Different drum

Warming up before performing in the Clarkston park band shell with other members of the Clarkston Junior High band, Doug Shiete finds he can improvise as easily on tree trunks as drum heads. Doug was one of the young musicians whom Band Day was all about Saturday.

Rate up, taxes same

Clarkston property owners will pay roughly the same amount on their 1979-80 tax bills as they did last year, despite a 2.3 mill drop in village tax rates.

"I can't tell you for each person because I don't know the valuation. The average taxpayer will be paying the same thing he paid last year, within a few dollars, unless his (individual) valuation went way up," said Village Treasurer Artemus Pappas.

The millage levied for the general fund will be 2.7 mills compared to 3 mills levied in 1978, bringing $24,524 into the general fund coffers this year.

Cut by 20 percent, the sewer tax rate will drop from 10 to 8 mills, generating $69,475 for the sewer bond redemption fund.

The tax formula was adopted when the Clarkston Village Council approved the general and special fund budgets for the 1979-80 fiscal year at their May 14 meeting.

The action brought to a close more than two months of careful figuring by Pappas, Village President Fontie ApMadoc, and Trustee Gary Symons and Michael Thayer, both of whom serve on the council's finance committee.

Although the council traditionally presents its budget in April, difficulty in interpreting the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment, passed by voters in the November election, caused a delay.

Also complicating the issue was a 19.41 percent rise in the state assessed value of Clarkston properties.

The leap brought the value of 1 mill levied in the village to $9,083 as compared to $7,609.50 in 1978.

June hearing on M-15 plan

By Kathy Greenfield

Five lanes may be a foregone conclusion, but a public hearing is scheduled June 12 on the M-15 road widening between Dixie Highway and Paramus Drive.

"The purpose of the meeting, I think, is just to clear the air on what the department is planning to do," said Jack Morgan, manager of the public involvement section of the Michigan State Department of Transportation.

"I would not anticipate any changes based on this meeting," Morgan said. "This is a needed project to solve an accident problem."

Morgan is to attend the public meeting with representatives of Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston, and state highway department representatives Mark Schrag, historical co-ordinator, and Ken Robertson, engineer in the traffic and safety division.

Area residents expressed concerns about the proposed road widening at a public hearing May 8 on the $350,000 M-15 drain project that would include the road work.

One issue at the meeting was lack of proper notice for a public hearing on the road widening.

The highway department solicited requests for a public hearing on the road widening in December 1977.

Notices were published in the Oxford Leader, Oakland Press and Northwest Oakland County Herald Advertiser, Morgan said.

Members of the public did not respond with a public hearing request, so none was held.

Morgan said he first discovered the lack of notices in more local papers about six weeks ago when a resident asked when and where the notices were published.

"It was a mistake and I can come up with no logical explanation," Morgan said.

"Why I did it, I don't know. I guess I'll accept the blame," he said. "It was just a dumb mistake."

Asked to respond to charges made by residents that the highway department frequently avoids public hearings by not localizing notices, Morgan said anyone is welcome to go through the files of thousands of public hearing notices to try and establish a pattern.

"If I was going to try to con them, I guess I would have put it in the Upper Peninsula papers," he said.

In any event, the real worry, as he understands it, is the potential widening of M-15 through downtown Clarkston, Morgan said.

"There is just no such proposal," he said.

"It would be impossible to do it in secret," he added, because the village's main street is a historic district.

"That's all I can do is come up there and assure them," he said. "I would like to clear the air the best I can now."

John Williams represented the state highway department at the May 8 meeting.

When contacted by The Clarkston News last week, Williams also had worked on answers to questions raised at that meeting.

Some residents expressed concern over an increase in traffic caused by five lanes.

If traffic stays the same, there should be no problems, he said, and no substantial increases are predicted.

As far as placing a signal where the road is to decrease from five lanes to two, it would not work, he said.

"If signals are put in where they are not warranted, you'd have more accidents," he said, adding that rear-enders would be more common.

Arguments that people expect more problems getting out of driveways are best left unsaid, he added.

"That is, in effect, the type of problems brought to us to ask us to put in more lanes," Williams said.

The informational meeting is scheduled June 12 at 7:30 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Elementary principals to rotate

All six Clarkston grade school heads are on the move

All of Clarkston School District's six elementary principals are swapping schools this summer.

The principals were told of the districtwide rotation last week by School Supt. Milford Mason.

The building administrators greeted the announcement "with some measure of surprise," Mason said, adding, "There was quite a bit of discussion."

Rotation of principals, which Mason said is done "quite often" in other school systems, has never been done here on a districtwide basis.

"There have been principals switched in the past, but not all at the same time," Mason said.

Maintaining there is "nothing punitive" in the moves, Mason commented that this is a year of relative calm at the elementary schools.

"I saw this as a good time because there weren't any problems of any nature, none involving internal forces," he said.

"I feel a change can bring about challenges that are desirous professionally," the superintendent said. "Through change, we're forced to develop new perspectives, which become a strong motivating force."

"I feel these factors are important because education is in a new age of accountability, and as educators we have got to be prepared to meet that."

The changes, which are effective July 1, are:

•Lynn Jervis, from North Sashabaw to Andersonville.

•Doris Mousseau, from Andersonville to Bailey Lake.

•Cecilia Wiar, from Pine Knob to Clarkston.

•Ruth Purslow, from South Sashabaw to Pine Knob.

•John Reabe, from Bailey Lake to North Sashabaw.

•Jack Hayden, from Clarkston to South Sashabaw.

Principals contacted by The Clarkston News commented on their surprise and mixed feelings about the moves.

Purslow, who has the longest tenure as a principal in the district, said, "I'm looking forward to the change. I think you always hate to leave a building you're familiar with, and I've really enjoyed working in this building with the parents and the children."

She has been at South Sashabaw for seven years, having been Clarkston Elementary School principal for 22 years before that.

Hayden, principal at Clarkston Elementary School for seven years, said, "As with all humans, I'll adapt. It shouldn't affect anything really."

"It will be a matter of plugging into the school system and learning the families and staff."

"I think all of us would rather stay where we are—change is never fun. But at the same time, it will probably be good for us to get our batteries recharged, so to speak."

Reabe, principal of Bailey Lake since the school opened 15 years ago, has been at one building longer than any other Clarkston principal.

"I guess I've been too busy with other things in this building to really have time to think about (the move)," Reabe said this week.

March time

Clarkston High School Marching Band drum major Claude Gourand sweeps his arms upward, instructing the marchers to turn from East Church onto Main Street. A parade featuring the CHS Color Guard and bands from Clarkston High, Sashabaw and Clarkston Junior Highs and Andersonville, Bailey Lake and Clarkston Elementary Schools was a highlight of Band Day.

Memorial Day observances set

Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63 of the American Legion invites all area residents to join in honoring veterans who gave their lives and those who gave service to their country.

Clarkston's annual Memorial Day parade is to begin at the corner of Church and Buffalo streets at 10 a.m. May 29.

The parade will proceed down Church to Main Street, west to Holcomb Road and end at the veterans' plot in Lakeview Cemetery.

A service will follow at the cemetery that will include patriotic songs, a roll call of deceased veterans, a memorial address by the Rev. Phillip Somers Sr. and placing of the wreath by Ronald Jones, commander of Post 63 and Whitey Tower, township supervisor.

All veterans in the community are asked to participate in the parade with formation at 9:30 a.m.

Jones asks that no horses, antique autos, bikes, pets or floats enter the parade because of its solemn purpose.

