Community salutes basketball team

Wolves finish best season

The Clarkston News joins the entire community this week in saluting coach Gary Nustad and his 1979-80 Clarkston High School basketball team.

We're doing it with a 16 page special section in today's Clarkston News entitled "1979-80 Wolfpack--The pride of Clarkston."

Filled with photos and stories of the players and coaches, it's something you'll want to keep as a souvenier of the most successful season in Wolfpack history.

Records?

How about a 26-game winning streak, the longest of any class A team in the state?

In addition, the Clarkston cagers won their third straight league championship with a perfect 10-0 conference record; won their first district title in 16 years; defeated Flint Central to take their first regional championship in school history; and advanced all the way to the state semifinals before bowing to Highland Park by a single point, 51-50.

For weeks the polls ranked hometowners, Tim McCormick, Ed Haddad, John Sheldon, Greg Lane, Scott McKoin, Chuck Nicolai, Larry Baylis, John Pappas, Doug Hagyard, Nick Lekas, Paul Brown, Jerry Tatu, Scott Weaver, Ric Schebor and Brad Beattie as the No. 1 team in the state, a perception that Clarkstonites feel still holds true.

Congratulations, Wolfpack!

Don't miss The News' souvenir supplement

Tim McCormick [40] is introduced to the crowd moments before the tipoff of Clarkston's 68-63 victory over Flint Central, a win that earned the Wolfpack the school's first regional championship ever. Parents protest new school lines

By Kathy Greenfield

Proposed boundary changes that would affect about 180 Clarkston School District pupils resulted in an emotion-charged public hearing Monday night.

About 75 people attended the two-and-one-half-hour meeting conducted by Clarkston Schools Superintendent Milford Mason.

The boundary changes, tentatively approved by the school board, were designed to get sixth graders out of Clarkston Junior High School and back into elementary schools.

Objections to Andersonville sixth graders riding school buses with junior high school pupils resulted in the proposal that would put kindergartners from Clarkston Elementary School in the junior high.

All elementary pupils would ride buses only with other elementary pupils and all elementary schools would maintain the same hours as this year, Mason said.

A survey of 127 parents out of 211 names gathered by a group of those affected by the boundary changes was presented at the hearing.

The survey said about 60 percent of the parents affected by the changes had been contacted.

Of that number, 63 percent of sixth grade parents had no problems with their children attending CJHS, 43 percent of fifth grade parents were opposed to having their children sent to sixth grade at CJHS and 51 percent of those affected by the boundary changes were opposed to the redistricting.

Based on the survey, the group concluded that the proposed changes force the children into too many unnecessary changes, and Edward Fletcher of Foster Road presented an alternate plan.

Children in the Cranberry Lake Road area could be bused to Pine Knob Elementary, he said, and all pupils up to the northern boundary of the "I-75 corridor" would be bused to Clarkston Elementary.

The plan would still carry the same problem for Cranberry Lake Road area pupils, because the children would attend Pine Knob Elementary until sixth grade and then go to CJHS while their fellow Pine Knob classmates would attend Sashabaw Junior High School.

The saving, however, would be in cost to the school district, Fletcher said.

"You'd have less gas, less mileage and less wear and tear on buses," he said.

Mason said the administrators would study the plan, but he could make no promises, indicating that six school board members were in the audience and the board would make the final decision.

Mason also predicted that the practice of elementary pupils attending school at the CJHS building would continue indefinitely as long as population trend predictions come true and the number of school buildings stay the same.

"It is not the optimum operating situation, but we are existing without optimum facilities at our disposal," he said. "We want to disrupt the fewest number of people."

Tuesday night 'fever' night for Wolves fans

Channel 7 sports anchorman Dave Diles and Detroit News sports columnist Joe Falls will speak at the Clarkston-Rotary-Club sponsored "Wolfpack Fever Night" banquet April 1.

In honor of Clarkston High School's highly successful 1979-80 basketball team, the banquet will be held at the Pontiac Silverdome's Main Event Restaurant. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. with a reception scheduled for 6 p.m.

Tickets for the dinner are $10 apiece and may be obtained at Clarkston High School, Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home and the Pontiac State Bank's Main Street office in Clarkston.

"We had planned this dinner regardless of the outcome of the season," says Lewis Wint, organizer of the event. "I hope the people still come out and make this event a sellout."

Clarkston was eliminated in their quest for the state championship Friday afternoon in a heart-breaking 51-50 loss to Highland Park in the state semi-finals. Wint was in the crowd of over 10,000 gathered to watch the game.

