Meet on hotel, judge rules

By Kathy Greenfield

The Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals meeting scheduled for tonight on the proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel must be held, according to a ruling made by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Robert Webster yesterday.

A suit brought by the "Let the People Speak Committee" and Richard Schmaltz of Stowe

Trail, Independence Township, sought to delay the appeals board meeting until after the Oct. 16 special election.

The anti-hotel group brought suit against the township two weeks ago in an effort to stop the planning commission and zoning board of appeals meetings on the proposed hotel.

Webster ruled at that time the planning commission meeting could be held and delayed judgment on the zoning board of appeals meeting until yesterday.

Webster said he decided to allow the appeals board meeting after considering two main issues.

"In the teeth of a pending referendum... case law indicates it is the voice of the people that's the final law," he said, and a decision by the zoning board of appeals could be reversed by the election.

The most difficult question was whether a violation of law or procedures was made by the township in setting the zoning board of appeals meeting date before the planning commission met, Webster said.

"I have to assume the validity of the action on the part of the township," he said.

Arguments by the committee's attorneys Dale Stuart and Neil Wallace included that the special meeting date was not warranted because of a regularly scheduled appeals board meeting the day after the election and that public notices were placed before the planning commission's recommendation and report were submitted to the appeals board.

Vesting, or the right to begin construction if the appeals board voted approval of hotel plans, was also discussed at length.

Pine Knob attorneys Dennis Raguso and Anthony Locrocchio said that because of the pending referendum, a positive decision by the appeals board would not be considered a go-ahead for construction.

In his opinion, the right to construct a hotel was given Pine Knob in 1972, Locrocchio said.

Webster said that was not the issue in this case.

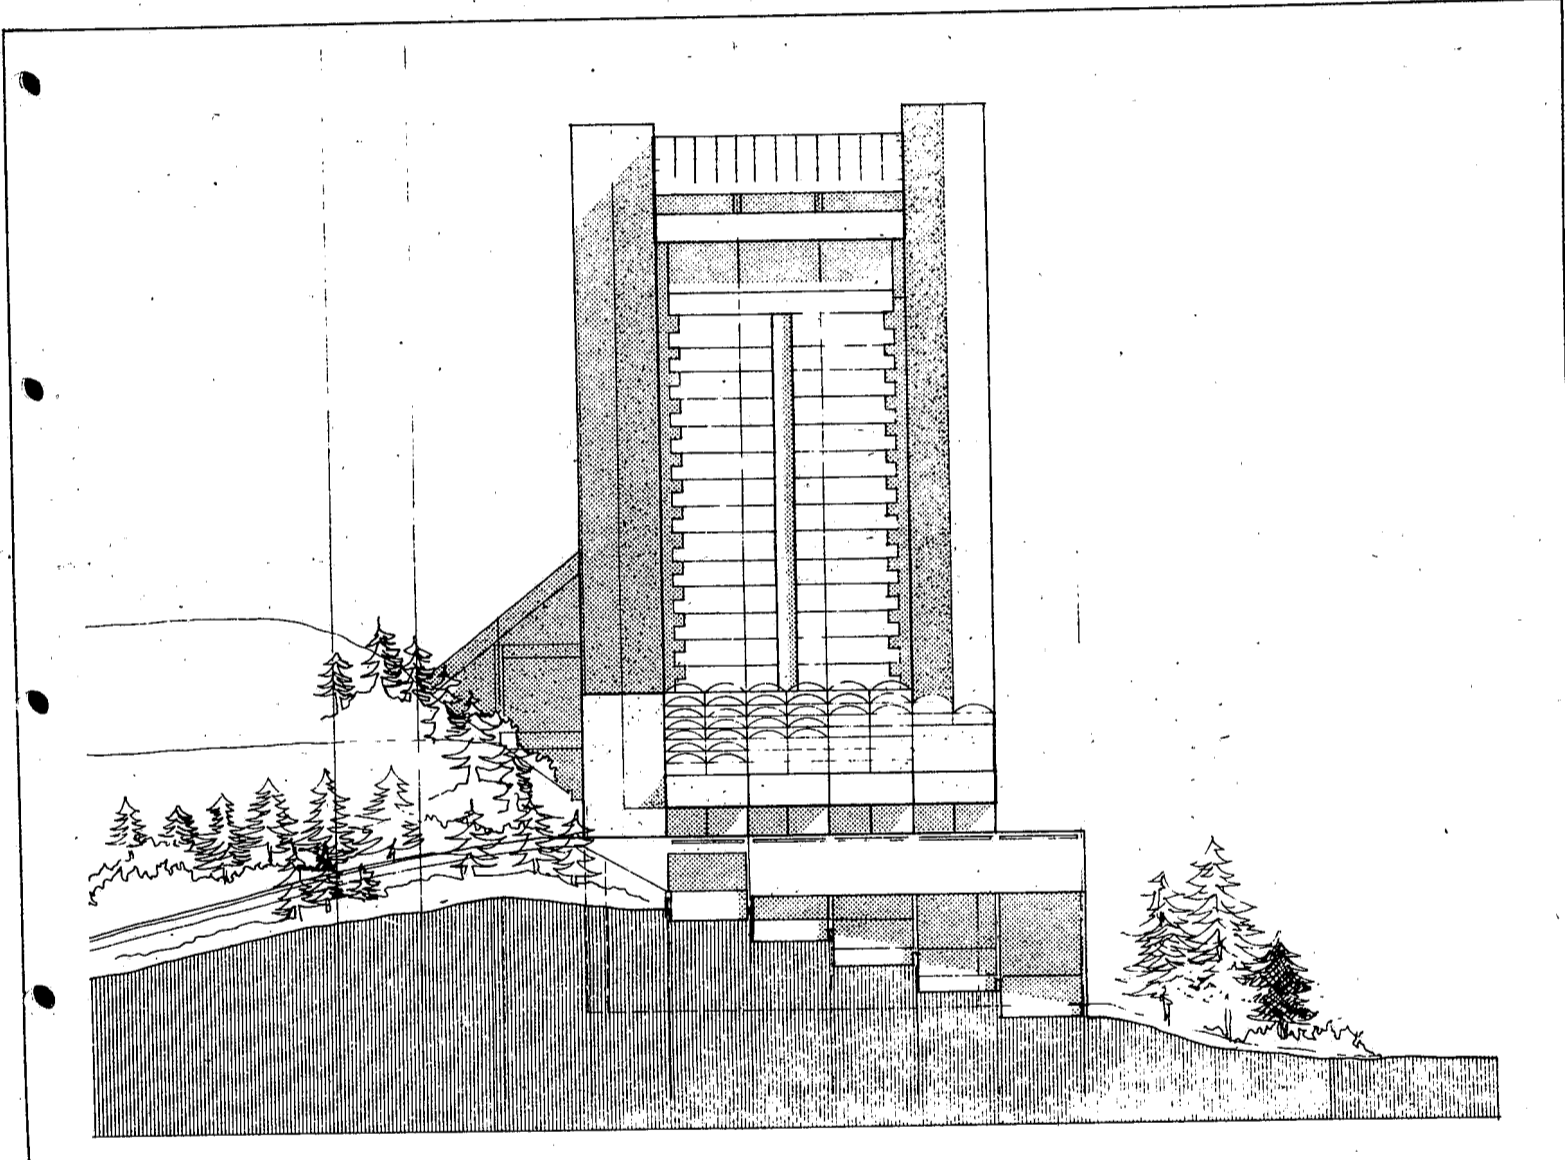

Later, when the right-to-construct question was again mentioned, "I don't believe that is before the court," said attorney for the township Peter Keenan.

"No, it is not, thank heavens," the judge said.

After the judge made his ruling, the committee's attorneys requested that Webster stop the zoning board of appeals meeting pending the outcome of an appeal to the State Court of Appeals in Lansing.

Webster said the appeals court would have to make that decision.

Eate last night, the attorneys had yet to make a final decision on whether they would appeal to the higher court.

If constructed, the 22-story Pine Knob hotel's western elevation as presented in this drawing would face Sashabaw Road. The binding referendum question over the proposed height and advisory referendum over the use of the recreational property for a hotel are to go to the Independence Township voters Oct. 16. The polls are to be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Student count to boost aid

By Pat Braunagel

A 45-student drop in enrollment came as a pleasant surprise to the Clarkston Board of Education, which had expected the district to lose about 150 students this year.

The difference between the projected enrollment figure and the official count taken on the fourth Friday of school will put approximately $90,000 in unexpected state aid into the local school district coffers.

There were 6,818 students in Clarkston classrooms Sept. 28, the day the official tally was taken, according to Assistant Schools Supt. Mel Vaara.

Enrollments in adult education, the vocational school and a preschool program take the total on which state aid is based to 6,855. The figure, Vaara noted Monday night, can be expected to drop five or six when audited.

The 6,818 figure compares to 6,863 last year and represents the biggest drop in enrollment since 1974 when the number of students went down 110 from its peak of 7,095 the year before.

Since 1973, district enrollment has dropped 215 on the elementary level and 62 in the secondary schools.

Secondary enrollment is up 39 students this year compared to 1978, Sashabaw Junior High, with 961 students, has 56 more than last year, and Clarkston Junior High, with 771, has five more than it did a year ago.

At the high school enrollment dropped 22 to 1,665. There are 575 sophomores, 580 juniors and 510 seniors.

On the elementary level, where there was an 84-pupil drop, only Clarkston Elementary showed a gain, tallying 15 more pupils than it had last year. The largest decreases were at Bailey Lake, down 39, and at Pine Knob, down 35.

Elementary enrollments by school are: Andersonville, 559; Bailey Lake, 743; Clarkston, 647; North Sashabaw, 498; Pine Knob, 588; South Sashabaw, 290; and Clarkston Junior High, where there are 96 sixth graders.

Citizens' views on M-275 asked

By Pat Braunagel

Springfield Township wants a limited-access highway which would serve as a north-south corridor between I-96 and I-75.

Clarkston does not want its Main Street expanded into a five-lane state highway.

Citizens of both communities are being asked by local officials to let the State Highway Commission know how they feel about three alternative proposals being considered with the renewal of interest in a proposed M-275.

Voters in Springfield Township were among those in western Oakland County communities who passed an advisory proposition last year supporting a limited-access route from I-96 connecting with I-75 just north of Davisburg Road.

This plan is Alternate A of the six currently being considered by the Highway Commission.

Another proposal, Alternate D, would follow the same route with a freeway permitting no local access.

This plan would not serve the communities of Northwest Oakland County—Specifically Springfield and Independence townships—Springfield Supervisor Collin Walls noted.

"If there are going to be any highway improvements that will serve, even indirectly, Northwest Oakland County, there are only three plans," Walls said.

"One of those, the Vivian alternative, would wipe out the Village of Clarkston," he said.

Another, considered equally undesirable by local officials, would cross Dixie Highway at White Lake Road and run up to I-75 between Deer Lake and Dixie Highway. This is Alternate F.

Alternate A, called the modified M-275 plan, has been endorsed by the Clarkston Village Council.

The council also has gone on record as opposing any other alternative that would terminate in the proximity of M-15 and Dixie Highway.

State Rep. Claude A. Trim (D-Davisburg) is urging residents of the area to write letters to the Highway Commission about the matter or to send them to him.

Trim said it is apparent that the people in the southern portion of Oakland County are not aware of the needs and the problems of the residents of North Oakland County.

Two of the alternates, B and C, would end at White Lake Road and M-59 respectively.

Government officials have long built their planning and projections for the region, for the county and for the townships around the proposed M-275 north-south highway, Trim said.

"There is a particular need due to the fact that growth projections and recent population reports point out that the townships that are involved in this are the townships that have shown the most rapid growth in the county of Oakland," he said.

He cited the building of Indian Springs in Springfield and White Lake townships and the many parks and golf course of the area as major factors to be considered in the need for M-275, as well as the situation created by gravel operations in the county.

He advised that letters on the matter should be sent to Hannes Meyers Jr., chairman, State Highway and Transportation Commission, Highways Building, Lansing MI 48909 or to Trim at the State Capitol, Lansing, MI 48901.

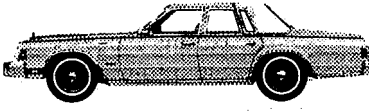

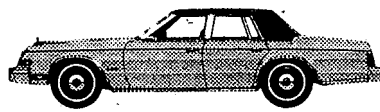

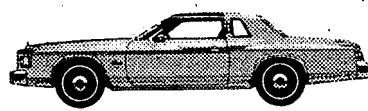

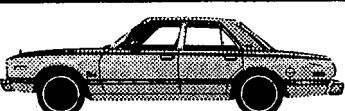

The commission is expected to make a decision on the matter in November.

Remember: *The circled EPA estimate is for comparison to other cars. Your mileage and range depend on your speed, weather and trip length. Your actual highway mileage and range will probably be less than the highway estimate. Cruising range estimates are determined by multiplying the EPA and highway estimates by standard fuel tank capacities. Chrysler New Yorker, Newport and Cordoba: 21 gallon capacity; Chrysler LeBaron: 19.5 gallon capacity; Plymouth Volare: 18 gallon capacity; Plymouth Horizon: 13 gallon capacity.

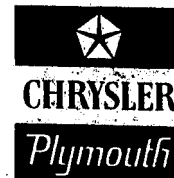

"Let's make a deal" now on one of our mileage cars.

When it comes to mileage, we're the place to come to. Consider: our full-size Chrysler Newport and mid-size LeBaron get better EPA estimated gas mileage than Chevrolet Caprice or Ford LTD. Cordoba comes up with better mileage than Thunderbird or Cougar XR-7. And Volare with standard engine and automatic transmission beats the comparably equipped Granada or Monarch in mileage. Overall, we can offer you five Plymouth models that deliver 25 mpg or better. Chevy has two, Ford one. Like we said, if you're looking for mileage, we're the guys to see. Especially now during our "Let's Make a Deal" Closeout. Every one of our mileage cars must go now. In fact, you may never have a better chance to get into the Chrysler or Plymouth of your choice. So, "let's make a deal", shall we? Like, today.

Trio of issues on ballot

A — Hotel use referendum

Should the Independence Township Zoning Ordinance No. 83 under Article XXI Recreational District be amended under Section 21103, to add as a permitted use after conditional approval:

No. 2. Convention-Resort-Hotel Facilities with a minimum site size of ten [10] acres?

What it would do:

The binding referendum question was placed on the ballot after petitions from the "Let the People Speak" committee were presented to the Independence Township Board in August.

Earlier, the use of recreational districts for convention-resort-hotels built on 10 acres or more was approved by the township board, and is now law.

The proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel was the reason for the use approval in order to allow a resort hotel to be constructed inside the 600-acre Pine Knob complex.

The ballot question does not address height, only use of the property for a resort-hotel.

If the referendum receives a majority of "no" votes, the law would change and convention-resort-hotels would no longer be allowed in recreational districts.

If a majority of voters say "yes" to the use, the law stands.

Independence Township registered voters may vote on the zoning question, but village of Clarkston voters may not cast votes on township zoning matters.

B — Anti-gravel millage

Shall the Township levy 3/10 of a mill [$.30 per $1,000 assessed valuation] in excess of the constitutional limitation for a period of five [5] years for the purpose of purchasing a site of approximately 80 acres north of Clarkston-Orion Road and west of Sashabaw Road [commonly known as part of the proposed gravel pit site] for use by the Township for a civic center, park or such other purposes as may be decided by the Township Board?

Said millage will be used to purchase the land directly, or it will be used to repay bonds which will be sold to purchase the land.

What it would do:

The ballot proposal was initiated to help stop a proposed 487-acre gravel mining operation by the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit.

Those against the mining operation say it should not be undertaken in the land that abuts both the township's Clintonwood Park and Independence Oaks, a county park, because it is too close to the Clinton River Watershed that runs through the property.

The surrounding wetlands areas would also be damaged, say the anti-gravel mining groups.

The Levy Co. contends that gravel is a resource needed by the state and that adequate protection would be maintained for the watershed area.

The proposed .3 mill would raise taxes of a property owner with assessed valuation of $20,000 (one-half market value) by $6 a year.

The resulting $350,000 would be enough to pay for the land and cover bond interest and legal fees, says Treasurer Frederick Ritter who proposed the millage request to the township board.

If a proposed purchase of between 200 and 300 acres by the state through the Michigan Land Trust Bill is approved, that plus the 80-acre purchase could put an end to the gravel mining plans, Ritter says.

Registered voters in the township and the village will be able to vote on the proposal.