At Andersonville

The annual Memorial Day services of Andersonville Cemetery Association will be Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Andersonville Cemetery.

In case of rain, services will be held at the Andersonville Community Church, 10350 Andersonville Rd., Davisburg.

Deer Lake fees up

Swimmers, boaters and fishing buffs who use Deer Lake Beach face higher fees this year.

An across-the-board increase of Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department activity fees of at least 25 percent raised charges for individual beach keys and boat passes up to $3 each.

This year, family beach passes cost $12 for residents.

A resident is considered anyone who lives within the boundaries of the township, pays taxes to the township, or is a full-time employee of the township, the Village of Clarkston or Clarkston Community School.

Boat keys start at $12 for non-motor boats and range up to $28 for boats over 100 h.p.

Combination boat and beach keys range from $16 to $32 depending on the size of the boat's motor.

Also available are keys for fishing craft, one day permits for fishing that cost $2 or $3 and bank fishing keys for $3.

Scuba diving passes are $12.

Senior citizens age 60 or over who are registered members of the township senior citizen club (a $3 fee) may purchase beach passes for $1, bank fishing or non-motorboat keys for $1, gate keys for motorboats 16 h.p. and under for $2 and $5 for boats above 16 h.p.

Last year, family beach passes were $9 and boat keys started at $9.

The beach passes and keys are on sale at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The office is closed Memorial Day.

For more information, call the parks and recreation department at 625-8223.

Police advisory board vexed

By Pat Braunagel

Independence Township is not getting its money's worth for police protection.

Nor has the township board made efficient use of the police advisory board it impaneled nearly a year ago.

These two views were expressed by the six disgruntled advisory board members who met Monday night to appraise recent township board action on police services--the cutting of one deputy from the township's contract with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and the subsidizing of the local department from the township's general fund to allow two local patrolmen to keep their jobs.

The $260,000 township police budget adopted two weeks ago includes the instatement of two Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) employees as township-paid patrolmen in Independence Township Police Services.

The advisory board's recommended budget was $251,904 for five deputies and a pared township police department with clearly defined duties.

"Our objection is that you're getting less protection, less professionalism for more money," advisory board member Dan Daniel told Township Supervisor Whitey Tower, who entered the discussion midway through the two-and-a-half-hour meeting.

"We had to keep the two local men after we cut one deputy," Tower said.

"Personally," said advisory board member Charles

Whitlock, "I would like to see us have our department--but we don't want to create something here that's rinky-dink."

The six men noted they were given the task of making recommendations within the framework of limited police funds. The township is not financially able to support its own department at this time, they said.

William Vandermark, a member of both boards, said the four township board members who voted for the budget indicated they wanted a local department.

"Not only do they want it, but they want it no matter what it costs," he said.

"I'm thoroughly disgusted," Daniel said. "Not because they didn't go along with our report, but because they didn't even discuss it."

The advisory board members read a letter from Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter, who dissented on the budget vote with Vandermark and Clerk Christopher Rose.

"I would like to offer you a sincere apology for what, in retrospect, appears to be a total waste of your time and effort based on the township board's total disregard for your findings," Ritter wrote.

Streets get priority in Clarkston

By Mimi Mayer

Improvement of the village streets and the annual mortgage payment of the village hall have received the largest allocations in the 1979-80 Clarkston general fund budget.

At its May 14 meeting, the Clarkston Village Council gave unanimous approval of the budget which includes a projected $112,993 in general fund spending this fiscal year.

Anticipated revenues totaling $77,021 plus a $46,281 balance from last year's budget give the village a total of $123,302 on which to operate in 1979-80.

The majority of the $16,700 set aside for street improvements was allocated for the proposed Depot-Holcomb-White Lake roads intersection improvement plan.

Although the project was last estimated to cost approximately $46,000, it received $11,000 in the budget.

Additional monies have been promised by the Oakland County Road Commission and Marc Alan, developer of the Clarkston Mills shopping mall who originally proposed the plan.

The remainder of the street improvement allocations includes $3,300 for spot asphalt repairs on village roads. The $3,400 balance will be eventually turned over to the department of public works equipment reserve fund, Village President Fontie ApMadoc said.

The second of six installments on the village hall mortgage will be paid in early 1980 with $13,316. An additional $10,309 is planned for the building reserve fund.

Other large budgetary items included $10,525 for general services, from which bank charges and legal and publication fees are paid, and $10,000 for police services contracted from Independence Township.

Among the notable expenditures on the budget is $6,000 for parking lot improvements. A plan to repave the village lot located at the northwest corner of the Main-Washington streets intersection upped the sum from $500 allocated last year.

Funds for the Clarkston Planning Commission were slashed from $6,000 last year to $500 for the present fiscal year. The commission's work on the Vilcan-Leman village master plan was paid for out of the $6,000.

The new category of water control received $500. The money will pay for the first phase of a water quality study program undertaken by the United States Geological Society.

"It's these big expenses that we're having trouble with right now, like the $11,000 for Depot Road," ApMadoc said.

"What's making it seem so tough on all of us and will be tough for the next two or three years is paying for the building. It really means we have to toe the mark," she added.

Letter to the editor

Parents given cold shoulder

To the editor:

Perhaps on the wing of the grand bond issue victory in our neighboring community of Brandon, some have high hopes of a much more modest school building plan being passed by the voters of Clarkston.

But Brandon carries a few differences. There was total involvement of parents with administration to achieve this.

Parents are given the cold shoulder in Clarkston, especially if they question any part of the system.

Perhaps we're due for a philosophy change first.

One administrator said to a board member at a board meeting that even if he had the facilities, he would not offer a more varied curriculum.

Perhaps the self esteem and motivation of the student should take precedence over the punishment syndrome.

And perhaps efforts should be made to motivate teachers and teach them motivational techniques for students.

Maybe we should see Mr. Potvin's survey taken in the spring about community educational priorities and how the administration plans to respond to this before we cast our vote.

Police board simmers

by Pat Braunagel

So now Independence Township has another advisory committee that's spent so much time on the back burner it's beginning to stew.

The township's police advisory committee members were so discouraged Monday night they weren't sure they wanted to "waste more time" at another meeting to discuss how discouraged they were.

But they gathered anyway to review the township board's recent actions concerning police protection in the community. They wondered aloud why the elected board had cut one sheriff's deputy from its contract with the county and bolstered the local police department with general fund money--in the face of their report which recommended keeping all five deputies then assigned to the township and trimming back the local department.

Although this concerned them, their main complaint was that their report had never been given any serious consideration.

Why had they bothered?

It was last summer that the citizens' advisory committee on the library quit en masse at such treatment.

It's one thing not to follow a committee's recommendation. The township board has the right--duty, even--to take official stands to pursue what it sees as the township's best interests. The elected board has a right to reject advice.

But why ask a committee to make an intensive study, devote hours of volunteer time, to come up with recommendations which are never fully discussed?

The advisory board's report was presented March 20 and was referred to from time to time during police budget talks, but it was never fully discussed or, we may assume, seriously considered by the majority of the board.

So now we have these six men who are intensely interested in the future of police protection in Independence Township, their interest having been intensified at the bidding of the township board. The six are also frustrated.

Why involve citizens in government anyway?

One could cynically say the committee was appointed to shut up Fred Ritter at a time when the county-versus-local-police issue was being hotly debated by the board.

Township Treasurer Ritter, who was then a trustee, suggested the formation of the advisory board a year ago to shed some calm investigative light on a heated controversy.

He was mollified for awhile, arguing only at various times that the township board should take no action on requests for additional funds for the local police until the citizens' report was in.

