3-year teacher pact signed

By Pat Braunagel

A three-year contract giving teachers immediate raises of 8 and 10 percent has been ratified by the Clarkston Education Association and the Clarkston Board of Education.

The agreement ended a three-day strike by the district's 333 teachers Sept. 4-6.

Teachers who had returned to work a week earlier, ratified the contract Friday, and the board of education followed suit Monday night.

The salary schedule, which carries a price tag estimated at $5,991,499 for the school district, takes the average teacher's salary to "just a little over $19,000 for 1979-80," according to Conrad Bruce, chief negotiator for the board.

The settlement, Bruce said, "is within the board's budget for this year."

The raises bargained in the contract are in addition to regular increments of 2.95 percent annually for the first 11 years a teacher works in the system and at the 16th and 21st year thereafter.

Approximately half of the district's teachers are on the 10-year schedule and the other half above it.

Those on the schedule received an 8 percent raise this year under the new contract and salary increases of 8.1 percent and 8.2 percent the following two years.

For those who have worked in the district longer than 10 years, the initial raise is 10 percent, followed by increases of 10.1 percent and 10.2 percent.

The new schedule reportedly raised Clarkston teachers' salaries three or four notches on a county-wide comparison chart, where the average Clarkston teacher's salary has ranked 24th or 25th among those in 28 districts.

Two districts, Ferndale and Oxford, had not yet settled when terms of the Clarkston Agreement were announced.

"What the CEA was looking for was movement upward in relation to all other schedules," said CEA President Al Bartlett.

"We have made some movement."

The range of salaries here now begins at a base of $11,000 for the holders of bachelors' degrees at the first step. Those who hold bachelors' degrees and have worked 21 years in the district will make $22,503 this year.

For teachers with masters' degrees, the range is from $12,000 to $25,419.

Faculty members with educational specialist or masters of social work degrees will earn $12,600 at the first step, up to $26,901 in the 21st year.

Bartlett said that approximately 80 percent of the teachers who attended the Friday ratification meeting voted in favor of the new contract.

The board of education voted 6-1 to ratify the agreement.

Trustee Fernando Sanchez, who cast the single dissenting vote, had said he was opposed to a contract provision prohibiting formal teacher evaluations from being made the first and last three weeks of a school year.

Fringe benefits in the new contract include provision for a fulltime classroom aide for any elementary teacher whose class exceeds 34 pupils and any secondary teacher who has contact with more than 195 students a day.

Severance pay was added to the Clarkston contract this year for the first time. It is tied to unused sick days, which are accumulated at the rate of 10 a year.

Teachers resigning from the system will receive severance pay amounting to $10 a day for half of their unused sick days.

For those retiring from the district, the severance pay will be calculated at $20 a day for all unused sick days the first two years of the contract and $25 a day the third year.

A better dental program for teachers will be instituted the third year of the contract, with "slight improvement" the first two years, Bruce said.

The health insurance program was not changed, but the term life insurance policy was boosted from $20,000 to $25,000 for the first two years and up to $30,000 the third year.

Bruce and Bartlett said the negotiators did not start to discuss wages and benefits until the last two weeks in August.

Before that they discussed "some areas we're going to work on" outside the contract, including discipline on elementary playgrounds, the seven-period days teachers object to at the high school and more flexibility administrators want in scheduling staff meetings at the elementary schools.

Amicably, Clarkston Education Association President Al Bartlett [left] and Conrad Bruce, chief negotiator for the Clarkston School Board, explain the provisions of the three-year master teachers' contract which was ratified Friday by teachers and Monday by the school board.

Kids not hurt in bus accident

There were no serious injuries when a Clarkston school bus was struck in the rear as it slowed down to drop off students Monday afternoon, according to Independence Township Police Services.

Five passengers were aboard the school bus driven by Shawlene Ladd when the accident occurred at Maybee and Eastview roads at 2:45 p.m.

The passengers and the bus driver were uninjured, police said.

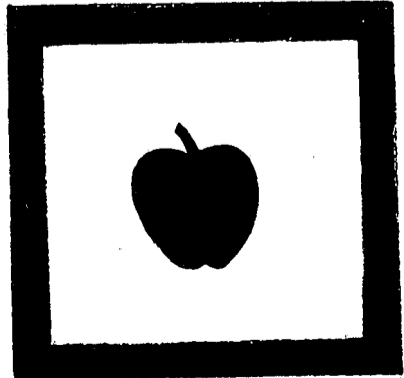

Patricia Morrow of Warbler Lane, Independence Township, was the driver of the 1979 Cadillac involved in the accident.

She was treated for minor injuries at the scene by Fleet Ambulance attendants, police said.

Her passengers, two young children complained of upset stomachs, but they were not treated for injuries, police said.

Both vehicles were damaged and had to be towed from the scene, police said.

Campbell: Township tax cut safe

Collection of zero millage in 1979 for Independence Township's general fund should not endanger future taxes, according to township attorney Richard Campbell.

After reviewing all available material on the Headlee Amendment ("of which there is very little") and consulting the State Attorney General's office, Campbell submitted his opinion to the township board last week.

The board decided to use some of the township surplus funds ($236,000) this year in lieu of the 1.33 mills from taxes to operate the general fund at its Sept. 4 meeting.

The move would save taxpayers $1.33 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Treasurer Frederick Ritter, who cast a dissenting vote, asked the attorney to check into the matter because of the Headlee Amendment.

Tax collections under the amendment approved by voters last year are to be calculated using a base year.

Ritter voiced his concern on the Headlee definition of the base year--if it was decided the base year was the previous year, the township would be locked into collecting zero "forever," he said.

The Headlee Amendment implies that the amount to be collected is to be determined from the year the amendment was approved, or 1978, Campbell said.

Further, the rate is to be based on what "could have been collected," he said.

"I must caution that these are interpretations and are subject to ultimate decision by the courts," Campbell said. "The question is not so clear that we can again levy next year without the possibility of a court battle should some taxpayer, or taxpayers' group, disagree.

"I would anticipate that should such a court battle develop, it will necessarily go all the way to the Supreme Court for resolution," he added.

"I am, however, convinced that we would win."

What does Hamlet have to do with sports? Hamlet, near the end of Shakespeare's play by that name, proclaims that, "Readiness is all." He was talking about being ready to take revenge on his uncle for killing his father the king. But the same maxim is true for fishing. If you are ready at the right time, you will catch your fish. There are some general rules about the best time of the day to fish, but your best bet is to inquire locally about the conditions and habits of the fish for that particular season. That is, of course, if the locals are willing to share their secrets with an outsider.

Kammer outlines gravel pit strategy

By Kathy Greenfield

State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac) says he will use every means available to stop a proposed 500-acre gravel mining operation in the center of Independence Township.

A strategy and information session was called by Kammer last week at the Oakland County Parks Commission office building in Waterford Township.

The gravel operation proposed by the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit would span 19 years with gravel mining in stages on the property located west of Sashabaw Road and north of Clarkston-Orion Road, abutting Independence Oaks county park and the township's Clintonwood Park.

The Levy Co. has presented a reclamation plan that would include a 200-acre lake and about 33 three-acre house sites around a private lake.

Kammer called the gravel mining proposal a "cruel irony," because between 200 and 300 acres surrounding the Clinton River Watershed were included on a purchase list last year under the Michigan Land Trust Bill that he sponsored.

Available funds were used before the parcel was considered and in the meantime, the gravel mining proposal was made, he said.

This year, the property is seventh on a list of hundreds of environmentally sensitive areas proposed for purchase, Kammer said.

"All of us feel this is a special piece of property, and if there is ever a time for government to protect pieces of property, this is the time," he said.

"Maybe the development belongs someplace else," he added. "You don't have to put it in the middle of an environmentally sensitive area."

The land would be given to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department after the proposed purchase, Kammer said, and it would then become part of Independence Oaks.

Money to purchase property in the land trust account comes from royalties paid by oil companies in the state and not from taxpayers, Kammer said.

"If the money came from a resource, we ought to pile it back into a resource" was the philosophy behind a land trust establishment, he said.

Kammer told the gathering of some 30 people that the meeting's purpose was to see if there was a collective feeling that the property was worth fighting over.

Eric Reickel, manager of the county parks and recreation department, said he had been contacted by Levy Co. representatives regarding the meeting.

"They say the objection to a strategy session is that they're trying to work in the spirit of cooperation--that having meetings like this doesn't help," Reickel said.

Some of those present from governmental agencies were there only to offer information on steps to investigate environmental impact, Kammer said.

At the end of the two-and-one-half-hour long meeting, Kammer listed his proposed steps to stop the gravel mining operation.

His plan includes asking for a flood plain study, writing to United States senators and congressmen asking for support because federal dollars have been spent on the adjacent county park, revisions to be township gravel ordinance and wetlands ordinance, and establishment of "war chests" by environmental groups to help fight the matter in court.

Kammer also said he supports the proposed purchase of 80 acres by Independence Township, a question facing voters on the Oct. 16 ballot.

"I envision having to sit down and say, 'No one way is the answer'," Kammer said. "If it comes down to having bumper stickers printed saying, 'Save the Clinton River Watershed,' that should be done.

