6 mills on June ballot?

Millage request being readied

School district voters this June will be asked to approve a millage hike that would call for up to six additional mills ($6 per $1,000 assessed valuation) over the next 10 years.

The millage proposal may also be accompanied by a bonding proposal to finance improvements to existing buildings and additional classrooms for Bailey Lake and Andersonville Elementary Schools.

The ballot proposals to be placed on the annual school election ballot June 12 were discussed by the administration and school board members during a study session Monday night with additional discussion scheduled for the board's regular meeting Monday, Feb. 14 and again during a work session next Thursday.

A final decision as to the amounts of the millage and bond proposals is not expected before next month.

Preliminary discussion by the board indicated the entire six mills would be levied upon approval by the voters.

The levy would offset estimates by the administration of a minimum of $500,000, the equivalent of two mills, budget increase to carry on the current level of programs.

Another one to two mills would be expended to upgrade the instructional program at both the elementary and secondary levels in the area of textbooks, curriculum and additional support staff at the elementary levels.

The remainder of the revenues from the proposed millage would be carried as surplus to offset the latter years when operational expenses exceed revenues from the millage.

Each mill would generate $500,000 revenue based upon current state school aid which matches each dollar raised locally.

School Board President David Leak said the board would review the budget after the first year levy and if the surplus being carried is excessive, the board would reduce the six mill levy.

Based upon the inflationary spiral over the past six years, Leak added, the district will need at least two mills next school year to maintain present programs and two additional mills each year thereafter.

If current levels of a 10 percent inflation continue, Leak added, the six mills would last for five years before expenses overtake revenues and the cash reserves built up in the first two years are depleted.

Clarkston presently levies 25.21 mills for operating which, with the exception of Brandon Schools, is the lowest among the 28 school districts in Oakland County.

The school administration is also expected to return to the school board with alternative bonding proposals.

Among the alternatives at the elementary level would be for the entire $2.7 million a study conducted by the district showed was needed to upgrade the facilities.

The proposal called for six additional classrooms at Andersonville and two additional rooms at Bailey Lake with multi-purpose rooms proposed for all six schools.

Another proposal to be presented to the board will be a "stop gap" program whereby essential improvements would be made to Clarkston Junior High School to continue its use for from four to seven years.

In the interim the school board would appoint a citizens committee to study the school and make its recommendation as to renovating the 47-year-old school or replacing it.

Discussion on both the millage and bond proposals will not be made until March reports presented to the school board in November, December and January covering needs of the school district in the area of finances, curriculum improvement and capital (facility) improvements.

Final decision on the millage and bond proposals will not be made until March

Townships set own figures

Showdown brewing over deputy contracts

Independence and Springfield appear ready to join with eight other townships in a showdown with the Oakland County Board of Commissioners over the $2,500 hike in their contracts with the sheriff's department.

Following a meeting Tuesday with County Executive Daniel Murphy, the township representatives said they will sign the contract but only for a five percent increase over the present rates instead of the 10 percent hike as required in the contract.

The 45-minute meeting with Murphy solved little, according to Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls. The supervisors were given the cost breakdown of the $27,206 per deputy cost for the 1977-78 contract.

Murphy said he had no control over the cost figure, Walls added, and that it is the board of commissioners who determines the contract amounts.

Following the meeting with Murphy, the 10-member Oakland County Association of Township Supervisors (OCATS) agreed they will recommend to their respective boards of trustees approval of the contracts but with only a 5 percent increase or $25,900 per deputy cost.

feeling that "if the county board can arbitrarily set a figure, then why can't we arbitrarily change it."

Some members of OCATS expressed some reservation over the success of their tactic noting only four of the 27 members on the board of commissioners represent areas having sheriff patrols.

The storm over the contract increases has been brewing for the past two weeks when the townships received the contracts ready for signing without having any say in the drafting of the documents.

Under the county's proposal the cost of sheriff's patrol in Independence Township would increase to more than $123,000 for five deputies.

The township presently pays the contract with a one-mill levy. This year, however, Police Chief Jack McCall is preparing two budgets which will detail the costs of retaining the sheriff's department versus beginning their own police department.

Springfield, under the county's contract, will increase police costs from $49,412 to $54,412.

Still an avid skier

Clarkston woman wins Blind Skier event

Cathy skied fast enough to earn a first place finish in her class at Pine Knob, Sunday.

By Joe Gitter
of the Clarkston News
"What you can see at 200 feet I can see at two feet," is the way Cathy Yeager, of 8066 Hillandale in Clarkston, describes her handicap.

Yet, despite her increasingly poor vision, Cathy continues to ski three or four times a week.

She participated in the American Blind Skier Foundation races, held last weekend, February 5 and 6 at Pine Knob Ski Resort.

Some 33 skiers and guides participated in the annual event held in the Clarkston area for the first time.

Cathy, 26, has been skiing for 21 years. It has just been the last year that her once perfect eyesight began to deteriorate.

"This is my first year not seeing everything," she said. "It's really easier that way... you don't get scared."

Blind skiers are always accompanied by a guide. But, they can do little more than keep the skier headed in the right general direction—downhill. The rest is intuition and courage.

And they race no less. Pine Knob set up a slalom course especially for the races and donated all lift tickets and any ski rentals to the blind skiers.

Mrs. Yeager is the first and only blind skier to take on "The Wall" Pine Knob's infamously treacherous down-hill run. It requires a degree of recklessness for a skier with perfect vision to attempt the seemingly straight drop.

Cathy said she "felt like a fly on flypaper" going down "the wall."

"The hardest thing to do skiing is to judge speed," Cathy said.

"Especially when the wind is blowing. It feels like you're going 90 miles an hour."

Cathy went fast enough this weekend to place first in the senior partially blind class.

"There are a million blind people in the United States. But, there are not many programs provided for outside activities."

The American Blind Skiers Foundation, headed by Barbara Delpiere has made a good start.

Return from 'the last frontier'

From oil man to 'pop man'

- "Franklin Bluff"
- "Happy Valley"
- "Toolick"
- "Aittigun"
- "Chandalar"
- "Cold Feet"

... one can almost hear the trainman call.

