Strikers want 15.7 percent

Mediator in teacher talks

By Pat Braunagel

A state mediator was called into the one-day-old Clarkston teachers' strike Wednesday, which was to have been the first day of school for students.

A 10 a.m. meeting with a mediator was scheduled for Wednesday after a Tuesday afternoon negotiating session failed to bring the two sides in the labor dispute any closer to agreement.

They were separated by more than 5 percent between the last salary demand of the Clarkston Education Association and the last offer of the board of education when the strike started at 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Al Bartlett, president of the CEA, said approximately 300 of the district's 333 teachers attended a 7 a.m. meeting Thursday at which "overwhelming support" was given to the CEA negotiators' position that the teachers not report to their jobs.

The teachers were due back at school Tuesday, one day before the scheduled start of classes.

Negotiations reached an impasse at 1:15 a.m. Tuesday after a marathon bargaining session started Monday morning.

The board of education's last salary offer before the strike began was for 8.45 percent raises, not including increment, each year of a proposed two-year contract.

With the increment given when a teacher advances a step on the salary scale, the raises would have amounted to 10.54 percent, according to school board negotiators.

The CEA reportedly was asking for 13.66 percent, not including increment, or 15.7 percent including increment.

While he did not discuss specific demands Tuesday, Bartlett said the CEA position "is not out of line--and not out of line with the Clarkston District's ability to pay."

"Inflation and cost of living have gone up so high, salary demands are going to have to go up," Bartlett commented.

According to a statement issued by the school board negotiators after the strike started, the board's proposal called for the starting salary for a Clarkston teacher with a bachelor's degree to go from $10,088 in 1978-79 to $11,709 in 1979-80 and $13,506 in 1980-81, representing a 31.4 percent increase over two years.

"A teacher with nine years' experience and a master's degree, earned $18,982 in 1978-79," the statement continued. "Under the board's proposal, that teacher would earn $21,386 in 1979-80 and $25,193 in 1980-81, representing an increase of 30.4 percent over two years.

"Over 50 percent of our staff have 11 years of experience or more. Teachers with 11 years of experience and a bachelor's degree would earn $22,399 in 1979-80, and a teacher with 21 years' experience and an educational specialist's degree would earn $29,056 in 1980-81."

Two other stumbling blocks in contract talks were class size and health insurance payments.

Tentative agreement reportedly had been reached on a new severance pay program and on increased dental coverage.

Clarkston teachers display picket signs Monday as they wait for word on negotiations at the district's administration building. By Tuesday, when they were due to report to work, teachers decided to strike.

For CHS sports fans

The Clarkston News has plenty to offer sports fans this week.

Crafts and Cider dates set

Some 50 craftspersons will display their wares at the fifth annual Crafts and Cider Festival in the Clarkston Village Park Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

A broader range of exhibits and demonstrations is promised this year in the growing festival sponsored by the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

Hours for the event are noon to 6 p.m. Sept. 21, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 22 and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 23.

The weekend will provide an opportunity for those attending to have their portraits done in pastels, to purchase some new accessories for themselves and their homes and to start their Christmas shopping.

Among the craft items to be exhibited and sold will be macrame, applique, quilting, Japanese bunka, pottery, weavings, photographs, Christmas tree ornaments and leaded glass creations.

Cider, doughnuts, apples and honey also will be offered.

Special meeting Sept. 11 on Independence police

By Kathy Greenfield

The debate continues over what kind of police protection Independence Township needs.

A special township board meeting is scheduled Sept. 11 with the township's police advisory board, and the matter was discussed at last week's special meeting for millage requests.

"My inclination right now would be to disband our local department and go entirely with the county," said Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

"The money would be better spent with the county," he said. "I'd like to see a police millage put on the ballot, but I'd vote against it if it was going to fund our own department."

Trustee Jerry Powell did not agree.

"I'm not in favor of expanding the local department, but I don't have any problem with what we're doing with the county," Powell said. "I'll never vote for a police millage if it says we're going 100 percent with the county."

Supervisor Whitey Tower suggested asking voters to renew the present 1 mill for police protection and to vote on an additional one mill in separate questions.

"I've never said I wanted totally our own (police department) either," he said.

The township has a director or police services and two local patrol officers who cover the township from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week.

Four Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputies are contacted to cover the township during evening hours.

The board agreed on one thing—a decision on police protection will never be unanimous among its members.

"Why don't we throw the whole thing on the ballot?" asked Trustee Rudy Lozano. "Why don't we ask for the people's input?"

"If the board's looking for positive direction, what better way to get it?" he asked.

Trustee Michael Thayer supported putting the police protection question on the ballot.

"Why don't we ask the people on this referendum?" he asked, referring to the Oct. 16 special election.

If the board asks voters for advice "every time we need to make a decision, what's our function?" Ritter asked.

"Why don't we find out if we want a full-time fire department or volunteer?"

"Why don't we ask the people if we need lifeguards?"

"What in the heck are we talking about?" he asked.

"I don't think we have to turn that decision to the people," Ritter added. "I think we should look at the facts and make our decision."

When the board votes on police protection issues, the vote is usually a 4-3 split, Lozano said.

"I'm not opposed to making a decision, but whatever decision, the board has to be behind it," he said.

The defeat of police millages in three separate elections was mentioned by Ritter, who said the people defeated the tax increases because "they were afraid of what they were going to get."

Charles Kimbel, director of police services, added another reason.

"I don't feel the board was behind it to push it and tell the people what they need," he said.

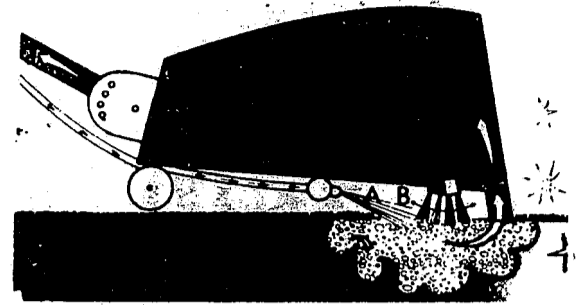

The only resident at the meeting, aside from township department heads, Russell Buller of Rattalee Lake Road offered an additional reason.

"You have a surplus," he said. "If you agree that we need additional money for police, use the surplus."

"I'm never going to vote for millage when the board is sitting on millage surplus."

Arraign 2 on murder charges

The body of Monica G. Hockey, 20, of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, was found slain Sunday.

Two 19-year-old men were arraigned on open murder charges Tuesday afternoon.

Kyle Johnson of Clarkston, and Jeffrey Coyle, an escapee of the work release home, Pontiac, are the two suspects.

Lt. Richard Hubble of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department said Miss Hockey was "severely beaten about the head." No weapon has been found, he said.

The body was found about 3:20 p.m. Sunday by a man riding his bicycle along a utility road north of I-75 and a quarter mile east of Clintonville road, deputies said.

The area is said to be a lover's lane and is used as a dumping ground.

Police said Miss Hockey was fully clothed when found. Also, there were no signs of sexual assault.

Miss Hockey left home Saturday evening to visit friends in Grand Blanc or Flint, and was not expected back that night, according to the report.

She was last seen alive about 10 p.m. Saturday when she stopped at a friend's home.

State Police found her abandoned car, a 1974 Chevrolet Malibu, on Clintonville road south of I-75 only a short time before the discovery of Miss Hockey's body about a mile away.

The car appeared to be abandoned, the police said.

Lt. Hubble said an effort had been made to conceal the body with debris, and that no purse, wallet or identification was found at the scene.

Miss Hockey had attended Clarkston High School, but left in 11th grade. She worked at Fisher Body Plant, Pontiac, the past year in the cafeteria.

This is the third personal tragedy experienced by the Hockey family in the past six months.

A son has been in a coma for six months, and Monday Miss Hockey's grandmother died from cancer.

There will be a double funeral for Miss Hockey and her grandmother Thursday at 11 a.m. from Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

The Rev. Bud Crawford from the Hockey's church, New Hope Bible Church, will officiate.

Surviving besides her parents are a sister, Renee, and brother, Parry.

The family asks that contributions be made to the Carrie Marie Fund. Carrie Marie is the daughter of Parry Hockey and is Monica Hockey's niece.

Burial will be in Sashabaw Plains Cemetery.

Are they serious?

Plane crash claims two local men

Two Clarkston men were killed and a 12-year-old boy injured in the crash of a small plane about 7 p.m. Sunday near Grayling. The pilot was also killed.

Dead are Arthur J. Binard, 35, 5915 Hummingbird Lane, and Frederic J. Saltmarsh Jr., 35, of 8177 Fawn Valley Drive. Also dead is Fred Carrington of Louisville, Ky., a friend of Saltmarsh and pilot of the plane.

Saltmarsh's son, Bruce, is in a Louisville, Ky. hospital where he was flown for surgery Monday. The youth is reported in satisfactory condition.

The accident happened following a day's fishing on the Au Sable River near Binard's river home, family members reported. Crawford County Sheriff's Department reported the plane hit some trees at take off and crashed to the ground. The private field, identified as Mason Field, is a grass strip belonging to the Rippling Waters Lodge and located 10 miles east of Grayling.

Family members said the four had planned to leave Saturday and spend a weekend on the river, but foul weather delayed their take-off for a day.

The group flew out of Oakland-Pontiac Airport Sunday morning and called home shortly after arrival to report a rough landing, the family reported. They were told after the accident that the plane had used a diagonal strip for take-off due to wind conditions.

Spokesmen for the Federal Aviation Administration, which is still investigating the accident, said the plane hit trees, apparently spun and cartwheeled before landing upside down.

