Vandalism resulting in over $10,000 damage at two In-Township dependence businesses Oct. 10 has prompted the posting of a $600 reward for the arrest and conviction of those responsible.

an Around 3 a.m. automobile, probably a small subcompact, was driven onto the golf course at Spring Lake Country Club, 6060 Maybee Rd., ruining several of the greens, according to the club's co-owner Dan Fife.

Damage to the landscaping at Crest Homes Real Estate and Building Corporation, an office

U building at 5641 Sashabaw, was similar as a vehicle road over the. building's lawn, Fife said.

"If this had happened at the height of our season, the lost business probably would've run our losses up to about $30,000," said Fife. "It almost seems like a revenge thing, as if somebody did this deliberately to get back at us, for something. But none of us can think of any recent incidents that might be _ connected.

Spring Lake is putting up $500 of the reward money, while Crest Homes is contributing the remaining $100.

"What it looks like is that some people closed up one of the bars and just decided to go and tear up some greens on the way home," Fife said. "We're hoping that by offering a reward, we'll get someone to come forward with some information.'

Owners of an undeveloped 80-acre parcel of property in Springfield Township would like the area transferred from the Holly to the Clarkston School District.

Roger Roeser and Carl Lundquist, owners of the 42-lot Green Tree Estates subdivision south of Kier and east of Gibbs roads, have petitioned both boards of education involved to recommend the transfer.

If both school boards agreed, the request would be forwarded to the Oakland County Intermediate School Board. Noting that access to the subdivision is to be from Bridge Lake Road in the Clarkston School District, the Clarkston

Board of Education said it had no objection to moving the boundary westward at that point.

The matter has not yet been considered by the Holly Board of Education.

Map may or may not go back to board

By Kathy Greenfield

until talking to the man who drew the map, the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals tabled the proosed 22-story Pine Knob hotel boundary dispute until Oct. 24.

'In a 3-2 vote, the appeals board made its decision last week.

The delay allows time for results of the special election scheduled Oct. 16 to be known. V If the majority of voters on the binding referendum question on. the use of recreational property for a hotel voted "no," the matter would not go before the appeals board again unless the issue were taken to court and a judge decided the use is allowed.

The boundary dispute came to light last month when township planning consultant Tod. Kilroy discovered lines on the official township zoning map showed the proposed hotel site zoned for multiple family dwellings rather than zoned recreational.

The planning commission referred the matter to the zoning board of appeals.

The decision the appeals Choosing to delay a decision -board is to make is if the line was drawn in error and is a boundary dispute, or if the zoning map stands and Pine Knob developers must request rezoning.

> Pine Knob representative and attorney Anthony Locricchio presented several maps showing the 580-acre complex with the proposed hotel site zoned recreational.

An error was made in-the drawing of the official map, because the first maps presented in 1972 were used rather than the redrawn map the township later approved, he said.

"Somewhere along the line in a fast-growing township, somebody used the old maps,' he said.

Township attorney Richard Campbell said that the appeals board could subpeona Larry Burkhart who drew the map as township planning directory in 1972.

"All acts of government are presumed to be accurate until proven otherwise," Campbell said. "The map itself is presumed valid--it's not wrong unless it's shown to be wrong.'

Voting to table the matter were appeals board chairman Mel Vaara, members Robert-Newlin and John Dunlop.

"I am still not sure of the proper zoning," Vaara said. "I feel there is only one person who can answer that -- Larry Burkhart."

Dissenting votes were cast by Paul Menke and Jerry Powell.

"I feel the maps Mr. Locricchio presented do, in fact, show what the zoning should be," Menke said, also referring to the legal descriptions on record and tax maps used to set the dif-ferent rates applied to different land uses that show different lines than the official map.

Dunlop also asked for an overlay map of a scenic easement on Pine Knob property requested by the township and approved in 1973. -

The easement was designed to keep open land as part of the complex and includes legal descriptions for some 145 acres that cover the golf course, lake and ski hill, and could show the official map is in error, he said.

Tomboulian bill saves money, takes freedom

One of the most frequent crys of politicians when speaking about newspapers is "I was misquoted. It was taken out of context.

Now an area politician has introduced state legislation that will allow public officials to do exactly what they decry editors of doing.

State Rep. Alice Tomboulian (D-61st District; Rochester) is pushing a law that permits township officials to publish their interpretation of an ordinance.

Presently, any ordinance (law) published by a township has to be published in its entirety in a newspaper of general circulation in the area.

Yes, I can hear some of you right now saying, "There they go again, worrying about ' losing some revenue."

And, Yes, we will lose some revenue, or some newspaper will.

But, on the other hand, you're losing your right to know.

While Rep. Tomboulian is probably thinking her law will save taxpayers money, we believe it will take away the inherent right to know what your government is doing for or to you.

We believe the few dollars (compared to many township expenses) spent to print the total new laws are worth it to keep the public informed.

Granted, à zoning change, a new sidewalk law, changes in building codes, etc. have low readership.-But, they do have readership and the law is there, out in the open to read and save.

To allow someone, and the law as in-. troduced by Rep. Tomboulian, does not designate a particular office or person, to write a synopsis of an ordinance is opening the door to "context" reporting.