South from Prudoe Bay to Diedrich;

From Franklin Bluff to Chandalar astride the Arctic Circle—That's where Gregg Featherstone spent two and a half of his 25 years in the Yukon.

And he talks of going back while he pumps gas and hefts cases of pop at the Pop-n-Go at the corner of Maybee Road and Sashabaw.

"I'm convinced that's where it's at—the money," Gregg said emphatically.

Besides that it's the prettiest place he has ever seen. And he has seen a lot of places. The son of an Army man he traveled and lived all over the world as he grew up.

Like many others looking for a quick buck he left a good, steady job and struck out for Alaska for a job on the natural gas pipeline.

When he got there in January of 1974 he found out it just wasn't that easy.

"75 percent of the laborers are unionized there," Gregg said, "Jesse Carr, Teamster president, has more power than the governor."

Even after Gregg finally got into the unions jobs were not immediately available.

In the meantime he worked for a welding company and helped build the Hoovercraft, a jet propelled air-cushioned craft that transported heavy equipment across the Yukon River for the companies building the pipeline.

He then worked as a labor union utility man on an Air Force base.

Finally he lied about his abilities and got a job as a driller on the pipeline. Glad that he made it he also notes that it is inexperience that has killed and injured many a man on the line.

Once on the pipeline there was nowhere to go but up and he went—from a general laborer and $47,000 in wages for eight months work to a general labor foreman and $67,000 for a seven month work year.

While the pay is good the work is hard but every want and need is supplied.

"Food is terrific. Steak three times a week, anything you want for breakfast and a substantial lunch," Gregg remembered.

There are no housing expenses because union contracts guarantee that each man be housed with at least 60 square feet of space, he said.

Transportation is also provided to the work camps and since there is no place to go a man has no need for a way to get there.

About one percent of the men have their families there "but you defeat the purpose if you take your family," Gregg said. He explained that it costs more to live in Alaska than anywhere else on earth.

"About $3,000 a month for a family with four children," he estimated.

When Gregg first arrived in Fairbanks he looked for rental housing. All he found was an unfurnished house with no plumbing that rented at $500 a month.

"There wasn't even an outside toilet," Gregg said.

Besides the cost, it's a rough place to live.

"In Fairbanks knives and guns are openly displayed. You don't go into a bar and start something—you probably wouldn't get a chance to finish it."

"Where there is money there is the seamy side of life," Gregg explained as he related stories that can't be repeated.

But most of his stories deal with inter-union fighting, waste and graft.

"$300,000 worth of insulation was buried because we didn't use it. A week later we needed insulation and it had to be ordered."

He blames the ecologists for much of the expense. "I've seen bear slither under the pipeline 200 feet from an animal crossing that cost $2½ million to install.

His own job of taping the pipe resulted from the inadequate initial coating applied to the pipe.

"It didn't withstand the heat of the welders—it all flaked off. Even the tape has to be patched and patched because of the way it's handled."

But he's ready to go back, even if it can get 138° below zero.

"It's truly the last frontier," Gregg said smiling.

Gregg returned from the Alaskan cold to find he was better off back in the land of the grizzly.

For the third time in a month's (or rather upstairs) music of the period, Norma Lussier was again appointed to the township's Board of Review Tuesday.

Mrs. Lussier was first appointed to the two-year term on Jan. 4 and again on Jan. 18 but each time inclement weather kept her from being sworn in during the required 10-day period.

Township Clerk Christopher Rose, who has the duty of swearing in appointees, said he made every possible effort to have Mrs. Lussier sworn into office before the Feb. 12 deadline.

The wife of U.S. Representative Jim Blanchard, the former Paula Parker of Clarkston, received a delightful surprise while attending a White House reception recently.

As she was nearing the end of the reception line President Jimmy Carter showed up and was told by Mrs. Blanchard "You're setting a wonderful tone for all of us."

With that, Carter replied, "Oh, you're so sweet," and gave her a kiss.

Her parents, William and Genevieve Parker still reside in Independence Township.

The Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals performed its duties Wednesday night, Feb. 2, to the background disco dance class being held at the Township Hall.

As the board members heard and decided on the cases before them the tramp, tramp of feet kept time to "Night Moves" by Bob Seger, "Turn the Beat Around" by Vickie Sue Robinson and "Car Wash" by Rolls Royce, two floors above.

A resolution seeking immediate information about missing Americans in Indochina has been approved by the Michigan Senate and sent to President Jimmy Carter.

The resolution urges Carter to form a task force to obtain an accurate accounting of the 2,500 MIA's, 50 of whom are from Michigan.

The resolution states "it is indeed an affront to basic humanitarian principles that the families of thousands of young men who have served are still suffering the pain of darkness surrounding their loved ones' fate."

Newspaper (including the Clarkston News) and television reported regularly on Linda Lovett's predicament in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley stepped in to investigate the International Cultural Exchange (ICX), the company responsible for Linda's extended visit. State Representatives including Clarkston's Claude Trim promised to help.

It began to look as though Linda would not return until her parents paid the $551 return plane fare.

But, all was for naught. The Youth for Understanding program, and organization similar to ICS, stepped in and paid the return air passage.

What makes the entire situation absurd is the fact that Linda Lovett did not mind the extra eight day stay at all. In fact, she enjoyed it.

An open letter on M275

Guest editorial

The following guest editorial is an open letter to Peter B. Fletcher, chairman of the State Highway Commission from State Representative Claude Trim regarding the state's decision to cancel the construction of M275.

Since the decision by the Highway Commission has been made to stop building M-275, I have had many concerns voiced by the constituents in Northwest Oakland County, both directly to me and through our representative at the Board of Commissioners, Mr. Robert Gorsline, along with the supervisors of the townships through which the highway was projected to be constructed.

My constituents, and I concur, feel that you have only heard from a small group from Commerce Township, which is only one of five townships involved.

In Commerce Township, this was only defeated at the polls by 7%.

Since it has become apparent that we broached upon a new concept of building our freeway system in our state upon public demand, I feel we should allow the other townships to have the same voice, whereas they have now had no voice at all in the decision the Commission has made.

