Fiery crash kills Springfield resident Paul Valentino

Springfield Township resident and former township attorney Paul Valentino, 46, died Tuesday when his twin-engine airplane crashed into concrete pipes near White Lake Road in Independence Township.

Michigan State Police reported that Valentino's plane had engine trouble after taking off from Oakland-Pontiac Airport about 1 p.m. For story on the crash, see page 20.

High-rise issue goes to voters

By Kathy Greenfield

The skyscraper question raised by Pine Knob is going on the ballot in Independence Township.

Clarkston village residents will be unable to vote on the issue.

In a 6-1 vote, the Independence Township Board decided Tuesday night to ask voters' advice on a recreation zoning amendment to allow structures up to 200 feet.

Because the question involves zoning, only township voters can participate in the election. The referendum will be advisory only.

Some 200 people attended the meeting.

The issue was discussed for over three and one-half hours before the decision was made.

About 17 people spoke against the proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel and five spoke in favor of the structure.

Most residents said they were not against a hotel at Pine Knob, but the proposed 600-room hotel with a ski-slope roof was opposed mainly because of its height.

Despite the pending vote by the people, most township officials expressed opinions, although most also said they planned to vote as the majority of residents recommended at the polls.

"I agree with most people when they say we'll not get another 200-foot building, but we may get a five-story building," said Clerk Christopher Rose. "Putting a hotel on that piece of property is not good use of the land."

"I'm putting on the record what my stand is and that's 200 feet for Pine Knob," said Trustee Rudy Lozano.

"It's a very sensitive issue and I think a referendum is a very good way to get public input," said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

"Let's face it, it's going to have impact on the total township," said Trustee William Vandermark. "High rise zoning appears to be poor planning. It's a poor tax base and I think it's aesthetically displeasing."

"I personally would like to see the Pine Knob hotel, but I would like to qualify that by saying I wouldn't like to see it at the expense of the community as a whole," said Trustee Frederick Ritter.

"I don't frankly give a damn about recall and I don't give a damn about legal action," said Trustee Jerry Powell. "I'm trying to do what's best for the township. Let's find out what the people of the township feel about a 200 foot height limitation."

Trustee Michael Thayer did not comment on the issue.

Powell made the motion to have the vote of the people taken "as soon as possible" and said the intent of his motion was "this issue will stand alone."

For a special election, Oakland County requires a 50-day notice.

The election will cost at least $4,000, Rose said, citing last year's special school election.

About 2,900 signatures have been gathered by the Committee Against High Rise Zoning in Independence Township, said attorney Robert Hurlbert.

"Why should uniqueness be the rationale for destroying the beauty of our surroundings?" he asked.

"The issue tonight is not Pine Knob," Hurlbert said. "The wrong decision will haunt us for all time."

Tony Loericchio represented Pine Knob.

Over $5.5 million has been spent to provide facilities to support the hotel that would cost over $20 million more to build, he said.

Because the hotel would be built in the center of Pine Knob's 660 acres, surrounding areas would not be changed, he said.

"We would not risk financial ruin if we thought the character of the community would change," he said. "It works here because of the rural nature."

After the advisory vote of the people, the decision will come back to the township board.

If defeated by the township board, the decision rests with the zoning board of appeals.

"I don't feel a need for an advisory referendum," said Ritter, who voted "no" on placing the question on the ballot. "Pine Knob can still go to the zoning board of appeals, so we're beating our heads against the wall."

Hawk, buy garden goodies

Buy or sell fresh garden vegetables during Farmer's Night in downtown Clarkston Friday and Saturday.

The annual event, sponsored by the Village Business Association, is scheduled Friday from 6 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Produce sellers, crafts sellers and musicians are welcome to participate, as well as groups with fundraising activities, said Joan Kopietz, vice chairperson of the association.

There is no charge for participants, but sellers must register at Tierra Arts and Designs, 20 S. Main, Clarkston, by calling or dropping in before they set up tables.

Local merchants will also have sidewalk sales and specials inside stores for the event.

New code tightens wetlands use

Wetlands of two acres or more will now be covered by the Independence Township wetlands ordinance.

The new law, reducing protected areas from 10 acres, was adopted by the township board in a 5-1 vote at last week's meeting.

Clerk Christopher Rose described the ordinance as "tighter and better written" to his fellow board members.

"It should just be a better ordinance all the way around for the township," he said.

"It should be, it's thicker," quipped Supervisor Whitey Tower.

Tower also noted that the ordinance requires a new wetlands map to replace the old map that has some inaccuracies.

"It was an aerial superimposed to a regular map, and it didn't do all that well," he said.

The old ordinance, however, was "considered a model of its time," Tower said.

The eight-acre reduction in land requiring a wetlands permit was questioned by Trustee Rudy Lozano.

"Have you been having problems with the developers where you feel you have to pass this stringent of rules?" asked Lozano.

"I don't know when the board has prohibited a developer for operating in a wetlands area," responded Timothy Palulian, building and planning department director.

"All we're doing with this ordinance is being a little more specific, a little more concrete," he said.

Lozano also stated his displeasure with the present township wetlands map.

Noting that the new ordinance requires a new map, but does not include one, he asked how much it would cost.

"I have no cost estimate at all," Palulian said. "Johnson and Anderson (the engineering firm retained by the township) can do it, they have the necessary capabilities, but I don't know how much it would cost."

When the vote was taken, Lozano voted "no."

"It's not that I'm opposed to the wetlands ordinance, but I'm against voting down from a 10 acre minimum to a two acre minimum when we don't have a map," he said.

Trustee William Vandermark was absent.

Township audit 'excellent'

Independence Township's 1978-79 audit has been declared "excellent" and "unqualified" by auditor John Nantais.

Nantais briefly presented the audit report prepared by Doeren Mayhew and Co. of Troy to the board last week.

The audit for the fiscal year that ended March 31 shows a general fund surplus of $118,912, a sewer surplus of $118,912, police fund surplus of $24,282 and losses of $28,986 in the fire fund and $3,889 in the water fund, Nantais said.

Copies of the audit are available for inspection at the Independence Township Library or at the clerk's office in Township Hall.

Board wants advice on tax votes

Independence Township calls public hearing for ideas

By Kathy Greenfield

The list grows. Police protection...expanded fire department...safety paths...community center...library improvements...park land...

Asking voters to approve increased taxes continues to be a difficult task.

Too many requests seem to guarantee defeat of all projects.

The Independence Township Board has decided to get help in the decision by calling a special meeting Aug. 28.

The meeting's topic is to choose which tax requests should go on the ballot.

The public hearing date was decided at last week's township board meeting to allow time to prepare specific millage requests and gather support for projects.

Several items that could be placed on the ballot were discussed.

"Back in March, it was determined we needed a police millage," said Charles Kimbel, director of police services. "Here it is August again and we're going to end up with the same old problem--no money."

"I'm not prepared just to throw 1 mill on the ballot and watch it go down the drain," said Trustee Jerry Powell.

"The board has to be the leaders on this," he said. "The only proposal we have is from the fire department, and I guess the board does not feel that's...a burning issue."

Other possible millage requests included more money for the library and funds for a community center.

"I would like to reserve the option of asking for a millage pending a report from the safety path committee," said Jean Benzinger, planning commissioner and safety path committee member.

Treasurer Frederick Ritter suggested consideration of a millage request to purchase part of the 487 acres proposed for a gravel mining operation west of Sashabaw and north of Clarkston Road.

The cost of the last special election was slightly less than $4,000, said Clerk Christopher Rose, who also noted that Oakland County requires 50-day notice for such an election.

The public hearing is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Buy controversial land, Ritter says

By Kathy Greenfield

Independence Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter says he would like to stop a proposed 487 acre gravel mining operation in the center of the township before it gets started.

His solution is simple: band together with state, county and federal agencies and purchase most of the land.

Ritter opposes the 19-year gravel mining operation proposed by Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit.

"Any gravel mining operation is devastating," he said. "I'm not in favor of the type of traffic that would be created by it. A mining operation has negative impact on property values."

Ritter sent a letter to township board members, the parks and recreation director and planning department director on June 27.

His main interest is purchasing some 80 acres, the property that abuts the township's Clintonwood Park, he said.

"It may not be too far out of the realm of possibility to use a portion of this land for a future proposed civic center site," he wrote.

"It only seems logical to me that...the people...would be willing to pay a small amount of money for a very viable alternative," he continued.

"This would give the public an opportunity to let the board know how badly they do not want it."

Ritter also sent copies of his letter to the township planner, attorney, Oakland County park officials and State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac).

Reactions to his letter have been limited, although the attorney said condemnation of land to allow township purchase could be made, Ritter said.

If public reaction to his proposal is positive, a millage request "for any amount from .1 mill to 1 mill for a period of not less than five or greater than 20 years" could be made, he said.

One mill is $1 for each $1000 of assessed property valuation.

Park of the proposed gravel mining site is presently being considered for purchase by the state because of the Clinton River Watershed located on the property.

In addition, much of the property abuts Independence Oaks county park.

The proposed mining operation has been the topic of two meetings at Independence Township Hall.

The first meeting on May 24 with the planning commission resulted in a unanimous recommendation that the township zoning board of appeals deny the request for a zoning variance to allow the mining operation.

The second meeting on July 19 was between the Levy Co. and township, state and county officials to discuss the proposal before the zoning board of appeals presentation.