"It was a disappointing loss, but this team has still meant so much to our community. They had an outstanding season," Wint says.

$1.16 million budget gets tentative ok

By Kathy Greenfield

A projected revenue increase of about $46,000 over last year has put the proposed Independence Township general fund budget at $1.16 million.

Board members tentatively approved the budget last night that is to be presented at the annual township meeting Saturday, March 29, at 1 p.m.

With an eye to the condition of the economy, it was also decided to review the budget quarterly and adjust department budgets accordingly if revenue falls below predictions.

The $100 million cutback in federal revenue sharing to the state was also a concern of the board, although Clerk Christopher Rose said the reduction to state funds should not affect local income for at least a year.

Rose proposed increasing the income projections in state revenue sharing and in the miscellaneous category, because interest earned on money invested by the township has been high.

"We have, in the past, had a surplus," Rose said. "One of the reasons is because we have underestimated our state shared revenue."

Concern about the cuts in federal funding to the state was also voiced by Supervisor Whitey Tower and Trustee Rudy Lozano.

"I've never seen it where they cut it and it didn't trickle down," Tower said. "It will ultimately affect us."

Lozano also said it was a bad practice to have department heads become used to large amounts of money and then face cuts in the following years.

"We're painting a very bad picture for our departments," he said. "If we get them accustomed to somewhat of an austerity program, we're going to find us eliminating some departments to salvage others.

With state revenue sharing in the last fiscal year at over $560,000, Treasurer Frederick Ritter said the township could expect more money in the coming fiscal year.

"It's ridiculous for us to think we're not going to get another $15,000 out of the state," he said.

Tower, Rose, Ritter, Lozano and Trustee Michael Thayer tentatively approved the budget. Trustees Jerry Powell and William Vandermark were absent.

Expected revenue for the fiscal year that begins April 1 includes $275,000 in taxes, $580,000 in state shared revenue, $75,000 in building department fees, $4,000 from planning department fees, $25,000 from cemetery, $75,350 from recreation fees, $3,700 from senior citizens, $24,400 from the park department and $75,000 miscellaneous.

In addition, $20,000 is to be transferred from the improvement revolving fund.

Tentatively approved expenditures include $34,000 for township board, $43,500 supervisor's department, $18,130 election department, $72,409 assessing department, $35,000 attorney, $74,417 clerk's department, $1,700 board of review and $58,845 treasurer's department.

Also listed as expenditures are $99,000 township hall, $45,000 cemetery, $110,000 building department, $8,500 highway lighting, $231,949 parks and recreation department, $30,000 planning department and $10,500 animal control.

Other general fund expenditures are to be $84,000 insurance and bonds, $41,000 retirement, $40,000 Social Security and $9,500 longevity.

In addition, the library is to receive $80,000 from the general fund and $30,000 is to go for road gravel.

Copies of the proposed budget are to be available at the annual meeting held at Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

All that remains of local police department

Animal control officer to go

By Kathy Greenfield

The last remains of local police services, the animal control officer, will no longer exist in Independence Township after June 30.

Citing high expenses, the township board decided to rely on services provided by Oakland County Animal Control after the cut-off date.

The vote was 3-2 at last week's township board meeting with Clerk Christopher Rose, Treasurer Frederick Ritter and Trustee Michael Thayer voting "yes," and Supervisor Whitey Tower and Trustee Jerry Powell voting "no." Trustees Rudy Lozano and William Vandermark were absent.

Animal control was a relatively low-cost program when it was part of police services, said Tower.

At one time, there were three animal control offices in the township, but they were CETA employees and their salaries were covered under the federal employment program.

After the township lost all CETA funding, one animal control officer was retained and paid out of police service funds.

Expenses like dispatching were covered by the regular police dispatcher.

When the township disbanded the local police department in February, a dispatcher was retained to hande animal control calls.

Then it was discovered that the animal control vehicle did not meet requirements and a new one was needed that included heat in the rear compartment.

The proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1, is between $45,000 and $50,000.

There were 1,437 calls for animal control services in the township last year, Tower said.

"The figures bring out that evidently we're doing the job on it," he said. "There's no way to do it cheaply."

"In setting budgets, we just hashed out the funding and determined there was no money for it," said Rose, who suggested ending local animal control April 1.

Board members objected to the April 1 date, because township residents have purchased dog licenses and, therefore, expect local service.

In addition, ending the service would mean laying off animal control officer Joseph Armstrong who could not stay on the payroll, because he is a salaried employee and not covered under the township employees' labor union contract.