Already we are feeling the ramifications of this decision. The State Highway Department now feels it is not necessary to continue the widening of M-59 west of Bogie Lake Road.

Upon receiving the news of your decision to stop the construction of M-275, I was in hopes that at least a portion of those finances would be used for the construction of M-59.

This leaves me with no alternative but to think that, again, Northwest Oakland County will not receive fair treatment for at the present time—other than the I-75 highway, which was built several years ago—we are still without a north-south artery and an east-west artery.

It is also apparent to me that no one has given any thought to the fact that this coming spring there will be another state park opening in Northwest Oakland County—the 7 Lakes State Park—which will also add much more traffic to the local roads besides the many state parks we already have in the area.

This, coupled with the impact of the already acquired Indian Springs Park, which is the project of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park System, adds further strain on our already strained road system in Northwest Oakland County.

After conferring with the County Commission and the local township supervisors, as well as many constituents, I urge you to reconsider your decision until after there has been a vote of all the townships involved.

I would appreciate your immediate concern in this matter.

Sincerely,
Claude A. Trim
State Representative

Paragraphs, Please?

by Dan Trainor

Gee O Golly, I never knew my profession was so glamorous or that editors, especially slotmen, were so courteous.

Imagine a slotman, he is the cantankerous chap that acts as if he is having a nervous breakdown every deadline, saying "15 minutes to deadline, paragraphs PLEASE."

I was chuckling all through "The Andros Targets" Monday night, but when that came over, I literally rolled onto the floor laughing.

The last time I heard a slotman near deadline it was more along the lines of "Hey (expletive, expletive) what in the expletive do you think we're running here, an expletive nursery. Where in the expletive is the expletive copy! Expletive, Expletive!"

Now the Woodward-Bernstein syndrome has come to commercial television in what is not supposed to be but is the newest comedy series to hit the tube.

It didn't take much time to tell it was going to be a bummer. In fact the opening told what was to come when the hero, Steve Andros, appeared wearing a trenchcoat with the collar turned up.

I thought that went out when Jack Webb finished with the movie "30". From there it was all downhill.

He sits back with his feet up on the deck as some distraught father tries to convince him his daughter did not commit suicide but was murdered. He takes the story and proceeds to break up a pornographic film studio financed by a large, respectable corporation.

He does this without once telling his city editor what he is doing. I can imagine what my father would have said or done if he found out one of his reporters had gone ahead on a story without first telling him.

Never once did he take notes for this "powerful expose" but made sure the collar on his trenchcoat was always up and his tie was always loose.

He is the first and only reporter that can tell someone where the exact location of his story will be in the next day's paper. The "Big Story" series, back in the 1950's was perhaps the only television program that even came close to portraying what a newspaper is all about. But the "Andros Targets" isn't even in the ballpark. If nothing else the weekly farce will be good for a laugh.

'If It Fitz . . .'

What crime, your honor?

by Jim Fitzgerald

A childhood friend was arrested recently for barroom brawling by a policeman who was out of uniform and off duty. The cop explained that it is his job to stop crime whenever and wherever, even when he isn't getting paid for it.

"That's why a policeman never leaves home without his gun," he said.

Oh, sure, you bet. It all sounds so noble. But there are exceptions to this 24-hour alert.

Some Detroit cops have seen crimes committed, made no effort to stop them, and made no arrests. Of course, the crimes were committed by other Detroit cops.

Remember May 9, 1975? That's when a mob of policemen staged a protest outside the old Federal Building in downtown Detroit. They were unhappy about layoffs. A mini-riot occurred and six white cops were charged with assaulting a black cop.

Last week the six were acquitted. Earlier, other officers were found innocent of other assault charges resulting from the same fracas. All litigation concerning the incident has been completed, and no one was found guilty of anything.

That means no laws were broken during that police demonstration, right? I'll never believe it. Neither will George Edwards III, who was there.

Edwards, a Detroit lawyer and former city clerk, is plenty unhappy about last week's acquittals. He charges bluntly that the prosecution "didn't really want to win the case."

Edwards was a witness for the prosecution. He made a statement immediately after the demonstration then testified 20 months later. Not once during those 20 months was he called by anyone from the county prosecutor's office for any kind of a pre-trial conference.

"I was amazed that they didn't want to talk to me before the case went to trial," Edwards told me last week. "That was highly unusual."

Edwards had a close look at the alleged assault. He was standing outside the Federal Building that afternoon, waiting for his wife, who is also a lawyer. He described it as a frightening experience.

He said he saw a group of white men jump on the black officer, William Green, and wrestle and slug him to the ground. At this point, Edwards saw no gun.

"Some way, I'll never understand how the black man managed to get free of the men beating on him. When he emerged, he held his gun over his head with both hands, pointing it straight up into the air," Edwards said.

Green testified that his gun fell from his holster and he was able to recover it after someone had grabbed it. He suffered a broken nose in the struggle.

Edwards said several white cops then pulled their pistols and pointed them at Green. At this point, Edwards dived under a car.

Edwards has been involved in several demonstrations where violence erupted, including the march in Selma, Ala., for Martin Luther King. He said none of those previous experiences frightened him as much as those Detroit policemen with their guns.

"Those are powerful weapons. If shooting had begun, bullets could have ripped through many bodies," he said. No shots were fired.

In finding the six policemen not guilty, Judge John Kadela said it was impossible to determine what happened because of conflicting testimony. Imagine that.

There were dozens of trained policemen on the scene. Several laws were broken. A man was assaulted. Traffic was blocked. The peace was disturbed. Innocent lives were endangered.

It should have been the easiest bust in police history. Usually the cops are called after the crime is committed and the bad guys have fled. But this time the cops were right there, witnesses.

But all that law power was poop. All those cops were unable to arrest the crooks sitting in their laps. Later, all those experienced lawmen could not identify the criminals who had stomped on their feet.

It is no laugh. My brawling friend asked me the best way to avoid future arrests by off-duty cops. I told him to carry a badge and wear white skin.