C — Advisory on height

Should the heights limitation as contained in the Independence Township Zoning Ordinance be increased from 35 ft. to 200 ft. in Recreational Districts?

What it would do:

Height limitation for buildings in Independence Township is now 35 feet.

Because of the proposed 22-story Pine Knob Hotel, the Independence Township Board voted to place the question about height on the ballot to receive the opinion of township voters.

The change would apply only to recreational districts which include golf courses and parks throughout the township.

The advisory question is not binding legally, but is designed to get the opinion of voters.

Because the question concerns zoning, only Independence Township registered voters may vote on the question and not village of Clarkston voters.

Studies estimate hotel tax impact

By Kathy Greenfield

Just how much tax money the proposed Pine Knob hotel would add to Independence Township, Oakland County and Clarkston Schools budgets has been a matter of controversy.

Two recent studies have made estimates of the tax impact of the hotel.

Russell Galvin, State Tax Commission commercial property appraiser, prepared an analysis that was delivered to township officials early this week.

"He's spent about the last 18 years working on major commercial property and the last four months, he's been working on major hotel appraisals exclusively," said Robert Vandermark of Independence Township, State Tax Commission chairman, about Galvin's qualifications.

James Brennan, Oakland County budget manager and township planning commission member, presented a report at last week's planning commission meeting.

Both studies included estimates based on construction costs.

Noting the probability that income rather than construction costs would be used to set tax rates, Galvin's study included possible property assessments at one-half market value ranging from $7.5 million to $15 million.

Brennan's tax estimates were based on an assessed valuation of $10 million, or one-half market value of the figure used by Pine Knob developers for the construction cost.

So, for purposes of comparison, the figures based on the $10 million assessed valuation are used here.

Galvin used 1979 township and school and 1978 county tax rates for his analysis and Brennan used 1978 rates.

Taxes to the township would total $35,000 using a 3.5-mill tax collection rate, Galvin's report said. The 3.5 mills include assessments approved by the township board earlier this year of 2 mills for fire protection, 1 mill for police protection and .46 mill for the sewer assessment. (The township board decided to levy zero millage for the general fund for one year to reduce surplus funds.)

Brennan's study shows $57,900 to the township — the 5.79 mills includes 1.33 mills for the general fund, 2 mills for fire protection, 1 mill for police protection and 1.46 mills for the sewer assessment.

Both studies show $87,900 to the county, based on 8.79 mills including intermediate schools and community college millages.

Clarkston School District taxes, according to Galvin's analysis, would total $311,600, based on collections of 31.16 mills.

Brennan's total was $315,100 based on 31.51 mills.

Both studies mentioned the Bursley formula that is applied to operating expenses for schools.

Because of the formula, most of the taxes collected for schools would go to the state for distribution and only about $25,100, according to Brennan, would go to the local district for debt retirement.

The millage would be reduced from 2.65 mills to 2.51 mills for township residents because of the additional money, Brennan said.

One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Figures used in the studies are only estimates.

At the planning commission meeting last week, Pine Knob representative and attorney Anthony Locricchio said construction costs have increased to $30 million, and other persons at the meeting said the assessed valuation of a hotel is usually less than one-half market value. Brennan agreed.

Galvin's report also included comments on the feasibility of a hotel at Pine Knob.

"The estimate of future property tax collections for the proposed Pine Knob hotel... is complicated by the uncertainties of the feasibility of such a project where the risk for a successful project may be very high," he wrote, adding that other activities at the resort would benefit the hotel.

Minimum average occupancy rates needed for the success of a hotel were placed by Galvin at about 65 percent.

Few, if any, hotels of comparable size exist in Michigan, and forecasting future occupancy is "most speculative and further complicated by the pioneering location" of the proposed hotel, he wrote.

A feasibility study by Ralph I. Lipshaw, a real estate analyst, appraiser, broker, manager and counselor, prepared for the Pine Knob hotel developers also considered some of the same questions.

His estimates show an average annual occupancy rate of 83 percent three years after the hotel opening.

"It is this analyst's firm conviction that the Pine Knob hotel complex as designed and proposed is economically feasible," he concluded in his report.

Despite the "costly" design and "slightly remote" location, "any negative aspects of the development are far overshadowed by... its superb amenities and deluxe design," Lipshaw wrote.

Planners back hotel in concept, but...

By Kathy Greenfield

Carrying the Independence Township Planning Commission's stamp of approval for concept and commissioners' reservations about height, the proposed 22-story Pine Knob hotel is on its way to the zoning board of appeals.

The planning commission made its recommendations in a 4-3 vote at last week's meeting.

About 100 people attended the three-and-one-half-hour meeting Thursday night at township hall.

Those for and against the proposed hotel appeared to be about even in number.

Discussion at the meeting centered on questions raised the previous week when the item was tabled for further study.

Township Department of Public Works Director George Anderson said the sewer system presently on Pine Knob property was adequate.

Impact on the township fire department would be mostly in extra hours for inspections and training, said a report submitted by Fire Chief Frank Ronk, but he also recommended purchase of a $350,000 aerial or elevator truck for the hotel structure as well as other township buildings.

School taxes paid by the hotel would not benefit township taxpayers for the operating budget, because the state portion of payment would be reduced accordingly, said a report by Milford Mason, superintendent of schools.

A minor reduction in taxes would result because of Pine Knob's payment on the school retirement debt, he said.

Using $10 million as assessed valuation for the hotel, planning commission member James Brennan submitted a report that said the Pine Knob hotel would have paid $170,000 in non-school property taxes this year. Brennan is budget director for Oakland County.

Brennan's report was questioned by Dale Stuart, chairman of the anti-hotel "Let the People Speak" committee.

The dotted line shows where the Pine Knob ski hill would appear on the other side of the proposed 22-story hotel. The height of the proposed hotel has been a matter of heated dispute. Independence Township voters will have a chance to vote on the matter at the Oct. 16 special election.

Here's Herb Just jawing?

By Herb Rose

There are a number of stories told in the Bible that are not given the accolades due miracles but seem outstanding achievements nonetheless. One such recorded vignette, duly translated under the auspices of King James, relates that Sampson took the jawbone of an ass and slew a thousand men.

Now the jawbone of an ass does not seem like a marvelous choice of weapons if you are embarking on a program of mayhem and destruction.

I visualize the jawbone of an ass as a fairly short device that was designed primarily as a place for the ass to put his bottom teeth, not as a blunt instrument suitable for use in mass homicides.

In the course of bludgeoning a thousand men with a light club, Murphy's law would occasionally prevail.

The first swipe would not be a telling blow and Sampson would be left stalking someone who was trying to calm him with comments like:

"Hey, big buddy, what is your problem? Do I owe you money? Have I been disrespectful to your sister?"

"Look you big moose, put down that lousy bone and we will reason this out together.

"Does the word 'detente' mean anything to you? How about the phrase 'peaceful co-existence'?"

In an agrarian society with a low population density, it might take as long as 15 minutes to hunt down and bludgeon each man, especially after the word got around that Sampson was a mite testy.

Working an eight hour day with two regulation 12-minute coffee breaks, he should have averaged 30.4 bludgeonings per day, unless he experienced equipment failure.

How long does the average jawbone of an ass last when it is being used as a cudgel and which is more important, how easy is it to find replacements?

If the jawbone shattered as Sampson tried to smite someone a mighty blow, he would be looking at a pair of unsmiling eyes and being asked, "Alright, fella, now you have my attention, what do you want?"

I would think Sampson would pickup an interesting collection of puncture wounds from sore losers who carried knives or swords.

I also wonder if Sampson's wife comforted in the evening with cooing phrases like:

"There, there you're all tucked out from bludgeoning people. How many did you get today? And you broke another jawbone. They certainly don't last the way they should.

And so on.

I guess this incident isn't a miracle, but I don't think I'll try and duplicate it.

Note: I find in reviewing the story of Sampson, that he slew his thousand men under battlefield conditions. The picture of him roaming the countryside towing the jawbone of an ass behind him looking for someone to cudgel is simply not accurate. (Herb Rose)

Sorry

Unfortunately, we received a large number of letters to the editor about issues on the Oct. 16 ballot which we could not publish this week, due to our previously announced deadline for printing election-related letters in last week's paper.

The one-week breather in editorial comment was established in an attempt to be fair to all concerned parties.

There is still time to campaign on a neighbor-to-neighbor basis and, most importantly, to vote.

Adult ed is a touch of class

by Pat Braunagel

One strain of American spirit which runs wide and deep can be found in adult education classes across the country.

The faith its citizens have in education is demonstrated no more clearly than by the enthusiasm with which they return to America's schools after-hours—and years after they first stepped out of structured schooling.

Hurrying home from work, rushing through dinner and shunning the television set, they grab a 10-pound law book and head for class.

Is this any way to spend your leisure hours?

In Clarkston, as well as throughout the nation, it is.

No less than 465 persons have found some cause to attend the classes offered four nights a week at Clarkston High School to complete their high school graduation requirements, to start work on a college degree or just for the pleasure of learning a thing or two.

I've thought about it for awhile now, and I can't conceive of any wrong motivations for such effort.

If we're looking for a promotion or a career change, there are classes to help us gain new skills to keep up with or surpass the competition.

Some of the classes help us get more involved in our own lives—by making some of the goods we use or by taking a new look at who we are.

Our immigrant forefathers believed that education was the key to getting ahead in America—and they pursued this ideal for themselves and their progeny with vigor.

We continue to do likewise. If there's a problem, there must be a class that can solve it. If there's an easier, or cheaper, way to do something, there's someone who can teach us how.

Jan Gabier, assistant principal at CHS who's been directing the adult education program for a decade, speaks of the persons who start taking classes after their families are grown.

They've put their children through school, and now they have time to spend on themselves.

Many employers will reimburse their employees who take high school or college-credit courses. Veterans can get an additional allotment under the GI Bill.

For adults who have not been used to going to school for years, nighttime adult education courses may be the confidence-building first step they take toward a college campus.

The trust that we have in education's ability to get our lives or our projects on the right track is distinctly, if not uniquely, American.

Blues not fall colors

by Jim Sherman

This column may ramble. I'm still under the influence of perhaps the most gorgeous display of fall colors in history.

The great thing is that one didn't have to go on a color tour up north to take in the beauty. It was all about us.

Anyway, I want to thank the several people for commenting on our snipping at Blue Cross/Blue Shield's enormous profit.

That is we concluded the insurance company made an enormous profit, though it's a non-profit organization. Where else could they get $50 million to gamble on Chrysler Corp?

That's what you wondered about, too.

Also, I'd like to help stop the rumor that the Detroit Lions are recruiting now on the high school level, particularly at Little Bay De Noc High School.

Just because this upper peninsula school has been outscored 728 to 0 in the last 13 games does not qualify its players for the Lions.

Maybe it will if this national record goes higher.

The new fall television programs are very revealing.

They reveal flesh. They reveal un-marrieds taking hot baths and showers presumably in the buff. They reveal word usages formerly restricted to the rougher deer camps.

They reveal further degrading of the American mind. They reveal a nearly complete lack of censorship.

And, they reveal that this is what we Americans want to watch, and the sponsors want to pay for.

Women's art to be featured

Maxine Glynn [left] and her sister Cheri Clifton are at work on porcelain dolls, ceramics, stoneware, china paintings and ceramics with straw flower arrangements for the sale. They do their work at the Family Affair Ceramics shop on Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

Acrylic landscapes and still lifes and barnwood paintings of flowers and wildlife are creations of Independence Township resident Sally Kubani to be on sale at the Women's Works festival. Sally has been painting since 1970. In 1977 her painting of a barn was awarded a special merit award and best interpretation of theme award in a show sponsored by the Pontiac Society of Artists.

The Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center will be the site for the Fall Festival of Women's Works this Saturday and Sunday.

Other features include hand-made and ornamental items for the holidays, children's arts activities and mime presentations and free cider and donuts.

Ten women from Independence and Springfield Townships will be among the 41 craftswomen displaying their work.

The event is sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission and the Northwest-Oakland County Council for The Arts.

Diverse art forms, ranging from modern photography, woodcarving and sculpture relief to chocolate candies and porcelain will be shown, demonstrated and sold at the festival.

The festival will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days and admission is free.

Springfield Oaks Activities Center is located at Andersonville and Hall Roads in Davisburg.

His sitter is challenged

by Jim Fitzgerald

Stan Connelly doesn't believe I can sit the distance in the Free Press International Marathon, which is now only two weeks away.

"Sure, you may be able to outlast the winner. Who can't sit for two hours and 15 minutes?" said Connelly who is a retired general now living in Birmingham, the Detroit suburb famous for its ever-vigilant defense against low-income housing.

(I am a retired sergeant now living in HUD housing in downtown Detroit. During my three-year army career I never met a general who could run longer than I could sit. This should be a good race).

General Connelly is the leader of a four-person team scheduled to run in the 26-mile race. He brags that at least one member of his team still will be running after I can no longer sit.

"You may beat our speediest runner, Jacques Farmer, who'll probably break four hours, and you may be able to outlast Mavis Lindgren and me as we'll come in at 4:40 or so," Connelly said. "But we have a superb anchor man—

Lincoln Welton—who has run the distance in 5:25. He says he can even do six hours if need be to beat you."

Because he knew I'd find out anyway, Connelly admitted he has stacked his team with elderly ringers for whom it is easy to run slowly. Mavis Lindgren, for instance, is 71 and she's coming all the way from California to get a crack at me. Anchor Welton is 65.

The advanced age of my opponents puts me at a great disadvantage. It is second nature for old people to take a long time to run 26 miles. They proceed naturally at a pace comfortable for them. Conversely, I'm much younger than Connelly's team and whenever I sit for more than two hours straight, I must fight off a youthful urge to stand up.

With the general's people prolonging the elapsed time of the marathon to six hours or even more, it won't be easy for me to remain seated until the last runner has crossed the finish line. After what happened to Jimmy Carter, I can't help fearing that I'll fail and make a fool of myself.

The President collapsed while running in a 10-mile road race near Camp

David. Washington columnist Colman McCarthy was right beside Carter when he fell. McCarthy later wrote:

"For me, one fact was beyond dispute. Carter had ignored the cardinal rule obeyed by every experienced and intelligent runner: Listen to your body. He should not have had to collapse to know that the race was too much for him."

Sitters also must listen to their bodies. If, sometime toward the end of the international marathon, my body tells me it absolutely must stand up, I will listen to it. I will get up and move around. My health is more important than winning the sitters' vote. But one thing I won't do, no matter what my body says, is follow the general's suggestion that I change the location of my sitting. My pride is even more important than my health.

My intention is to sit out the marathon in my apartment while the runners pass by on the street 26 floors below. But General Connelly said I should come down and sit on the curb "and cheer as we pass" no matter how long it takes.

This would be cowardly. It would be cheating myself. For me, the biggest challenge of marathon sitting is to do it in my home while my wife is watching. If I moved my chair outside, it would be as sneaky as a marathon runner taking a taxi the last 10 miles.

My wife puts hurdles in the way of my sitting. She gives me reasons to stand up. She places food and drink just beyond my reach. She leaves me alone with buzzing ovens and over-cycling washers. She and she alone makes it possible for me to break the wall of pain and reach the high point of euphoria that is the goal of all marathon sitters.

Without the woman I love harassing me, there would be no real achievement in sitting longer than the marathoners run. There would be no pride in victory. I will do it with her at my side, or not at all.

