Turnabout's fair play

It's VIP Day at Creative Co-op Nursery and dads are invited to join in the fun. One Saturday afternoon activity is "shaving" with Cool Whip and wooden sticks. Little Nathan Forbes finds the activity a delight as he swirls the cream on his father Ken's face.

Now it's Nathan's turn and the tyke's still laughing! The Forbes live on Eston Road, Independence Township. For more photos of fathers and children at play, see page 23.

49 Clarkston school kids sent home

Forty-nine students in the Clarkston Community School District were barred from attending class Monday, having failed to comply with state immunization laws.

"Thirty-six tenth graders and 13 fifth graders are affected," said Mel Vaara, assistant school superintendent. "These 49 won't be allowed to attend school until we have some certification that they've been properly immunized."

Each school year the district screens fifth and tenth graders as well as transfer students from outside Oakland County for required immunization against diseases such as polio, measles, tetanus and diphtheria, Vaara said.

"Forty-nine students represent four percent of the total number of fifth and tenth graders in the system district," Vaara said.

"We don't anticipate any problems getting the remainder to comply. Some of them have already been immunized, but just failed to bring their papers to school—I'd imagine that all of the students will be back in class by the end of the week."

Parents and students were informed of the pending action months ago, according to Vaara. The Oakland County Health Department also holds clinics to provide the immunizations free of charge.

"It's for the child's own good," added Vaara. "Oakland County school districts have always been very good about seeing to it that students get the proper immunizations."

Contest for grades 6-9

Kids may not get to vote in the upcoming Presidential election, but they do have a chance to voice their opinions on the issues.

The Clarkston News wants kids in third through ninth grade to write letters to the candidates beginning, "If I were President, this is how I would help children..."

To encourage young people to write the letters, which will be forwarded to a U.S. Senate subcommittee and to those writing a children's platform for the major party conventions, three local businesses have joined with us to offer prizes in the Tell-the-Candidates Contest.

Pine Knob saga adds Chapter 11

By Kathy Greenfield

A soft winter was the final blow for financially troubled Pine Knob recreation facilities, says Joseph Locricchio, Pine Knob Investment co-partner.

Chapter 11, a reorganization proceeding under the federal bankruptcy code, was filed in Detroit federal court last week for Pine Knob Investment, Pine Knob Country Club Inc., Pine Knob Ski Resort Inc., Mansions Inc. and Gary D. Francell, co-partner in Pine Knob Investment.

The move will allow the Pine Knob companies to continue business as usual and to pay current bills. Previous debts are to be settled when the financial condition of the companies improves.

"It's a situation we just absolutely had to go into because of the winter and the action by Borg-Warner," Locricchio said, referring to a $1.3 million mortgage foreclosure suit filed in December on the Pine Knob Music Theatre by Borg-Warner Equities of Chicago.

An earlier series of events contributed to the filing of Chapter 11, he said.

A requirement by Independence Township for more restrooms on the music theater property was the beginning.

"They made me add 60 additional restrooms with the threat I wouldn't be able to open," Locricchio said, adding that the construction last spring included extending the sewer line three-quarters of a mile and the total cost was about $600,000.

Then membership dropped in the private Pine Knob Country Club.

"The coup de gras was the winter," he said. "We got to the point where we couldn't pay all

Tim hits 39, Central next

Tim McCormick and his Wolfpack teammates gave the Holly Broncos a rude welcome Tuesday to the Class A tournament competition.

Playing their first season in Class A., the ill-fated Broncos drew the number 1 ranked Wolfpack in the district opener.

When the miss-match was over Clarkston had posted their 21st win in a row, 85-52.

"I was pleased with the play of our offense," coach Gary Nustad said. "We were passing the ball very well."

Defensively, was a different story. The Wolfpack defensive effort was lackadaisical at times. Turnovers were frequent.

"I was disappointed with the way we played defensively, although we improved somewhat in the second half," Nustad said.

The Bronco shooting was phenomenal in the first half, adding to the Wolfpack's defensive woes. Several Holly field goals came on 20 and 25 foot jump shots, enabling the Broncos to trail by just 13 points at the half, 44-31.

But then, Clarkston wasn't shooting bad either.

The Wolfpack's top marksmen were Tim McCormick, who scored a season high 39 points, and Scott McKoin who netted 24. Ed Hadded chipped in with 8 points, John Sheldon added 6, and Doug Hagyard had 4.

McCormick and McKoin also dominated the boards with 19 and 8 rebounds, respectively, while Sheldon chalked up 7 assists.

"I'd have to say this is as good a game as Tim has played all year," Nustad said. "The kids fed him the ball extremely well."

With the win, Clarkston advances to the district semi-finals Thursday at 7 p.m. against Pontiac Central.

The two teams met in the regular season, a contest that saw the Wolfpack roll to an 80-58 victory, but Nustad was quick to discount the significance of the previous meeting.

"The regular season has nothing to do with the tournaments," Nustad pointed out. "All the season records go out the window when playoffs start."

Elementary boundary changes on agenda

Proposed elementary school attendance area changes which would affect Andersonville and Clarkston Elementary school pupils will be discussed at the Monday night Clarkston Board of Education meeting.

Fifty pupils now in the Andersonville attendance area would be switched to Clarkston Elementary School, under Mason's plan. Their homes are on the west side of Deer Lake and up Dixie Highway north to Davisburg Road.

Another 50 pupils who live on Foster Road, Edgar Road and Edgar Court would be switched from the Andersonville to Pine Knob attendance areas.

With the increased number of pupils at Clarkston Elementary School, that building would utilize three classrooms across Waldon Road at Clarkston Junior High for kindergarteners, Mason said.

The board of education meeting begins at 8 p.m. Monday the bills.

"The 11 is the only answer for me now," he added. "This way I have a chance to rebuild and overcome the bad year."

Another factor was the township's denial of a construction permit for Pine Knob's proposed 20-story, ski-run-roof hotel.

"The investment group that we had walked away," Loerichio said, and if the hotel had been approved, cash intake for its construction would have offset the lack of ski business this winter.

A company can operate under Chapter 11 for a few months to years, said James Thompson, Birmingham attorney representing Pine Knob in the Chapter 11 filing.

"The general rule is until the debtor is able to get back on its feet and propose a plan of repayment to prior creditors," he said.

The Chapter 11 filing also put a stop to the Borg-Warner mortgage foreclosure lawsuit, he said.

In addition to holding a mortgage on the Pine Knob Music Theatre, Borg-Warner owns some 200 acres of the about 550-acre Pine Knob complex.

The 200 acres are zoned for single and multiple family dwellings and about 24 $200,000 condominiums have been constructed. There are plans for a total of 650 single family and condominium units on the property.

"As part of Chapter 11, there is an automatic stay or injunction and that prevents creditors from taking legal action on the debtor," Thompson said.

The procedure is available to allow businesses to recover from financially bad times and then make a settlement on past debts rather than go out of business, he said.

"Every business or individual is eligible to file if they cannot meet their debts as they come due," Thompson added.

Firefighters start petition drive

By Kathy Greenfield

Starting this week, Independence Township firefighters are going knocking on doors.

They will be looking for landowners to sign petitions directing the township and Village of Clarkston to place on the ballot a request to make the entire area a special assessment district for fire protection.

Guidelines for the proposal come under Act 134 of Michigan public acts of 1970.

If approved by voters, up to 10 mills could be levied for fire protection, an amount Fire Chief Frank Ronk said would never be requested.

"For anyone to assume we would ask for 10 mills is totally asinine," he said. "It would raise over $2 million in a year at this time and put a fire station on every corner. No matter how aggressive I am, I'm not that aggressive."

And the act has built-in protection against rampant tax increases, he said.

"The township board must hold a public meeting where the fire administration presents its demands and requests that would cause an increase in millage," Ronk said.

The main reason he supports the proposal, Ronk said, is because of the impact the Headlee amendment has had on the fire department budget.

If the new proposal is approved by voters, more money would be available for the fire department and the act would "bypass Headlee, Tisch and so forth, due to the way the township is set up as a special assessment district," Ronk said.

In 1978, voters approved 2 mills for fire protection in the township and village. Two mills are $2 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Ronk figures the fire department would have realized $17,000 more in 1979-80 if the Headlee rollback hadn't gone into effect.

And in 1980-81, the loss will be about $30,000, he said.

"The thing that's happening with the Headlee rollback is they don't spread the full 2 mills that people voted to be used for fire services in Independence Township, Ronk said. "The inflation goes up, but the money stays the same.

"Now because of Headlee, we have been cut in funding for the fire department," he said. "We're not keeping up with the inflationary rate, because we had to rollback.

"If that's what the people want, if that's what they meant by Headlee-cutting all these services--then we're in favor of that," he said.

Half of the 350 calls answered by the fire department in 1979 were medical emergencies, Ronk said.

The present system includes a basic life support unit at each of the three fire stations--on Church Street, Clarkston, and on Maybee Road and on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

In addition, an emergency telephone line is covered by the township fire department 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

There are 10 full-time firefighters and 35 on-call firefighters.

If the request to voters to increase the amount of millage for fire protection is approved, an additional 1 mill would be requested, making the total amount levied 3 mills, Ronk said.

The most pressing need is a new building to replace the current central station in downtown Clarkston, Ronk said.

"This building will no longer suffice for a fire station," he said. "It's too small, it's in bad repair structurally and it does not lend itself to emergency services response because of its location on a street that does not afford good accessibility to vehicles of this size and has inadequate parking."