Letters to the editor

A choice between cops and kids

An open letter to the Independence Township Board:

I hope that you will all take a long, hard look at our police situation before you make any decisions to become an "independent" Independence Township. Carefully weigh all possibilities. Is it really to our advantage to establish our own police department? Is it really too costly to depend on the Oakland County Sheriff's Department? Wouldn't a compromise be possible if townships in the area decide to boycott the wage increase? Would the millage pass if presented to the voters?

The fire department has made overtures to millage increases. They feel they need to expand their services also. Maybe they do, but have they separated their "needs" from their "wants?"

We have just had a two mill ad valorem sewer tax shoved down our throats because of past "miscalculations." We can hardly afford any new errors in judgement at this point.

It should also come as no surprise to the readers of The Clarkston News that all is not well with our schools. Current studies have revealed certain deficiencies in our educational system, both academically and physically. It is them!

not unreasonable to assume that we will be asked to consider an increase in school millage also.

How many of you board members are aware of the fact that 7th grade home economic students have to bring a slice of bread if they want their egg on toast? They have also been instructed to bring their own eggs when it comes time to scramble

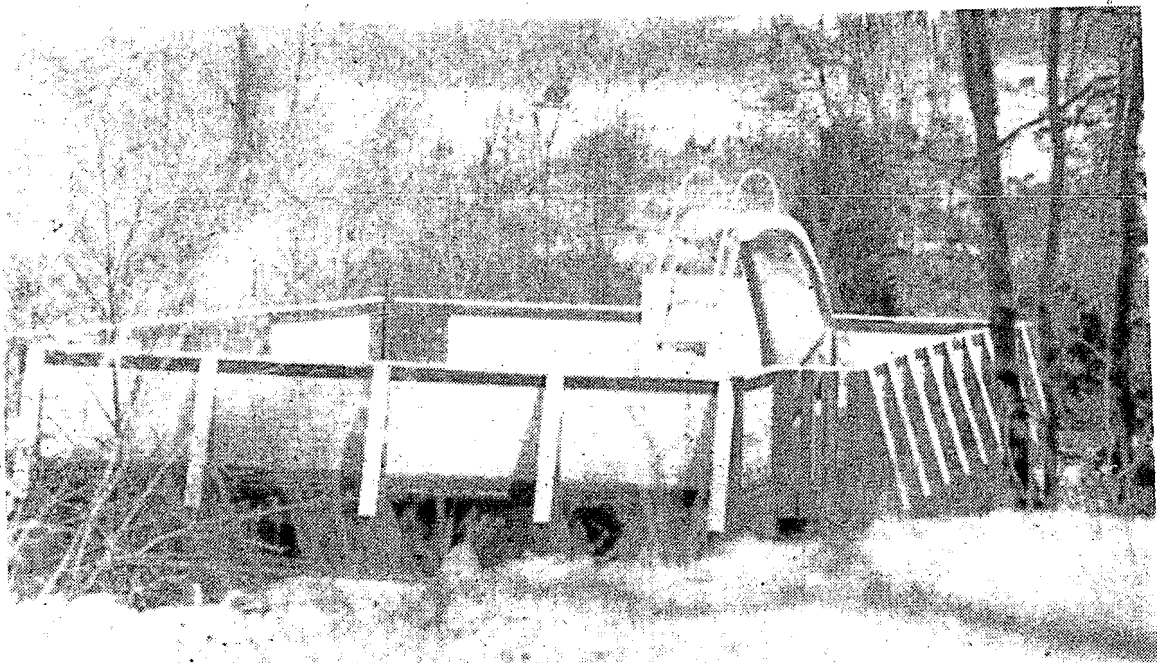

The extreme in school budget cuts is our legacy from a previous administration who lulled the people of this community into a false sense of security.

It seems to me as though we are going to be forced to choose between our children and increased police and fire services. I, for one, will go with the children.

Grapplers place second in G.O.A.L.

The Clarkston grapplers have finished their best regular season since 1971. The varsity team, comprised of 13 high school boys, led by coach Tolbert Carter, ended the regular season with a second place finish in Greater Oakland action.

It was the battle of the undefeateds last week as the Wolves took on G.O.A.L. rival Rochester for the title. It was a close match, but a more experienced Rochester team, with eight seniors in their starting lineup, beat the grapplers 35-26.

Clarkston received a real blow when Harvey Faulk, 165 pounds, tore a muscle in his ankle and had to default in his match against Rochester. That untimely mishap cost the Wolves six points and possibly the match.

"I thought it might be broken at first," coach Carter said. "We had to carry him off the mat."

Again at the league meet, Saturday, February 5, Rochester dominated all. The Wolves put up a good fight, but "didn't get any help from any of the other teams," according to Carter. Rochester walked away with the league title scoring 217 points. Clarkston was second with 115.

The Wolves placed four wrestlers in the finals. Three won.

Brad Griggs, 126 pounds, won his class and finished the season with a 23-5 record. Tim Detkowski, 138 pounds, also won his class and finished with a 22-4 record.

Pat Cadwallader, heavyweight and one of only three seniors on the team put his 214 pound frame to work against opponents well over 250 pounds to win his class. He finished with a 19-7 record.

"We gave it a good shot," Carter said. "I didn't think we'd do that good this year."

"We would have won the old league, if we hadn't added Rochester," he added.

The regular season is over. All that remains is the drive to the state finals, but that is up to the individual wrestlers, according to Carter. The team meets are done.

Looking to next year Carter feels that, "If we can replace the seniors we should have a pretty good team."

The grapplers will lose only three wrestlers to graduation. And considering the crop of youngsters coming up from the junior high teams the Wolves should be a contender again next year.

Girls move into second... win four in a row

The girls varsity volleyball has moved itself into second place in Greater Oakland competition.

Last week the girls defeated conference rival Rochester, 8-15, 14-11 and 15-0. The JV girls also won, 14-16, 15-10 and 15-12.

Some games, such as the one above, 14-11, are ended before 15 points have been made by either team. This is because the girls play under an eight minute clock as well as the 15 point rule. Any team ahead by two or more points when the clock runs out is the winner.

Monday, February 7, the girls lost a close match to conference leading West Bloomfield. The varsity lost in two close games, 11-14 and 11-15. West Bloomfield is undefeated in G.O.A.L. competition. They are the only obstacles between the Clarkston girls and a championship.