"I wonder what would happen Those attending the meeting included members of the township board, the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Independence Land Conservancy, the Nature Conservancy, the Clinton River Watershed Council, Bass Busters, Trout Unlimited, county planning division and county drain commission.

Millage meeting

Independence Township voters can attend a meeting Sunday about the request for .3 mill for five years on the upcoming special election ballot.

The request for taxpayers to pay for the purchase of 80 acres presently owned by the Edward C. Levy Co. and part of the proposed 500-acre gravel mining operation will be on the Oct. 16 ballot.

Ritter will conduct the meeting, beginning at 4 p.m., at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Levy spokesman defends mine plan

A gravel mining operation on 500 acres near the center of Independence Township is desirable for several reasons, according to Norman Hyman, attorney for the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit.

The property is rich in gravel materials and close to I-75, he said.

"It is close to where it's needed," he said. "That has some environmental impact, too, especially with the gas crisis and the amount of gas that would be used."

The proposal to mine gravel includes safeguards for the Clinton River Watershed, he said.

"Part of what we're trying to achieve is an arrangement to extract the material in a way that's consistent with environmental guidelines," he said.

"We think we can clearly demonstrate to anybody with an open mind that we are not going to damage the Watershed," he added.

Although the gravel proposal was first presented to the township planning commission in May, no steps have been taken to proceed to the zoning board of appeals.

The next step, Hyman said, is consultation between the Levy Co. and the Michigan Land Trust Bill committee that State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac) said he would arrange.

"We have read with some interest that people are trying to get together a coalition to try and stop us," Hyman said.

"I received from Sen. Kammer the assurance that regardless of newspaper reports that I have read, as far as he knew the land trust folks were going to view this with an open mind."

Going to the township zoning board of appeals would be premature, he said.

"We're hopeful that very soon the next step which we were told will occur, will occur," he said. "If it doesn't, then obviously we've been going down the wrong road."

"I hope that's not the case," he added. "We're acting in good faith here."

If the township tries to purchase the 80 acres now owned by the Levy Co., and they are dissatisfied with the proposal, "obviously we'll contest," Hyman said.

The $350,000 that the millage would raise would not be enough to make the purchase, he said.

"We have the right to extract the materials from that property as long as we follow the environmental guidelines," Hyman said.

"I think it's foolish for us to work at cross purposes when there is a real basis for working together here."

Alley oops!

The bridge's edge at the stream running through the Clarkston Village Park provides a challenge—to get across using arm-power and not get wet feet—for Jim Newcomer of Glenburnie Lane, Independence Township, while his friend Tim Tarvestad of La-von Drive, Springfield Township, keeps an eye on his progress.

Hotel backers hurry procedure

A change in approach to and address the height question, he said. Both meetings are to be held at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The controversial 600-room, ski-run-roof hotel is to be reviewed at the Sept. 27 Independence Township Planning Commission meeting and at the Oct. 10 Zoning Board of Appeals meeting.

The site plan review at the planning commission is to cover use of the recreational-zoned property for a resort-convention hotel at Pine Knob.

After the commission makes its recommendation for approval or non-approval of a hotel at the Pine Knob site, the proposal is to go before the zoning board of appeals.

The special appeals board meeting was requested by Pine Knob representatives, said Timothy Palulian, building and planning department director.

"The zoning board of appeals will make a ruling on the use and address the height question," he said. Both meetings are to be held at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston. The planning commission first reviewed hotel plans in March and after a public hearing, the commission recommended approval of a recreational district zoning amendment to allow resort-convention hotels up to 22-stories high on sites of 10 acres or more.

On Aug. 7, the Independence Township Board decided to put the height question to township voters on an advisory ballot.

The use question was placed on the special election ballot at the Aug. 22 township board meeting in the form of a binding referendum vote.

Oct. 16 has been set as the date for the special election, six days after the zoning board of appeals meeting where a ruling would be final pending taking the issue to court.

Wheeler resigns

Citing added career responsibilities, Martha Wheeler has resigned from the Independence Township Planning Commission.

Wheeler, of Hummingbird Lane, is vice president and manager of the Clarkston branch of Pontiac State Bank.

When the bank's second branch in the area under construction at Dixie Highway and Maybee Road is completed, Wheeler will assume duties as manager of both locations.

Wheeler's resignation from the nine-member commission was accepted at its Sept. 13 meeting.

Rest stop raided

Sixteen men have been arrested and charged with gross indecency between males at a Springfield Township rest stop on I-75 in the past two weeks, according to police.

"Undercover officers were sent into the rest area because of numerous citizen complaints," said Deputy Robert Wark of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

On September 6, 10 men were arrested and on September 13, six men were arrested at the rest stop off I-75 north of Dixie Highway between 9 and 11 p.m., Wark said.

Following the arrests, the men were charged with the felony and released on personal bond by 52nd District Judge Gerald McNally.

Two additional men were ticketed for loitering, Wark said.

Out to ding us for 'dome

Last week the Board of Oakland County Road Commissioners sent out their Annual, "How Great We Are" Report.

It was inserted with perhaps all the newspapers in Oakland county.

One article made us more thrilled than ever with the Pontiac Silverdome.

"The Oakland County Road Commission began preparing early in 1979 for the Super Bowl football game at Pontiac Silverdome scheduled for January 1982."

Commission Chairman Fred Houghten is quoted as saying, "We will make every effort to insure fast and efficient ingress and egress to the stadium area in the event of a major storm."

Then, "The Road Commission is prepared to share the cost of the county road improvements and needs only commitment by the City of Pontiac, the County, and State in time to complete construction by the fall of 1981," says Houghten.

Now let's see. Only need commitment from Pontiac, County and State.

Sounds like they have one out of four. But, we wonder, where is the Road Commission from? Outer space? Too, what about Pontiac Township's share? Usually Townships are forced into "matching fund" situations for road improvements.

And, depending on where you live, you will be paying taxes in at least three out of four of these governmental units for "insuring fast ingress and egress".

And, who for? At what cost?

Having always been against such construction being done at taxpayers expense we regret very much paying still more for the enclosed playground.

Reading the Commissioners' article we were unable to determine the cost for various suggestions of road changes (maybe improvements) they propose.

In the first place, there is no single proposal. Both piecemeal and long range alternatives are given. The long range costs $13 million. That's excluding a pedestrian bridge at $900,000.

Then the real zinger. You and I won't be able to get tickets to the Super Bowl anyway. The high monkey-monks in football and media circles have them tied up.

Dear Mr. Rose:

Your plight, regarding the loss of your beautiful maple trees, has touched me deeply.

Your loss reminded me of a similar tragedy experienced by some very dear friends, the Stumps. When they related their tearful tale to me I was driven to a serious poetic response. I am enclosing a copy of the poem with the hope that it will give some measure of solace to you and your wife.

Sympathetically yours,

A STUMP IS A STUMP IS A STUMP [Forgive me Gertrude Beer mug]

There is a nice couple named Stump
Who refused to reside in a dump.
They found they were fond
Of a house by a pond
Which caused a great throat in their lump.

One asset that surely did please
Was the tree lawn's two towering trees.
Tho in need of repair,
No cause for despair,
The Stumps became busy as bees.

Plumbing, remodelling galore,
They "pleasantly" tackled each chore;
Herb cried, "Holy Moses!
A fine bed of roses.
We've made of this house we adore!"

Their yard was a source of delight;
They picnicked and swam day and night.

The Clarkston News, dear readers, is your newspaper.

This does not just mean that you have a right to plunk down your quarter--or pay your subscription--and read it.

When I am going to cut a letter, I try to let the writer know and give him or her the option of doing the slashing. On a couple of rare occasions, the writers have chosen to buy an ad to assure that everything they have to say on a matter is printed.

On the matter of libel, the paper is as responsible as the writer for damages done to an injured party through the letters-to-the-editor column.

The only recent example I can recall was an accusation of criminal activity and criminal intent on the part of someone the writer disagreed with. The accusation went beyond the limits of fair comment.

It is reasonable that there will be times a writer will seek anonymity. This has to be a secret I share with the writer.

I have lately received a couple of letters which included no address nor telephone number. Checks of the telephone book and other references did not get me any closer to verifying the existence of either writer. Those letters are still being held.

There is one other condition imposed on letters to the editor--on those relating to an election.

We will not run letters on candidates or issues in the last paper to come out before an election. Doing so would allow no time for reply.

This policy will apply to the upcoming Oct. 16 election involving hotel referendums and a millage request in Independence Township.

Say what you will up to and in our Oct. 3 issue. On Monday, Oct. 1 we will accept our last letters on the matters until after the election.

Until then, speak up, speak out. You have a right.

Fearless forecast

by Jim Sherman

I keep forgetting to put fellow publisher Richard Milliman on the record for a statement he made early in July.

Dick is president of Michigan Press Association, has considerable background in politics, and owns a dozen weekly newspapers including the Livingston County Press in Howell, Camden's Farmer's Advance, Charlotte Republican in Eaton county, Clinton County News in St. Johns, and, well you get the idea.

He calls this his "fearless forecast." "Mr. Carter will withdraw before the convention. Walter Mondale will carry the Democratic standard. And Mr. Mondale will lose to Gerald Ford in the general election."

I admire Richard Milliman for making statements like that in this day of apathy and indecision.

Heard a funny story the other day, though I guess that's for you to decide.