The four board members whose vote two weeks ago encourages the interdepartmental conflict over police jurisdiction in Independence Township had waited--until the citizens' report was in their hands but not in their heads.

Members of the advisory board Monday night talked about having no clout as advisors and discussed protesting simply as taxpayers.

They made plans to send a formal letter of complaint and they bemoaned the wasted work they had done.

At the end of the meeting, Dan Daniel commented, "Let it be known, here and now, that if there's ever another police advisory board, leave my name off the list."

Jim's jottings

'Non-profit' surplus

by Jim Sherman

Several years ago we decided to drop Blue Cross-Blue Shield as our company's health insurer.

In the midst of our checking out other insurers, we decided to ask some of our employees if they cared who insured them as long as it was a good, reputable company.

Goodness, gracious! We quickly learned BC-BS was ranked with motherhood, the flag and apple pie.

Believing happy employees are more important than the few bucks we'd save by changing companies, we dropped our plan to change.

As we read about Michigan Blue Cross - Blue Shield "piling up huge cash surpluses from subscriber and investment income" (as the Free Press said) we wonder about changing insurers again.

At least with another "profit" company we would expect surpluses. With the "non-profit" BC-BS we don't expect profits?

The point we were going to make when we started this column was... why is it a non-profit company has surpluses and reserves of money, while other companies have profits.

Now that we've asked that question... At the end of the first quarter of this year the Blues "cash reserves" stood at $317 million.

As someone once said, that's a lot of anything even if it's jelly beans.

It was also in the paper recently that the Blues board of directors have decided to risk some of our insurance premiums on Detroit's Greektown.

Perhaps it's reasonable for non-gamblers, money to be gambled, but we can't easily reach that conclusion.

We insurance buyers don't take the risk (gamble) of not having insurance, or not getting sick or injured.

However, the taker of our money does just the opposite.

Suppose Greektown is unable to pay off Blue Cross-Blue Shield? After all, not all investments turn out right.

In that case our non-profit insurance company has not only spent money they did not have to collect in our premiums, but they could increase our rates to cover the losses.

On the other hand, if Greektown pays off, will the Blues decrease our premiums?

Sure they will. And, taxes will be lowered. And, there really is a tooth fairy.

Boys, girls excell at woodworking

Feminism has hit the Clarkston High School woodworking department with considerable success.

An even split of four girls and four boys returned with prizes from the Michigan Industrial Arts Society's Industrial Arts Fair held April 5-7 in Milford.

Top prizes were awarded to sophomores Corey Lawson, 5075 Paula, and Belinda Palmiter, 6560 Cranberry Lake Road, both of Independence Township.

Corey's cherry contemporary dry sink won first place in the cabinet making category and one of eight grand prizes awarded in the show. Fashioned during six months of daily shop classes when Corey was a student at Sashabaw Junior High, the dry sink was given to Corey's mother, Mrs. Robert Lawson.

Belinda's cookie jar won a second-place prize. The ash and walnut cookie jar was designed by Belinda, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Palmiter.

Other CHS students who returned from the show with ribbons were: Shelley Purves, third place for an ash coffee table, Don Poupour, fifth place for a Western-styles table of sugar pine and Linda Baynes, fifth place for a pine shoe rack.

Honorable mentions were given for Debbie Waldon's cherry pedestal table, Jeff Moralis' modern cherry table and Kurt Kristopeck's walnut goblets.

Noting there are many CHS students with a knack for woodworking, instructor Darrell Marsh said he plans to continue entering student projects in future industrial fairs.

This contemporary dry sink won Clarkston High School sophomore Corey Lawson a first place in cabinet making and one of eight grand prizes in a regional industrial arts fair.

A second prize for a walnut and ash cookie jar beneath her belt, sophomore Belinda Palmiter is already at work on the pedestal for a table which she intends to enter in the 1980 Michigan Industrial Education Society's fair.

Advice to Ann Landers

by Jim Fitzgerald

Dear Ann Landers:

I saw you on TV the other night, when you told David Susskind you wouldn't mind getting married again, and you would prefer someone younger than your 60 years, maybe a man 50 to 55. That's my age range, and it occurred to me that you might appreciate some advice on how to find a young guy like me.

You probably think it's nervy of anyone to offer lovelorn advice to an old pro like you, Ann, but even Jack Nicklaus needs a putting lesson once in awhile. I wouldn't pretend to know enough to tell you how to handle most of the complex problems that come your way, such as how to hang toilet paper or how to tell a man his fly is unzipped. But I should know more than you do about a younger man's feelings when a 60-year old woman sends a drink over to his table.

I hope you don't misunderstand, Ann. I'm not one of your fair-weather readers who lost confidence in your ability when you got a divorce, or when your daughter got a divorce. A lot of people said: "How can she tell other people how to stay happily married when she can't even keep her own husband?" But I would only remind these unreasonable people that Jack Nicklaus once whiffed a putt. (Legend has it that this happened when Jack's caddie asked to see his American Express Card).

No, Ann, I'm not suggesting to find a younger husband without my advice. But, strictly by coincidence, I have lately been reading a lot about the growing phenomenon of older women preferring younger men. It seems possible that my research, coupled with my youth, might enable me to help you score faster than if you went hunting alone. As I always say, candy is dandy but shortcuts are quicker. (You may quote that philosophy if you want to).

First off, you should be assured that I entirely approve of older women establishing intimate relationships with younger men. Why not? Older men have been chasing younger women since Eve arrived second. The double standard is discriminatory. It's way past time for a civilized society to recognize there is nothing wrong with younger men being chased.

One of the books I read on the subject is "The Butterfly Secret" by Toni Tucci, a 59-year-old housewife. In a recent interview she said:

I believe that the older-woman, younger-man relationship is one that is made in heaven. The young girls are too busy pressing their own shirts, living their own lives. They don't have time to take care of a young man the way he needs it."

That's true, Ann. I can't tell you how many times I've gone to work wearing a wrinkled shirt, despite living in a home where the ironing board comes down as often as the Christmas tree goes up.

When I ask my younger wife why she doesn't press my shirts, she always says she's too busy living her life. It appears she won't have time to press my shirts until she is done living. And you can imagine how she'll botch up the creases in my sleeves once she is dead.

In Ms. magazine, writer Jan O'Reilly complained that older men need to dominate, but younger men "can go out to dinner with a woman without feeling they have lost their manhood if they don't pay."

That is also true, Ann. When I dine out with an older woman, usually in a romantic setting, it doesn't bother me a bit if she pays the check. What's more, I don't even care if the waiter hooks the tray on her side of the car.

So that's how to find a younger man. Look for a guy wearing a wrinkled shirt, Ann, and buy him dinner. If he doesn't get down on his hands and knees and look under the restaurant table for his lost manhood, chances are he's a younger man. The rest is up to you.

And don't be discouraged if the first few younger men you find aren't interested in marriage. There's lots of time. Remember, Ann, the older you get, the more younger men there will be to choose from. You can take comfort from that fact, just as I take comfort from knowing that no matter how old I get, I'll still be a younger man to you. (You can also quote that philosophy if you want to.)

For collision shop owners

By Mimi Mayer

A leasing arrangement may resolve a problem which has plagued the owners of a downtown Clarkston building.

Gerald Anderson and Joseph Noll, both of Independence Township, and Paul Stoppert of Waterford purchased the Jack W. Haupt Pontiac Sales and Service collision shop, 32 S. Main, Clarkston in late August, 1978.

At that time, Anderson announced that under the name of Gans IV, the partners planned to convert the bump shop into a shopping mall.