If approved, the millage would be in effect forever.

"This is a forever thing--the fire department is going to be here forever, so we have to fund it forever," Ronk said.

To get the question on the ballot, 955 valid signatures are needed on the petitions--a figure determined by 10 percent of the total parcels of property in the township.

"We're shooting for the May primary election if there is one," Ronk said. "We want it on the earliest possible one so it can be included in the 1980 fiscal budget."

All Virgil Roberts says is, "Are you a registered voter?" and John Feldmann of Brandon Township responds, "Is that Tisch? Let me sign it." Roberts offers his back for a writing surface as the scene develops on Main Street, Clarkston.

He jumps on Tisch bandwagon

By Kathy Greenfield

Virgil Roberts is angry about the taxes he pays.

After the newest property assessment arrived for his home on Whipple Lake Road, Independence Township and it showed a 12 percent increase, Roberts decided to do something about it.

He attended a meeting in Waterford Township last week to hear Robert Tisch talk about his tax-cut proposal and came away with a stack of petitions.

Enough signatures of registered voters across the state are being sought to put the tax-cut proposal on the ballot Nov. 4.

"I really went to get the petitions, because I was fed up," Roberts says. "After the meeting, I was impressed to the point I wanted to get involved doing the best I could to get this thing through."

The next day, he took 10 petitions to work at General Motors Truck and Coach where he is a maintenance welder and he says he got 150 signatures in three minutes.

"From the reaction of people at work, I'd say I represent about 99 percent of the working people," Roberts says.

"Over the years, I've more or less gone along with (the taxes) they've thrown at us and I've just gotten to the point that enough is enough," he says. "It's time to take a big club and swing it."

In the 1978 election, Roberts says he did not vote for the Tisch amendment, supporting the Headlee tax-cut amendment instead.

"I want something with a little more meat on it this time," he says. "I want there to be no question about what people of the state of Michigan want."

And although his initial reaction two years ago to the Tisch amendment was that it was too drastic, "it seems as though our legislators refuse to listen," he says.

If approved, the Tisch amendment to the state constitution would cut assessed property valuation by 50 percent for those with total household incomes over $10,500, instigate a 75 percent cut for incomes between $5,000 and $10,500 and eliminate property taxes if income was less than $5,000.

In addition, school taxes would not be paid by those over age 62.

"This thing does not pertain to property taxes alone, it pertains to other taxes," Roberts says. "It stops other taxes (unless there) is a 60 percent vote of the people and stops increasing of state fees--marriage licenses, hunting licenses and drivers' licenses.

Roberts says he is convinced he can have pretty much the same services he has today by cutting back government spending by 50 percent.

"There's a lot of fat in there that should be cut out," he says. "Let the heads roll."

Never active in politics in the past, Roberts says he is not a member of any political party, but the issue of high taxes has made him an instant activist.

"I'm going to get out and start banging on doors which I've never done before," he says.

He is looking for other individuals and organizations interested in signing the petitions and in gathering signatures of others.

Roberts may be reached evenings and on weekends at 394-0390.

Fourth home slated for Springfield

Walls: Adult foster care needed

By Kathy Greenfield

Mixed reactions have greeted Springfield Township's fourth adult foster care home, says Supervisor Collin Walls.

Slated to open in May or June, the facility for about six adults is to be located in an existing house on Holcomb Road about one-half mile from Independence Township border.

An informational meeting, sponsored by the Macomb Oakland Regional Center department of mental health, was attended by about 80 people at Springfield Township Hall last week.

Such topics as training for the adult foster care residents and the types of people who are to live in the facility were discussed, Walls said.

Objections to the facility, although "not violent," were made by the residents, he said.

"That was frustrating," Walls said. "To sit in front of 80 people and say, 'There's nothing we can do about it locally, but give it a chance.'"

Walls, however, supports the concept of adult foster care homes, despite what he calls "problems" with some of the legislation surrounding operation of the facilities.

"I think if they're well-operated, well-run homes, it's something that needs to be done," he said. "Human nature says we would all prefer it was not in our neighborhood, but..."

"I've got some concerns over the legislation, but not over the philosophy behind the program," he added.

Included in the legislation passed in 1976 is that adult foster care homes cannot be stopped by zoning, but Walls has no concerns about that aspect of the law.

"In the vast majority of cases, municipalities, if they had a way, would not allow them in," he said. "There are other problems with the legislation that are much more severe."

"The legislation directs the local municipality to notify the residents, but that's all," he explained. "There's nothing built into it like the meeting we had the other night."

"It also seems to be, at least in respect to the investors who own the home, it seems there may be an unnecessary profit built into the system," he added.

But in Springfield Township, the three existing adult foster care homes have created "absolutely no problems," Walls said, and they appear to be well-run and to use the money to assist the residents at the home.

Although he sometimes worries that more adult foster care homes have been proposed for Springfield Township, because the local government does not object to the concept, Walls has decided "four does not seem unreasonable in relation to the area," he said.

The three homes now being run in the township are located in various types of surroundings—in a new home in a platted subdivision, in a five-to six-year-old home in a subdivision-type area, and in an about 10-year-old home on a small-acreage lot.

The fourth location on Holcomb Road is also on a small acreage parcel across from a subdivision.

"If you don't know where they are, you can't find them," Walls said. "And that's the way it ought to be."

The Winning Wolfpack has struck again.

Because the Clarkston High School varsity basketball team played its first district tournament last night, a band concert planned the same night has been rescheduled.

The pre-festival band concert featuring sounds of Sashabaw and Clarkston Junior High band members and the CHS symphonic band is now set for Wednesday, March 12.

The free event is to be held at the Sashabaw gymnasium, 5565 Pine Knob, Independence Township, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Strange things start fires," says Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk.

Last week, the believe-it-or-not culprit was a magnifying glass left on a stack of newspapers in a township home.

Damage included a completely burned overstuffed chair, carpeting underneath the chair, the hardwood floor under the carpeting and charred subflooring.

"It was determined that the fire started from the sun's rays being reflected through the window and a reading magnifying glass onto newspapers on the floor," says Ronk. "We've had some (fires) start with pop bottles the same way."

It's simple: levy less taxes

The atmosphere is right for a tax reduction.

County Executive Daniel T. Murphy has asked for a special tax cut to property owners in Oakland County. That's a good sign.

Another is the contention of Addison Supervisor Bob Ousnamer that Herman Stephens, director of the county's Equalization Division wants an across-the-board $5,000 reduction in homestead property valuations.

Then there is some fear in Lansing that if the legislature doesn't come up with some sort of property tax relief the Tisch Amendment will be flying high by next November.

Murphy proposed a return of one and a quarter million dollars to county residents when he saw a surplus of nearly $2 million from last year's budget.

Ousnamer says the $5 grand rollback suggested by Stephens would have to be voted on under provisions of the Headlee Amendment passed in 1978.

There has been some movement to get this introduced in Lansing. However, legislators are holding for a trade off, Ousnamer says. If they agree to reduce property values in one law, they want tax increased in sales or income taxes.

Perhaps the legislators feel they can take credit for a reduction in taxes (assessments), combat Tisch Propaganda, and the public won't relate the sales and/or income tax increases.

We wonder, however, why, if the goal is to reduce taxes, the county, schools, townships, and villages don't just levy less taxes?

It's really that simple. They are not compelled to levy the limit.

Help appreciated

To the Editor:

I am writing in regards to an auto accident which happened March 1 around 7 p.m. at I-75 and Dixie.

My husband and I would like to thank the people who flagged down the Oakland County Sheriff's Department at Big Lake and Dixie.

If it had not been for those people, whoever they were, we would have been waiting for some time.

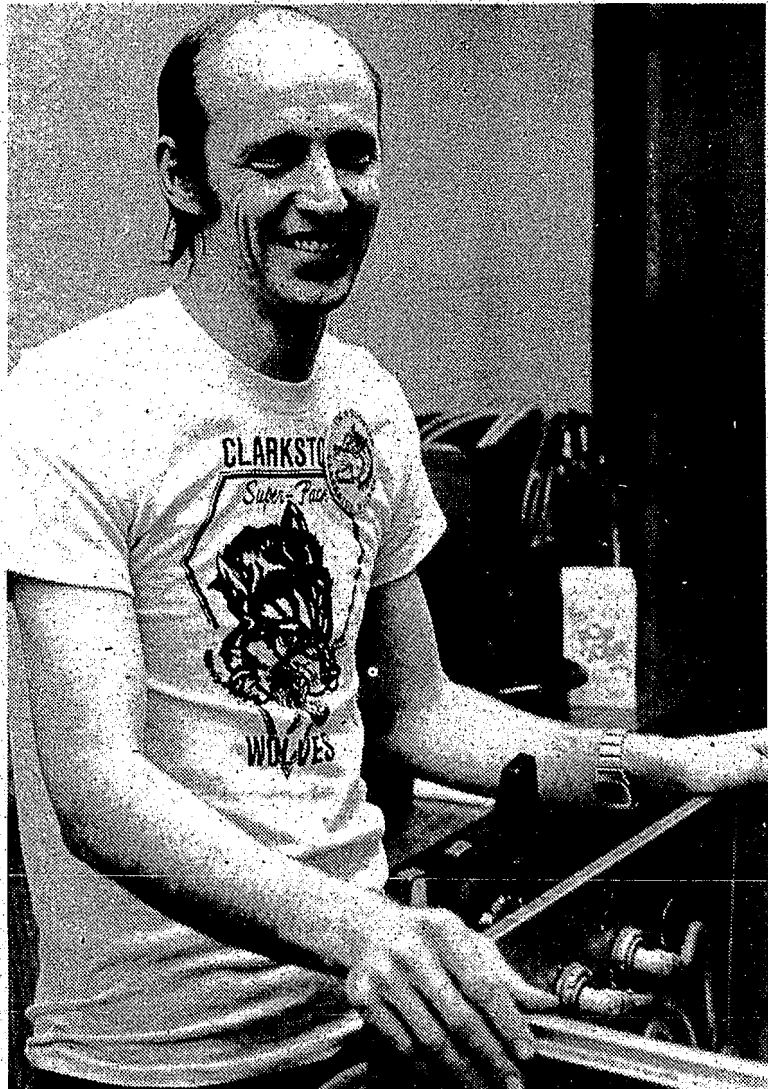

It is a good feeling to us that someone cared enough to help.