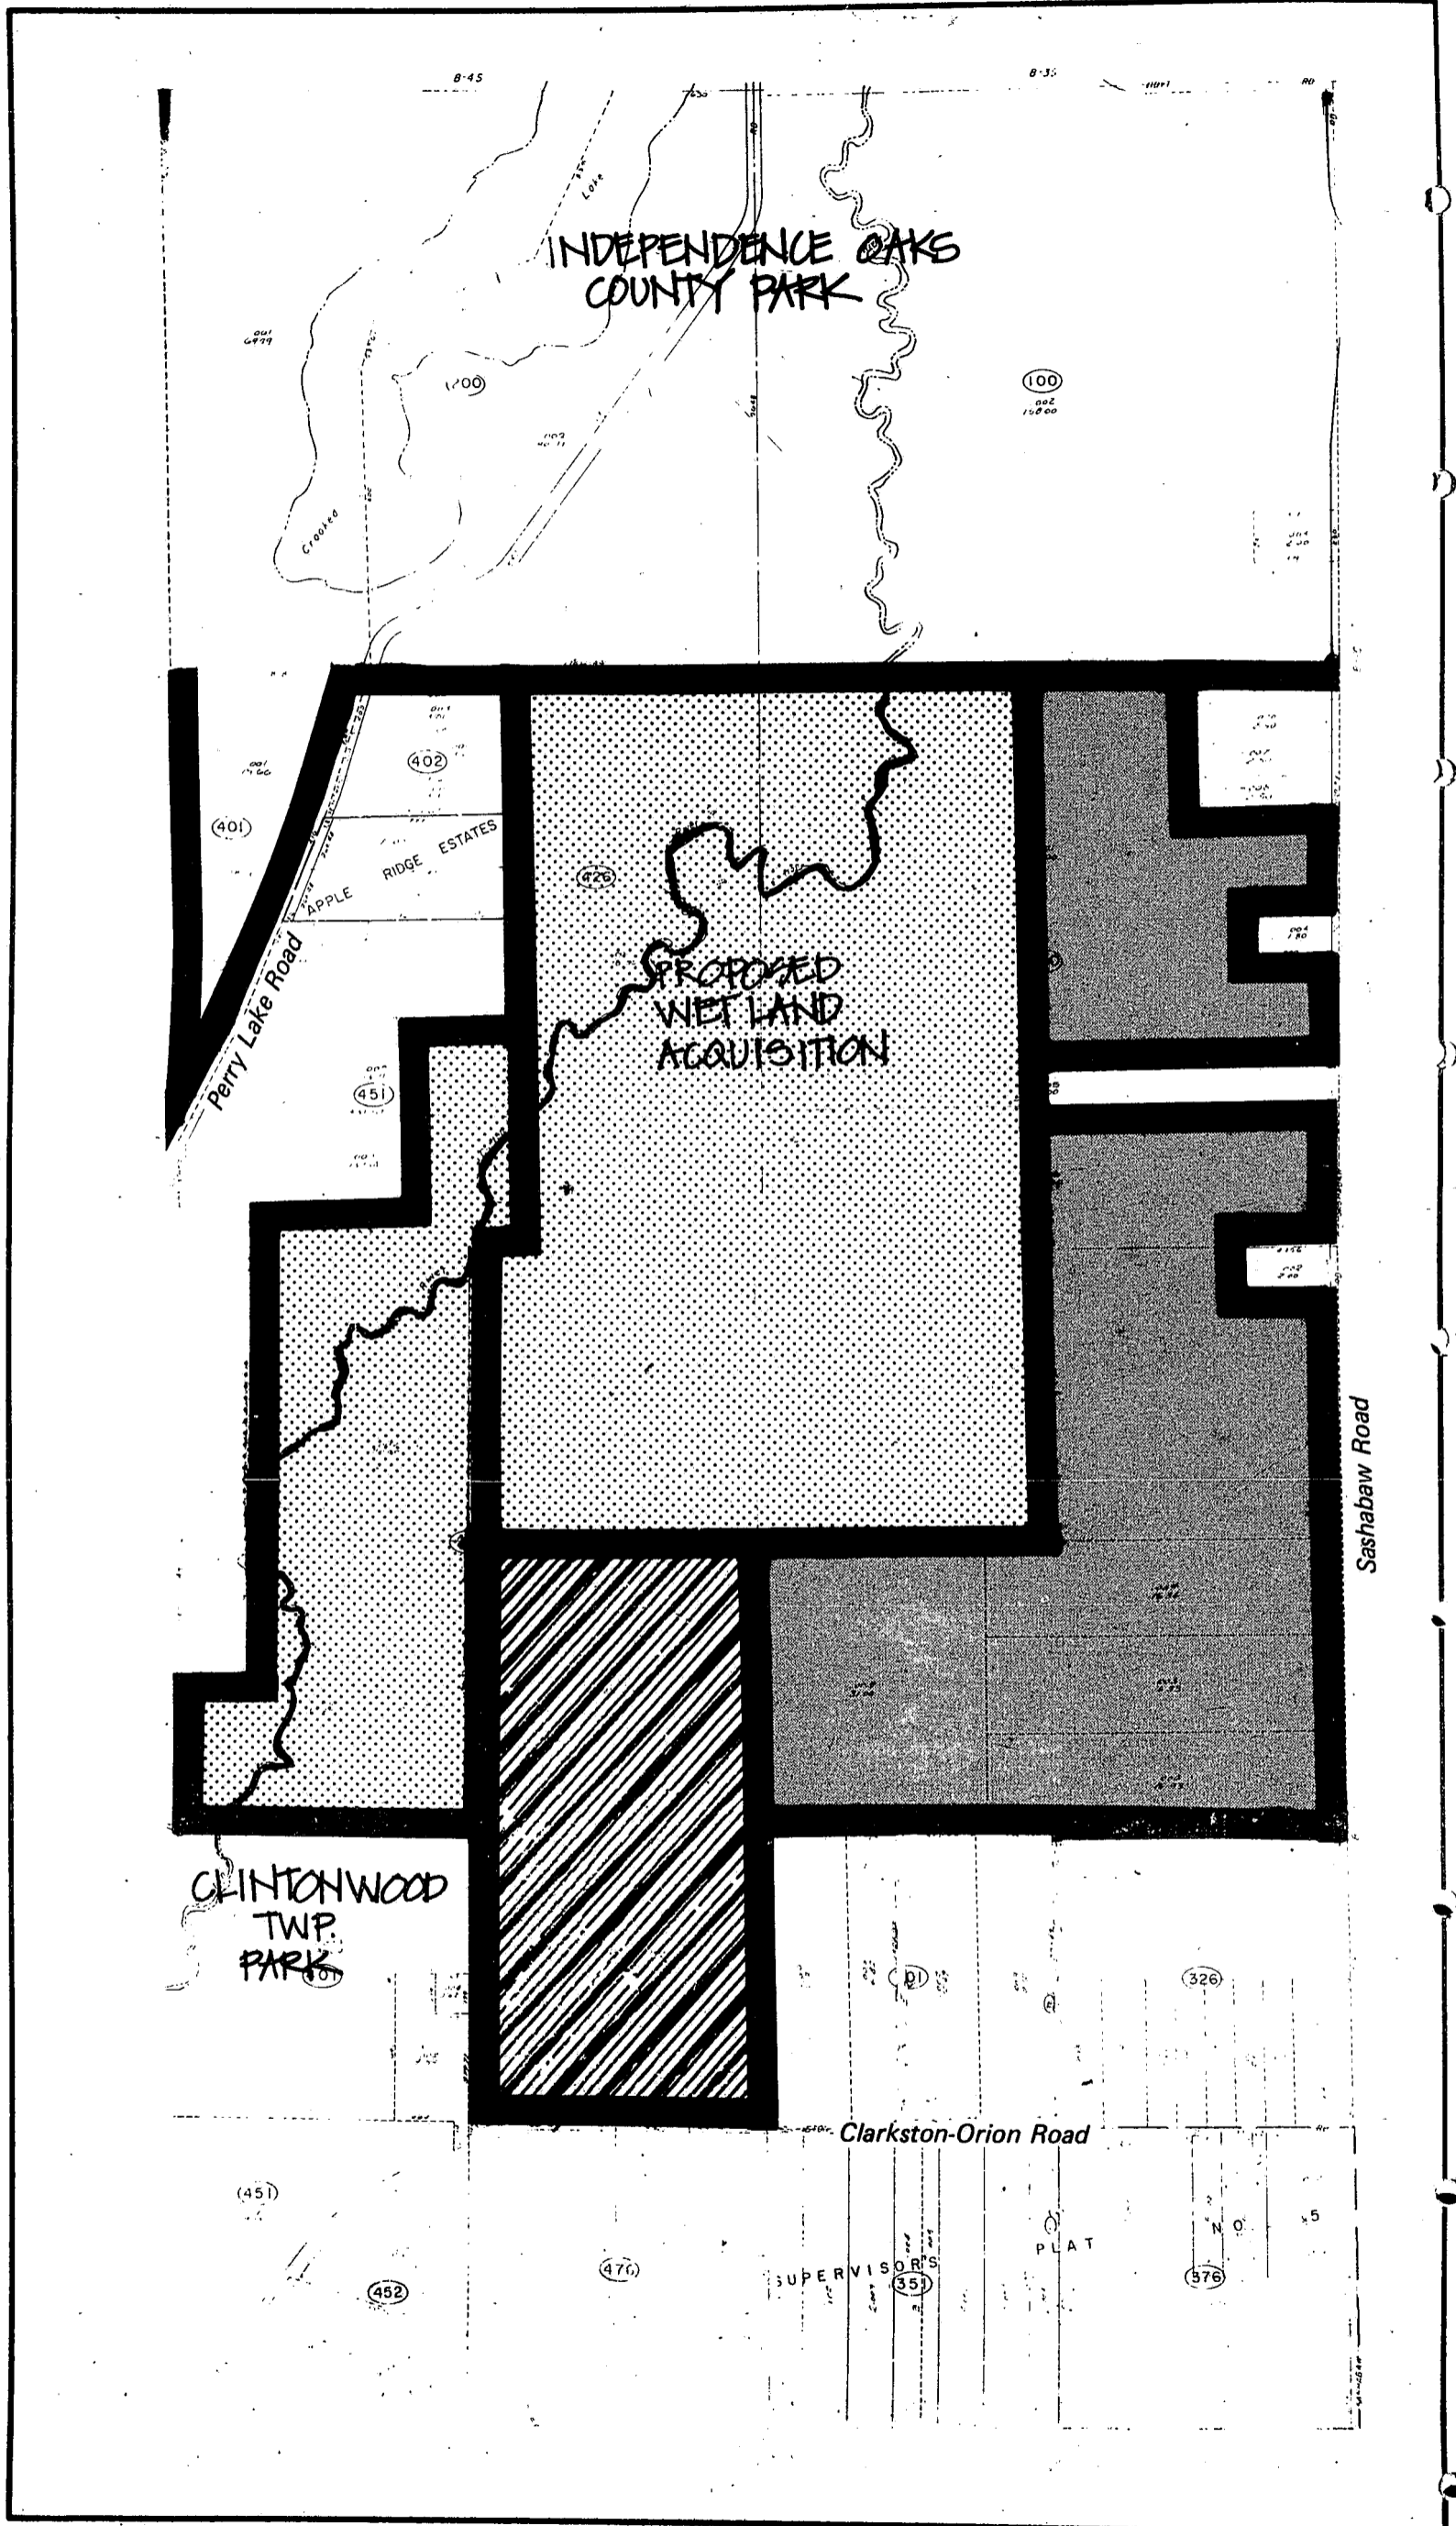

In the face of General Connelly's geriatric opposition, I know I must work extra hard to prepare my body not to tell me to stand up. Serious training is required. There will be no columns here from me next week. For seven days I will do nothing except practice sitting.

All of the shaded and striped areas on this map are either owned by, or under option to, the Edward C. Levy Co. of Detroit, with the exception of the western portion of the lighter shaded area. The firm intends to develop a gravel mine on the site.

Levy-controlled land includes access to Perry Lake Road along the south border of the county park.

The lighter shaded area is under consideration for purchase by the state, and the striped area would be condemned and purchased by Independence Twp. if voters approve a three-tenths-mill tax for that purpose

The more emphasis you place on how your full-size car responds to the road, the more you'll like Pontiac's 1980 Bonneville.

This new Bonneville was designed with a special emphasis on driving. There's new, more aerodynamic styling. New metric radial tires that help reduce rolling resistance by about 15%. And an available Rally Handling Package.

This emphasis has also resulted in extra attention to your driving comfort. With added acoustical insulation. And a choice of luxurious interiors in all-vinyl or cloth-and-vinyl at no extra charge. Or, for a sportier feel, Bonneville Coupe is available with bucket seats and floor shift console.

So if you place special emphasis on how well your full-size car drives, drive Pontiac's new 1980 Bonneville.

Meeting on Independence police results in no major changes

The Independence Township Police Advisory Board had its day in court last week. The group of five citizens got to discuss the recommendations they made seven months ago with Independence Township Board.

The two-and-a-half-hour meeting, attended by about 17 persons, resulted in no major changes.

Numerous complaints that a thorough review of the report had never been made resulted in the meeting.

The report contained four alternatives. Basing its decision on staying within a $260,000 budget and problems with dual police coverage, the advisory board made its recommendation: Contract five Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCS) deputies to cover the township on a 24-hour basis for police matters and change the local department to public services covering animal control, parking tickets, nuisance complaints and reserve unit duties like parades and school functions.

"The two departments, that's a combination by human nature alone will not get along," said James Brueck, chairman of the advisory board.

"We really felt that what we ended up recommending was based on financial constraints — a practical solution to dual departments," he said. "One that would not provide any loss of services to the community...costing less by about $40,000 a year."

The report's recommendations were not followed. The township board reduced the deputies to four in April and voted 4-3 to keep the two police service officers on the job in May.

The result has been township police services covering the township from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week and OCS deputies providing police protection during the late afternoon and midnight shift.

"I'm deeply concerned," said advisory board member Dan Daniel. "With the present system, the Independence Township Police Services cover-

'I still don't see much difference in what we did and what they recommended' — Whitey Tower ing day and the sheriff's department covering nights; there's no communication.

"What kind of investigation follow-up is there?" he asked. "From what I hear, nothing."

"It's not (township director of police services) Charley Kimbel," he said. "I don't care if J. Edgar Hoover was in there, it's not going to work. We're the ones who get hurt — the residents."

Supervisor Whitey Tower has consistently supported the need for a local department.

Considering the financial guidelines, the present police protection policy is in agreement with the police advisory report, he said.

"I still don't see much difference in what we did and what they recommended," he said.

In protest to the present police protection situation, township Treasurer Frederick Ritter has voted against any motion regarding police services for several months.

Ritter added punch to his protest — disbanding the local department completely and contracting eight OCS deputies.

The local officers would be given an opportunity to join the sheriff's department and the reserve patrolmen could be absorbed into the county reserve program, said Undersheriff Robert Nyovich.

"I recommend we dissolve the township board and turn it over to the county," said Michael Darby, township reserve unit member.

"There's plenty of crime...out in the township and the county for everybody," said Sgt. Charles Smalley of the township reserve unit. "If you only want one department, everyone in the state can have the Michigan State Police."

Noting that nothing has changed since the advisory board made its report, Charles Whitlock, police advisory board member, offered a solution.

A full police and/or a police-fire administrative board "would take the heat off the (township) board," he said.

The five-member board would have six-year terms and be able to do an in-depth study on long-range plans, that include a possible public safety department with staff trained in fire and police duties, he said.

"It's something we need to do now," Whitlock said.

No action was taken at the meeting, but Trustee Jerry Powell recommended that the police advisory board members be "ready and available" during budget hearings due to begin soon for the 1980-81 fiscal years.

Ronk hears 'no' to plea for funds from surplus

By Kathy Greenfield

The Independence Township general fund surplus has been tapped for an additional $8,000 for police services and $3,000 for the library.

But the fire department received a resounding "no" for its request for $16,000 plus $50,000 for a new tanker.

Because of the rollback of township millages approved by the board based on the Headlee Amendment, income to the fire and police departments decreased accordingly.

The two departments' budgets were based on projected millages without the rollback.

For the fire department, the rollback from 2 mills to .9 mill means a loss in projected income of about $16,800.

Fire Chief Frank Ronk asked the board to consider using general fund money to help out the department at last week's meeting.

"We're already in deep trouble," Ronk said, because of an inadequate budget.

Trustee Jerry Powell made the motion to set the fire department's budget at the reduced $361,100 figure.

"He'll just have to cut $16,800 out of his budget," Powell said.

"I think it's a good idea to maintain the spirit of Headlee, and as tough as it may be, I think we should avoid subsidizing the effects of Headlee out of the general fund," said Trustee William Vandermark.

"Headlee's going to be with us a long time," he said. "I think we're going the right way."

Ronk also submitted a request for $50,000 to buy a new tanker.

"As far as the $50,000 for the new tanker is concerned, it is no longer there, because we levied a zero millage," said Treasurer Frederick Ritter, referring to the board's decision to use about $236,000 of surplus funds in place of the 1.33 mills to operate the general fund.

"Be aware, gentlemen, there is no more surplus," added Supervisor Whitey Tower, although he also noted that Ronk's request to buy the tanker was presented in August before the zero millage for the general fund was passed.

Taking the opposite viewpoint, the board agreed to bolster the police fund by about $8,000, the amount lost when the millage was rolled back to .9 mill from 1 mill.

On the police millage, the vote was 5-1 with Ritter casting the dissenting vote.

Librarian James Hibler requested $17,000 for book shelves, books for the reference and children's collections and additional hours for a part-time employee.

