the motion after reading a lengthy statement listing concerns he has heard from citizens about the program. Some of those concerns includ-

cluded:

- Exorbitant fees.
- Announced programs which never exist.
- Inconsistent rules
- Poor Planning and Carrying out programs.
- Poor communication and carrying out programs
- Poor communication, cancelling of scheduled events without notification
- Lack of communication and last minute planning and preparation
- Inability to reach Mr. Doyle (Timothy Doyle, Independence Township parks and recreation director) or his new assistant during normal hours
- No improvement of facilities and equipment. Profits of fun day go into a general recreation budget, instead of baseball improvement as advertised
- Gross feather-bedding of staff

Foster said many of those problems listed were township government problems, but "board members must realize this necessary recreation must use school facilities, equipment and transportation to assist—and that 80 percent of all the programs utilize our properties."

Foster went on to explain some of the grievances, stating that the fees for the baseball program have risen 500 percent in the four years the program has been in operation.

He also said no accounting was ever made of profit earned in the annual fun days put on as part of the Little League program. Foster also cited an incident concerning a profit-making football clinic that was planned by the recreation department without notifying school officials, and an incident involving use of school buses when two buses were allocated to the recreation department for use in programs upon the recreation department's request and then four were later requested.

The biggest complaint goes in conjunction with the fees charged," Foster said.

"That is, all chiefs and few Indians. Many, many people feel too much of the recreation staff have become directors, assistant directors and assistant to the assistants, thus much of the budget and player fees are not going to support each program."

"Actually, what I am attempting to say is the citizens are being charged what I feel are exorbitant fees for use of school properties, probably on a "pay as you go" basis."

"We need a dollar of recreation for a dollar spent."

Trustee Fernando Sanchez replied to Foster's written statement by saying "I feel like Mr. Foster does."

"Since there's been bad press relations with little league ball, which program I am in favor of, and we've had a director (of the recreation department) that seems to have the ability to get suspended each year and still maintain his job... I think somebody from the school can give it (the program) a more positive attitude."

Wayne Vieregiver, a township resident who said he was involved in the effort to form a new recreation commission, told the board at its Monday meeting that "I've been told (by Doyle) that he's had a complete lack of cooperation from the board for use of facilities—he's had to cancel some classes because some school functions came up..."

Vieregiver said he disagrees with the charge of high fees, saying Bloomfield Township charges $22 per person, compared to the $6 in Independence.

"If you're going to make this kind of report," he told Foster, "more facts should be presented."

Assistant Superintendent Milford Mason disputed the facts reportedly given to Vieregiver by Doyle, saying "90 percent of what you said is not true."

But Mason declined to delve further into the problem, even though he said he could "go on for six hours," because he thought the problem was best handled at the township level.

"I've been living with this thing for five years," Board president David Leak told the board. "I've been appalled at the lack of proper plans by Doyle—plans that are not plans, but last-minute emergencies."

Leak said, though, that it was the board's responsibility to determine if the recreation department can use school facilities, but not within its jurisdiction to control problems in the recreation department.

The Independence Firefighters were busy Monday at the Millpond practicing for their annual Labor Day water fight. The Clarkston Village Days will be held in conjunction with Labor Day festivities.

Sidewalk sales planned for Village Days

The public can be merchants as well as customers during this year's Village Days in Clarkston.

An open invitation is being extended by the Village Business Association for folks to sell produce, crafts and "white elephants" on the sidewalks downtown Aug. 29 and 30.

Those interested in participating can contact association secretary Kathy Roberts at 625-8453. There will be no overhead charge for those who set up booths for the event.

Downtown merchants also will have sidewalk sales during Village Days. The sales will be held from 5-9 p.m. Friday, Aug. 29 and noon-9 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 30.

Other plans for Village Days include an all-you-can-eat pancake breakfast, served by Independence Township Fire Association members from 7-9:30 a.m. Labor Day, Sept. 1 at Station No. 1 on Church Street.

All proceeds from the breakfast will be donated to the muscular dystrophy fund.

Contract negotiations stalled

Teacher contract negotiations for the Clarkston School District have reached an impasse, and the Clarkston Education Association (CEA) has called in a mediator, according to administration and CEA negotiators.

CEA negotiator Larry Rosso told the Clarkston School Board Monday that Leon Cornfield of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission was called in, but could offer no immediate help with the negotiations.

Cornfield said negotiations were not close enough to the deadline, Rosso said, but Cornfield "thought there were matters that could be resolved without him."

The negotiating teams have not met since July 15, according to George Barrie, chief negotiator for the administration.

At that meeting, some progress was made in the area of personal business days, Barrie said, but other than that, "we reached an impasse."

The CEA team has been hampered by the loss of vacationing members, Rosso said, "but we're willing to begin negotiating any time with a makeshift bargaining team."

Chief CEA negotiator Keith

Conklin will not be available to attend until after August 17, though, he said.

Both Rosso and Barrie declined to say what specific issues were stalling the negotiations, Rosso saying only "there are some issues hanging us up."

"I think there's been progress, but it's been dwindling down to a trickle," he said.

The school board set the official opening date for school for September 2.

That gives negotiators 21 calendar days from Tuesday to come up with a contract.

Clarkston Band funding approved

An additional $1300 has been granted to the Clarkston Village Band to allow three more Wednesday night concerts this summer.

Band Director Doug Doty asked the Village Council for the money Monday night. The Council noted that several letters of support for the band had been received.

Last week the band members had voted to continue their efforts even if no additional monies were granted, Doty said.

Clarkston schools code of conduct revised

The Clarkston School Board has adopted changes in its student code of conduct involving smoking in school and suspension procedures.

The board added the sentence "smoking is not permitted except in such designated areas which are in compliance with the law."

There was no mention made in the old code on allowing smoking—thus the addition.

Students in the high school are allowed to smoke in the main foyer by the gymnasium, but the junior highs allow no smoking.

The school district is thus in compliance with current laws concerning smoking in schools, according to Gus Birtsas, Sashabaw Junior High principal.

The sentence "the pupil will have the right to present to the school administrator any relevant information that will support his defense," under "Suspension Procedures," was changed.

The sentence will now read "the pupil will have the right to present to the school administrator 'his side of the story'."

The change in that sentence was advised in a handbook provided by the Oakland County Prosecutor Brooks Patterson.

School administrators attended a symposium Patterson gave on student rights, due process, etc. which is why a study commission was set up in Clarkston to update the code.

The third change was made in another section of suspension procedures. That change outlines more clearly the student's right to due process, listing specific steps he can take when disciplinary action has been taken against him.

Compiled laws aid townships

Springfield and Independence Townships, along with most other townships in the state, might not have to rely so heavily on their attorneys for information about Michigan Laws, according to State Rep. Claude Trim, (D-Davisburg.)

Trim presented five volumes of Michigan's compiled laws to both Independdence and Springfield Townships last week.

The books have an index allowing easier access to laws under general titles, such as election laws, etc.

"Before," Trim told members of the Springfield Township Board last Wednesday, "we always had to go back and find out what year the law was put into effect. It was a job for the townships, and a job for the representatives, too. Naturally, when something takes time for we representatives we try and find an easier way of doing it."

So, Trim said, the legislature had the compiled laws put together and indexed.

The books are a little late in coming—Trim said last year he'd have them to the townships by winter

High speed boating banned

High speed boating or water skiing will no longer be allowed on Parke Lake. The Clarkston Village Council approved the ordinance restricting such activities on Parke Lake at the regular meeting Monday night.

The ordinance was recommended by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources as a result of two public hearings held this past winter.

Besides water skiing, no-towing by boat of water sleds, kites, or surfboards will be allowed on the lake.

Since part of Parke Lake is located within Independence Township, the township board must also approve the ordinance.

Law affects building restoration

Statute's goal is to help handicapped citizens

By Pat Braunagel

A state law aimed at making the future a little brighter for Michigan's handicapped citizens could have a profound effect on Clarkston's past — at least the part of it retained in the village's old downtown buildings.

Officials, property owners and citizens interested in restoration of Clarkston's buildings are taking long, hard looks at the Barrier-Free Design Law and its ramifications.

Several have been particularly concerned about the building

John Powe wants to restore at 59 S. Main, feeling his case could have been a precedent-setting one.

By Tuesday, Independence Township Building Inspector Kenneth Delbridge had decided to authorize a building permit for Powe's proposed work. He was confident, he said, that the project fell under the minimum requirements of the law.

"A person remodeling any building to which the public has access has to comply with the Barrier-Free Design Law if the remodeling exceeds 50 percent of the area that's involved," Delbridge said. The work at the Powe building will involve about 30 percent of the usable floor space, Delbridge said.

Powe, like others interested in maintaining the Victorian-era character of downtown Clarkston, emphasized the distinction between renovating and restoration.

One of the major expenses involved in meeting the requirements of the new state law is installation of an elevator in a building of more than one story. Not only would this add an estimated $20,000 to the cost of any work, it might also be an impossible construction feat in a building not designed to support elevators.

Noting that township officials have worked with him "100 percent" in trying to solve his problems, Powe said, "I'm very sympathetic with the law. I understand why it was written. But I don't think it should apply to old buildings."

Having broader community implications is how the law will affect any possible conversion of the old Methodist Church at Buffalo and Church into a community building.

Buck Kopietz, vice president and governmental affairs director of the Village Business Association, expressed concern about saving any of the downtown buildings if they are to be restored or the use changed.

Only chain stores would have the kind of money it would take to comply with the restrictions of the law, and they are not about to move into old buildings, he commented.

Delbridge and State Rep. Claude Trim, D - Springfield Township, were to go to Lansing Thursday to check on various aspects of the code.

"We're going to the state code commission for the purpose of getting some questions answered that have come into our office," Delbridge said. "Some areas of the law are vague."

Independence Township became affected by the law when it adopted a uniform building code last year as required by state statute.

"Along with it came the state Barrier-Free Design Code for the physically handicapped," Delbridge said. "It includes provisions for ramps, elevators and special other facilities for the handicapped — not just those in wheel chairs, but with eye, ear or speech handicaps."

"At first everyone took a very negative position to the law," Delbridge noted. "But look at it from the viewpoint of the guy who didn't want to be sent to Vietnam and was and had his legs blown off and is going to spend the rest of his life in a wheelchair."

"I disagree with some areas of it, but I do agree with the intent of it. The minority should have some protection. However, I believe there are areas of the law that can be altered to be workable for existing buildings."

Delbridge noted that if he doesn't enforce the law he is personally guilty of a misdemeanor.

"I'm going to Lansing to find out how I can intelligently enforce it," he said. "There's no doubt in my mind it's going to put some restrictions on what's done here ... but I don't think the law as it stands is going to destroy Clarkston."

John Powe sits before Main Street building he now has a permit to restore.

Study session set for school additions

An executive study session will be held by the Clarkston School Board August 25 to discuss proposed media centers and all-purpose rooms for Clarkston-area elementaries.

The board chose not to decide at its Monday meeting whether or not it should appoint a citizens' committee to discuss the proposal.

Several board members were in favor of appointing a citizens' committee, while others felt financial data should be secured for such a proposal before any committee was formed.

Some questions were raised about the purpose of such a citizens' committee, Dr. L. F. Greene, superintendent of schools saying there could be two types of committees.

One type, he said, would get citizens involved in researching a concept that has already been arrived at, and another type of committee would start from scratch and come up with some recommendations that the board should be expected to adhere to.

Trustee Carolyn Place said she felt it had already been established that citizen input was favorable toward the addition of media centers and all-purpose rooms.