However, the Clarkston Zoning Ordinance specifies that new commercial businesses must provide a given number of parking spaces for their patrons. The number of required spaces is determined by the type of business and the parcel's zoning designation.

At present, Gans IV owns an L-shaped commercially designated parcel which fronts on Main Street and wraps around the building. Close to 10 parking spaces can be made in the rear portion of the lot which measures approximately 33 by 82 feet.

Until the partners know if they can expand their parking area, plans for renovating the building are at a standstill. And they can't get more parking until they get more land.

"We have no proposed mall,"

Stoppert said. "We don't have a final plan and we don't have a final plan because we don't know what land we'll use."

In March, a Gans IV representative approached the Clarkston Church of God south of the collision shop to buy additional land for parking.

"We did make an offer and it was refused. They would not tell us what they were willing to accept," Stoppert said.

However, Duane Hursfall agreed to sell Gans IV a 27-by-82-foot commercially-zoned parcel directly behind his real estate offices at 6 E. Church.

Negotiations were underway when Anderson requested a lot split for Hursfall's 27-by-82 foot land parcel at the April 26 Clarkston Village Council meeting.

The split would give Hursfall a 4-foot wide setback, 16 feet short of the 20-foot minimum specified in Clarkston's zoning ordinance, Clerk Bruce Rogers noted.

The question was deferred to attorney Thomas Gruich who reported at the April 9 council meeting that the lot split was illegal.

Under Michigan law, the village cannot create a nonconforming lot, Gruich said.

Council members tabled the lot split request and recommended that Anderson request a hearing on the matter from the Clarkston Zoning Board of Appeals, which can grant variances to the zoning ordinance.

In early May, however, the board refused a hearing.

"We made an appeal and they didn't even hold a hearing on it," Stoppert said. "They felt they were in the same position as the council. Just to consider it would be against the legal advice."

Anderson and Stoppert appeared once more before the council on May 14.

After listening to Dean Beier, the attorney who is representing Gans IV in the lot split matter, the council denied the lot split request, based on the village attorney's opinion.

They suggested that Anderson and Stoppert seek a lease on the land.

"Within 10 days we hope to have this thing resolved," Stoppert said Friday. "We are trying to arrange a lease that will be satisfying to all parties. We can't reveal anything further than that because it's negotiation."

The plans for the eventual development at the bump shop are remaining in limbo, he added.

"We've got to get the horse before the cart," Stoppert said. "If we can get 27 parking spaces, we'll do something like we talked about. If we only have 10 parking spaces, we might have a bump shop."

Engineering reviews cost more

Independence Township property developers will pay more for engineering reviews.

The township board approved rate increases proposed by Johnson and Anderson, Waterford Township, the township's engineering firm.

The board also decided to solicit bids from other engineering firms to compare rates.

"Actually, none of these charges are directed to us," said George Anderson, water and sewer department director.

"They're paid by the land developer."

"It's billed to us, but we bill the developer," added Clerk Christopher Rose.

Unpaid engineering charges now total about $6,000, but the amount is down from a one time high of $20,000 for past due bills, Rose said.

Charges for engineering fees have increased "two or three" times in the "last seven or eight months," Anderson said.

"You can sit back and say it's not costing the township anything, but it's costing the developer," said Trustee Rudy Lozano.

The new fees include $150 a day for construction review, and hourly rate of $45 for services of the department director and surveyor fees of $31 an hour.

Bills will also be increased by the monthly charge in the consumer price index as reported by the U.S. Government Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Using Solar Energy...

Come see how Detroit Edison is using the sun's energy to heat space and water in its experimental Jubilee Solar Home.

Visit the Jubilee Solar Home and see how Detroit Edison is experimenting with the sun's natural energy to help keep your future bright.

Fortunately, Detroit Edison customers have plenty of electric power available. Today, and many years into the future. It's a result of a lot of planning, development and investment and the fact that more than 84 percent of Detroit Edison's power is generated from coal, our nation's most abundant fuel. The balance is generated by other fossil fuels.

Looking far ahead, Detroit Edison is conducting research on other energy sources that may prove to be practical in our geographic area. While it may be some time before solar energy developments make possible economical applications for people's homes, the Jubilee Solar Home already will have begun to determine if the sun's energy may someday be a useful replacement for the oil and natural gas now used for heating so that these fuels may be saved for other uses where only they will do.

The Jubilee Solar Home looks like a traditional house. But if you walk around to the back you'll see the solar collectors on the roof. Heat from the sun is captured by the collectors, stored in the water, then distributed by air to heat the home. Solar-heated water also warms water for bathing, laundering and cleaning. Solar energy is expected to fulfill 20 to 30 percent of the space heating requirements and 80 to 90 percent of the water heating requirements.

On days when the sun doesn't shine or when more heat is needed, an energy-efficient heat pump moves the natural heat, always present in the outdoor air, inside the home. Electric elements provide additional heat as required. In warm weather, the heat pump reverses automatically for energy-efficient air conditioning.

The Jubilee Solar Home is exceptionally well insulated to keep heat inside in winter and to make air conditioning more efficient in summer. All doors and windows, and even the fireplace, are designed to be energy efficient.

When you visit the Jubilee Solar Home, be sure to examine some of the new ideas in electric appliances and lighting selected for energy efficiency, convenience and safety. And note the interior lighting and outdoor security lighting system, designed to use little electricity.

Detroit Edison's Jubilee Solar Home was built by Fred Greenspan Development Corporation in cooperation with the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan.

Keeping plenty of power in your hands.

Village to buy new equipment, repair streets

Gar Wilson can go on a spending spree with the blessings of the Clarkston Village Council.

A new front-wheel loader, asphaltting of a village parking lot and spot repairs of Clarkston's streets will be ordered by the village department of public works director in upcoming weeks.

Totalling $35,660, the expenditures were authorized by the council at its May 14 meeting, the same night the council approved the budget for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

Wilson will trade in a 1972 Ford tractor owned by the village and buy a new front-wheel loader from Munn Ford Tractor Inc., Fraser for $28,500. Munn Ford submitted the low bid for the loader.

The purchase will be financed by a seven-year bank loan with payments of $5,000 per year at 7 percent interest.

Wilson had reported at earlier council meetings that the loader will be used for asphalt work, tree trimming, snow removal, park maintenance and road repairs.

The low bid for spot repairs of the village streets and repaving of the parking lot located at the northwest corner of the Main-Washington streets intersection was accepted by the council.

Custom Paving Associates Inc. of Clarkston will complete the work for $7,160, paid for with $9,300 set aside for the projects in the budget.

Sluggers off base for GOAL title

By Mimi Mayer

The Clarkston High varsity girls softball team lost its bid for the Greater Oakland Activities League title May 14 with an 8-7 loss to Milford.

The contest was tied when a Milford hit in the bottom of the seventh inning won the game for the Redskins.

"That was disappointing," said Coach Kathy Mahrle. "But I'm pleased, very pleased with them. It's probably the best season I've ever had in coaching."

"I'm quite pleased because I know that our schedule has been quite trying. We had at least five games a week for the last three weeks. But they go out and do it our way," she added.

With five games played last week, Clarkston's season standing is 16-5. The Wolves took second in GOAL behind West Bloomfield with an 8-2 record.

The girls won both games of a May 16 double-header against Waterford Kettering.

Clarkston trounced Kettering 13-4, with two hits by Mindy Haas and Patti Johnson plus Michelle Dearborn's pitching contributing to the first-game victory.

