Her halo shines for Halloween

By Pat Braunagel

Independence Center, due to close officially Nov. 16, is in fact no longer operating.

Its volunteers stopped reporting for duty at the community services center two days after the Independence Center Board of Directors voted to dissolve the organization Oct. 9.

The center's last coordinator, Elaine Murray, is taking vacation time she had accumulated.

The board is to meet again

Nov. 8 to wrap up details of the closing of the center at 5331 Maybee Road—"just to see if everything has been done," board co-chairperson Rosalind Needham said.

In the meantime, a group of citizens long involved in Independence Center has scheduled a meeting to see if the concept of the center is one which should continue to be pursued.

The gathering organized by the Friends of Independence

Center is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the center.

Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church has been notified that it can reclaim the building which it contributed for the center rent-free.

The center, co-chairperson Michael Luchenbach noted, "just is not feasible in that location."

An excess of effort spent on maintaining the building, keeping it secure and raising funds was cited by the board as a basis of its decision to dissolve the center.

"The direction they were taking, they weren't getting anywhere," Luchenbach said. "They were not helping the people they started out to help. It really wasn't a community-wide service."

Independence Center has been in existence for seven and a half years.

"At least two or three people from each organization in the community has been involved with the center over the years," Luchenbach said.

He noted that the mailing list of board members, volunteers, supporters and clients has over 700 names.

There were more than 30 persons at the Oct. 9 meeting at which the board voted 13-1 to close the center.

"The basic premise the center was founded on was temporary help," Luchenbach noted. "I would like to see more of it come from the township or churches or maybe a combination."

The location, he said, has been a continuing problem. The board had been notified that the Youth Assistance worker whose office is at the center would be looking for a new location.

"It is not conducive to counseling and he wasn't getting referrals from the community," Luchenbach said.

The board noted in its announcement earlier this month that services provided at the center are available at the Oakland County Department of Social Services, the Oakland-Livingston Human Service Agency and local churches.

One of the major services provided at the center has been counseling, Mrs. Needham noted.

"We went through them all, and they can be done other places," she said.

"The only service we discovered could not be handled somewhere else if we closed is information and referral," she said. "That is one valuable service I.C. provided that will be missed."

"That was the think we talked about the most—who will people call?"

"That is the one thing we do feel very bad about."

Calling the decision to dissolve the center "a courageous one," Mrs. Needham emphasized that those who made it "still really do care."

When it comes to mileage, we're the place to come to. Consider: our full-size Chrysler Newport and mid-size LeBaron get better EPA estimated gas mileage than Chevrolet Caprice or Ford LTD. Cordoba comes up with better mileage than Thunderbird or Cougar XR-7. And Volare with standard engine and automatic transmission beats the comparably equipped Granada or Monarch in mileage. Overall, we can offer you five Plymouth models that deliver 25 mpg or better. Chevy has two, Ford one.

Like we said, if you're looking for mileage, we're the guys to see. Especially now during our "Let's Make a Deal" Closeout. Every one of our mileage cars must go now. In fact, you may never have a better chance to get into the Chrysler or Plymouth of your choice. So, "let's make a deal," shall we? Like, today.

Report preceded IC board decision

The decision to dissolve Independence Center was made by the center's board of directors after it had received a report from an advisory committee.

The advisory committee's report was not the sole basis of the decision, but "it certainly had an influence on us," center co-chairperson Rosalind Needham said.

Established in March, the advisory committee had a membership of 36 persons representing various facets of the community.

Chaired by Jean Saile of South Main Street, the committee

"saw ourselves as an informational gathering committee," according to its report.

After receiving the committee's report Oct. 5, the board of directors called a special meeting inviting others associated with the center to offer ideas and opinions on the future of Independence Center.

In its report to the Independence Center Board of Directors, the committee listed the following concerns:

1. The Building. An inordinate amount of funds, almost one-third the yearly budget, is spent on upkeep. The fact that the center is housed in a church, that is remote from much of the township and that it retains more church than office characteristics are viewed as negatives.

2. The Purpose. The center has never defined its role in the community. It does a little bit of everything dealing mainly with the temporarily or long-term impoverished rather than serving the community as a whole. It may be that this is its role and that the counseling service now offered should be eliminated.

If it is to serve as a community-wide facility, it seems imperative that it have the backing of the churches. Counseling needs are here. But most ministers prefer to send those they themselves cannot help to counselors whom they know.

The center should function as money will come. However, it seems wise to keep the services free to clients. Federal funds and grants are available for specific programs. To use them or United Way financing for the operation of the center itself seems to entail more problems than benefits.

4. The Director. The person who runs the center must fill several qualifications. Personality is important in dealing with the community, the clients and the volunteers. The director should be familiar with, and familiar to, the community. Such a person must be flexible, willing to work hard and long for little pay, and wise enough to see the need for new programs and to go about setting them up.

5. Volunteers. By tradition, volunteers come and go with directors. However, their contribution to the center increases with training and experience. They must be given responsibility and job satisfaction. They are not paid and must be rewarded otherwise--by sociability on the job and by recognition for work done.

6. The Community. Much of the community, while aware of the name of Independence 'Money is not the main problem of the center. Its involvement with the community is.'

—Independence Center advisory committee report

Bordine's Nursery salesperson Dianne Bundridge kneels in front of the first of two blue spruce trees planted near the village hall parking lot Monday.

Trees to serve dual roles

Two trees were planted near the Clarkston Village lot Monday morning, and village council president Fontie ApMadoc said she hopes that the event will set an example.

One of the trees was contributed by Mrs. Janet McCord of Independence Township as a memorial to the late Elizabeth Lambert, a longtime Clarkston resident. President ApMadoc and her husband William, contributed the other to celebrate the birth of their granddaughter Mandy last May.

"The hill between the (Village Hall) parking lot and the emporium is covered with weeds and in awful shape," ApMadoc said. "There isn't any public money available for its improvement, so we'd like to see individual citizens contribute trees."

"We encourage citizens to plant trees for memorials, births or whatever reason. Bit by bit we can improve the appearance of the hill."

the home mission arm of the churches, supported in part by them and drawing its volunteers from the churches it serves.

Schools must also be contacted and made aware of the counseling services and the clothing and food available for distribution.

If it is the intention of the board to broaden the center's scope, we recommend a gathering of ministers and lay people from each church, school representatives and community leaders, at which time an effort should be made to tell the center's function and its potential. This could be done by speakers or by a slide presentation.

It is quite likely that half the churches will not respond. Their ministers are of the belief they can meet the needs of the congregation without outside help. Others see a need for night counseling sessions in regard to marital and youth problems and would undoubtedly ask for evening counseling hours.

3. Funding. Money is not the main problem of the center. Its involvement with the community is. If programs are expanded, Center, is entirely unfamiliar with its function--apart from its use as a receptacle for old clothes and a distribution center for holiday food baskets and its crisis program for the suddenly destitute, like victims of home fires.

Public relations efforts are required. We have suggested parade floats, distribution of brochures, house-to-house food drives along with the dispensation of literature, direct mail contact to new residents, establishment of memorial funds, and continuing information and contact with the media.

Time on a person-to-person basis will have to be spent with the churches and the schools.

7. The Future. That is for you as a board to decide. However, our opinion is that the center should drop attempts for more counseling services unless it is prepared to make a major effort to involve the community. A new location is deemed important. Better public relations efforts, perhaps the engagement of one person for that purpose alone, will be necessary as long as the center remains open.

Pebble Hills sub plat delayed

Pebble Hills Estates had some rocks thrown in its path at last week's Independence Township Board meeting.

The former gravel mining operation's plans for a subdivision were tabled until final grading and hydro-seeding, or the equivalent, are completed. The vote was unanimous.

Owned by the Stolaruk Corp. of Southfield, the 22.5 acre site is on Stickney Road, east of Sashabaw Road.

"I just want to keep as many hammers as we can," said township attorney Richard Campbell, who recommended tabling the tentative preliminary plat request. "If we don't approve it, we can continue to hammer at them until they get the land restored."

The township has been in court at least 15 times with problems concerning the gravel mining operation, Campbell said, and the forfeiture of a $20,000 bond from Stolaruk to the township was expected later in the week.

On Monday, Supervisor Whitey Tower confirmed the bond forfeiture in a decision at Oakland County Circuit Court, but said he expects the decision to be appealed by Stolaruk.

At the township board meeting, Robert Faust, a representative of the Stolaruk Corp., objected to the plat delay because of expense involved.

"Go to these grades, and do it ex post haste, and we'll give you tentative plat approval," Campbell said.

"We want to cooperate with you even though there's a lot of reason we shouldn't," he added.

It's party time

Fifty free steaks, fresh-baked bread and wine from Foodtown were awarded to Linda Porter of Independence Township as the first-prize winner of the grand opening of People-State Bank's new branch.

In addition, the following people won dinner for two at the Clarkston Cafe: Margie Megitt, Marlon Miszczak, Lowell Mullins, B. Seaman, Byon Brock, Aaron Norbury and Barbara Hamaker all of Clarkston; David Kay of Goodrich; and James Kelly of Waterford.

The bank's new office is located at Dixie Highway and Maybee Road, Independence Township.

It's time for better police protection

The citizens of Independence Township have waited too long for Independence Township officials to get their police protection act together.

They have been left with just that: police coverage that is only an act, a charade.

The township board, specifically Supervisor Whitey Tower, deserves a vote of no-confidence from a citizenry that should require the best protection possible for its property and its lives.

Township officials were entrusted with putting together a program of sound police protection, and that trust has been betrayed.

We have all waited too long in the hope that something could be worked out to solve the problems inherent in having two police departments, a unique system in Oakland County. The problems are still there--only the voices of protest have gotten dimmer.

If a partial local police department were to be maintained--and there have been some good theoretical arguments for doing so--such an arrangement required a high level of organization and superb management.

What we have is a local department that at best is not cost efficient. But its faults do not end there.

Tower attempted to maintain the facade of a balance--to build a local department while keeping the township under the protection of the county law enforcement officers.

He has failed.

The power struggle between the two departments continues. There is gross lack of communication and a maximum of game playing which does credit to neither department.

Moral problems abound in the local department, which is headed by a man whose qualifications have never been publicly examined and whose appointment was made in a slipshod manner. He was, in effect, appointed to head a department which did not exist over candidates who were never interviewed.

A citizens' policy advisory committee appointed to study the situation recommended cutbacks on the local level. Its report was accepted and filed.

The committee was driven to asking if it should resign because of the continued procrastination of the township board. It got no answer.

IC concept will survive

The death of a loved one can never be pleasant to witness.

Independence Center was both loved and loving to this community.