But trustee Janet Thomas disagreed, saying the question of whether or not such additions to the schools were needed should be researched and brought before the people to see if they would support a millage to pay for the additions.

If it was found the people could or would not support such a millage, Mrs. Thomas said, then the committee could look into possible alternatives.

Board President David Leak said that while a feasibility study conducted by the administration did show that the additions might be possible, no firm decisions have been made yet.

"We're in favor of thinking about it," he said, "but we aren't in a position to go to the public with it."

Such a decision could not be made, he said, until the board finds out how long the Clarkston Junior High building will remain usable.

A study is due on that, he said, and until then, the board won't know whether it can afford to go ahead with the school additions proposal.

Board members might run into a problem of volunteers for any more citizens' committees, though. The board passed a resolution in June calling for the formation of a Career Education Task Force, according to Mrs. Place, but no one has come forward to volunteer for the 10-member task force.

The board is looking for businesses or individuals representative of the types of career instruction that would be developed.

Assistant Superintendent Mel Vaara, Leak, and Mrs. Place all offered to recruit persons for the task force, and Vaara met with vocational Education Director Dee Shaw Tuesday to discuss the career education proposals.

The board has also not had any luck with alternative education input from citizens, according to Vaara.

"I think interest is waning for such a program in some schools," he said. "Why it is, I don't know."

Vaara said there was a poor turnout at a June 6 meeting involving the proposals.

But a member of the audience disagreed with Vaara, saying there are parents interested in getting involved with developing such a program.

That person asked Vaara if the administration couldn't encourage better communication with parents concerning the development of such a program.

President Leak said the board was doing what it could about the alternative education proposals. He said the board should talk about the matter in six months to see how plans have progressed.

Summer's third tire fire reported

The third tire fire in 10 days has been reported by the Independence Township Fire Department.

The fire could have been much worse; it occurred at a dumping ground for an estimated 100,000 tires on property off the corner of Sashabaw and Pine Knob Roads, at 9844 Pine Knob Road.

But only 60 tires were destroyed in the blaze, which took firemen an hour to control, according to assistant fire chief Jack Beach.

A tire fire Friday, August 1 at Interlakes Auto and Truck Salvage on White Lake Road was reported set off by careless use of a torch, but a fire the following Monday and the one on Saturday may have been set, according to Beach.

Beach said the accumulation of tires at the Pine Knob-Sashabaw site is the largest in the township, and unless someone can watch the fires 24 hours a day, "we're in trouble."

Beach said he would contact the Detroit owner of the property, which is leased by Marvin Singleton for boarding horses.

Beach also contacted Detroit Edison, which has some power lines going across the property

An estimated 100,000 tires have been dumped at the latest site of a tire fire, 9844 Pine Knob Road.

Pietro Chiamonti of Page Tiling Company, plasters in the boys' locker room at Clarkston Junior High School. "Renovation of the locker rooms should be completed prior to school opening," said Duane Lewis, assistant principal at the school.

Busing exception made

Children in the kindergarten through third grade who reside on Northview Road and in Green Acres subdivision will be bussed to school this fall, the Clarkston School board has decided.

In a meeting Monday, the board compromised with a request from residents in those areas to have all their elementary-aged children bussed to school to prevent dangerous walking conditions.

Assistant School Superintendent Milford Mason said that present buses could only accommodate those K-3 students.

Residents from Green Acres cited safety problems for their children walking to Clarkston Elementary, including no sidewalks on West Church Street, the close proximity of the Millpond, the necessity of crossing M-15 and the danger of walking congested Waldon Road.

The board said in its resolution it would make no policy change in its required 1 1/2 mile minimum for busing students, but would resolve problems of transportation on an individual basis.

It's possible some of those students will be transported in a new bus this fall.

The board authorized the purchase of five buses for $23,193 apiece to replace worn-out buses. The District has been replacing their 42-bus fleet in spurts of four and five according to a planned replacement system.

Sewage cost goes up

A sewage treatment price increase, which is being protested in the courts by Oakland County, was officially approved by the Detroit City Council Aug. 8.

The action raises by 36 percent the charge for sewage treatment in the Clinton-Oakland District, one of three districts in Oakland County administered by the Detroit Metro Water Department (DMWD).

The cost will go from $1.66 to $2.26 per thousand cubic feet in the Clinton-Oakland District, which includes the villages of Clarkston, Lake Orion and Oxford and the townships of Independence, Orion, Oxford, Oakland Avon, Waterford and part of West Bloomfield.

The new rate is to go into effect with the Sept. 1 billing.

Meanwhile, a lawsuit filed by Oakland County and two of its departments has resulted in a court order the DMWD customers be allowed to audit the books of the department.

House approves Trim property tax bill

A property tax relief bill (House Bill No. 4485) sponsored by State Rep. Claude A. Trim (D-Davisburg) is under consideration in the Senate Taxation Committee following its approval by the House.

Under present law, property must be assessed at 50 percent of true cash value for tax purposes.

The Trim bill would scale this down, requiring that property be assessed at 49 percent of true cash value for the 1976 tax year, 48 percent for 1977, 47 percent for 1978 and 46 percent for 1979 on.

According to Trim, a major amendment offered on the floor which would have weakened the bill was defeated and the bill passed the House as reported out of the House Taxation Committee.

"This type of tax relief is badly needed by the people in my district and by property owners across the state," Trim said. "Every year, inflation forces the assessments on property higher and higher, steadily increasing the burden on the property owners. This bill provides some relief to these people at a time when they need relief the most."

"Property taxes are an especially heavy burden on senior citizens and others on limited income. They can become a severe hardship for many of these people, in extreme cases threatening them with the loss of their homes because of taxes they cannot pay."

Trim added that his bill could also have the effect of reducing the number of appeals to the State Tax Tribunal.

"Many local assessors find it difficult to assess property at exactly the 50 percent level now required by law," he explained. "However, if the taxpayer feels the assessment exceeds 50 percent, which is the limit set by the State Constitution, he has a right to appeal it. A large percentage of the appeals heard by the Tax Tribunal involve assessments which exceed the 50 percent limit. My bill would give assessors more leeway and make most of these appeals, which can be costly and timeconsuming, unnecessary."

Village gets band shell

The band shell now officially belongs to the Village. Spokesman for the Clarkston Land Conservancy, Nelson Kimball, offered the band shell to the village as a gift at the Village Council meeting Monday night, and the Council accepted.

A ceremonial presentation will be made at the band concert August 20.

Kimball said the Conservancy wanted the village to own the band shell for insurance purposes. Village Clerk Bruce Rogers indicated that the band shell is already covered for liability because the concerts are village sponsored and take place on village property. But, the shell itself would not be insured for fire, vandalism or theft, Rogers noted.

DPW Director Gar Wilson stated that it would probably be cheaper to replace the shell than to insure it.

Even though the shell now belongs to the village, Kimball said he would take the responsibility for maintaining the structure, taking it down, and storing it over the winter. He said he hopes that the Conservancy Board of Directors will elect to take care of the maintenance.

Kimball also asked that the front row of the parking lot be reserved for physically impaired individuals so they can listen to the concerts from their cars. He asked that signs be erected in the parking lot to reserve the front spaces.

Where did all the money go

The Springfield Township Board last week decided it did not have any use for $2,000 in Title II Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds.

The funds were allocated to the township under a federal grant to hire the unemployed, and the township used $12,000 of its $14,000 allocation to contract with Oakland County for a sheriff's deputy.

Groaning taxpayers have only to imagine where that money came from and where it will go.

Naturally, our poor pocket-books were lightened by Uncle Sam in the first place.

The money went to the treasury department, and was allocated by the legislature to the Department of Labor.

The Department of Labor sent it to the Chicago Manpower office, which in turn sent the money to the Michigan legislature.

The Michigan legislature in turn allocated the money to Oakland County, which in turn allocated the money to the various municipalities.

Now that Springfield doesn't want the money, the spurned cash will return to Oakland County, possibly to be stockpiled with other rejected funds until enough of a block is available for another allocation.

If in turn, the money is reallocated and a portion of that sent back to the county, the circle may be repeated until the county gives up and sends the money back through channels to Washington.

There, the money may be spent for innumerable varieties of things, such as caviar for the lavish state department dinners Uncle Sam is so fond of impressing our neighbors across the seas with.

Meantime, back in the townships, CETA supervisors are desperately trying to find work for their numerous CETA employees.

Citizens are shaking their heads as they watch these workers scratching theirs, trying to figure out what to do after all the trash in a 20-mile radius has been properly disposed of.

Township officials are shrugging their shoulders, saying if they don't join in the program and spend the allocated funds, someone else will.

And Joe Public, gloomily staring at his empty check-book, is silently wishing his dear old Uncle could perhaps find a better way to make the money go round.

Doctor or mechanic?

by Jim Fitzgerald

Last week was confusing. Both my wife and my car were laid up for repairs and I kept getting the mechanic mixed up with the doctor.

There were incredible similarities in the two cases. At one point I told a worried daughter her mother had a fever because there was something wrong with her thermostat. And my son just nodded when I told him the car air conditioner wasn't working because there was something wrong with its pancreas.

The mechanic told me to bring the car in early Thursday morning and he would get right at it. I could probably pick it up that evening, he said. Five days later he hadn't touched the car. It just sat at his shop and got dirty.

Apparently he liked to have it nearby to wipe greasy rags on.

My wife entered the hospital on a Friday "for tests." The doctor thought it might take a couple of days. She was still there a week later. The doctor kept scheduling x-rays and blood tests that never came off on time because somebody forgot to tell somebody. But it was handy having her nearby so they could make sure she didn't eat anything she liked.

At least she didn't get dusty, like the car. But nobody woke the car up at 5 a.m. delivering wilted roses that had "somehow" been in the wrong hospital room for two days. Honest, it happened.

I usually couldn't get the mechanic on the phone. I most often talked with his assistant who might have been a recording. He always said the same thing: "I don't know. You'd better call back. Yes, I'll tell him you hate him and that I could hear you sobbing over the phone."

When I did talk to the mechanic, I never understood a thing he said. If I knew what all those queer words meant, I could fix the lousy car myself. The only message that came through clear was that several other poor owners were having the same trouble with the same model car. This was as comforting as being told I should cheer up because I was dying of something contagious.

I only tried to phone the doctor once but it was his day off. It was also his nurse's day off. I told the girl on the switchboard I was dying and she put me on hold.

It really wasn't necessary for me to talk to the doctor because my wife could tell me what he was saying. This is one advantage in marrying a woman instead of a car. What he was saying was that they should take some more tests tomorrow. Which really meant 2 days later because the person responsible for arranging tomorrow's tests was busy trying to find a new place to hide roses.

If I ever do talk to the doctor, I am going to thank him for starting me on a second career. I am going to open a pharmacy and sell the medicine my wife can no longer take because it makes her sick. A pill usually makes her sick a few hours after she's filled his $20 prescription at the drugstore in the doctor's waiting room. So he says don't take anymore of those pills, buy some new ones. I now own 5 million pills which I am willing to sell at a loss. Each pill is accompanied by a sworn testimonial from my wife. She guarantees it will make you sick.

I trust the mechanic and the doctor realize all this is really good-natured kidding, ha ha. I am only writing about them so as to have an excuse to say something romantic to my wife.

I want to say publicly that I missed her a lot more than I missed the car. Of course, I own a second car.

Somebody stole summer. Right in the middle of the glorious, high temperatures and balmy breezes, somebody lifted our glorious moments of un-coated glee and tossed them in the trash can.

Nevermore for nine more months will we think of swimming and boating and canoeing and camping and fishing and all the other things that will soon be buried in piles of snow.