A deadlocked 3-3 vote resulted in defeat of a motion to earmark $8,000 of the general fund surplus for the books and the part-time employee. "Nay" votes were cast by Trustees Rudy Lozano, Powell and Tower.

"The reference collections and the children's collections — that's an area that's been neglected for many, many years," Vandermark said. "These are areas of dire need."

All board members present voted to approve $3,000 for the part-time library worker, and more would probably be added to the library budget when federal revenue sharing money is available, board members said.

The resulting $1,111,800 general fund budget for 1979-80 as amended was voted on twice.

For the first vote, Ritter,

Powell and Tower voted "no." The 3-3 deadlock defeated the motion.

Tower said he cast his "no" vote because of possible questions about the budget that Ritter and Powell's votes indicated.

There were no questions, the other two board members said.

The motion was remade and it passed 4-2.

After the meeting, Ritter said he voted against the revised budget figure "because it included police."

"I didn't feel the board made the right decision in levying zero millage," Powell said regarding his vote.

Wolves, 1-2, aren't going to quit

Playing their third GOAL game of the year, the Clarkston varsity gridders dropped a 28-13 decision to the West Bloomfield Lakers Friday, leaving them with a 1-2 mark in league competition. But Clarkston coach Walt Wynnemko isn't throwing in the proverbial towel on his Wolves' 1979 season. "We're continuing to make progress, but it's a slow process," the coach said afterwards. "I'm still confident that we can play good ball in our remaining games and turn the season around."

Daryl Arnett and Gary Schroeder each scored two touchdowns apiece to earn the victory for the Lakers, all four TDs coming on running plays. Nick Lekas scored the first Clarkston touchdown on a one yard keeper and threw a four yard pass to Kevin Krause for the other Wolves' score.

Noting that the Wolves' trailed by only a single touchdown in the fourth quarter, Wynnemko observed that the score wasn't really indicative of the way the game was played. "I'd have to say that the game was actually a lot closer than the score would indicate," the coach insisted. "We were still in the ballgame right up to the final few minutes."

The Wolves will return home for the annual homecoming game this Friday at 8 p.m. as the winless Milford Redskins provide the opposition.

Jr high roundup

The Clarkston Junior High Wolverines resumed action Wednesday following a week layoff and posted an 8-8 tie against Rochester Reuther, leaving CJH with a 2-1-1 mark for the season.

"The fact that we hadn't played in two weeks left us a little flat," coach John Craven commented later. "We've got to feel pretty fortunate to pick up the tie."

The Wolverines trailed 8-0 at the half but Richie Schrader's 80-yard kickoff return to start the third quarter pulled CJH within two. Schrader tied it up on the next play, carrying the ball over the Rochester goal line for the two point conversion.

Rochester had several opportunities the rest of the way to pull ahead, but the Clarkston Junior High defense rose to the occasion each time. Jim Walker intercepted an enemy pass in the end zone to end on Rochester threat, and Wolverine defender

Bill Mosher made several key tackles to keep the score even.

The Wolverines next game will be at Brandon Junior High Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Sashabaw Junior High's record dropped to 1-4 Wednesday, as the Cougars dropped a 25-8 decision to Rochester Van Hoosen.

Brian Davies scored the lone Sashabaw touchdown in the fourth quarter on a one yard run. Mike Dearborn's pass to Scott Banks was good for the two extra points.

Trailing 25-0 at the half, Sashabaw coach Chris Kruger went with his second team throughout much of the third and fourth quarters. "Our subs played very well in the second half," Kruger noted.

Sashabaw's next opponent will be WaterfordPierce, traditionally one of the Cougars toughest rivals. Game time Wednesday is 7 p.m.

Dump Rochester, 27-8

JV gridders still rolling

Clarkston High School's JV gridders made it four victories in a row last week, rolling over Rochester by a score of 27-8.

Quarterback Mike Stefanski got the Wolves off and running in the first quarter, charging nine yards into the Rochester end zone for Clarkston's first of our TDs. Kim Lair, who kicked three PATs, ran a fumble recovery 80 yards before the quarter ended, putting the Wolves in front 13-0.

Bruce Burwitz ran for two touchdowns in the second quarter on runs of three and 14 yards to round out the scoring for Clarkston.

Rochester spoiled the Wolves' shutout bid late in the game, scoring on an 11-yard draw play and adding a two-point conversion.

Individually, Tim Brennan led the rushing department with 91 yards in 14 carries, while Todd Thompson and Burwitz racked up 65 and 46 yards respectively. Defensive standouts included Lair with six tackles and one assist, and Brennan with five tackles and five assists.

"We've got a lot of excellent athletes on this team and they're all playing really good ball," coach Gordie Richardson commented later. "Their talent makes this a very easy group to coach."

Richardson also made a few points concerning the play of his defense and quarterback. "We've got the type of defense that tends to grind things out and do the job without making a lot of 'big' plays," Richardson said.

"I might also note that Stefanski was throwing the ball much better than the stats would indicate — his passes were as accurate as they could be, but the receivers just weren't coming up with them," he said.

The JVs will return home Thursday hoping to make the Lakers of West Bloomfield their fifth straight victim. Game time is 7 p.m.

The point after

by Al Zawacky

Here we are at the half-way mark of the high school football season.

The half-way mark. That's incredible.

Am I the only one who finds the campaign to be just a little too short?

All year long coaches and players look forward to and prepare for the season—and now here it is, half over before I've even had a chance to learn all the players' names.

I guess there's not much that can be done about it, though. Unless you want to outfit the guys in parkas and skis.

Hmmmm. Skiball. That might be kind of interesting at that.

Anyway, this is usually an appropriate time for a little team analysis and introspection. As I write this the Wolves are four games into their 1979 schedule and have some indications of what to expect the rest of the way.

Following losses to Grand Blanc, Lamphere and Andover, people were beginning to wonder about the Wolves. Were the first three opponents that good, or did Clarkston just make them appear so?

Nobody was expecting a GOAL title this year, but it was important to the fans, the players and the future of the program that some improvement over last season be shown.

That progress is, in my opinion, now evident.

I hate to sound like the Wolves' Pollyanna, and I've never been much of a cheerleader, either. In fact, I'm a dyed-in-the-wool cynic, understandable considering my support of the Tigers, Lions, Red Wings et al for as long as I'd care to remember.

But I genuinely feel there is reason for optimism in the Wolves' camp.

They say that Rochester, against whom the Wolves earned their only victory thus far, was 0-3 going into the Clarkston game; that Grand Blanc, Lamphere and Andover outscored the Wolves by a combined total of almost 90 points.

All true.

But you can believe that Rochester wanted to win every bit as much as the Wolves did; that Grand Blanc could probably give some small college teams a rough way to go; and that, but for three plays against Andover, the Wolves played a pretty good football game.

I'm not about to commit myself to any sort of prediction concerning the rest of the season. I've seen too many of my prognostications turn into dust in the wind before; suffice it to say that I don't plan on missing any of the games.

That should tell you something.

Player of the week

Nick Lekas has been a consistent performer for the Wolves this season, scoring four of the eight Clarkston touchdowns in his team's first five games, including a one-yard run in Friday's 28-13 loss to West Bloomfield.

Lekas was also a primary factor in the Wolves' second TD, tossing a four-yard pass to Kevin Krause good for the six-pointer.

"He's continuing to mature and do a good job for us," coach Walt Wynnemko said of his 6-foot, 185 pound senior signal caller. "I'd have to say that as of right now, he's probably throwing the ball as well as anyone in our league."

In recognition of that fact, The Clarkston News is proud to name Nick Lekas as our "Player of the Week."

Clarkston Quarterback Nick Lekas

Cagers now 2-6

The Clarkston High School girls' varsity basketball squad had a victory and one defeat to show in its two contests played last week against Troy Athens and Milford.

On Tuesday, the Wolves defeated Troy Athens in a non-league affair, 44-40.

Tracee Antoes led Clarkston with 12 points, including the winning field goal, while Lisa Forsyth contributed 9 points to the Wolves' cause.

"The Athens game was a real barnburner," coach Dave McDonald recalled later. "The score was tied at 40-40 in the last minute before Tracee got the winning basket."

Two days later the Milford Redskins handed the Wolves their sixth defeat of the year, as Clarkston went down by a 45-29 score. Lynn McCormick and Michelle Ulasich each had seven points in the contest.

"We just couldn't penetrate their defense and move the ball up court in the second half," McDonald noted. "We had them 15-15 after two quarters, but Milford's press was pretty effective after that."

"We're still awfully young — we'll be starting four sophomores against Lahser this week — but I can see us improving from game to game," the coach continued. "I'm particularly pleased with the way our defense has been playing — we've been able to shut down some pretty big girls."

The Wolves, at 2-6 on the season, will be playing a league contest against West Bloomfield in addition to their non-league game against Lahser this week."

GOAL scoreboard

Results of Friday night's GOAL gridiron action:

ROCHESTER 14, ANDOVER: 7 The Andover Barons suffered a major upset at the hands of the Rochester Falcons Friday night, dropping a 14-7 decision and thus falling to a second place tie in the GOAL.

Steve Mazur ran 74 yards for Andover's touchdown midway through the first quarter, but the 7-0 lead was short-lived as Rochester's Brian Ray picked up a Baron fumble in the stanza's final minute and ran 36 yards for a Falcon TD.

Rochester quarterback Ron Jenkins scored the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter after the Barons had committed another costly fumble deep in their own territory.

KETTERING 21, MILFORD 0: Dace Schmidt, Dave Kase and Dan Stearns scored touchdowns as Kettering upped its league record to 2-1 at the expense of winless Milford, dumping the Redsking by a score of 21-0.

Schmidt led both squads with 129 yards rushing.

Hunters' class

A course on hunter's safety will be offered at the Drayton Plains Nature Center 2125 Denby Road, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Oct. 13.

The course will include an optional range instruction class, meeting at the nature center at 10 a.m. Oct. 14. Applicants for the range instruction must preregister no later than Oct. 11 by calling the center at 674-2119.

The course registration fee is $1.

MILFORD AT CLARKSTON: If the Wolves' offense is ever going to break loose, this would be the logical team to do it against....Redskins have surrendered 71 points in 3 league games and 147 points in 5 games overall...Wolves have been equally generous with totals of 72 and 149 points respectively...but clear edge in offense should earn Clarkston the victory. EDUCATED GUESS: CLARKSTON 28, Milford 14.

WATERFORD KETTERING AT ANDOVER: Can Andover win without injured quarterback Mark Vestevich calling the signals?...it doesn't appear likely, not after last week's debacle in Rochester...but the Baron defense can still come through and salvage the season. EDUCATED GUESS: ANDOVER 14, KETTERING 10.

WEST BLOOMFIELD AT ROCHESTER: Miracles aren't known for their frequency, so don't look for Rochester to play the role of giant killer for the second week in a row...Lakers haven't overwhelmed any opponents this season, but they've been as good as they've had to be...they'll suffice again on Friday. EDUCATED GUESS: BLOOMFIELD 17, ROCHESTER 7.

LIONS AT GREEN BAY: Will Jeff Komlo or Scott Hunter start at the quarterback spot this Sunday?...Monte Clark will keep us all in suspense, laboring to convince us that it really matters... but it doesn't PACKERS BY 7

MINNESOTA AT MICHIGAN: This'll probably be the best "Little Brown Jug" contest in recent memory...but "McCartney's Monsters" (Bob Ufer's moniker for the Michigan defense) will do to the Gophers what they did to the Spartans..."M" BY 10.

CHS to compete in tourney

Clarkston High School will be one of thirteen schools competing in the State High School Girls Regional Tennis Tournament at Waterford Oaks County Park Friday and Saturday.

The other 12 schools participating are Farmington High, Farmington Harrison, Milford, Milford Lakeland, North Farmington, Our Lady of Mercy Farmington Hills, Walled Lake Western, Waterford Kettering, Waterford Mott, Waterford Township and West Bloomfield.

Each squad will be competing to determine which two teams will go to the state meet on Oct. 19 and 20 at Holland High School in Holland.

In addition to the inter-school competition, there will also be four singles and three doubles flights in which winning players from each division win medals for each flight.

The tourney will be the first ever held at the park's new tennis complex, which features eight asphalt-surfaced tennis courts as well as four platform tennis courts, ten horseshoe and ten shuffleboard courts.

The new complex is accessible through the entrance to the wave action pool on Scott Lake Road. Admission to the tournament, sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association, is free.

Local youths win motorcross honors

Four area youths won awards in Oakland County Parks and Recreation's Bike Motorcross Racing Invitational Champion-

Brian Barlow, first place winner, 15-16-year old division.

Rob Mortimore, first place winner, 13-year old division.

Ed Burnette, second place winner, 15-16-year old division.

D. J. Balhorn, third place winner, 13-year old division.

ships at Waterford Oaks County Park recently.

Some 70 racers competed for first, second and third place trophies in age categories ranging from 7 to 16. Those participating had to earn the right by accumulating points based on their performance in previous contests during the course of the season.

Two first-place winners, both from the Clarkston area, were Rob Mortimore in the 13-year old age group and Brian Barlow in the 15-16 year category. Ed Burnette, also of Clarkston, took second among 15-16 year olds, and D. J. Balhorn of Davisburg finished third in the 13-year old group.

Ski patrol volunteers sought Independence Oaks County Park is looking for volunteers for its Nordic Ski Patrol organization.

Members of the group will patrol over 16 kilometers (about 10 miles) of groomed trails, advising park staff of trail conditions and providing first aid when necessary.

The organization's goals this season are to build on the current core of volunteers, train new skiers and increase future recruitment efforts. By 1980, the group hopes to provide the services of five to ten patrollers on weekends, two on weekdays and increase the size of its active membership to approximately 50.

"Joining the ski patrol will provide cross country enthusiasts with an opportunity to ski all winter, stay in shape and enjoy the outdoors with other people," says patrol leader Gary Beesley.

Persons interested in joining should have at least an intermediate skiing ability. Advanced first aid or Department of Transportation Emergency Medical Technician certification as well as paid dues to the National Ski Patrol System by Nov. 1 are also required.

Those interested and qualified should call 625-0877.

Park hosts footrace

Running enthusiasts can enjoy unspoiled autumn forests and stay in shape at the same time by participating in the second annual Ottawa Nation Footrace at Independence Oaks County Park on Oct. 21.

Three courses will be offered at lengths of 2.5, 5.5 and 8.5 miles, following paths through the wooded trails of the park, along meadows and marshland over terrain that varies from flat to rolling hilly.

Commemorative medallions will be presented to runners who complete the race, and first place finishers in each of the 11 age groups will receive a small tree in remembrance of the Ottawa Nation Forests.

Entry fee for the competition is $5 if paid before Oct. 15 and $7 thereafter. Special family rates are also offered at $5 for the first entrant, $4 for the second and $3 for each additional family member.

The race is sponsored by the Racer's Edge Magazine and the Oakland County Parks and Recreation commission; for more information on the run, call 625-0977 or 858-0906.

Fire dispatchers out of home get $1,000-a-year pay raise

By Kathy Greenfield

The three Independence Township Fire Department dispatchers who work out of their homes have received 25 percent raises, up $1,000 to make their annual salaries $5,000.

Norma Goyette, Gail Hess and Barbara Thayer handle dispatch duties for the department from 5 p.m. to 9 a.m. daily and night and day on week-ends.

"We're getting heat from the dispatchers—they're saying, 'We're six months into the year and our salary is the only one that hasn't been settled,'" said Fire Chief Ronk at last week's board meeting.

"I'd like to remind the board that probably won't be a union position if we take care of them as we go along," said

Supervisor Whitey Tower. "If we don't take care of them, that would probably be zapped into a union position."

The fire department's budget was reduced by about $16,800 due to the Headlee rollback and the township board earlier in the meeting declined Ronk's request for general fund surplus money to make up the difference.

"I know we put (Ronk) in a bind tonight—the best way to do it is to ask (him) to come back and show us... where the money's coming from," said Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

"You've taken $16,000 out of my budget because of the voters' say so," Ronk said. "I've asked you to give me the money out of the general fund. I could study these figures for a week—where am I going to get it?"

"Maybe that's your answer—not to give the raises, because there is no money," Ritter said.

Clerk Christopher Rose made the motion to approve the raises, effective April 1, 1979.

The salaries were included in the approved budget for the fiscal year that began April 1, but because each raise has to be approved by the board, the salary increases were never made, Rose said.

"I have no problem with it," he said.

