Gun collection stolen

A $10,000 gun collection was stolen from an Independence Township home in the middle of the day Thursday, according to Independence Township police.

The owner of the 17 antique guns was on a deer hunting trip at the time of the break-in, Independence Township Director of Police Services Charles Kimbel reported.

The collection was taken from the home of Daniel Pifer, Waldon road, between 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., Kimbel said. Entry to the house was gained by breaking the window in a door.

Kimbel said all of the guns were old.

"A couple of them were irreplaceable," he said, noting one was a handmade pistol from the 1800s and another of the same vintage was a Stevens' 4.10 pistol.

"There were only about 100 of these manufactured," Kimbel said.

'No M-275 on Main St.'

Proposed construction of M-275 in western Oakland County is expected to be considered by the Michigan Highway and Transportation Commission next week, although there apparently is no consensus on the route the highway should take.

While Springfield Township is among those communities encouraging construction of a limited access highway, the threat that Clarkston's Main Street might become the last section of the highway has kept local officials worried.

"No proposal is going through as long as it's through Clarkston," State Sen. Kerry Kammer (D-Pontiac) assured The Clarkston News this week.

Kammer said Weston Vivian of Ann Arbor, a member of the state highway commission, told him he never intended that M-275 run either through downtown Clarkston or along Deer Lake. Use of Clarkston's Main Street to provide access to I-75 was proposed by Vivian, who recommended that M-15 be widened for the purpose.

"Even he (Vivian) admitted there were perfectly acceptable alternatives," Kammer said.

Use of M-15 and construction of a highway along the western shore of Deer Lake are two of six proposals which are on the table concerning the route of M-275.

Kammer said he is "unalterably opposed" to the use of M-15 for an extension of M-275.

Robert H. Gorsline, Oakland County commissioner from District 2, also has opposed the Vivian plan. He said he expected M-275 to be on the agenda for the highway commission's Nov. 28 meeting but doubted that any action would be taken.

Gorsline says he'll quit office

Robert H. Gorsline, midway through his second term as an Oakland County commissioner, says he plans to leave the political arena in another year and become an Episcopal minister.

"I have decided to leave political life at the end of my current term as Oakland County commissioner on Dec. 31, 1980," Gorsline wrote in a letter to supporters this week.

"It is then my plan to pursue studies leading to ordination as a minister in the Protestant Episcopal Church," he said.

The Milford Republican represents a district which includes all of Springfield Township and Independence Township's first precinct, running west of Main Street in the Village of Clarkston over to the township boundary.

Gorsline, 33, said his decision to pursue a religious vocation "is based, in large measure, on my belief that I can accomplish more of my personal goals and my goals for our society in this manner than through continued political involvement."

He noted he has "many projects to complete and some new ones which I hope to tackle" in the next 13 months.

However, he is going to bow out of leadership roles on the board of county commissioners to pursue certain studies, he said.

He said he will not continue as chairperson of the Republican Caucus and the General Government Committee, two appointments which expire next month.

Gorsline was Milford Township supervisor from 1969-72, a State Senate aide for the next two years and reporter and editor of the Milford Times from 1974-76.

Independence tentatively approves $300,000 building

By Kathy Greenfield

Construction of a $300,000 Independence Township maintenance building could be underway this year.

Bids on the project to be built on township property north of Flemings Lake Road and west of I-75 were opened Tuesday afternoon and discussed at the township board meeting that evening.

The low bid of $298,450 by Clements and VanWagnen of Lapeer was tentatively accepted subject to checks on credit, licensing, a financial statement from the company and a background check of other buildings built by the construction firm.

Architect Constantin Micuda of Micuda Associates Inc., Pontiac, is to conduct the investigation and report back to the board Dec. 4 with a contract ready to sign.

Twelve bids were considered for the project.

"I was pleasantly surprised, because I felt $300,000 might have been a little low considering some other bids I received in the meantime on buildings," Micuda said.

"At the price that (the bid) came in, it is questionable it could be done for less by anyone," he added.

The builder is presently constructing a $1.4 million high school in Port Huron and a smaller building for Marysville High School, the architect said, and the company also worked on the Clarkston post office.

"Personally, my feeling is this man has really earned his position—we know of his work," Micuda said. "If he were non-union and built marginal buildings, I might have some questions."

Trustee Rudy Lozano, however, suggested further study of the builder's credentials and questioned the 120-day time of completion that was submitted.

"I'm concerned about the individual, a little bit about the price, more about the time," he said. "It doesn't necessarily mean because they're big, they're good."

"I may be optimistic, but I find no problems," Micuda said, but he agreed to carry out the board's wishes.

The building is to be constructed at the builder's expense and to be purchased by the township after final approval.

The money could be borrowed at 8 percent interest for 15 years, said Treasurer Frederick Ritter.

The cost would be approximately $3,000 each month and could be split between township departments using the facility, said George Anderson, department of public works director.

"It's not any more money than we're normally spending," Ritter said. "It's just instead of spending it elsewhere, we're spending it internally."

Escapes injury in car-train crash

Youthful driver can give thanks

The 17-year-old youth who had been driving this car escaped to tell the tale Thursday when his auto hit a train at the White Lake Road Grand Trunk crossing in Independence Township. Paul S. Dean, whose family just moved to Independence Township from Waterford, told police he was daydreaming when he suddenly noticed the train and crossing lights ahead of him, according to Independence Director of Police Services Charles Kimbel. The youth jumped from the car and started running, officers said, and he didn't stop until he got to a friend's house on Kempf Road in Waterford Township. Dean was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, where he was treated and released. Kimbel said the car's tires left 50 feet of skid marks before the collision with the train's engine. The auto then bounced off the engine, hit the train again and flipped over, according to witnesses. Officers in this photo are examining the car's bumper near the track.

Laura Manser, sitting under a tree near her rural Springfield Township home, says she has a lot to be thankful for.

'Most of all, I am thankful for people who care about what happens to me'

[Editor's note: We are frequently asked at Thanksgiving time to count our blessings. Douglas Griffiths, fifth grade teacher at Bailey Lake Elementary School, thought Laura Manser did a particularly fine job answering the question he posed to his pupils. We concurred and offered to share her essay with our readers].

"What I can be Thankful For"

By Laura Manser

I can be thankful for many things. I live in comfortable surroundings, with a good family. My home makes me think of safety and security, for even when my parents are busy, they usually stop to talk.

We usually eat at my Grandma's for Thanksgiving, and I'm thankful for that, too. Not every family has money or transportation to see the rest of the family on holidays.

Since I'm healthy, that's also something I can be thankful for.

On the very same day I'm feasting, people are dying of diseases, warfare and starvation.

My mom and dad work to feed me, and that's good.

But, most of all I am thankful for people who care about what happens to me, because if they and the Lord didn't love me, I'd be lost.

Chrysler land potential park site

By John Corriveau

The final decision over the proposed 2,300 acre purchase of Chrysler Realty land in Orion for a park rests with the governor, according to one state official.

However, the same official said, "The citizens have it in their hands for the outcome of this property."

Hector Chiunti of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) made the statement at Tuesday's information meeting at the Orion Township Hall. The meeting was called by state representative Alice Tom-boulion. (D-Oakland Township).

For the most part the information presented was not the final word on the proposed purchase. Chiunti warned the audience that what he was saying was strictly personal opinion formed on preliminary discussions and "just walking around the property" with township Supervisor Robert Sheardy.

The new park's focus would be on forestry, wildlife, fisherys and recreational uses, said Chiunti.

"We have a philosophy of 'Hey, we got it, please come and use it,'" he said.

It would not duplicate facilities and programs at the nearby Bald Mountain Park, but would work more to attract groups, such as school and church organizations, as well as people who wouldn't normally use the more traditional facilities.

Eric Reickel of Oakland County's Park and Recreation commission said such a park would be attractive to federal funding because it's near a larger urban area. The feds like the idea of more parks closer to the people, he said.

Maxwell Teague, township trustee and nearby resident, asked about the control of off the road vehicles and hunting on the park land.

"Any kinds of firearms in this area have a serious question mark," he said.

Chiunti replied security is a big concern of the DNR and "for a realistic outlook" road closings would have to be considered. As to hunting, it would probably have to be allowed, but on a controlled basis in certain areas.

In response to a question from John Brennan of Guest House, Chiunti said the park would most likely be fully operable by the year 2,000, but added development would be very slow.

"I'm all against it," said Harold Gingell, township trustee. He explained the purchase took too much property away from the township.

Orion Township DPW supervisor, Dick White, and Sheardy expressed concern over the sewer debt payments. White said the township contracted for certain projected usages and has an obligation.

"The state has an obligation to help pay for the sewers or else the entire payment will fall rather heavily on Orion Township," he said.

Hope Tyrrell, township treasurer, later in the meeting, said the township wouldn't actually lose any present property taxes, but it couldn't assess the land for any improvements.

As to the sewer charges, Tyrrell said "As a person living in Orion township with its open spaces, I would be willing to pay something."

Frank Kaminski of Chrysler Realty said they would try to sell the state all the property.

Chiunti emphasized again that there are no real plans yet for the Chrysler property other than proposals. He said residents would be able to give their input as the project progressed.

YOU IN A NEWPORT?
WHY NOT?

Why not, indeed. Especially if you're not yet ready to shrink your car world. Because Newport has a lot to offer you for the money. Good mileage. Value. And the 1979 Chrysler Newport has been redesigned, a beautiful car that still looks like a full-size luxury car. It rides like a full-size car should, too: smooth and quiet. And right now... during our "Let's Make a Deal" days... is probably the best chance you've had yet to get into a '79 Newport. Let your Chrysler-Plymouth dealer show you how easy that could be. Can get money's worth

To the editor:

I'm writing in regard to the planned public hearing on the dissolution of the Independence Police Services and an editorial which appeared in the Nov. 14 edition.

As stated, citizens will have a chance to ask questions of the board regarding police service.

The editorial also stated many police, reserve officers and wives of reserve officers would be present and expressed hope that a "strong contingent of persons whose interest in police services is limited to the protection of their lives and property" would also be on hand.

Reserve officers regardless of their departmental affiliation, reside in this township, have a financial stake in this township and are highly concerned about their own lives and property, as well as the lives and property of their neighbors. This concern led them to become reserve officers.

The issue at hand is receiving the most protection of life and property for the tax dollar.

As our police service stands one department patrols 8 hours daily and another services the township during the next 16. Neither department is quite sure of what happened during the previous or following shift.

Taxpayers are paying a lot for a service lacking continuity.

Presently tax money is going in four directions to support the two departments.

A portion of township tax goes toward the local police force and a portion goes toward the sheriff's contract; a portion of the county tax goes toward the sheriff's department and now I find a portion of school tax supports the local department due to a contract between the schools and the township. The contract covers local police patrol of sports events, according to the township supervisor.

These four payments just don't seem to stretch far enough to make one whole continuous service.

Millages for police services have been vetoed. At this time the residents cannot or will not finance a full-time local department.

The cost of purchasing maintaining the additional equipment needed to expand the local force to a 24-hour department is prohibitive.

A small local force is unable to guarantee their price tag for a full year's service.

A contract affords residents full-time police protection at a guaranteed cost.

Should an officer be ill, there will be another available from the county force; again at no extra charge to residents.

Incidents of this type were part of the contract fee.

Should the township decide to establish a contract with the county, the tax burden could be eased by two payments. The payment from school taxes to support the local police contract and the payment from township taxes to maintain a local department.

I realize residents will still be paying twice for police protection; from county taxes to support the sheriff's department and from township taxes to support the contract.

I also realize this two-payment plan beats the four-payment plan presently executed.

Holiday stew

by Pat Braunageh

We've been spending much time during the last week reading and smacking our lips over the recipes our readers are sending in for our upcoming Clarkston Community Holiday Cookbook.

Lots of good ideas are being shared. For those of you who haven't gotten around to jotting your favorite recipe down and sending it or bringing it into the office, you've got until Nov. 28 to do so.

Anyway, from our point of view, it looks like we have some exceptional cooks around here—and some enthusiastic ones.

So wrapped up have we become in preparing the written recipes for publication, we had almost lost perspective on how much work is involved in preparing all the holiday feasts.

Pat McLaughlin, bless her, brought the demands of the season into sharp focus with her "recipe" which we'll share with you in advance of the somewhat more conventional cookbook.

Hi, Pat et al,
In response to your request for recipes for your Christmas cookbook, I offer the following. Yule time is the time in the year that we seem to invite the largest groups for holiday entertaining, and this recipe will accommodate most any amount of holiday celebrants:

Elephant Stew

- 1 Elephant (medium size)
- 2 Rabbits (optional)

Salt and pepper

Cut the elephant into small bite-sized pieces. This should take about two months. Add enough brown gravy to cover. Cook over kerosene fire for about four weeks at 465 degrees.

This will serve about 3,800 people. If more are expected, two rabbits may be added, but do this only if necessary, as most people do not like to find hare in their stew.

Respectfully submitted,
Pat McLaughlin

Recreation programs disappointing when cut

To the editor:

I am writing in reference to an article you published this past August or September about a preschool art class called "Tree House II" to be presented through Independence Parks and Recreation (IPR) beginning in September, and the extensive talents of the instructor.

I enrolled my 3-year-old daughter in the class, and she was delighted to be going. She counted the days waiting.

A day or so before the proposed starting date, I got a call from IPR stating the instructor was going on vacation and had postponed the class into November.

I explained the situation to my daughter and she was very disappointed and really had no concept of the time involved.

The class was due to begin November 14th. My daughter has waited patiently all this time, countdown by the day.

Tonight while eating supper, she proudly announce she was going to "Tree House II" TOMORROW!

Then the phone rang. It was IPR. The class was cancelled.

It seems the instructor had taken a job that would interfere with the class. It broke my daughter's heart and made me furious.

I'm not sure with whom I'm angry.

Last summer my son enrolled in a basketball program through IPR which he attended twice only to have it cancelled.

This fall I enrolled my daughter in ballet through IPR and it was cancelled.

These children look forward to these programs which are dropped—cancelled—without any regard to their anticipation.

Perhaps these programs should be better planned, and the instructors screened as to their commitment.

Jim's jottings

Surveying homesite

by Jim Sherman

Out my window (at home).

Purple Martin house. - Now 5 years old, it has yet to house a single mosquito catcher. I've been told the house was too white, that I didn't clean it often enough, it was too high, too low, etc. And, I've been told if Purple Martins want to live in my house they'll kick out the sparrows, clean it and hire a painter.