But, coach Linda Denstaedt sees little chance for a first place finish.

The Wolves have now played

West Bloomfield for the last time during the regular season. No other team, except for Andover really has a chance to defeat West Bloomfield, Denstaedt said.

"Andover could give it a shot. They have an equally aggressive offense," Denstaedt said.

The girls are going to try to hold onto second place through the last part of the season. Andover again poses the only real threat to their goal.

The girls are 4-2 in league play. They had won four games in a row up to the West Bloomfield game. Andover is 3-2.

The team will take on Waterford Kettering in their next league contest Monday, February 14. Saturday, February 12 the girls will attend an all day tournament at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

One of the most exciting and fast moving types of fishing is surf casting. It is challenging and exhilarating, and can involve good battles with such fish as bluefish or stripers, which can range in weight from 10-12 to 100 pounds. Surf fishing is salt water fishing and requires heavy duty equipment. Usually the rod is made of fiberglass and the line is extremely strong. The plug, a surf fisherman's lure, is a heavy wooden lure that looks like a small, appetizing fish to the larger game fish. Surf fishing takes a lot of strength and energy since the fisherman must follow the fish down the beach, often at a quick rate, and then prepare for a good battle before the hooked fish can be taken in.

Wolves split a pair

The varsity Wolves basketball team split a pair of games last week.

Tuesday, February 1, the cagers defeated Waterford Township convincingly, 66-57.

The Wolves were down the first quarter, 13-19, but outscored Waterford, 26-12 in the second stanza to take an eight point lead they never lost.

"The kids played real well the second and third quarters," Coach Gary Nustad said.

Friday evening Clarkston battled league rival Milford to a "tough loss," 58-55.

The Wolves' outscored Milford from the floor, shooting 50%, but it was the free throw shooting of Milford, five more than Clarkston, that won the game for them.

In fact, the game went right down to the wire with Dan McMillion of Milford hitting two free throws in the final five seconds to wrap up the victory for the Redskins.

"It was a see-saw ball game," Nustad said. The Wolves led going into the final period of play, but could not fight off a Milford comeback.

"No team was ahead by more than two or three points throughout the game," Nustad said, "But, we took a couple of shots we shouldn't have."

Nustad commented on the good play of Geoff Becker, Steve Evans and Charlie Robertson.

The Wolves have five games remaining on their schedule for the year. The cancelled contest with West Bloomfield was to be played in place of the non-league game with Lake Orion. Nustad hopes to reschedule the Orion game February 15, an open date on their schedule.

Their record stands now at 6-8 overall and 1-5 in the conference.

Elementary basketball

Two teams remain undefeated after last Saturday's action in the Independence Township's Elementary Age Basketball Leagues.

The undefeated Bombers of the Junior League were led by Mike McCormick's 18 points as they squeaked by the Cougars 32-29.

In other Junior League action, Mike Dearborn scored 10 points to lead the Mustangs to a 28-22 victory over the Wildcats. Leading the scoring for the Wildcats was Craig Nicolai with 14 points.

The Nuggets remained unbeaten in Bidy League action as they defeated the Bombers 47-33.

Leading Nugget scorers in the game were Ken Temple with 18 points and Craig Kyliusewski with 14 points.

The Bomber scorers were Brian Dennison 14 points, Tom Hall 11 points and Dino O'Neil 8 points. Dan Crawford led the Pistons to a 42-26 victory over the Titans by dropping in 34 points. Eric Dieull scored 16 points for the Titans.

Crime rate decreases in Springfield Township Twp.

The year-end summary of criminal offenses perpetrated in Springfield Township was released by the Oakland County Sheriffs Department at the township board meeting, February 2.

According to the report, a small decrease was effected in total criminal complaints in Springfield. 807 complaints were made in 1976 compared to 820 in 1975.

That is a decrease of 1.6%.

Criminal homicides decreased 100%, from one in 1975 to none in 1976.

But, robbery's increased 100%. Two were committed in 1975. That figure rose to four in 1976.

Throughout the report figures indicate a reduction in most crime to the increased patrolling by the Sheriff's Department and showing a substantial rise was Operation Identification, a program designed to deter theft by inscribing a code on personal and home items.

Apartments open without permits

Blue Water Bavarian Village, 8863 Dixie Highway, an apartment-building complex, opened and rented apartment units before final building inspection by Springfield Township.

Final building inspection must be made prior to occupancy, according to Collin Walls, Springfield's Supervisor. No occupancy permits were issued by the township at the time the apartments were opened.

The situation is being rectified, according to Walls. But, the problem has been complicated by the fact that the building inspector must contact the residents of the apartments and arrange an appointment when they will be home. Normally, the entire complex would be inspected at one time prior to occupancy.

"It is now to the point where the situation is almost cleared up," Walls said. "They are now doing what we are asking them to do. And I see no reason to take them to court."

The township would have to go to court over the matter to fine Bavarian Village.

Bavarian Village refused comment on the incident. The developer of the complex is Bill Dinnan.

Reading program proves its worth

Jan, a second grader in the Clarkston Title 1 Remedial Reading Program, was assigned to read three pages. But Jan thought she could read ten.

"Okay," said her teacher. "If you think you can do it, go ahead."

So, Jan did and she earned a superstar.

Such conversations and assignments are not unusual in this unique program that has won national attention because of its success in teaching children to read.

The program, begun seven years ago and funded through the U.S. Office of Education's Title 1 funds, operates in five of the six Clarkston elementary schools. It involves 180 children a year and eight teachers working full and part time.

Clarkston Elementary does not have the program because it does not meet federal guidelines necessary to obtain Title 1 funds.

Twice a week the second and third graders leave the classroom and proceed to the reading room.

It may be one of many places. At North Sashabaw Elementary a conference room is set aside for this purpose. Elsewhere a partitioned classroom is used.

The place is unimportant. It's what goes on inside that makes this program what it is.

Teachers, specially assigned to the program, spend at least one and one-half hours a week with each child. Two children are handled by a teacher at one time, thus greatly reducing the teacher-student ratio found in the classroom.

