Local cops get funds from surplus

Police may be hard to find in Independence Township on weekends, but cuts of two local police officers have been squelched.

Using $43,000 of surplus funds, the township board voted 4-3 Tuesday night to keep the two officers on the job after their Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funding ends Sept. 30.

The $260,000 police budget is to also be subsidized with $16,000 from the township's general fund.

The township board reduced the Oakland County Sheriff's Department contract from five deputies to four last month.

Because of the cut, Director of Police Services Charles Kimbel said the sheriff's department notified him the township will not be covered by the county during the day.

"We made the cut. It's now showing up," Kimbel said. "It may be a power struggle to get the fifth deputy back."

"I think it's unreasonable for Charley (Kimbel) to say he has three people and can't work a seven-day shift," said Treasurer Frederick Ritter. "If we had five deputies, we would have 24 hour a day coverage seven days a week."

Ritter and Trustee William

Vandermark noted the Police Advisory Board report recommended keeping five deputies and eliminating the two local police officers.

Clerk Christopher Rose, Ritter and Vandermark voted "no" on the motion to set the police budget at $260,000 and keep the two local police officers.

"I feel the board needs an opportunity to discuss the proposal presented by the Police Advisory Board," Ritter said.

"There are better services available for the money," Vandermark said.

"I think it would be better to spend it on the fifth deputy covering seven days," Rose said.

After the meeting, Kimbel said he would contact the sheriff's department and ask for some daytime coverage.

"It's the taxpayers' money," he said, and the deputies should be available as requested.

M-15 widening spurs protest

Highway safety versus preservation of Clarkston's village was debated by about 30 people at Tuesday night's Independence Township Board meeting.

The M-15 drain project and widening the road to five lanes between Dixie Highway and Paramus Drive were the topics of the special meeting.

John Williams of the Michigan State Department of Transportation said original cost estimates were incorrect at $600,000.

With the dual project, the cost would be about $350,000 with the township's cost about 35 percent of the total, he said.

Business people along the project area supported the construction, but widening M-15 was the issue that distressed the village residents and council members.

"There was no public hearing

(on the five-lane project)," said Jennifer Radcliff of North Main Street, adding that there are also plans to widen M-15 to four lanes north of the village.

"Any idiot can see there is going to be a press to widen or at least remove parking spaces (along Main Street) and there it goes down the tubes," she said.

She requested a public hearing on the road widening as did several village residents at the meeting.

"I feel that we have the right to more information and the right to express our opinions," she said.

Supervisor Whitey Tower and Treasurer Frederick Ritter said the village could schedule a public hearing if they wished to pursue the issue.

The township board voted unanimously to place the M-15 drain and road widening proposal on the July 17 agenda.

In search of Headlee benefits

By Kathy Greenfield

Gathering opinions from local officials on the Headlee tax limitation amendment approved by voters last November is like taking a public opinion survey.

The officials have read a great deal on the topic, attended meetings and studied the two bills before the Michigan Senate and House of Representatives.

And many of their opinions vary.

The majority, however, said Headlee would result in a reduction of the tax rate in Independence Township, Oakland County and the Clarkston School District.

In August during the primary election, Oakland County voters passed a tax limitation bill that increased the authorized tax rate.

The authorized rate is what will be used to determine the rollback.

For example, in Independence Township a tax of 1.41 mills is now authorized.

(One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation).

Last year, 1.33 mills were collected, but for Headlee purposes, the rollback starts at the authorized 1.41 rate.

"Both bills that are being considered (in the state House and Senate) do apply the authorized rate," said James Brennan, Oakland County director of management and budget.

"The authorized tax rates will be rolled back," he said.

Rollbacks will be determined by taking the average property valuation increase in each tax district, comparing the percentage to the consumer price index

Gravel miner eyes Independence

By Kathy Greenfield

A 500-acre gravel mining operation proposal for Independence Township is to be reviewed by the planning commission at its May 24 meeting.

The 500 acres are located just north of the center of the township.

The property backs up to Independence Oaks and is north of Clarkston-Orion Road and west of Sashabaw Road.

The plan is to be presented by the Edward Levy Co. of Dix Avenue, Detroit.

According to Independence Township Building Department Director Timothy Palulian, there are four or five owners of the property and the mining company has options to purchase the property if the plan is approved.

The proposal is for gravel mining that would span a 23-year period, and reclamation plans include a large lake, Palulian said.

The meeting is for a conceptual site plan review at which time the planning commission makes recommendations.

The next step is a final site plan review when the commission is to vote to accept or deny the plans.

If the planning commission recommended approval, the zoning board of appeals would hear the proposal and decide whether to issue a permit for the gravel mining use.

Zoning on the property is now residential, Palulian said.

The Thursday, May 24 meeting is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

State wants some lunch money back

The Clarkston School District is getting $1,774 skimmed from its hot-lunch funds to help correct a $1-million statewide mistake.

The district was notified Tuesday that it was one of 760 overpaid earlier this month when state matching funds for school food services were distributed.

Clarkston Community Schools had received a check for $9,098.

Detroit school officials noticed they had received $1 million less than they should have. So the State Department of Education dunned the districts that had been overpaid.

"It could have been stickier," said Stanley Darling, business manager for the local district. "They could have said, 'Return it all, and we'll redo it'."

The corrected amount is "closer to what we expected," he noted. "I don't think we have a squawk coming."

The state matching funds account for a relatively small portion of the district's $437,000 food service budget. The hot lunch program is basically a federal one.

Group home bill under attack

By Mimi Mayer

Springfield Township has joined a three-pronged attack on a bill presently in the Michigan House of Representatives which would further curtail local control of adult foster care facilities.

Directed at the State Legislature and the Michigan Department of Social Services, the opposition was mounted in a resolution unanimously approved by the Springfield Township Board at their May 2 meeting.

The program outlined in the resolution demands that the Department of Social Services conduct public hearings after a proposed group home is inspected and approved; local fire safety and building inspections before the home is licensed; and annual follow-up checks for hazardous conditions or building code violations in a home.

The House bill would completely "eliminate any local input whatsoever" on a group home, Township Supervisor Collin W. Walls later said.

"I haven't seen the bill," he noted, adding he'd heard reports that licenses for group homes would not be submitted to local government for approval and building inspections would cease.

This information was passed on by John H. Doherty, West Bloomfield Township supervisor who wrote a resolution on which the Springfield document was modeled.

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to State Senator Kerry K. Kammer (D-Pontiac), State Rep. Claude A. Trim (D-Davisburg) and nearby municipalities.

Trim, who heads the House Mental Health Committee was contacted by Walls before the resolution was presented to the board and said he supported its policies, Walls reported.

"The system we've got is bad. The system that's being proposed is atrocious," Walls said.

Asked why the resolution was written, Walls responded, "The why is not opposition to the concept. I think more than anything, the why is the attitude of the department of social services and the legislature in general.

"It's not even a 'take-it-or-leave-it' attitude; it's a 'take-it' attitude. It's a callous attitude born from the misunderstanding that people in local government don't care. That's wrong." officials and community residents are deeply concerned with the residents of a foster care facility.

Hopefully, the resolution will combat the catch-22 situation in which local government has limited say over the licensing of group homes but must handle residents' concerns about the facility.

Under the statute which permits group homes to have residential zoning designations, municipal officials can deny a license only if a second group home is located within 1,500 feet of a proposed foster care facility.

Local government is also required to notify property owners within 1,500 feet of a proposed group home that a license application has been filed.

Alarmed or curious community residents call township hall to learn about the group home and municipal officials can't answer the questions, Walls said.

Mandatory public hearings would help resolve the situation, he added.

Local fire safety and building inspections also should be required, he continued.

"Despite what they tell us, if we have any empathy for the individuals, we have an obligation to make sure things are safe because (the residents) are not able to determine these things for themselves," Walls noted.

Charles Underwood, a Springfield resident and builder who owns a group home located at 11914 Davisburg Road, asked for further information on these inspections at the May 2 meeting.

They will be routine checks for fire hazards and building code violations, Walls responded.

Township board members did not comment on the resolution.

Village planners protest proposed Pine Knob hotel

By Mimi Mayer

A stand against a proposed 22-story hotel at Pine Knob Resort in Independence Township, was taken by the Clarkston Planning Commission Monday night.

After presenting a letter detailing objections to the hotel, Clarkston Planning Commission Chairman Ted Thomson received unanimous approval from seven commissioners to go on record against the hotel.

Thomson was also authorized to represent the planning commission at the Thursday night hearing on the project. Commissioner James MacArthur was absent from the meeting.

Thomson successfully urged the Clarkston Village Council to speak out in opposition to the hotel at its April 23 meeting.

Proposed by Pine Knob developers Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell, the hotel plans went before the Independence Township Planning Commission in an informational hearing March 22.

The developers have requested a variance in the township zoning ordinance which regulates the heights of hotels and resorts.

"I think this would be a very bad mistake to let in the 21-story hotel," Thomson told the Clarkston commissioners.

"This one would be visible from Detroit because you put 21 stories on top of the highest point in the township, to say nothing of what it would let in. The breakthrough would be deadly.

"We are part of the township. We pay township taxes. We vote for township officials. We have a voice in township affairs," he added.

Other municipalities throughout the world have regretted the day they allowed construction of towering buildings within their boundaries, Thomson continued.

Residents should oppose the project to preserve the ordinance and prevent additional high-rise facilities from coming to the township, he added.