A township might save a few dollars by not printing a total ordinance, but it is adding more inconvenience and expense to the taxpayer who has to go to the hall to find exactly what a new law says.

We believe this law, if passed, will further remove government from the people. Too, it give the appearance of hiding will something.

So, Yes, this newspaper may lose a little revenue, but as citizens we believe you will, in the long run, be losing much more. Like one more freedom.

and where a o Election night quotes

Dale Stuart, chairman of 'Let the People Speak': 'I believe it's absolutely a people's victory.'

Anthony Locricchio, attorney for Pine Knob: 'The courts will look at our legal rights and we're going to win, hands down.

Love of ties many-splendored

I must own 1-30 neckties. Actual count. I fall in love with them. Never are they discarded. Some guys like legs. I like ties.

As the styles change some get moved to a hanger out of sight in my closet, but they never become tails for kites.

I remember going through Lansing in 1943 on my way to Western Michigan to college and stopping at Knapp's Dept. Store. I don't know why I went into the store.

I was working as a clerk in a book store and busing at the Burdick Hotel in Kalamazoo, and had very little money.

But, there I was in front of the tie .

display at Knapps. A red and black . one caught my eye. My hand caught the tie. Unfortunately, I saw the word "silk" before I saw the $5 price tag. I was already a goner. That tie is just as beautiful today. It's style hasn't returned, but I sure hope it does.

My tie buying habits have changed a lot since Hazel took a noticeable interest in my tie-shirtjacket-pant combinations.

Used to be I'd buy a tie on impulse, much like a person does at a display of tuna fish in the middle of a grocery aisle.

Then I'd try to match it up with 'existing clothes.  $\mathbb{R}^{2}$

Hazel warmed the chilly air one morning as I left for work saying between clenched teeth, "From now on when you buy a tie, buy a shirt, jacket and pants to go with it." As I slinked back to my tie rack(s), she continued, "And, take all your suits, jackets and pants to some men's store and let them match a tie to them."

I didn't mind the last order from on high. It gave me à few more ties for my collection.

Naturally, in this assortment there are ties that are beautiful when viewed alone. The colors when appearing above the buttons on a plaid sport coat, they clash severely.

Well, I had things pretty well clear in my mind on combinations until a few weeks ago. I thought I could put together a white shirt, dotted tie, large plaid pants and plain jacket .--

by Jim Sherman

Then friend Marsha Olrich sent me a clipping on men's styles. It said only one non-plain item of clothing should be worn.

Back to plain suits, back to plain pants and plain shirts so I can wear some of those beautiful striped ties. If you can find a clipping from a blend, no matter how many. But, clothes authority to contradict Marsha's, please, please send it.

'I was shocked,' Leslie Wirpsa

By Kathy Greenfield

Leslie Wirpsa says she will never forget the morning she was Warded the Daughters of American Revolution (DAR) Good Citizen's award.

The Clarkston High School senior was performing her usual task of reading morning announcements over the school's public address system.

Assistant Principal Jan Gabier gave her a stern look, Leslie remembered. "She told me to stay there for a minute and then she announced over the PA that I'd won the award.

'I was shocked," Leslie said. "I couldn't believe it."

The DAR award is the first announced during the school year.

Leslie, 17, is the daughter of Julie Hudson of Perry Lake Road, Independence Township, and James Hudson of Waterford.

A member of the National Honor Society, she is active in the mime and drama clubs, and is involved in music as one of the 16-member Madrigal Singers at CHS.

She plays guitar for folk masses at All Saints Episcopal Church, Pontiac, and is active in the church youth group.

A part-time job at Bob's Hardware, Clarkston, where she does "just about everything except lift the 90-pound cement bags" also keeps Leslie busy.

Last summer as a student counselor at SCAMP, a summer camp for children with special needs, was "one of the most rewarding experiences I've ever had," she said.

"I think I grew as much as the kids did last summer if not more.

Leslie plans on attending college, but has yet to decide on a course of study, although she is considering pre-medicine.

'That's why I'm having problems with college," she said. "I have so many interests, I don't know which to choose.'

Show tunes top Leslie's choice of music to listen to, and she enjoys reading, but two specific films stand out as favorites.

One is "Oh. God" starring John Denver and George Burns. "It gave me a good feelingI liked the way it presented God in a very realistic, down-to-earth way," she said. "The whole idea of God is a very human, very living thing. It brought the idea closer.'

The other is "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" starring Jack Nicholson.

"It really had an impact on me," she said. "It revealed how people in that type of situation are often neglected and some of the things that can go on behind the scenes."

Designed to give recognition to outstanding young people, the DAR award was started in 1934, A senior from each high school in the nation is selected by the department chairpersons, representatives, class sponsors and administrators,

Criteria to select a winner includes such categories as leadership, personality, self-control; dependability, service, cooperation and courtesy.

In January, a questionnaire and test completed by each local winner will be used to determine a state winner and then a national winner is to be selected.

it Fitz. Vacation over, rest continues

by Jim Fitzgerald

When I return from a vacation, I'm full of zest and enthusiasm. A prolonged rest always sharpens my appetite for living and makes me eager to take another vacation.