Two-run triples were pounded in by Pam Blower and Jane Acton in the second game, which Clarkston won 15-11. Kelly Mason was the winning pitcher.

Birmingham Groves was destroyed by the Wolves 16-1 in a five-inning contest Thursday. Dearborn's pitching, Johnson's two hits and four runs batted in and Haas' triple led to the win.

The softball team wrapped up its league season with a 12-4 win over Bloomfield Andover Friday. Mason lodged two hits and three RBI's and again, Dearborn was the pitcher.

Although Mahrle confessed to early-season worries about the team's lack of experience, she noted the team meshed well and progressed beyond her hopes.

"They've done a lot better than I had expected them to do," she said. "They're young. They've made mistakes but they seem to have learned from their mistakes."

Mahrle added that the team is anticipating the district and state playoffs, where Clarkston, West Bloomfield and Waterford Township will battle for the district first, second and third place.

This Friday, Clarkston enters the state tournament with a predistrict game at Andover.

Trackmen second in league windup

Clarkston's Trackmen have had a very good year.

With league dual meets over for the season, the Clarkston High school boys' track team record is 4-1, giving them second place in the league behind undefeated West Bloomfield.

"It's the best team we've had in quite a few years," said coach Errol Solley. "We thought we had a shot at first place, but West Bloomfield turned out to be tougher than what we expected."

"They've probably got twice the number of people out that we do," he said.

Two thinclads placed in the top three positions at the regional meet Saturday in Grand Blanc against 20 other Oakland County teams.

Gordon Sanders took second for the two mile run with a time of 9:19 and Scott Eriksson placed third in the discus with a throw of 150 feet, 8 inches.

The two are to represent CHS at the state finals on June 2 at Flint Northwestern High School.

The trackmen have also broken several records in the past two weeks.

Sanders set a school record of 9:18 for the two mile run at the Livonia Stevenson Invitational May 12.

The time broke the old record at Livonia by 19 seconds and was 24 seconds faster than the present Oakland County time.

The sprint medley relay team of Gentry Ellis, Craig Giroux, Greg Ryeson and Mike Ulasich broke the school record with the time of 2:32.5 at the same meet.

The old relay record of 2:35.8 was set in 1959.

On May 15 competing against Andover, Eriksson broke another school record with a discus toss of 158 feet, 9 inches.

Coach Solley attributes much of the team's success to team spirit.

"This group has really been a group with a good attitude all along," he said. "They've worked hard and been cooperative, and these guys are right there on the side of the track cheering for their fellow runners."

"That's made a big difference," he added.

Girls' team breaks CHS relay record

True to Coach Gordon Richardson's prediction, the Clarkston High School girls' track relay team has broken another school record.

Karen Sneideratis, Kathy Fallis, Laura Acton and Gina Thomas performed the relay in 4 minutes, 23.5 seconds against Andover on May 15.

The team lost the meet, however, with a score of 88-45, placing its league record at no wins, five losses.

The girls also had a regional meet Friday against 20 other Oakland County high schools.

Acton took sixth place in the 200 meter dash at the meet.

"There were really good performances, but nothing that was exactly earth-shattering," Richardson said.

He expects the team to keep doing well at the Oakland County meet May 22 and dual meets against Pontiac Catholic May 30 and Lake Orion May 31.

"If things keep going the way they are, we'll have a few more newsworthy items," Richardson said.

The best golfer on the Clarkston High girls' golf team, Kim Raedeke broke the women's record at a Troy municipal course with a nine-hole score of 50. The team finished 10th out of 13 teams in the Davison Invitational May 14 and lost a match to Birmingham Seaholm May 15.

Sports

Loss closes net season

Despite close matches, the Clarkston High School boys' tennis team took heavy losses at the regional meet Friday and Saturday.

The meet marked the end of the CHS tennis season with a league record of four wins, six losses.

"I really hate to see the seniors leave—Greg Hall, Jeff Haase, Matt Ballough, Mark Kassuba and Tom Brancheau," said coach Linc Smith. "It's going to be very hard to replace them for next year."

He looks to performances by some junior players, however, to strengthen next year's team.

"Near the end of the year some of the juniors started playing well—Tom Beattie and Clark Maxam," he said.

Although there were some wins during the regional meet, none of the tennis teams members won first, so CHS will not be represented at the finals next week.

"Going into the regionals, we had two boys that were seeded," Smith said.

Roger Craig was placed second in second flight singles and he lost in the second round.

Jeff Haase was seeded third in third flight singles.

"He made it to the semi-finals and lost in a very, very close match," Smith said.

Other winners were Clark Maxam who won the first round match in fourth flight singles, and Seth Scott and Scott Saltmarsh who won the first round in second flight doubles.

"Everyone else that lost, lost in extremely close matches," Smith said.

Three baseball wins

With three wins and one loss last week, the Clarkston High School varsity baseball team's spirits are rising.

"We're starting to get a little pitching now and we're starting to get some hits," Coach Roy Warner said. "We're not totally down as a team and we figure we still have something to shoot for."

The Wolves massacred Milford 16-4 May 14. While Clarkston nabbed 18 hits, Scott Himes' pitching limited the Redskins to three hits.

A May 16 double-header against Waterford Kettering was a split contest. Warner praised Chuck Nicholai's pitching and Jeff Warden's two home runs, which contributed to Clarkston's 4-2 win in the first game.

But the Wolves lost the second contest when Kettering scored three runs in the seventh inning to defeat Clarkston 4-2.

The team wrapped up the week with a 6-5 win over Bloomfield Andover Friday. Steve Sanders pitched the entire game and, again Warden slammed in a homer.

The Wolves end-of-season Greater Oakland Activities League record is 5-5 and their overall standing is 5-10.

CJHS thinclads stand 5-2

The Clarkston Junior High School boys' track team has a 5-2 dual meet record going.

In the last meet against Rochester Van Hoosen, Tom Hecker broke the school record in the pole vault with a jump of 11 feet, 1 inch.

Brad Collins and Todd Thompson also place consistently.

In sprints, Mark Pettersen is the team's stand-out performer with many firsts to his credit.

John McInnis is a consistent winner in the two mile as is John Weiler in the mile.

Top hurdlers this year are Greg Roselli in the highs and Dave Wilder in the 330 lows.

The strongest long jumpers include Bruce Garland, Dave Ryeson and Fred Roeser.

Other team members are Todd Gavette, Todd Bridger, Greg Dunlap, Dave Hunter, Mike Vance, Randy Pebbles, Jeff Gilbert, Scott Coppersmith, Gary Andersen, Kirk Maquire, Chris Bisha and Scott Smith.

Remaining on the thinclads' schedule is one dual meet, the Oakland County meet and the league meet.

Township mileage refund up

Keeping in step with the Internal Revenue Service, Independence Township has increased mileage reimbursement to 17 cents a mile.

The raise from 15 cents a mile was approved for all full-time employees at last week's township board meeting.

"That's the rate the IRS uses--17 cents a mile," said Clerk Christopher Rose. "We've been at 15 cents for some years, that's why the mileage rate should go up."

Pine Knob pays cops more

Independence Township reserve police officers working at Pine Knob will have more change in their pockets this year.

The pay rate for traffic patrol at the music theater was increased to $12 an hour for the commander, $10 for officers and $8 for reserve patrolmen.

Director of township police services Charles Kimble serves as command officer, and the highest rate is to be paid only when he works.

Employees of police services, officers Thomas Cavalier and Dirk Fineley and office manager-secretary Beth Tower are certified police officers, who are to receive the $10 rate.