Booster club always wins

By Al Zawacky

As in any school, the football, basketball, volleyball, wrestling and baseball teams at Clarkston High School have had their up and down years.

But there's one "team" that has managed a "winning season" ever since its founding in 1966: The Clarkston Booster Club.

And benefiting from their "winning seasons" is the entire CHS athletic department.

Formed mostly of parents and athletes, it's the booster club members that faithfully volunteer their time to tend the concession stands during the football and basketball games, earning money for the high school and junior high athletic programs.

"The aim of the booster club is to promote athletics and raise funds for equipment the school either can't or won't buy," says Arden Collier, club president. "We've purchased things like pitching machines for the baseball and softball teams and crash pads for the gym walls at Sashabaw Junior High."

While not a part of the high school athletic department, the booster club meetings are often attended by CHS Athletic Director Paul Tugate.

"Paul is a super help to us--he knows what's going on with all the teams, where to find the things we need to buy and how much they'll cost," Collier says.

Besides a wide variety of food featuring popcorn, hot dogs, candy and soft drinks, the booster club also sells buttons, t-shirts, bumperstickers and photographs promoting the high school's highly successful basketball team.

"The non-food money is kept separately from the general fund," Collier says, explaining that t-shirt money is going to help pay for the new concession stand currently under construction on the football field.

On a good night--and empty seats have been a variety at the basketball games this season--the boosters can gross between $400 and $500 at the concession stand.

"It takes about half of what we take in to cover our costs," Collier says. Since we all volunteer our work, there's a good amount of money left over."

Currently made up of about 32 members, the booster club plans on conducting a concentrated membership drive to increase its numbers this spring.

"Several local merchants have also helped us out through the years," Collier says. "The entire Clarkston community has always been very supportive, so we're hoping we can get some more people interested in giving some of their time to support our teams."

The only restriction on membership in the club is members cannot be students at the high school, Collier notes. And not all the members currently have sons or daughters involved in athletics.

"We have some people who kids have long since graduated, but stay on because they just enjoy the work," says Collier.

Jim's jottings

Friendly Toronto

by Jim Sherman

When the Detroit Chamber of Commerce stages a cruise they use it as a means to entertain legislators, influential people, and friends.

When the Oxford Chamber of Commerce staged an outing last week members used it as a way to escape.

Fifty-two people left from Friday to Sunday, bound by bus and train for Toronto.

There wasn't a straightman among them. All were jokers. It was a wild and crazy time. The bad thing is there were so many funny remarks, few can be recalled. But, we'll try a couple.

Pill peddler Bill Patterson was standing in the middle of the aisle holding a bottle that looked like wine.

The conductor came by and remarked, "You can't drink wine on the train."

Bill responded, "I know it. I can't get it open."

Whereupon the conductor pulled a cork screw from his pocket, and loaned it to Bill.

When you take this train trip, ask the conductor early to turn down the heat.

Eatery owner Pete Kalohn had recommended "The Fish Market" as a fine place to eat in Toronto. It's on Market St., across the road from the St. Lawrence (farmers') Market.

Pete is well known for saying "Trust me," and "I'm always right." You know the kind. No one trusts them.

Taking a chance we went to the market. To our pleasant surprise, the Kalohns were there with the Bob Lines and Chuck Drumhellers.

We thanked Pete for telling us of the restaurant, saying "You were right, Pete."

To which, Lines spoke out, "Even a blind squirrel finds an acorn once in a while."

Police cars in Toronto are yellow. Kalohn hailed one for a cab. The cop stopped and offered to take him someplace. Pete hastily declined.

Toronto is the friendliest place we've ever been. Stand for a minute looking puzzled and someone will offer to help. It won't be unusual for the helper to be wearing leather or fur... everyone does.

It's a delightful place, but take your savings.

Another 'I should have'

by Jim Fitzgerald

I SHOULD TAKE my friend Ralph to lunch. He would understand that I am a patriotic American even though I didn't see one minute of the Winter Olympics on TV and didn't know the United States beat the Russians at hockey until almost two days after the game. (Is it true that, as a result of the defeat, Russia has recalled all of its hockey players from Afghanistan?)

It is time for a confession. Often I have written about my friend Ralph as though he were one person. Actually, since 1977 there have been two Ralphs. One of them was really a man I'd never met, Franklyn Donegan of Bloomfield Hills.

Donegan had some thoughts he wanted to see in print, but he didn't want any personal publicity. So he mailed the thoughts to me and suggested that, if I used them in a column, I could pin them on my old friend Ralph. Why not? The original Ralph would never know the difference because he never reads newspapers. He just sits in saloons and tells everyone what is wrong with the world. I often sit next to him, which is how we became friends. He knows I work for a newspaper, but he thinks I deliver it.

SO, THE RALPH who would understand about my not watching the Olympics on TV is Franklyn Donegan. During the past three years he sent me dozens of letters from which I quoted many erudite thoughts. His last letter complained about the changes in our life-style caused by television. He was also upset by typewriters and electronic calculators.

"I admit it's a lot easier for a kid to sink onto his coccyx, flip to a channel by remote control and drowse through a sitcom than it is to hike to the library or bookstore, make a literary decision and turn the pages of a heavy book," Donegan wrote.

"I'll also concede that the use of a typewriting machine (electric, of course) makes communications more legible if less personal. The only need for penmanship today is to endorse checks and sign your Visa receipt. Never mind if Messrs. Spencer and Palmer are rotating in their crypts.

"And electronic calculators make the multiplication tables and long division unnecessary, let alone algebra, fractions and calculus. They also come in pocket size, so you can take them to restaurants to check checks or to racetracks to total totes.

"Far be it for me to stand in the way of progress, but I can't help feeling something valuable is being lost in the enjoyment of fine prose and poetry, the beauty of fine handwriting and the satisfaction of balancing your checkbook manually," Donegan wrote.

Obviously, Franklyn Donegan wouldn't think I'm a communist for not watching the United States hockey team win the gold medal. He would understand how a person might prefer something else to watching a game on TV. A person might prefer making a literary decision. A person might even prefer writing a poem explaining why it helps the cause of world peace to play games with Russia in the winter but not in the summer. Myself, I preferred going to a movie.

As I said, I should take Donegan to lunch, meet him face-to-face for the first time, and seek conversation from someone who won't accuse me of being disloyal to Kate Smith. In fact, I should have taken my friend Franklyn to lunch many months ago to thank him for sending me good ideas to pin on my friend Ralph. But I never did.

THE OTHER DAY, a phone caller told me several things I hadn't known about my friend Franklyn. He was retired, in his '70s, and very sick for the past few months. And on Feb. 6, he died.

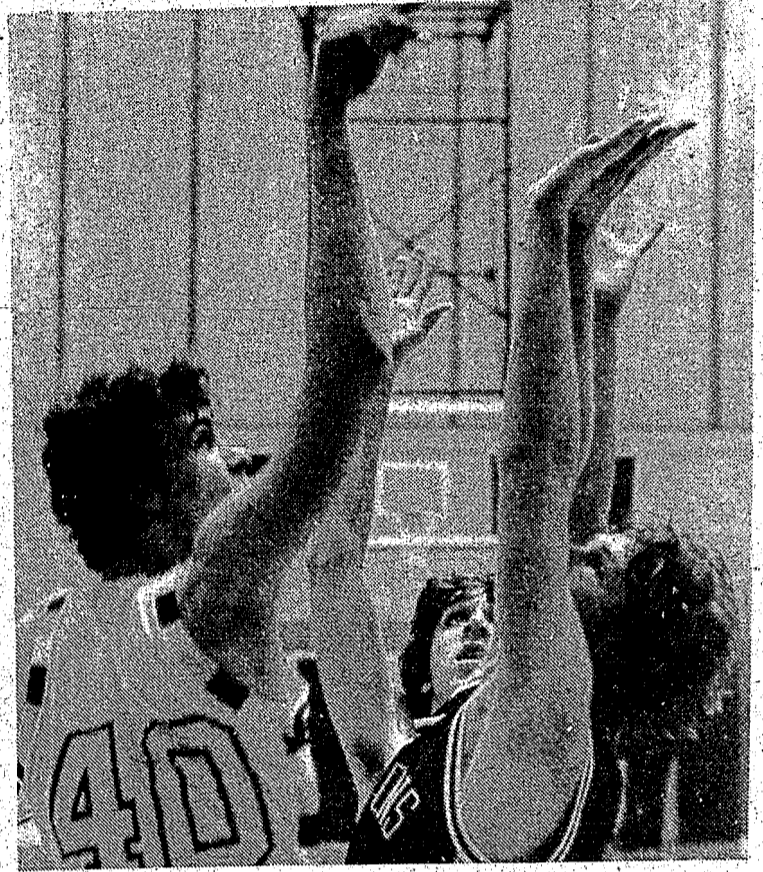

The phone caller said Franklyn Donegan had enjoyed it when I quoted him and called him my friend Ralph. It made me feel good to hear that. But I'd feel a lot better if I had invited him to lunch at least once. I know I should have. I'll always know that.