I get the same thing from every vacation — a renewed eagerness to retire permanently, absolutely and forever and ever after.

I am continually reading nonsense about people who are forced to retire at ... age:60 or 65 and they kick up an awful. fuss about it. They have an adequate income and there's no reason they should keep going to work every day but, gee, they simply can't stand doing nothing. They shouldn't stand it. They should sit it. Or recline it. Or, at worst, lope it. (Loping is not the same as jogging. Lopers glide; joggers jiggle. Lopers lope to avoid running, joggers jog to avoid comfort.)

Retirees should catch a fish, hit a golf ball, read a book, take a trip, nap after lunch and, when, in doubt, simply sit

It's a shame - If lousy inflation makes it impossible for a man to live decently on his retirement income, who can blame him for being a 75-year old paperboy? These men have my sympathy and understanding, But I can't understand the elderly fat, cats who won't stop lapping up the milk long enough to see what's beyond the saucer.

The trouble with these birds is they. never practiced retirement in their , younger days. When they vacationed, they went too far too fast and alwaysmixed in some business so the trip would be deductible. They never loped.

They never learned the gentle art of Lately I've spent a reasonable amount of vacation time spoiling my grandchildren, the same way I used to spoil their mother by allowing her to eat spaghetti for breakfast at every Howard Johnson's on the route to Florida. So I'll be in shape to spoil my greatgrandchildren who could easily arrive before I cash my first Social Security check, God help us all: While vacationing, I like to visit the

I play golf and tennis on vacation, but not much. When it comes to exercise, I choose the moderation today that my doctor may order tomorrowr L up late but sleep until noon, and nap frequently; while practicing for retirement. ret griting

Of course, it could be I won't live long enough to retire. A lot of people don't. But that makes the practicing all the more important, doesn't it? It is better to have loped in vain that to have never loped at all.

Busy men say they want to die with their boots on. But what's wrong with dying in bed? When my time comes, I hope they just pull the blanket up over red nose and say. "Well, old Jim finally reached his goal. Now he'll never have to get up."

increase (set at 7.7 percent this year). As a result, tax rates on bills that arrive in December in most communities — including . Independence Township - are lower, but the totals can increase, especially if the assessed valuation of property is higher.

State Tax Commission Chairman Robert Vandermark, whose department oversees property taxation, is an Independence Township resident. Vandermark, who was In-dependence Township supervisor from November 1972 through February 1975, has, been chairman of the tax commission for about one-and-onehalf years.

Despite some misunderstanding by those who voted for Headlee and expected lower taxes, Vandermark is enthusiastic about the changes the amendment brings.

"It's a limit of growth of revenue and, frankly, it's working very effectively," he said.

As cities, villages, townships and counties across the state - some 2.000 communities — determined their tax rates for 1979, change was the rule rather than the exception.

"The property tax portion — it's had much greater proved the Headlee Amendment impact across the state than a lot of peole thought it would," Vandermark said.

Boxing is famous as one of those sports where one can work himself up from the bottom into the position of champion of champions, the heavyweight champion of the world. Often, the heavyweight champ has had a rags to riches tale to tell. This is certainly true in the case of Leon Spinks who started in the ghetto, and worked up through Golden Gloves and the Olympics to the big fight and his big win. The movie Rocky also deals with the potential of an individual who is willing to work hard making it in the fight game.

We at COACH'S COR-NER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457 work hard to see that you are completely satisfied with out selection of sports equipment. We carry everything, from equipment bags for various sports to socks, clothes and shoes... and we're well known for our expertise in fitting equipment. Open: Daily 9:30am-6pm, Sat until 5pm.

Some of the student singers who will lend their voices to the first vocal concert of the school year will present assemblies Tuesday at Sashabaw Junior High and Wednesday at Clarkston Junior High.

The concert that is opened to the public is scheduled for 8 p.m. and will be followed by a reception for parents. There is no admission charge, but donations will be accepted. Appearing in the concert will be the 72-voice varsity concert choir, the 16-voice madrigal singers and the 65-voice mixed chorus.

The Clarkston Choralaires the 30-member girls' ensemble, and the Fourissimos, the 11-member boys' ensemble, also will perform. All groups are under the direction of Grayce Warren.

Numbers will range from madrigal and classical pieces to Negro spirituals and modern songs, Warren said.

The hands have it - from dentistry to handwriting and back

By Kathy Greenfield

Dr. Norman Smith, who retired nearly 20 years ago from his dental practice, is back in Springfield Township.

During the past few weeks, he. has been the guest of Dr. Richard McDonald. Smith's travel trailer parked behind the office at Dixie Highway and Tindall roads that he sold to McDonald when he retired.

Besides his dental practice, Smith's other claim to fame is his hobby and part-time job — analyzing handwriting for life insurance companies...

His skill resulted in an appearance on the television program of the late Lou Gordon.

Smith's first reaction to the offer to appear on the show was negative.

"I said, 'No way'," he remembered. "That guy really tore people to pieces if he didn't believe you.

