Ballot-shy

Hotel question keeps millage requests down

Independence Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter is going to pursue his plan to ask township taxpayers to buy a chunk out of the parcel of property being considered for a gravel mine.

Ritter's stop-the-gravel-pit plan apparently is the only tax-increase question which could wind up on the Oct. 16 ballot.

Other Independence Township officials who would like to raise taxes for one purpose or another do not want their projects to share a ballot with the upcoming hotel referenda.

Ritter proposes asking voters to approve increased taxes to buy 80 acres of the 517-acre gravel pit proposed by the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit.

After asking for board opinions, Ritter said he would weigh the pros and cons of being on the ballot and return with his request at the Sept. 4 board meeting.

The 80 acres, purchased by the Levy Co. Aug. 1 for $222,000, could then be condemned by the township and purchased, Ritter said.

If the state buys about 200 acres of the property surrounding the Clinton River Watershed, now under consideration under the Michigan Land Trust Bill, and Oakland County Parks buy another 80 acres adjacent to Independence Oaks, it might be possible to stop the gravel pit, he said.

"But if they don't we'll still have a nice piece of property," he said.

The land could be used for a civic center or just to add to the 39.4-acre township park, he said.

Other millage requests were delayed.

"I don't want fire millage on the referendum," said Fire Chief Frank Ronk. "I think it's a negative vote from the word go."

"There's such a negative attitude about the hotel, I just don't want to be on (the same ballot)," said Charles Kimbel, director of police services.

The safety path committee, community center committee and the librarian indicated they were not yet ready to ask for millages, said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

Negotiators' goal: contract Friday

Teacher-contract negotiators on both sides of the table in the Clarkston School District have agreed to one common goal: a contract by 6 p.m. Friday.

If they reach it, they'll have the long Labor Day weekend to relax before the district's teachers are to return to work Tuesday. Classes are scheduled to begin Wednesday.

"We both agree that if we don't meet that goal, we'll be working through the weekend," said administrative assistant Conrad Bruce, chief negotiator for the school board.

Day-long negotiating sessions are scheduled for Monday, Wednesday and Friday this week.

Bruce said the sides were "close on two or three" of the remaining issues to be resolved.

"There are four major issues we haven't begun on to any significant degree," said Al Bartlett, Clarkston Education Association president.

At the top of the list of unresolved issues was a salary schedule.

Early news, ad deadlines

Labor Day next week means early deadlines this week for the next issues of The Clarkston News and the Wise Guide.

The deadline for placing a classified or display ad in the Wise Guide is noon Thursday.

Ads for The Clarkston News should be in our office by 5 p.m. Friday.

Our news deadline is also 5 p.m. Friday.

Jumbo joins Clarkston parade

A newcomer to this year's Labor Day parade in Clarkston is Jumbo the mechanical elephant, who will ride through town on a trailer to promote the Crazy Carnival that will be held Sept. 8 at Andersonville School to benefit SCAMP. The view from the top of Jumbo is especially pleasing to Larry Gavette of Waterford Township, who spent a winter overhauling his new "pet" and covering its framework with carpet backing painted gray. For more on Jumbo and the Crazy Carnival, turn to page 7. To see the parade, be downtown by the 10 a.m. starting time.

Township balks at bids

High construction estimates have delayed two Independence Township projects.

Three bids for the proposed township maintenance building were tabled and the board decided to seek rebids for the Squirrel Hill Road drainage project at last week's meeting.

The 6,000 square foot maintenance building is to be located on five of the 25 acres owned by the township on Flemings Lake Road south of I-75.

"This item, by the way, hasn't been approved other than we put it out for bids so the board could compare costs," said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

Bids for the site work, building construction and electrical work ranged between $530,177 and $434,300.

In previous estimates, Department of Public Works Director George Anderson placed the cost of the building at about $279,000.

"It's the recommendation of the architect and myself that the bids not be accepted or rejected until the next meeting," Anderson said.

"I fully expect to rebid it," he said. "They're (the bids) are considerably higher than what we expected."

The Squirrel Hill drainage project is to be rebid, the board decided.

"If it's not your intent to go over the $4,000 limit, I should recommend that we rebid the project," Anderson said.

Locricchio: 'Referendum a waste'

Pine Knob attorney says resort already has hotel

By Kathy Greenfield

Changing the date of the referendum vote was a good move because of confusion surrounding the proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel, says Tony Locricchio.

"My first reaction is that I'm happy that the forces on the board led by (Clerk Christopher) Rose were thwarted from trying to rush it through," he said.

"It is to the advantage of the opposing side to rush it through before the issues are clarified."

An attorney, Locricchio is spokesperson for Pine Knob owners and developers, his brother Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell.

The next step planned by Pine

Knob is to take the hotel question back to the township planning commission and then to the zoning board of appeals, he said.

"We're proceeding with our rights we've had all along," he said. "All that is going to happen because of the big lies is that we're going to be forced into court."

Several issues surrounding the proposed 600-room, ski-run-roof hotel have been misleading, he said.

An existing "hotel" on the top floor of the Pine Knob ski lodge—located there since it was built—means a hotel can be constructed on the property, he said.

Locricchio lives at the hotel; a room came with his job as with the jobs of several other employees at Pine Knob, he said.

"The people of the township are angry, because they feel they have been tricked," he said. "They are about to be tricked again if they believe the referendum is the last step."

The ongoing license for the ski lodge includes a hotel," he said.

"If we were being tricksters as we're being accused of, we would simply be quiet about that until after the referendum."

Locricchio told the township board and the over 200 residents at the Aug. 7 meeting that the existing hotel, in his opinion, settled the use question.

Plans for the proposed hotel are slated to go to the township planning commission and then to the zoning board of appeals for a height variance.

If the planning commission recommends denial of the site plan, the question goes to the zoning board of appeals upon request of the developers.

Several other statements made by those opposed to a skyscraper hotel are also untrue, he said.

High rises on Main Street in Clarkston were never a possibility—"Clarkston, of course, is in another zoning district," he said.

Locricchio also claims the high rise will not cost the township money and will not increase taxes.

The advisory referendum asking if voters agree that the 35-foot township height limitation should be increased to up to 200 feet in recreational districts is also adding confusion to the issue, Locricchio said.

"Pine Knob's primary desire was never to have the law changed, but to have the zoning board of appeals look at the unique aspects of Pine Knob and vote on the variance," he said.

Those opposed to the skyscraper hotel have used tactics that have left township officials worried, he said.

"So far, it has worked; I must compliment the other side," Locricchio said. "They've got the township officials so frightened that they will vote a referendum on an illegal date."

Now that the special election date has been reset to Oct. 16, 50 days after the binding referendum vote was requested by petition, the problem has only been partially solved, he said. Township Trustee Jerry Powell sits on the zoning board of appeals.

At the Aug. 7 township board meeting, "Powell made a statement—I will do whatever the voters tell me to do—and that immediately destroys the impartiality of the appeals board," Locricchio said.

"That's why you have an impartial zoning board of appeals; that's why they're not an elected board, they're supposed to be impartial."

During the seven months Pine Knob has spent going through the process of working for approvals, another problem has surfaced, he said.

"If we had been turned down cold (by the planning commission) we could have immediately gone to the zoning board of appeals and have them look at it (the height variance) on a one-time basis," he said.

"The most important thing is that the people who are spreading lies are causing us to miss the Super Bowl opening date."

"And it's costing us millions of dollars in increased construction costs and national publicity which we would have received at the time of the Super Bowl."

Calendar time

Clarkston School Board President Robert Walters [left] and Assistant Supt. Mel Vaara appraise the first copy of the school district's new calendar, hot off the presses and delivered to them at the Clarkston News office this week. The calendar and school handbook is to be mailed to parents and students later this week.

Hotel referendum Oct. 16

Oct. 16 is the new date for a special Independence Township election regarding height and use questions about the proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel.

The change was made at a special township board meeting last week after petitions were filed requiring a referendum on the board's recent decision to allow hotels to be constructed in recreational zones.

Rules on deadlines for public notices, voter registration dates and additional hours for voter registrations are different for a binding referendum question, so the township attorney and Oakland County election officials advised the change, Deputy Clerk Marian Lessard told the board.

Although the township attorney recommended different wording on the use question, board members at the meeting decided to stay with the petition wording presented Aug. 20 by Dale Stuart of Mustang Drive, chairman of "Let the People Speak."

"I'm not in favor of removing anything from that petition," said Trustee Rudy Lozano. "I think we should keep it as presented. I don't care if the attorney wanted it or not."

"Evidently (Richard Campbell, the township attorney) felt it was somewhat confusing," said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

"I guess I agree with Rudy," said Trustee Jerry Powell. "If that's what the folks want, let's leave it like that and let it fly."

The board voted 5-0 to keep the binding referendum wording as presented on the petition and to include the advisory height question on the same ballot.

The two questions will read as follows:

On the binding referendum—"Should the Independence Township Zoning Ordinance No. 83 under Article XXI Recreational District be amended under Section 21.03, to add as a permitted use after conditional approval: No. 2 Convention-Resort-Hotel facilities with a minimum site size of ten (10) acres."

