By Hilda Bruce and Jean Saile
of The Clarkston News
Springfield Township Parks and Recreation Commission meets Monday night and the summer recreation program at Andersonville School will be continued at least until the day after.

That's the word from Independence Township Supervisor J. Edwin Glennie whose recreation department, he says, still expects reimbursement from Springfield Township in the amount of about $525 for the eight-week program.

The figure quoted is actual out-of-pocket expense for Independence Township. The balance of the cost is met by some $200 received as registration fees and nearly $1,000 in federal CETA funds which provides salaries for the directors, he explained.

If Springfield is to come up with the funds necessary to keep the program going, it will be up to its recreation commission to make recommendations, according to Springfield Supervisor Donald Rogers.

Glennie said he had told Rogers last summer that Independence would no longer be able to underwrite the program.

"Last summer we took a reading out there (at Andersonville) and found the program is attended almost 100 percent by Springfield Township kids," Glennie explained. "We cannot knowingly spend Independence tax dollars for the benefit of Springfield residents, whether they are residents of Clarkston School District or not," he said.

Independence Recreation Department began the program at Andersonville even as it started programs at the other Clarkston School District elementary schools which are located in Independence Township. The programs have been in existence in some degree for almost ten years.

The Andersonville program has been called the most successful of all. Some 50 to 60 kids take part daily, learning arts and crafts, taking part in games and participating in weekly field trips.

Glennie contends it isn't so much "politics" which has endangered the successful program as it has been a "lack of communication."

Once the attendance survey was taken last summer, he says Rogers was informed that Independence could not continue to meet the costs of the program.

At that time the costs were estimated at $2,000 and that was the figure included in Springfield Parks and Recreation Commission budget this year. It was stricken when the township board reduced the requested $28,410 total to $9,000. Also cut back was all salary provisions for a program director.

Should the Andersonville program be dropped by both Independence and Springfield, Springfield would be left with one supervised play program only at the Davisburg Mill Pond.

That possibility has made several residents of the Andersonville area extremely irate. They met twice over the weekend and attended the Clarkston Board of Education meeting Monday night to state their concern.

"We live in a never-never land," said Mary Jane Chaustowich, one of the parents. "Because we are in the Clarkston School District, Springfield Township doesn't pay any attention to us. We are oriented towards Clarkston, but Independence Township is not concerned with us because we are in Springfield Township."

Some of the parents have questioned the use of school facilities for a recreation program in Independence but not in Springfield.

"We all pay school taxes," they say.

Schools Supt. Milford Mason said school facilities have been made available to the recreation program under certain conditions—that they would be made available to Springfield the same as to Independence.

"But it has never been the intent of the schools to get directly involved in a recreation program," he explained.

Because of the debacle over the Andersonville program, parents are also expressing worries about the future of their youngsters who, though residents of Springfield, are participants in Independence Township's summer baseball program.

Recreation officials say that programs offered primarily for school age youngsters make no distinction as to residency. The only requirement is that their home unit of government does not offer a similar program.

Treasurer Betty Hallman points out that many recreation programs make provision to charge non-residents additional fees.

And as to how the Andersonville program got started this year without funding?

Mike Engan, assistant recreation director, says, "We just went ahead with the program, assuming the township officials would work out the money problems with each other."

Rogers reportedly did not reply to a spring letter spelling out costs until after the department already had its program underway at Andersonville.

But according to Glennie, it looks like things may work out. "I think we were able to make it clear at a meeting Saturday afternoon in Springfield that we cannot legally continue to underwrite the program. I think Springfield parents want Springfield Township to pick up the cost," he said.

NOVEC addition subject of meetings

There are a couple of special Clarkston School Board meetings ahead.

The board will meet at 3 p.m. July 20 to open bids for the $692,000 addition proposed for Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center and again at 7:30 p.m. July 27 to award the bids.

Half the money for construction has been promised by the Oakland Intermediate School District, the balance by the state, according to Supt. Milford Mason.

Leak is president again; board plans info, policy updates

David Leak has been reelected chairman of the Clarkston Board of Education. He was accorded four votes to two for new board member Eric Reickel cast by secret ballot at the board's organizational meeting Monday night.

Reickel was named vice president, put into office by the absentee vote of his rival, Robert Walters. Fernando Sanchez was reelected secretary and Janet Thomas was named treasurer.

The board, despite what Sanchez termed a disappointing turnout last year, will repeat its four special board meetings in schools of the district. The schools and the meeting dates will be picked later.

Regular meetings will take place as usual at 8 p.m. the second Monday of the month at the Clarkston Board of Education office on Clarkston Road.

Board salaries were continued at $150 a year, and indications are that the policy governing board attendance at conventions will remain the same.

It provides for district payment of the expenses of board representatives, but it does not specify whether those representatives can include spouses.

The policy book is being revised and altered by Clarkston Junior High School assistant principal Duane Lewis who has already suggested 65 new policies. There are nearly a hundred deletions and revisions, he said.

Despite objections by Trustee Carolyn Place, the board won't have an opportunity for input until Lewis has finished the initial work by the August board meeting.

The board has scheduled three study sessions to follow in which it intends to go over Lewis' recommendations. Lewis is doing the work on an internship program for Eastern Michigan University.

When completed it will amount to something between 300 and 400 pages, Lewis said.

Dawn Lynette McClusky, 18, 9925 M-15, was taken to Pontiac General Hospital Monday for treatment of a ruptured spleen.

She was trapped in a car Monday morning which Oakland County deputies said she drove too fast as she rounded the bend on Clarkston Road at Almond Lane.

The car went off the road and into a ditch on the south side of the road. No ticket was issued. Mrs. McClusky was alone in the car.

assistant principal at Clarkston High School, involves district public relations.

Kirchgessner said only 70 of 289 questionnaires dealing with board information have been returned to the office. The survey attempted to determine adults' relationship with the schools and the flow of information to them.

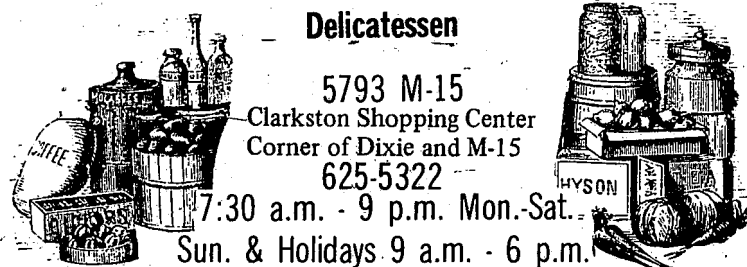

He also obtained approval to proceed with plans for the printing of an insert to The Clarkston News, due for distribution August 19, which will outline things parents should know about the coming school year.

Kirchgessner said the district would purchase the number of pages necessary to get its message to the people. The newspaper would provide for distribution to every resident of the district, he added.

2 join administrative line-up

Clarkston Board of Education has appointed two new central office administrators and set their salaries.

William Neff of 5662 Warbler has been employed as director of elementary education at a starting salary of $26,594.

His job complements that of Melvin Vaara who was earlier named director of secondary education. His salary Monday night was set at $29,079.

Conrad J. Bruce, 5384 Guyette, has been named administrative assistant in charge of personnel relations, athletics and student services. His salary was set at $27,287 over the objections of new board member, Vincent Luzi.

Luzi who is assistant personnel director for Oakland County said the figure is high for comparable jobs in other types of government or in industry.

Bruce will have charge of negotiations, contract management and fringe benefits as part of his personnel duties. He has been a school district employe for 12 years.

Neff comes to the district from his present job as principal of Whitfield Elementary School in Pontiac. He is married to Dorothy and has three children.

Bruce, who was assistant principal at the high school, prior to being named to his board office duties last year, is married to Hilda. They are the parents of three.