I got my magnifying glass out to try and discover who the culprits were.

Certainly not the bees, who are busy pollinating away. Nor the grasshoppers, who are cheerfully rubbing their legs together in a cacaphony that makes music to the masses.

Is it the weeping willow what done it, its drooping branches hiding the summer that disappeared.

Was it the mischievous squirrel, picking summer up like a giant nut and storing it away in a tree?

Was it the sun, a traitor, drifting farther and farther away toward its rendezvous with the other half of our fair world?

It was non of them, I'm sure. They are all still innocently frolicking about, providing us with vistas that remind us how glorious the season is that brought them here.

I, the sleuth, find the culprits at last.

It was a newspaper, callously announcing back to school wear.

It was a mutinous whisper, saying the building season will be done with soon.

It was a coach, brazenly announcing the first day of practice.

It was a television announcer, with no mind for the anguish I bore, pushing coverage of a Sunday football exhibition game.

My magnifying glass was hot on the trail, and closer examination revealed even greater travesties.

It was in men's thoughts, as

The case of the missing summer

Jackie Ryan, 12, of Main Street knows how to enjoy the outdoors. He's fishing in the Mill Pond, using bacon fat as bait.

they drove from work and went about the business at hand, giving no quarter to the summer that was bathing them in its delightful warmth and aromas.

It was children, declining a trip outdoors in favor of the Mickey Mouse Club.

It was mothers, too busy with ironing and canning and washing to give tributes to the poor old summer.

When did the robbers take the upper hand in this mysterious mystery of the lost summer?

They forgot. They forgot what it was like to listen to the summer wind. They forgot to steal a few hours gazing into a small brook.

They forgot to stop in their mad dash into fall to say, 'hello summer, glad you could come . . . Nice to have you around. Hope you'll stay for awhile.'

And in their forgetting, the summer was lonely. No one stole summer. It just crept away, for lack of an audience.

Pessimistic about lids

Home canners, growers, etc. There will be no lids to supply the demand from the Ball or Kerr Glass Companies—per the special committee meeting on canning lids, held in Saginaw—the heart of Saginaw Valley farming area—Monday, Aug. 4.

Rep. Claude Trim arranged for me to speak and demonstrate some of the home canners problems and refute the charge of women hoarding the lids.

Mr. Hineland, the representative speaking for Ball Glass Company, said that canning supplies aren't needed till September (because of the greatest sales at that time in other years, without realizing the buying habits of home canners.)

I and many others, old, experienced canners, buy our lids in Sept. for the next year. We have saved grocery money by eating from our gardens and have the money for cash buying of the lids needed next. We do not buy new jars and rings with lids to store all winter, unless there is a need for more canning of late vegetables, fish, meats, etc. We leave that storage problem to the glass companies, warehouses, or retail stores—unless there is a substantial savings on the whole big box of a dozen jars complete with lids.

The tiny boxes of lids with 12 wafer-like disc can be stored inside of the empty canner.

The so-called 2 boxes per customer holds only 24 lids to process only 24 jars of 1/2 gallon size, 24 quarts of regular, 12 quarts in pint size, or 6 quarts in 1/2 pint size.

The expected depending on the home-processor to switch to all freezing hit a snag with the fear of "brown outs" in losing all put in the freezers.

Glass canned foods, only need the fuel to keep them from freezing and then fuel to reheat for serving.

Canning is "old-fashioned" but is "fuel conserving" in the long run.

The economy situation is the cause of our frustrations along with the human error of administration judgement in the anticipated need for manufactured goods. Lack of lids is just the opposite of the overproduction car.

The rusted rings can be derusted by soaking in rust-remover and brushed with a steel brush. This will enable us to use lids that are produced without screw-down rings or bands.

Special Olympics Day a success

Dear Editor!!

Fantastic - that the best word I can think of for all the great people who helped to make "Exploration Day" the huge success it was! The Kansas delegation of Special Olympians left Clarkston with a smile on their faces and fond memories of an exciting day!

I would like to take this moment to thank some of those people who made this day so successful - Pine Knob, for the use of their grounds, McDonalds, for the great lunch, Clarkston Board of Education for the use of our school buses, and the Pioneer Club for making those great desserts.

Special thanks have to go to Steiner Clark, of the Methodist Men's Club who was chief cook at the dinner Sunday night.

Also, some tremendous people who gave a lot of their time in transporting our athletes all around - Ruth Sexton, President, Clarkston Bus Drivers Union and Bob and Virginia Shagnea, Janet Wells, Lila Starkey, Nora Schmidt-gall, Gary Bliss, and Rose De Var - who drove throughout the day.

It's also only fitting to mention some super Jaycees and Jayettes who worked so hard both before and during the event - Mike and Carol Luckenbach, Ron and Cheri Crites, Bob and Mary Vandermark, Jim and Pam Randall, Dan and Claudia Steward, Roger and Rosalie Kruep, Keith and Nancy Davis, Brian and Bonnie Derisley, Jerry and Diane Pedlaw, Marty Durlacher, Bruce Rogers, and Larry Rosso - and a special thanks to my wife Ruth as co-chairwoman.

In addition, the officials who made presentations at the luncheon ceremonies, Neil Granlund and Fred Ritter, representing the Village and Township respectfully, and Claude Trim, State Rep., District 60.

And last but not least, the Clarkston News, especially Mary Warner, for the fine coverage and the complimentary copies being sent to all athletes and coaches from Kansas.

Thank you all - it was a beautiful day!

Trim defends stadium stand

TO: The people of my district in reply to the article that appeared in the Lakeland and the Spinal Column during the week of July 30.

This is to inform my people of my stand and why I voted "yes" for the funding of the Pontiac Stadium.

In regards to the Pontiac Stadium, I have been very outspoken, even before becoming your Representative, that I opposed the financing with public tax dollars of this stadium or the original stadium had it been in Detroit. I would only wish that the other people who are fighting the funding of the Pontiac Stadium at this time would also have been consistent in fighting this had it been in Detroit.

During the years prior to running for the legislature to become your Representative, working closely with the people as a Supervisor in Springfield Township, and also in other civic functions, I have learned that we have to have priorities. I have tried to be faithful and consistent to my commitments in carrying out these priorities. I feel that the answers I have received from my questionnaire and also from many letters revealing these priorities show that these are still your concern. These priorities are:

1. Limit state spending only for necessities.
2. Mental health; also, measures to deter our rising crime rate.
3. Education of our youth for a better tomorrow and when I say that, I mean the basic 3 R's of education.
4. Use monies more effectively so that local units will be able to improve their roads and also meet the needs of the people on the local level.

Otherwise, let Lansing—if it must—only set the guidelines and not continually build a huge bureaucracy.

You may say, "What does this have to do with the Stadium? It has much to do, because we always must start from a base and one of the most important things I've learned and am still learning, that people do not have faith in their government. They feel that it has no integrity, it is very wishy-washy in saying one thing and doing another.

For example, in the past years, look at the waste we have spent on the extension of Northwestern Highway, not to even mention the promises we have received from our State Highway Department of the widening of M-59. Four years ago, there were meetings and dates set. If those dates would have been honored we now would have our 4-lane highway.

Therefore, my first priority is to build confidence in my people that when we say something, we will do it. I must reiterate that, if I had been here in Lansing, I would have voted "no" on the previous funding of the Stadium. I am not taking issue at the election that took place in the city of Pontiac as to whether I agree or disagree. I had no voice in the matter at that time, but I do now have a voice and a vote. If that Stadium would be in my district and if the state would have hopped out at such notice, I could not begin to tell the financial burden that would be placed upon the people in my district.

Yes, I went to the aid of my fellow Representatives for that basic reason that if the state would try to do something to my people, I would hope I would have their support.

In regard to the question, which some people say is a private enterprise—I would say that all records that I have received point out that the stadium is an Authority set up by the city of Pontiac and it is a public Authority and is not privately owned. The facilities that they own will be leased for profit to repay the debt. I would like to parallel this with our Oakland County parks and recreation, which has many properties throughout my district, such as Springfield Oaks.

As an example, this facility is available for your use or any group that would want to lease the facility, be paying a rental charge. It is operated by the government, by our local county Board of Commissioners, by our local parks commission, but the point is that they are doing it in a fashion to give you service at a lesser tax rate than what would be necessary if there was no income.

The main reason for supporting the Stadium at this time is, again, the matter of integrity on the part of our Legislature. As for the question of whether the Legislature acted correctly, this matter now is presently in court, where, under our system of government, these decisions should be decided as to whether it is appropriate to use public money to back the bonds which are issued for the construction of the stadium.

In closing, I believe we will see positive results in Oakland County as an outcome of the Stadium. We have already received a stepped-up commitment from the Highway Department to complete M-59, which should have been completed years ago.

Fitz asks: What's a Big Orange, Dummy?

Dear Dummy:

I not only never met a payroll, I never met a Big Orange. What the hell is that?

I check my column in all 3 of your newspapers—the flagship, the steamer and the canoe (Oxford Leader). There were no coupons on the back. And my photo is a faithful reproduction of my handsome face. So obviously you don't know what you are talking about—which is why I call you Dummy. You are

Pine Knob headliners

Jefferson Starship will give one evening performance at 7:30 p.m. tonight (August 14) at Pine Knob Music Theater.

The Starship is a loose coalition of musicians, many of them from The Jefferson Airplane, who recorded the album "Blows Against the Empire."

A Festival of Music starring Chet Atkins, Boots Randolph and Floyd Cramer will headline the ticket on Sunday, August 17, at 7:30 p.m.

In combination with Atkin's guitar, Randolph's sax and Cramer's piano will be the Boots Randolph Orchestra and the Music City Sound of String.

Sha-na-na will be at Pine Knob August 18 at 7:30 p.m. The group is a "splish-splash celebration of rock and roll launched from the subways, streetcorners and lounges on to the stage of consistent standing room only popularity."

Coming for a four-day stay will be Johnny Mathis August 21 through 24 at 7:30 p.m.

On the singing scene for 16 years, Mathis has had 18 gold albums, and altogether recorded 55.

Saturday nights

Two big, juicy pieces of prime rib, two baked potatoes topped with sour cream, rolls, a salad from the salad bar and wine would probably be enough to satisfy a couple out for dinner.

But add to that a pleasant atmosphere and dinner music provided by the band "Love and Mankind," and the Beef 'n Bourbon restaurant at 4922 Dixie Highway makes an excellent place to while away an evening.

That's exactly what my husband and I did on a recent Saturday night. And when it came time to leave for a show, we had to debate on whether or not "WW and the Dixie Dance Kings" was worth leaving such a relaxing atmosphere for.

Service was excellent, which is a rarity these days, and the hostess even helped me pick out a wine (they had a ton of them listed on the menu).

My husband and I could have had stuffed chicken, lobster or even frog legs as well as steak and our final selection, prime rib roast beef.

"Beef and Reef" was the most expensive item on the menu--$10.50 for lobster tails and filet mignon.

The restaurant is open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.; the bar from 11 a.m. until 2 a.m.

There is also a cocktail hour from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The restaurant's luncheon menu features sandwiches from $1.50 to $2.75 and there's a special every day.

There's entertainment six nights a week and if it's all of the caliber of "Love and Mankind," I recommend 'moseying on' down there real soon."

Places to go

An evening tennis session for advanced beginners will begin August 13, 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. It will be held at Waterford Mott High School. Cost is $4. To register contact Waterford Recreation, 666-2320.

Central Michigan auction fans will be weather protected again when the State Police hold their annual auction of disposable goods Thursday, August 21, in Lansing.