Court allows smaller lots in large-lot district

By Mimi Mayer

An 84-acre subdivision will be exempted from a Springfield Township blanket large-lot rezoning district.

An Oakland County Circuit Court order won two developers the right to retain their smaller-lot zoning in an area tentatively rezoned for 2.5-acre minimum parcels.

Circuit Judge Steven L. Andrews issued a writ Friday mandating that the Springfield Township Board permit Karl Lundquist and Roger Roeser to continue developing their Greentree Estates subdivision with minimum lot sizes of 1.3 acres.

Andrews' ruling resulted from a civil suit filed early last week by Lundquist and Roeser against the Springfield Township Board.

Greentree Estates, located south of Kier Road between Bridge Lake and Rattalee Lake roads, will become a nonconforming parcel once the large-lot rezoning goes into effect Thursday under Andrews' ruling.

"We're happy we won and we're glad that we can go on," Lundquist said. "I think a 1.3 (acre) is a pretty large lot."

At its July 5 meeting, the board had denied final preliminary plat approval for Greentree Estates, which contains 42 sites.

The action immediately followed the board's approval of an ordinance amendment which rezoned approximately 720 acres of residential property located in the northwest portion of the township from 1.3- to 2.5-acre minimum lot sizes.

The blanket rezoning was to take effect upon publication of the ordinance amendment July 11.

However, Andrews ruled the board could order a zoning ordinance amendment effective either immediately or 30 days after the publication date, but not on the publication date itself.

"The judge made a mistake," said Springfield Township Supervisor Collin W. Walls shortly after the hearing.

"We did it out of an interest in what we thought was fair by putting the township on record before the amendment was published," he said.

He said the board will not appeal Andrews' decision.

Two days before Andrews' ruling, Lundquist and Roeser had asked for a rehearing on their preliminary plat approval request from the board.

The board voted unanimously at its Aug. 1 meeting to turn down the rehearing.

Walls had suggested the denial unless the board planned to reverse its July 5 decision on the plat.

Attorneys also advised denial due to the civil suit.

The blanket rezoning had been petitioned by over 125 Springfield property owners, the majority of whom live within the large-lot district.

Mill Pond landowners can help improve village water quality

Clarkston residents living on the upper and lower Mill Ponds can expect to receive soil sample requests soon.

Spearheaded by Clarkston Village Council Trustee Ruth Basinger, the soil sample collection is one of several steps recently made by Basinger to improve local water quality.

The action was discussed during the July 27 meeting of the Clarkston Hydrology Committee. Basinger presented the plan at the July 30 Clarkston Village Council meeting.

The soil analyses to be completed by the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, will determine what fertilizers Mill Pond property owners use on their lawns.

The fertilizers seep through the soil into the pond, polluting the water, Basinger said.

The soil analyses data will be combined with information collected in an ongoing water quality study undertaken by the United States Geological Survey.

"Based on those analyses, we hope to find an ideal fertilizer," Basinger said, adding the new fertilizer will hopefully be found to retard water pollution.

Basinger also received council permission to write Independence Township officials asking them to review the effectiveness of a catch basin.

The basin was constructed by developers of the Deer Lake Farms subdivision to catch storm water flowing from the neighborhood.

It is located west of Holcomb Road near the Buttercup Road intersection in Independence Township.

"This can't go on," Basinger said. "That basin up there is absolutely dry after the rain and the silt is gushing into the Mill Pond."

Basinger first brought up the soil analysis program and the catch basin during a July 27 meeting at which environmental technician Betty O'Shea spoke.

The eight Mill Pond and Parke Lake property owners who attended the meeting discussed controlling pollution and water weeds in local bodies of water.

Participants attributed seepage from septic tanks, soil run-off from the Deer Lake Farms subdivision and fertilizers as the main causes of tainted area waters.

"It was encouraging that the people present felt water was an important thing," Basinger said, adding that she looks forward to residents' cooperation in water quality improvement programs.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP
Confusion over names given different cuts of meat will soon change. The National Livestock and Meat Board now recommends labels which tell the kind of meat, where on the animal it comes from, and the name of the retail cut you the consumer buy. Until your supermarket adopts these labels, you'll still have to ask your butcher.

Complaints prompt slope-seeding plan

Muddy Mill Pond waters have prompted a request to Hubert Garner, developer of Deer Lake Farms, to hydro-seed some sloping hills.

Three telephone calls from residents and a letter from the Clarkston Village Council led to an inspection Monday of the area surrounding the upper Mill Pond located east of Holcomb Road and north of Miller Road, said George Anderson, department of public works director.

Two new houses in the development located west of Holcomb have back yards that need attention, Anderson said.

"There's just no evidence of great siltation, but I think seeding that slope will pretty much take care of the muddy water problem," Anderson said.

Representatives from the Oakland County Road Commission; Johnson and Anderson, the township engineering firm; the township building department; Supervisor Whitey Tower and Anderson inspected the area Monday.

Runoff from Holcomb Road is also contributing to problems in the Mill Pond, particularly with oil that settles on top of the water, Anderson said.

"It looks a lot worse than it is," Anderson said. "But the problem is enough that people are complaining and we're going to get something done about it."

Although Garner was not in his office Monday, Anderson said Garner's cooperation is expected.

"We'll ask him to fix it, which we expect him to do," Anderson said. "He always has in the past."

Bar all non-taxpayers from beach; Ritter agrees

Attention: The Editor:

While reading The Clarkston News, I came across this article by Mimi Mayer reporting on the new rules for Deer Lake Beach.

It quotes Treasurer Frederick Ritter: "They don't pay property taxes to Independence Township, which taxes we use to run the beach."

"I think they're confusing the taxes they pay to the schools and property taxes, he continued. "It's two separate units."

As a taxpayer, I always understood the rules for the beach use as exclusively for residents of Independence Township and taxpayers.

I was never aware of the OR full-time employees of the township, the Village of Clarkston or the Clarkston Community Schools.

Why don't they live in the community? The employees are paid for what they do.

IF THESE PEOPLE ARE NEITHER RESIDENTS NOR TAXPAYERS, BY WHAT STRETCH OF THE IMAGINATION SHOULD THEY BE ALLOWED TO USE THE BEACH?

I don't understand Mr. Ritter's reasoning, while he is excluding the people of Springfield Township (which he should), he is at the same time making an exception for the employees of the township, village and school employees who do not reside or pay taxes to the township.

Concerned citizen,
Lillian Fulton

Editor's note: Lillian Fulton sent a copy of her letter to Treasurer Frederick Ritter. He contacted The Clarkston News to tell us the rules for Deer Lake Beach passes changed in June. Ritter's statement follows:

"The residency requirements were changed June 15.

"I wrote a memo to my employees and the recreation department on June 15 which stated that Deer Lake beach and boat passes will be sold only to residents and property owners of Independence Township and the Village of Clarkston.

"The memo stated also, to be specific, that no passes may be sold to residents of Springfield Township and no passes may be sold to employees of Clarkston Schools, the Village of Clarkston or Independence Township unless they are residents or own property in Independence Township."

I would like to say, "Thank you very much," to the very nice lady who helped me when I fell off my bike on Church St. last Thurs. afternoon.

I didn't get her name and I want her to know what she did was appreciated.

I couldn't have walked home because of the injury to my knee. My knee is almost alright now, but it's nice to know there are people who care.

Thank you again.

C'mon, parents

To the editor:

An open letter to band parents.

My first involvement with Band Boosters was when our son Paul joined the CHS Marching Band.

Before I was on the board, I was very naive as to the work it takes to run a successful music program in the Clarkston school system--all the planning, teaching, rehearsing, transportation, etc.

These things all involve money, which is not always the easiest thing to come by.

So what I am trying to say is we need volunteers to help, and who should be more concerned than the parents of those who are in the instrumental program.

I would like to suggest that when you bring your child to a practice, don't just drop him (or her) off.

Get involved; stay and help. There are plenty of jobs for everyone, and many hands make light work.

We always welcome new parents and would like to see more attend competitions.

You don't know what you are missing!!!

Music should be part of everyone's life.

Why not make it yours, and at the same time share something new with your son or daughter?

Get involved, join the Band Boosters, and see for yourselves the dedication and hard work that young people are capable of.

Being a Band Booster can be fun.

Our next meeting is Tuesday, Aug. 14, at 8 p.m. in the CHS band room.

Yours tunelessly,
Vi Biondi

Jim's jottings

Alone in Australia

by Jim Sherman

Daughter Susan returned from Australia safe and healthy, thank you.

Shortly after she settled in the car following a 5-stop direct flight from Sidney to Detroit, we asked her if she'd do it again.

"NO!" was the quick, loud response.

We don't know what turns on 16-year-olds besides too loud music, clothes and the opposite sex, but the concerts in Australia didn't excite our daughter.

For the most part the crowds (from Zero to 1500) were responsive, however, at one school our 100 representatives of youth in America were jeered before they started to sing. There were also standing ovations.

Susan exclaimed most about the amount of time she spent alone. The choir and band members would be greeted in a town hall by their host parents upon arrival.

Then they'd be taken home. In several cases Susan (and others we assume) would be taken far from the concert hall. When it came time to go to perform, the students would walk varying distances up to a mile to a train or bus stop (alone) and ride to practice.