Mildred Rundell has been named to take over his data processing duties. Her salary was set at $12,000 by the board Monday night.

Mrs. Barbara Cowan was named office manager and secretary to the superintendent.

Freak accident kills girl

A freak accident at 4:21 Saturday afternoon killed Cynthia K. Pidd, 19, of 7169 Deer Lake Road as she walked home along White Lake Road in front of Deer Lake beach.

Cynthia, a 1975 graduate of Clarkston High School who had attended Central Michigan University last year, was going home following her work shift as a lifeguard at the beach.

She was struck by a boat and trailer hauled by a car driven by Roy Kelly, 16, of Garden Grove, Calif. Kelly had four others in the car with him and had reportedly just removed the boat from the lake. The boat, after striking Cynthia, destroyed a portion of the fence along the beach.

Sheriff's deputies Dan Martin and Mike Ferguson, who investigated said all safety qualifications had been met; that the trailer had managed freakishly to become unhitched as the car went across the small bridge which connects Deer to Middle Lake.

Cynthia was taken by ambulance to Pontiac General Hospital where she was pronounced dead at 5:45 p.m.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pidd. A sister, Winifred, lives in Empire, Mich., while Thomas and Sara remain at home.

Memorials may be made to the Clarkston High School Student Aid Fund.

She will be paid $11,750 for the job which for the exception of finance direction parallels that held by retiring Louise Jarvis.

Stan Darling, named a year ago as business manager, has been raised to $19,270 salary.

All figures mentioned are supplemented by a 5 percent of salary retirement fund contribution which will be absorbed by the district this year. The payment will become mandatory next year, according to state law.

Other administrators' pay and the salaries of secretaries, custodians, head custodians and cook managers were settled by the board Monday night.

Board President Dave Leak quoted the non-professional raises as averaging about 8 percent. He said he was in favor of them as they succeeded in making the pay for those positions comparable with private industry.

Monday night was new superintendent Milford Mason's first meeting. He said all administrative personnel changes which he contemplates making, with the exception of one elementary principal appointment, have been completed.

The principal will replace David Westlund who has asked because of health reasons to return to classroom teaching.

Walkway to Deer Lake approved

The death of a 19-year-old Clarkston girl near Deer Lake beach Saturday has in part been responsible for Clarkston Village's decision to construct a walkway to the beach.

Although Deer Lake Road resident Cynthia Pidd did not die because of a lack of a walkway in the area, her death pointed up the dangers in allowing young people to traverse the area from Clarkston to the beach without benefit of a path.

Citing safety needs as its primary reason, the Village Council Monday decided to spend $5,000 in federal CDA funds to construct a blacktopped path.

The walk would be eight feet wide, serving both bikes and pedestrians, and would run southwest from the village park on Depot Road to the beach entrance off White Lake Road.

Village Department of Public Works employes will prepare the bed for the walkway, with contractors putting in the blacktop.

The council Monday authorized Kieft Engineering to draw up specifications for the walkway. Bids for paving are expected to be authorized at the next council meeting.

Use of the 1976 CDA funds for the walkway precludes an earlier plan by the council to use the funds for lighting and landscaping in the newly-paved Depot Road parking lot.

According to DPW director Gar Wilson, future expansion of the parking lot might make landscaping impractical now, anyway.

Garner offered platting if...

Independence Township is offering developer Hubert Garner the chance to plat a 115-lot subdivision northwest of Clarkston if Garner promises to drop two suits against the township.

The offer was made in a consent judgment the township drew up and submitted to Garner's development firm recently.

Garner would be allowed to plat 15,000 square foot lots, but would have to maintain enough open space within the 90-acre parcel to satisfy density requirements in the R-2 zoning.

In return, Garner could not ask any rezoning on the remainder of his 320 acres surrounding Deer Lake for an as yet unspecified amount of time.

That means a suit in Oakland County Circuit Court disputing the township's denial of previous rezoning requests by Garner would have to be dropped for the time being by Garner.

A $1 million suit against the township, charging various township officials with violating Garner's civil rights, would also have to be dropped — this one forever.

That suit was dismissed in Detroit Federal District Court several months ago by Judge Lawrence Gubow. But Garner has since asked a rehearing on the case.

A hearing on the matter was set for Monday but adjourned according to Independence Township attorney Richard Campbell.

Another hearing was set up in Gubow's court for August 2.

The consent judgment was almost ready to be approved by both sides a few weeks ago,

But Deer Lake residents asked that the time limit barring rezoning requests by Garner be extended from a proposed two years to five years.

Our deepest sympathy to the family of

Cynthia Kay Pidd

She will live on in the hearts of those she touched.

Barrier free variances asked for old Post Office

Attorney Dennis M. Kacy got reinforcement from the Clarkston Village Council Monday in his attempt to receive variances to barrier free design restrictions on the old post office.

The attorney recently purchased the building from Pontiac State Bank.

Kacy is trying to remodel the structure as an office, but needs variances from the state Barrier Free Commission on the size of proposed bathrooms and on the requirement for a lift up to the front entrance.

The council Monday voted to send a letter to the state commission supporting Kacy's request for the variances.

Kacy said in a letter to the Barrier commission that the post office vault, which will be left intact, prohibits larger bathrooms.

He says the building's proximity to the street makes a lift from the building's 10 steps to the door impossible.

If granted the variances, Kacy will go ahead with plans for four offices, a conference room, the bathrooms and an entranceway in 1,258 square feet inside the building.

He ultimately plans for three attorneys including himself, one paralegal and one secretary to use the facilities.

Kids aren't political game

It's easy to tell it's an election year when: Elected officials who seek reelection blame everybody else but themselves for things gone wrong. When citizens who could scream into the wind about problems suddenly get all the forums they can handle; And maybe even some solutions, too.

It's a dead issue

It is to laugh! Independence Township's decision to evict those tenants of Lakeview Cemetery whose resting places have not been paid for raises some interesting possibilities. Can a dead person legally be held responsible for his debts to the extent that he is the one who will be made to pay the penalty? If that's the case I wonder what effect making an example of one will have on the balance. We doubt that we'll ever find out.

Who am I?

Who am I, God? Who is this person that stands here not knowing which way to turn next? What is inside this body, this strange inner being... tearing, ripping, pulling this way and that—not really knowing the things it wants. Who am I, Lord? How can I figure it out? What seems to be my problem? Why is it every time I try something new it really never seems to work out? Who am I, Lord? Some stupid kid that really doesn't know you, or a person that thinks she's got to be "super cool" to have any friends at all? Who am I Lord? I really don't know. That is why I need your help, guidance and love to help me find myself. I know you will help me, and all I can say is "thanks."

We're talking about the Andersonville recreation program in particular and the Springfield Township supervisor's puzzlement Monday night that his recreation commission should have cut the $2,000 originally budgeted for the summer playground program out of its budget. Rogers had nothing to say about the township board which cut the recreation department's admittedly optimistic budget by $20,000 to $9,000.

Citizens who have complained have been getting hearings from Springfield and Independence Township officials and Monday night the matter was brought before Clarkston School Board.

Our hope is that since the costs of the program have been more realistically figured at about $525 that the Springfield rec group will recommend payment.

Kids shouldn't be made to suffer for the politics of their parents.

It's getting so it would be a delight to be able to disagree with some of our political candidates. I seem instead to be mucking around in a soft swamp of no real substance, and frequently with no real convictions.

The say-nothing stance was carried to a fine point of perfection by one of our county commissioners at last week's board meeting.

He managed to stay tied up on a phone away from the auditorium while a number of controversial votes were in progress. That's finesse, when you don't even have to declare yourself on a vote.

Oh, well, it's an election year.

They painted The Clarkston News building while I was on vacation. I think it was an attempt to disguise it, but I found it anyhow.