After several telephone calls from the program's representatives, however, he decided to appear.

Because it takes about two hours to do a good job on handwriting analysis, Smith was given three samples of handwriting without identification.

After reading his findings historical about two figures — former United States presidents Thomas Jefferson and John Adams - Smith started on the third sample.

"Jackie Gordon (Lou's wife) just sat there and roared," Smith said, when he interpreted - the handwriting of Lou Gordon.

After the analysis of Gordon's handwriting, "he was very gentle on me," Smith said. "It turned out fantastically."

A six-month course at the Mott Foundation gave Smith background in handwriting analysis. To prepare for predicting potential insurance salesmen's success rates, he also studies writing samples of million-dollar salesmen. 'That helped me coniderably." he said. "I needed to, know what characteristics they needed and I picked that out from the handwriting.' As a predictor of whether or not the salesmen would do well, Smith was at least 85 percent accurate, as shown by letters he keeps in scrapbooks neatly stacked in his trailer.

Although the main insurance company he worked for is well known, Smith did not want its name-used in the newspaper.

Dr. Norman Smith's travel trailer is parked behind the office where his dental practice was located some 20 years ago.

"A lot of companies, they'll do this quietly. They don't like it known that they use it," Smith said. "One company won't give any credit without examininghandwriting."

During his brief stay, at the corner of the 100-acre farm and dental office he once owned, Smith has had many visitors. I know people all over the h community," he said. One former patient now works mouth," Smith said. After a few visits with no success, "finally, that sweet wife of mine went out and bought her a present.

"So, this little girl opened her mouth and I was able to do the dentistry.'

Mrs. Smith, who frequently assisted her husband in his practice, passed away in 1977.

Smith practiced dentistry in the area for some 40 years with his first dental ofice in Auburn Heights, followed by one in Pontiac and an office at his farm home on Buckell Lake Road in Groveland Township:

fice out of his home and the Dixie Highway office at Tindall Road was built.

After the sale of his practice, the Smiths migrated west, living in Wisconsin, Arizona. and Idaho.

Smith is giving some consideration to a return to dentistry.

"I want to get back into dentistry_part-time," he said. "Probably nothing more than dentures, working, with somebody else."

He plans to make his future home in the Pontiac area to be He raised sheep on the farm, close to his sister Janice Smith and the sheep soon drove the of-, and other relatives and friends.

Clarkston quarterback Nick Lekas gets a pass away despite the unfriendly embrace of a Milford defender in the first half of the Wolves' 19-12 victory Friday night.

Score twice in second half Wolves clip Redskins, 19-12 Lekas suffered a sprained that would've put the Redskins for each team's fifth and final

There was a familiar script in Friday night's homecoming contest against the Milford Redskins — but for a change the Wolves found themselves playi (a different role.

Victimized several times this season by what coach Walt Wyniemko calls the "big plays," Clarkston turned the tables on the Redskins, turning in a couple of big plays of their own in taking a 19-12 victory.

"The one long pass or long . run has been hurting us this year," Wyniemko said afterwods. "We came into the game a two point was unsuccessful. wanting to stop Milford from getting any of those big gainers.

"Statistically, the game was close - but we were the ones running the big plays."

The Wolves' first big play came early in the first quarter when starting quarterback Nick Lekas ran 25 yards down the sideline for Clarkston's first touchdown.

The PAT was no good, and the 6-0 lead stood until late in the half when Milford's Terry Rowe caught a pass in the endzone+for a Redskin TD, only their second in GOAL competition this season. Milford's try for and the halftime score remained 6-6.

ankle early in the second half, and with junior signal caller Brad Sheldon in control, the Wolves began a drive that culminated in a 22-yard TD pass from Sheldon to Kevin Krause.

Ron Feneley's extra point kick was good, and the Wolves pulled out in front 13-6.

The two teams exchanged sixpointers in the final quarter, Mark Hughes scoring on a twoyard run to clinch the victory for Clarkston after Milford had pulled to within one point with their second TD, failing to convert a two-point conversion play in front.

Statistically, Jim Farnsworth was again the Wolves' leading ground gainer, accumulating 85 of his team's 140 yards rushing.

'Everyone played well," Wyniemko summarized. "I thought this was a total team effort — our second and third teams played very good ball for us. That's what it takes to win." Clarkston will move on to Waterford Kettering this Friday

GOAL contest. The teams have identical 2-2 league records, and the winner could possibly finish in a second place tie in the six team conference.

"Kettering is a fine team — I would expect to see a real hardhitting game," Wyniemko said.

'After last week's game (Kettering was bombed by Andover, 32-7), I'd imagine they'll be ready for us."

Clarkston's junior varsity football coach Gordie Richardson is the type of mentor a sports writer likes to interviewhe's opinionated.

Now, that's not meant to be a put-down. Why does the term "opinionated" always carry with it negative connotations, anyway? I like opinionated coaches. Objective coaches make dull interviews.

One thing I miss from my sportswriting days in Clinton Township is interviewing the coaches and managers in the Great Lakes Junior Hockey League. A talk with the Junior Red Wings Tom Wilson, Fraser's Mike Kesler or Cleveland's Stan Budzik could always be counted on to provide me with enough bombast to write 10 stories.