Thomson questioned whether the Independence Township Fire Department is equipped to handle an emergency should a fire break out in the hotel.

He also pointed out that the hotel would draw "outsiders" into the area, increasing traffic problems for township residents.

"I would like to vote that if you go to the meeting, that you represent us," commissioner Douglas Roeser said.

To be held at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, the public hearing on the Pine Knob hotel will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Council wants to take parties out of politics

A move to eliminate partisan elections in Clarkston may be killed before it's begun.

Although several members of the Clarkston Village Council called for an end to political parties on the village ballots, a Michigan constitutional provision may undermine the plan.

The state charter, adopted in 1963, specifies that partisan elections must be held in the village and other general law communities which don't have their own charters.

Councilman James Schultz advocated tossing out partisan voting at the April 23 council meeting.

Primaries are not only expensive, they are impractical in a village where electors vote for "the person," he said.

Approximately $910 was spent on two Clarkston elections held during the 1978-79 fiscal year. Half that amount covered the cost of the Feb. 19 primary race in which one candidate was eliminated from the ballot.

But Clerk Bruce Rogers, who was absent from the April 23 council meeting, later pointed out that Clarkston can cease its primaries only if the state constitution is amended to allow the procedure or if the village adopts its own charter.

"You can't pass a law which would overcome the state charter," he noted.

Nevertheless, Rogers said he supported the move to eliminate primaries in the village.

Terming the Clarkston primaries "ridiculous," Rogers pointed out that a maximum of three candidates lost their bids for office in village primary and general elections over the past several years.

Attorney Gregory Need was authorized by the council to research the legality of the matter and will report his findings at the May 9 council meeting.

Rogers said he hopes Need will discover a way to get around the constitutional law which orders that partisan elections must be held.

What were you doing when the lights went out?

An early morning blackout caught several Davisburg residents getting ready for work and school Thursday morning.

The biggest problem we heard was faced by Marilyn Haggitt of Andersonville Road.

She was standing in the shower with a full head of shampoo when the water stopped flowing.

Clarkston-area families sure are being given financial incentive to clean out garages, attics and other catchalls this spring.

The stuff you don't want, you can sell through The Clarkston News' want ads. We're running a series of deals that lets you advertise various items free.

However, there's always the chance that you'll uncover a real treasure during your cleaning. Appraisers from Stalker and Boos of Birmingham will be in Clarkston for two events this month.

For a $2 fee per item, they'll let you know the value of Aunt Millie's cranberry-glass dish or Uncle Harry's old mustache cup during the Clarkston Historical Society's Heritage Days at Clarkston High School May 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

One May 24, a Stalker and Boos appraiser will be at Clarkston Mills to appraise old books for $1 during the Friends of the Independence Township Library's used book sale.

Springfield Township is trying to streamline the procedures of its meetings.

Instead of having Clerk J. Calvin Walters and Treasurer Patricia Kramer drone through a rendition of the most recent minutes and treasurer's report, copies of both documents were made and circulated through the audience.

"Are there any corrections to the minutes or the treasurer's report?" Township Supervisor Collin W. Walls asked. No comments were made, saving a sizable chunk of time for weightier matters.

Dropping a dime into the stones around Rudy's parking lot proved profitable for Clarkston News reporter Kathy Greenfield last week.

In her search for the lost coin, she found three more dimes. Alas, while pondering the worth of serious rock removal, the mood was broken.

"Drop your dime?" asked a passerby. "I'll bet a lot were lost when the snow was five inches deep."

Feeling slightly foolish, she replaced the rocks and departed.

Surplus up by another $112,000

Independence Township's general fund surplus is in for another boost, according to Clerk Christopher Rose. "The month-end report for March was completed, and subject to audit, 1978-79 had a surplus of approximately $112,000," Rose said. The increase will again place the surplus over $300,00. In April, the township board voted to use $100,000 of previous surpluses to reduce the township-wide sewer tax for one year, dropping the tax from 1.46 mills to .6 mills. One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. Money left in the general fund after bills were paid has been accumulating for the past five years, Rose said. In the 1974-75 fiscal year, the extra money totaled about $30,000. In 1976, the $127,000 surplus was placed in an improvement revolving fund and some of that money has been spent on "road projects, tornado sirens, things like that," Rose said. In 1977, $56,000 was added to the surplus.

According to Rose, the $30,000 and $56,000 should be left in the general fund as working capital. Before those surpluses were accumulated, money had to be borrowed from other funds to pay bills while waiting for December tax collections, he said.

"Anything after that can really be classified as surplus," he said.

In 1978, the year's surplus was about $198,000.

Using Rose's philosophy, there is now a spendable general fund surplus of about $312,000 including the money in the improvement revolving fund.

About $96,000 is an additional surplus that is needed for working capital, he said.

It should be noted, however, that some board members place the amount needed for working capital at different amounts.

At the township's annual meeting on March 31, citizens voted to recommend a public hearing on ways to use the surplus.

No date has been set for the hearing.

Walters gets additional Springfield job

The Springfield Township Board awarded a maintenance job to one of its members. After submitting the low bid of $2,800, Clerk J. Calvin Walters was hired to maintain three township cemeteries from now until October.

Spring and fall clean-ups plus weekly mowings of the three cemeteries were promised by Walters.

The work was done last summer by Jeff Lewis, 11965 Andersonville, and Walters.

Other bids entered were a $9,500 bid by Richard Boyle, 8611 Waumegah Road, Springfield Township, and $4,800 by an unnamed township resident.

Asked if he saw a conflict of interest in selecting Walters, Supervisor Collin W. Walls said, "You compare $2,800 to $9,500 and they can point at me all they want to."

"I hope it was obvious that we would prefer someone else would do it."

The township owns the Davisburg Cemetery, located on Broadway west of Dilley Road and two unnamed burial grounds located on Bridge Lake Road between Dixie Highway and I-75 and between Davisburg Road and Waumegah.

The board voted unanimously to hire Walters. Walters abstained.

Independence raises review fees

Those requesting Independence Township Planning Commission decisions on rezoning, site plan reviews and subdivision plats will now pay more.

The township board approved up to 15 percent increases for the planning commission fees at its May 1 meeting. The hikes were suggested by Timothy Palulian, building department director, and Tod Kilroy, planning consultant.

The fees have not been increased since 1975 and the higher rates were necessary to offset inflated costs, they said.

Rezoning requests will now cost $275 (up $25).

Conceptual site plan reviews for projects one acre or less will be $28 (up $3), commercial or industrial $85 plus $3 an acre (up $10) and multiple housing developments $145 plus $1 a unit (up $20).

Final site plan reviews for projects one acre or less will be $175 (up $25), commercial projects $175 plus $6 an acre (up $25) and multiple dwellings $285 plus $2 an acre (up $35).

Subdivision plat requests were increased by $30 to $230 plus $1 a lot.

None of the charges per acre or per lot were changed.

Springfield fire chief goes shopping

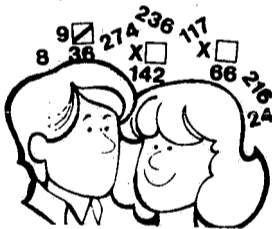

Firefighters in Springfield Township are seeking additional equipment.

The miscellaneous list of items includes fire helmets, 500 feet of hose, air bottles and packs, a rescue saw, several water pumps, home receivers and breathing apparatus. Fire Chief Marlan Hillman is accepting the bids with the authorization of the Springfield Township Board.

Stacy tucks her shoulder-length hair into a cap...

... applies some make-up...

... and she transforms her quiet yet enthusiastic personality into a charming street urchin for her performance in "The Roar of the Grease Paint, the Smell of the Crowd."

'I'd like to be Streisand, with my own style'

"The sky's the limit."

That's what Clarkston Junior High School ninth grader Stacy Nichols says about her dreams of becoming a Broadway star.

She is tackling her goal with such enthusiasm that it's easy to imagine she'll ride her star to the top.

"I like being able to express myself," Stacy says. "And the audience — when you hear the applause, you can't describe it.

You have to be there."

She has appeared in CJHS productions and in the Brandon Community Stage production "Little Abner."

Rehearsals for another Brandon musical, "The Roar of the Grease Paint, the Smell of the Crowd," are now underway.

Stacy plays a street urchin and is on stage during most of the production dancing and, doing what she likes best, singing.

"My voice is my main emphasis," she says. "Basically, I'd like to be Barbra Streisand, only with my own style. I don't want to be a copy."

Private voice and piano lessons and group ballet and jazz lessons are part of Stacy's busy schedule.

Last summer she attended Fred Waring's Choral Workshop in Pennsylvania for two weeks. This year, she plans to attend Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp for a month of musical theater training.

Stacy lives on Paramus Drive in Independence Township with her parents Therm and Judy and brothers, Jim, 12, and Andy, 5.

"They like it. They encourage me. They help me with whatever I need," Stacy says about her parents.

And although there are times she feels like a stage mother —

"People ask me what my address is. I give them my driver's license number," Judy says — she doesn't push Stacy, just supports her in her goals.

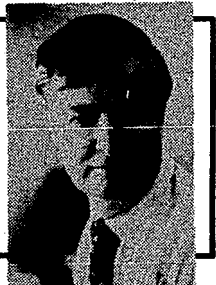

The Brandon Community Stage production is scheduled for June 8, 9, 10, 15 and 16 at Brandon Middle School, 209 Varsity Dr., Brandon Township.

Tickets will be on sale at the door for the 8 p.m. performances.