Four other members of the additional 12-person reserve unit receive the officer's rate and the others are paid the lowest rate.

Pine Knob is to pay $495.12 for each of the approximately 100 shows scheduled at the music theater this season.

The contract covers expenses of seven employees per show for 6.5 hours including a dispatcher paid at the union rate of $5.25 an hour.

Last year, the Pine Knob contract was $320 for each show.

The command officer was paid $10.25 an hour, officers $7.40 and reserves $5.25.

The township board approved the increases at last week's board meeting.

The raises are in effect for Pine Knob only.

For parades, school functions and other services the reserve unit handles, the charges will remain at last year's Pine Knob rates.

"I don't think it's a good idea to charge different rates for different projects," said Clerk Christopher Rose.

Rose voted against the rate increases and the four other board members present voted to approve the Pine Knob increases.

NOTICE

The next meeting of the Clarkston Village Council will be held on Tuesday, May 29, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston. This change is made because the regular meeting date would fall on Memorial Day.

Dog licenses and ordinance fines netted about $12,000 for Independence Township police services last year.

Although the money was listed as revenue for the police budget, accounting procedures required a transfer from the general fund after the fiscal year ended March 31, according to Clerk Christopher Rose.

The township board approved the $12,000 transfer at last week's board meeting.

There'll be more road salt

When winter weather comes around again, the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC) facility in Springfield Township should be prepared with three times the amount of road salt it has had on hand in the past.

An asphalt pad at the OCRC yard at Dixie Highway and Rattalee Lake Road is to be enlarged to increase its capacity from 1,300 to 4,000 tons.

The low bid of Lloyd C. Betts General Excavating of Holly, at $23,538, was accepted last week by the road commission, and construction of the additional pad is expected to be completed before October, when the road commission will begin to take delivery of new salt.

The work in Springfield Township and at other OCRC facilities is aimed at doubling the county's storage capacity for salt, road commission chairman Fred D. Houghten said.

"We're doing everything in our power to prevent recurrence of salt supply shortages in mid-winter, such as occurred in each of the past two winters when suppliers failed at critical times to replenish our stockpiles as agreed upon," Houghten said.

Storage pad expansion at the various facilities will increase salt storage capacity from the current 15,800 tons to 34,300 tons.

"Our annual use is 48,000 tons," Houghten said. "When salt is delivered to the pads, it will be covered with plastic sheeting a polyurethane foam."

"This covering provides an environmentally safe storage," he commented. "The pad and cover cost about one-seventh the price of shed storage."

No more long parking

It's the end of an era in downtown Clarkston.

Gar Wilson, director of the Department of Public Works, posted signs which transformed the entire village parking lot northwest of the Washington-Main streets intersection into two-hour parking.

Formerly, only the two rows directly north of West Washington were designated for two-hour parking.

Those who plan to remain in the business district for longer than two hours can park without threat of a ticket in the Village Hall and Clarkston Mills shopping mall lots, both on Depot Road.

Listen to the children . . .

On this page, once a month, work of elementary pupils from Clarkston School District is featured.

Korey and Jewel making their bags. By Jimmy Dunn, Mrs. Lindeman's Grade 5.

By Wendy Drake, Ms. Moreen's Grade 2

This month, Andersonville Elementary pupils chose to end the story written by children's author Elaine Murray of Independence Township.

Too Much to Carry

By Elaine Murray

For years and years Spiderville could be found in the southwest corner of Farmer Bennett's barn.

The spiders never thought it wouldn't be there.

In fact, the spiders never thought about it at all. Not until a big wind came by and blew the barn down.

"It's no longer safe here," said the mayor. "We will have to move the WHOLE town!"

All the spiders of Spiderville began making spiderweb bags. Big bags for the big spiders and little bags for the little spiders.

Then each spider put the things that he liked best in his bag to take to New Spiderville.

Jewel, a shiny black widow spider, and Korey, a big brown barn spider, had lived next door to each other all their lives. Now they were packing to move.

"Take only what you need," said the mayor.

"I need everything," grunted Jewel, as she put one last thing in her spiderweb bag.

"You have to learn," said Korey, "to say NO!"

"That's easy for you," said Jewel. "You have a bigger bag than I do."

"My bag is bigger because I am a bigger spider with bigger things to pack."

In came a long yellow garden spider. "Could you carry this one more thing for me?" he asked.

Then, in came a thin daddy longlegs and a fuzzy red mite. They asked if Jewel or Korey could carry ONE more thing and that's all!"

"Good," said the yellow garden spider. He left his parcel with Korey and went back home.

What about us?" said the thin daddy longlegs and fuzzy red mite.

"I'm sorry," Korey said as he shut his spiderweb bag.

"I can carry one more thing," said Jewel. "Only ONE?" asked the fuzzy red mite.

"Well, maybe TWO!"

"Don't do it," said Korey. "You'll be sorry."

But the thin daddy longlegs and fuzzy red mite didn't wait for Jewel to change her mind. They dropped their parcels and left.

Just as Jewel closed her bag, a gray house spider ran in. "Oh, please help me," she sobbed. "Someone must take this one more thing for me."

"I'm sorry," said Korey, dragging his bag outside.

"Whatever will I do?" cried the gray house spider.

"Maybe I can carry ONE more thing said Jewel.

"Oh, thank you," cried the gray house spider. She dropped her parcel and ran out the door.

Jewel had to work hard and long to get her spiderweb bag shut. Korey didn't try to help her either. He had warned her.

They walked and walked . . . over old boards and wet logs . . . around big rocks and high trees . . . under corn stalks and mushrooms . . . through sharp thorns and high grass.

Finally, Jewel stopped and cried, "I can't go on. I've got too much to carry!"

Korey couldn't hear her, for she had fallen far behind. She went on for a while longer, until her bag began to tear.

"Help me," she moaned, "I've too much to carry!"

But nobody stopped . . . not the yellow garden spider, not the thin daddy longlegs, not the fuzzy red mite, nor the gray house spider.

Jewel cried for a very long time before she decided to make another spiderweb bag.

"This bag will be much smaller than my first one," she said. "I must hurry before it gets dark."

Many of the things that Jewel liked best were still lying on the ground after the little spiderweb bag was filled. But Jewel didn't cry.

Instead, she thought about what she'd learned . . . and started again for New Spiderville.

The end

And then . . .

By Heather Grunwald
Mrs. Rose's 3rd grade

Everybody was way ahead now, while Jewel was still spinning her new bag.

Nobody would help Jewel when she asked them.

When Jewel was almost finished spinning her bag, it began to get dark. There was no moon or stars.

At first she didn't know what had happened. Soon she had satisfied herself that it was a total eclipse.

By now she was finished making her bag. "There," she said. It was still heavy but she could still drag it.

When Jewel looked up she could see Korey going down the hill. It began to rain. Now Jewel knew it wasn't a total eclipse.

She had just made that up in her mind. It was a storm.

The others had their umbrellas up. Jewel reached in her bag for her umbrella but it wasn't there. She remembered packing it.

Oh, she just remembered her other little bag had torn. It must have fallen out.

"Oh no! Now I'm practically soaked to my fur," said Jewel, the black widow spider, "I can't go back now."

Jewel decided to ask Korey if she could get under his umbrella, but he said, "no".

Oh please, Jewel begged. Korey said, "Well, OK."

Both Korey and Jewel sat under the umbrella until the rain stopped.

After the storm Jewel and Korey walked and walked until they were finally at their new home.

Korey and Jewel happily lived right next to each other.