The three men were dead when discovered shortly after the accident by a caretaker at the lodge. The plane did not burst into fire. It was a Piper Arrow, registered in Louisville, authorities said.

Binard, a manufacturer's representative and a partner in Frank W. Lynch & Co., Southfield, had been a resident of the Clarkston area the past 5½ years.

He was active in working against the construction of a high rise hotel at Pine Knob. He was also an avid jogger and neighbors report seeing him and his dog out running every morning.

Funeral services for Binard were to be Wednesday morning at St. Daniel's Church with burial in Lakeview Cemetery. He leaves his wife, Sally, and three children, Arthur J. Jr., 12, Kinsley, 10, and Emily, 3.

The Saltmarshes moved to the Clarkston area less than a year ago but had lived in the Detroit area previously. Saltmarsh had been recently employed by Massey-Ferguson as national general purchasing manager for tractors.

Prior to their move to Clarkston, they had been residents of Louisville, Ky. It was during that period they became friends with Carrington. They had known Binards from their previous residence in Michigan.

Saltmarsh, a native of Atlanta, Ga., was to be buried there Wednesday. He is survived by his wife, Marsha M., a daughter Susan L., and three sons, F. Scott and Robert B. in addition to the injured Bruce.

Letters to the editor

Powell: I'll stand on record

Dear editor:

Although I don't normally make it a practice to respond to articles or letters to the editor in local newspapers, I feel that the time has come to set the record straight on some of the things I've been quoted as saying and my position in general on the zoning amendment changes and the Pine Knob high-rise proposal.

First of all, in response to Mr. Locricchio's statement that I cannot make an impartial judgement because of statements I made at the August 7 meeting, let me just say that if you are going to get an impartial hearing from anybody in this community it will be from me.

I'll stand on my record as a 7-year member of the Independence Township Board of trying to treat each taxpayer of this community, big or small, as fairly as is humanly possible.

What I said at that meeting was that as a member of the township board I will listen to what the voters say concerning the advisory vote regarding the height change portion of the proposed zoning amendment.

I would not be so foolish as to propose a $4,000 expenditure of township funds, and then not listen to what the people said.

I am well aware, as I'm sure you are, that the zoning board of appeals acts independently of the township board. As a member of the ZBA, I am also aware that applicants must prove hardship or practical difficulty.

Financial consequences should not and will not be a part of our deliberations.

To question my ability to be impartial prior to a meeting being held is, at best, showing poor judgement.

If you don't like the decisions we're making, the clerk has nominating petitions for the 1980 primary to be held in August.

Jerry E. Powell

Rose clears up 'mis-statements'

Dear Editor,

I feel I must clear up some "mis-statements" made by Mr. T. Locricchio in an article in the August 29th edition of the Clarkston News.

On the subject of the changing of the special election date, he is quoted as saying that "I'm happy that the forces on the Board led by Rose were thwarted from trying to rush it (the referendum) through."

I'm sorry to disappoint him, but I requested the change in dates. There could have been a legal problem with the "Hotel use" referendum if the date had not been changed.

I feel certain that if it had not been changed, it would have been possible to throw the vote of the people out in court. Mr. Locricchio himself made us aware of the possibility by stating that the referendum was placed on "an illegal date!"

On the hotel use, he says that they have an existing "hotel" in the ski lodge. Has he been paying the applicable hotel room taxes? I know that there is no provision for a hotel on the Township's assessment of the property.

It should also be noted that a pre-existing non-conforming use of property is one of the weakest arguments in any zoning issues.

Mr. Locricchio also is quick to point out "promises" that the Township (persons unknown) made to them allowing the hotel.

What about the "promise" made by Pine Knob's attorney on February 3, 1972 to the planning commission "that contrary to prior publicity, no hotel is planned for this development."

Or the "promise" again made by an attorney for Pine Knob that the Pine Knob Country Club Restaurant would be open to the public.

As a final note, Mr. Locricchio talks about "tricksters" trying to fool the people. He's absolutely correct. However, it seems to me that these "tricksters" with their "half-truths" and their attempts to mislead the public are those in support of the Pine Knob Development.

Contrary to Mr. Locricchio's comments, the referendum is not a waste of time. People should be sure they are registered by September 7th and be sure to vote on October 16th.

Sincerely,
Christopher L. Rose, Clerk
Independence Township

School days are lonely for under-5s

by Pat Braunagel

With back-to-school time here in fact or fancy—depending on the status of teacher-contract negotiations as you are reading this—I'd like to share a favorite column from days of yore.

It was first published in The Clarkston News in 1973 when I was writing something called "Patches."

Oh, sure—you can talk about your fresh-faced youngsters going back to school, eager and alert in their spiffy new duds.

But what about the lonely ones left behind, the kids wandering around like little lost souls with their wide eyes betraying their bafflement.

These are the under-fivers, still wearing their summer shorts and still wanting to play their summer games. But they've been deserted by their playmates and older brothers and sisters who have spent a summer telling them how things are done.

Jeffrey is one of these kids. I spotted him the other morning as I backed down the driveway.

Minutes earlier, I had heard young voices outside, chattering gaily at the beginning of another purposeful day. They were accompanied by a few mothers, whose voices also had that enthusiastic tone they adopt when their kids get back to school after the late August doldrums.

I, too, felt gay when I left the house. The neighborhood was quiet.

Then I heard the soft jingle of a solitary tricycle bell, looked up and saw Jeffrey.

He was peddling along slowly, looking tentatively up driveway and then down at his sneakers.

"The party's over, kid," I thought, fighting an impulse to stop the car, forget going to work and spend an hour or so playing with Jeffrey.

It won't be long, I told myself, before he discovers that there still are other kids left in the neighborhood during the day.

His mom will have more time to spend with him now that his older brother's in school.

It'll work out, and Jeffrey will have learned a little lesson about being a loner in life.

I drove on, and I thought of another youngster I know who just started kindergarten this fall.

He also had faced these lonely periods of feeling rejected, concocting fantasies about the school bus which would pull around the corner any minute to pick him up.

"I'm going to be a school boy tomorrow," he told his older sister the other night.

He paused.

"You know, when you stop to think about it, it didn't take me very long to get to be a school boy."

Jim's jottings

Burlesque trips

by Jim Sherman

One day in the spring of '47 I had a couple hours to wait for a train leaving Brush Street station in Detroit.

I went to a burlesque show.

Last Friday night I went to another one. It was way too long in between.

Too long for the jokes, not the experience. As I remember the post war visit to the land of Scurvy, an old man sat down beside me and made overtures that were obscene then and a television show now.

But the scandalous stage jokes of that day are still funny today. They are also the same today.

However, instead of being at the Gaiety or Avenue theaters, the grand Fisher Theatre was the host.

The name of the burlesque was "Sugar Babies", and it's headed for Broadway. Mickey Rooney and Ann Miller will make sure it gets there.

Rooney's timing is absolutely great. The double takes, the pauses, the undertones, the improvising. He started in show business as a small boy and never grew.

He jokes about his stature and his multiple marriages. He clowns in baggy pants and women's dresses. He plays the part of a judge, a school boy and an admiral with such humor the audience was on its feet applauding before he came out for the finale.

I didn't try to hold back my laughter or tears. When it was over I wrung the water from my hanky.

And, Ann Miller hasn't aged or slowed from the days when she was a pin-up in our Navy landing craft.

Hazel and I were with Pat and Jim Fitzgerald. He'd have you believe he's a celebrity. Two people recognized him. Both were fellow Free Press writers.

Last year the Fitzgeralds were our theater guests. Afterwards, he took us to Woodbridge Tavern for a grilled cheese sandwich. I think it came with a pitcher of beer.

This year he tried to spoil our night by driving around a half hour looking for a Coney Island that was open.

Finally he stopped the car in the middle of the street, got out, walked over to a building and stood beside it.

From the back seat Pat said, "I guess he means for us to get out."

Considerate Jim used his influence to get us a seat the the London Chop House. There were a half dozen vacant tables, and reservations aren't even taken.

When we finished the evening the Free Press was assured of a back page columnist for another year. It'll take that long for "If it Fitz" to save enough to pay for our Coney.

'Dad' at 90: A tribute to a friend

The 90th birthday of a friend and past co-worker prompted Parker and Pat Bates to plan an open house celebration at Howe's Lanes Sept. 9 and to write this tribute to Charles 'Dad' Simpson.

Although Simpson retired seven years ago and the Bateses retired as managers of the French Cellar of Howe's two years ago, they thought their old working spot would be a good place to celebrate.

"Dad was loved by everyone around here," Pat says about her friend.

Parker and Pat live on Columbia Road, Independence Township, and Simpson is a Waterford Township resident.

The Bates' story follows:

By Parker and Pat Bates

On Sept. 5, 1889, a son was born to Eleanor and Robert Simson of Detroit. They named him Charles.

Most of us know him as "Dad," the best bartender in town.

Dad's first job was at the age of 14 working for Wells Fargo.

On June 11, 1909, he married Anna and went to work as a private chauffeur for the Livingston's of the Dime Bank in Detroit.

He was with them for 25 years during which time he and Anna had five children, Eleanor, Charles, Richard, Robert and Lillian.

In 1935, the family moved to the Waterford area.

Dad bought the Waterford Garage from Bill Hunt where he sold new cars as a sub-dealer for Beattie Ford and did repair work.

This continued for three years.

In 1938, it was back to the Detroit area and a tool and die job at Walker Guage.

This job was perpetuated through government contracts until the end of the war in 1945.

