Skyscraper fight still young

By Kathy Greenfield

Battle lines are being redrawn, but the fight over the potential construction of a skyscraper in Independence Township is not over.

The first skirmish was won by proponents of the proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel last week when the township planning commission voted 6-2 to recommend approval of an amendment to the township's zoning ordinance.

Public sentiment against the zoning charge was most evident when many of the 150 persons at the meeting cheered and applauded the "no" votes of commission Chairman James Smith and member John Gray.

Ted Thomson, chairman of the Clarkston Planning Commission, was one of 40 persons who offered opinions at the township planning commission's May 10 public hearing on the zoning amendment.

He also was among the crowd at last week's meeting at which citizens' comments were not taken, because the public hearing was closed May 10.

After the meeting, however, Thomson reiterated his feelings and those of others who spoke against the pending zoning change.

"We're not against Pine Knob," he said. "What we're against is changing the zoning ordinance so anybody can (build a skyscraper).

"You can't have one of anything," he said. "The risk is greater than the gain."

Planning commission members who spoke for the majority indicated that they felt the zoning amendment would offer protection against more high rises.

The change would allow construction of buildings up to 200 feet tall on at least 10 acres in a recreational zone.

Noting gasoline prices and possible shortages, commission member Jean Saile said she sees the need for Clarkston to become "self-contained" by providing local jobs.

"I personally am for the Pine Knob hotel," she said. "I see it as adding to what we have here; I see it as providing more jobs."

A deluge of telephone calls to his office prompted commission member Rudy Lozano to decide major public concern over the hotel was the precedent-issue, he said.

"I don't see how this particular complex could be detrimental to this community," Lozano said. "These people only want to extend their building 100 feet over the hill."

As at past meetings, Smith asked Francell if it was possible to reduce the height of the proposed $20 million hotel.

"There's just no way to make it economically feasible," Francell said, adding that the ski-run roof of the hotel with a 400-foot verticle drop was needed to "solidify our ski business during the winter time."

Commission member James Brennan said he had no qualms about the height of the proposed hotel.

"I think it is a unique building," he said. "It is better to have one that is successful than to build something that could fail and be a blight on the piece of property."

"I'm for it, and I think it's reasonably protected," Brennan said. He made the motion to recommend approval of the zoning amendment.

Memorial Day moppets show their colors

A holiday visitor from Ohio, 2-year-old Carrie Frederick, held by her father Robert, joins in the parade-watching fun with a wave of her U.S. flag.

Betsy Ross-like, 2-year-old Emily Kortge finds the Memorial Day parade a great occasion to wear an older sister's Bicentennial poncho. Emily's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kortge of Marvin Road, Independence Township.

Gravel pit unpopular

By Kathy Greenfield

It was unanimous.

The 20 people who spoke opposed the proposed 517-acre gravel mining operation in Independence Township.

The eight planning commission members present voted to recommend denial of the necessary zoning variance to the township zoning board of appeals.

Representing the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit, Wesley Smith presented plans for the proposed mining operation west of Sashabaw Road and north of Clarkston-Orion Road.

The plan covered 23 years of mining at the property that abuts the township's Clintonwood Park and Independence Oaks, and Oakland County park.

A 300-acre lake with 58 three-acre house sites was the reclamation plan presented.

Predicting a two-hour-long public hearing and referring to several telephone calls he received against the gravel pit, commission member Rudy Lozano proposed voting against the operation before the public comments were made.

"I am going to make a motion that this request be denied based on the fact that I think there are other applicable areas in Oakland County," he said. "I just don't think that's a proper location."

Lozano's statement was loudly applauded by the about 150 people at the meeting.

"Mr. Lozano, I think that's a popular theme," said commission Chairman James Smith, adding that unless the people spoke at the public hearing, the commission's decision could be exposed to legal difficulties.

Objections to the mining operation included potential damage to the Clinton River watershed, noise pollution, added traffic problems, and danger to children.

An application to the Michigan Land Trust to purchase 300 acres of land, now part of the proposed gravel operation, was made about a year ago, said Eric Reickel, manager of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

"I never realized how threatened this area was when we applied for it," he said.

The resulting additional Oakland County lake would be "nice," he said, but Reickel described the process in vivid terms.

"I can't help but think that in getting (the lake) we are opening the bowels of Independence Township and watching the excitement for 23 years before we get the lake," he said.

State Sen. Kerry Kammer

(D-Pontiac) also urged the planning commission to vote against the proposed mining operation.

He sponsored the land trust bill to preserve some of the "unique parcels" in Michigan, Kammer said.

"The state's prepared to purchase that property," he said. "We're right on the verge of making that purchase and they're talking about making a gravel pit out of it and completely destroying the character of that property."

Even without the state's involvement, Kammer said he would have attended the meeting to oppose the mining operation.

"If it's decided that they (the Edward Levy Co.) will try to take this to court, I will commit to you, as best as I am able, to use every resource in the state of Michigan to help you maintain

Independence Center gets advisory attention

By Michelle Marzahl

Improvement of the Independence Center is the main goal of an advisory committee organized to discuss the future of the center.

"The purpose is to investigate, study and make recommendations for a more comprehensive center," said committee chairperson Jean Saile of South Main Street, Clarkston.

About 40 people make up the advisory committee. The members of the committee include community citizens and people involved with the center.

The Independence Center, located on Maybee Road across from Sashabaw Junior High School, has been in operation since 1972.

The center provides emergency food, clothing and transportation for those in need of help. In addition, counseling is available and space for community meeting rooms.

"It's a benefit to the community, but a major problem has been a lack of consistent funding," said Saile.

The two major fund raising events for the center are the Walk for Independence, sponsored by the Clarkston Jaycees, and an art auction to be held in October.

Most of the other funding comes from private citizens or groups.

"A group or individual or congregation will send us donations," said Elaine Murray, Independence Center coordinator.

Saile said the committee will explore the possibility of funding from government grants and United Fund.

According to Murray, many people are taking advantage of the services offered at the center.

"I believe there is a need for any community to have an outlet - to roll up its sleeve and help people," said Saile. "I think the whole community benefits when people are willing to pitch in, help and give time."

Meetings of the committee are being held on the first Tuesday of each month.

WHY?

A majority of the Independence Planning Commission had its mind made up to recommend approval of the high rise zoning amendment BEFORE the Public Hearing on May 10th. This in spite of a clear cut majority against the proposal at the hearing. Therefore the 6-2 vote to recommend approval came as no surprise. A set back? Yes - - A Defeat? No. The fight has just begun. We need your help. Please write:

On $9.1-million issue

Low-key school campaign starts

By Pat Braunagel

A low-key, neighbor-to-neighbor campaign in behalf of a proposed $9.1-million school bond issue is getting underway this week in the Clarkston School District.

A corps of about 75 supporters was to begin passing out literature throughout the district in preparation for the June 11 election.

"We're running into very few people who disagree with the need," said William Potvin, one of two district administrators coordinating the campaign. "The question is whether they're willing to pay for it."

Most of the money--$7.5 million--would be used to build a new junior high school comparable to Sashabaw Junior High School to replace Clarkston Junior High.

Another $1.3 million would go for a library addition at Clarkston High School. Modifications for the handicapped at the high school would cost an estimated $200,000, and fees and permits would account for $100,000.

The initial cost of the bond issue for taxpayers has been estimated at 3.61 mills.

Expected increases in property value during the 25 years it would take to retire the bonds would decrease the rate the district would have to levy in order to make annual principal interest payments.

The building package would cost most property owners in the district about "a buck a week," Potvin said.

School administrators have produced a chart putting the cost at $30 to $40 a year for the average homeowner.

While the initial millage rate to retire the bonds would be $3.61 per $1,000 of assessed property valuation, the chart takes into account the rebate property owners get on their income taxes.

Families paying taxes on property assessed between $26,000 and $36,000 (50 percent of the market value) and in the $15,000 to $30,000 income bracket would get an actual tax boost of between $30 and $40 a year, according to the chart.

The new junior high school would be built on a 35-acre site adjacent to the school district administration building on the south side of Clarkston Road, just east of the Village of Clarkston.

The building package was recommended to the board of education a year ago by a citizens advisory committee, which suggested that the old Clarkston Junior High be used as an elementary school.

Conversion of that facility would free an estimated 15 rooms in the district's six elementary buildings.