To this date, Jewel reminds others, "sometimes you have to say no!"

By Kristine Aderholdt
Ms. Leake's 3rd grade

Jewel had thought about it and if she was going to make it to new spider vill she would have to cheer up a little bit.

And so she kept on going and every once in a while she would hear a voice and she thought it was the spiders and then she thought about it. Nonsense she thought again.

So she kept on going and then started to see something moving ahead but she paid no attention to it but once she got closer she saw more of them.

And finealy she was going to try to meet up with them so she went faster and finealy she was close a nuff to make out that they had legs and were talking so she went closer and there they were the spiders were in front of her.

When they got to new spider vill they had a party and from then on the new spider vill was their home.

The end.

Country Living

Forbes family values togetherness

One of Ron Forbes' hobbies is salvaging things like old telephone poles and creating eye-appealing landscaped areas. The family gathered for a portrait atop sections of a 20-foot-long pole in the family's front yard. From left are Ronnie, Ryan, Elena, Mary Beth, Ron and Patrick.

It's a warm, windy Saturday afternoon.

The Forbes family gathers in their backyard to pull weeds and plant a small garden.

Ron is surrounded by their four children: Ronnie, 10; Ryan, 6; Patrick, 3; and Mary Beth, 2.

The little Forbes are lined up along the row prepared for planting, poking their fingers in the soil and learning about radish planting from their patient father.

Meanwhile, Elena pulls weeds.

Wee Ryan tires of the radish planting and strolls over to his mother and relaxes against her leg as she continues the chore.

As the parents of four children, the lives of Ron and Elena revolve around their family.

"Really, what it just boils down to is that we're totally devoted to our children," said Elena. "They're young and we spend so much time with them."

Indeed, it's unusual to see Ron or Elena without at least one of their children in tow.

They rarely go shopping or do errands alone, and the togetherness is by choice.

The plan was set before their marriage 12 years ago.

"Before we were married, we had decided we wanted a nice size family," Ron said. "I think it was basically because of the inter-relationships that can be developed with a large family."

"Our children have given us a lot of joy," said Elena, adding that there have been "a lot of scary things" like the recent serious illness of Mary Beth, "but we take the good with the bad."

Having a close-knit family is not unusual, but what is striking about the Forbes is the degree of closeness.

As Ron and Elena talk about themselves, they use words like "we" and "our" a great deal.

They also frequently use each other's name in conversation.

The Forbes attribute this closeness to the two years they lived in Asia.

"Ron was in the service at the time working on guided missiles," Elena said.

"I got my orders," Ron said. "I wrote Elena a letter and told her to sell our belongings, and she was there a month later. We lived off base in the village with the Okinawans."

"It was the most terrific experience we ever had," Elena said.

In Okinawa, the Forbes said they learned to rely on each other.

"It helped our relationship, because we needed each other," Elena said. "It helped us to be close and we learned to do that early in our lives. It brought us closer together."

"Having a wife as a friend means a lot," Ron added.

Ron and Elena, however, are not without personal interests and goals.

Ron is a manufacturer's representative for Liebert, computer room air conditioner.

His job is new; he has worked for the company about six months and he said he is pleased with his career.

He also enjoys gardening and yard work.

"I like to (landscape) by using items that are free, natural or junk," he said.

He has found uses for old 20-foot-long telephone poles purchased from Detroit Edison and wood chips found in Drayton Plains for $3 a pick-up

'Really, what it just boils down to is that we're totally involved with our children.'

load.

He also goes on scout camping trips and assists coaching his oldest son's baseball team.

Elena bowls, belongs to a neighborhood pinochle club and sits on the board for the Webelos, a branch of boy scouts.

Together and individually, they play raquetball.

They also collect antique farm tools.

When Elena was 12, she moved to Detroit from Italy, and her future plans involve her native language.

"In a few years, when the kids all go to school, I'm hoping to take a few courses to polish my Italian and do some translating," she said.

The Forbes moved to their home on Pheasant Rund Road, Independence Township, from Clawson about 17 months ago.

"In a way, we're carrying on the same tradition my father did by getting into a more rural, open area," Ron said, referring to growing up in Royal Oak.

Elena was reluctant at first about the change.

"After a little bit of protest, I fell in love with it," she said. "Now you couldn't get me out of Clarkston."

Coping with kids

There are several popular parent training books and courses. The most successful are Parent Effectiveness Training, Systematic Training for Effective Parenting and several variants of the behavior modification approach.

Parent Effectiveness Training (PET) was developed by Dr. Thomas Gordon based on his book by the same name. His method of managing children teaches communication of feelings and the cooperative resolution of parent-child conflicts.

Rudolf Dreikurs and Don Dinkmeyer developed Systematic Training for Effective Parenting, a program for helping parents become better at dealing with their children by emphasizing a democratic approach and natural consequences for misbehavior.

There are several versions of behavior modification which go by the more popular name of "behavior mod" or token economy programs. They all stress that a system of rewards should be worked out when there is a need to change behaviors in a child.

In these three basic approaches to child management and parent training, there are certain elements which are similar.

Each training program teaches parents to treat their children with respect. They all basically suggest that children should be viewed as people and not puppies that need to be housebroken.

Children are to be given the same courtesy that a parent would give another adult.

Each program also decries yelling, nagging, criticism, physical punishment and blaming. But, they also indicate that parents have rights and needs that are important.

Positive and encouraging language is an essential principle of three basic parenting approaches. For parents to be in a position to have a positive effect on a child, there must be a good relationship. This cannot be brought about when there are criticism, degrading comments and nagging lectures by parents.

All recommended parenting systems say in one way or another that unless there is a friendly relationship between a parent and child no important changes can take place in a misbehaving youngster.

The ultimate in steam cleaning is only a phone call away!

Note this bottom-side view of the Rug Doctor Vibra Brush method carpet cleaner in action.

- Hot water and cleaning solution jets into the carpet.
- Vibra Brush (like electric tooth brush) agitates carpet back and forth 3,400 times each minute. This breaks soil loose and polishes each carpet fiber to a clean, brilliant finish. This type of brush does not distort pile.
- Powerful suction extracts hot water and loosened soil back up to waste tank.

We are the only cleaner in the area that has the VIBRA-VAC METHOD.

Open house

Examining the living room fireplace in the house constructed by building trades students at Clarkston High School is Kathie Voelke of Drayton Plains, one of more than 500 persons who toured the house on the northeast corner of M-15 and Paramus during an open house Sunday. The first house to be completed under a new CBS program is now up for sale to the highest bidder.

Sue and Fred Bradley of Andersonville Road, Springfield Township, pause amid their tour of the CHS house to admire the furniture loaned to the building trades program for the occasion by Beattie Interiors of Waterford.

With an expert's eye, David Stalker appraises a silver spoon brought to him during the Clarkston Community Historical Society's Heritage Day at Clarkston High School May 12. Biggest discovery of the event was an oil painting by 19th Century American artist A. F. Tait, which sold for $11,000 the following week in a Stalker and Boos, Inc. auction. The painting was brought to the appraisal by a Bloomfield Hills woman, who said it had been in her family for generations.

Frank Boos, here appraising a pair of paintings, examined an assortment of family heirlooms at the historical society's Heritage Day. The $2-per-item appraisals benefitted the society, although the Birmingham antique dealers also used the occasion to scout for saleable merchandise. Another Stalker and Boos appraiser will be at the Clarkston Mills Thursday from 1-4 p.m. telling persons the worth of old books and manuscripts. There's a $1 charge per book for the appraisals, being done in connection with the Friends of Independence Township Library's used book sale.

by David McNeven, Coach

Now that the skiing season is virtually over, you will want to store your equipment properly to keep it in good shape for when you are ready to ski again. Boots are obviously one of the most important pieces of ski equipment. The best way to store boots is to first pull out the inner boot and stuff it lightly with crumpled newspaper. Then wipe dry the inside of the shells and buckle them. Store the four separate components in a cool, dry place.