"It's difficult for me to vote 'yes' for an increase when the fire chief isn't enthusiastic," said Trustee Rudy Lozano.

"Would you believe I'm tired?" asked Ronk. "That's been on the agenda five times. They're valuable people."

The raises passed 5-1 with Ritter voting "no".

Planners back hotel concept — but height...?

Any tax study should be prefaced with the word "if," because assessed valuations for hotels are usually only 60 percent of rates used for residences, Stuart said.

"I would be happy to pay 75 cents not to have the hotel here," said Christopher Kennedy of Clarkston-Orion Road, who said that, according to his calculations, the hotel would produce about 75 cents of what each taxpayer pays each month. Pine Knob attorney Anthony Locricchio presented plans for the proposed hotel.

Cost estimates are now $30 million, up from $20 million as previously stated, he said.

The 600-room hotel would be built near the center of the over 600-acre complex and the ski-run-roof slanted at 22 degrees suited for intermediate skiers would provide two additional ski runs.

Indoor parking for 500 vehicles, two swimming pools, a racquet court area, a glass atrium between the hotel and the hill with evergreens and year-round flowers and an open-air promenade where skiers could gather are included in the plans.

Restaurants, lounges and a night club would also be part of the "world-class" hotel, Locricchio said.

The annual payroll for the hotel would be about $6.7 million and over 60 percent of Pine Knob employees are now local residents a practice he believes will continue, he said.

A feasibility study done for $40,000 by appraiser Ralph Lipshaw of Miami, Florida indicated the hotel's likely financial success, Locricchio said.

The study predicts an 83 percent occupancy rate by the hotel's third year of operation, but only 55 percent would be needed because of other income sources like skiing fees, Locricchio said.

"If anyone here thinks we would have gone through all this for all these months to have a white elephant on our hands, they don't know the people at Pine Knob very well," he said.

Locricchio also said, as at previous meetings, the use of Pine Knob property for a hotel was approved in 1972 when the complex first introduced plans for a resort area.

A 1975 rezoning of the area to be a recreational district that does not include hotels as a use of the land resulted in a loss of the use, said township attorney Richard Campbell.

"If the township couldn't change zoning on land, we would forever be bound to the first zoning we passed," he said.

Concern over the height of the proposed hotel was expressed by several planning commission members.

After a motion recommending approval of the conceptual hotel plans including the height was defeated 4-3, Jean Saile made a motion approving the concept with reservations about the height.

Jean Benzing suggested changing the motion by recommending that the height be reduced.

"My motion stands," Saile said.

James Gardiner, Rudy

Lozano, Saile and Brennan voted in support of the motion with John Gray, James Smith and Benzing casting "no" votes.

Mel Vaara, chairman of the zoning board of appeals, abstained, indicating he would make his decision at the appeals board meeting on Oct. 10.

Helping vocational school get ahead

Advisory committee gives services and supplies along with advice

By Kathy Greenfield

A visit to the diesel mechanic laboratory at Northeast Oakland Vocational Center (NWOVEC) reveals an impressive line-up of all sorts of diesel engines.

And six of them were donated through the advisory committee that serves the program.

Other improvements in the classroom influenced by the committee are cement walls protecting passersby from "hot tank" splashes when engines are dipped for cleaning and yellow lines outlining a safety walk.

A meeting last week of the committee chairpersons is a step toward more involvement by the eight to nine members in each of the committees that serve the 17 study areas at NWOVEC.

The advisory groups have been part of the school since it was opened nearly a decade ago.

They serve several functions for the school including placement assistance, community awareness, advice on equipment purchases, help on what should be taught and work in classrooms as guest speakers.

"This is a side of vocational education that has at times been neglected in the past," said Daniel Manthei, NWOVEC principal.

Last summer, the committees selected chairpersons and strengthened their advisory roles with members willing to work on improving programs.

And this year, goals were set for the committees, Manthei said, and the meeting of the leaders was held.

'Maybe if we do things well here, we can show general education how to do it.'

— Daniel Manthei, principal

The response at the meeting was so enthusiastic that the planned hour-and-one-half time schedule was extended by another two-and-one-half hours.

"They wanted to become involved," Manthei said, adding, "Maybe if we do things well here, we can show general education how to do it."

Assistant NWOVEC principal Alberts Donlin sees the role of the advisory councils as questioning programs and asking instructors to include necessary job skills for students.

Council members can provide production jobs and make suggestions for safety, because they work in the field, she said.

In the diesel mechanic program, instructor Robert Snyder recently attended a diesel training school in Indiana.

Snyder was awarded the title "Top Man" in the course for his extra effort and interest, according to a letter Donlin proudly shows.

New policies stressing positive employee qualities such as attendance are now in force at NWOVEC.

Perfect attendance is to be rewarded with items like a gift certificate, stereo tape or AM/FM radio.

In addition, students who meet criteria set by the advisory committees are to receive a tool to use in their career field.

The changes in vocational education could be the beginning of a new trend in education, Manthei said.

As expenses increase to pay for college, vocational graduates would have "marketable skills to pay their way through college," he said.

"Look at all the unemployed liberal arts graduates there are without a marketable skill," he said.

The advantages of a vocational skill for those who plan a career directly out of high school as well as those students who plan to go to college will continue to grow, he predicts.

Royalty for homecoming

Clarkston High School selected its homecoming court Friday afternoon to the traditional hand clapping and drum banging.

When the ceremony was over, Amber Vanhoten and Dennis Hughes emerged as the senior class king and queen, while Kass Conway and Dawn Reis were chosen attendants. Nancy Dennis was selected junior maid and Kellie Swift sophomore maid.

The selections had been previously determined by student ballots, but the verdict is kept secret until the assembly.

The court will be on hand at the center of the festivities during halftime of the Wolves' homecoming contest against Milford Friday night.

Hunters get plea on body

An alert for hunters in the Holly Recreation Area to be on the lookout for the body of a Flint woman has been issued by the State Police.

Helen Wirsing, 48, was last seen Sept. 19 while at work at the Chevrolet plant in Flint, police said.

Mrs. Wirsing, a widow with three grown children, frequently used a family cottage located on Dixie Highway in Holly, police said.

"We have found property in the Holly Recreation Area that was hers," said Detective Sgt. Stephen Boven, leading police to believe her body may be closeby. "We've searched the area with helicopters; we had scuba divers in the pond; we had Army reserve officers out there, but we found nothing," he said.

Because the Holly Recreation Area covers hundreds of miles, the search was concentrated on prime target areas, he said.

Hunters and hikers in the area should report any fresh diggings, foul odors or clothing in unusual places to the State Police post in Pontiac, Boven said.

The telephone number is 332-9132.

$3,700 storm drain bid okayed

Waiving the bid procedure, the Independence Township Board has accepted a cost of $3,700 for storm drainage work on Squirrel Hill Court.

Two bids received in August were rejected by the board, because they were over $4,000.

For the second bidding, an advertisement was not placed in a newspaper and only one bid was submitted.

"We solicited bids in person," said George Anderson, department of public works director.

Trustee William Vandermark made the motion to waive the bid procedure of newspaper advertisements and sealed bids, and to accept the low bid.

The $3,700 bid by Robert Hornacek of Squirrel Hill Court, Independence Township, was accepted in a 5-1 vote at last week's meeting with Supervisor Whitey Tower casting the dissenting vote.

The job includes replacing drain pipes and concrete in the Squirrel Hill Court area.

According to a letter submitted with the bid, the job should be completed within 45 days.

Tacit council approval is given to proposal B

The Clarkston Village Council, by its unanimous adoption of an anti-gravel pit resolution Monday night, lent its tacit support to proposal B slated to appear on the Oct. 16 ballot in Independence Township.

The proposal would raise property taxes .3 of a mill (30 cents) for each $1,000 assessed property value) for each of the next five years in order to purchase part of the property of a proposed Independence Township gravel mining operation.

The land would be used instead as an addition to Clintonwood Township Park.

In the wording of the resolution, the council stated its general opposition to "any gravel-mining operation" in the township.

Hearing Oct. 17 on welfare setup

Persons with suggestions and concerns regarding the state welfare system will have a chance to speak up at a public hearing Oct. 17 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Scheduled by the Michigan Department of Social Services, the hearing will take place at the Commissioner's Auditorium in the Oakland County Service Center, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac.

Don't slide into winter

The first icy road conditions requiring salting by Oakland County Road Commission crews last year occurred October 11.

The situation was a frosty morning in the northern part of the county. Bridge decks exposed top and bottom to chilling winds glazed over.

Motorists traveling on clear surfaces approaching such spots can be caught unprepared.

"It's wise to begin thinking now about modifying driving habits for winter," said John L. Grubba, managing director of the road commission.

"Alertness is the key. At bridges and overpasses and in shady areas, near overhanging trees or tall buildings, ice forms sooner and lasts longer," he said.

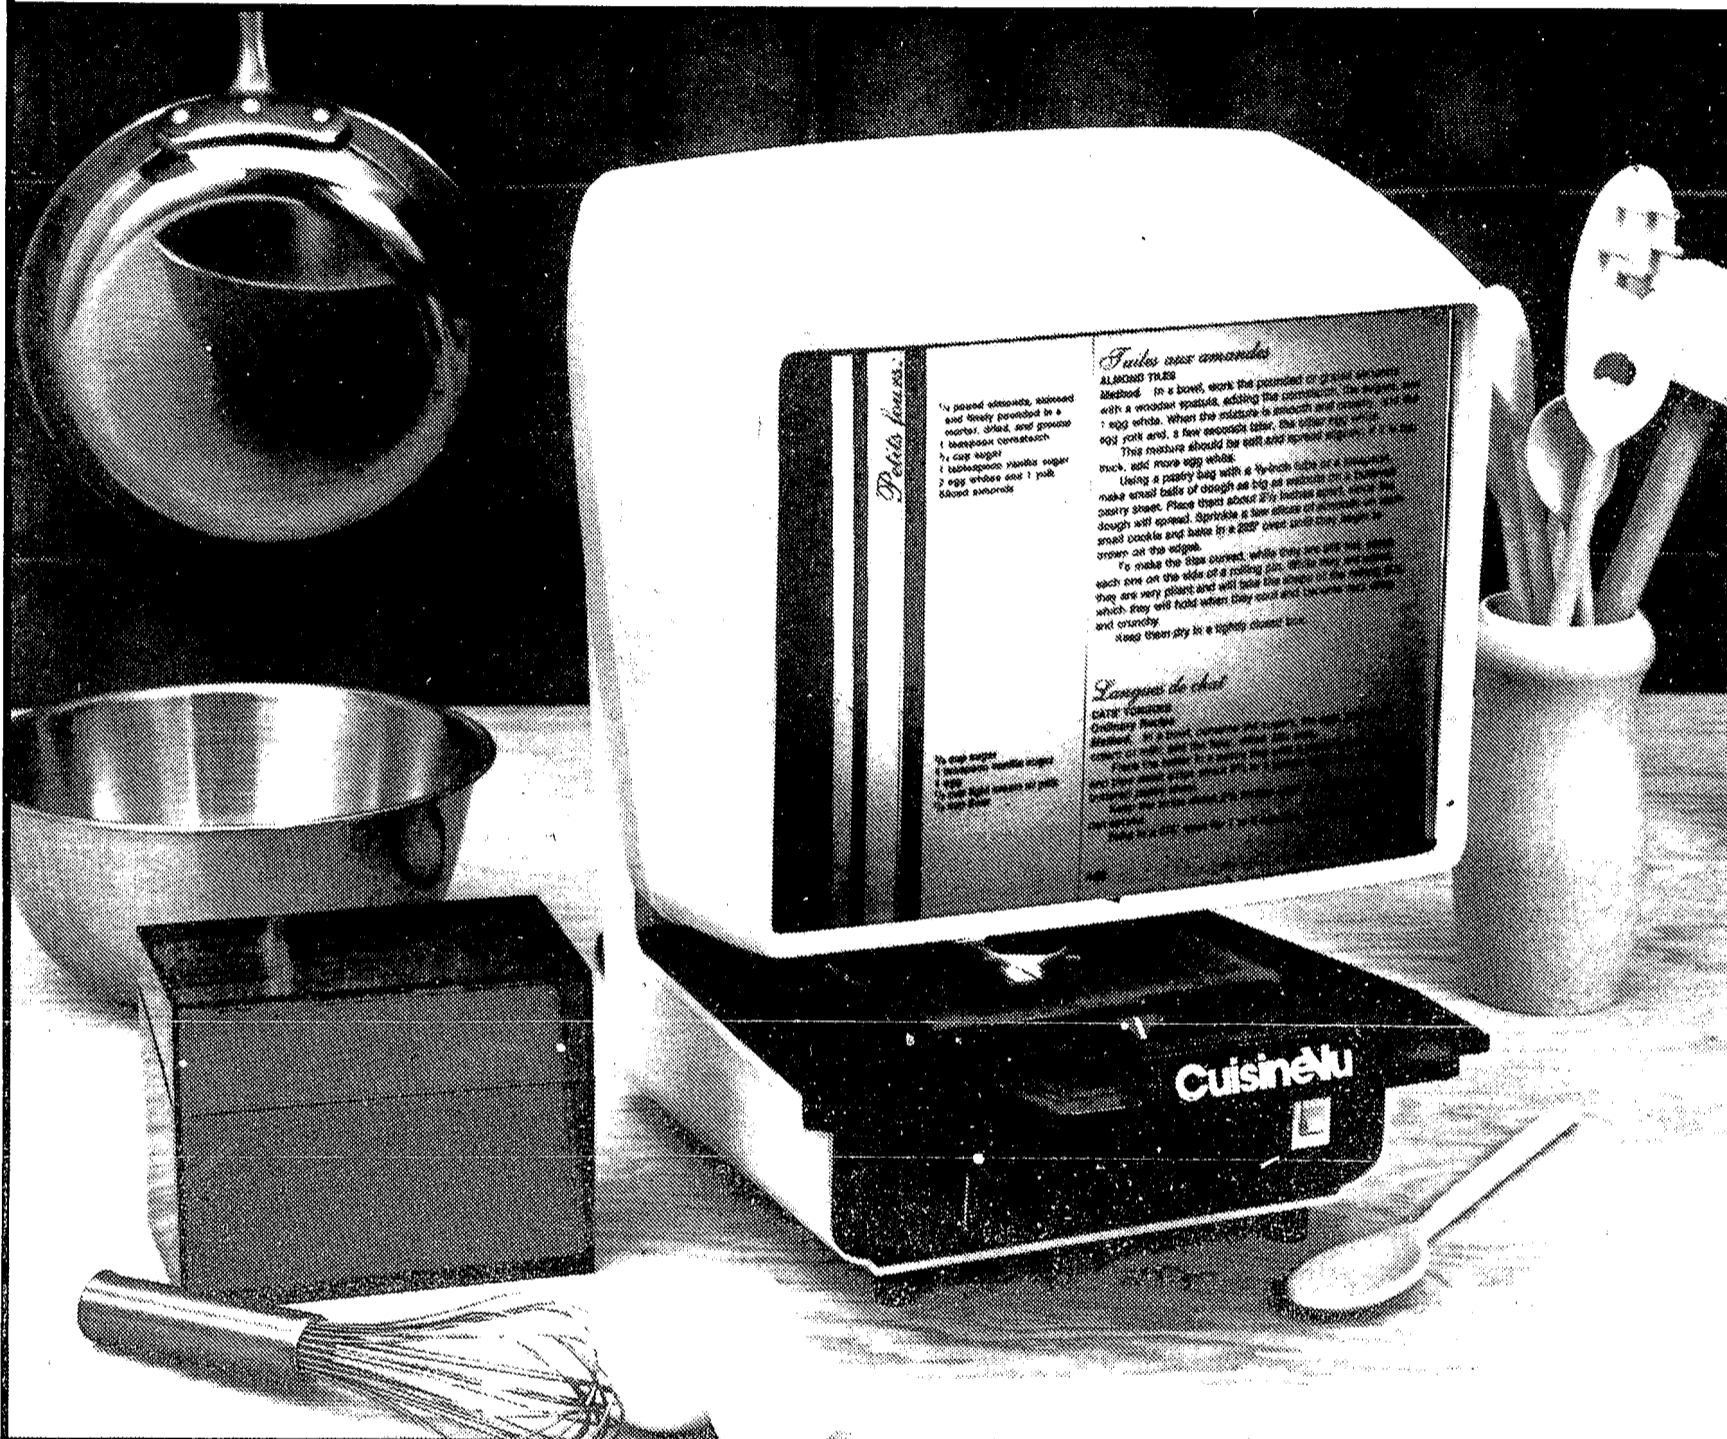

"We'll respond to icing conditions as soon as possible, but we don't always know about spots immediately.