In addition to the circulation of literature in neighborhoods, Potvin, director of planning and evaluation for the school district, and William Neff, administrative assistant who worked with the advisory committee, have been speaking to service clubs.

Informational packets are available from either of them at the district's administration building, 6389 Clarkston.

After speaking, Sen. Kerry Kammer joins the standing-room-only crowd at the public hearing on the proposed 517-acre gravel mining operation.

the judgment that you make," Kammer said.

In addition, legal assistance without charge would be available, he said.

"I have been in touch with attorneys who would be delighted to take that on their own," Kammer said.

Residents at the meeting expressed several other concerns:

- On noise: Laura Smith of Clarkston-Orion Road. "My husband and I moved here for peace and quiet and beauty and we've found it. We're going to have noise. For what? Why not leave it along? Why destroy it?"
- On danger to children: Robert Spicuzza of Clark Road. "This used to be called God's country. I don't want to say I was the first to lose my kid in the pit."

- On wildlife: Ronald Helin of Perry Lake Road. "We see birds and animals on a daily basis that are seldom or never seen by our city or suburban friends. Small and large, these creatures live their lives within the confines of the delicately balanced wetlands known as the Clinton River watershed."

- On public opinion: Janet McCord of Pine Knob Road presented a petition with nearly 500 signatures against the mining operation. She said they had been gathered in two days.

- Also on public opinion: Dawn McChesney, Pine Knob Road. "This is something the people are really very, very much against and we are pleading with you to vote against it."

New football coach Catholic AA leader

Walt Wyniemko, who steered Bishop Foley High School's grid team to the top of the Catholic AA League last year, has been named head varsity football coach at Clarkston High School.

He replaces Bill Valasco, who coached the Wolves through a 2-7 season for 1978. Valasco resigned early this spring to take a non-teaching position in Pennsylvania.

Wyniemko has coached for 13 years, the last eight at Bishop Foley High in Madison Heights.

While there, his teams captured four divisional crowns and the 1978 title in the Catholic AA League.

Although an assistant to Wyniemko has not yet been named, Paul Tungate, CHS athletic director, indicated Gary Warner would be picked for the job.

Warner, who also sought the head coaching post, led the junior varsity gridders in a perfect 8-0 season this year.

"We hope they will be working together. We think that together we can make a winning program," Tungate commented.

"No matter who you choose, it's a gamble. Gary's got a lot of good qualities in dealing with the kids and Walt's got that quality plus all that experience," he added.

Recommending Wyniemko was a Wayne State University coach who said "He was one of the finest coaches in the area," Tungate noted.

And Al Fracassa, head football coach at Brother Rice High School in Birmingham, gave Wyniemko a singular honor.

"Both his sons played for Walt," Tungate said. "He sent them to play for him, so he must have a lot of respect for him."

The most rewarding aspect of coaching is "Working with kids, young kids," Wyniemko said.

"I think all educators like kids," he continued. "I try to treat all kids as if they were my own son or daughter."

Cooperation is essential in creating a strong, winning team, Wyniemko said. In the past, he has successfully deployed the entire team and worked them hard.

"You have to have a dedicated coach, kids—everybody has to be willing to work and pay a price for something that they want," Wyniemko said.

"I think that's where parents, the community, teachers, students all help out," he added. "Everybody has to contribute."

Chosen as the new head coach for the Clarkston High School varsity football team, Walt Wyniemko led the Bishop Foley High School gridders to four divisional crowns and a league title during his eight-year stint as coach at the Madison Heights School.

Parking panel bypasses Buffalo lot

Residential property adjacent to Clarkston's business district should not be purchased by the village and transformed into a parking lot.

This recommendation is made by the Clarkston Parking Advisory Committee Panel after nearly three months of study and discussion, reported committee chairman Jackson Byers.

Formed in February, the six-member panel is a mix of local governmental officials and Clarkston merchants and residents appointed by Village President Fontie ApMadoc.

The parking committee was formed to study the parking development proposals contained in the master plan for the village.

Planners at Vilican-Leman and Associates had suggested that the village purchase approximately 60 feet of residentially-zoned property from homeowners on Buffalo Street to expand the parking area along the alley west of Main Street businesses.

"We don't intend to go that route," Byers said. "We want to make better use of what's available over there. For the immediate future, we want to develop what's there and not enlarge on it."

A two-fold purpose has been set by committee members, Councilmen Byers and Gary Symons; Planning Commissioner Charles Galbraith; village resident Eric Haven; Martha Wheeler, manager of the Pontiac State Bank, Clarkston branch; and Buck Kopietz, co-owner of Tierra Arts and Designs.

"Each of us has taken kind of an assignment; for example, to determine what government funds are available. You really have to smoke out what kind of funds are available," Byers commented.

"The other thing is to contact different business and commercial interests to get a rough idea to find out whether or not they'd be amenable to more parking if government funds are avail-

Merchants are also being asked if they would agree to contribute money to develop more parking, Byers added. Monthly parking committee meetings are held every second Wednesday in the Clarkston Village Hall.

Planning full-time job

Aptly illustrated during current deliberation and debate on Pine Knob's plans for a skyscraper hotel is the need for a full-time planner in Independence Township.

Tod J. Kilroy of Community Planning and Management Inc. does his job as a consultant—filing reports, answering questions and appearing at planning commission meetings.

But more than a part-time consultant is needed here.

Independence Township enjoys a deserved reputation as a well-planned community.

Its master plan and land use plan are excellent. They require top-flight management to insure that their clarity of purpose is maintained through this period when the township is being besieged by developers.

A full-time planner could work with the planners of developments, explore alternatives, devise possible compromises.

A full-time planner could check thoroughly on precedents, both from planning and legal viewpoints.

A full-time planner could anticipate the need for restrictions, research and suggest realistic ones.

A full-time planner could follow-up on restrictions that are imposed.

In the case of Pine Knob, there was a need for a community impact study. There is no prospect of one now.

Independence Township is in no real danger of becoming a mecca for skyscraper-crazy magnates.

But it does need to have someone whose full-time responsibility is the control of what Independence Township is becoming.

Letters to the editor

Michigan week successful

Dear Editor:

As chairman of the Michigan Week Committee in Independence Township, I would like to thank the many people who helped to make this past week the biggest "celebration" of Michigan Week we've had in recent years.

The Michigan Week Committee has no funds.

All events were operated on a "zero budget" basis. The many hours of work put into the organization of the week were donated.

There were many groups who contributed their time to help make this week successful.

Among these groups are: Band Boosters, Independence Center, Clarkston Area Jaycees, North Oakland Civitans, Independence Township Recreation Department, Clarkston Womens' Club, Friends of the Independence Township Library, Clarkston Farm and Garden Club, Village Business Association and Clarkston Community Schools.

Many individuals also contributed a great deal, not the last of which were the other members of the Michigan Week Committee.

I would also like to commend the two area newspapers for their fine coverage of the Michigan Week events.

A big thank-you to all of you!

It is community cooperation and the pride we have in our state and community which make Michigan the great state it is.

Sincerely,

Christopher L. Rose

Kaul thanks supporters

To the Editor:

Recently, my resignation as 9th grade basketball coach at Sashabaw Junior High has been accepted, due to personal reasons.

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank all of the supporters of our program over the seven years of my coaching tenure.

I also wish to express a special note of gratitude to the many young men who have played for me and made my job a very gratifying one.

I wish nothing but the best for everyone involved in the athletic program of Clarkston Community Schools.

The participation in and pursuit of excellence in athletics has been a very important part of my life, and I believe anyone who competes seriously in sports derives a great benefit from the experience.

Yours truly,

Tim Kaul

Tugging at heartstrings

by Jim Sherman

Show me a person who is not fascinated by a tug boat, and I'll show you a corpse.

Just the sight of a tug boat warms hearts, stimulates smiles, and starts fingers pointing to direct other's eyes.

Well, eat your heart out, landlubbers. I went on one last week.

Thanks to Harry Whitely, publisher of the Presque Isle County Advance in Rogers City, we got to witness first hand a tug boat maneuver a ship into a dock.

I've forgotten the name of the tug, but the ship we escorted was the John C. Munson, flagship of the United States Steel company fleet out of Rogers City.

USS owns the world's largest limestone quarry in this northern Michigan community.

An observation area is provided to look out over the vastness. Trains at the bottom of the quarry are like centipedes.

There are seven ships in the steel company fleet. The Munson is the largest at 768 feet. It used to be shorter, but they cut it in two and added 105 feet.

