Murphy: Decision on Pine Knob is months away

By Kathy Greenfield

Pine Knob has been offered for sale to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, but a decision on the matter is three to six months away, according to Daniel Murphy, Oakland County executive.

Some 400 acres of the nearly 600-acre complex are included in the offer by Pine Knob Investment Co. owners Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell.

The music theatre, golf, ski and mansion facilities make up the 400 acres. The remainder of the complex is owned by Borg-Warner Equities, home-based in Chicago, Ill., and includes 24 condominiums and plans for a total of 650 single-family residential units and condominiums to be built on the property.

Locricchio and Francell were unavailable for comment.

"We've only had one session with the owners of Pine Knob," Murphy said Monday. "If what they say were true about the operation and if the parks commission decides to look at it further, I would say that the operation out there out to be saved."

"I think the government has to look at it from the standpoint of saving an entertainment and art center," he said.

Before any decision can be made, Murphy said, the county would have to be assured Pine Knob would generate enough income to pay for itself.

"We certainly are in no position or feel that we can use any tax dollars in order to buy Pine Knob," Murphy said. "The county would obviously have to issue revenue bonds."

Sale of the property was offered because of financial difficulties faced by the owners, Murphy said.

"They don't want to lose it. If they could afford it, they'd hang onto it, but their financial condition doesn't allow that," he said.

If private industry becomes involved in considering the purchase, the county would withdraw, he added, because a tax-paying owner would be preferred.

Originally, Pine Knob offered only the golf course for sale, according to Eric Reickel, manager of the County parks and recreation department.

But when he rejected the idea, the rest of the recreational facilities were included in the offer, he said.

"There's no way we could justify buying just another golf course, because the golf course itself would not generate enough

School superintendent's salary goes to $42,300

By Pat Braunagel

Clarkston Schools Supt. Milford Mason has been awarded a three-year contract which sets his current salary at $42,300.

Mason's salary was boosted 9 percent, from $38,800.

During the three years Mason has held the top job in the school system, his contract has been renewed annually.

Details of the new arrangement and the raise were not discussed during the board's public meeting Monday night, at which the contract was approved unanimously by the board.

Mason's new contract, which expires June 30, 1982, can be reopened annually for salary consideration.

In addition to benefits generally in line with those of the district's teaching staff, Mason has use of a school district-owned car.

Mason also was granted Monday night authority to award additional raises of up to 2 percent to four central office administrators, who were given two-year contracts with 7 percent raises starting July 1 of this year.

The discretionary funds available for this purpose total $2,647 for the 1979-80 school year.

The four administrators are Assistant Schools Supt. Mel Vaara, whose current salary is $36,289, and three administrative assistants, Conrad Bruce, William Neff and William Dennis, each of whom now makes $35,199.

Holiday cookbook

It's nearly holiday time--when guests are welcomed with special foods both rich and lavish.

Each family, each household, has its own traditional treats--and sharing the recipes for those goodies is also a part of the spirit of the season.

To help in the exchange of recipes throughout the community, The Clarkston News is planning a holiday cookbook of recipes from you and your neighbors.

The cookbook will be included in the Dec. 5 edition of The Clarkston News. The deadline for getting your recipe to us is Wednesday, Nov. 28.

To encourage readers to respond quickly, we're offering a small Christmas gift to the first 25 cooks who either bring or mail their recipes to: The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main St., Clarkston, MI 48016.

'No bidding war' on Pine Knob

income," he said. "The revenue potential of the ski hill and the music theater makes the whole thing reasonable."

Reickel also said the county would no longer consider the purchase if other parties became actively involved.

"We're not going to get into a bidding war," he said. "If somebody else wants to buy it, we'll withdraw."

"If, however, the golf course and mansion were no longer part of the offer, the county would pursue purchase of the remaining areas, he said.

The Nederlander family, which holds a long-term lease on the music theater, would continue to operate that portion of Pine Knob, Reickel said.

In 1975, the county rejected an offer to purchase Pine Knob.

"On July 23, 1975, the parks commission rejected an offer made by Indusco Corp. to purchase Pine Knob," a news release from the parks commission noted last week.

"However, at that time, speculation that the commission would someday acquire the complex continued following a recommendation by the Independence Township Board that the county make such a purchase."

A purchase price will not be determined until Pine Knob's books are studied, Murphy and Reickel said.

Pine Knob's state equalized value is about $4.25 million including about $3.5 million for real estate and the remainder for personal property, according to township Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

The tax levy Dec. 1 is 43.6 mills including county, school and township taxes, Ritter said.

Of the $175,503 total taxes due, $125,413 is for Clarkston Schools, which, if not collected, would be made up by state dollars.

About $14,070 is to go to the township and the remainder would be county taxes.

Obituary

Rev. Allan Hinz

Memorial service for the Rev. Allan H. Hinz of Hillcrest Drive, Independence Township, was Nov. 5 at the Spiritualist Church of the Good Samaritan, Independence Township.

His wife, the Rev. Beryl Hinz, officiated. Burial followed at Otawa Park Cemetery.

Hinz, 77, died Nov. 3. He was pastor of the Spiritualist Church of the Good Samaritan 16 years and served as first president of the church board 26 years.

Hinz was a trustee of The Independent Spiritualist Association seven years, and owner and operator of Al's Waterford Hardware 16 years.

The mortgage burning for the church at 5401 Oak Park, built in 1970, was held Sept. 22, but he was unable to attend because of his illness.

He is survived by his wife; children, Allan E. of Clarkston and Mary Lynn Gray of Groveland Township; and grandchild Traci Lynn of Clarkston.

Also surviving are his sisters, Pauline Vogt and Elsie Koellner, both of Tavistock, Ontario; and brother, Frederick of Central Lake.

The family suggests memorials to the Spiritualist Church of the Good Samaritan.

Remember: *The circled EPA estimate is for comparison to other cars. Your mileage and range depend on your speed, weather and trip length. **Your actual highway mileage and range will probably be less than the highway estimate. Cruising range estimates are determined by multiplying the EPA and highway estimates by standard fuel tank capacities. Chrysler New Yorker, Newport and Cordoba: 21 gallon capacity; Chrysler LeBaron: 19.5 gallon capacity; Plymouth Volare: 18 gallon capacity; Plymouth Horizon: 13 gallon capacity.

"Let's make a deal" now on one of our mileage cars.

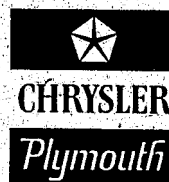

When it comes to mileage, we're the place to come to. Consider: our full-size Chrysler Newport and mid-size LeBaron get better EPA estimated gas mileage than Chevrolet Caprice or Ford LTD. Cordoba comes up with better mileage than Thunderbird or Cougar XR-7. And Volare with standard engine and automatic transmission beats the comparably equipped Granada or Monarch in mileage. Overall, we can offer you five Plymouth models that deliver 25 mpg or better. Chevy has two, Ford one.

Like we said, if you're looking for mileage, we're the guys to see. Especially now during our "Let's Make a Deal" Closeout. Every one of our mileage cars must go now. In fact, you may never have a better chance to get into the Chrysler or Plymouth of your choice. So, "let's make a deal," shall we? Like, today.

Multiple interests in proposed sale

Lozano: 'If you want a war... let county try to purchase Pine Knob'

By Kathy Greenfield

Of the approximately 400 acres offered for sale by Pine Knob to the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission, about 170 acres are owned by Dr. Harley Robinson of Bloomfield Hills.

Robinson's business manager and other parties interested in the proposed sale were contacted by The Clarkston News.

The acreage owned by Robinson and leased to Pine Knob Investment Company owners Joseph Locricchio and Gary Francell includes the golf course and the property where the Pine Knob Mansion sits.

"I would assume that if we had somebody of substance assuming the lease, we wouldn't argue," said Jim Albright, Robinson's business manager.

The uproar in Independence Township over the proposed construction of a 20-story, ski-run-roof hotel by Pine Knob was also mentioned by Albright.

"My own opinion is that the people out there have done some pretty stupid things," he said from his Bloomfield Hills office. "If they sell it to the county, they'll get what they deserve."

"I think the people didn't give a lot of consideration to a major tax-paying base at Pine Knob," he added.

In October, 71 percent of 4,480 township voters rejected the use of recreational district sites of 10 acres or more for resort-convention hotels.

Borg-Warner Equities of Chicago, Ill., owns about 200 acres of the nearly 600-acre Pine Knob complex.

There are 650 single-family dwellings and condominiums planned for the property, said Edwin R. Spomer, properties manager.

There are now 24 condominiums built on the property, he said.

About 90 days ago, Spomer said he personally made an offer to purchase the country club mansion and golf course, but the offer was turned down.

It is too early for Borg-Warner's position on the proposed sale of Pine Knob to the county to be stated, he said.

"At this time, we really don't have a comment," Spomer said. "I can't until we've researched our position."

Another group that recently considered purchase of the mansion and golf course has put its plans on the shelf for the time being, said Dr. Albert Petrucci of Waterford Township.

Petrucci was one of about 30 members of the Pine Knob

Country Club interested in the purchase.

"We decided our chances were probably slim and none," Petrucci said. "We've pretty much dropped it for the moment until we see what happens with the club, other proposals and the county proposal."

Independence Township Trustee Rudy Lozano, a member of the Pine Knob Country Club, said he was also involved in the proposed purchase by the members.

"If you want to see a war in Independence Township, let the county try to purchase Pine Knob," he said. "I am vehemently opposed to any more property in Independence Township coming off the tax rolls."

"There is no doubt about it that there is a buyer out there somewhere in the private sector that is willing to take over the complex," Lozano said.

On the other hand, Robert Hurlbert, chairman of the Citizens Against High Rise Zoning in Independence Township, said he supports the purchase by the county.

"Our group was not organized against Pine Knob; we were against high rises in the township," he said.

"If indeed Joe Locricchio has had financial difficulties and he feels this is a way he can solve those difficulties, I certainly find no fault with the proposal—assuming the county is harboring no plans for high rises," he said.

"In terms of a tax impact on our township, there is no substantial tax impact on the township," Hurlbert added. "If there is one, it would be on the county—I'm sure the county will look at that."

Pine Knob still pursues hotel

Despite the proposed sale of some 400 acres of the Pine Knob complex, plans for a 20-story, ski-run-roof hotel are still being pursued.

A special Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals meeting is scheduled Wednesday, Nov. 28, and on the agenda is an appeal of township building department Director Timothy Palulian's refusal to issue a building permit for the hotel.

"All they're doing is exhausting every possibility," Palulian said. "They say my interpretation is an erroneous interpretation and they're asking the (appeals board) to make a decision on it."

After the expected rejection by the appeals board, the matter is to be taken to court, Joseph Locricchio said last week.

Locricchio and Gary Francell are Pine Knob's owners and developers.

Opinions vary on police issue

By Kathy Greenfield

Reactions are mixed to pending discussions by the Independence Township Board on possible elimination of the local police department.

Township Supervisor Whitey Tower said he thought the issue was settled until next April. Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) Lt. James Curtis said the matter should be decided, because two departments don't work.

Director of township police services Charles Kimbel said a local department responds best to local needs.

A public hearing on the issue is set Nov. 27 and the township board is to make its decision Dec. 4. Both meetings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

"Time-wise, the timing of it is just right out of the tree," Tower said. "We seem to handle everything in a crisis—react rather than act."

Budget-setting in the township is in April, and that is also when the township considers the contract cost for OCSD deputies, Tower said.

And with a police millage that ends this year of 1 mill or $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation and projected increases for deputies of 10 percent, Tower said it is too early to make a decision.

Presently, the township maintains a local department with a director, two police officers, an animal control officer and support services at a cost of about $136,000.

The four deputies, including all equipment and support services, cost about $123,000.

The local department covers the day shift from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week and the ## police protection controversy

OCSD covers the other two shifts from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.

After raise requests by two local police department employees were denied by the township board, they were taken through the union grievance procedures and settled, Tower said.

The resulting promotions and raises brought the issue to light again, he said.

Beth Tower, the supervisor's daughter, was promoted from secretary to administrative secretary and Linda Richardson was promoted from a clerk's position to secretary in the department.

"It wasn't the satisfaction to some to let it lie," Tower said. "Time-wise, I guess the last two raise requests reminded us again, 'Why are you giving raises when the department is in question?'"

In October, the two local patrol officers were also kept on the payroll after federal funding for the two positions ended.

Because the additional employees put a drain on the police budget, the township board voted to lay-off one OCSD deputy, reducing the contract to four deputies, Tower said.

"At that time with Pine Knob running and the village coverage and so forth, we decided to take the day shift," Tower said. "That was their (the OCSD) recommendation. It was discussed. It was agreed upon by both parties."

After the fifth deputy was cut, the county could not cover all shifts, because in a township as large as Independence, two officers need to be on duty at once, said Curtis.

The OCSD's first reaction was to suggest the local department take the midnight shift, he said.

"They thought we were doing that for publicity, so we said, 'Take whatever shift you want, and they took days.'"

In any event, one department should cover the township, he said.

"I was always under the impression they were using us until they could have their own department," Curtis said.

"If the board wants to establish its own (police department), I have no qualms," he

Duane Hursfall succumbs at 61

Funeral service for Clarkston realtor and former Independence Township Supervisor Duane Hursfall was Monday afternoon at the Clarkston United Methodist Church with the Rev. James R. Balfour officiating.

Burial followed in Lakeview Cemetery.