Dispatcher Beth Tower is a union employee and she could use her seniority to stay with the township.

Using a figure of $7,000 for fees from dog licenses, the board decided to keep the local service until June 30.

Two residents of the Thendara Park Subdivision spoke in favor of a local animal control officer.

"If you discontinue the service, it will be total chaos," said Colleen Waananen of Tiohero Roads, adding that on weekends and after 4 p.m. when the local animal control officer goes off-duty, dogs "run wild."

"We have packs—five to six dogs running at times—dogs all over the place," said Sharon Beltz of Minnewana Road. "Every Bimbo that moves out there has a dog and they think they live out in the country and let them run wild."

Of all the taxes paid to the township by the subdivision residents, there are no services offered except animal control, she said.

"The only thing we have is the dogcatcher and we don't want to lose him," said Beltz.

The county animal control service answers emergency calls first like dog-bites, and other problems are taken care of as time permits, said George Anderson, township DPW director whose department took over animal control after police services folded.

"They will not offer the same services," he said. "They don't have the manpower or the money."

After the meeting, Armstrong said he is disappointed the township chose to discontinue the service.

"If they honestly are going to save the taxpayers money, I'm for it," he said. "But they're probably just going to spend the money someplace else."

Eggs-actly what Bunny ordered

Hop out to Clintonwood Park for the Clarkston Jaycees' annual Easter Egg Hunt Saturday, March 29.

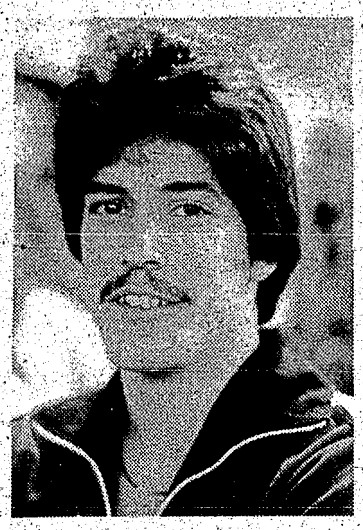
The free event offers candy and prizes for children.

Jaycees are still negotiating with the Easter Bunny for a possible reappearance.

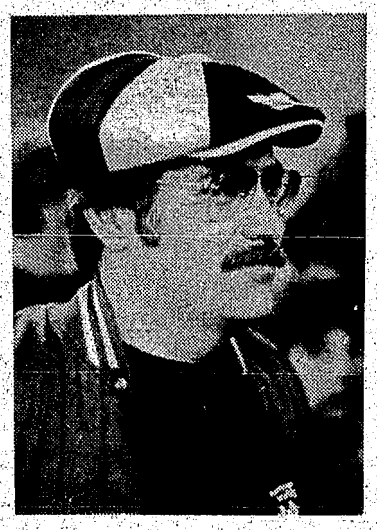
The hunt is to begin at 10 a.m. at the park located on Clarkston-Orion Road between the I-75 overpass and Sashabaw Road.

Use the Independence Township Senior Citizen Center driveway and parking lot.

Wolfpack worth wait



"I'd like to see them go all the way," said Mike Dell, a 1975 Clarkston High School alumnus.



Don Dell of Davisburg was one of the first in line. "The Wolves are worth it," Dell said.

Steve Nicholson, a 1969 graduate of CHS, said he'd been following the team all season long. "The talk about Wolfpack fever—I guess I've got it," he said.

It didn't take long for a line to form outside the ticket window at Clarkston High School Thursday afternoon. Some fans waited as long as five hours to pick up their tickets for the Clarkston-Highland Park state semifinal contest played on Friday at East Lansing's Jenison Field House.

Township authorizes OCSD pact

A two-year contract for six Oakland County Sheriff's Department deputies has been approved by the Independence Township Board.

The six police officers are to provide around-the-clock coverage for the township at a cost of $35,232 each, for the fiscal year that begins this April.

Total contract cost is $211,392.

The figure covers all expenses including salary, equipment, insurance and supervisory personnel.

For the next fiscal year, beginning April 1, 1981, the agreed-upon figure was set at $37,772.

All board members present approved the contract at last week's meeting. Trustees Rudy Lozano and William Vandermark were absent.

At Independence annual meeting

Voters to decide township officials' pay raises

The major power Independence Township registered voters have at the annual meeting Saturday, March 29, is the ability to increase elected officials' salaries.

"There's a state law that they cannot reduce salaries during someone's term of office," said Clerk Christopher Rose.

The meeting is to begin at 1 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

All registered voters at the meeting may vote on the salaries and on advisory motions that would not be binding, but would recommend action by the township board at a regular meeting.