At this time, contracts over, Dad moved on to General Motors Truck and Coach Division in the tool and die department.

Upon reaching age 65, his tenure at Truck and Coach ended.

However, while at General Motors, Dad developed his bartending skills.

For a while, it was part time at the old Waterford Hotel, and then full time upon retirement from GM.

After 11 years at the hotel, Howe's Lanes moved across Dixie Highway and opened their bar with Dad in charge.

For 12 years, the people at Howe's Lanes enjoyed his wit, compassion and professionalism.

He bowled with the Waterford Merchants' League at Howe's Lanes for 25 years.

At the age of 83, he had to give up bowling.

So he decided if he couldn't bowl, he wasn't going to work.

But you can still see Dad on a nice day, driving around town, top down on his convertible, hat on and a cigar in his mouth.

He has been a member of the Fort Street Presbyterian Church for 62 years.

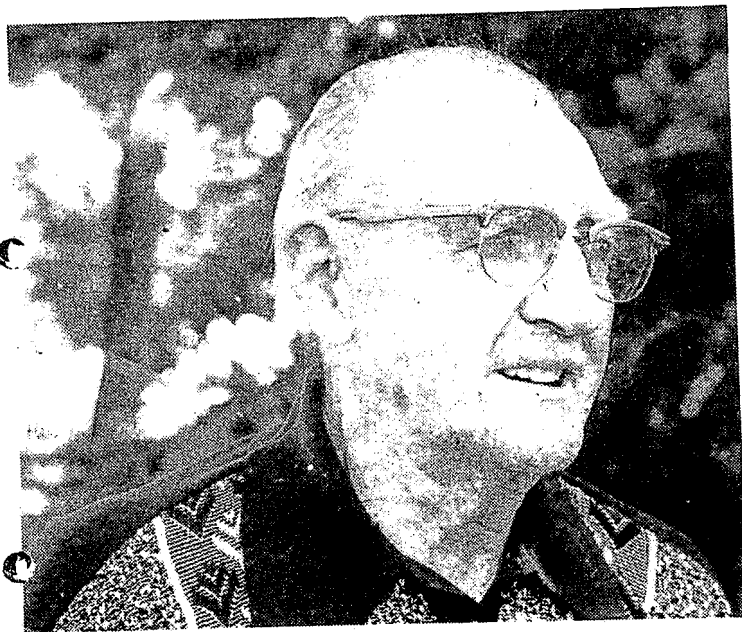

Dad has 28 grandchildren and, at the last count, 107 great grandchildren.

Sunday, Sept. 9, will be Dad's day at Howe's Lanes to celebrate his 90th birthday.

Open house will be 2 until 5 p.m. with all his old friends and relatives welcome.

Charles "Dad" Simpson returns to the bar at Howe's Lanes for a pre-birthday visit.

A party is planned at Howe's Lanes to celebrate Charles Simpson's 90th birthday.

'If it Fitz. . .'

Slosh till 6:00, slosh again

by Jim Fitzgerald

It was a somber scene. In the darkened mess hall, the long tables were set for more than 100 people, but only two men were there. They sat facing each other, at the end of the table farthest from the door, and spoke in hushed tones. No fears were voiced out loud, but each man knew what the other was thinking.

How long would all those empty chairs remain vacant? How much anguish would there be before that long day ended?

The setting was rural and desolate. Civilization was several miles to the east. Despite the constant rain and muddy terrain, the others had been out in the hills, risking their lives, since early morning. Only these two men — call them Jim and Bill — had retreated to headquarters and found it deserted.

Jim remembered a poem that was stuck in his head ever since a kindly nun tortured him into memorizing it in the fifth grade. It begins:

"A craven hung along the battle's edge and thought: had I sword of keener steel, but this blunt thing! and he broke it and flung it from himself and, cowering, he slunk away and left the field . . ."

"We slunk away from the battle's edge," Jim said, shamefully. Bill didn't deny it.

"But we are still in danger. The supply truck hasn't arrived yet and there are no provisions," Bill said. "We must go foraging."

Steeling themselves against the weather, they swiftly made their way to the nearest settlement, called Brighton. At the general store they foraged cards, poker chips and a six-pack of beer.

When they returned to the encampment area, called Burrough's Farm, the mess hall was still deserted. They did catch a fleeting glimpse of a fair wench disappearing over the horizon in a golf cart.

"Who is taking nourishment to the troops," Jim said. "Brave woman."

For the next hour, the men played two-handed draw, jacks or better to open, and they wondered if there ever, ever would be a third hand in the game. When — if ever — would their comrades return?

"It's a terrible ordeal waiting to get a pair of jacks when there's only two players," Bill complained.

Finally, the supply truck arrived. Jim and Bill were so grateful to see another human being, they helped the driver unload.

"Depending upon the casualties, there may be a door prize for every person," Jim said as he carefully counted the boxes coming off the truck.

It wasn't long before the survivors began staggering through the door, drenched, dirty and cursing their fate. Eventually, almost 100 of them made it back. They slumped in their chairs, rested their heads against hard highballs, and moaned miserably. What a horrible day it had been!

You might wonder why they played 18 holes of golf in a steady rain. Why hadn't they gone home and kept dry, to play again on a better day? Because they were at a golf outing, that's why, and it was their duty to stick it out until the end.

Golf outings are carefully choreographed endurance tests held regularly at country clubs all over the nation. They can cost anywhere from $20 to $100 or more, depending upon the charity and celebrities involved. The price of the ticket includes golf, booze, dinner and a chance to win a door prize. Golf goes on all day, but the booze, dinner and prizes aren't available until around 6 o'clock.

If there is a tornado midway through the outing, it is never postponed. Slackers may flee for home, and slunkers may slunk away from the battle's edge and go foraging. But the true heroes of golf keep playing because they know no other way.

They know they must be brave until the after-dinner drinks are gone or they will have spent their money in vain. Door prizes, as well as booze and dinner, must be claimed in person or be forever lost. Brave golfers refuse to lose.

Slunkers don't like losing either, but they know how to win without opening on guts.

For your pleasure...

Wyniemko to kick off CHS career

By Al Zawacky

Walt Wyniemko isn't harboring any illusions about the task he faces as Clarkston's new head football coach, but you can bet he's looking forward to the challenge.

"This is a great opportunity for myself and my family," Wyniemko said, assessing his new position. "We've got over 100 kids involved in the football program (56 at the varsity level, and 50 JVs), a lot of community interest and a hard-working staff. I'm really looking forward to coaching here."

A former head coach at Madison Heights' Bishop Foley and an assistant prior to that at both Pontiac Catholic and Redford St. Mary, Wyniemko has been pleased with his squad's performances in pre season scrimmages. "Everybody's been working hard and the attitude's been tremendous," the coach observed. "The kids are optimistic and expect to do well."

It was just two seasons ago that Clarkston rolled to a 9-0 record en route to the Greater Oakland Athletic League title under former coach Rob White, only to tumble to a 2-7 mark last year following White's departure.

A return to past glories is the goal of Wyniemko and assistants Darrell Marsh, Dave Smith, Kurt Richardson and D. J. Campe.

"During the course of the season, the breaks can be a big factor—a lot of times a team's entire season can hinge on a single play," Wyniemko noted. "There's always an element of luck involved in winning, but there's no substitute for hard work."

"What happened last season is in the past. We're just going to work hard and try to continue progressing from week to week. There won't be any complacency."

Moving into the season opener this Friday in Grand Blanc, Wyniemko is still reluctant to reveal the names of many of his starters, promising only that the "best 11 players" will take the field.

"I don't believe in class considerations—we won't be playing a senior just because he's a senior," the coach insisted. "If a junior can prove he's a better football player, then he'll be the one on the field."

As a result of that philosophy, the Wolves' mentor will have a difficult decision to make at the quarterback spot, where senior Nick Lekas and junior Brad Sheldon seem about equally matched.

Both have good arms—Wyniemko would like to pass a little more often than is usually done in prep ball—and both the 6-foot-1 195-pound signal-callers are quick on their feet as well.

"It's an interesting race," Wyniemko observed. "They're both talented, and it won't be easy to choose between them — but that's the kind of problem a coach doesn't mind."

Other names that look to figure prominently in the Wolves' offensive unit this season are seniors Jim Farnsworth, Bruce Marino and Dave Austin, while Mark Hughes, Mike Ogans and Eric Bennett are three juniors of note.

Defensively, Ogans, Austin, Ron Thompson and Ron Feneley are the prospects as linebackers, while Nick Hool and Steve Wychoff may get the nod at defensive end. Hughes will see action in the secondary.

"Our junior varsity squad went undefeated last season, and I think that's going to help us," Wyniemko added. "The kids who played JV last year know what it's like to win and feel they can do it at the varsity level as well."

The Wolves will open the 1979 season with two road contests in Grand Blanc and Lamphere before playing their first home game Sept. 21 against Bloomfield Hills Andover.

"You always prefer to open at home," assistant coach Kurt Richardson admitted. "Especially considering how well the fans in Clarkston support us—their cheering really gets us going."

"But you can win on the road, too."

Grand Blanc should give Wyniemko and company a quick idea of where they stand. "We'll be alright," Richardson predicted. "Walt's got the kids believing in themselves—the attitude and enthusiasm is outstanding."

"The Greater Oakland is a good league, and we've got a lot of tough games coming up," Wyniemko concluded. "But right now we're all just thinking Grand Blanc. We're going to take them one at a time."