On the advisory question—"Should the heights limitation as contained in the Independence Township zoning ordinance be increased from 35 feet to 200 feet in recreational districts?"

Bad water alarms Springfield

The substance of the contaminated-water scare in Springfield Township will be probed at a township board meeting Sept. 5.

The session is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the township hall.

Announcement last week that the water in wells at 10 homes near an illegal dump was unfit for drinking has spread alarm through the adjacent neighborhoods in Rose and Springfield townships, caused inconvenience to families who had to seek new water supplies and brought volumes of complaints.

The State Department of Natural Resources announced last week that the well water tested near the Shindler Road dump had traces of trichloroethylene and perchloroethylene, which have been indicated as causing cancer in animals and are believed to be damaging to human livers and kidneys.

State Rep. Claude Trim (D-Davisburg) has complained about state agencies' slowness in tackling the problem.

"The lack of cooperation and response I have received from state agencies has become extremely frustrating," stated Trim.

"I have been working on this situation for a considerable length of time and have held numerous meetings with various state agency personnel in order to be briefed regarding the situation at hand. Two and one-half months ago, I requested particular facts and figures and to this date have received nothing," commented Trim.

"Last spring I attempted to get to the bottom of this. Recently, I appeared before the Toxic Waste Commission expressing my grave concerns," indicated Trim.

"Initial investigation indicated PCB and other chemicals in the drums, but no PCB was found in the well water samples. However, trichloroethylene and perchloroethylene apparently have leaked into the ground water from the dump sites and this would indicate that other contaminants may also be present in the aquifer. Only further sampling and testing can determine the total nature and extent of the problem."

"After several lengthy sessions with officials from the Department of Natural Resources, I have been assured that this situation will receive top priority."

Rocky road for paving petitioners

By Kathy Greenfield

Heavy traffic caused by Bailey Lake Elementary School is tearing up Pine Knob Road, say a group of residents.

Because it's a dirt road, dust and potholes prevail, caused by buses and traffic to and from the elementary school with the highest enrollment in the district of over 800, they say.

So the residents asked for help from the Independence Township Board last week in getting about one-half mile paved between Clarkston-Orion Road and just north of the school.

Lynn Mead, whose house is located on the corner of Boyne Highland Trail and Pine Knob Road, presented a petition signed by 13 residents.

"The road is getting such high usage that it's becoming almost unusable during the winter," Mead said.

"If the residents hadn't paid for having oil put down, we couldn't live there, the dust would be so bad," he added. "The people facing Pine Knob almost lose their cars, because the ruts are so bad."

Each resident has spent about $100 on oil this year to combat dust, but it's nearly futile, he said.

"In two weeks, the oil is gone, because the traffic is so bad," he said. "It gets torn up so quickly, the county comes out and grades it and then it needs re-rolling again."

Summertime use of the road has also increased, because property surrounding the school is used for soccer games, he said.

"There's nothing this board can act on financially tonight," said Supervisor Whitey Tower, adding that the petition would be sent to the county, because Pine Knob Road is a county road.

Sally Binard of Hummingbird Lane said her children have enrolled in several activities at the school through the township's parks and recreation department.

"So you yourselves draw traffic along the road," she said, suggesting some of the township surplus money be used for paving.

"Yes, the avenue is open to surplus, but not spontaneously at every meeting," Tower said.

Mixed reactions from the nine residents at the meeting greeted Treasurer Frederick Ritter's query—"Would you be willing to spend $100 a year" on a special tax assessment to pay for the paving?

"That route is available, but you would have to go directly to the county," Tower said regarding forming a special assessment district.

Getting cost estimates for paving, asking the county to place the project as a high priority and contacting Clarkston Schools to see if they would share costs would be handled by the board, said Trustee William Vandermark.

Once the township board has the facts, a decision can be made, he said.

"If it was a half-million dollars, I would say, 'No,' but if it was $25,000, I'd take a look at it," he said.

Boycott oil companies

To the editor:

The following is a question asked of R. Buckminster Fuller and his reply:

If you were in charge of the energy program, what would be the first thing you'd do? The first thing to do to solve our energy and gasoline problems is to emulate the Germans in WW II.

The Allies cut off the German petroleum supply. The German scientists immediately undertook to employ the natural-energy income from the sun as harvested photosynthetically by the trees and all other vegetation.

The German scientists then produced four kinds of alcohol, and from those alcohols they produced the synthetic rubber, all their high octane gas for their airplanes, all animal foods and plastics in general.

Though full records are held by the American intelligence of this operation, none of this is being referred to in the present emergency.

We're citizens of the greatest country in the world but there are some things happening in our country we don't understand.

We build the Alaskan pipeline so we could have oil, why are we selling this oil to Japan?

Is there really a shortage? We and many other Americans think this shortage is just a scheme to raise prices on all fuel. We feel we should get a nationwide boycott started.

The plan would be to boycott one oil company per month starting alphabetically. This might be a start.

We all know we can't live without gasoline but if Amoco Oil Company didn't sell any gasoline nationwide for one month they would certainly feel the rightness of money that all of us who use their gasoline are.

We urge all Americans to unite but we need some help to get organized. If interested please write. Our address is:

Name game

When there was first some discussion of my writing a column on a regular basis, it was reasonable that some thought be given to possible column titles.

Initially, I didn't see any problem.

It seemed that an easily remembered name that would assure a large and faithful readership was "Ann Landers."

I was told with what I considered unwarranted severity that not only could I not use the title "Ann Landers," but I was not to propose the use of "Herb Landers," "George Landers" or "Mordecai Landers."

Someone suggested "The Rosey Side Of The Street," but I felt I was not well enough to even read a column called "The Rosey Side Of The Street" much less write one.

These same sentiments apply to "Petals from Rose". I think a much closer definition of future probable content is achieved with a name like "Rose's Retchings."

"Herb's Helpful Hints" is a nice bit of alliteration, but I might have a little trouble finding enough material to fill a column more than once every 17 years.

The last time I made a worthwhile suggestion as to a possible method of upgrading the American Society as we know it today was in late '57 at a party when I stated, "Too much vermouth."

A similar continuity problem would exist if I were to sign myself "Herb the Haranguer."

Occasionally going into a bombastic harangue may have a refreshing, cathartic effect but it is debilitating if practiced on a recurring basis. A really effective harangue takes a lot out of a man.

I am forced to conclude that a definitive, unique column title that is acceptable to someone other than the person suggesting it cannot be developed by manipulating parts of my name, I am therefore stuck with using both halves of the name, as is, and heading the column: Herb Rose.

Chris Duris has what it takes to build a strong competitive swim team: Her experience as a swimmer and coach and some eager young people willing to devote hours to their skills.

What she didn't have was any competition—until she struck on the idea of pitting each of her students against him- or herself in a chairty swim-a-thon.

The results are an enthusiastic bunch of kids who can hardly wait for next summer's training and about $800 netted for SCAMP.

Chris, who lives on Deer Lake and has worked at the Deer Lake Racquet Club as a swimming instructor, lifeguard and waitress for the last two summers, decided to organize some of the youngsters she knows into a competitive swim team this year.

Sixteen young people aged 8 to 16 worked out in the racquet club's pools for seven weeks this summer, training with Chris four times a week.

The kids had varying degrees of experience.

"Some had just come out of an advanced beginners' class," Chris said. "There are a lot of kids around who could swim pretty well but just didn't have the chance."

Their coach, a University of Michigan junior enrolled in a pre-law program, had been on junior and senior high swim teams in Birmingham in addition to her background as a swimming teacher and lifeguard.

The only thing missing in the team's training was a goal.

"You get tired of building and building for nothing," Chris said.

So she devised the SCAMP swim-a-thon, held from 8 p.m. to midnight Aug. 17.

Each of the young people swam 120 lengths of the 44-foot indoors pool at the racquet club, the equivalent of one mile.

The fastest, Jim Zeleznik, swam the distance in 40 minutes, and the rest were finished within an hour, Chris said.

"A lot of the pledges were really generous," she said. "They ranged from a half-cent a length to as much as 50 cents."

The racquet club has arranged for the kids to get medals for their first "competition."

Next year, Chris vows, they'll have other teams to compete against.

Jim's jottings

Australia looks better

by Jim Sherman

Valerie Dahl was disappointed when she read my "Jottings" August 8.

Daughter Susan had just returned from Australia, and said she would not like to go again.

Valerie spent five and a half years there and is going back. She is extremely fond of the people and country.

Long time readers of The Oxford Leader will recall stories on Valerie Dahl. One of the first was written soon after she finished high school. She went to England to study horseback riding.

She learned well and loved it.

This led to Australia, where she continued to ride. It also made her want to own a farm where she could train horses.

For that she needed funds, some of which she returned to Oxford to earn.

Right now Valerie's driving haulaway trucks for F. J. Boutell Driveaway Co.