Although the township board members are usually in attendance at the annual meeting, this is not a meeting of the township board, Rose said.

"The only officials at the annual meeting are the supervisor, who is the moderator, and the clerk, who is the secretary to the annual meeting," Rose said. "Every registered voter of the township has an equal voice and and equal vote, whether they are just a citizen or a township board member."

The budget for the township that begins its fiscal year April 1 will be presented at the meeting.

In the past, the most common topic at the annual meeting has been salaries of township board members, Rose said.

Exceptions are two years ago when the size of the township board was increased to its maximum allowed by law of seven members, and five years ago when a motion was made to sell property owned by the township, a former dump in Brandon Township.

In the past eight years, the longest meeting lasted just under three hours and the shortest was a little over one-and-one-half hours.

Although the registered voters can vote to recommend township board action on items," "the supervisor can rule motions out of order as being frivolous," Rose said.

At the meeting all voters are taken by a show of hands "unless the majority of voters determines otherwise," Rose said, referring to last year when people discussed voting by ballot on the township officials' raises.

In 1979, residents at the annual meeting gave township officials a 17 percent increase in salaries.

Current salaries of the seven-member board are $26,636 for the supervisor, $24,417 for the clerk and treasurer and $3,000 for the four trustees.

Springfield electors gather

Township budget will be major topic

Springfield Township electors will have a chance to look over and comment on a $323,820 proposed general fund budget Saturday at the township's annual meeting.

The proposed budget is up $34,185 from last year's, generally representing cost increases of about 10 percent across the board, according to Springfield Clerk J. Calvin Walters.

Raises of 10 percent have been recommended for the three fulltime elected township officials, whose salaries are set at the annual meeting.

Supervisor Collin W. Walls currently makes $18,600 a year, Walters gets $17,600 and Treasurer Patricia L. Kramer gets $16,000.

The annual meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. at the township hall, 650 Broadway, Davisburg.

Additional money for maintenance and improvement of roads in Springfield Township was included in the tentative budget. The township board would like to set aside $11,000 to match Oakland County Road Commission funds for a yet-undetermined road improvement project, Walters said.

An extra $4,000 has been added to the township's road chloride program. Increased participation is expected because the State Department of Natural Resources has ruled that gravel roads can no longer be oiled to keep down the dust.

The Township's proposed parks and recreation budget for the upcoming year marks a $6,000 increase to $26,000. The proposed budget for the township library also is $26,000, an increase over last year of $5,650.

Developments approved

Final approvals for two residential developments have been granted by the Independence Township Board.

Deerwood II with 123 lots is the second phase of the Deerwood development that now totals 241 lots.

Located east of M-15 and north of Perry Lake Road, the developer told the township board he expects road asphalting to be completed this summer.

Also granted final plat approval was Heather Lake Meadows No. III.

The plat consists of eight lots located near the northeast corner of the township. It is part of a plat that includes 62 lots, the remainder of which are in Orion Township.

Letters to the Editor

Muddy roads ahead

Editor, township board, drivers,

Mud! Muddy, deep ruts. Are you stuck in the mud?

If you are having to use the public roads that have been roads for over a hundred years and find those same spots, again this year, are the same mess they have been every spring thaw—be sure to understand our board members are giving $20,000 for new hard-topped bike path study but only $40,000 for our same old mud traps.

Out of that $40,000, most of it will be spent to complete the cost to hard-top a small length of Holcomb Road.

No one is expecting spreading of mile after mile of gravel—only to fix the "spots" of impossible mud.

Some of the gravel roads don't need the whole length to be graveled with the state of the economy. We also don't need new paths made, hard-topped, when our old roads are unusable each spring.

Getting to work, to school, to get groceries, to the doctors, etc., and to get home again without being stuck in the mud, or without tearing up your car, truck or a school bus, should be the top priority.

What horrors it would be if the police car got mired in on your call for help, or the ambulance couldn't get to your emergency or your house burned as the fire truck sank in the road.

None of the township board members live on such a gravel road.

I do not live on a gravel road, but I do remember the mud areas of Waldon Road just west of Sashabaw. I do remember a rescue truck to my father on that dirt road in Springfield Township.

I am not asking for help on private roads because people who buy on private roads should know what they are getting into—but really don't realize what it means under Michigan law.

Michigan springs and Michigan mud follow no legal man-written law.

If you can make it to the annual spring township meeting, coming up, let your voice or letters state your own priorities: shelter, food, fuel and transportation.