The wife teasingly said to her husband, of more than a few years, "If I died, would you remarry?"

He pulled at his earlobe for a minute or two and replied, "Yes, I think I would."

This didn't exactly set well with wife.

Her eyes started to glisten as she raised her voice an octave and asked, "Well, if you remarried, would you give her the sterling silver set we received as a wedding gift?"

The husband pulled at the other earlobe, hesitated a little longer, and said, "Yes, I think I would."

Wife was burning. She fairly spit out the words, "Well, if you remarried would you give this woman the mink coat you gave me for our last anniversary?"

Husband pulled on both earlobes. He moved his feet a couple times. He twisted in his chair. But answered, "Yes, I think I would."

By now wife was in a rage. Her wording was careful, but loud when she asked, "Well, what about my golf clubs. Would you give them to her?"

This time there was no earlobe pulling.

Husband looked up at his wife and said, "No. I wouldn't give her your golf clubs!"

The wife was a little relieved, but not much. She was still fuming when she asked, "Why not my golf clubs? If you're going to give HER my sterling silver wedding present, and you're going to give HER my mink coat, why not my golf clubs?"

He meekly replied, "Because she's left handed."

Friends, family and all
The scene would enthrall
As the water birds came into sight.

I wish I could say all went well;
Alas, there is much more to tell.
One day, on a log,
A duck croaked like a frog
Beset by a terrible spell.

Now the creatures the Mill Pond relaxes
Are the kind who will never pay taxes!
Fate's cruel lip
Might have made the Stump's flip
Had they known they would soon meet with axes!

On one seemingly average day,
When the Stumps were at work far away,
A tree felling crew,
With nothing to do,
Left the tree lawn in great disarray.

When the Stumps returned to their place,
No words could describe either face.
For, lo and behold,
Standing naked and bold,
Were two stumps in utter disgrace!

Some mystery lies in the deed:
There's a case but to whom do they plead?
Excuses were offered;
A wee twig was proffered -
It's hardly much more than a seed.

After inquiry, fury, dismay,
They consulted the Good Book one day.
As a desperate resort
They sought a report
That a namesake might lighten their way.

A Methuselah Stump or nee Speares
Might allay their sorrows or fears.
If the tree lawn's young blade
Were to give them some shade
They would have to live nine hundred years!

NRA loses gun rights

by Jim Fitzgerald

My cousin Al can no longer buy guns at discount prices from the U.S. Defense Department, which means you had better look under your bed, the Russians may already be there.

Cousin Al is a longtime member of the National Rifle Association. Last week, a federal judge shot down a 55-year-old monopoly that gave NRA members an exclusive right to buy hundreds of thousands of government surplus rifles, pistols and shotguns at sharply reduced prices.

NRA lawyers defended the monopoly by arguing that the training of civilians in marksmanship remains vital to the nation's defense. As most gun totes agree, only the NRA can train a person to hit a communist, or a mouthy spouse, at 60 paces on the first shot. Therefore, it makes sense that NRA members shouldn't have to pay as much for surplus military guns as is paid by ordinary shooters who are liable to miss and allow mouthy spouses to escape to mouth again another day.

But Judge Harold Greene ruled against the NRA. He said it was unconstitutional to discriminate for the government to sell the taxpayers' guns to Cousin Al for a lower price than charged non-NRA members, many of whom pay as much taxes as Cousin Al and also have mouthy spouses.

That's what I tried to tell Al. "What if I could buy surplus government books cheaper than you could because I belonged to the National Book Association and you didn't? Would that be fair?" I asked him.

"You can't keep those commies out by reading books to them," Al said.

"If more people would read more books, maybe they'd know enough not to shoot each other," I said while genuflecting out of respect for my own incredible wisdom.

"If NRA members can't afford to buy all the guns they need, this country is in real trouble," Al said, mistaking my genuflection for a curtsy and giving me his pistol butt to kiss.

Judge Green upheld the argument that the NRA used discount guns to increase membership, much the same way the A&P cuts the price of hamburger to increase customer traffic. NRA membership increased from 60,000 to more than a million between 1946 and 1968, the period of the heaviest sales of surplus weapons to NRA members.

All those people didn't join the NRA just so they could brag about it on their bumper stickers. They joined so they could buy guns cheap and take the high cost out of defending American homes against verbal attack from within the family.

The NRA collects dues from all these gun-buying members and uses the money to elect pro-gun candidates and to lobby against any legislation that threatens a citizen's constitutional right to bear arms and protect himself from being read to death by members of the National Book Association.

As a consequence, because all taxpayers pay for government weapons, all taxpayers have been subsidizing NRA activities for the past 55 years. The most avid advocates of gun controls have been forced to help pay the wages of the poet who penned that immortal slogan: "Guns Don't Kill People, People Do."

The irony would be the same if the Defense Department forced Cousin Al to buy anti-hunting books for people who want NRA members to register their rifles before using them to shoot the red-tufted mouthy spouse.

I asked Al about the paradox, and he said he wouldn't mind if there were books in every American home if he could only be sure they wouldn't be left within easy reach of children. It's not easy to argue with Cousin Al.

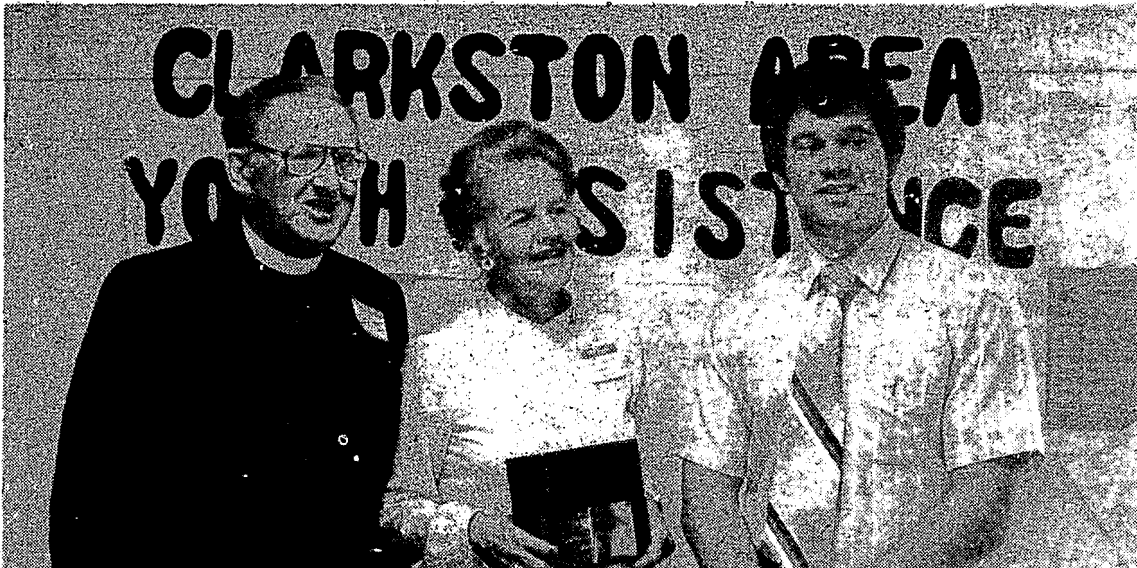

"Listen, Al," I said cleverly. "This is the age of the nuclear missile. One nation can wipe out another nation thousands of miles away simply by pushing a button. Do you really think the NRA is justified in demanding discount guns from the government on the grounds that NRA members must learn how to shoot pistols straight enough to protect the United States from attack by a foreign power?"

"There's some sense in what you say," Al conceded, "but instead of the NRA discounts being stopped, they should be extended to include fancier weapons. The next war, our government is going to need men who know how to shoot missiles straight. I'd like to buy me one of those MX missile systems whenever the government is ready to unload them, but I couldn't afford it without an NRA discount."

MX missiles are the ones the government plans to put on special wheels to fool the enemy. The missiles will be continually rolled from one of 4,600 shelters to another so the Russians can't pinpoint a missile's location and destroy it.

Surplus wheels will be sold to the NRA at a discount. If Cousin Al can no longer buy discount guns in defense of his country, he will at least be able to make his bed mobile and more difficult for the Russians to get under.

Feted at luncheon

The Clarkston Area Youth Assistance Organization held its annual meeting at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection Monday, and announced a new chairperson to head the group's activities. From the left are incoming chairperson Rev. Alex Stewart, outgoing chairperson Virginia Walter, who received an award in recognition of her services, and guest speaker Bill Biebuyck, who spoke to the group about the youth services provided at Camp Oakland in Oxford, where he is assistant director.

Band sets busy schedule

A fall series of marching band contests—including the Clarkston Invitational Sept. 29—will start this weekend for the Clarkston High School Marching Band.

The 90-member corps-style band will travel to five other competitions and also play at all of the varsity football games this fall.

Preparation for the contests was started at the five-day band Camp at Grand Valley State College in late August. In-school and after-school rehearsals are held during the academic year.

The band's schedule of appearances is: Central Michigan University Symposium, Sept. 22; Clarkston Invitational, Sept. 29; Michigan Invitational at Atwood Stadium in Flint, Oct. 7; Western Michigan University's Cavalcade of Bands, Oct. 13; Bridgeport Open, Oct. 20; and GOAL Marching Band Festival at Rochester High School, Oct. 27.