Now 26-years-old, Valerie will be here a year and a half, then it's back to a town about 50 miles from Melbourne.

The disappointment she felt was for Susan. She admitted the circumstances were different, group rather than individual, but she found the country warm and receptive. She found friendliness wherever she turned.

We admitted Susan had changed her tune now that the 24-hour flight home had worn off. Now when people ask her how her trip was she says, "Great!"

In our Aug. 8 column we mentioned Australian used car ads didn't carry the age of the car. We wrote, "Volvo 244 GL sedan, $4990."

Valerie said the number is the year. It's often prominently displayed on a car like Pontiac Motors prints "Trans-Am" on theirs. Car buyers know the model year by knowing the numbers.

Valerie said she'd like to read the article we quoted about a town allowing sidewalk sales for fear of forcing pedestrians onto the streets.

She said retail stores practically close downtown stores to move their wares into the open-air markets.

It's a very outdoorsy country, Valerie told us.

Well, time and talk have brightened Susan's impression of Australia, and Valerie shouldn't be disappointed anymore.

Ride elephant at Andersonville? It's part of Crazy Carnival

When he joins Clarkston's Labor Day parade, Jumbo the mechanical elephant will be accompanied by Davisburg Jaycettes [and one-year-old Johnathan Chester] in clown get-ups. Although he'll ride on a trailer for the parade, he will "walk" at the Sept. 8 Crazy Carnival to allow kids to take rides on an ambling pachyderm. Jumbo, one of 25 mechanical elephants manufactured in England in the 1950's, was brought to this country to advertise a drug chain's photofinishing. He was auctioned for Channel 56 and was later retrieved by Larry Gavette of Waterford Township from a riding stable, where Jumbo had been put out to pasture.

Bunny Newmarch, a member of the Davisburg Jaycette clown corps, helps her son, Matthew, a SCAMPer, weigh the pros and cons of climbing aboard Jumbo. Rides on the mechanical elephant will be one feature of the Crazy Carnival to be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 8 at Andersonville Elementary School to benefit the SCAMP summer camping program. Parents of SCAMPers will be staffing the fun-'n'-game booths at the carnival. A hot-air balloon ascension will be another carnival highlight.

Rather eye the corner pocket

by Jim Fitzgerald

When I was in my early teens, my ambition was to grow up to be an Utley Puckett. I didn't make it. Utley Puckett was on TV the other night, and it was bittersweet to be reminded of the man I might have been.

CBS-TV told Utley Puckett's story on "60 Minutes." He is more than 70 years old and has been a pool hustler for over 50 years. Contrary to President Carter's diagnosis, Utley Puckett has never suffered a crisis of confidence in himself. And has never worn a beeper on his belt.

Busy, important people carry electronic beepers wherever they go. These people are so important, they must always be available to persons in need of their importance. When the beeper beeps, they rush to a phone to call their office or their answering service. Then they return to their companions, looking harried, and they say they are sorry, but they must run.

No one is allowed to carry a beeper unless he or she knows how to look harried. The harried look requires deep sighs, slumped shoulders and a mobile head. The head must be moved slowly from side to side, never up and down, while the sighs are sighed and the shoulders are slumped and the harried person complains about work that is never done.

It is currently fashionable for beeper persons to admit to being workaholics. They reveal their affliction sorrowfully, while looking harried, as though they were suffering from a terminal illness. But it is important to them to be important, and if they must work 18 hours a day to attain this status, well, that's the way the executive crumples.

Important magazines and newspapers publish a steady stream of articles indicating that many harried workaholics seek importance in Washington where, at lunch time, the beeping often reaches din proportions.

Most recently I read about Eli Ginzberg, head of a federal advisory group on manpower policy, who said he normally works seven days a week and hasn't had a vacation since 1938. That's 41 years without two weeks at the seashore. He has probably had to have his beeper overhauled dozens of times.

A social psychologist, Dr. Daniel Geller of Georgetown University, has studied workaholicism, and he says the cause of rampant beeping is cultural, not financial. "Ambitious people are working in a culture that gives more credit to what you do, than who you are," he said. If you don't do much, you aren't much.

By beeper standards, Utley Puckett isn't much. All he has ever done is saunter around the nation, pausing in poolrooms to hustle a few bucks whenever he needed sauntering-around money. He told "60 Minutes" it's been a splendid life and he wouldn't change a minute of it. A lot of viewers, especially those with harried looks, probably didn't believe him.

Men like Utley Puckett are generally regarded as bums. They don't contribute anything to the gross national product. They don't worry about narrow lapels and mortgage payments and the SALT treaty. If the price of a nine-ball game becomes inflated, they simply increase the bet. They never bother Ann Landers with domestic problems.

My long-ago ambition to become a pool hustler was a youthful aberration which soon faded as I became mature enough to realize the importance of acquiring a three-bedroom home with a breezeway leading to a harried look.

As a responsible adult, I know there never would have been a Skylab if this world were full of men like Utley Puckett; men so unsophisticated they can't recognize a crisis, even when it's in their own confidence.

But sometimes I falter. One day last week I skipped a business appointment in favor of shooting pool in a saloon. I disguised myself with an unharried look, and pretended I was Utley Puckett.

When the important person I had the appointment with finally found me by phone, he asked what I was doing. I told him I was marching to the sound of a different beeper. It felt good.

Independence aligns with state building code

Construction in Independence Township will now be governed by the state building code.

Planning and Building Department Director Timothy Palulian requested the change approved at last week's township board meeting.

Previously, the township used the Building Officials and Code Administrators (BOCA) rules.

"They are essentially the same," Palulian said. "In terms of actual construction code, it will be the state code which is the BOCA '75 code with amendments."

When the state building code was established, townships had the option of not adopting it, Palulian said.

Concerns included possible general state inspections rather than local plumbing, heating and electrical inspections and giving the state more control over local government.

None of the potential problems happened, however, and some advantages are available with the state code, he said.

In cases where builders disagree with decisions by the township board of appeals, they can now appeal to the state rather than going directly to court.

The state code also offers more statewide uniformity and more service, Palulian said.

"I can call Lansing," he said. "Before, I called Chicago to get interpretations of the code."

medical appointment.

We have gentlemen who take afternoon and evening time away from busy schedules of work, home and children to mow lawns, hang pictures and repair furniture.

We have office volunteers who take extra shifts each week because we're short handed.

We have satellite volunteers who give up evenings matching clients needing furniture with people donating furniture—and weekends calling senior citizen shut-ins for "Service With Love"—both typing and preparing the i.c. newsletter.

We have teens who clean the appliances in our kitchen and wash dishes for our housewares cupboard in their spare time—we know how much teenagers like kitchen duty. We have troubleshooters who come in once a week to sort clothing for our clothes closet between little league games and family outings.

We have youngsters who take time from week-end and summer fun to raise funds for the center. However could I have selected just one?

Thank you EACH and EVERY ONE!

More at home volleying political salvos at the Oakland County Courthouse, County Executive Daniel T. The matches were all in good fun and to raise funds for Independence Center.

NATIONAL DECORATING PRODUCTS ASSOCIATION

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Gentlemen:

In the aftermath of the township meeting of August 7th, we find ourselves deeply troubled by the atmosphere and conduct of that meeting. This community is more violently polarized than we have ever seen it before. Some of the statements made were simply incredible. In spite of the fact that attorneys were present (including our own) and gave facts regarding the impact of the change in the zoning ordinance, in spite of repeated facts regarding the school tax base of the township, and in spite of the record of the past 7 years, people who surely knew better were heard to say "We need the added tax base for our schools." Again, "We owe the hotel to Pine Knob for the things it has done for the township." Once more, "The present hill is 130 feet high, so they are only asking for 70 feet!"

It is known to every attorney that the Michigan School tax set up is such that any revenues raised locally over the prescribed amount will only result in a corresponding drop in money from Lansing. Thus Pine Knob will do nothing for our schools with the proposed hotel. Regarding the second statement, Pine Knob has given us a marvelous installation for the spread of the drug-rock counter culture, it has given us constant and repeated invasions of addicts, it has jammed our roads over and over again, it has caused our roads and lawns to become latrines, and has blasted many of us into sleeplessness and audiomania. As far as the third statement goes, I am some years away from freshman logic, but this would evidently mean that a 6 foot man standing beside a 2 foot box would be only 4 feet tall.

Incredible as it may seem, there are literally millions of people in these United States who are not addicted to rock music, who are not enchanted by disco music, who do not enjoy the sweet smell of pot, and who are less than delighted by the counter culture folks with their 'live in lovers.' The Pine Knob philosophy has been stated thus, "We have a right to be here." In our present state of society, this is true. However, we also have a right to be here, and where the so-called rights of Pine Knob infringe upon our rights to enjoy our own property, and to worship our God without interference, then it is time for the democratic process to be invoked. Let it be said clearly and distinctly: we are not in sympathy with the counter culture. We do not support in any way the drug-rock lifestyle. These things are in direct contradiction to our beliefs and our practices. When the promoters of Pine Knob begin to take away our right to use our roads - for any period of time whatsoever - and when their operations make the operation of our church impossible or ineffective, then it is time for Pine Knob to back off. When Pine Knob refuses to adjust, then it is time for our elected officials to function to see that everyone in the township receives a fair kind of treatment. This you officials have not done. Since I have contacted you twice this Spring without any answer whatever from you, I am making this public statement in order to let the community know how we feel about the Pine Knob operations, and the township board.