"Drivers can help themselves by being cautious, slowing down gradually when approaching a potential trouble spot and avoiding abrupt braking or turning movements if encountering slick pavement," he said.

Noncompetitive gamesmanship can be fun

Everyone helped lift the parachute off the floor, pulled and tugged until it was raised above their heads. "Okay now,...one, two, three...everybody under!"

Voila! A mushroom! Mushroom is one of a variety of games this group of people played with the parachute at the New Games Festival Sunday at Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center.

Charles McArthur of Pontiac tries to maintain his balance atop a huge Earth Ball as other members of his group roll the ball around. The game was one of many played by both adults and children at Sunday's festival.

By Maralee Cook

If you are always the last one picked for Dodge Ball, or have never won the 50-yard dash, then the philosophy of New Games Foundation might just be for you.

To honor the International Year of the Child, several Oakland County youth-oriented groups and the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission sponsored a New Games Festival Sunday, at Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center.

The premise of the New Games Foundation is - play hard, play fair, nobody hurt. And, while the games were mostly action games, the term "hurt" referred to emotional wounds.

New Games emphasize group accomplishment, not competition between individuals. And there are few rules, most of which can be bent by players or referees to suit the group.

A New Games method for choosing sides is called "moo-quack." Referees whisper either "moo" or "quack" into the ears of the players. The players who heard the word "moo" line up on one side of the room and the players who heard the word "quack" line up on the other.

Only in games requiring a great amount of coordination are there age group classifications. And quite often on Sunday, children and parents played games together.

Some of the games that were played at the festival included Hug Tag, in which players were safe for three seconds from the person who was "it" as long as they were hugging another person; Popcorn in which two or three people would bounce balls into a parachute held taut by other members of the group; and Earth Ball, in which one person would try to balance himself on top of a huge rubber ball while the group rolled it around.

In all of the games played Sunday, the most important factor was team effort. Nobody won. And nobody lost.

VOTER ALERT!

DON'T BE MISLEAD

HIGH RISES MEAN HIGH TAXES,
CONGESTION AND THE DESTRUCTION OF THE BEAUTY OF OUR ENVIRONMENT.

- High rise buildings require increased roads, sewers, police and fire services in order to accommodate the increased population density that they bring. Communities which have them pay more taxes than we do. If we start allowing them, our taxes will climb too.
- Once we let one in, others will follow. There is no city or township in Southeastern Michigan which has just one high rise. There is no way to legally keep others out once one is let in.
- A high rise hotel will bring no significant employment to the area. At best the unskilled jobs which will be created will benefit the Pontiac labor market rather than the Clarkston community.
- High rise density will contribute to congestion and increased crime. The high number of transients brought in for conventions, who will have no interest in preserving the serenity and security of our environment, can only create increased crime in the area and increased congestion on our roads.

Molinats focus on quality of life

Carl and Donna Molinat think that life is too short. And since no one can depend on quantity, they're focusing on quality.

Each member of the family, including daughter Dawn, 12, and son Jeff, 16, has always pursued a variety of individual interests and hobbies and participated in family projects.

But this past year the pace picked up a bit when Donna found a new hobby and the Molinats found a sport they could all enjoy together.

Donna's hobby began by accident when she was looking for a way to make the exterior of their home on Oakhill Road, Brandon Township, a little more interesting. They built the home themselves six years ago.

The cedar siding on the house was interrupted below the windows by a stucco and wood design.

"We wanted to give the house a different effect and add personality," Donna said. She later saw a fireplace faced with California driftstone and thought it would be perfect on their house.

But when quoted a price of $500 by a stone supply company, Donna decided the change wasn't worth the price.

Then a small magazine ad for the book "How To Make Your Own Stone For Pennies" caught her eye and Donna was on her way. The author of the book had the same idea — to copy expensive California driftstone. After Donna read it, bought the materials, and mixed her first batch, she found she had a very cheap and very good copy of the real thing.

The main ingredients are a heavy piece of plywood to work on, ready-mix mortar, clothesline, paint and thinner.

Donna purchased enough materials to do the same amount of space she originally planned to cover with the driftstone, for a mere $54.54. In three weeks she had three sides of the house done.

This is all her own project too,

Donna says, and "that's why he (husband Carl) is so impressed."

But then Donna's no slouch. She runs a table saw and taped the drywall in her husband's home office.

She also recently tuned up their four-wheel drive GMC Sierra Classic. And that's another story...

Carl is a supervisor for Dynamometer Test Lab at GM Truck and Coach. While he did a little drag racing when he was a kid, his interest in cars and trucks didn't range too far beyond his job — until last May.

That was when the family went to a four-wheel drive competition with friends just to see what it would be like.

They loved it, said Donna, and decided it would be a fun sport to get involved in.

The next week they entered their Sierra Classic, "Desert Fox," in the first of what now stands at 16 competitions.

The races — obstacle courses, drag races or hill climbs — all take place on sand and are, says Donna, much safer than driving to Detroit.

Of the 21 trophies the Molinats have brought home so far this season, "mostly firsts." Donna has won 13 and Carl eight.

While racing and winning trophies are fun, Carl and Donna enjoy it for other reasons.

"We like the people," said Donna, "and it's an ideal family-oriented situation. We drive in caravans, camp at the races. They're like mini-vacations."

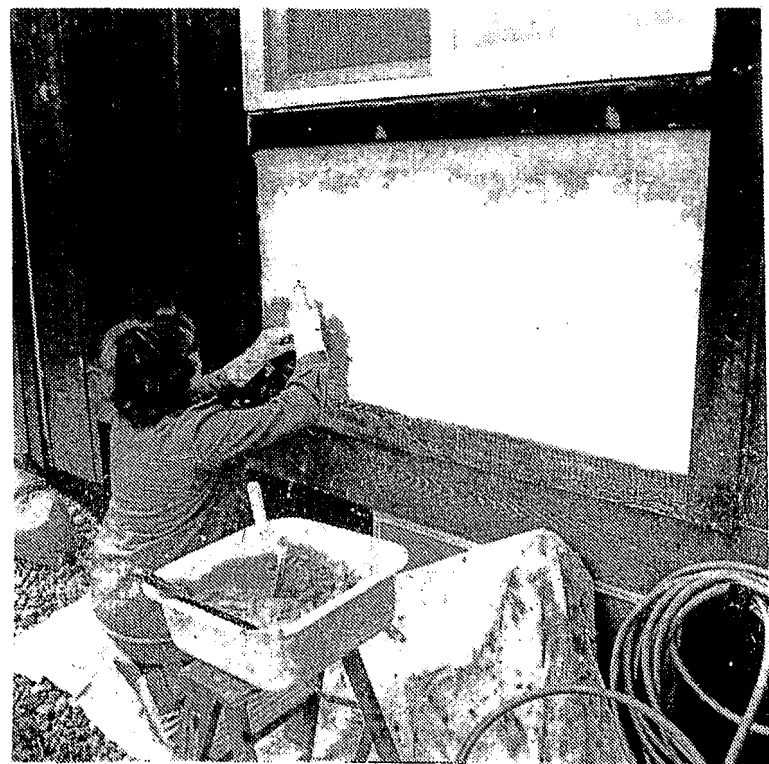

There are four-wheel drive competitions twice a month at Milan, as well as races near the Zilwaukee Bridge, north of Muskegon and in Ohio.

The season runs from May to the first week in November. And this summer, after he got his license, son Jeff got in on the

After the stones are made, Donna mixes up a batch of ready-mix mortar and water.

Donna then puts a layer of the mixture on the wall that is to be surfaced with stone.

The finished product. The stone can be coated with polyurethane, but should be allowed to weather for two weeks before application is made. In three weeks Donna resurfaced panels on three sides of her home.

Donna Molinat has been racing the GMC Sierra Classic since May. She won a first place in her class in a hill climb. Her husband, Carl, took home a second place trophy the same day.

More Country Living

... racing. He now has his own Blazer that he fixed up and entered in a race Saturday.

Dawn, at 12, is obviously too young to race, but "loves to go fast" on the practice runs. Donna thinks her interest will grow with continued exposure to the sport.

Right now, however, Dawn is keeping busy with her top grades in school and playing the flute.

"We're lucky to have such good kids," says Donna. "They're responsible kids for their ages and both excellent students." Jeff works part time to pay for his Blazer, the insurance and other things that he wants. The Molinats want their children to work for things so that they'll appreciate them more.

This winter the Molinats plan to find an old GMC Jimmy, strip it and make it into an obstacle vehicle. They'll just put in the bare essentials, — one seat, safety equipment, roll cages, instrument panels.

They also have started to rebuild an engine together — Donna recently removed the camshaft — and they have his and hers mechanics' creepers.

With the new projects the family has undertaken, one wonders when they will have time for old hobbies and their annual sojourn to New Mexico to visit family and hunt for ghost towns.

"We'll make time," Donna replied.

It's getting cooler to be a student

Students at Clarkston High School and Sashabaw Junior High would be well advised to add another layer to the layered look this year—because the temperature in their classrooms is going down another two degrees this year.

Under energy-saving guidelines issued by the federal government, temperatures in secondary schools are to be maintained at 65 degrees.

"It's going to be chilly," said William Dennis, administrative assistant in charge of conserving energy in the district's buildings.

Clarkston Junior High pupils will get a break, because there are three sixth grade classrooms there and federal guidelines call for the temperature to be maintained at 67 degrees in elementary buildings.

If it's any solace to secondary students, administrators and special services personnel will have to endure the lower-temperature mandate too. In non-classroom buildings, the temperature is to be maintained at 65 degrees.

RUBBER STAMPS made for every business. Personal or professional. Clarkston News, 5 S. Main Street.

by David McNeven, Coach

The Harvard-Yale football rivalry is the oldest in the world. When it began in 1875, football was not really a game that had its own rules. The first game was played with a combination of rugby and soccer rules. In November, 1876, at a convention in Springfield, Mass., held to organize the rapidly growing sport, teams present agreed that it was more fun to pick up and run with the ball, as is done in rugby, than just kick it, as is done in soccer. So American football is the result of a combination of a lot of rugby, a little soccer, and some original ideas.

Most people agree that, for friendly service and the best choice of sporting goods, you can't find a better place to come than ours—COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457. We have the football equipment you need including Adida and Wilson shoes, safety pads, jerseys and helmets, everything that an individual player or team may need. Hours: Daily 9:30am-6pm, Sat. until 5pm.

SPORTS TIP:

Be sure to dress warmly for northern football games.

Coping with kids

Some teach kids to lie

Some parents are experts at teaching their children how to lie.

Usually, these are the same mothers and fathers who value truth and honesty in a family.

They rightly reason that in a family honesty and trust are important and make for an ideal family atmosphere.

How parents teach their youngsters to lie might be illustrated by the following real life examples:

—Nick, a teenage boy, recalled that his earliest memory related to his mother lining up and his brothers and sisters up when Nick was about five years of age.

She was determined "to get to bottom" of who took an extra piece of pie.

All of the children disclaimed responsibility. Finally, Nick, at the persuading of his older brother, said he did it. Since then, Nick has on other occasions lied when he wasn't guilty.

—Sarah is eight years old. Her parents are very concerned about her because she lies.

However, after something has happened or Sarah has done something wrong, there is her family's version of the Spanish Inquisition.

Sarah is questioned repeatedly and implored to tell the truth and confess. She denies guilt convincingly, even crying while usually being very sincere. When she finally tells the truth everyone is exhausted.

—Tom is 14 and has spent up to a month at a time in his bedroom for lying. His parents say they have tried everything to break him of his lying and are determined to use the most extreme measures to stop the misbehavior.

In all of the above cases, the parents have for all intents and purposes taught their children to lie. They didn't intend this, but this is the end result of their quest for the truth.

Through excessive threats, exaggerated behavior at the thought of a lie, playing detective and extensive cross-examining they have accomplished little but to increase lying.

Most children can be caught in a lie because they do not have good memories, are afraid of the consequences of telling the truth or are just young and inexperienced.

It generally does little that is useful to extract a confession from a child. A straight, truthful answer and an admission of guilt changes nothing. Usually, also, it tells you little more than you knew or suspected already.

If a parent knows a child has done something wrong or if the circumstantial evidence clearly points to it, it is better to act on that rather than compounding the situation by trying to force the truth.

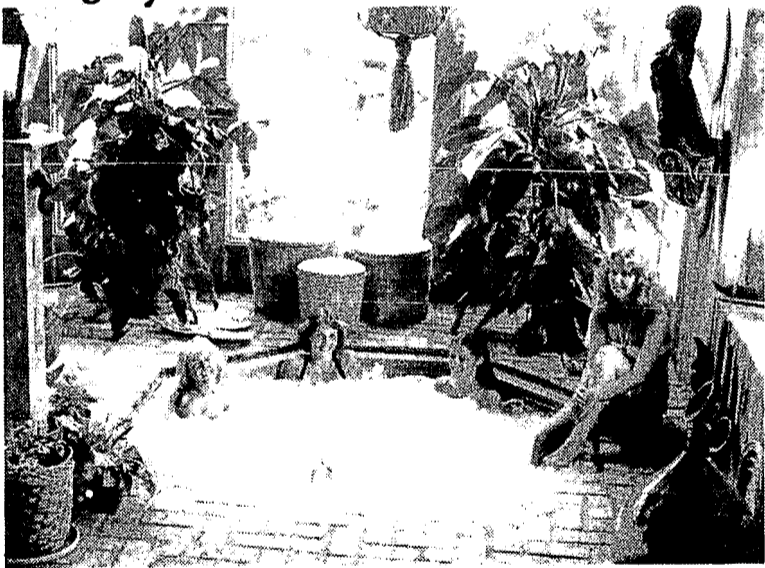

Reasoning that you need the confession in order to take effective action, may delay action that will help to prevent the misbehavior in the future. Effective, disapproving action by the parent is more important than hearing the child admit he did wrong.

Lakeland's 'Guys and Dolls' inviting

[Editor's note: After six years of writing reviews, the pseudonymous Mr. Phillip Purser has requested a leave of absence from the arduous duties of theater critiquing. As of last week, his job has been assigned to Jim Windell who says he has long admired Mr. Purser's wit, intelligence and insight.]

[Mr. Purser requested the leave to allow more time to hang out in dark places other than the theater. However, being a shy and reclusive individual, he requested no notice be taken of his voluntary retirement. While this would be easy, it seems inappropriate not to take some small notice of his passing from the pages of the Clarkston News.]

[The botanical Phillip Purser has retired to a cozy white frame bungalow on Deer Lake where he expects to garden and breed St. Bernards. He writes that he is also becoming better acquainted with his ill-tempered wife who has frequently refused to be seen with him in public. She always was a melodramatic individual while Mr. Purser was blessed at birth with a calm temperament and a keen eye for the folly of those around him.]

Guys and Dolls
 Music and lyrics: Frank Loesser
 Book: Jo Swerling & Abe Burrows
 The Lakeland Players
 Mason Jr. High School

The Lakeland Players opened their four-play season the last two weekends with an inviting production of "Guys and Dolls."

With a large cast, an orchestra and the other added expenses of a musical, the Waterford theater group got off to a largely successful start.

The audiences during the last weekend were bigger than the Lakeland Players have come to expect as the 1950 Broadway production was given a well-paced run-through by the amateur dramatics group.

"Guys and Dolls" is a sassy and funny view of the low-life in and around Broadway in New York City.

Based on Damon Runyon stories and characters, it is a friendly musical about gamblers and the unfortunate women in their lives.

The play ran three years on Broadway and frequently has been performed by both amateur and professional groups because of its wit and the appropriate lyrics given its songs by Frank Loesser.

The plot revolves around Nathan Detroit (Bob Kaminskis) who runs a crap game but, because of a police crack-down on gambling, has temporarily lost a location.

He needs a $1,000 to rent the Biltmore Garage, and the need for a spot is heightened by the presence in New York at that time of a couple of big gamblers who are looking for action.

Nathan Detroit resolves to come up with a place, one way or another, for "the oldest establishment permanent floating crap game in New York."

His efforts to come up with the grand to rent the Biltmore Garage, his girlfriend's attempts to have him give up gambling and marry her and the romance between high-stakes gambler Sky Masterson (Steve Cunningham) and Salvation Army member Sarah Brown (Chris Abbott) provide complications.

Sydne Kalet plays Miss Adelaide, Nathan Detroit's girlfriend (they've been engaged for 14 years), and performs the role with verve, charm and professional poise.