This twenty-first sale of unclaimed, confiscated or otherwise owner-unknown merchandise will be conducted under roof in the field house of the former Boys Training School at 400 North Pennsylvania in Lansing. The one-day sale begins at 8:30 a.m.

Merchandise will be sold to highest bidders in lots of one or more items. Majority of the items have been accumulated by the State Police in various investigations.

The 18th annual Labor Day Mackinac Bridge walk is set to begin at 7:30 a.m. Monday, Sept. 1. For the past six years Governor Milliken has been at the starting line and is expected to be there again this year.

Bridge walkers are urged to make their own arrangements for arriving at the starting line, the Fare Plaza on the north side of the Bridge. Buses from Mackinaw City will be available, but past experience indicates that the long lines of persons waiting for passage may result in as much as two hours delay. The fare is 50 cents.

Preceding the general bridge walk there will be novice races conducted by the International Walker's Association.

The races begin at 7:15 a.m.; persons must register at the Bridge Plaza (north side) for the races, or write to the Walkers' Association, 569 Cornell Ave., East Lansing, 48823. Registration fee is 50 cents.

A Wide Track Festival run is scheduled for August 17 on a course from downtown Pontiac to Oakland University and back.

Sixty-five trophies will be awarded to the top finishers in the various age groups in both men and women's divisions.

A team trophy for the top team run will also be awarded.

The run will begin at 9:30 a.m. Those wishing to register must do so by August 11. Entry fee is $3. Call 857-7788 for further information.

A children's bicycle race is slated as part of the Wide Track Festival for Saturday, August 16 in downtown Pontiac.

Registration is scheduled for 9 a.m. and practice for all riders between 9:30 a.m. and 10:15 a.m.

A special feature of the day will be a tricycle race involving some top civic leaders in the area.

Entry forms are available at the Wide Track Festival office, second floor of the City Hall.

Over 3,000 volunteers from Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair and Monroe counties are needed to answer telephones and record pledges during the 20-hour Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for Muscular Dystrophy on August 31 and September 1 on WJBK-TV2.

Volunteers age 18 and over will be asked to report to the Jerry Lewis Telephone Center nearest their home for a five-hour shift of their choice. Telephone centers are located at Eastland and Westland shopping centers, the Pontiac Elk's Club, the Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit as well as the Sheraton-Southfield Hotel in Southfield.

Rangers overpower State Tire

In last week's action, the Pine Knob Rangers overpowered State Tire 11-3.

State Tire played good softball, but the big bats of the Rangers caught up with State Tire in the late innings.

Lyle Walters had a home run and triple for the Rangers, while Mark Warren also homered and Rick Prasil had a double and triple.

Credit Union allowed Higgenbotham Roofing to score four runs in the first and seventh innings, but it wasn't enough, as Credit Union hung on for a 10-9 victory.

Ben Powell Trucking continued to win with a 9-6 victory over the Pharoahs. The Truckers had to struggle to defeat the Pharoahs, who just wouldn't quit.

The game of the week was between the Clarkston Chargers and Rademacher Rookies, as both teams were looking for their first win of the season.

The game was evenly played for the first five innings, but then the Rookies put the game out of reach with seven big runs in the last two innings. The final score saw the Rookies with a 12-3 win over the Chargers.

One week remains in the regular season and it looks like Ben Powell and Pine Knob are headed for their big showdown for first place and the right to represent Clarkston at the state softball tournament in Jackson.

If this championship game is needed, it will be played Sunday,

August 17 at 7 p.m. at Pine Knob Elementary.

Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, August 18, 19 and 21 will be the league playoffs.

Ben Powell Trucking, the Pine Knob Rangers, State Tire and Credit Union make up the double-elimination playoff roster.

Game times are 5:30 p.m. and 6:45 p.m., all at Pine Knob Elementary.

Standings are as follows:

Pine Knob Rangers	8-1
Ben Powell Trucking	8-1
Credit Union	7-2
State Tire	6-3
Pharoahs	4-5
Higginbotham Roofing	2-7
Rademacher Rookies	1-8
Clarkston Chargers	0-9

Wolves start practice

The Clarkston High School football team will begin practice on August 18 at 8:30 a.m. at the high school practice field.

There are presently 49 players signed up to play. The Wolves opener will be with Oxford on September 12 at Oxford.

Square dance

There will be some do-si-do-ing in the village parking lot come August 31.

The Independence Squares, a local square dancing group received permission from the Clarkston Village Council to hold a square dance in the parking lot from 7 to 9 p.m. that day.

A spokesman for the recently formed group said the parking lot dance will be used to boost membership for the Independence Squares. The square dance club will also be offering lessons at the Independence Township Hall on Wednesday evenings this fall.

Flagpole sitting still has its enthusiasts, but probably none is so great as a man called "Shipwreck Kelly," who claimed that in 1930 he had spent a total of 20,613 hours in "cloudland." According to authorities, perched on top of flagpoles on tall buildings in various cities he had endured 1,400 hours of rain and sleet, 210 hours in temperatures below freezing, 47 hours in snowstorms. W-O League GOAL

Clarkston High School teams will have a new goal this year, when they'll be aiming at GOAL championships.

The Wayne-Oakland League in which Clarkston has participated has undergone a name change.

The Greater Oakland Activities League came into being after Clarenceville High School pulled out of the Wayne-Oakland League, making the two-county designation unnecessary.

The Clarenceville School District straddles the Wayne-Oakland boundary in Farmington and Redford townships, also taking in part of the city of Livonia. With little potential for growth, the district's high school is seen as having no chance of moving out of its Class B status.

Approved by the league's board of control in June, the name change also reflects inter-school relationships in areas other than sports. Clarkston High School Principal William Dennis, immediate past president of the board, noted the districts also are involved with each other in relation to extracurricular activities such as debate, forensics, band, chorus and student government.

Other schools in the league besides Clarkston are Waterford Kettering, Bloomfield Hills Andover, Milford and West Bloomfield. Rochester High School has been accepted for membership effective in 1976.

The school presently is participating in all of the league's non-athletic activities. Dennis said.

C.H.S. girls' basketball

Clarkston High School girls interested in trying out for this fall's girls' basketball teams should plan to attend six try-out practices next week.

Two practices a day (9-11 a.m. and 2-4 p.m.) will be held in the high school gym Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 18, 19 and 20.

After Wednesday, team members will be selected and regular practices will begin in preparation for the fall season of play which opens on September 9 against Fenton High School.

Chiefs choose coaches

The Independence Township Athletic Association has chosen a coaching lineup for the Chiefs' 1975 football season, association president Ray Hughes announced.

"Some changes have taken place; however, all three head coaches are returning and we're looking for another very successful year," Hughes said.

Working with about 150 Clarkston area boys will be varsity head coach Darrell Williams, J.V. head coach David Blower and freshman coach Richard Heath. Football director Dean Callison will run the program this season, working with the athletic association board members.

Callison said physicals and sign-up for the Chiefs will be held on August 25 at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall on M-15.

Applications for cheerleaders will also be accepted at that time. Birth certificates, a $1 fee for physicals and a $10 family membership fee will be required.

If there are any questions, please call board members Hayden Cook, 625-2921, Ray Hughes, 625-2469, Dean Callison, 625-3665 or Dick Esser, 625-8128.

Hockey for boys

The Board of Directors of the Bloomfield Hills Hockey Association has announced that registrations are now being accepted for the 1975-76 season. By maintaining an "open door" policy, the Association invited any and all boys (ages 4 to 20) to participate, up to the total capacity of the Association.

Formed in 1973, the Association has placed major emphasis on the development of good sportsmanship and cultivation of the boys' physical welfare through organized competition in the game of hockey. Unique to the BHHA program is the fact that each boy is given equal ice time regardless of his ability. To equalize the talent balance between teams, an open draft system is utilized to form teams. Special instructional clinics are provided for beginning skaters.

League games and practices are held at the Bloomfield Expo Arena, located near Square Lake and Telegraph. Player drafts will start the week of September 8.

Those interested in joining and/or receiving further information can call Association President Ken Wortz (652-1943) or write Jim Fox at Watling, Lerchen and Co., P.O. Box 509, Pontiac 48056. Registration fee is $20.00.

Gravel access variance a compromise

A compromise following a three-way split on the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals will allow Lorin McNulty access to his gravel mine in adjacent Springfield Township.

The vote on the variance sought by McNulty was 2-1, with board of appeals chairman Robert Kraud dissenting.

The variance allows McNulty to have one remote sign on White Lake Road just north of the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks. He had sought permission to have a trailer and two remote signs on 1.3 acres owned by the railroad company, which had consented to the arrangement.

Use of the railroad easement gives McNulty access to 60 acres he is leasing, mining gravel from the 30-acre of the parcel lying within Springfield Township.

The variance stipulates that McNulty's trailer be moved into Springfield Township.

McNulty's problem was created by Springfield Township when officials there allowed him to remove gravel from the site, board member Mel Vaara said. He commented that he was disappointed Springfield had offered no solution to the situation.

Kraud voted against the motion on the basis that granting the variance would add nothing positive to the area.

Board secretary Jerry Powell said he thought McNulty should be "given a chance" with his new business. He noted that the only other possible access to the property would be from Foster Road, which would create "more of a mess than we have now."

Discussion of the matter consumed about one hour of the board's Aug. 6 meeting.

The other variances granted at the meeting were approved by unanimous votes.

Board members gave Truman White permission to maintain a nonconforming barn he already has constructed on 4.77 acres he owns on Pine Knob Road. The $2,500 barn, constructed without a building permit, is 168 square feet larger than the 600-square-foot building permitted on that size parcel in a rural residential zone.

Variances for the barn and a second accessory building included the stipulation that White apply for a building permit. The $26 permit will allow township building department inspection of the existing structures.

Permission also was granted to Stuart Davis, 5989 Princess, to add 20 feet to the rear of his homesite. The strip of land is to be purchased from the owner of an adjacent lot on Sunnydale, for whom the land is unusable because of its steep grade. Neither lot currently conforms to the zoning code, but board members noted no additional houses will be built on either.

Setback variances were granted to Jimmy Libstaff to build an attached garage on his home at 6155 Cramlane, on the corner of Snowapple, and to Fred Vassallo to allow a cottage on Lakeview to be enlarged into a year-round residence.

Clarkston film festival gets go-ahead

Clarkston will have a film festival this fall, thanks to a state grant.

Rep. Claude A. Trim, D-60th District, has announced a grant of $700 from the Michigan Council for the Arts to the Clarkston Community Arts Council.

The funds, which will be matched locally, will be used to fund the "Film Critics Choice Film Festival." Four full-length feature films, and four "shorts" will be selected from suggestions by newspaper film critics. The festival will be held locally for three consecutive days in October with free admission. Place and exact times will be announced later.

This project will present non-commercial, artistic films in an area where they are not generally available. It is hoped that the festival will be an on-going event in Clarkston.

Funds to support this project are part of an ongoing community arts program sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts, a state agency which derives its financial support from the State Legislature, the National Endowment for the Arts and private contributions.

The Michigan Council was established in 1966 and assists a wide variety of cultural programs and services sponsored by community organizations and other groups throughout the state.

Springfield park commission allowed extra meetings

The Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Commission will be allowed to hold six additional meetings during the year with pay, the Springfield Township Board has decided.

The Commission asked for the additional meetings because its monthly summer meetings are sometimes too far apart to take care of summer programs business.