I. A Statement of Contradictions.

Typical of the contradictions made by spokesmen for the Pine Knob complex is a quotation attributed to Mr. Tony Locricchio in the Clarkston News for August 8th, 1979. "We would not risk financial ruin if we thought the character of the community would change." Exactly how would further high rise building bring ruin to the Pine Knob developers? Repeated statements have appeared in the press about the 'amenities' Pine Knob will bring to the township. We cannot live with the 'amenities' they have already brought! 7 years ago Mr. Nederlander stood in the township hall in a public meeting and openly said, "You will never know the theater is in operation. The finest sound engineers in the country are building berms to absorb 80% of the sound, and the balance will be deflected straight up into the air and dissipated there. We will build stacking lanes on Pine Knob property to take our traffic off the roads, and you will never know we are there." During the past 7 years we have made repeated contacts with the township officials, as you men well know, regarding the sound being projected from the theater, to no avail. In one conference after another we were told of the sound ordinance and the decibel level. After 6 years of this officials have finally admitted that we do not have an enforceable sound ordinance in Independence Township. 3 years ago, at our expense, our attorney gave to the township supervisor a study of court decisions regarding sound projection and controls, and this study has never been seen since then. We were told repeatedly that we cannot afford more township police, yet the supporters of the hotel can hire 3 more firefighters without giving it a second thought. There is a growing list of statements that do not square with other statements, yet no explanations are forthcoming. Why?

Let me follow with

II. A Statement of Concerns.

As we look back over the past several years we realize that every time we have requested a meeting with you to discuss our problems caused by the Pine Knob operation we have come to the meeting and found Pine Knob representatives already present. All the talking was done by these people, and no promises or commitments have come from you gentlemen at all. I will repeat here my intense disgust with the lack of ethics displayed in the deliverance of my personal letter to the board to Mr. Locricchio without my knowledge or permission. This of course brought forth his blast against me in the local press. (By the way, I have never received a personal contact from Mr. Locricchio, either.) The apology given by Mr. Tower in the meeting of August 7th was a step in the right direction, but it did not by any means undo the damage, nor is it in any way a substitute for an answer. Decisions are constantly being made by Pine Knob with the knowledge and cooperation of officials at both the township and county levels which affect us here. To date we have never yet been given an opportunity to have the slightest input in these deliberations. Cases in point are the extra lane on Sashabaw Road, which gave our congregation the task of working through 2 lanes of traffic instead of one, and the recent plan to make Sashabaw a one way road while Pine Knob is letting out. How wonderful! No one is to be allowed South past the Clarkston Orion and Sashabaw intersection during this time, nor will travelers on I-75 be allowed to exit either North or South bound. The total isolation of the residents here is considered quite all right by you gentlemen, because we "must get the Pine Knob customers out." Indeed. In response to the protestations that "we will see that you get through, Reverend," let me say that my time is just as important as the time of the aficionados of the Pine Knob enterprises. The detour from I-75 Northbound to get to the Clarkston Orion and Sashabaw intersection is 8 and 1/2 miles. The corresponding detour if one is Southbound is 14 and 1/2 miles to reach the same intersection. With the price of gasoline going out of sight and scarcity coming? And an interstate highway is to have exits blocked for the customers of a theater?

I appreciate the work done by the Police Study Commission under the Chairmanship of Mr. Bruecke. However, as I have already pointed out to Mr. Bruecke, the study group did its work and turned in its recommendations without ever one word to our church. Yet the Independence Township Police are vital to our preservation in this place. Several years ago we made a number of efforts to reach Sheriff Spreen with regard to our traffic problems generated by the Pine Knob operation. Finally, in answer to a registered letter, one of the Sheriff's lieutenants called us on the phone with the message that the Sheriff's Department would do nothing whatever for us - we would have to accept conditions as they were. Had it not been for Chief McCall and his successor, Chief Kimbel, we would have had trouble simply in staying alive in this place.

We are told of the safeguards which would prevent further high rise development in the township. Yet the same officials who are making these statements are busily engaged in the violation of the whole spirit of the ordinances we now have, and have had for a number of years. What will make the new ordinances inviolate in the future?

The uniqueness of the hotel concept is a talking point, also. We can only wait with bated breath the arrival of the next promoter with plans to build a bakery in the shape of a loaf of bread, or a candy factory in the shape of a lollipop, or - heaven forbid - a Pine Knob Cathedral, with a 200 foot cross on top!

If it were not pitiful it would be amusing to watch the reactions of some of our officials when the magic phrase "Twenty Million Dollars" is pronounced. In the past I have had the honor of serving on the Board of Trustees of Pontiac General Hospital and as a Director of a College. I do not faint when large sums of money are mentioned in my presence. May I remind the board that this investment in the hotel would be for the purpose of bringing returns to the investors. The tax returns to the township would be dubious in the extreme.

We are deeply disturbed by the prospect of sound broadcasts from the ski slope sound system. Since you gentlemen have demonstrated for the past 7 years your inability or unwillingness to deal realistically with the theater sound problem, what assurance can we have of control being exercised over the hotel? None, obviously.

We are very much disturbed by the treatment we receive from the township and Pine Knob evidently based upon the presumption that we are children. When we have asked to see the plans for the proposed alterations to the I-75 Sashabaw intersection we were told that they had been misplaced. When we complain about the sound we are told that Pine Knob will look into it. When we complain about the litter along our roads we are told that Pine Knob will take care of it. The Jolly Green Giant sends forth his 'rangers' to help direct traffic and to help control the drug users who stream out of Pine Knob after each rock concert. Yet residents are discouraged when they wish to organize citizen's watch patrols on their own streets. Our records show 16 instances of excessive sound this Summer alone, 3 instances of open urination on our road in daylight, 2 cars illegally parked on the church grounds during concerts, innumerable cars cruising our street during the day, glass littering our road from discarded liquor bottles after concerts, and on several occasions very audible sound being broadcast before 6:00 P.M. while we are gathering for services.

III. A Statement of Conciliation.

Is it possible for this community to be healed? I believe so. How could healing be brought about? I think by several means. For one thing it is high time for our officials to begin to treat us as adults, and to be open with us. For instance, the board has made it clear that commitments were made 10 years ago to the Pine Knob Syndicate about building a multi-story hotel. These commitments were made, mind you, by officials who were sworn to uphold the very statutes they were promising to evade in the future. In this regard also, it would be most salutary for our officials to insist in return that Pine Knob keep the promises it made with regard to sound and traffic at the time permission was given to build the theater.

It is time to begin to think of the welfare of the whole township, and to abandon the philosophy that whatever is good for Pine Knob is good for the township. It is time to openly recall what other promises may have been made to Pine Knob. What other surprises lie in store for the area? Let the board bring out the site plan and the promises made in connection with it which they propose to honor at our expense, and let us see what the future holds.

This church also filed a site plan in 1968. We asked for no promises, and we received none. We violated nothing, and we expect to violate nothing. We expect to build a sanctuary here. Whether or not we will be able to build it will depend in large part on what Pine Knob is permitted to do to us in the future.

As a suggestion, I believe we should have a Citizen's Advisory Committee in the township. The homeowner and the ordinary citizen must have some means of input in matters which vitally affect his investment and his future here. I do not believe the breaches can be healed without cooperation between all of the elements which make up Independence Township. This has been sadly lacking in the past. Let us make it a reality in the immediate future.

M-15 drain's on agenda

The controversial M-15 drainage project is on the Sept. 4 Independence Township Board agenda.

Because the project to be undertaken by the Oakland County Drain Commission and the State Highway Department would include widening M-15 between Dixie Highway and Paramus Road, objections have been made.

The drain project was tabled by the board earlier to allow discussion between the state highway department and those opposed to the widening to continue.

Because the township would pay 35 percent of the projected $350,000 cost, the board needs to approve the drain project.

State funds are to be used for the widening.

Township Clerk Christopher Rose said he wants to see those opposed to the road widening at the board meeting.

"Unless some people turn out and oppose it, I'm sure the board will approve it," Rose said.

The board meeting is to begin at 7:30 p.m. at Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Whipple Lake Farms approved

Whipple Lake Farms subdivision has received final plat approval by the Independence Township Board.

The 20.1-acre development with 24 lots is located in the northeastern section of the township, on the south side of

Whipple Lake Road between

Dartmouth and Pine Knob roads.

The 30,000 to 40,000-square-foot lots are to have individual wells and septic tanks.

Township drops Woodhull park plan

By Kathy Greenfield

Spend money on better roads and on reducing vandalism in their neighborhood, residents of Woodhull Lake area told the Independence Township Board.

But don't buy four acres for a "neighborhood" park, they said.