Its demise can only sadden the hearts of those who came in contact with it, either from the standpoint of the persons who were helped by it or the individuals and groups who supported it as a special kind of institution.

It has been special, as an organized extension of man's desire to assist his neighbors in time of need.

Independence Center is not dying because people have ceased to care.

Those of good heart and good intentions found themselves overwhelmed by organizational necessities.

The official obituary from the center's

The township has sunk more than half of its police budget into the local department. It simply is not getting its money's worth.

Tower's game plan, which has never been presented in a straightforward manner, just has not worked.

We can't even say, "Nice try."

He needs to be called to account and confronted with the fact that he blew his chances.

If a local department cannot be properly maintained--and this one hasn't been--fold it.

board of directors stated: "Too much effort has been spent on maintaining the building, raising funds, sorting rummage and solving administrative problems and not enough on our basic goals."

These are the criticisms often leveled at the governmental human services agencies--that more time is spent on paperwork and bureaucratic nonsense than is given to those persons the agencies were established to serve.

The center's board of directors was selfless enough to see this.

It would be a shame if any of those who gave such vast amounts of time to the center felt that their efforts had been wasted.

While the center as an entity may die, we're confident that the ideal at its heart will survive to take another form.

Jim's jottings

The repairman cometh

by Jim Sherman

In my early days in this business I feared for having to call a Linotype or press repairman. In the early 1950's they came at $100 a day.

Knowing this (and knowing my bank account) I began learning what made each machine work. Eventually, I got brave enough to tackle some tedious tasks.

The Linotype is long gone, replaced by computer-like machines. When something goes awry, we call a number in Cincinnati, they tell us what card or chip to replace.

Not so with the press. When that breaks down, we do our best to get it welded or the part replaced some way without going back to the manufacturer.

They are so slow. I once paid for a seat on an airplane from Chicago for a press part. It still took three days. Air-freight and UPS takes more.

To avoid this we contract for a press repairman to visit us once a year. He came last week. His cost per day is now $320. It drops to $295 for the second day if it's consecutive.

He found a problem with the press, worked on it, then left, saying he'd be back in a week.

Man like that could fix a press owner right into the poorhouse.

Can anyone tell my wife what is so all fired wrong with the common folk using the "emergency vehicles only" drive for turning around on an expressway?

Hazel has the idea that a citizen, realizing he's made a wrong turn, or is very low on gas, or must turn back for one reason or another, should be able to use these cross overs without feeling they are going to be put in jail.

Cops don't wait until they come to these crossings when they want to go back for a cup of coffee or whatever. We've seen several just ahead cut across the grassy medium. Can't we?

Speaking of cops. Remember when the various chiefs in the various communities went to their Councils pleading for blue gum ball machines for the tops of their cars.

Blue can be seen so much farther, red is so over-used, blue is better, etc. Blue bulb sellers had a heyday.

Councils couldn't give in quick enough. Anything for the safety of our people and better law enforcement.

Well, the cycle has ended. The red bulb makers are pushing the blue bulb makers into bankruptcy.

Turns out red is more visible, more recognizable, safer, and more meaningful. The councils (citizen) are out a few more bucks.

Letters to the editor

Hotel would scar landscape

To The Editor:

Even though I am a resident of Springfield, my heart goes out to the hard-working people who are struggling in a battle to save Independence Township from high-rise structures.

Amazingly, there are some people that would like to see a 22-story concrete building scarring the Clarkston landscape.

I just don't understand where they're coming from.

The Pine Knob high-rise wouldn't serve the residents of Independence. Its design would be purely to lure hundreds of thousands of outsiders to use Clarkston and then take-off!

I've heard it stated many times from the pro-hotel backers that if built, the hotel would bring hundreds of thousands of people into the center of town.

If you haven't noticed already, at times it's near impossible to drive through down-town Clarkston now! And if you wanted to stop, there's no place to park.

No doubt this is a fast growth area for new homes. People are moving to Independence from congested cities at an incredible rate, trying to stay one step ahead of the high-rises, fast food joints and industrial complexes.

I have talked to people who have recently moved here from Detroit, Southfield and other cities.

A few are strongly in favor of the Pine Knob high rise! These people must be suffering from smog on the brain.

Did they move from places like Troy to create a new Troy right here in beautiful Clarkston? To these people I say, "Don't do us any favors."

I've lived in this area my entire life and I hate to see it destroyed for the sake of the almighty dollar. Let them create their playgrounds somewhere else!

If the person who stated in last week's "Letters to the editor" column thinks it's so great to see banks being built on every corner, then maybe they would like to build the house of their dreams next to one.

Even better, would they like to have a high-rise for a neighbor?

At a past board meeting, I clearly heard Mr. Locricchio state that if the residents of Independence didn't want the hotel, he wouldn't build it!

What happened to that promise? Is this a man of his word?

If this hotel is built, I foresee endless problems ranging from extreme congestion to the many legal battles keeping other high-rises out. This is one mistake that once made cannot be reversed.

The way I see it...those who voted for the Pine Knob high rise actually voted against a healthy rural Clarkston.

Appeals board fair, professional

Dear editor:

As an appellant to the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals (Oct. 17 meeting), I wish to compliment the board on its conduct and the manner in which the evening's agenda was presented and completed.

All members of the board evidenced their concern for fairness and fact and were most professional in their conduct.

There were many appeals that were heard and rejected. I sensed that those who were denied in their appeal respected the decision of the board and felt they had been treated fairly.

Mr. Vaara's incisive handling of a disruptive occurrence prevented embarrassment for all those present.

Sincerely,
J. T. Cook

Cooking up fantasies

by Pat Braunagel

There is, deep within me, a fantasy Mrs. Braunagel (no Ms. for this one).

She stands aproned in her sunny country kitchen, blissfully breaking eggs taken from a wire basket to prepare kuchen dough. She brushes a stray hair from her face with the back of a floured hand.

Children run in to raid her ever-full cookie jar.

There's a simmering stock pot, as always, on the back burner of her stove.

There are well-used, but shining, copper pots on the walls.

This woman not only knows how to use a fish poacher, but knows why anyone would want to poach a fish.

Her invitations to dinner are sought-after and are blessedly frequent.

I confessed this fantasy to my husband the other night as we ate our hamburger-and-frozen-vegetable dinner.

The confession had been prompted by the arrival in our mailbox of a gourmet cookware catalogue.

There are women, and men, who deserve a $135 stainless steel stock pot, who could justify spending $46 on a copper saute pan.

There are times when I would like to be one of them. Fortunately, the most serious lapses from reality I've had in this area have resulted in the occasional purchase of an exotic cookbook.

The reality is this: Approaching my recent 40th birthday, I wailed to a friend, "Here I am on the threshold of middle age and I don't even have a dish!"

"A dish?"

"Yes, you know--something I'm always requested to take to potlucks. Something people always want my recipe for."

My mother, by my age, had a half-dozen such dishes that were distinctly her own.

My mother, had she ever received one, would not have been intimidated by the arrival of a gourmet cookware catalogue.

Confession, the other night, turned out to be good for my soul--because my husband countered with his fantasy.

Don, who thinks "roughing it" is staying in a motel room without a television set, says he takes little flights of fantasy when we receive those catalogues advertising all the gear you'd need to survive a winter on a mountaintop.

It's then, he said, when he considers the practicality of investing in a $150 pair of hiking boots. They'd last a lifetime. They certainly would.

We could store them right next to my $179 food processor.

Can't count on Lions

by Jim Fitzgerald

Everybody who cares about such things continually frets about the misfortunes of the Detroit Lions (1-7), a professional football team that is an annual embarrassment to its supporters. Many people, mainly my wife, often ask me why I care. I tell them it is my civic duty.

Naturally, everybody doesn't care that the Lions are a disgrace to the city whose name they bear, not to mention Pontiac where they play their home games in a domed stadium subsidized by all Michigan taxpayers whether they care about the Lions or not. This lack of unanimous care was stressed by my wife on a recent Sunday afternoon when she overheard me muttering how hard it was to fill the gap.

The gap was caused by a social engagement for which I had to leave my home and drive 30 miles. I was watching the Lions game on TV, and would be able to listen to it on the car radio, but it sometimes takes as long as five minutes to get from my apartment to my car, 26 floors below. That was the gap.

I tried to fill it by carrying a portable radio from TV to car, but the sound faded out on the apartment elevator. That's because I care about the Lions and, the way this season has been going, they could lose two fumbles and three linemen during a time-out called while I was still above the fifth floor. When terrible things like that happen to the Lions, it is important that I know about it immediately so I don't lose any time stamping my little feet and hitting my little head against the floor.

"You are being silly," my wife said. "What difference does it make to you?"

"I don't care for myself," I explained unselfishly. "I don't even like football. I care for the entire city. A winning team would make this town a happy, exciting place to live, especially in the end zone."

There is no denying it. Whenever the Lions score a touchdown, there is great elation among the players, though they still are trailing 124 to 6 and have been in last place for 25 years. The TD scorer does a fancy dance of celebration, and his teammates smother him in congratulatory hugs. Sometimes the party gets so wild there aren't enough survivors left to make the extra point.

Once in a while the Lions even win a game, at which time the joyous rhapsodizing becomes deafening. The players tell the sportswriters the season isn't over yet and they could still make the playoffs. All that's necessary is that they win the rest of their games while the four other teams in their division have six plane crashes.

Flushed with victory, the Lions coach thinks he has a fever, it has been so long since he has been flushed. He agrees that the Lions still could win the championship if they quit making so many mistakes. And he says the past mistakes that have hurt so much wouldn't have happened if his first-string quarterback hadn't choked to death on champagne while celebrating a successful handoff.

Lions fans go along with this grand illusion. A rare victory produces high hilarity among them for a week. But then their team doesn't win again for several months, and the people who care fall back into despair, teetering on the edge of the riot that surely would have happened in 1968 if the Detroit Tigers hadn't won the World Series.

I always cite the 1968 Tigers when trying to convince my wife how important a winning team can be to an entire city. Detroit suffered a terrible riot in the summer of 1967, and many people, most of them sportswriters, have since decreed that there would have been a repeat the following summer if the Tigers hadn't won the championship.

The theory is that a great victory allows people to pound on each other without anyone getting angry. Entire city blocks become one big end zone and sincere rioters go unnoticed, their attacks are mistaken for congratulatory whacks on the back. In honor of the triumph, loot becomes souvenirs.

It is impossible to exaggerate how much a football championship would mean to Lions fans who have had nothing more than an occasional first down to celebrate for so many years. That's why I care about the lousy Lions, and why I hit my civic-minded little head against the floor every Sunday afternoon. I want my city to be happy.