Looking forward to the 1979 season are [from left] coaches Kurt Richardson, defensive coordinator; head coach Walt Wyniemko; Darrell Marsh, offensive receivers; and Dave Smith, offensive backfield.

"Low rates are a big reason we're the largest home insurer. But there are more..."

Low rates won't mean much without first class service. Stop by, or give me a call.

Volunteers needed for helping PLUS

PLUS (People Listening, Understanding and Sharing) needs volunteers and an introductory meeting has been scheduled Sept. 13.

The group, a subcommittee of Clarkston Youth Assistance, is looking for people to spend about two hours a week with children who need time with an adult.

"We always have more children waiting than we do caring adults," said Elaine Murray, one of the eight-member PLUS committee.

"No money at all has to be spent—going for a walk or that kind of thing is fine," she said.

PLUS also needs committee volunteers to work on screening, interviewing, training and matching adults with children age 5 to 17.

"What we try to do is get volunteering adults matched with troubled youths," Murray said. "Troubled doesn't have to be a juvenile delinquent—somebody who has only a mother or father or might have a large family and needs some companionship."

The Clarkston-area PLUS committee was established last year.

Recently, the first two matches between an adult and a child have been made and a third match will start soon, said Garry Pullins, a social worker employed by the Oakland County Juvenile Court who works full time at Independence Center.

"We'd like to get all the people we can involved," Pullins said. "From the standpoint of being a social worker in the Clarkston area, there is a need for it."

Although PLUS is similar to the Big Brother, Big Sister Program, there are some differences, he said.

"The main reason we started the program was to supplement the Big Brother, Big Sister program," he said. "If you want a Big Brother, you're put on a waiting list probably three or four years."

A child can be matched with an adult of the opposite sex, or a couple may be matched with a child in the PLUS program, but in the Big Brother, Big Sister program, a child is only matched with an adult of the same sex, he said.

People who would like to volunteer to work with children or to work on the committee may attend the introductory meeting Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Clarkston Schools Special Services Building, 6590 Middle Lake, adjacent to Clarkston High School.

After the meeting, those wishing to volunteer fill out an application, go through the screening committee and an orientation-learning program.

After a child is placed, monthly reports are taken by PLUS committee members and meetings are held at least every other month.

For more information, call Pullins at 673-1219, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., or evenings call Virginia Walter, head of Clarkston Youth Assistance, at 625-3441.

Historical group sets paint-a-church day

Thirty volunteers could paint the historic Sashabaw Frist Presbyterian Church which houses Independence Center in a day. The date has been set for Sept. 8 by the Clarkston Community Historical Society that donated $500 to purchase the paint.

Volunteers are asked to bring high ladders, brushes, scrapers, or rags and be at the center, 5331 M a y b e e, Independence Township, at 9 a.m.

Lunch will be served around noon by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church.

Herschel Fry, assisted by Carl Meng, is coordinator for this project. Volunteers so far include members of the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, Clarkston Area Jaycees, Civitans and individuals.

The historic church that was dedicated in 1856 still needs many necessary repairs including plaster and windows.

The septic system is in need of backhoe work to function properly.

Every winter the center is without water for periods of time.

Those willing to donate their time to paint should call Fry at 625-1941 or Independence Center at 673-1219.

Preserving nature

Conservancy director to speak Sept. 10

By Kathy Greenfield

The Nature Conservancy strives to preserve natural areas, and its state director Michael Green is scheduled to speak to the Clarkston Farm and Garden Club Sept. 10.

The approximately 500-acre gravel mining operation proposed by the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit has been a recent topic at the conservancy, a national non-profit organization with a Lansing office, Green said.

"We've been called by several people (about the proposed gravel mine)," "We've been in touch with (State) Sen. Kerry Kammer's office, the township and the Oakland County Parks office.

"At this point, there doesn't seem to be any need for the Nature Conservancy to pre-acquire the land," he said, referring to the $7 million the conservancy has in unsecured credit lines that can be used to purchase property to be bought back by local governmental units.

Green's presentation at the garden club will include slides and an overview of what the Nature Conservancy is and how it operates, he said.

He is scheduled to speak at 1 p.m. at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 6490 Clarkston-Orion Rd., Independence Township.

During the question-and-answer period, Green said he expects people to ask him about the proposed gravel mining operation.

Janet McCord, horticultural chairman for the garden club, invited Green to speak at the meeting.

"I think this is extremely relevant right now for this community," she said. "One of the attractions of this area is the open country and if some of it isn't preserved, there will be very little left.

"(The conservancy) people are so business-like, you can't believe they're naturalists," she added. "They are terrific."

Independence Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter said he spoke to Green about the conservancy becoming involved in the proposed land purchase of 80 acres now owned by the Levy Co.

Ritter plans to present his proposal to the township board to place the land purchase on the ballot and ask voters to approve .3 mill for five years in order to buy the land.

"I told him (Green) what we were doing and he said that the property would be eligible," Ritter said. "It would probably be a loan until we got the money to buy it.

"If the millage passes, we can get money at a cheaper rate," Ritter said. "If the millage doesn't pass, I'm not going to pursue it, because the people have said via their vote they don't want to buy that land and they're not interested in stopping the gravel pit."

Clarkston students to have say on hot lunches

Hot lunches served at Clarkston schools should be more appealing to students this year, because the kids themselves are going to have more to say about the food prepared for them.

They'll be telling the food services people what they want to see on their lunch trays within the bounds of good nutrition.

And they'll be learning about nutrition through the practical experience of planning their own menus.

By involving the youngsters in consumer research and consumer education, Debra Dillon, the new food services supervisor for the school district hopes to attract more customers to the hot lunch program.

School lunches, in Clarkston as well as across the nation, have become big business.

"For the first time in history, child nutrition programs became the No. 1 non-profit food service industry in the nation, surpassing the armed forces," Dillon said.

"Nationally, school food service is the second largest away-from-home food industry, serving 26.2 million children daily."

In schools throughout Oakland County, approximately 75,000 meals are served daily.

"Last year in Clarkston, we served 400,000 lunches to students," Dillon said. "We hope this year to surpass that figure and reach a new milestone."

Some creative marketing techniques are to evolve from plans she has laid.

"A student advisory committee and a parent committee are taking shape for the coming year," she said. "Activities have been planned to involve them in the school lunch program, including menu planning, conducting surveys and opinion polls, taste-testing new products, touring kitchen facilities and many others."

An elementary school classroom will participate in writing the menu each month, beginning with Andersonville Elementary School in October.

The lunch program will be used to teach children about good nutrition, Dillon said.

Students will have a choice of milk at lunch time. In the elementaries, 2-percent milk and whole milk will be available. In the secondary schools, 2-percent, skimmed and chocolate will be offered.

The price of lunches was increased this year, for the first time since January, 1977.

Elementary lunches are 65 cents and secondary are 70 cents. Milk is 7 cents per carton for white and 8 cents for chocolate. "It was necessary to make these price changes due to the increased cost of food, paper products, labor and delivery charges," Dillon said. "Any who have shopped for groceries recently realize that it is very difficult to maintain low costs."

Weekly lunch and milk tickets can be purchased on the first day of each week. Students who miss this deadline or choose not to purchase the ticket will be required to have their lunch money available at the time they receive the lunch.

Camera locations are scheduled throughout the month at different facilities in the area. If you are unable to make this time or date, please call 625-8231 and we will give you the additional times and dates available at nearby locations.

The photo I.D. cards entitle senior citizens to discounts at various stores throughout Oakland County. The I.D. card can also be used as valid identification.

"SENIOR SCOOPS"

A new "reading for fun" program will be added to the September senior citizen calendar.

Any senior citizen who enjoys reading and discussing in groups is urged to come join us.

Included in this program will be readings from Edna Ferber, Edward Robinson, Grandma Moses and more. Sessions will begin Sept. 12 from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and continue on for eight weeks.

This program is sponsored by the National Council on Aging, the local libraries and the recreation department and is free to any senior citizen aged 55 or older.

For additional information, call the recreation department at 625-8231.

SENIORS GO CAMPING

The Clarkston and Waterford senior citizens are planning a three-day, two-night trip to Camp Cavell in early October.

Camp Cavell is located 90 miles northeast of Detroit, 4.5 miles north of Lexington of 55 acres which include 1,800 feet of Lake Huron shore.

Camp Cavell's cabins consist of eight self-contained units (heat, bathroom and shower). The Farnsworth Lodge overlooks beautiful Lake Huron and the winterized dining room has meals that are well planned and prepared in ample quantities.

Recreational activities will include nature walks, terrarium crafts, tennis, golf, archery, folk dance, cookout, macrame, fishing, softball, orienteering and more.