"The Park Commission is very active," township supervisor Don

Rogers explained to the board, telling it of the swimming, golf and tennis lessons instituted by the park commission, the improvements being made in the township parks and a new winter program currently being set up by new commission member Nancy Hanes.

The six park commission members are paid $15 per meeting. Extra expense to the township would be a maximum of $540.

Bicentennial committee

The Independence-Clarkston Bicentennial Committee will hold a meeting August 21 at 8 p.m. at Clarkston United Methodist Church.

The public is invited to attend; the committee is looking for bicentennial workers.

'Clarkston 88' cut to 16

District Judge Gerald McNally has said he will take a "wait-and-see" attitude toward the group of confessed Super Bowl gambling party participants which has now been winnowed down to the "Clarkston 16."

The area men were labeled the "Clarkston 88" after a Jan. 12 raid of a Super Bowl party in a rented hall. Guilty pleas for frequenting a gambling house were taken under advisement from the men Jan 14 when McNally assured them the charges would be dropped if they got into no more gambling problems for six months.

McNally dismissed the charges and ordered the men's arrest records returned July 2.

Chief Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson defied the order because, he said, he had questions about the legality of the procedure. He was challenged by an attorney for the men, A. Lawrence Russell, who took him to court for another order.

Now Thompson says he has discovered that 16 of the men have prior criminal records. He has refused to return the mug shots and fingerprints of the 16.

"In essence, the prosecutor's office is asking them to pay again for a minor offense of some years ago," Russell said. "Some are very minor--one was for littering--and some were committed 30 and 40 years ago."

Thompson, who sent copies of the previous arrest records to Russell, had said the charges ran from unlawfully driving away an automobile to involuntary manslaughter.

Russell said he was researching the matter.

"This is just another roadblock he's thrown in my way," he said. Russell has maintained that Thompson does not have the prerogative of ignoring the Clarkston District judge's order--that he can either comply or appeal it to circuit court.

McNally said he was surprised that Thompson had stood by and listened to the arrangements made Jan. 14 if he had no intention of complying.

"He was right in court when all of this went on, and he said nothing then," McNally noted.

The judge said one of his considerations in making the original deal with the 88 was that several are in professions which require licensing. He intended that the gambling charge, with no indication of how serious the offense was, should not follow each for the rest of his life.

Just back from vacation Monday, McNally said he had not yet heard from any of the principals in the case. He commented he felt dismissal of the gambling arrest record might be more important to some of the 16 than to others, with one of the factors being the seriousness of their previous crimes.

"I'll look at the files individually if they come in," he said.

"We're essentially problem solvers, the judge added.

Road board to seek public input

The public is going to get a chance to help the Oakland County Road Commission pare its 1976 road improvement budget—a $11.5-million list which includes a $400,000 proposed project in Independence Township.

The only mention made of Independence Township on the road commission board's list of possible projects is in connection with the potential paving of the 2.2-mile stretch of Clintonville Road between I-75 and Clarkston Road. According to a commission traffic count, the two-lane road was used by 1,000 vehicles during a 24-hour period.

No Springfield Township roads are included in the proposed program.

The tentative budget approved by the road board last week calls for it to pay $240,000 toward the Clintonville project, with the rest coming from the federal government. The commission would use for the improvement all money it receives from the federal government that is not directed at a specific project.

In approving the tentative budget, the road board also ordered managing director John L. Grubba to schedule a public hearing on the program later this month.

Fred L. Harris, chairman of the road board, emphasized the likelihood that portions of the improvement program may have to be deleted, particularly if revised revenue estimates later this year indicate that the road commission will receive less money in gasoline and weight tax revenues than was projected initially.

"In any case," said Harris, "I am guardedly optimistic that we'll be able to exceed the $8.3 million in improvements programmed for this year by a fairly substantial margin."

Clarkston residents trying to save ship

Terry and Kay Kelly of South Holcomb and Vern and June Kath of Hummingbird are working on the "save the ship" campaign involving the S.S. South American. The ship, destined to be scrapped, was considered to be the queen of the Great Lakes Cruise Ship Era and is the last of the cruise ships. Mr. Bob Carr of Mackinac Island has plans to house the ship at Mackinac Island as a museum of Great Lakes maritime lore.

$10,000 is needed immediately to buy time for a feasibility study, which will make raising the rest of the purchase price relatively easy and pave the way for restoration funds from government and private sources.

A survey by Hull and Cargo Surveyors of New York found the ship to be in excellent condition below decks.

Contributions can be mailed to either Robert Carr, Mackinac Island, Mich. or to Mrs. Myra Arnold, Treasure, C.D. & G.B.T. Co. Historical Museum (Save the South American) 246 River Avenue, Holland, Michigan 49423.

In addition, the group requests that calls be made to Mr. Louis Sarco of Ships Inc., in Camden, New Jersey, urging him to wait for the outcome of the campaign.

Ask traffic ordinance

The Clarkston School Board has requested Independence Township to adopt an ordinance regulating traffic on school property.

Traffic violations have not been subject to outside jurisdiction in the past, Dr. L.F. Greene, superintendent of schools, told the board Monday, because "governing bodies say they don't have the authority."

The ordinance, if adopted by the township, would then allow the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and the Independence Township police jurisdiction on school property.

The resolution was in response to growing number of parking and traffic problems on school grounds, particularly at Clarkston High School.

Report area break-ins

Two area residents came home from vacations last weekend to discover their homes had been visited by thieves.

A man who lives on Mustang Drive told Oakland County Sheriff's deputies about $1,060 worth of fishing equipment and tools were stolen from the locked trunk of his car, which he had left at home.

Some $425 worth of items -- including a television set, two bikes and a boat motor--reportedly was taken from a Davisburg house which was broken into while the owner was on vacation.

A Hubbard Road resident told deputies that his house was broken into while he was gone for about an hour and a half August 8. A total value of $990 was put on the items taken, including a television set, pistol and two musical instruments.

Heart Assn. golf tourney

Former heart patients in the area are being invited by the Michigan Heart Association to participate in the first "Coronary Open" Celebrity Golf Tournament at Bald Mountain Executive Course on Sept. 11.

The event is open to all mended heart patients and their spouses. The Bald Mountain course is a par 29, nine-hole course. Holes vary from 111-yard, par 3 to a 263-yard, par 4.

Harriett Newman, a spokesman for the heart association said golf skills are not being emphasized, and that the program is being developed "to promote the idea of exercise for people who have had this sort of ailment."

"We are asking that people get their doctor's permission before entering the tournament," she said.

Celebrities registered to play include Detroit News columnist Pete Waldmier, Mr. and Mrs. Belvedere, Sir Graves Ghastly, Bozo the Clown, Detroit Free Press columnist Bob Talbert and Dearborn Councilman Bill Reeves.

Ms. Newman said the tournament is not a fund-raising activity, and the fees charged are intended only to cover cost.

The $10 entrance fee includes green fee, dinner, entertainment and prizes. Registration forms are available through Bald Mountain Golf Pro Jerry Prieskorn at 373-1110 or Harriett Newman at 557-9500.

Jim's Jottings

by Jim Sherman

I've talked to the winds before about secretaries who have to say, "Who's calling, please," so their bosses can pick and choose who to make excuses to for not paying their bills.

Not only am I losing this battle, but a trend of even worse dimensions is creeping up. Once you give your name the next question is, "What do you wish to speak to him about?"

We're answering Groucho Marx to the first one and sex to the second by which time I'm upset and hang up.

Don Davidson and I took our 10 and 12 year old daughters to a sandlot baseball game in Tiger stadium last week. They lost number 9 in a row that has reached a record 14.

The girls couldn't care less. There's still some excitement at the ol' ball park. And there are hot dogs, peanuts and souvenirs. Who cares if the Orioles won 4-2. Certainly not these dads and daughters.

While there I learned why the Tigers, Lions, Pistons and Wings are not fielding, flooring or icing championship clubs. The fellow in front of me clued me in.

"Scouting. They won't pay anything for scouting." Then this sports fan ran off a dozen names of players these teams could have had if they'd paid for caliber scouting.

That morning J.P. McCarthy was talking to Ron Kramer on WJR about how the pro teams pick players. It's all done by computers they agreed.

I would have brought that up to my new found advisor, except I felt he would tell me the Detroit pro teams aren't paying enough for IBMs and key punch operators.

About-our-business dept. — Besides the giant Los Angeles Times there are 19 community dailies and more than 300 community weekly newspapers in suburban Los Angeles. There are about 365 in the entire state of Michigan.

One more business note: Remember I told you how I planned for a strike last spring in newsprint supply, then let stock dwindle, only to have the strike hit last month?

We were saved from something or other with a shipment this week. Our supplier, Abitibi, was able to get stock from one of their un-struck mills.

However, two things are different. One is we have to reduce the sizes of our pages. It's only an inch and you won't see it for a couple weeks when our regular size is used up. The other is predictable. The price was up $26 a ton. When the strike is over there will undoubtedly will be another increase. So what else is new?

Rothermel liquor license extended

Robert Rothermel, Springfield Township resident who is developing a new bar/restaurant on the corner of Holly Road and the Dixie Highway, has received a one-year extension of his Class C liquor license.

The Springfield Township Board, who approved the license last July, could have asked the state liquor control commission to take away Rothermel's license if the board felt Rothermel hadn't made enough progress on the facility.

When the license was approved a year ago, the board stipulated that "satisfactory progress should be made" on the facility.

But Rothermel told the board, he was told by the state liquor control commission not to proceed with any building until he received notification that his license was approved.

That did not happen until April 28 of this year, so the board will allow Rothermel until next April 28 until it examines Rothermel's progress.

Storm damage repair, money coming

Springfield Township residents tired of dodging the pocked gravel on incoming Davisburg Road near the Mill Pond dam can expect relief by the end of August, according to Springfield Township Supervisor Don Rogers.

Rogers said the Oakland County Road Commission has assured him that the road will be blacktopped by the end of August.

The road was washed out by an April 18 rainstorm, and was since temporarily repaired with gravel.

The township can also soon expect $1,522 in federal disaster aid funds, allocated to the township as a result of the April 18 storm.

The federal Disaster Assistance Administration has approved that amount as compensation to the township for manhours put in by the township both during and after the storm.

Vets' disability increased

Checks ranging from $3 to $174 will be mailed in September to 2.2 million disabled veterans and 320,000 dependents who qualify for increases in their disability compensation and dependence in demnity compensation signed into law by President Ford on August 5.

The increases of 10 to 12 percent were effective August 1, but the change came too late to be incorporated in the checks to be mailed at the end of August.

A separate check for the amount of the increase will be mailed to beneficiaries during September. The new rates will be reflected in checks to be mailed at the end of September and in all subsequent monthly checks.

Monthly payments to single veterans with 10 percent disabilities were increased from $32 to $35. Veterans rated 100 percent under the General Schedule were raised from $584 to $655. For the most severely disabled, the maximum amount was raised from $1,454 to $1,628 monthly.

Sportsman's Club throws annual picnic

A rifle display drew a lot of attention.

Oakland County residents worked up a thirst Sunday at the Oakland County Sportsman's Club annual picnic, held on their club grounds on Waterford Road in Independence Township. Events at the picnic included canoe racing, midway games for children, a teen dance, and a bike drawing.

Corn on the cob was dished up for the event.

Ice cream cones were popular during the hot day.

Horseshoes was the game for some.

They fly by night, sell hardware by day

Dan Pustay restores antique airplanes.

It was a busy day at the store for Dan and Terri Pustay, new owners of the Davisburg Hardware. The Pustays, who bought the store from Clifford Shoens in April, are busy learning the inventory and keeping up with the season changes.