I don't even like football. Every year, thanks to the Lions, I don't like it more.

On path to safety trails

Visions of paths for biking, jogging, walking, and cross-country skiing throughout the area are on the minds of Independence Township Safety Path Committee members.

Established about one year ago, the committee plans a presentation and report to the Township Planning Commission in May.

In the meantime, information is being gathered on other communities with safety paths, possible local routes, and financing through government grants.

Results from the safety path survey sent to local residents a few months ago will also be available soon.

"I think the time has come for our community to be considering safety paths as a real benefit," said Peg Wiederhold, member of the committee.

The group met Oct. 24, plans a walking-riding tour of safety paths in West Bloomfield Township this weekend and has a movie on an existing 75-mile safety path planned Nov. 27 at Clarkston High School's Little Theatre.

About 15 new members now serve on the committee after a sign-up campaign was held during the recent Crafts and Cider Festival in Clarkston.

More new members are welcome.

The next meeting is scheduled Wednesday, Nov. 14, at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, call Peg at 673-8113.

Private roads taxing

Private road problems have prompted some Thendara Park subdivision residents to seek higher property taxes.

Some 18 private roads within the subdivision located in the northeast corner of Independence Township require residents to pay for maintenance and improvements.

Some people within the subdivision refuse to pay their share of expenses, a group of residents told the township board last week.

Because 51 percent of the property owners must sign a petition before the special tax district can be considered, the residents asked the board if it would approve a special tax district request.

"I don't know how this board could reject a special assessment district and be within the law," said Supervisor Whitey Tower. "We aren't in the road business, (but) I'd well say the board would support a special assessment district."

The board unanimously gave the residents a "vote of confidence" to proceed on the petition drive.

Township map errs at Pine Knob

By Kathy Greenfield

Pine Knob won one skirmish, but lost ground in its local battle for a 22-story hotel in Independence Township.

Ruling that the official township zoning map was in error, the township zoning board of appeals removed lines showing most of the proposed hotel site zoned for multiple family dwellings.

The five-member appeals board voted unanimously to correct the map at last week's meeting.

Two other questions before the board on use of the Pine Knob property for a hotel and a height variance to allow the high-rise structure to be built were dismissed.

The matters were tabled earlier at the appeals board's Oct. 10 meeting, because the majority of members said they needed to talk to former township planning department head Larry Burkhardt who drew the official map in 1973.

The delay allowed time for the results of the Oct. 16 special election at which a 71 percent majority voters rejected the use of recreational districts for resort-convention-hotels and, in an advisory vote, 75 percent of voters said a height limitation in recreational districts should not be increased from 35 feet to 200 feet.

Although Burkhardt was not present at last week's appeals board meeting, planning and building department director Timothy Palulian said he had talked with him.

"He (Burkhardt) could not give me any definitive answers as to why this five-acre finger was left on the map," Palulian said.

Because the map was adopted by the township board in 1975, the appeals board's duty was to determine if the map reflected the intentions of the township board, said attorney Richard Campbell.

"This map has never been used by the township or Pine Knob or the tax assessor or the county," said attorney Anthony Locricchio, representing Pine Knob. "It is a dated map and the wrong map."

Confusion resulted because Pine Knob originally submitted the map for conceptual plans in 1972, but changes were later made and accepted by the township board, Locricchio said.

After the changes were made, the original map was used instead of a corrected map, he said.

"I don't understand why the map we have is in the condition it is," said township planning consultant Tod Kilroy. "It appears an honest error was made, an omission. For whatever reason or reasons, the map graphics change was not made."

Zoning board of appeals members agreed with Kilroy's assessment.

"I have a feeling the township board did make an error," said John Dunlop. "I think tonight I have enough evidence in front of me to make a decision."

"I don't think it could be much clearer that the township was in error," said Jerry Powell.

"It's my judgment an error was made by the township in not publishing this as the official map," said Paul Menke, referring to the map showing the area zoned as commercial recreational.

Although appeals board chairman Mel Vaara dismissed the use and height questions, citing the township attorney's recommendation, Locricchio asked for consideration of the items.

"Ancillary buildings for ski resorts, such as hotels, are permitted in the current usage," Locricchio said. "Pine Knob relied on what it felt was good reason. We did continue to put in the auxiliary support buildings for that hotel."

The strategy was to construct all the amenities for a hotel and then build the hotel, he said.

The height question should be considered, because it was a request for one building only and not for a zoning district within the township, Locricchio said.

"I'll have to go on the advice of our attorney," Vaara responded. "Case adjourned."

Accident victims need some helping hands

By Al Zawacky

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sutherland recently purchased a house on Snowapple in Independence Township and were preparing to move in when an auto accident battered their plans.

Mrs. Sutherland, along with three of her seven children, were traveling near Port Huron not far from their present home when they were involved in a head-on auto accident.

Two of the children escaped with relatively minor injuries, but one daughter and her mother were seriously hurt and remain in Port Huron General Hospital. Mrs. Sutherland may have to remain in traction for the next three months.

Jack Roland, the real estate salesman who sold the Sutherlands their new home, is concerned about the family's plight and says he hopes that Clarkston and Independence Township residents will feel the same way.

"There's a lot of work to be done on their home before it'll be in any condition to live in," Roland said. "And the family is obviously in no position to be able to get it all done."

Roland pointed out that besides looking after the six children, two of whom are still recovering from the accident, Sutherland also has an elderly mother to care for while holding down his full time job at a department store to pay the family's bills.

"I'm looking for some people in the community to come forth and volunteer their services to fix up the house," Roland said. "Not as a charity or a hand out—the family is too proud for that—but just as a way to welcome them to the neighborhood."

Most of the work would involve painting and some simple carpentry, according to Roland.

"It would just be a kindly way of getting this family started on the right foot," he concluded.

Anyone interested in helping can contact Roland at 625-8744.

These teams will be located at participating McDonald's® Restaurants from 6:30 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. on Halloween night October 31, 1979. Metal detectors will be set-up to check treat bags for metal objects that may have been placed in treats.

Clarkston Community Schools
Clarkston, Michigan

We have examined the balance sheets of the General Fund, Debt Retirement Fund, Building and Site Fund, Northwest Oakland County Vocational Center Fund, Internal Accounts Fund, Cafeteria Fund and the Long-term Debt Group of Accounts of Clarkston Community Schools as of June 30, 1979 and 1978 and the related statements of revenue, expenditures and changes in fund balances for the years then ended. We also examined the statement of revenues, expenditures and changes in fund balance for the Athletic Fund. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

The School District has not maintained a record of its general fixed assets and accordingly a statement of general fixed assets, required by generally accepted accounting principles, is not included in the financial report. Also, the District capitalizes the cost of its buses in the General Fund and amortizes the cost over seven years in conformity with the revised Michigan School Accounting Manual. According to generally accepted accounting principles, however, these costs should be recorded as a General Fund expenditure in the year of acquisition.

In our opinion, except for the method of recording general fixed assets and buses, the above-mentioned financial statements present fairly the financial position of Clarkston Community Schools at June 30, 1979 and 1978, and the results of operations and changes in fund balances for the years then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year except for the change in accounting for food services as described in footnote 1B regarding the Cafeteria Fund.

The accompanying supplemental information is not necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements, but is presented as additional analytical data. This information has been subjected to the tests and other auditing procedures applied in the examination of the financial statements mentioned above, and in our opinion, the information is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

The Witch's Brew

By Carolyn Harned

On Halloween night old Winifred the witch was up to her old tricks again.

She was mixing up a secret brew which she'd never used before. With it she planned to turn all the little tricker-treaters into what they were dressed up to be!

I know about all of this. My name is Barnie the Bat and I live in Winifred's old mansion.

Earlier that day I was flying around outside when I smelled smoke. Naturally, I investigated.

While coming closer I heard Winifred cackle, "This is the greatest brew that I've ever prepared!"

Then she got on her broom and flew throughout the city wickedly sprinkling her secret whammie.

Within a minute everyone in Creepy County had turned into live ghosts, clowns and witches.

Winifred giggled at all of the monkeys swinging around, Morks yelling "Shazbot!" and "nano-nano" at everyone, and at all of the Kermit the frogs leaping over everything in sight.

"I must get a picture of this to show the other witches!" she squealed.

While she was gone I noticed quite a ruckus starting up out there.

Gorillas were beating each other up, soldiers were going to war, and everything was just a total fiasco.

Then, as if put into a trance, they all started marching toward Winifred's mansion. The caveman knocked down the door and they all stepped in.

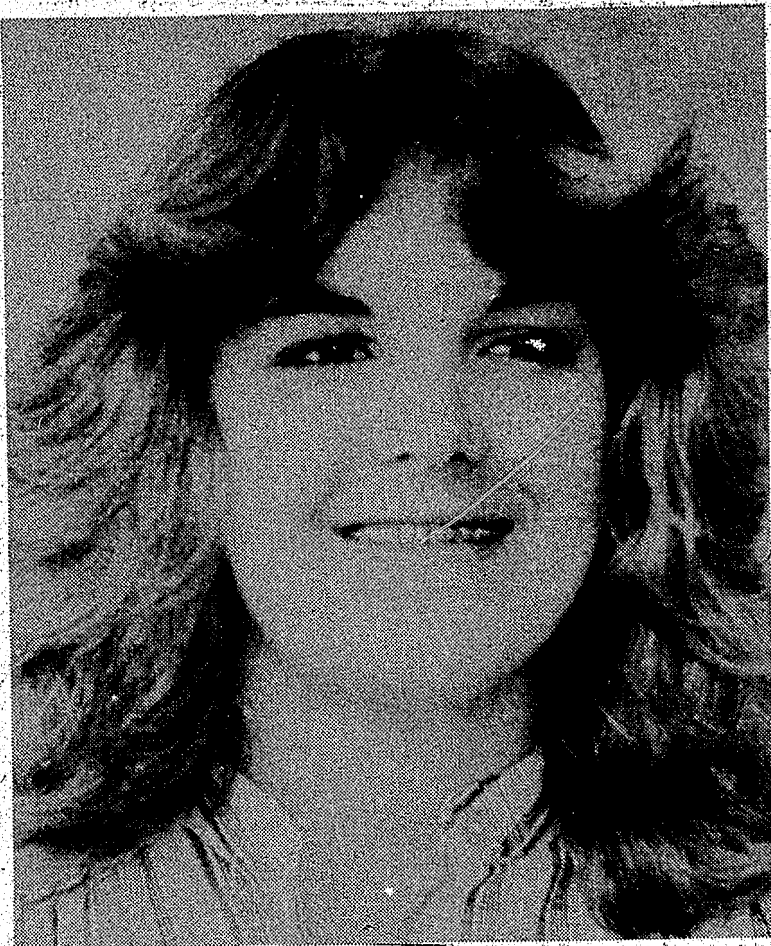

Winifred bumped into them as she was coming out with her camera.