Iva Sommers Caverly
5800 Waldon Rd.

Browbeaten library

To the Editor:

Springfield Township Board is unfair to their own Township Library while they raise their own salaries every year, the Library is forced to do with old and outdated books that are donated because there is no money to purchase best sellers or books the public is asking for.

When the township can invest money to bring "about $42,000 in 9 months" in interest, its funny they can't give the Library the money they need to operate on, and have to rely on volunteer help and book donations, instead their Budget might be cut $7,000.

With 784 adult and children holding book cards, the Library needs new books to accomodate them, with the budget they are forced to operate on it's impossible.

Why don't each one of the Board spend time at the Library, since they don't spend it at the Township offices where people can find them. It seems like all they can do is think up ways they can get more in their salaries and browbeat the Library.

I think it's about time the public knew what kind of people they put in office.

10 mills too high for fire protection

To The Editor

Ten mills for fire protection for Clarkston and Independence Township!!!

I have never seen the master plan for fire protection but I think that it is time that we all had a look at that document.

A special assessment district for fire purposes would authorize the board to spread up to ten mills. That is over two million dollars a year. The thought frightens me.

Our present township board has in my opinion been very responsible in their fiscal operations.

Why the big change now? They know that good fiscal practice dictates that they must put monies where they are most needed.

They also know that earmarked monies often times are used when many other more urgent needs go unmet. "The monies are there--let's spend it."

Frankly, I didn't expect this kind of a proposal in an election year

Jim's jottings

Tisch looks good

by Jim Sherman

The Senior Citizen group from Addison Township have all signed a petition favoring putting the new Tisch Amendment on the ballot.

As one of them, Mrs. George Jarrett, says, "We're sick and tired of seeing our property taxes go up and up."

Like most seniors, Mrs. Jarrett knows all about tax advantages to her age group.

But, tax consessions or not, the seniors across the state are rallying behind a tax revolt.

We'd like to give them encouragement.

Surely by now even our elected officials realize hardships are on the increase in Michigan. You don't need us to tell you that.

However, so far there has only been talk of cutbacks in government spending. Has your village, township, county state or nation decided to take less taxes because they don't need so much money now? Oakland is thinking of it.

Tisch has at least two major points. One is rolling back assessed valuation on property tax to 25 percent of true market value, as of 1978.

Currently the state constitution requires valuations to be at 50 percent.

That would cut tax revenues 13.85 percent. The rest of us have or will cut our spending 13.85 percent. Why can't our state?

Second, Tisch forbids the state legislature from imposing any new taxes without a 60 percent approval from the voters.

Yeah, yeah! Let's have ballot box approval of tax increases. If they are really needed the public will provide them.

We've listened to Howard Jarvis, and read what has happened in California since the passage of his Proposition 13.

Personal income rose 14 percent there the last quarter of 1978 and first quarter of 1979. Retail sales in Los Angeles and San Diego went up 14 percent, the downsliding housing market took off at the rate of 200,000 units a year, and 552,000 new jobs came to California the first full year after 13 was passd.

Jarvis said, "The most striking impact of 13, though, has been on the public's perception of the government sector. Some 100,000 workers have left local governments, reducing the rolls by 8 percent.

"Only about 17,000 of them were laid off, the rest quit or retired and were never replaced. Yet the school systems, police dept, etc. are still functioning, albeit on moderately tighter budgets."

There will be other Amendments proposed, some meant only to confuse, but right now Tisch looks pretty good.

Basketball, after all, is only a game . . .

Five hours before the tickets went on sale, the line was forming at Clarkston High School. Businessmen, alumni, housewives, parents, community leaders, people from all walks of life waiting patiently for the privilege of seeing the Wolfpack play Highland Park the following day.

"The Wolves are worth it," said one standee. "I'd like to see them go all the way," and "I'm here because I like to see good basketball," added some others.

Twenty-four hours later, they would be standing again—once in stunned silence at the final buzzer, and another time to applaud their boys on their way out of Jenison Field House.

They were saying thanks.

Wolfpack center Tim McCormick was sitting across from the Clarkston High school cafeteria, near the school's trophy case. McCormick and company had just defeated highly touted Saginaw the night before, and "Wolfpack Fever" was running high.

Several people were beginning to prowl the high school for tickets, including a lady seated nearby who began talking about her town's affection for the team.

"I'd just like to say thank you to you and all the rest of your teammates," she said to McCormick. "You've all made everybody in this town so proud."

McCormick smiled, a trifle embarrassed. "We're grateful for all the support people have given us this season—it's really been great," he replied.