Wilson was my favorite-he told you exactly what he thought and dared you to print it. The oft-repeated phrase "this is off the record" was not part of Tom Wilson's lexicon. Richardson is more diplomatic and careful of what he says-high school coaches have to be. But he's seldom at a loss for words, and reporters appreciate that.

/ win streak continues

Are the Clarkston High School JV gridders for real? Just ask West Bloomfield. Benefiting from two strong performances by Bruce Burwitz and Tim Brennan-as well as some blue chip efforts by Mike Stefanski, Tim Ellis,

Cahill and Steve Nichols-the quarterback Stefanski and Wolves rolled to their fifth scored on a play good for 65 straight victory by crushing the Lakers of West Bloomfield, 30-12

A two-yard run by Brennan put Clarkston on the board in the first quarter. Before the half Duane ended, Ellis caught a pass from Player of the week Brad Sheldon  yards, earning the Wolves a 12-6 lead at the half.

Brennan scored again in the third quarter on an 18-yard run before Clarkston put the game away with TD runs by Burwitz and Nichols.

Brennan and Burwitz each rushed for 114 yards, while Stefanski accumulated 123 yards passing on four completions in seven attempts. Cahill caught two passes for 47 yards, one reception in particular drawing

Brad Sheldon, who took over at the quarterback spot following a second half injury to Nick Lekas Friday night, is our pick for the Wolves' player of the week.

With the score tied at 6-6, the 6 foot, 195 pound signal caller d the Wolves to their second and third TDs of the night, one culminating on a Sheldon to Kevin Krause touchdown pass and the other on a two yard run by Mark Hughes.

"We're very fortunate to have a player of Sheldon's caliber," coach Walt Wyniemko opined after the game. "It's good to know that we've got two first te quarterbacks that we can rely on."

the attention of coach Gordie Richardson; who called it "a heck of a catch."

"Another thing that pleased me was the play of our defense," Richardson noted. "West Bloomfield ran a lot of plays that : our defense had never come up against-they were pitching out on an option type play, and using a designated runner at the ends."

"We handled it very well. The kids adjusted and caught on quickly."

Richardson and the Wolves will be looking for win number six this Thursday when they travel to Milford. Game time for the Wolves-Redskin contest is 4 p.m.

Back in the early part of the season, we talked for awhile about the Clarkston JV program and its relationship to the . varsity club. Under former coach Gary Warner, the junior squad went 9-0 last year with several players who currently hold down key positions on the 1-4 varsity team.

What happened over the summer?

"You can't expect a junior varsity record to carry over into the varsity level-it-just-isn't that simple," Richardson began. "There's really no comparison between the two."

"JV is a learning experience team's tend to experiment a lot and make a lot of mistakes. We try and teach the kids a system, where as in the varsity game the emphasis is on performance."

Coach Dave McDonald sees his varsity girls' basketball squad entering into a critical. stage of the 1979 campaign this week.

"We knew at the beginning of the year that we lacked experience and would have to rebuild," McDonald noted. "Now that we're at the halfway mark of the season, I think it's important that we start showing some marked improvement right now-we don't want to be put in the position of talking about. next year already."

This past week saw the Wolves drop two contests to Easher and West Bloomfield by scores of 54-37 and 51-25 respectively.

Lynn McCormick was the leading scorer against West Bloomfield with 10 points, while Lisa Forsyth led the squad with 14 points in the Lahser game.

"I would have to say that they (Lahser and West Bloomfield) were the two finest teams we've play ed all year," McDonald said. "In fact, of the 10 teams we've faced this season, eight of them had winning records." "So our schedule hasn't made things any easier," the coach continued. "It's nice to have a soft spot somewhere in the schedule, but we just haven't had any.'

Clarkston was to travel to Ferndale on Tuesday and then host Rochester at home Thursday to round out this week's action.

"We can't say we don't understand the fundamentals anymore," McDonald said. "We know that we're supposed to be doing out there, and hopefully we'll start seeing some results and improvements in our last nine games.'

Schrader nears record Volverines win, 18-6

Richie Schrader ran for two touchdowns and received a pass Clarkston Junior High Wolverines to their third victory of the season, an 18-6 decision over Brandon.

"Schrader's just 20 points away from the school record for scoring," Wolverine coach John Craven noted. "He's been out-standing—he's accounted for 46 of our 68 points scored this year.'

Schrader's first scoring run was a 15 yarder in the first quarter, putting CIH out in front 6-0.

The two teams exchanged touchdowns in the second stanza. Schrader taking a pass from quarterback Rick Carter for a 28-yard TD play, while Brandon scored just before the half ended on a 40-yard halfback run.

"That was the only mistake our defense made," Craven said of the Brandon touchdown. "we just got a little careless-other than that, the defense was super."

Craven also cited the work of his offensive line as being insturmental to the victory.

Bill Mosher, Rusty Bennett, Dave MacLennan, Bob Purseley, Chris Cooper and Brad Moshier all earned the praise of their coach and much of the credit for the Wolverine's 300 plus yards in total offense.

