Ski-run hotel for Super Bowl

The 22-story hotel at Pine Knob is to have 600 rooms and a ski run on its roof.

The triangular structure is to be higher and longer than Pine Knob Hill, as indicated by the broken line.

By Kathy Greenfield

A 600-room Pine Knob hotel-convention center, 22 stories high with its roof forming the highest and longest ski run in Michigan could be finished in time for the 1982 Super Bowl.

Joseph Locricchio told the Independence Township Planning Commission efforts would be made to complete the structure for the match between the top teams in the National and American football leagues at the Pontiac Silverdome.

"Obviously it would have to be the headquarters for the Super Bowl," Locricchio said, adding, "Not have to be, but we would hope."

Super Bowl business, however, is not the only motivation for the project.

"The basic reason is to make Pine Knob a true winter resort in competition with the northern Michigan areas," he said.

Locricchio and his partner Gary Francell presented plans for their "$20 million-plus" hotel at last week's planning commission meeting.

Hotel plans include banquet facilities, four levels of indoor car parking, a roof-top observatory and restaurant, night club, bar, health club and indoor-outdoor swimming pool.

The structure is to be built on the south side of Pine Knob's ski hill, directly opposite the ski lodge.

Twelve of the floors are to be higher than the hill.

A gondola-tramway included in plans would take skiers from Pine Knob hill to the hotel's rooftop, with access to the rooftop run also from inside the hotel.

The triangular structure is to be managed by a major hotel chain—three are considering the project at this time—and Pine Who's on first with Pine Knob?

If Independence Township officials want to maintain the contract for traffic control at Pine Knob, the job is theirs, says Joseph Locricchio, owner of the resort.

"I have guaranteed Mr. Tower (the township supervisor) that if he wants the contract, he would get it," Locricchio said. "Barring refusal from the township, we're going with the township."

Referring to a statement by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department last week that Pine Knob presented a contract for approval to the county, Locricchio and his partner Gary Francell denied knowledge of the transaction.

"Somebody has done something without our authority," Francell said.

"There is evidently somebody from our organization that had contacted the county," Locricchio added. "There has been an error."

"I've given (Tower) my word and Mr. Francell has, too, and I intend to stick by it," he said.

There has been an indication of township board opposition to continuing the contract with Pine Knob, and a report presented to the board last week by the Police Advisory Board recommended the township no longer maintain Pine Knob traffic control.

The matter will not be taken to the township board until submitted expenses are approved by Pine Knob, Tower said.

"At this point, we're still in negotiations on it—no confirmation either way except an indication by Locricchio that he still wants it," Tower said.

"We've submitted estimated costs to him of what it would take, and, quite frankly, haven't had response back other than from Joe Locricchio that he still wants the contract."

If previous voting records of board members are reviewed, votes on police matters are usually split with Tower and trustees Jerry Powell and Michael Thayer voting in favor of increasing or maintaining local services.

Clerk Christopher Rose, Treasurer Frederick Ritter and Trustee William Vandermark have been in favor of holding down costs and have indicated a desire to discontinue the Pine Knob contract.

"I think if the county wants it that the county can have it," Ritter said. "I think our employees are burned out by the end of the summer."

Controversial sub can expand

Lake Oakland Woods Subdivision developers have won the right to build 125 new houses, but controversy about wetlands and sidewalk construction continues.

The Independence Township Board approved the final plat for the second half of the development in a 4-3 vote at last week's meeting.

Building permits will not be issued for the houses until plats for the final two phases—numbers three and four—are recorded in Lansing.

Clerk Christopher Rose made the motion to wait until the plats are officially on the state records, and the board unanimously approved the proposal.

Rose also voted "no" on the plat approvals.

Building permits will not be granted until a minimum of 30 days have passed, the amount of time it usually takes to record plats, he said.

"There are just a myriad of little reasons," Rose said about his "no" vote. "I think that plat has caused us a lot of problems. I was not opposed to delaying it for two weeks to make sure we had it in order."

Also voting "no" was Trustee Rudy Lozano.

"The reason I voted 'no,' I felt that even though Ed Rose building company did in fact conform to all the zoning ordinances and all the various laws, I still felt that a good many of the initial people that bought houses in that subdivision were wronged."

Residents of the subdivision, located south of Maybee Road and east of Sashabaw Road, brought some complaints to the meeting.

Larry Kozma of Woodcreek Trail asked what the developer planned to do about a disturbance of top soil at the edge of the wetlands in phase four.

The damage, he said, involved a strip of land nine feet deep and 200 feet long.

"Is Ed Rose and Co. going to repair that disturbance?" he asked.

"I think he's referring to... we had some equipment run over and trample down some weeds," said Gene Komarynski, the developer's representative.

"That's not what I'm referring to," Kozma said. "That area has been graded and sand and soil, other than top soil, has been put in there."

"All I'm asking is that the disturbance be repaired, and it's substantial," Kozma said.

The wetlands disturbance should not be a condition of approval for the plats, said township attorney Richard Campbell.

"I think we have to say, 'If they don't do things that are reasonable to restore the land, we'll start suit against them,' Campbell said. "I think we can make them abide by it; I think they will abide by it."

"I think Rose builders knows after their experience with us we will sue them if they don't do these things," Campbell said.

Another item discussed was a zoning board of appeals requirement that the developer build a sidewalk leading from the subdivision to South Sashabaw Elementary School—about three-eighths mile — if eight "price leader" houses were allowed to be built.

"If they elect not to build the smaller houses, then they don't have to face that condition (building the sidewalk)," Campbell said.

"It's not your intent to comply with the zoning board stipulation that you carry the sidewalk down to the school?" asked Trustee William Vandermark, who also voted no on the plat approval.

"If we intend to build the 1,300-square-foot house, the answer is 'No,'" Komarynski said. "I'm sure we will not build that house."

Ron Forbes of Pheasant Run Road has been one of the subdivision residents leading the opposition to approving the plats for the development.

"I'm very concerned about what's going to happen to the people in phase three," he said. "Can't you protect them now? That's what we're asking; we're not even in it."

"It seems like we've gotten nowhere with you people about damage to the wetlands."

"The plats look fine," he added. "It looks like what should have been done three months ago."

Commission views 'fabulous' plans

Knob will retain ownership, Locricchio said.

The nine-member planning commission unanimously approved taking the project to the next step of rewording the zoning ordinance for the recreation district to allow a hotel.

The first draft of the amendment is to be considered at the April 12 meeting with a vote on the change and a public hearing tentatively set for May 24.

Pending the commission's final site plan approval, Locricchio said he was ready to break ground for the project in April or May so some substructures could be completed by fall.

Planning commission members questioned Locricchio about increased fire and police protection that would be needed at the resort.

"It's going to create a little more problem. We're going to have to get a little more support from the community," Locricchio said.

In order to handle traffic, a second entrance to Pine Knob is to be opened south of the present music theater drive on Sashabaw Road.

The recently opened Waldon Road entrance would also handle some of the traffic.

During summer months when the Pine Knob Music Theatre draws large crowds, the resort could attract more than half the number of residents now living in Independence Township.

"Neil Diamond would create 10,000 people," Locricchio said. "If you had a convention (at the hotel), you could look at a maximum possibility of 13,000 people on site."

The hotel would not create the traffic intensity of the music theater, he said, because once on the site, most people would take advantage of the six restaurants at Pine Knob, golf, swim and probably not leave.

Commission members used words and phrases like "breathtaking," "fabulous," "a fine project" and "first class" to describe their reactions to the project.

"(Pine Knob) has employed a tremendous amount of people in our township," said Mel Vaara, commission member. "Anything of that magnitude will cause problems, but I think the good has outweighed the bad."

"I personally am in favor of the project, but it certainly isn't going to be all honey and cream. It's going to require a tremendous amount of planning."

"It has to be done slowly and carefully and right," he said.

James Smith, planning commission chairman, said he felt a public hearing was required for a presentation by Locricchio to the people of the community, noting that there is "almost an automatic reaction against (construction at Pine Knob) from a large part of the community."

"This is a very substantial change from anything that's ever happened in this community," Smith said.

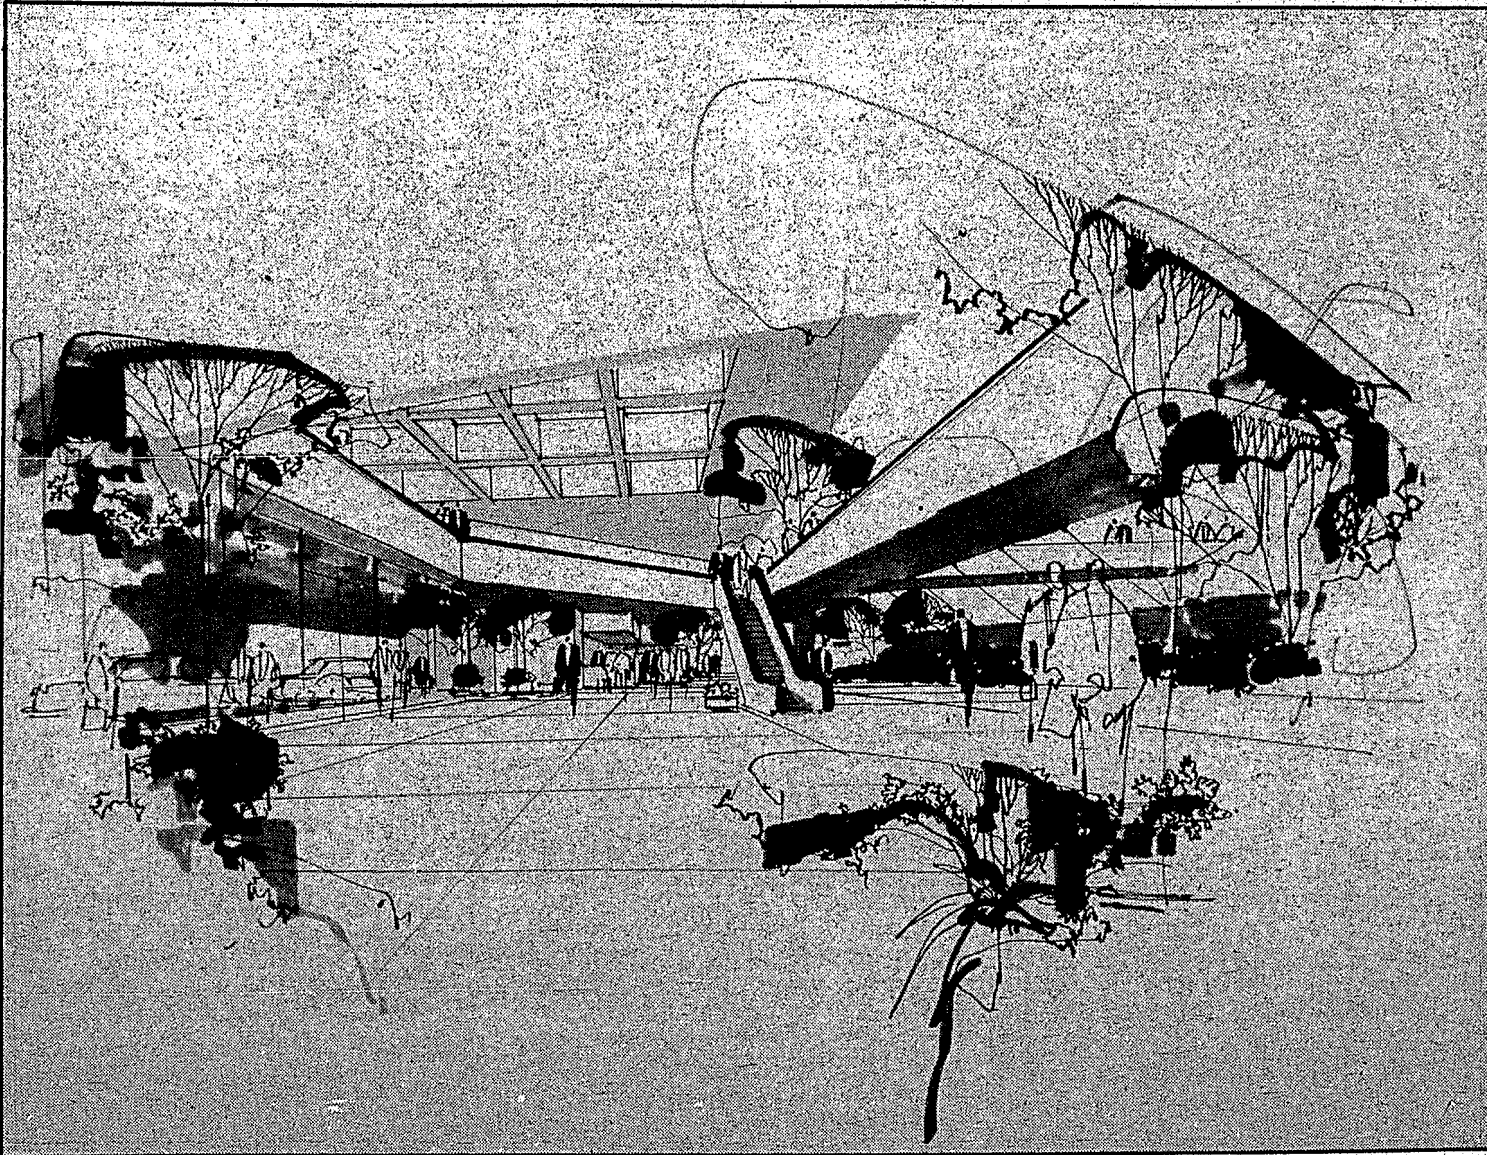

Noting articles in newspapers that stated the date of the planning commission meeting, Locricchio said, "It's been my experience if there was a negative feeling, this room would have filled up. I was elated when I pulled into the parking lot."