Jim Sherman, the publisher of this paper, ought to know he can't fool me that easily.

While my idea of a glorious summer does not include a lot of work, I have to have some means of staying out of the kitchen so I won't eat a lot.

I wonder what the man was mouthing who was searching for a lost golf ball in the median of I-75. He was using an iron to part the tall grass opposite Arrowhead Golf Course.

There was little doubt in my mind what a couple of locals were saying when they tried to keep us from using the fact that a mediumly famous rock star had moved to the area.

It sounded suspiciously like a threat. If the rock star is so shy, maybe we should honor those feelings when his next concert rolls around.

News of about the same calibre concerns the Sailes' infamous Beagle, Trapper.

"Look at that dumb dog climb a tree!" we said when we spotted him headed up a 15-foot extension ladder to the platform in the maple. He had to be brought down in an underarm carry.

And it's not even the August dog days yet!

Did you know that summer days are longer because heat makes things expand? That's the word from St. Trinity's monthly newsletter, which goes on to say "how about applying some heat to your church contribution?"

Grew up with Skeeze

by Jim Fitzgerald

Forget Dick Tracy. He hasn't aged a day in 50 years. The guy I'm worried about is Uncle Walt.

Tracy got off the comic page and onto the front page recently when a Maine newspaper accused him of being too violent and of running around with "weirdos and sickies."

Such anti-American charges made nationwide news. Dick Tracy has been a heroic cop for as long as anyone can remember. Millions of people shouted "heresy" when the Bangor Daily News dropped the comic strip, saying "Dick is old hat. He's too much law and disorder."

Myself? I don't care. I quit reading Dick Tracy many years ago. It was the weirdos that got me. If I recall correctly, there was a character called B.O. Plenty who married Gravel Gertie and they had a baby named Sparkle Plenty who came from the moon. After years of faithful reading, I didn't think Dick Tracy had any business expecting me to believe such nonsense. Actually, I didn't even believe his wrist radio.

The only comic strip a man can have faith in is the one starring Skeeze and family. And it has recently occurred to me, tragically, like a kick in the gut, that some day Uncle Walt is going to die.

Skeeze was 55 years old last February, God help us all, and time stops for no man when he lives on Gasoline Alley.

Little Orphan Annie hasn't aged a minute in 40 years. She hasn't even changed her dress. Dondi was an Italian orphan of World War II and the poor kid is still in elementary school today. Charlie Brown has been a little leaguer for 20 years. Dagwood's wife is built better today than she was 35 years ago.

That's the way it goes in most comic strips. The characters never age—except in Gasoline Alley.

Uncle Walt found the infant Skeeze on his doorstep in 1921. Skeeze has always been five years older than I, sort of a big brother. We grew up together and went to war together. We've raised our families and wrestled with milk bills together. And now we're beginning to grow old together.

But my father died several years ago. So what about Uncle Walt? He's been aging right along with Skeeze and me. He's got to be closing in on 85. He can't live forever—not on Gasoline Alley, where every birthday is counted.

I'm not sure this nation can handle the death of Uncle Walt.

Look what happened a few times on TV soap operas. A star grew sick of the suds and ran away to Hollywood. The writers explained the character's absence by having him killed in a plane crash or dying suddenly of the mange. And there was great wailing and gnashing of upper plates by viewers. Housewives demanded that Professor Bob be brought back to life or they would quit buying the sponsor's soap.

The final loss of Uncle Walt will create a national uproar many times louder than any caused by a TV death. Soap operas are fleeting things, never lasting more than a few years at the most. But Gasoline Alley and Uncle Walt have been with us every day since 1921.

Can you imagine the mourning when Walt is erased for good? It will be the world's most watched death scene. What a funeral!

Skeeze will get a billion letters of condolence. And several newspaper offices will be stormed and bombed.

Truly, there is a sad day coming. The more I think of it, the more cataclysmic it gets. I think this tragedy must be avoided, for the good of the nation.

Uncle Walt must live. But how?

I have a brilliant idea. How about a heart transplant from Little Orphan Annie?

I never liked the kid anyway. I used to get sick on her Ovaltine, and I never could decode anything with her lousy decoder ring.

Uncle Walt will be glad to take care of Sandy Art and

Always he's negative

Dear News Staff,

I have grown up with the Clarkston News ever since I can remember. Every week I glance at the article "If It Fitz" by the so-called journalist, Mr. Fitzgerald, and every week I realize what a mistake I have made!

In his articles Mr. Fitzgerald complains about anything and everything—has this gentleman ever been satisfied?

It was Mr. Fitzgerald's July 1st article that prompted me to write. I happen to work for Mr. Patterson and feel that he is a fine man for his job—true, he is a publicity seeker—but how else are you, as the public, going to find out what is going on in your county? Would you rather this politician kept secrets?

Mr. Patterson is a go-getter and

NAG endorses

At a meeting held on July 10, 1976, the Waterford National Action Group endorsed three candidates for the August 3rd primary.

They are: Betty Collier, U.S. Congresswoman, State House Representative Claude Trim, 60th district and County Commissioner Betty J. Fortino.

Following the August 3rd primary, the anti busing organization will be endorsing a full slate of candidates. All of the approved candidates for the Nov. 2 election will have to be sincerely against forced busing and must sign a pledge stating that if elected they will use whatever powers that lie within the position to which they aspire to oppose forced busing and seek a Constitutional Amendment to halt it.

Mrs. Beverly C. Barnum, Chairperson

our county is lucky to have him. I hope the need never arises, but if it does, you as the victim of a crime will be glad to have him and his staff on your side. We had better support him while we can. It is people like Mr. Fitzgerald that break our country down with their negative attitudes. How about standing behind something for a change, Mr. Fitzgerald; you certainly must have something good to say once in a while. If not, how about stopping your jaws from flapping and let a real journalist write in your place. It wouldn't take too much effort to find someone more qualified I am sure. I realize this is a very negative letter but after reading his column I always feel this way. Is that good? If so—you have made your point.

Respectfully submitted,
Mrs. Mark Stuart

P.S. I am sure Mr. Fitzgerald will have a negative reply to this letter; what else!

Response was great

A sincere thank you to everyone that called and donated their "Wild Riders" to our son Brian, including the Nichols family from whom we received this much needed toy within just a few hours. And of course, to the Clarkston News for printing our

It was a heartwarming experience to find so many people interested in helping us.

Thank you all.

Wanted:

One mean retiree

Parking violators in Clarkston Village may have to do more than dodge cruising cops. Village council trustee Fontie ApMadoc is asking that a retiree be hired by the village as a part time meter maid. The retiree would mark tires and ticket any who violate two-hour parking zones. Meter maid duties have been shrugged off by village DPW personnel who don't like being the village bad guys, so the council has to look elsewhere.

Alcohol worst of all

(The following is a column by Clarkston News Editor Jean Saile which appeared last week in The Detroit News. We are reprinting it at the request of some of our readers.)

By Jean Saile

Fourteen young men have contracted gonorrhea as a result of a sex-and booze party up north, says one of the county's leading pediatricians.

Infected by a 16-year-old girl, they are part of the statistics involving teenage drinking and indicative of the growing trend toward serious episodic or weekend drinking by teenagers.

Dr. James O'Neill, who will become Pontiac General Hospital's chief of staff this winter, lists alcohol as the worst of all drugs.

He sees the aftermath of weekend drinking bouts—the car accidents and the fights—and he counts five chronic alcoholics, two of them only 13 years old, in his Clarkston pediatric practice.

Dr. O'Neill blames a society whose technological achievements have outstripped its moral guidelines, a society which doesn't know what to do about birth control, euthanasia or abortion, but has the means to affect them all with a degree of expertise.