The next time I sit next to the original Ralph in a saloon, I'll tell him what's wrong with the world is there's no Olympic event that awards a gold medal for being kind to someone before it's too late. Ralph will tell me to go peddle my papers.

Wolves end regular season 20-0

By Al Zawacky

For the 20th and final time the Clarkston High School cagers played a regular season basketball game Friday night. And also for the 20th time the Wolfpack went on to maul the opposition, downing the visiting Andover Barons 82-46. Hopefully, noted coach Gary Nustad, there'll be even more to celebrate in the near future. "An undefeated season is a tremendous accomplishment, but we don't have time to relax," Nustad said, pointing out the team begins district playoff action on Tuesday. "I can't say I expected to go 20-0 back in the beginning of the season—we just had too many unknown factors. And I think our league turned out to be weaker than most people thought it would be. "We're going to play as hard as we can in the playoffs, knowing that everybody we play is going to want to be the team that knocks us off," Nustad continued. "Hopefully, we'll give people even more to cheer about before this is all over."

For a while in the Andover contest, it appeared the Wolfpack might end their season with the unthinkable—a defeat.

The Barons played a strong first quarter and trailed just 14-10 heading into the second period of play.

Clarkston stretched its lead to 33-21 at halftime, but it wasn't until the third quarter that the Wolfpack machine shifted into high gear, outscoring Andover 22-6.

"I don't think it was a matter of us playing poorly in the first quarter—I think Andover just played extremely well," Nustad said.

But once Wolfpack star center Tim McCormick and company got rolling, there was little the Barons could hope to accomplish.

McCormick dominated the scoring and rebounding statistics of both teams, scoring 32 points and pulling down 18 rebounds. Behind McCormick were 10-point performances by Scott McKoin and Ed Haddad, 8-point nights by Greg Lane and John Sheldon, and 6-point efforts by Larry Baylis and Chuck Nicolai.

Tim Meter, who has single-handedly accounted for almost half the Barons' attack this season, notched a team-high 20 points for Andover.

"I thought McKoin played an excellent defensive game against Meter," Nustad said. "We're going to have to play well defensively if we expect to do well in the tournaments."

The point after

by Al Zawacky

Unbelievable.

More than a week later, there is still an air of unreality surrounding the events at Lake Placid, where the United States hockey team confounded the experts by taking our country's first gold medal in hockey since 1960.

They did it by beating the Czechs. Beating them? Heck, they embarrassed them.

They did it by killing off three Finnish powerplays, actually scoring a goal during those six shorthanded minutes while the Finns came up with zilch.

And sweetest of all, they did it by beating the Russians, those stone-faced machines who play the game with all the emotion of a bunch of robots.

How can they play this beautiful, exhilarating game of hockey with such stoicism? It's downright unnatural.

True, it was the 4-2 victory over Finland that clinched the gold. But it was the incredible 4-3 win over the Soviet Union that will forever be enshrined in the icons of hockey history.

This was the same Russian team that humiliated the National Hockey League all stars last year. That hadn't lost a game in world competition since 1968. That had bounced the Americans to the tune of 10-3 in a previous exhibition meeting.

Again, unbelievable.

I'm somewhat ashamed to admit that heading into Friday night's showdown, I found myself fervently hoping for a "respectable" defeat. Maybe, maybe I thought, with the odd goal post here and there and some big saves by goalie Jim Craig, we just might catch the Soviets napping—and thus lose by only two or three goals.

Fortunately, Herb Brooks and not yours truly was directing things behind the American bench. Brooks and Team USA were playing to win—an aspiration so utterly outlandish and brash that only a bunch of Americans would dare to even hope to achieve it.

Yes, the US was badly outshot in the contest. But anyone who knows their hockey knows just how meaningless shots or goal are. A good goaltender quickly makes the shot stats nothing more than a possible consolation for the losers.

And what a netminder Team USA had in Craig, the 6-1, 190 pound native of North Easton, Massachusetts. He outplayed the Russian's Vladislav Tretiak, considered one of the best in the world. He outplayed Vladimir Myshkin, who brought with him the impeccable credentials of having shut out the NHL all stars 6-0.

But he couldn't do much when faced with 20 charging American college kids.

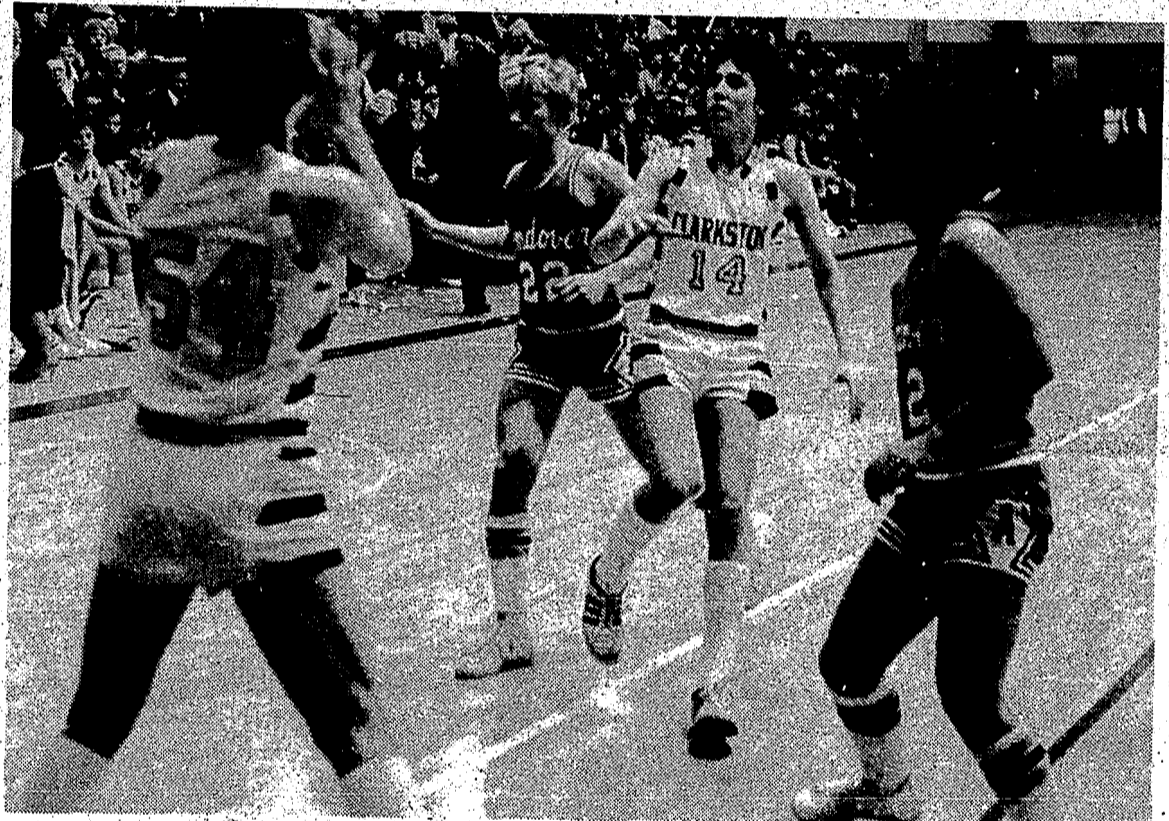

THERE WAS GLOOM in the faces of Soviet citizens filmed watching the game on TV in Moscow, while all of America burst with a patriotic pride that defied description. You can't dismiss all of that by saying that it was "only a hockey game."

I've never been a very sentimental person, but even my eyes grew a little misty as I watched team captain Mike Eruzione, gold medal around his neck, sing the Star Spangled Banner as our flag slowly rose to the top of the olympic arena.

I wouldn't think of closing without mentioning the fact that Michiganians have reason to be especially proud with two native sons on the Team USA roster: Ken Morrow of Davison and Mark Wells of St. Clair Shores.

It seems like only yesterday I was watching them perform for the Detroit Junior Red Wings, and now here they are, members of a team that has caught the imagination of the entire world.

What happens in Moscow this summer now seems anti-climatic. Regardless of the fate of the summer games, the unbelievable moment when a bunch of American college players defeated the "invincible" Soviet hockey team has become an unalterable part of olympic history.

Clarkston's Larry Baylis [14] passes off to teammate Nick Lekas [54] in fourth quarter action during the Wolfpack's 20th straight victory. Baylis and Lekas were two of nine seniors who played their final regular season game in a Clarkston uniform Friday night.

Athlete of the week

Coach Gary Nustad calls Greg Lane, a 6-foot 1 junior starter at the forward spot, one of his best players on defense.

"Greg is a tremendous asset to our ball club," Nustad says. "He's the type of player who can just create the play with his hustle on defense."

A transfer student from Lake Orion, Lane made the move to the Clarkston area just this past year.