It's hard to imagine that responsibility being foisted on a 16-year-old in these parts.

As Susan distributed her gifts to mother and sister she exclaimed, "There was nothing there you'd like, Dad. So I brought you a couple newspapers."

That was enough. I love to read newspapers.

It was in "The Voice" of Miranda, Australia that I learned a town council refused to allow merchants to have sidewalk sales.

The Council claimed tables on sidewalks would reduce sidewalk space so much it would create a "spillage of pedestrians on the roadway". The Council would approve the sales if "each holder were licensed."

We expect town councils around here will soon pick up on that new taxing idea.

In the same newspaper there was a page ad on used cars. "Mazda's Popular 929 coupe. Jackal tan, etc. $5990".

"Volvo 244 GL Sedan, $4990."

The ages of the cars are not given. "The Pictorial News" boasting "The biggest circulation of any paper in the Shire," in Kirrawee, features the picture of the Shire's first policewomen.

That certainly sounds familiar.

The Sherman household is returning to normal. As soon as I leave the living room the baseball game on tv is switched to Laverne and Shirley, I can neither make or receive phone calls, and everything is "boring".

Teach every tongue

by Jim Fitzgerald

When I was in elementary school, I recited the red alphabet. My peculiar version of the ABC's was later described by sociologists as red because of my complexion, which has always been ruddy, especially my nose.

The red alphabet of my childhood is similar to today's black English. A U.S. District Court recently ordered Ann Arbor school teachers to take black English into account when teaching students who speak it. This type of English is described as black because many of the people who speak it don't have red noses.

Black English features poor grammar and mispronounced words compared to the regular English taught in school. The red alphabet features T before S and U before R. It is wrong compared to the ABCs taught in school.

Black English got into federal court by way of a lawsuit which charged that some Ann Arbor youngsters who speak it were getting a bum deal in school. They learned black English at home, from their parents, and it was uncomfortable for them to be told by teachers that black English is poor English.

As a result of a successful lawsuit, it is expected that Ann Arbor teachers will now tell those kids that black English is different English, not lousy English. Thus the kids won't be ashamed of the way their parents talk. The kids will learn regular English to speak when applying for jobs, but will not be discouraged from using black English around their parents.

Some stern people don't like this ambivalent solution to the black English problem. They insist kids should be taught there is only one correct way to speak English. Otherwise, after leaving school, the two-English you'h could get mixed up and lose out economically because he used regular English when asking his father for a job.

There may be some merit to this argument. I've always spoken two types of English, one for business and the other for home, and sometimes I slip. But the results, have never been seriously damaging. If I swear at my wife, I apologize and explain that I thought she was an editor, and she understands completely. She used to be married to an editor.

And if I goof and use polite English around the office, my co-workers simply say "Huh?" over and over until I realize I'm not at home and switch to four-letter words they can understand. No real harm done.

I only wish I knew more than just the red alphabet I learned from my parents before starting school. I was too young to realize it then, but now I understand they didn't correct my red alphabet for fear of making me shoot my parents.

In the red alphabet, toward the end, the progression of letters is TSUR. That's the way I always recited it in school, and the teachers never said a word about there being a second version of the ABC's in which the progression was RSTU. They were probably afraid I'd holler for the ACLU.

In later life, it has been a serious handicap for me to know only the red version of the alphabet. I have suffered economically, just as kids without red noses may suffer if they don't learn how to ask for a job in regular English as well as black English.

Through the years, I have frequently been trapped in the company of men who use the regular alphabet to determine who pays the bar tab. This is called the letter game. One letter of the alphabet is secretly written on a scrap of paper. The men then recite the alphabet, one letter per man, around and around the table until someone says the secret letter. He must pay for the refreshments.

At this late date, it's impossible for me to learn a new alphabet. In the letter game, when the RSTU area is reached, I always go red. Some of my friends think I'm cheating, and some think I'm just dumb. Either way, the penalty is the same. I pay the tab.

Citing the statute of limitations, lawyers say it's now too late for me to file a black English type lawsuit against my old teachers, accusing them of limiting my education 45 years ago. Obviously, this isn't fair. After all, it's the weight of all those years that has permanently imbedded the red alphabet into my mind today. My nose redder today, too.

SCAMP celebrity benefit cancelled

By Mimi Mayer

SCAMP's main fund-raiser will not take place this year.

Hang-ups in scheduling celebrities and setting a date for the event caused John Laffrey to cancel the third annual benefit, said Lewis Wint, president of the North Oakland SCAMP Funding Corp.

Held at the Deer Lake Racquet Club, Laffrey's benefit last year raised approximately $10,000 of SCAMP's close to $56,000 budget for 1979, said Robert Brumback, director of Clarkston Community Schools Special Services.

SCAMP is a five-week summer camp for children with special needs operated by the Special Services Department.

Wint said he learned in last July that the fund-raiser would not be held.

"We just had trouble getting the date and we just ran out of time," he said.

The appearance of local celebrities like newscaster Bill Bonds and Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson were among the public drawing cards used by SCAMP.

Laffrey told Wint "the market of benefits is very saturated," Wint said, adding "every personality has their own benefit."

However, Laffrey promised to deliver $6,000 donated by business contacts to SCAMP in September. He also plans to sponsor a fund-raiser next year, Wint said.

"That shows his commitment," Wint continued. "Because of John's love for the kids and SCAMP, it's not going to be that disastrous."

Other fund-raisers, such as a fall walk-a-thon and the sale of Christmas cards designed by local youths will help earn money for SCAMP, Wint said.

In addition, a series of small benefits will be held, Wint said.

Leading the list is Crazy Carnival sponsored by the Davisburg Jaycettes scheduled Sept. 8.

Featuring rides on a mechanical elephant and a smash-a-car-for-SCAMP auto demolition, the carnival is to run from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Andersonville Elementary School, 10350 Andersonville, Springfield Township.

A country store and farmers' market, make-up and jewelry booths, children's games and a cupcake walk are part of the amusements planned said Jaycette Ina Golden.

To entertain adults as well as kids, a small air show and hot-air balloon ascension may also take place.

"The SCAMP parents are helping tremendously, with a lot of the preparations," Golden said. "WE were hoing to be in conjunction" with the Laffrey benefit.

Persons interested in working on the carnival may contact Jaycettes Bunny Newmarch at 625-1187 or Sandy Chester, 625-4648.

Girls' hoop coach 'ready to play'

Dave McDonald, head coach for the CHS girls' varsity basketball team.

By Mimi Mayer

Dave McDonald, new head coach for the girls' varsity basketball team at Clarkston High School, says he's "eager...excited...and ready to play."

McDonald replaced Jan Modesitt, who retired from the coaching position during the last school year.

A science teacher at Clarkston Junior High School, McDonald has for the last three years coached the boys' varsity basketball team at Roeper City and Country School, Bloomfield Hills.

He has coached baseball, basketball and football at Clarkston High School and Clarkston Junior High.

During the upcoming season, McDonald plans to carry 12 girls on the varsity team and 13 on the JV, which will be coached by Sheryl Stickley.

Tryouts will begin Aug. 14 from 9 a.m. to noon in the CHS gym.

Because there are few returning players, McDonald said he'll concentrate on cultivating his young team and laying the foundations for a "strong girls' basketball program."

He's already had the opportunity to see several of the girls in action by holding practices throughout July and participating in a summer league.

By no means is the team closed to unknowns.

"If a girl comes out and I've never seen her before, she can make it if she's good enough," McDonald said.

The coach plans to drill the team in his favorite strategies.

"I enjoy a man-to-man defense and a wide-open offense," he said. "My big thing is usually I'd rather win a game 70-60 than 40-30."

"I don't want to hold them back. Sometimes if you're timid, it shows in all of your game."

Improving the girls' "general knowledge of the game" is high among McDonald's priorities.

"Good players can analyze a game. I want them to be able to sit on the bench and really know what's happening," McDonald said. "I want them to recognize a difficult defense when they see it."

Although the team drafts have not yet begun, McDonald said Lisa Forsyth, Jane Acton and Mary Barks will be the heart of his team.

"These are some of the young ones who should play," he said.

McDonald isn't making any predictions about how well his team will do.

"It's a wait-and-see attitude," he said. "There's some talent out there. I'm really excited about it. I know most of them and they're a bunch of really nice girls."

The team's first opponent will be Fenton, which McDonald called "one of the best in the state."

Sports & Recreation

Netters called for benefit

Space is available for 20 players to compete in a benefit Round Robin Mixed Doubles tennis tournament.

Sponsored by the Tennis and Crumpets club, opening rounds of tournament play will take place Aug. 8 and 9 at Clintonwood Park, 6000 Clarkston, Independence Township.

The tax-deductible entry fee is $12.50 per person, $25 per couple. All tournament proceeds will be donated to the Department of Psychiatry, Children's Hospital of Michigan, Detroit.

More than 120 private and public courts throughout Oakland County have been reserved for tournament play.

Competition is expected to run through Sept. 23. The grand-prize winners will play against Wendy Turnbull, a 1978 Wimbledon all-England women's doubles champion.

Hostesses for the Clintonwood event are also being sought by Tennis and Crumpets organizers.

To sign up as a player or hostess, contact Barb Zabel at 625-2762.

Boys', girls' x-country at CHS this fall

For the first time ever, a separate girls' as well as boys' cross country team will compete for Clarkston High School this fall, said Paul Tungate, Clarkston Community Schools Athletic Director.