"Where life was once relatively stable, kids now grow up in a world colored by its potential destructiveness. They see a nation illogical in its actions and leaders who do not live up to their positions of authority," Dr. O'Neill thinks the Vietnamese War had a lot to do with the big drug turn-on of the 1960's.

He says kids have a lot of fears—marriage, jobs, economics, politics and government, and the nation's inability to cope with crime.

"Everybody seems to have rights but them, and those who haven't learned to cope are depressed all the time. Alcohol is simply an available escape," he believes.

Since Michigan lowered its legal drinking age to 18, high school seniors who are able to purchase liquor rub shoulders with even younger potential drinkers. They frequently purchase it for them and more liquor is available in most homes now. He thinks the minimum drinking age should have been 19 which would have removed alcohol from the schools.

He recently saw a girl, 15 or 16, who had drunk a pint of vodka on her way to school. Brought to his office by worried parents, they expressed relief at his diagnosis. "Thank God she's drunk" he reports them as saying.

Parental acceptance of drinking upsets him. In this instance, he says, it would have been better had the parents looked to themselves for reasons why their daughter drank. He classified the mother as a scold and the father as completely irresponsible.

Problem drinkers have a poor self-image, he says.

"They don't see themselves as someone people can like and the more they withdraw to the bottle, the more unacceptable they are. "It's a vicious circle," he reports.

He talks about a 16-year-old boy, a heavy drinker, who came to his office complaining about impotency, kids who try to kill themselves with liquor, kids whose livers and brains are already deteriorating.

Dr. O'Neill feels the answer for youthful drinkers has got to be an increase of self-respect. He tried to get them to write lists—the good and the bad about themselves—and then divide the latter into those things that can be changed and those that can't.

"The prognosis for these kids is extremely grim unless we can get them to see themselves as worthwhile human beings," he said.

Holly Greens changes

Dotted with golfers on a sunny morning, the gentle hills of Holly Greens roll off to meet the bordering woods.

In existence for the last ten years, the course was purchased in February by Paul Ritter and Edward Bartoli.

Ritter, formerly of Bay City and now of Grand Blanc, is a man of many interests including a shopping center and a mobile home park among his diversified holdings.

Bartoli, who also resides in Grand Blanc and long involved with golfing, interested Ritter in the new venture.

Since the two took over from former owner George Oberer of Dayton, Ohio, they have been busy making changes. Besides improving the greens and fairways, split rail fences and more trees have been added to the landscaping.

All the golf carts have been replaced with new ones and there are more of them to accommodate the 16,000 league players as well as anyone else who wants to golf at Holly Greens.

The course is now a public facility. Until this year the course served the public but also maintained memberships.

There are leagues for men, women, men and women mixed, scotch ball, retirees and youth, Ritter said.

Holly Greens boasts two courses. The regulation 18 hole course, a par 72, and the shorter, 9 hole par 31 executive course.

Offering a panoramic view of the course as well as food and drink is the spacious club house. Breakfast is served from 6:30 or 7. Meals follow throughout the day with the dinner hour ending at 9:30 or 10 p.m., Ritter said.

Summer briefs

The Independence Township Track & Field team traveled to Sterling Heights on Saturday, July 10 for a track meet.

The kids brought back a total of 22 ribbons with many good individual performances. Their next meet is Wednesday, July 14 at University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Also on Wednesday there will be a meet for all playgrounds to determine who will travel to the Youth Fitness Games in Detroit July 29.

This is for both girls and boys from 10 to 15 years old. It includes the softball throw, 50-yard dash, long jump, triple jump, and relays.

Springfield residents interested in obtaining junior or senior lifesaving can register July 16 with the lifeguard on duty at the Davisburg Mill Pond.

Don Vachon of Richardson's Dairy said he only knocked down eight pins on Channel 4's Bowling for Dollars Program, which was taped last Thursday and is due to air this week, probably on Friday.

Vachon only received $8—a sum he spent on drinks after the show, he said.

The sweet white wines of Bergerac have a luscious, delicate flavour, similar to the Sauternes of Bordeaux. The best wines come from Monbazillac, whose vineyards are crowned by a picturesque hill, just a few miles from the town of Bergerac on the right bank of the Dordogne river. As Sauternes, the grapes are not only harvested after they have the "noble rot", but the golden wines have an alcohol strength of 13-14%, and are ready for drinking only after six years in the bottle.

Whether your personal wine tastes lean toward sweet or dry rely on our fantastic inventory at UNCLE BOB'S GENERAL STORE, 2325 Joslyn Rd., Antique Village, 391-3033 to provide you with just the perfect vintage. In addition to our wines we also feature a complete cheese and gourmet food department as well as your favorite penny candy. The whole family will enjoy a visit to UNCLE BOB'S as there is something for everyone. Open: 7 days a week 10-6.

WINE TIP:

Dry wines of Mentavel are light in color and soft, and are great dessert wines, or with chicken and fish.

Federal funds pay librarian, DPW man

Additional federal unemployment funds recently received by Springfield Township will be used to hire another maintenance worker and a township librarian.

A maintenance worker will be hired for 10 weeks this summer to maintain Dilley Field.

The librarian, Gail Flemming of Drayton Plains, began part-time hours at the temporary library in the township hall July 8.

She'll work 15 hours a week (Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Thursdays from 9 a.m. until noon) until November, then double that to 30 hours per week.

Permanent library facilities will be set up in the old Andersonville School once it is moved to a new site and renovated.

The purchase of one and one-half acres of property at the corner of Hogback and Andersonville Roads is being considered by the Springfield Library Board.

A public hearing to hear comments on the proposed purchase was held by the Springfield Township Board last Wednesday, but only a few questions were asked.

The property, owned now by Floyd Sommers, will cost the township $7,500. Part of the cost may be donated by area residents.

In other library action, the township board voted to waive required fees for site plan review, building permits, etc. which will be necessary for renovation work on the schoolhouse.

The boardboat is a surfboard-like craft between 12 and 15 feet, with one simple sail. The Sailfish, and the Sunfish popularized this breed soon after World War II. First they were simple hollow plywood boards and many of them were built from kits, but fiberglass took over by the 1960s. Boardboats are wonderful basic trainers. If the sun is warm and the wind is not too strong, almost anyone can climb aboard and pick up a few rudiments. A novice can make a boardboat behave and gain confidence in the process.

Boat require service? Have confidence in the work of our experienced staff at PADDLE TO POWER MARINE, 6507 Dixie Hwy., next to Kinney Shoes, 625-0129. The boating season is so short, don't let break-downs keep your rig out of water a long time for repairs. Fast service provided including pick-up and delivery. Spartan boat trailers are available in many different sizes to fit the length and weight of your boat. Open: Daily and Sun. 9am-9pm.

HANDY HINT:

Novices should not operate a boardboat when there is a strong offshore wind on an open body of water.

New ruling could hike appeals fees

Fees to appear before the boards of appeals in Springfield and Independence townships may have to be increased along with a mandated increase in members. Both appeals boards must have five members instead of three, according to a newly-passed state law.

In Springfield, the new requirement held up passage of a fee ordinance which included board of appeals fees. The fees were recommended at $35 for variance requests concerning residential zoning and $85 for requests in other zoning. But township supervisor Don Rogers said the recommended fees may not be enough if two additional appeals board members have to be paid. The township gives each appeals board member $20 per meeting attended. With five instead of three members, costs would increase from $60 to $100 for salaries alone.

In Independence, the switch from three to five members will be requested by the township supervisor at the next board meeting July 20. Supervisor Ed Glennie said no fee increases will be made initially, but the township will review the additional costs to see whether an increase is needed later.

Independence pays each appeals board member $25 per meeting attended. Fees are $45 per variance request in Independence, but the appeals board is averaging five cases a meeting, which more than covers salary costs now. Under the new law, each appeals board would retain its representative from the township board and the chairman of the planning commission. Members representing the citizenry at large would be increased from one to three.