There were about 12 people at the meeting who were there specifically for the Pine Knob hotel presentation and most of them were developers of other property in the area.

One township resident, Sally Binard of 5915 Hummingbird Lane, expressed concern about the project.

"I think it's really exciting," she said. "I would be a lot more excited if it was in Springfield Township."

"I'm not really excited about having it in my back yard," she added. "I think it's great, but you have to put a lot of controls on it, not just hand it to them."

Council shy $9,000 for road project

The low bid for the Depot-Holcomb-White Lake roads improvement project is approximately $46,000.

But only $37,000 is on hand in the village to pay for the construction work.

This is the dilemma facing the Clarkston Village Council.

The council received bids for the proposed intersection improvement plan at its Monday night meeting.

The five bids ranged from the $46,244.70 low bid submitted by Wolverine Asphalt Paving, Drayton Plains to $60,142 quoted by the Harabedian Paving Co., Troy.

The council did not vote to award a contract to any of the five construction firms.

However, council members indicated that Wolverine

Asphalt Paving is the most likely party to receive the contract.

Delton Lohff of Kieft engineering, solicited bids for the road work on behalf of the village.

Lohff said he would arrange a meeting between a representative of the council and Wolverine Asphalt Paving to discuss methods of paring the cost of the project.

The intersection improvement plan, originally proposed by Clarkston Mills shopping mall developer Marc Alan, was estimated to cost approximately $33,000 last spring.

Alan, the Oakland County Road Commission and the village each pledged $11,000 toward the cost of the project.

An additional $4,000, donated by Alan for use in general village projects, will be used to pay for the road construction.

Neither Alan nor the road commission will increase their funding of the project, they have said.

By eliminating extras from the plans, the council hopes to cut the road construction costs.

Group home hits opposition

By Mimi Mayer

The Clarkston Village Council is opposed to establishment of an adult foster care facility at 60 Waldon Road.

However, a recently-passed state law mandates that local government has little power to deny permits for these facilities, attorney Thomas Gruich advised the council.

And the application on which the council acted had been filed prematurely and was invalid anyway, reported Thomas Miller of the Macomb Oakland Regional Center, a social service agency instrumental in developing foster care facilities.

A person who is presently negotiating to purchase the house told The Clarkston News Tuesday he intends to lease it as a foster care facility for six mentally and physically handicapped adults.

Trustee Michael Thayer recommended Monday night that the council oppose the license because there are no sidewalks along Waldon Road which may endanger the facility's residents.

"Waldon does not have a wide shoulder. We don't have sidewalks for them, so what can we do?" he asked.

"They can stumble up the road," responded Trustee James Weber.

Weber supported Thayer's suggestion, adding that council members should organize a petition drive protesting the establishment of the facility.

"Also, we should start getting a petition signed. That's the best way to help stop it," he said.

Miller told The Clarkston News that MORC would "like to" operate a foster care facility in the house.

"There is not much to say at this time," Miller commented. "He (the buyer) does not have anyone to operate the home. There has been no application to operate the home submitted by him."

New Dixie stores to open in fall

Hamady supermarket will dominate shopping center

By Kathy Greenfield

Hamady Complete Food Centers will open a store on Dixie Highway in Independence Township on Oct. 1, if everything goes as planned.

The supermarket will be part of a shopping center located on eight acres between Hahn Motors and House of Maple and Pine.

Construction is scheduled to begin May 1, according to Roger Reynolds, an owner of Danash Associates, Inc. of Waterford Township, developers and builders of the project.

Hamady, a Flint-based supermarket chain, purchased the property from Danash in January, Reynolds said.

The food center will be the largest store in the shopping center that will occupy nearly two acres.

A major drug store, yet to be named, and several small stores are also part of the plan.

"We've got 100 people talking to us," Reynolds said. "It will probably be another good three weeks before we start returning phone calls of possible tenants."

Nearly five acres of the site will be parking with 390 spaces and just over one acre will be landscaped area.

Although original plans submitted to the township planning commission in November 1977 included a mall area for some of the small stores, a decision on enclosed shopping is pending, Reynolds said.

"Right now, all that has been decided is four walls and a roof," he said.

Plans for naming the shopping center are also undecided.

"I don't think (Hamady's) will choose it quickly," he said. "They've got nine names they're kicking around."

The shopping center will have two entrances, one at the Maybee Road and Dixie Highway traffic light and one to the south.

The property will be enclosed with three fences. A six-foot high concrete retainer will run 945 feet along the rear of the property.

Another fence will run along the Howe's Lanes property line and a six-foot high masonry wall will separate Hahn Motors from the project.

There are 24 Hamady food centers in southeastern Michigan including stores in Saginaw, Holly and Ortonville.

Reynolds presented site plan changes to the township planning commission last week. They were unanimously approved.

The planning commission previously approved a site plan in January.

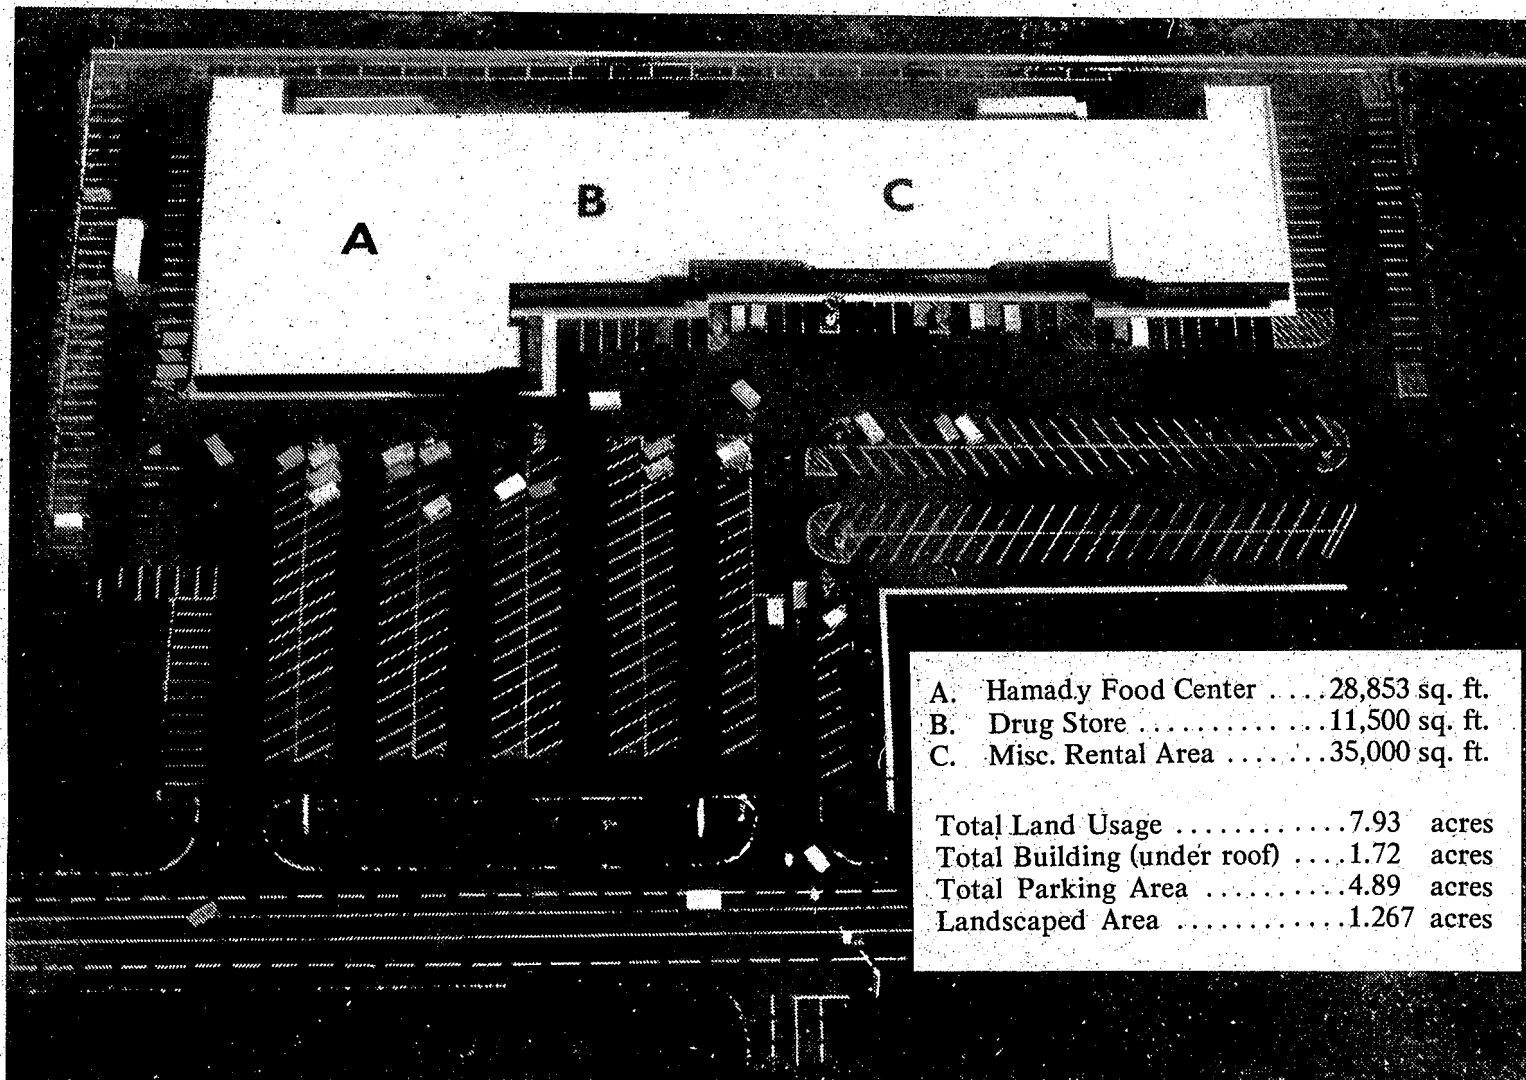

Major changes in the new plan include the elimination of a bank on the property and the purchase of about an acre of land at the northeast corner of the property.

The land will become a retention basin and be most of the landscaped area.

Movable concrete planters with trees will also be part of the landscaping.

"I'm very impressed," said James Gardiner, member of the planning commission. "You've come a long way with that."

"This is our 30th month," Reynolds said.

One entrance to the new shopping center on Dixie Highway is planned directly across the Maybee Road intersection.

What does it mean to combine two exciting careers with parenthood in beautiful downtown Clarkston?

Just ask Ian and Heather Jedermann and stand back. The excitement and purpose of their adventurous yet typical Clarkstonian lives may overwhelm you.

"Time is resource," Heather said Ian is always saying.

She is standing in front of one of her favorite watercolors — painting has been a hobby of hers since her girlhood in a Basque Convent.

"She's sold hundreds of those," Ian said. "Some people don't approve of nudes but we're into ecology and there is nothing more natural than the human body."

"Besides, I am a professional model and I model for myself and everything," Heather said. Her striking good looks and poise give evidence of her background.