That's the history of Great Lakes ships. They have been made longer, and there are less of them.

The Munson is loaded at Rogers City in 10 hours with 27,000 tons. It unloads in Gary, Ind. in less time. The round trip takes 3 days.

Back to Tuggy Tugboat. There was a four-man crew. Two tend lines, one is in the engine room, and the captain.

It was a calm day, so all we did was throw a line to the Munson and stay close in case the wind blew it off course.

I've always wanted to take my kids right up beside a ship. As a sailor I was impressed with their size. It's just as impressive in a 96 ft. tugboat.

The last time I was around a tugboat was in New York Harbor before going overseas to win the war.

When the Queen Elizabeth came in 13 tugs were used to maneuver her into port. She stuck out way beyond the mooring dock.

One tug was used to push our 400 ft. ship about.

I remember seeing a tug pushing a garbage scow around a harbor and commenting, "That one must have done something wrong and is being punished."

If it had been a good boy it would have been assigned one of the Queens.

The quarry loading area is off limits for tourists, so I can't recommend your visiting there. Maybe you can do what we had to do...buy a newspaper, get acquainted with Harry Whitely, and have him invite you.

That route took me just 20 years.

Good idea off to good start

by Pat Braunagel

There were lots of good vibes Thursday night at Independence Township's Community Awards Dinner.

Lots of good people happy because other good people were getting a bit of the recognition they deserve.

Lots of smiles all around. About 85 people attended this "first annual" event—enough to assure that there probably will be a second one.

There should be. The community needs to be reminded every once in awhile about all the people who pull together to make it work.

And those people need to know the community-at-large cares.

With eight awards going to outstanding citizens and organizations and another 15 certificates of achievement being presented, it was impossible to detail the contributions of each and every citizen.

The work that was briefly sketched by each of the presenters was awesome and gave a flavor of the kind of involvement necessary to make a community something more than just a place to hang your hat.

The people at the dinner represented a fairly wide cross section of interests, activities, ages and length of residence in Independence.

Many have their fingers in several pies.

The range of their interests was indicated in the conversations at the various tables and in the number of people who stopped by the dinner on their way to or from another meeting.

The greatest "distraction" now there's a classic understatement - was the activity going on that night at the Independence Township Hall.

The township planning commission was weighing two proposals on which interest ran high.

From the banquet room at Spring Lake Country Club, those at the dinner had a clear view of the top of Pine Knob.

It was frequently used as a point of reference in their conversations, and the spectre of the hotel which is to rise above that hill loomed larger and larger until night fell, the microphone was turned on at the podium and attention was turned, for awhile, to individuals and their value to this community.

She gives CJHS walls some dash

By Kathy Greenfield

Mural painter Jan Green frequently hears the same question as she works at Clarkston Junior High School.

"Did you really paint that?" the students ask.

"Kids don't see artists at work very often," Jan said.

So when time permits, Jan paints murals commissioned by the CJHS student council during school hours.

"They get to see something created, not just the end result," she said.

Jan's work on the murals may be as close as she gets to her original career choice of teacher for some time.

After graduating with an art education major from Abilene Christian University, Texas, Jan decided to find a teaching job near her parents and family.

She moved to Independence Township and "applied all over."

At first she worked as a substitute teacher for a year.

"I didn't find it rewarding at all," she said.

Then she worked at a number of jobs including an appointment receptionist for a photography studio and in the circulation department of a newspaper.

Back to teaching, she became a teachers' aide for the three sixth grades housed at CJHS.

"From subbing, it was a pay cut, but you could get to know the students, teachers and administrators and it was worth it for me," Jan said.

She found, however, that the pay was too low.

Last February, Jan left CJHS

to become an inspector on the four-cylinder inspection line at Pontiac Motor Division.

Now she would like to apply her art to areas other than teaching young people.

She's hoping to get into graphic art work--"anything that's related to my background," she said.

The murals are a sideline she enjoys.

"A few weeks ago, I spent 15 hours on one of these," she said. "The time goes by fast."

Jan's murals adorning the walls of CJHS include her first ever painted.

The "Home of the Wolverines" design is inside the school's main entrance. It was completed last year.

The three student council murals were started in February.

Jan is to be paid $200 for each painting. They take about 40 hours.

A Charley Brown mural has been finished. Yosemite Sam will be done when "Back off Cougars"--a message to Sashabaw Junior High arch rivals--is painted below the figure of Sam with his guns drawn and his orange beard flowing.

Jan is preparing sketches now of the different CJHS sports for her last mural.

Early this year, the CJHS student council decided to improve the appearance of the building, said Dave Smith, student council adviser.

The entire student body joined forces and sold tumblers. They raised $3,500.

With the money, they bought lettering for the side of the building for $150, and are spending $1,500 for painting half of the building's lockers and $1,200 for six murals.

Jan was hired by the students to paint three murals and Kari Peterson, a Clarkston High School student, was hired to paint the other three.

Themes for the murals were decided by a contest open to all the students.

From 53 entries, student council officers selected the ideas of John Sullivan, Jim Weaver, Todd Gavette, Michelle Law, Sandy Minjo and Judy Minjo.

Her version of the ferocious Wolverine was Jan's first mural painted with an air brush. Located just inside the main entrance to Clarkston Junior High, it greets visitors to the school.

Sinatra goes from fist to pen

by Jim Fitzgerald

Whatever happened to scobie-dooie-doo?

Frank Sinatra is calling for a nationwide crusade to stop the nation's "runaway press."

In a letter sent to members of Congress and hundreds of other prominent Americans, Sinatra wrote that he had "met and confronted the unlimited power of the press."

"It frightens me as a husband and a parent who is concerned for the well-being and future of his family," Sinatra wrote.

There's no denying that Frank Sinatra is familiar with the unlimited power of the press. If it weren't for publicity given to him by the press during the past 40 years, he might be making his living today selling pizzas in Hoboken.

But it's surprising to hear Sinatra, who has double-dated with a vice-president of the United States, accuse mild-mannered reporters of having frightening power. The next thing you know, Margaret Trudeau will accuse Kate Smith of stealing her husband.

Even more surprising is Sinatra's method of attack. A few years ago, when he got mad at the press, he would slug a reporter--unless the reporter was a woman, in which case he snarled and called her a two-bit hooker.

Today, when he's peeved by something he has read in the newspaper, Sinatra writes a letter to his congressman. He probably also stomps his foot and goes into a snit.

Whatever happened to eating it up and spitting it out and doing it my way?

In his middle years, long after he had made bobby-soxers swoon, Frank Sinatra left his wife for Ava Gardner, became a tough-but-gentle dramatic actor, was a cad to Lauren Bacall, dated chorus lines, got drunk with Dean Martin and changed the lyrics of love songs to match the world-weary irreverence with which he treated all men equally, from cabdrivers to popes.

Sinatra became a hero to middle-aged swingers who snap fingers, wise-crack at waitresses and hope no one notices that they always head for home at dinner time.

Sinatra never went home until quarter to three. He never counted his change. He was Super Swinger.

He never cared what the Establishment, decreed, by God. If he wanted to go boozing with gangsters, he did. If a beautiful woman was young enough to be his daughter, he took her home and began adoption proceedings. He was a splendid idol for bored husbands who could no longer get turned on by John Wayne killing Indians.

But then, a few years ago, Sinatra began to change. One day I turned on TV and there he was, playing golf with the vice-president of the United States, Spiro Agnew. The two men had become great friends, and Agnew was a frequent guest in Sinatra's castle.

Agnew stood for all those things that Frank Sinatra used to shrug off. Agnew was the epitome of the Establishment, a citizen who knew all the words to the Star Spangled Banner. Sinatra was King of the Rat Pack, a what-the-hell guy who once might have sung, "O say can you see by the dawn's early ring-a-ding-ding."

Now the two of them were in the same choir, in harmony, waiting for Kate Smith to join in. (This was before she began running around with Pierre Trudeau).

It must have been his friendship with Agnew that first put the stuffing in Sinatra's shirt. Even when it was revealed that Agnew was a crook, Sinatra continued his switch from the lovable little Italian in "From Here to Eternity" to a petulant despot in "I Will Save the World from the New York Times."

The metamorphosis was completed by Sinatra's letter to Congress, accusing the press of endangering not only the Republic but his family. The letter was pure Agnew. Once again, the nation is threatened by nattering nabobs of negativism.