Wage settlement near

Wage negotiations between Independence Township and its hourly employes may be concluded this week. A meeting of the union's membership was to be held Tuesday evening to discuss a proposed wage package. If the pay provisions are okayed by the membership, the Township Board will ratify the contract at a special meeting today (Thursday), according to township supervisor Ed Glennie. Exact details of the contract won't be disclosed until a final settlement is reached. The hourly rate for employes is the only segment of a two-year contract under negotiation this year; next year the union will have to draw up an entirely new contract.

Village rehires secretary

Clarkston Village has found it cannot function without at least part-time secretarial help. Since secretary Jay Bisha left July 1, village officials have had to contend with piled up mail, phone calls and many other daily chores Mrs. Bisha previously handled.

Thus the council has decided to rehire Mrs. Bisha for one day a week, her salary to be paid out of the general fund. Mrs. Bisha was previously paid for her full-time job with federal unemployment funds, which expired July 1.

Calvary wants outbuilding razed

Problems with a new accessory building for Deron's, recently built by owner Ron Sandage in back of his furniture store at 7183 N. Main, are not over for Independence Township. Members of Calvary Lutheran Church, whose Bluegrass sanctuary lies just in back of Deron's, say they will appear before the Independence Township Board at its meeting July 20 to ask that the building be torn down. The building was built in the westernmost corner of Sandage's lot, in close proximity to the church. The township building department issued a building permit for the storage facility in the mistaken belief that the property was zoned for commercial use, when it was really residential.

The township's stance has been that the building permit is legally binding and there's little it can do to have the building moved from its present location. But it appears to Calvary Lutheran members that the permit may even be suspect, since it lists the wrong property description number (called the Sidwell number). The Sidwell number listed on the permit is for a corner lot Sandage owns next door to his furniture store. Building director Ken Delbridge said the incorrect number was a mistake made by his department, but the permit is still valid in that it has the correct property description and address listed. Delbridge says that at this point the only way to correct the situation is for the township to absorb the cost of moving the building. He is not sure the board is willing to underwrite that cost, but it will be up to them to resolve the problem, he said.

Mounted on a horse, or, as one historian puts it, in early days, in a chariot, man followed his prey. Hunting became a favorite pursuit, regarded as a noble art in man's history. After the necessity of food was not that important any more, hunting was taken up for the excitement it gave, and its precious loot in the form of hides, furs, horn and tusks. Once the "labor of the savage", today, hunting is often "the amusement of the gentleman." The spice of danger, adventure, and the demand for powers of observation, concentration, and endurance have always attracted man.

Something about our sports department really turns us on.

Maybe because all us Dealers Four like cars that look and act like winners. Chevy's 1976 All-Star Sports roster for example.

Cars that are as much fun as they are fine. Like our whippy new Monza Towne Coupe and 2+2 hatchback with four and eight cylinder engines.

The Vega GT is a quick little scaback and the Camaro Type LT Coupe looks like it can make all the right moves—and does.

Chevelle Laguna S-3 and the Nova SS! Both ready to handle the opposition as easy as they take your favorite

If you really want to do it in style, try the new Luxury Nova Concours.

And watch the scoreboard light up for Corvette. So, come on in, sports fans. We've stocked our Sports Department with as solid and exciting a lineup as we've ever before assembled.

Now for the cheers. When it comes to talking contracts, and working out the numbers, we're the easiest people to get along with in Northern Oakland County.

Holly dedicates historic site

Accolades passed from one participant to another at the dedication and brick cutting in Holly's Battle Alley, indicating that without the help of the entire community the rejuvenation of Battle Alley, and the bricking of the bicentennial emblem there could not have been accomplished.

The villagers congratulated each other and the nation at ceremonies Friday.

After the Star Spangled Banner, the invocation and the speeches, Jesse O'Bryan cut a representative brick. As the brick dust flew and settled over everyone, people jostled for a vantage point from which to see or to take a picture.

Then the kids were off for an ice cream cone, and older folks meandered into Battle Alley Antiques or down the street to a plant shop or around the corner to Carry's Corner.

Not long ago, Battle Alley Antiques was two empty buildings. Now it is a recreation of antiquity. Nearly life-size shops, homes and even an outdoor restaurant line the cobbled street within.

After purchasing the buildings, Jim and Ellen Hilty proposed that the street in front of it be legally changed to Battle Alley.

"It has always been called Battle Alley, even though the sign at the end says Martha," Ellen said.

The street got its name from the many brawls that took place there.

"There used to be 12 taverns along this street," Ellen said. "When the circus came to town, the circus boys fought with the local lads."

It was the Hiltys, along with Dr. and Mrs. Henry Raskin, who spurred the village into its restoration.

At the dedication Mayor Grey said, "When Dr. Raskin suggested this project I didn't think it would ever happen. But I found out when Dr. Raskin gets an idea, it goes!"

Down the street and around the corner is Carry's Corner, so named because there is a picture of Carry Nation assaulting Governor Warner in her fight against Demon Rum.

Carry came to Holly once and delivered one of her famed hatchet wielding lectures from the stage of Baird's Hall, the opera house. The facade of the opera house is among several that run along the interior of the shop, registered with the State as "Streets of Yesteryear."

"It's been a great history lesson," said the proprietor Ardath Regan. The family project of "urban revival" even included the children, she said.

Cycle cop effective, township says

Residents of Foster and Farley Roads in Springfield Township haven't had to worry about loud motorcycles disrupting their residential area lately, and they're pretty pleased about it, according to township supervisor Don Rogers.

Several have called the township to say what an effective job

Bill Evans, Oakland County Sheriff's deputy, is doing patrolling the area on his motorcycle.

Evans has ticketed some motorcyclists and even impounded a few vehicles. Word of his patrolling has given cyclists second thoughts about committing offenses, Rogers said.

Residents of the aforementioned areas presented petitions to the township board last month saying something had to be done about the motorcycle problem in their area.

Trucks bugging residents

Truck traffic on Clarkston residential streets has been a continuing complaint among residents appearing before the Clarkston Village Council.

Semi trucks unable to negotiate the turn from Holcomb to West Washington have been a source of irritation to homeowners there, who have asked that vehicle weight limits be set on Holcomb.

Accused Richardson's robber bound over

Accused robber Joseph Raymond Blais waived preliminary examination when he appeared before Judge Gerald McNally at 52nd District Court July 2.

Blais is charged with two counts of armed robbery, one count of assault with intent to rob while armed and three charges of kidnapping in connection with the robbery and kidnapping of three persons from Richardson's Dairy Store in Springfield Township June 21.

Blais was bound over to Circuit Court on all six counts, with bond to remain at $300,000.

He will be arraigned before Judge Arthur Moore in Oakland County Circuit Court at 9 a.m. July 22.

Pearl Hopkins, Blais' traveling companion during the alleged robbery was ordered released from custody. There was not probable cause to believe she aided in committing the crimes, a court spokesman said.

Recent Clarkston Village Park visitors find a comfortable spot to contemplate nature and watch the waters of the Clinton River.

Reekwald warrant issued

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Thurs., July 15, 1976 19

A warrant for the arrest of Greens Lake resident John P. Reekwald was issued by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Farrell E. Roberts Monday.

Planner to draw up limited master plan

Preparations for the creation of a limited master plan for Clarkston Village are moving along.

The Village Planning Commission has hired a planner, Jay W. Eldridge of Vilican-Leman and Associates in Southfield.

Eldridge was given objectives for the master plan by the commission at its meeting Thursday.

The planner is to come back with an outline for the plan at the commission's August meeting.

The plan should emphasize traffic control, parking in the downtown area and preserving the character of the village, the commission told Eldridge.