The residents presented a petition with 167 signatures saying they did not want the park and the matter was discussed at last week's board meeting for about one and one-half hours.

Then the board voted 4-0 to proceed no further on condemnation procedures to purchase 4.1 acres owned by Maurice Rubin of Troy for the park.

"I think it's the wrong way to go to buy these people a park they obviously don't want," said Trustee William Vandermark. "I think we should take this under advisement and try to accomplish the things that need to be done over there."

Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter suggested the residents bring their requests to the next public hearing on suggestions for spending next year's approximately $100,000 of Community Development (CD) funds, federal money distributed through the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

"We've had public meetings in the past where nobody has shown up," Ritter said. "The last time we had to allocate it, we were basically shooting from the hip, because we had no public input."

With the $25,000 CD money set aside for township park development this year and money left from past years, there is about $45,000 available to purchase park property, said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

visor Whitey Tower.

According to CD guidelines, the money has to be used in low to moderate income areas before other areas can be developed for parks, said Timothy Doyle, parks and recreation director.

Guidelines for CD money expenditures are based on the 1970 census and updates by the Southeastern Michigan Coalition of Governments (SEMCOG), said John Madole, director of the Oakland County Community Development Department.

Local governmental units submit plans for using their share of CD money to the county where they are reviewed and then sent to the Washington, D.C. HUD offices for final approval.

The township was divided into three tracts for the census and tract 3 is the area with the lowest income average.

It is located in the southeast corner of the township, south of I-75 and bordered by Sashabaw, Maybee and Waterford roads on the west.

"We designed it (the CD fund requests) and submitted it to HUD on that basis," Madole said. "We can't use these dollars for a similar park next to Deer Lake, for example."

Public outcry effective

Although he said he has never heard such public outcry against a Community Development (CD) project, John Madole says he isn't surprised.

Madole, who heads the Oakland County CD department, spoke at the Independence Township Board meeting last week, explaining why CD funds should be spent in the Woodhull Lake area.

The people's stand against a park was understandable, he said after the meeting.

"I could see myself being one of the people there (at the meeting) if I were bouncing up and down in my car coming to my house or if my kids were splashed going to the school bus—having intolerable situations," he said. "I'd say, 'Let's get first things first.'"

Calling the Woodhull Lake residents' rejection of a park "sort of a universal agreement" because of the petition they submitted with 167 signatures, Madole said the CD money could be spent on other neighborhood projects.

"If Community Development dollars were spent in Woodhull Lake for streets, for example, and in another comparable part of the township for parks, that would be okay," he said.

"I don't think we'd be happy with money spent for expanding present parks or new parks if some of that money is not being spent in the woodhull area," he added.

Although private roads could not be improved using CD money, there are some public roads in the subdivision, he said, and the township could go to court and have private roads dedicated as county roads before improvements were made.

Two small lots now owned by the township in the area could also be improved using CD dollars, he said.

Madole suggested "a nice, pleasant small kiddy park area—not with a large baseball field, but some greenery that is nicely maintained; a very intimate type of neighborhood park."

Public input is needed at public hearings where proposed uses of CD funds are discussed, he said.

"Independence Township is no different than many others—Waterford complained that only one person showed up for Community Development hearings, he said.

And one reason CD funds were established was so the mayor of an area doesn't have his street paved first, Madole said.

The CD expenditures are first established with a public hearing, submitted by local governing bodies, reviewed by the county, and checked again and approved on the federal level, he said.

"We want to see that the dollars go into low to moderate income areas, wherever they may be," he said.

Pay's not great, but hours are

Lon Harmon of Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township, has been reappointed to the township construction board of appeals for a one-year term.

The construction board of appeals "is set up just like the zoning board of appeals under state law and the building code," said Timothy Palulian, planning and building department director.

Duties of the five-member appeals board include hearing any appeal cases that involve construction.

The board has not met for several years, said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

"They're only paid when they meet," he reminded his fellow board members at last week's board meeting.

Harmon's appointment was approved in a 4-0 vote by the township board.

Firemen get wages

Cash-flow problems caused a transfer of $30,000 from Independence Township general funds to the township fire department fund.

"I transferred it on Friday and now I'm looking for approval," Treasurer Frederick Ritter told the township board last week.

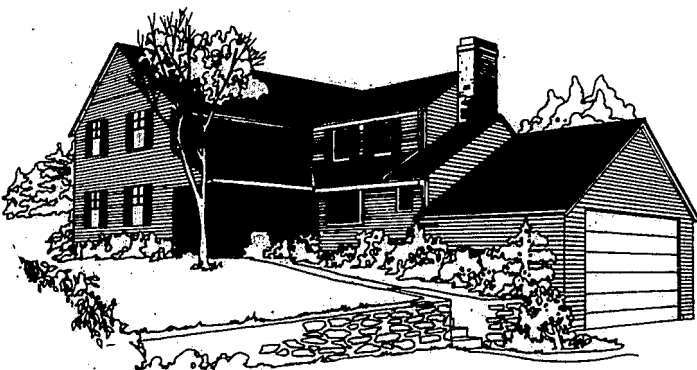

"The firemen were happy;

they got paid," he added.

The money is to be paid back to the general fund by Jan. 15 with 5.25 percent interest compounded daily, according to board action.

"It's just a cash-flow problem, because we're all done collecting '78 taxes and we haven't collected '79 taxes yet," Ritter said.

Car-poolers to get lot of their own

By Kathy Greenfield

Car-poolers should have their own parking lot near M-15 and I-75 come springtime.

The 28-car park-and-ride lot is to be built by the State Highway Department on property adjacent to the Detroit Edison substation just south of the I-75 overpass.

"They provide the space, they buy the property and put in the fence," said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

The township was asked to pay for the lighting, and the final step was approved by the Independence Township Board last week.

The two 100-watt, high-pressure, sodium street lights to be installed by Detroit Edison will cost the township $264 yearly.

"I think because we have no other cost into it, it will be pretty cheap," Tower said, adding that bids for the parking lot construction should be taken in November.

The lot is to become one of about 45 car pool lots in Michigan, according to Paul Riley, metropolitan district engineer for the highway department.

Property for the lot was purchased when I-75 was built,

Riley said, but the project was delayed because of an easement needed from Detroit Edison.

The need for a park and ride lot in the township was brought to the department's attention by the Clarkston Village Council.

Cars parked and left in downtown Clarkston prompted the Village Council to ask for a lot for commuters.

"In fact, we would not be aware of a problem in the center of Clarkston if it had not been brought to our attention by the Village of Clarkston," Riley said.

If the bids are taken in November, the contract would probably be awarded in December, he said.

ber, he said.

"I would foresee (the lot) going in the latter part of March or first of April," he said.

Round Lake motor ban

The putt-putt of motors on Round Lake should be heard no longer.

An amendment to Independence Township Ordinance No. 79 was approved by the township board last week making it "unlawful to operate a vessel powered by a motor other than an electric motor" on the lake.

The action is the result of hearings by the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) that started in July 1978.

Round Lake is located in the northeast section of the township.

At the turn of the century, there were over 100 velodromes in the United States. A velodrome is an auditorium with a track especially designed for high speed bicycle competitions when riders competed against trains, horses, and automobiles. Now, there is only one quality velodrome in the United States, in Pennsylvania. As interest in physical fitness increases there is a chance that bicycle racing can regain some of its old popularity.

There's a good chance you'll find exactly what you need when you come to us at COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457. We are here to assist you in the purchase of the right pieces of equipment for your favorite sports. In addition to individuals, we can supply teams in the area with all their equipment and uniforms. Hours: 9:30am-6pm daily, until 5pm Sat.

HANDY HINT:

Always carry a spare tube if doing long distance bicycle riding.

Don't call him amateur.

Russ Inman works hard as Player

By Kathy Greenfield

Russ Inman's first appearance on the local stage was less than ideal.

"It bombed," said Inman about "Fiorello," a musical of the Clarkston Village Players in which he played the second male lead.

The inauspicious beginning, however, made him determined to improve.

Indeed, for the past six years, Inman has served as the players' president and he has appeared in about 10 plays.

"I just decided I wasn't going to live with a bomb on my conscience, so I got more involved," he said. "The more involved I got, the more I liked it, the more I liked the people -- and I'm basically a ham."

Inman has lived on Almond Lane in Independence Township for 18 years with his wife Sally. They have four children—Russell II, 32; Denise, 30; Guy, 27; and Noreen, 22.

Words like "integrity" and "professionalism" are scattered throughout Inman's conversation as he talks about his job, his former stint as a gospel singer and his work with the Village Players.

He is a field observer for the architectural firm TMP Associates, Bloomfield Hills.

"My job is to see to it that the contractors build whatever they bid, that there are no short cuts and to make judgements in construction conflicts," he said.

Architecture has been his field since 1950.

Included in the "probably 13 firms" he has worked with, were six years with architect Alden Dow.

During that time, he worked on the Oakland County Courthouse, the Central Michigan University central campus recreation building and the athletic complex at Hope College.