It must be conceded: Sinatra has gone over to the other side. Middle-aged swingers must find another hero who, the record shows, took the blows and did it my way. Sinatra is doing it Agnew's way.

I don't care. I still have all his old albums. Scobie-dooie-doo.

Maintenance building plan polished

By Kathy Greenfield

Progress continues on plans for a $279,000 Independence Township maintenance building.

The exterior drawing, a floor plan and site plan were presented to the township board last week by George Anderson, water, sewer and cemetery department director.

The 6,000-square-foot building is to be located on five of 25 acres owned by the township between Flemings Lake Road and I-75.

"It's a basic building; there's not anything in the line of gingerbread on it," Anderson said. "The costs are about $80,000 more than what I originally estimated. I guess that's inflation."

The land was originally purchased for a cemetery.

"We don't need a cemetery. One is enough to maintain," Anderson said. "I don't think the site should be a cemetery. There are too many things that the living can enjoy on that site."

With the maintenance building on five acres, plenty would be left over for recreational uses, he said.

The cost estimate and architectural drawings were done by Macuda and Associates of Pontiac.

Included in the plans are 3,600 feet of unheated space, 1,200 feet for vehicle maintenance, 1,200 feet for offices and lockers, and 1,200 feet of overhead storage.

The cost estimate of $279,000 includes complete insulation, a septic system, burglar alarm, exhaust system, 10-ton hoist, kitchen equipment, radio antenna, flag pole and sign.

Some of the items could be eliminated to reduce the cost, Anderson said.

"To put it all in perspective, condos at Pine Knob cost $200,000," he said, adding that other houses being built in the township cost over $100,000.

The building would provide a central garage for all township vehicles and "save thousands of maintenance dollars just by putting them under cover," Anderson said.

Storage could be provided for $60,000 worth of generators; cars and trucks used by the police, fire, recreation, assessing and building departments; and voting machines.

One additional employee would be needed to run the building until "we get to the point where we need a mechanic," he said.

The building is to also house the water, sewer and cemetery offices.

"My office will eventually move out there," he said. "I don't know if it will be when we first open."

"It appears if this thing goes, this may become a branch of the township offices," said Trustee Jerry Powell.

Trustee Rudy Lozano made the motion for Anderson to proceed with the plans, so the board can look at the entire package.

"At that time, we can discuss financing," Lozano said.

All board members present voted to continue with the plans.

Treasurer Frederick Ritter and Trustee William Vandermark were absent.

If the board approves the final plans, bids could be taken in about five weeks, Anderson said.

With about six months needed for construction, "it would be done before the end of this year," he said.

Rose: 'Use surplus to cut taxes'

By Kathy Greenfield

Clerk Christopher Rose wants to wipe out taxes paid by the Independence Township residents to the general fund for one year.

His plan is to eliminate the township's general fund portion of taxes—1.33 mills were levied last year—by using most of the $333,000 surplus he says is now in township general fund coffers.

The 2-mill levy for the fire department and 1 mill for police protection would be unaffected by Rose's plan.

He proposed using $236,000 (or 1.33 mills) of the surplus instead of tax revenue in a memo to his six fellow board members last month.

So far, none of the board members has indicated support, but the "memo was so everybody would know where I was coming from," he said.

Indeed, Supervisor Whitey Tower said he does not support Rose's plan.

The issue will probably not be discussed until August when the board votes to set the tax levies, Rose said.

If approved by a majority of the board, the move would save a resident with property assessed at $30,000 some $40 this year, because 1 mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

The remaining money for the nearly $1 million township general fund budget would come from state shared revenue (about $500,000); fines and fees paid to the building, planning, parks and recreation, and cemetery departments; and from interest.

"The board isn't doing anything with the money," Rose said. "Personally, I'd rather use the money to build bike paths or for the library, but how do we know that's what the people want?"

"If we have a surplus in the general fund, then the general fund taxes should be cut," he said.

In his memo to the board members, Rose cited the following reasons for his proposal:

- The board is being criticized for accumulating a surplus and not moving to use it.

- Eliminating the tax would provide the greatest amount of benefit to the taxpayers.

- The move would establish credibility and would be in line with the "message" of the Headlee proposal.

- There would be an increase of believability for millage requests for police, fire, community center, bike paths or other projects.

- Passage of the tax limitation proposal by voters in August 1978 allows township taxes to be removed without having the millage collected anyway and divided among the school district and the county.

"At some point, the board is going to have to vote on whether to collect the $236,000 (or 1.33 mills)," Rose wrote. "I cannot support collecting that while we hold this surplus."

Township Supervisor Whitey Tower said he does not agree with Rose's proposal.

"I wouldn't support, at the present time, taking cash reserves just to lower our taxes," he said.

"I think the board should make a commitment to freeze our cash reserves and put it in whatever fund we have to call it, or come out and set the priorities of what we intend to do with the cash reserves," Tower said.

"We have the right to save it; we also have the right to spend it," he said.

Tower expressed concern over the effect of Headlee on the township's income and he also said the cash reserves could hurt millage requests.

"Everyone's saying, 'Hell, it wasn't worth saving with all the flack we're getting,'" he said.

With the slow progress on Headlee's interpretation, voters may fall into the mood of not passing any additional taxes, Tower said.

"I don't think we're high on taxes, but what a good time to have a cash reserve," he said.

"I'm going to encourage a moratorium (on spending cash reserves) until such time that the board reviews the projects and comes out with priority setting on how to use the reserves," he said.

"Then they (the people) will know it's not just sitting there, it's for intended projects."

Tenacious swimmer

Slugging away

Jane Acton's base hit during the first May 23 game in a double-header against Grand Blanc drove in a run. Although the CHS girls varsity softball team lost the first game 7-3, they surged ahead of Grand Blanc in the last inning of the second game, winning the contest 9-6.

When Lynne Peters finds her needs unmet, she fills them.

While she was a student at Clarkston High School, Lynne and a handful of her friends wanted a girls' track team. They started a campaign and, by the time she graduated in 1975, the girls were competing alongside the boys.

Lynne was aggressive once more three years ago. As much as she wanted to swim, there were no competitive programs for women swimmers at Northern Michigan University, where she is a physical education and history major.

"I started swimming with the men's team my sophomore year. I was called 'The Girl'--it was a cut-down. I was the only girl who went out for the team and stuck with it," she said.

By politicking and "pounding on some desks, we got the team," Lynne grinned. "I don't think they were against it. I did get some reaction from the men's coach--I think he thought it was going to be some imposition on him."

Determination has fueled Lynne's attempts in competitive swimming for the past two years. Despite fracturing her wrist midseason, she kept on working out an average of four hours daily.

And two days after the cast was removed, Lynne qualified in a regional contest with other Northern Michigan University swimmers.

"I enjoy swimming. Swimming is a dedicated sport. You have to put time into it to be good. It's a little rough for me now because I do have to compete against people who have been competing for seven or eight years. I try to keep up with them."

This year, Lynne's tenacity paid off with a second place award for NMU swimming. A free-stylist, Lynne was the co-captain of the women's team for the second consecutive year.

Although the upcoming school year will be her last as a swimmer, Lynne intends to pursue a master's degree and become qualified as a swim coach.

This summer she'll hone her coaching skills by teaching younger swimmers to better their time and techniques in a swimming program co-sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union and the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

Lynne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Peters of Maiden Road, Waterford.

Obituary

Nathan F. Coleman

Memorial services for Nathan F. (Nate) Coleman of Clarkston are to be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at Coats Funeral Home, Drayton Plains, with the Rev. Phil Whisenhunt of Waterford Community Church officiating.

Burial is to follow at Lakeside Cemetery, Holly.

Mr. Coleman, 57, died May 28 after a long illness. He was a retired painter and a World War II veteran of the United States Navy.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Della Johnson of Clarkston; children, Diane Pointer of Clarkston and Nathan F. Coleman Jr. of Beulah; and three grandchildren.

Also surviving are his sisters, Mrs. Robert (Udene) Jones of Clarkston, Mrs. Ronald (Inez) Tubbs of Holly, and Mrs. Floyd (Dawn) Tower of Clarkston; and brother, Harold W. Johnson of Holly.

The family requests memorials be sent to the Michigan Cancer Foundation. Envelopes are available at the funeral home.