Now Winifred was not normally afraid of anything, but having all these creatures coming toward her, she suddenly felt a cold chill go down her spine.

She then realized that her "trick" wasn't very funny anymore.

Winifred quickly spread the antidote over them. When they were back to normal they screamed, "Trick or Treat!"

She didn't take much time filling all their bags, and when they were all finally gone she sighed, "I'll never do that again!"

Author Carolyn Harned, 13, is an eighth grader at Clarkston Junior High School. She is the daughter of Norman and Eleanor Harned of Paramus Drive, Independence Township.

GHOSTS

By Tina Fields

On Halloween ghosts love to roam, they make a squeaky but silent tone.
And then when they go to bed,
they often take off their head.

ON HALLOWEEN NIGHT

By Craig Hockey

On Halloween night I dress up as a goblin
My nose is so long, it's always a wobbling.
I think it's so neat when we walk down the street.
Halloween night, it's always a treat!

HALLOWEEN

By Todd Hallett

On Halloween, skeletons dance, werewolves prance!
and it's enough to scare you out of your pants,

GHOSTS

By Mark Vinstra

There is a ghost that's white as a sheet, but for some reason you can't see his feet,
this ghost is really neat,
so I decided to name him Pete.
Everybody says he's a mean ghost, but really he's a very keen host.

THE HAUNTED LOCKER

By Shannon Tobey

I have a haunted locker.
Every day when I'm opening it,
I get the scariest scare,
Because I have the ghost of the haunted locker living in there.
He "who's," and "Boos," and "do's" and scares
And wears a wig and does a jig.

THE BLACK CAT

By Julie Everett

Cat's prowling round looking for food,
But the black cat never looks for food.
She is a Mystery.
The black cat gets stronger and stronger.
Other cats get weaker and weaker.
She is a mystery.

TRICK-OR-TREAT

By Rick Migrants

The kids are out trick-or-treating,
One is running, one is eating.
They are getting apples and gum.
One is very, very dumb.
For he went out all alone.
All he got was one big bone.

GOOD GOODIES

By Marty Kellogg

Apples, chocolate, candy, gum, yum, yum, Yum.
I love them in my tum.
We say trick or treat, and with a smile, she gives us all a treat, and it's so neat.

HALLOWEEN NIGHT

By Steve Salter

Halloween night is very scary.
The bats come flying at you.
The ugly witch flies overhead.
The cats sit on the fencepost.
Ghosts fly in the field.
Goblins chuckle when you pass.
Halloween is scary.

Scouting is 'just a way of life'

By Kathy Greenfield

Victor Van Hentenryck has been active in Boy Scouts since he was 12-years-old.

That adds up to 47 years spent at what he calls "just a way of life."

His devotion was recognized Sunday when Van Hentenryck received the St. George Award for scouting involvement in a ceremony at Blessed Sacrament Cathedral, Woodward Avenue, Detroit.

He lives on Tappan Drive, Independence Township. He and his wife Dolores have four children—Victor, 23; Roberta, 20; Tim, 17; and Todd, 13.

Van Hentenryck attributes the years spent in scouting to two factors.

"I am part Indian," he says. "The Indian way of life is to give a certain amount of yourself back into the community, and the only way I know is to give what I know best, and that's scouting."

"And I like young people," he adds.

His mother was a Cherokee Indian. As a boy, he spent 10 summers on reservations, and his father was Belgian, another culture that values community involvement, he says.

Over the years, Van Hentenryck has gathered memories about scouting.

"One day I'll never forget was June 14 of 1937," he says.

Dan Beard, one of the founders of Boy Scouting presented him with the Eagle Award on that date.

Van Hentenryck was a member of the Army for 10 years, during both World War II and the Korean war.

Now a tool and die maker with Interlake Steel, White Lake Township, he rose in rank from a private first class to a colonel while in the Army.

"I saw things occur in combat that young people who were trained as youths in scouting came through and others didn't," he says.

He remained active in scouting during those years and helped start Boy Scout troops in the Philippines and Japan.

Van Hentenryck now serves as scouting chairman of the Pontiac-Manito District of the Clinton Valley council that encompasses eight northern Oakland County communities.

He is also a committee member of Clarkston Boy Scout Troop 105.

"He's a very strong advocate of the Boy Scout idea and has dedicated his life to that cause," says Dave Gardiner, associate district executive of the Boy Scout Clinton Valley Council.

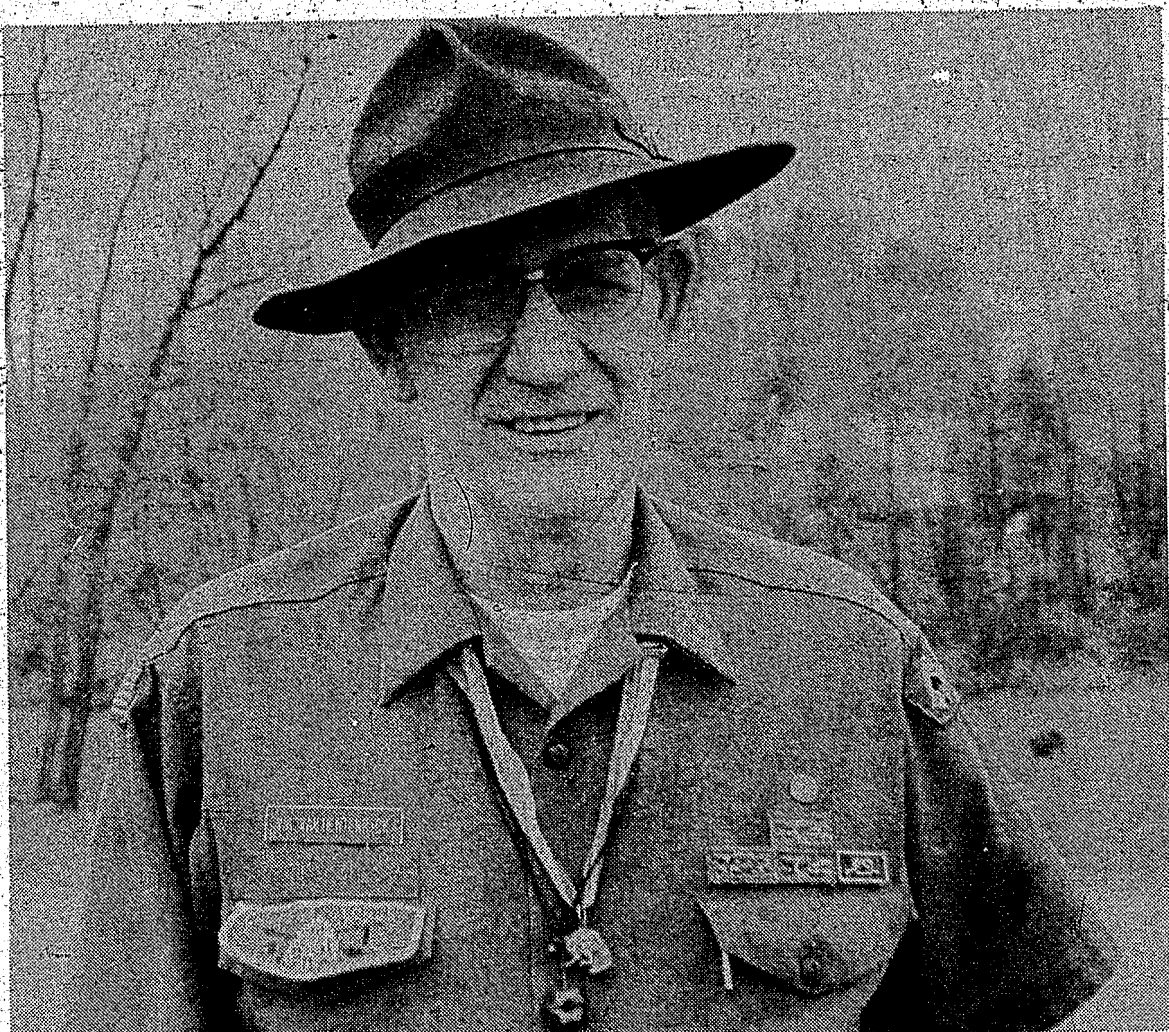

"He probably devotes at least four evenings (a week) to scouting," Gardiner adds.

This year, the St. George Award was granted to only three men across the southern part of Michigan including Detroit, Port Huron and Pontiac.

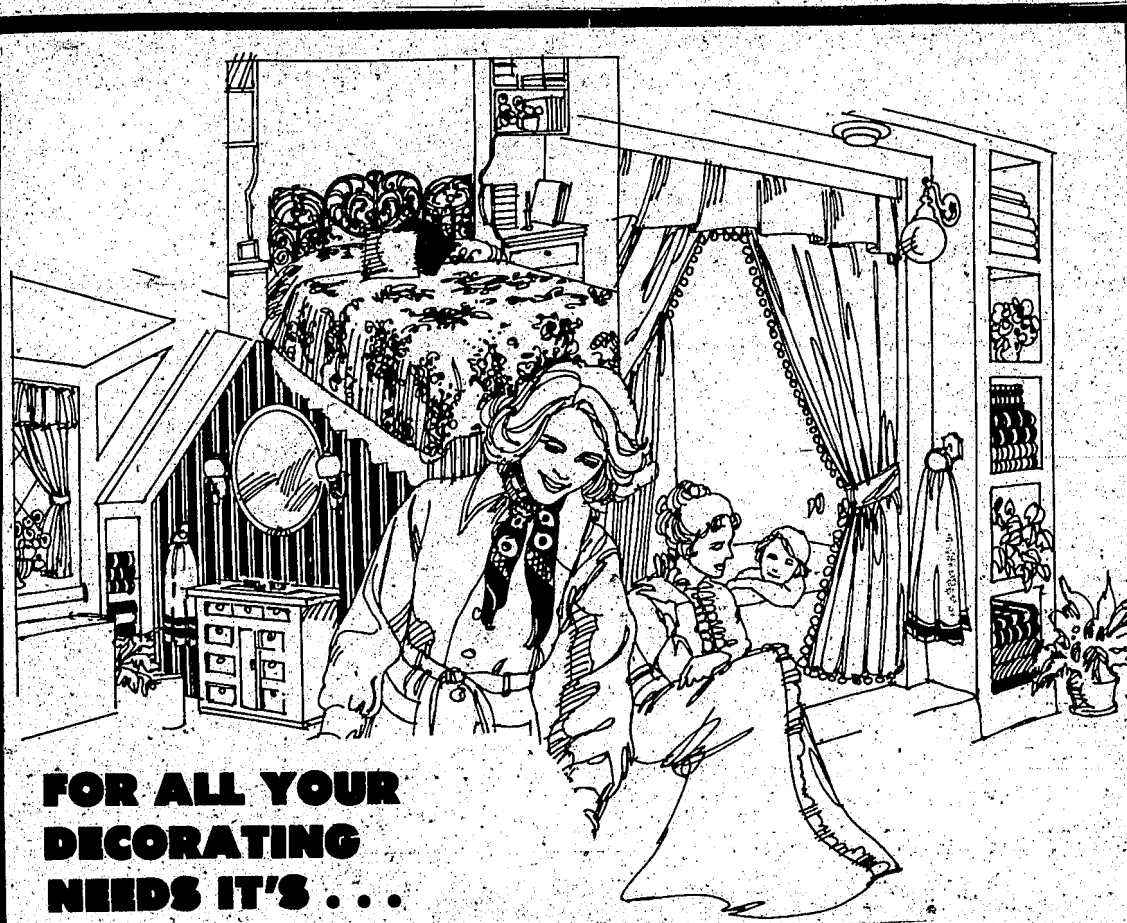

Although he is no stranger to scouting awards, having won the Silver Beaver, District Award of Merit, Scouters Key and three Wood Badge beads, Van Hentenryck says this one is special.