It's been a successful five years for the Clarkston Junior High girls' basketball program—and after eight games in the current season it appears as nough the 1979 squad is going to do its best to maintain the tradition.

"We've had some lean years, but overall we've had a pretty successful program," c o a c h Dennis Bronson commented. "We were 13-3 last season, and are 7-1 going into our game this afternoon with Walled Lake." "Our only loss of the year came in the last six seconds when we lost to West Bloomfield by one point."

Since the program began in 1974, Bronson has coached his teams to an overall record of 50-31. Referring to his current squad, the coach finds the word "balance" to be particularly appropriate.

"We've got some strong individual performers, but I think the strength of our team rests on our overall balance," Bronson

Lori Martin at guard have been two big scorers for the Wolverines this year.

Ulasich led the team with 14 points and Martin chipped in a 42-32 victory over crosstown rival Sashabaw.

Bronson took time to praise the work of his entire squad: forwards Marget Nelson, Lisa picked off 10 apiece. Paulson, Time Agar, Shirley Selent, Janet Curry and Martin Huttenlocher; centers Tammy Sherman, Michele Barks, Chris Martinez and Sandy Moody.

-noted. "We've got a lot of girls . lot of fouls called," Bronson said of the Sashabaw contest. "We Annette Ulasich at center and led 23-10 at the half, but our shooting was very poor in the last two quarters. Sashabaw played very well late in the game."

A major factor insithe victory 7-point effort in CIH's recent was the Wolverines control of the boards, as CIH out-rebound-ed the Cougars 56-44.

Salent led the way with 14 rebounds, while Curry and Ulasich

"Again, I would have to say that all of the girls deserve some credit for our success," Bronson Prather and Patrice Warden; said. "We've been relying on 11 and guards Mary Smith, Tracy of them to carry the load, and they've all been performing well and winning.'

1 remembered talking to Mike D'Angelo, a highly successful football coach out at Lake Shore High School, about the same topic and he told me much the same thing. D'Angelo noted that his 1977 JVs were 3-5, and that the players from that squad formed the gist of his 8-1 varsity team in 1978.

"They were losing, but they were learning, too," D'Angelo said at the time of his squad's JV days. "You can't build a winning program without full cooperation between the varsity and junior varsity coaches. Their efforts must be coordinated." When I mentioned what the Lake Shore mentor had said, Richardson nodded in agreement.

"Walt (head varsity coach Walt Wyniemko), myself and all our assistants are working as a unit as much as possible, Richardson said. "We have our individual styles, but many of our-basic plays are the same."

Richardson credits an 'abundance of talent among his players for the so-far successful season (4-1 after 5 games), refusing to attribute much to his own coaching acumen.

"We've got a lot of excellent athletes on this team—their talens makes this a very easy group to coach."

So is the junior varsity program fulfilling its role this season or not?

There's no way of telling-not until guys like Mike Stefanski, Kim Lair, Bruce Burwitz and Tim Brennan begin playing their football on Fridays rather than Thursdays.

ANDOVER 32, WATER-FORD KETTERING 7: Rick Forzano, son of the former Lions' coach, ran for one touchdown and passed for another while teammate Steve Mazu scored twice, accumulating 2 yards rushing to lead the Andover Barons to an impressive 32-7 homecoming win over Kettering.

WEST BLOOMFIELD 33, ROCHESTER 3: Teammates Gary Schroeder and Chris Mayone each ran for two touchdowns apiece to lead the Lakers to their fourth straight league victory, 33-3 bombing of Rochester.

Schroeder totaled 123 yards rushing, gaining 91 of them on one play when he ran for a touchdown from his own nine yard line. Bob Mickley scored the fifth and final Lakers' six pointer.

You can't learn to fly any younger

"How I yearn to throw myself into space and float above the awful abyss—" —Goethe

Roger Craig is not your average 17-year-old h i g h school student.

While most of us can only dream, as Goethe did, of "floating above the abyss" in solitude, Craig, a senior at Clarkston High School, can turn that fantasy into reality now that he's got his private pilot's license.

"Flying is a great sensation," Craig said when asked to explain his interest in aviation. "When you're up there all by yourself, the feeling is hard to describe."

Craig obtained is license last month after passing a rigorous four-hour written exam made up of 60 questions from the FAA (Federal Aviation Agency) manual, passing the required flight test and logging the necessary flight time.

As it turned out, Craig was in the air and witnessed last month's incident.

"I didn't really feel like being in the air after that," he recalled. "But you get over it—really, flying is so safe that nobody should live in fear of it."

Last Sunday when Roger Craig flew a Cessna out of Oakland-Orion Airport, The Clarkston News was aboard.

Doing Business People's Furniture expands

People's Furniture and Appliance store, which has two Flint locations, chose the Clarkston area for its first expansion.

Although president of the company Wes Van Houten, an Independence Township resident, drove by the new location daily going to work, discovering the owners of Deron's furniture store would sell was only one step, he said.

He talked with representatives of some of the banks opening branches in Independence Township and of Hamady Brothers, the grocery store chain planning a shopping center on Dixie Highway across from the Maybee Road intersection.