"Yes," added Ian. "That's how we met. She was a model in Chicago and I was on the vice squad."

"I still model in Detroit if there is a convention or something," Heather said, a creatively decorated ceramic cup in her hand — obviously one of her pieces.

"But, I'm not a cop now," Ian laughed and went on to explain about a small misunderstanding over a few gifts he had received from a colorful Chicago businessman.

"Ian has such a wonderful job now," Heather said and stepped over beside a scale model of the planet Pluto which she had finished only the day before.

"Yea, I'm a consultant, you might say. I consult with people who have trouble payin' back money they owe to friends of mine." A natural homebody, Ian is pleased that he can do his work with only a few evenings spent in Detroit and occasional business trips to Las Vegas, Reno and Atlantic City.

"We both love to be home," Heather said. Her hand rests on the back of an old Holiday Inn end table, one of the many pieces she has collected and tastefully placed throughout the old house.

They both show an appreciation for art and music and feel that their interest in Clarkston sprang from its reputation as a cultural center.

"But, kids count in Clarkston," Ian said. "And that's the real drawing card for us. We've got eight kids between us, five for her and three for me. We love kids."

"Yea, if we ever get custody of any of our kids we want them to go to school right here and to learn art and music and all that stuff" added Heather.

She sat back to paint her toes on a beautiful, large, hooked rug. You guessed it! She hooked it herself.

The Jedermanns are very child-oriented and keep two bedrooms empty so their children will have a place to spread out their sleeping bags if they are ever allowed to visit.

Ian knelt down and stroked Heather's luxurious auburn hair. Then he stood and handed it back to her as he spoke.

He compared their Clarkston move with two other important moments in his life: when he kissed Heather that first time at the Heavenly Bliss Wedding Chapel in Las Vegas and when his last assault charge was dropped after the witnesses vanished.

"I'm just an old softy," Ian said. "We're lucky to have each other—"

"And lucky to be in Clarkston," Heather added, running her fingers over the delightful "death before dishonor" tattoo she had etched on Ian's arm.

This reporter felt that Clarkston was lucky to have such a family and, if the juvenile authorities ever allow it, to have their children.

Hopes Lahiri finds peace

To the editor:

I have been acquainted with Sushil Lahiri for many years and he has always impressed me as a mild, retiring, hard working public servant who has done his best to be a good librarian to the people of Independence Township.

Now that Mr. Lahiri has tendered his resignation, I for one, wish him well, and hope that he will find new employment in a more peaceful environment, free from the seeming malicious persecution and petty bickering that has bedeviled him the past several months. He deserves better than that.

I also believe that the township will have difficulty finding a replacement of equal competence and dedication.

Taxing thoughts

by Jim Sherman

The average man has five senses: touch, taste, sight, smell, and hearing. The successful man has two more: horse and common.

This is going to be one of those columns that jumps about.

Following is a letter reportedly received by the IRS: "Gentlemen: I am not interested in this income tax service of yours. Could you please cancel out my name in your books as the system has upset my mind and I do not know who registered me as one of your customers in this matter."

Then there's this Psalm from the

Oxford Rotary Club bulletin:

The Government is my shepherd
Therefore I need not work.
It alloweth me to lie down on a good job.
It leadeth me in the path of still factories.

It destroyeth my initiative.
It leadeth me in the path of the parasite for politics sake.
Yea, 'tho I walk the valley of laziness and deficit spending.

I will fear no evil. For the government is with me.
It prepareth an economic Utopia for me,

By appropriating the earnings, of my grandchildren!

It filleth my head with false security.
My inefficiency runneth over.
Surely the government shall care for me all the days of my life,
And I shall dwell in a fool's paradise forever.

The Headlee amendment passed last November didn't cut taxes. Time will tell if it even held them in line with inflation, as intended.

However, most certainly it did not stop the legislature from seeking added revenues in other ways.

The state Senate has taken the first step to collect more money in fees from accountants, barbers, marriage counselors and members of 30 other professions.

This bill went through the upper house with little challenge. It will add $1.63 million to the state's coffers. That $1.63 million is added to the $7.02 million now collected in licensing and registration fees.

Lest you forget... as the Senators have... any increases in business operation expense is passed on to the consumer.

So, Headlee or no, our taxes will go beyond amendment limitations.

Which brings us to this trusim: The average man's biggest problem is that his paycheck comes minus tax, and his bills come plus tax.

On TV! Who? Me?

by Pat Braunagel

One of the problems in being associated with an "in" community like Clarkston is that you may be called upon to act "with it."

Thus a small-town editor suddenly is confronted with the opportunity to become a media personality.

Let me tell you, folks, she may not be ready.

Like, here's one person who, when she read the Anonymous Gourmet's recent glowing account of a visit to the Clarkston Cafe in the Free Press, identified more with "the local boys in down vests" than the "stealaway couples" enjoying continental cuisine in a romantic atmosphere.

Not all of us newspaper people are Joe Fallses.

That's what I told the talent coordinator from Channel 56 when he called to confirm that I would be an auctioneer next week.

He chuckled, told me I was in for a lot of fun and said he'd see me next Friday at 12:30 p.m., a half-hour before my scheduled appearance.

"Aren't there any auditions? Isn't there a rehearsal?" I pleaded, hoping for a chance to get cut from the ranks of the celebrities.

No such luck.

So here I am with a week to shape up my shape (television cameras, I've been told, add 10 pounds) and my personality. Where, oh where, can I acquire scintillation?

The reason I agreed to this madness is not that I'm a closet TV star, but that I'm an enthusiastic Channel 56 viewer.

Not only do I appreciate what public television does for us non-"Laverne and Shirley" fans, but I have made fairly regular contributions to Channel 56 in the past.

And I have watched the auction every year with fascination.

How the giant fundraiser is pulled together every spring is a marvel to me.

And now I have a chance to see all that firsthand.

I'll get to see how they organize all the goods and services that are offered, how they keep the bids straight and how real media personalities function.

The fact that this is coupled with the opportunity to fall flat on my face in front of thousands of viewers is a small price to pay. Right?

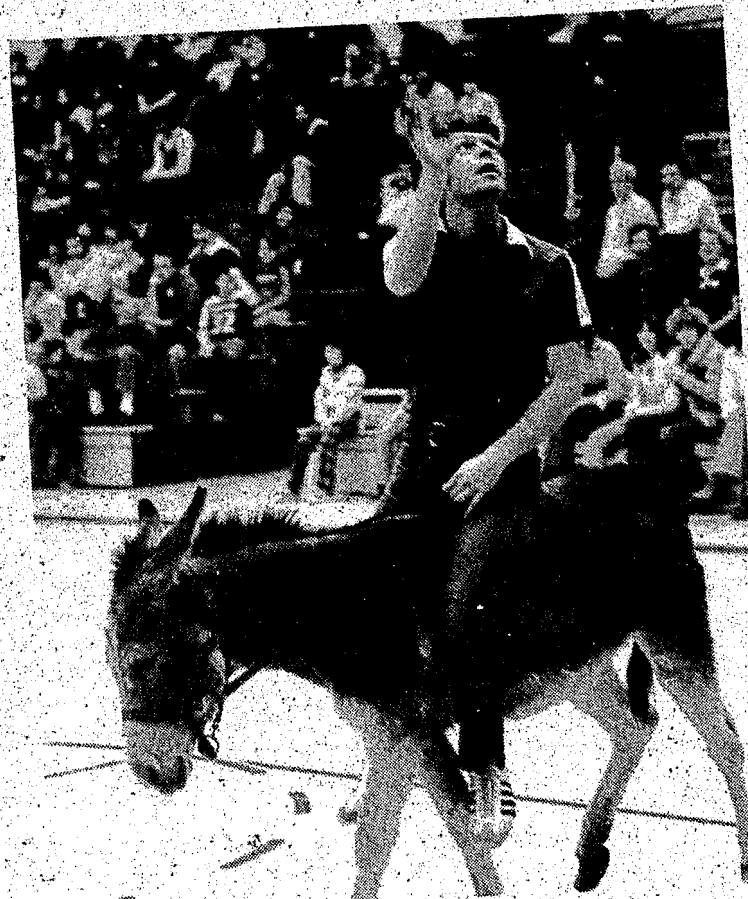

Say right, Joe Falls.

'If it Fitz. . .'

Margaret should be tarred

by Jim Fitzgerald

From where I sit in my living room, I can see Canada clearly, just across the river. Because of this closeness, it is only neighborly to offer Canada advice concerning one of its biggest problems—Margaret Trudeau.

Margaret should be sprayed on her back.

It's a coincidence that another Canadian problem—baby harp seals—gave me the idea about solving the Margaret problem. The harp seals are sprayed with red dye. I have something more substantial in mind for Margaret. Tar.

Every year, thousands of baby seals are clubbed to death so coats can be made from their white fur. If the seals are allowed to live more than a few weeks, their fur changes to a mottled gray. No self-respecting woman wants to be seen in a fur coat mottled with gray. She doesn't want splotches of red dye on it, either. So environmentalists spray dye on the baby seals to spoil their fur.

If all baby seals were stained red, no one would club them to death, and Cleveland Amory would have nothing to crab about. Canadian citizens would be spared the worldwide publicity that annually accuses them of brutal behavior. They could then devote full time to cringing every time Margaret Trudeau is quoted by a gossip columnist or appears on a TV talk show.

Margaret is an embarrassment to Canada because she is married to Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau but spends much of her time dallying with other men while People magazine takes pictures. Imagine how United States citizens would feel if Rosalynn Carter went disco dancing with Mick Jagger.

Margaret's Autobiography will be published next month. Juicy tidbits from it have already been printed in hundreds of newspapers. She was quoted as saying: "I fall in love with each man I'm involved with."

Why does Margaret react so emotionally, so easily, to men? She explained that. She said she turns weak at the knees when a man rubs her back.

"My back is the most sensitive part of my body. I only have nice thoughts about anyone who rubs it," she said.

Obviously, Margaret is handicapped by unusually weak knees. If she had ordinary strength in her knees, she could probably live an ordinary life, and People magazine would treat her the same way it treats all ordinary people—it would ignore her. Canada would be spared a lot of embarrassing publicity.

My first thought was that Margaret could be equipped with some sort of knee braces, similar to those worn by many basketball players. The proper sort of braces could prevent her from crumbling whenever she brushed against a man while still allowing her to make dunk shots.

But knee braces seem unnecessarily cumbersome for the mother of three small children. There would always be the danger that she would remove the braces to frolic with her kids in the park, and accidentally back into the man mowing the park lawn. The headline in the National Enquirer would say: "Margaret Trudeau has nice thoughts about Montreal gardener."

I decided a more secure solution than knee braces is required for a woman who can't be rubbed the wrong way. Getting nearer to the seat of the problem, I determined what's needed is a foolproof way to stop men from rubbing Margaret's back.

And that's when I read about the environmentalists spraying baby seals to make their fur unattractive to women who wear fur coats. Why not use a similar method to make Margaret's back unattractive to men looking for something to rub? I can't imagine a man wanting to rub sticky tar.

Who would put the stuff on Margaret's back? That's easy. Margaret told the Ladies Home Journal it gave her pleasure when her husband slugged her because "it showed he really loved me." She would probably be enraptured if Pierre demonstrated his affection by dumping a bucket of hot tar on her back.

Naturally, there's no guarantee an unrubbed back will stiffen Margaret's knees and keep her out of People magazine, thus sparing Canada all that embarrassing publicity. But hot tar is certainly worth a try. If it doesn't work, maybe Pierre could slug her again.

Medical building to go up on M-15

The two-story dental and medical building is to be traditional in design.

Construction of a two-story professional medical and dental building on M-15 just north of Dixie Highway should begin by the first of June.

Final site plan approval for the building, owned by Dr. Charles Munk, an orthodontist, was unanimously approved by the Independence Township Planning Commission last week.

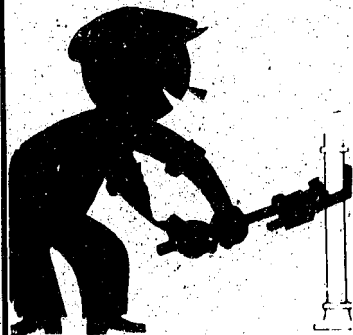

The traditional-style building should be completed between six and nine months after construction begins, Munk said.

Most of the upper floor has been "spoken for" and will house dental specialists, Munk said, and his plans are to rent the lower level to medical specialists.

The 22,000 square foot building is to have 121 parking spaces and be built on about three acres of property.