Amendment still needs township board's ok

Lozano supported the motion. When called for his vote, Smith said, "No, and for the reason specifically that while I think the development would be great, I do not think the high rise is within keeping of desirable development in this district." Smith's statement was greeted with loud applause, but the clamor barely died down before the six other commission members had approved the motion. "No further notice of any public hearing will be made," planning consultant Tod Kilroy told the crowd. "I'd suggest you keep in close touch with Clerk Christopher Rose to find out when this matter will be on the township board agenda," he said, adding it would probably take more than 30 days.

The amendment must go before the Oakland County Planning Commission for a recommendation and then to the Independence Township Board for the final decision.

by David McNeven, Coach

Gliding and soaring are the kinds of sports that attract the truly adventuresome. The type of airplane required are very lightweight with extremely large areas of wing surface. Both are forms of "motorless" flight and depend on thermal air currents to remain airborne. So the key to remaining aloft for extended periods is to learn to recognize typical air flows with respect to variations in terrain, temperature and frontal passages. Fortunately, gliders and sail planes have great glide ratios and very low stalling speeds. As a result, probable landing spots are generally readily available.

You don't have to be adventuresome to enjoy most sports. For a fine selection of equipment for baseball, tennis, and racquet ball be sure to visit us at COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457. There is a good selection of tennis rackets by famous manufacturers. One of these would make a nice gift for Father's Day. Open: Daily 9:30am-6pm, Sat. until 5pm.

SPORTS TIP:

Good training is the prime prerequisite to fun and success in soaring.

Independent view

The three most-contributed books for the sale of the Friends of the Independence Township Library last week, according to Mary Alice Cook, were "Shanna," "The Total Woman" and "Coma".

Mary Alice left us, and we leave you, to interpret that bit of information for yourself.

Glancing up at the clock, Village President Fontie M. ApMadoc noticed it was time to begin the May 14 Clarkston Village Council meeting—and that some of the trustees were yet to arrive.

"You know, I think we ought to start charging everybody who's late; something like 10 cents a minute," she said. "I know the Rotary does it."

The penalty would be especially hard on one council member who frequently scurries into the meetings 10 to 15 minutes late.

As ApMadoc noted, "Poor Jim Schultz would go broke."

Carrying their banners solemnly before them, Clarkston area young people help their elders honor America's war dead in the community parade commemorating Memorial Day. Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts were among the youth groups marching in the parade up Main Street. Keeping the beat for the marchers were Clarkston school bands.

Camp Fire members are among the color bearers in the Memorial Day parade. Although rain threatened, it did not fall on the observances here, which the American Legion has never yet had to cancel because of weather.

Now you can insure your home and car with 1 extra-value policy.

It's called PCP—Personal Comprehensive Protection. It's the extra-value insurance that provides protection for your home and car in one convenient policy.

Separate policies often mean separate dollar amounts of protection for your car, your home and its contents. With PCP you get one amount of property protection for your home and its contents. Plus one amount of liability protection for your car and home. Dwelling losses are paid at replacement cost with no depreciation. And there's automatic inflation protection as well as a 5-year renewal guarantee. You can even include hospital indemnity coverage, disability income and mortgage life insurance.

PCP: another good idea from The Continental Insurance Companies. Come see us and we'll help you arrange the plan that's just right for your insurance needs.

Bright lights, gravel due

Brighter traffic lights and about 7.5 miles of gravel improvements are slated for Independence Township before the end of this year.

The projects are part of a tri-party agreement between the Oakland County Road Commission, the township and the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

Independence Township is to pay one-third of the expenses, or $11,156.

Traffic signals at Clarkston and Sashabaw roads and at Sashabaw and Maybee roads are to be upgraded from eight inches in diameter to 12 inches, according to Dennis Pajot, spokesperson for the county road commission.

The project is to cost the township $578 for its share of the $1,732 total.

The remainder of the township's portion—over $10,500—is to be spent on gravel for roads, a project totalling over $30,000.

At one time, there were seven priorities set for roads needing gravel, said Township Supervisor Whitey Tower.

Another check would be made before submitting his recommendations to the road commission, Tower said.

The old list submitted last year included a need for gravel on Reese, Pine Knob, Holcomb and Algonquin roads, Tower said.

Early Clarkston data sought by OU

By Mimi Mayer

The first comment Richard Stamps made was "Clarkston is of great interest to us."

He was referring to a staff of Oakland University-affiliated historians and archeologists seeking to preserve Oakland County's valuable past.

A $32,000 grant from the Michigan History Division matched by Oakland University will pay for the year-long research of documenting and preserving historical and archeological evidence scattered throughout the county.

"What we're trying to do is get a cross section on what was going on in the early days of the county," Stamps said. "We want to find what's still here, photograph these things and document them."

The data collected by the group will be classified and stored in archives located in Lansing and on the Oakland University campus. The information will be available to the public.

"The focus should be there on a local level. I don't think we should gather up all the local treasures and take them to Lansing. I think it should be stored locally," Stamps said.

Because the project is countywide, Stamps said the researchers intend to contact local historical and archeological societies to avoid duplicating their work.

Any material the organizations have collected will be duplicated and placed in the O.U. or Lansing files.

After learning of the historic building survey recently completed in Clarkston, Stamps promised to contact the Clarkston Community Historical Society in early June.

However, the project has a wider scope than "just the pretty houses," Stamps said.

Archeological data, such as Indian rocks or arrowheads, plus historical documents like "Aunt Nellie's photo album" are also of interest to the group, Stamps said.

"We're not trying to collect a bunch of artifacts," Stamps cautioned. "We would like to examine collections, maybe take some photographs or make some sketches of them."

Hundreds of questionnaires have been printed on which to organize data on historical or archeological sites.

The surveys will be mailed out to historical and archeological societies to retain "information that we know is in the heads of local people out there," Stamps said.

"If anyone has information about artifacts they've found themselves or where they know artifacts have been found, we'll get up there," he added.

Stamps urges interested persons to contact the Oakland University archeology lab at 377-2434 to obtain questionnaires.

Good citizens win kudos, plaques

Clarkston News

SECTION TWO

The Clarkston (Mich.) News

Wed., May 30, 1979 21

Thank you.

That was the message presented to Independence Township achievers in the areas of government, education, public service and the arts at the Community Awards Dinner last week.

Plaques were presented to the winners in categories where nominations were made by individuals.

Named "Super Person" was Alfred Carter for his work with retarded adults at the Pontiac Retardation Center, with Special Olympics and with Clarkston Community Youth Assistance.

Keith Hallman was honored as "Outstanding Government Official" for his contributions to Clarkston as president of the Village Council.

Winner of the "Outstanding Clarkston Educator" plaque was Pat Loveless for her contributions as coordinator of SPICE and for her work as assistant director of SCAMP, a summer camp for handicapped youth.

"Outstanding Young Citizen" Lynn Johnston was recognized for participation in Clarkston Community Youth Assistance, Muscular Dystrophy, the American Cancer Society and her church youth group. The Clarkston High School senior is also secretary of the CHS drama club and was named the 1978-79 Junior Miss.

Honored as "Outstanding Contributor to Creative Arts" was Joan Kopietz for her activities in the Clarkston Community Arts Council which brought Artrain to Independence Township twice, and for her membership in the Oakland County Cultural Council.

Distinguished service awards were given in three categories: Don Place was honored for his work with Independence Center; the group award went to the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club; and the winning project was the John Laffrey SCAMP Benefit.

Certificates of achievement were presented to all persons nominated for the community awards—Clifford Chapman, William Genshaw, Rebecca Harrold, Sharon Hurlbert, Russ Inman, Jan Seifert and Yvonne Wilson.

Also receiving certificates of achievement were those nominated by organizations for their community service—Fontie ApMadoc, president of the Clarkston Village Council; Ed Barnhart, SCAMP; Louise Parker, Clarkston Community Youth Assistance; Gini Schultz, Clarkston Farm and Garden Club; and Independence Center volunteers Patricia Beach, Pauline Hodler, Leona Stelmach and Dorcas Wolf.

Two residents were named Jaycee "Boss of the Year"—Robert Brumbach, director of special services for Clarkston Community Schools; and Julius Dael, owner of Country Value Hardware, Independence Township.

Retired Clarkston Village President Keith Hallman [right], named outstanding government official for the year, is congratulated by Independence Township Supervisor Whitey Tower, who presented the award.