The second annual Clarkston Invitational, sponsored by the Clarkston Band Boosters, will feature 12 Michigan high school bands in judged competition.

Chiefs to start season

The Clarkston Chiefs midget football teams will open their fall schedule this Sunday against the Lakeland Corsairs at Clarkston High School field at 1 p.m.

The following Saturday, Sept. 29, the Chiefs will be performing at the Silverdome, game time 11 a.m. As the Oxford-Orion Raiders provide the opposition. Tickets at $2 apiece may be obtained through the teams by contacting Ed Harm at 588-8281 or Bob Taylor at 628-3113.

Letters to the editor

Basinger answers ApMadoc

Dear Fontie,

In a recent letter to the editor you implied that I had failed village citizens by refusing to attend the annual meeting of the Michigan Municipal League.

You neglected to mention that the reason I would not go was that I had not been authorized to act for the village, even tho I had been appointed delegate. You should have known that the League requires delegates to express only the official position of its member governments.

I have attended more League meetings than any other member of the present council and I believe, of any past council.

I deeply regret that you chose to make this an issue of my refusal to represent the village, rather than my refusal to attend without the authorization that would make my presence effective for the village.

Sincerely,
Ruth Basinger

The village had no official position because, under your leadership, the council discussed only 1 of the 35 League issues, and voted on NONE. Obviously, I could not go and vote according to my personal opinions!

Township roads to be regraveled

The Oakland County Board of Road Commissioners accepted bids last week for $62,640 worth of regraveled in Independence and Springfield townships.

Roads in Independence Township that will be regraveled are Rattalee Lake between Reese and Ortonville roads; Foster from the west township line to Dixie Highway; Whipple Lake between Pine Knob and Dartmouth roads; Stickney from Sashabaw to Pine Knob; Eston from Whipple Lake one-half mile south; and Waldon from I-75 east to the township line.

Springfield roads affected are Big Lake between Ormond and Scott; Hillsboro one-quarter mile south of Shaffer and one-quarter mile south of Big Lake; Big Lake between Andersonville and Farley; Bridge Lake three-quarters of a mile north from Big Lake; Clark between the railroad tracks and Bridge Road; Rattalee Lake one-quarter mile east of Eaton and one mile west of Bridge Lake; Bridge Lake 1.6 miles from the north township line to south of Rattalee Lake; and Knox between Bridge Lake and the east township line.

The work will be done by Thorman Sand and Gravel of Ortonville, which entered the low bid of $31,320 for each township. Cost will be shared by the townships, the Oakland County Board of commissioners and the road commission.

Half of the work will be done this fall and the other half next spring.

Board borrows funds

The money market isn't what is used to be, the Clarkston Board of Education has learned.

The board last week agreed to borrow $700,000 from Pontiac State Bank at an interest of 6.72 percent.

The loan, made against anticipated state aid payments, is to cover cash flow problems the school system is expected to have in November.

Last year the interest rate on a similar loan--one for $1.5 million--was 4.97 percent.

A bid was also sought from Community National Bank, which declined to submit one.

The board decided to take PSB's offer. Stanley Darling, district business manager, said he doubted that a better rate could be found.

"The money market is much different this year than last," he commented.

"Much different than it was two weeks ago," Schools Supt. Milford Mason said.

Win a Free Vacation for two in the Bahamas

We're very close to a milestone at Pontiac State Bank. Our big network of 24-hour teller machines will soon reach $50,000,000 in cash withdrawals . . . and we're celebrating with a contest.

$50,000,000 Bank Now Countdown

A contest for everybody

If you can guess when Bank Now will reach the $50,000,000 mark, you could win a free winter vacation — a trip for two to the Bahamas. Eight days and seven nights as guests of PSB.

For Bank Now Customers Only

The same big prize goes to the PSB customer who withdraws the 50 millionth dollar on any Bank Now machine. No entry form needed. The lucky customer will win automatically.

We'll help you guess the day and time. Tune to radio station WPON (1460 AM). We'll broadcast reports each weekday (at twenty minutes after the hour) — giving you the Bank Now total as of the previous day. You can keep track of the countdown and make an educated estimate of the moment we'll reach $50,000,000.

It's easy to enter the Countdown Contest. As soon as you estimate the winning time, just fill out the form below and mail it to PSB.

Entry Form: Bank Now Countdown Contest

I estimate the Bank Now network will reach a total of $50,000,000 in cash withdrawals, as follows:

Month _____ Day _____ Hour _____ Minutes _____ AM or PM _____

My Name _____ (Please Print)

Street Address _____

City _____ ZIP _____

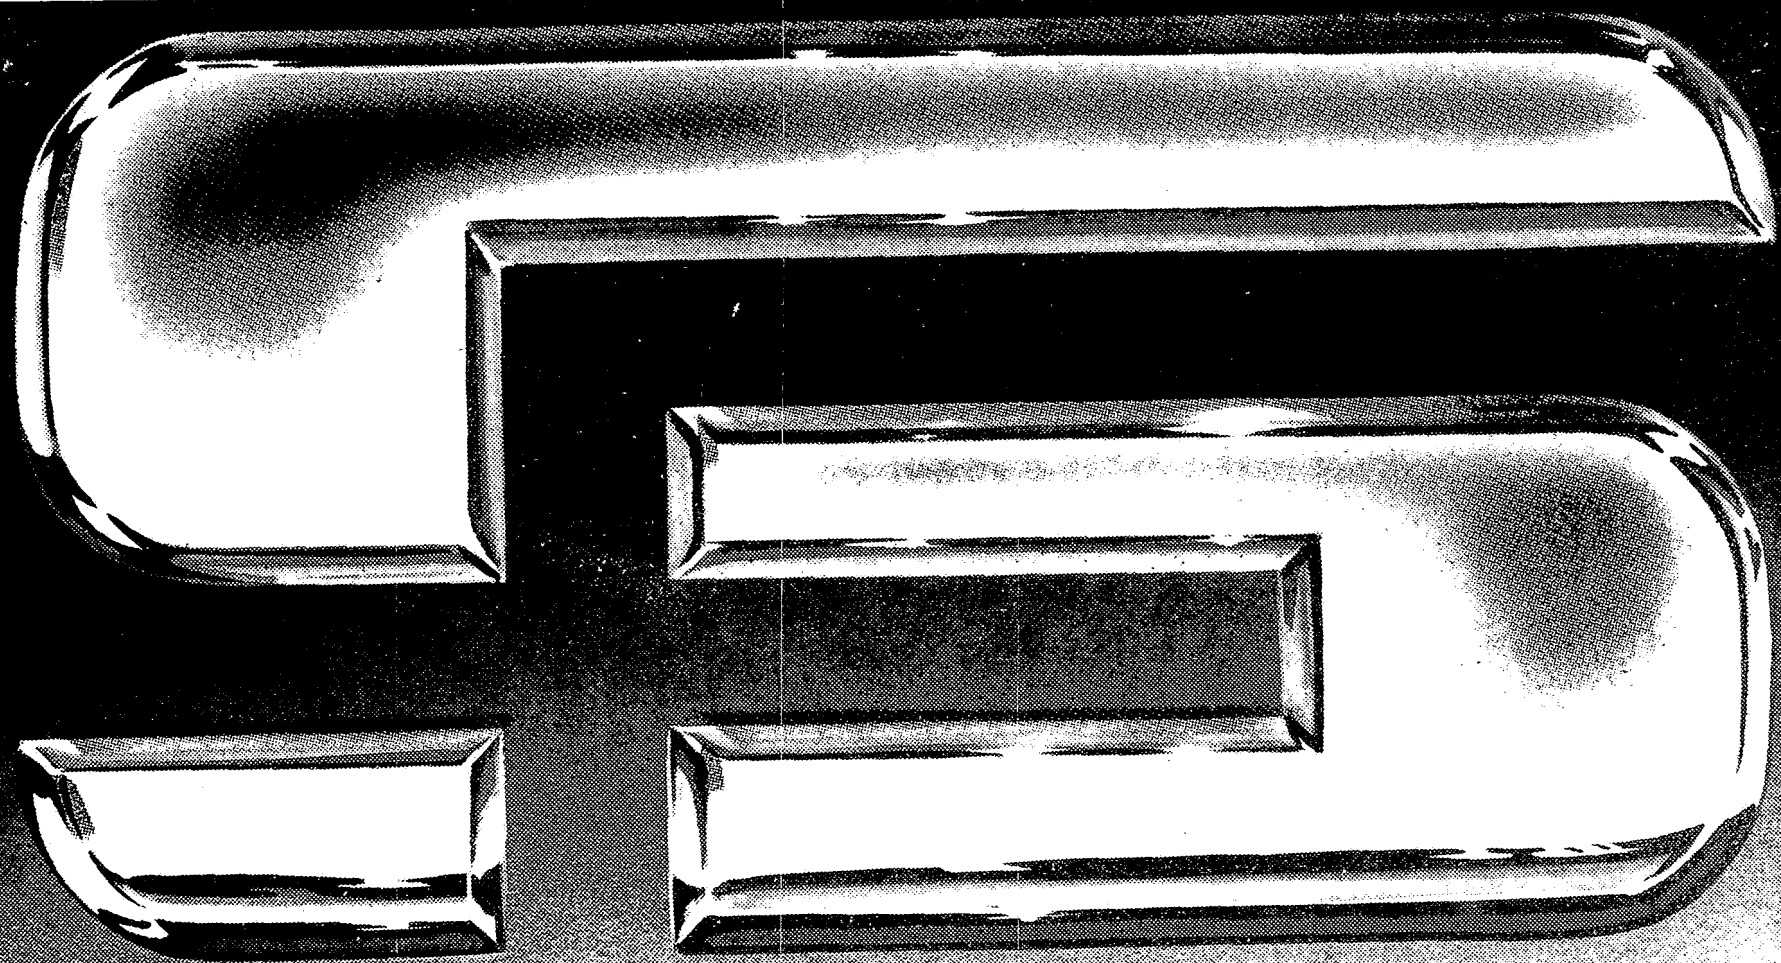

My Phone No _____

B _____

All entries must be completely filled out and mailed to Pontiac State Bank, Bank Now Countdown Contest, P.O. Box 599, Pontiac, MI 48056

Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight of the day before Bank Now reaches a total of $50,000,000 in cash withdrawals. The winner will be the entry that predicts the day and time closest to the minute when the $50,000,000 total is reached, as determined by Pontiac State Bank records. Earliest entry takes precedence. In case of a tie, a drawing will be held to determine the winner. Employees of Pontiac State Bank and their immediate families are not eligible.

While members of the Pine Knob Music Theatre maintenance crew pluck litter from the hills, they carry an extra bag for returnable bottles and cans. The money will be donated to SCAMP, a summer camp program for children with special needs, at the end of the season.

Pine Knob crew cleans up for a cause

By Kathy Greenfield
Litter can be profitable. At the Pine Knob Music Theatre, the discarded dime-producing containers this summer should add up to over $1,000 for a good cause.

The maintenance crew at the theater decided to use the money from returnables plucked from hills, walkways and under seats and donate it to SCAMP, a summer program for children with special needs.

"With the exceptional amount of bottles and cans, a donation was suggested to us and we presented it to our kids," said Anne Vaara, co-maintenance director. "They decided to donate it to SCAMP."

Anne, of West Church Street, Independence Township, is a sophomore at Michigan State University.

She and Bill Meek of Birmingham, an Oakland Community College student, are in charge of the 92-member maintenance staff.

When the season ends—the last scheduled concert is Sept. 28—they expect to have well over $1,000 from their efforts, Anne said.

The crews take along a separate sack for the bottles and cans while cleaning the theater areas.

The returnables are then rinsed and sorted, boxed and bagged.

Although Anne said it's difficult to name an average amount collected per show, habits of concert-goers are predictable.

"With the rock shows, we get more bottles and cans," she said. "With the classical shows like Johnny Mathis and Harry Belafonte, the crowd tends to pick up and take home what they brought in."

SCAMP is a five-week-long summer camp program operated by Clarkston Community Schools and funded by the North Oakland S C A M P Funding Corp.

The camp's major fundraiser in years past was not held this year.

Being able to help others has been a worthwhile project for the maintenance staff, Anne said.

"Bill and I are both pleased," she said. "It's a nice thing for them to do. I would think they're pretty pleased about the whole thing."

In charge of washing and sorting bottles and cans gathered are Bob Clark [left] and Bill Warden, both of Clarkston-Orion Road, Independence Township.

No. 77, Keith Bailey, pursues the Rams' leading ground gainer, Matt Monette after he had received a hand off from Lamphere quarterback Scott Misener. The Wolves had little success in containing Monette, who rushed for 134 yards as the Rams rolled to a 28-6 victory.

Wolves fall short again, 28-6

By Al Zawacky

The Clarkston Wolves dropped to a 0-2 on the year Friday in losing to the Rams of Lamphere, 28-6.

"We just ran into two very good football teams," Wolves coach Walt Wyniemko said of his team's winless record. "This Friday we'll open our league schedule (against Andover), so it really amounts to a whole new season for us."

Greg Gose scored two touchdowns for the Rams on a 41-yard pass reception and a three-yard run while teammates Matt Monette and Tim Persichino each ran for TDs of six and two yards respectively.

Sports

Jim Farnsworth was the Wolves' leading rusher with 43 yards. Mike Ogans scored the lone Wolves touchdown late in the game to prevent the shutout.

"We pretty much did what we wanted to tonight," Lamphere coach George Jesko said afterwards. "We controlled the ball right from our first possession—I thought the result was decided by the end of the first quarter."

Wyniemko didn't exactly agree with Jesko's observation. "A football game is far too long to be decided in a single score in the first quarter," Wyniemko asserted. "It's too bad we don't play them again."

Clarkston's home opener and first league contest will be against Andover Friday night. Game time is 8 p.m.

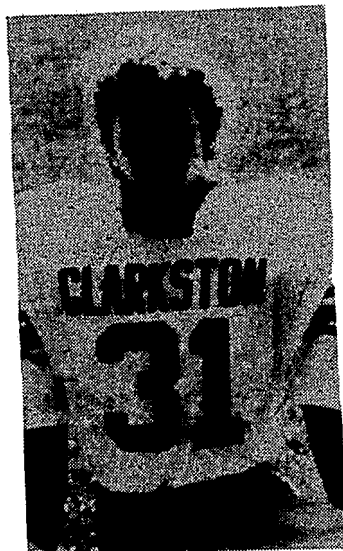

Clarkston's Brad Sheldon battles three Rams for the football in the third quarter of Friday night's loss to Lamphere.

Player of the week

Jim Farnsworth

Ron Thompson, Mike Ogans and Jim Farnsworth emerged as three possible player-of-the-week choices as a result of last Friday's game against Lamphere.

Farnsworth gets the nod however, on the basis of having led the Wolves in rushing for the second week in a row.

The 5-foot-10, 175-pound senior accounted for 43 of Clarkston's 122 yards on the ground during the Wolves' 28-6 loss.

JVs notch first victory

Tim Ellis scored two touchdowns of 25 and 12 yards while teammates Bruce Burrwitz and Tim Brennan each violated the goal line once to lead the Clarkston JV gridgers to a 26-6 victory over Lamphere Thursday.

Brennan's TD was the result of a fullback screen good for 42 yards, while Burrwitz ran 35 yards for his six-pointer, as well as earning the Wolves a two point conversion when he snared a pass in the endzone from quarterback Mike Stefanski. Kim Lair was a stand out defensively, intercepting one pass and figuring in several key tackles. "It was a much better performance than our first game," coach Gordie Richardson noted afterwards. "We showed much more poise and discipline—the kids prepared themselves better and are really determined to do well."

The Wolves will be looking to improve their 1-1 record Thursday at home against Rochester.

The point after

by Al Zawacky

The query is an old one, never failing to spark a lively debate among sports enthusiasts from bar rooms in New England to barbershops on the west coast.

How important, really, are coaches to the success of their teams?

There are your extremists--people who claim that the Montreal Canadian dynasty will end this year with the departure of Scotty Bowman. Others claim with equal fervor that the Pittsburgh Steelers would have won the Superbowl if Donald Duck had paced the sidelines

I claim a middle ground. Much of it depends on what type of sport is being played and at what level. For the sake of brevity, let's limit ourselves to prep football.

In my years of watching the high school gridiron, I've seen some bad, bad teams suffer winless campaigns despite some very able coaching, while other squads rolled to 9-0 records under coaches whose knowledge of the game was superficial, at best.

Who can doubt though, that of the three major high school sports --football, basketball and baseball--football is clearly the most demanding on its coaches.

The opportunity to Monday-morning quarterback is taken up by even the most casual observer--understandable, considering the number of strategies possible on any single play. If the coach chooses the wrong one, he invariably feels the heat.

What's there to second guess in basketball, anyway? A basketball coach either has that 6-foot-7 center, or he doesn't.

With the advent of the designated hitter rule in baseball, the most crucial decision Sparky Anderson will make this year is selecting his brand of chaw.

There are no ready alibis for the prep coach to use, either--excuses which professional mentors have come to rely on.

An NFL coach can always claim that his general manager isn't providing him with sufficient talent; a high school coach is expected to recruit his own.

A professional mentor can complain that his squad was never taught the fundamentals; his prep counterpart is expected to teach them.

You had to feel sorry for Bill Valasco, last year's CHS varsity football coach. Here he was, taking over a team that had rolled to a 9-0 record the year before, in a district that is traditionally proud of its heritage, proud of its school, proud of its athletes--and not very tolerant of losers.

No one is willing to admit it, but I suspect that Valasco's departure may well have had more to do with the Wolves' anemic win column than with some job offer in Pennsylvania.

Walt Wyniemko will have it a little easier this season, if only because--to use a thespian term--he doesn't have that tough of an act to follow. Still, following his team's first two games I can't say I envy him his job.

One thing's for sure--Wyniemko has the experience and intelligence necessary to build a winning program. I hope the vocal Clarkston fans are willing to give him the time he needs--and so richly deserves--to do it.