Collapsed dock - This dock is so decrepit it wouldn't hold a frog. I assumed neat and tidy Hazel would want it removed from the water immediately after it broke in the middle and fell in the water. Wrong. Hazel said, "It's picturesque." She was once impressed by a Saturday Evening Post cover of an ancient, decayed cod fishing port in Maine. She thinks the dock is an antique. If that dock was on company land in Michigan the owner would get life in prison for violating all sorts of safety regulations. Ralph Nader would see to it.

Pansies - Over objections from within the household I planted pansies in a rock garden where only marigolds had blossomed before. I wanted pansies as a salute to a friend, "Pansy" Baldwin. Here it is the middle of November and the pansies are still in bloom. That's fitting. So is my friend Pansy Baldwin.

Birch trees - Charley Sitton gave me two birch clumps about five years ago. One twig of each clump survived. But, when will they turn white? The last couple years they've brightened. That's encouraging. Hope they get all white before the Dutch birch disease kills 'em.

Grass - Should have mowed it one more time. Like every other year, the enthusiasm of spring mowing dwindled to the sick-of-it feeling in the fall. It is at this time of year when I recall some sage saying it is good not to clip your lawn too close at the last mowing before snow. The roots need a blanket.

Moles - Out the back door we have placed brick where other people would either cement or build a wood porch. Some dumb mole must have bumped into the house, then turned left, continuing along the footing of the house, but under the brick. Every once in a while he surfaced at least enough to raise a couple bricks. After about 20 feet of this, and a half dozen bricks, he (or she) ran into our cement driveway. Anyone seen a tired mole with a sore nose?

Swamp - I love our swamp. It'll always be a swamp while we're here. Just don't force it on us with a wetlands bill as foreseen in Lansing. Government, go home... but not to our home.

Letters to the editor

Let's resolve police issue

To the editor:

This past week, Fred Ritter and I sat down and discussed the Police Issue at great length.

I am sure that we are in accord on many points and I am also convinced that he sets the interests of the Township above his own personal goals.

We are both 100% agreed that the annual ritual of confusion and frustration should not continue...the issue of a local department versus contracting is one of long standing bitterness and needs a remedy.

No matter how you slice them, though, public services are going to be costly, especially in the police and fire sectors.

At the risk of being redundant, I want to enumerate some of the points I have attempted to emphasize before:

1. To anticipate that any community will ever be free of crime and disorder will always be an unachieved ideal—we must, however, come as close to that ideal as possible, yet live within the financial constraints that confront us.

2. The responsibility of basic police services should be contained in one agency only.

3. The Oakland County Sheriff's department offers the ultimate in professionalism, offering other ancillary services that are necessary to proficiency.

4. The cost of establishing a local department is cost-prohibitive and the only source for additional revenue is through taxation to provide proper police protection.

5. Contracting is the only possible solution at the present, but it should not be regarded as a panacea for the future. The future does require adequate planning now to minimize problems of transition, should that time come.

6. It would be a gross error to completely rescind the Police Ordinance in its entirety. It would leave no alternative. There is statutory power granted the County Commissioners to limit the number of salaried deputies and control the purse-strings of that department. Inadvertently, we could be at the mercy of the County cost-wise if we forever inter any other course.

7. If the Police Advisory Panel is to exist, it should be effective. Its dignity should be restored and reinforced. No external forces should be able to initiate an action before the Township Board without proper study and recommendation by the Panel. The Panel should not be concerned only for short range goals. It should be involved in planning and research, personnel selection and qualification, and budget reviews.

8. At the forth-coming citizens' hearing, all who are heard should be required to state what his interests are in order for the Board to determine whether or not that speaker has a vested interest in either department or whether the interest is for the good of the Township.

In conclusion, I want to say I am glad Mr. Ritter and I have reached a good level of understanding. I am sure that it is healthful for the Township.

When I retire in January, I will have given the public almost a third of a century and the public has had its moneys-worth from me. Now, I want my moneys-worth from the Township Board!!!

Very Respectfully,
Charles T. Whitlock, Citizen

Here's Herb

By Herb Rose

As we celebrate Thanksgiving we must, unfortunately, brace ourselves for the 17 months of cold weather that characterize Michigan winters.

The 17-months-long winters always seem particularly tedious when compared to the extraordinarily short summers.

Last summer apparently came late Wednesday afternoon or early Thursday morning. I missed it entirely.

The other day I was observing that going outside during a Michigan winter required donning an accumulation of protective clothes in a suiting-up maneuver paralleled only by an astronaut embarking on an extravehicular activity.

It was suggested with more vehemence than I thought absolutely necessary, that I could go back to the semi-tropical climate of New Orleans.

This option is viable, but there is a relationship between my paycheck, my employing agency and myself that I would like to preserve. Also, it is not true that I was dragged here with my fingers making 10 furrows across five states. I could see advantages of living in the frozen wastelands where the walrus and the white seal play like rarely having to send out for ice.

I never thought much about the weather until we moved from New Orleans and people who had never been farther south than the Arctic Circle and wore mukluks year around would look at me sympathetically and ask, "How did you stand all that heat?"

As a new arrival, I was told about the spectacular changes in seasons.

As a resident, I think "spectacular" is a poor choice of modifiers.

If the chinook is late and the spring ice flow doesn't move out in time for the following winter blizzards, a better description might be cataclysmic.

I have heard people wax lyrical about winter sports. Somehow I never developed the suicidal mind set I assume is necessary before you affix boards to the bottom of your feet and then attempt to stand on an inclined surface.

Also, my enthusiasm for sliding waned many years ago when I left a toboggan in a parabolic arc soon after I found the top of a non-yielding fence post that was well obscured by drifting snow.

So on November 22nd, as I gnaw a turkey bone in the snug warmth of my home, I can be thankful for a number of things, including that I am not one of the dedicated souls tracking across the Michigan wasteland bringing feed to the starving moose that have been trying to exist by foraging for lichens under the snow.

Consider Public Safety

To the editor:

WHY NOT A PUBLIC SAFETY DEPARTMENT?

In reference to the continuing saga of police protection in Independence Township, I would recommend that local officials literally consider "Public Safety."

The possibility of forming a public safety department continues to be missing, disregarded or unthinkable.

The integration of police and fire functions would on the face of the issue be a viable solution.

However, this possibility continues to be shunted aside.

By having the same personnel directed toward suppressing crime and fires, duplication in dispatching, manning two types of service, and administration is eliminated.

If the residents desire the services and local officials wish to retain "local" control, the question would seem to be one of good management.

Make an honest bet

by Jim Fitzgerald

Today's lesson will be about three signs of hypocrisy, and baseball in New York.

The last time I attended a baseball game in Yankee Stadium, I noticed three signs that made me sorry I'd left my throw-up pot at home.

The first sign extolled the virtues of OTB-Off Track Betting. In New York, you don't have to go to the racetrack or patronize the corner bookie to get a bet down. You can march right up to one of the caged windows in Grand Central Station, among other public places, and pin your money on the horse's nose.

The second sign urged people to buy tickets on the New York State Lottery. They are sold at cigar counters and in church vestibules all over the city. Winners can become as rich as utility infielders.

The third sign warned baseball fans: "No Gambling Allowed."

Yankee fans are bombarded by neon pleas to bet on horses and numbers, with the government dragging the pot. But if a fan bets the person sitting next to him $5 that the Yankees won't score in the ninth inning, he can be arrested, the dirty gambler.

Hypocrisy in New York became even more nauseous recently when Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn banished Willie Mays from baseball because he is employed by the owners of an Atlantic City gambling casino as a public relations personage.

Willie Mays, one of the greatest baseball players who ever lived, can't make speeches for the New York Mets if he also visits hospitals for a company that does the same thing New York State does—operates legal games of chance. The shining integrity of the Great American Pastime might be blemished. The ground might shake and an Off Track Betting billboard might fall on an outfielder.

Mr. Kleen Kuhn has made no mention of the racehorses owned by George Steinbrenner, who also owns the Yankees. Steinbrenner is that sterling character who, so far, has twice hired Billy Martin, the eminent bar brawler, to manage the Yankees. You've seen them together in beer commercials. Martin can usually find a baseball job between flights, with no objections from Bowie Kuhn.

The Day after I saw the three signs at a Yankee game, which was several years ago, I took my family to NBC-TV to watch the taping of the game show "Concentration." We did the usual auditioning when the camera swung our way, hoping to be discovered by some producer who would star us in a situation comedy series about two zany parents and three zany children who stand on their heads and wave their feet whenever they visit a TV studio.

We were back-home a month before that show appeared on the tube. It was scheduled the same day Apollo 15 took off for the moon and my son was worried that "Concentration" might be preempted by coverage of the space launch, thus gypping him out of seeing his feet higher than his head on national TV.

His values were obviously out of whack. A moon shot was certainly more important than a silly game show. After all, it had been months since anyone had brought back a bag of rocks from the moon and the supply was running low.

But moon trips had already become ho-hum things, restricted to the 6 p.m.

news. "Concentration" appeared as scheduled, so there was no immediate need for me to lecture my son about the warp in his values.

It would have been a hypocritical lecture. I didn't want Apollo 15 knocking us off TV either. I was always against moon trips, even if they accomplished such humanitarian objectives as preempting the Doris Day show. The fare to the moon was much too high for a lot of taxpayers who couldn't afford a trip downtown.

No father wants to be a hypocrite to his son, so I was glad to escape the sham. If I did want to be a phony, I'd aspire to much higher baloney than pious pleas about moon shots. I'd want to work for Bowie Kuhn, creating signs for ball parks. I just thought of three doozies:

1. "Support your local baseball team. The owner needs the money to bet on his horses."

2. "Help Billy Martin get another baseball job. He needs the money to bet on his horses."

3. "No Willie Mays allowed to work here because he was once seen swimming in Atlantic City."

Herb's shameful

Editor Clarkston News:

Reference: Your article by Mr. Herb Rose, Nov. 7th.

My mother used to say, "If you can't say anything good about a person, don't say anything." Seems like you, Mr. Rose, have been lying with those camels you mention, as your article reeks from the association.

The responsive managerial programming of your words is, especially disgusting to the average Clarkston News reader.

"Church credit cards—sin now, pay later," your words, portray a person who was afraid to do the same when time was ripe.

Example: Say something about a person when they are dead or gone, then they cannot defend themselves. Re: Henry Ford's Mistress—Eisenhower's Other Lady—Kennedy's Capital Mistress, etc. etc.

Now you remark about the Pope and the collection. It would seem the most important item about the Pope's visit, according to your exacerbation of the department store, was his need for money.

Why were you not publicizing your article while he was here? You had an entire week to do it.

Also, regarding your loose terminology of Mosaic Law. Not one word was mentioned by the Pope regards to any religion.

His comments were for all denominations, regardless of creed, race or color. Mainly for people who believe in a Supreme Being.

The comments you made on eating camels. If there is such a Law prohibiting people from eating camel on rye bread, there certainly is no Law prohibiting one to eat the same rye bread in sandwich form with camel dung, which is a true portrayal of your supposedly esteemed intelligent article.

If this is what you call selective compliance, Mr. Rose, you should be ashamed of yourself, and write with invisible ink.

Michigan Bell . . . people who enjoy serving people.

If you've ever forgotten how to get a needed phone number for a distant city—outside your own area code—you may want to clip this ad and keep it near your phone as a reminder. Here's all you do: First, dial "0" and ask the operator for the area code, if you don't already know. Then, for Long Distance directory assistance, dial "1" plus the area code for that city, then 555-1212. You will reach a Long Distance directory assistance operator who will give you the number. Once you have the number, write it down so the next time you need it, you can dial it direct and save. If you don't have a good place to write it down, we have a place for you . . . your Personal Telephone Directory—a handy book for keeping your personal list of local and out-of-town phone numbers. It's free. Just call your Michigan Bell business office and ask for a copy.

The color guard's bright flags lined the stage at Band-O-Rama including the one Nancy Soltes holds. Other members of the color guard and rifle squad twirled flags and rifles in front of the stage as the grand finale of the performance.

Strike up concert season!

The sounds of the Clarkston High School Marching Band include percussionists tapping drumsticks and setting the marching rhythm on their drums.

The spotlight shines on Jerry Rowland as he performs a trumpet solo during the Jazz Ensemble's presentation at Band-O-Rama last week. The concert was the first of the season for the band, with the next scheduled Dec. 19 at 8 p.m. at the Clarkston High School Little Theatre. A Christmas concert, its title is "A Joyful Noise."

A medley of enthusiasm

Drum major Claude Gourand leads the CHS Marching Band in its final performance of the year. Although the marching band did not win any trophies this year, Director Cliff Chapman praises the band for its enthusiasm. "That's what we strive for and I'm convinced we achieved it," he said. Color guard advisor Yvonne Wilson also has praise for the group. "They're just a really good group of kids," she said. "Their parents should be proud."

35,000 religious volumes

Colombiere's library extensive

By Kathy Greenfield

Tucked away at Colombiere Center is one of the most extensive religious libraries in the area.

Most of the 35,000 volumes were collected when the center was Colombiere College, a seminary for the Jesuit order of the Catholic Church.

When the Rev. Stephen Meder first became librarian 16 years ago, the library was a busy place.

Now there are perhaps a dozen visitors each day, and most are staying at the center, either on retreat or part of a seminar.

Conversation with Meder in normal tones is cushioned in solitude.

The study tables that line the large windows with tree-lined views offer a sense of what must have been.

Meder provides copies of sections of the 1960 and 1965 Tower, University of Detroit's yearbook, devoted to the college.

"This is the way things were when people were here," he said.

"There's nothing you can do about it, but go along with the change," he said.

The Dinan Library was named for John and Michael Dinan who gave a piece of real estate to Colombiere which was sold to provide funds for the establishment of the library.

It began in 1959 to aid the young men in their early studies as Jesuits.

Meder became librarian in 1963. In 1967, the final preparation for Jesuits was moved to Colombiere from Parma, Ohio, and about 13,000 books and bound periodicals of the religious library were added to the school's collection.