Introducing Oakland County's new life saver.

On the evening of March 20, 1976 a tornado ripped through Oakland County which demolished, or partly destroyed, over ninety homes.

Because of that tragedy, which resulted in forty-three injuries and one fatality, Oakland County has put into effect a new tornado alert system, the first of its kind in Michigan. This two-year program will eventually cover 95% of our population.

At a cost of less than $1.00 per person, we think it's a pretty good investment.

STEP 1	STEP 2	STEP 3
TAKE COVER. When you hear the three-minute steady siren; it means immediate danger.	TURN ON a radio or TV. This is your only source of information. Do not call the police or fire department.	TAKE-UP normal activities when told by radio or TV that the danger has passed.

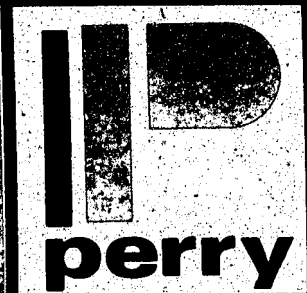

This message brought to you by The Clarkston News and Oakland County as a public service. Comments about the new Tornado Alert System should be addressed to Daniel T. Murphy, Oakland County Executive, 1200 N. Telegraph Rd., Pontiac, MI 48053.

Chip makes splash as swimmer

By Mimi Mayer

Swimming's okay through the YMCA for 9-year-old Chip Galley of Independence Township.

A third grader at Bailey Lake Elementary School, Chip has swum competitively since he was five years old.

Today, he possesses a slew of ribbons and trophies, is known as one of the best swimmers on the Rochester YMCA-Amateur Athletic Union swim team and harbors dreams of swimming in Olympic contests.

Because the Clarkston schools have neither pools nor swimming programs, Chip travels to Oakland University three nights a week for one-hour training sessions.

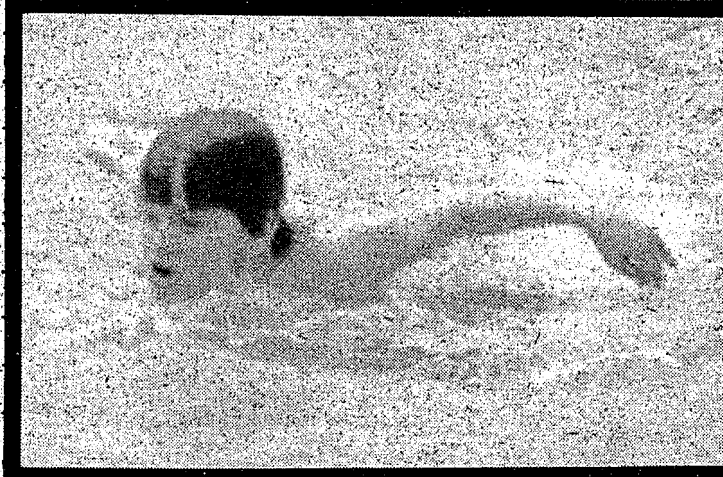

He also traverses the metropolitan Detroit area to compete against other YMCA-sponsored swimmers in weekend meets.

His interest in competitive swimming was awakened at age five. Chip's parents, David and Sharon Galley, discovered the Rochester program and enrolled their son.

"Chip depends entirely on this program to train," David said. "It's not real close to Clarkston, but there's no place to swim (competitively) in Clarkston."

Higher priority, basic education needs make the prospect of adding a pool to a Clarkston

Olympic hopes spur her search for swim coach

She calls herself "Fearless Fisher" and her mother calls her "The Fish."

One thing is certain: 10-year-old Gigi Fisher of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, is determined to be an Olympic swimmer.

Even though she gets lessons from her grandfather, Joe Fisher of Pinedale Road, Gigi knows she has to undergo continual conditioning to perfect her swimming skills.

That's why Gigi decided to look for a coach.

Using a little imagination and chutzpah, Gigi incorporated the Clarkston News into her search, hoping we would print a letter she wrote.

Let Gigi explain why she wrote us.

"I've been wanting to be in the Olympics for a long time, but I can't find a coach. I told my mother I wanted to be in the Olympics and we thought and I wrote the letter.

"I thought that if there was a coach who would read it, somebody would get ahold of me and I would have a coach.

"I love to swim. It builds up your muscles and it's fun. I could stay in the water for 10

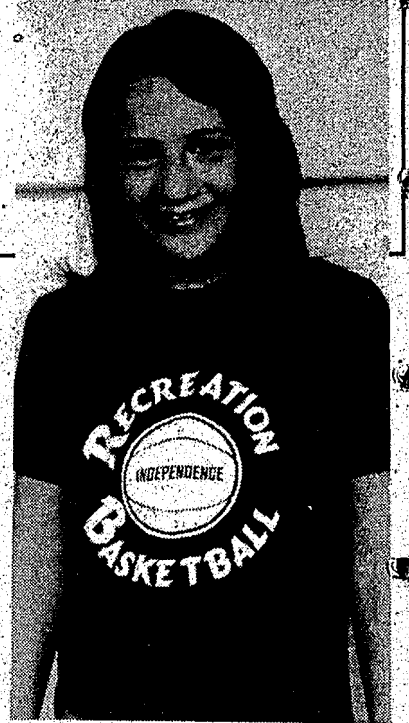

My name is Gigi Fisher. I am 10 years old. I love swimming and am very very good at it. I am looking for a coach to teach me for the olympics. If anyone is interested please contact me, hours, if my mother would let me. The only water I don't like is in the bathtub, and I try to swim in there.

"I can go fast, I can do the backstroke, I can do the butterfly a little bit. I like to win.

"I can dive good! I keep my toes pointed and my fingers pointed. I can dive down to the bottom of an 11.5 foot pool.

"My grandpa helps me a lot. He shows me how to swim. He shows me how to bring up my head for air. And my mom helps me a lot, too.

"My grandpa doesn't force me and tells me what I'm doing wrong. He gives me an example and I try to do my best. He encourages me a lot.

"I hope I do get a coach. I know I'd enjoy going to the Olympics. I wouldn't have to worry about going to school because I get good grades.

"I want to get it (training) while I'm little so when I get older, I'll know I did something that was important to me."

Chip earns trophies with Rochester team

school a dim prospect, said Clifford T. Mason, Clarkston Schools superintendent.

"We have no plans for proposing to place at this time an issue for a swimming pool. We have greater needs at this time," he said.

In 1965 and 1966, petition drives spearheaded by the Clarkston Jaycees put millage proposals to finance swimming pool and construction before Clarkston voters. Both millages failed, Mason reported.

But Chip is doing quite well, thank you, within the Rochester program.

On Feb. 24 and 25, Chip raced against swimmers representing YMCA teams from throughout eastern Michigan.

He took a first-place trophy in free-style swimming, with a winning time of 16.4 seconds, plus two third-place trophies in backstroke and medley relay.

His specialty strokes are the butterfly, the backstroke and free-style swimming.

Passing out of the 8-years-and-younger class of swimmers, Chip anticipates tougher competition in the Y-AAU meets next year.

However, his confidence that he'll continue winning parallels his determination to swim in the Olympics.

"I can do it," he said. "I keep the spirit and try. I want to better my time and I still want to beat the other swimmer. (Winning) feels good inside."

Although the Rochester YMCA-AAU maintains a summer training program, Chip has decided to take a vacation from swimming.

"I'm booked up with other sports," he explained. "I'm going to do soccer, baseball and, if my mom and dad will let me, play football."

And instead of trekking to Rochester, Chip will continue swimming in the Galley family pool.

Every year, since 1966, GOLF DIGEST MAGAZINE has published a ranking of "America's 100 Greatest Courses." The top ones are the Augusta, Georgia National Golf Club, the Merion Golf Club (East Course), Ardmore, Pa., and the Oakmont Pa., Country Club. At first, greatness used to mean degree of difficulty. Nowadays, the emphasis has changed and greatness, has to do with how well the course is designed to give shot-making variety and finesse. The strong arm isn't quite as important as the extra style.

We think it's important to provide our customers with good service. When looking for equipment and clothing, for most sports, come to us at COACH'S CORNER, 10 S. Main, 625-8457. Shoes, gloves, balls, bags, and racquets are available for Racquet Ball. We also have an assortment of equipment bags for various sports—tennis, and baseball, as well as garment bags. They are available with school name and colors. Open: Daily 9:30am-6pm, Sat until 5pm.

SPORTS TIP:

A few lessons before your first few times on a golf course can make a significant difference in your game.

Seniors want housing soon

Senior citizens in Springfield Township not only want government-subsidized group housing, but they want it soon.

This is the single trend to emerge as surveys questioning senior housing and support service needs were returned to the Springfield Township Hall.

The work of the Northwest Oakland County Senior Citizens Housing Advisory Committee, the questionnaires were mailed to approximately 1,100 randomly-selected persons aged 55 and up in 10 Northwest Oakland County communities.

"A hair over 50 percent" of the surveys were filled out and returned by the March 17 deadline, said Collin W. Walls,

Springfield to repair drain

Further steps toward repairing a sluggish road drain have been taken by Springfield Township officials.

Johnson and Anderson Inc., the township's engineering firm, was authorized to begin a study on the drain located at the southwest corner of the Andersonville-Warwick Roads intersection near Davisburg.

The study is estimated to cost between $1,500 and $2,000, Robert Roth, Johnson and Anderson project engineer, informed township officials.

Actual construction work on the drain may cost approximately $16,000 said Collin W. Walls, Springfield Township Supervisor.

Community Development Act (CDA) funds were allocated in 1976 to pay for both phases of the project, Walls added.

Working with the township on the drain improvement will be the Oakland County Road Commission, although Walls said he was uncertain what their role will be.

It could range "anywhere from an approval-granting agency allowing us to cross the road (during construction work) to some assistance on the funding or possibly that we would contract with them to do the work," Walls explained.

No date has been set to begin the construction work. Walls said it might be possible that the construction will slow traffic on Andersonville Road.

advisory committee chairman and Springfield Township supervisor.

"We needed 50 percent for it to be reliable, and we just made it," he commented.

"I haven't seen any surveys except from Springfield. From the comments on the survey and a review of the survey, it wasn't anything we didn't anticipate.

"They told us to hurry up—less study and more construction is essentially what they were saying," he added.

The questionnaires will be tabulated by computer science students in the Waterford Schools and analyzed by advisory committee members.

The data collected will be used to propose a senior housing and support service project to be constructed somewhere in Northwest Oakland County.

In Springfield Township

Board gears up to lure development

By Mimi Mayer

Possible financial lures to bring new developments into Springfield Township are being explored by the township board.

Attorneys were asked to research three state acts which enable local municipalities to offer commercial and industrial developers tax breaks and financial incentives.

The acts studied are the Economic Development Corporation Act, the Community Redevelopment Act and the Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Act.

Gregory Need, a township legal advisor, wrote a letter to the township board which outlines the statutes, explains situations in which the acts may be applied and procedures for implementing the acts.

No firm action has been taken by the Springfield Township Board concerning the research.

"At this point, we're just doing this to get an understanding of the various acts available," said Collin W. Walls, township supervisor.

Offering financial incentives to developers would benefit the township three ways, Walls said.

"Basically, it could improve the township by increasing the employment base in the community, by encouraging industrial and commercial facilities which will employ local people (and) increase the local tax base without adding any burdens on the school system," he said.

An economic development corporation is set up primarily to draw new businesses to a community.

Local governmental officials appoint citizens who encourage new commercial and industrial developments by offering funding through bonds sold by a private corporation.

The commercial and industrial rehabilitation acts focus on improving existing properties.

In both, redevelopment districts are established throughout a community.

Property owners within the districts receive a 50-percent property tax break if they renovate existing buildings that are obsolete or develop vacant land with long-standing commercial or industrial zoning designations.

The board had discussed creating a commercial redevelopment district at the request of Bruce Bordine, owner of Bordine's Better Blooms, 8580 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township.

The nursery did not fulfill requirements set by the commercial redevelopment act and the board reluctantly turned down

Bordine's request at the Aug. 2 meeting.

Walls said he plans to discuss how the three acts may affect Springfield Township at the April 4 board meeting.

Township annual meeting Saturday

Among expected topics: library, development, planner, surplus

Independence Township residents will have a chance to voice opinions on the way local government is run Saturday.

The township's annual meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Aside from making recommendations, residents will have only two decisions to make at the meeting—whether to give township board members a raise and, if so, how much the raise in salary will be.