Field observation has been his career for about eight years. Before that he served as chief draftsman for two firms.

"Most of my career has been on the drafting board," he said, but he likes the field work better.

"There's more personal contact with the people, relationships with clients and contractors," he said.

"In the field, you're standing there while they line up the bricks," he said. "If anything happens, you have to be ready."

His favorite architecture around Clarkston includes the Clarkston United Methodist Church building on Waldon Road.

In general, he likes church architecture the most.

"I think that they give the users of the buildings more pleasure than any other building by just sitting there," he said.

"You may have a helluva lot of fun with a tennis court, but you can't just sit in the middle of a tennis court and enjoy yourself. But if a church is done properly, you can."

He also has an architect's opinion of the Clarkston Village Players' Depot Theatre.

"The building is nothing architecturally," he said. "It's the cheap depot that the railroads used to put up in every small town. It has no architectural quality at all."

That's not to say that Inman doesn't like the theater, however.

"As a community theater, it's great, because it's small," he said. "Because it only seats 90, everybody has a good seat."

"You're very close to the performers, so you become part of the play and vice versa. The players can't get away from the audience."

"There's no way you can be on that stage and not know the audience is there and not know how they're reacting to what you're doing."

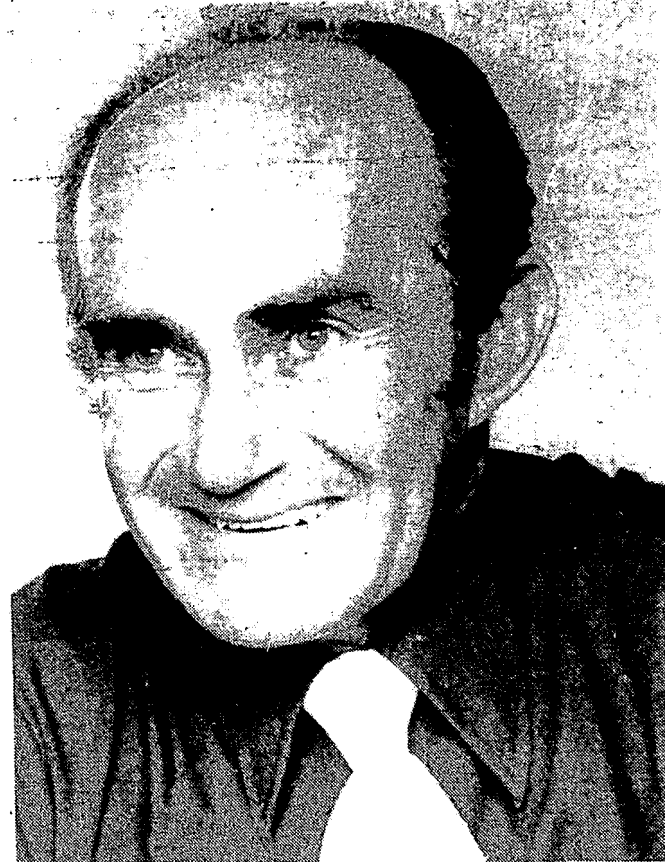

Inman works almost nightly at the theater located at 4861 Depot Road next to the railroad tracks.

"Things have to be done," he said. "We're talking architecture again—the building can cause you to fail or succeed."

"It's also true with us. We have the greatest audience in the in the world — the most faithful group," he said.

"People come in, freeze in the wintertime, perspire in the summertime, sit shoulder to shoulder," he said. "There are no restroom facilities, no refreshment stand of any type."

Inman would like to see all that change. The latest fundraising effort by the village players is to build bathrooms and a lobby area.

Russ Inman's intensity about the Clarkston Village Players is no act.

Clarkston News

SECTION TWO

The Clarkston (Mich.) News

Wed., Aug. 29, 1979 21

Although Inman says he has been president of the theater group for six years because "every year they seek nominations and everybody hides behind trees," he has enjoyed his role.

The friends, and the opportunity to ham it up are high on his list of rewards for the hours he works.

But he also has regrets.

"I regret that progress is so slow," he said. "I regret that I really cannot convince more people to become active in the Village Players."

"I am enthusiastic about it—I think it's a great organization and it contributes immensely to the community," he said.

Since he has been at the helm, the theater has new seats, carpeting and a new roof. Work continues on dressing rooms for the performers.

Besides its regular performances the group does four benefits a year, a practice Inman adopted four years ago.

Another of his interests, music, has become more a listening activity than singing for concerts.

But traveling with a gospel trio and a gospel quartet was part of his life from 1951 to 1966.

"We provided music for groups who couldn't afford to bring in big name groups," he said. "We did it for free. That was our ministry."

The trio was formed, because they were serious about singing and did not want to work with people who considered themselves amateurs, he said.

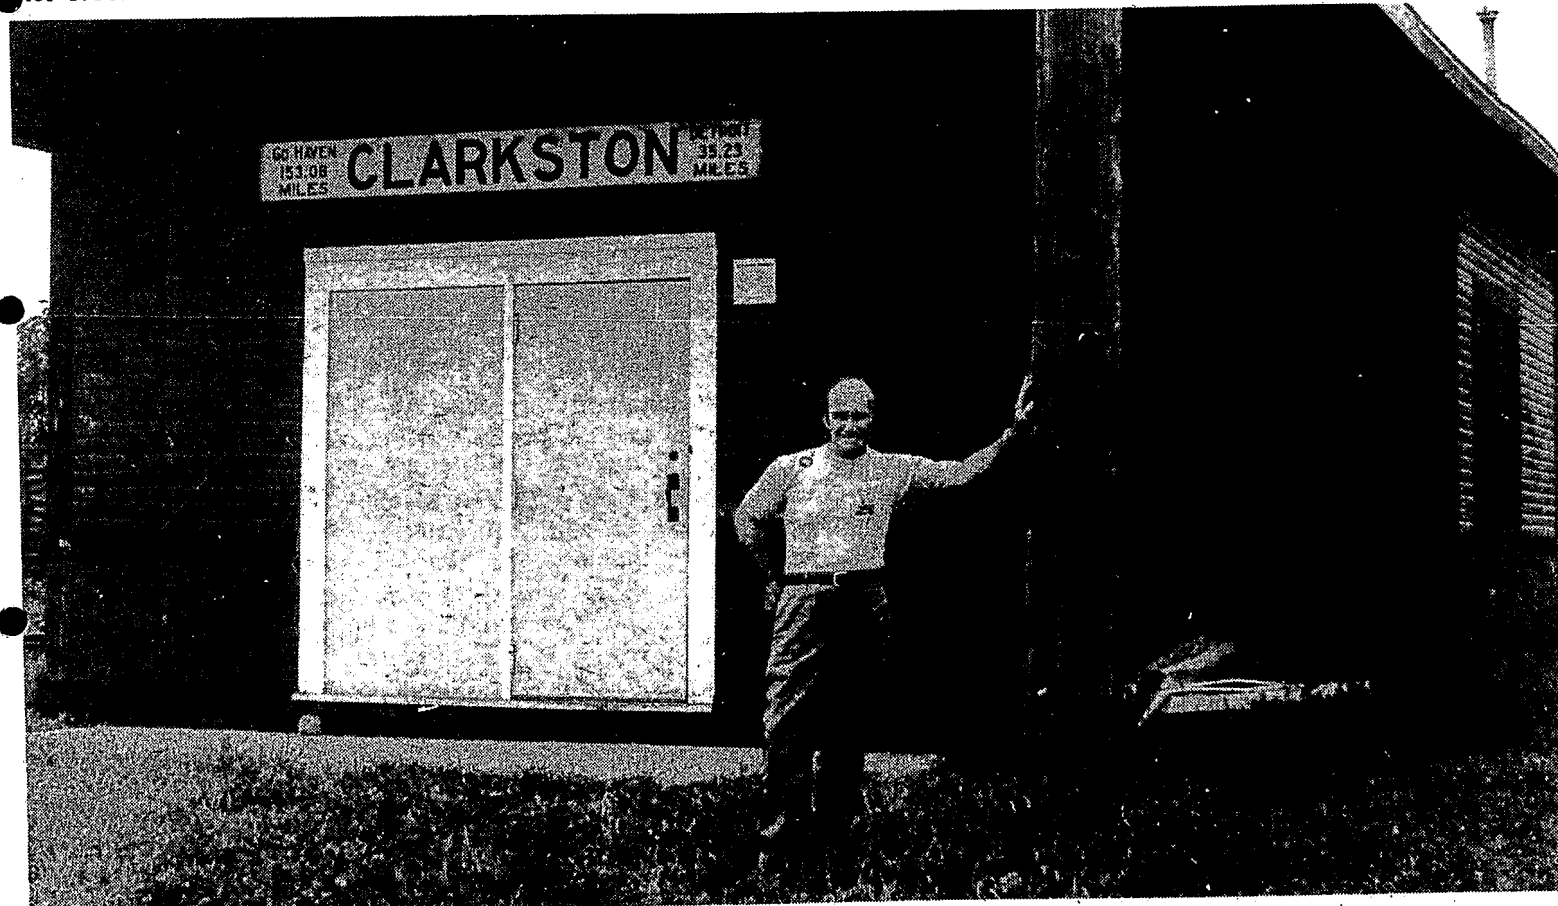

"I hate amateurs—amateur anything—with a passion," he said. "I hate it simply because people use the word amateur as an excuse for not doing their best."