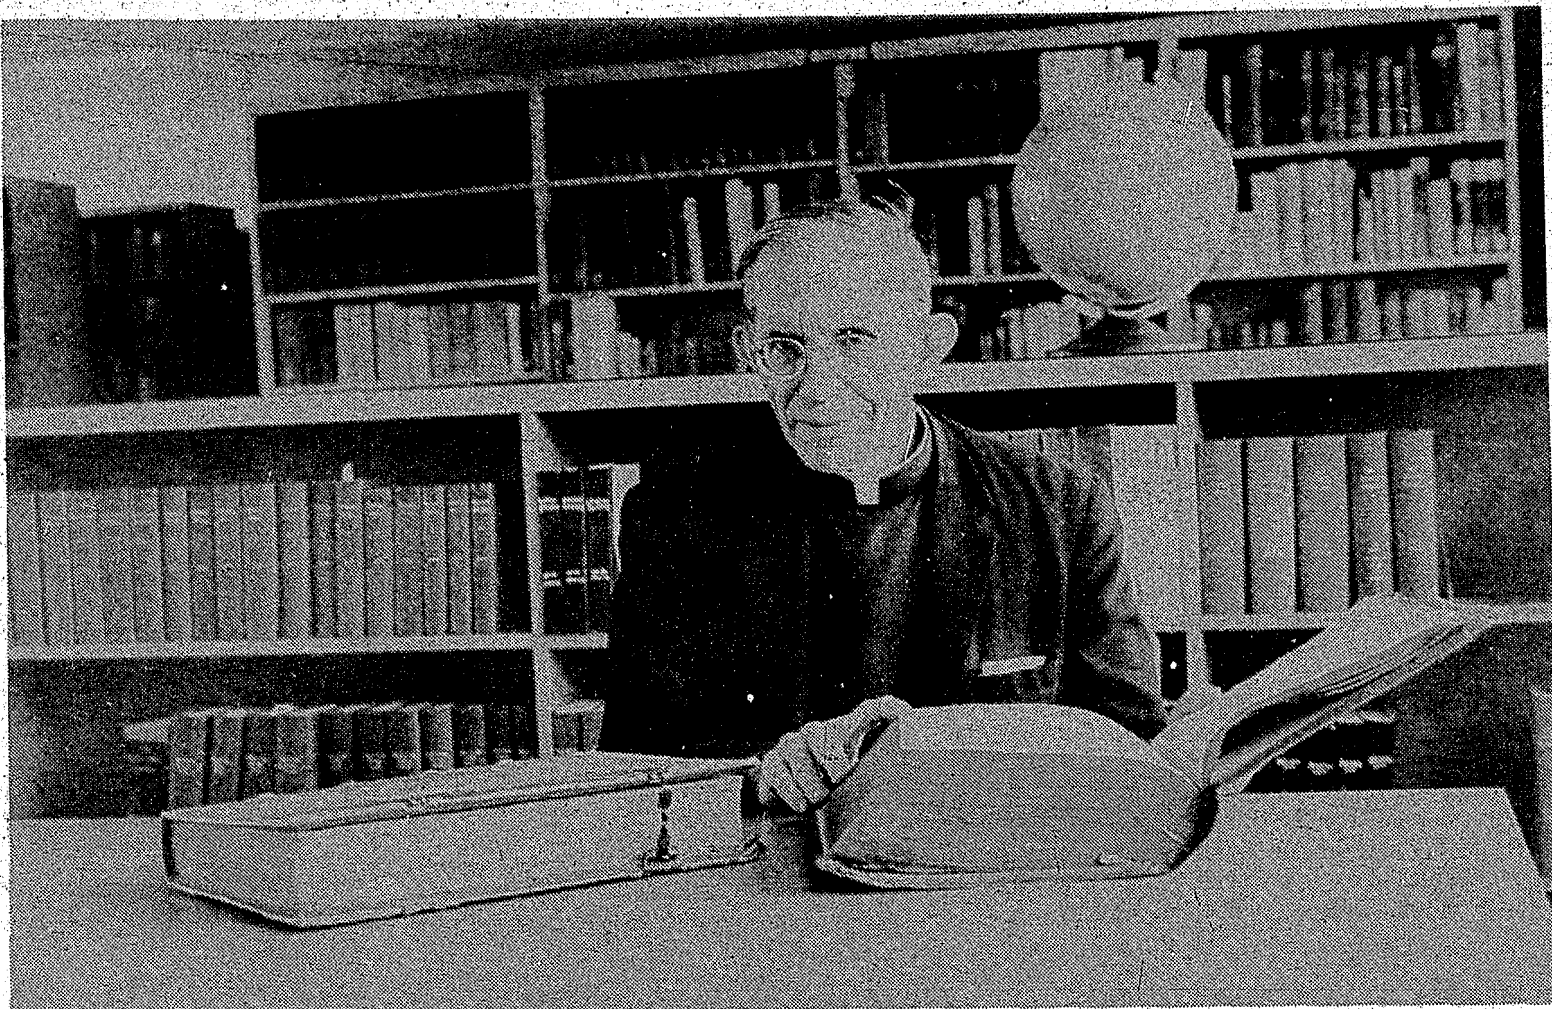

In 1968, third and fourth year students were moved to the University of Detroit, and in 1971 the first and second year men were moved to Loyola House, Berkley.

Thus, the collegiate nature of Colombiere was taken away, Meder said.

A priest since 1943, Meder served as librarian at two high schools in Ohio—St. Xavier in Cincinnati and St. Ignatius in Cleveland.

"Then I came here, and I'm still here," he said. "It's a very fine place. I like it."

Specializing in books about the Jesuit order, many volumes

Among the 35,000 volumes at Colombiere Center's library are 1600s and 1700s, the books are written in Latin, a language two ancient books written about the history of the Society of librarian the Rev. Stephen Meder can translate. Jesus, or Jesuit order of the Catholic church. Dated in the are written in Latin, German and French.

Two ancient volumes, written in Latin, are bound in thick leather and one, dated 1614, has metal hinges.

Aside from keeping the library in order, Meder has some other interests.

For a time he took piano lessons and now he's teaching himself.

"My interest in piano grew out of my efforts to sing the mass—to sing it properly," he said. "What better than a piano to give you the tone?"

The library also has a record collection that had 400 albums at one time, although the number has decreased.

"When I'm pasting pockets, I might play a record," Meder said.

His usual selections are "semi-classical, some hymns and Mitch," he said.

Although he doesn't always sing along with Mitch Miller, the recordings are good for listening, he said.

"They're very clear and definite and easy to follow," he said. "Some of these other choral things..."

Although the books and magazines usually do not leave the center, visitors can use the library for resource material, and Meder is always willing to lend a hand.

"I put service above other things—to help people whenever that comes up," he said.

TABLECLOTH 300 ft. rolls, 40 inches wide. Clarkston News, S. S. Main Street.

Kelly Drain hearing Nov. 29

Residents object to a drain through their subdivision because of possible damage to trees.

The developer of a new subdivision east of the proposed drain path is willing to pay for the drain and calls it the shortest route.

The matter of the Kelly Drain proposed to go through Hiwood subdivision, commonly called Birdland and located east of Maybe Road and south of Sashabaw Road is to be considered Nov. 29.

The meeting of the three-member Oakland County drain board is scheduled at 7 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

A decision on the drain could be made at the meeting, said Robert Fredericks, chief deputy drain commissioner.

Despite objections to the drain by Hiwood residents, it will probably be approved, Fredericks said.

The township board has recommended approval of the drain, there is inadequate drainage for Chestnut Hill Farms under construction east of Hiwood and an alternate route would be much more expensive, because it would require tunneling under Sashabaw Road, Fredericks said.

The project is also to be paid by the developers of Chestnut Hill Farms, he said.

"This is unusual," Fredericks said. "In effect, the public is not going to pay for it. In this case, the developer is going to pay the full cost."

If the drain is approved at the drain board meeting, plans for the drain would have to be presented at another meeting, he said.

The Kelly Drain was named after county commissioner Patricia Kelly (D-Ferndale), because the township board did not recommend a name, Fredericks said.

Township Clerk Christopher Rose said he expects local residents opposed to the drain to attend the meeting.

One of the residents attended the first county drain board meeting and requested that the meeting for public opinion be held in the evening in the township, Rose said.

What about cops?

Public opinion on possible elimination of the Independence Township police department is being sought by the township board Nov. 27.

The special meeting is to be held at 7:30 p.m. at Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The board has set Dec. 4 during its next regular meeting for making a decision on the issue—whether to drop the local department and provide police protection only through contracted Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputies.

Presently, the township is served by the local police services with a director and two patrol officers covering the area from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week, and by four OCSO deputies contracted to provide police protection from 4 p.m. to 8 a.m.

Township enlarges senior center site

Independence Township is adding .62 acres with a small house to its Senior Citizen Center property.

A purchase agreement of $27,900 was signed early this month, and the property should be owned by the township in about one month, according to a township official.

The property is located at the end of the senior center driveway off Clarkston-Orion Road.

Money to purchase the property comes from federal revenue sharing funds and $17,000 from the township's building improvement fund, said Supervisor Whitey Tower.

"A lot of homeowners are pleased at what they can save with State Farm insurance."

Suspensions under study

School suspensions—why they're given and how they work—will be examined by a Clarkston School District committee.

A committee of board members, parents, teachers and administrators is to be appointed "to examine the problem of our policy of suspension," according to a motion passed last week by the school board, which did not discuss implementation of the motion.

Vote on the motion was 6-1, with Trustee Fernando Sanchez dissenting.

He saw the proposed study, he said, as a move to loosen the rules governing suspensions.

"If we do anything, it should be more strict," he said.

His fellow board members assured Sanchez that they just wanted to familiarize themselves with district policy and how it is being administered.

"We just want an update," Trustee Eric Reickel said.

"I'm not sure I'm looking to change anything," said board Vice President Janet Thomas. "But I want to make sure nothing needs to be changed."

The suspension-policy study was proposed by Trustee Carolyn Place after parents of a suspended Clarkston High School student suggested the board re-examine its policy and investigate how it is implemented.

Place said she thought it might be a good idea for the board to take another look at its policy of negative reinforcement for truancy.

She questioned the effectiveness of punishing a student who stays out of school by making him stay out of school.

Schools Supt. Milford Mason noted that the district's student code of conduct is stringent.

"The schools of a community reflect that community," he said. "What does this community want? We still feel they want rather firm discipline."

Place emphasized that she wasn't suggesting that the code be less strict.

"The subject keeps raising its head every six months," Treasurer Vincent Luzzi said.

Clarkston High Principal Dominic Mauti said he believes suspensions of one to 10 days are helping the school's discipline problem.

He estimated the number of suspensions in effect on any given day would average 10.

Assistant Schools Supt. Mel Vaara said the majority of suspensions are for smoking on school grounds. Smoking, use of drugs or alcohol and fighting can result in immediate suspension, Mauti said.

For most other offenses, a student receives two warnings before he is suspended, Mauti said.

Sashabaw classmates turn crafty

Braided wreaths are among the several home decorations being prepared by pupils like Tom Kelly and Kathy Mullen, both ninth graders.

At his loom, David Newton, Sashabaw ninth grader works on one of the colorful wall hangings which will be offered at the school's Christmas bazaar.

In one of the classes converted into Christmas workshops at Sashabaw Junior High School, ninth grader Barb McIntosh is busy on a papier mache bell decoration for the holidays. Arts, crafts, plants and baked goods will be offered at the Christmas Bazaar Dec. 7 from 7-9 p.m. at the school on Maybee Road near Pine Knob.

Wolfpack preparing for opener

The point after

by Al Zawacky

There is something ominous, very ominous in the rows of empty seats I saw at Olympia during a recent Red Wing contest, in the rash of ice rink closings that have occurred not only in the tri-county area, but across the country as well.

Just seven years ago, hockey was experiencing a phenomenal growth—the World Hockey Association had begun operations in the fall of 1972, increasing the number of pro teams to 28, and recreational arenas began springing up like mushrooms on the front lawn.

Today, many of these rinks are closing down as quickly as they appeared. Even in Canada, there are reports that the talent-generating amateur leagues are attracting fewer young boys than in the past; parents and arena managers complain that the economic factors (spiraling equipment and rink utility costs) are rapidly turning the sport into a rich man's game.

Others claim that the game is just too violent, that hockey is beginning to resemble TV roller derby matches.

I say "bunk" to the violence issue.

The hacking, fighting and stick swinging so often criticized is indigenous to the NHL, not the sport in general.

Players are suspended for fighting in contests sanctioned by the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association, and collegiate hockey punishes their pugilists similarly.

Economically, though, the game is in trouble.

A junior-aged goalie (say 17 to 19 years old) who decides to purchase some top-of-the-line equipment could wind up spending in excess of $700 for the complete regalia.

Younger players, forwards and defenseman can get off cheaper, but it's hardly what you'd call a pittance.

Ice money is also a factor. Many arenas charge as much as $75 an hour for ice rental; that combined with the cost of the officials and transportation to and from the rink can run the bill to the three figure level.

And the situation can only get worse, as long as the inflation and energy problems continue unabated.

The ax fell on another high school football coach recently—Chippewa Valley's Mike Jolly was summarily canned by the valley's athletic director.

In 1976 Jolly coached his gridders to a 9-0 record in class B competition, but a subsequent upgrading to class A combined with the effects of dropping ninth grade football at the junior highs left him with a 2-25 mark over the last three years.

Personally, I am always slightly amused by these firings—in my view, the AD is making a negative commentary on his own performance.

It's the job of a good executive, a good general manager or a good athletic director to find a competent coach and let him run the team as he sees fit, without interference.

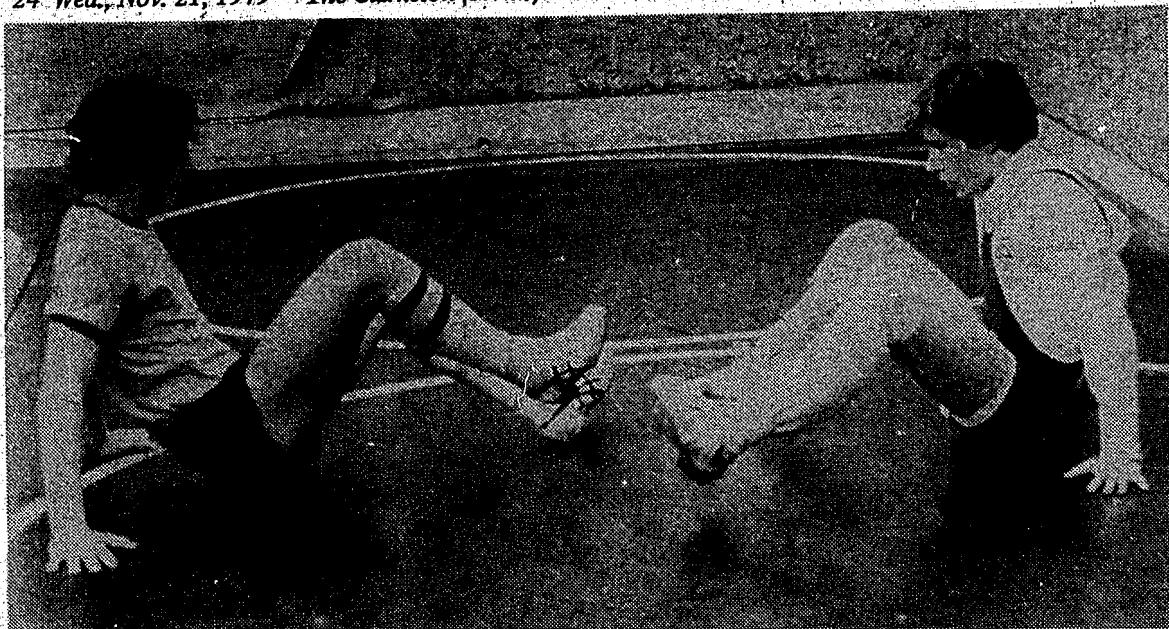

If, on the other hand, an AD doesn't trust his own coach, meddles in the way he handles the team, and then fires him, shouldn't we all wonder why the coach was hired in the first place?