The trip is scheduled for Oct. 10, 11 and 12 at $35 per person. The cost includes lodging and all meals. For further information, call the senior center at 625-8231 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Travel Along with

Claudia Jakus

of Clarkston Travel Bureau

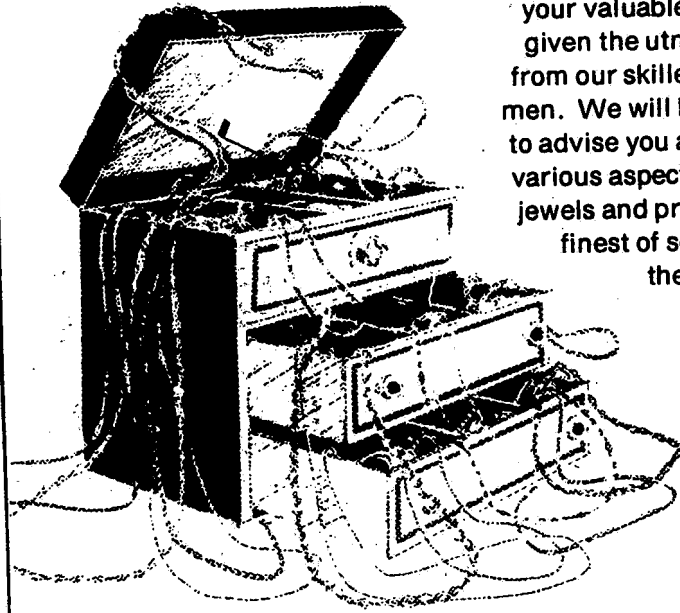

Before leaving on your carefully planned trip, be sure to find out what kind of hotel accommodations you will have. You may be sharing a room without your knowledge. If you are going to a warm place, you will want to know if the room will be air-conditioned or heated if you are visiting England, which can suddenly turn cold, even in summer months. Ask whether your room will have a private bath, or if you will have to share—and, if so, with how many people. Ask if you will have to pay extra for a single room if you are traveling alone.

If your trip is planned through us at CLARKSTON TRAVEL BUREAU INC., 6 N. Main St., 625-0325 we'll make sure you have the answers to these questions. Our staff is well traveled and can provide you with any information you need on most places in the world. All forms of travel are handled, and there are no extra charges for booking reservations. Open: 9:30am-5:30pm Mon thru Fri, 9:30am-1pm Sat.

TRAVEL TIP:

Ask which charge cards to take on your trip. Some businesses for instance, honor Visa and Master Charge more readily than American Express.

Carousel fanciers can hop ride with TV's 'PM Magazine'

Carousel fanciers can tune in Channel 2's "PM Magazine" Sept. 11 at 7 p.m. and see the Abbott family with their backyard merry-go-round filled with neighborhood children.

"There were 20 kids down here that are going to be TV stars," said Jon Abbott of Paramus Drive, Independence Township.

The show is syndicated and is to be shown in 43 other cities throughout the fall, he said.

The Abbotts—Jon, Barbara and their children, Kellie and Kari—bought the merry-go-round in 1975 as a bicentennial project.

They worked a full year restoring the carousel they had discovered in a warehouse in New York.

"Barbara painted all the animals, and it took 50 hours to an animal," Jon said.

The Abbott's carousel is one of "only one or two privately owned merry-go-rounds in people's backyards in the entire country," he said.

It was made in New York in 1912 and is one of about 300 wooden carousels in the country and one of three in Michigan.

Greenfield Village and the city park in Holland are the home of the other two.

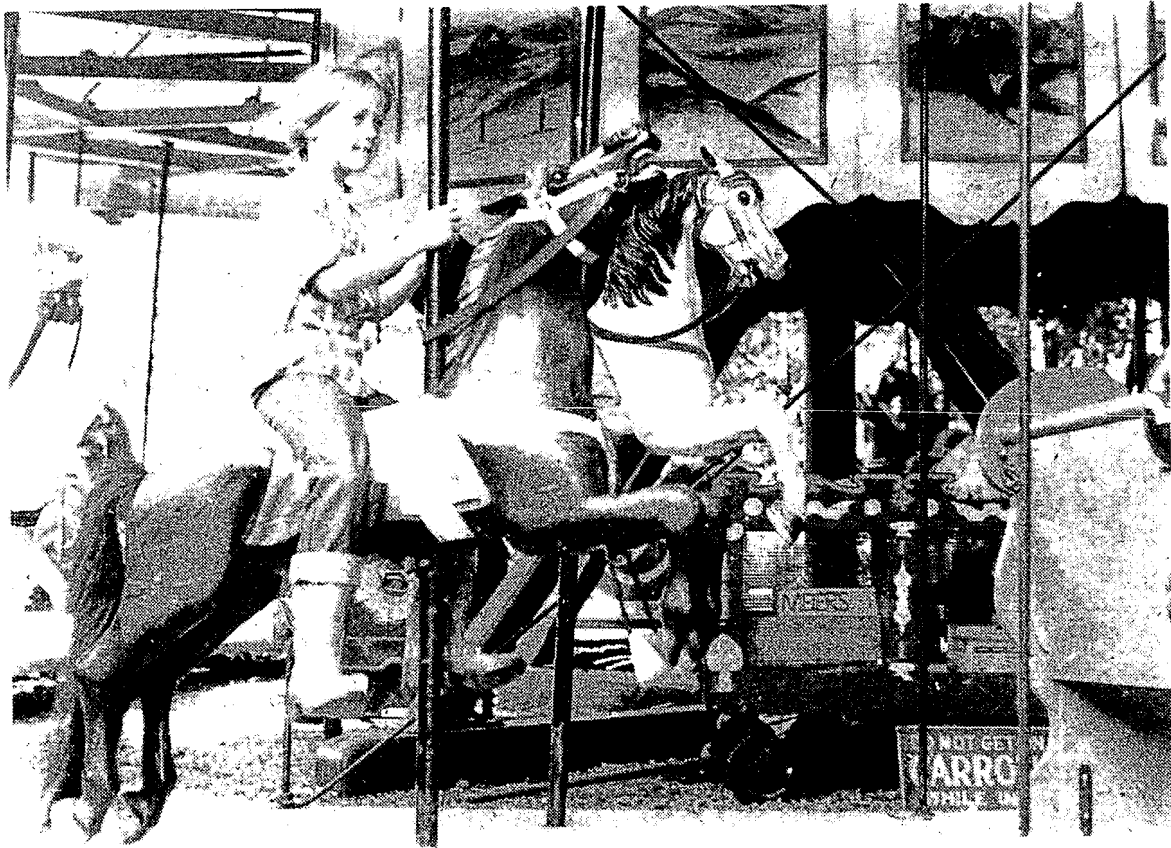

The Abbotts also collect, restore and sell figures from carousels.

That's how they found the complete set they restored.

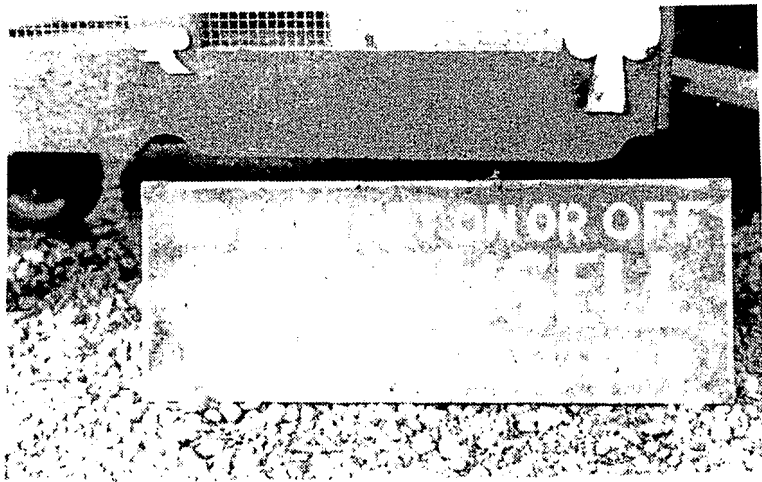

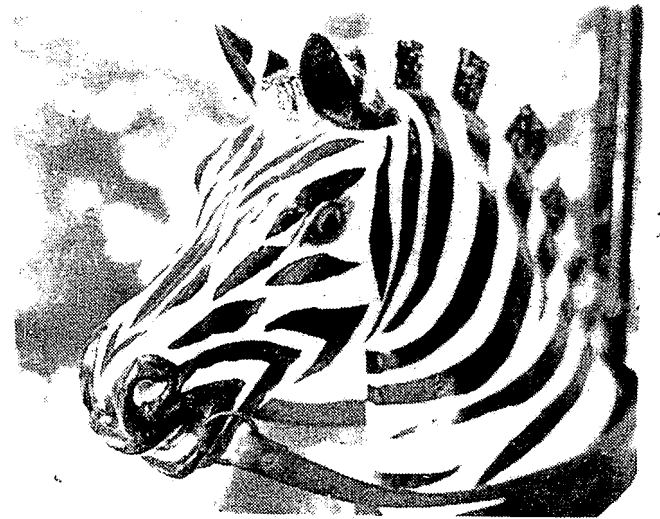

The merry-go-round weighs 10 tons and is taken apart and stored each fall.

Besides being a great reason to have family parties, the carousel carries another bonus.

"I fight the traffic home at night, get a martini and take a merry-go-round ride," Jon said. "There's nothing like it—it clears the head."

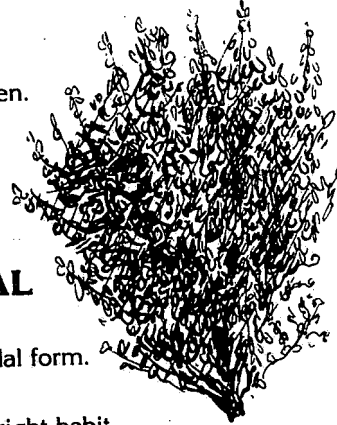

Kari Abbott takes a spin on her family's backyard carousel.

GOP ox roast

Groveland Oaks County Park is the site of this year's Oakland County Republican Ox Roast, scheduled for Sept. 16.

Arthur Elliott, former Oakland County and state chairman of the Republican Party, will be honored at the ox roast. Elliott, of Troy, first served as county chairman in 1956, became state chairman in 1975.

A 4 p.m. ceremony at the ox roast will call attention to his contributions to the party and will include presentations by state and local figures.

The ox roast begins with a flag-raising ceremony at 1 p.m.