His decision to go with the new location was based on a "composite of everyone seeing this as the next Bloonfield Hills, the next Grand Blanc," he said. "There seems to be a movement of people here from Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham, Troy.

"The Hamady guy said, "That's the only thing that scares me—everybody says it's the place to go'," Van Houten said. Peoples carries several brand names in furnishings and appliances including Sealy mattress, Thomasville, La-z-boy, Hibriten, Flexsteel and General Electric, Tappon, Kitchen Aid and Zenith.

"Our philosophy is one of offering better merchandise at a competitive price—below factory list," Van Houten said.

Staffing is also part of the store's philosophy.

"What we're trying to do is build an organization of people who enjoy waiting on customers and taking care of their needs," he said.

Services include free delivery, free set-up and pre-inspection at the Flint warehouse.

Because the warehouse is located nearby, immediate delivery is available for most merchandise, although special orders are also taken.

Manager of the Clarkston store is Stanley Stoy who brings some 30 years of experience in the furniture business to his job. Formerly of Wiggs Furniture, Bloomfield Hills and Englander Triangle, Stoy also owned his own furniture store for several years.

He joined the staff at Peoples to work at the new location.

Beginning today, the store, located next to Haupt Pontiac at 7183 N. Main in Independence

Parents of younger boys have a chance to break a cycle that has existed for many years.

The cycle relates to the problem of over-dependency and sex-role stereotyping in males in our society.

Marriage counselors are very well aware of the end result of the way boys are often raised in this culture.

After a separation or divorce, men are too frequently incapacitated and unable to care for some of their basic needs.

It is not unusual for men who are supposed competent in many important ways to be totally unprepared to run a washing machine, cook adequate meals or clean a toilet.

While it is easy to blame men and pronounce them as chauvinistic for forcing women to cater to most of their needs, the fact is that men_learn role behaviors in their families as children. The fault lies with both mothers and fathers.

In most traditional families, some work and chores are designed as "women's work" and some as a "man's job." Independent living, however, always calls for a combination of both types of tasks.

The remedy is in the hands of parents. Through their attitudes and behavior, men can continue to be raised to be overly dependent on females or they can be taught that it) is important to learn to be independent and that no chore has been ordained by a higher power as "women's work."

Women are often heard to complain that men are dependent and expect to be "waited on," while they continue to perpetuate such an expectation. Both mothers and fathers can change their behavior with their young boys. It is, however, necessary to change some basic values and attitudes.

Mothers who are reluctant to change might consider that they probably desire their son to grow up to be adequate, independent and self-assured with the capacity for a mature and equal relationship with a-woman.

Fathers might think through the future for their daughter. were she to marry a son as they are raising. Would they like a daughter to be the servant to a man who was incapable of looking after himself in an adult and mature wav?

boss," to join Pontiac Motors as a truck repairman.

Bill had no trouble adjusting to working for a large company because both the company and the union have been good to him.

""I don't remember not working 6 days a week," said Bill, "and the most important thing about working is enjoying the job and co-workers.'

Getting along with people in her job is also very important to Jean, now selling real estate for Bateman Realty Co. in Drayton' Plains.

After working off and on and as a secretary while raising Mark and Graig, Jean decided to get her real estate license three years ago.

"I love it", Jean said. "I think it's because I'm not tied down to a time clock.'

Since her hours are her own, she matches them with those of Bill's afternoon shift.

Jean also likes working with people. There is a constant change from one situation to another, she said. Each person's motives for buying or selling a house are different, and all of them interesting.

Jean also thinks the real estate, business is very interesting, and is concerned about the bad publicity being given the housing industry.

While large, expensive homes are not selling as fast as in the past, she has not noticed a slackening of sales for smaller, less expensive homes.

"The buyers we have now are the most serious ever, and have L Continued on page 37 sincere need for housing," said Jean. "Two years ago we had people who spent a lot of time just looking."

The current need in housing seems to be for smaller homes around 1,000 to 1,200 square feet with a basement for young families," she said. "The best home buys," Jean continued, "are the smaller homes in the $35,000 to $40,000 range."

Independence Township residents since 1962, Jean and Bill built their present house on Amy Drive three years ago. Jean designed the floor plan and the large, brick fireplace in the family room.

"It's furnished primarily in an early American style, with some nice antique accent pieces and some very well-done pieces by sons Mark and Craig.

Mark has made a large coffee : table for the family room, as well as an end table, grandfather and mantle clocks and with Craig's help, a large bookcase. Now studying agricultural engineering at Arkansas State University, Mark spends his leisure hours tinkering with engines instead of making furniture.

Craig, who took part in the building trades program at Clarkston High School and was part of the team that built a small house on Main Street, is now studying landscape architecture at Oakland Community College and has his own landscape company.

The family also shares a love of traveling and has seen all of the United States except the far west states.

Jean's favorite spots are in the East because of the history, and Bill's are in the West because of the wide open spaces.

Jean and Bill enjoy what they're doing and their plans for the future do not include any changes. They do intend to keep traveling.