It proved to be an auspicious change of venue for both Lane and his Wolfpack teammates.

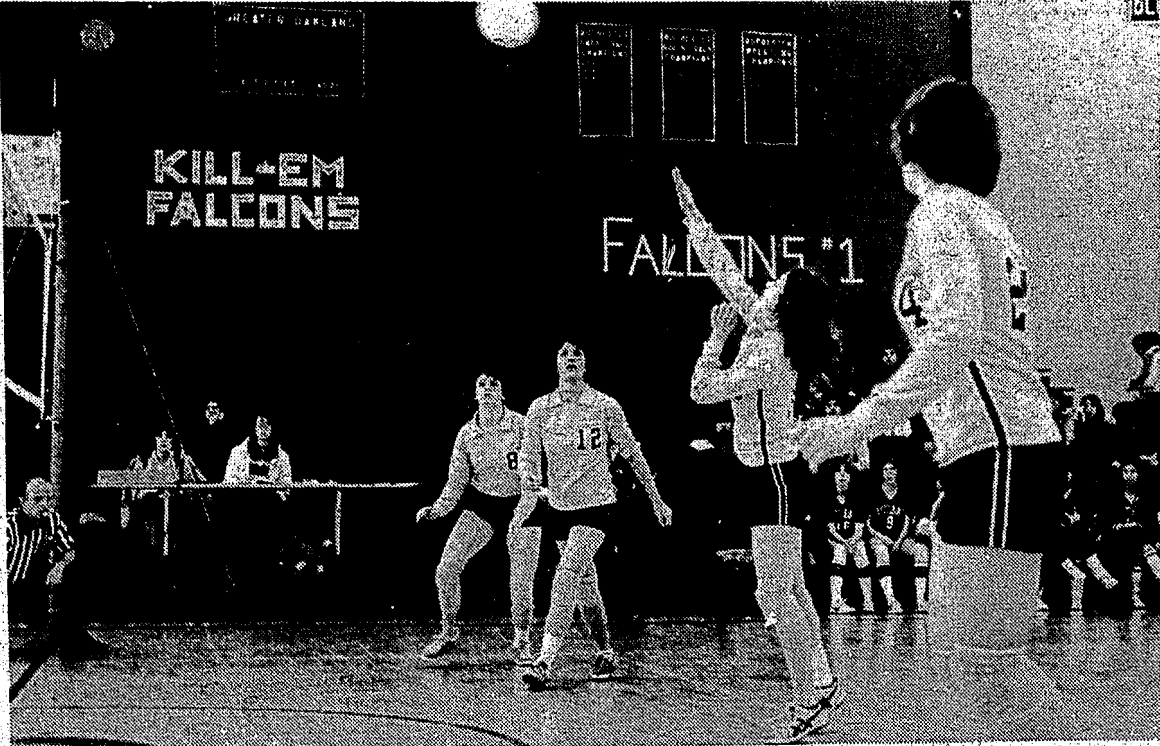

Lane played his usual strong defensive game against both Milford Lakeland and Bloomfield Hills Andover this past week, as well as chipping in with some key field goals.

For his performance, Lane is this week's Clarkston News Athlete of the Week.

"Greg's defensive play continues to be outstanding, and he's also picking up on offense as well," Nustad notes. "He can make the power drive to the inside and can hit from outside, too."

Spikers bow in districts

By Al Zawacky

Clarkston volleyball coach Linda Denstaedt had some mixed emotions following her team's 16-14, 9-15, 7-15 defeat at the hands of Rochester in district tournament competition Saturday afternoon.

"Rochester was a very disappointing loss, but I'm pleased with the season we had overall and the effort the girls put forth," Denstaedt said, reflecting back on her team's first place finish in the GOAL. "I wasn't sure how well we'd do back in the beginning of the year, but the players really worked hard and tried all season long."

Clarkston opened tournament competition with a lopsided 15-0, 15-8 win over Pontiac Central on Thursday. Following that victory was an equally impressive 15-6, 15-4 win over Waterford Kettering on Saturday just before the Rochester game.

"Kettering was probably the best we've played all season," Denstaedt said. "We usually don't get a lot of blocking at the net, but against Kettering our blocking was exceptional."

Denstaedt said that all her players who saw regular tournament action deserved praise for their efforts: Julie LaPere, Peggy Vermilye, Beth Walker, Dawn Reis, Beth Haddad, Patty White, Linda Foster, Kass Conway, Linda Baines and Teresa Herr.

Dawn Reis sends a Kettering return back over the net in Clarkston's district win over the Captains Saturday.

Wrestlers wrap up year

By Al Zawacky

The 1979-80 Clarkston High School wrestling season officially came to an end last weekend when team members Mike Conway, Craig Gavette and Claude Gourand traveled to East Lansing to compete in the state meet.

Gourand was the only one of the three to post a victory, placing seventh in the 155 pound weight class by virtue of an 8-2 decision in his second match.

"All the scores were close," CHS wrestling coach Rick Detkowski said later. "The guys were in their matches right to the end against some of the toughest kids in the state."

The final top seven season records on the team belong to Gavette, Conway, Gourand, Mike Ogans, Jeff Miracle, Paul Carr and Scott Smith.

Conway finished at 29-7-1, Gavette 29-7, Ogans 33-3, Gourand 31-7-1, Miracle 30-7, Carr

16-9 and Smith 13-4.

In addition, Conway had three first place finishes in tournament competition, Gavette two, Ogans four, Gourand two, Miracle two, Carr one and Smith one.

Wolfpack tracks

T-TIME: Coach Gary Nustad has never been known for taciturn conduct on the sidelines, but he usually manages to avoid a technical foul.

Not so Friday night. Nustad was nailed in the first quarter for incredulously questioning the official's judgement, allowing Andover's Tim Meter to take a trip to the charity stripe.

"The thing that was bothering me was their (the officials') timing--they were awfully slow in making some of the calls," Nustad said. "If it got them to thinking that 'Hey, maybe he's right,' I'd have to say the technical was worth it."

AND ON THE SUBJECT OF FOULS... senior guard John Sheldon was cruising in for what appeared to be a sure lay-up in the second half of Friday night's game, when he became the recipient of a rather upsetting foul by Dan Blood.

A bit of retaliation resulted, followed by a brief verbal confrontation between Sheldon and Andover's Mike Donaldson.

"John knew later he shouldn't have reacted," Nustad said. "I took him out briefly after it happened to settle him down."

Following the incident, Blood and Donaldson could only stand and watch as Sheldon coolly sank both free throws.

MARKSMEN: There wasn't much room for improvement in Clarkston's performance at the foul line Friday, as the Wolfpack hit on 26 or 27 free throw chances.

For that matter, Andover was pretty accurate as well, scoring on 10 of 14.

Clarkston's lone miss came from the most unlikely candidate of all--Tim McCormick. Of course 32 points is amends enough for the miscue.

ELDON ASSESSES: Ohio State basketball coach Eldon Miller was on hand at the Andover contest, watching Tim McCormick and enjoying a pretty good basketball game in the process.

"I was impressed with Andover--I thought they played very well," Miller said. "I think Clarkston beat a good team tonight."

Of McCormick's sparkling play, the OSU coach was more concise.

"He's outstanding," was his straightforward assessment.

Next year's JVs look strong

Frosh cagers talented

By Al Zawacky

The rivalry days are over for the boys on the Clarkston Junior High and Sashabaw Junior High ninth grade basketball teams.

Next winter the top players in both squads will be wearing identically colored jerseys from Clarkston High School. And the resulting team will be a good one, according to CJH coach Larry Sherrill.

"I really feel that next year's junior varsity is going to be pretty tough," Sherrill said. "Sashabaw has improved a lot this season, and we've got some talent. It'll be a fine crew of kids coming up."

Sherrill's Wolverines concluded a highly successful season last week with a 61-51 victory over Lake Orion West and a 61-52 win over Lake Orion East to post a final record of 14-5.

"Three of our losses were by a spread of five points," Sherrill noted. "We certainly had a good season."

CJH's Lake Orion victories were dominated by the outstanding play of Ray Kubani.

Against West Kubani scored 20 points, pulled down 23 rebounds and blocked 10 shots.

In the East contest, Kubani had 20 points and 16 rebounds while teammates Scott Temple and Mike McCormick added 15 and 13 respectively.

Sherrill also praised the work of Rick Carter and Richie Schrader in the two wins.

"Carter came off the bench and scored 13 points in the second half against Lake Orion West," Sherrill said. "We were down by seven at the half but went on to win--Carter's play gave us a big lift."

"Schrader's defense kept us in the other ball game against East. He had four steals, and four assists as well."

"As for Kubani, he just played two outstanding ball games. I was very pleased with his all-around play."

Sashabaw Junior High ended their season by also posting wins over the two Lake Orion schools.

The Cougars clipped East 65-64 and edged West 65-61.

Rick Williams was devastating in both contests, scoring a season high 25 points against East and following it up with 20 points against West. Kevin Brown dominated the boards with a remarkable 27 rebounds in the West game.

"I'm not sure, but I think that's a school record," SJH coach Gary Mason said of the Brown's rebound total.

Brown also scored 18 points against East, while Shawn Mosele scored 14 and Mike Dearborn 12 points against West.

With the two wins, Sashabaw concluded their season with a 7-12 record, a marked improvement over years past.

"We played 19 games, and 12 of them were decided in the last few minutes," Mason said. "The kids never gave up and really came a long way from the beginning of the season."