Both the boys and the girls will be directed by Mike Kaul, a former CHS graduate and track coach for Sashabaw Junior High School.

Kaul is replacing Errol Solley, who has taken a position in Florida.

An organizational meeting for students planning to run cross country will be held at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 20 in Clarkston High School Room 224.

SJHS tryouts

Tryouts for the ninth grade girls' basketball team at Sashabaw Jr. High are to begin Aug. 13 at 9:30 a.m.

All girls interested in playing on the team must have a physical exam before they will be allowed to try out.

Grapplers train

Two Clarkston High School wrestling finalists attended the Doug Blugheough Wrestling Camp in Bloomington, Ind., last week.

The boys are 98-pounder Craig Gavette, who attended the State wrestling finals last March and heavyweight Paul Carr, a regionals competitor.

Both seniors, Carr and Gavette have been CHS varsity wrestlers since their sophomore years.

BMX victors

Three Clarkston area boys took home trophies July 28 after competing in the weekly bicycle motocross (BMX) races at the Waterford Oaks county park.

Taking first place in the age 13 category was Rob Mortimore. Ed Burnette was a second-place winner in the 15 and 16 year old class. Third place for 9 and 10 year olds was won by Kurt Harms.

Open to kids aged 7 through 16, the races take place each Saturday at 10 a.m. at the BMX track behind the Waterford Oaks Wave Action Pool.

A $1 fee is charged and all participants must wear safety equipment. Bikes must pass inspections.

12-mile marathon Sunday at PK

By Michelle Marzahl
For The Clarkston News

It's not quite the Boston Marathon, but the longest race ever organized by Independence Parks and Recreation will be run Sunday.

The race will be a half-marathon or 12.3-mile run. Co-sponsor of the event is Pine Knob Music Theatre.

"A lot of runners mentioned a half-marathon, so we decided to offer one," said Sue Topolnicki, Parks and Rec program coordinator.

In addition to the half-marathon, a 4.6-mile run will also be held.

Both races will begin at Pine

Knob at 9 a.m. Sunday.

The runners will be grouped in categories depending on age and sex. Prizes will be awarded to the first, second, and third place finishers in each category. The first 200 entrants will receive a T-shirt.

Entry fees will be $5 during pre-registration, until 5 p.m. Friday or $6 the day of the race.

The is the second long distance run sponsored by the township, and more races will be planned as long as the interest and participation continues.

"We hope it goes over," said Topolnicki. "Once we get established, people will look forward to the races."

Kudos for cheerleaders

The Sashabaw Junior High freshman cheerleading squad recently returned from a Western Michigan University pompon camp bearing three awards. The ribbon winners are: Mary Zublick, top; Kelly Craig [left] and Kim Craig, second row; Sam Mallet [left] holding Sherry Cook's shoulders; Julie Brown [right] holding Amy Frady's shoulders; and Sue Birkett, behind Teresa Bigelow.

Schools' dietician seeks feedback

By Kathy Greenfield

Getting to know the people she serves is Debra Dillon's goal. Although the new food service director for Clarkston Community Schools started her job Wednesday, she already has plans.

Her primary purpose is to sell more school lunches.

"I feel strongly the students are our clientele and the school lunch program is no different than a restaurant," she said. "You have to please the clientele."

Before she expands the menu, Dillon would like to establish an advisory committee with parents and students from each school.

Working with herself, kitchen managers and cooks, the advisory committee would evaluate the lunch program, offer suggestions for menu items and taste test new foods.

'I feel strongly that students are our clientele and the school lunch program is no different than a restaurant. You have to please your clientele.'—Debra Dillon

Dillon sees the plan as "an opportunity for them to get to know the program and for us to get to know the public."

A registered dietitian, Dillon, 25, has a bachelor's degree in dietetics from Michigan State University.

She served a one-year internship with the Milwaukee Public Schools and then worked two years as an assistant to the food service director of the Lansing School District.

Dillon plans to work on teaching pupils and students more about nutrition and to serve as a resource person for teachers.

"When I was in Lansing, that was one of my main functions," she said. "I was out in the classrooms all the time."

For younger children, she has an assortment of nutrition games, puzzles and food tasting activities.

She has also lectured classes of high school science and home economic students.

"I'm going to be out in the schools. I'm going to be in a cafeteria every day," she said. "I think that's important, because you can't really run an effective operation behind a desk."

Dillon also invites comments—even criticism—from the community, she said.

"If they're interested and they care, then they are definitely my ally," she said.

"I encourage people, if they ever have a question about the lunch program, to give me a call any time."

Dillon learned about the opening for food service director from the Michigan Office of Nutrition.

"I was looking for a new challenge and additional responsibilities," she said. "Clarkston was one area I was very interested in, so I applied for the job."

"I'm very excited about it," she added. "I think it's going to pose some definite challenges and I like that."

Debra Dillon wants parents and students to become involved in the food service program for Clarkston Community Schools.

Petitioners try to protect Gibbs Rd.

Springfield Township residents are conducting a petition drive to obtain a natural beauty road designation for Gibbs Road from the Oakland County Road Commission.

resolution at its Aug. 1 meeting recommending that the road commission grant the request. A dirt road lined with natural foliage, Gibbs runs north and south between Kier-Oakhill and Rattalee Lake roads. The natural beauty road designation would assure that vegetation within the road right-of-way is preserved. Donna Whitley, 9850 Gibbs, is circulating petitions which will be presented to the road commission. Although only 25 signatures from township residents are required, Whitley reportedly has received between 30 and 35.

remove vegetation for maintenance purposes, and construction outside the right-of-way is permitted. "The designation of natural beauty road in no way interferes with the use of private land outside the right-of-way," the guidelines say. Within 30 days after the public hearing, the road commission will announce its decision on the Gibbs natural beauty road designation request.

Relatives can team up for fishing competition

Kids and their parents, grandparents, aunts or uncles can team up for the annual "Fishing for Fun Day" Aug. 23 at Independence Oaks County Park.

along the Crooked Lake shoreline. A boat launch is available for non-gasoline powered craft, and boats may be rented at the park.

The two-person teams must consist of a boy or girl under 16 years of age and a related person over 17 who must have a fishing license.

There will be a fishing demonstration and a fish identification clinic. Awards will be presented to the youngest and oldest fishers and for the longest and largest catch.

They'll fish on 68-acre, spring-fed Crooked Lake, which contains largemouth bass, northern pike and various panfish.

Contestants should take bait and tackle. Angeworms will be available at the boathouse.

Activities begin at 3:30 p.m. Cost is $3 per team and pre-registration is required by Aug. 17.

To register, send a $3 check or money order to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission "Fishing for Fun Day," Independence Oaks County Park, 9501 Sashabaw Road, Clarkston, MI 48016.

Participants can fish off piers

The petitions, along with a detailed list of the foliage found in the right-of-way, will be presented to the road commission.

A public hearing, scheduled by the road commission, will be held within the next three months, Whitley said.

"Most of the residents on Gibbs who know about this" support the move, Whitley said. Once the designation is granted, tight environmental controls will be placed on the right-of-way.

For instance, a public hearing must be held before property owners can remove trees from the right-of-way abutting their parcels, Whitley said.

In addition, road commission guidelines forbid the use of herbicides in the right-of-way and dust control activities are kept to a minimum.

Normal road maintenance continues, the guidelines say. Utilities are permitted to Woodhull residents shun park idea

By Kathy Greenfield

A "free" four-acre park doesn't interest them at all, a group of Woodhull Lake area residents told the Independence Township Board last week.

"We have talked to an attorney and we are definitely opposed to a park," said Anita Mann of Jerome Street after the meeting.

Teenagers who now gather during early morning hours on two small lots owned by the township in the subdivision are the problem, she said.

"They (the township) can't seem to control it," Mann said. "So this is our major concern, that we'll have the same problem on a larger scale."

The land is 4.1 acres presently owned by Maurice E. Rubin of 900 N. Adams, Troy.

The board considered condemning the property to purchase it for a park at last week's meeting.

Rubin offered to sell the land to the township for $55,000, but appraisers have set the value between $20,000 and $30,000, said Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

The condemnation process was recommended by the township attorney to allow the matter to be settled in court with a judge setting a fair price, said Clerk Christopher Rose.

Of the seven Woodhull residents who spoke at the meeting, five were opposed to the park.

"You have two pieces of property there and you can't maintain them," said Don Dewald of Jerome Street.

"I think this board's going to have one helluva fight on its hands," he said.

Parks and Recreation Director Timothy Doyle said tentative plans for the neighborhood park include a small ballfield, a shelter and tennis courts.

It would be maintained better than the two small lots, he said.

Doyle also said a petition with 57 signatures received by the recreation department last year asking for a summer playground program in the Woodhull area indicated possible interest in a park.

"I think if we contacted these people, they would show up here in force," he said.

Two residents said they want a park in their neighborhood.

"I do live, or survive, at Woodhull," said Luther Fletcher, adding that a "well supervised recreation area" would be "one of the healthiest investments the township could make."

"I like the idea of a park, because I think it might help the kids over there stay out of trouble," said Pat Matthews.

The issue was tabled for the Aug. 21 board meeting to give those for and against the park a chance to express viewpoints.