No geographical areas in need of additional planning were mentioned by the commission.

Eldridge's salary was not set. The commission has a limit of $5,000 in allocated funds to work with this year, according to commission president Jack Byers.

An additional $5,000 was budgeted by the village council for the next fiscal year.

DeerWood sales manager named

Hargreaves & Pilarcik, Inc. has announced the appointment of David R. Stephens as sales manager of DeerWood, Clarkston's fine home development just north of town.

Dave brings with him over 15 years of experience in new home marketing, having been acting sales manager for Kaufman-Broad and most recently assistant sales manager for Thompson & Brown. Additionally, Stephens has been recognized nationally by the National Association of Home Builders as a lifetime Million Dollar Club member.

DeerWood's models are open every day except Thursday.

with "threatening immediate and irreparable harm to the community."

It was obtained by Independence Township special prosecutor Bruce Leitman at the same time Leitman filed for a peace bond which would enjoin Reekwald from being a nuisance to the community.

A show cause hearing has been set for July 20 in Oakland County Circuit Court, to determine whether the injunction should be granted and if Reekwald should post $10,000 to insure compliance with the restrictions in the injunction.

Reekwald was just in circuit court Friday, along with his wife Ann, for arraignment on charges of eavesdropping on State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac).

He and his wife will have to appear for either a pre-trial or trial when Judge Robert Tempelin's next jury session begins September 7.

Try the 'udder' hand, girls!

"It's working."

By Hilda Bruce
of The Clarkston News

Watching 12 city girls learn to milk cows has to be one of the funniest ways to spend an hour. The Davisburg Rotary Anns and the Davisburg Jaycettes got their country education at the Drouillard farm on Ormond Road in Springfield Township last Friday.

A cow milking contest between the two groups is one of the coming attractions at the Springfield Township Bicentennial celebration July 31.

The girls hadn't counted on the cows—Holsteins Nylon and Ella—sidestepping when they went to milk them, much less the pie that Nylon delivered shortly before the lesson began.

The cows were volunteered for the project by Derek and Dawn Drouillard who raise dairy cows as one of their 4-H projects. Their father, Fred, was the milking instructor Friday.

Fortunately for the Rotary Anns and the Jaycettes, the cows are gentle from all the training they have received from their 4-H masters.

Before the girls practiced, Fred explained that to prevent kicks, the milker must lay her head against the cow's flank and position her knee in such a way that the hoof won't come up and catch her in the face. That doesn't prevent the side-stepping, however.

Demonstrating, Fred grasped Nylon's teats properly, up next to the bag, then he forced the milk out.

"If you grab near the tip you shut the milk off," he explained.

When the grip is released, the teat refills with milk for the next downward squeeze.

Fred also passed on the tip that whoever got to milk Nylon was going to have an easier job and get more milk.

The girls decided then and there, that the teams would take turns on the two cows so that neither group would have an unfair advantage.

Practice started with Vi Loidas of the Rotary Anns and Ella the cow. After not too long, Vi looked up and exclaimed, "It's working!"

Cindy Carr, a Jaycette, was careful to keep her long skirted milk maid costume pulled up off the ground as she practiced on Nylon.

As one milker followed another, comments like "Watch her, she's looking at you," and "I got it!" bounced around the farm yard, drawing laughter from the on-lookers.

Lessons finished, the girls trooped away. They meet again at 4:15 p.m. the 31st at Springfield Oaks.

The contest will establish the milkmaiding champs of the township.

But the real prize for the girls will be hand-feeding two of Drouillard's calves after the competition with the warm milk procured from Nylon and Ella.

Attorney bill refused by Springfield

Springfield Township has refused to pay its attorneys $891 in fees charged for prosecuting a fence removal complaint lodged by a township resident against his neighbor.

The Township Board Wednesday said it did not authorize the attorneys to prosecute the case.

Gary Veltman, member of the township's contracting legal firm Booth, Patterson, Lee, Karlstrom and Steckling, said the matter is in the process of being discussed by both sides.

Veltman could not say exactly how, or if, the misunderstanding on the prosecution occurred.

According to Judge Gerald McNally of the Clarkston 52nd District Court, the case involved neighbors William Kostich and Dale Angell of 5429 Edgar and 5427 Edgar respectively.

The men own 10 acres next door to each other. Angell built a large wooden fence between his and Kostich's property, and "apparently Kostich didn't like the fence."

When part of the fence turned up missing earlier this year, McNally said, Angell accused Kostich of cutting down the fence and burning it up.

Kostich was charged with malicious destruction of property and trespassing, under township ordinances prohibiting the same. He was acquitted by a jury in McNally's court two weeks ago, after maintaining that a high wind had knocked the fence down.

Attorney Veltman served as prosecutor during the two-day trial. McNally said the matter has to be prosecuted by the township since Kostich was charged under township ordinances.

The fence matter isn't the only attorney's fees Springfield has refused to pay lately.

The legal firm charged $56.25 for work related to the township's purchase of acreage between Andersonville and Big Lake Roads.

The land, to be used for a future fire hall, turned up incorrectly on Chicago Title Search Co.'s records as having an oil and gas lease.

Attorney John Steckling found the error, charged the township for the work, and was told that the title company had made the mistake and it wasn't the township's responsibility.

Steckling said Monday that he would like to set up a meeting between his firm and the township to iron out some of the recent problems cropping up.

The Davis home as it was when the Springfield Historical Society acquired it in 1973.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harvey Davis before their home in the 1880's.

By Hilda Bruce
of The Clarkston News

By July 31 the Springfield Township Historical Society will have two rooms of the old Davis home restored to its original condition and furnished with some of the original Davis furnishings.

The home will be open to visitors during the township's bicentennial celebration on the 31st.

It's located on Andersonville Road.

The Springfield Township Historical Society was formed for the express purpose of saving and restoring the pioneer home. The pioneer home was acquired in 1973 from the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Though called the Davis house, it was built in 1874 by William Chestnut, according to Marjorie Haymond of Fenton, granddaughter of James Harvey Davis who acquired a clear deed to the home in 1883.

James was the son of Cornelius Davis, the first settler of Davisburg who came to the area from Ulster County, New York in 1836.

Davis family members still return to Davisburg each year for a reunion. This year they will gather at the home on August 15 for the annual event. A dedication ceremony is being planned to honor the restoration and to thank the parks and recreation commission for the opportunity afforded the historical society by the commission's donation of the home.

In restoring the exterior of the pioneer home, Charlie Hillman of Davisburg used a photograph of the original home. He replaced shingles, made new gingerbread trim, restored the siding and the shutters.

Even the dinner bell, once used to call the men from the fields, hangs in the yard.

Inside, Ralph and Leone Stanaback removed four layers of wallpaper from most of the rooms before Hillman took to repairing the old sand and horsehair plaster. They have painted the woodwork in keeping with the period and walls are being papered with the most authentic paper to be found.

The wide board floors have three coats of paint—brown, green and gray—and a coat of mastic that must be removed before the refinishing can take place.

Mrs. Judson Davis will strip and refinish the old parlor doors and they will be rehung.

Then the furniture can be moved in. The historical society has acquired much of the original furniture and some other pieces. They still need three oil burning chandeliers, according to Nancy Stanley, vice president of the society.

Anyone interested in the restoration can contact members of the historical society: Marvin Stanley, president, and Nancy Stanley, vice president at 625-4938; Barb Hammerstein, membership chairman at 625-3783; Jan Lopez, treasurer at 625-4154; Diana Walls, secretary at 634-4869 or Leone Stanaback, corresponding secretary at 627-9191.

She made a heap 'o sense

It isn't often that government officials hear about a problem and in the same breath are presented with a solution to the same.

But that's exactly what Clarkston Village Council members heard Monday from Holcomb Road resident Ethel Sinclair.