Pat Loveless is one of the people congratulating her boss, Robert Brumbach, director of special services for the Clarkston School System, for his award as one of two Jaycee "Bosses of the Year." A few moments later, Pat received an award as "Outstanding Educator of the Year."

Fearless francophiles tackle teaching

Skirts whirl and hair flies as junior high school and elementary pupils enjoy the finger play "Le Petite Marionette." Elementary students trekked to Sashabaw Junior High May 12 when Jim Tyrrell's French students put on social studies program for the younger kids.

While Bob McCloskey sucks his thumb, fellow clowns John Wiedemann [left], Walter Wilbanks and Mike Houck mug for delighted kindergartners from Jo Vaara's and Kathy Richardson's classes.

United Way names chairperson

The United Way Campaign, which funds agencies in the North Oakland area, is building momentum with the appointment of James W. Fisher as 1979 general campaign chairperson, and James Callahan as the general campaign vice chairperson.

Fisher is executive vice president and cashier at Community National Bank and lives in Troy. James A. Callahan of Northville is personnel director, Central Foundry Division of the General Motors Corp.'s Pontiac plant. His United Way duties will involve recruitment and training of loaned executives.

The United Way drive, which raised a record $2.2 million last year officially begins in mid-September. Run by volunteers, the campaign overhead remains a 9.5 percent per dollar raised.

Last year 54,175 people were served by the United Way-funded services, according to a report that surveyed 14 of 43 member agencies. Yearly, these agencies undergo budget reviews by United Way volunteers.

Library's new hours

Summer hours at the Independence Township Library go into effect June 4.

The library at 6495 Clarkston Road will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday with the exception of Wednesday, when the hours will be 10 a.m.-8 p.m.

The summer hours are for June, July and August.

CJHS fair Friday

Clarkston Junior High School, 6300 Church, will hold a school fair Friday from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Students will have projects on display throughout the school for parents to view. All projects will then be judged and awards will be given to those judged the best.

The science, art, industrial arts and math department will also have some of their works to be shown.

In addition to this, the concert band will be presenting mini-concerts at 8 and 8:45 p.m. Parents and community members are invited to attend.

Eyesight loss doesn't slow down Lee

Before taking off to Cleveland Memorial Day Weekend for the national blind bowler's tournament, Lee squares away some details on the trip with her friend Sally.

'It has taken years. I didn't think life was worth living . . . I stopped feeling sorry about my sight problem and realized that a lot of people who have less sight than I do operate independently.'

Lee Noyes is one gutsy woman.

Classified as legally blind, Lee has retained--through a physiological fluke--a small island of sight in one of her eyes, and her peripheral vision is intact.

Yet she lives alone in a cozy Clarkston house and maintains an active life. It's been a long journey upward from the despair she felt when she realized she was losing her sight.

A divorcee living in Utah with her two children, Carol and Jimmie, Lee learned that one of her cousins was losing her sight due to a hereditary disease.

"I was concerned about her," Lee said. "It made me a lot more careful about getting my eyes checked."

But in the early 70s, "Things were getting spooky," Lee continued. "My vision was just deteriorating and I didn't know it. You don't know when you don't see."

"Before the year was up, it had deteriorated to the point, where I could no longer work. I moved back here because of my family ties."

"It has taken years. I didn't think life was worth living. At that time, I just felt miserable that this was happening to me," Lee said. "I'm looking at it a whole lot differently seven years later."

"I understand now that I am one of the lucky ones. A lot of my friends are partially or totally blind. I'm just more understandable about those people."

"It helps me with my sight problem to be with a group of people that see less. I stopped feeling sorry about my sight problem and realized that a lot of people who have less sight than I do operate independently," she said.

Lee was slowly shaking her blues when she was contacted by the Pontiac-Oakland Blind Bowlers League, sponsored by the Lion's Clubs.

"The woman called. She'd gotten my name through the Independence Center. She asked if I would like to bowl and I said, 'It's a question of transportation.' I didn't get into the program at that time," Lee noted.

But a car pool was organized and Lee began to bowl with the group. There followed participation in tournaments, introduction to new friends and exposure to other activities for the blind.

During the winter months, Lee travels to Pontiac where she takes weekly craft classes, plays cards in a "hen party" with her nonsighted friends or wins prizes in bingo games.

She also takes exercise classes with her friend Carolyn Hunt.

And Lee's quick to take advantage of any new opportunities for fun that comes her way.

"My reaction to any of these things is 'yes.' I told Carol once that when that door opens, you've got to be willing to go through it," Lee said.

"The exercise classes really helped me. I feel so much better," Lee said. "It was like the bowling--getting out of the house and having something to do that was scheduled."

Her most recent venture was to take a small role in the Clarkston Village Player's production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Introduced to the Players by her brothers Pete and Herb Rose, Lee had completed backstage tasks for the troupe. When she was offered a part as a fussy old lady, she jumped at it. "I think I had four lines, but it was a whale of a lot of fun," Lee laughed.

Lee continues to have a glorious time. Over Memorial Day, she trekked to Cleveland for the National Blind Bowlers Association tournament.

She's anticipating summer visits from Carol and Jim, both of whom are now in college. She frequently enjoys dinners with the Rose families.

"We're strong on family and there's a lot of family here," Lee said. "They welcomed me home."

"Clarkston is a neat place. It's a comfortable place to live if you have a sight problem if people finally become aware of it."

"What I'd like people to know is that I have a sight problem," she continued. "Without sight, you're apt to appear stupid. If you don't recognize people, you have a hard time. I guess you can lie a lot and say how good they look."

Even though household tasks are difficult for Lee, she manages to live alone quite well, thank you.

"I have to be able to be of some use to people and try to as much as I can," Lee said. "I guess that my usefulness is my ability to be independent. As long as I can run my own life, I'm darned well going to."

Using a strong light, Lee Noyes, who is legally blind, works on a macrame belt. Lee learned macrame and other craft skills during weekly classes for the visually impaired sponsored by the Easter Seal Society.

Davisburg pupils get into noncompetitive action

A New Games toy foam ball is used in an old-fashioned game of touch football as Gene Gline sprints to make a touchdown.

The happy shouts of Davisburg Elementary students filled the air Thursday when the New Games Foundation came to the Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center to train Oakland County youth leaders in its noncompetitive play techniques. Among the most popular toys is a gigantic earth ball, on which this student perches as the ball rolls across the floor.

YMCA gives word on boating safety

The YMCA of North Oakland County offers the following Boat Safety tips:

1. If you can't swim, don't go boating alone. Have somebody with you who can swim and knows how to handle boats. Carry a 60 foot life-line in the boat. This can be used as an assist for swimmer or boater.
2. -If capsized stay with the boat. It won't sink and the distance to the shore line may appear deceptively short.
3. To board a rowboat or canoe, grasp the gunnels firmly, one by each hand, and step into the center of the boat. Also have someone steady the boat for you.
4. An oar or paddle will keep you afloat. Turn on back, put paddle at back of neck and hold in place with both hands.

5. Always take a few articles in the boat that will float such as a cork or air-filled cushions. Always carry a Coast Guard approved life-saving jacket for every passenger.

6. When boating, shoes should be unlaced. Or better yet, don't wear them.

7. Learn the proper techniques for handling small craft. Never step over an oar or paddle getting in or out. Put both oars or paddles turned on the far side of the craft.

8. If alone, paddle or row from just behind the center thwart. If you are in a canoe, parallel to the direction of the wind and you decide you want to go in the opposite direction, don't turn the canoe around. Just turn yourself in your seat.

Book lover's paradise

It's a book lover's paradise as people of all ages gathered at the Friends of the Independence Township Library used book sale last week. The three-day event held at Clarkston Mills shopping mall netted $350 to be donated to the library, according to Chris Shull, president. An additional $40 was collected for book appraisals by the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club that will also be donated to the library in memory of the late Elizabeth Lambert, a founder of the club.

It seems as if the junior class was destined to put on a prom that would flop.

Every time they put on a prom fund-raiser throughout the year, they ran into some bad luck.

For example, they scheduled two dances and both were cancelled because of a snow storm and a power failure. They also attempted car washes and bake sales in which no one would participate.

With these past misfortunes plus the fact that they had to follow last year's success at Meadowbrook Hall, it would be only natural to think the worst.

Upon arrival, the cars were parked by student volunteers. The couples were left to wander romantically through the grounds under sunny skies. Beautiful gardens, rolling hills and airy porches set the sophisticated, yet natural, mood.