"We have an ideal opportunity to establish a park in the area at virtually no cost to the township through different funding," said Trustee Rudy Lozano after he made the motion to table.

"Take that money, pay off the sewers and put that money to good use," Dewald said. "Hell, we have parks all over the township."

Designer on docket

Betty-lee Francis, a historic architectural designer, will attend Monday's Clarkston Village Council meeting.

Francis and her firm Preservation Planning Inc. may be hired to design a streetscape, business signing and building renovations for the village business district.

She will present a contract proposal and answer specific questions about her work at the meeting, reported Trustee Gary Symons.

In historic district

Panel would decide on remodeling

A historical district commission would have control over several facets of home remodeling in the Village of Clarkston under provisions of a new ordinance now being drafted.

All plans for the "construction, alteration, moving or demolition of structures within the historic district" will go before the commission before a building permit can be issued, according to proposed provisions of the code.

The commission could also specify to property owners materials and designs to be incorporated in a building designated as historical, the proposed ordinance says.

These facts emerged when the Clarkston Planning Commission hammered out the wording on some portions of the proposed ordinance at its Monday night meeting.

Working with a draft drawn up by Commissioners Steven Himburg and Dean Smith, the planning commission altered a few words and phrases and added two additional sections to the ordinance.

Planning Commission Chairman Ted Thomson said the ordinance would give the village "teeth" in regulating its proposed historic preservation district.

The ordinance will apply only to the portions of the village located in the district, he added.

"It will really be a two-part village," Thomson continued. "The ordinance won't apply to the new parts of the village and will be superimposed on the old areas."

According to the proposed ordinance, the five-member historic district commission will include two members from an existing preservation society and an architect or professional versed in period architecture.

Several commissioners emphasized that the historical board will regulate the exteriors of buildings located within the district.

In judging plans for changes, the historical commission would consider a building's historical value, its relationship to surrounding structures, the designs and materials to be used and "any other factor including aesthetic, which it deems pertinent," the code draft said.

"This is going to add this cumbersome application-to-the-board step without exception to every permit issued in the north end of town," Thomson said.

"That is very important for people to understand."

However, the ordinance would require that "the commission would work with the owner to reach a satisfactory solution to both parties," Thomson said.

For example, if an owner wishes to apply smooth, contemporary aluminum siding to a structure faced with wooden clapboards, the historical commission could order "a wood-grain siding" used instead, Thomson said.

Or if a piece of trim is damaged, the commission could mandate a historically accurate alternative more readily available to a property owner.

"That's where the architect would come in," Thomson said.

With the new code, it will be "much simpler" for a property owner to obtain variances for building additions, Thomson said.

"It still has to go to the (Clarkston Zoning Board of Appeals) if it is close to the lot line," he continued.

"The historical commission would recommend it, not the owner. It shifts a lot of the onus from the owner," Thomson said. "That is a real plus in my opinion."

The historical commission would not meet on a regularly scheduled basis, the planning commissioners decided.

The code draft says the historical commission will "endeavor to meet" within 10 days of notification from a property owner.

If no action is taken within 30 days, the plans are automatically passed and forwarded to the building department for permits, according to the ordinance.

"We don't want to have somebody come in that has to wait 30 days" for the historical commission to act on plans, Commissioner James MacArthur said.

The Independence Township Building and Planning Department will be notified of the historical commission's rulings quickly "so a person can't go down there and fib and say 'I was passed,' when he wasn't," Thomson said.

The code would include a disclaimer, preventing the commission from striking down any permits in effect at the time of the ordinance adoption.

Those who break the ordinance would be subject to misdemeanor penalties of a $100 fine and court costs and/or 90 days in jail. The penalty was suggested by Thomson.

The proposed ordinance will go before the planning commission once more before it is forwarded to the Clarkston Village Council. Attorneys will then comb the code.

Lockers shine anew

Nearly 1,000 lockers at Sashabaw Junior High School, a file cabinet or two and the metal restroom walls were spruced up with a new coat of paint by the Blackburn Locker Refinishing, Carlingville, Ill., last week. Richard Martin, Greenville, Ill., sprayed the lockers with a durable, scratch-resistant in finish eight colors while his partners down the way sanded lockers. George White, SJHS principal, said he was very pleased with the refinishing crew's work.

- B. Vibra Brush (like electric tooth brush) agitates carpet back and forth 3,400 times each minute. This breaks soil loose and polishes each carpet fiber to a clean, brilliant finish. This type of brush does not distort pile.
- C. Powerful suction extracts hot water and loosened soil back up to waste tank.

A blackout at Pine Knob Music Theatre Sunday night nearly caused the show to be cancelled.

As it was, the sell-out crowd for REO had to wait until 8:45 p.m. for the concert scheduled at 7:30.

The group performed without the usual warm-up act and finished a little after 11 p.m.

"We had almost a first—having to call off a show because of no power," said George White, community relations director for the music theater.

The mystery of the balloon landing on Deer Lake has been solved.

Joel DeLong of Simler Drive called to give us the details.

When Jim Meloche snapped the photos that appeared in The Clarkston News last week, Dave Short of Miller Road was at the helm of his balloon.

Passengers were Short's son Paul and Randall and Maxine DeLong of Miller Road.

Short took off from the parking lot behind Clarkston Mills and made the impromptu landing on Deer Lake "because it was so beautiful," Joel said.

Players' schedule

The Clarkston Village Players' upcoming season will include two mysteries, a comedy and a musical.

The first production of the 1979-80 season, scheduled for early October, will be the mystery-comedy "The Cat and the Canary."

Other selections are the drama-mystery "Veronica's Room," the comedy "Absurd Person Singular" and the musical "Two by Two."

Season tickets will be available in early September.

Persons interested in any aspect of theater production are invited to attend the Sept. 10 meeting of the players, scheduled for 8 p.m. at the depot theater on White Lake Road.

Plane crash kills Paul Valentino

By Kathy Greenfield

Attorney Paul Valentino of Springfield Township died at the controls of his twin-engine airplane in a fiery crash atop concrete pipes in Independence Township Tuesday.

Valentino, 46, of 4635 Gibbs, once served as Springfield Township attorney. His officer were in Bloomfield Hills.

His twin-engine airplane reportedly had engine trouble on take-off from Oakland-Pontiac Airport about 1 p.m. Tuesday, according to Michigan State Police from the Pontiac post.

About half an hour later, his twin-engine Lockheed plane was in pieces behind Precision Pipe and Supply Co., White Lake Road, just south of Clement Road.

A witness to the accident was student pilot Stephen Proctor of White Lake Township, who was practicing take-offs in high winds at the airport when the accident occurred.

The plane was experiencing some engine failure and the pilot called the tower, Proctor said, relating the incident:

"They said, 'Do you need assistance?'"

"I watched him go down below the trees. I couldn't see him anymore."

"Then I saw the flames and the smoke."

"We watched him go down and then we landed," Proctor said. "I didn't want to fly anymore."

Proctor drove to the scene of the crash hoping the pilot survived, he said.

Closer to the crash scene, David Dixon and his brother, owners of Dixon Metal Processing Inc., 4905 White Lake, were working outside when they heard the plane.

It sounded like one engine was out, Dixon said.

Barely missing telephone wires, the plane was "level, then it turned on its side, wings straight up, to miss the building and cranes at Precision," Dixon said. "It sliced on trees, hit the hill and ended up on Precision's pipes."

Dixon and his brother jumped in a van to see what they could do and found the plane in flames, he said.

"The only thing left was the tail and parts of the engine," he said.

Independence Township Fire Department Capt. Dale Bailey was in the first fire truck to arrive at the scene.

"We had a terrific fire; it was really going," Bailey said, pointing to scorched leaves on nearby trees.

The fire was under control in about 10 minutes, he said.

Also on the scene were police units from the township, state and county.

"One witness said he was gliding at low power," said Charles Kimbel, director of township police services, who was the first police officer at the scene.

"I heard other reports that one engine was out," he said. "Of course the FAA will answer that."

Representatives from the Federal Aviation Agency arrived about two hours after the crash to begin their task of sifting through the rubble.

Ribbons aren't only 4-H prize

By Mimi Mayer

Cattle lowed, swine squealed and horses neighed as their owners put them through their paces.

The midway beckoned thrill-seekers with loud rock music and the promise of quick drops and fast spins.

Light gleamed on the smooth glass jars of canned fruits, pickles and preserves.

Vegetables belonging on the glossy pages of Better Homes and Gardens magazines sat in neat stacks on tables.

Pulling it all together were nearly 1,200 young people who proudly exhibited their projects last week during the annual Oakland County 4-H Fair at the Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center, Davisburg.

"Enjoying yourself?" Chris Kroger of Lake Orion was asked.

"Oh God, yes!" he replied. "I had a blast!"

Paul Wiseheart of Oakland Township cited as his big motivation for participating in the fair, "The opportunity to do things. It's just fun to do things."

Paul, who might be called a 4-H Renaissance Man, apparently had a lot of fun.

By Thursday afternoon, his projects on rabbits, ducks, pigeons, painting, ceramics, cake decorating, vegetables and cooking won him first, second, third, fourth and sixth place ribbons or rosettes.

The rabbit won the trophy.

But winning isn't everything to the volunteers who organized and ran the 4-H Fair.