The Clarkston Chiefs Midget Football Association has announced prize winners from its Sept. 3 raffle drawing: first prize, a side of beef, went to Travis Williams; second prize, a portable typewriter, went to John Abbott; third prize, an electronic calculator, was awarded to D. S. Cox; fourth prize, a tool set, went to Bryan Mansfield; fifth prize, a $25 gift certificate, went to William Kellogg; and the sixth and final prize awarded, four tickets to a local theater, went to J. Gigler.

Three boys also received prizes for having sold the greatest number of raffle tickets; Josh Spencer, first prize; Doug Colling, second prize; and Dan Stuk, third prize.

The Clarkston girls' junior varsity basketball team posted its first victory of the season Thursday by defeating Avondale, 33-25. Janet Zografos led individual scorers with 11 points.

There were a few embarrassed faces at Adams High School last Tuesday when the Clarkston girls basketball team showed up for its scheduled varsity and junior varsity contests.

Confronted with an empty gymnasium, the girls discovered that the Adams cagers were miles away in Washington Township.

"The game's been rescheduled at home this Tuesday," Clarkston coach Dave McDonald chuckled. "We were at the right place, but apparently the Adams people had scheduled two schools on the same day."

"Naturally, we were a little upset."

GOAL scoreboard

Here's how Greater Oakland Athletic League teams fared in Friday's action:

ANDOVER 26, BERKLEY 0: Bloomfield Andover, the Wolves opponents in their home opener this Friday, evened their season record at 1-1 in shutting out Berkley, 26-0.

Baron quarterback Mark Vestevich ran for one touchdown and paused for another to teammate Greg Jarczinski. John Kaplan and Steve Mazur scored the other Andover TDs.

BLOOMFIELD 9, FARMINGTON 7: West Bloomfield tallied nine points in the first quarter on a touchdown and a safety and then held on to defeat Farmington, 9-7.

Rick Benoit's recovery of a fumbled snap on an attempted field goal with seconds remaining saved the victory.

WALLED LAKE 14, KETTERING 7: Randy Shell scored with just 5:35 remaining to break a 7-7 tie and hand Kettering a 14-7 defeat.

WATERFORD 56, MILFORD 6: Eight different players scored touchdowns for Waterford as the Redskins of Milford were crushed, 52-6.

UTICA 26, ROCHESTER 0: Rochester dropped to 0-2 on the season in falling victim to Utica, 26-0.

Chieftain quarterback Pete Bellardinelli passed for all three Utica touchdowns.

Girl cagers 0-2

The Clarkston High School varsity girls' basketball squad is still looking for its first victory two games into the season, but, judging from the observations of coach Dave McDonald, that initial win shouldn't be far off.

"I can see a marked improvement in our play," McDonald said after the Wolves carried a 17-15 half time lead over Avondale into the dressing room, only to find themselves on the short end of a 45-36 score at the final buzzer. "We're moving the ball up and down the court much better, but some poor shooting cost us the game."

Overall, the Clarkston cagers shot 24 percent from the floor on 13 field goals in 54 attempts.

"We missed a lot of opportunities," McDonald noted. "If we can get that percentage up into the thirties, we should be alright."

Statistically, Tracey Antos led the Wolves in scoring with 11 points, Jane Acton, Lanette Whitehead and Forsyth each had 9 rebounds.

Clarkston's next contest will be a make-up game at home against Adams this Tuesday.

Jim Berden: His uncle made him do it.

Local 'toughman' ready for bout

By Al Zawacky

If you've visited the Silverdome lately, you must have noticed the posters in the corridors and walkways—posters embellished with huge, hairy fists and the challenging taunt, "How tough are you?" in bold block letters.

The ads are announcing the first annual U.S. and Canadian "Toughman Contest," a battle among 64 amateur contestants in pursuit of a $50,000 purse to the winner. One of those participants is Jim Berden, a former Clarkston resident.

Berden, who currently resides in Orion Township, looks his role of "toughman" at 6-foot-2 and 250 pounds. A 1973 graduate of Waterford Kettering High School and a former football player and barroom bouncer, he claims his involvement in the toughman contest began as a joke.

"My uncle heard about it first and joked around with me about signing up," Berden recalls. "The more we talked about it the more serious it got until finally I decided I'd give it a try."

Berden's boxing experience isn't too extensive—"I've just fought with some of my friends, nothing very serious," he says — but he's been running and getting himself in top shape for the match which opens this Friday.

"I just hope to do my best and win something," Berden says. "There are going to be a lot of good fighters out there, but no matter what happens I think it'll be an interesting and fun experience."

Art Dore, the fight's promoter and organizer, is promising an interesting experience for the spectators as well.

"We've held toughman bouts in Flint, Bay City and Marquette prior to this one and couldn't find an arena big enough for all the people in those cities who would want to attend another," Dore claims. "The fan is given a lot more exciting brand of boxing than in most of the professional bouts. Some of the contestants have come thousands of miles to participate—you know they're not going to take a dive."

Each contestant is subject to a rigorous physical examination before being allowed in the ring, and that fact combined with the presence of an experienced professional referee all rules out the possibility of a serious injury to one of the fighters.

"No one has ever been seriously hurt in our other three contests," Dore points out. "I can guarantee that everybody will see some clean, hard and very exciting boxing."

Racquetball match

The Independence Parks and Recreation Association will hold a racquetball tournament at Waterford Hill Courts, 6110 Dixie, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Entry fees are $20 for men's and women's open, $15 for men's and women's and junior (18 and under) classifications.

Depending on the number of entrants, prize money of up to $200 for the men's and $150 for the women's open will be awarded to the first place finishers. Mugs and other awards will go to the winners of the amateur events, and each contestant will receive a T-shirt.

Brennan gets lot sizes changed

By Kathy Greenfield

The planning commission philosophy that residential areas zoned for three acres should stay that way has been met with disagreement by the Independence Township Board.

In a 5-0 vote, the board approved reducing zoning to acre-and-one-half-acre house sites on a 40-acre parcel owned by planning commission member James Brennan at last night's meeting.

The land is located on Sashabaw Road just north of the 500-acre gravel mining operation proposed by the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit, and south of the Bailey Lake Elementary School property on Pine Knob Road.

"The change was kind of forced on me by things that are happening around me," Brennan said.

Summer recreation activities at the school have spilled over onto his property, he said.

"I can no longer farm it, because it's taxed out of the farming area and it's overrun with people," Brennan said.

"I think I'm too late in what I'm trying to do," he added, "because I'm going to be surrounded by gravel pits."

Brennan's request for reduced zoning was recommended for denial by the planning commission in July in a 6-0 vote.

Commission members said they were opposed to the reduction, because three-acre zoning on the township master plan should remain intact and because the rezoning would bring more requests from surrounding property owners for smaller lots.

Brennan, who left the planning commission meeting before discussion and the vote, said the decision was not "necessarily good planning" and that the master plan is only a general guideline to development.

Concern about maintaining three-acre lot sizes as long as possible and preserving rural areas in the township were the basis of the planning commission's recommendation for denial, said township planning consultant Tod Kilroy.

But Kilroy agreed with Brennan and suggested that the township board approve the rezoning.

Brennan said his development would retain low density in the area.

"It's probably a moot point trying to argue for what I think will be a damned good development when the alternative is to mine the hell out of the property," he said.

"It just tears me up to think it's all going to be gouged out for gravel," he added. Twenty acres west of Brennan's property is owned by the Levy Co., a proposal to mine gravel nearby was denied earlier and he has been approached by yet another company to sell his 40 acres for gravel mining, Brennan said.

As for plans to request smaller lots than the one-and-one-half-acres, Brennan said he has none.

"The only change I could see would be if the gravel pit is successful, I'm not likely to get a $200,000 loan for development," he said.

"If gravel pits go in all around me, I'll probably sell to the gravel pits and move," he added.

Board members supported Brennan's concern and his bid for smaller lots.

SECTION TWO

The Clarkston (Mich.) News
Wed., Sept. 19, 1979 25

All of the shaded and striped areas on this map are either owned by, or under option to, the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit, with the exception of the western portion of the lighter shaded area. The firm intends to develop a gravel mine on the site. Levy-controlled land includes access to Perry Lake Road along the south border of the county park.

The lighter shaded area is under consideration for purchase by the state, and the striped area would be condemned and purchased by Independence Township if voters approve a .3-mill tax for the purpose Oct. 16.

Award winner featured at Greektown theater

"Sexual Perversity in Chicago"
By David Mamet
Attic Theatre
Greektown, Detroit

For the first time in recent memory, you can see three plays in one day in Detroit. Take in a matinee, then an 8 p.m. evening performance and then at midnight go over to the Attic Theatre and catch David Mamet's "Sexual Perversity in Chicago."

Mamet, who wrote "American Buffalo", "A life in the Theatre" and "Water Engine", is an eloquent master of two-part harmony as he shows in this award-winning one-act play. "Sexual Pervisty in Chicago" is a quadrille in which the misadventures of four Chicagoians are told in short, snappy scenes.

A young couple has their relationship destroyed thanks to the meddling of their sexually dissatisfied friends. The beauty of Mamet is in his hilarious dialogue that is at the same time stark, foul-mouthed, and sad. He exposes the futility of communication in American expletives.

"Sexual Perversity in Chicago" is produced by the sometimes Up, Sometimes Down Elevator Company and will run every weekend through September at the Attic Theatre. During the month of October it will move to the Grand Circus Exchange, 47 E. Adams, Detroit where it will play weekends at 8 p.m. in duo with "Duck Variations," another Mamet short play.