At 7:30, dinner was served in a large dining area of a country mansion. The meal was buffet-style, which proved more pleasing to all because of the many food choices. A selection of roast beef, breaded shrimp, barbecue spare ribs, salads and vegetables were spread across the main tables.

However, the Class of 1980, under the fine direction of President Kari Peterson, could not have had a better evening.

The Junior-Senior Prom was held at Addison-Oaks Park from 6:30 p.m. to midnight. Approximately 130 couples attended this annual event on Friday, May 18.

The drive four miles beyond Lake Orion was quite long and out-of-the-way, but in the end it was worth the trip.

After the meal, the band "Air" began to play. They performed a variety of slow songs, disco and rock music. Everyone was pleased with the music; though the dance floor was small and crowded.

I would like to take this time to recognize those who were unable to attend the prom because of other school commitments. Members of the girls' and boys' track and boys' baseball teams were in competition that night.

Some were able to arrive after a quick shower, others missed the dinner and still more could never attend at all.

The $25 ticket price was irretrievable for those who missed the event altogether. I salute these students for their total athletic dedication.

The next morning, Saturday, was not one to catch up on lost sleep. Rather, couples started out again by 5 a.m. to pursue more activities.

The 19th was spent at Cedar Point by most groups. Others took up the day in canoes down the Rifle River and on Mackinac Island.

On the average, a total of three needed hours of sleep were gained in 48 hours.

The young men these days spent a tremendous amount of money on this pleasure weekend. There were expenses on the dance ticket, dinner afterwards, a tuxedo, flowers, lots of gas and the Saturday activity.

Though sleep and money were given up, this year's prom was very enjoyable. Also, the junior class should be commended for never giving up on what was earlier cited to be a flop. It was certainly just the opposite!

Olympic hopes spur her search for swim coach

She calls herself "Fearless Fisher" and her mother calls her "The Fish."

One thing is certain: 10-year-old Gigi Fisher of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, is determined to be an Olympic swimmer.

Even though she gets lessons from her grandfather, Joe Fisher of Pinedale Road, Gigi knows she has to undergo continual conditioning to perfect her swimming skills.

That's why Gigi decided to look for a coach.

Using a little imagination and Gigi incorporated the Clarkston News into her search, hoping we would print a letter she wrote.

Let Gigi explain why she wrote us.

"I've been wanting to be in the Olympics for a long time, but I can't find a coach. I told my mother I wanted to be in the Olympics and we thought and I wrote the letter.

"I thought that if there was a coach who would read it, somebody would get ahold of me and I would have a coach.

"I love to swim. It builds up your muscles and it's fun. I could stay in the water for 10 hours, if my mother would let me. The only water I don't like is in the bathtub, and I try to swim in there.

"I can go fast, I can do the backstroke, I can do the butterfly a little bit. I like to win.

"I can dive good! I keep my toes pointed and my fingers pointed. I can dive down to the bottom of an 11.5 foot pool.

"My grandpa helps me a lot. He shows me how to swim. He head for air. And my mom helps me a lot, too.

"My grandpa doesn't force me and tells me what I'm doing wrong. He gives me an example and I try to do my best. He encourages me a lot.

"I hope I do get a coach. I know I'd enjoy going to the Olympics. I wouldn't have to worry about going to school because I get good grades.

"I want to get it (training) while I'm little so when I get older, I'll know I did something that was important to me."

My name is Gigi Fisher. I am 10 years old. I love swimming and am very very good at it. I am looking for a coach to teach me for the olympics. If anyone is interested please contact me.

Gigi Fisher

Dear Mimi,

Thank you for writing my letter in the paper. Thanks for interviewing me. All the things you did helped.

I got a call from a college girl about 21, "..... she wants to coach me! Every day after school from 4:00 to 6:00 pm. From Monday through Friday. Only $10.00 a month.

My mom said it would be hard work but I'm going to make it worth it!

Just imagine some day I may win a gold medal, and you could say, "..... I helped her win that medal!"

I really thank you for all the help you've given me!

You can call my mom at the office if you have anything to say!

Your True Friend,
Gigi Fisher

P.S. Write or call back!

The Clarkston News Does Good Work!

Places to go

The Betty Baldwin Arts and Crafts Show will present the work of Michigan artists and craftspeople tomorrow through June 10 at the Pontiac Mall, N. Telegraph Rd., Waterford Township.

The show, open during mall hours, will feature original works of stained glass, watercolors and oil painting, for exhibit and sale.

Sculptor Glen Rhines of Ithaca will be at the show June 5-10, working on a statue commissioned by Gov. Miliken that will be placed on state-owned land the Ithaca State Police Post known historically for blacksmiths. The statue's theme, a blacksmith, is one of the largest Rhine has ever done, made of limestone and weighing 4,000 lbs. before cutting. Admission is free.

Students of Sally J. Cook of Seymour Lake Rd. are to perform their annual piano and organ recital Saturday.

The recital will be held Saturday at the Seymour Lake United Methodist Church. The program will be in two parts. Beginning and intermediate pupils will play at 2 p.m. and advanced young people and adults will play at 7 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

Real Estate HAPPENINGS

by Bob & Marvel White

If career or business opportunities necessitate a relocation, careful selection of a suburban town or city can save large amounts of money in terms of services, surroundings and convenience. That can be vital especially since real estate prices continue to move up. Of course, if the family will be moving in a few years, then it is smartest to buy where resale potential is good right now. This often means a town or neighborhood that will maintain its character. Compare towns, including conveniences, location of schools and stores, and of course, property taxes.

For real estate in the metro area, the suburbs or beyond and for experienced and knowledgeable service "above and beyond," come to BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Main St., next to the Clarkston Post Office. Our reputation is built upon our successful relations with our clients. Our success is the result of hard work, a knowledgeable and experienced approach to the real estate market and a desire to meet the individualized needs of each of our clients. Open 9-9, til 6 Fri. & Sat., 11-5 Sun. Tel. 625-5821.

DID YOU KNOW?

If taxes in a town or city seem low, confirm the assessment ratios and determine whether such projects as new schools are being planned.

Buy bargains, benefit I.C.

Spare household items and out-of-season clothing are being sorted downstairs at the Independence Center for the center volunteers' rummage sale June 2.

Proceeds from the rummage sale, to run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., will be used to keep the center in operation at 5331 Maybee.

The rummage sale will be the latest in a series of fund-raisers the volunteers count on to keep the center open.

Some 100 Walkers for Independence May 19 are expected to bring about $1,500 into the center's coffers as they collect their pledges for the 16-mile walk they completed.

The center became the beneficiary of a contribution from a new and unusual source May 17.

Over a 10-week period, children in the first, second, third and fourth-grade Sunday school classes, at Church of the Resurrection held a "verse-athon" to raise money to buy four smoke detectors for Independence Center.

The children gathered sponsors and received donations for each Bible verse they memorized.

The gift was presented to I.C. board members by Roz Needham and Mike Luchenbach by a representative group from the Sunday school: Derek Shirley, Mandy Preece, Alison Hubbs, Barbara Rietz, Matt Harrison, Sandy Coulter and Hazel Shirley.

College notes

Christopher T. Cowdin, a former Clarkston resident, graduated from Mercy College, Detroit, May 5. Cowdin was awarded an associate of science degree in respiratory care. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Cowdin of 6288 Cramlane Dr., Clarkston, and is currently living in Royal Oak.

Donald Lythgoe of 9730 Big Lake Rd., Clarkston, received a bachelor of applied science degree in electronic engineering technology at the Siena Heights College commencement May 13 in Adrian.

Lois Seddon of Clarkston received her bachelor of science degree in nursing during the commencement at Madonna College, Livonia.

Three Independence Township residents recently received degrees from Michigan Technological University in Houghton.

Edward A. Frick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan A. Frick of 8030 Reese, earned a bachelor's degree in medical technology. Steven D. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnston of 5399 Edgar, earned his bachelor's degree in liberal arts and Cary K. Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leslie of 6315 Snow Apple, earned a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering.

Kimberly A. Hux, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred S.

Hamilton of Clarkston, was among the 114 seniors to graduate at Virginia Wesleyan College's 10th annual commencement, Saturday, May 12.

She majored in secondary education.

Nancy Gravilla, a 1976 Clarkston High School graduate, has received an associate's degree in science from Alpena Community College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gravilla of 5420 Clarkston Road, Independence Township, and plans to attend Central Michigan University in the fall to pursue a degree in education.