Speeder needs better excuse

by Jim Fitzgerald

In view of the energy shortage, plus the fact that all good little children are supposed to obey the law or pay the penalty, you might wonder why police don't enforce the 55 m.p.h. speed limit.

I can tell you why one Michigan state trooper didn't arrest anyone for speeding around noon one day last February. He was too busy chauffeuring Helen Milliken, wife of the governor of Michigan. They were going 80 m.p.h.

Unfortunately for the Milliken image, the state-owned Buick roared by a car driven by Jim Brown, former state legislator, former candidate for Congress and now publisher of the Ingham County News. He increased his speed and clocked the Milliken car for at least 10 miles.

"The governor's wife nearly blew my doors off on I-96 last week," Brown later wrote on his editorial page. He noted that Mrs. Milliken's car was followed tightly by a second state-owned limousine, also traveling 25 miles over the limit.

"I just don't know what Helen Milliken will do if President Carter gives us gas rationing," Brown wrote.

"I can't believe that 80 miles an hour is the most economical way to travel. And then I wonder if two state limos can travel as cheaply as one. And do we really need two state troopers to drive her and protect her?"

Brown's criticism was answered by Ruth Kennedy, who is Mrs. Milliken's secretary. Mrs. Kennedy didn't deny her boss was going 80 m.p.h., but she explained in a letter to the editor:

"On the day you observed the state trooper and Mrs. Milliken passing you, she was on her way to attend the annual Heart of Gold luncheon where she would participate in the presentation of awards to people who are being recognized for outstanding service to the community. Unfortunately, she was unavoidably delayed in starting, but did not want to inconvenience the people attending the luncheon by arriving late . . ."

Mrs. Kennedy further denied that the car following Mrs. Milliken's car was also state-owned. Brown continues to insist it was. And he wondered if being late for a luncheon justifies breaking the speed limit by 25 m.p.h.

"I can't believe that the state police are going to accept that argument from a motorist doing 80 in a 55 mile zone," Brown wrote. "A better response from Mrs. Milliken would be that, yes, I was going too fast, yes, I ought to know better than to permit my state trooper driver to handle my state car like that, and yes, we should have been issued a ticket like everybody else, and yes, here's $50 for your favorite charity to make up for the fine I didn't get.

"That would be a super response and people could understand that. I'm just not sure they will understand that being late to a tea party is a good enough reason to fly 80 miles an hour past the poor slob doing the legal 55, some of whom are probably also late but don't have a state trooper at the wheel."

Jim Brown speaks plainly. And, lest you suspect partisan politics, it should be noted that Brown is a Republican, the same as Milliken. In fact, his grandfather was once a Republican lieutenant governor of Michigan. Jim Brown has lived most of his life near the state Capitol and should be able to recognize a state-owned car by its license plate, even when it goes by at 80 m.p.h.

It's probably silly to get vitriolic about someone breaking the 55 m.p.h. law. Obviously, almost everyone does it, even state troopers. And Michigan's chicken legislators refuse to assess penalty points which could ground those few people arrested for violating the 55 limit.

But once in a while there comes a day when enough is enough, and a loud curse can't be suppressed. I learned about the Mrs. Milliken-Brown freeway meeting on the same day I learned that some Detroit police officers, through their association, have been operating a bar illegally in the association's building. The chief of police had to know about it, for God sake.

It's pure crud when the law is broken by those people most concerned with enforcing and respecting it. I spent many years trying to explain such outrageous hypocrisy as crooked lawmakers to my children. Now I can try to explain it to my grandchildren.

I am sick to death of trying to explain. Open your window and you may hear me cursing.

EDC for all of Springfield ?

By Mimi Mayer

The entire Township of Springfield may be designated an economic development district.

The decision to consider organizing an economic development corporation (EDC) was made with the unanimous approval of the Springfield Township Board at its May 2 meeting.

If three or more people petition the board with a request to name the township as an EDC district, a public meeting will be held in early June to probe public reaction to the proposal.

As of Monday, Harry T. Kirk Jr., 10387 Big Lake, was the only person to have requested the hearing.

If public approval of the EDC is given, the township board will appoint a corporate board of

'This is a method of competing with nearby communities and it gives us some control over the development of our community.'

Supervisor Collin W. Walls

directors which reviews specific economic or industrial projects proposed for the community.

These developments are funded by bonds sold by the corporation and all projects are subject to the final approval of the township board.

"This is a method of competing with nearby communities and it gives us some control over the development of our community," Township Supervisor Collin W. Walls said. "I don't foresee Springfield Township becoming an industrial and commercial area."

Interest in the EDC has been expressed by a handful of township residents and real estate sales persons or developers who live outside Springfield Township, but no specific projects have been recently proposed, Walls said.

Walls has hopes of attracting small, light industrial plants to the township using the financial advantages of the EDC as bait for developers.

"With it, you get better control of what goes in. If you have a piece of property that's zoned light industrial, you're pretty well locked into letting anything which meets the zoning qualifications in."

"If you have an economic development corporation, then you have another opportunity to review the type of business that's coming in," Walls explained.

Determined to preserve Springfield's rural and residential character, Walls said he'd like to keep the "larger, wholesale facilities" out of the township.

"In reference to size, I'm not too keen about having another General Motors plant out here," he commented.

Praising its cleanliness and attractive appearance, Walls pointed out Sys-T-Mation Inc., 10301 Enterprize Drive, as a model for the developments he'd like to attract to Springfield.

With two new industrial parks on the drawing boards, the township will have a specific area in which to direct commercial or industrial businesses.

There will be 27 sites available in the Holly Greens Industrial Park, located on the west side of Dixie Highway south of East Holly Road.

A. L. Valentine, who owns the Oxford Mining Co., 9820 Andersonville, is planning a second industrial park which will contain 48 sites in its first phase of development.

But ultimately the amount of commerce or industry which grows in Springfield as a result of the EDC will depend on the ballot box, Walls said.

"That depends entirely on who they elect to office. It might change. It might totally change. You can't have that assurance based on the EDC," he said.

New car deal for township

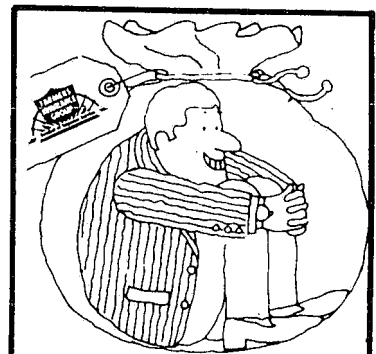

A new police car will join the Independence Township Police Services in four or five weeks, according to Charles Kimbel, director.

The dark blue Dodge has been piggy-backed to an order placed by Warren City Police.

The procedure saved $1,215 compared to the cost if the police car had been ordered directly from a dealer, Kimbel said.

Pine Knob is to pay for the car as part of the music theater traffic patrol contract.

The township board approved the $6,171 purchase at last week's meeting.

Assessor changes jobs

After four months on the job, Springfield Township Assessor Marge Mallett has resigned.

Mallett has taken a position as assistant to Independence Township Assessor David Sherrill.

Employed in the Springfield township assessing and building departments for four years, Mallett was promoted to assessor on Feb. 1.

Her official resignation date is June 1. However, she will be on vacation for two weeks before that date.

Until a new assessor is found, Township Supervisor Collin W. Walls will handle the assessor's duties.

Springfield donates money for Youth Assistance

A yet-unplanned summer recreation program for troubled youth received a financial boost from the Springfield Township Board.

Approximately $300 of the $1,000 set aside in the 1979-80 township budget for Holly Youth Assistance was allocated by the board members at the May 2 meeting.

However, the board requested that a youth assistance representative bring a formal proposal for the program to the June 6 meeting.

Because details of the program are sketchy, Trustee Glenn Underwood voted against the funding measure.

"I don't think we have enough information to set aside the money," he said. The other four board members supported the spending.

Designed to help young people, the summer program will meet on two nights a week and possibly on weekends, Supervisor Collin W. Walls said.

"Their primary concern in the high school or junior high kid who is or has been a problem," he commented.

Frank Dennis of Youth Assistance later said the program is still in the planning stages but its primary focus will be serving Springfield Township teens.

Gas station victim of armed robbery

Between $400 and $500 was stolen from the Clarkston Total gas station Sunday evening, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

"The attendant told us the car pulled into the lot by the pump," said Deputy Gordon Walker. "The passenger pointed an automatic weapon at him and told him to give him all the money in his pocket. He did, and they took off north on M-15."

The two male suspects were driving a black, 1979 two-door Pontiac, Walker said.

The attendant of the gas station, located at 148 N. Main, Clarkston, said the men were in their mid to late 20s, Walker said.

The robbery occurred at about 8:15 p.m.

No license number was obtained and no arrests have been made, he said.

New homes bloom in Springfield; Walls watches gardenspot grow

By Mimi Mayer

The first thing you notice are the woods. As your eye travels across the landscape, you glimpse light playing off the lakes nestled in rolling terrain.

Once settled in the community, the friendliness of your neighbors and the warmth of the community become evident.

Yet your police protection comes in the form of two Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies scheduled a total of 80 hours per week.

The fire department? It's staffed by volunteers. There's no public water or sewers and gravel roads are slick in the winter and jolting in the summer.

But since the early 70s, a steady flow of builders and residents have been drawn to Springfield Township.

In April, building permits with an estimated completed-construction value topping $1,350,000 were filed at township hall. While the $1-million figure has been exceeded before, never have the majority of those permits been for single-family houses.