But perhaps his biggest reward is that 100 boys in troops he has been involved with over the years have become Eagle Scouts.

"You get proud of them, you know what I mean?" he says.

Victor Van Hentenryck's uniform is topped with a hat he's worn since the 1940s.

Reserve police get two-bits more per hour

Independence Township reserve police officers will now be paid more for covering parades and school athletic events.

The township board unanimously approved the wage hikes of 25 cents an hour and voted 4-2 to approve the school contract at last week's meeting.

Regarding the pay raises, "It hasn't been changed since 1977," said Charles Kimbel, director of police services.

The command officer will now be paid $10.50 an hour, patrolmen $7.65 and reserve officers $5.50 when working on school and village functions.

When working on the Pine Knob Music Theatre contract, reserve officers are paid higher rates ranging from $12 to $18.

Objecting to hidden costs like insurance and cost of gasoline and oil, Treasurer Frederick Ritter said the school contract rate should include more than actual wages.

"If we're going to offer these services to the schools, perhaps we should ask for some additional funding to cover the costs," Ritter said.

The contract was approved with a 60-day notice clause of cancellation available to either party.

Ritter and Clerk Christopher Rose voted "no."

The district provided funds for the second step of a three-year program to upgrade instructional texts and materials in grades K-12. A director of planning and evaluation was employed to develop a continuous system of curriculum study and improvement. Specific goals have been identified and an intensive effort will commence on methods to achieve them.

As of June 30, 1979:

- * The value of all equipment amounts to $10,035,000.
- * The district has six elementary, two junior high schools, and one senior high school building, a bus garage, two small warehouses, and one administration building.

The district maintains 272 classrooms, housing 6897 students.

The salary range for the professional staff ranged from:

Degree	Minimum	Maximum
B.A.	$10,088	$20,457
M.A.	10,943	23,108
Ed.S./MSW	11,370	24,455

* The total number of classroom teachers is 250.5 and support teachers total 61.5.

* The ratio of pupils to teachers holding valid Michigan Teaching Certificates is 22.2.

Sports

The point after

by Al Zawacky

It may be the fastest growing sport in the United States, but the day when Clarkston High School boasts a certified soccer program may still be in the distant future—if it occurs at all.

That's the impression I got from talking to Paul Tungate, Clarkston High's athletic director, about the possibility of prep soccer coming to town.

"It's been discussed, but there just don't seem to be enough parents and students interested in banding together on behalf of a soccer program," Tungate said in responding to my inquiry. "The commitment and numbers just aren't there."

That wouldn't have surprised me 10 years ago. Those were the days when soccer was viewed with suspicion as the foreign and illegitimate brother of American football.

Remember the Detroit Cougars? (If you can, give yourself an 'A' in sports trivia. If you can't—well, don't feel bad.)

There seemed to be little reason to believe that the game could catch on in North America—not with baseball, football, basketball and hockey already monopolizing the sports calendar 365 days a year.

But then, a couple of summers ago, the Detroit Express and Trevor Francis arrived on the scene. Francis became a genuine celebrity, a superstar that even the most casual sports fan could identify.

Soccer became a fad, and like all fads there is the danger that today's fashion may become tomorrow's forgotten curiosity.

It's still too early to tell whether the recent growth of youth soccer will level off and dwindle or continue to grow in the coming years.

But one thing's for sure: There are a heck of a lot more kids kicking soccer balls around these days than there were 10 years ago, and when these kids reach high school age they're going to want to play somewhere.

The Waterford Parks and Recreation Department organizes a soccer program with no less than 21 teams, divided up into age divisions for boys and girls from 7-15.

I talked a few weeks ago with Ron Forbes, a coach for one of the Clarkston based squads, about the sport's growth and future.

During the course of the conversation, Forbes lauded the game's virtues, as well as raising an interesting economic point.

"Soccer is a very inexpensive sport to play," the coach observed. "Uniforms, shoes, a ball and some nets are all you really need, whereas there's a lot of expensive body padding and equipment required in a game like football."

Forbes would welcome the addition of the sport to the local high schools.

"We've got some pretty good teams in the area, but they're not going to get any better playing recreational teams all the time. I'd like to see the sport played at the high school level."

So would I—the sport is fun to watch, even if you're ignorant, as I am, of many of the rules.

I wouldn't want to see the game succeed at the expense of football, basketball or baseball, but I think I'd enjoy seeing the Wolves play the Barons in a friendly game of soccer.

Even if I didn't quite understand what was going on.

Wolves rip Adams

Coach lauds assistants, players

By Al Zawacky

Coach Walt Wyniemo thought there were some seldom noticed heroes behind his grid-ders' third victory of the season Friday night.

"I think our assistant coaches deserve some credit," Wyniemo said after the Wolves clipped Rochester Adams, 14-6. "Kurt Richardson, Darrell Marsh, Dave Smith and D.J. Campe—they've all worked hard and done outstanding jobs."

Wyniemo had equally high praise for the performance of his players, who upped their season record to 3-5 with the non-league win.

"Rochester was turning the ball over quite a bit, but I credit that to our defense," the coach said. "They (the defense) were forcing the play."

Twice in the first quarter the Wolves benefited from Rochester's generosity to place them inside the five-yard line, but the Adams defense rose to the occasion each time.

"At first, we just weren't able to capitalize on our chances," Wyniemo observed. "But with the chances we were getting, I was confident that we'd score—we've had good success all season long from in-close."

Nick Lekas scored both Clarkston touchdowns in the first half on one-yard quarterback sneaks, but Rochester made things interesting in the fourth quarter, scoring on a 59-yard run to close the gap to 14-6.

The Highlanders tried and failed to convert a two-point PAT attempt, but with just under two minutes remaining appeared to be driving toward pay dirt again until Scott Himes came up with a key interception.

Himes picked off Rochester quarterback Dave Razzano's aerial near the Wolves' 20-yard line, squelching Rochester's hopes of salvaging a tie.

Ski trip offered

Independence Township Parks and Recreation is offering a ski weekend to Schuss Mountain January 11-13.

The cost of the trip is $100 per person, and is open to anyone age 13 and up. Both downhill and cross country skiing will be available.

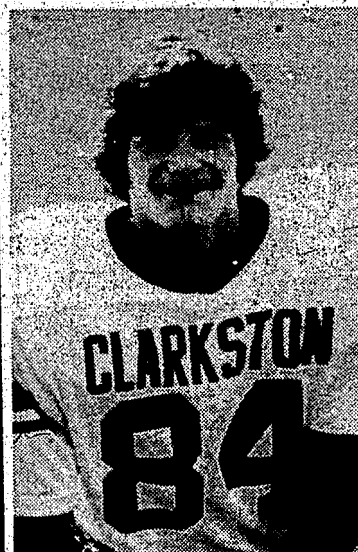

The price of the trip includes two nights deluxe lodging in the Village Rooms at Schuss, meals, two all area lift tickets or cross country passes, evening entertainment, and round trip transportation.

Anyone interested in the trip should contact the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department as soon as possible at 625-8223.

A $25 deposit is required upon registration for the trip, which is limited in size to the first 32 people to register.

Players of the week

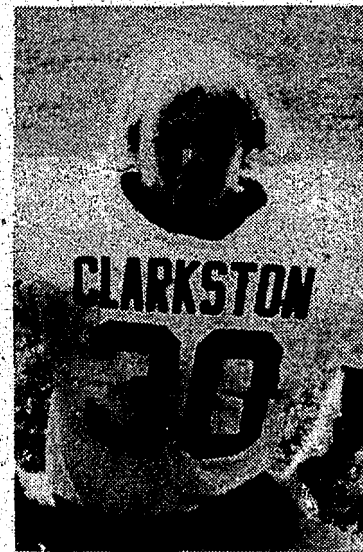

Brent Davies

Seniors Scott Himes and Brent Davies played their last home game of their prep careers Friday night—and went out in style.

Himes was a standout on the Wolves' defense, picking off a key enemy aerial in the final two minutes of play to thwart a Rochester rally. Davies played a strong game as well, catching three Nick Lekas passes good for 20 yards.

"Scott made some big plays for us," coach Walt Wyniemo observed in the locker room afterwards. "He and Brent have both been good hitters—they both played an important role in our victory tonight."

Win seventh straight

JV gridgers take title

By Al Zawacky

As far as coach Gordie Richardson is concerned, there's nothing surprising or mysterious about the success of this year's JV football squad.

Following his team's seventh straight victory last week, a 35-15 bombing of Waterford Kettering, Richardson had a simple and concise answer ready to explain the junior squad's latest league title.

"There's no secret to our winning record," the coach asserted. "We've just got good kids. Good kids who are talented and work hard all the time."

"I told them at the beginning of the year — after we lost our first game to Grand Blanc — that there wasn't any reason why they shouldn't win the rest of their games. They've got the ability."

Just as they did in 1978, the JV Wolves took the GOAL title by virtue of an undefeated league record.

And they did it in convincing fashion, too — dumping the Captains by 20 points in front of a large parent's night crowd Thursday.

Tim Ellis scored two touchdowns on runs of 12 and 62 yards and Mike Stefanski added a two point PAT run to hand the Wolves an early 14-0 lead.