Our store is the best place to come when looking for sports equipment. Father's Day gifts and items for all your needs are available from us at COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457. Golf gloves and balls, tennis equipment and clothing and shoes for all sports are carried. Hours: 9:30am-6pm, Sat. until 5pm.

SPORTS TIP:

We recommend the wear of goggles or sunglasses to help you see in inclement weather and to reduce chance of possible eye damage from glare or injury.

locher, whose first year of teaching was the class' last at CHS. The two class members who married each other, Frances Marshall and David Stewart, did not return to Michigan from their winter home in Florida in time for the reunion. Four of the 14 persons who graduated together have died. They are Christine Bailey O'Berry, Jack Croasdell, Nelson Clark and Lucille Goodrich Giddings.

Summarizing 50 years of living in just a few minutes, Mrs. Frazer gets an assist from her husband Ralph.

Tour your house room by room and determine what should be done to put it in good selling order, how much it will cost, who will sell it, and how long it will take. You will have to judge what needs to be done, depending upon the amount of time and money you want to invest in the project. Spend time and money on projects that will produce the most return for your efforts. Make a check list and use it as a planning tool for reconditioning your house as well as recording items of repair as the work is performed.

Have you thought about rent costs today? Come in to BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 Main St., your area broker since 1947, and let us discuss your financial situation. You may well discover what so many other people have learned... that it is far wiser and often times more economical to buy than to rent. Don't let your rent dollars go up in smoke. Consider putting them to their maximum purchasing power today. Open 9a.m.-9p.m., til 6 Fri. & Sat., 11-5 Sun. Tel. 625-5821.

gets together for 50-year reunion

Studying mementos of the class takes Leroy S. Francis back to graduation 50 years ago. He and his classmates were the last to graduate from the high school which is now the Independence Township Hall. And their commencement was the last to be held at the Methodist Church. The class motto was: "They Conquer Who Believe They Can."

Newlywed Esther McGregor Tompos introduces her husband Stephen, whom she wed in April after rekindling a friendship they began during World War II. Mrs. Tompos told of her career in nursing, through her retirement from the Michigan State University School of Nursing faculty in 1975. The Class of 1929 has no widows or widowers and none of its members have been divorced. "We're from the old school," said Mrs. DeNise. She noted, however, that the class was "not too productive," parenting just 22 offspring.

... and then

Reminiscing with her former teacher, Mrs. McDaniels gives a nostalgic reading of "The Highwayman." Mrs. McDaniels, who has maintained a correspondence with Mrs. Huttenlocher, said she has visited Clarkston about six times in the last 50 years.

sent members, can attend the program.

A class reunion for the Clarkston High School Class of 1969 is planned.

A dinner followed by entertainment will be held at the American Legion Hall, Clarkston Post No. 63, 8041 Ortonville Road, Independence Township, beginning at 8 p.m. June 30.

Partying ...

With Clarkston Youth Assistance supporters at Clarkston Village Players' benefit performance

Reaching across the footlights at the Depot Theater Thursday night, cast members of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," greet the audience following a benefit performance for Clarkston Area Youth Assistance. Among the Players are [from left] Pete Rose, Judd Dotson, Judy Tower and Bill Richard.

John Matheus discusses his role as a narcissistic movie star with Youth Assistance Committee Chairperson Virginia Walter. Coffee and cookies were served between acts and at the conclusion of the benefit performance.

Enjoying their first-row seats are Matthew Cook, 7, and his brother Kelley, 10. Their father Bob played the beleaguered host of "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Colette's CHS

It was recently that time again at CHS when next year's classes must be chosen.

To set the record straight, it's not so much what subjects you wish to take. Rather, it's a matter of which ones are open at your designated scheduling period.

The incoming sophomores were the first grade to subject themselves to this cruel and inhumane torture.

Weeks before the actual scheduling, they filled out forms stating the classes that they would prefer. Then, on that fateful day, they all visited the big high school.

First, they were greeted by some upperclassmen who made fun at their small size, gave wrong directions to the scheduling room and wouldn't let them sit down in the commons area.

Next they were thrown into what the administrators call the scheduling "arena." This truly is an insignificant term--a madhouse is more appropriate.

Given a copy of the forms they previously filled out, they were expected to obtain a card and a departmental stamp for each class selection.

Physically, the room is scattered with busy, angry students. Tables, cards and teachers are lined around the perimeter of the compact library.

Emotionally, the room is full of tension and disappointment. The teachers handing the cards out are obviously attempting to control their frustrations and tempers.

Chances are most students will get all their classes. However, if just one class is not available and it is vital to the student, the troubles begin once more. In this case, you must rearrange all seven hours by returning the cards and starting from scratch.

The seniors schedule second. This is only fair because this is their last chance to get some required subjects they need for graduation.

Finally, the junior is the one who deserves a whole "bottle of Anacin, if and when he comes out of the library alive.

During scheduling season, there is no such thing as alphabetical order. Thus, to appear fair, all 26 letters are scrambled to confuse you even more.

If you are a junior with an unlucky last name, you will have only a few courses to choose from.

This person is left with exciting selections, such as Casseroles II, Underwater Basket Weaving, Odd Numerals 108, 14th Century Chinese Literature or Auto Windshields IV.

So what exactly is worse than scheduling for the first semester? Why, the second semester, of course!

Ann's ark

by Ann Glenn

Even with the wonderful burst of spring, the various birds are still urging me to keep the feeders full.

I especially notice a big desire for sunflower seed because it is not on the scene yet.

Yes, I do feed all summer.

In addition to scratch, millet and sunflower, a downy woodpecker family is still after me for suet.

And now is the time to add plantings to attract the birds. For starters, try highbush cranberry, which offers large clusters of red berries about the size of raisins.

The berries can be used as our ancestors used them for sauce and jelly or left on the bushes, which rise six to eight feet, leaving delicacies for the birds high above the snowdrifts.

Gray dogwood has white berries in September which remain long after the leaves fall. They attract flocks of cedar waxwings as well as finches and cardinals.

If your fancy is hummingbirds, you should consider trumpet honeysuckle, for the birds love the red trumpet flowers. Other honeysuckles of shrub variety have fall red berries which are a delicacy to the birds.

Virginia creeper makes a good nesting spot as well as providing a fall berry banquet for grosbeaks, finches and sparrows.

Briars such as climbing roses provide nourishment for the birds--and you can collect rose hips for a fall tea.

Blackberries are another crop shared by man and bird.

You can also consider crabapple trees, mountain ash, hawthorn and more.

You might want to think about putting up some nest boxes for bluebirds on fenceposts near foliage. you'll often get chickadees, nuthatches or wrens.

Another project would be to lure purple martins your way by putting up a martin apartment on a telescoping pole near your garden.

Purple martins eat voluminous numbers of mosquitoes and insects.

If you would like further information, drop me a note at The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston, MI 48016. I can supply diagrams for do-it-yourself houses or head you to a place of purchase.

NOTICE

A Public Hearing will be held on proposed uses for Revenue Sharing funds at the Clarkston Village Council meeting on Tuesday, May 29, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston. All interested citizens are urged to attend.