"The same thing applies to the Clarkston Village Players," he said. "'Fiorello' was a bomb, because certain people just kept telling themselves, 'I'm an amateur,' or 'I'm not getting paid for this'."

"I don't appreciate anyone coming to Clarkston Village Players and saying, 'I've always wanted to see how it would be on stage' and get out there and say, 'I'm just an amateur.'"

"You're charging the public for something, you owe them something," he added. "I think everybody who's active in the Village Players will agree—it's professional."

"I really believe that," he said. "What's the sense of doing something only haphazardly?"

Russ Inman says he spends time almost every evening at the Clarkston Village Players' Depot Theatre working on dressing rooms for the players or constructing sets for the plays. Inman has been president of the group for six years, a job he enjoys because of the people and his love of being a "ham".

Savoie expands with heating unit

As the days cool, thoughts turn to the chill of wintertime.

And insulation specialists at Savoie Insulation Co. have added a custom-built fireplace heating unit designed for existing fireplaces.

The Briar Elite 400-pound heating unit includes a Dayton double blower, doors of one-and-one-quarter inch cast iron steel, an automatic thermostat, a removable glass front and quarter-inch firebox steel double walls.

The unit can heat 3,600 square feet using about one-third of the wood a regular fireplace will burn, said Agnes Persinger, secretary-bookkeeper of the company.

"People in this area have a lot of wood to burn," she said, adding that they can use it "to reduce heating bills."

Savoie moved to its present location at 9650 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, about four years ago.

Gerald Savoie, president of the company, has been in the insulation business in the Clarkston area since 1955.

Recent remodeling of the offices included an outside porch

John Savoie, who works for his father as a mechanic, also helps install fireplace heating units.

and, of course, insulation.

The company carries insulation products for new construction or to reinsulate existing homes.

Do-it-yourselfers are welcome or Savoie will do the job.

All types of insulation are sold at the store and portable blowers can be rented by customers to blow insulation into walls.

Office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Country Living

Campbells protect country aura

Living in the Clarkston area is a major difference for former New Yorkers Colin and Pat Campbell.

But it's a good change, and Clarkston holds up well in the comparison.

"I love Clarkston," Pat said. "I miss New York, but I like where we live now a lot better than where we lived before on Long Island."

"I don't like Michigan weather," she added. "It's so unpredictable."

The Campbells moved to their home on Deerwood Road in Independence Township about one year ago.

They have two sons, Sean, 5, and Scott, 1½.

Colin was born in Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, Canada, but he grew up in Saginaw.

He lived in New York nine years because of his career and moved back to Michigan because of a job transfer as regional sales manager in charge of Michigan and Indiana for Monroe Auto Equipment Co., Birmingham, a division of Tenneco.

While in New York, he met Pat who grew up in Brooklyn.

Although they miss seeing New York stage plays and eating in the city's restaurants, life in the country is something they want to protect.

"We're definitely against the hotel (proposed for Pine Knob) going up, because it's going to break a zoning ordinance around here and I don't think that's necessary," Colin said.

They were members of the Pine Knob Country Club for one year and enjoy attending music concerts and listening to the music they can hear from their home. The Campbells said the proposed skyscraper hotel would change their scenery.

"We came from an area where they were all around us," Pat said. "I like the country atmosphere, the environment here. It's open, it's country and I think it (the hotel) would mar the beauty of Clarkston."

"And by the way," Colin added, "We'd be able to see it out our back window and I don't want that view."

The Campbells don't plan on living in Clarkston indefinitely, however.

A job transfer for Colin is most likely in their future.

"It doesn't bother me. If it happens, it happens," he said, adding, "I wouldn't think of moving out of Clarkston or another part of the state of Michigan."

The Campbell's subdivision is particularly mobile, because of the types of jobs the residents have.

The list of neighbors who have moved or are planning to move that the Campbells named included at least six.

But the Campbells are pleased with their surroundings and count many neighbors as their friends.

Colin serves as president of the Deerwood subdivision property owners' association.

"The environment I live in is like to be nice," he said. "That's why I've taken the job as president of the subdivision association, which is not always a popular position."

Colin's duties include reminding people they have to pay dues or that they need to comply with the subdivision's rules like the one that does not allow antennas.

Since he became president, work has been done on clearing weeds from the cul-de-sac, maintaining the pond area and a citizens' watch has been established.

Past problems with vandals, smashing mail boxes with baseball bats and driving vehicles over lawns have all but disappeared.

Residents take turns patrolling the neighborhood with CB radios and, at the most, on duty twice a year is requested, Colin said.

"It's helped tremendously," he said. "We've had no problems on weekends since started."

His community involvement takes about one-and-one-half hours a week, an amount of time he says is well worth the effort.

"We've got a beautiful subdivision here and I'd like to keep it that way," he said.

Woodworking is a hobby Colin enjoys.

He built a bookcase in the library that spans one wall and is large enough to hold Pat's collection of World War II books and those of all the family.

He also built two large decks on the back of their home.

And skill has not gone unnoticed—he has been doing deck work for Joseph Noll, the builder of their home.

"In my job, there's no physical activity and I still enjoy building things," Colin said. "So when I get the chance, I do."

"When I was in college, I used to build houses during the summer."

Double decks with spaces between boards made narrow to keep young Scott safe from falling were built on the rear of the Campbells' home by Colin. The decks offer a view of the wooded area behind their home for Pat, Colin holding Scott and Sean.

mer and it's good physical activity," he added.

Pat's main job right now is taking care of two active sons and her home.

Before Sean was born, Pat worked in secretarial management for Union Carbide on Park Avenue in New York.

Her job included personnel and management work for 150 secretaries.

When their children are older, Pat would like to return to the same field if a job is available near where they live.

Aside from her household duties, Pat is an avid reader.

"If I had free time to play golf and tennis and to all those things, I would definitely go back to work," she said.

Steps to get into sing of things

As fall and winter approach, maybe you're thinking the trills of a canary would brighten gloomy days.

Like any other living thing, it will require time, care, commitment and a decision about what kind of canary you want.

The canary fancy is as complex as the dog fancy, and the best birds come from a breeder with clean quarters who cares about his birds.

Most single household canaries are called singers. They are broken into two groups: German rollers and American singers. Great effort and study goes into breeding and training for the right rolls and tones.

All canaries sing—it is a manifestation of territorial possession—but the aforementioned breeds are judged on the length and quality of their warblings.

Other breeds are the Gloster, a small canary with a crested head coming in a variety of colors—yellow, cinnamon and white, and mixed.

The Northern frill has feathers which appear "curly" and stands upright; the Southern frill stands with a humped appearance.

The Yorkshire is quite a large canary standing high on its leg, having a short neck and looking like the shoulder-padded football player of the canary with a range of colors and then there are the Border canary and the Hartz.

Color breeding is predominant in the fancy and out of this arise the Melanin, Lippochrome and Red Factor varieties—and endless genetic literature to arrive at the "perfect" colors!

You see, a canary is more than just a canary—it is type, color, tone, size . . .

Now for the proper care of your bird. This will require:

1. Common sense
2. a proper cage and cover
3. a fresh supply of canary and rape seeds and hulled oats
4. bird gravel
5. Cuttle bone
6. Petamine
7. song food
8. thistle seed

Canary seed is football-shaped and tan in color. Rape seed is round and black or dark red.

Hulled oats are shaped like a football and are more cream-colored and larger and plumper than canary seed. Mix 60 percent canary, 30 percent rape, 10 percent oats.

The cage should be at least one foot square or larger, lined with gravel paper, provided with seed and water cups and fresh cuttlebone.

It should be cleaned weekly, the perch scraped, and a bath offered to the bird in a shallow dish.

Find a pet store that sells fresh bulk seed. Packaged seed can be stale. Canaries shell the canary seed, so be sure there is unshelled seed at all times.

A treat cup of song food and Petamine should be available. Thistle should be provided in the summer because it is oily and aids new feathers and the general skin condition.

Give greens daily about the size of your thumb—endive, carrot tops, kale or cabbage are good. Never give lettuce because it has no nutritional value at all.

Do not give your bird sweets. Do not keep him in the sun. Do not place him near a radiator or a door.

If your bird puffs his feathers, he doesn't feel well and is trying to keep warm. Cover the cage on three sides and on the top, place it on a heating pad or near a lightbulb.

A few crystals of epsom salts in the drinking water will help.

If the condition persists, call a canary breeder.

If you purchase a canary from a breeder, each bird is banded and recorded.

If your bird should escape and is found by someone else, the band will tell who bred the bird and to whom it was sold and a happy reunion can occur.