The secret to being a successful executive is to find the right people to work under you—and then leave them alone to do their jobs. That's not as easy as it sounds. And the whole point here is that when a coach is fired, it's more of a reflection on the man that hired and fired him than it is on the coach himself.

Meanwhile, after four years of competent, dedicated service, Mike Jolly gets the shaft.

Sometimes all of us—reporters included—tend to lose sight of the fact that prep sports are supposed to exist for the recreation, education and enjoyment of the students, rather than for the omnipotent winning season.

In addition to wrestling, the Clarkston grapplers also work on a number of conditioning and agility exercises. Here Bruce Burwitz [left] and John Territo perform one of the drills.

Grapplers seek winning season--and spectators

By Al Zawacky

First-year head coach Rick Detkowski likes to use the term "competitive" when talking about his 1979-80 Clarkston High School wrestling squad.

"Nobody is going to blow us out—we have a lot of good athletes on this team," Detkowski insisted. "Many things can happen over the course of the season with injuries or kids dropping out, but as of right now I think we've got a group who can be competitive with any team we meet."

Detowski and his assistant, Don Maskill, are both new to their posts. Maskill coached wrestling at the junior high level last winter, while Detkowski worked as the high school assistant.

"I think the parents and students can help the team tremendously this year by just coming out and watching the meets," Detkowski said. "We'd definitely like to get more people out to see us."

"It's an interesting sport. If they'd just come out and watch, I think they'll be surprised—we're going to be a little different this year, we're going to wrestle more aggressively."

Last year's grapplers finished the season at 7-6, and four key members of that squad are returning as team captains this season: Craig Gavette, Paul Carr, Claude Gourand and Scott Smith.

Gavette posted a 29-9 mark in 38 decisions; Carr was 26-7, Gourand 35-6 and Smith 22-11. Gavette and Gourand both went to Kalamazoo last season and took seventh place in the state-wide meets.

The four captains, Duane Miller and transfer student Randy Mountain (from California) are the team's only seniors, but Clarkston has a host of junior and sophomore talent to draw upon.

Two juniors of note include Mike Ogans, coming off a 24-9 mark, and Chris Gourand, who posted a 16-6 record.

"Ogans did really well last year, especially for being a sophomore. He's a good athlete," Detkowski observed. "Gourand suffered an injury last year, so we're looking forward to having him play a full season."

Junior John Territo and sophomores Mike Conway, Jeff Miracle, Mike Karrick and Todd Thompson were also mentioned by their coach as figuring prominently in the success of the upcoming season, opening for the Wolves on Dec. 4 at Birmingham Seaholm.

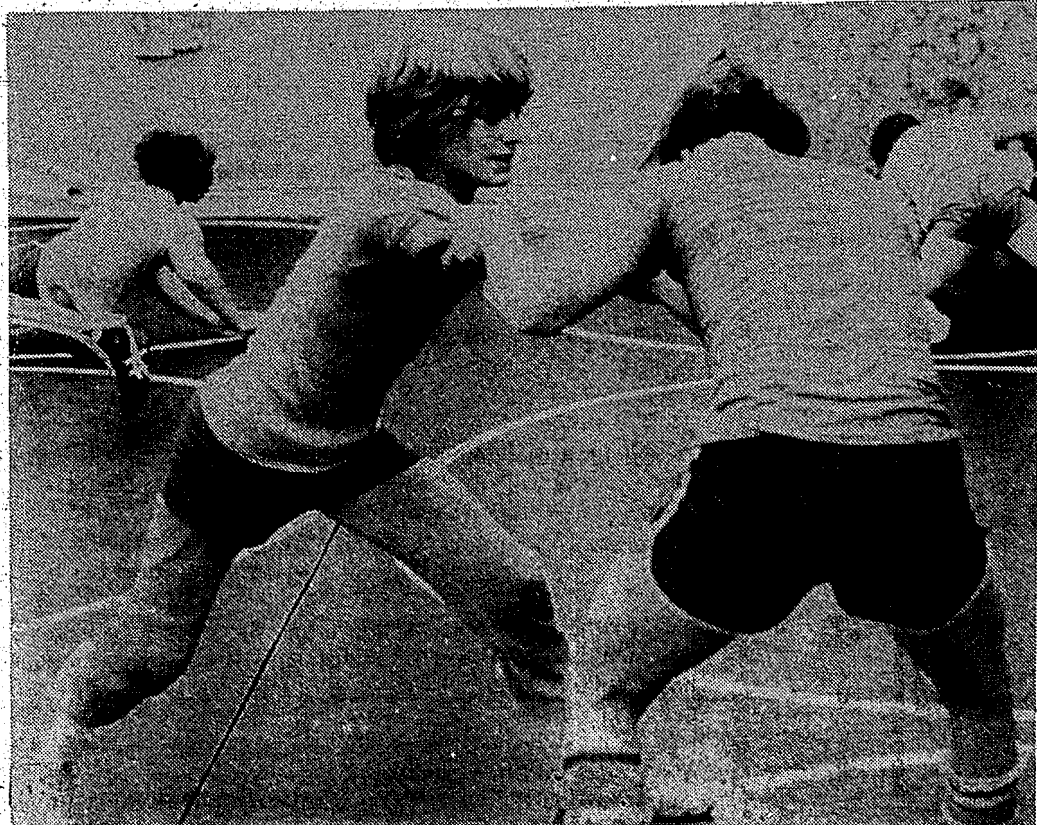

The wrestlers first home match will be the following Thursday, Dec. 6 vs. Southfield Lathrup at 6:15 p.m.

"Again, I think the big thing is that we get some people to come out and watch this year," Detkowski concluded. "It's amazing what just 50 or so people cheering in the stands can do for the kids—it really gets everybody going."

Confidence in his wrestlers' ability is expressed by coach Rick Detkowski, who says his squad will be "competitive" with any school they face.

Cagers drop home finale

West Bloomfield's girls basketball squad looked every bit its role of GOAL title winners in Thursday night's contest at Clarkston High School, defeating the Wolves by a 38-point margin 63-25.

"We kept their scoring down and held them close in the first half," said Clarkston coach Dave McDonald, citing a halftime score of 26-15. "The second half was a whole different story—they came out with a press in the third quarter and really killed us."

"Bloomfield knew they could wrap up the league title with a victory—so, naturally, they were a very hungry ball club."

Pat Bradley led the Wolves in the scoring department with six points. Lisa Forsyth was next in line with five.

"The GOAL is a tough, very tough league for girls basketball," McDonald claimed. "Take a look at the teams and their records—West Bloomfield, Milford, Andover, Kettering—that's some pretty stiff competition."

"Two of our three victories this season have been upsets against those tough league rivals, but still—when you have to play eight of your games against those four teams, it's a little tough to get ahead."

The Wolves will wrap up their regular season schedule this week at Rochester before heading into tournament competition.

The tourney will begin at Clarkston High School Nov. 27, with the Wolves drawing for their opponent this week.

CHS field getting new concessions

The Clarkston High School athletic field is going to get a new concession stand and comfort station.

The school's athletic boosters agreed to pay $5,000, and the school board said it would chip in the balance, to construct the 30-by-34-foot building on the southeast corner of the field, just below the two booths now used to sell snacks.

It's been estimated that the masonry structure will cost about $22,400 to build, with the school's building trades class involved in the work.

The school board's portion of the money will come from a building and site fund.

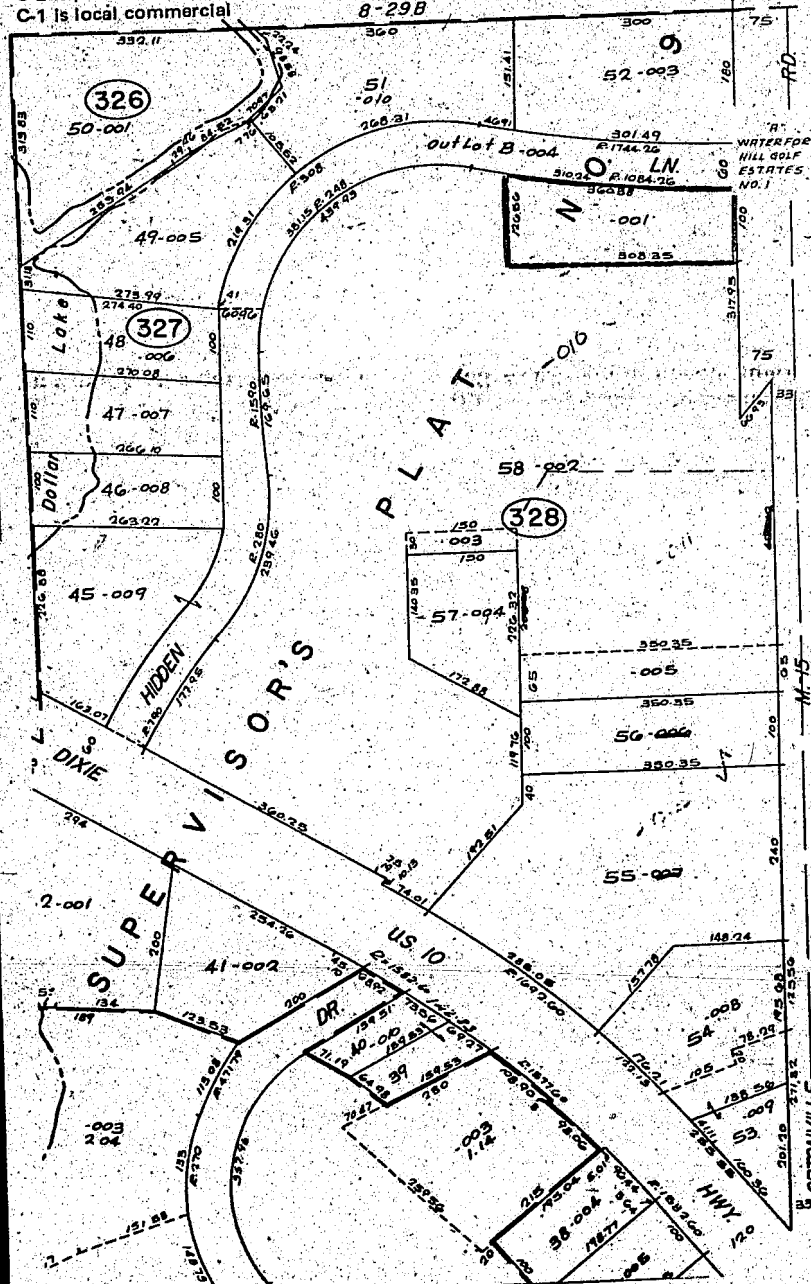

The building will contain a concession area, storage room and rest rooms.

CHS alumnus stars in meet

Clarkston High School alumnus Gordon Sanders took second place honors in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) national championship cross country meet in Kenosha, Wisconsin last weekend.

A liberal arts major at Hillsdale College, Sanders graduated cum laude from CHS in June 1979 and currently holds a 3.8 grade point average in his collegiate studies.

"We were thinking that just to place in the top 25 would be a good achievement in a national meet," said Gary Sanders, of Robertson Court, Clarkston, the harrier's father. "So naturally, we're all really pleased about how well he did."

Teams from 33 colleges nationwide and individual runners from another 61 schools were entered in the meet. Sanders had finished first in district competition with a time of 25:36 en route to his second place finish in the NAIA nationals.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that the Independence Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on December 13, 1979 beginning at 7:30 PM at the Township Hall, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston, MI 48016 to consider the following proposed amendments to the Township Zoning Ordinance No. 83, as amended:

Section 7.01 - Parking Requirements:

A) Add New Subsection 12: Handicapped Requirements:

On each site proposed for use, addition, and/or conversion for which a site plan is required to be submitted by the Zoning Ordinance, there shall be provided on the same site a minimum of one (1) off-street parking space designed pursuant to the State of Michigan Handicapped Standards. Such space shall be a minimum of twelve (12) feet wide and twenty (20) feet in depth clearly depicted upon the site plan and clearly indicated by designation of a sign illustrating the handicapped space location. For each parking lot area containing up to twenty-five (25) off-street spaces, at least one such space shall be designated for handicapped only. Should the parking lot contain more than twenty-five (25) spaces, one additional handicapped space shall be designated for each additional twenty-five (25) spaces and/or fraction thereof. All handicapped spaces shall be within one hundred feet of the main entrance door to the structure which the spaces are designed to serve. Access from the parking lot to the principal use and all accessory uses shall be by means of ramping consisting of asphalt and/or concrete materials constructed to the engineering specifications and standards of the Township.

B) Add New Subsection 13: Landscape Requirements Within Parking Lots:

On each site proposed for construction, addition, and/or modification of an off-street parking lot for which a site plan is required to be submitted by the Zoning Ordinance, a landscaped area shall be provided within said parking lot in an amount equal to one landscaped area comprising at least 400 square feet in size for each twenty-five (25) off-street parking spaces, said landscaped area to be planted in accordance with Section 5.13 of the Zoning Ordinance.

Section 7.02 - Table of Off-Street Parking Requirements: (Introductory Paragraph Unchanged)

1) Residential:

A Add to "B" - Residential, Multiple Family - Two (2) off-street spaces for each dwelling unit plus one (1) off-street space for each ten (10) dwelling units;

B Add to "C" - Senior Citizen Housing - One (1) off-street space for each Two (2) units.

2) Institutional:

A Add to "F" - Private clubs or lodge halls - One (1) off-street space for each three (3) persons allowed within the maximum occupancy load as established by county or state fire or health codes plus one (1) off-street space for each employee.

B Add to "G" - Private golf clubs, swimming pool clubs, tennis clubs, athletic clubs, saunas, and physical exercise clubs, and similar uses - One (1) off-street space for each two (2) member families or individuals plus one (1) off-street space for each employee.

C Add "N" - Sanitarium - One (1) off-street space for each two (2) beds plus One (1) space for each employee.

D Add "O" - Libraries & Museums - One (1) off-street space for each two hundred (200) square feet of usable floor area plus One (1) space for each employee.