'Cat and Canary' sets Halloween scene

Fhe Cat and The Canary By John Williard Clarkston Village Players Depot Theatre

Curtain time

A spooky old house at-midnight, evil spirits, an escaped lunatic, secret passages and the reading of a will are the stuff that make up "The Cat and The Canary." (This little-known mystery-

thriller originally produced in New York in 1922 is the opening production for the Clarkston Village Players this season. The melodramatic effects are heavy and the authors' intents are obvious, but under the direction of Miriam Bates, in her directorial debut, it works rather well. Author John Williard utilizes typical devices in bringing about with the presence of evil spirits the desired effect.

Six surviving relatives, three the old mansion. male and three female, of Cyrus Candy West, an eccentric old Bartlett) gathers the relatives coot who died 20 years ago, are who for the most part have little brought together for the reading love for each other for the of a will.

Since his death, only his'West. Indian servent, Nahtima (Pat Thomas), a woman preoccupied in Glencliff Manor, has lived in Attorney Roger Crosby (Al reading of the last will of West.

Annabelle West (Suellen Fausel) inherits the total estate, which fact brings considerable disappointment to, the others and then, since they all have to spend the night, the mystery is ón.

Will Annabelle, the canary of the title, survive the night? And just which of the others is the cat stalking her?

You will have to see the play to learn any more about the plot. It is mildly exciting as such plays generally are ...

Pat Thomas adds to the spookiness by her scary pronouncements and by staring expressionless. throughouf the three acts.

Suellen Fausel, in her first CVP role, is a fine actress who acts with conviction. She is tall, attractive and convincing in this role.

Also making his acting debut is Steve Rood, who plays Charlie Wilder, one of the snarling relatives. He has an imposing presence and a perpetual sneer that was fun to watch.

Scott Myers was a wishywashy Paul Jones and while he seemed unsure of himself as an actor, he seemed to grow as the play developed.

Larry Bate is' the abrasive Harry Blythe, Jan Malane is Cicily Young, Judy Rood is hysterical Susan Sillsby, Mike Kaul is Dr. Patterson and Denny Lalone is a relaxed and loose (in his first appearance in the first act) Hendricks, an attendant from a local asylum.

"The Cat and The Canary' performs a benefit-on-October 18 and the play concludes with shows on October 19,120 and 21.

School for Scandal

The School For Scandal By Richard Brinsley Sheridan-Meadow Brook Theatre Oakland University, Rochester

Meadow Brook Theatre opened its 14th season last. Thursday night with a bright and witty 18th century English comedy masterpiece.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan's School For Scandal" was staged in a traditional way under the direction of Meadow Brook Artistic Director Terence Kilburn. Kilburn assembled a good-looking case that gave a handsome performance of this comedy of manners. The costumes were sparkling and fashionable and the scenery, on a revolving stage, was most sumptuous

The elegance of the surroundings is in sharp contrast to the manners and morals of Lady Sneerwell (Jillian Lindig) and her entourage of scandalmongers who people much of Sheridan's finest play.

Sheridan basically fused

The resulting play is a riching plotted- social satire that has relevance even today.

Donald Ewer as Sir Peter is a perpetually worried longsuffering husband who has his worst fears confirmed in a dramatic and famous scene when William Wright as Joseph Surface is caught in an embarrassing situation with Lady Teazle.

William Wright is a smug hypocrite with the amusing ability to change facial expression instantly.

Charles Surface is played by Tom Spackman. He comes off as a shiny-faced and likable prolifigate who, while professing not to be the model of virtue and prudence that his brother pretends to be, is exactly that.

Charles, for all his prodigal living, is in the end rewarded with the hand of Maria (Deborah Ekols) and the whole Sneerwell lot is exposed for their treachery.

In contrast to the brightness and gaiety of this production

Women's Works

1,000 people prompt more show plans

The Fall Festival of Women's Works Saturday and Sunday was so successful that plans are already being made for another festival next year.

According to Anne Clinton-Cirocco, the festival's coordinator, over 1,000 people attended the arts and crafts show on Saturday alone at the Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center. Women artists displayed their crafts that included woodcarving fiber arts, photography, stained glass and painting, among others.

There was also a quilting exhibit provided by the Northwest Oakland County Historical Society.

Next year's festival will include ethnic foods, said Clinton-Cirocco, as well as more artists demonstrating their crafts.

Bernadine Stiller, a 26-year resident of Clarkston, started doing macrame a year ago—her first attempt at handwork. The Fall Festival of Women's Works is the first Bernadine has attended and she plans to do many more.

Donna Gillespie of Holly makes stained-glass sun catchers at the Fall Festival of Women's Works. Donna has been making window insets, terrariums and lampshades at a workshop in her home for two years.

Molly Pemberton of Canton, Michigan, got the idea for making woodcarvings from a painting class. After she makes the wood cut she stains the wood, paints a design on it then seals it with polyarethane. Music boxes, stools, clocks and placques were among her creations for a sale Saturday, and Sunday.

Bridgett Marx, of Lathrup Village, crocheting a camisole, will begin working with weaver Robert Kidd in Birmingham later this month. She has taught herself how to weave, knit, do so sculpture, basketry, spinning, bead work and make jewelry.