Food will be served from 2 to 4 p.m.

Tickets are $4 for adults under 62, $2 for children under 12 and $2 for senior citizens. They are available at the Republican Committee of Oakland County headquarters, 245 S. Woodward, Birmingham, 646-8414.

Places to go

Rochester Street Art Fair, on Fourth Street in downtown Rochester between Main and Water streets, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 15 and 16.

About 90 artists have been invited to exhibit their work by the Rochester Arts Commission. Held on alternating years with the Rochester Arts 'n' Apples Festival, the fair showcases performing artists in addition to the display of paintings, water colors, ceramics and pottery, weaving, wood and metal crafts, prints, photography, leather, lapidary, sculpture and stained glass.

"Tobacco Road," a drama by Jack Kirkland, presented by Brandon S.T.A.G.E., Brandon Middle School, Varsity Drive, Ortonville.

Tickets are $3 and may be purchased at the door for the Sept. 7, 8, 14, and 15 performances.

The play is scheduled at 8 p.m. for all performances.

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP
Confusion over names given different cuts of meat will soon change. The National Livestock and Meat Board now recommends labels which tell the kind of meat and on the animal it comes from. The name of the retail cut you buy is the name of the retail cut you buy. Until your super market adopts these labels, you'll still have to ask your butcher.

WOLVES

Instructions on creation, care of Wolves T-shirt

Iron it on

1. For best results, use permanent press materials made of 50% cotton and 50% polyester, 100% cotton materials do not hold color after repeated washings.)
2. Cut out the transfer inside the black line:
3. Place a protective piece of cloth over ironing board to keep excess ink from staining ironing-board cover.
4. Slip the T-shirt over the end of the ironing board so that the front (or back) is directly over the protective cloth in the board.
5. Place the slogan face down on the area of the T-shirt you want to decorate. Place a clean sheet of paper directly over the slogan so that the entire inked surface is covered.
6. Apply dry, hot iron (linen setting) with firm, even pressure over entire surface for 30 seconds, not longer. (Important: Allow iron to reach proper temperature—350 degrees—or transfer will not take.)
7. Allow to cool for at least one minute before removing paper.

Won't wash out

No special laundering required. The colors will mellow with the first washing to a slightly faded look which will not wash out if you have followed instructions carefully. Wash and dry with other permanent-press clothes, using the proper settings or temperatures. Do not use chlorine bleach on any permanent-press materials.

If properly applied and laundered, your slogan will last through repeated machine washings and dryings.

CAUTION:

If you have never used an iron before, have an adult member of your family apply the heat transfer for you to make sure your T-shirt comes out just right.

Another Locricchio at Pine Knob

Tony Locricchio is an attorney who lives, for now, atop the Pine Knob ski lodge.

He also nearly became a Catholic priest, married an ex-nun, has three adopted children, has headed the Legal Aid Society in Hawaii and Eastern Michigan, is working as a contributing editor on a book on management, and says he would rather be at home in Hawaii than with his family living at Pine Knob.

"I've had a very different life—from law firms to seminaries," he said. "It's a life I wouldn't change anything in."

Tony is living at Pine Knob while working for his brother Joe, Pine Knob co-owner and developer.

He will stay "through whatever proceedings are necessary" regarding the proposed 22-story, ski-run-roof hotel, he said, and he also is working on "lining up part of the investors for the hotel."

In the meantime, his wife Barbara and children, Timothy Lee, 16, Hoa David, 11, and Dawn, 11, just returned from a summer at Pine Knob to their home in Kailua, Hawaii, on the other side of the mountain from Honolulu.

The children are returning to school and Barbara to her job as a creative dramatics and creative movement teacher.

The Locricchios have been married nearly 10 years.

Their children are adopted. They lived in Michigan when Tim and Dawn became their children—Dawn was 5 and Tim was 9.

Hoa David came to them during the baby lift from Vietnam in 1975. He was 7.

"We're very involved in permitting older adoptions," Tony said.

Although he starts his list of advantages of adopting older children with a smile, and the comment that "we have entirely managed to skip the diaper stage," his reasons quickly become more serious.

"Older children are harder to place—there's a belief among people that parents can't have an influence on older children," he said.

But in adopting older children, there is a chance to change the direction their life has taken, he said.

"Tim and Dawn were both previously adopted and (their adoptive parents) broke the adoption," he said.

Tim had lived in five foster homes and one adoptive home before the Locricchios became his parents.

Dawn was in an adoptive situation that was broken before her adoption was final, he said.

"Barbara is an ex-nun and I was in a seminary," he said, explaining their reasons for adopting older children. "Both of us did a lot of work with kids."

"Because of our involvement with the church, we married late and we wanted a family and felt that we had certain experiences that would be helpful to kids."

When they met, Tony was managing anti-poverty programs for the Archdiocese of Detroit, and Barbara was working in the inner city and completing her studies in creative dramatics.

They met because of a seminar on poverty programs they led at the University of Detroit.

"She was Sister Bernadette and I was the Rev. Locricchio at that time," he said. "We became good friends in a very platonic manner."

She returned to Tennessee where she worked in the Appalachia area—in towns like Buffalo Holler and Stinkin' Creek.

When the nuns in her order were faced with stricter rule—including a 7 p.m. curfew—Barbara was one of about 75 women who left.

They formed an organization called Focus and remained working with the poor.

Meanwhile, Tony decided not to take his final vows and left the seminary.

"It had nothing to do with her," he said.

They met again when Barbara returned to Detroit for her grandmother's funeral.

"Barbara heard that I left (the seminary) and called me for a ride to a wedding," he said. "Six dates later, we were married."

About the time they spent working within the Catholic Church, "it's an experience neither of us regret," he said.

"It got us into doing poverty work which has really affected us a great deal."

"It taught me an incredible political structure," he added. "I realized for the first time the existence of political structures. Even though I had training as a lawyer, I was totally naive."

Tony, 42, grew up in Detroit. He is the oldest of five children.

At the University of Detroit, he majored in psychology in undergraduate school and attended law school.