Hursfall, 61, died Friday. He had been a resident of the village of Clarkston since 1919 and was owner of Duane Hursfall Real Estate Inc.

Hursfall, a Republican, was supervisor of Independence Township from 1957 through 1970. He was past president of the Michigan Townships Association and was a member of the Clarkston United Methodist Church, Pontiac Elks Lodge No. 810 and the North Oakland Board of Realtors.

The family suggests that memorials be made to the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife Mildred; two daughters, Diane Dutton of Clarkston and Mrs. Allen (Leslie) Methven of Houghton Lake; his mother,

Duane Hursfall

Doris Hursfall of Clarkston; brother, Dan McGrew of Clarkston; and six grandchildren, Ann, Christine, Jeanne, and Marna Dutton of Clarkston and Nicholas and Scott Methven of Houghton Lake.

Arrangements were made by the Goyette Funeral Home of Clarkston.

Police advisor quits in disgust

By Kathy Greenfield

Charging the Independence Township Board with inept handling of police matters, Charles Whitlock has resigned from the five-member police advisory board.

"It seems to me there's always unnecessary turmoil. The community is divided on these issues; I don't think it's necessary," he said. "I think we get activity instead of progress and there's a heck of a difference."

Whitlock's letter, dated Nov. 9, cited "hours of exhaustive and intense research" by the police advisory board only to have its recommendations "completely ignored."

Appointed to the advisory board by Supervisor Whitey Tower, Whitlock is a captain with the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD). He plans to retire in January.

Referring to Treasurer Frederick Ritter's placement of "dissolution of the township police department" on the township board agenda with short notice, Whitlock called the proposal "surreptitiously brought about" and said it can only "further (Ritter's) political aspirations at the present time."

"I get the impression that Fred is trying to go for the supervisor's job," Whitlock said. "In so doing, he's capitalizing on something that should have been done when the police advisory board's report was done."

Responding to Whitlock's opinions, Ritter said he is not running for supervisor.

The proposal to eliminate the local police department "was on the agenda according to the policy set down by the township board—it was on the agenda at noon Friday," he said. "The reason I waited until November was that although we received the police advisory report in March, we didn't discuss it until October."

"I don't think that my action in putting it on the agenda was any more politically motivated than his action in making an issue of it," Ritter added.

Now that it is on the table, the proposal to dissolve the local department, "is sound and does have some merit," Whitlock said.

"The proposal should be supported, but the manner in which it came about should be condemned," he said.

The police advisory report recommended contracting five OCSD deputies and retaining a local department to handle parades, school athletic events

police protection controversy

and animal control.

The report also proposed studying a long-term solution of forming a local public service department to handle police and fire protection.

"If they'd followed our recommendation in the beginning, it would have made more sense," Whitlock said. "I'm thoroughly disgusted."

Instead, the local police department was retained and the sheriff's department contract was reduced from five deputies to four.

The local department took over the day shift from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week and the county took the other two shifts from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.

"By creating one department for one shift and another department for two shifts, it just wouldn't work," Whitlock said. "The police coverage plan may be an effort to undermine the local department."

If the four deputies had been scheduled to cover 20 of the 21 shifts with the local department and reserve unit also covering these shifts, it would have worked, he said.

Whitlock also criticized the Oakland County Board of Commissioners.

"This township's endowed with three county commissioners to take care of this township," he said. "They (Mathew Dunaskiss, Robert Gorsline and Richard Wilcox) show a definite lack of interest with our problem."

Because the county commission has decided to offer contracting of OCSD deputies as a service, the commissioners should work with townships and not have the sheriff's department involved in selling the contracts, he said.

The OCSD "should be providing us with services, not out selling (them)," Whitlock said.

"They've been put into a position where they have to force issues and use high-pressure salesmanship."

As a solution to "take the heat off" the township board, Whitlock recommended forming a police and fire administration board at the last three meetings where police matters have been discussed.

Allowed by state statute for municipal improvement, the five-member board appointed for six-year terms could work on a long-term solution to police and fire protection problems, he said.

But he has been unable to get a response—either positive or negative—from any board member, Whitlock said.

Editorial

More than politics

Independence Township's police-protection arrangement has been, and continues to be, regarded by the citizenry as "just politics"—Something the boys down at township hall can play games with.

Like people everywhere who say, "It won't happen to me," residents seem confident that if they should need a police officer, one will be there. They are, for the most part, not concerned about the color of his uniform.

However, there are some substantive questions that need to be asked about the quality of police services taxpayers are getting for their money.

It looked for awhile like those questions were being dealt with by the Police Advisory Committee. But that panel's report has become just another pawn in the political game.

Township Treasurer Fred Ritter has been accused of "playing politics" fairly heavily over the last two weeks. It's a charge often levelled by one politician at another who seems to have gained some advantage. Regardless of the in-fighting, the importance of the issue should be kept in mind.

Citizens will have a chance to ask some hard questions of the board at the public hearing scheduled for Nov. 27.

Rest assured that the meeting will be packed with police, with reserve officers and the wives of reserve officers connected with both the local department and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

There should also be a strong contingent of persons whose interest in police services is limited to the protection of their lives and property.

Clarkston needs gymnastics

To the editor:

Thank you for giving due recognition to our local gals who deserve applause for all their talent and commitment to gymnastics.

These girls are but a few of the talented youngsters in Clarkston, and it's a shame we can't accommodate them right in our own district with a gymnastics program in the junior highs and high school.

Even if they didn't compete until high school, why not an after school program similar to those they offer in other sports? Why must these girls drive all the way to Bloomfield Hills for training and competition when they could be competing for our own schools?

Since we already have gymnastics equipment in the schools, it wouldn't be that expensive to start a program. We certainly have an abundance of interest and talent; all we need are some qualified gymnastics teachers.

I hope that Mr. Tungate will take a look at the growing number of skilled gymnasts in this community. Why not put this talent to use on our own gymnastics team?

Not only would it benefit a lot of talented people, it might also attract those schools who are leaving or have left our conference because of our lack of gymnastics competition.

I would gladly help in any fund raising needed to start or support the program, and I'm sure there are other interested parents who would support this worthy cause.

Sincerely,
Margaret Beamer

Jottings a booster

Dear Mr. Sherman:

Though we have not met, I have a high personal regard for you and want you to know of our silent partnership.

You recently had an interesting "Jim's Jottings" focusing upon Pleasant View in Corunna. Little did you know that you reinforced our efforts at improving the esprit-de-corps of the employees. But you did!

It's great to know someone somewhere did not take a pot-shot at an industry in which employees become surrogate everything. Parents, family, friends, purchaser, seller, lover, pastor, cook—you name it.

Everything possible is done to underpin whatever lifestyle or ethnic-religious background the person developed in. Your "Jottings" says more to me and the employees here than perhaps is known by the public at large.

Thank you, sir. It is good to know you through your very appreciative pen.

Pity poor Jimmy Carter. Seems like just nothing he tries works out. Sunday's paper carried news of his latest set back.

'Continued burning of coal may kill us.' Well, not us, but a couple generations down the road.

There goes President Carter's national energy strategy.

Before and since coming into office, Mr. Carter has urged an increase in reliance on coal—the nation's most abundant fuel resource—for solving our energy problem.

Now comes no less body than the National Academy of Science's latest report.

It says continued burning of fossil fuels—particularly coal—may raise the temperature of the earth's atmosphere and change the world's climate dramatically.

This report, of which Mr. Carter received a copy, gives credence to the "greenhouse" theory. This says warming of the earth's surface and lower atmosphere will increase with the level of carbon dioxide in the air.

Some scientists say the amount of carbon dioxide in the air will double over the next 50 years. If it does the average global temperature will rise about 5½ degrees Fahrenheit.

This increase in carbon dioxide will also allow more radiation to pour to the earth. This type radiation does not cause skin cancer.

That's comforting.

Not so comforting is another scenario created by one of the Academy's scientists. Though admitting he had not studied this scientifically, he said the increased temperatures would cause a melting of the West Antarctic ice sheet, which would raise the level of the ocean and lead to flooding of low-lying coastal areas worldwide.

Like we said in the beginning, poor Jimmy Carter.

He can't turn to nuclear energy. Three Mile Island sort of eliminated that. Excuse the word 'eliminated'.

He can't turn to gas. That too is a fossil fuel (carbon dioxide) but will run out too soon to assure Amy of not having to always sleep in long johns.

He can't turn to oil. (Fossil fuel, again), but our overseas suppliers are getting too slick to depend on.

Poor Jimmy Carter.

Sorry our heirs won't be around to read how he handled the national energy strategy.

Some woodburners work as energy solutions

But safety measures need consideration

By Ann Franklin

There are three ways to heat with wood: Your fireplace, wood stoves and furnaces.

However, your fireplace, without any attachments is a heat loser rather than a heat provider. Warm air that you have paid to heat with your furnace is sucked out your chimney along with the heat from the fire. Any heat gain is radiated from the back of the fireplace wall after it gets hot.

Heat exchanger grates can be used in your fireplace. They work by drawing air through the hollow pipe grate and transferring it back into the room. For any real gain these should be used with glass fireplace doors to prevent the loss of warm room air up the flue.

Wood stoves work either by radiating heat or by convection of the warm air. Convective models have a fire box set inside a metal case. They look much like an oil space heater.

Loading doors are on the side or top so you cannot enjoy an evening fire. Top loaders must be operated with extra care to prevent a blast of hot air in the face when loading.

This type of stove usually does not have a cook plate. They can be thermostatically controlled and require loading only 2-3 times a day. The outside does not get as hot. A consideration if you have small children.

They send 70% of the heat upward unless redirected by blowers, making them good for basements. The outer case can add an additional $100 to the cost.

Radiant stoves are made of cast iron or heavy gauge sheet metal. Many have cook plates for your tea kettle or more extensive cooking. Some models have wide doors so that you can also enjoy a "fireplace."

They work by radiating 70% of the heat they produce outward. The energy heats surfaces it strikes—people, floors, walls, objects—but leaves the air relatively cool. This can be a disadvantage in a basement if you want the hot air to rise into the house. The most popular models are Scandinavian or American reproductions.

Wood furnaces are efficient and effective, but require more work. They can sometimes be used in tandem with your regular furnace. Safety measures are a must when heating with wood. Study the rules before starting.

As petroleum costs continue to spiral, burning wood for heat is gaining in popularity.

'If it Fitz. . .

Take that, Miami!

by Jim Fitzgerald

We were parked just a few blocks from the center of downtown Detroit. About a dozen youngsters, carrying some sort of weapons, began attacking our car. "Cousin Al should see this," I told my wife.

You remember Cousin Al. He lives in the tiny, rural town where I used to live. When I moved to Detroit over three years ago, Al said I was risking my life. He predicted I would be mugged while walking to work. When he heard I'd moved my precious white body into an apartment building which also houses many black bodies, Al said I should buy a huge watchdog.

Al's attitude is not rare, even in the face of Detroit's much-publicized renaissance, and it's not confined to a bucolic setting. Just a few days ago, a big city columnist named Joe Modzelewski wrote the following paragraph for the front page of the Miami (Florida) News:

"If Detroit were a car, it would recalled. Detroit, like the South Bronx, New York and Cleveland, is suffering from a possibly terminal urban malaise.

Motor City became Murder City during the '60s when it regularly placed No. 1 on the homicide list for big-league cities. Detroit has polluted air, insufferable winters. Its unemployment figures, always high, are going through the roof now that Chrysler is on the skids."

Thank you, Mr. Modzelewski. If Miami were a car, it would install a swimming pool in its trunk and convert its backseat into an efficiency apartment and rent it to my cousin Al for $500 a week in January.

What can I say to people like Al and Modzelewski? Certainly I can't deny there's crime in my city. I have a friend whose home on the east side was broken into four times within six months. Evidence indicates it was the same burglar each time. No arrests have been made. The police, in fact, seem rather bored by the constant repetition.

Nearer downtown, in a "plush" Lafayette Park apartment building, my son's $300 bicycle was chained to a post in an underground garage, 36 feet from a 24-hour security guard. The bike was stolen.

Not incidentally, the kid now has a new bike and he sometimes pumps it out Woodward, after dark, to hear music at Bookie's on Six Mile Road. He knows this is a risky stunt but he refuses to surrender to the bad guys and change his life-style—he's a bike-music nut. His long-suffering mother says he is even more foolish than his father. She is correct. Bike riding is almost as dumb as jogging. I suppose I could point out to Cousin Al that all the bad-guys aren't lurking on big city streets. Country homes are burgled, too, and small towns are sometimes awakened by gunshots. There is no denying crime is everywhere, but there's also no denying the odds on my son getting conked on the way to a rock joint are greater in Detroit than they were when he lived in a town where muggings are reported on the front page of the local weekly.

So why do I enjoy living in Detroit so much? Let's go back to the opening paragraph, where I kidded you a little. The weapons carried by the youngsters "attacking" my car were rags, hoses and sponges. I was going through an outdoor car wash at the Chrysler Elementary School in my neighborhood.

The day was bright and warm, and so were the kids who were raising funds for their community council. It was great to hear their happy chatter and to watch them slop more water on themselves than on the cars. Those children were black and white and brown and yellow. Ordinarily, I wouldn't mention it.

But what I enjoy most about Detroit is the mix of people. It makes me feel good. I know that sounds corny, even stuffy, but there you are. Shoot me.