In the fiscal year that ends March 31, the supervisor made $23,000; the clerk and treasurer were paid $21,000; and trustees on the board had salaries of $2,500.

According to Clerk Christopher Rose, topics at the annual meeting will probably include:

- A move to re-establish the Independence Township Library. Residents plan to submit a petition asking for a library board and a millage vote in 1980. The township board will be asked to appoint an interim nine-member library board to serve until the general election next year.

- A proposal to place a growth limitation on development in the township.

- Discussion on hiring a full-time planner.

- Suggestions on what to do with the township surplus funds that now total about $425,000 with $100,000 this year added to the $325,000 from years past now in the township's general fund and improvement revolving fund.

- A request to reduce or eliminate the township-wide ad valorem sewer tax of 1½ mills. (One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.)

- A proposal to increase salaries of board members, probably by 7 percent, a "cost of living" increase.

There are some things residents cannot ask the board to do like hire or fire specific people.

Such recommendations will be ruled out of order by the supervisor who acts as moderator.

Rose said he expects a larger crowd at this year's annual meeting than in the past. Last year, there were 90 people.

"I would be surprised if we had that little this time," he said. "I think we have more people who are involved and aggressive now—they know what they want."

Last year the meeting lasted three hours, and the longest any annual meeting lasted was five hours, Rose said.

If lengthy discussions take place, the meeting can be adjourned for two days.

"The other possibility is that any 12 citizens can sign a petition and call a special meeting which has the same rights and power as an annual meeting," Rose said.

Although the township has never had a special meeting of this type, if the request is made, it has to be held not more than 20 days or less than 15 days after the annual meeting.

Voting power at the meeting is limited to qualified voters—at least 18, township residents and able to be registered voters, but not necessarily registered.

And although action by the board cannot be forced, only of course, not to re-elect the recommended by votes, the board members, Rose said. township board usually listens to the people—they do have the power not to raise salaries and, "If they make a recommendation, the township board is hard pressed not to do it," he said.

Fire chief lists increasing needs

By Kathy Greenfield

As Independence Township grows and more stress is placed on the fire department, the people are going to be asked to pay higher taxes.

"The problems get more complex every day," said Fire Chief Frank Ronk. "The growth in the community requires additional services, such as medical, which is extremely expensive."

Although township voters have approved 2 mills to fund the fire department, the $366,000 income produced from the tax is not enough to expand the department as much as needed, Ronk said.

One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

With the present taxes, Ronk has requested the township board to approve hiring two new full-time firefighters as part of the budget for the fiscal year starting April 1.

The central station could then be manned 24 hours a day. Of the three fire stations in the township, the stations located at Clarkston-Orion Road and Sashabaw Road (No. 2) and Sashabaw and Pine Knob Lane (No. 3) are manned 24 hours a day, but the station in the village (No. 1) is closed evenings and on weekends and staff members are on call.

"Really, there's no major changes that we have adequate money to institute, because it takes most of our 2 mills to maintain stations and pay our operating expenses," Ronk said.

Problems with new houses and business have created some trouble-spots in the township.

A tanker truck that would carry 2,000 to 2,500 gallons of water is a necessity, Ronk said. The largest tanker owned by the fire department now carries 1,000 gallons of water.

Large subdivisions such as Deer Lake Farms that do not have central water systems are part of the problem, he said.

"They're building large wooden homes," Ronk said. "Although Deer Lake is there, you can't get to it."

"We are deeply concerned with the Dixie Highway corridor," Ronk said. "There are no water lines or water supplies in that area with the dollar value of the buildings that are built along there."

If Ronk gets approval for an additional 2-mill tax request from the township board, he would like to see the question go to voters before the end of 1979, he said.

The money would be requested for two years and would be used to improve existing fire stations.

Two bays (to house fire trucks) would be added to fire station No. 2, and another bay would be added to fire station No. 3.

The central station located in the village of Clarkston would also be replaced.

"Size-wise, it's inadequate," Ronk said. "You cannot house the necessary or needed apparatus for protecting the building in this district."

In addition, the 2-mill tax increase would allow the purchase of two fire tankers at a cost of about $75,000 each.

Ronk has been hunting for a new site for fire station No. 1, but has not found a location yet, he said.

He would prefer a spot close to the village.

The fire department would then sell the downtown fire hall.

"In the event we cannot find a spot that is good for a fire station to service the area, then we possibly would tear this down and rebuild here," he said, although he does not prefer that option, because the space is too small," he added.

"If the people tell us no on 2 mills for two years, then we'll have to continue to provide what services we can without adding special equipment to meet the needs of a growing community," he said.

Future plans also include an elevated platform truck to be used for rescues and firefighting in apartment complexes and condominiums.

"Whenever we have to build another building or buy another piece of equipment, we are going to have to go to the people for another millage," he said.

The fire department now employs six fulltime firefighters, three fulltime officers, three dispatchers and one secretary-dispatcher. The volunteer staff numbers about 35.

Township can get Pine Knob contract

they go out and work five to eight hours directing traffic at Pine Knob," he said.

Ritter also mentioned the proposed reduction in staff now facing the police department.

"I don't think it's appropriate that we maintain a police department that we really can't afford just to service a contract four out of 12 months," he said. "The only thing we'd get from Pine Knob is a new car and, if we don't have a police department, why do we need it?"

When the issue comes before the township board for a vote, all indications are that Trustee Rudy Lozano will have the deciding vote.

"I'm opposed to it," Lozano said. "If we had a full-time department, if we had first and second shifts going, I'd say, 'Fine, it's within our manpower capabilities.'"

With the township police department reduced to two police officers and a chief, the workload would be too great, he said.

"For the sake of $3,000 or $4,000 for a car, would our day-time police services be jeopardized, because they'd be working all evening at Pine Knob? How fresh and how sharp are they going to be?" he asked.

"I don't see how it's beneficial to the township at this time," Lozano added. "To me, it's not beneficial if it's just creating work for our township police force."

"Low rates are a big reason we're the largest home insurer. But there are more..."

Low rates wouldn't mean much without our first class service. Drop by, or give me a call.

She blazed trail in auto engineering

M. Virginia Sink, the first woman in the U.S. to become an automotive engineer, will retire Friday after more than 42 years on the job.

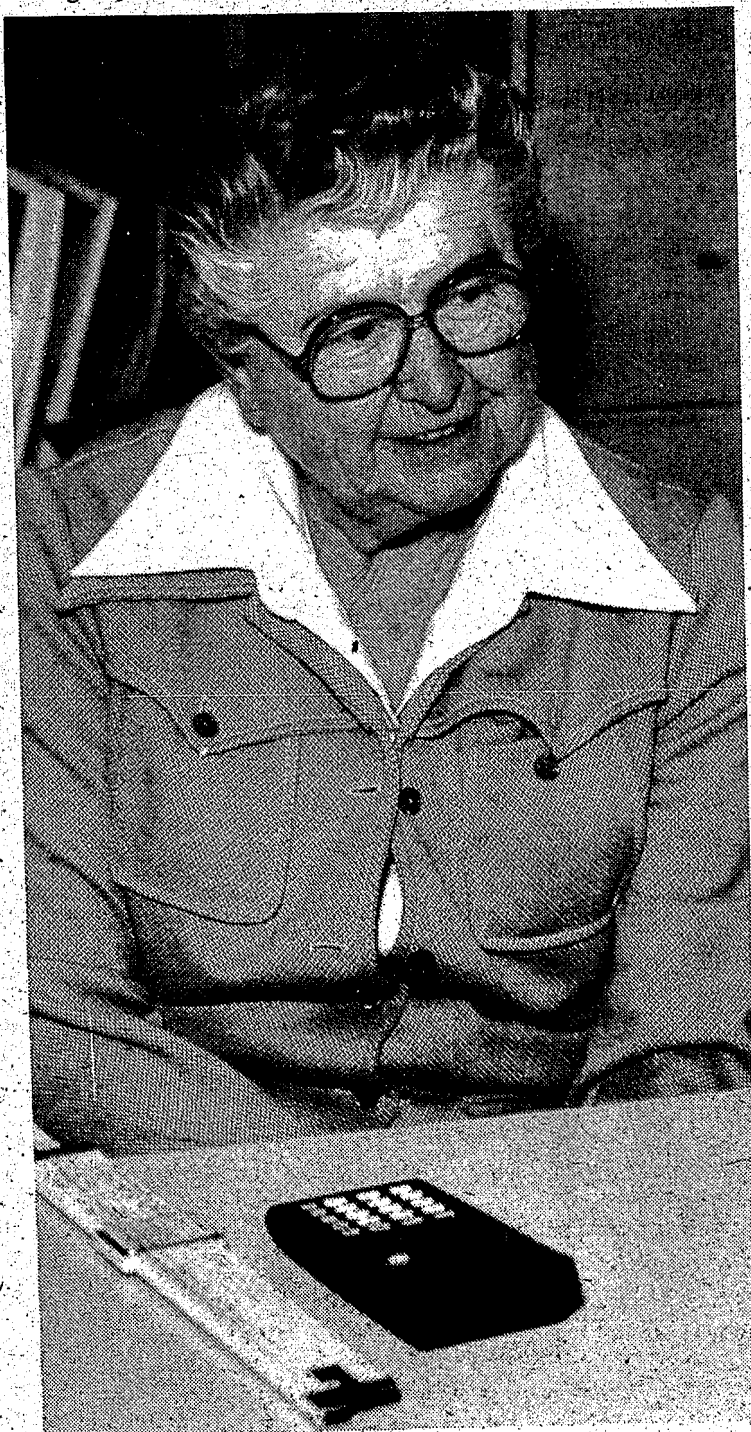

After retirement, she'll be spending more time at her Independence Township house and in the community that has been her home since 1947.

Already considering some requests to begin a second career as a consultant, Sink says she wants to see how she'll react to the absence of pressures before tackling any new ventures.

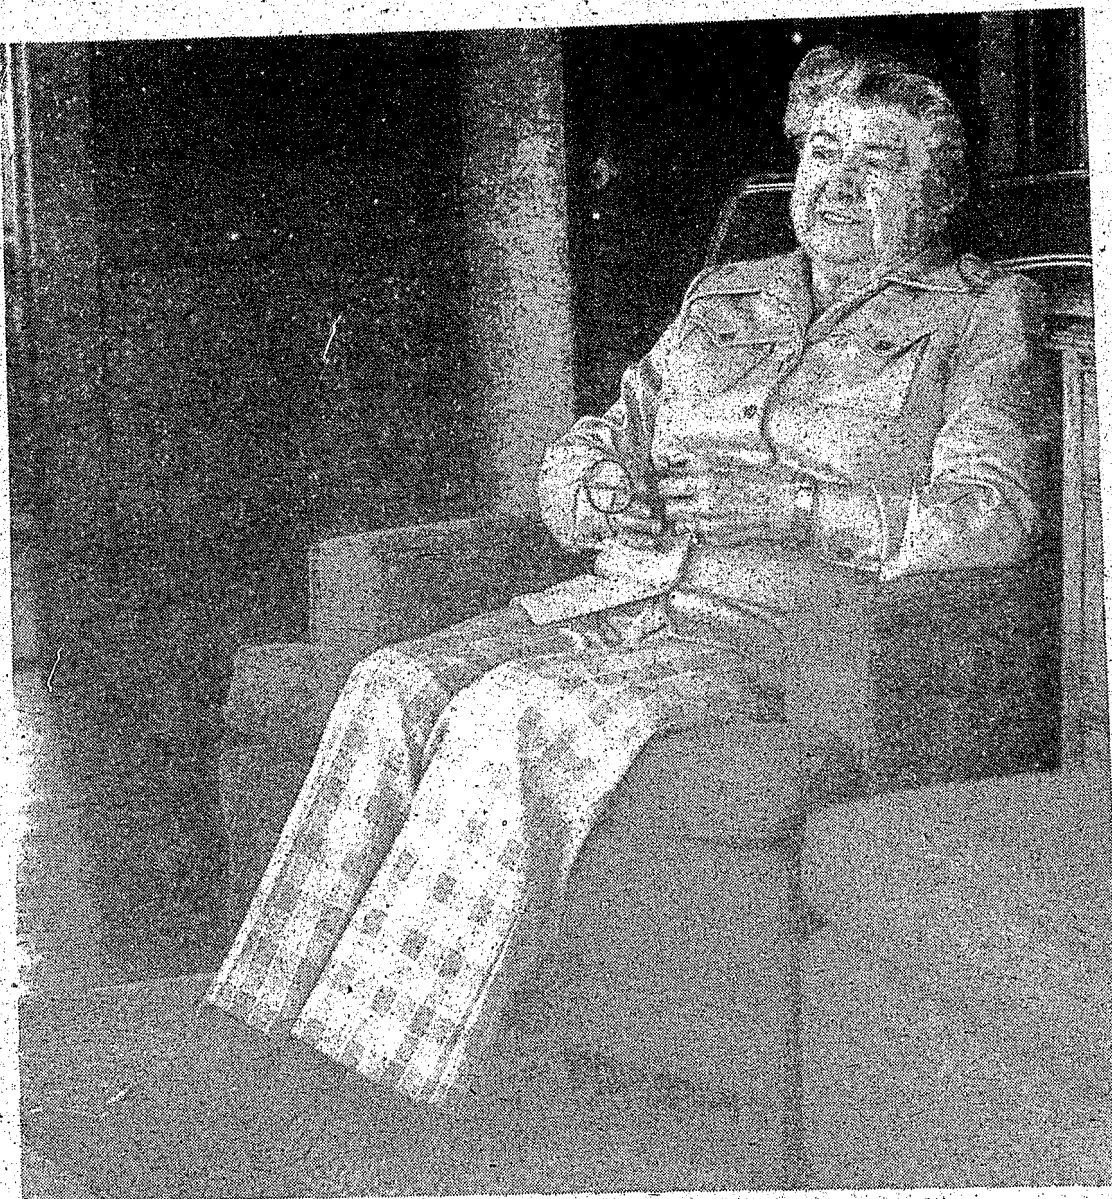

Referring to her work as manager of vehicle emissions certification in Chrysler Corporation's engineering office, she said, "For 10 years, it's always been a panic.