Mrs. Sinclair said neighbors had been urging her to approach the council on the problem of leaf-burning in the area.

Since local regulations allow off-street burning, the only alternative is a ban on burning, she found.

But to make such a ban more palatable, she suggested regular collection of the leaves by the village.

The leaves would be stored in a compost heap and sold for fertilizer.

The compost idea was not hers, but the brainchild of the superintendent of Water and Waste in Scarsdale, New York.

Mrs. Sinclair read about the superintendent's scheme in a magazine and presented copies of the article to council members Monday.

The council immediately took to the idea, formed a committee, and decided at once to establish a location for the compost heap and the costs involved in the undertaking.

Helveston pressured

Developer John Helveston has a few frustrated Independence Township residents on his hands, asking for the $1,000 Helveston owes them.

The DeerWood developer agreed to pay residents whose property lies along a sewer line Helveston installed for DeerWood up to that sum of money toward the residents' sewer hook-ups.

Helveston did pay six or seven of those owed, according to Perry Lake Road resident Howard Webster. But Webster and six or seven others are still waiting for the cash.

Webster asked the Independence Township Board at its last meeting if the board couldn't hold up issuing permits for DeerWood homes until the money was paid up.

But he was told by the board that such a move would be counter-productive, since Helveston needs to sell lots to free mortgage money to pay the hook-up debts owed.

The board will just have to ask Helveston to make good on the debts before Helveston gets any further development approvals for his second phase of planned construction in the area, Foxwood, supervisor Ed Glennie said.

Real Estate HAPPENINGS

by Bob & Marvel White

An easement is an agreement to let somebody use part of your property for some specific purpose—permission to drive through a back lot to get to another parcel of land, for example. That kind of easement usually is described in the deed and it is considered to run with the land; that is, it will apply to later buyers as well. The only way it can be revoked is when both parties agree to end it. Make sure the license you grant is in writing and clearly spells out the terms, how long your neighbor can use the land, how you may revoke or renew the license, and whether or not it applies to just him or to others as well.

Is sex play normal?

by Jim and Ellen Windell

Is it normal for young children to engage in sex play? This is an important question which many parents ask. It is particularly confusing these days because there are revolutionary changes taking place in our society that relate to sex.

Our whole society seems more open to sexual activity and discussion and sex differences are more blurred all the time. Children's male or female sex-type toys are under attack while our old rigid attitudes about sex fall by the wayside.

However, when children, for instance those of elementary school age, engage in sex play parents become concerned.

Questions that are frequently asked are, "Does this mean my child will be a homosexual?" or "Does this mean he is sexually abnormal?"

These questions can only be answered when more information is known about a particular child or his family. Sex interests and curiosity begin when a child is still a baby.

In the course of exploring their own bodies, children find and handle their genitals discovering that these are areas of pleasurable sensation. In the preschool years starting at about age three there is much interest about one's own genitals and in fact whole body.

During the preschool years, youngsters also become curious about the bodies of other children. They become interested in the difference between boys and girls and the similarities and differences between themselves and other members of their own sex.

Children of five or six years of age may undress in front of each other or examine one another.

During the school age period, approximately six to twelve years, there is continuing sexual curiosity. Children of opposite sexes tend to explore themselves less to one another after age seven, but they frequently peep to observe nudity.

The sex interests of children about this time broaden to discussions of dirty words with sexual connotations and to the sex act itself. Sex play which occurs generally because of curiosity and interest is not abnormal during the school age years.

If, however, it occurs a considerable number of times, especially after children are warned about it and if it involves sexual preoccupation or aggression, it may suggest problems.

Children are not likely to develop anxiety about sex and sexual feelings and sexual behavior if parents handle sexual play and curiosity realistically and truthfully.

Panic or embarrassment on the parents' part may convey the wrong impression to the child. Children can be told the proper names for body parts and that certain feelings are indeed pleasurable.

Sex play with other boys and girls can be forbidden, but for rational reasons which the child can understand.

Independent view

There seems to be no tangible evidence to support a rumor circulating in Clarkston that several dogs and cats are being poisoned in the downtown area.

There has been one reported case only, where a German Shepherd "suffered a great deal of kidney damage due to some kind of outside chemical" and subsequently died.

But according to the Springfield veterinarian who treated the animal, "there is no legitimate proof that it is deliberate poisoning."

The veterinarian said he didn't believe or disbelieve that other dogs and cats had been poisoned—but a solution to the problem, if there is one, is for pet owners to keep their animals from wandering about.

A special needs program taught at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center will utilize some of the resources of Colombiere College next year.

The college has agreed to make available to the school at the cost of $1 for one year the resources it has to teach a custodial course.

Some 20 students are involved. They previously did their on-the-job training at Clarkston Junior High School but lack of space has made it difficult, school officials said.

Springfield Supervisor Donald Rogers says three individuals in Springfield Township have offered to come up with the $550 needed to continue the summer recreation program at Andersonville School, providing the township recreation commission doesn't feel it has the money.

Rogers attempted to lay part of the responsibility for a possible curtailment of the program at the feet of Clarkston school board members. The program has been run by Independence Township for Springfield Township residents, using Clarkston Schools facilities.

Rogers said he thought it unfair that programs offered in other schools shouldn't be offered in Andersonville School.

He was told the summer program has a history of not serving all schools in the district; however, until now Andersonville has consistently benefitted.

The Oakland County Republican Party Thursday officially repudiated the candidacy of Daniel Barry for the post of County Drain Commissioner.

County GOP Chairman Arthur G. Elliott said the action was taken in order to preserve the integrity of the nominating process in the forthcoming August 3rd primary election.

Elliott added that "both political parties are under strong moral imperatives to nominate and support candidates whose past conduct is above reproach."

Good neighbors category: Pine Knob Music Theater has made available 50 tickets to a Beach Boys matinee for the Clarkston Schools SCAMP program participants.

Another batch of tickets will be made available to those junior and senior high school students raising the most money in the walk for SCAMP and independence center last May.

Rotarians are selling tickets to the Harry Belafonte concert July 18 at Pine Knob. They'll benefit from the proceeds.

Some Clarkston residents are unhappy at the number of homeowners who have failed to hook in to the sewers. They have asked village treasurer Art Pappas what the Village Council intends to do about the matter.

The council said Monday it has not stringently enforced the state law mandating hook-up within 18 months, since sewer financing does not depend on hook-in fees.

But the council will send a letter to those not hooked in, reminding them that they are required to do so.

Independent view

The view of this area as a future haven for the rich and famous may be reinforced with the news that rock singer Bob Seger has taken up residence in Springfield Township.

Seger moved from Waterford seeking seclusion and privacy.

The popular star, who is responsible for hits like "Beautiful Loser," "Ramblin' Gamblin' Man," "Kat Man Du" and "Travelin' Man," is originally from Oakland County and got his start in music playing at area clubs.

His current album "Live Bullet," featuring him and members of his band Silver Bullet is doing well in Michigan and other Midwest records sales.

Walter Cattin and Robert Losh have been re-appointed to three-year terms on the Springfield Township Planning Commission. Cattin currently serves as chairman and Losh as a member.

County Dems have endorsed Phil Mastin of Hazel Park for the office of county executive; Johannes Spreen for sheriff; Timothy Dinan of Troy for prosecutor; Mrs. Mary Ann Garlak of Royal Oak for clerk; and David Gubow of Bloomfield Township for treasurer.

Signs are going up around town asking the people who work in Clarkston to park in the parking lots and not on the streets. The recently paved Depot Road lot is a welcome addition to the space provided at the corner of Washington and Main.

A Summertime Frolic, a fund raiser for State Rep. Claude A. Grim, has been set for 8:30 p.m. Saturday, July 24 at the CAI building, 5640 Williams Lake Road. Tickets are $6 and entitle the holder to free beer, set-ups and snacks. Prizes will be awarded.