Over 450 homesites ranging from half-acre to 1.5-acre lots are planned in nine subdivisions. About 100 of those lots are buildable now.

Although the development is scattered throughout the township, the lion's share of homes are being built in the area that lies north and east of I-75 within the Clarkston Community School District.

Why are people flocking to Springfield Township? It's because the atmosphere is rural and there's few payments for government services, Supervisor Collin W. Walls said.

"They come here for a way of life, not a location. They come here to be countrified, and they want it to stay that way. It's a great place to live," he commented.

Along with the rural atmosphere comes a fairly relaxed attitude towards public services on the part of residents and township officials alike.

"Many of the people who came here came because of the scenic areas. They didn't move out to the sticks to have blacktop roads," he commented.

"They don't want sewers. They don't want water. They're satisfied with the police protection. There's a few more comments about the volunteer fire department. But that's the feedback."

However, a handful of the newer residents, moving from the crowded suburbs clustered around Detroit, have found themselves missing those amenities they left. And it appears they'll continue to long for the services.

"We are not considering our own police department. We are not considering a full-time fire department and we'll get sewers over my dead body. It's the quickest way I know of to eat up the rural atmosphere," Walls stated.

Working to maintain the open character of the township are the board and the planning commission.

One method of doing this is through the Springfield master plan. Updated over the past 20 months by the commission, finishing touches on the plan were added at their Tuesday night meeting.

Walls predicted the master plan will "reflect the larger lot sizes — I mean very probably we will no longer allow smaller than one-half acre lots. The vast majority of the township will be one-acre, two-acre parcels. And those are minimums."

By using similar planning tactics, Walls hopes to keep fairly tight reins on township development.

As much as Walls would like to see Springfield Township regain its past as a sleepy farming community, he realizes that the next two decades may change the township's appearance.

"What I hope is realistic is you can't stop the growth completely, that you can work with it and, 20 years from now, the township won't look entirely different.

"I hope that many of the homes are built on small acreage parcels and that way, you don't have to worry. If it's done properly, you save as much of the natural amenities as possible."

Not only do spacious lots preserve nature, they promote neighborliness, Walls said.

"People get along better if they're spread out," he continued. "There's more of a strong identity with people. If you had to put it in a word, I think the best word would be 'pride' — in their houses, in the area in general.

"It doesn't seem to make a difference whether they're here six months or 60 years. They're proud to be here."

Community clean-up set in Springfield Township

A spring clean-up on a massive scale will take place in Springfield Township this Saturday.

Aided by local boy and girl scout troops, the Davisburg Jaycees will cruise down township roads picking up trash as they go.

Other interested volunteers can pick up trash bags and clean-up assignments at 8:30 a.m. Saturday at the Springfield Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg.

As in years past, the Springfield Township Board has allocated funds to pay for the food and fuel used by volunteers. L.E. Marlowe and Sons landfill, Rose Township, will be open all day for free dumping by volunteers.

To help homeowners spruce up their properties, free trash bags are on hand at the township hall. Those unable to dispose of larger throwaways can arrange for volunteers to cart away their trash by contacting the township hall at 625-4802.

Preschool opens

Openings for 3- and 4-year-olds exist in the Crosshill Community Preschool's mini-session which began Monday and will continue through June 22.

The session is from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the Davisburg United Methodist Church, 803 Broadway. For further information, call 625-5632 or 634-8918.

Thinclads return with five awards

First-place medals and a trophy were won by five Clarkston High School track team members Saturday at the Lake Orion Invitational meet.

First place for the two mile run was achieved by Gordon Sanders with a time of 9:33.5 minutes.

A team trophy and individual medals were also won by four runners in the heavy relay race.

The race involved carrying a metal shot while running, said Coach Errol Solley.

Winners in the event were Jussi Rantanen, Nick Lekas, Paul Brown and Scott Eriksson.

The track team also won one meet and lost one last week, making its league record 2 wins, 1 loss for the season.

The meet against Rochester on Monday was a resounding victory for the Wolves with a score of 94-38.

Eriksson took firsts in the shot and discus competitions, Mark Foons came in first in the 120 high hurdles and the 330 low hurdles, Greg Ryeson won in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, and Sanders in the one and two mile races.

Other Clarkston track members with firsts were Steve Wyckoff, high jump, and Ron Thompson, pole vault.

Clarkston's team of Mike Ulasich, Greg Wilson, Steve Neff and Ryeson won the 880 relay, and the mile relay was won by Scott Ferguson, Dave Tworek, Gentry Ellis and Ulasich.

The loss Thursday was 87-45 in favor of West Bloomfield.

Sanders took two firsts in the meet in the one and two mile races.

Firsts were also won by Eriksson in discus throw, Steve Lyons in long jump, Wyckoff in high jump and Foons in 120 high hurdles.

Steve Morris is one of several pole vaulters who competed in the Lake Orion Invitational track meet Saturday.

The obstacles behind him, Steve Lyons pushes to improve his time in a high hurdles race.

Greg Robertson's hit in the May 2 game against Milford clinched the victory for the varsity baseball team 5-4. Their luck turned Saturday when they lost 6-2 to Royal Oak Dondero and 13-0 to Royal Oak Kimball.

Six-win streak not quite enough for softball team

Second-place honors and six consecutive victories were won by the Clarkston High School girls' varsity softball team in the annual Pontiac Parks and Recreation Tournament last weekend.

A softball marathon situation was created by the Wolves when they lost an 8-4 opening match to Rochester Adams Saturday.

The girls then defeated Rochester 7-4 and Royal Oak St. Mary's 27-1 to end Saturday's competition.

Sunday, the team played a rigorous five-game schedule, opening the play with wins over Farmington Harrison, 9-4, Pontiac Catholic 9-3, Rochester Adams 8-5 and Troy Athens 13-7.

Running out of gas in the last inning of the fifth game, the Wolves lost to Troy Athens 10-9 and settled for second place in the tournament.

"Clarkston played more games and won more games than any of the 11 teams in the tournament," coach Kathy Mahrle said. "It would be impossible to pick a most valuable player as everyone contributed and was responsible for the brilliant achievement."

Mahrle added that the performance proved that the Wolves deserve their third-place ranking in the county.

In other action, Clarkston defeated Milford 9-5 in a May 2 match. All other scheduled games were canceled due to bad weather.

CHS tennis: Singles play strong

By Michelle Marzahl

Clarkston High School's boys' varsity tennis coach Linc Smith lists concentration, consistency and stamina as the three ingredients his team needs to have a successful season.

One improvement over last year's team is stronger singles play with more experienced players.

"Our singles are very strong and quite comparable," said Smith.

Holding the No. 1 singles spot is senior Greg Hall. He played at third and fourth singles last season before advancing to the top this year.

"He played a lot during the off season. His game improved tremendously," said Smith.

Filling the other three singles positions, in order of rank, are Roger Craig, junior; Jeff Haase, senior; and Clark Maxam, junior.

In doubles play, Matt Ballough, senior, and Steve Rollman, junior, make up the No. 1 team. This is Rollman's first year on the team yet he has

"very nice strokes and plays a good game," said Smith.

Senior Seth Scott and Scott Saltmarsh, junior transfer from Kentucky, make up another new team at second doubles.

"I expect a lot from the second doubles team. They can do nothing but improve," said Smith.

At third doubles, Smith alternates the teams of juniors Tom Beattie and Bill Cattin and senior Mark Kassuba and junior Tom Braheau.

Singles play has been stronger than doubles action so far this season.

"We have to get more points out of our doubles teams," said Smith. "They have to work as a team well and be more aggressive. If that happens they certainly will produce for us."

Smith, in his third year of coaching tennis, isn't sure how the Wolves will fare in the Greater Oakland Activities League but said, "Andover is the team to beat."

The team's success Friday with a 7-0 win against Waterford Kettering was dampened with a loss Monday to Blomfield Hills Andover 7-0.

"They played well though," Smith said about the Andover loss. "In the league (Andover) is the toughest."

Smith was also pleased with the performance of second flight doubles Jeff Haase and Greg Hall who won their division in a doubles tournament Saturday in Lake Orion.

Wildflowers, frogs focus of Oaks walk

The change of seasons will be celebrated with two outings at Independence Oaks County Park this month.

A search for spring woodland wildflowers will begin at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the park. The two-hour program will explore the delicate wildflowers to be found along the many trails of the park.

At 8 p.m. May 18, Independence Oaks will feature an in-depth look at one of the area's more vocal inhabitants—the frog. There will be slides and a field tour during the two-hour program.

Kathleen Dougherty, Oakland County parks naturalist, will host both programs at the park on Sashabaw Road.

Both programs are free, but normal park entry fees will be charged. Registrations are required and can be made by calling 858-0906.

Friends hail B.J. Hanson

A variety of expressions crossed B. J. Hanson's face Friday night as he sat beside his wife Mary Ellen and listened to friends honor him with teasing anecdotes and serious compliments during a banquet celebrating his induction into the Michigan Coaches' Hall of Fame. At left, Hanson awaits the punchline of a tale told by Paul Tungate, CHS athletic director and former students of Hanson's in Middleville, where he began his coaching career 27 years ago.

Conversing informally before the speech-making begins are Hanson and Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk, who was toastmaster for the event at which 11 persons told anecdotes about Hanson's career and their relationships with him.

Among the more than 150 persons at the Spring Lake Country Club banquet, Dottie Allen applauds enthusiastically. The CHS secretary organized the Hanson event.