If you lose or find a bird, call

Mr. or Mrs. Tarsitano of the Mid-west Canary Club at 781-6429 or Vivian Wheeler of the Motor City Bird Breeders at 627-4598.

There will be a cage bird exhibition at Regina High School in Harper Woods the first weekend in November.

While renovation begins on the building which formerly housed Haupt Pontiac's body shop, Keith Hallman starts his work as marketing consultant for the future mini-mall.

Hallman looks for diversity

Keith Hallman's role as an independent marketing consultant is growing with downtown Clarkston.

Hallman, former Main Street businessman and village president, has been retained as marketing consultant for the mini-mall under development on the southeast corner of Main and Church streets.

He has also served in that capacity for the Clarkston Mills shopping center on West Washington Street.

The new mini-mall, being created in the former Haupt

Pontiac body shop, is owned by Gerald Anderson, Joe Nolls and Paul Stoppert.

They have hired Hallman to review applications from persons interested in leasing space in the facility and to make recommendations on the businesses that will be located there.

The building is expected to be ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

"We're looking for diversity, shops we don't already have in the village," Hallman said. "We have to look at the entire downtown business district as one specialty shopping center, not three separate units."

The old body shop now is undergoing facelifiting. As many as five small shops could be located in the building when it is renovated, but Hallman said he expects the space to be divided among fewer businesses than that.

At summer's end...

The only swimmer off Deer Lake Beach at around 4 p.m. last Sunday, lifeguard Sally Hitchcock dives off the raft. Because of unseasonably cool weather for the last month, a lot of time has been spent playing the card game of solitaire at the nearly deserted beach, she said.

Library scene

Springfield Township Library, 10900 Andersonville.

The month of August saw the end of the summer reading program and the weekly film.

The following children received a certification and a paperback book for completing the program: Suzanne Dickerson, Ethan Lee, David Ord, Michelle Blomberg, Mark Chaustowich, Jennifer Chester, Chris Dickerson, Dawn Giampa, Danielle Orr, Sydney Orr and Jessie Voelker.

Many new programs will be beginning in September.

The preschool story hour for children aged 3 to 5 will resume Sept. 13 at 1 p.m. The program runs for an hour.

Crafts will be featured along with stories. The materials charge is 25 cents per session. Register your child by calling 625-0595 or stopping by the library.

The library also is going to begin a Book Review Club for adults. The club will meet once a month to discuss and review books. The first meeting will be Tuesday, Sept. 11 at 1 p.m. Interested persons should call the library.

A special event for September will be a doll and stuffed animal tea party at 1 p.m. Sept. 25 for preschoolers. Kids are invited to bring their favorite stuffed animal or doll to the party. Refreshments will be provided by the Davisburg Jaycettes.

... some parting shots at Deer Lake

"The fishing's been lousy," says Independence Township resident Don Rosenfeld as he holds up his catch. But he figured he had enough fish on the line Sunday afternoon for Monday's lunch, and his time was well spent—"I'd rather fish than eat," he says. A few nights earlier, he credits his neighbor Joe Eurkshus with catching a five-pound bass in the same location.

Before heading home, Lora Barrett rinses the buckets she used to build sand creations on the shores of Deer Lake Beach. Lora was at the beach with her parents who now live in Ann Arbor, but are building a home in the Deer Lake Farms subdivision in Independence Township.

CHS band marches at camp

Clarkston High School's annual band camp attracted 105 students and faculty members to Grand Valley State Colleges in Allendale for a week.

All band members and faculty are housed in dorms at the colleges and they eat meals in the school cafeteria. The bands rehearse in the Calder Pine Arts Center and on outside practice areas. Recreation facilities also are available.

He's Marine hero

Clarkston area friends of Marine Cpl. Gregory G. Vatca now can say they know a hero.

Vatca, 22, was awarded Navy Achievement Medal for his "extreme courage and superb presence of mind" after an explosion on a military aircraft on which he was working as a member of a maintenance crew.

The explosion on the F-4J occurred March 27, 1978 during routine maintenance.

"Cpl. Vatca immediately directed others to evacuate the aircraft and, with disregard for his own safety, unhesitatingly proceeded to extinguish the fire before damage to the engine or injury to the maintenance personnel could result," said Lt. Gen. E. J. Miller, commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force in the Atlantic.

"His courageous and prompt actions in the face of personal risk undoubtedly saved the aircraft, and inspired all who observed him," Miller said in Vatca's citation.

Vatca now is stationed in Japan. Son of Mr. and Mrs. George Vatca of Holly Township, the Marine corporal worked in the Clarkston area at the service station his father operated at M-15 and I-75, G. and M. Sunoco.

The elder Vatca is now employed as a mechanic at Rademacher Chevrolet on Dixie Highway.

"Think Young"

Coping with kids

Teaching values

no easy task

A mother of a toddler was depressed about the children she had seen in her neighborhood: "Kids are really different these days."

"They have no respect for adults. They are tough and demanding and tell adults where they can get off."

"They drive down the middle of the street on their bikes and they won't move for anything. If you honk your horn at them or say anything to them, they'll say 'up yours' or something worse."

"It's so bad, I don't know what to teach my child. I don't know what kind of values make any sense any more. How can I raise my child right with all of this going on?"

We do, it seems, live in a confusing time when values don't appear to be clear in our society. Old ways are no longer apparently relevant. We seem to be very mixed up about teaching children a code of ethics.

As a society, we have made many culture-wide mistakes in child rearing in this century. Much of this might be due to the effects of psychology and psychoanalysis. Poorly understood concepts have often been translated into impractical parental precepts.

At first after the first rush of the exciting findings of psychology, it was thought that children would develop healthily if they were allowed to express themselves. We soon found that this was wrong and then made an equally bad judgement by going in the opposite direction with the suggestion of strictness and distance.

Ever since the forties, there has been a swaying back and forth between leniency and strictness. Now we seem to be in a time when children are over-indulged and taught that they have many civil, legal and moral rights that are somehow inalienably theirs.

There are many personal causes of parental indulgence. None of them are healthy for the development of children when used in the extreme. When a society as a whole is over-indulgent with children, the results will be bad for a large segment of youngsters growing up in that society.

Children don't necessarily have to be told that they have rights. They will learn this and feel this when they note that their rights are respected by adults. What they do need to be told is that others have rights too. This, too, will come about when their rights are respected.

But, it also depends on parents who know their own values and express them with firmness and consistency to their children.

Unfortunately, this is a confusing era and it is not easy for parents to know or believe in a logical, useful set of moral principles.

Peeking into the past

by Rustle Leaf

10 YEARS AGO August 28, 1969

It was a week of fresh air and outdoor living for the Ted Penscoter family, as they enjoyed the comforts of camper traveling thru the Upper peninsula and Canada.

Village Council official passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of power boats on the Mill Pond.

Brown City was the family reunion spot chosen by the Del Curson family. The Cursons, with daughters Linda and Laurie, and son Allen, met with three other brothers and their families for an old fashioned potluck picnic reunion.

August brides and grooms included: Anson Raymond, Jr. and Miss Karen Lynn Olsson; Alice Upward and Daryl Orr; Falarie Warren and Robert Tannehill.

25 YEARS AGO August 26, 1954

After completing his Midshipman training cruise, James W. Huttenlocker disembarked from the heavy cruiser USS Pittsburgh.

At the piano with the All State Orchestra at the National Music Camp in Interlocken are Janice Mickie and Janice Willoughby.

Nancy Thayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thayer, has returned home from Michigan State college where she studied for 16 days under Ailsa G. McLachlan, of the Pittsburgh Winter Ice Capades Training Center.

The ultimate in steam cleaning is only a phone call away!

Note this bottom-side view of the Rug Doctor Vibra Brush method carpet cleaner in action.

A. Hot water and cleaning solution jets into the carpet.
B. Vibra Brush (like electric tooth brush) agitates carpet back and forth 3,400 times each minute. This breaks soil loose and polishes each carpet fiber to a clean, brilliant finish. This type of brush does not distort pile.

C. Powerful suction extracts hot water and loosened soil back up to waste tank.

For Independence Center

Fun 'n' games bring profits

Seven-year-old Mike Myers of Dvorak Road, Independence Township, gags it up with his prizes from several games. Mike's mother Peg was in charge of organizing the games at the Durbin Day fundraiser for Independence Center.

With a little help from her dad and encouragement from her mom, 16-month-old Michelle Mason tries her hand at a bowling game. The Gordon Mason family came to the event from their Drayton Road home.

Getting ready to sample cotton candy, one of the treats at Durbin Day for Independence Center Saturday, is Jason Zilka of Clarkston Road, Independence Township. The fundraising carnival at Clintonwood Park earned over $1,000 for the center and provided an afternoon and evening of entertainment for area residents.

Tommy Myers helps a winner at the fish pond select her prize from the display of shiny rings.

John Planck of Kootima Drive, Independence Township, collects a covey of fans as he throws darts at a board full of patches. John and other kids won new adornments for their jackets at the fundraising event.