In between the requests for tractor belts, pump gaskets, catch locks and candy sticks, Dan and Terri found time to talk about their hobby, aviation.

Dan, originally from Dexter, Michigan, has always been interested in aviation. He and Terri first took flying lessons while living near Phoenix, Ariz.

Now Dan is into restoring antique airplanes. The 1942, P.T. 19 Fairchild he's working on won't be finished until next spring or summer. He's waiting on parts to be manufactured. Originally built by the Moeller Organ Company in New Jersey, the planes were of unvarnished wood and deteriorated quickly. They were not varnished because varnish was unavailable during wartime.

The first planes the Pustays restored were a 1941 Taylorcraft and a 1948 Stinson Station Wagon.

"It was a basket case," said Terri of the Taylorcraft.

"It actually came in baskets and boxes."

It was ready to have the fabric put on the exterior when the Pustays sold it.

A collectible, the Stinson Station Wagon was the Cadillac of the Stinsons. It had a wood interior and mohair headliners. In 1948 the plane, numbered N-502, was the brochure plane for the Stinson Company. It now belongs to a man in Kalamazoo.

Dan had lots of stories about the history of aviation. One he told was about the Stinson that was Lindbergh's third choice for his trans-Atlantic flight in 1927. The Stinson was Lindbergh's third choice because it had a Lycoming engine. The engine was new at the time and Lindbergh was wary of it.

"The engine was also used in the Cord automobile," Dan said.

After Lindbergh had rejected the Stinson, Ed Stinson, the manufacturer, flew it around the world to prove how good the machine was.

Lindbergh couldn't get his first choice, a Bellanca, because of price gouging by the manufacturer, so his second choice turned out to be "The Spirit of St. Louis." The plane was a Ryan made in California with a Wright engine.

Dan also told the story of the Wright engine. It appears a fellow in New Jersey perfected the engine making flights from the top of a house boat. His plane, however, was not perfected.

At the same time the Wright Brothers (who did not make the Wright engine) had perfected a plane but not an engine. "Too bad they didn't get together," Dan commented.

The Pustays don't have much time to enjoy their hobby. "We try to fly one day a week and Dan works on the plane on Sundays," Terri said. They also find time to attend antique plane shows and fly-ins. Instead of driving or walking to an event aviators fly in.

The Pustays also belong to the Hyne Field Chapter of the Experimental Aircraft Association based at Brighton. Each year there is a corn-roast fly-in. "There are peanut drops for the kids," Terri said. That means a plane flies over and drops peanuts and the kids find them.

On rainy days the enthusiasts go hangar flying, which means that they sit around in the hangar and talk aviation and pretend to fly, Terri explained.

Because the Pustays can't be out of the store enjoying planes, they have added planes to their vast inventory. Model airplanes, that is. They are a part of the toy line Dan and Terri are incorporating. "We want to carry more wooden toys for the children," Terri said. The planes are made by a Mr. Pearce of Dexter and the other wooden toys come from Metamora.

Although they have added this line they don't want to change the atmosphere. "People are really nice around here. They've taken the change real well," Terri said. She went on to relate an incident in which a customer asked for an item and Dan remarked, "I just found that. That's where it was," he said pointing, "but where did I put it?"

As a point of interest and information Dan said that a new store may be going in next door to the hardware. Frank Jackson of Dexter is planning on opening the "Old Airplane Store."

Clarkston News

The Clarkston (Mich.) News

Thurs., Aug. 14, 1975 21

Springfield CETA work extended

The Springfield Township Board will use $36,755 in federal unemployment assistance funds to extend current federal employees' jobs from February of 1976 to June 30 of 1976.

The Board received additional Title VI Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds, and had to decide whether it wanted to accept them at its meeting last Wednesday.

The board voted to extend the job periods of two assessor's helpers, two maintenance men, two office workers and two parks and recreation lifeguards.

The lifeguards will work until the end of this summer and then work next summer, also.

Thefts reported

A $500 set of custom-made golf clubs reportedly was stolen from the rack outside the Spring Lake Country Club, 6160 Maybee, Friday night, August 8.

Other larcenies reported to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies last week included an air conditioner and battery taken from a car stored in the backyard of a home on Claridge and the theft of a 10-speed bicycle from the garage area of a home on Summerhill.

gers is also in hopes of squeezing in at least part of a full-time township assessor's salary into the program, he said.

Rogers is looking in the $10,000 salary category, he said, and there are very few takers.

The township board also voted to send back $2,851 in Title II CETA funds to Oakland County.

The township received $14,000 in Title II money last month, and used $12,000 of it to hire an Oakland County Sheriff's deputy.

The additional $2,000 wouldn't be of much use to the township if kept, Rogers said. Title II stipulates that 50 percent of the employees hired should be absorbed, if possible, into the township payroll after the program is over.

A limited amount for a salary would be left-over from the $2,000 after benefits were taken out of it, there would also, Rogers said, not be enough to hire an additional person.

The township will be spending other federal funds shortly, too. Improvements in Dilly Road Park, drainage projects and other park development will be instituted from a $9,000 federal Community Development Act grant just received by the township.

Andersonville to get additional safety warnings

Andersonville Road won't be straightened out where it intersects with Big Lake Road, but additional safety measures will be taken to warn drivers of the severe curve.

James Dunleavy, District II County Commissioner, told Springfield Township supervisor Donald Rogers in a letter that he has discussed the Andersonville Road problem with the Oakland County Road Commission.

The Commission has assured Dunleavy, and told Rogers, that flashing lights and/or advance notice of the severe curve may be some additional measures taken at the intersection by the road commission.

Dunleavy was replying to a letter Rogers wrote him July 11 asking if something couldn't be done about the road.

Rogers has been trying to get the road commission to straighten Andersonville for some time, but the road commission said recently that such a project would not be feasible considering there were other projects in the township that needed more immediate attention.

Rogers also received a letter from State Rep. Claude Trim (D-Davisburg) concerning the Andersonville Road problem.

Trim stated that he didn't think the Andersonville straightening was as important as the Tindall Road paving, the widening of Big Lake Road east of Andersonville Road, and the ditching of all the township's rural roads.

Trim also has another road project in mind for the township. He sent a letter to the Oakland County Road Commission, asking that the commission look into the intersection of the Dixie Highway and Bridge Lake Road just south of I-75.

Trim said the intersection is busy because of incoming and outgoing traffic to the Northwest Oakland Vocational Center and Colomiere College.

The I-75 exit ramp onto southbound Dixie Highway also complicates matters, Trim wrote the road commission.

"I would hope that together we could solve this problem before we have any needless deaths or major accidents with our school buses," he concluded.

The area where I-75 intersects with the Dixie Highway is one of the most accident-burdened areas of the township, according to a map compiled since January by the Oakland County Sheriff's deputies assigned to Springfield.

Around that area, the map shows 16 accidents, seven of them involving injuries.

Her move a team effort

COUNTRY LIVING

by Hilda Bruce and Mary Warner

When you're single and female, it's tough to make the decision to move out of your maintenance-free apartment and into your own home.

But Jan Modesitt, math teacher and coach at the Clarkston High School, finally decided this summer that the one-bedroom apartment she had was just too small.

So she bought a three-bedroom brick home in Clarkston.

There was a lot of remodeling and cleaning to do before she moved into her new home, but Jan had an ace up her sleeve.

For three weeks before the move in, she had members of her basketball and softball teams, both present and past, helping her scrub out cupboards, paint and remodel.

She also had teachers helping out, like neighbor Janet Servoss, who helped Jan put cork up on the ten walls. And high school teachers Dick Moscovic and Bill Mackson, who covered the exterior soffits with aluminum.

For three weeks, the girls, along with Jan and her assistant basketball coach, Kathy DeArmond, scrubbed woodwork in the kitchen, scraped crud off the kitchen floor, washed walls and put four coats of paint on all of them.

"I don't like to work," Jan joked. "But when you get together to do it, it's fun. There's a lot of laughs."

The easy repartee Jan has with her girls was evident Thursday, as she and they sat around over breakfast, giggling at the remembrance of Nancy Chartier laboring over the oven during the clean-up.

"Dee-Dee (Miller) and I had to literally get down on our knees and scrape the kitchen floor," Jan related as Dee Dee tried to hide under her scrambled eggs. "But Dee did a good job, even though she has kind of a weak stomach for that kind of thing."

"Dee Dee's mother was also a big help. Not only did she find the house for me, she did most of the kitchen cleaning."

The girls laughed at that, and also remembered running down the street to use the water because the septic tank wasn't working. Jan had to tie into the sewer system right away.

When the house was cleaned and carpet laid, the girls proceeded with the task of moving Jan's belongings from apartment to house.

The belongings included gifts Jan had received from her various teams, including a director's chair imprinted with "coach" across the back, given to her by this year's softball team.

They had to tote in a large terrarium given to Jan by last year's basketball team, and a pillow emblazoned with "coach of the year" on one side and the girls' names on the other side, given to her by her 1970 basketball team.

They brought in the six-inch school bell given to her by her

Having breakfast with Miss Modesitt was her assistant coach Kathy DeArmond and team members Cathy Bunton, Diane Curry and Jane Church. Not pictured are Sheryl Stickley, Dede Miller and Nancy Chartier.

Dad "because every teacher needs a school bell."

They brought in a hanging lamp made out of egg cartons and fringe—a present from Miss Servoss.

And "Ferd the Frog," a bean bag animal with a broken arm, in a sling fashioned by Diane Currie. (Ferd's arm was a moving casualty.)

Jan has been coaching at Clarkston High for nine of her 10 years there. She has "always been a tomboy," she said, playing intermural sports in high school and in college.

She was asked to take over the basketball team when the former coach went on maternity leave, and said that even though she didn't know much about it, that she'd give it a try.

Every year now, she says, "I get a little more serious about coaching and the girls get more serious, too."

Serious, and successful, too, which may explain the loyalty of former players who come back to see the coach that did so much for the sport at Clarkston—and for them.

She often has a houseful of girls over, she said, which is why she needs the space her house affords.

"Team parties are kind of difficult to hold in an apartment."

"Sometimes," she said, "I feel guilty about taking up all this space by myself. But I use it all."

Jan still has a lot of work to do on the house, she said. But the bulk of it is done, with the ultimate goal of a home that's as maintenance-free as possible.

In the meantime, all the girls that pitched in for the cleaning and the move were treated to a Tiger baseball game Friday.

We didn't ask Jan if she was carefully pointing out pitching and batting techniques to the girls during that treat.

The team that won a cleaning victory is Kathy DeArmond, assistant coach, [left]; Jane Church, Dede Miller, Sheryl Stickley, Cathy Bunton, Diane Curry and Coach, Jan Modesitt.

Jane Church rests after helping teammates set up the ping pong table.

Campfire girls are busy at Oweki

Jeanne Stickney, Director for the present session of day camp at Camp Oweki, reports that the Campfire girls are doing things the old fashioned way. They are making butter, tying off a quilt, making jelly and apple butter from fruit found at Camp Oweki, and dying with dyes made from plants and roots.

The handcrafted items made by the girls are made from natural or recycled materials. Recycling has been taught at the camp for the 18 years that Jeanne Stickney has been associated with it, she said.

The camp is operated by the Pontiac Council of Camp Fire Girls, and is open to all members. Also attending are the "peanuts," three and four year old children of the volunteers. The sons of the workers are also camping under the guidance of an Eagle Scout.

Camp Fire Girls hang their cups to dry. Working with nature is one of the prime objectives at Camp Oweki.