There are usually six tasks to be done. Three tasks the child will work on with the teacher; three he will do alone. During the 45 minute session the instructor alternates her time equally between the two students.

The teacher zeros in on the specific needs of the child. Something that cannot be readily done in the classroom.

The teachers use some pretty sophisticated methods. Behavior modification techniques, designed to provide "positive reinforcement" of that which is learned, include rewards of stars and M and M candies for each successfully completed assignment.

Teachers find food treats are especially important incentives to young students. But, as a child progresses, the candy rewards are gradually withdrawn. Stars are still given for completed assignments but larger numbers are needed for a reward. And the reward is no longer candy. Instead the child is allowed to go to a treasure chest to pick out a book or toy.

With this new and exciting approach to learning the Clarkston elementary schools are receiving national recognition and acclaim. The federal government has certified the project and made it available to schools throughout the nation.

"Down with the thermostat . . . on with the sweaters" was a headline we used in December of 1973. Today we find ourselves in the same situation. More and more people are installing auxiliary heating units. Most of them are more modern in appearance than this antique Detroit Jewel that Terry Johnson, Chuck Fletcher and Rick Gunter gathered around back in 1973.

Franklin stoves are becoming increasingly popular in this cold weather.

By Hilda Bruce of the Clarkston News

The radiant heat of a crackling fire, the aroma of freshly popped corn and the smacking of buttery fingers—the cozy, homey vision of our pioneer heritage—sounds romantic. But in fact it is becoming more and more appealing as our record cold weather continues.

While it may be appealing it is by no means without its disadvantages. Among them the increasing cost of wood, the loss of heat up the flu of an open grate and the danger of fire from an over heated wood burning unit, a wayward spark or rolling log.

A more worthwhile expenditure might be additional insulation weather stripping around doors and windows and or good windows, said Ken Delbridge, director of Independence Township Building Department.

However if it's siddling up to a comfy fire you want—be cautious.

Everyone from Julius Dael at Country Value Hardware, who sells free standing fireplaces, Franklin Stoves and solid fuel space heaters to Chief Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department is concerned about the trend to the auxiliary heating units.

They all caution against improper installation.

"It's our biggest problem," said Delbridge:

The units all come with specifications for the installation and those specifications should be followed to the letter the men say.

Make sure that the manufacturer has had the stove design tested by a nationally recognized, independent testing laboratory.

If you question the safety of even (just to be sure) take the brochure on the unit you are interested in to the building department. Delbridge can determine if the unit is acceptable, safe and tell how to install it.

His expertise comes with the permit to install the unit. So does the final inspection to insure your safety. The permit is $20.

"We are concerned with the health, safety and welfare of our residents and not with anything else," Delbridge said by way of assuring people that the inspector will inspect only the fireplace or stove installation and not canvass the home for other reasons.

"People don't get a permit because they are afraid someone may discover they have completed another project without a permit. That is not our role but that of the assessor," Delbridge said.

The specifications should include the distance the stove should be from combustible walls and floors. The chimney size and type should also be indicated.

Delbridge notes that the home's present chimney is designed for its present use and to tie into that chimney may cause overheating and a fire could result.

After the proper installation treat the stove with respect.

"Tend it properly, never let it overheat and never, never leave the stove unattended and over fueled," the fire department cautions.

And watch the children when around the stove.

"Especially the Franklin stoves. They are cast iron and they get extremely hot," Dael said.

A final warning from the fire department—Radiant heat can ignite combustible materials.

Enough radiant heat can penetrate drywall and ignite wood studs. Furniture, carpet, drapes and curtains have been ignited time and again by the radiant heat generated by improperly designed and installed solid fuel space heaters.

Doug Saile relaxes in front of the hearth without fireplace screen in place. The screens are necessary to keep sparks from the room and logs from rolling out onto the floor where they could ignite the rug and cause considerable damage and even loss of life.

By Phillip Purser

"The Marriage-Go-Round" is a civilized and always so good mannered discussion of monogamy and the on-going war between the sexes.

It is tasteful and at times witty entertainment that banters gaily along about the problems encountered in a long and faithful marriage when a crisis appears in the form of a tall, blond bombshell from Sweden who becomes a houseguest.

The domestic rift that occurs is the motivation for the comedy and the question becomes whether the dedicated husband will or will not live up to the marriage vows and remain true to his wife.

The Clarkston Village Players' latest production is this Leslie Stevens comedy which opened February 4 and 5 and will continue for two more performances on the 11th and 12th.

Starring Pete Rose as Paul Delville, Professor of Anthropology, and Anne Rose as his on-stage wife, Content, who is also Bonstelle Theatre. This student production had some technical flaws in the complicated set maneuvering and it dragged along at times. However, the enthusiasm of the actors and dancers brought a dramatic presence to many scenes.

The book of this 1940 musical was adapted from John O'Hara's letter-form novel of the same name and revolves around the career and love life of a brassy and ignorant light-weight entertainer trying to make it in Chicago in the 1930's.

Joey Evans (David Szabla) is a hero who is quite unlovable if not downright odious. Pal Joey assumes its historical significance because the hero is not one you like while most preceding musicals and operettas had quite romantic heroes.

The music is by Richard Rodgers and the lyrics are by Lorenz Hart and some of the best songs everybody is familiar with.

Mr. Szabla was well cast as he looked like I fantasize all such scheming and dull men to look: overly handsome and suave. The choreography was generally good and the dance numbers were enjoyed by the opening night audience. Since "Pal Joey" is so seldom performed, this is an excellent opportunity to see this Rodgers and Hart musical which will play on weekends through February 20 in Detroit.

Mr. Rose and his off-stage wife seem, as one would hope, to be comfortable with each other on stage. Mr. Rose is appropriately grave but with a wandering and lecherous eye. As Content, Mrs. Rose projects a dry sense of humor and charm. Ms. Inman played her part well and did not seem to falter once with her Swedish accent which could have been over-played.

The other part in the play was that of Content's sympathetic colleague (Neil Braun) who was a willing listener for her when she felt overwhelmed by her Scandinavian competition.