Clarkston was honored for its status as a bicentennial community via a letter from the President of the United States recently.

The letter was received by the Clarkston/Independence Historical Commission and passed on to the Independence Township Board, which read it in its last meeting July 6.

Anything that will last at least three years and is valued at at least $100 will now be considered a fixed asset of Independence Township.

The township board fixed its assets thusly at its last meeting. Previously, according to supervisor Ed Glennie, everything from wastebaskets to water systems were listed as part of the township's total value.

Dixie Baptist Church will not be exempt from rezoning fees charged by Springfield Township simply because it is a church.

Dixie Baptist made such a request to the Springfield Township board last Wednesday, but was turned down.

The church wants to build additional school facilities, but has to rezone adjoining property first.

A fund raiser for Norma Merriman, candidate for Oakland County Commissioner District 2, will be at 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 21 at Holly Greens Golf Club. Donations of $10 per person will be asked.

Clarkstonites wondering whether the town suffered an untoward explosion Monday can rest easy.

The blasts heard at noon and again at 2:30 p.m. were only well-diggers using dynamite.

Dentist Gary Ushman is having the well dug on his Main Street property; the dynamite was needed to get through rock the diggers ran into about 100 feet down.

There will be beer during the Labor Day festivities in Clarkston.

The Clarkston Area Jaycees were given permission by the Clarkston Village Council Monday to have a beer tent in conjunction with the Jaycees' Labor Day carnival.

Drinkers will have to sit tight for their refreshment, though. The Jaycees' temporary liquor license requires that the booze stay within the confines of the tent.

A pair of dark brown horn rimmed prescription glasses have been turned in at The Clarkston News office. If they're yours, come and get 'em!

Issues of the 1976 Hilltopper, Clarkston High School's yearbook, not picked up by those who ordered them will go on sale next week at the school.

Tuesday was the day the phone service went out in Clarkston—or at least part of Clarkston.

For $1.25 a week, you can reach 10,000 people in over 3,800 homes every week with an advertising message on this page. Call 625-3370 and place your message today!

Growing things

Plant damage

by Lyle Abel

The effects of our erratic spring weather continue to show up as damage to some of our plants. The Leo Wolfs of Lake Orion have pines and spruces with abnormal growth of needles on the pines and dead buds at the growing tips of their spruces. The spring temperatures of 80 degrees that gave us those very early good growing days only to change to freezing a few days later must be blamed for these conditions. There appears to be no disease or insect injury on the affected parts of the plants.

Fortunately our hardy plants have a "back-up" system that will allow them to survive and recover from such damage. New growth will start from dormant buds that under more favorable conditions would never have developed. As a result we see new branches appear on the trees and shrubs that were injured from winter's freezes and spring's ice storms. One never ceases to marvel at the resourcefulness of our living things.

And speaking about the marvels of growth—how rapidly plants develop when conditions become favorable. Pole beans, tomatoes, many vegetables that grew so slowly during the cool early spring days grow at several inches daily. Pole beans shoot up their supports and tomatoes form new branches and set fruit almost overnight. Our long days with the extra hours of sunlight give Michigan plants a chance to develop quickly when temperatures become sufficient. No wonder the commercial processors get their best quality of vegetables and fruit from northern states. The rapid growth and moderate temperatures result in sweeter, more crisp, and higher quality produce for canning and freezing than can be grown in the hot climates.

Well-cared-for gardens are at the stage where one begins to relax, take a garden vacation and enjoy harvesting the fruits from earlier efforts. They should produce sturdy new plants for next spring's flowers. Near the end of July plant pansies or violas for next spring's blooms and if you wish fall vegetables, now is the time to plant beans, carrots, leaf lettuce, radishes, rutabaga, turnips and several other vegetables.

The UAW will strike Ford. Anyone else will cause a lot of resentment and there will be a hard time settling. People will have the feeling unions are very unjust, and rebellion will result.

I feel very sorry for Pat Nixon. I foresaw a dark cloud in her future. Her problem has arisen because of her husband's announced intention of getting back in the political arena again, at least to help other candidates.

I don't think she would ever have had the stroke otherwise.

Gang wars in Detroit will continue. I don't know that they're worse. There's just more publicity.

I hope people will do some canning this summer. There will be shortages in food. Those who can again this year and the next three or four years will be in pretty good shape. Canning is better than freezing, because I foresee more power failures. If they insist on freezing they ought to get standby power generators.

Food drying is the wave of the future. People are already starting to do it and it will become ever more popular. It will also prove to be beneficial.

Store shelves in the future will be featuring a substitute coffee. There will be a lot of reaction. The substitute will affect the nervous system, and it will eventually have to be removed from the market.

Interestingly enough, red dye is going to start creeping back on the market. Be aware!

Day camp is a hit

Independence Township's summer day camp program at Independence Oaks can be called an unqualified success.

The program, open to boys and girls aged six to 12, drew 52 children for its first session June 21 - July 16.

Children participated in crafts such as rock painting, tie dyeing and basket-weaving. Games, nature hikes, swimming and field trips were also included.

The camp has been so successful that the township Parks and Recreation Department is expanding it.

There will be a Tuesday and Thursday session as well as Monday and Wednesday session, beginning next Monday and Tuesday.

Painting rocks (above) was part of the fun at Monday's session, as was a rousing game of Indian wrestling (right).

Razzle dazzle at Meadowbrook

Jim's jottings

A tour of Meadowbrook Hall certainly mixed up my emotions. At the start I thought giving a different design to each of the dozen or so brick chimneys was amusing.

I like things big, so I was impressed with the size of the place. The dinner was great, the setting beautiful, and the fellowship outstanding.

We were there with the Oxford Rotary Club. They installed officers before the tour, but after the meal. Don Rhodes should be a good club president. He knows how to hold a speech to one or two sentences.

Our group of 17 started in the game room. It's a "man's" room, for poker playing, pool, and billiards. The guide told how the area around the door was designed with playing cards, checkers, dominoes, and chessmen, that there were hidden small closets for storage, the ventilators were secluded, all the carvings and furniture designed for the man of the house.

It was a room I could relate to. From room to room the word "designed" was used over and over.

The Dodges and Wilsons had bundles of money and Meadowbrook mansion shows how many bundles. It took 2 years to build at a cost of $4 million. There's another million in furnishings and that appears conservative. There are over 100 rooms, 24 fireplaces, 26 bedrooms and 3 dozen oriental rugs.

After Mr. Dodge died, his widow Matilda married Mr. Wilson, a confirmed bachelor. They took an architect with them on their year-long honeymoon. He learned their likes and dislikes and incorporated them into the house.

He did the same for the children. It was in the children's rooms where the "designed for" got to me. Electric light switchplates were designed in the shape of an airplane, the door hinges of automobiles, the ends of ceiling beams carved in shapes of fairytale characters.

Wherever there is wood, and there is great deal of it, each dent was designed for a particular purpose. Everything is designed for something. Nothing came from the store.

It IS an outstanding showplace. As Hazel and others reminded me, it's wonderful that there is a place like this (a museum) so close where we can visit and see how grand people lived, and to see the objects of art, architecture, and beauty.

As far as I could tell I'm the only one who experienced a feeling of grossness, so I'm the oddball.

Marty Carlson, former publisher of the Lake Orion Review, goes right for the jugular. As he shook hands with Oakland County prosecutor Brooks Patterson at the Orion Bicentennial celebration, Carlson said, "Say, Brooks, I got a shoebox full of names and I've been going through them in alphabetical order. I'm down to the P's."

Patterson, apparently not caught off guard, shot back, "I'll tell you what Marty, you throw out the P's in your shoebox and I'll throw out the C's in mine."