"We really aren't after who can build the best birdhouse or walnut table," said Thomas Schneider, an Oakland County 4-H youth agent. "Through the process of building the table, people learn about themselves."

"I think it's a thing of a person becoming more confident. Their self-esteem grows. They become aware of how to interact with people."

"They learn how to fail. They learn the importance of persistence. They have confidence in adults, whether they get a blue ribbon or not," he added.

Although rules and regulations are in effect as "kids live 4-H" during the fair period, Schneider said the county organization strives to encourage 4-Hers to experiment and express themselves.

A large number of the projects on display center upon the creative arts-photography, fiction and poetry writing, ceramics and drawing.

Schneider pointed out these 4-H programs fill an important function, especially when many school systems are forced by rising costs to pare such frills from their budgets.

There were also many traditional 4-H activities in evidence. For instance, more equestrian events were scheduled than those of any other category.

And rating sewing, cooking and agricultural exhibits filled the bulk of the 4-H judges' time.

"But we'd be out of business if we dealt just with farms," Schneider said.

Thus Oakland County 4-H is one of 12 Michigan districts developing clowning, mime and challenge camping skills programs to attract suburban and city kids.

They're also luring new members by offering more short-term projects and permitting members to skip from one to another upon completion, Schneider said.

"I think that's the trend of Michigan 4-H," Schneider said. "I happen to think the people from Oakland County are really terrific. Maybe we're able to do more."

Snuggling beside Cyclone, a horse owned by Kim Konkle of Independence Township, is Inge Girschner, Pine Knob Road, who is showing the horse for her absent friend.

Local ribbon winners

Several Clarkston and Davisburg area youngsters won trophies during the recent Oakland County 4-H Fair held at Springfield Oaks county park.

Rob McLaughlin of Clarkston won a veterinary science trophy.

A leather trophy was won by Natalie Russell of Davisburg.

Three Davisburg residents--Ethan Russell, Terry Losh and Quentin Layman--were awarded archery trophies.

Valerie Voorheis of Davisburg won a trophy for her leadership project.

A self-determined entry won a trophy for Darryl Wendt of Davisburg.

Cake decorating was the category with a trophy winner from Clarkston, Alyson Dunlop. Karen Oertel of Clarkston won reserve grand champion for her market steer.

Personal appearance and creative stitchery won a trophy for Jenny Parr of Clarkston.

Pride shines on Chris Kroger's face as he shows new friends his championship Blue Silver Martin rabbit. The Lake Orion boy's pet was judged best commercial rabbit at the 4-H Fair.

Kizzy the Chihuahua is a bit unnerved as her owner Carole Miller, Auburn Heights, introduces the pooch to some chickens on show in a 4-H Fair fowl tent.

Triplets close despite busy lives

'My greatest satisfaction is in my spiritual life. My greatest use in life is when I can help somebody else.' —Joy Triplett

Among Joy Triplett's first remarks to me was, "Every minute counts."

It was an apt introduction to the Triplett family -- Ken, Joy and their children, Sherry, 17, Jason, 7 and Michael, 5 -- of Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township.

Both Ken and Joy put in long hours on jobs which give them deep satisfaction.

A packaging maintenance supervisor for the Stroh Brewery Co., Ken said he likes working "with people and equipment."

"I love it very much," he said. "There's a variety -- there's something different every day. It's a tremendous challenge."

Much of Joy's pleasure from her job as a sales associate at Max Broock Inc., Clarkston, comes from her contact with the public through the real estate sales firm.

"Love it," she said. "I'm dealing with people. I'm helping them." Joy added she especially enjoys aiding young couples in their search for their first home.

Like her mother, Sherry works at Max Broock. A part-time receptionist, her career plans are undecided.

A participant in downhill and water skiing as well as horseback riding, Sherry has attended the Apostolic Christian Academy in Pontiac. She will be a senior this year.

Her brother Jason will be a Clarkston Elementary School pupil while Michael will continue at the Clarkston Preschool.

"When we work, we work hard. When we play, we play hard," Joy said. "We're very close as a family. Sherry and I are like sisters."

"Any free time, we like to be together," said Ken.

Among the favorite Triplett family pastimes is boating -- "It's one of the best things we do as-a family," Ken said -- and traveling.

Throughout Ken's career, the Triplets have lived in several areas of the country. During family vacations, they've expanded their knowledge of the United States.

Ken and Joy are now discussing whether to take trips to Great Britain, China, the Philippine Islands or Haiti, where Joy served with a girls' missionary group for three years.

But most often, Joy said, "we just like to sit and talk, share the events of the day."

"Ken is really good with the boys, she continued. "He works a lot with teaching them to work with their hands and do things constructive."

"Sherry has been a super kid. I've had very few teenage problems with her. We're very proud of the boys. We want the best for them," Joy added.

Ken and Joy Triplett of Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township, are content with their fast-paced lifestyle.

"I hope I can breed in them the drive that my wife and I have," Ken said. "You make what you are. Go get it."

"I work hard. I bellyache about it all the time, but I enjoy it and my wife enjoys it," he added.

"In other words, we want them to go and achieve their goals," Joy said. "I want them to be good, honest, sincere. I don't want to use the word 'religious,' but I want them to love God more than anything else."

Sherry mirrors her parents' love for her.

"They're great, they really are," she said. "They've taught me a lot and I want to be just like them."

Despite the busy schedules the Triplets maintain, their home is a peaceful one.

"We do not believe in fussing and fighting," Joy said. "We have had no problems because we believe in talking out our problems and working them out together."

Their membership in the Apostolic Church on Pontiac has been another major contribution to the Triplets' family life.

"I do believe it's very important to be active in the church," Joy said. "It's a very important thing, I feel, for a family to attend services together."

"My greatest satisfaction is in my spiritual life. My greatest use in life is when I can help somebody else," she added.

Ken nodded in agreement. "Her joys are my joys," he said.

Sherry Triplett shares a close and warm relationship with her parents.

Durbin Day fundraiser for IC

Ride in a helium balloon.
Throw wet sponges at township, village and school officials.

Watch winners of a baseball game between Independence and Waterford township's fire departments hose down the losing team.

Take a ride on a pony.

Square dance.

Munch on hot dogs, ice cream and cotton candy.

Durbin Day for Independence Center, an afternoon and evening of family fun, is scheduled Aug. 25 at Independence Township's Clintonwood Park from 2 to 10.

While looking for an organization to sponsor with a benefit, he read about the financial problems of Independence Center in The Clarkston News, said Mike Loszewski, manager of Durbin Company Realtors, 30 S. Main, Clarkston.

"We were talking about it, and I opened the paper one day and said, 'Here's the place!'" Loszewski said.

They walked into an IC board meeting and about two and one-half months ago with the idea, he said.

"We've been looking for something like this for a long time," said Roz Needham, co-chairman of the IC Board. "We couldn't believe it when they came to us."

The center, located on Maybee Road in Independence Township, offers community services including health programs; emergency transportation, food, clothing and shelter; counseling services; and houses adult basic education classes.

Individuals and groups in the community have joined in on the benefit.

For the firefighters' baseball game, Independence Township supervisor Whitey Tower will manage the local team.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, a township resident, will take part in a celebrity tennis match.

The Independent Seniors, a senior citizens' group, is staffing the food booth where hot dogs and other sandwiches will be sold.

Bob and Mary Vandermark are gathering volunteers for the sponge throw.

A bake sale is planned by the Independence Township Fire Fighters Auxiliary.

Bob Shimmin, owner of R.D. Shimmin Inc., Waterford Township, is providing free rides in a helium balloon, weather permitting.

The Clarkston Area Jaycees are donning clown costumes and selling helium-filled balloons.

And Independence Center volunteers will sell tickets for school fair-style games.

The list is longer.

Loszewski figures there are over 100 people volunteering time and services for the benefit.

Park admission of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children will include admission to the baseball game, tennis matches and square dancing.

Other activities will have nominal fees.

Clintonwood Park is located on Clarkston-Orion Road north of the I-75 overpass and south of Sashabaw Road.

Each year, kids at a Cronk-English family reunion burst a pinata. Kevin Thomas takes a swing at the papier-mache happy face while relatives cheer him on.

Family reunions summer tradition

By Mimi Mayer

It rained the first Saturday in August 1955.

But foul weather didn't prevent over 60 members of the Cronk-English family from gathering at a Northern Michigan picnic site for a family reunion.

The sun shone warm and bright Saturday when nearly 80 members of the Cronk-English line met at the Independence Oaks County Park, Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Bearing 15 different surnames, the family enjoyed the 25th such reunion.

The family fete was organized this year by Judy Carpenter of Delhi Road, Independence Township.

As in the past, the adults laughed as blind folded kids whacked a pinata.

In turn, the children cheered on their parents, aunts, uncles and cousins during an adult baseball game.

And then there was the food. As many salads as calorie-laden desserts were served.

Of course, Nancy Goscincki's cabbage rolls, a tradition at the reunions, were savored by the crowd.

Best of all, the party offered a chance for relatives now scattered across the state to meet and swap family news.

"I'm so glad the family wants to keep together," said Violet Cronk of Alpena while she scanned a scrapbook containing snapshots and descriptions of past reunions.

"We're all close for living so far away," Judy said. "We always have a good time."

Dave Goscincki hurls a horseshoe while Mike McLaren judges Dave's form.