And despite what Cousin Al says, I'm not a complete idiot. I do realize the Chrysler school, in comparatively affluent Lafayette Park, is not typical of all Detroit schools. But it is typical of what all the schools might be, someday, after all the Cousin Als have dried up and blown away. That is what's got to happen.

I'm going to hang in there, and I'd rather do it here, where what's happening is happening.

Internal problems affect Independence patrols

By Kathy Greenfield

Personnel problems within Independence Township's police department resulted in virtual elimination of local patrol officers for several hours last week.

Officer Thomas Cavalier was fired and his fellow officer Dirk Feneley resigned in protest early Wednesday morning, Nov. 7.

police protection controversy

Cavalier was fired by Charles Kimbel, director of township police services.

Calling the incident a

"threatened firing," Supervisor Whitey Tower said it was rescinded after all parties got together.

"The main reason it was rescinded was just procedure," Tower said, and, although written charges have not been filed, they will be.

Details could not be released, because the matter involves personnel, Tower said.

"Right now it's work as usual," Kimbel said on Friday, adding that the personnel problems would be "taken care of in due process."

The evening before the incident, elimination of the local police department was discussed at the township board meeting and was tabled for a public hearing on Nov. 27 and a decision on Dec. 4.

During the course of the over-two-hour long discussion, Trustee Jerry Powell said, "It's been brought to my attention that there are some minor and major internal problems," and asked Kimbel if the problems would be taken care of.

"They will be handled," Kimbel responded.

Back-up Police protection for the township during the incident was provided by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department (OCSD) after they were "notified in case we needed them to be alerted," Kimbel said.

"Fortunately, there were very few calls that day," he said. "I could have handled all the calls."

While the matter was being resolved, the two officers never left the premises," Tower said.

"Nothing had been written at the point (Cavalier) was fired, the firing was rescinded and he was back to work the same day," he added.

After the call for coverage came in, the OCSD covered the township "on an emergency basis for that one day," said Lt. James Curtis.

At the end of the day, another call came in that the problems were settled, Curtis said.

Council postpones police resolution

By Al Zawacky

The Clarkston Village Council delayed a resolution concerning the proposed elimination of the Independence Township Police Department Monday night, pending more direct feedback from village residents on the matter.

Council's decision to seek residents' opinion before acting was expressed by Councilman Jack Byers. "We encourage people to come to our next meeting (Nov. 26 at the Village Hall) and express their views on this matter."

On Nov. 6 the police issue was debated at the Independence Township board meeting, with the board members voting 4-3 to reject the proposal.

However, the board also voted in favor of a motion to table the matter for a special public hearing on Nov. 27, prior to another vote to be held at the board's regular meeting scheduled for Dec. 4.

Councilman Michael Thayer, who also serves on the township board, expressed doubt in the wisdom on dismantling the township department and relying solely on the Oakland County Sheriff.

"I think we need the county for the heavy stuff—detective work, road patrol, things that the township can't afford at this time," Thayer said. "But I think people feel that the smaller things should be kept under local control."

Thayer noted that the cost factor was the primary argument in favor of disbanding the township force. "The liability is high—we're paying a lot of money for the few people we have," Thayer said. "But the idea of completely throwing them (The Independence Township Police) out—I don't know."

"I think the council on behalf of the village should take a position on this matter, as to whether we support the township board's action, or whether we favor dealing strictly with the county," Byers said.

"With some citizen input, we can establish a recommendation and designate a village representative to attend the hearing."

Mixed reactions

added. "The two-department system does not work—it's a mess."

Of the 10 townships with contracted services from the OCSD, Independence is the only one that also has its own department.

And the three townships with the lowest number of deputies on contract are Independence with four, Springfield Township with two, and Rose Township with one, Curtis said.

The director of township police services said he favors a local department.

"I would rather have a local department, because I think a local department is more responsive to local needs—all the ordinances, all the traffic," Kimbel said.

"You get to know everybody who might possibly do something wrong," he added. "That's knowledge you learn on the street."

Manslaughter charges brought in accident

An Independence Township resident has been charged with three counts of manslaughter in connection with a triple-fatality accident in Brandon Township Oct. 20.

The warrants were signed Tuesday afternoon by 52nd District Judge Gerald McNally, police said.

Donald O. Powell, 25, of 6300 Eastlawn, has been charged with manslaughter in the deaths of teenagers Luann Cowie, Lynn Marion and Edward Vanderland, all of the Brandon Township area.

The accident occurred at 12:46 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 20.

Powell was driving a full-size 1977 Pontiac, police said, and Cowie was driving a Volkswagen when the vehicles collided on Seymour Lake Road just east of Perry Lake Road in Brandon Township.

The investigation, conducted by Deputy Gary Holtz of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department's traffic division, showed Powell was intoxicated at the time of the accident, police said.

Powell is to be booked today at the Oakland County Jail and arraigned before Judge McNally, police said.

Crash demolishes two vehicles

Two vehicles were "virtually totalled," but injuries were minor in an accident Sunday at the corner of Dixie Highway and White Lake Road, Independence Township, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Ray Berendt, 22, of Pontiac was the driver of a northbound car on Dixie Highway when the accident occurred at 4:11 p.m.

Berendt was charged with running a red light in the incident, police said.

Driver of the second car in-involved in the crash, was James Glazier, 54, of Snow Apple Drive, Independence Township.

Neither driver was injured, but their three passengers were taken by ambulance to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, police said.

Berendt's passenger, Connie Seaman, 22, of Pontiac; and Glazier's passengers, Nanna Glazier, 55, of Snow Apple Drive, Independence Township, and Darlene Lamb, 26, of Pontiac were treated and released, a hospital spokesperson said.

Chrysler land could become state park

Public opinion is being sought on the proposed purchase by the state of a 2,300-acre tract in Orion Township, about three miles east of Independence Oaks County Park and the site of another proposed state land purchase.

State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac) has been pushing for the state to buy between 200 and 300 acres south of the park to save wetlands surrounding the headwaters of the Clinton River from becoming a gravel mine.

Now State Rep. Alice Tom-boulion (D-Oakland Township) has asked for an informational hearing on a proposal by Gov. William Milliken for the state to buy 2,300 acres owned by Chrysler Realty in Orion Township.

The property is north and east of Keatington and stretches to within a mile of Independence Township border.

The proposed purchase is part of Milliken's plan to aid Chrysler Corp. and is contingent on federal aid also being granted to the corporation.

Although the corporation announced plans for its Orion Hills development several years ago, the project never got beyond the planning stages.

Information on the proposed purchase will be presented by officials from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Oakland County

Parks and Recreation Commission and other agencies.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 20 at the Orion Township Hall, 2525 Joslyn.

Thanksgiving eve worship service set

The annual Thanksgiving unity worship service sponsored by the Independence Pastor's Association will be held at the Clarkston United Methodist Church this year.

The service is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 21.

"Gratitude: the Aristocrat of Virtues" will be the topic of Rev. Charles Cushing's sermon. He is pastor of St. Daniel Catholic Church.

Providing music for the service will be a joint choir representing all participating churches.

Wyniemko: 'We've got to work'

It was just two years ago that the Clarkston High School varsity football team romped to a 9-0 record en route to a league title and a spot in the state prep playoffs.

The following year the Wolves dipped to 2-7 under a new head coach and this past season marked the arrival of another new mentor—Walt Wyniemko, who brought with him some impeccable credentials from Madison Heights' Bishop Foley.

In the following interview with Clarkston News Sports Writer Al Zawacky, Wyniemko comments on the just-completed campaign, talks about the program's activities during the off season, and looks ahead with cautious optimism to next year.

NEWS: First of all, what will you be doing between now and the start of next season?

WYNIEMKO: We'll have a weight lifting program starting soon, and in February and March we'll hold sessions stressing agility and conditioning.

After that, the boys will be on their own with some guidance from Mr. Screws, a teacher here who'll be helping me with the weight program.

NEWS: In all honesty, wouldn't you have to say that you were a little disappointed with your 3-6 record?

WYNIEMKO: I don't like to think of it as a bad season—our kids gave 100 percent and did everything that we asked of them. As far as wins and losses are concerned, sure—I would have liked to have won a few more games. But when a team works as hard as this one did, there's really nothing more a coach can ask in a season.

'We're hopeful... we should be a strong contender in the GOAL next year'

-CHS coach Walt Wyniemko

NEWS: One point that's been raised is that the JV is coming off a 8-1 season, and the JV squad prior to them was 9-0. People are expecting to see that reflected at the varsity level.

WYNIEMKO: So are we. But there are a lot more factors involved—the kids have to stay healthy, for one. And a number of people who were on that 9-0 team did not play this year, for whatever reason. There may be some key players from that 8-1 team who won't come out next year, either.

We are hopeful, though—we've got a strong nucleus of two good teams coming up, and we should be a strong contender in the GOAL next year.

But—if we don't begin our weight program, if we don't get off our butts and work on our conditioning, if we do nothing between now and next March—well, it's going to be very difficult to field a competitive football team.

Walt Wyniemko reflects on his first season at the helm of the Clarkston High School football program.

NEWS: You don't foresee any problems with respect to turnout, do you? You had some pretty impressive numbers in this past season's program.

WYNIEMKO: We should have more. Again, we feel we should be a strong contender with two solid JV teams back to back, but at the same time we know we've got to continue to produce, continue to work. Other teams in the league aren't standing still—they're working on their own weight and conditioning programs, and we've got to do the same.

NEWS: One thing that helps toward building a winning program is stability in the coaching staff. Are we going to see the same faces at the varsity assistant and JV coaching levels next year?

WYNIEMKO: There's been no indication of any changes. You never know, a coach might leave for some personal reasons between now and September—things come up. But if the season were to start tomorrow, all of our staff would be returning.

NEWS: Now that you've got a season under your belt, how would you rate the quality of football in the Greater Oakland Activities League as compared to some of the Catholic schools you've competed against?

WYNIEMKO: Our league is very competitive, very good. I'd say there's more talent in the GOAL.

NEWS: How would you rate Clarkston as a football community? Were you pleased with the support of the fans, parents and players?

WYNIEMKO: Sure, the people here are very supportive and enthusiastic. I didn't hear anything unfavorable.

NEWS: Any closing comments?

WYNIEMKO: Only that I feel we've laid the foundation of a solid program here. We have a great group of kids, and a good coaching staff from the ninth grade on up. They're teachers, educators who really enjoy working with young people. And I think that's important, very important to establishing a good program.

The Clarkston High School football team honored five individual players at its annual post-season banquet last week: Ron Thompson, Thad Sheppard, Mike Schumborg, John Tisch and Steve Lafnear.

Thompson, a 5-foot 11, 185 pound senior defensive lineman, was voted the Wolves' most valuable player by his teammates and Schumborg, a junior, was selected as the team's "Most improved player."

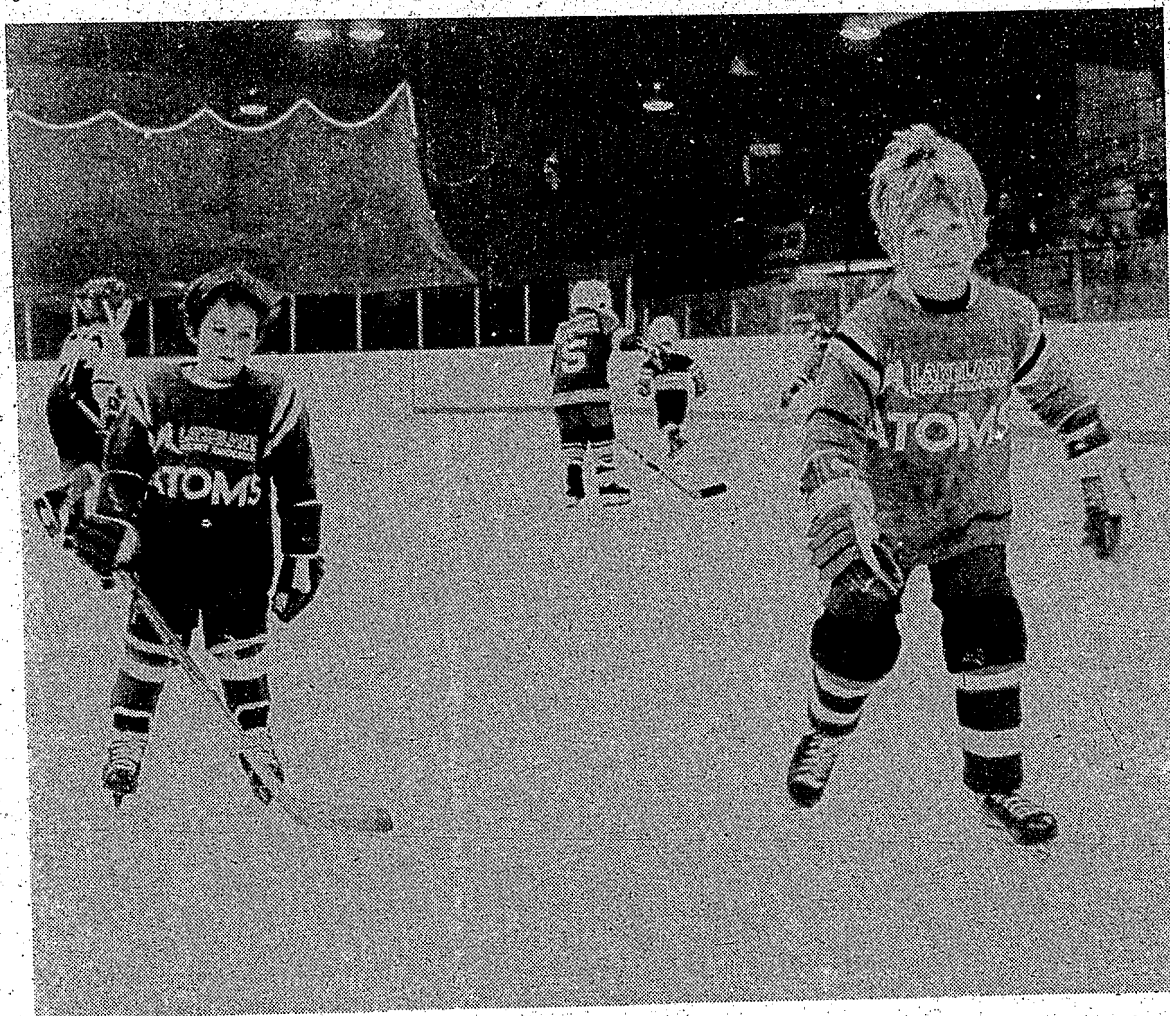

Sheppard, another senior, received the "heart" award. "It's kind of like an unsung hero," said head coach Walt Wyniemko. "Thad worked hard and had a super attitude all season long."