Coach proud of effort

JV hoopsters go out in style

By Al Zawacky

Clarkston junior varsity basketball coach Larry Mahrle had reason to stand tall Friday night.

So did his players.

Having already lost the league title last week in Rochester, the junior Wolfpack played on pride alone in their final two contests of the season.

And they won them both, 47-38 against a strong Milford Lakeland squad and 59-34 against rival Andover.

"I'm just tremendously proud of the way the kids come back after that tragic loss (in Rochester)," Mahrle said. "We came so much further than anyone expected us to at the beginning of the season."

The JVs' Lakeland victory was paced by two 13-point performances by Brad Beattie and Craig Schnabel. Trailing by three points at the start of the fourth quarter, the junior Wolfpack dominated the final stanza to pull out an impressive victory.

Kevin Coppersmith's 13 points and Beattie's 12-point effort led the way in the JVs win over Andover. Duane Cahill and Ric Schebor added 9 points and Schnabel 7 to the junior Wolfpack victory.

The two wins left the JVs with a final season record of 13-7 including a second-place 7-3 mark in Greater Oakland Activities League competition.

"We played as a team all season long," said Mahrle, who posted the 100th victory of his coaching career against Lakeland vs. just 34 defeats. "I'm extremely proud of all of them."

Graduation at Pine Knob on, off, on again

Come June, musical strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" for Clarkston High School's Class of 1980 will flow through the hills around Pine Knob's Music Theatre.

Graduation exercises have been conducted at the site the past five years.

But for awhile, it looked like the ceremonies were going to have to be held elsewhere this year.

Rejection by Independence Township of Pine Knob's proposed 20-story hotel was bad enough, said Joseph Loericchio, Pine Knob Investment co-partner.

Then it looked like plans for an amusement park at Pine Knob were going to be denied as well, he said.

"When the (township) planning commission decided to arbitrarily say no to me at the first meeting about the amusement park which may or may not be built here—all the negative comments—I got a little agitated," Loericchio said.

"I said, 'This is the end. Pine Knob is as important to this community as it is to me. We give more to the community than anyone ever has. Whenever anyone asked, they always got (use of the music theater). This is the end'."

The amusement park concept was subsequently approved by the planning commission and Loericchio reconsidered his stand, he said.

He is now looking for an operator to lease the proposed amusement park, he said.

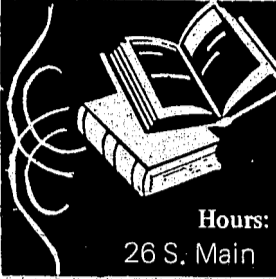

"I got an affirmative ruling on the concept which was important," he said, and although it may not be constructed this year, there is still time.

If plans are submitted to the planning commission for final approval this month or next month, it would allow construction to be completed before the music theater's opening.

Because the planning commission ruled that the recreation zoning ordinance allows amusement park facilities, the final site plan would require only the planning commission's final stamp of approval.

The matter would not get to the township board or any other governmental body for approval.

Wilcox wants county out of SEMTA

By Kathy Greenfield

Richard Wilcox objects so strenuously to a subway system in Detroit he has recommended to his fellow Oakland County Commissioners withdrawal from the Southeastern Eastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA).

"I'm not against SEMTA exactly right now," he said. "I would support a regional transportation system if everyone was treated equally and fairly."

"I don't support them if they're going to take our tax money and spend it on the subway."

"All the money is going to be used in the Woodward corridor and we're not going to get adequate coverage in Oakland or Macomb counties," he said. "I don't think SEMTA is carrying out its responsibilities."

"The reason is (Detroit Mayor) Coleman Young—probably if it wasn't for his political influence (SEMTA) wouldn't have approved (the subway)."

Wilcox and seven other county commissioners submitted a resolution to the 27-member board of commissioners last week recommending withdrawal from SEMTA.

His alternative is an Oakland County Transportation Authority that would be supported by county taxpayers.

Wilcox represents District 1 on the county commission. It includes most of Independence Township and all of Groveland, Brandon, Oxford, Addison and Oakland townships.

"I don't see any advantage to us out here in the north end (of Oakland County)," Wilcox said. "We don't have dial-a-ride and if they pass this, we won't see any advantage from that either."

He places the subway cost between $6 million and $8 million plus operating expenses—amounting to between $16 and $60 each year for each person—that would be paid by taxpayers in the SEMTA region, Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties.

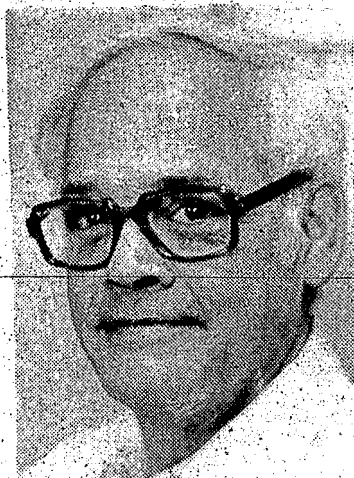

Phase 1 of a regional transportation system has already been approved by SEMTA and is awaiting approval by the state legislature.

It includes the subway from downtown Detroit to 6 Mile Road and a surface rail system from there to 10 Mile Road. A people mover would be constructed in Detroit.

Improvements in the Grand Trunk Railroad system would be made between Detroit, Pontiac and Ann Arbor and the bus system would be expanded.

Michigan's portion of a preliminary engineering study—

Richard Wilcox

$950,000—was recently approved by the state Senate in a 20-15 vote and it is on the calendar for a vote in the House today.

The county board of commissioners has requested the House to add an amendment requiring approval by a majority of voters in all three counties before operational money can be added to taxes, Wilcox said.

Several moves are being taken to get operating money without voter approval in the three counties—one proposal is if two of the three counties vote for the taxes, taxpayers in all three will have to pay, he said.

And Wilcox said State Rep. William Ryan (D-Detroit) is working on a plan to assess taxes on the residents without an election.

The county board of commissioners submitted demands to SEMTA for extending the rail system from 10 Mile Road to Pontiac, including a link to the Pontiac Silverdome and adding more bus stations in Oakland County.

"SEMTA agreed to everything except extending the rail system," Wilcox said. "That satisfied some of the commissioners."

Although Wilcox said a majority of the 27 county commissioners are against the subway, some from the southern portion of the county support the SEMTA plan.

They are being served by dial-a-ride and SEMTA bus services.

"Some seem to be satisfied. Two or three are even for the subway," he said.

But if the House approves the SEMTA plan without adding the amendment making approval by all three counties' voters necessary, Wilcox predicts strong support for his proposal to withdraw from SEMTA.

Original Greek boxing matches, taking place around 900 BC, involved two fighters standing very close to each other and simply swinging. It was not until the Romans became interested in the sport that there was a kind of boxing ring. Then leg work became important. Pugilism, as it was then called, was a popular spectacle at olympic events, a feature at festivals and celebrations. The great pugilists of the time were often called upon to defend their country's honor by fighting an enemy's pugilist. There were even some wars that were settled this way.

Deadline looms for license tabs

License plate renewal time is here and numerous Michigan motorists have not purchased their plate tabs.

Confusion for vehicle owners is being created because of Michigan's conversion to an expiration-by-birthday system. "Some vehicle owners are assuming their 1979 license plates will not expire until their birthday. This is not true," said Lois Marx, manager of the Clarkston Secretary of State office, 7150 Dixie Highway, Independence Township.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. 1979 license plates for all pickup trucks, vans, commercial vehicles and trailers expired Feb. 29. Plates on passenger vehicles, motor homes and motorcycles will expire March 31.

"We are encouraging people to come in now and avoid the last-minute rush," Marx said.

Dixie, Maybee crash fatal

An automobile-truck accident early Friday morning on Dixie Highway north of Maybee Road in Independence Township resulted in the death of one of the two drivers involved, a resident of Waterford Township. Dead is 26-year old William D. Patterson of Waterford Township. The driver of the other vehicle, 35-year-old Gary J. Hyde of Clarkston, was treated for minor injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

According to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Daniel Fournier, Patterson's and Hyde's vehicle collided head-on in the left hand turn lane on Dixie Highway at approximately 1:15 a.m. Feb. 29. Patterson was going south in a car, while Hyde was driving a pick-up truck, said Fournier. There were no passengers in either vehicle.

"The cause of the accident is still under investigation," Fournier said.

Patterson, who worked as kitchen manager at the Back Court Restaurant in Independence Township, was pronounced dead at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital at 2:20 a.m. Friday.

Search continues for free office space

Mental health clinic gets boot

By Kathy Greenfield

For the first time since 1974, a satellite of Pontiac General Hospital's Mental Health Clinic is not located in Independence Township.

The doors to the township senior citizen center were closed to the counseling services last week, forcing the clients and counselors out of the area.

"The problem I'm faced with is the clients we're seeing presently are going to have to be seen elsewhere," said counselor

Mary Ann Hennig. "They're going to have to either drive to Pontiac or one of the other outreach offices to be seen by (psychologist John Scharfenkamp) or myself."

The clinic is adult-oriented. Clients include those with marital crises, stress-related problems, after-care patients coming out of hospitals and court-ordered cases.

"One of the major issues is the fee of outpatient psychiatric," Hennig said. "It's $40 an hour and probably the only people who can afford to pay are those with good Blue Cross coverage.