Her accent is right and her trained voice is capable of singing in a Loesser musical. Chris Abbott, who made a lovely Save-A-Soul lass, could not handle the vocals as well as she lacks a middle range in her voice.

The scenery was attractive and efficiently handled and the lighting added to the inviting air of this whole production.

Other plays to be presented this season by the Lakeland Players include "Picnic" (Nov. 30), "The Matchmaker" (Feb. 15) and "Move Over Mrs. Markham" (April 18).

Magazines + music x 78s = memories

by Kathy Greenfield

A stack of old movie magazines and a pile of 78rpm record albums—items for a garage sale. But their true value lies in the memories, says Maude Riley of Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township.

Most of the 50-some movie magazines that originally cost a dime or a quarter were gathered by Maude and her husband L.D. back when they began buying old homes and restoring them as a hobby.

People left things they no longer wanted in the houses, and many of them were saved by the Rileys.

Now that L.D. has retired, the Rileys still buy homes to restore, Maude says.

The difference is that people no longer leave things behind. "I was never a serious collector," Maude says of her movie magazines, adding, "Any ones with Shirley Temple, I'm not selling right now."

She added them to her garage sale last week, because they would add interest, she says.

Her collection of 78s began

'I was never a serious collector.

Any ones with Shirley

Temple I'm not selling'

with family parties where everyone enjoyed hearing the old favorites, so she added to them whenever she had a chance.

The Rileys have two children, Nadine and George, 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

"With our large family, we have had many parties here," Maude says. "We used the 78s for dancing."

With the expanse of years covered by the tunes, the family enjoyed square dancing, waltzes and the Twist.

Her collection includes recordings from the early 1900s by the Italian operatic tenor Enrico Caruso and those of Chubby Checkers and Elvis Presley.

Keeping her collection intact, she sells only duplicates.

"I've got almost every popular song that was ever written," she says. They were bought at auctions and garage sales "when nobody wanted them."

Stores also sold out their old 78s for 25 cents and Maude bought many of her records that way.

"When they come in with the 33s, many people used these records (the 78s) for clay pigeons and shot them up—that makes me very unhappy and sad," she says.

The movie magazines have brought many warm memories.

"I've been reading them ever since I decided to get rid of them," she says.

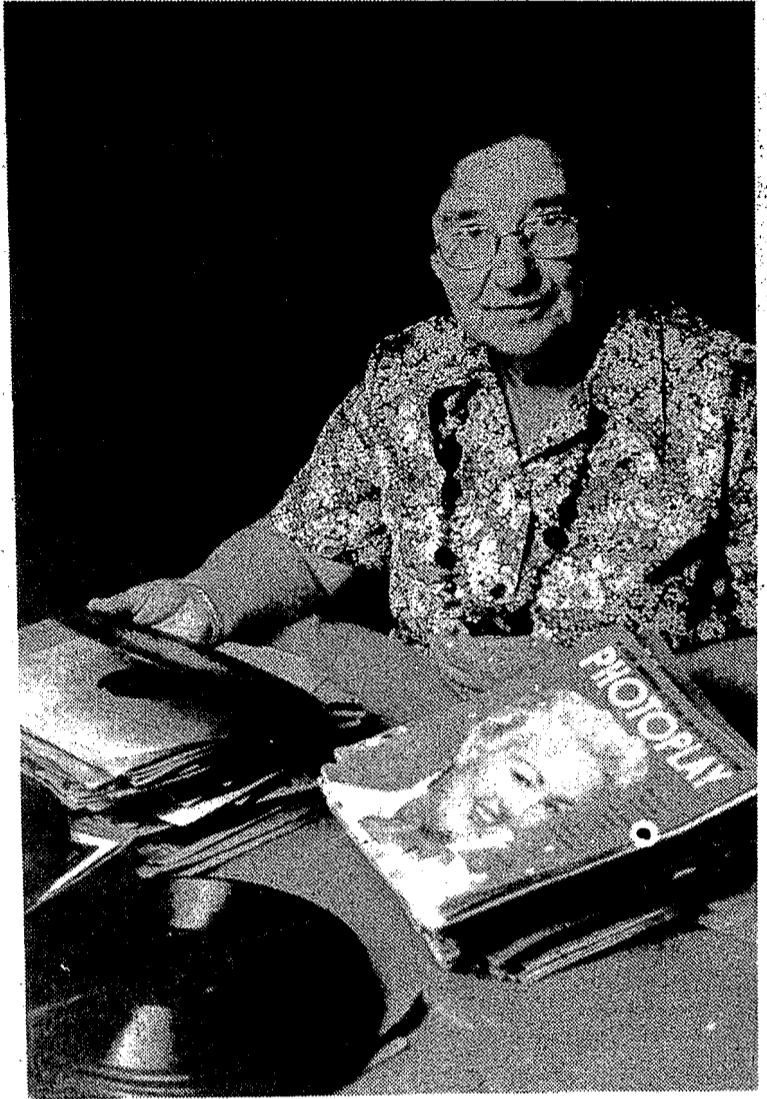

"At least once a week from the time my children were 10 or 12 or so until they were adults and were married, we went to a show every week," she says.

One movie that stands out is "Pardon My Sarong" starring Abbott and Costello.

"Nadine and I laughed so hard, the boys got up and sat in a different section," she says. "The old movies were simpler and more family-oriented than the movies today."

Barbara Stanwyck and Katharine Hepburn were two of her favorite movie stars.

"In the movie magazines, you see the people and I have the songs," Maude says.

Maude Riley: her music and her magazines bring warm memories.

Hunter home with basis of bountiful feast

Between now and late May, when the wild turkey season ends in Michigan, this state's hunters will bring home literally millions of pounds of game birds and animals.

How should the family's cook prepare this bountiful harvest? The Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) has the answers—nearly 400 answers, in fact.

That is the number of recipes for cooking wild games (and fish) contained in "The Wildlife Chef," the popular cookbook published by MUCC, a non-profit organization dedicated to the wise use of the state's natural resources.

First issued in 1975, the cookbook has enjoyed sales numbering thousands of copies, with proceeds going to MUCC's conservation and education programs. The book, now in its second printing, is designed to help both novice and experienced cooks prepare food from field, forest, and stream.

In addition to the recipes, the publication contains tips on field dressing, care of big and small game and fish, freezing and other aspects of the preparation of game and fish dishes. Special sections are devoted to breads and desserts, sauces and stuffings, camp cooking, and edible wild plants of Michigan.

Copies of "The Wildlife Chef" may be obtained for $3.95 apiece, postpaid, by sending a check or money order to MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing, MI, 48909.

Here are two examples of the recipes to be found in "The Wildlife Chef":

Pheasant Cacciatore

- 2 pheasants
- 2 cups olive oil
- 1 Large carrot, diced
- 1/4 pound butter
- 1 large can Italian style tomatoes
- 1 green pepper, seeded and diced
- 2/3 cup sherry or white wine
- 2 large cloves of garlic, diced
- 1 box (7oz.) fresh mushrooms, diced

- 1 can tomato paste
- 2 large ribs of celery, diced
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano (optional)
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cut pheasant into serving pieces, place in deep baking dish or roaster.

Sprinkle over it the garlic, celery, carrot, mushrooms, onion, green pepper. Dot with butter, sprinkle with salt, pepper and oregano.

Mix tomatoes with tomato paste and wine and spread all over the pheasant. Pour olive oil evenly over all.

Bake in 450-degree oven 1 1/2 to 2 hours or more until pheasant is tender and the tomato gravy is reduced to just short of being dry. Turn the pieces several times during baking.

If the juices don't seem to be cooking fast enough, or the pheasant browning enough, turn oven heat up to 500 degrees near the end of the baking period,

Brunswick Stew

- 2 pounds meat (disjointed rabbit, squirrels, or partridges)
- 1/4 cup oil
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 diced lemon
- 1 cup tomatoes
- 1 cup lima beans
- 1 cup corn
- salt, pepper

Brown meat in hot oil until brown, along with onions. Add 1 cup water and tomatoes and cover. Simmer until tender. Then add rest of vegetables and cook 10-15 minutes until done. Salt and pepper.

To get the most of seed

Sunflower seeds should be mature, well filled, and thoroughly dry before being hulled.

Pumpkin seeds and sunflower seeds may be roasted either in a frying pan at low heat or in a shallow pan, in the oven at 320 degrees F.

Mix one cup of seeds with two teaspoons of vegetable oil and one teaspoon salt. Heat, stirring frequently.

Depending on the dryness of the seeds, roasting will take two to six minutes. Sunflower seeds contain 47 percent fat, and 560 calories for 3 1/2 ounce serving. Pumpkin seeds contain 46.7 percent fat, and 553 calories for 3 1/2 ounce serving.

For additional information, contact the Food Preservation Hotline, 858-0904, Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

PUBLIC NOTICE

By authority conferred on the Hunting Area Control Committee by Sections 2 and 3 of Act No. 159, P.A. 1967, and Section 251 of Act 380, P.A. of 1965, a public meeting of the Hunting Area Control Committee will be held at 6:45 p.m., October 31, 1979, followed by a public hearing at 7:00 p.m., same date, in the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main St., Clarkston. At this hearing the Hunting Area Control Committee will present proposed rule to prohibit hunting with a firearm in a portion of Sections 16, 17,, 20, 21, Independence Township. Also, testimony will be taken regarding a proposal to close areas south of I-75, except for waterfowl on Green's Lake, Independence Township, Oakland County. Any rules will become effective 15 days after filing with the Secretary of State.

All interested persons are invited to attend and offer comments orally or in writing. Submit written comments and/or requests for copies of proposed rule to:

Engaged

Ronald and Patricia Schebor of Holcomb Street, Clarkston, announce the engagement of their daughter Kimberly Ann to Mark Richard Piascik, son of Theodore and Betty Piascik of Mt. Clemens. The bride-to-be, a 1978 Clarkston High School graduate, is to complete her studies at Ferris State College in February. Her fiance, a 1979 Ferris State College graduate, is employed by Krausmann and Scapini Accountants, St. Clair Shores. The couple plans a July 1980 wedding.

At college

Patsy Marsh performed her senior music recital at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, Oct. 5. Among selections the soprano performed were "Durch Zartlichkeit und Schmeicheln" by Mozart, "Chanson de Bijou" from Faust and "Nancy Hanks" by Katherine Davis. The public recital is a requirement for a bachelor of science degree at Northern. Patsy is the daughter of Kenneth and Irvan Marsh of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

It is still not too late to make chili sauce. This week's recipe was given to Mrs. Harry (Donna) Fahrner by the late Maude Davison.

Chili Sauce

- 1 pk. tomatoes
- 1 c salt
- 2 c chopped onion
- 2 c. green pepper
- 2 c celery
- 1 small (1½ oz.) can mustard seed
- 2 c sugar
- 4 c vinegar
- 4 T cinnamon
- 2 T cloves
- 2 T. black pepper
- 2½ T. red pepper

Dip tomatoes in boiling water a few minutes and then in cold water for easy peeling. Quarter - then cover with salt, let stand overnight. Remove all juice - squeeze until very dry. Chop onion, pepper and celery. Add balance of ingredients to tomato pulp and cook until thick. Jar right away. Makes 5-6 pints.

Independence Food Co-Op is on

The Independence Food Co-op is underway for the season and new members may join.

Orders for fruits, vegetables, meats, snack foods, cheeses and eggs to be purchased primarily from Detroit's Eastern Market are to be taken Wed., Oct. 17, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 5660 Maybee, Independence Township.

There is no fee to join, but members are required to work once a month for about two hours.

Senior citizens who join the food co-op are not required to work.

Beginning Oct. 24, regular co-op meetings for food orders and deliveries are to begin and continue on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the K of C Hall.

For more information, call Ruth Ann Kelley at 623-9124.

Parent-teacher talks this week

Parent-teacher conferences will be held at Sashabaw Junior High School and Clarkston Junior High School this week.

Teachers will be available in designated areas Thursday from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Appointments are not necessary.

Both parents are urged to attend these conferences.

There will be no school for junior high students Friday.

In service

James and Dennis Loba, former Clarkston residents, are presently serving in the United States Army.

James was promoted from second lieutenant to first lieutenant on June 8.

He has been stationed in Nurnberg, Germany, for the past 18 months and is currently serving as executive officer for his battery.

A 1972 Clarkston High School graduate, James is a 1977 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, Md.

Dennis was commissioned into the Army as a second lieutenant on July 19.

He is currently serving with a reserve unit in Virginia and plans to attend the artillery officers' basic course at Fort Sill, Okla.

A 1979 graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, Dennis is a 1974 CHS graduate.

The brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loba who now live in Crozet, Va.

Pvt. David L. Heffernan recently was assigned as a military policeman with the 32nd Army Air Defense Command in Germany.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence G. Heffernan of Console Road, Independence Township.

Joan Combs has been promoted to the rank of senior airman in the United States Air Force.

She is an aircraft maintenance specialist with a unit of the Tactical Air Command at Williams Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

A 1976 Clarkston High School graduate, she is the daughter of JoAnn Combs of Red Bud Lane, Brandon Township.

Poppy girls for the post were introduced. They are Wanda Kilgore, junior Miss Poppy, and Debra Brothmarkle, senior Miss Poppy.

Unit president Denise Bevins presented the post commander with a birthday cake in honor of the post's birthday and a gift to the post was presented by the auxiliary.

A new Overeaters Anonymous meeting place is located in Independence Township.

Meetings of the group are held Mondays at 7:30 p.m. at the Free Methodist Church of Drayton Heights, 5482 Winell.

For information, call Diane at 674-3214 or Shirley at 373-0517.

New arrival

Henry and Carol Norton are the proud parents of a new baby boy, Brett Alan, born Sept 17 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

Brett's grandparents are the Richard Beckers of Snowapple Drive in Independence Township and the Henry Norton Srs.

of Ardmore, Okla. Great-grandparents are the Ralph Beckers of Bloomfield Hills and Lillian Shortt of Northridge, CA.

The Nortons returned to the U.S. from Dhahran, Saudi Arabia with their 2-year-old daughter Stacey Jean for the birth of their son.

Honors

Clarkston High School junior Paul Chad has been named a commended student in the 25th annual National Merit Scholarship program.

A letter of commendation from the school and the National Merit Scholarship Corp. will be presented at the awards ceremony later this school year.

Paul is recognized for his outstanding performance on the PSAT/NMSQT, the qualifying test for the merit program that juniors across the country took in October 1978.

Guests

Bob Boyns of Main Street, Clarkston, was doubly blessed with visitors last week.

Daughter and son-in-law Phyllis and Bill Mansfield, former Clarkston residents now living in Traverse City, visited here and brought along relatives from England who were visiting them.

Edward and Audrey Brown and their son Nicholas from Hertford, England are being shown a bit of the Midwest by the Mansfields during a two-week stay. The women are second cousins.

Independence Township Library 6495 Clarkston Road

Winter hours are in effect at the Independence Township Library.

The library is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. The facility is closed Friday and Sunday.

The library will hold a Halloween costume party for children in kindergarten through sixth grade from 1-2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 27.

A trick-or-treat contest also is being sponsored by the library. The child who guesses the correct number of candies in the library's candy jar will win a prize.

The name of the winner of this contest, which runs through Oct. 25, will be announced at the Halloween party. For more information, call 625-2212.

Doing Business

Donation helps students learn what to bank on

Gary Nustad and student unpack a parcel of learning aids.

Regardless of the state of the economy, future Clarkston High School graduates will stand a better chance of balancing their checkbooks.

Checking account reconciliation is among the practical skills some 500 CHS students can pick up in a new addition to the curriculum.

To help students learn about banking services before they start college or begin full-time careers, Pacesetter Banks - Southeast has donated to Clarkston High School literature and visual aids about the way a bank functions and relates to an individual in daily life.

The program includes a brief outline of the organization of U.S. banking today—a description of state and national systems, analysis of checking accounts, the study of savings accounts and interest rates comparisons and a brief description of the lending activity of banks, including how to fill out a credit application.

The donation was accepted by Gary Nustad, head of business curriculum and an economics instructor at the High School.

According to Nustad, the materials will be used in the following course: family living, consumer education, economics, recordkeeping, distributive education and general business.

He stated that the materials may also be tried at a later date on a separate banking unit to give the students a more in-depth view of the business world.

Pacesetter Bank, headquartered in Grand Blanc, will open its new Independence Township branch Oct. 15, at 6500 S. Dixie Highway.