Lafnear and Tisch, also seniors, were presented with the B.J. Hanson Award, named in honor of the late CHS coach and athletic director. The award is given in recognition of players who show the most determination and stamina, especially in playing over injuries.

The arrival of cold weather and early darkness can only mean one thing at Lakeland Arena: it's hockey time. Skaters as young as three years old—[nicknamed 'Atoms']—participate in a special program at the Waterford Township rink, learning basic skating and stickhandling skills. Here, skaters Lee Pritts II [left] and Brian Sienkiewicz practice their stops and starts.

Faceoff: Coach Ed Sienkiewicz drops the puck between two Atom skaters at the start of a quick scrimmage game.

The Atoms may be old enough to begin their hockey careers, but many of the skaters are still small enough in stature to skate routinely through the coach's legs.

Chiefs hold 9th annual banquet

Detroit Lion defensive back Tony Leonard obliges a young fan with an autograph at the Clarkston Chiefs post-season football banquet. Finding himself without a suitable sheet of paper, the youngster had Leonard sign the bottom of his trophy.

By Al Zawacky

Tony Leonard, defensive back for the Detroit Lions, and Walt Wyniemo, head football coach at Clarkston High School, were the guest speakers at the Clarkston Chiefs little league football banquet Thursday night, held at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center.

More than 500 parents, coaches and players were on hand for the event, enjoying an elaborate dinner of beef, shrimp, potatoes, vegetable and assorted cold salads.

Leonard, a defensive back who suffered a knee injury in the Lions' opening contest in Tampa Bay and is still recovering from a subsequent operation, fielded questions from the audience about his career in pro and college football, as well as the recent play of the Lions.

Wyniemo spoke briefly in praise of the Chiefs' program, encouraging the young gridders to continue into the junior high and high school programs with the words, "You never know what you can do until you try."

Following the two speakers, each member of the Chief's freshmen, junior varsity and varsity squads were presented with a trophy in recognition of their hard work and spirited play throughout the season.

All three teams posted winning records: the varsity unit going 5-2 and the two younger squads battling to identical 4-3 marks.

Each team also has its own group of cheerleaders, who were also presented with awards for their contributions during the season.

"This is our ninth annual banquet and each year it gets bigger," said Harry Shoup, board member of the Clarkston Football Association and master of ceremonies at the event. "We've got a pretty strong football program here—an excellent program."

Two bright orange signs hanging on either side of the large banquet hall may have said it best.

In proud letters the banners declared: "Clarkston—where football is still king."

CHS hosting Titan cagers

Basketball fans can see the University of Detroit Titans perform in an intra-squad scrimmage free of charge at the Clarkston High gymnasium Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The event is just one of the stops at area high schools as part of the "Titan Caravan", a showcase tour of the U of D cagers under new coach Willie McCarter.

"It's an opportunity to see one of the top independent teams in the country free of charge," says Clarkston varsity basketball coach Gary Nustad, citing the presence of outstanding players like Wilbert McCormick and Dave Niles on the Titan roster.

The point after

by Al Zawacky

Those of us who remember our final year in high school can appreciate the mixed emotions felt by those members of the varsity football team that have donned their Clarkston uniforms for the last time.

On the one hand, you're looking forward to graduation—but on the other hand, you begin to realize that there are aspects of high school that you're going to miss.

Football is one of them. Win or lose, there is a very special pride that comes from taking the field in your school's uniform. Years from now both the bad and the good games provide for a lot of fond memories.

Each and every member of the Wolves who had the guts to stick it out and work hard from the opening day of camp through to the final game of the season has earned the respect of his classmates and the community—best of luck in the future, guys.

***

I've still got a lot to learn about the prep, college and professional gridiron—there are a whole series of questions I'd like to ask some reputable pigskin pundit. Like why, for instance...

... isn't the Clarkston High press box heated?

... don't the fans who heckle the officials apply for their jobs?

... do the Wolves wear maize and blue jerseys when it's the junior high that goes by the title "Wolverines"?

... wouldn't anybody buy a Lions season ticket?

... doesn't Gordie Richardson ever take some well-deserved credit for a victory?

... doesn't Bo Schembechler recruit someone who can kick a field goal from more than 10 yards out?

... doesn't Earle Bruce punch photographers?

... doesn't William Clay Ford put Russ Thomas in a job he might be competent at? Like flipping the kielbasa at the concession stands?

... can't someone invent a decent ventilation system for athletic locker rooms?

... is it so hard to take decent photographs of the Clarkston High football field?

... don't the fans who heckle the coaches visit the locker room during halftime and suggest some plays?

... were there 20,000 empty seats at the Detroit-Buffalo game two weeks ago?

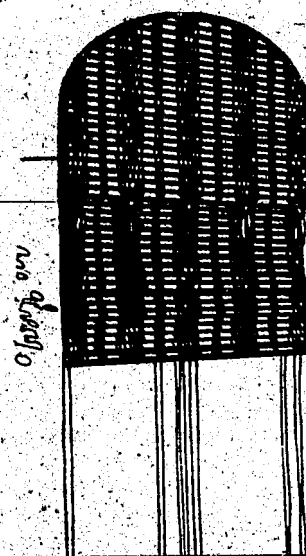

Wait a minute... that one I know!

Milford crushes cagers

Milford's Deb Graski was a perfect 11-for-11 from the foul line and added nine field goals as well to lead Milford to a 55-32 victory over Clarkston in varsity girls basketball action Thursday.

"At 6-foot-3, it's pretty obvious she has a lot going for her," Clarkston coach Dave McDonald said later. "She was a one-man team against us."

Lanette Whitehead led the Wolves in scoring with seven points; Tracee Antos had six and Lisa Forsyth five. Lynn McCormick grabbed nine rebounds.

"We were never really in the game—they had us 18-6 at the end of the first quarter,"

McDonald noted. "We've got to keep working on our shooting—our percentage is still below what's needed to win."

The girls play their final home game of the regular season this Thursday against league-leading West Bloomfield, before finishing the campaign in Rochester Tuesday.

A glimpse at the world of big-time sports reporting through the eyes of Joe Falls will be offered Monday night at the Clarkston Jaycees' general membership meeting.

The program will be held at 8 p.m. at the Clarkston Village

Looking ahead to the post-season tournament play, McDonald retained a cautious sense of optimism.

"The girls and myself, naturally we're all disappointed with the way the season has gone," the coach said. "But if we play real hard and get a few breaks, we could surprise a few people in the tournaments."

Snowmobilers, prepare now

Fall is the perfect time to get out your snowmobile. Not to go riding, but to get it ready for when the snow season soon arrives.

A little preventive medicine now can keep a carefree outing from turning into an unexpected repair session on the trail.

Here, then, are ten easy tips from one of the experts—

1. Check all the hardware: tighten nuts and bolts; replace fasteners that appear damaged; replace loose rivets.
2. Examine control wires and cables for wear and replace any damaged parts.
3. Examine the drive belt for cracks or tears and replace if necessary.
4. Check the track and skid frame for loose or damaged parts.
5. Inspect chain case components and change the lubricant.
6. Check brake adjustment.

7. Check ski alignment and examine the ski wear bars.

8. Remove any covers over the intake hose or exhaust outlet and clean all cooling vents. On liquid-cooled models, check the coolant level.

9. Check all the switches, headlight, taillight and brake-light.

10. Put in fresh gas and oil and examine the in-line fuel filter to make sure it's clean. Start the engine.

You will likely be able to handle those tasks yourself. For other servicing—including carburetor and choke adjustment, ignition timing and clutch alignment, —you should probably take your snowmobile to your dealer.

Finishing preventive medicine might include a wash and wax of the machine's exterior and inspection of your tool kit. These 10 tune-up tips will ensure you're ready for the first ride of the winter.

Village considers bike ban

By Al Zawacky

Clarkston's pending bicycle riding ban on Main Street sidewalks between Washington and Waldon is still in the research stage, according to council member Jack Byers.

"The village attorney is still researching present laws in order to write an ordinance that won't overlap any of the existing traffic controls," Byers said.

"The new law would be part of a traffic control ordinance, and apparently the present ordinances already contain provisions for bike riders."

Byers stressed that the ordinance would only apply to those who actually ride the bikes or park them in front of buildings, congesting the sidewalks for pedestrians.

"The whole purpose of the law is to insure the safety of riders and non-riders alike. It's not intended to make kids ride their bikes in the street—they'll still be able to walk their bikes down the sidewalks in the business section."

Byers said that the village would post signs indicating exactly where the riding ban will be in effect.

12 new house sites get ok

Twelve new house sites have been approved by the Independence Township Board.

The acre-and-one-half lots are part of Heather Lake Meadows, phase two, that is located in Independence and Orion townships.

There are 274 total lots in the total development, said James Scharl of Kieft Engineering, Independence Township, when he presented the final plat for approval to the township board last week.

So far, 129 lots have final plat approval, he said.

Toxic chemicals found in drums in open field

By Dick Krause

The apparent abandonment of five 55-gallon drums of highly toxic industrial material in an open field off Hammer Lake Road near Coats Road is under investigation by the DNR.

The material was traced to a local industrial plant where the owner said the barrels were stolen.

Greg Katalenich, an environmental conservation officer for the DNR, said the barrels contained a phenolic compound used as an industrial paint stripper.

He said the material was very toxic and, under certain circumstances, could be deadly.

"Say somebody fell into a vat of it," Katalenich said. "I wouldn't give that person much chance to live."

Katalenich said the concern with barrels of such toxics being left in the open is the possibility of a child playing with the material or the barrels leaking the substance.

"If you just got it on your hands, it probably wouldn't kill, but badly burn the hands," he said.

He added that the substance would contaminate ground water if it leaked from the barrels.

The DNR, he said, has taken samples from all the barrels as well as from some 5 to 10 gallons of sludge Katalenich said was found on top of one of the barrels and next to it.

Dennis Wait, of Oakwood Manufacturing, where the material is used, said company officials weren't aware the barrels were missing until they were contacted by the DNR.

"As near as we can figure out, the barrels were stolen from our paint shop on Oakwood Road," Wait said.

According to Wait someone in a pickup truck apparently came to the building where the barrels were stored outside. The driver told a worker he was supposed to take the barrels and the fork lift driver loaded them on the truck, Wait said.

"The people from the DNR came out to see us, and thought we had dumped the barrels out in the field. The barrels still had our name on them. We picked the barrels up and they are back in our possession," Wait said.

The barrels originally were reported to Oxford Township by Don Frances on Tuesday, Nov. 13. Oxford police contacted the local DNR office, which in turn contacted Katalenich and Paul Gauthier of the DNR's emergency response team.

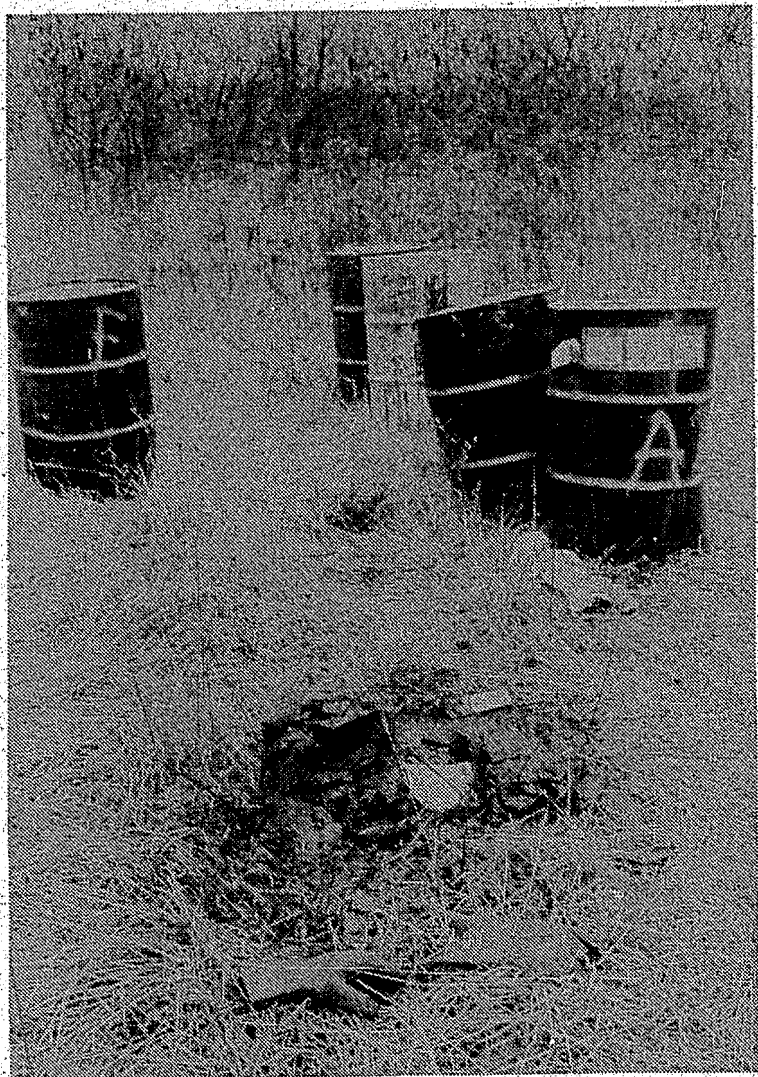

The DNR investigators were at the scene on Hammer Lake Road Tuesday evening. By Wednesday evening they had contacted Oakwood Manufacturing and the material had been removed.