Pal Joey, a rarely revived but historically important musical, opened Friday night, February 4 at Wayne State University's

Make a mental note

The heart is hollow

by Jim and Ellen Windell

Most of us parents try to protect our children from various hardships and devastating experiences in life. We attempt to shelter them from poverty, crime, racism, divorce and all sorts of unsettling events. However, there is serious doubt as to whether this results in a more healthy and resourceful child.

Many parents tend to feel guilt if their child has some emotional problem and they feel that if they had just been more adequate the child would have been spared this unhappiness.

Nevertheless, it is a cliché that artists must suffer and we know that in order for a child to be protected from most childhood diseases the child must be exposed to those illnesses and suffer the disease to finally achieve immunity.

While we can tolerate artists having to suffer to reach a certain level of creativity, we find it difficult to allow our children to be given emotional immunity.

Many young parents set out to raise "perfect" children. Such children are often defined as those who are completely happy and never frustrated.

In order to assure this, the parents have to work over time to ward off want and deprivation in many forms. Early in life the child's crying may be a signal to the parent that the parent is not meeting all the youngster's needs and the parental efforts have to be redoubled.

Any unhappiness manifested by the child brings the parents' self worth into question. Such parents may frequently think or say, "I wouldn't want any child of mine to have to go through what I went through."

If one looks closely at most suburban juvenile delinquents, it seems that many of them have been exposed to a protective atmosphere which did not allow them to have experiences which teach them resilience, resourcefulness, and frustration tolerance.

If a child is to function well in this world and with himself, he must learn to wait and work for gratifications. The world is not indulgent and a good feeling about oneself can only come about when one learns to do things on one's own and as a result of individual effort.

Emotionally trying experiences need not be devastating although they may produce temporary setbacks.

It is the job of a parent not to protect a child from all unhappy experiences but it may be their job to help the child to handle those events and profit emotionally from them.

Spelling bee

Millstream

Spelling bees did not go out with the little red school house. Each year the Detroit News sponsors spelldowns in the elementary schools.

The first level is conducted in each classroom. Then the top ten fifth and six graders spell down each other for the school title. Last week the class winners were determined.

At Clarkston Elementary Lisa Young won over all other fifth graders by correctly spelling recreation. Second place winner was Kim Smith and third was Carolyn Harned.

Carrie Smith spelled finally correctly to take the sixth grade honors. Second place went to Kathy Humphrey and third to Becky Young.

The spelldown for the school winner will be Friday, Feb. 11.

At Bailey Lake Elementary Dawn Krupp spelled gnaw for the top fifth grade spot. In second place was Klaire Tabaka and in third was Sue Schwartz.

The sixth grade winner was Kim Jakubus who spelled different correctly. Peter Maierle won second place and Liz Turnbull placed third.

February 15 the top twenty spellers will compete for the school title.

At Andersonville the three fifth grade classes competed with Debbie Roek spelling mileage correctly for first place in Mr. Sandford's room. Second place went to Michelle Giacalone and third to Denise Giroux.

Mosaic was the winning word in Mrs. Luzi's class where Kelly Miller won. Mike Marcetti was second and Charles Jacobs was third.

Using everyday materials; throw-aways, found objects and all kinds of natural materials students create individual projects such as collages, mobiles, glue-dough sculpture that reflect their ideas about their environment.

The Best-of-Class winner will receive an Elmer statuette and his or her project will then be eligible for state and national awards worth more than $20,000.

Residents urged to turn on water

Township officials are urging residents to turn on their water during cold spells to prevent the freeze up of their water lines. A policy of charging only minimum billing has been adopted for the months of February and March so that people will not suffer financially.

Township officials have reported eight lines freezing last week which costs the township about $200 in overtime and equipment for each call.

A water tap in the laundry room could be opened just enough to insure movement in the lines to prevent the freeze-ups.

Land group honored

Nelson Kimball of the Independence Land Conservancy is walking proud this week as are all connected with the group.

Senator Kerry Kammer has introduced a senate resolution of tribute to the Conservancy which reads in part:

"Whereas, The people of Independence Township in Michigan's Oakland County are wise indeed, for they have entrusted their time, their funds and above all their commitment to preservation of the wilds, to the protective care of the Independence Land Conservancy. It is our privilege to extend high praise and tribute to this noble organization, for its pursuits are honorable and its accomplishments truly everlasting ..."

The annual meeting of the Conservancy is tonight, Thursday, 8 p.m. in the Clarkston Village Hall, 25 South Main Street.

The 1977 Board of Directors and Auditors will be elected and "some exciting news regarding Deer Lake" will be announced, Kimball said.

Anyone interested in joining may attend.

Parents as People

The Clarkston PTA Council is sponsoring a "Parents as People" workshop, Tuesday, Feb. 22, 8 p.m. at North Sashabaw Elementary School.

The speakers will be Dr. Mary L. Otto and Dr. David Smith, assistant professors at Oakland University, School of Education.

The focus of the program will be on how the parent can meet his needs as a changing, maturing adult.

Otto and Smith have taped a Public Broadcasting System broadcast soon to be released, on parenting and they are compiling material for a book to be published next winter. They have already published two articles about professionals as parents and about adult developmental stages and how it affects parenting.

For further information call Faye Easley at 625-4346.

Bingo at center

The Dayton Plains Nature Center will sponsor weekly Bingo games beginning at 7 p.m. on Mondays at the Three Hundred Bowl, Cass and Elizabeth Lake Rds., Waterford Township.

THE TOWNSHIP OF SPRINGFIELD ORDAINS:

ARTICLE 1. SHORT TITLE

Sec. 1.1. This ordinance shall be known and may be cited and referred to as the "Springfield Township Ordinance Governing the Split of Acreage Parcels" and hereinafter shall be referred to as "this ordinance."

Wherever the word "owner" appears herein, it shall be deemed to refer to any person holding any legal or equitable interest.

Sec. 2.6. "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, trust, the State of Michigan and any of its agencies or subdivisions, and any body of persons that together hold joint ownership of the acreage parcel.