Honors

For the second time, Gary Priebe, formerly of Independence Township, was named valedictorian of his graduating class.

The honor was most recently bestowed upon Gary when he graduated from the Jackson College of Ministries, Jackson, Miss. He was also valedictorian of the Clarkston High School class of 1975.

A music major in college, Gary received straight A's from kindergarten until he graduated from college. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Priebe, 6540 Amy Dr.

Gary and his wife, Nancy, plan to reside in San Francisco.

David L. Bixby of Snow Apple Drive, Clarkston, manager of the Oakland University Book Center in Rochester, has been appointed chairman of the National Association of College Stores book committee.

40th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Horace A. Staley, former residents of Clarkston for nearly 30 years, will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary at an open house given by their children, Sunday, beginning at 4 p.m. The festivities will be held in the home of their daughter, Alice Owen, 7569 Bucks Dr., Grand Blanc. The Staleys were married May 30, 1939 in Oakland County. They have three other children, Suzanne Lintz of Midland, Dorothy Brow of Pontiac and Steven Staley of Lakeview, and 12 grandchildren. The Staleys are currently residing in Lakeview.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

While vacationing in Florida, Donna, Harry and Sharon Fahrner stopped to visit former Clarkston residents and neighbors Charles and Phyllis Robinson in Venice. Phyllis is sharing her recipe for ice cream muffins with us this week.

Ice Cream Muffins

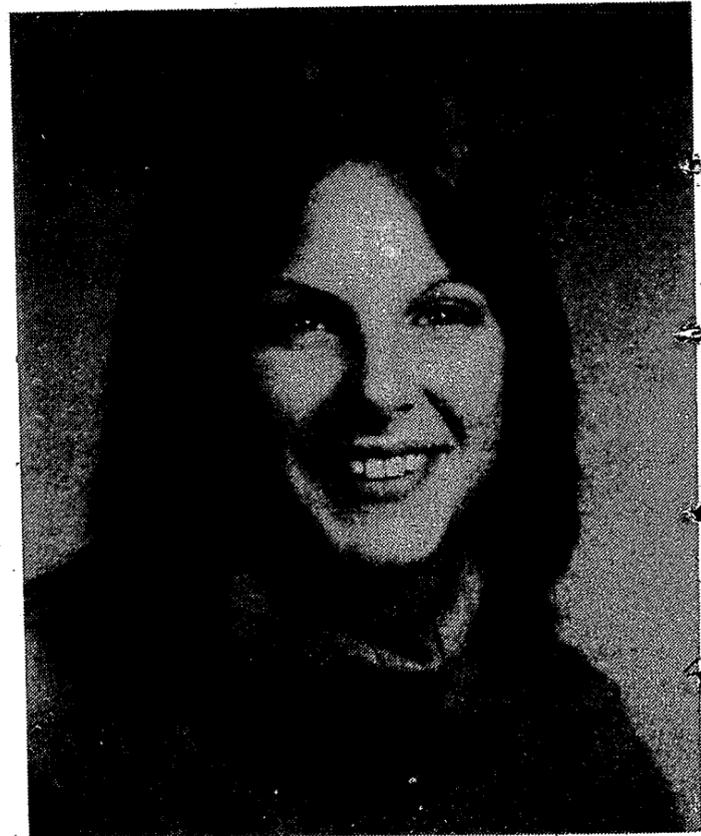

2 cups self-rising flour
1 pt. vanilla ice cream (softened)

Combine and bake in small muffin tins. 425 degrees 10 to 15 minutes. When cool, dip in melted margarine and roll in cinnamon and sugar. Yield: about 4 dozen.

August wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neff of Snowapple Drive, Clarkston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Gail to Dominick A. Flasck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick A. Flasck of St. Clair Shores. The bride-to-be, a 1975 graduate of Clarkston High School, is attending Ferris State, while Flasck attends Lawrence Institute of Technology and is employed by Jim Causley Pontiac. Wedding plans are for Aug. 18.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. John Nicol of Maybee Rd., Independence Township announce the engagement of their daughter, Johanna Mae to Patrick Cadwallader, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cadwallader of Independence Township. Johanna, graduating this year from Clarkston High School, is currently working at J. L. Hudson's. Cadwallader is a 1977 graduate of Clarkston High School. A Sept. 7 wedding is planned.

Partying

Dine in fashion

Two Independence Township women, Verba Feekart of Wellesley Terrace [left] and Mary Graybiel of Independence Square Apartments [right] are among members of the Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall relaxing at the close of the organization's season at a fashion show and luncheon. The white-pique-trimmed-in-brown sundress by Applause and white sandals modeled here by Sharon Owens were one of the outfits furnished by Christie's and the ShoeTree of Clarkston Mills for the event.

"A lot of home-owners are pleased at what they can save with State Farm insurance."

State Farm has become the largest homeowners insurance company in the country by offering low rates and prompt, first-class service. But people are still surprised when they find out we can save them money. When your current policy expires, come see me. I may have a surprise for you.

Coping with kids

by Jim & Ellen Windell

Age three for most children is a time of calm and equilibrium. Not for long, however, because at about three and a half children show signs of considerable stress.

The mother of a three-and-a-half-year-old may be a harried person, beginning to doubt her capabilities as a parent for perhaps the first time. At her child's age, a real stage in the development may be identified as never before in the youngster's life.

The stress at this age may be exhibited through stuttering, clumsiness, tics, thumb sucking, masturbation, whining and demands. There are also fears. Fears of the dark and fears of bedtime are prevalent and annoying for parents.

At three and a half, fears are visual—the dark and the strange things that might populate a dark room at night. Shadows become strange and menacing creatures or burglars. It would be so much easier and safer to sleep with Mom and Dad.

There is no way for parents to avoid their youngster having fears and fearful preoccupations. The next best thing is to handle them when they come along in a manner that does not increase the fears.

How a child is handled depends on the type of child he or she is, but how the child manages early irrational fears will determine if there is any lasting effect on his personality.

Ridicule and anger are ways of handling a child's fearful fantasies which will likely intensify them. Letting a child sleep with the parents or one parent abandoning his or her regular bed for the child's seem likely in most cases to produce secondary problems which may in the long run be more difficult to deal with.

Fears can generally be reduced by patient explanations and gradual encouragement to face the fear of fearful situation (such as a dark bedroom). There are, however, more creative ways of handling and helping the child to handle his fantasies.

Since the fears at this age are fantasy and imaginary, similar means may be used to give the youngsters some resources to use in fearful emergencies.

The fears, for instance, can be treated seriously and the parent can exaggerate the response using creative imagination and probably provoking laughter from the child.

Children who fear witches or ghosts, for instance, might be shown some magical way that such creatures can be kept out of a little boy's bedroom.

This is done by special ceremonies and magical words. A child could have his or her own flashlight after learning that ghosts always go away when a light is shown upon them.

A less fanciful way of dealing with a fear of the dark is to use a rheostat. A light-dimming switch with a gradual turning down of the intensity of the bedroom light each night may help a child soon learn to go to sleep in a nearly dark room.

Dog census to start

The annual dog census by the Oakland County Animal Control Division will begin Monday.

The census, required by state law, will cover all households in the county. Its primary purpose is to insure that all dogs are vaccinated against rabies.

Animal Control Director Carl Anderson said persons owning an unvaccinated and unlicensed dog will be given 10 days to obtain vaccinations and licensing for their pet.

State law requires that all dogs six months or older be vaccinated and wear the license tags which serve as proof of vaccination. Owners failing to comply are guilty of a criminal offense and subject to a fine or jail sentence, or both.

Additional information on vaccination and licensing can be obtained by calling the Animal Control Division at 858-1030.

Ode to Michigan

on patchwork quilt

Michigan's history and symbols are preserved in the "Michigan Quilt." Besides these samples of the children's work, patches include Paul Bunyan, log cabins, a squirrel, oak leaves, cherries, a robin and Kirtland's Warbler.

A "Michigan Quilt" of white embroidered squares and bright red calico trim surrounds Pine Knob Elementary fourth graders [from left] Brian Warden, Suzanne Prince, David Carter and Regina Houck. The pupils of Rosemary Krause talked about Michigan, chose symbols and embroidered the patches. Recently, the 29 children were busy tying the quilt and completing the spare-time project that took about a month. The quilt was presented to the school during Michigan Week and hung in the hallway opposite the front door.