Kettering struck back with a three-yard run in the second quarter, but the Wolves scored again shortly thereafter, Bruce Burwitz carrying over the goal line from the three to give Clarkston a 20-7 lead at the half.

Tim Brennan scored on a 22 yard run and Stefanski added his second PAT run of the game to run the lead to 28-7, and Todd Tompson's interception of an enemy pass in the next series of downs set the stage for the Wolves' final TD, a one yard plunge by Dave Fulcher.

Kettering added an anticlimatic eight points in the final stanza to arrive at the 35-15 final.

Burwitz totaled 112 yards rushing in the contest and Stefanski passed for 52.

Mark Peterson, Fulcher and Guy Hubble were three standouts on the Wolves' defense.

"Counting our punt returns, we totaled over 500 yards of offense," Richardson said. "That pretty much tells the story right there."

The JV's final contest of the season will be at home against Brighton, game time 7 p.m. Thursday.

Schrader breaks record

Richie Schrader established a new school record by scoring his tenth and eleventh touchdowns of the season as the Clarkston Junior High Wolverines clipped Waterford Crary 12-6.

The two TDs gave Schrader 70 points in seven games, beating out the old record by four points with one game still remaining on the schedule.

"Schrader's total yards don't really indicate what a potent scorer he is," Wolverine coach John Craven noted. "He just seems to smell that goal line sometimes and always seems to be in the right place at the right time."

After the first half last Wednesday, it didn't appear as if even Schrader could bail out the Wolverines, as CJH rushed for but 15 yards and failed to gain a single first down.

Schrader evened the score at 6-6 late in the third quarter, scoring from the three yard line after a blocked punt and a four-yard run by teammate Bruce Dale put the ball on the Crary three.

Late in the game, Dale Hesse made a key interception of an enemy pass to give the Wolverines possession on their own eight yard line.

From there CJH quarterback Rick Carter and Schrader engineered a 92 yard drive that resulted in the winning TD.

Schrader ran the ball 51 yards on the second play from scrimmage to put the Wolverines in Crary territory, and with just 17 seconds remaining Carter found Schrader in the endzone with a 17-yard pass for the decisive six points.

"That had to be the best catch I've ever seen," Craven said of the Carter to Schrader reception. "How Schrader kept his balance, stayed in bounds and held onto the ball, I'll never know."

Defensive standouts were Brad Moshier, who led the team with eight and one-half tackles; Hesse, who added three and a half tackles and a fumble recovery to his all-important interception; and Scott Stevenson, who also had a fumble recovery in addition to his five and one-half tackles.

Sashabaw shutout 14-0

Sashabaw Junior High coach Chris Kruger wasn't overly pleased with his football team's performance in their 14-0 loss to West Bloomfield last week.

But he could also see a few bright spots as the Cougars head into their final game of the season against Clarkston this Wednesday.

"The whole defensive unit played an outstanding game," Kruger said, "but we had the ball inside their 10 yard line three times and couldn't score."

"Mike Clem and Scott Banks performed well on offense, but other than that we had some problems offensively."

West Bloomfield carried an 8-0 lead into the second half by scoring with just four seconds remaining in the second quarter, and added their final TD on a 60 yard return of a pass interception with 10 seconds left in the game.

"Our quarterback was hit just as he released the ball," Kruger said of the errant pass. "The ball was wobbling and their defender was lucky to catch it—we were in the ball game right up to the very end."

The loss dropped Sashabaw to 2-5 for the season, but as the coach pointed out, "Records don't mean anything in the game coming up Wednesday."

"Our games with Clarkston have always been good in the past," Kruger concluded. "I'd imagine this'll be another hard fought, exciting contest."

Acton returning

Coach Dave McDonald is counting on time, effort and the return of Jane Acton in the lineup as his cagers enter into the home stretch of the 1979 campaign.

The time, he hopes, will allow his young and inexperienced squad to mature; the effort he'd like to see remain high, and in Acton the Wolves girls' basketball team will again have the services of, in the coach's words, "our sparkplug."

"Jane will start practicing with the team this week," McDonald said. "She's been given the OK to go ahead and start playing."

Acton suffered an ankle injury earlier in the season during a practice session, and her absence has been felt by the young Clarkston team.

"She's a sparkplug and a leader out there," McDonald claimed. "Jane should give us quite a lift."

In last week's action, the Wolves dropped both of their games, a league contest with Andover and a nonleague against Walled Lake Western.

Odds are...

by Al Zawacky

Not a bad week for the pigskin prophet—a perfect four-for-four raised the resident seer's season mark to 12-for-14.

I've got to work on those point spreads, though...

CLARKSTON AT BRIGHTON: A Wolves' victory here would rank as an upset of major proportions...although there are a few factors which might seem to point in that direction...the defense appears to have put it all together, and there's the possibility that the Bulldogs will be caught napping in the final game of the season...but as a betting man, I've got to stick with the statistics. BRIGHTON 28, CLARKSTON 13.

CLARKSTON JUNIOR HIGH AT SASHABAW JUNIOR HIGH: Judging by their season records, this should be an easy one to pick...but prior performances account for little in an emotion filled rivalry such as this one...if Sashabaw can keep Richie Schrader out of the endzone, they'll stand a good chance...but I'd rate that a dubious prospect, at best. CLARKSTON 26, SASHABAW 22.

DETROIT AT CHICAGO: How will the Lions lose this one?

By falling down on a punt return? Through an interception? A blocked field goal? By pulling out in front early, only to blow it at the wire?...considering all the possibilities and the suspense they generate, how can anyone say these guys aren't fun to watch? BEARS BY 10.

WISCONSIN AT MICHIGAN: The Wolverines are coming off an emotional, if unimpressive victory over Indiana...they're long overdue for a traditional "big two-little eight" blowout...B.J. Dickey is a doubtful starter due to a shoulder injury, but back up man John Wangler is no slouch...just ask Hoosier coach Lee Corso. MICHIGAN BY 16.

NORTHWESTERN AT MICHIGAN STATE: Finally, the boys from East Lansing may well have found a kid on the block they can pick on...rumors persist that the Spartans took a two-and-a-half hour lunch break during their contest down in Columbus last Saturday...and before they get a little too confident, perhaps they should consider what the Wildcats did to the Bucks a number of weeks ago. MSU BY 9.

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for coach Mike Boyd and his Our Lady of the Lakes football squad. The Lakers clinched the eighth league championship in the past 15 seasons by defeating Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard last Sunday, 16-0.

Dan Webster scored both touchdowns as Boyd's gridgers got sweet revenge for the last year's defeat, a 13-12 squeaker that cost the Lakers a trip to the Silverdome.

They'll be in the dome this year however, performing in the prep football playoffs on Sunday, Nov. 4.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT will pit crosstown junior high rivals Sashabaw and Clarkston in their traditional season finale rematch. Both head coaches, Sashabaw's Chris Kruger and Clarkston's John Craven, tend to down play the importance of the much heralded rivalry, but it's there all right.

Look for a real barnburner.

THE LAST HOME GAME of the 1979 football season Friday night was also the final appearance of a number of seniors who have performed with distinction during their tenure with the Wolves.

Space doesn't permit the mentioning of all of them, but sorely missed will be the services of players like Jim Farnsworth, Nick Lekas, Rick Boyd, Dennis Hughes, Ron Thompson, Paul Carr, Steve Lafnear and Brent Davies.

We join the entire community in thanking all the senior gridgers for their performances and wishing them best of luck in the future.

Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department will hold a manager's meeting on Thursday, Nov. 1 at 7 p.m. at the Township Hall for any team interested in playing basketball in a men's Sunday league.

The team sponsor fee is $100, plus a $50 deposit refundable at the close of the season, which begins on Dec. 2.

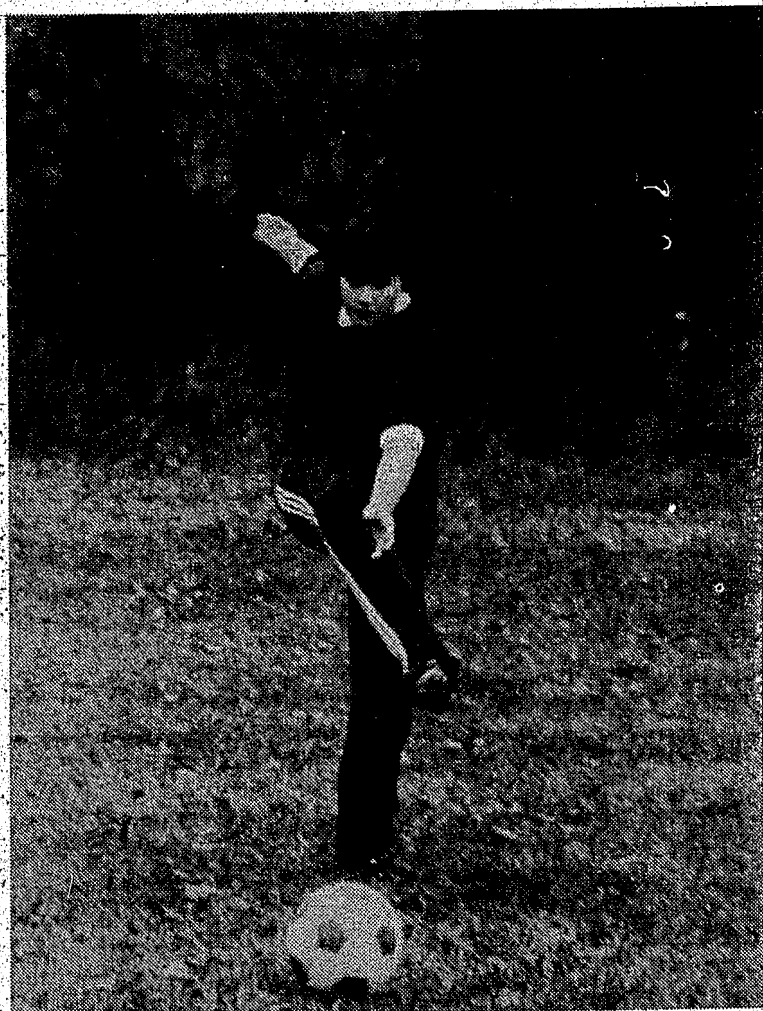

Games will be played at Clarkston High School beginning at 4 p.m. Two divisions of play will be offered, an open league and a class C league. Class C squads may not exceed a limit of 25 percent non-resident members on their rosters.

The recreation department will also be sponsoring a basketball tournament on Dec. 7, 8 and 9 at both the open and C levels.

For additional information on either the league or the tournament, call the Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department at 625-8223.