Politics draws these new residents,

'I do think with people as interested in the government as you have here, the people are going to get what they want.'

Bruce Knight

Deer Lake and political signs scattered on lawns sold Bruce and Sharon Knight on Independence Township.

"Everybody had a sign in their front yard saying, 'Vote for this guy' and 'Vote for that guy,'" Bruce said. "I liked the signs and I thought, 'The government has to be responsible because of the political activity'."

After becoming interested in the proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel, the Knights decided to attend their first township board meeting.

"I knew the issues and I thought, 'Let's go, it should be fun,'" he said.

An attorney, Bruce is against a high rise in the township.

He bases his opinion on the Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe that proposed a high-rise structure, but settled for a four-story hospital.

His father was one of the attorneys on the case handled by Hinks, Knight, Putnam, Barnett and Auld of Detroit and Bloomfield Hills.

"As long as there are no exceptions, it makes your case a lot stronger," Bruce said. "If there is one exception, there are going to be two exceptions."

The meeting left the Knights with a weakened impression of the political atmosphere in the township, they said.

"I was a little shaken by the reaction of the board, especially when I see the activity going on during elections," he said. "The board pretended (the residents) didn't exist."

Placing an advisory vote on the use of recreational districts for resort-convention-hotel facilities on the Oct. 16 ballot as well as a binding referendum vote on the height of up to 22 stories left him "impressed," Bruce added.

"I do think with people as interested in the government as you have here, the people are going to get what they want," he said.

The Knights discovered Clarkston when they were invited to a retirement party for a teacher at Detroit Country Day School where Sharon formerly taught first grade.

"Jim Schultz was my principal and he gave a party for a retiring teacher," Sharon said. "We drove by Deer Lake on the way there and Bruce said, 'Look at this, isn't this something?' And it really was."

They looked for land to buy, but decided against it until the law offices opened a closer branch than Detroit.

The aqua-colored waters of Deer Lake shine through the trees behind the deck of Bruce and Sharon's new home.

When its Bloomfield Hills location opened one-and-one-half years ago, the Knights returned and purchased property for their new home.

"I came right back out and thank God he hadn't sold it," Bruce said.

The Knights have been in their home on Oak Forest Road for about three weeks.

They've already had run-ins with two of Clarkston's most common wildlife—a brazen raccoon and an odoriferous skunk.

"Spot got sprayed by a skunk," Bruce said. "Tomato juice doesn't work."

The continuous barking of their black Labrador retriever brought Bruce to the scene—he found blue air, a terrified skunk and a smelly dog.

After a thorough dousing with cans of tomato juice and a scrub down, Spot still carried her odor for weeks.

One of the first purchases Sharon made for their natural setting was a new $20 garbage can with strong wire clamps to hold down the lid.

"This raccoon came up, opened the garbage can and threw everything out," she said. "He opened it up like he was a garbage man. It was just amazing."

Shouting didn't drive the animal away, but the raccoon made a quick exit when Spot was sent to investigate.

Wildlife and politics aside, the Knights are enthusiastic about their new home.

"There isn't anything like Deer Lake I've ever seen," Bruce said. "The water isn't even blue—it's turquoise like the Bahamas."

"I think the people who are attracted to this and who are willing to sacrifice the 20 minutes (to driver to work) are people like us who aren't interested in honking horns at every corner."

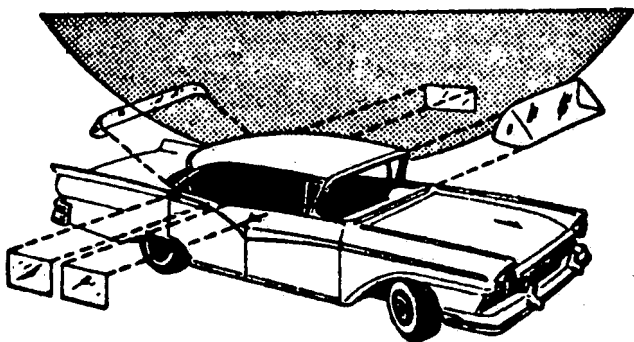

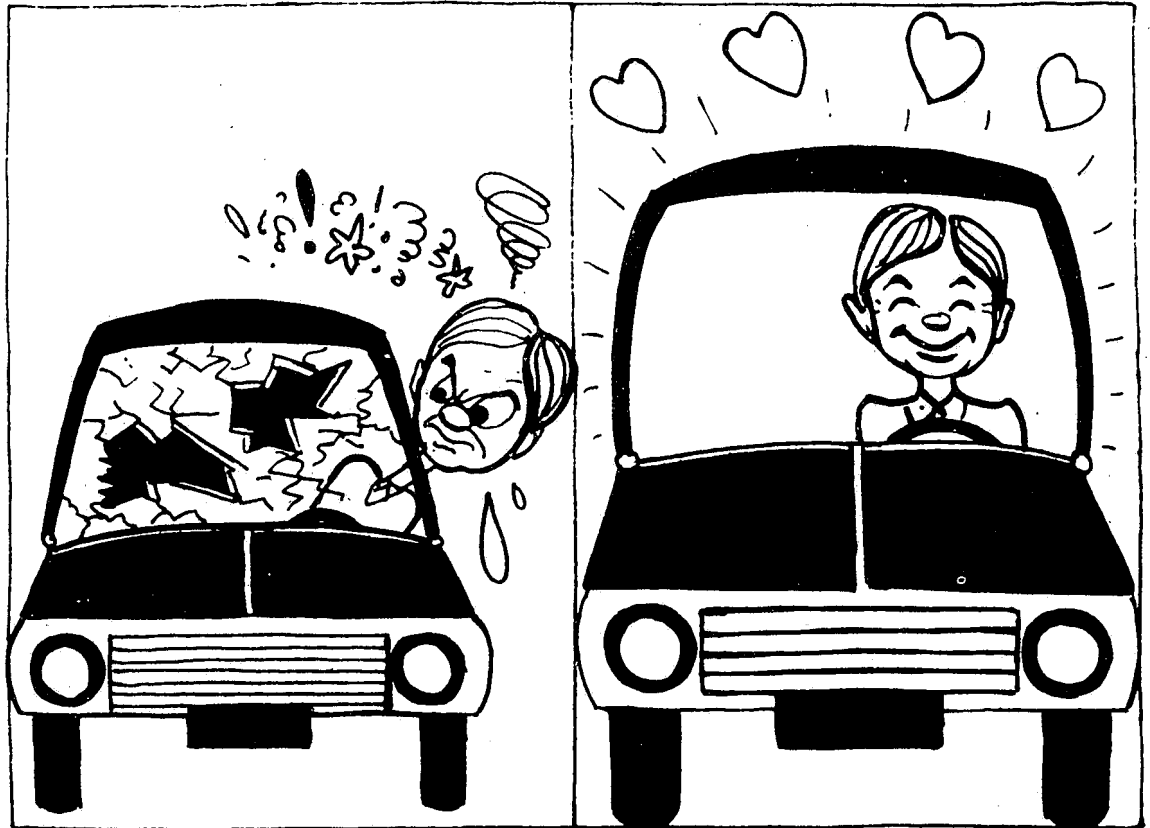

Spot, the Knights' black Labrador retriever, follows Sharon around their new home like a child unsure of new surroundings.

Bees, my love

By John Corriveau

"How can he do that?" asked one girl. Gary Cornellier of Highland, Michigan said making "bee beards" has been done for years. Cornellier is a beekeeper who performed at the Jaycees Donut Festival Sunday by wearing a beard of bees. About 2,300 bees hung from his bare face and chest. He works only in cutoffs. This is the second year he's performed and plans to do it again next year, he said. "Bee beards" have been done for years, Cornellier explained, and he originally tried the stunt several years ago on a dare. He has been a beekeeper for the last 10 years. For the performance, Cornellier said he doesn't shave the night before. "That gives them something to hang onto," he explained. After plugging his nostrils with cotton, he hangs the queen in a small screen box from his chin. The bees are emptied from their larger cage and "poured" onto his face and chest. The bees have been fed a sugar syrup beforehand, so they will have "nice full bellies and be calmer," Cornellier explained. Smoke is also used to calm the bees. "They think it's a fire and so they stay calm. But that can sometimes work against you; the smoke might get them excited," he said. The bees congregate around the queen because she gives off a special scent, Cornellier added. Does he get stung? "I get stung a couple of times everytime I do it. When you're a beekeeper though you get used to it. It always hurts, but you learn to expect it," he said. "Anybody can do it really," he said.

The queen is hung in a box underneath his chin.

The bees literally are poured on Gary Cornellier's body.

Autumn harvest

Bill and Anna Cooper say it was a bad year for their sunflower crop, because the birds ate most of the first seeds they planted. But the second planting worked quite well with flowers 14 feet tall and 17 inches in diameter. The Coopers of Ascension Street, Independence Township, make the sunflower planting a family affair with Anne doing the planting and Bill putting stakes up to hold the top-heavy flowers. They have planted the ring of flowers around their backyard garden for about 10 years.