Suds annual Mill Pond problem

By Kathy Greenfield

Clark Lynn remembers the way Clarkston's Mill Pond looked 31 years ago when he moved to his home on Holcomb Road. "It was beautiful. You could almost drink the water," he said. "We had nice pond here. People used to enjoy them."

Clark Lynn looks with dismay at sudsy foam mixed with greasy-looking slime that gathered on the upper Mill Pond on Friday.

When he sees slimy foam along the shores of the upper Mill Pond, north of Miller Road, he becomes angry at the deterioration.

"It's a damn shame," he said. "I wouldn't eat a fish out of here for anything. Now I'd be afraid to have kids swim in it."

Lynn has been fighting the pollution problem for about 10 years, he said, "and all we get is the run around."

Because sudsy foam is visible on the pond two days a week, Lynn believes someone is pumping wash water into the pond.

"I've tried to catch it," he said.

He has also made many phone calls and he and other concerned residents have spurred investigations by Independence Township, the Oakland County Environmental Health Division and other governmental agencies, he said.

Attempts have been made to check every house along the stream leading into the Mill Pond, said building department director Timothy Palulian.

The house checks were voluntary. Several people refused inspections that cannot be forced unless there is good cause to believe violations are present and a search warrant is obtained, he said.

Palulian also took part in several water sample tests when he served as township zoning enforcement officer.

Although detergent contamination was measurable in 1975 and once in 1977, recent water samples have shown the water to be free of soap, he said.

Water and sewer department director George Anderson has also answered numerous calls from Lynn.

"Mr. Lynn has never called this township where he hasn't gotten a response," Anderson said. "He will never call the township and not get a response."

Anderson said checks on the water are made each time Lynn calls, and lately they have all come back showing excellent water quality.

"If it was warm, I'd go swimming in there today to prove it to you," he said.

The suds are caused by natural tannins from the leaves and are stirred up under certain conditions, Anderson said.

"We've done everything we know how to do," he said. "We can't confirm his contention that it's soap suds. You know you can carry this thing to extremes."

"We don't know what else we can do to put his fears at rest," he added. "Believe me, if I could find somebody who was dumping a cup of Tide in that pond, I would throw them in jail for 500 years just to make Mr. Lynn happy."

The entire problem doesn't rest with soap suds, however.

Lynn said he has noticed problems in the pond since the township land along the stream was developed into a subdivision.

He places the blame for the pollution on "people that just don't care."

Sudsing on the Mill Pond could be caused by any number of problems, according to Dorothy Dumontier, sanitarian for the Oakland County Environmental Health Division.

The subdivision built along the stream in the Bluegrass and Northview road areas could not have been built today with septic fields because of the water table, she said.

"The only answer I can see is sewerage the area," she said.

"These people are always going to have water problems," she added, "because they fertilize (lawns) heavily, they have a lot of trees throughout the area that will add more nutrients to the water (from rotting leaves) and the Clinton River will run nutrients into the Mill Pond."

If residents become concerned enough to change lawn care habits and report their neighbors' faulty septic systems and wash water drainage into the stream and pond to the authorities, then improvements could be made, she said.

"They'll just have to organize themselves and shoulder the problems themselves," she said, because it is impossible for governmental agencies to constantly watch the area.

Historical talk draws SRO crowd

If numbers are any indication, interest in preserving Clarkston's past is intense.

Approximately 27 Clarkston residents and four village council members crammed the Monday night Clarkston Planning Commission meeting to hear a presentation by historic architectural designer Betty-lee

Francis and four architecture students.

Chairmen of the four groups which authenticated the age of 21 Clarkston homes — Mark Michon of Detroit, Neil Schoof of Southfield, Tony Doemer of Detroit and Bob Berard of Union Lake — gave the lectures.

Using slides which contrasted old and new photographs of the homes, the students explained the dating process, making frequent reference to building materials and architectural styles featured in the residences.

The information garnered by the group will be turned over to the Michigan History Division in Clarkston's application for state recognition as a historic preservation district.

Homes included in the survey stand on Holcomb, Miller, Wompole, Waldon and Clarkston-Orion roads and Washington and Church streets. The research will determine the parameters of the preservation district.

Begun in early April, the dating work was carried out by 25 students enrolled in a Lawrence Institute of Technology course taught by Francis.

Planning Commission Chairman Ted Thomson pointed out that the historic designation will be a "valid tool" for the village to use in its fight against the proposed widening of M-15.

Protecting the historic preservation district will be a local ordinance presently being written by planning commissioners Dean Smith and Stever Himburg.

"It could restrict somebody who has fairly modern ideas" on exterior home design, Thomson told the audience.

The planning commission plans to hammer out the wording of the ordinance during upcoming meetings.

Varying opinions on Headlee

Separate rollbacks for different millages complicate issue

increase of 7.7 percent allowed by Headlee and reducing the tax rate accordingly, Brennan said.

The problem with trying to determine what the tax rate will be is that different formulas are presented in the two bills in the House and Senate, he said.

Oakland County assessments have increased by 14.24 percent and Independence Township assessments by about 12 percent.

Those percentages, however, could be decreased if the assessments for new property are subtracted from totals — one proposed bill allows for the subtraction, the other does not, Brennan said.

In addition, the rollback on all millages will be determined separately, depending on the average percentage increase of property valuations for each district.

Thus, the school district rollback will be different from the township, the county and the village.

Clarkston Schools Supt. Milford Mason has protested to both State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac) and Rep. Claude Trim (D-Davisburg) what he identifies as the "double dip" in school district coffers.

The lower the tax rate on local property, the lower state aid is to the district, Mason noted.

While the State Department of Education has sent him a formula to use in calculating the impact of Headlee on school district resources, no final determination on revenue can be made until a state aid bill is passed.

Meanwhile, his calculations on a rollback for local tax rate await specific figures state-equalized valuation in the district.

In setting the township budget, a rollback figure was not included, said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

"I did argue through the budget meeting that we should hold some (cash) reserves," Tower said.

In any event, he believes the matter will be settled in court and a rollback would not affect the township until next year, he said.

"I expect there will be some reduction, but to what extent I don't have the foggiest idea," said David Sherrill, township assessing department director.

The Headlee situation is complex and involved, Sherrill said, and it has left him with two agencies giving different directions.

"I've got (Oakland County) Equalization telling me, 'You have to raise your assessments to 50 percent of market value,' and then I've got Headlee saying, 'The taxes will be reduced,'" Sherrill said.

Although he agrees with the intent to control the increase in taxes, Sherrill said he is not sure Headlee was a good idea.

"Maybe it should have been written differently and approached differently," he said. "I'd like to see it go into effect and work. I'm not sure it's going to."

"(Taxpayers) are already perturbed at the slow rate (of implementing tax controls)," he said, adding that voters may become angry enough to vote tax reductions.

"A Lot of people think the purpose of Headlee was to reduce taxes," said township clerk Christopher Rose. "It's not, it's to slow the growth of taxes."

Rose's opinion is that the rollback will not affect township tax rates.

"The board in setting our budget decided to levy 1.30 mills," Rose said. "The latest word I have is that the millage rollback is going to be from the maximum authorized rate which for the township is 1.41 mills."

"Last year we levied 1.33 and I believe under this rollback we would be able to levy 1.38," he said.

Ring around Rose

The romance of Linda McDonald and Norm Hunt draws the wild ire of Rose.

Janet Rose's nurse keeps Pete in line.

Judy Tower arrives on the scene after being summoned by Rose to break up one of the romances which blossoms during the course of the play.

All of the action in the Clarkston Village Players' upcoming production revolves around Pete Rose, who plays "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and stayed and stayed and stayed.

The cast members filling the other 23 roles in the play are pretty much at the beck and call of the indomitable house guest.

Rose, as a touring celebrity whose invitation to dinner becomes a lease on the living room and most of the rest of the home of his hosts when he breaks his hip, is on stage throughout the production.

The play featuring the unshakable Sheridan Whiteside was created by Moss Hart and George Kaufman 40 years ago.

A vile-tempered idol of the air waves, Whiteside controls the household as he dishes out insults and demands and invites a parade of his cronies to visit him.

The play requires an unusually large cast for the Clarkston Village Players, and it has given many newcomers to the group a chance for Depot stage debuts.

Making their first appearances with the Clarkston Village Players are Mary Lee Noyes, Linda McDonald, Judy Tower, John Mathews, Norm Hunt, Bruce Dudley and Jon Holzer.

Others in the cast are Cook, Marlene Sewick, Dotson, Nancy Frady, Bill Richards, Sally Inman, Beach, Al Bartlett, Janet and Mike Kaul.

Several have more than one role.

Directed by Cheryl with assistance from the play is being produced by Denny Colwell.

Tickets for the play, which begins a two-weekend run, are $3.00 at Tierra Arts Designs, 20 S. Main, Clarkston, or by calling 625-5711-625-1826.

Performances begin at 8 p.m. except Sunday, when curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

A benefit performance May 17 is being hosted by Clarkston Youth Assistance. Benefit tickets are $5 and are available at Tierra Arts or by calling 625-3441.

Bruce Dudley and Mary Corr confide their romantic woes to Rose and get the benefit of his glib advice.

Encouraging the fifth graders to talk over possible good and bad results of smoking were Tom Beattie [left] and Robin Carey.

Students teach smoking's a drag

By Kathy Greenfield

"Why, oh why, did I ever smoke?" laments Drag-goon. "I hack, I gasp, I faint, I choke."