Arts, crafts show near

Over 30 exhibitors will offer their wares at an arts and crafts show to be held at Ritter's Apple and Cider barn this weekend and next.

Featured items will include wood products, ceramics, oils, dried flowers, pottery, Christmas items and more.

Hours for the show are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. this Saturday and Sunday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. October 27 and 28.

Hot donuts, cider and fall decorations will also be available at Ritter's, 6684 Dixie, Independence Twp.

Color TV is their answer

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tarsi of Springfield Township helped a new business in the area with some consumer research and won a color television set for their efforts.

Pacesetter Bank-Southeast, which plans to open a branch at 6500 S. Dixie, Independence Township, next week, offered a chance to win a drawing as incentive for persons to finish a questionnaire.

Results of the questionnaire indicated that residents are interested in no-service-charge, no-minimum-balance free checking and in extended banking hours, Pacesetter reported.

October:

A time for outings,
preparation for winter

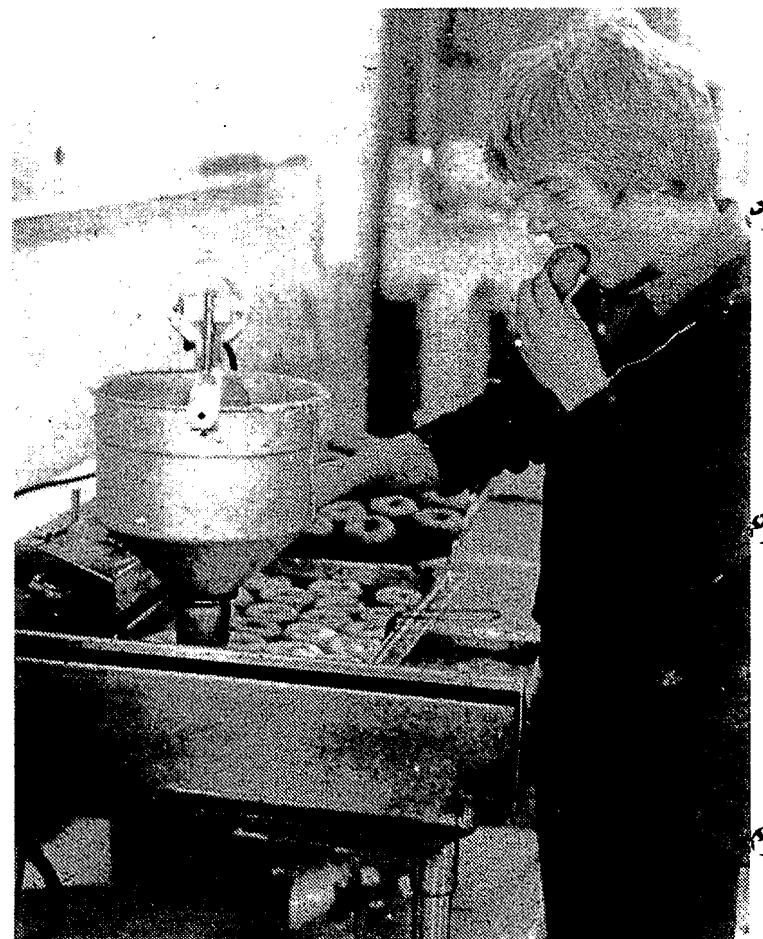

It takes a heap o' chopping to make a woodpile of three-and-a-half Michigan cords of logs. Mike Stephenson of Lakeview Drive, Independence Township, builds up his family's supply of fuel for a fireplace and a Franklin stove before real cold weather sets in.

Gregory and Christopher Cook are among the early Halloween shoppers for the raw materials for jack-o-lanterns. The two lads, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cook of Lake Orion, found several likely pumpkins at Pierre's Market in Independence Township Sunday.

The donuts at Ritter's Apple and Cider Barn are irresistible, so Ron Carn succumbed while he made more of the treats for waiting customers Sunday. A crafts festival is planned for the next two weekends at the Dixie Highway business and burgeoning tourist attraction.

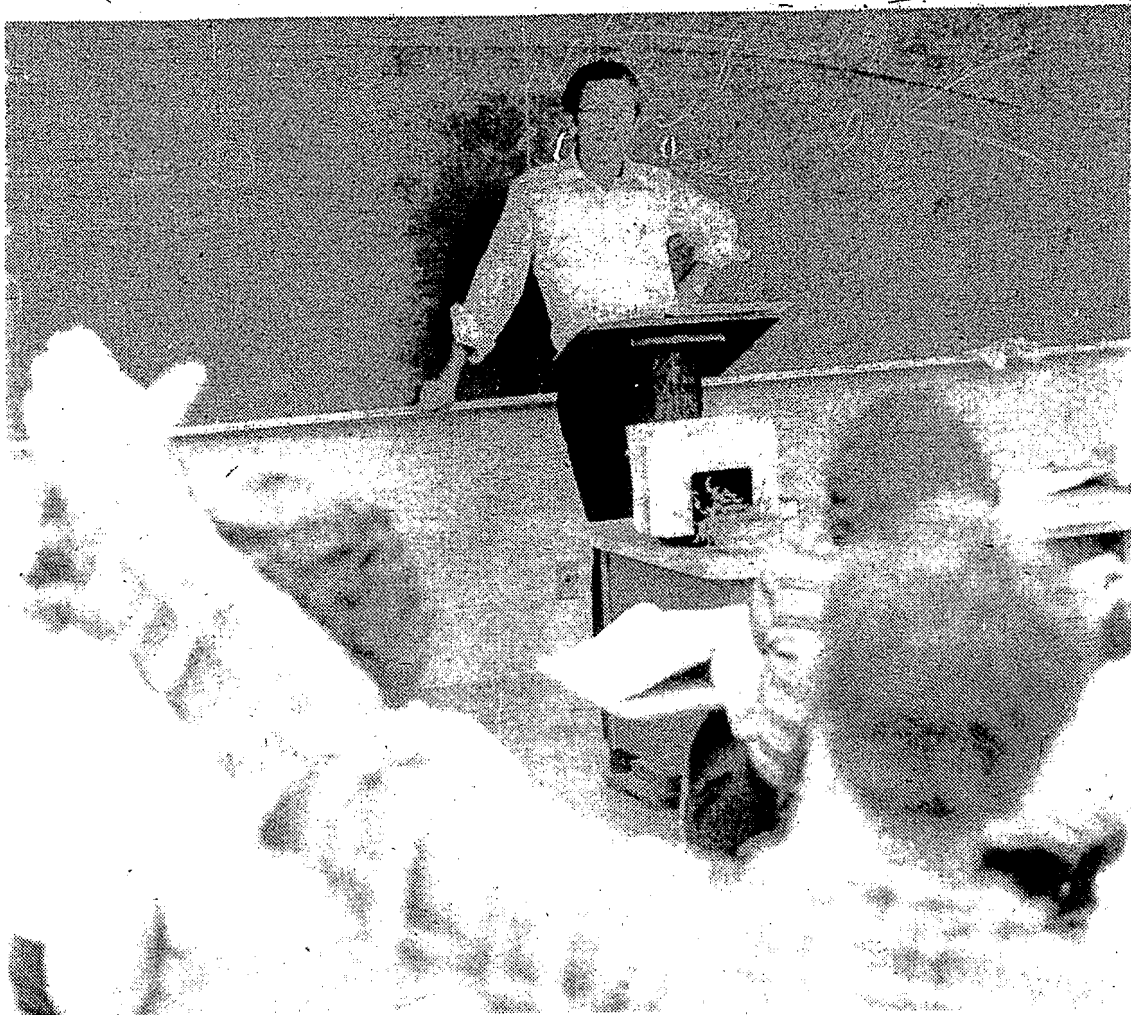

Sherry Flor gets started on a rafia doll in one of the crafts classes. Yvonne Lampela's class was established to teach the intricacies of iconage; however, the students completed their projects ahead of time and decided to move on to something else.

Halfway through a large winter wreath, Michele Schreiber adds another row of pine cones to her creation in one of the craft classes.

Mac Morrow [right] listens intently to the instructions of George Hemingway in the leaded stained glass course.

Not on the bench but at the head of a class, 52nd District Judge Gerald E. McNally is one of the local experts sharing their knowledge with neighbors in adult education classes at Clarkston High School. McNally's business law course is one of 29 offered at the high school Monday through Thursday. The offerings have attracted 465 persons during the current term.

Erika Petersen and Donald Ewer play two of the Revolutionary-era characters in Sheridan's "The School for Scandal," running Oct. 11 through Nov. 4 at Meadow Brook Theatre, Oakland University. The box office number is 377-3300.

Visitors to Greenfield Village can learn how skilled artisans practiced colonial crafts during October and at the same time enjoy a cup of freshly-pressed cider from the steam-powered Martinsville Cider Mill during their tour.

Pottery making is the highlight Oct. 12-14, metal working takes center stage Oct. 19-21 and doll making wraps up the special weekends Oct. 27-29.

Each of the Cornucopia of Crafts Weekends are available to visitors at Greenfield Village at no additional charge beyond regular Village admission of $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children 6-12. Children under 6 are admitted free. ***

An exhibition of original Currier and Ives lithographs, not to be seen anywhere else in the state, can be viewed through Oct. 27 at the Artistree in Keatington's Antique Village, 2365 Joslyn Court, Orion Township.

Twenty-two prints of scenes and life in the 1800s, loaned from the collection of the Travelers Insurance Companies which owns most of the Currier and Ives originals still in existence, are in the sixth annual exhibition at the gallery. The work can be viewed for free but cannot be purchased.

'Cat and the Canary' on stage Friday at Depot

The Clarkston Village Players will open their 1979-80 season Friday, Oct. 12, with the comedy/mystery production of "The Cat and the Canary."

The scenario of the play takes place in an old mansion one evening 20 years after the death of the master of the house, Cyrus West. His six surviving relatives gather at the mansion to hear the executor of West's estate read the will.

The naming of the beneficiary and the ensuing activities that take place during the night embody the plot of the production.

The characters will be played by Al Bartlett, Suellen Fausel, Scott Myers, Steve Rood, Judy Rood, Larry Bate, Jan Malane, Pat Thomas, Denny LaLone and Mike Kaul.

Dates for the performance are: Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 12, 13 and 14, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 18, 19 and 20. Showtime is 8:30 every night except Sunday, when the play will be held at 7:30 p.m.

The Oct. 18 performance will be a benefit for Independence Center. There will be an afterglow held in the Depot Theater, located at 4861 White Lake Road, for the cast and audience after the opening night performance October 12.

Tickets are $3.50 and available at Tierra Arts and Design, 20 S. Main, Clarkston, or by calling 363-0188.

Suellen Fausel, playing the heiress whose troubles begin when she inherits an estate, is a newcomer to the Clarkston Village Players.

Staring holes through the back of one of their rivals for an inheritance, Judy and Steve Rood make a dastardly duo in "The Cat and the Canary."

PUBLIC NOTICE

ABSENTEE BALLOTS FOR SPECIAL ELECTION
OCTOBER 16, 1979

Voters may vote absentee ballot in the October 16 Special Election if they qualify in one of the following categories:

- I expect to be absent from the community in which I am registered for the entire time the polls are open on election day.
- I am physically unable to attend the polls without the assistance of another.
- I cannot attend the polls because of the tenets of my religion.
- I have been appointed an election precinct inspector in a precinct other than the precinct where I reside.
- I am 60 years of age or older.
- I cannot attend the polls because I am confined to jail awaiting arraignment or trial.

Independence Township residents who qualify and wish to vote absentee ballot should call the Clerk's Office at 625-5111 or write the Clerk at 90 N. Main Street, Clarkston, MI for an application for absent voter's ballot.

The deadline for applying for absentee ballots to be mailed is Saturday, October 13, 1979 at 2:00 p.m.; however, voters qualified may vote in the Clerk's Office until 2:00 p.m. on October 15, 1979.

Qualified voters will be voting on the following Proposals:

PROPOSAL "A"

"Should the Independence Township Zoning Ordinance #83 under Article XXI Recreational District be amended under Section 21.03, to add as a permitted use after conditional approval:

#2. Convention - Resort - Hotel Facilities with a minimum site size of ten (10) acres."

PROPOSAL "B"

"Shall the Township levy 3/10 of a mill (30c per $1,000 assessed valuation) in excess of the constitutional limitation for a period of five (5) years for the purpose of purchasing a site of approximately 80 acres north of Clarkston-Orion Road and west of Sashabaw Road (commonly known as part of the proposed gravel pit site) for use by the Township for a civic center, park or such other purposes as may be decided by the Township Board?"

Said millage will be used to purchase the land directly, or it will be used to repay bonds which will be sold to purchase the land.

ADVISORY QUESTION "C"

"Should the heights limitation as contained in the Independence Township Zoning Ordinance be increased from 35 ft. to 200 ft. in Recreational Districts?"

NOTE: Village residents are only eligible to vote on PROPOSAL "B". Township residents will be voting on Proposals "A", "B" and Advisory Question "C".

Things to do

Activities outside the Clarkston-Springfield-Independence area

Explanations of no-fault insurance and estate planning will be offered by three Waterford Township attorneys at two meetings in Pontiac this month.

The speakers are Joseph D. Zelenik, Michael F. Plourde and Bruce H. Yuille.

The two meetings are at 12:30 p.m. Oct. 16 at 1460 N. Perry St. and at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 19 at 3101 W. Walton. Question and answer periods will follow the talks.

A tour of Keatington Antique Village with a lunch at Ben's Bull Pen afterwards will be held on Oct. 18 by the Waterford Welcome Wagon Club.

Newcomers to the area can call 673-6053 for reservations, or 673-3836 for information about the club.

Fifty organizations will send crafts "handmade with love" to the charity bazaar at the Pontiac Mall Oct. 8-13.

The giant fund-raising venture allows community organizations to sell handmade and home-baked goods and gives shoppers the chance to get an early start on their Christmas gift buying. Sponsored by the Oakland Training Center's Parents Club, the bazaar is during regular hours at the mall at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake roads in Waterford Township.

Art collectors who would like to pick up a signed Jasper Johns or Paul Jenkins poster, a signed print by Vassarely or Emil Weddige or work by local artists at bargain prices can look forward to the "For Love of Art" silent auction at the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association.

The fund-raising event also includes a celebrity-studded cocktail party Oct. 20, at which the moderator-presentors will be Jackie Gordon, Mary Iacocca and J. P. McCarthy. The art, including oil and acrylic paintings, ceramics, weavings, jewelry and sculpture, will be displayed from Oct. 11 in the galleries of the association at 1516 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham. For further information, call 644-0866.

The Drayton Plains Nature Center, 2125 Denby Road, will hold its second annual fall festival Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20 and 21.

Included in the activities will be carnival and hayrides, apple dunking, pie eating and pumpkin carving contests, and demonstrations on making apple butter and cornhusk dolls.

Traditional autumn eatery will also be available, including homemade doughnuts, cider, caramel apples, hot dogs and baked goods.

An antiques show and sale will be held in Keatington Antique Village's cider barn in connection with the village's Ciderfest Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 13 and 14.

The show will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at the village on Joslyn Court, four miles north of I-75 off Joslyn Road.

A senior gridder runs for another big gain in Saturday afternoons's Powder Puff football battle pitting the juniors against the seniors.

Powder Puff wet 'n' woolly

Game completed, and the seniors exalt over their 8-6 victory.

By Al Zawacky

Clarkston High School's male and female students exchanged roles Saturday afternoon, as the girls donned the helmets and took to the gridiron, while the guys (those were guys, weren't they?) slipped into feminine cheerleader attire and shouted encouragement from the sidelines for the annual powder puff game between the juniors and the seniors.

The game ended in an 8-6 victory for the seniors as Patti Johnson ran for the touchdown and Amber Vanhouten provided the game winning margin with a two point conversion run. The underclassmen made it close in the fourth quarter when Mary Barks crossed the goal line for the juniors TD.

"The seniors played a good game, the juniors played well and everybody had a good time," senior coach Gary Nustad said as his players celebrated around following their victory. "The girls really wanted to win today — they played hard and showed a lot of class — class with a capital 'C'."

"Just once though, I wish we could get some decent weaher for the Powder Puff game," Nustad muscd as the cold October rain continued unabated.

But while there may have been a dampened uniform during the contest, there certainly weren't any dampened spirits evident. Congratulations to both classes for a fine performance!

The ball is in flight despite a leaping attempt by a junior defender.

It was the guys' turn to lead the cheers Saturday afternoon, but this group of "cheerleaders" seemed more interested in the shaving cream fight.