"If you don't get your job done and have the certificate in hand, you're not going to be able to build the automobile. There always seems to be a shortage of time."

On the other hand, she knows she "will miss the constant association with people—that's the best part of living."

With two of the tools of her trade: slide rule and pocket calculator.

Virginia Sink prepares to relax on the enclosed porch of her Whipple Lake home.

A pioneer who crashed the all-male engineering world after graduation from the University of Colorado in 1936, Sink says there were only four major engineering fields then: civil, mechanical, chemical and electrical. There now are about 15, she said.

Sink says that there are many areas in which a woman can work in the auto industry if she has the right education—safety, personnel, finance, sales, business management, styling or any of the other specializations. "And I'm talking about only one industry," she says.

Sink started as a chemical engineer, but the fact that she has several women working in the emissions certification department is an example of one field where women are holding key jobs. Chrysler now employs over 70 women engineers.

Sink believes that girls who are in their early high school years particularly have greater career opportunities than any other generation in history.

Her advice is succinct: "Make up your mind what you want to be doing 10 years from today, and then start cracking the books."

Sink never let herself be intimidated by her subject.

"Engineering is a way of thinking. You get the facts to form a broad sense of information from which you can draw and continue to learn."

In a word, Sink believes there is "opportunity" — even in retirement. When she leaves her office at Chrysler for her home on Whipple Lake, she'll also retire her slide rule with which she has solved engineering problems since college days.

Then she plans to turn her energy toward transmitting technical information to the blind: gardening, leather craft, civic work, travel, and "maybe a little fishing."

Sink is leaving a list of achievements unparalleled by any other woman in the auto industry:

- She is the first woman auto engineer in America.

- When Walter P. Chrysler signed her diploma in 1938, Sink became the first woman to receive a master's degree in automotive engineering from the Chrysler Institute of Engineering.

- One of the world's most effective environmentalists, she has spent the last 27 years discovering ways of reducing air pollutants from automobiles and, in 1962, was one of the three engineers who developed Chrysler's cleaner air package.

- This system, designed to cut down exhaust emissions, led to the development of the Chrysler cleaner air system, which established the emission control system concept for the entire auto industry up to the time of the catalytic converter.

- She was the first woman to receive honorary membership in Tau Beta Pi, the highest academic honorary engineering fraternity.

- Sink was chosen as one of Detroit's Women of Achievement during the city's 250th anniversary celebration in 1952. In 1956, "Charm" magazine selected her as one of four outstanding women who work in Detroit, and in that same year Detroit honored her during its

"Salute to Women."

- In 1965, she was given a special citation by "Who's Who of American Women" as the Outstanding Woman in the Field of Engineering.

- From 1962 to 1964, Sink was president of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc., representing 13 countries. She served from 1964 to 1968 on the board of the Soroptimist International Association, representing more than 40 countries, and was governor of the Midwestern Region of Soroptimist Clubs (1958-60) and president (1955-56) of the Soroptimist Club of Detroit, the organization which in 1964 named her "Woman of the Year."

Sink says her first self-imposed assignment after leaving Chrysler will be "to see if I can handle retirement. I'm really too young to retire, you know."

Her colleagues are certain she can handle retirement, but agree that she is too young to become inactive. At management's request, she stayed on the job six months past the mandatory retirement age.

"Ginny can handle anything," said Charles M. Heinen, a director in Chrysler's engineering office for whom Sink worked most in recent years.

"She's been a dynamic and effective executive, and she always gets the job done," he said.

She's on firm's cleaner-air team

"She's not only an imaginative and creative engineer, she's a hands-on engineer. She knows how to get her fingers into mechanisms and solve problems."

"She has always shown a lot of poise under stress, and there are times when engineers get plenty of stress," Heinen added. "Her employees are absolutely loyal to her, and they respect her professionally and personally."

Professionally, Sink has been at the center of engineering activity during the era of the greatest technological improvements in the history of the automobile.

She joined Chrysler Corporation in 1936 following graduation from the University of Colorado, where she was awarded a bachelor of science degree with honors in chemical engineering.

Since that time, standard safety glass, the all-metal station wagon body, constant-speed electric windshield wipers, power steering, power brakes, automatic transmissions, and emission reduction systems are but a few of the now-accepted features which have been developed.

When she joined Chrysler, Fred M. Zeder, Owen Skelton, and Carl Breer—the engineering team which designed the first Chrysler — were still active, and the man who founded the corporation still headed it.

There were no computers or electronic calculators. The slide rule was the engineer's favorite instrument.

"I use the calculator most of the time now," she said, "but once in a while I check up on it with the slide rule."

Following graduation from

Chrysler Institute in 1938, Sink was appointed to project engineer in charge of the chemical, radiography and spectrographic departments at Chrysler. During World War II, she supervised more than 500 women laboratory employees.

From 1950 to 1955, Sink was assigned to chemical research, working with emissions analytical equipment.

For the next seven years, she was on special assignment to Chrysler's emissions control projects before being appointed materials development engineer in 1962.

She was named assistant manager - vehicle emissions in 1968.

Of the many positions she has held, she has found emissions control work to be the most rewarding.

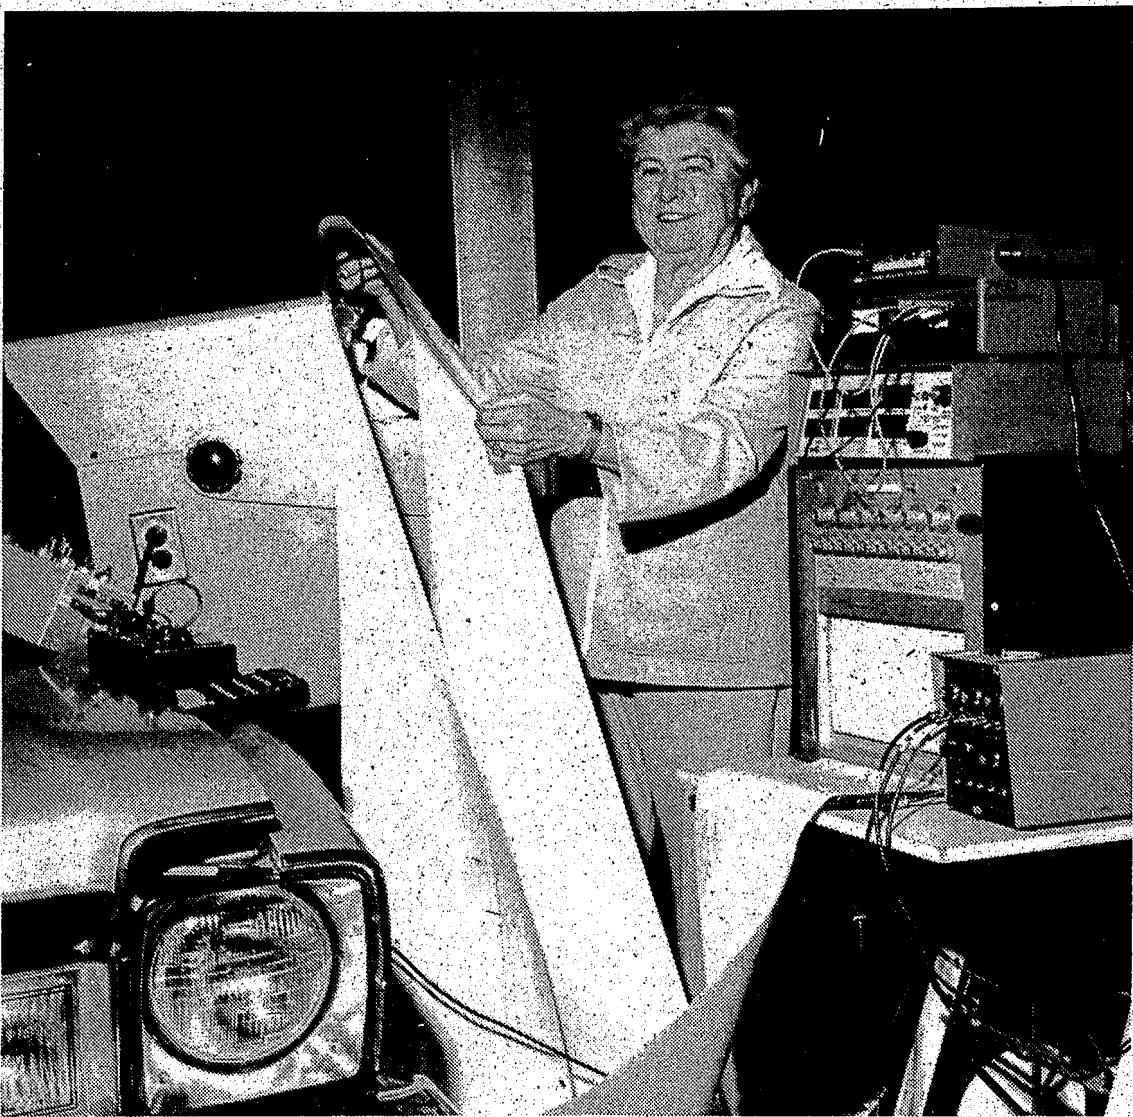

"It's been pretty satisfying to have been part of the team that has helped to clean up the air," she said.

Sink is a member of the executive council of the Society of Women Engineers, a member of the University of Detroit's College of Engineering Advisory Board, and a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

She is a former member of the Engineering Society of Detroit and the American Chemical Society. She served for several years as chairman of the Vehicle Emissions Surveillance Panel of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association.

She is a member of Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics fraternity; Iota Sigma Pi, honorary chemical sorority; and Tau Beta Pi.

Sink was born in Colorado Springs, Colorado on September 14, 1913.

At work at Chrysler Corporation, Virginia Sink is manager of vehicle emissions certification, a job on which "there always seems to be a shortage of time."

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., March 28, 1979 23

On this page, once a month, work of elementary pupils from Clarkston School District is featured. This month, South Sashabaw School is represented. A special story for youngsters, written by children's author Elaine Murray of Independence Township, also is a feature of the page and is illustrated by a pupil from the school.

I Love Clowns

By Jessica Fedewa
Mrs. McDonnell's 3rd grade

I'd love a clown,
I'd like to see them all fall down,
Because of the shoes they wear,
I wouldn't dare wear them in town!
I am afraid I'd fall on my crown!
And I'd say so much for a clown
Who fell down.

The Elephant and the Ringmaster

An elephant spoke to his master.
He asked if he could dance faster.
The master said "No."
Anywhere that you go
Your dancing would be
A disaster!!

Circuses, Circuses

By Kelly Stickney

Circuses, circuses, all year round.
The elephants make lots of loud
sounds.
As they march in the ring around and around.

The tall clowns and little clowns
with smiles and frowns.
Dance all around and jump on the ground.
And they play with a ball.
"Get it! Get it!" they call.
And they ride on bikes and people like it when they fall.