3) Business & Commercial:

A Amend "B" to include bowling alleys, racquetball establishments, handball courts, squash courts, and similar uses - Five (5) off-street spaces for each lane, court, or similar use area plus One (1) off-street space for each sixty (60) square feet of any use area designated for retail sales of goods, merchandise, food, beverages, or refreshments.

B Amend "F" to include self service gasoline stations - Two (2) off-street parking spaces for each gasoline pump on each island in addition to requirements for service stations.

Part of teaching gymnastics skills is knowing where to place hands to help youngsters achieve the proper stance, Nancy Hanes says. Here she helps a pupil perform a back bend.

The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., Nov. 21, 1979 27

One technique a gymnastics teacher must learn is how to avoid getting kicked while helping youngsters master such skills as head stands, Miss Hanes says.

Gym has purpose at Davisburg school

By Kathy Greenfield

A "G" added to the three "R's" completes Nancy Hanes' idea of a well-rounded education.

The "G" is for gym, which is what Miss Hanes teaches to over 700 pupils at Davisburg Elementary School, Springfield Township.

"I feel it's one of the most important subjects, particularly in the lower grades," she says about gym class.

"If you don't have good health and can't maintain your body condition, then you aren't going to be able to function," she says. "They talk about going back to basics—this is basic. Movement is basic to life."

With this philosophy in mind, Miss Hanes' gym classes at the school are designed with a serious purpose.

Although there's plenty of activity and lively conversation, most every youngster is learning basic skills.

Last week, the pupils were doing their best to turn cartwheels, backwards somersaults and make "bridges" with an extraordinary amount of success.

"It's not a play time," Miss Hanes says. "It's a learning time."

Her enthusiasm for physical fitness and teaching such skills has not gone unrecognized.

Earlier this month, Miss Hanes was selected by the Michigan Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, for the Operation Pride Award.

Designed to give public recognition to a member of the organization who demonstrates dedication to excellence in teaching on the elementary or secondary level, the annual award has been in effect since 1971.

"I still can't believe I got it," says Miss Hanes. "It's just amazing."

A Springfield Township resident, she has taught gym 13 years, the last eight at Davisburg Elementary.

In addition to serving as the Holly Area Schools district chairman for physical education, she runs a nine-sport intramural program during lunchtime so more pupils can participate.

Summer months are spent supervising 4-H activities, conducting a gymnastics class and serving as president of the Davisburg boys' and girls' little league program.

The importance of all these activities goes beyond good physical health, she says.

"How can you learn to read and write if you're not healthy?" she asks.

The 60-member gymnastics team she coaches was invited to compete at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, last spring and won a second place award against junior and senior high school teams.

"I'd rather work with children than do anything else," she says.

As children in one of 48 gym classes she teaches each week practice somersaults, Miss Hanes looks for pupils who need assistance.

Christmas activities for Independence children

Independence Township Parks and Recreation will offer a variety of activities over the Christmas holidays for youngsters, including movies, gym activities and a Christmas party.

On Saturday, Dec. 15 the events will begin with showings at noon and 6 p.m. of three children's films.

Featured will be "Ben and Me," an animated film about Ben Franklin and his friend Amos the Mouse; "Flash the Teenage Otter"; and Mowgli's Brothers," a tale about a boy who is found and raised by wolves. Refreshments will be sold at the showings.

On Dec. 19, 20 and 21, children may talk on the phone to Santa or Mrs. Claus by dialing 625-8231 from 3 to 5 p.m.

The second annual Independence Parks and Recreation Christmas party will be at Clarkston High School Saturday, Dec. 22 from 3 to 5 p.m. for youngsters in grades one through six.

The cost of the party is 50 cents per child, plus each youngster should bring a gift costing $2 or less.

Santa Claus will make an appearance at the party, and there will be games, prizes, a movie, "Mr. Magoo's Christmas Carol," refreshments and the breaking of candy pinatas.

Open gym time for children ages 6 through 13 will be offered at the Clarkston Junior High gymnasium for 50 cents a day on Dec. 26, 27, 28, and 31 from noon to 3 p.m.

Any questions about the planned events should be directed to the recreation department at 625-8223.

Those planning on attending any of the events are requested to call and leave their names to give the department some idea of how many people to expect at each of the activities.

Special kind of recreation

"Recreation" takes on a special meaning three days a week at Springfield Oaks County Park.

Nearly 20 persons from four adult foster care centers in the area gather there for a routine of activities that includes sewing, music, exercise projects, "New Games" and field trips.

"They're learning basic socialization and life skills," said Anne Clinton-Cirocco, Springfield Oaks recreation supervisor. "Most of these people's lives have been run by institutions, and we're giving them a chance to learn choices of what to do in their leisure time and also offering them skills to share socially with others."

The program at Springfield Oaks is coordinated through the Northwest Oakland Life Enrichment Coalition (NOLEC), in cooperation with the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

The Commission consists of 11 human service agencies and educational institutions committed to the development of multi-faceted programming for the adult mentally handicapped population in northwestern Oakland County.

The coalition, which is the only one of its type in Northwest Oakland County, has been programming at Springfield Oaks since September.

Springfield Oaks was chosen to house the program because, "It's centrally located and large enough to accommodate multi-programming," says Clinton-Cirocco.

NOLEC's roots go back to the fall of 1976 when the West Oakland Community Mental Health Clinic and the North Oakland Adult Basic Education Consortium, realizing they had clients in common, joined forces and began developing inter-agency programming.

In July 1978, League Goodwill of Detroit was contacted and agreed to consider functioning as an umbrella agency for what has become NOLEC.

The coalition plans to expand into more diverse activities and programs in the near future. The eventual goal is to service 75 people at Springfield Oaks and to offer fine crafts, woodcarving, individual and group counseling, vocational assessment and training as well as remunerative work experience programs.

In the simulated work experiences, the adults will be participating in simple assembly line tasks to orientate them into the world of work.

They'll find themselves in productive lines of work," says Marion Tucker, NOLEC program developer. "They first step into community work programs and then into regular jobs."

Jim bags his first buck

Every deer season thousands of hunters return home empty handed—but not Jim Logan, a 16-year old student at Clarkston High School.

Logan was hunting with his father and sister near Prudenville early Thursday morning when he sighted and downed a 170-pound eight-pointer, which was hanging in the garage of their home on 5066 Greenview, Independence Township Monday afternoon.

"It's all luck, really," Logan insisted. "You've just got to be in the right place at the right time—but I guess you've got to be a pretty good shot, too."

The young hunter has been handling a rifle for three years and was hunting with a bow when he was 12, his father noted.

Preparations were being made for skinning and cutting, but the family's love of venison isn't quite universal.

"Everybody likes it but my mom, I guess," Logan said. "Of course, she probably doesn't because she's the one that has to fix it."

Safety path movie/slide program free

"Bikeways for Better Living," a film produced by a bicycle manufacturer, will be shown at a public program of the Independence Township Safety Path Advisory Committee Wednesday, Nov. 28.

The film will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in the Clarkston High School Little Theatre

A slide presentation will be made by Frank Reynolds, planning director for Bloomfield Township.

Refreshments will be served at the free program.

Looking forward to some good eating, Terry Schoneman stands behind the pumpkin pies he and his classmates at Pine Knob Elementary School have just whipped up for their Thanksgiving feast Tuesday.

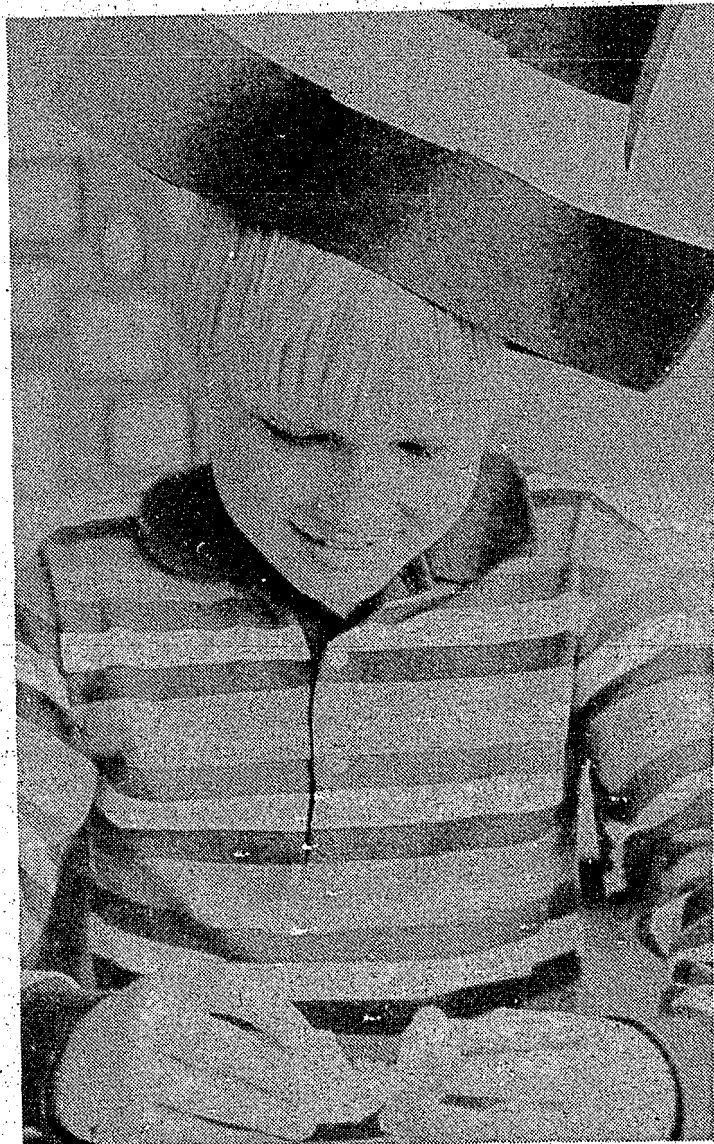

Everyone has something to do when a teacher decides she'll let her class prepare a Thanksgiving meal. Here Sonya Broome tries to keep on her Pilgrim hat as she measures spices into a pumpkin pie mixture. The third-and fourth-graders in Sally Seaman's room also made cranberry relish, squash and corn bread. Their teacher cooked two turkeys.

Women's Club serves community for quarter century

By Maralee Cook

The group of women who formed the Clarkston Women's Club in 1954 had a concrete goal in mind—the establishment of a public library.

After that goal was ac-

Club profile

complished—in six months' time—the group continued to meet with the purpose of expanding its community involvement and, through an open membership, offering an opportunity for new residents of the community to become acquainted.

The organization, which is now called Clarkston Community Women's Club, has over 40 members, and is still primarily a service club.

While the CCWC is still involved in the library, other projects include: the Clarkston-Independence blood bank which has been co-sponsored with the Red Cross for 22 years; providing gifts and food for a needy Clarkston area family each Christmas; financial assistance for Clarkston Youth Assistance; donations toward the purchase of flower baskets hanging on the light posts in Clarkston; and donations to the Independence Township Fire Department for the purchase of a wheel chair to be loaned out free of charge.

Special events and fund-raising projects have included home tours, dinner dances, bake sales, jewelry sales for Santa's Shed, arts and crafts auctions and hypnotist programs.

The CCWC recently placed money raised from a cook book sale in escrow where it will remain until it can be contributed toward the building of a community center.

Last year, over 20 members traveled to Chicago for a weekend. They had such a good time, said current president Gail Ferguson, that a weekend jaunt to Toronto is planned for next April.

The more than 40 members now meet the third Thursday of each month. Speakers such as Oakland County Prosecutor Brooks Patterson and a local psychic are invited to give talks at each meeting.

The club is limited to 65 memberships. Women who are interested in joining can call Roz Needham, vice president and membership chairperson at 625-8970.

The Clarkston Community Women's Club raised over $400 in its arts and crafts auction Nov. 15. Gail Ferguson, the club's president, sold her fabric Christmas tree for $18. Club members buy each others crafts and are very generous, Gail said, because they know the money will be used for a good cause.

How to win at "Money"

Every football fan understands the value of the bench. No team ever wins the Super Bowl without good reserves.

The same idea works in the game of "Money."

To play the game, you simply try to make ends meet. Of course, inflation and taxes knock you back just when you think you're gaining. Then recession hits, or the plumbing leaks, or your car needs a major repair. These things aren't fair but there is no referee.