Tying off a quilt is just one of the projects for Camp Fire Girls as they carry out the theme of "Old Fashioned Days" during the two week session now underway.

The band organ and part of his merry-go-round animal collection is displayed in the basement recreation room.

Young-at-heart

By Mary Warner
of The Clarkston News
Some men and women collect guns, records, stamps, coins or antiques.

But the spirit of childhood has been reserved by the Jon Abbots, new Clarkston residents.

The Abbots, who say they are "children at heart," collect merry-go-round animals.

Two years ago, Barbara and Jon went to an auction in Lapeer, where some merry-go-round horses were on sale.

Since Jon had been collecting antique and sports cars for 25 years, Barb decided she wanted a merry-go-round horse.

They bought one, an 1885 Loeff horse carved by the first merry-go-round carver in the United States.

But the horse sat in the Abbots' Southfield home basement for a year, until the Abbots discovered there was a club of merry-go-round collectors, called the National Carousel Round Table.

Davisburg Jaycees fighting the blahs

The Jaycee organization is for young men between the ages of 18 and 35.

Can its emphasis be shifted slightly to encompass more family involvement?

The Davisburg Area Jaycees hope so, as they make plans for a new year.

They look at their membership figures and they worry. Why are there just 20 men in the organization when there should be at least 35 to 40.

President Ted Taylor said the group hopes to change its image with the idea of dispelling lukewarm—if not downright negative—feelings from the Community.

One of the alterations being made is to get whole families involved in Jaycee-sponsored events. An example, Taylor said, was a recent picnic to which all Jaycees and their families and guests were invited.

Another successful social event last year was a '50s and '60s dance. A repeat performance is planned for this year.

With such functions, the Jaycees hope to interest all family members, rather than having the organization known as one which takes the men away from the home.

The other thrust the Davisburg Area Jaycees are planning to make is with their involvement in the community.

"As an organization, we try to improve each person's ability to cope with life," Taylor said. "In doing so, we do a lot of things for the community."

Many projects which the Jaycees undertake to benefit the Springfield area are never identified with the group, Taylor said.

A comment Taylor has heard more times than he cares to recall is that "the Jaycees don't do anything."

"People don't seem to know about the Halloween party, the Christmas party, the Easter Egg hunt, the playground equipment we bought for the Mill Pond," he said.

The Jaycees want to undertake other projects and would like to know what residents see as community needs. Also, some of them are wondering if a chapter name change to include Springfield, the area served by the chapter, would make any difference.

The needs of the community, and the desires of young men in the community to meet those needs, will be discussed at a meeting of the chapter is holding tonight (Thursday). Any men interested in finding out about the organization, or in supplying some ideas are invited to attend the meeting at 8 p.m. at the township hall.

Bodacious!

Snuffy Smith, comic strip chicken thief, may be on the loose in Independence Township.

A woman reported to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies Aug. 5 that 13 chickens had been stolen from a pen behind the garage of her home in the southeast portion of the township. She set the value of the chickens at $26.

This is a Denzel horse from the inside second row of a merry-go-round.

Papier mache horse was designed by a member of the National Carousel Round Table for its first convention.

couple has unusual hobby

The Round Table had a convention in Flint last year, and that's when the Abbotts got hooked on merry-go-rounds.

"We found out people have merry-go-rounds in their back yards," Barbara said, "and that's what we want to do."

That is, in fact, the reason the Abbotts moved to Clarkston — to get a bigger back yard for their planned merry-go-round.

To date, the Abbotts have 12 merry-go-round animals, including the Loeff, three Denzels, one Parker, and Spillmans that include a dog, a pig and a chicken.

The dog is very rare, Jon said. It, the pig and the chicken were all taken off the same merry-go-round in Ohio.

The Abbotts also have a chariot, which is a seat pulled by two horses on merry-go-rounds that "grandma rode."

In addition, the Abbotts have a genuine Wurlitzer—the mechanical organ that plays music in the center of merry-go-rounds.

It is vintage 1927, and was purchased by Jon north of Muskegon from a resort and then restored.

Standing about five feet tall, the Wurlitzer blasts out carnival music in the Abbotts' family room basement, aided by a drum and symbols attached to each side that are struck automatically.

So into the amusements phase are the Abbotts that they have also collected pinball machines and even a miniature toy merry-go-round and roller coaster.

The merry-go-round mania is growing in the country, the Abbotts said, the National Carousel Association boasting 500 members.

The purpose of the organization is to preserve old park machines, Barbara said.

"(The merry-go-round animals) are getting scarcer and scarcer these days," Barbara said, "and more and more people are looking for them."

Scarce, too, are actual merry-go-rounds, or carousels, as the Association calls them. Jon has been following leads for months on the possible purchase of one for his back yard, but has not been successful.

There are still 300 of the antique carousels operating in the United States, he said.

In the meantime, the Abbotts will be busy renovating their present animals. The wooden horses, pig, dog and chicken have to be stripped, reglued, wood-filled and re-painted.

And of course, the Abbotts will be busy with Jon's other hobby — collecting cars.

He has a 1947 Silver Wraith Rolls Royce and a 1951 MG-TD. And a small Tin Lizzie for the girls — Kari and Kelly — to ride on.

He also has a large collection of model cars, including 30 Rolls Royces.

And the couple belong to eight car clubs, which keeps them busy. Jon is vice-chairman of the Rolls Royce Owners' Club of Michigan.

A manufacturer's sales representative, Jon travels constantly.

Oh, yes, he added — he also collects circus posters.

Jon is proud of his 1947 Rolls Royce. He is vice-chairman of the Rolls Royce Owners' Club of Michigan.

Toy merry-go-round and roller coaster were picked up by Jon at an antique shop.

A Spillman carving of a dog due for restoration.

Art Show

by Mary Warner,
phone 625-3370

Keatington Antique Village's eighth annual Art Show will be held Saturday and Sunday, August 16 and 17 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Over 100 area artists will exhibit original work in paintings, sculpture, ceramics, weaving, leaded glass and silver-smithing. Many artists will demonstrate their techniques.

It is on Joslyn Road, Orion Township, two miles north of I-75.

There is free parking, and no admission.

The January and June graduating class of 1945 at former Pontiac High School (now Pontiac Central) will be holding a 30th-year class reunion October 11 at Pine Knob.

There will be a society hour from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., dinner and then dancing. All old classmates are urged to contact Jack Hayes at 858-0553, Joan Miller at 625-9363 or Naomi Griffin at 682-0850 by September 20.

Cost of the Pine Knob affair will be $25 per couple.

After eating their fill nearly 50 men played volley ball and bocce ball at the annual Jaycee-Rotary picnic hosted by the Clarkston Jaycees at Yannigan's.

Steve and Judy Felt have another daughter. Born July 24, Stacy Jo joins Shelley, 5 and Sheri, 2 at their Guyette Street Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carl and children Sean and Christy visited the Bill Dennis family of Eastlawn Thursday Aug. 7. Jim attended a Michigan Association of School Administrators conference at Pine Knob.

Seven area couples camped and canoed on the Au Sable, Aug. 1, 2, and 3. Only one couple overturned a canoe, reported Pat Dennis. The overturned canoe was paddled by the Braff Chases. Others on the trip were the Dave Coutures, the Zane Pryomskis, the Jim Arnolds and the Al Hamiltons. Ask Vicci Hamilton what happened to her.

Lois Kirkendorfer, who with her husband Don is stationed at Luke Air Force Base in Phoenix, Ariz., gave birth to her first child Aug. 8.

Robert Howard Kirkendorfer, who weighed 8 pounds 8 ounces at birth is the first grandchild of the Robert Hoopingarners of 6416 E. Church and of the Howard Kirkendorfers of Tucson, Ariz.

The Clarkston Conservationists 4-H group sent us a note. They want to thank area merchants for making their picnic last Monday a success.

Members of the group took 15 children from Oakland County Children's Village to a picnic at Holly Recreation Area.

Without the donations, the picnic would not have been possible, according to president of the group, Tammy Mosier.

Rudy's Market donated 50 hotdogs, Ritter's Market donated two watermelons, Richardson's Dairy donated four gallons of fruit drink and A&P donated three bags of potato chips.

The group extends its thanks, too, to Pat White, Linda Ledbetter and Laura Brantley for helping entertain the younger children.

Anyone interested in joining the 4-H group can come to the meetings, held on Tuesdays at independence center from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

J. H., a lady on Maple Drive in Clarkston, will be celebrating her (39th?) birthday on Friday, Aug. 15. Happy birthday, kid!

The General Richardson Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) will hold a rededication service at the grave site of Mrs. Lydia Barnes Potter on August 16 at 2 p.m. at the Paint Creek Cemetery.

The cemetery was known as Baldwin Cemetery at the time of Mrs. Potter's death in 1836, and is located on Orion Road in Oakland Township.

Lydia Barnes Potter fought in the Revolutionary War behind the front lines. She spun and wove wool and cut and made the garments for the soldiers.

It is said she worked in a bent position over her cutting board so long that she was never able to stand upright. After the death of Mrs. Potter's husband, Lemuel Potter, she came to Michigan and made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Needham and Marilla Hemingway.

In 1911 the General Richardson Chapter placed a marker at the gravesite and now the marker is gone and the grave-stone broken.

At the August 16 rededication service the chapter is re-issuing the marker and having the stone restored.

Registration for Oakland University's fall term will be held Aug. 28-29 in the Office of the Registrar, room 16-1 North Foundation Hall.

The offices will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Aug. 28. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Aug. 29. More than 10,000 full- and part-time students are expected for the fall term that opens Sept. 2.

The Aug. 28-29 registration covers all credit students with the exception of those taking off-campus, evening sessions. Registration for those students will be held in the respective sites on the first night of classes.

The engagement of Cynthia K. Booker to Delton Chamberlin has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Booker of 7901 Holcomb. The wedding has been set for Sept. 13. Chamberlin, employed by a Gaylord building contractor, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gibbs of Knoxville, Tenn. He graduated from Waterford Kettering High School. The bride-to-be is a touring pro with the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

Olden days revisited →

Remember those still pictures of old, when families gathered together for outdoor fun and activities? Some members of the Seymour Lake United Methodist Church gathered together for a picture representative of the old life to publicize the church's upcoming Heritage Days, scheduled for Friday and Saturday at the fire hall across from the church on Sashabaw Road. An ice cream social will be held at 6:30 p.m. Friday and a square dance at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, there will be a dinner at the church at noon, followed by a program. Recreating yesteryear are Richard Allen [left], Mrs. Sally Cook, Ann Fairse [sitting, left], Bernadine Miller, Dolly Fairse [far right], and, peeking out of the tree, Brad Allen.

The games between children and parents

Make a mental note

by Jim and Ellen Windell

Psychological staff members of the Oakland County Juvenile Court and Clinical Resources, Incorporated

This column is not about Transactional Analysis, despite its title. The games we refer to are the fun games that involve interaction between children and their parents.

Play is the child's natural form of expression. Playing games helps to bring a youngster into a communicative relationship with others in his world, especially adults. But parents sometimes encounter difficulties when playing certain games, for instance board and table games, with their children. Everyone knows games should be fun, but how does the adult assure this? If there is no pleasure in a game, then the parent has lost a valuable chance for communication. One of the things that often interferes with the game's fun is the aspect of competition. The object of most, if not all games, is to win.

Since adults have advantages in most such games, they may think their continual winning will humiliate the child and prevent a feeling of accomplishment or actually cause a decrease in the child's self esteem. On the other hand, the parent can manage to lose, but may feel that the child will lose faith and trust in him if he intentionally loses and, therefore, does not actually play by the rules.