"So if you can't afford to pay the $40 to go a private setting, then it would be nice to go to Community Mental Health. We're based on ability to pay and people pay as low as nothing."

In order to offer local counseling, free office space has to be found.

"The mental health board provides space for the main of-ice which is our Pontiac office, and the outreach offices have been set-up as a convenience to serve clients in this area," she said.

Hennig has been working one day a week in Independence Township, since last summer when the need for local counseling increased, and an office was staffed three days a week rather than two days.

Approximately 50 new clients were seen last year and individual counseling sessions numbered about 600, she said.

Satellite offices are now located in Rochester and Lake Orion.

The search for free office space to re-establish the Independence Township branch continues.

So far, appeals have been made to the township board, school personnel and Colomiere Center in Springfield Township, Hennig said.

"Generally people are very supportive of the program, but they just don't have the space," she said.

That was not the case last month when local senior citizens protested the use of offices on the second floor of the senior center three days a week for the counseling services.

The township board had approved use of the space by Community Mental Health for 90 days after its former location, Independence Center, closed. The senior citizens told the board they did not want the time extended.

Citing possible jeopardy to future Community Development funds, because most of the senior center funding was provided by the federal agency for the use of senior citizens, the board ruled that Community Mental Health would have to leave at the end of February.

"We really thought they (the township board) would give us a temporary extension," Hennig said. "The major thing is the inconvenience for the clients.

"I'm going to have to tell them they have to go to another location to see me. I would imagine a lot of clients will just drop out of treatment because that."

Mich. Week events set

A community awards dinner, used book sale, 10,000-meter run and Clarkston High School Band Day are now on the calendar for Independence Township's Michigan Week celebration.

Organizations throughout the community are being urged to add other events to the May 17-24 observances by Michigan Week chairman Christopher Rose, Independence Township clerk.

Rose has nominating petitions for the awards that will be presented May 23 at a dinner at the Spring Lake Country Club.

Recognition will be given to the community's outstanding young citizen, educator, contributor to the creative arts, volunteer of the year and "Super person." A distinguished service award also will be presented.

The dinner is cosponsored by the Independence Township Michigan Week Committee, the Clarkston Jaycees and the North Oakland Civitan Club.

Also scheduled in connection with Michigan Week is the Clarkston Band Boosters' Band Day May 17 and Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department's 2nd Annual Michigan Week 10,000-meter run May 25.

The friends of the Independence Township Library will also hold a used book sale sometime during the week.

Abe Lincoln

In the deep, deep woods, Abraham Lincoln was born in a poor, poor cottage. He helped his father out with the garden even before he had his first pair of pants.

Lincoln got older and older. Then a disease came to the woods and their mother died from a disease, but Abe could not give up.

One day Abe's father came home with another girl and said, "This is your new mother." She unpacked her stuff all the time.

Abe made a smudge in the cottage. He always made up jokes. Abe picked up a boy with muddy feet and made tracks from the floor to the ceiling.

Abe moved away from his home. He got a job cutting wood. When he got his money back, he sailed away and dropped his money in the water.

Abe wanted to work as a lawyer. He went down South. There were black slaves, but Abe liked them and he would not harm them. The blacks liked him too.

Abe was a good fighter and a good runner. He could outrun and outfight anyone.

Then the North and the South had a war. Lincoln had to stop the war, and he did. They wanted old Abe to be the 16th President. They cheered for Old Abe.

Modern Cinderella

Cinderella, her step-sister and her step-mother lived in a big penthouse.

Cinderella was a very grouchy child. She always got her own way.

One day messengers from the mayor's house were sent to tell all the people in the city that they were invited to a ball at the town hall at 6:00 sharp tonight. Of course, Cinderella wanted to go.

Oh, yes, you may go said her understanding stepmother but we call come back at 12:00. Now you listen, Ma! I'll come back at 3:30 if I want to!!!

All of a sudden her step sisters came up from the lobby. We can come too, can't we? Yes you may go but we all come back at 12:00. O.K.

Two hours later Mom was ready to go. O.K. girls, get in the limosine. Off they went. In an hour or two they were at the ball. Cinderella saw the mayor's son and walked over and said, Hi Kid!

Well, the mayor's son liked bossy women. But he almost turned around and smacked her but when he did turn around he fell in love with her and she with him.

They were married the next day. And during the ceremony the mayor's son asked Cinderella what is your name? And Cinderella said you can call me Ray or you can call me Jay.

And they lived grouchily ever after!

Home comes by energy naturally

By Gene Lund

If the cost of heating your home is going through the roof, Jerry Cook has just what you need: a solar home.

His house, located at 12751 Big Lake Road in Springfield Township, doubles as the Oakland Solar Educational Center.

Jerry's house is spacious, warm and aesthetically pleasing, yet costs practically nothing to heat.

The 33-year-old independent researcher is not only the owner of the home but also the designer, builder and operator.

It is immediately apparent upon seeing Jerry's house that it is not the average dwelling.

The effect of the glass-covered southern face of the house rising from the earth like a shiny monolith contrasted with the northern wall—which is almost completely underground—creates a rural scene Currier and Ives never envisioned.

Inside the home, there is a harmonious blend of rustic charm and space-age technology.

The small pond, the supporting beams which were once part of a local barn and the indoor garden which Jerry laughingly refers to as his natural air conditioner, all blend to integrate nature with man made environment.

Unlike many homes, there is a specific reason for the placement of everything. The indoor garden receives sunlight through the long rectangular glass panels located on the southern face of the home. The southern side is used to make maximum usage of the sun's rays as it arcs across the sky.

These panels reflect heat directly into the home, while others are backed with large sheets of tin painted black, with a three-to four-inch space between the glass and tin.

These sheets of tin are painted black because black retains heat. On a sunny day, the space between the glass and tin often reaches 200 degrees.

These panels are called collectors because they collect the heat from the sun and distribute it throughout the house by the rising of the hot air to ducts above.

The house is designed to allow the hot air to move freely across the upstairs portion and circulate to the lower level.

The house is equipped with alternate sources of heat.

A small wood-burning stove covered with large rocks is usually enough to heat the house after a day or two of cloudy weather renders the solar panels ineffective.

The purpose of the rocks covering the stove is simple, the stove heats the rocks, and long after the fire is allowed to die, the rocks will still be giving off the heat that they have stored.

For extreme cold or extended periods of very cloudy weather the furnace may have to be used, that however is of little consequence when you take into consideration that Jerry's furnace has run approximately fourty seven hours this winter.

That's an impressive figure for a house of over 1,400 square feet that maintains an average daytime temperature of 70-72 degrees and an average nighttime temperature of a comfor-

He went on to point out the necessity of properly locating the land where the house is to be built, and the proper methods of making the house retain the heat it has collected.

"Site planning is of prime importance. Don't buy land for your new home without taking energy efficiency in mind." For instance: What natural barriers to prevailing wind and weather are there? What is the availability of unobstructed sunlight during winter?

"During the summer months, deciduous trees in front of the solar collectors would be desirable to reduce the amount of sunlight entering the home. Then in the winter when the leaves have all fallen, you still get adequate sunlight."

"Some people are concerned about other property owners building structures on their land which block the sun's rays from nearby collectors, but the State table 68-70 degrees.

These figures are derived from the electronic sensors strategically placed to monitor various areas of the home: i.e.: room temperature, collector temperature, the floor under the house...

Jerry is quick to point out that this method of heating a home will only work efficiently in conjunction with other things he has done.

"I don't like to use the term solar home, I prefer energy efficient.

"What I have here is what is known as a passive system, passive is what happens natural-

It was 73 degrees inside Jerry Clark's solar-heated home when this picture was taken. Outside, it was about 10 degrees, but bright and sunny. A perfect day to heat using the sun's warm rays. Clark says.

Legislature is working on a bill that would prevent this."

"There are also monetary incentives being offered by the federal government for the building of energy efficient houses; rebates of 25 percent on the first $2,000 spent and 15 percent of the next $8,000. The percentages decrease from there."

The bride-elect, a 1976 Clarkston High School graduate, attends Oakland University, Rochester. She is employed by Vic Tanny's of Birmingham. Her fiancé is a graduate of Michigan Technological University, Houghton. An April wedding is planned.

Equestrian winner

Winner of five trophies at the 1979 Michigan Quarter Horse Association Year-end Awards Banquet was Nancy Bryan of Clarkston-Orion Road, Independence Township. Her prizes included all-around amateur of the Michigan Quarter Horse Association, champion amateur western horsemanship and reserve champion in amateur hunt seat and amateur English equitation. Competitors throughout Michigan were judged on their horsemanship in different shows during the year for the awards, accumulating points from one to the next. Nancy, who owns three horses, was crowned queen of the Michigan Quarter Horse Association in March, 1978. She is employed at D'Arcy-MacManus and Masius Inc., Bloomfield Hills, as an ad specialty and premium buyer.

Community events

Richard Huttenlocher will add his voice to the Albion College Choir for its annual spring tour that includes a performance at Clarkston United Methodist Church on Tuesday, March 11, at 7:30 p.m.

The tour runs from March 5-12 and includes 13 cities in Michigan and Illinois.

Richard, a 1977 graduate of Clarkston High School, is a junior at Albion.

Over 100 kids attended the Valentine's Day Party last month sponsored by the Independence Township Library and the Friends of the Library.

The youngsters were entertained with a magician, films and treats at the Feb. 16 party.

In addition, there were eight lucky winners of gift certificates for $2.50 each from the Village Book Store.