Sec. 2.7. "Registered land surveyor" of "civil engineer" shall mean a person so licensed by the State of Michigan.

c) A copy of the most recent paid tax bill pertaining to the parcel.

d) A scaled drawing of the parcel as it exists prior to the proposed split which may be incorporated in (e) below.

ARTICLE 4. REVIEW OF APPLICATION.

Sec. 4.1. Within seven (7) days of submission of an application for a split of acreage to the Assessor, a determination will be made as to approval or denial of the proposed land division. Approval of an application by the Township does not constitute approval by any other agency or governmental body having jurisdiction thereof. In no case may any land division be less than the minimum requirements of the Springfield Township Zoning Ordinance, Ordinance No. 26, and all amendments thereto.

ARTICLE 5. STANDARDS

Sec. 5.1. The split of an acreage parcel shall not be granted if any of the following conditions are found:

c) The depth of any of the parcels after the split exceeds four times the width.

d) One of the resultant parcels after the split is less than the minimum width and area as provided by the Springfield Township Zoning Ordinance, unless said remaining parcel or parcels is to be sold and conveyed to an adjoining owner, wherein the resultant parcel or parcels has a combined width and area in excess of the minimum requirement or shall result in an increase in the area of the adjacent parcels. ARTICLE 8. SEVERABILITY

Sec. 8.1. If any section, provision, phrase or word of this ordinance shall be held void, ineffectual or unconstitutional by a Court of competent jurisdiction, then such finding shall not affect the validity of the remaining sections, provisions, phrases or words, but the balance of said ordinance shall be deemed valid and enforceable.

ARTICLE 9. EXCLUSIVITY

Sec. 9.1. No acreage parcel may be split in Springfield Township except in accordance with the terms of this Ordinance.

ARTICLE 10. EFFECTIVE DATE AND DECLARATION.

Beware of gas leaks

"The extremely cold weather that is causing the people of Michigan so many hardships has put the gas distribution system of Consumers Power under an unusual strain because of the unprecedented depth of frost in the earth," S. M. Jurrens, General Manager of the Eastern Region of Consumers Power, said today.

"There has been much publicity about broken water mains this winter. The gas distribution system is subjected to the same stress as the water systems and is suffering almost as much," Jurrens added.

"Because of this unusual condition, Consumers Power is asking residents to report immediately to Consumers Power Company any odor of gas or any unusual gaseous smell that they might detect in or around their homes. We have emergency crews ready 24 hours a day seven days a week who will respond to such calls," Jurrens said.

Telephone directories in communities served by the Eastern Region carry the number of Consumers Power to call in case of emergency, listed under Consumers Power Company.

Jurrens added, "Residents help in reporting the odor of gas is needed so that the source of leaking gas can be rapidly found and eliminated. Because gas may travel under frozen ground before coming to the surface, we ask that everyone report the odor of gas whether or not they have gas service in their own home."

Similarly, the extremely cold weather has put an extra burden on furnaces and increased the likelihood of carbon monoxide leaks, Jurrens said.

Jurrens explained that carbon monoxide is a byproduct of the incomplete combustion of natural gas. "Its presence is difficult to detect because it is invisible, odorless and tasteless," he said.

"The symptoms of the presence of carbon monoxide are moisture on windows, smarting of the eyes, dizziness, weakness, nausea, headaches, and unconsciousness," Jurrens explained.

"Furnaces are working overtime at or near maximum capacity in these below-freezing temperatures. Although they are designed to safely vent all products of combustion up the chimney and to the atmosphere, leaks or other malfunctions in the furnace or venting system can cause carbon monoxide to find its way into the home and cause serious illness or death."

Jurrens asked that residents who suspect the presence of carbon monoxide in their homes contact their heating dealer or Consumers Power Company.

"There is no charge by Consumers Power for emergency calls," he added.

As a matter of practice, Jurrens said, homeowners should have their space heating equipment inspected for safe operation on an annual basis.

Jim's jottings

Name dropping

by Jim Sherman

Since I was old enough to read about the super times people had at conventions I've been going to them. I was 25; just past the age of sports pages and ready for the sporting life.

The first couple years I paid my own way to the Michigan Press Association conventions annually held at Kellogg Center at Michigan State U.

In 1955 Ink White, publisher of the Clinton County Republican News, paid my registration, but the next year I was back on my own. I haven't missed one since.

It's a great reunion. The editors and publishers I met 20 years ago, who are still attending, have aged no more than I. And, each year we meet and repeat, "There are fewer and fewer people here this year who I recognize."

The blizzard that hit west Michigan kept my friends, the Jim Boughners at home in Three Oaks and the Gordon Banasiks home in Watervliet.

But it didn't stop the Dave Roods from coming in from Escanaba. Dave's a weekly editor who went wrong. He sold his Manistique Pioneer Tribune and became editor of the Escanaba Daily News.

It seemed everyone from "up north" came through the heavy snows and gusty winds. Their only complaint was when they came within 30 miles of Lansing.

However, Mike Kiley, publisher of the Munising News put his car into a snowbank near Newberry.

Claims he was sober, too.

Since this is a name dropping column . . . I was surprised to read in the Free Press Tuesday that Herb Brown, coach of The Detroit Pistons was offered a new contract.

Herb Boldt, executive sports editor of the Detroit News told me to expect Brown to be dumped. He reasoned that there was just too much dissension on the team, and the coach would go first.

Jim Fitzgerald, Free Press Back Page columnist was on hand, free loading. The next time he says something kind about anyone it will be a first.

Jean Saile, a former editor of our Clarkston News, showed up with husband Jim and daughters Liz and Sue. She's a columnist with the Detroit News now. I might take credit for giving her the training ground to this high spot in her life . . . but she won't let me.

Editor of the Kalamazoo Gazette, Dan Ryan had a great weekend. Only half his papers could be delivered two days, he was supposed to introduce two of the convention speakers and neither showed up, and Saturday afternoon his house in Kazoo was ripped off.

It was Phil Richards, publisher of the Alpena News, who won the "words" award in East Lansing. He was to give outgoing MPA president Mel Bleich of Romeo a plaque. It didn't arrive.

Richards offered Bleich, "The shirt off my back and the plaque off his teeth."