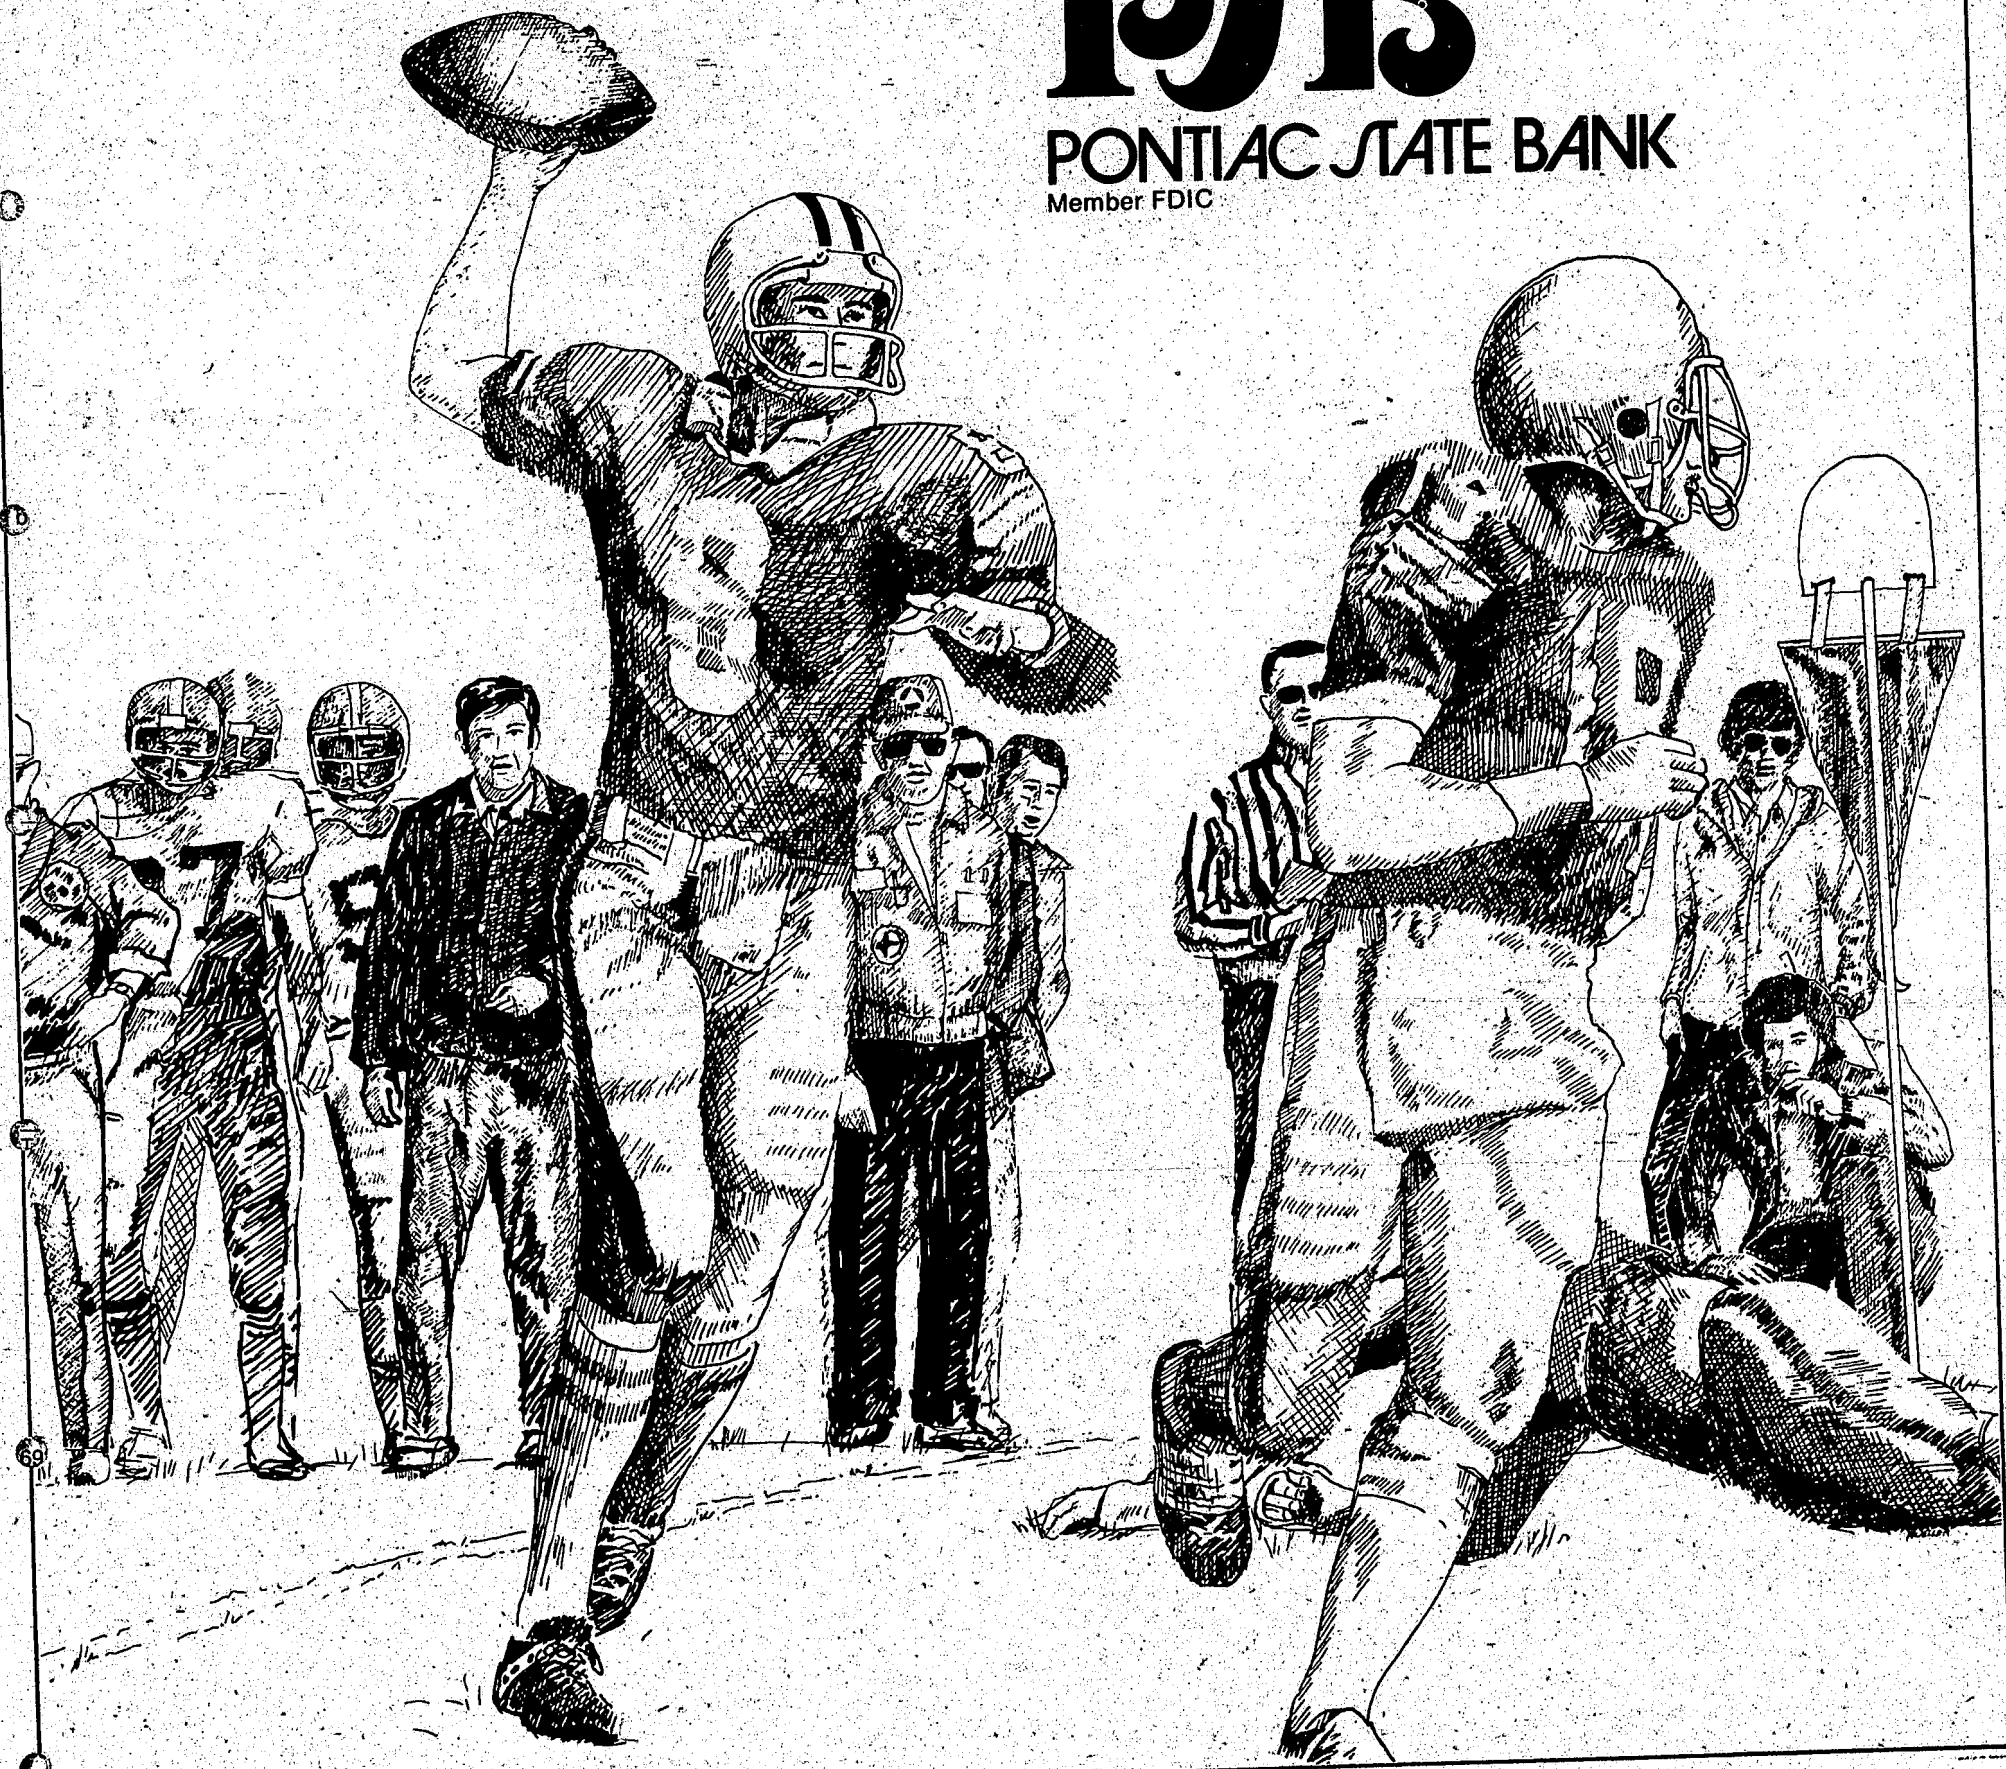

Money in reserve

Most people put a good first team together — a strong paycheck, tight budget and alert defense at the supermarket. But the reserves are sadly lacking. You need savings that can come off the bench in a hurry. And credit that won't quit at the goal line. You need Pontiac State Bank.

No other bank can give you a better back-up for your finances. Checking, savings and lending. At PSB your savings earn the most that any bank can pay. And we can help you build up your credit. Pre-qualified customers can borrow up to $10,000 on a moment's notice, no questions asked. Start your program with us today. In the game of money, you win when you have a great bank.

Lovetts grateful to their church

Don and Edith Lovett have raised four happy, healthy children, have realized a dream in the opening of their new jewelry store, and, in general, have a fulfilling life.

They place the credit for this good fortune on one thing—their association with the Apostolic Church of Christ in Pontiac.

Edith was raised with the Pentecostal doctrine and "converted" Don when they were married. Since then, church membership has become "the most important movement in our lives."

Edith and Don felt it was equally important to expose their children to Christian teachings. Consequently all four—Linda, 20, Laura and Lana, 18, and Donny, 16—are now as involved if not more, with their church as their parents.

Along with the regular Sunday morning worship, the children are involved in youth and choir groups that meet in the evening.

Donny attends Apostolic Christian Academy in Pontiac, which is affiliated with the church. Don and Edith said they prefer the structure and discipline of the church school to that of public schools.

Along with the academic subjects Donny is studying, he is also involved in a computer program which he likes very much.

He said he finds computer science overwhelming and challenging, and hopes to continue to study computer programming in college.

The Lovetts said they feel their son is getting a better education at the academy, as well as receiving doctrinal teachings.

Don opened his store, Lovett

Jewelers, in the Clarkston Mills in August. It was, he said, "sort of a lifetime dream."

He first learned about the world of gems while a student in a retail class at Pontiac Central High School, and he continued working for jewelry stores after graduating from high school. He spent the last 13 years with Dobie Jewelers in Royal Oak—five of those years as store manager.

Edith said that Don has always wanted to have his own store, but decided to wait until the kids were grown before making the investment.

"I've always wanted Don to be happy," she said, "and now the store is my dream too."

Edith, who works full-time as office manager for Clinical Resources, works at the store evenings and Saturdays. She wants to be involved in the store on a limited basis, she said. By so doing, she is free to travel with Don on business trips.

"We've always done things together," she explained.

Don said even with his thorough experience in the jewelry business, and the fact that his store is a smaller operation than Dobie's, "you worry about it more."

But, he said, the area needed a full-service jewelry store. He felt the location of Clarkston Mills was ideal, and that the time just seemed to be right to open one.

The Lovetts, who live on Warbler Drive and have been residents of Independence Township for 20 years, said they never considered another location for their store.

Don said he has a fine appreciation for jewelry.

"Each gem is interesting in its own right," he added, "no two are alike."

Since the increase in gold prices, said Don, buying habits have changed. While some people still buy gold for status, he added many are also buying for an investment.

Don said there has also been an increase in interest in gem stones, partially because of the rise in the cost of diamonds.

Interest has also increased because of the uniqueness of certain stones, as in the case of pad-parascha sapphires which are orange; green garnets which are more brilliant than emeralds; and alexandrite, a violet stone named after Alexander the Great, which changes colors under different lighting.

When mounted with a small diamond, said Don, these stones, while less expensive than diamonds, will make a beautiful piece of jewelry.

Don said there has also been a trend toward contemporary free-form design in rings, some of which are striking enough to eliminate the need for expensive stones.

Most of the Lovetts' time is now taken up by the store—expanding the stock, increasing services, bookkeeping and planning buying trips.

And, after the church meetings as a family, Edith and Don do not worry about how their kids are spending their time. They are convinced that their children's involvement with the church has taught them how to judge right from wrong.

Don Lovett spends his leisure time golfing or working in the yard. While computer science is the main interest in son Don's life, he also enjoys music and plays the trombone in the church choir.

Two of Edith Lovett's hobbies are decoupage and sewing. Four of her decoupage placques are displayed in the Lovett's living room.

Drama carries Irish charm, universal truths

Philadelphia, Here I Come!
By Brian Friel
Hilberry Theatre
Wayne State University

"Philadelphia, Here I come!" is a gentle and bittersweet play that is Irish in its charm and universal in its truths.

① Ostensibly about a young man's last night in Ireland before he leaves for Philadelphia to begin a new life, it is in the broad sense about estrangement, loneliness and the human hopes for communication and understanding.

Gar O'Donnell is leaving the dreary small Irish town of Ballybeg to live with an aunt and uncle in Philadelphia.

This will be the beginning of a new life and a new job, but as the night before his leaving arrives he begins to have second thoughts and with the help of an alter ego his past, his yearnings and his disappointments flood his fantasy life.

Leaving his home means leaving his father and the hope that there can never be any warmth or communication between them.

Communication has been an area of personal failure to the 25-year old Gar throughout his life.

It has never really existed and he feels lonely and isolated because of the things that neither he nor others close to him could say to each other. The second act appropriately ends with him repeating to himself, "Say something."

The lack of real life relationships with others in a meaningful way is highlighted in playwright Brian Friel's brilliant use of another actor who serves as Gar's alter ego.

Both actors, the public Gar, played by Mark Tymchyshyn, and the private Gar, acted by Andrew Barnicle, are outstanding.

Their performances, as well as those of Gar's stonily cold and distant father, William G. Etter, make this an excellent choice as Wayne State University's contribution to the American College Theatre Festival.

This play when it appeared on Broadway in 1966 was the longest-running Irish play ever to hit the boards on Broadway. Its humor, often savage and ironic, and its gentle but realistic view of the unbridgeable distance between father and son, give it charm and poignancy.