"We've finally got something to cheer about," the lady continued. "When I think of all the money we've spent on season tickets to see the Lions . . ."

Gary Nustad was conducting practice, pointing out mistakes and expressing occasional displeasure with a minimum of diplomacy. The uniformed observers might have found it difficult to believe that this was one of the best teams in the state.

But they were. Nustad follows one of the oldest—and wisest—dogmas of coaching: Criticize in private, praise in public. The Wolfpack was a family and family affairs are not a matter for public exposure or debate.

What did come out in public was a genuine affection for all the members of his team. Occasionally, Nustad delivered the ultimate compliment when talking about his players: "If I had a son, I would want him to turn out like . . ."

Tears flowed Friday afternoon in Jenison—tears in the stands and in the locker room as well.

Even in defeat, there was togetherness—and that was the key to these unforgettable past four months. Fifteen teenagers united a community and rekindled it in a sense of pride and happiness that for a moment—however fleeting—seemed to transcend Iran, inflation and all the other problems in our lives.

In that respect, basketball was more than a game this season. Take a bow, Wolfpack.

Thanks, Wolves

To the Clarkston High School basketball team:

Thank you--for the pleasure of watching a good team play good basketball; for pride in being able to share your many accomplishments and for the excitement you sparked in our community during an otherwise bleak winter.

We wish you success and happiness in your future endeavors. You deserve the best, for that is what you have given us.

Bruce and Jane Rogers
Clarkston

To the Clarkston Wolves:

I am sure I am speaking for many people in Clarkston when I say "Thank you" for such a terrific season.

You all worked very hard and made all of us proud of your efforts and fine record.

One of the greatest achievements you have done for our high school is bringing back the school spirit that has been lacking for the last few years. Not only has the student body become involved once again, but the parents, townspeople and merchants as well.

Thank you for bringing us to the top.

'If it Fitz. . .'

Don't bank on it

by Jim Fitzgerald

For several evenings recently, there was something awful on TV called "Scruples," The husband caught a glance of it when one of his eyes accidentally fell open while he was rolling over in his chair. He saw a chubby woman with a wide grin on her moon face, which was topped by dark hair cut short, with bangs.

"Patsy Kelly still looks pretty young for being an actress for 100 years," he said.

"That's not Patsy Kelly, it's Gene Tierney," the wife said.

OH LORD. The husband used to be in love with Gene Tierney. She was gorgeous and cool and svelte. In a 1945 movie called "Leave Her to Heaven," she drowned Cornel Wilde's little brother simply because the kid kept getting in the way when Gene wanted to kiss Cornel. For many of his bachelor years, because of that movie, the husband looked for a women who loved him enough to drown his big sister, but he never found such an ideal partner. Instead, he married a woman so unfeeling she couldn't understand why he cried out in anguish when she said Patsy Kelly was Gene Tierney.

Patsy Kelly was a comedienne in dozens of movies made in the 1930s and '40s. In recent years she has appeared on stage in ancient musical comedies revived to squeeze dollars out of nostalgia. She has always been entertaining, but as sexy as a fireplug. The husband was understandably shocked that he could mistake Gene Tierney for Patsy Kelly. What had happened to that once-lovely woman?

"The only thing wrong with Gene Tierney today is her age," the wife said. "She is over 50 and that means she couldn't give birth to a genius if she won 15 Nobel prizes. But you are as old as she is and you could have 14 children 25 years after you die of old age. The world is stupid."

THE WIFE OFTEN accelerates an innocent domestic discussion into an all-out attack against worldwide injustice and man's inhumanity to Bella Abzug. For the husband, the sudden change of pace is similar to reaching into warm wash water for a bar of soap and being chewed to death by a shark.

Currently the wife is upset by the sperm bank opened in southern California by a retired businessman named Robert Graham. The bank welcomes deposits from Nobel laureates only. The idea is to use the sperm to artificially inseminate women and produce exceptionally bright children.

Graham told a reporter he doesn't want "a whole flock of ordinary women." He wants them smart and, of course, young enough to bear children. The wife sees a Catch-22 in Graham's requirements. "Any smart woman will tell Graham to take his sperm and deposit it in a Christmas savings club where it will draw no interest," she said.

It has been asked why men who've won Nobel prizes don't have brilliant children with their own wives. Presumably, if they were smart enough to win such a prestigeous award, they were also smart enough to marry smart women. But there's a problem with breeding geniuses at home. By the time most men win Nobel prizes, their wives are too old to have babies.