Katalenich said he was especially appreciative of the help given him by township supervisor Robert Clack and other officials.

"Oxford Township officials have really been a big help," Katalenich said. "They seemed very concerned, and have even been out combing the area."

Supervisor Clack has asked that if anyone sees abandoned drums that they not touch the containers, but contact the police or township offices. Katalenich said persons finding such containers could contact the DNR office at 666-1500.

Drums containing toxic materials easily traced in Oxford Township.

Hunting ban proposed

The roar of hunters' rifles may soon be a sound of the past in Independence Township.

The Hunting Area Control Committee meeting held Oct. 31 at township hall resulted in a recommendation that "hunting with, or the discharge of, a rifle is unlawful in Independence Township...except at target ranges recognized and approved by the Independence Township Board."

The proposal will not become law until after a hearing is held regarding the matter, and the date has yet to be set, said Township Supervisor Whitey

Tower, who is also a member of the committee.

"It's better than a year's process to go through the steps we have to," Tower told the township board last week.

Only one target range would be exempt, that he knows about, at the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club," Tower said.

Other members of the committee are Sgt. Dave Smith of the Michigan State Police, Sgt. Dick Johnson of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and Bruce Andrews of the State Department of Natural Resources.

Travelers' pick-me-up

Path committee gets money from township

Responding to a plea by members of the Independence Township safety path committee, the township board granted $500 for its budget.

The vote was unanimous to support the committee's efforts at last week's township board meeting.

Among activities of the year-old committee have been attendance at a safety path seminar in Ann Arbor, a display at the recent Crafts and Cider Festival in the Clarkston Village Park, and supplies for reports, mailing, stamps and stationery.

"It's not a lot of stuff, but so far it's come out of the safety path members' pockets," said Joe Figa, who represented the group.

The committee is looking at various types of safety path routes throughout the township connecting parks, schools and business districts, Figa said.

The board approved the $500 budget proposed by Figa and Jean Benzing, safety path member and planning commission member who acts as liaison between the two bodies.

The funds are to be provided from the township board account.

The plight of two counseling services formerly housed by the defunct Independence Center has been temporarily relieved by the Independence Township Board.

Office space for 90 days has been offered to Garry Pullins, a social worker for the Clarkston Youth Assistance Program, and to the Pontiac General Hospital mental health counselor.

The Rev. Alex Stewart spoke for the youth assistance program at last week's township board meeting.

"It's a great program, very unique in the country," Stewart said. "All that's asked from the local community is to provide office space and secretarial help.

We just can't afford office space."

Offices in the second story of the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center on Clarkston-Orion Road, south of Sashabaw Road, were offered beginning Dec. 1 in a unanimous decision by the township board.

Because the area is accessible only by stairs, and is not barrier-free, township Building Department Director Timothy Palulian said an occupancy permit could be issued only for up to 90 days.

Maybee marshland to be dredged

A permit to dredge some 20 acres of marshland in Independence Township has been granted by the township board.

The property, owned by Clark Easley of Independence Township, is located on the north side of Maybee Road, directly east of Spring Lake Country Club.

Although the board's decision was unanimous, planning commission member Jean Benzing voiced her objections.

"It is the intention of the developer to beautify this area. The ultimate use is vague—either to be added to the country club or developed for single family residences," said James Scharl of Kieft Engineering, who represented Easley.

"You will remember the large, low area that has been a resting place for shopping center grocery carts," Scharl told board members at last week's meeting.

"I would prefer to see that property looked at for some sort of preservation for a park area," said Benzing, who cast the only "no" vote on the planning commission's recommended approval of the dredging.

"As I understand it, he just wants to clean it up to make it more saleable," Benzing said.

The township board listened to the engineering report that said the site contains marsh grasses and cattails and the planning commission's meeting minutes that recommended approval of the dredging before voting to grant the permit.

He enjoys being a clown

By Kathy Greenfield

Homer Biondi became serious about not being serious a little over a year ago.

It was then that he donned his ragged suit, crazy tie, black bowler hat trimmed with a feather, red nose and grease paint and clowning around during the Clarkston Labor Day parade.

"That hooked me for good, just being in the parade itself," Homer said.

With the clown uniform comes a mental process he calls "shifting gears," much like clothing in everyday life determines how one feels.

After shaving, combing his hair and putting on his traditional suit and tie, he is ready for the business world, he said.

And "when I put all this (clown gear) on, I'm telling people, 'Don't be serious with me,' he said. "I'm also telling myself that this is not my serious time."

His wife Vi's reaction to all this has been one of wholehearted support, and she frequently helps him with his costume.

When she found out about Homer's plans to be a clown, "I said, 'You've been a clown all your life, now you've found your uniform,'" she remembered.

It's an adventure the whole family has joined in on, taking photographs, making gaudy ties and accompanying him to events.

The Biondis have four children—Michelle, 28; Laura, 26; Marilyn, 24; and Paul, 17—and have lived in their home on Cramlane Road, Independence Township, 22 years.

Homer is vice president of sales for Pitts Industries of Dallas, Texas, a company that sells automobile air conditioning parts to manufacturers.

His rewards as a clown are numerous, including the fun he has with kids and their reactions. But perhaps the most important part is what he calls "wearing his child on the outside."

"Maybe it's a matter of finally finding a way to express an inner part of myself," he said. "Something happens to you when you put on the make-up and the costume."

"I'm convinced that's where it's really at—we all have our child and it needs a form to express itself," he said. "Where else can a vice president of a company make faces at a child and not get hauled off to jail?"

Clowning also offers an outlet for his outgoing, joking-around side.

"I can't stand rejection," he said. "This is a way to get acceptance without a great deal of pain."

Homer's decision to become a clown was prompted by a series of events.

Homer Biondi would like to start a local clown alley, a group of amateur clowns who work together.

"My interest in developing an alley is to expand myself and offer other people who have the same kind of interest an opportunity," he said.

If interested, call him at 625-2140.

"I'm a corny person," Homer says. "I'm the first to admit I watch Hee Haw and think it's funny." As a clown, he can put his love of slap-stick humor to use.

About 12 years ago, he became involved in the Clarkston Village Players through his wife's interest.

Never having thought about acting before, he ended up on stage.

More recently, he found a painting of a clown sitting on a park bench, reading The Wall Street Journal, and smirking.

After some thought, he bought the painting by famous clown artist Robert Owen, and it hangs in his office in Dallas.

"Most of the guys, they're doing the macho things with the hunting dogs, seascapes," Homer said, and this painting pokes fun at all the seriousness.

Bolstered by the image of the clown, Homer attended a clown school conducted by "Ricky the Clown" of Southfield. A short time later, he became a Clarkston parade regular.

Last month he took part in his first clown convention. As a member of The Clowns of America, he learned of this gathering of clowns in Kalamazoo.

There were workshops, and it was an opportunity to meet others interested in clowning.

"I found that these people are more willing as mature people to admit the presence of their child and allow their child to express himself or herself," he said.

"They were warm people, very friendly, uninhibited in a very mindful way," he said. "There were pranksters, there were fun and games, but none of it was directed to embarrass anyone."

More and more people are becoming clowns, and Homer attributes its popularity as a reaction to such realities as inflation and the energy crunch.

"People need something in their lives that isn't crucial, or negative or unwelcome," he said. "Here's a situation that has nothing to do with anything in this life except smile, enjoy."

A variety of other interests are part of Homer's life—he is active in the Village Players, has been a member of the Clarkston Band Boosters two years, and he finds cross-country skiing a sport that makes winter tolerable.

He also plays the piano, in what he describes as a "key-thumper" style and is a "tin-can tourist" in the family camper.

"My big dream would be to put my clown case in the trailer and take off," he said.

His dreams, however, do not include joining a circus.

"I'd rather do what I want to do than become part of a structured organization," he said. "This is my avoidance technique for structure."

On Saturday, after he talked about his love of clowning and applied his make-up, Homer and Vi, who is chairman of the Red Cross volunteers at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, left to visit the pediatric ward there.

"I'm going to say, 'Hi' to the kids and hopefully just brighten their day a little bit," Homer said.

"I think it's a shame that maturing has a great deal to do with becoming cynical and suspicious and a little devious," he added. "Usually you can look at a child's face and it pretty well catalogs what's going on inside."

Things to do

Activities outside the Clarkston-Springfield-Independence area

An art auction is to be held Friday, Nov. 16, at Waterford Village Elementary School, 4241 Steffins, Waterford Township. Admission is $1 and a door prize will be awarded.

A preview is scheduled at 7 p.m. with the auction to begin at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the PTA, money from the event is to be used for playground equipment.

While hunting for unusual gift items at the Seymour Lake United Methodist Church bake sale and bazaar, you can pause for main dish or salad luncheon.

Hours for the Friday, Nov. 16 sale are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with lunch scheduled from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Cost of the meal is $2 for all you care to eat.

The church is located at the corner of Sashabaw and Seymour Lake Roads, Brandon Township.

Keatington Women's Club annual craft bazaar and bake sale is scheduled Wednesday, Nov. 28 from 6 to 10 p.m.

The sale's location is Lake Orion Junior High West, west on Waldon Road from Joslyn Road, Orion Township.

The North Oakland Chamber of Commerce Council on Small Enterprises (COSE) is presenting its second "How To" seminar, Tuesday, Nov. 20, 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. at Roma's of Bloomfield.

This month's topic will be security on shoplifting, bad checks, internal theft, armed robbery and building security.

The price of $4 for members and $5 for non-members includes a continental breakfast. For reservations and further information call the Chamber office at 335-6148.

The Holly Berry Bazaar at Lotus Lake School, Waterford Township, is scheduled Nov. 17.

Arts and crafts items, baked goods and homemade candies will be on sale.

The bazaar will run from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the school located at 6455 Harper, off Percy King Road.

Doll collectors from across the Midwest will be displaying collections of European antique dolls, character dolls, doll parts, houses, children's books and antique trucks at a three-day doll and toy sale at the Pontiac Mall.

The show, which will be held Nov. 16-18 will also feature doll repair for collectors and antique doll appraisals.

The hours for the show are 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily, and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission to the show is free. The Pontiac Mall is located at the corner of Telegraph and Elizabeth Roads in Waterford Township.

Holiday gifts from around the world are now available in the Christmas shop at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Some of the one-of-a-kind gifts include Russian hand painted lacquer boxes, Nigerian straw trays and Peruvian ceramics.

The Christmas shop is open Tuesdays through Sundays from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., closed Mondays and holidays.

A gift catalogue is also available from the DIA. Send 25 cents with your name and address to Katherine Shemeld, DIA, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit, MI 48202.

Mrs. Anna Macielinski, community service representative of Oakland County Social Services, will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Oakland County Legal Secretaries' Association.

The meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 19 at the Harbour House, 110 N. Rochester, Clawson.

The social hour will begin at 6 p.m., dinner at 6:30 p.m., and the meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Dinner reservations can be made by calling Mary McPherson at 624-6580 by Friday, Nov. 16. Dinner is $6 for members and $7 for non-members.

Applications for auditions for the Dora Dawson Music Scholarship are now available.

Applicants must be high school seniors seriously interested in music or be enrolled in a college music course. Residency in the greater Pontiac area is also a requirement.

Applications are available through Mrs. A. J. Salley, 3149 Shawnee Lane, Drayton Plains, 673-1742. They must be returned by Dec. 16.