"It should be plain for you to see that smoking leads to misery," says Drag-knight. "Next time somebody offers you a smoke, have the strength to say, 'I don't smoke'."

—From "The Huffless, Puff-less Dragon." Produced by the American Cancer Society.

Drag-goon and Drag-knight hold starring roles in a cartoon illustrating the negative aspects of smoking.

They are part of a presentation for Clarkston Schools' fifth graders by 18 high school students, members of Students Against Smoking.

The message the students present to the youngsters is clear: Don't start smoking.

The approach includes a discussion about good and bad aspects of smoking and a demonstration showing the "brown stuff" that ends up on smokers' lungs.

At a presentation last week at Bailey Lake Elementary, the fifth graders showed sophistication about the world of smokers.

They listened some "good" things about smoking — it's "cool," calms nerves, lets the person be one of the gang, and parents smoke.

The "bad" things included cancer, shortness of breath, bad for heart, bad breath, cough, yellow teeth, food doesn't taste good, clogs sinuses, expensive and eyes water.

As each "good" aspect of smoking was discussed, it was crossed out. There are other ways to be popular (sports, good grades), other ways to calm nerves (take a deep breath) and parents who have a hard time quitting are also endangering their health.

Clarkston High School Principal Dom Mauti and counselors Bill Bonnell and Vic Hart direct the program.

Training started for the high school students last November at Birmingham Groves High School where they were taught the program developed by the Birmingham students.

The idea of the program is to show the fifth graders some of the bad sides of smoking "and to let them know that not everybody in high school smokes, although they may think that's what's going on," Mauti said.

"We're not going to work any miracles," he added, "but, just let them know."

Salute to youth

Clarkston Youth Assistance salutes the following Clarkston High School students for their participation in Students Against Smoking:

Seniors Kim Barber, Lynn Johnston, Colette Fortin, Scott Turnbull, Mark Thompson, Leslie Wirpsa and Elizabeth Rekawek.

Juniors Tom Beattie, Jim Blumenschein, Amy Bixbie, Robbin Carey, Bill Cattin, Ken Clayton, Wendy Priebe and Jerry Rowland.

Norman Torrey had two bad things to add to the smoking list: "You have bad breath," and "It's expensive."

Dana Wilton explained one way cigarette smoking could be "cool" for some people. "If they want to be in a higher-up level, or whatever they feel, then they smoke," she said.

Doing Business

Village Book Store opens

Readers with an eye for a good book can now make their purchases in Clarkston.

The Village Book Store, 26 S. Main, opened Thursday with "a lot of area interest," said manager Nancy Bennett.

The business is owned by John Woch, who currently operates the Bookworm, Royal Oak. A now-defunct Bookworm located on Highland Road near Williams Lake Road, Waterford Township, was also owned by Woch.

In hardbound and paperback editions, the store carries fiction, children's books, cook books, reference works, do-it-yourself guides and books on sports and antiques.

Gift books, those large, lavishly illustrated volumes designed for coffee tables, are also available.

"We can do special orders, title searches for books that are out of print and just get the books you want," Nancy said.

Several books are now on sale and on the racks, she added.

There are no plans to open a newsstand in the store.

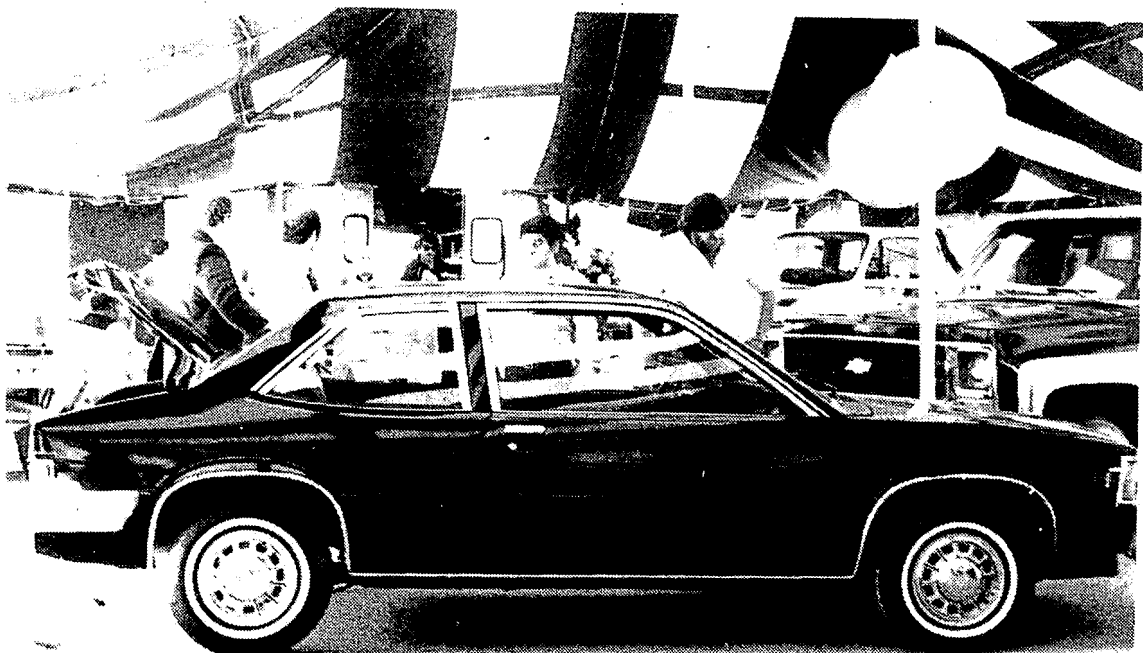

Nancy was working at the Bookworm in Waterford Township when her husband Bob, who owns Hallman's Apothecary, told her the Clarkston store space had been vacated.

"Then the opening came in here and I said, 'Wow, that looks good.' That's how we tied it all together," Nancy said.

Assisting Nancy will be Sherri Diehm of Waterford.

Paperback and hardbound fiction and nonfiction are available at the Village Book Store, said manager Nancy Bennett.

The Citation, touted as the first Chevy of the 80s, is in the center ring under the big top which has been drawing crowds to Rademacher Chevrolet at the south end of M-15.

WELCOME

"Moving from city water in Pontiac to Clarkston well water with 17 grains hardness was quite a change. Four weeks of rusty sinks, tubs and foul-smelling water convinced us we needed some water treatment system. We have been very pleased with our Aqua-Mag system. We no longer have rust rings in our sinks, our water has much better flavor, and our skin feels softer and no longer feels itchy after bathing. We have appreciated having our water tested before and after installation of our system. And the installation of the system was very prompt and efficient. We're pleased!"

Although the scouts were on hand Saturday to plant pine trees at Camp Oweki, Gulick Road, Independence Township, the good deed was a great excuse to play in the sunshine, skip stones on the lake and munch a lunch with pals. But for many of the approximately 50 scouts, the highlight of the day was when straw was discovered in the bottom of this wagon. Spring madness became a hay-fight melee.

by David McNeven, Coach

One of the things that makes sports car racing as popular as it is, is the danger that is involved. If we are honest with ourselves, we will usually admit that we kind of hope for a crash even though we do not really want to see anyone get hurt. At the 1973 Indianapolis 500, some drivers were killed or seriously injured. Drivers and authorities alike decided it was time to slow things down and so instituted regulations that would slow the cars down. Now new technology has made these racing cars as fast as they ever were even with safety standards.

You can look here, there, everywhere, but when you're ready to buy sporting goods the best people to see are ours at COACH'S CORNER, 10 S. Main, 625-8457. We carry a full line of baseball equipment including bats, and Adidas and Wilson shoes. We also have a full line of tennis clothing and equipment. If you're looking for a last minute gift for Mother's Day, see our fine selection of tennis rackets, tennis shoes, warm-up suits, shorts and shirts. Hours: 9:30am-6pm daily, until 5pm Sat. Have a Happy Mother's Day.

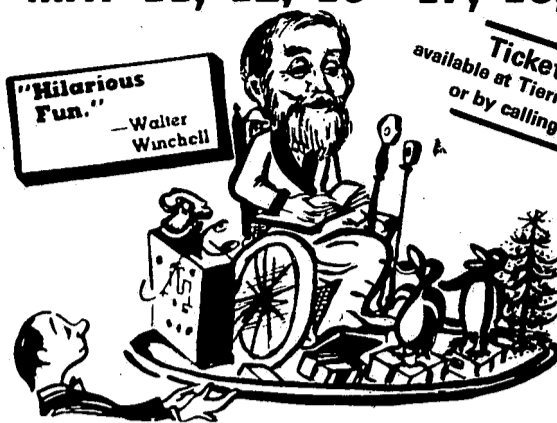

SPORTS TIP:

Safety should always be a prime consideration in any sport.

Robesons like being homebodies

Usually, just a few words from Scott bring smiles to Chris's face.

Loraine takes special pride in a lush spider plant that hangs between the kitchen and family room.

Scott Robeson embraces what he calls the "My Three Sons" philosophy of home and family.

Although he and his wife Loraine have only one son so far—Chris, age 3 months—the atmosphere of the television series is the idea.

"My dad started out in a company in Detroit and worked his way up to the top," Scott said, "but he was always home every night and I could depend on him.

"What does stick out in my mind is that if you needed him and had a problem, you could find him somewhere around the house.

"I hope some day (Chris) will be able to say the same thing," he said.

The Robesons have lived on Parview Drive in Independence Township nearly two years.