If the kid is bred before the prize is won, there's the risk of producing just an ordinary child, thus wasting nine months and the cost of medical care.

THE WIFE NOTED that several geneticists have warned young women against withdrawing from Graham's bank. Because most Nobel laureates are elderly, their sperm could pass on genetic defects typical of old goats.

"A mother could end up with a brilliant son who speaks 15 languages before his fifth birthday," the wife said, "but by the time he is 20, he might refuse to date women who aren't at least 30 years younger than he is."

"It would be better if she married a non-prize-winner and they had a child with more heart than brain who grew up to prefer romantic interludes to scientific meetings," she said.

The husband agreed. He admitted he wished he'd never heard of Gene Tierney, and the shark quit chewing on his arm.

Township board restates position

Local mental health office nixed again

By Kathy Greenfield

The Independence Township Board has reiterated its stand—there is no room in township buildings for a satellite of Pontiac General Hospital's Mental Health Clinic.

Psychologist John Scharfenkamp made his plea for free local office space at last week's township board meeting.

He then asked for a show of hands of people at the meeting for the purpose of supporting the request.

Over 30 people raised their hands.

Although Supervisor Whitey Tower thanked the group for their interest, he said there was "a space problem."

"I don't know where we'd put you," agreed Clerk Christopher Rose. "It's not whether we want to or not.

"I think it's something we could look to in the future and if something comes up, get back to you. Or if you hear of something and need our help, let us know," he added.

The adult-oriented counseling service has had an office in the township since 1974 with an average lately of 600 clients annually and 50 new cases each year, Scharfenkamp said.

Formerly housed in the defunct Independence Center, the township board had perviously given the counselors 90 days to use upstairs offices at the township senior citizen center.

The time ended in February, senior citizens complained about having the clients and counselors in their building and clinic was forced to move.

Exhaustive efforts to find free office space have been fruitless, he said.

Scharfenkamp worked in the township two days a week and counselor Mary Ann Hennig worked one day a week.

Demand for the services had increased, and Hennig was to also begin working in the township two days a week, Scharfenkamp said.

Now the clients must go to the main office in Pontiac or satellites in Rochester or Lake Orion, he said.

Clients ranged from those with fairly severe problems to mild, temporary problems, he said, and cost of counseling is based on ability to pay.

"If the township loses the services, it will certainly be to its detriment," Scharfenkamp said.

Community members supported his statement.

"I would like to speak out strongly in favor of this program," said Dr. James O'Neill, pediatrician. "It's not just the number of people they see, it's the kind of people they see—people who may not get help otherwise."

Clarkston Community Schools social worker James Butzine said he has referred several people to the counseling service.

"I'm concerned about it getting lost," he said, "I would like to see the board make a comittment that they would appoint a liaison to help find space and put it in the budget next year."

Treasurer Frederick Ritter said the township cannot fund the program with money, but could provide office space if it was available.

"If we don't have the space, we don't have the space," he said.

Hennig said the senior citizen center offices should be available for the mental health counselors, because the offices are now sitting vacant.

"Since my clients have had to travel to Pontiac, I think two out of eight appointments made it last week," she said. "I think there's a really strong need in the community."

Deer Lake dredger saves over $600 and gets permit

A township wetlands permit would have cost Leo Wischman about $700 including engineering and review fees.

It was an unnecessary expense after he had already received permits from the state Department of Natural Resources and the Oakland County soil erosion division of the drain commission, he said.

So Wischman took his request for the permit—without all the township-required paperwork—to last week's Independence Township Board meeting.

"We have a lake hazard over there," he said. "It looks like it's six inches deep and you step down and its 6 to 8 feet of muck.

"It may have been untouched for 1,000 years," he added. "I'm paying taxes for lake property, but I don't have it."

Although Wischman said he rarely would use the lake at the foot of his property on Dixie Highway, he has 11 grandchildren who would like the beach.

He plans to dredge an area 50 feet by 200 feet, remove about 1,000 cubic yards of material and backfill the excavation with 500 cubic yards of sand.

After submitting plans and receiving approval from other governmental units, Wischman said that was enough.

"This is completely repetitive to what the state requires," he said. "I'm not building a bridge or a condominium. I'm just cleaning out a lake so I can use it."

Building and planning department director Timothy Palulian agreed.

"Individuals are sometimes caught within the depths of an ordinance," he said. "It's a relatively small project and he has already obtained permits."

Township board members present at last week's meeting unanimously approved the wetlands permit.

It will cost Wischman $25, Palulian said.