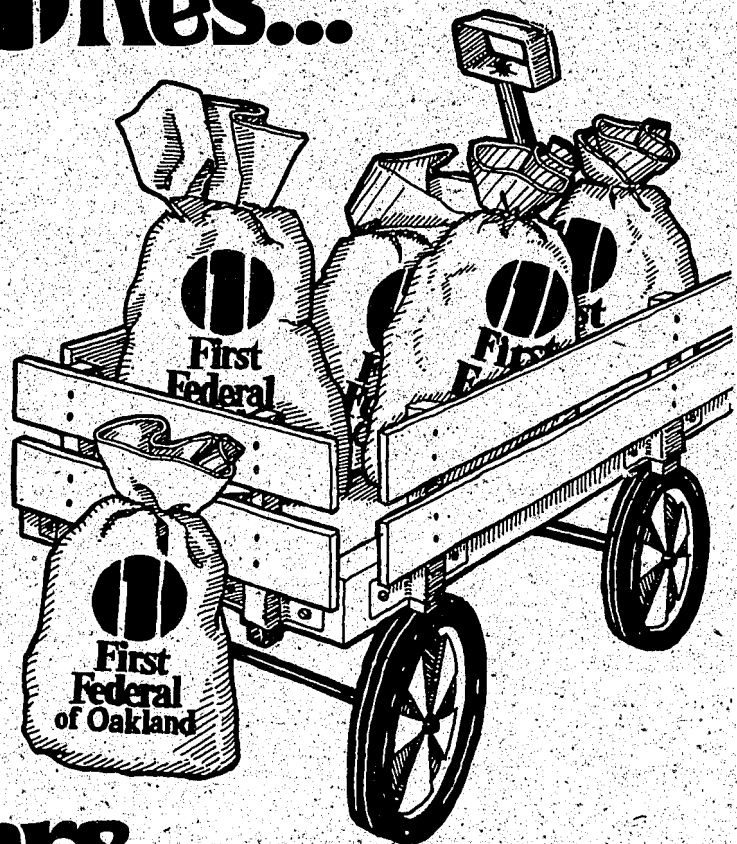

The Tuesday Musicales of Pontiac will conduct the auditions Thursday, Dec. 27, at 7 p.m. at the Central United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall.

Club profile

Wednesday nighters celebrate 40th

By Maralee Cook

Over 100 former and current members of the Wednesday Night Dance Club relived old memories as they celebrated the club's 40th anniversary Saturday night.

Slides and movies of past programs were shown continuously throughout the evening as members dined, danced and shared remembrances with each other at Spring Lake Country Club.

The idea to form a local dance club was a spontaneous one. It began while 11 couples were having coffee and dessert at the home of Dorothy and Howard Huttenlocher before an Armistice Day dance at Clarkston High School in 1939.

It was decided that the monthly meetings and dances would be held on Wednesdays because at that time the businesses in Clarkston closed at noon on Wednesdays, and people would have more time to prepare for the evening's festivities.

Each couple brought another couple to the first dance, held upstairs in the building that now houses Hallman Apothecary on Main Street.

Each month a committee was given the responsibility of creating a theme and putting together a program for the evening.

"We knocked ourselves out to do something different each month," said Mrs. Dorothy Huttenlocher, reminiscing about the first years of the group's existence.

"It was a fun group of people with interesting ideas and the energy to carry them out. No one was afraid to make a fool of himself," she continued.

Mrs. Huttenlocher recalled that on one occasion, when the theme of the evening was characters in a book, she and her husband and Ernie and Carmie Squiers decided to go as Paul Bunyan and Babe the Blue Ox. Renting an ox head from a costume company in Detroit, Mrs. Huttenlocher and Mrs. Squiers were the ox (Mrs. Huttenlocher was the front end) and Mr. Huttenlocher and Mr. Squiers went as Paul Bunyan. Mrs. Huttenlocher remembered that she and Mrs. Squiers were swatted by their husbands as they walked in costume from the Squiers home on Main Street to the dance.

On another occasion, the entire dance club was blindfolded and driven around in a hay wagon by a team of horses before they were dropped off at their destination—a rented pool room, where they went on to have their dinner and dance.

"No one tried to impress anyone else," said Mrs. Huttenlocher, "the evenings were imaginative, full of fun, gaiety and nonsense and always with the warmth of friendship."

The dance club meetings are now held at the Church of the Resurrection on Clarkston Road, and, while there is a specific program planned for each meeting, the members do not always dance after the potluck dinners.

Club memberships are limited to about 65 because of the meeting room space available at the church. Prospective members must be invited as guests to two meetings, then their membership is voted on by dance club members.

Current president of the Wednesday Night Dance Club is Doug Carlson. Other officers are Jerry Hunter, secretary, and Dennis Kacy, treasurer.

Helen Woolfenden recounts tales of the group's 20th anniversary at the 40th anniversary party. There were 98 persons present and the evening's highlight was a mock strip-tease act performed by her husband, Henry, she said.

Eleanor Thayer tells members of the Wednesday Night Dance Club at the 40th reunion Saturday that the group decided on its meeting date "because most of the stores were closed then" and many of the members were merchants.

Coping with kids

Parents frequently disagree on discipline

Anyone who has ever picked up a child psychology book or read an article on child rearing or followed Dr. Spock knows that children want and need discipline.

Also, well known is the fact that children need firmness and consistency in that discipline.

Almost everyone knows how to discipline or at least has his or her own theories about discipline which are the accumulation of individual experiences with parents, life attitudes, emotional conflicts and books read and studied.

But what about two parents who—knowing how to discipline and having firm theories about discipline—disagree?

Unhappily, this is not an unusual situation. In its mildest form, it is seen in families where a mother may accept that she is more lenient while her husband is firmer.

It is much more damaging to the children in more severe forms when the parents actively disagree and argue about how to handle various problem behaviors.

Both parents, in such a situation, may recognize that this is an undesirable way of handling themselves and the children, but both may feel justified and righteous in their own ways.

In most cases, this is not a matter where one parent is purposely stubborn intentionally unyielding. Feelings and methods of discipline come from deep-seated emotions and, all too frequently, childhood conflicts.

A person's views about discipline come from his own experiences with parent figures, and these experiences start at birth. Therefore, they reside in some of the deepest recesses of the psyche. Consequently, they are very resistant to change.

In the ideal marriage, views of discipline are discussed before marriage or before children and agreements are reached. When children come along, then, there is agreement and support between two parents.

However, most people don't have such an ideal marriage, but a husband and wife may have simply assumed that they would indeed feel the same about handling the kids.

In resolving such a problem, there is no substitute for communication. Basically, a mother and father will have to reveal to each other their innermost feelings about dealing with children.

This includes goals, expectations and discipline techniques. It involves talking about when, where and how to provide discipline.

If the couple cannot talk or talk rationally and come to decisions that will be followed by both, they may need counseling. Sometimes, with the assistance of an experienced therapist or family counselor, they can gain self-understanding and come to see that there are compromises that have to be made for the sake of a satisfying marital relationship and for the best development of the children.

Hockey is big event for Cases

Hockey is the name of the game that's being played in a big way at the Case home in Independence Township.

Kevin Case, 12, and his brother Jim, 15, have been playing since they were five- and six-years-old. And, it has been a sport their parents, Pat and Jim Case, are involved in and very supportive of.

The Cases lived in Royal Oak before moving to their home on Greenview Drive two years ago. When Jim Jr. was six, there was a drive in the Cases' neighborhood to start a boy's hockey club. They signed up Jim Jr. and, since he enjoyed it so much, they signed Kevin up three years later at age five.

Jim Jr. still plays in a league in Royal Oak, while Kevin plays at Lakeland Arena, Waterford Township. Between the practices and games, Pat and Jim Case watch their boys play a minimum of four nights a week from September through March.

"It's hard for other people to understand," said Jim. "It becomes a social thing because the parents get so involved."

"I know where my kids are," said Pat, explaining that she is glad to know the boys are spending their time constructively.

Pat and Jim are impressed with what the boys' involvement with hockey has taught them.

"They've learned the values of team work," said Jim.

Jim Jr. and Kevin have also learned how to get along with others—how to play with boys they don't particularly like, and how to lose. The boys on the team are benched if they exhibit bad manners, Jim said.

"It's fun," said Jim Jr., about his involvement in the game, adding he hopes to get a hockey scholarship to college, and possibly play professional hockey in the future.

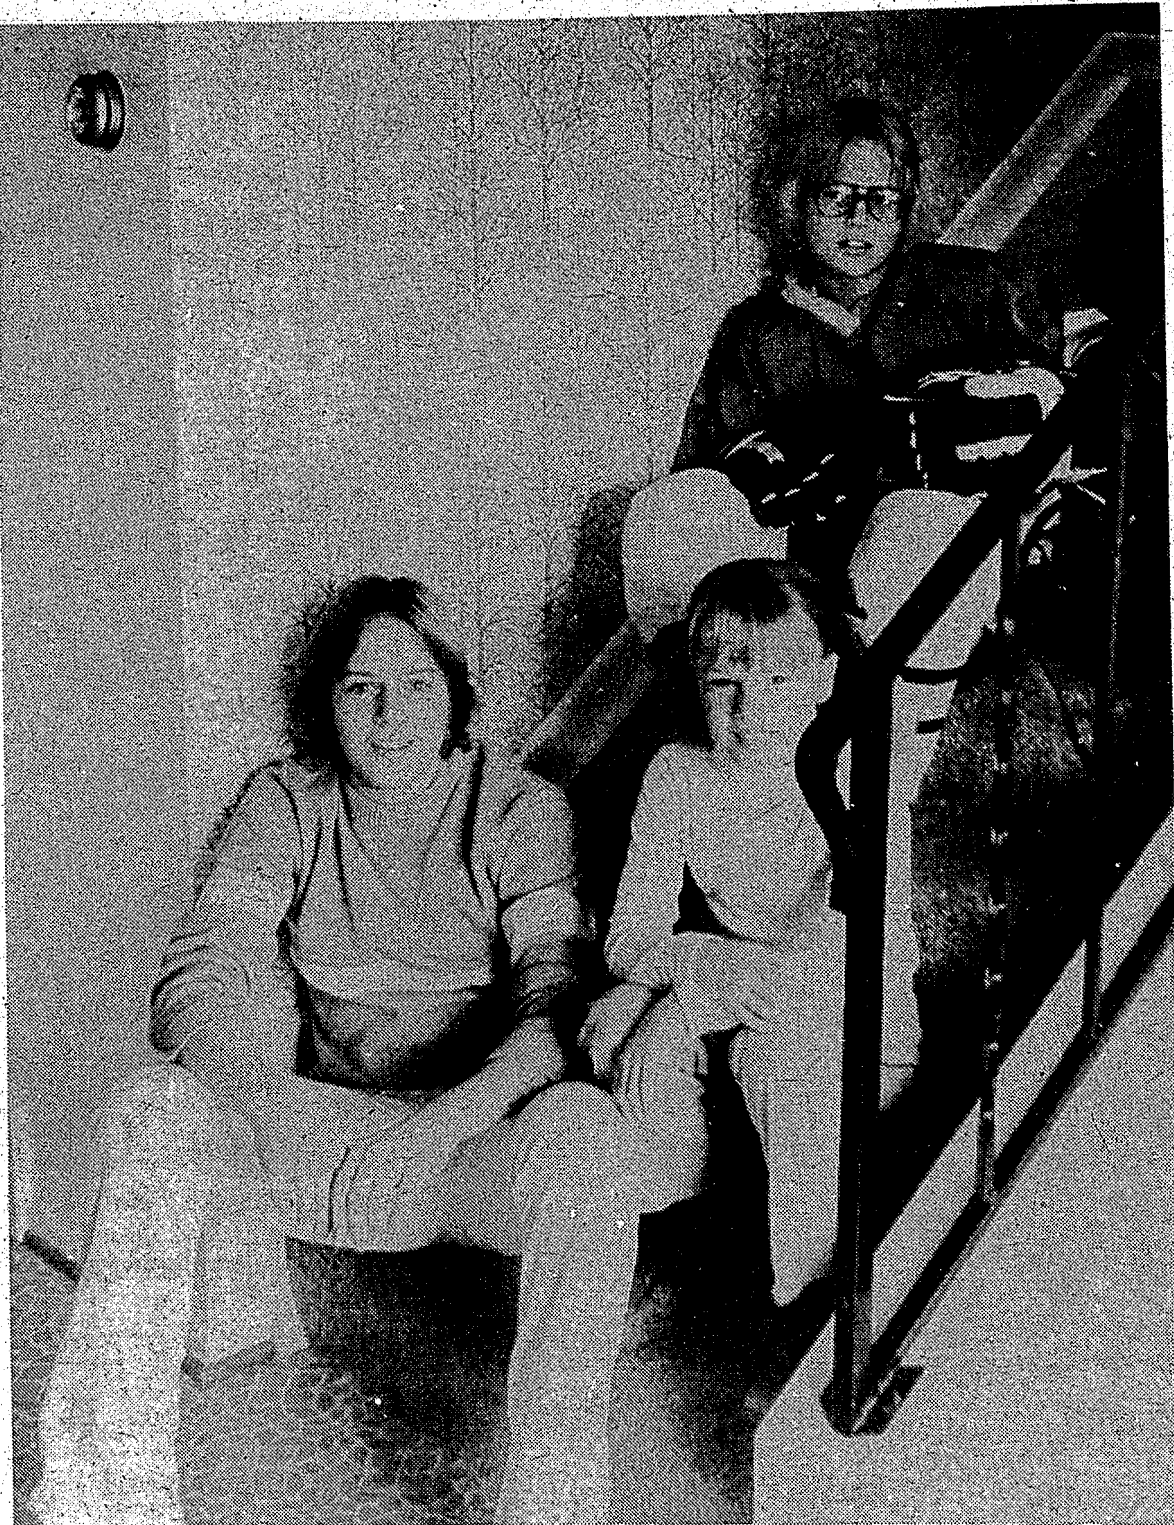

When the boys aren't playing hockey on the ice, they play outside their home and even have a hand hockey game they can play indoors.

The boys' involvement with hockey and other sports like soccer and baseball has rubbed off on sister Kristin, 9, a student at Bailey Lake Elementary School.