Their comfortable home plays an important part in their lives—it's a place they like to be.

"I drive an awful lot in my job and because of that I like to be home," Scott said. "I just enjoy doing things around the house.

"If I had a choice between going out on the town and staying home, I'd stay home," he said.

"We really are homebodies in the true sense of the word," Loraine said.

Married for nearly seven years, the Robesons waited to have a child until they felt the time was right.

They met in Florida where

Scott was working after having graduated from Northwood Institute in Midland.

"Loraine worked at a bank at that time," he said, "and I walked in to make a deposit."

"He was introduced as a new account and a real eligible young bachelor," she laughed. "And I snatched him."

They had a whirlwind courtship and were married about four months later.

"We weren't really too sure when we first got married if we even wanted children," Scott said, adding that he wanted enough money to raise a child in the same style he was raised.

"We wanted to be able to have a baby and take care of him," Loraine said.

"And to be able to adequately support him," Scott added, "plus time to get to know each other."

Because of Chris's birth, Loraine recently quit her job as a legal secretary and office manager.

"I had done my thing as a secretary for quite a while," she said. "Now I'm a wife and mother."

They are pleased with their new son.

"I wouldn't trade him for anything," Scott said.

Their plans for little Chris involve letting him decide what he wants to become.

It would be nice if he wanted to attend college, Scott said, adding, "My God, I hope he doesn't want to go into medicine."

Scott was born and raised in Birmingham. He talks fondly about his years at Seaholm High School, but is adamant about not wanting to live in his old home town.

"I think in Birmingham too many people judge other people on material things," he said. "That's something neither Loraine nor I believe in." "We've never been ones to do anything to impress people," she said.

Scott is now a sales representative for Bausch and Lomb of Rochester, N.Y. He works for the Soflens Division selling contact lenses.

Loraine, Scott and baby Chris find home a comfortable place to be.

More Country Living

He reacts to an expected job transfer within 12 months with mixed feelings.

"I want to move, of course, because it helps your career out," he said, "and yet I've been born and raised and spent most of my life in Michigan."

Because her father was in the Air Force, Loraine moved a lot when she was growing up.

"I just think (moving) gives you a broader outlook on life," she said, adding that if she stayed in one place it would be Independence Township.

Her "easy going" personality is partially because of learning to make adjustments to different homes, she said.

"I can get along with practically anyone and I love life," she said. "I roll with the punches and it takes something pretty horrible to upset me."

On the other hand, Scott describes himself as "very impatient."

"I like to have things done now," he said, "and if it takes until 10 or 11 o'clock at night, I get it done. I think that you've got to work toward perfection."

He illustrates his "doer" personality with his recent campaign to slow traffic on their street that resulted in stop signs and speed limit signs.

"It took the people on Waterford Hill seven years to get anything done on Parview Drive and it took me three months," he said. "That's the kind of person I am."

Yet their different personalities have meshed to make a good marriage.

"We're two very separate individuals in some ways," Loraine said, "yet it all works out."

Peeking into the past

10 YEARS AGO

Kindergarten students from the Andersonville School annual spring train ride, from Pontiac to Holly, found themselves ahead of schedule. The anticipated ride found the children in place, only a day early. But a little rescheduling found the children waiting once more for the train to roll in the following day.

The speed limit has been reduced on M-15 from 65 miles per hour to 55 m.p.h. south of Allen Road to north of Grange Hall Road.

Girl's State has accepted two of four applications for Clarkston girls. Sponsored by Campbell-Richmond Auxiliary Unit 63 were Janice Hall and Mollie Lynch.

The ultimate in steam cleaning is only a phone call away!

Note this bottom-side view of the Rug Doctor Vibra Brush method carpet cleaner in action.

- A. Hot water and cleaning solution jets into the carpet.
- B. Vibra Brush (like electric tooth brush) agitates carpet back and forth 3,400 times each minute. This breaks soil loose and polishes each carpet fiber to a clean, brilliant finish. This type of brush does not distort pile.
- C. Powerful suction extracts hot water and loosened soil back up to waste tank.

We are the only cleaner in the area that has the VIBRA-VAC METHOD.

Real Estate HAPPENINGS

by Bob & Marvel White

How one family feels about a home may be very different from the way another family reacts. For some, a home is simply a place to hang your hat, while for others, it is the center of all living. The importance placed on housing in the family will play a big part in the choices they make. For example, they may consider the following questions: Is space important? Efficiency? Easy maintenance? How much importance does the family place on how a house looks from the outside? Will the family be entertaining often?

For sound advice as to the best approach to balance your real estate needs with your financial resources, come to BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 Main St., your area broker since 1947. In addition to the experienced advice you will receive, you will be dealing with an office that knows the community and has the staff and experience to seek out and find the property to meet your needs. At BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE we begin thinking about your future today. Open 9a.m.-9p.m., til 6 Fri. & Sat., 11-5 Sun. Tel. 625-5821.

Colette's CHS

by Colette Fortin

The security problems at the high school dances seem to have vanished from sight.

Up until the beginning of this school year, organizations holding social functions were required to pay for police services.

This fee, along with the ever-rising costs of performing bands, was overwhelming the organizations.

There became little or no chance to make profits for groups such as cheerleaders, student government or the three classes.

After receiving a large bill by the police department for observing the 1978 homecoming dance, the student government protested. We argued that their duties were unnecessary.

It is true that the disruption at dances is generally kept at a minimum.

Should any problems concerning student behavior arise, there are at least four adult/teacher chaperones at each function.

So far, since last November, no policemen have been employed by groups for the purpose of guarding these activities. No unusual or obvious problems have occurred either.

As a result, more dances were sponsored by groups who earned more money.

One example of a risky, yet prosperous project was that of the April 27 toga dance.

An explanation is in order for those who don't know what a toga dance is and why it was somewhat "risky." Those attending were highly encouraged to wear a toga, which is the garb worn by the early Greeks and Romans. Now, popularized by the hit movie "Animal House," togas are seen on college campuses and parties.

The gamble undertaken by the student government when putting on this activity was whether or not the police services rules would be reinstated.

This was a concern because of the revealing wardrobe and the over-all rowdiness associated with the toga.

This outfit was created by wrapping a common bedsheet around the body. The Grecian look was carried over through the wearing of laurel wreaths,

Olympic medallions and sandals.

Also, let it be noted that the attire did have to pass the chaperones' inspections. However, no one was turned away for overexposure.

This dance was described by the senior class participants as the best dance they've been to in their three years of high school.

The reason for this good response wasn't the decorations, the cafeteria setting or the D.J.'s routine record collection. After being at the dance myself and talking to others who went, it was decided that the craziness of wearing sheets had made it pleasurable.

Despite its rowdy connections with "Animal House," the dance was kept under control, as had all others this past year. Even under these disruptive conditions of the bizarre costume, no damage or violence had occurred.

This all goes to prove that there are students at CHS who go out for zany, good, clean fun, rather than the stereotyped reckless high school activities.

Debra A. Reese and Donald A. Russell were married in an afternoon ceremony at St. Daniel's Catholic Church, Clarkston, March 10.

Rev. Charles Cushing performed the service. Large bouquets of white chrysanthemums, carnations and Scotch lavender decorated the church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augie J. Reese of Independence Township, is a graduate of Harper College, Schaumburg, Ill.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Russell of Tampa, Fla., attended Oakland Community College and is currently employed by Jay Electric Co. as a salesman.

Given into marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white velvet with Alencon lace, embroidered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls, carrying an arrangement of white stephanotis and white orchids.

Jodie Reese served as her sister's maid of honor, wearing a dress of blue Qiana with lace inserts.

Other attendants, in similar apparel, were Audrey Schmidt of Schamburg, Ill. and Kay Blough of Rockford, Ill.

Best man was Allan A. Russell, cousin of the groom, while ushers were Pat Humphreys and Rolf Becker.

The reception, a sit-down dinner, took place at the Clarkston Cafe.

The newlywed couple, residing in Waterford, spent two weeks in Florida on their wedding trip.

Coping with kids

"I get so angry with them I could scream."

"I don't know what is wrong with me because I get so mad and annoyed with my children for almost no reason."

"Sometimes when the children are making me so mad I feel like strangling them, I just go in the bathroom and scream or cry."

"When no one else is in the house, I stand over the kitchen sink and just cry because I'm always so angry at my children and it isn't normal."

These statements did not come from one mother. They are the statements and reactions of several women and represent the feelings of thousands of mothers to the demands of mothering.

Most of them think they are in the minority and are hopelessly abnormal.

Many, if not most, mothers carry around a tremendous burden of guilt because of the anger and hostility they feel toward their children.

Not all of the time. Just more often than they find comfortable.

They all feel that "good mothers" are in control of themselves and behave rationally and firmly with their children.

Such mothers, they believe, do not have overwhelming feelings of anger and certainly do not actually feel at times like they could kill or do some bodily harm to one of their offspring.

Also, "good mothers" have time to play imaginative and clever games and play time always leads to mutual good and warm feelings. These mothers also always say the right thing in most emergency situations.

Two reasons for this state of affairs may be that most of us grow up with certain assumptions even though they are never actually stated or perhaps even thought out.

They are that: (1) There is only one right way to do things and (2) Life is simple and always controllable.

Whether we want to or not, we all tend to grow up believing in these or some closely aligned assumption about life, marriage and our family.

When we find out that we are doing things differently in our family or with our children, we become very uncomfortable and guilty.