Big Surprise in a Little Box

By Elaine P. Murray

Tarra is an old circus elephant. She used to be a star in the center ring. Now she does heavy work around the circus with the tent men. Tarra doesn't mind too much, for it's still THE CIRCUS.

At night, Tarra tells the young elephants of her past adventures under the Big Top. There is one story they all like to hear again and again . . .

It was a warm summer night. I was dressed in my white feathered cap and glittering purple blanket. Just as I took my place at the FRONT of the line, the ringmaster blew his whistle. The band started playing, and I began the grand march around the arena.

I always marched with perfect steps . . . never too fast or too slow. Suddenly, a little box fell from the stands to my feet. Because it surprised me so much I did a terrible thing. I STOPPED!

No one was expecting me to stop. So, they all bumped into one another. The audience began to laugh. I was so embarrassed. I wanted to cry.

I was about to STEP on the box, when a man in the stands yelled, "No, stop! Don't go on!"

Then the ringmaster, who was very, very angry, ran up to me shouting, "What's holding up the line?"

I didn't know what to do. The grand march was ruined. The man in the stands ran down to me saying, "I'm so very sorry."

The ringmaster couldn't hear him, because he was shouting, "WHAT'S HOLDING UP THE LINE?"

People in the audience started yelling, "What's wrong?"

Suddenly the little box moved. The ringmaster stopped shouting. The audience stopped yelling. The little box moved again . . . and AGAIN. I wanted to run away.

The man bent down and picked up the little box. "This is Jib," he said, as he took off the lid.

The tiniest dog I've ever seen jumped out. He stood there barking and wagging his tail at me. The ringmaster stepped up to get a closer look. The circus people started crowding nearer. And, the audience started getting out of their seats.

Then I did a wonderful thing. I reached out my trunk and gently lifted Jib high into the air. "Now everyone can see you!" I bellowed.

The band started playing. The man climbed back into the stands. The circus people got back into line. And, the audience sat back down in their seats.

I, the biggest star in the circus, was carrying Jib, the tiniest dog in the world, around the arena. "Meet Jib, a new star," I roared, "Never as great as I am, of course!"

. . . and stories

An Elephant Named Tarra

By Lyssandra Ebenstreicher
Mrs. Dunlavy's 3rd grade

One hot summer day Tarra an elephant joined the circus because the circus was coming, and all the animals Tarra knew were going to join the circus.

Tarra was also a female elephant and the day the circus was coming to town Tarra had babies.

She could not join the circus with all of her friends, so she had to wait until her baby elephants were big enough to join the circus themselves and be stars.

By the time the baby elephants were big enough it was too late for them to join the circus, because the circus had to many elephants.

Still they have wanted to join the circus from this day on.

The Circus

By Shane Robert
Miss Buchbinder's 2nd grade

The circus was ready and Fats was too.

Fats was my monkey's name. He came out of nowhere. He was riding a chopper.

Then he balanced himself on the tightrope. He closed his eyes while running across it on his barefeet.

Then everybody clapped their hands and they cried. Fats kissed his hand and blew it off to them all.

The Trapeze Man

By Roger Eversole
Mrs. Dunlavy's 3rd grade

He swings up in the tent high up in the air.

He does tricks to make kids and parents stare at the amazing tricks he does up there.

He does flips in the air, without a net down there and he swings across the air.

He made it through the air. The peapole down there clap their hands for the best flippers they have ever seen.

It was a daring event!

Country Living

Quiet, country life suits Jefferys

On living in Thendara Park:

"It's as close as you can come to country around here. We have good neighbors and I can take off in the woods," Earlene said.

"I like it better than any place I've ever lived, and it's because of the people," Jeff said.

Jeff and Earlene Jeffery.

Given a day to do as they please, Independence Township residents Jeff and Earlene Jeffery would pursue varied activities.

"I'd probably go canoeing," Earlene said. The trip would be "just down the river," and would include camping and "probably the whole family."

Jeff has been involved in more than the usual amount of travel lately for his job as a chemist for Dupont of Troy.

"I'd stay home all day," he said. "I wouldn't tell anybody I was here."

Put the two activities together and they make up much of the Jeffery family's style of living.

Jeff, Earlene and their children Eddy, 12, and Julie, 10, do a lot of camping as a family, and they are what they call quiet people.

Some of their camping experiences involve 4-H activities.

Jeff is training to become an adult leader in "Challenge," a 4-H program in wilderness survival.

His year-long training — including rock climbing, spelunking (cave exploration), first aid and sleeping in snow caves — is to end in June with a state certification test.

"They (4-H) started the program in an effort to hold onto the older boys," Jeff said. "They found if they do that, they hold onto older girls, too."

About his wilderness experiences, Jeff said, "They're all difficult," adding that spelunking was "an exercise in overcoming fear" as he crawled through cave passages.

Earlene is active in 4-H as a co-leader and also serves as a Camp Fire leader.

The Jefferys have lived in their home on Cherokee Road, Independence Township, six years.

They started looking for a house within 15 miles of Jeff's job so he could ride his bicycle to work.

"I absolutely did not want to live out this far," Jeff said.

But in keeping with their love of open spaces, they chose their house because of the large, open floor plan with an L-shaped living and dining area that includes large windows facing the back yard.

The house was owned previously by their real estate agent and Earlene saw it first, because Clarkston was a meeting place between their old home and Troy.

"It's as close as you can come to country around here," Earlene said. "We have good neighbors and I can take off in the woods."

"I like it better than any place I've ever lived," Jeff said. "And it's because of the people."

They live in a subdivision where neighbors know each other, and the Jefferys attribute the closeness to a common adversity — the subdivision's private roads that must be maintained by the residents.

"It's a big problem, but you get to know your neighbors," Jeff said.

Shoveling sand on the bumpy roads and collecting money door-to-door for expenses involved in grading, graveling and snowplowing the roads have involved both Earlene and Jeff.

A welcoming committee for new residents, and a craft club that all women are encouraged to join are other neighborhood activities in which Earlene participates.

And Jeff is the secretary of the homeowners association this year.

Earlene also sews, making most of her clothes and Julie's, and does charcoal sketches.

"I do all the painting and as much of the repair stuff as I can do," she added.

Her activities keep her busy and she has no desire to have a job outside the home.

"I like to be free for the time we can go on long trips," she said.

This summer, now that the children are old enough, the family is planning a week of backpacking on Isle Royale in northern Lake Superior.

Camping became an interest for Jeff when they were married about 19 years ago.

"I think we started when we were first married, because it was cheap," he said, and camping has become a good way to travel as a family of four.

"It certainly allows us to travel further and do more," he said.

Earlene has enjoyed nature and outdoor living since childhood when she stayed with relatives on a farm.

"As soon as school was over, I'd go out to the farm," she said, "and my parents would come out to visit me."

The Jefferys have a major six-week-long camping and hiking expedition planned for 1980.

They'll board a ferry boat in Seattle, Wash., and head for Alaska.

Eddy looks on...

...as Earlene and Julie chat.

Two Monday-night courses beginning April 9 are How to Make Real Estate Investments and Restoring Old Homes for Profit and Fun. A Thursday-night course which starts April 12 will deal with leasing and landlording.

For further information, call the continuing education office at 377-3120.

Beat the Easter Bunny at his own game at Drayton Plains

Nature Center Saturday, April 14.

An Easter egg hunt will be held at the center from noon to 3 p.m., with children divided into age groups for consecutive competitions. Those finding the most eggs will receive a big chocolate bunny. The child who finds the one super egg will be given an Easter basket.

The staff of the nature center, at 2125 Denby Road, notes a 50-cent donation per child would be appreciated.

Listen to Patty McThie's views on astrology at the Tuesday night meeting of Parents Without Partners, Orion-Oxford Chapter.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. at the Clear Lake Elementary School, 2.5 miles west of M-24 on Drahner Road in Oxford Township. For more information, call 628-4494 or 628-6975.

CHS senior Kathy Klyder had no hopes of attending college until the first short story she wrote won her a four-year, full-tuition scholarship at Wayne State University.

Story by CHS senior garners scholarship

By Mimi Mayer

If Kathy Klyder hadn't taken Nancy Albyn's creative writing class, she might not be going to college.

Although Kathy, a senior, maintained a high "B" average, she planned to receive secretarial training after graduating from Clarkston High School.

Then Kathy won a full-tuition, four-year scholarship to Wayne State University after submitting her story "The Last Morning" to a writing contest sponsored by the university's English department.

Yet "The Last Morning" was the first short story Kathy wrote. In fact, she had no interest in writing until scheduling difficulties placed her in Ms. Albyn's course.

After learning she'd won the scholarship, Kathy said, "I was shocked, I was very shocked. I had no experience last year when I wrote the first story. I didn't think my short story would send me to college."

Her talent was recognized once more last December when Kathy took the $50 first prize for her short story, "The Hand of Night" in the Lawrence Institute of Technology's Ninth Writer's Conference.

Kathy's story ideas are based on her experiences or those of people she knows, embroidered upon by her imagination.

"I start writing and I keep changing it," she explained. "Better things come to my mind."

A case in point is the story which won Kathy her scholarship. Although the plot line for "The Last Morning" was well-planned, "three days before it was due, I changed it to a completely different one," Kathy said.

Using a flashback technique, Kathy writes about women's reactions to traumatic situations.

Kathy's talent for capturing these reactions partially accounts for her success, Ms. Albyn said.

"I think her work deals with emotions that are common to us all; therefore, they have general appeal," she commented.

And Kathy's willingness to rework her stories also explains her achievements, Ms. Albyn added.

Although Kathy was tentative awarded the scholarship when she was a junior, she recently informed Wayne that she would graciously accept the aid.

She is enrolled as a liberal arts major, but may pursue studies in computer science once she begins her fall classes.

Whether she'll continue to study writing once she's attending Wayne is also an open question. In the meantime, she's willing to "wait and see what happens."

Samples from two prize-winning stories

One of Kathy's strengths as a writer is that she frequently works with situations she knows intimately or has experienced, Ms. Albyn said.

This excerpt, taken from "The Last Morning," is based upon Kathy's uncle, who choked to death on a piece of chewing gum.

The narrator has just survived a car accident and is awaiting help.

"It is harder to breathe. My throat feels as if something is lodged there. I begin to cough, but it doesn't help. The thought of choking is terrifying.

"I recall two years ago when my uncle suffocated to death in a truck accident. The doctors couldn't figure out why he died. It took an autopsy to figure out that he had a large wad of gum stuck in his throat.

He couldn't breathe through his nose because it was broken and he couldn't breathe through his mouth because of the gum.

"He did not die right away. He died very slowly. Since then, I've been afraid of suffocation. I began to understand what he had gone through."

Purely a work of Kathy's imagination, this portion of "The Hand of Night" describes a woman's panic as she nearly drowns. As in "The Last Morning," the central character narrates the tale.

"I felt myself being carried out. I try to swim back. I can't, the current is too strong. Barbara warned me about how strong it was when I first moved here.

This area is the strongest. That's why the people I bought the house from moved. Their son drowned in it.

"No! I won't drown. Swim, I've got to get out. The more I try, the more tired I become."

"I go under, but I make it up. I go under again. I can't get up. My lungs feel like they're going to burst. Up, get up, but I'm so tired.

"I want to go to sleep. Slowly, let go. Vaguely, I feel something go around me."

"Maybe this is death, only I'm being pulled up. Then I pass out into a sea of deep nothingness."

"Annie Get Your Gun"
Clarkston High School Drama Department
Clarkston High School Theatre
Annie Oakley could out-shoot and out-think Wild West Show marksman Frank Butler.

Shelley Glenn, who plays Annie Oakley in the Clarkston High School production of "Annie Get Your Gun," also manages to upstage Frank Butler. She steals nearly every scene in which she appears by virtue of her exceptional poise and clear-voiced vocals that have the stamp of talent and capable direction.

The big hit musical of the 1946 Broadway season is being given a tightly paced interpretation by the Clarkston High School Drama Department. Direction is by Barbara Gibson.

Ms. Glenn, a Clarkston High School senior, and a large supporting cast of students run rather smoothly through such Irving Berlin biggies as "Doin' What Comes Natur'ly," "The Girl that I Marry," "They Say It's Wonderful," "I Got the Sun in the Morning," "Anything You Can Do I Can Do Better," and, of course, "There's No Business Like Show Business."