There were a few complaints about the damp and dreary weather, but it would have taken a lot more than a little rain to dampen the spirits of the Clarkston Raiders and Green Giants youth soccer teams last Sunday.

The two squads, consisting of both boys and girls ages 9 to 10, met in the final game of the season which saw the Raiders finish on top by a 3-0 score.

Brian Galley scored twice and Todd Edmonds once to account for the Raiders' tallies.

The League is sponsored by the Waterford Parks and Recreation Department and organizes teams for players ranging in age from 7 to 15.

Doing business Kitchenware shop offers 'more personal touch'

"Chain store pricing with small store service."

That's the promise made by Jim Luhellier, manager at La Treille's Wares and Wot-Nots, 5673 Dixie Highway in the newly opened Waterfall Plaza.

Opening just this past week, La Treille's carries a wide selection of housewares, dinnerware, small appliances and gift items.

"We carry only brand name goods and appliances," says Luhellier, "and our prices are competitive with any of the major retailers."

"We felt this area could use a smaller retailer, someone who could offer the community a more personal touch."

Luhellier has worked a number of years for the wholesale company which opened the Waterford Township operation, and is pleased with the response he's seen in the store's first week of business.

"We've exceeded our expectations and have had good response to our ad," he says. "A lot of people have come in and given us some very positive comments about the store's appearance and organization."

Luhellier promises that one problem customers won't run into at La Treille's is a short supply of items advertised as being on sale.

"There won't be any specials on things we don't have," he asserts. "If a sale price is advertised, we'll either have the item in stock or offer the customer a rain check."

"There won't be any waiting in long lines or problems with exchanges, either," Luhellier adds.

"We feel we provide the community with a service that is lacking at the present time," Luhellier concludes, "by giving them all the good aspects of both the big retailers and the small business."

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Independence Township Board will receive and then publicly open sealed proposals for the construction of Office, Maintenance, and Storage Facility for the Department of Public Works on Tuesday, November 20, 1979, at 3:00 PM EST at the Township Hall, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan.

The project consists of approximately 7,500 square foot, one story building for offices, maintenance and storage. Proposals shall be for combined architectural, mechanical and electrical work.

Examine plans, specifications and contract conditions at the Builders Exchange, Detroit; F. W. Dodge Plan Room and Dodge/Scan, Detroit, or the office of the Architect, Micuda Associates Inc., Suite 909, Pontiac State Bank Building, Pontiac, Michigan 48058. Obtain contract documents at the Architect's office for $30.00, deposit per set of drawings on or after October 30, 1979. Deposit to be refunded on return of sets in good condition without annotations.

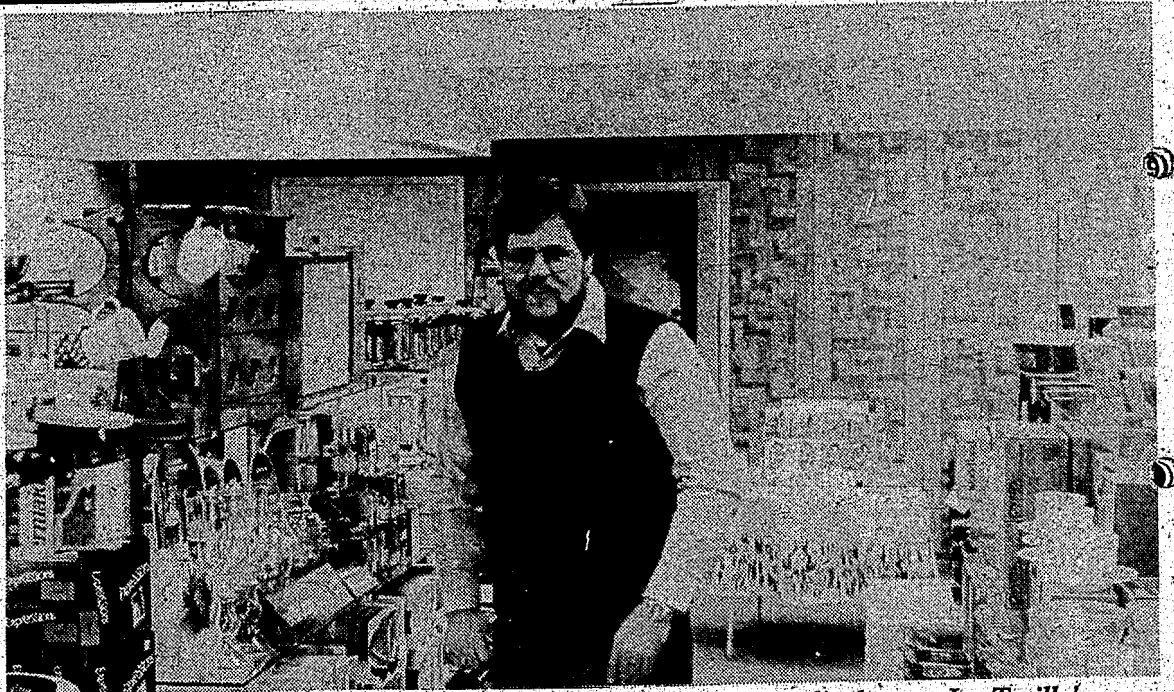

Because of the method of financing bid security is not required.

Financing the costs of construction during construction is builder's responsibility. Township intends providing its end financing at Pontiac State Bank and will assist builder in obtaining interim financing there if Builder wishes.

Award of Contract may be made on the basis of the proposal most advantageous to the Owner and will be made by the Township Board at their regular meeting on Tuesday, November 20, 1979 at 7:00 PM EST.

The Township Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids for good cause and to waive informalities in any bid received.

'Captain' takes fresh approach to seafood

Fresh fish, live lobsters and other fresh water and sea food delicacies are now closeby at Captain Dick's Seafood Market in Waterford Township.

Open just two weeks, the store is located at 5655 Dixie Highway, in the Waterfall Plaza.

"The old captain thought there was a need in the area and he talked it over with me," says manager Chuck Raisanen. "I thought it would be fun and interesting, so we started it up."

"The old captain" is the store's owner Dick Linenger of Independence Township.

He and Raisanen grew up together in East Detroit, and they're both in their thirties.

A 1968 graduate of Michigan State University's hotel and restaurant management school, Raisanen brings to the market expertise gained in kitchen restaurants since he was 16 years old.

His career has taken him to restaurants around the country from Michigan to Kentucky and California, so when customers need to know how to cook the fresh fish and seafood they buy, he has the answers.

Because they deal in highly perishable fresh fish, a cautious approach to stocking the store has been taken.

"Once we're new, we're slowly building inventory of what people want in the area," Raisanen says. "If customers want anything special, we can try and special order it."

Eventually hardware to open clams and oysters and equipment for steaming and boiling lobsters will be on hand, as well as party trays and catering.

In the meantime, items on sale included haddock, flounder,

Doing Business

Scrod, crabs, oysters and lobsters from the Atlantic Coast; snapper, grouper, mullet and shrimp from the south Atlantic and Florida; and white fish, lake trout, pickerel, and perch from the Great Lakes.

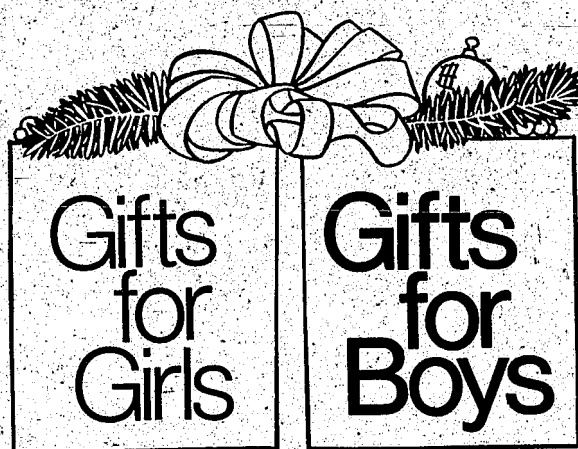

"For just starting out, we're pleased," says Raisanen of the business. "We're not that well known, but surely with the quality of the stuff we have, we will be."

Chuck Raisanen packs live lobster-to-go into a carrying case at Captain Dick's Seafood Market.

SECTION TWO

The Clarkston (Mich.) News

Wed., Oct. 31, 1979 33

First-place costume winner Gretchen Eidam of Wah-ta-wah Road, Independence Township, looks shocked at the announcement of her award. Games, puzzles and posters were prizes for three costumes and winners in the candy-counting contest. From over 700 entries, two youngsters—Susan McNally and John Ketvirtis—guessed correctly that 273 pieces of candy were in the jar.

Calm-as-a-cat, Dawn Kosinski of Deer Wood Road, Independence Township, keeps an eye on the happenings.

10 YEARS AGO
OCTOBER 30, 1969

SEMOG (the Planning Division of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments) has issued the first six-month report of growth. Independence Township is reported as having gained 91 single family and 133 multi-family units.

Clarkston's Homecoming Queen for 1969 was Karrie Garlak. The Queen's court included Nadine Blackett, senior; Linda Slade, junior; Crinker Kojima, sophomore.

The health department was still unable to approve the water flowing through the new 8 inch emergency lines serving people in southwest Independence. Although hundreds of thousands of gallons have been pumped thru, it has been found that the problem is not a bacteria, but cement holding the plastic lining in the iron pipes coming loose.

25 YEARS AGO
OCTOBER 28, 1954

Phyllis Beardsley had the misfortune to be stalled in the wake of Hurricane Hazel. Heading for Montreal with over a hundred General Motors Girl's Club, members the train of nineteen coaches was held in the Toronto depot. The girls slept in cars marooned in two feet of water.

Lieut. W.O. Ludwig was home on a few days leave from Ft. Devens, Mass. He will return to duty the end of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brittain are living in the Madison apartments, owned by the G.E. Poultons. The other apartments are rented and will be occupied very soon.

Country Living

Clarkston welcomed Kyles warmly.

Bert and Dorothy Kyle moved into their Robertson Court home the day before the big blizzard of January, 1977.

Within two days, most of their fears about not meeting people or making new friends were put aside.

John Jones, son of neighbors Bob and Uldene Jones, plowed out the Kyles' driveway and another neighbor brought them groceries from Rudy's Market on his snowmobile.

"That didn't occur in Bloomfield," said Dorothy, speaking of their former neighborhood on Wing Lake Road in Bloomfield Hills.

One of the Kyles' two daughters' Kitty, lives in Clarkston with her husband Dave Raup and their two children. Dorothy's brother, and his wife, Jim and Shirley Bickford also live in Clarkston and consequently, the Kyles were visiting the area frequently.