While Kristin shies away from contact sports, she has developed an interest in gymnastics, and has been known to tumble down the stairs on more than one occasion. She also maintains her individuality by being a member of Bluebirds.

Involved in the savings and loan business for over 12 years, it was Jim's move to First Federal Savings and Loan in Pontiac which finally brought the Cases to Independence Township.

Jim joined First Federal six years ago as a vice president and mortgage service manager. Two of Jim's concerns are foreclosures and repossession—jobs which keep him on the road a lot.

When Jim first saw this area he loved it.

"As a city boy, the country enthralled me," he said.

After a lot of talking, an introduction to a builder and some checking into the Clarkston school system, Jim finally convinced Pat to leave Royal Oak.

After purchasing the lot on Greenview Drive from which they can see Walters Lake in the winter, they put together some qualities of three of their builder's model homes, and within four months they had a new home of their own.

Pat, who worked as a secretary and airline stewardess before she and Jim were married 17 years ago, has been at home as a wife and mother for 15 of those years.

Jim talked her into going back to work when they moved to Independence, and Pat joined Manpower in Pontiac working part-time as a secretary, mostly for General Motors.

Pat was chosen as Manpower's secretary of the year within her first year of working for them and was honored at a banquet which she almost skipped.

The award and banquet were supposed to be a surprise. Jim had been informed, and was given the responsibility of getting her to the banquet unawares.

Inasmuch as there was also a hockey banquet scheduled for that evening, Jim had quite a job on his hands, getting Pat to the Silverdome to accept her award.

"I like working with people," Pat said. "The kids were my whole life," she added, explain-

More Country Living

ing that she had fallen into the identity crisis syndrome—that many mothers seem to be facing today.

With all the layoffs at the auto companies, said Pat, there hasn't been much work available at Manpower. She said she does plan to look for a full-time job in the future.

Jim's position at First Federal has also made him aware of the current economic picture.

"People are not saving as much as in the past," said Jim, adding that they are withdrawing funds for necessities.

He also said that First Federal has seen a rise in the delinquency ration of payments on loans, but that it is not serious at this point.

Jim also thinks there will be changes in the banking and savings and loan institutions in the future.

"The public needs to be helped," said Jim, and added that the changes will have to be made in order to offer better and more services to customers.

As far as mortgage rates are concerned, Jim said they probably won't come down before spring and "we'll never see nine percent again."

How do Pat and Jim spend their leisure time when not involved in hockey?

Jim enjoys playing golf in the warm months, and he and Pat cross-country ski in the winter.

Jim gave Pat a pair of skis when they "moved to the country," and after watching her decided to take it up himself.

Jim and Pat Case enjoy the view from their Independence Township home. In the winter they can see Walters Lake.

Contest winners

The Clarkston High School Students Against Smoking organization has announced three winners in its "What I Think about Smoking" essay contest for youths 12-14.

First prize, a $10 gift certificate from the Coach's Corner sport shop on Main Street, was awarded to Robby Grunwald; second prize, a $10 gift certificate at Timberline's in the Clarkston Mills, went to Susan Colwell; and third prize was claimed by Ed Driscoll.

All three writers are seventh grade students of Mrs. Linda Palace at Clarkston Junior High School, and their essays are reprinted here.

It's hard to quit

By Robby Grunwald

Smoking is a very bad habit. Many Jr. High students are starting to smoke and just saying "I'll smoke now and be cool till I get out of school."

Believe me, it's not that easy. My dad has been trying to quit for about ten years and he still can't.

Most kids don't see anything wrong with adults that smoke, so they think it's all right, but what they don't see is that it makes them lazy, and they get sick a lot.

For every cigarette you have, it takes seconds, even minutes off your life.

I wish teenagers would wait until they're adults to smoke, because when you're young, you really don't think straight about what you're doing, and once you start, sometimes you can't quit.

So anybody that's thinking about smoking, please, I urge you, DON'T DO IT!!!

'Absolutely crazy'

By Susan Colwell

When you think about it, why would anyone want to harm their body?

I think it's absolutely crazy to smoke when you think of all the diseases you can get from smoking, like lung cancer, emphysema, and black lung disease, just to name a few.

Another thing is you waste a lot of money on cigarettes each year.

Also, some people aren't considerate when they smoke. I know because of all the times people smoke in the car when I'm in there, too.

That was partly to ask, "Why ruin your body?"

But if you do smoke, they don't want to be bothered by others who do.

Habit regretful

By Ed Driscoll

I think condemning the smokers of previous generations is wrong.

I think we should condemn and, more important, stop smoking. I know no person who smokes that doesn't regret it.

Many people try to stop smoking and can't. My grandmother smoked for several years. She finally quit when she saw how it affected her.

Maybe that's what smokers (and would be smokers) need, a good look at how smoking has affected, or would affect them, and others.

If you don't go without smoking for yourself, do it for those around you, it affects them, too.

Smoking is something we could all do without!!!

How to win at "Money"

Every football fan understands the value of the bench. No team ever wins the Super Bowl without good reserves.

The same idea works in the game of "Money."

To play the game, you simply try to make ends meet. Of course, inflation and taxes knock you back just when you think you're gaining. Then recession hits, or the plumbing leaks, or your car needs a major repair. These things aren't fair but there is no referee.

Money in reserve

Most people put a good first team together — a strong paycheck, tight budget and alert defense at the supermarket. But the reserves are sadly lacking. You need savings that can come off the bench in a hurry. And credit that won't quit at the goal line. You need Pontiac State Bank.

No other bank can give you a better back-up for your finances. Checking, savings and lending. At PSB your savings earn the most that any bank can pay. And we can help you build up your credit. Pre-qualified customers can borrow up to $10,000 on a moment's notice, no questions asked. Start your program with us today. In the game of money, you win when you have a great bank.

New arrival

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Miller of Heath Avenue, Independence Township, announce the birth of their second son Oct. 25.

Daniel Thomas weighed 8 pounds, 1 ounce.

Waiting to greet him at home was his brother Alvin II, age 2.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woods of Flint and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller of Middleberg Heights, Ohio.

Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Guy Powell of Birch Run and Mrs. Emma Forrester of Middleberg Heights, Ohio.

In service

Navy Seaman Recruit Curtis G. Muscott has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

The eight-week cycle included general military subjects designed for preparation for further academic and on-the-job training.

Muscott, the son of Judith A. Smith of Lake Born Road, Springfield Township, joined the Navy in August.

At college

Ric Huttenlocher, an Albion College junior, is to play the part of Duane, the star's hairdresser, in the school's production of the hit Broadway musical "Applause."

The six performances of the play are to run from Nov. 9 through 17.

Ric, a 1977 Clarkston High School graduate, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Huttenlocher of Middle Lake Road, Clarkston.

***

Cheryl Daly was among 1,800 graduates from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, at the end of the 1978-'79 academic year.

Cheryl, of Knox Road, Springfield Township, received a bachelor's degree.

Engaged

Denise Marie Ernst and Robert William Quantz plan an Aug. 16, 1980 wedding. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ernst of Fawn Valley Drive, Independence Township. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quantz of Otisville. He is employed by Flint Asphalt.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

Carol (Mrs. Jerry) Bradley is making these candies to be sold at the St. Daniel's Bazaar this Friday and Saturday.

Good Ol' Ohio Buckeyes

- 1/4 lb. butter or margarine
- 1 lb. peanut butter
- 1 1/2 lb. confectioners sugar
- 12 oz. pkg. chocolate chips
- 1/2 cake paraffin

Cream butter, peanut butter and sugar together. Form into small buckeyes.

Melt chocolate chips and paraffin together over hot water. Dip each buckeye into the chocolate, but be sure to leave a little light brown show at the top. A double-tined fork stuck into the ball makes it easy.

Place on waxed paper to harden. Keep refrigerated.

You may omit the paraffin, but buckeyes will not be shiny and will melt more easily. Do not use imitation chocolate chips. Makes about 50 candies.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jenks

Gallo-Jenks rites

Susan Gallo and Daniel Jenks were married Oct. 13 in Pontiac.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Guilds of Big Lake Road, Springfield Township, and Thomas Gallo of Largo, Fla.

Her husband is the son of Mrs. Ruth Jenks of Springfield Township.

Matron of honor was Penny Valenzuela of Davisburg and best man was Frank Valenzuela of Davisburg.

An open house in the newlyweds' honor was held at the home of the groom's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenks will reside at their home on Big Lake Road, Davisburg.

Betrothed

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Karpovck of Pelton Road, Independence Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Ann to Jeffrey Paul Sans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sans of Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township. A 1976 graduate of Clarkston High School, the bride-elect has an associate degree in liberal arts from Oakland Community College. She is employed by the Insurance Company of North America, Troy. Her fiancé, a 1973 graduate of CHS, is employed by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. A spring 1980 wedding is planned.

United Way drive successful

Fundraisers for the United Way of Pontiac-North Oakland collected $1,003 from Independence Township residents and $3,635 from local businesses.

The campaign, that ended Nov. 2, raised $2,535,410 from north Oakland County.

Independence Township campaigner was Jeanette Morrison who was assisted by Sally Robertson and Betsy Patterson.

Clarkston Community School District employees, led by Al Bartlett and George White, increased pledges by 14 percent over last year for a total of $3,604.

Over 2,484 people in Independence Township benefited directly from one or more of the 49 United Way Agencies, according to a study of the past 12 months made by United Way.

ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Independence Township Board will receive and then publicly open sealed proposals for the construction of Office, Maintenance, and Storage Facility for the Department of Public Works on Tuesday, November 20, 1979, at 3:00 PM EST at the Township Hall, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, Michigan.

The project consists of approximately 7,500 square foot, one story building for offices, maintenance and storage. Proposals shall be for combined architectural, mechanical and electrical work.

Examine plans, specifications and contract conditions at the Builders Exchange, Detroit; F. W. Dodge Plan Room and Dodge/Scan, Detroit, or the office of the Architect, Micuda Associates Inc., Suite 909, Pontiac State Bank Building, Pontiac, Michigan 48058. Obtain contract documents at the Architect's office for $30.00, deposit per set of drawings on or after October 30, 1979. Deposit to be refunded on return of sets in good condition without annotations.

Because of the method of financing bid security is not required.

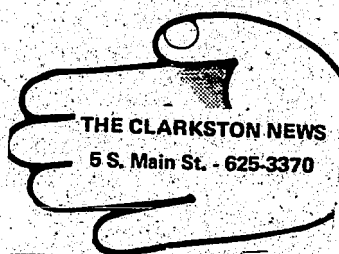

Financing the costs of construction during construction is builder's responsibility. Township intends providing its end financing at Pontiac State Bank and will assist builder in obtaining interim financing there if Builder wishes.

Award of Contract may be made on the basis of the proposal most advantageous to the Owner and will be made by the Township Board at their regular meeting on Tuesday, November 20, 1979 at 7:00 PM EST.

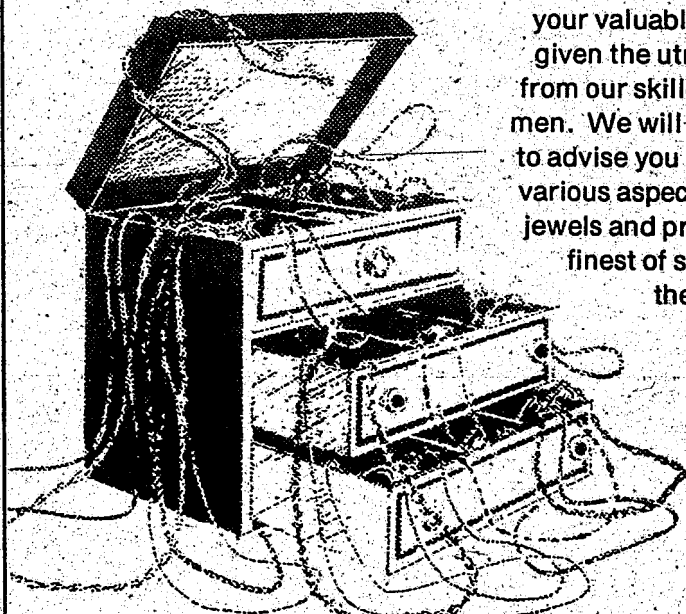

The Township Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids for good cause and to waive informalities in any bid received.

Christopher Rose
Township Clerk
Independence Township

Bird feeding time

by Ann Glenn

Well folks, now is the time to get out the bird feeders, fill them up, stoke the stove and browse through the pages of a good bird identification book to recognize each feathered friend who may wing your way!

First of all, you must remember that once you start feeding, you must continue through the winter and into April. If you stop feeding, the birds that are counting on you could perish.

Going away on a trip requires you to enlist a friend or a neighbor to keep the feeders full.

Next, bird feeding fact and fiction—from Sam Weeks, assistant director of the Cornell Laboratory of Ornithology.

1. Birds do not freeze to metal feeders. Their feet are dry and cold and do not respond like our hands to do an ice tray. A sick bird could be found dead, dangling from either a wood or a metal feeder in an ice storm.

2. Peanut butter does not stick to the roofs of birds' mouths like it does to people and peanut butter makes a good high-protein treat hung in paper cups from trees.

3. Better to add dog food or dehydrated egg to suet rather than seeds because this will better meet the needs of birds that seek out suet. Peanut butter is also a good addition.

Water is as important as food for birds in prolonged cold.

Small bird baths can be kept from freezing by inserting a small 1000 watt heater which is activated only when the water temperature drops below 40 degrees. These heaters can be purchased at feed stores.