It joins the other Hilberry plays in the repertory season and will continue until January 19, 1980.

As blood donors, they're special

Four Clarkston area residents were among more than 500 special blood donors honored by the Southeastern Michigan Chapter, American Red Cross.

David Galley, Brenda Dupree, Carol Lindeman and Janice Ledogar were presented service award pins at the third annual Pheresis Recognition Reception recently.

"Pheresis is an unusual kind of blood donation," said Dr. William Shafer, blood services director. "Instead of giving whole blood, as in regular donations, a pheresis donor gives a specific component of blood, such as plasma, platelets or white cells."

A pheresis donation takes two or more hours.

Blood is drawn from one arm and passed through a blood-separating instrument that collects a single blood component.

The donations are used to benefit patients undergoing cancer therapy and those who have leukemia or aplastic anemia or other diseases which respond to this form of treatment.

Donors range between the ages of 17 (with parental consent) and 60, and must be in good general health.

For more information regarding pheresis donations, contact the American Red Cross, 833-4440, ext. 252.

'Carnival' at CHS

Rehearsals are now in session for "Carnival," the Clarkston High School all Madrigal and Thespian musical scheduled in December.

Leading characters are Gretchen Weger as Lili, Richard Harken as Paul, Bettjean Col-ins as Rosalie and Mike Jensen as Marco.

The musical is to open Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. and continue through Dec. 14 and 15 in the CHS Little Theatre.

Tickets are $3 a person and may be purchased at a later date.

At college

Kevin Dennis has been selected as lead singer in the Ferris State College Barbershop Quartet, Big Rapids.

A 1979 Clarkston High School graduate, Kevin sang with The Sound System and was in the Madrigal Singers.

The University's barbershop quartet is to tour this area in January with the Men's Ensemble.

Kevin is the son of Richard and Linda Dennis of Clarkston-Orion Road, Independence Township.

Deborah S. McIntire has been awarded an $850 transfer student scholarship from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

A former Oakland Community College student, she plans to continue her studies in business administration at EMU.

The scholarship is awarded to outstanding transfer students from community colleges.

Deborah is the daughter of Roy and Mary McIntire of Holcomb Road, Independence Township.

Dayna Swanson has been named to the Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, color guard for the marching Chipewas.

The color guard displays the CMU colors of maroon and gold and accompanies the band during its halftime program at football games.

Dayna, a freshman, is the daughter of Palmer and Gayle Swanson of Snowapple Road, Independence Township.

Larry Bennett was recently awarded a scholarship to Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bennett of Northview Road, Independence Township, Larry is a junior majoring in aircraft engineering.

He won a $250 Duke Harrah memorial scholarship.

In addition to holding the office of vice chairman of the school's Society of Automotive Engineers chapter, Larry is a member of the WMU Honors College.

Honors

A Christmas short story for children has won honors for Theresa Catalano, Clarkston High School junior chosen as one of 65 students to participate in Wayne State University's manuscript day Nov. 28.

Competing for scholarship awards, high school students have an opportunity to discuss their work with WSU professors and to visit the Detroit campus for a day, according to Theresa's English teacher at CHS, Nancy Albyn.

Theresa's parents are Frank and Shirley Catalano of Pelton Road, Independence Township.

Club notes

A combined Armistice and Thanksgiving dinner and meeting was held by Clinton Valley Barracks No. 2803, Veterans of World War I and the Ladies Auxiliary Nov. 10.

A stirring article on the significance of the two days was read by Alice Rioux.

Iva Landon and Lucille Gries shared information on the Michigan Veterans Facility from the annual conference they attended Nov. 9.

The annual Armistice Day dinner and program at the American Legion Post No. 63, Independence Township, was attended by 15 members of the barracks and auxiliary as guests of the legion.

The next meeting is scheduled Dec. 8 at Springfield Township Hall, Davisburg.

Valerie, Neil Stuart

Afternoon ceremony

Valerie J. Bitel of Lapeer and Neil R. Stuart of Independence Township were married recently at the Bethel United Church of Christ, Pontiac.

The Rev. Don Gabler performed the wedding ceremony on Oct. 20.

A reception followed the afternoon ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Stuart of Hillcrest Drive, Independence Township.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Joan Stuart of Lum and Ed Bitel of Brown City.

Maid of honor was Danette Bitel of Lapeer, sister of the bride.

Best man was Ray Young of Drayton Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart are residing in Clarkston.

There was a typographical error in last week's recipe, so here's Carol Bradley's method for making buckeye candy with the correct quantities of ingredients.

Good Ol' Ohio Buckeyes

½ lb. butter or margarine
1 lb. peanut butter
1½ lb. confectioners sugar
12 oz. pkg. chocolate chips
½ cake paraffin

Cream butter, peanut butter and sugar together. Form into small buckeyes.

Melt chocolate chips and paraffin together over hot water. Dip each buckeye into the chocolate, but be sure to leave a little light brown show at the top. A double-tined fork stuck into the ball makes it easy.

Place on waxed paper to harden. Keep refrigerated.

You may omit the paraffin, but buckeyes will not be shiny and will melt more easily. Do not use imitation chocolate chips. Makes about 50 candies.

Coping with kids

Gentle touch helps tactile defensiveness

Most children thrive on being touched, stroked and cuddled.

There are a group of children who from infancy shrink from the touch of others. For the mothers of these infants, this can be a devastating sense of rejection.

Mothers of children later in life described as hyperactive or hyperkinetic often talk about these children as stiffening out or becoming rigid whenever touched.

This seems to happen almost from birth. The baby may cry also whenever touched or held.

A new mother can find this upsetting and counter to their expectations of a loving, cuddly infant.

Some mothers begin to believe that the baby doesn't like them or that they are inadequate mothers and their "nervousness" or inexperience in the maternal role caused the problem.

Such babies have been observed by doctors, pediatricians and neurologists over several years.

In a technical sense, these youngsters are referred to as having a phenomenon known as tactile defensiveness. It is quickly observed by mothers and often continues throughout childhood.

As time goes on, it may be more covert, but they always seem to have difficulty with touching and closeness.

With some children, there can be explosive or overly intense reactions when an adult, for instance a teacher or counselor, tries to be friendly or supportive through touching or an arm around the shoulder.

It is generally supposed that tactile defensiveness is part of a "set" of the central nervous system toward interpreting stimuli in terms of danger.

A child could be over-responsive to not only touch but hearing, smell and even visual stimuli. The problem likely lies in a disorder of integration of the sensory stimuli. The reason for the disorder may differ from child to child and the particular circumstances of the pregnancy and birth.

Handling the problem for a mother, usually the parent more directly effected by a child with this disorder, begins with a recognition that the problem wasn't caused by her and it is not a personal reaction to the care of the mother for the child.

Because the problem is relatively new, therapeutic recomendations are limited at this point. However, there are some indications that when touching is attempted by a parent that it should be done in a way that is gentle and non-abrasive.

However, since these children are hyper-sensitive in a tactual sense, a gentle manner would include touching that is with the hair on the skin rather than against it.

Sometimes it might be best to start with a soft brush (such as a camel hair brush) which would usually be accepted easier than feeling with the hand.

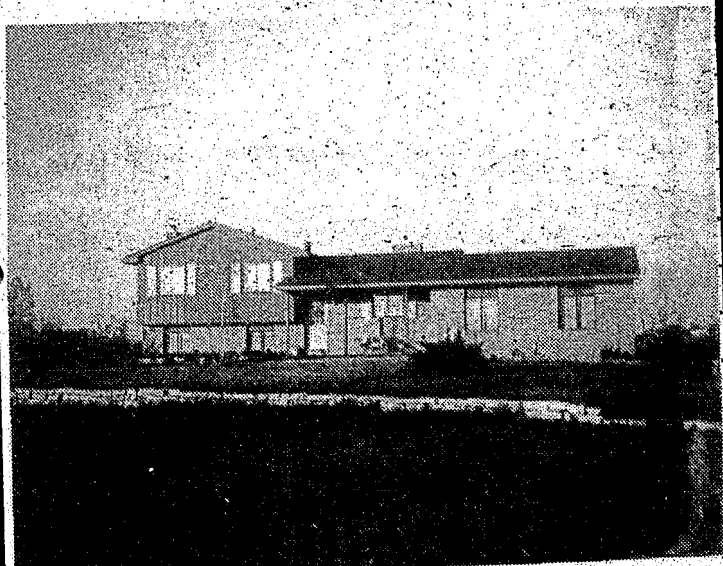

Also, it is well to keep in mind that some children don't like it when touching goes from one side of the body to the other.

Unless the child shows tolerance for it, touching, feeling or patting should be confined to half of the body.

These children can accept the touch of their own skin over that of others. Therefore, moving their own hand over their body might be a place to start.

It may also be kept in mind that tactually defensive children may respond better to tactile stimulation by others when their skin is cold.

Plays, exhibits, concerts outside Clarkston-Independence-Springfield

Thornton Wilder's celebration of life in a New England town at the turn of the century, "Our Town," will open the Southfield Civic Center's 1979-80 season.

Performances are Friday and Saturday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 2 at 2 p.m. at Southfield Parks and Recreation auditorium, Evergreen Road at 10½ Mile Road.

Tickets are $3 with special student, senior and group rates available by calling 354-9603.

An updated version of "Babes in Toyland," a multimedia spectacular about a rock group looking for its first big break, is at the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts in Detroit this week.

Retaining Victor Herbert's music, the production has been described as a cross between the classical "Nutcracker suite" and contemporary "The Wiz." Evening performances are at 8 p.m. through Saturday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. Matinees are Thursday at noon, Friday and Saturday at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. Tickets, ranging from $4.50 to $12.50, are available at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison, Detroit, or by calling 963-7680.

A musical, "The King and I," is to be performed by Pontiac Theatre IV on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, 7 and 8.

Showtime is 8 p.m. at Pontiac Northern High School, 1051 Arlene, Pontiac.

Tickets are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for senior citizens and $2.50 for students.

They will be on sale at the door, or call 674-4479.

Peeking into the past

by Rustie Leaf

10 YEARS AGO November 20, 1969

Expected to give the Highlanders of the OCC-Highland Lakes Campus a lift this basketball season is Chuck Granger, a former Clarkston High School standout.

Jaycee members ignored Saturday's snow flurries to lay the railroad ties in the parking lot at the Township Library. Jaycette president, Pat Ripley, used the occasion to present a check to library board members, toward the library growth.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harken, with sons, Dan and Richard, welcomed 8 lb., 7 oz. Steven into the family on November 2.

Competing for the Junior Miss title on November 29 will be Sue Biddle, Nadine Blackett, Barb Boyd, Bonnie Crosby, Debbie Eudis, Marcia Fahrner, Sue Griffiths, Jan Hall, Jody Hawke, Chryl Hegwood, Pat Jebenville, Tammy Mahar, Jessica Mayer, Ann McGrew, Colleen Quinlan, Claudia Sawyer and Kathy Walton.

25 YEARS AGO November 18, 1954

Walter Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Jones, has enlisted and will leave to start his army training on November 24th.

Mrs. Paul DeLongchamp was honored at a blue shower at the home of Mrs. Bruce Embrey. Mrs. Harry Horsch was the co-hostess.

Martin Steiner of Orion Road was the first to report back in Clarkston on Monday, with a deer. He had his deer by nine o'clock on Monday and was home by two in the afternoon.

Activities outside the Clarkston-Springfield-Independence area

Silk screening of holiday cards will be taught during a three-session workshop Nov. 28, 29 and 30 at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association, 1516 S. Cranbrook, Birmingham.

Registrations now are being taken for this workshop and for winter term classes which will begin Jan. 7, featuring a survey of photography, a film series and a class in cliche verre, a printing technique using photographic reproducing methods. For further information and a free class brochure, call 644-0866.

A chance to have breakfast with Santa Claus is being offered by the Waterford Parks and Recreation Department Dec. 21. The event will begin at 10 a.m. at the Community Activities Inc. at 5640 Williams Lake, Waterford Township. The whole family can eat all the pancakes they want for $1.50 each, and the kids will have a chance to chat with Santa.

Santa Claus will arrive at the Pontiac Mall Friday, Nov. 23 in a parade of storybook characters accompanied by the Waterford Mott High School Marching Band.

The parade's at noon and will be preceded by a show of the three-foot-high Melchior Marionettes at 11 a.m. and the tumbling antics of the Steve Whitlock Gymnastics Team of Coomfield Township. Thereafter, Santa will be on hand at the mall to talk to youngsters through Dec. 24.

"Parents in Grief," a program of the YWCA of Pontiac-North Oakland, will present "The Other Side of the Holidays" on Monday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m. Grief, loneliness and holiday depression—common feelings of many during the holiday season—will be discussed.

Presenters will include Harvey Burdick, professor of psychology at Oakland University; Sister Mary Van Gilder, OU campus ministry; Ralph Shillace, OU professor of psychology; and David Tochner, funeral director.

For more information, call Myra Cowlshaw at 334-0973.

The YWCA is located at 269 W. Huron, Pontiac.

"Searching for My Ancestors in Norway" will be discussed by Mrs. Howard Owen at the Dec. 4 meeting of the Oakland County Genealogical Society.

Mrs. Owen, who taught herself to read and write Norwegian for the trip, found that she also put her experience as a social worker to use while meeting and interviewing Norwegians. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Jeanne Lloyd Room of the Baldwin Public Library, 351 Martin, Birmingham.

A documentary color film highlighting the efforts of the Women's Emergency Brigade in the General Motors, Flint, strike in 1937 is scheduled Friday, Nov. 30 at 8 p.m.

The film is to be shown at Barth Hall, St. Paul's Cathedral, 4800 Woodward, Detroit.

A question and answer session with original members of the Women's Emergency Brigade is to follow.

Tickets are $2. For information, call Carol at 294-0348 or Lorraine at 527-1772.

The event is a benefit for the Women's Justice Center.

Romeo Historical Society's Christmas Walk is planned Sunday, Dec. 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The walk is to include a tour of three historic homes and two newer homes recently decorated for Christmas.

Tickets are $4 for adults

"Ho, ho, ho's" and "Happy Birthdays" are in order at Oakland University's stately mansion, Meadow Brook Hall Nov. 28 - Dec. 2 celebrates the 50th anniversary of the Tudor-style mansion's completion in 1929 and the official designation this year of the hall as a national historic site. For information on the Christmas tours, see below.

($3.50 presale) and $2 for children.

They are available at local Romeo stores or by calling the Museum at 752-4111.

The annual Christmas tours of Meadow Brook Hall at Oakland University have special significance this year because they're doubling as the celebration of the mansion's 50th anniversary.