When our children present less than simple problems, we become angry and our feeling that there is only one right way to do things (like, be a good mother without ever getting angry or terribly upset with the children) interferes.

Recognizing that these assumptions exist in many people in our culture is a useful first step toward handling the n successfully.

Deputy Phil Lichok (left) donned a rain coat and cap plus a padded arm protector to illustrate the police dog's attacking skills. The dog's special collar allowed him to respond to attack commands of Deputy Ed Stout, canine handler for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. The demonstration was part of career education for Jill Burns' fourth graders at Andersonville Elementary last week. The pupils took a tour of the Oakland County Jail in the morning and were joined by their fellow fourth graders in the playground for a look at services offered by the sheriff's department that afternoon.

The children's reactions to the dog demonstration were mixed from nervous laughter to more serious concentration.

Deputy Stout's son Mark joined his dad to pet the police dog after the attack demonstration. The dog lives at his home and is used to the attention of children, Stout said.

Sgt. Chuck Williams spent some time with his goddaughter Chris Pennell showing her how the radar unit works. Williams is in charge of the Springfield and Brandon township substations.

One popular curiosity is the sheriff's department helicopter. Although they were cautioned not to touch, the pupils looked with interest at all parts of the aircraft including the tail section.

Martha White, who now lives on South Main Street in Clarkston, gets smiles from son George in this 32-year-old photo.

To Martha White

By George White

My mother, Martha White, possesses many fine qualities that would group her with others who are loving and caring mothers.

As a homemaker she maintained an atmosphere that was very pleasant to grow up in. She has tremendous flexibility which allows her to shift priorities to meet the needs of her family.

My brother and I never lacked for her attention. She allowed me to cut her apron strings easily, as I spent many weekends and most summers away from home. She provided much encouragement for her sons to venture down new avenues.

The trait which stands out most in my mind is one of always being willing to help neighbors and friends as well as her family.

Being raised in a rural setting and following the example set by her mother, she learned to involve herself in assisting others. I am very proud of my mother, now known as grandma by my two boys.

Messages of Love

As our "something special" for Mother's Day, we at The Clarkston News offered the use of our pages for kids and grown-ups to share greetings and thoughts about their mothers.

We asked each writer, picked more-or-less at random, also to share a favorite photograph of his or her mother from the family album.

The messages are coming as surprises to the moms — especially so, her fellow staffers hope, in the case of News reporter Kathy Greenfield, who made many of the arrangements to honor other mothers in this special section.

Joyce Craig and Kelly in 1967 when Kelly was eight months old. Kelly has two brothers.

To Joyce Craig

My Mother

My mother is something wonderful!
She's always there when I need her. Loving, sharing everything anyone ever needed.

Sometimes she's like an automobile without any gas, but she keeps on moving.

And I think she's something very special!

Happy Mother's Day, Mom!

Love,
Kelly

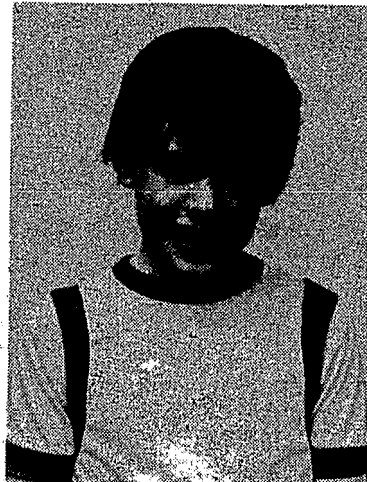

Kelly Craig

Eric McCarty had trouble sneaking a photo of his mom out of the family album, so we assisted him by taking one of her while she was starting her new motorcycle in the lot beside The Clarkston News office Monday.

To Le-Lane McCarty

Eric McCarty

By Eric McCarty

My mother, Le-Lane McCarty, is a fundamental person. She works at the Village Total Gas Station on Main and Clarkston, she pumps gas, does paper work and runs simple errands to Pontiac or Ortonville.

She goes hiking and does a lot of outdoor exercise.

But in all that time, she's the Greatest Mom. But almost all kids think the same about their Mother.

Happy Mother's Day.

Mary Muscat and one of three sons, Jim.

To Mary Muscat

Our mom is a very special person in our lives. She is not only a great mom, she's a great friend.

She does all the things that most mothers do, cooking meals, cleaning the house, doing the shopping, and not to forget—the chauffering around. This alone, is more than a fulltime job.

But our mom makes room for special friendships with us. She's never too busy to bend a sympathetic ear to listen to our problems. She's also, never too busy to give attention and praise to our achievements.

Being the two girls out of a family of five, we've had the advantage of a close sister to sister relationship. Our mom has been a large factor in keeping that relationship strong.

She always stressed respect for each other and enforced care and understanding. Consequently, we're very close and can honestly say that each of us is the others best friend.

Mom, we wanted this opportunity to thank you for all the love and concern. You're really special to us!

Love,
Kathy and Teri Muscat

MY MOM
By Marty Johnston

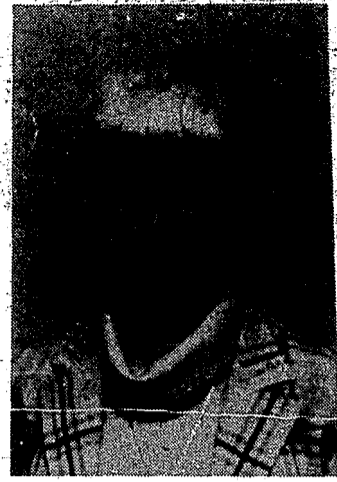

To Eva Masters

She always has a smile
It has become her style whether working at her church or in her home.

A helping hand she lends
for her family or her friends,
Her love for life to us
she's often shown.

A widow of 10 years,
She has known many fears,
But her faith in God has always kept her strong.

I thank the Lord above for her never-ending love and am pleased that to our family she belongs.

Marty Johnston

Eva Masters of South Main Street, Clarkston, with one of her nine great-grandchildren, Casey Quinn.

POSITIVE THINKING AT 81

When I think of my mother, Eva Masters, I think of her happy disposition, positive attitude and willingness to try new experiences. For all who know her she is an inspiration.

At 81 years old, she is still willing to babysit with her grandchildren, play baseball with them, work on dinners and projects at her church and assist in her senior citizens group whenever needed.

She loves to cook and bake, often taking cookies or a pie to shut-ins. And all of this because she enjoys it.

She has mothered five children (two of whom have preceded her in death), been a grandmother to 17 and a great-grandmother to 9.

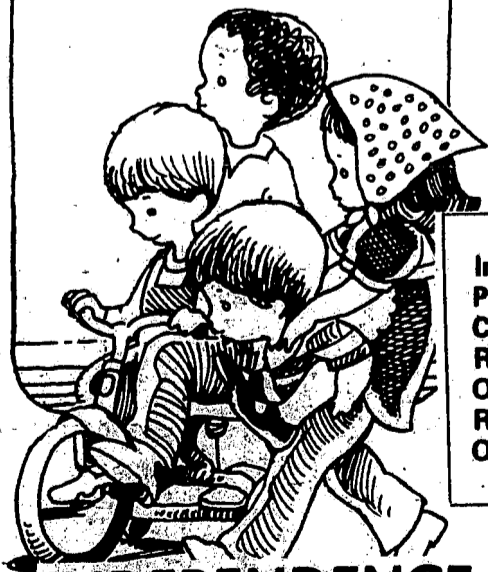

In the 10 years she has been a widow, she has relied on her faith in God to give her strength.

She possesses a special resilience and does not give in to selfishness and self-pity.

She often says, "life goes on." I truly believe that her life will go on for many years, because her positive attitude and concern for others is healthy and a plus in HER life and in the lives of those who know her. Her love flows out to us all.

Don't Forget Mom

She never forgets you! We've a fantastic selection of extra special gifts - everything she likes from her favorite bath powder and cologne to perfumes, jewelry, stationery and Russell Stoffer Candies. To Elizabeth Ronk

By Frank Ronk

I would like to thank my mom:
For being both Mom and Dad to me and doing a super job in every way you could.

For working seven days a week for as many years as it took to get me headed in what you felt was the right direction.

For being the type of person you are so that if I patterned my goals in life after the example you lived and set, I should have little problem in my future endeavors.

For showing me as I grew up just how important it is to be a part of the family you belong to and to be responsible for my own family commitments.

For the many things that you deprived yourself of so that I might have a special toy, bike, musical instrument, ball glove, clothes or whatever other items that you provided me with even though your needs were many.

For the way you have loved and cared for me and also in the recent years loved and cared for my wife and children.

It is my hope and prayer that what we are taught and believe in during our lives really does come true in your reward in Heaven for being the special mom that you have been to me all through my life.

The wealth of happiness I have had from being your son could never be replaced by anything else.

I would like to say to you just a real big thank-you for what you have done for me and my family and thanks for being my mom.

Love,
Your son Tink

Our mother and grandmother is a sweet and thoughtful person.

She cares for people as if they were her own. She will do anything for any of her family or friends.

She has five children, 16 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

She is a very active person making ceramics for her families for Christmas and birthdays, etc., taking trips which she deserves and enjoys.

Our families would not trade this beautiful person for anything in the world.

To Kathy Greenfield

By Corey Greenfield

The reason my mom is special is she is different from all the mothers in the world.

After she gets home from work she spends time with me, my brother and my dad. She almost always takes me places and helps me solve problems.

Thank you for all your help, Mom!

Love,
Corey