The organizer for this year's Cronk-English reunion, Judy Carpenter of Delhi Road, Independence Township, ties a blindfold on Nick English, age 4.

Women seek more Bible study participants

By Kathy Greenfield
Bible study offers a myriad of benefits, say a group of Independence Township women.

And they would like to encourage other women to join the Women's Interdenominational Bible Study classes scheduled to begin Sept. 13. "People don't realize what's in the Bible. It's really practical stuff," said Nancy Ward of Cramlane Drive. "The nitty gritty of living, that's what it's all about."

Nancy is one of four women who gathered last week to talk about the Bible study classes.

"It's really, as far as intellectually, it's broadening," she said. "They offer classes in ceramics, needlepoint--anything, you name it. Why not offer classes back to basics and the Bible?"

After attending a Bible study class in Orchard Lake last year, Marilyn Whisner of Paula Avenue decided a local group should be formed.

Prayer and a lot of planning went into organizing the classes, Marilyn said.

"We've tried getting women from different churches involved right off the bat, so it stays interdenominational instead of one church just doing it," she said.

Organizers include members of the Methodist, Free Methodist, Catholic, Baptist and Lutheran faiths.

"Getting together with women from other churches and sharing our ideas about the Bible and what it means to us and how it might have helped us with problems" are benefits of the Bible study class named by Elaine Billig of Mustang Drive.

"The Bible sort of explains where we're coming from, where we're at and where we're going," said Charlotte Hofer of Boyne Highland Trail, adding that the Bible has provided "answers to all my questions."

Other women involved in planning the classes are Char Cowdin of Cramlane Drive, Carol Thousand of Hummingbird Lane, Mary Ann Duffrin of Ellis Road and Doris Thompson of Winnell Road.

Classes scheduled Thursday mornings from 9:15 to 11:15, will include a lecture, questions for home Bible study and small group discussions.

Those interested in attending are invited to come to a Sept. 13 coffee and ask questions.

Bible teacher Phyllis Proctor of Bloomfield Hills will begin the first session Sept. 20 with a panorama of the Bible before study starts on the Book of Genesis.

The first session will continue through Nov. 15 with two six-week classes to begin after the holidays.

The classes will meet at the Drayton Heights Free Methodist Church, corner of Winnell and Maybee roads, Independence Township.

A babysitter will be available. For further information on how to join, call Char Cowdin at 625-5408.

Organizers of the Women's Interdenominational Bible Study classes are [from left] Nancy Ward, Charlotte Hofer, Elaine Billig and Marilyn Whisner.

Coping with kids

Permit children their anger

Children are exposed to many frustrations in growing up.

Not the least of these frustrations is learning to deal with parental prohibitions.

Prohibitions against anger and the expression of it are often relayed directly or indirectly through parental sayings or proverbs.

Some parents say, "If you can't say anything nice, don't say anything at all," or "A kind word turns away anger."

The message is usually picked up by the child; the message is that children are not encouraged to talk about angry feelings.

Many people in our society have difficulty dealing with anger, both in themselves and others.

The expression of angry or hostile feelings by children is often mixed up with respect for adults and knowing their place (another proverb perhaps more frequently heard in the past was "Children should be seen and not heard.").

When children are prohibited in direct or indirect ways from expressing angry thoughts and feelings, they may develop maladaptive reactions to anger.

A youngster may deny the existence of anger in himself by repressing it or pretending that nothing is wrong.

He may direct it to himself and commit suicide.

Or, he may displace it on animate or inanimate objects--such as a nearby wall or tree.

Anger has survival value and it results from frustrations.

As long as the painful or threatening stimulus is present, the anger will continue.

If maladaptive methods of handling anger are present, a child should be encouraged to learn to deal with anger effectively so that the frustration is reduced.

Since frustration in life is inevitable, especially in a family where rules, regulations and responsibilities are promoted, anger is inevitable and must be dealt with daily.

The best way to deal with it is to accept it as a part of life and if possible harness it to help deal with the frustrations of the world without undue guilt for having such feelings.

That a child is feeling guilty about the expression of anger is evident when he is suffering from nightmares or compulsive symptoms.

The child who dreams or worries about burglars or robbers or monsters coming into his room at night is often a child who is repressing anger that he feels is too dangerous to express.

Given the choice, most parents would probably prefer a child who is expressive of feelings as opposed to one who is quiet, respectful and knows his place and cannot deal with anger or frustration.

Special Education Needs... require special services.

Does your child have problems with hearing, vision or speech? Or any mental, physical or emotional impairment that interferes with the learning process?

Antwerp is the golden city of Europe. It is found on the River Scheldt, and is the world's third largest port. There are boat tours available for getting the best views of the port. The diamond center is considered world headquarters and is most interesting with showrooms and workshops. Jewelers come from all over the world to make the market for diamonds here. Antwerp is rich in other artistic treasures as well. It shows off a friendly, joyous atmosphere and is considered to have a different and exciting nightlife. There are plenty of fine restaurants and you will never run short of attractions to visit.

Some of these attractions are: the Cathedral of Notre Dame, famous for its artistic treasures including three celebrated masterpieces of Peter Paul Rubens; the Plantin-Moretus museum, which was the house and workshop of the famous printer Plantin; and the Renaissance architecture of the town hall, built in the 1500's. The later contains carvings, murals and other works of art. Complete travel plans to Antwerp, or elsewhere, are available from us at CLARKSTON TRAVEL BUREAU INC., 6 N. Main St., 625-0325. There is never a charge for making reservations. Open: Mon thru Fri 9:30am-5:30pm, Sat 9:30am-1pm.

Horse owners must make daily commitment

I have received several calls from prospective horse owners of late inquiring about what is involved in keeping and having a horse.

Most important is a daily commitment to the animal's feeding, care and exercise.

A horse should not be a short-term commitment for a summer, but rather a time investment of several years.

A horse needs a veterinarian on occasion. He needs foot care regularly--trimming or shoes.

Horse feed is also to be considered - clean quality hay daily as well as a grain mix of oats, corn, and molasses. Sometimes wheat germ oil is added to the grain.

A horse needs his own stall where he can receive relief from sun, rain, winter, bugs, etc.

The flooring should be soft (clay or wood) if possible with wood shavings or straw for bedding.

The stall should be cleaned after each use.

A pasture fenced with wood (post and rail or oak planks) must be provided. Avoid barbed wire at all costs!

Then you need halter, lead rope, bridle, saddle, grooming tools, a pail, perhaps a blanket--as you see, it is no small thing.

Finally you need patience, caring concern, understanding and an abundance of love.

We often think of summer as a time when the youngsters are home from school with mornings and evenings free for leisurely rides.

It is also a time of abundant insects that can cause problems for horses.

Gnats swarm out of the grass while horses graze and irritate eyes and ears. Conjunctivitis can result.

Treatment: a fringed brow-band which hangs over the horse's eyes and face.

Roll-on repellent around eyes provides temporary relief, but can cause loss of hair or eye irritation.

I like oil of citronella applied with cotton or corner of a rag. Bitter apple also works.

Various types of flies can cause welts and can be permanently disfiguring if the horse is allergic to them.

They can cause the horse to become very agitated and even dangerous to ride or handle.

Horses can be sponged with disinfectant or sprayed; oil of citronella works dabbed in key spots--on stomach, face, front chest, inside legs.

The most serious fly is the Botfly which resembles a bee and lays eggs on the legs of horses.

Eggs should be removed with a sharp edge and the horses should be wormed for Botfly larvae at least every fall.

Mosquitoes can transmit encephalitis from wild birds to horses as well as swamp fever from horse to horse. Horses should be vaccinated for encephalitis.

The best mosquito preventive is to stable horses in early evening when mosquitoes are the most troublesome.

Often horses get a rash or even sunburn on light skinned areas in summer; a fish oil base ointment is helpful.

If rash persists, it could be a bacterial or fungal infection and require a veterinary diagnosis and treatment.

Horses are comfortable at 15 or more degrees cooler than we find ideal, so summer heat can be hard on them.

Try not to work them during the heat of the day and make sure the horses have plenty of cool water and shelter or shade. Summer is the most pleasurable season for horse owners.

The conscientious owner will remember the requirements that make summer enjoyable and comfortable for both horse and horseman.

HAPPENINGS

by Bob & Marvel White

Most experts say that the federal Income tax laws give real estate a competitive advantage over many other investments. On new residential developments, often up to 22 percent declining-balance depreciation allowances may be taken. On forty year life, this means that depreciation can be started at 5 percent annually. In contrast, non-deductible mortgages allow rarely more than one percent in the first year, although it increases slowly in subsequent years. Seem confusing? Why not come in and talk with us!

An important function of a real estate professional is to explain the intricacies of a transaction to the individuals involved. BOB WHITE REAL ESTATE, 5856 S. Communication message of Hilberry's 'American Buffalo'

American Buffalo
By David Mamet
Studio Theatre
The Hilberry Repertory Company
Wayne State University

"We're human beings; we can talk, huh?" says Donny Dubrow, the owner of a Chicago junkshop in David Mamet's "American Buffalo."

The play which is being seen in this area for the first time is currently at the Studio Theatre as part of Wayne State University's summer theatre festival.

It is about talking and communication and the effect or in-effect of language.

The three men who are the characters in "American Buffalo,"—Donny the owner of the junkshop, Bobby the younger ex-heroin user and Teach, a pseudo-sophisticate-talk at, around, with, but never to each other.