Storms, fire are cruise memories

By Kathy Greenfield

Hurricane David hit just before Sheryl Mawhinney's Caribbean cruise, and Hurricane Frederic was gaining strength during her adventure. Little did she suspect she'd come home talking about a fire on board Sept. 8 when the ship was returning to Miami, Fla. at the end of the week-long cruise.

The trip aboard the Skyward, a 550-foot, 18,000 ton Norwegian cruise ship, was a birthday, Christmas and early graduation gift from Sheryl's aunt, Faith Watson of Clawson.

When she and her aunt left for the cruise, they weren't sure the trip was on because Hurricane David had struck two of the islands they were to visit.

When they reached Miami, the trip had been re-routed and they set off for Jamaica, Grand Cayman Island and Nassau in the Bahamas.

A whirl of parties, shopping tours, breath-taking scenery like waterfalls and gardens, a visit to the world's largest straw-goods market and perfect weather filled the next several days.

When the Skyward was heading home, the fire struck at about 4:50 a.m., 30 miles from port in Miami.

Because breakfast was scheduled at 6:30 and they had to be ready to debark, their alarm clock was set for 4:40.

"The alarm went off, she flicked on the lights and then they went off," Sheryl remembered.

Her aunt then said, "Sheryl, what are we going to do? The lights just went off."

Sheryl's advice was to go back to sleep, she said.

Then she woke up to the sound of people running in the hallway and a crew member told them to grab their life jackets and get to the life boats.

"I was scared to death," Sheryl said. "I thought the boat was sinking."

They ran down the hall and smelled smoke when they reached the main hall.

"Then I realized the ship must be on fire," Sheryl said.

"Once we got (on deck) and I saw some of the crew, I was really relieved and I wasn't so scared anymore," she added.

A fire in one of the ship's auxiliary engines was under control, but no one was allowed inside the ship for several hours, Sheryl said.

"We all sat around on deck and around the pool," Sheryl said. "We hadn't brushed our teeth or our hair. People were in night gowns, pajamas and life jackets--it was funny."

The Skyward's sister ship was sent to pick up the passengers.

After a seven-hour-long transfer, the 720 passengers had climbed down a rope ladder to a life boat and walked a plank to their new ship and the 2,000 pieces of luggage had been transferred.

"The thing that upset me the most was that I couldn't say good-bye to the crew, because they had to stay on the Skyward," Sheryl said.

After they were on the other ship, she could see a large black spot on the side of the Skyward, remember the too-warm floors in their room and other passengers said they saw flames and an orange glow, Sheryl said.

"Everything worked out-really well, considering the circumstances," she said.

"The cruise was beautiful. I'm ready to go again."

A straw hat and bag are among souvenirs Sheryl brought home from her cruise.

Coping with kids

'Morning sickness' shouldn't fool parents

With September and October and back-to-school comes not only relief for mothers but also the inevitable variety of school problems. These will begin to show up around the first of October after school has been in session for a few weeks.

It is at this early date that first, second and third graders will show problems more readily than older youngsters. One of the complaints that a parent will hear from a child is, "I have a stomachache."

Or a variation on this theme may be, "I have another headache" or "I feel like I'm going to throwup."

A common way in which parents can justify and rationalize overprotection of their children is through concern for their health. This concern can be excessive if there is too much attention paid to minor aches and pains.

If all a child need do is complain about an upset stomach, a sore throat or pains in the head to get mother's attention and day-long concern, sickness can be thereafter used to receive pampering.

Family attitudes toward illness determine how incapacitating an illness will be.

In a home with a healthy attitude toward illness and physical disorders, sickness may be viewed as something that is annoying but one is still expected to go about the business of living.

And, illness (of a minor nature) is not allowed to get the better of anyone.

Not that one must suffer in silence. Just that common physical disorders are not a reason for bringing the business of life to a grinding halt.

In such a home, medication and bed rest might be reserved for major illness. Psychosomatic complaints may be at a minimum in such a family.

Sickness with a psychological base seem more likely to flourish when there is excessive concern for physical health and when the sick are overindulged and treated with too much encouragement to continue the sickness.

Parents who find themselves confronted at 7 a.m. with a child who has a stomachache or a headache should basically ignore it. While a doctor or pediatrician might be consulted when a complaint persists, there is generally no great harm done by sending children to school with minor symptoms.

Psychologically, it seems that the child's best interest in the long run will be served by making an error on the side of sending him or her to school with an actual illness than keeping him at home with a minor or fantasized disorder.

NOTICE

The Clarkston Village Council will hold a Public Hearing on Monday, October 8th, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston, MI 48016. The purpose of the Public Hearing will be to discuss proposed amendments to sections 12.07, 13.02, and 14.01 of our zoning ordinance.

8 Offices in Oakland County to Serve You

Peeking into the past by Rustle Leaf

10 YEARS AGO
September 18, 1969

A frustrated group representing the Waterless Homeowners Association gathered to further deliberate their mutual problem--the loss of water in their Woodhull Lake home wells. They feel this is due to the construction of the Clinton-Oakland Interceptor. Eagle Lake residents who have lost their lake were also there. They are situated along the proposed route of the Interceptor.

Thirty-nine teachers, many of them new to the area, were offered the hospitality of the Mel Vaara home on Church Street. The guests are teachers at the Sashabaw Junior High.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wehto attended the 50th annual reunion of the 32nd Division, known as the Red Arrow. The veteran's association held their reunion at the Statler Hotel in Detroit.

25 YEARS AGO
September 16, 1954

Lloyd C. Megee was elected president of the Oakland County Crippled Children's Society.

The Public Library Committee of the Clarkston Community Women's Club is happy to report that the small building next to the Community Center has been offered for a Public Library.

Last year it cost 17 cents per day to transport a child to and from school. In 1952-53 the cost was 14.7 cents per day.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

Contributing this week's recipe is Mrs. Cleon (Eileen) Kortge. She said the Sausage Pilaf is one of her family's favorite meals.

Sausage Pilaf

- 1 lb. pork sausage
- 1 c corn, cooked
- 1/2 c chopped onion
- 1/4 c green pepper, chopped
- 1/4 c pimento, chopped
- 1 can cream of celery soup
- 1/4 t poultry seasoning
- 1/2 t salt
- 1/4 t pepper
- 1 1/4 c milk
- 1/2 c uncooked Minute Rice

Brown sausage and drain. Add all other ingredients. Pour into casserole dish and bake covered 50 minutes at 350°, stirring now and then.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in fry pan, stir in 1 cup soft bread cubes. Brown slightly; sprinkle on top of casserole and bake 15 to 20 minutes more.

Reunion

About 250 people gathered recently to celebrate the five-year reunion of the Clarkston High School class of 1974.

The event was held June 30 at Waterford Oaks county park.

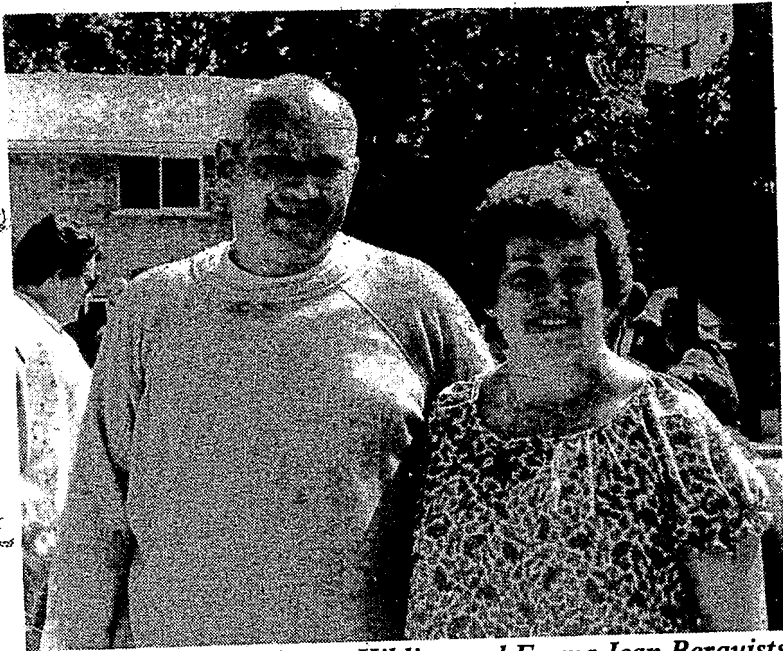

A raffle of various prizes such as cameras, wine, and dinners-for-two added to the evening's entertainment.

The class plans its next reunion in 1984.

Committee members for this year's party were Gale Jorgensen, Pam Wilson, Deb Curry, Cathy Watson and Beth Tower.

It's that time of year . . .

Wreaths made of frayed burlap and pretty bows are a family project for the Southbys of Michigamme Road, Independence Township. Even the family dog, Midas, gets into the act as 11-month-old Reid appraises a wreath held by his sister Beth Ann. Their brother Mark and parents, Linda and Richard Southby, also are members of the crafting crew.

Artisans gather their handiwork

J. D. Powell of Holcomb Street, Clarkston, displays two of the suet holders which are among the bird feeders he makes in various shapes, sizes and styles.

In the woodworking shop at his home, Jimmy Freel of Allen Road, Independence Township, packs some of the items he has created for the fair, including about 300 candlesticks, 50 weed pots, some egg cups, shelf brackets and a bread box or two.