Children who have great feelings of inadequacy may rely heavily on winning to compensate for low self-esteem. A child who "needs" to win may be a "poor loser" and thus ruin the pleasure of everyone involved.

No child should be allowed to always win; the world is not structured to treat people so kindly. We all lose, at times, in real life. However, a child who feels bad about losing or may quit in mid-game in tears and anger because he or she is losing, needs some assistance from the adult.

In some cases, a parent may contrive to lose and such duplicity used sparingly might be justified. Certainly, such a child should never be ridiculed or reminded that he is a loser.

There are several things that a parent might say to a child who has a strong need to win. Congratulations on playing an improved game can be given heartily. Also, the child might be told that the parent's opinion of him is not based on whether he wins or loses a game.

A parent might add the following: "When I was your age, I used to lose all the time to my father (mother), too. But I practiced and got better and sometimes I could beat him when I got older. However, my opinion of you is based on many, many things that are more important than whether you win or lose a game. I love you as much when you lose as when you win."

Spiritual Message

In this, my first contribution to this weekly endeavor, may I say that it is good to be in Clarkston. It is a remarkable chain of events that brings me to this appointment in Clarkston where I was born!

The Christian faith is personal loyalty to a person: "The Church's one foundation is Jesus Christ her Lord." He is the cornerstone, the source, and the power of the church. Each Christian is to know the Lord. Yet how can I know the Lord? He is of the past. The times we live in are photographic — with instant pictures on TV and Polaroids developed in a few seconds. There are no photographs of Jesus. He seems unreal!

While there are no photographs, there are portraits of Jesus. A portrait is as the artist sees the person — not a photograph, but a likeness, a study. The Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John are portraits. Our informed knowing based on scripture and on life's experiences leads each of us to know the Lord.

The poet writes:
Jesus hid within a Book
Isn't worth a second look.
Jesus buried in a creed
Is a helpless Christ indeed.
But Jesus in the hearts of men
Shows His saving power again.
To put into words your own religious experience is one of the most worthwhile things you can possibly do. More important than the recognition that the Christian religion is historical, or that the Christian faith is creedal, is the testimony that the Christian faith is personal. Having been in England a little while this summer and having seen the veneration of buildings and events in centuries gone by, I am struck again by the conviction that present-day faith is only assured by contemporary, personal experience. No legacy of the past can take the place of current, vital, personal faith.

The Negro spiritual sings out, "I know the Lord laid His hands on me." John Wesley, of his experience at Aldersgate in London, said, "I felt my heart strangely warmed." This kind of knowing is the expression of vital, vibrant, valid Christian commitment.

Business growing despite recession

Dee and Ron Sandage relax in one of the new colonial settings of their showroom.

Going from 1,600 square feet to 13,000 square feet is no small task. That's why Deron's Furniture and Appliance, 7183 N. Main, has been in a constant state of renovation for the last 10 years.

But Deron's owners Ron and Dee Sandage aren't kicking about the occasional disarray they are in. Because the store has gone from $64,000 income its first year to well over one half million this year.

And the customers keep flocking in, despite an economic recession that has curtailed sales and prompted many businesses to wait until better times to begin expanding their business.

Ron Sandage says he gets most of the store's business through word of mouth--and the store's goal is to send customers away satisfied and ready to tell someone else about the Clarkston store.

The store will be celebrating its 12th anniversary this month, beginning August 15. The store was located from 1963 to 1967 at 6 N. Main, and then moved to its present location.

The latest renovation includes a back section of the store that is filled with various early American room settings. Deron's hopes eventually to make its entire store complete room settings.

Sandage said his thriving business may in part be due to his complete lines of furniture, such as Fléxsteel and Norwalk.

INDEPENDENT view

We wonder if the hard time Clarkston gave to the Michigan State Highway Department over planned changes in M-15 had anything to do with the department's latest move.

The highway department has announced a toll-free number it has set up for anyone wishing information on the planning of state highway and transportation proposals.

They say the telephone service is a means of "opening the door to the planning process of all state and highway transportation projects."

They say once the State Highway Commission has approved a project it is no longer in the planning stages. "But until that final decision is made, our planning process on any given proposal is fluid, ever-changing and open to all citizens."

The new service began Monday at 8 a.m., and will be in operation from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The number to call is 1-800-292-9576.

Two applications have been submitted by Springfield Township residents for dredging projects in Springfield Township to the State Department of Natural Resources. Robert Aldrich of Ellis Road has applied to dredge part of a lot on Wau-me-gah Lake. Robert Kohn of Shore Drive wants to dredge a portion of the shoreline on Dixie Lake. Anyone objecting to the dredging must write to the DNR.

Don Rogers, Springfield Township supervisor, is steering clear of anything that even remotely smacks of conflict of interest.

Rogers was working for Detroit Edison before he was elected supervisor last November.

Edison is the company that will be installing three street lights on Enterprise Drive and the Dixie Highway.

So when the township board voted to okay setting up a special assessment district for property owners to pay for the lights, Rogers abstained from voting.

The six or seven Springfield Township property owners who didn't cut their weeds this summer, forced the township to cut them, and then did not pay the bill the township sent for the cutting, will have to pay up via their tax bills.

The township board voted to set up a special assessment for the offenders, at its Wednesday meeting.

Tom White of Burnham and Flower Insurance Co. of Kalamazoo has been selected to oversee the new retirement program recently set up by the Springfield Township Board for township employees.

Only 12 people showed up to register their bikes in Springfield two weeks ago. The bike registration was put on by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. Deputies assigned to Springfield Township say they will not hold another registration until fall when school resumes.

All construction code appeal cases will go before the Independence Construction Board of Appeals, the Clarkston Village Council decided Monday night.

The council also adopted by reference the township electrical codes and an amendment to the plumbing portion of the construction code.

Electrical outlets will be constructed at the Depot Road parking lot for the Clarkston Jaycees Carnival to be held over Labor Day weekend.

Jaycee John Jones asked the Clarkston Village Council for $360 Monday night to pay for the hookups. Jones said he figured the Village should pay for the outlets since other groups can make use of them for future events. He said he would take the responsibility for getting the work done.

The Council approved the expenditure of no more than $360. Jones said the Jaycees would pay up the additional money if the outlets run over that amount.

Assistant school superintendent Mel Vaara looked like he was anxious to get the meeting over with at Monday's school board meeting. The mystery was solved just before adjournment when Vaara announced "I was born a United States citizen 42 years ago today." He wanted to go celebrate his birthday. He didn't even blush when revealing that he was two years over the halfway mark

Inflation has ravaged most prices these days, but despite a $991 deficit in the school lunch budget in the Clarkston School District, school lunches at Clarkston will not go up, assistant superintendent Milford Mason announced to the school board.

Lunches will remain the same—55 cents for secondary and 50 cents for elementary.

But alas, milk prices are subject to market fluctuations, Mason said, and there's no way of telling what they will be. Hopefully a nickel, he said.

The Michigan House of Representatives has approved a $1.40 per capita increase in state revenue-sharing funds for Springfield Township, State Rep. Claude Trim (D-Davisburg) has informed township officials.

The house bill provides for $22 per person in the township for 1975-76, rather than 1974-75's $20.60.

With Springfield Township's increasing population, that could mean revenue-sharing for Springfield upwards of $127,000.

That's up from $89,300 for 1974-75.

Trim said the township may also be helped with per capita revenue-sharing figures by a new bill in the house. The bill would let any township that's had an increase of 15 percent or more in population conduct its own census. Springfield Township has jumped 31 percent in population since 1970.

Township librarian visits homeland

By Hilda Bruce of The Clarkston News
"The heat was unbearable", said Sushil Lahiri, Independence Township librarian, of his trip to India. After living in India for 30 years he had not expected it to bother him. "But after nine years on the North American Continent my body had adjusted differently," he said.

The Lahiris', Sushil, his wife Minati and daughter Christina recently spent six weeks in Bengal. The major reason for the trip was to show their homeland to their daughter. She was only three when the Lahiris came to the United States, and had no memories of India. Now she does.

Much like the Bahamas in flora Bengal is the lush tropical area of India. The River Ganges, the most prominent River in this river basin, leads to the Bay of Bengal.

The skyline of Calcutta, their home town, has changed drastically in nine years. Multi-story buildings and high rise apartments are everywhere, and more are under construction. The building boom is a direct result of the population explosion. Thirteen million of India's 700 million people reside in Calcutta. "Human heads are everywhere you look. It would appear India has reached a point of no return", said Lahiri. People flock to the urban areas in search of employment. If they don't find it they beg, steal, filch just to live, he explained. Even so, Calcutta is a clean city. It has been greatly improved by the Calcutta Metropolitan Planning Organization.

Although resources are severely strained there "seems to be no more poverty than before. At the same time there is fabulous wealth," Lahiri commented. "It is difficult to cross the street. They are filled with every vehicle imaginable--cars, trucks, push-carts, rickshaws, bikes. While touring Calcutta the Lahiris visited Dakshineswar Temple, a spiritual landmark built by the famous and wealthy Queen Rashmoni.

One of the greatest mystics of the 19th Century, Ram Krishna Paramhansa was an officiating priest of the temple. His disciples came to the western world, preached Hinduism and established missions.

The Lahiris' itinerary also included the ancient Islamic capital, Muirshi Dabad, on the River Ganges. Built in the 17th century, its massive palaces and mosques are magnificent. "The ruins, too, are impressive and awe-inspiring", said Lahiri.

The Buddhist center of Nalanda is imposing even in ruins, he said. The university flourished from the fifth to the 12th century, when it was destroyed in the Muslim invasion led by the conqueror Bakhtiar Khilji.

Rajgir "Place of Kings" is a place of pilgrimage for Buddhists and Jains (a religious sect resembling Buddhism), as it is one of the spots where Buddha preached. Five temples sit atop five hills. "Although many sick visit Rajgar to bathe in the mineral waters" Lahiri said, "it is the cleanest place I've seen in my life."

Rajgar is also the most ancient Bengal capital, founded in the second century B.C. The foundations and city walls are still there. "It is a living museum—living history." It was also a city of horrors for Buddhists (as the guillotine attests) when Buddhism was driven from India by the Hindu son of Bibimsara, a converted Buddhist.

The center of world peace, Visiwa Shanti Stup, is built on another spot Buddha visited, surrounded by his followers. The legends of his life, ministry and death are carved upon the walls.

While visiting relatives in Bhagalpur, Mr. Lahiri purchased a sari for his wife, Minati. Bhagalpur Silk is very famous and to illustrate its quality, the salesman passed the sari, some seven yards in length and one and a half yards in width, through his finger ring. "Not too expensive, either", Lahiri said, "$17 or $18.

Of the political situation, Lahiri is optimistic. He explained that at one time the government was too liberal. Now there is some direction.

"For the past 25 years, India has been consistently going down-hill because of the self-seeking motives of the political parties and the indifference of the people", Lahiri said. He explained that the people never appreciated the democratic principles. "The irresponsible electorate was taking the country to ruin."

Administration was at a standstill because of the chaos created by the businessmen, he said, who controlled the government, and the opposition party. He related that they did such things as create artificial shortages, and reaped the harvest. "There were no changes for the good," he said.

It is his opinion that Indra Ghandi had to have special power to declare emergencies, to ban political parties that served no purpose, and to ban anti-social activities such as public processions (strikes) which were a daily occurrence before. Now the government machinery is moving.

"It was quite an experience visiting the historical sites", Lahiri said. "We saw as much as possible in six weeks." They're glad to be back in Clarkston and anxiously await a visit by relatives from India in September.