The dialogue is replete with such lines as: "You know what I'm saying?" "What are we talking about here?" "You gotta talk out your problems," and "It's good to talk things out."

But, nothing is talked out or solved.

We soon learn that language is a symbol for these men of communicating, but they never actually communicate except in a violent and physical way.

While they all talk about the value of verbal communication, it is Teach who proclaims, and ultimately perhaps with some justification, "The only way to teach these people is to kill them."

Humorous lines that at times approach hilarity.

It is a farce that is fueled by the funny and frightening cliches by which these men talk and live.

They involve themselves in a scheme that appears to be clearly doomed from the outset because of their inability to communicate.

Planning, which is dependent on language, cannot be carried out.

Finally, unable to verbalize adequately the frustration they feel, the play takes a violent direction and the comic mood is shattered.

David Mamet has fashioned a play that although flawed is a play that should be seen and studied.

Mamet is one of our newer playwrights and his prolific outpouring of dramatic pieces indicates that he has many things to say and will say them in time.

The language in this play suggests the skill of a Stoppard, but also the ability to project fear and loneliness.

"American Buffalo" will run through August 11 at the Hilberry Theatre.

TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE ORDINANCE NO. 67 — As Amended Effective September 8, 1979

TOWNSHIP OF INDEPENDENCE WETLANDS AND WATERCOURSE PROTECTION ORDINANCE

PREAMBLE

This Wetlands and Watercourse Protection Ordinance is enacted to protect the health, safety and general welfare of persons and property by protecting the wetlands and watercourses of Independence Township, Oakland County, Michigan; to regulate the use of land areas appertain to wetlands and watercourses within said Township; to protect economic property values, natural wetlands and habitats, aesthetic and recreational values, riparian rights and other natural resources values associated with the wetlands and watercourses and watercourse areas of this Township, to provide for permits for the use of these resource areas; and to provide for penalties for the violation of this Ordinance. This Ordinance is adopted to secure the public health, safety and general welfare under the combined authority of Section 52 of Article 4 of the State Constitution; Act 246 of the Public Acts of 1945 (Township Regulatory Ordinances), as amended; Act 184 of the Public Acts of 1943, (Township Rural Zoning Act), as amended; Act 127 of the Public Acts of 1970, as amended; Act 347 of the Public Acts of 1972. The Township Board of Independence Township, County of Oakland, State of Michigan ordains as follows:

ARTICLE I - SHORT TITLE

This Ordinance shall be known and may be cited and referred to as the INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP WETLANDS AND WATERCOURSE PROTECTION ORDINANCE.

ARTICLE II - OBJECTIVES

Section 2.1. Findings.

Consistent with the Preamble, The Township Board of Independence Township finds that rapid growth, the spread of development, and increasing demands upon natural resources have increased the potential for shrinkage of the critically necessary domain of nature, wetlands and watercourses and have had the affect of encroaching on, despoiling, polluting or eliminating many of its watercourses and wetlands, and other natural resources and processes associated therewith, which, if preserved and maintained in an undisturbed and natural condition, constitute important physical, aesthetic, recreation and economic assets to existing and future residents of the Township.

Section 2.2 Purpose.

Therefore, the purposes of this Ordinance are:

- A. To promote and maintain in the interest of the public health, safety and general welfare, a harmonious and compatible land use balance within the Township and to obviate the nuisance condition which would arise with the indiscriminate development of existing wetlands and watercourse areas.
- B. To provide for the protection, preservation, proper maintenance and use of Township wetlands and watercourses in order to minimize disturbance to them.
- C. To prevent damage caused by erosion, scarification, sedimentation, turbidity or siltation.
- D. To provide for the protection of soils capable of providing necessary filtration for the maintenance of aquifer stability.
- E. To protect against loss of wildlife, fish or other beneficial aquatic organisms, or vegetation, and also against the destruction of the natural habitat thereof.
- F. To minimize the phenomenon of environmental deterioration.
- G. To secure safety from the dangers of flood and pollution to prevent loss of life, property damage and other losses and risks associated with flood conditions.
- H. To protect individual and community riparian rights.
- I. To preserve the location, character and extent of natural drainage courses.
- J. To provide for the enforcement of this Ordinance and coordination of the enforcement of appropriate local, County, and State Ordinances and/or statutes and corresponding agencies.

Section 2.3. Validity.

The Township Board declares that this Ordinance is essential to the health, safety, economic and general welfare of the people of Independence Township and is based upon reasonable standards.

Section 3.13 "Runoff" shall mean surface discharge of precipitation to a watercourse or low area. Delayed runoff can occur from sudden warming after winter precipitation accumulated as snow and ice.

Section 3.14 "Seasonal" shall mean any intermittent or temporary operation which occurs annually and is subject to interruption from changes in weather, water level, or time of year, and may involve annual removal and replacement of an operation, obstruction, or structure.

Section 3.15 "Soils - Poorly drained" - are those soils from which water is removed so slowly that the soil remains wet for a large part of the time. The water table is commonly at or near the surface during a considerable part of the year. Poorly drained conditions are due to a high water table, to a slower permeable layer within the soil profile, to seepage, or to some combination of these conditions. In Michigan, poorly drained soils may be light gray from the surface downward with or without mottlings.

"Very poorly drained" - are those soils from which water is removed from the soil so slowly that the water table remains at or on the surface a greater part of the time. Soils of this drainage class usually occupy larger or depressed sites and are frequently ponded. Very poorly drained soils in Michigan commonly have dark-gray or black surface layers and are light gray, with or without mottlings, in the deeper parts of the soil profile.

Section 3.16 "Structure" shall mean any assembly of materials above or below the surface of the land or water, including but not limited to houses, buildings, plants, bulkheads, piers, docks, rafts, landings, dams, or waterway obstructions.

Section 3.17 "Temporary" shall mean a time period as specified in the use permit, or if unspecified shall mean an uninterrupted time period less than one (1) year duration.

Section 3.18 "Township" shall mean Independence Township, Oakland County, Michigan.

Section 3.19 "Township Zoning Board of Appeals" shall mean the Zoning Board of Appeals of Independence Township, Oakland County, Michigan.

Section 3.20 "Upland" shall mean the land area adjoining a lake, stream or watercourse, above the ordinary high-water mark, uses for which are essentially non-aquatic.

Section 3.21 "Watercourse" shall mean any waterway or other body of water having well defined banks, including rivers, streams, creeks, and brooks, whether continually or intermittently flowing, and lakes and ponds, and/or as shown on the Official Watercourse and Wetland Map.

Section 3.22 "Wetlands" shall mean poorly drained and very poorly drained soils of two contiguous acres (0.810 Hectare) or more. Poorly and very poorly drained soils are those which are either covered with water or on which the watertable is at or near the surface for a considerable part of the year and which, by nature of their surface and/or sub-surface soil characteristics either contribute to the replenishment of subsurface water supply, or are self-contained water resources, including marshes, swamps and bogs, and/or as shown on the Official Watercourse and Wetland Map.

RUBBER STAMPS made for every business. Personal or professional. Clarkston News, 5 S. Main Street.

Andy Rio [left] and builder Allen Bazzini, owner of A and R Contracting of South Ly on are still friends after working together on the new Ram's Horn restaurant for seven months.

Andy Rio opens restaurant

By Kathy Greenfield
The opening of the Ram's Horn restaurant heralds a change in lifestyle for Clarkstonite Andy Rio.

The former high school football coach is tackling his new career as a restaurateur with gusto.

"After being in the educational field for close to 15 years, to see if I have the ability to succeed in a completely different field," is how Rio explains his new direction. "I guess it would probably be the challenge."

"I really want my kids to have the best," he added, "and that comes back to the money routine."

Rio, who is co-owner and operator of the restaurant, his wife Carole and children Jason, 5, and Jennifer, 21 months, live on Clarkston-Orion Road.

Located in the Waterfall Plaza Center, 5723 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, the Ram's Horn opened last week.

"We broke ground in January," Rio said. "We've been waiting a long time."

The restaurant is number 13 in the chain that covers Wayne and Oakland counties.

He met Gus Kasapolis, owner of the Ram's Horn franchise, while coaching football at Detroit's Osborn high school.

Kasapolis was recruiting football players for his alma mater, the University of Iowa.

Although the football player he wanted ended up going to another school, Kasapolis added Rio to his restaurant team.

Having just completed a three-month training program in operating the restaurant, Rio has learned to admire the efficient service routines and he's strengthened some philosophies of his own, he said.

"If my waitresses and (staff) here aren't friendly, they won't be working here," he said, adding that he stresses the "feeling that you want the customers here."

"Any restaurant can give you food, but we believe in good quality and a fair quantity with superior service," he said.

Earth tones, low key greens and wicker shades covering the hanging lamps set the restaurant's atmosphere.

Seating for 114 people is provided mainly in booths with six adjustable tables that can be put together for large parties.

Open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, breakfast, lunch, dinner or snacks are served any time.

Dinner prices start at $3.89 and there is a large selection of sandwiches, both hot and cold, and several ala carte items.

Popular fare includes a legal, low calorie Weight Watchers menu and Greek food including Gyro, a combination of beef and lamb.

Rio's partners in the venture are Dick Hurley of Franklin and Farmington residents Gus Trikes and Dr. Gene Provost.