In addition to the chance to hear these old Berlin numbers and see Ms. Glenn act, the musical is recommended for the acting of Rebecca Watson (Dolly Tate), Scott Turnbull (Buffalo Bill), Kevin Fetter (Chief Sitting Bull) and Florence Ryan (Mrs. Sylvia Potter-Porter). "Annie Get Your Gun" will be at the Clarkston High School Little Theatre for two more performances Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Peter Hoogerhyde of Pontiac was the guest speaker at the Clarkston Rotary Club. At the request of Don Stakable, former schoolmate, Dr. Hoogerhyde presented colored movies of his recent trip to New York City.

Evidence of the rapid growth of the Clarkston community was the formation of a third dance club. The club will hold its dances in the Community Center on the fourth Saturday night of each month.

HAPPENINGS

Consider not only the initial cost of a house, but also the carrying charges, the cost of owning a house after you've bought it. The purchase price of a house is incurred only once, but taxes, repairs, interest, insurance, and other items recur annually. Many of these expenses vary directly with the size and cost of the house. The ability to make a large down payment or to pay all cash does not reduce any carrying charges except interest and principal payments and often is not a wise decision because of tax and other considerations. Check annual heating and other utility costs, property tax and zoning trends, school system capacities with respect to the average of the community, children, etc. We pride ourselves on our expertise in these areas and can advise you. Integrity is the basis of all business transactions. At BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., your area broker since 1947, we value our reputation for integrity and honesty as much as we value our clients. There is no substitute for an honest, face-to-face and sincere business relationship when it comes to a real estate transaction. Likewise, there is no substitute for a real estate professional. So, come to BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE today. Open 9a.m. - 9p.m., til 6p.m. Fri. & Sat., 11-5 Sun. Tel. 625-5821.

Rev. Malcolm Boyd will conduct a program of dialogue and celebration Good Friday and Holy Saturday at Colombiere Center in Springfield Township.

Rev. Boyd is an Episcopal priest, former Hollywood television producer, television personality and leader in the civil rights and peace movements of the 60s and 70s.

The program at Colombiere Center, 9075 Big Lake Road, will begin at 7 p.m. Friday, April 13. Participants will depart at 4 p.m. the following day, although reservations can be made for supper and Holy Week retreats are available.

The donation of $24 includes overnight accommodations and Saturday breakfast and lunch. Reservations can be made with associate director Ronald Streitz Jr., 625-5611.

A folk musical entitled "The Apostle" will be presented at Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church Tuesday night.

The production tells the story of the early Christian church through the lives of the Apostle Paul, St. Luke and others.

A cast of 35 singers, players, instrumentalists and narrators from Central United Methodist Church in Waterford Township will perform. The play begins at 8:15 p.m. at the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, 5300 Maybee Road.

Sashabaw Church invites other churches and the general public to enjoy the presentation, according to Rev. Mark H. Caldwell, pastor.

Evening ceremony

Pamela Agar and Rex Egres Jr. were married in an evening ceremony at Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Mark Caldwell performed the traditional ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herbert of Oak Park Street, Independence Township. She is employed by General Motors Corp. as a computer programmer.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Egres Sr. of Meyers Road, Independence Township. He is employed by Rex's 76.

The bride was given in marriage on Dec. 21 by her stepfather.

She wore a white satin gown with an empire waistline, trimmed with pearls and lace on the bodice and at the cuffs and hemline and carried a bouquet of daisies and carnations.

Darlene Locher of Drayton Plains served as maid of honor, and the bride's niece Michelle Agar of Ortonville served as flower girl.

The bride's attendants wore light blue, floral print, floor-length gowns and carried carnations and daisies.

Jeff Brantley of Clarkston was best man and the bride's nephew Jeff Agar of Ortonville was ring bearer.

A reception for the 40 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Egres are residing in Clarkston.

Honors

Richard W. Huttenlocher, an Albion College sophomore, has been named an Albion fellow.

To earn the honor, Richard maintained a 3.7 grade point average for three consecutive semesters while carrying a full class schedule.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Huttenlocher of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston.

Veronica M. Rauth is among the 20 University of Detroit students to be honored at the annual Engineering Student Council Slide Rule Dinner on Saturday.

The Clarkston area resident is a nominee for the Linsenmeyer Award and is one of the joint recipients of the Prof. Harry O. Warner Award for a project on an electronic method for counting fluorescent antibody microbes.

Among the 1,881 Ferris State College students named to the academic honors list for the winter quarter were six from the Clarkston area.

They were: Tina Bouchard of Griggs Drive, Nancy Hyde of Waldon Road, Joseph Poniatowski of Crosby Lake Road, Teri Sawyer of Gibbs Road, Kimberly Schebor of Holcomb Street and Jeriann Staley of Flemings Lake Road.

Alice Lansbury Halsey of Pickford has been granted tenure by the Lake Superior State College Board of Control as an assistant professor of nursing.

A 1958 Clarkston High School graduate, she joined the LSSC nursing faculty in 1973.

She received her master's degree in nursing from Wayne State University and her bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan.

Previously, she was employed as a general duty staff nurse at Sault Ste. Marie's War Memorial Hospital and as staff and head nurse in obstetrics at Pontiac General Hospital.

Recipe File

by Lorna Bickerstaff

This week's recipe for Swedish meatballs was given to us by Mrs. Jack Frost. Char serves the meatballs with salad and hot bread.

After residing in Clarkston for 21 years the Frosts will be moving to Santa Ana, Calif. the first of April. We wish them well.

Swedish Meatballs

Mix together in large bowl
1/2 c. bread crumbs
1 lb. ground round
1/2 lb. pork sausage (not the hot kind)
1/2 c. mashed potatoes
1 egg beaten

Add

1 t. salt
1/2 t. brown sugar
1/4 t. pepper
1/4 t. allspice
1/4 t. nutmeg

1/8 t. ground cloves
1/8 t. ginger

Mix well. Shape mixture into balls about 1 inch in diameter. Roll balls lightly in bread crumbs.

Heat in skillet over low heat about 3 T. butter. Add meatballs and brown on all sides. Shake pan frequently to brown evenly and to keep balls round.

Cover and cook slowly about 15 minutes or until done.

Remove meatballs to serving bowl. Thicken remaining juice for gravy. (May be necessary to add some water.)

Pour thickened gravy over meatballs in bowl and serve.

Makes about 3 dozen meatballs.

Doing Business

Country Greens expands

The recent expansion of Country Greens, a plant and gift shop located in the Clarkston business district, is one step in an overall master plan for the store.

Laurie Stern, who co-owns the business with Charles Mehnken, said she and her partner bought the building, 25 S. Main, intending to carry out the expansion.

Country Greens doubled its floor space by moving into a store formerly occupied by P.S. Matthews Natural Foods, which closed in mid-December.

Since mid-January, Stern and Mehnken have been remodeling the building, knocking out a wall and adding features like a refrigerator case in which to store fresh-cut flowers.

"We plan to do more remodeling of the building," Stern said, adding that a new coat of paint and the construction of a deck on the back of the space formerly occupied by P.S. Matthews are among her plans. Other long-range goals Stern and Mehnken are considering include building a greenhouse on the deck area and remodeling the basement, which is currently used for stock storage.

"Maybe I would have a small shop down there, one which would complement me," Stern said.

President of the Village Business Association, Stern said incorporating all the building's floor space into one business "really helps the streetscape and the general business district."

- Free money orders.
- Free travelers cheques.
- Free notary service.
- Free "Prestige" service that allows check cashing and savings account withdrawals at participating institutions nationwide.

"When 'The Friendly One' Savers Club officially begins on April 2," tells Caron Marchbanks, director of First Federal of Oakland's Savers Club, "our customers will be able to receive special offers or discounts at more than 150

Savers Club merchant locations, and the list keeps growing every day.

"We are trying to select local businesses we feel our customers will use and enjoy, businesses that will give our customers the best discounts. So far, we've had overwhelming acceptance from merchants throughout our five county market area."

Affiliated with Savers Clubs of America, "The Friendly One" Savers Club is the first and only Savers Club in the State of Michigan.

A membership card, available at all First Federal offices, allows Savers Club members to receive discounts in about 40 Savers Club cities nationwide.

Anyone can join "The Friendly One" Savers Club by opening a passbook savings account at any of First Federal of Oakland's 25 offices and agreeing to maintain at least $1,000 in their account.

No raises for village officials

Clarkston officers will not receive pay hikes this year.

Members of the village council voted unanimously to maintain salaries set last spring during the upcoming 1979-80 fiscal year.

Trustees Ruth Basinger and James Schultz were absent from the meeting.

The village president, council trustee and planning commission members are paid by the meeting.

Using this per-meeting basis, trustees receive $20, planning commissioners $5, Village President Fontie ApMadoc $40 and Planning Commission Chairman Ted Thomson $10.

The village clerk, treasurer and assessor are paid annual salaries.

Clerk Bruce Rogers is paid $3,000, Treasurer Artemus Pappas receives $3,600, of which $850 is for his work on sewer billings, and Assessor Ralph Thayer is paid $3,000.

The council also unanimously approved salary payment for the 1978-79 year.

Independent view

It's spring—when some people's fancies turn to mailbox chicken and similar destructive diversions involving the roadside property of Uncle Sam.

Information of interest to mailbox maimers comes from the United States Code, via Clarkston Postmaster Don Stoll:

"Whoever willfully or maliciously injures, tears down or destroys any letterbox or other receptacle intended or used for the receipt or delivery of mail or any mail route, or breaks open the same or willfully or maliciously injures, defaces or destroys any mail deposited therein shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than 3 years."

The four-and-one-half hour Independence Township Board meeting last week must have been easier on board members than in the past.

New, softer chairs graced the board table.

Ten chairs were purchased about two weeks ago for about $500, according to Clerk Christopher Rose.

The black office chairs have padded arms as well as cushioned seats and backs.

Servicing the area 6 yrs.

Ann's Ark

by Ann Glenn

In the past 20 years, we have moved five times across the country and each time we face the dilemma of finding a suitable veterinarian or two to administer to our zoo.

Over the years, I have come up with a few criteria to pass on to you.

1. Does the veterinarian show genuine interest in you and your pet? Is he willing to give you a tour of his facilities and discuss his philosophy and practice with you?

The vet and his attendants must be able to put the animal at ease.

3. Does the clinic have access to a well-run lab?

Immediate laboratory capabilities avoid trial and error in medication and can save a life.

3. He should be willing to call in a specialist if needed.

4. He should promote preventive medical philosophy, recommending inoculations, heartworm and other parasite prevention, as well as O.F.A. and C.E.R.F. certification.

5. A veterinarian should be interested in his continued professional growth. He may have plaques attesting to participation in continuing education.

Being associated with the American Animal Hospital Association means that his facility is frequently inspected and must have lab facilities, X-ray facilities, a separate operating area, dental services and emergency care.

6. Your veterinarian should be aware of community problems with animals and be willing to speak out and advise on spaying and neutering or recommend obedience training as well as encourage humane treatment for animals at all times.

I have a few personal items I insist on with a vet, among which are: my being with an animal until it is anesthetized for surgery and bringing it home the same day, if possible. This simply reduces the animal's anxiety.

Also, I like a vet who will go to every effort to relieve suffering or solve a problem.

One dear veterinarian in Vermont worked out an anesthetic so small goat kids could be dehorned painlessly and anesthetized a goose for removal of a foot and a duck for extensive stitches necessary after encountering a neighborhood dog.

There is some intrinsic value in a good vet that sends out vibrations you can feel. His caring is great and his sense of mission complete—there are these James Herriot types to be found.

Find your vet and let him know you.

Commanding the kind of attention many teachers only dream of, Bart Connors calls the numbers at the Thursday night Clarkston Band Boosters' bingo at Sashabaw Junior High School. Connors, Clarkston Junior High instrumental music teacher, is one of a large group of volunteers getting the fund-raising event going on a regular basis. The games start at 7 p.m. every Thursday.

Hand-eye coordination comes to the fore when bingo numbers are called and all members of the crowd check out their cards, plunking markers down when necessary and waiting for the next call.

Bingo! for bands

One of the features of the Band Boosters' bingo is a $900 machine which its owners say is unusually sophisticated.

It takes some special skills to play 32 bingo cards at one time like Thelma Bennett of Independence Township is doing. It also takes help from a wide selection of paraphernalia: metal markers, a magnet to pick them up with in a hurry, ink daubers for the special cards and, in Thelma's case, a couple of crocheted animals for good luck.