There were Andre Fortin, Adam Willard, Elise Eidam, Amy Tower, Kim Kolody, Justin Loase, Jason Randolph and Jennifer Kar.

The three- and four-year-olds from Davisburg's Crosshill Community Preschool visited a bakery recently as the highlight of sense awareness activities.

The children got to use their eyes, ears, noses and best of all—mouths during the tour of the bakery at Freeman's grocery store in Holly.

They listened to bakery personnel tell about the dough and how they braid it or add flavors to it. They watched a machine slice several loaves of bread in a row.

Then they got to taste some freshly-baked cookies compliments of Freeman.

Curtain time

'Life in Theatre' depends on language

"A Life in the Theatre"
By David Mamet
Meadow Brook Theatre
When David Mamet's play "A Life in the Theatre" was bringing in audiences to the Off-Broadway theatre Theatre De Lys a couple of years ago, some very good actors were playing in the two-character play.

Among the actors then were, among others, Ellis Rabb and Peter Evans. Despite such important New York actors, the off-Broadway version seemed to have a static quality. Not so with the Meadow Brook Theatre production of "A Life in the Theatre."

Opening last Thursday and running through March 23, Meadow Brook's and director Charles Nolte's reading of the play crackles with wit and vibrancy.

As in all Mamet plays, the life of the play is the language and the attempts to communicate between people.

The actors chosen by Nolte bring to the play the qualities needed to depict the inability to reach out to others in a plot that rebels against real action.

"A Life in the Theatre" concerns two actors, one older (Eric Tavaris) and one younger and green (Tom Spackman), whom we see in various short scenes both backstage and on stage.

With humor and a satiric eye,

Mamet shows the reversal of roles that take place as the younger actor, at first eager to learn from his older and more experienced colleague, passes the veteran actor by in his advance in the world of the theatre.

While humor is there, there is a certain amount of pathos in seeing the veteran pushed aside.

The popular Eric Tavaris, who has been in numerous Meadow Brook roles over the years, plays the older actor, Robert.

He is an egocentric, aging actor with a Dylan Thomas voice who is always concerned lest his acting be viewed as "brittle". Robert is always eager to dispense his philosophy about life and acting.

Tom Spackman, also a Meadow Brook veteran, is the younger man, John, who wants to learn the craft and doesn't nearly take acting as seriously as Robert. John just wants to get on with his career.

As time goes on, it is John who lets Robert light his cigarette and listens to Robert praise one of his scenes. It was the reverse in the beginning. The aging Robert broods about this turn of life's events.

The dialogue is filled with Mametisms. These go, often, like this: "You mean...what do you mean?" "Nothing."

Or: "If we can't speak to each other, then who can..." "Who can speak our language?"

Very rarely do the two communicate which is what life, in or out of the theater, may really be about.

Adding further to this production is the scenery.

The audience that John and Robert play to are at the rear of the stage.

Here, instead of a mirror, set designer C. Lance Brockman has provided white paper mache people. Similarly, such "people" also are present as stage hands.

The set becomes more interesting than the one seen off-Broadway.

Coping with kids

Who's this kid who's 'all boy'?

There is a descriptive phrase that has been used for many years to paint a verbal picture of a boy.

"He's all boy" is how the phrase goes. It is never explained, but whenever anybody hears it, a knowing glance is exchanged.

Perhaps like many cliches, "He's all boy" conjures up a different meaning for everyone, yet it is silently understood that it has one universal meaning.

That meaning seems to be in the popular mind as one of a boy out of the mold of Tom Sawyer or Huck Finn.

In general, it seems, from what we can understand, to mean that the boy in question is active, always on the move and prone to mischievous behavior.

For a father to say that his son is "all boy" is apparently to confer on him some honor for producing such a normal and magnificent son.

It seems obvious that to try to understand if a particular boy is underactive or overactive more precise description is needed. Furthermore, the general idea that all boys, in order to be considered normal, must be highly active, never sitting still, always into something, should be thrown out in the garbage with a lot of old ideas.

The idea still tends to confuse many mothers and fathers and brings them into a direct conflict.

Take a 4-year-old boy whom Dad sees mostly on the weekends and usually never for any length of time. If that boy is so active that mother is worn to a frazzle because he wakes up at 5 a.m. and doesn't go to sleep until midnight and when he is up never takes a nap and requires constant supervision, Father may suspect Mother is at fault for her condition.

Dad may simply see him as "all boy" and his wife as a somehow inadequate disorganized mother and housekeeper. Mother may feel guilty and dad may feel superior.

This is not an uncommon situation. It may only be with mother's greater experience and exposure to other children that she learns that her son may be suffering from something more than being "all boy."

Tax tips

Many individuals qualify for income averaging.

Averaging reduces the impact of the graduated rate structure by permitting the current year's tax to be computed as if the income had been received ratably over the current and previous four years.

Averaging is available if current taxable income is at least $3,000 greater than 120% of the average taxable income for the four previous years.

You can easily determine whether you qualify for income averaging by completing the first two sections of Schedule G (Form 1040).

If you had a different marital filing status or a different spouse in any of the five previous years, you must reconstruct his or her separate income or that of the spouse (s) to properly reflect the necessary comparison between the computation year income and the average base period income.

In addition, you and your spouse, if you are filing a joint return, must be a citizen of the U.S. or a resident alien during the entire five-year period.

You (and your spouse, if filing jointly) must also have provided 50% or more of your own support during each year of the base period.

This rule often delays averaging by anyone directly out of college.

An important exception waives the support requirement for an individual who is at least 25 years old during 1979 and who was not a full-time student during at least four of the taxable years beginning after the age of 21.

Another exception permits income averaging by newlyweds.

If a self-supporting individual marries a person who has been the dependent of another and at least 75 percent of their combined adjusted gross income in 1979 is from the self-supporting person, a joint return may be filed using income averaging.

If the 75 percent test is not met—often the case where both spouses are employed—it may be beneficial to file separate returns so that one spouse may income average.

There are times when the State Department considers it necessary to issue Americans two valid U.S. passports. This applies when a traveler is en route to Nigeria. Since Nigeria will not admit anyone whose passport contains a visa for South Africa, a second passport containing a Nigerian visa is necessary to visit that country. Because second passports are restricted by geography and time, applicants must designate which should authorize unlimited travel for five years.

Is your dog gone?

By Joe Armstrong
Independence Township Animal Control Officer

The least pleasant job of an animal control officer is picking up dead animals.

No matter how the driver reacts to hitting an animal, it's a dramatic experience to say the least.

The law requires that the driver stop and try to locate the owner of the animal. Many drivers do not stop.

Several drivers have proved to me that hitting an animal can also be an emotional experience. I have a rusty badge to prove it.

When the owner of the animal is located, breaking the news can be a touchy situation. What can you say?

One lady made my job extremely tough.

I had to pick up a skunk in front of Bob's Hardware in downtown Clarkston. While standing alongside M-15 waiting for a break in traffic, this lady ran over the skunk for one last time.

I ask myself, "Why?" I wish it would have been possible for me to flip it up onto the roof of her car as she drove away.

I guess she figured if everyone else in Clarkston could run over it, she could too.

Dogs picked up Monday, Feb. 3--Beagle, Middle Lake and M-15, male, 10 pounds. German Shepherd, Whipple Lake Road, male 70 pounds.

Extra patrol--Drayton-Frankwill Road area off Maybee Road.

Ordinance No. 94, Section 3.3 states: Once you purchase your dog license, it must be securely attached around the dog's neck.

If you've lost or found an animal, call the Independence Township Animal Control office at 625-8600 or the Michigan Humane Society at 391-0800.

Emergency calls after regular business hours or on weekends can be made to Oakland County Animal Control at 858-1022.

THEY ADD UP TO TOTALLY
NEW TREATMENT FOR YOU, THE CUSTOMER!

1. The only 30-day/1,000 mile money-back guarantee.

Buy one of our new 1980 passenger cars. Drive it up to 30 days or 1,000 miles, whichever comes first. If you're not completely satisfied, you'll get your money back. 3. The first guarantee of no-cost motor club membership with emergency road service.

The New Chrysler Corporation provides a two year membership in the Amoco Motor Club at no cost to you when you buy or lease a new 1980 car or truck. Benefits include emergency road service, emergency towing, car theft reward. And a lot more, subject to the conditions of membership.

AND a $50 test drive offer to prove our confidence in Chrysler Engineering.

Test drive one of our new 1980 cars or trucks. Buy one of ours or buy any qualifying new car or truck from one of our competitors within thirty days. Then return the test drive certificate with proof of purchase. And the fifty dollars is yours.

A menagerie of stuffed animals join the tots at Clarkston Co-op Nursery to celebrate Teddy Bear Day. The three-year-olds share adventures, have a parade and a ceremony to present to each furry friend a "Lovable Bear Award." Adam Koyle takes his bear for a ride on a wooden trunk while others make Teddy Bear cookies, do an art project or listen to the music—"Me and My Teddy Bear," "Teddy Bears on Parade" and even "Smokey the Bear."

Brian Boughman brings "Big Teddy" to his nursery class. "I have a 'Little Teddy,' too," he says. "I sleep with him." The children meet at Clarkston United Methodist Church. Their teacher is Pat Pitcher.

"Snuggles" the bear was borrowed from her brother for the special occasion, says Fiona Brown.

Jason Clark concentrates on putting together a construction paper bear with a metal fastener.