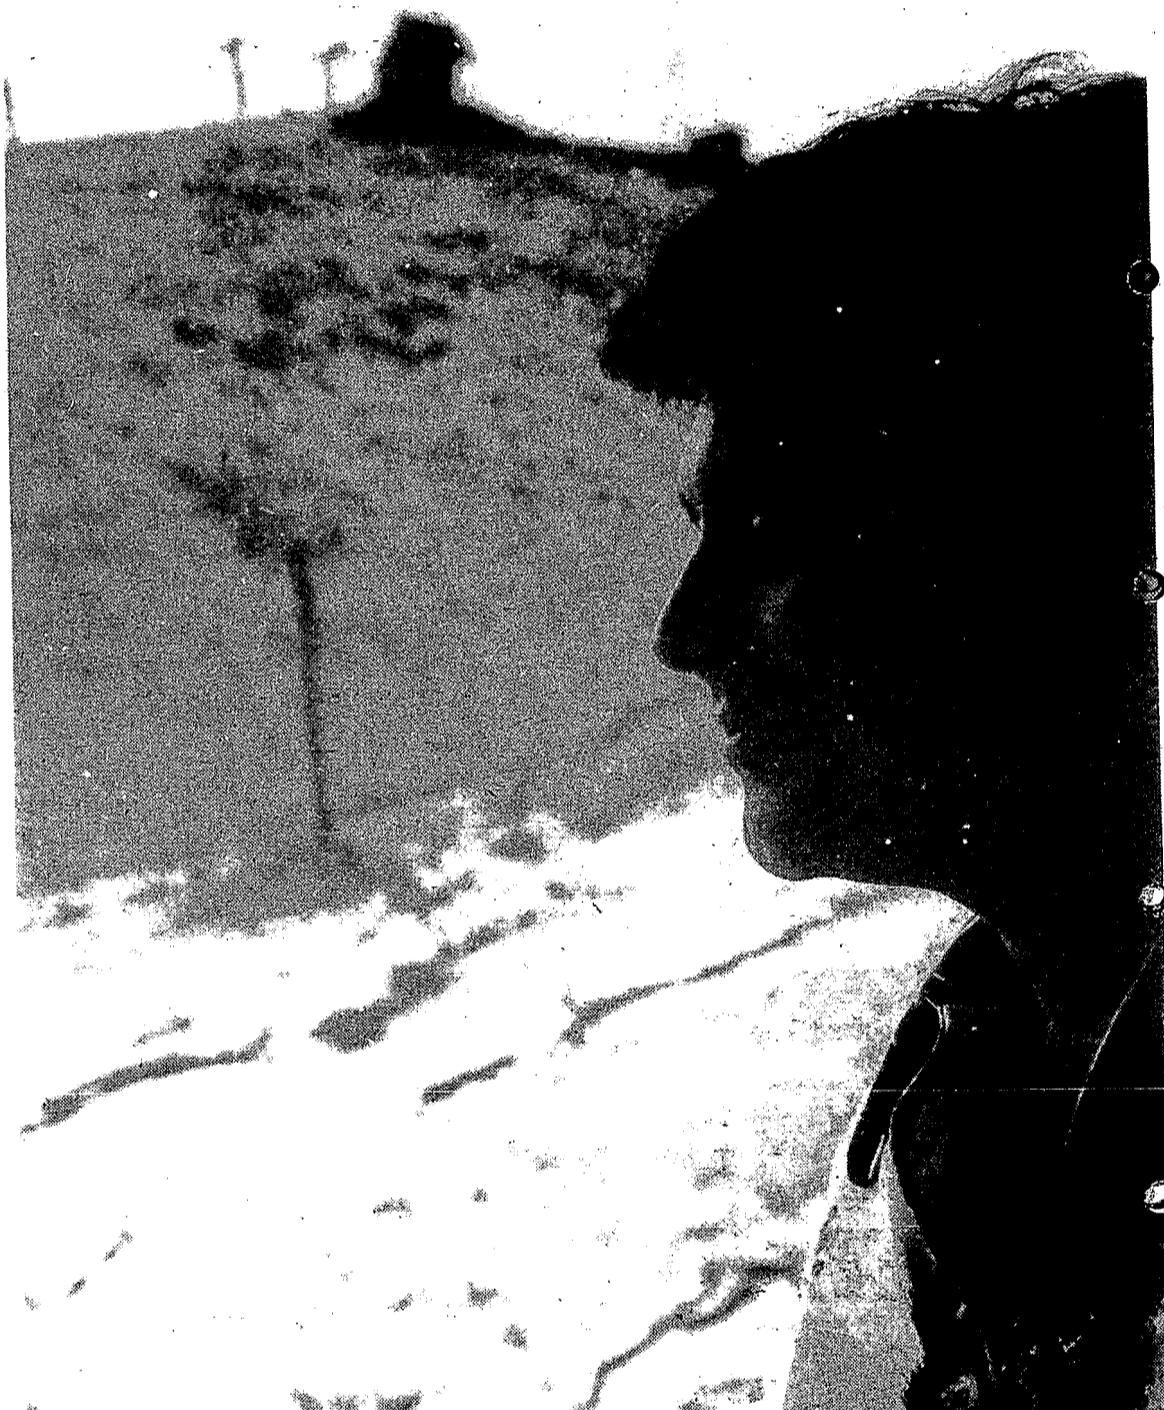

After receiving his law degree, he worked two years for a Detroit law firm as a labor attorney on the management side, he said.

He then decided to become a priest and entered a seminary.

"After being in the seminary, I ran the Legal Aid Society of Eastern Michigan for Fling, Saginaw, Bay City and Midland," he said.

When he was offered the job as director of the Legal Aid Society in Hawaii, he took it.

"It would have taken something like Hawaii to get us away from Michigan," he said, remembering the home he and his wife owned in Highland Township that had 18 acres, horses and a one-horse open sleigh.

The proposed 22-story hotel at Pine Knob would be visible from Tony Locricchio's suite above the ski lodge.

No longer working for Legal Aid, Tony's life involves considerable travel, he said.

He does consulting work as an attorney and is also at work as a contributing author on a book about management.

He traveled to Europe last year to work on the book and expects to return soon.

His experience in law has been fairly general with emphasis on real estate law and cases involving his work with the legal aid societies.

"Poverty law gets you into everything," he said, "including a lot of zoning battles.

"Of course, this is very familiar to me, usually on the (opposing) side," he added, regarding the current controversy surrounding the proposed Pine Knob hotel.

Tony began living at Pine Knob in January, at first returning to Hawaii for two weeks at a time.

As his duties at Pine Knob increased, he spent more time there, and his wife and family decided to join him for the summer.

Aside from short visits during holidays, his children had spent little time with their extended family.

"Our kids learned for the first time that they had relatives. They were so excited," he said. "They booked their time to spend a different night at each cousin's and spent a great deal of time with great aunts and uncles."

Being able to meet stars who appeared at the Pine Knob Music Theatre was a new experience for them as well as being able to explore the grounds.

"This is a neat place," Tony said. "They climbed the hills, watched the grass skiers ski, ran over to the pool, ran over to the lake to catch frogs and turtles—we don't have those in Hawaii—squirrels either."

A few days before his family

More Country Living

'I've had a very different life—from law firms to seminaries. It's a life I wouldn't change for anything.'

returned home, Hoa David became an American citizen.

"Because we were all here and all the family and relatives are here, the federal judge agreed to swear him in here," Tony said.

The family celebrated with a large dinner reception, Tony said, pointing to a vase with wilted carnations that Hoa David brought back from the celebration.

Living above the ski lodge with its downstairs dance floor, restaurant and bar is not his usual lifestyle, but he's getting used to it, Tony said.

"It's different," he said. "Back when they built it, amplified modern music had not hit—I've learned all of the disco tunes through the walls, which is a big drawback."

"Its big advantage is it comes equipped with room service and cleaning," he added. "The strange thing that's happened to me is that I've gotten used to the music."

Hawaii is only 10 hours away by plane and long distance calls home are commonplace, he said.

"I'm not wild about this time away, but last summer, we took three-and-one-half months off and I bought a camper and we took off through Europe with the kids," he said.

"While there are times like this, there are also times like that."

Tony has added large plants and art works rented from the Detroit Institute of Art to his lodgings to remind him of Hawaii where will return after the hotel question is settled.

Players to meet

Pre-production planning for "The Cat and the Canary" will be the focus of the Clarkston Village Players' Monday night meeting.

The 7:30 p.m. gathering will be held at the Depot Theatre on White Lake Road. Also to be discussed is the fall Community Theatre Association of Michigan convention to be held at Boyne Highlands.

Anyone interested in theater is encouraged to attend the meeting and become acquainted with the group.

Women's contest

The search is on for a young career woman who merits recognition for her achievements.

Every year the Waterford-Clarkston Business and Professional Women's Club highlights the outstanding achievements of a young career woman.

The theme for 1979-80 is "A Decade for Decision: Together We Aspire, Together We Achieve."

The woman chosen for the honor is to represent the local club and be eligible for competition in the district and on the state and national levels.

Qualifications include: Age 21 to 30; to be or have been employed in business or the professions with at least one full year of work experience; be outstanding in scholastics, community service or church work; and be living, working, training or continuing her education in the Waterford-Clarkston area.

A resume may be submitted by a young career woman, her employer or someone who knows her to Mrs. Joye Gravilla, Box 403, Clarkston 48016.

For more information, call Mrs. Gravilla at 625-0285.

IC needs volunteers

One morning or afternoon a week is all it takes to help others by working at Independence Center.

Volunteers interested in working with people, keeping simple records, making "Service with Love" calls to senior citizen shut-ins and assisting center administration should call the center the week of Sept. 10.

Information and applications for volunteers will be available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Volunteers are needed to work one shift a week—either from 9 to 12:30 p.m. or from noon to 4 p.m.

The center is located at 5331 M a y b e e Rd., Independence Township.

Become a part of the fall volunteer training program by calling 673-1219.

Prodigious gift yields fruit

A souvenir orange tree from Florida presented to his grandparents by Jon Sampson produced some surprising results. "Most souvenirs die, but my grandfather has a green thumb," Jon said. The tree gets no special treatment—just water and about two hours of sun each afternoon—at their home in Pontiac, said Jon's grandparents Arthur and Marguerite Sampson. The bright-colored orange growing on the tree also gets a few words of encouragement from Marguerite—"I say every day, 'Don't you fall off,'" she said. When Jon presented the tree to his grandparents, he told them, "Don't forget, I get the first orange." Jon said he can't wait.

New arrivals

Twins were born to former Clarkston residents Vic and Kay Tersigni of Holly on Aug. 27. Kimberly Ann, weighing 6 pounds, 6 ounces, was born twelve minutes before her brother Kraig Andrew, weighing 6 pounds, 4 ounces.

Waiting at home for the new arrivals were their sister Natalie, 3, and brother Jason, 2.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Natale Tersigni of Hadley

Road, Independence Township, and Mr. and Mrs. Darris Halbrooks of Hartselle, Ala.

Thanks to Mary Ann Roy, who signed her note, "proud aunt of twins," for letting us know about her new niece and nephew.

Carnival helps M D Drive

Give five industrious kids a backyard and an idea and they're apt to come up with an outstanding contribution to their fellow man. These girls have held a Muscular Dystrophy Carnival in an Ellis Road yard for three years now, and this year they were able to contribute $76 to the Jerry L. 's telethon. Next year they hope to hit $100. The girls are [from left]: Sheri Morgan, Wendy Morgan, Lisa Eiden, Patti Dufrin and Amy Eiden.

On vacation

Bob Jones, who just returned from an Alaskan cruise with his wife Uldene, calls the state the most beautiful he's seen.

"We had the most fabulous vacation that we ever had," he said.

Sunshine all the time and temperatures of 82 degrees took the Joneses by surprise.

"We took warm clothing, which we had absolutely no need of," Bob said. "We needed shorts."

Leaving from Vancouver, British Columbia, the Joneses took a four-day cruise aboard the ship Veendam.

After they landed in Juneau, Alaska, they took a side trip to see the glaciers.

"Then by boat, by train and bus, we meandered along the Klondike Gold Rush Trail of '98 to Skagway, White Horse, Yukon, to Fairbanks, Mt. McKinley and Anchorage," he said.

A two-day stay at Mt. McKinley Park was a highlight of the trip and the scenery "was unmatched anywhere in the world," he said.

"Our only hitch—while walking at 10 o'clock in the morning in front of the bank at Skagway, Uldene tripped and broke her foot in two places," Bob said.

"So for the following week, she was in her cast from her toe to her knee, but it didn't bother her."

Uldene is taking it easy at home on Robertson Court, Clarkston, needing another month of recuperation before the cast is removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Harvey Palmer

Mason—Palmer vows

Glorya Ruth Mason and Alden Harvey Palmer exchanged wedding vows recently at the Bible Baptist Church, Central Lake.

The Rev. Wallace Duncan of the Andersonville Community Church and the Rev. William Tinsley of the Bible Baptist Church performed the ceremony on Aug. 4.