Also, you can purchase combination feeders and waterers which you plug in. They operate in a similar manner to the manual heater.

These can be purchased from stores specializing in wild bird products.

Some of these stores have fascinating catalogues, and, perhaps in addition to fulfilling your birds' needs, you might even find that sought-after gift for the person on your list who has everything.

In the meantime, remember that scratch from the feed store is the most economical and delectable of feeds for birds along with sunflower seed and perhaps a piece of hanging suet.

NOTICE

The Michigan Audubon Society is once again asking volunteers to participate in its annual bird feeder survey. Last year 1,000 people took part.

The survey is a serious research project and participants are required to follow specific instructions in recording the data. Monthly report forms are submitted November through April. To participate, write Michigan Audubon Society, 7000 North Westnedge, Kalamazoo, MI 49007 or call (616) 381-1575.

'Mice and Men' exudes compassion, dreams

Of Mice and Men
By John Steinbeck
Meadow Brook Theatre
Oakland University

Love and compassion and dreams permeate Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men," which is currently at Meadow Brook Theatre.

The dreams and promised joy are destined to be destroyed as a somberness hangs over the dreary Northern California farm valley. Love is constantly defeated, but love, in a sense, also triumphs.

John Ulmer directs this revival of the fine, understanding John Steinbeck 1937 drama that concerns itself with George and Lennie, two migrant workers.

George, played with compassion by Michael Medeiros, is tough and intelligent. He befriends and actually loves Lennie (David Graf) who is big, powerful and dull-witted. George recognizes that the childlike Lennie could not function by himself.

Lennie and George are contrasted with most migrant farm hands who drift from farm to farm self-destructing in a lonely and isolated way.

These two are different because they have each other. And they have a dream.

Their dream is to escape from bosses and orders to live off the "fat of the land." They will have their own farm where they will raise their own food and animals and Lennie, if he is good, will be permitted to tend the rabbits they will have.

Lennie is fascinated by soft, furry creatures. This fascination, his immature form of love, leads to his eventual destruction at the hand of his best friend who performs the act out of love.

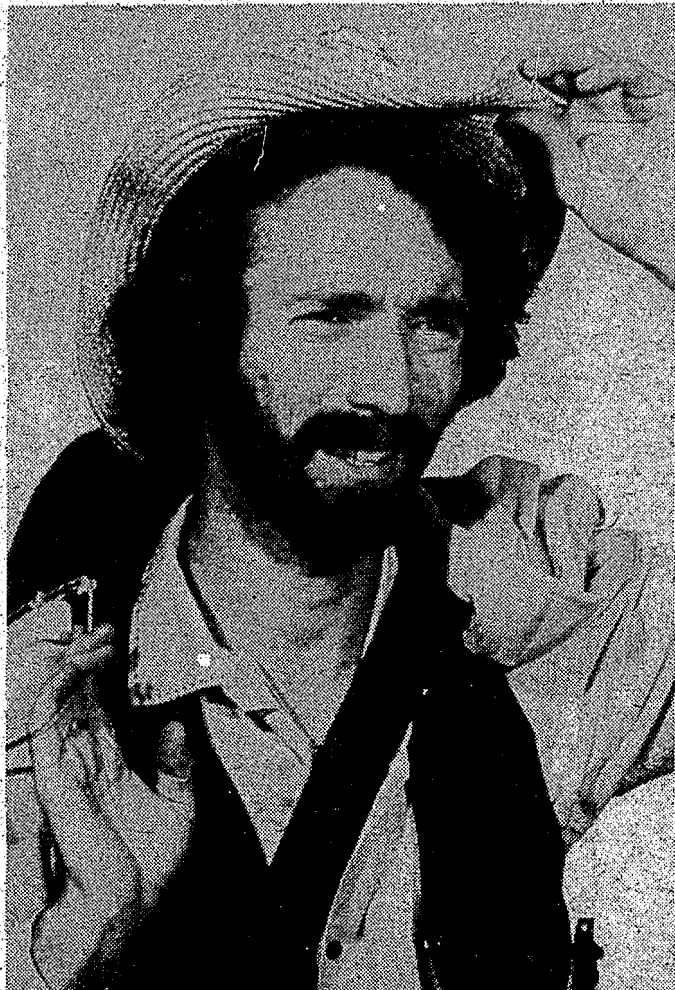

Each character in this play exhibits a sense of isolation, loneliness and need for affection. They seek connections with others, but their feeble attempts often bring them pain. Some, like David Jeffrey, as Slim, have a cool reserve that helps to protect.

Michael Medeiros brings to his role the required sense of love and compassion for Lennie. David Graf is a frightened and dependent hulking mouse, a shell of a man, sympathetic in his innocence.

Eric Uhler is an appropriate snarling and pugnacious Curley and Harry Ellerbe is a marvelous Candy.

"Of Mice and Men" plays nightly on the campus of Oakland University through Dec. 2.

The role of George in "Of Mice and Men" is portrayed by Michael Medeiros.

by Rustie Leaf

10 YEARS AGO
November 13, 1969

Honor Flight Awards from the Clarkston CAP were presented to Barbara Carey, Denise Carey and Beverly Moore.

Building values in Independence Township more than doubled in October, according to the Township Building Department report.

James Rausch, a student at Michigan State University, placed second in the heavyweight White Belt Division of a Karate tournament.

Cast in lead roles for "Charley's Aunt" are Clarkston High students, Alan Rose, Jim Klark, Kirt Stalker, Todd Vanaman, Mark Taylor, Kirt Peters, Polly Hanson, Tootie Robinson, Julie Wilford and Debbie Merkel.

25 YEARS AGO
November 11, 1954

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson received about 140 friends and relatives at the Community Center, the occasion being their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Last Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Sam Miller were hosts to their Dance Club from Pontiac at a hayride and dance. There were 48 present. After the hayride the group enjoyed dancing and a delicious lunch at the Miller home on Bridge Lake Road.

entitles the member to the monthly newsletter, an optional name tag, an identification card, the lunch program, trips and weekly activities.

Lunch Program

The Independence Township senior citizens have a daily lunch program sponsored by Oakland-Livingston Human Service Agency.

Any person aged 60 or over is entitled to the lunches, served at noon weekdays at the new center, 5980 Clarkston Road at Clintonwood Park. A 50-cent donation is requested.
Reservations should be made by calling 625-8231 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Feature Films

The Independence Township Library will show feature films at least once a month at the center, beginning this Friday at 1 p.m.

One-day Trips

Upcoming trips by bus include shopping at Fairlane Mall
Nov. 19, costing $3.50 and including a factory tour and lunch, and a "Christmas Wonderland" tour to Toledo, Ohio Dec. 5, costing $23 and including lunch, shopping and tour of the animated Christmas display at the Lucan County Recreation Center. Reservation deadlines are Nov. 16 and 28 respectively.

On Dec. 10, there will be an evening trip to Greenfield Village for a sleigh ride, tour of the village, punch reception and Cornish hen holiday dinner. To see Greenfield Village decorated for Christmas, call for a reservation by Dec. 3. The cost is $27.50.

Call the center for information on extended trips to Florida and Toronto planned for early next year.

Lucky winner of the 50-50 raffle drawing held at the recent opening of the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center was Angelo Mastrantonio.

Angelo, who is a member of the Independent Seniors, was presented with a $350 check last week.

Plays, exhibits, concerts outside Clarkston-Independence-Springfield

Two Oakland County shopping malls will host free performances of excerpts from "The Nutcracker" by the Michigan Ballet Theatre. Members of the troupe will appear at the Twelve Oaks Mall, Southfield, Nov. 16 and Dec. 16 at 6 and 7 p.m., and at the Orchard Mall, West Bloomfield Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. Full performances are scheduled for Mercy High School, Farmington.

A children's classic, "The Nutcracker Ballet," will be performed by the Michigan Ballet Theatre Saturday, Dec. 1 and Sunday, Dec. 2.

Performances, which are scheduled at 3 p.m. both days, will be held at Mercy High School, 11 Mile and Middlebelt Roads in Farmington.

Advance tickets are available by calling the Farmington Community Center, 474-8404, or by calling 851-6735. Tickets also will be available at the performance. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens. Special reduced group and benefit tickets are available for Saturday's performance with advanced reservations only. Phone 851-6735.

***

The ninth annual arts and crafts show at the Davison Country Club will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 15, 16 and 17 at the club, 9512 Lippincott Blvd., at M-15.

The show—open from 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday—will encompass handmade toys and dolls, paintings, wood-burnings, country carving, weaving, knitted and crocheted items, stained glass, pottery, macrame, jewelry and baked goods. On Thursday, an added attraction at 7 p.m. will be an American Legion card party at 7 p.m., for which tickets will be available at the door.

***

Woody Herman will wield his baton at Eastern Michigan University Thursday, Nov. 16 when the Thundering Herd presents a big band concert.

The band, in existence for 40 years, will begin the evening of musical nostalgia at 8:30 p.m. in Pease Auditorium. Tickets are $4 and $5.50 for students and senior citizens and $5 and $7.50 for the general public. A buffet dinner at 6:30 p.m. will be held in conjunction with the concert. For additional information, call EMU's Office of Campus Life at 487-3045.

***

The last three performances of Kurt Vonnegut Jr.'s "Happy Birthday Wanda June" will be held Nov. 16, 17 and 18 at the Barn Theatre on the Oakland University campus near Rochester.

Curtain time for this comedic spoof on Ernest Hemingway will be 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

For ticket information and group sales call 377-2000.

***

Ansel Adams, one of America's foremost photographers, will speak at 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 3, in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium. His talk on "My Life in Photography" will include comments and slides of his work—some of the most famous in the field of fine art photography.

Tickets for the presentation are $5 and $15. All seats are reserved. A $15 patron ticket

($7.50 is tax deductible) includes a champagne reception for Adams following the lecture.

Requests for tickets, accompanied by check or money order payable to Founders Society DIA and marked "Ansel Adams" should be sent with a stamped self-addressed envelope to Ticket Office, Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, Detroit, MI 48202.

***

A special service Sunday will mark the 22nd anniversary of the Williams Lake Church of the Nazarene, 2840 Airport, Waterford Township.

A musical entitled "Heaven Help the Home" will be presented by the children's and adults' choirs at the 9:45 a.m. service. The musical includes narration and skits and will be followed by a message by the pastor, Gerald Carnes.

***

"Pacific Passage," an exhibit of 40 recent Asian art acquisitions, opened this week and will continue through April 13 at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Spanning more than 700 years of Far Eastern art history, the exhibition includes lacquers from China, ceramics from Japan and paintings from both countries which have never been previously displayed in Detroit.

***

"Godspell," a musical revue based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, will open at the Wayne State University Studio Theatre downstairs at the Hillberry on Sunday, Nov. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

Additional performances are Nov. 26 through Nov. 28, and Dec. 3 through Dec. 5 at 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 1 at 2 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets and information for "Godspell" are available from the Wayne State University Theatre box office, Cass and Hancock, Detroit, 48202. Phone 577-2972.

Tchaikovsky's ballet, "The Nutcracker," is offered in two performances by the West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra and Rose Marie Floyd's Contemporary Civic Ballet Co. of Royal Oak on Sunday, Dec. 23.

A matinee at 2 p.m. and a 7:30 p.m. performance are scheduled at West Bloomfield High School, 4925 Orchard Lake Rd., Orchard Lake.

Tickets are $6 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and students.

Call the symphony office at 626-1560 to make reservations.

***

Tuesday Musicales of Pontiac will celebrate "Federation Day" on Tuesday, Nov. 13 by presenting a program dedicated to the National and Michigan Federation of Music Club, of which it is a member.

Former Detroit Symphony soprano soloist, Dorothy Berry, and the Adele Thomas bell ringers will be featured.

New members are welcome to the meeting at 1 p.m. at Central Methodist Church, 3882 Highland, Waterford. Call 673-8771 for more information.

***

Ebenezer Scrooge, Bob Cratchit and Tiny Tim will be brought to life this holiday season at Wayne State University's historic Bonstelle Theatre.

Charles Dickens' immortal classic, "A Christmas Carol," will be presented Friday and Saturday, Nov. 30, Dec. 1, 7 and 8 at 8:30 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 2 and 9 at 2 p.m.

Tickets and information are available at the Wayne State University Theatre box office, Cass and Hancock, Detroit, 48202, telephone 577-2972. Tickets are also available through J.L. Hudson's ticket offices.

Getting ready for Jr. Miss contest

Co-chairperson Jan Easton keeps watch on the progress of the girls' physical fitness routine. Jan was a Junior Miss contestant at CHS eight years ago and her co-chairperson Fern Smith participated in the pageant three years ago. The contest is in its 19th year.

12 Clarkston High School seniors vie for title

Terry Yuska sings her song during practice for the talent contest. She is one of the 12 CHS seniors competing for the Clarkston Junior Miss title.

Pammi Flood practices a song during a Clarkston Junior Miss rehearsal last week. The contest sponsored by the Clarkston Area Jaycees and Jaycettes requires some 20 practice sessions before the dress rehearsal on Friday, Nov. 16, and the pageant on Saturday, Nov. 17. Admission to the dress rehearsal is $2 and to the pageant $3.50. Both events begin at 8 p.m. in the Clarkston High School Little Theatre.

Doreen Freitag stitches away at her Miss Piggy costume for the talent contest, one of five areas judged that also include physical fitness, talent, poise and appearance, scholastic ability and an interview with five judges the morning before the pageant.