Tours of the Tudor-style mansion, decorated lavishly for the holidays by florists from throughout the tri-county area, can be made from Wednesday, Nov. 28 through Sunday, Dec. 4. Adult admission is $5 Wednesday through Friday and $6 on Saturday and Sunday. The price is $4 for persons over 64, students and children under 19. Hot and cold beverages, snacks and light luncheon foods will be available in the carriage house in the courtyard adjoining Meadow Brook Hall.

Thanksgiving feasts...

The discreet shopper

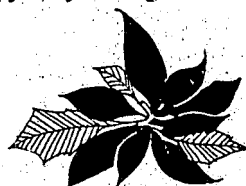

Music boxes are not just for ladies and little girls. Boothby's at 7801 Dixie Highway, Independence Township, has several a man in your life might be proud to have on his desk or dresser. This one plays "Tijuana Taxi." Others of the metal mini-sculptures, most of which have movable parts, include an airport which plays "Wild Blue Yonder," a train offering "Diana Blow Your Horn" and a cafe featuring "Cocktails for Two." They're priced at $16.50 each.

Give her a mink stole, with a price tag of $50 which practically puts it in the stocking stuffer category. But you have to act fast, because such previously-owned items like this one modeled by Debbie Russell move rapidly off the racks at the One More Time Resale Shop on East Washington Street, Clarkston. A Persian lamb jacket for $25 was also on display when we were there, along with some women's and children's outfits that were definite possibilities for holiday parties.

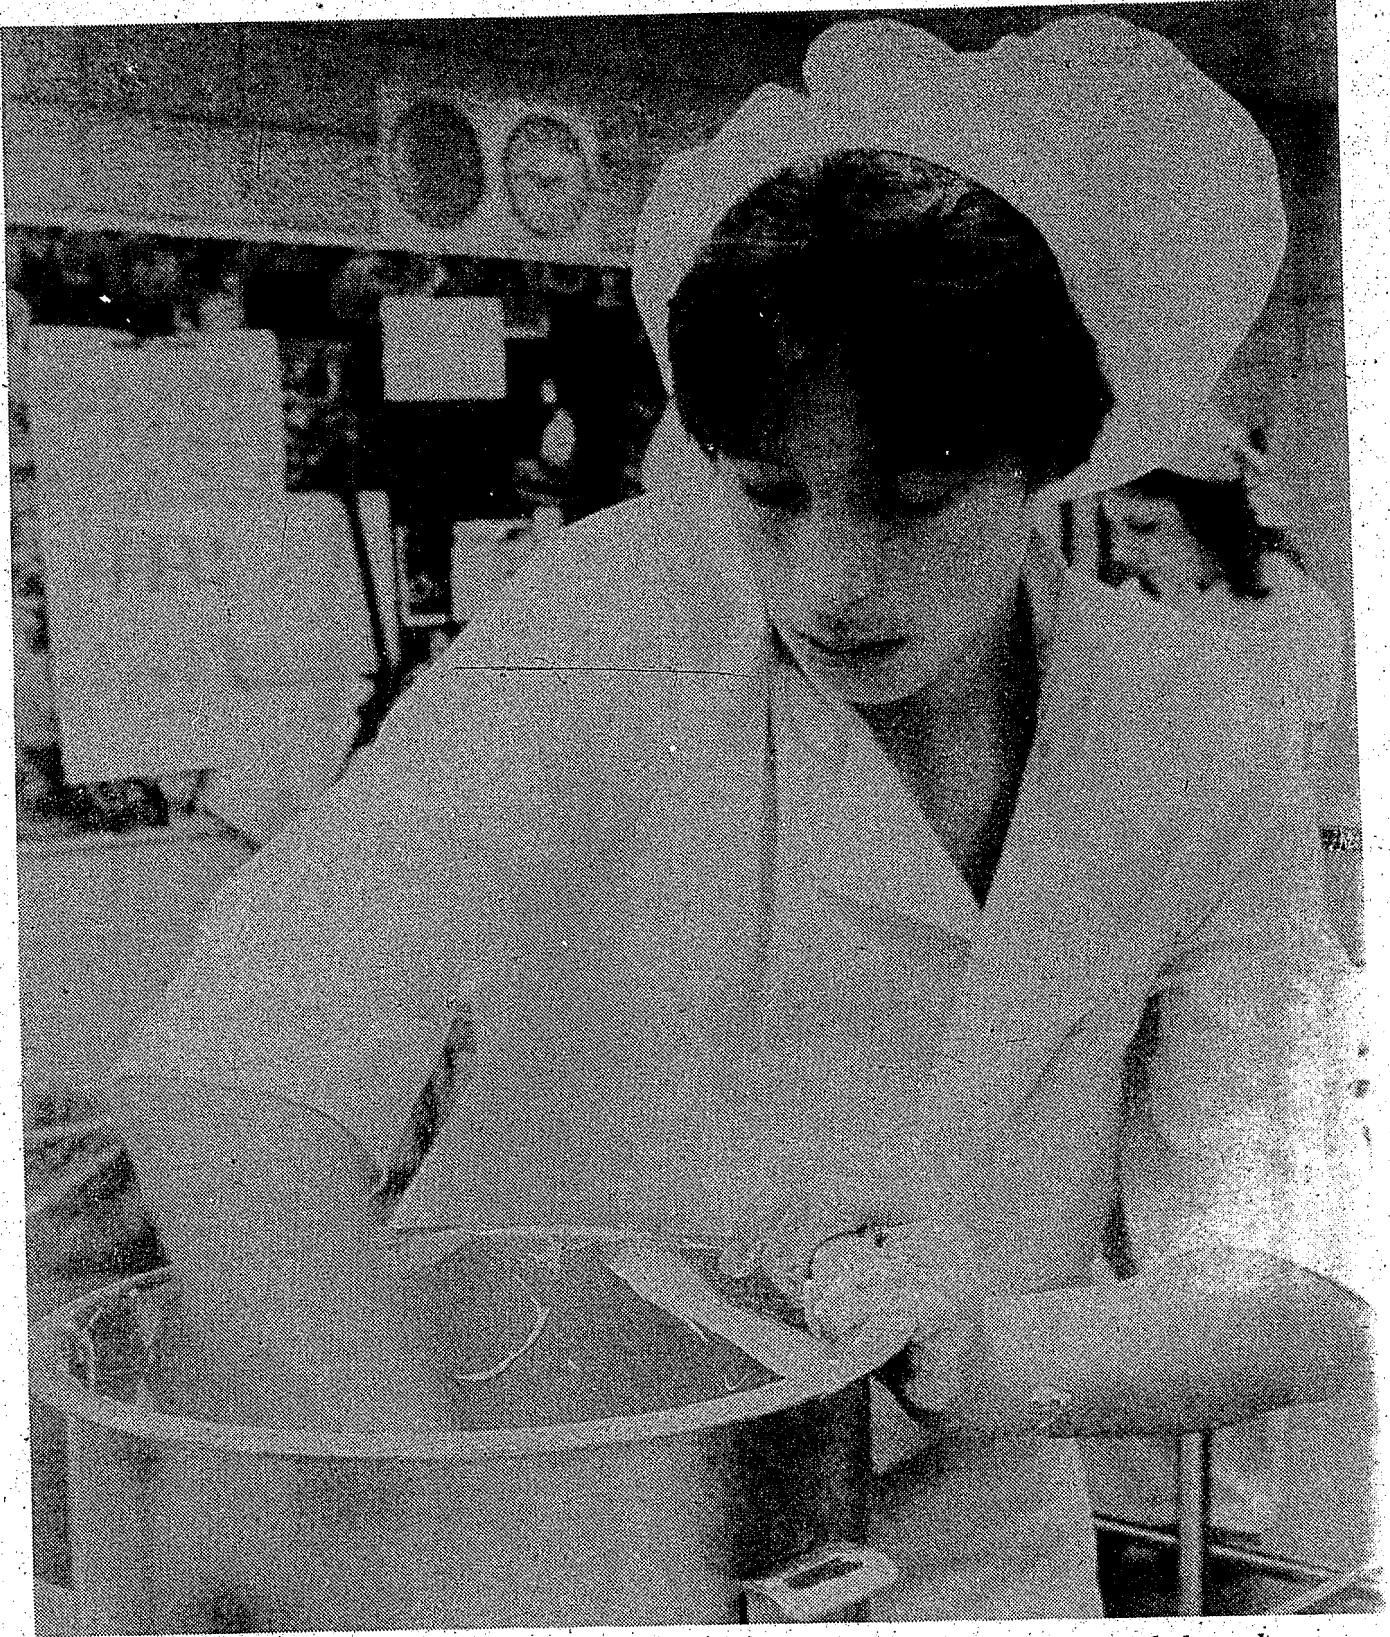

An exotic orchid from the Ozawa Bonsai Garden would be ideal for a change-of-pace gift. Pictured are a Brassavola nodosa, a white orchid commonly called "Lady of the Night" because of the perfume it emanates after dark. The small orchid is an Oncidium, a hybrid with tiny wine-colored blossoms centered in yellow. Both are $12.75. Other orchids that begin blooming now through Mother's Day range from about $8 to $75 for a Cattleya that has 15-20 large white blossoms. An ideal spot for an orchid is a room with lots of moisture and light—a sunny bathroom is perfect. The greenhouse is located at 9910 Davisburg, Springfield Township. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day except Monday.

The flour flew at Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center [NWOVEC] this week as students in the food service classes filled orders for over $1,200 worth of baked goods for their Thanksgiving bake sale. Darryl Berry of Edgewood Road, Independence Township, stirs ingredients for lemon cream rolls.

Using a kitchen scale, Kathy Gravin of Andersonville Road, Independence Township, weighs 2 pounds, 8 ounces of coconut for a cookie recipe. Under the direction of instructors Mary Stedman and Lyn Mead, the students are preparing about 250 pies, 200 apple dumplings, 90 nut breads and 150 dozen cookies.

Baking pie shells is the task of Brent Tinsler [left] of Maybee Road, Independence Township, and Carol Culbahouse, a Holly High School student.

As Leslie Wirpsa reacts with amazement at being named Junior Miss of 1980 Saturday night at the pageant held at the Clarkston High School Little Theatre, last year's Junior Miss Lynn Johnston [left] approaches to congratulate her.

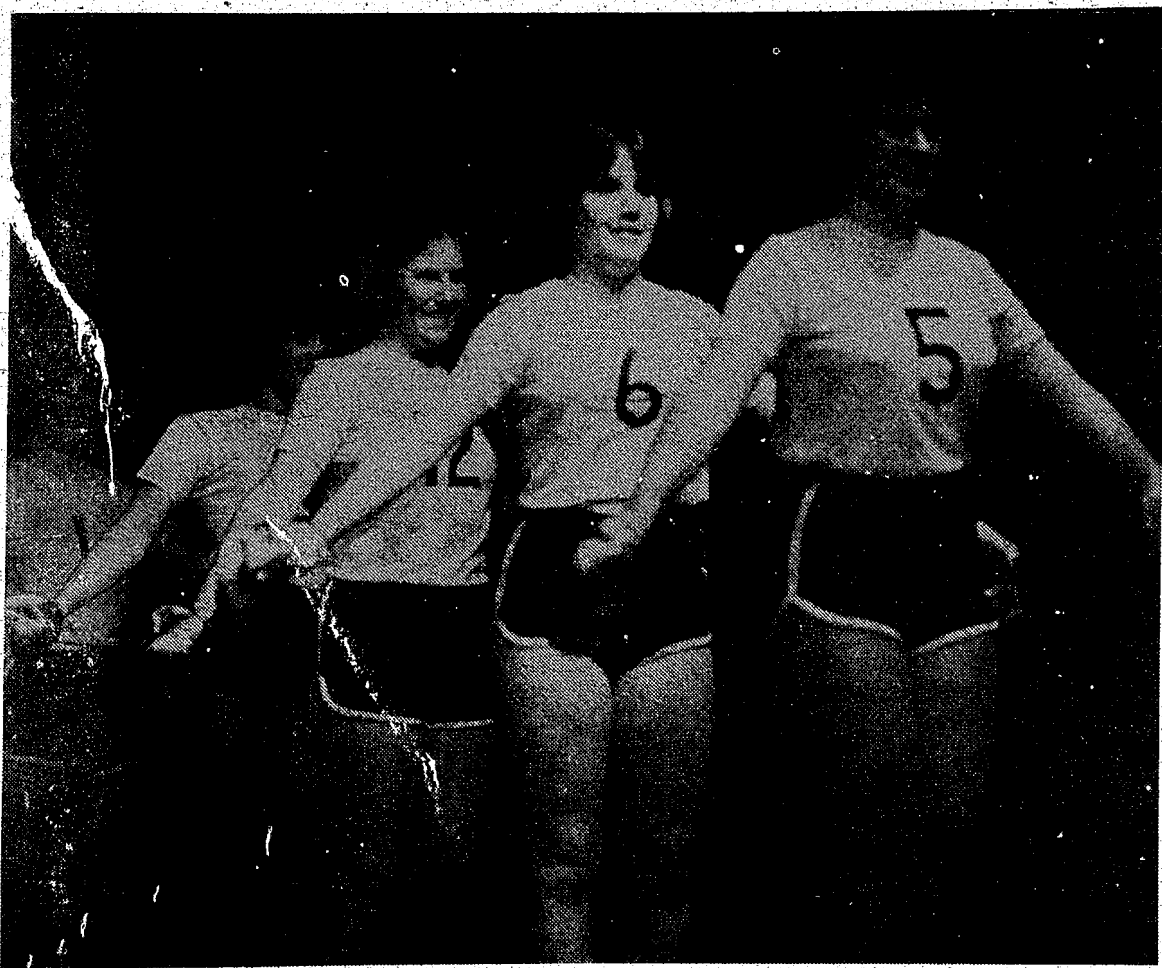

Emcee for the evening is Carolyn Place [left] who asks each contestant the most important event of her life. Clarkston's Junior Miss Leslie Wirpsa replies her adoption has been her most important event.

Leslie Wirpsa— Clarkston Jr. Miss

As Tammi Flood [center] wins the congeniality award, Doreen Freitag [left] turns to congratulate her, and Lisa Steele responds with smiles. Tammi was later named first runner-up, Doreen took the talent award for her portrayal of Miss Piggy and Lisa was second runner-up.

For physical fitness, the 12 Clarkston High School seniors performed a routine that suits the "Main Event" theme of the junior Miss Pageant. Sponsored by the Clarkston Area Jaycees and Jaycettes, the contest is in its 19th year.

Third runner-up Kim Barber stands on center stage during the poise and appearance portion of the judging. Each girl was also rated on physical fitness, talent, scholarship and an interview with the three judges, Carol Adam, George Hemingway and Claudia Steward.