"The real reason we moved here is the grandchildren," said Bert. Kyle, 7, and Kelly, 2, can now ride their bikes over to their grandparents' house to visit.

"Kitty was always finding homes for us to look at. This one came up, we made an offer and boom-it was accepted. We hadn't even sold our home yet," said Dorothy.

"We decided to give it a year," said Bert, "and if we didn't like it we would move back to Bloomfield."

"Sandy loves it here," said Dorothy, speaking of their 20 year old daughter. Sandy jogs almost every morning with brother-in-law Raup, and also enjoys swimming and sailing on Parke Lake.

Living on a lake is something new for the Kyles, Bert said, adding that while he likes swimming, he really has enjoyed getting to know their neighbors at the subdivision beach.

The Kyles will be married 33 years this February. While Dorothy worked as a dental technician before she was married, the jobs she has held since then have been part time for Christmas money.

"I love keeping house and being a mother," said Dorothy, adding that she's always felt that way. While she did set up a fabrics department for Jacobson's in Birmingham about 20 years ago, she only worked at it for a year.

Bert has been a manufacturers' representative for 25 years. And while his office was in his home he traveled quite a bit until recently.

His territory included Michigan, Indiana and eastern Canada. Dorothy and her daughters did not travel with Bert very often.

"We ate everything he disliked while he was gone," she said, adding that she usually tackled big projects to pass the time.

Bert likes being his own boss and one of the reasons is that he's been able to change the way he works. Any traveling he does now is local, and the trips he does take are vacations with Dorothy.

A big project that Bert and Dorothy have enjoyed together is raising bearded collie dogs.

They were intrigued by the breed because it is one of the oldest in the world and Scottish in origin, as is the Kyle name.

The Kyles imported a female bearded collie from Ireland 12 years ago and became one of the first families in Michigan to own that breed of dog.

Since there are so few bearded collies in the United States, the Kyles did a lot of traveling, looking for a suitable mate for their female. People from other states also came to the Kyle's home to buy puppies, and the Kyles enjoyed meeting people from all over the country.

The two bearded collies that the Kyles have now, have been retired from motherhood.

One of Dorothy's hobbies is making slipcovers and quilting, which she taught herself to do 10 years ago. She has redone some of the furniture in her home, which is mostly of a traditional design, accented with antiques.

She prefers primitives, adding "I like plain lines and wood."

While Bert has refinished many of the antiques in their home, his favorites are carpenters' tool boxes.

The Kyles have spent a good part of their time on Robertson Court redecorating their home—they removed seven layers of wallpaper from their living room walls and still have a couple of projects to complete before the house will be done.

And they have absolutely no intention of moving.

"We love Clarkston," Bert said, "it's the greatest place we've ever been as far as neighbors are concerned." He added that they enjoy hearing stories about old Clarkston, watching sailboat races on the lake, and knowing the neighbors can be counted on to help out when needed.

Raising bearded collie dogs like Kelly and Cocoa has played a big part in the Kyles' lives. Bert and Dorothy have enjoyed meeting a variety of people across the country through their association with the Bearded Collie Club of America.

The Kyles have accented the decor of their home with a variety of antiques, mostly primitives, like this old planter which is over six feet long. Refinishing old carpenters' tool boxes is one of Bert's hobbies.

Ann's ark

Why not try synthetic,
humane fur lookalikes

by Ann Glenn

One quiet fall day we wandered over crackling spicy-smelling leaves and looked at colorful reflections of autumn splendor mirrored in only black quiet streams.

We approached a raccoon along the water's edge.

The closer we approached, we noticed that he did not run. The closer we came we could see his torn ears, a sign of his dominance in a war torn world.

There was quiet terror in his eyes.

He was held secure in a leg hold steel jaw trap. His leg was mangled, chewed, crushed from his struggle to free himself.

When would the trapper come and try to deal him a blow on the head that might or might not kill it?

Those hours or days of suffering might be worth $10 to the trapper—and then only if this were the ideal pelt.

The raccoon is not the only one to suffer; but over 17 million United States' fur-bearing animals suffer similar death every year.

And the trap is not selective about what it gets in its grasp—a bird can fly down for the bait and become entrapped.

Countless household dogs and cats become the victims of its claws.

Endangered species are not spared.

The trap upsets the balance of nature, overpowers the majestic raccoon who has withstood and survived the ravages of nature, man, and dog in other ways.

It is a blind instrument of death.

There are also fur farms and seal hunts that cruelly exploit animals.

What is the answer to this moral problem?

How about furs California style—a thick string fabric imported from France made into winter coverups?

These coats are literally the hottest thing going in Beverly Hills and San Francisco.

They're warm, soft, cuddly, and light weight like the real thing, yet they're less expensive and easy to maintain.

Made of 100 percent acrylic, they are machine washable.

They are imported from Paris and range in price from $150 to $350 and come in assorted styles from short to long as well as in various colors with white being the most chic.

Locally these Arrisa coats are available at Jacobson's and you might try Lord and Taylor.

Reaction from the endangered species is great!

One local cat summed it up when he said, "It's no skin off my back."

A CONSUMER SHOPPING TIP
Confusion over names given different cuts of meat will soon change. The National Livestock and Meat Board now recommends labels which tell the kind of meat, where on the animal it comes from, and the name of the retail cut you the consumer buy. Until your supermarket adopts these labels, you'll still have to ask your butcher.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

These nippy mornings remind me that it is time to start making pumpkin pie. I would highly recommend Mrs. Kenneth (Valerie) Phaup's praline-topped pumpkin pie.

Praline-Topped Pumpkin Pie

- 1 c. canned pumpkin
- ½ c. liquid brown sugar

Hilberry's 'Much Ado' worth the to-do

(Much Ado About Nothing)
By William Shakespeare
The Hilberry Repertory Company

Wayne State University

The fine Hilberry Repertory Company at Wayne State University has continued its production from last year of William Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing."

There are several compelling reasons for this continuation in the Repertory program until mid-December.

Neil Thackaberry, Jr., as Benedick, is a confirmed woman-hater, but his high comedy exchanges with Beatrice, full of wit and sarcasm, are finely tuned. Edith Taylor Hunter is new to the cast as Beatrice and she makes the dialogues with Benedick sparkle and crackle.

Then there is the villainous Don John, played by Hilberry veteran Von Washington. The venom drips all over the place when he's on stage.

The farcical scenes which help stave off a tragic feeling late in the play are handled with hilarity by the bumbling constable Dogberry (Peter Van Wagner) and the foul-breathed Verges, the parish officer played so well be Gerald B. Roe.

It is this duo and their nit-witted cohorts who bring villainy to light before tragedy has destroyed the courtship of Hero (Sara Morrison Barnicle) and Claudio (Mark Tymchyshyn).

Shakespeare has fashioned this always-popular comedy on the power of gossip and hearsay and the power of calculated falsehoods to change human destiny. Much is misunderstood and even the romance of Beatrice and Benedick remains at the end questionable. The irony is, however, effective and eventually love and affection win out over villainy and reachery.

One final comment concerns the scenery under the direction of Kenneth J. Wieggers and Kim Beringer. The stage was adapted from research based on the actual Globe theatre in the 17th century. The set is rich looking and well made. It is designed to suggest the stage one would see were one to have attended a performance in Elizabethan times at the Globe. The house lights are not lowered to show what the atmosphere of an afternoon performance, with the sun high overhead, would have been like.

There are some things here to make a to-do about and "Much Ado About Nothing" is recommended for all of the above reasons.

'Diary of Anne Frank' moving, tender

The Diary of Anne Frank
By Frances Goodrich and
Albert Hackett
Hilberry Theatre - Hilberry
Repertory Company
Wayne State University

There are few plays that present the stresses and strains of growing up as a young girl as "The Diary of Ann Frank" does.

And the amazing thing is that it is based on the diary of a girl, only 13, in the beginning, who kept a diary under most unusual circumstances.

Wayne State University's Hilberry Repertory Company's first play of this season is a moving and tender production of the Pulitzer Prize-winning dramatization that first appeared on Broadway in 1955.

It presents the story as it unfolded in Anne's diary that was kept between 1942 and late 1944 as her mother, father, sister and four other Dutch Jews hid in the attic of a warehouse during those years to escape the Nazis.

The diary was discovered in the attic after Anne and all save her father had perished in concentration camps.

It records the small group's existence for those two years under the most deprived and isolated stress. During that time, Anne matured from a 13-year-old young lady.

Maryann Ferenc is Anne. As this young girl, the most outstanding scenes show her wide-eyed innocence and sparkling personality as she continually injects life in a most dismal life.

She is an active, normal and vivacious girl who turns to the diary to record what can not be easily expressed.

As she becomes aware of young Peter, the VaDanns' slightly older teenage boy, also imprisoned in the garret, the audience can shift uncomfortably when they see themselves in the first awkward sexual strivings.

Anne Frank was a child of intelligence and sensitivity. She recorded her own feelings as well as the interaction between the eight people.

Despite her own fears and the stress of waiting for eventual discovery, she maintained her faith in mankind and a spotlight on her smiling face as the Nazi approach highlight her outstanding hope for a future she never had.

"The Diary of Anne Frank," directed by Anthony Schmitt and with a superb supporting cast, plays in repertory through Jan. 17, 1980.

Coping with kids

Father's love also important to newborn

We had the opportunity recently of watching at close range a new father with his first child just a few weeks old.

This made us think more about the role of a father in raising infants and providing what many babies miss.

A good, gentle, attentive father can give a newborn an extra bit of love and a start on a life that is basically secure.

Fathers cannot take the place of mothers in the child's first few years of life, but they can supplement the warm cuddling and handling that is expected from mothers.

Warmth and stimulation cannot be given in too great amounts and double doses of it from a loving mother and father can only produce a much happier and healthier child.

The father we observed held the baby, stroked her constantly and talked to her at every opportunity. When the meal was served, the infant was in one hand as he tried to eat with the other. When it was time to take the dog for a walk, the baby was bundled up, strapped to his chest and got some fresh air as well as the continuing warmth of dad's body.

We are most aware of how much a child learns in the first three years of life. The first weeks and months are more critical than most people would suspect.

While it may be difficult for a lot of parents to appreciate this little bundle without a personality, it is the stimulation that occurs early in the baby's life that helps to form a loving and bright child with a "real personality."

Cuddling, touching and stroking as well as talking, cooing and singing are all things that help to stimulate a newborn and initiate the first contacts with the outside world. Since these are all loving actions, they help immeasurably in teaching a child to feel secure and to be able to later reciprocate with love and gentleness.

The more a child learns beginning at birth, the more he will want to learn. The more a child is loved, the more she will want to love.

And a good father can teach things as well as a loving mother.