Lois Kaley, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor, and Douglas Revoir served as best man.

Seating guests were Anthony Palmer, Philip Mason and Philip Odle. Daniel Revoir sang "Because" and "There Is Love," accompanied by Debbie Thompson.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the Pleasant Valley Bible Camp.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mason of Bellaire and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Palmer of Andersonville Road, Independence Township.

The newlyweds are living in Grand Rapids, where both are second-year students at Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music.

Floats: Fun from start to finish

These children who didn't know what to do during August help create Timberline Estates' giant shoe float, which took a second prize in Clarkston's parade. Third-place honors went to the float entered by the Clarkston Community Historical Society.

The Humpty Dumpty float entered by Mr. G's of Waterford Township won first prize in the float category. Judges for the parade winners were Richard Campbell, Joseph Noll and L. Brooks Patterson.

The Deer Lake Racquet Club float with children dressed to illustrate the "International Year of the Child" parade theme won third place in the best costumes category.

Vern Ridgeway, a World War I veteran, is one of the Legionnaires who shucked something like 2,000 ears of corn.

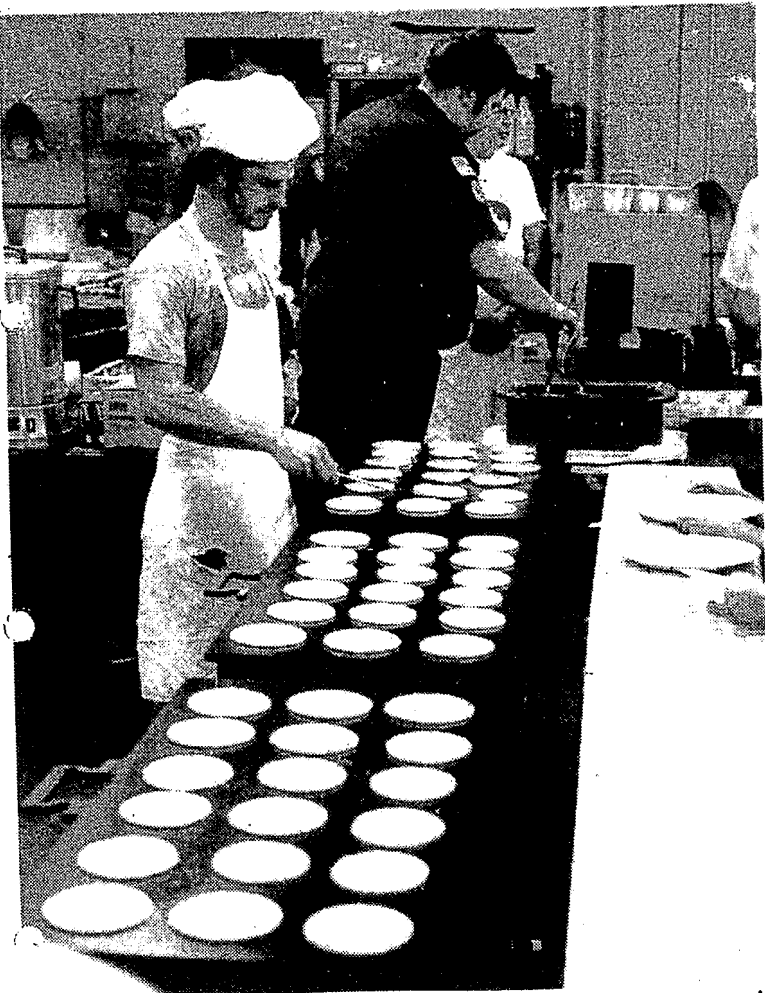

A feast of corn

Ernie Head scoops another "helping" of corn from the outdoor vat in which it was cooked.

Susan Vascassenno of Clarkston and Bob Curtis of Keego Harbor join the crowd enjoying the corn at the American Legion Hall.

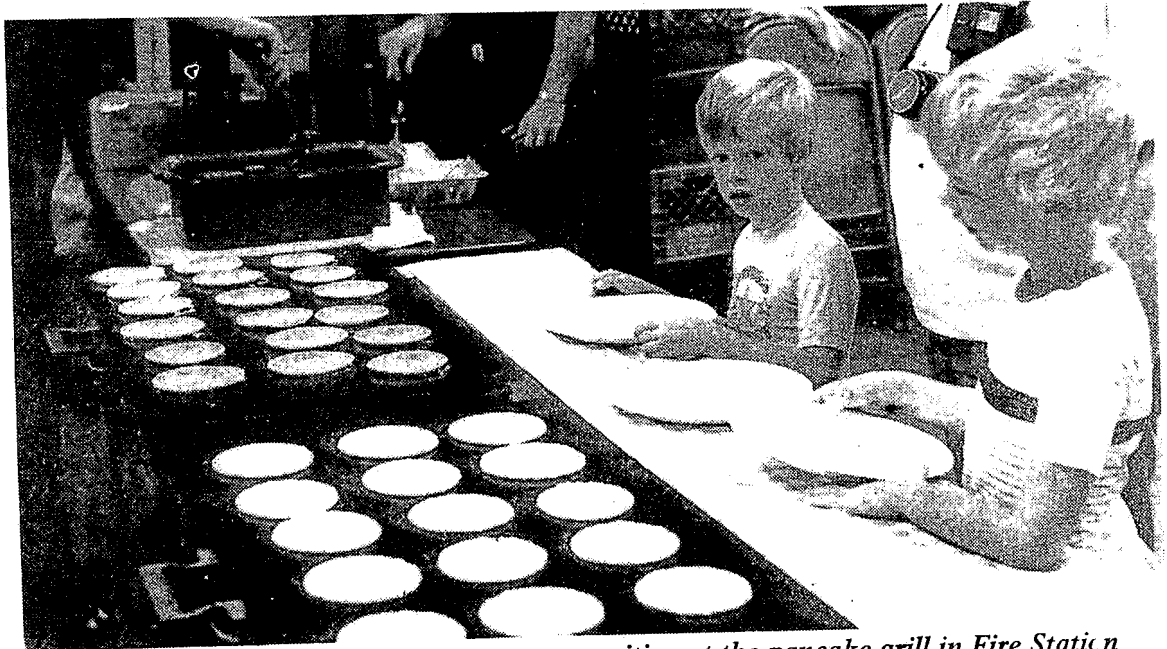

Professional pancake maker Derek King keeps busy pouring and flipping flapjacks.

Norm Phelps keeps the hot dogs roasting at the American Legion's corn-on-the-cob festival.

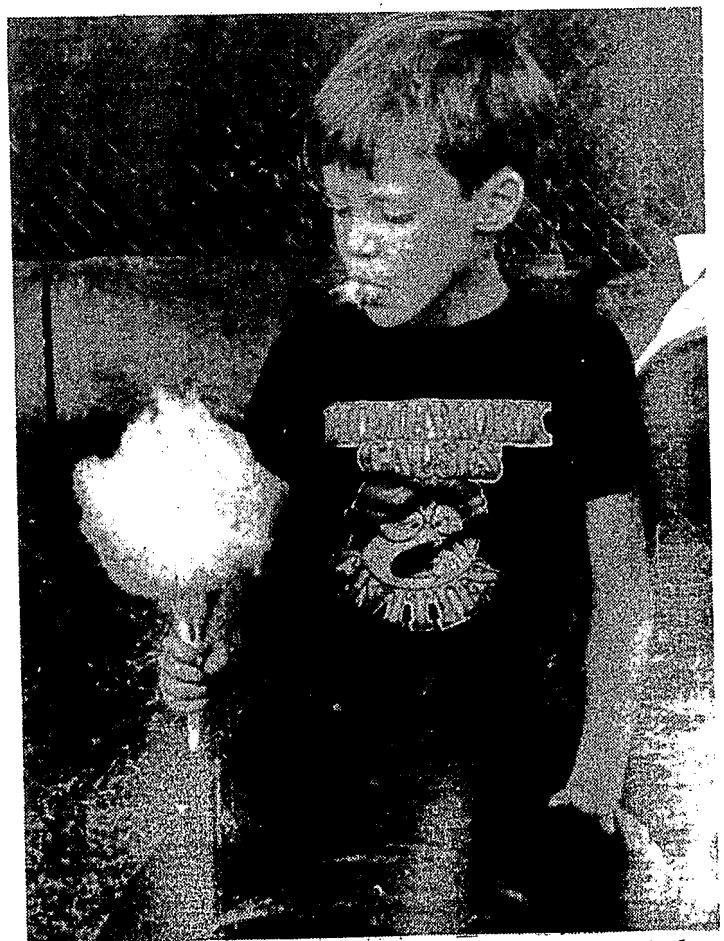

Much holiday time spent either eating or preparing tasty treats

There's a steady line of hungry customers waiting at the pancake grill in Fire Station No. 1.

Johanna Tischer, a guest from Berlin, enjoys Independence Township Fire Department pancakes with the family of her son, Fritz Tischer of Mann Road, Waterford Township.

Cotton candy requires concentration, but Brian Robertson still winds up with sticky fingers and face at the American Legion corn roast.

Miss Float by the Clarkston United Methodist Church for the entry that most typifies the "International Year of the Child" parade theme.

Parade year's biggest

Camp Fire members join in on the Labor Day parade march.

Justin Derisley, atop his father Brian's shoulders for viewing the parade, is temporarily distracted from the sights and sounds of Church Street by some high-flying balloons.

Kathy Schebor and her dog Prince are among parade watchers.