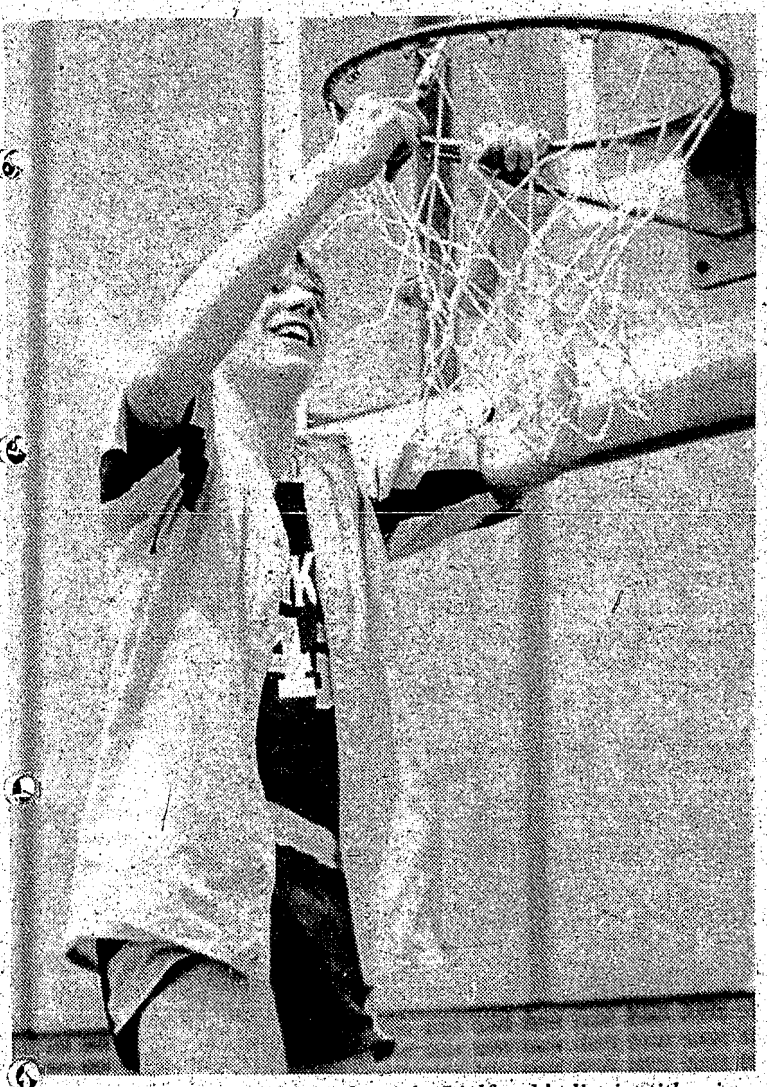
Season of thrills for Wolfpack, fans

Sports



Scott McKoin snips a souvenir from the Wolfpack's district title win.

Cheerleaders celebrate another win. Wolfpack 45, Saginaw 44.

Prior to their trip to East Lansing, Clarkston High held a pep rally honoring all the members of the team.

No state title, but Wolfpack proud

By Al Zawacky

For 26 straight games, the Clarkston High School basketball team was unbeatable. Two more victories and a state championship banner would have been hanging in the CBS gym.

But Friday afternoon in East Lansing's Field House, the bubble burst as the Highland Park Polar Bears squeaked out a 51-50 win over the Wolfpack. Ironically, it was the second time in the playoffs that the Polar Bears had won by a 51-50 final and the third time their margain of victory was the bare minimum--one point.

"We have no alibis, no excuses," Clarkston coach said afterwards, following an emotional post-game talk with his players. "we played and lost to a very fine ball club today.

"I told our kids we have nothing to be ashamed of. They all gave 100 percent of themselves."

Nustad attributed the loss to some inaccurate shooting, and his team's inability to work the ball inside to leading scorer Tim McCormick and Scott McKoin.

"The key to our success all season long has been our ability to work the ball to Scott if we couldn't get it to Tim," Nustad said. "Everytime they would collapse on McCormick we'd have another guy who could stroke the shots--which would eventually free Tim again.

"We didn't do that this afternoon. We weren't shooting the ball nearly as well as we have been all season, and we weren't getting the ball to McKoin the way we should have. But you've also got to give Highland Park credit--they did an excellent job defensively."

To say the least, the Polar Bears did play a solid game on defense. They denied the inside to Clarkston's big men, and while their shooting percent varied from marginal to poor (Highland Park shot 35 percent from the field in the second half), coach Darrell Pursiful's cagers got the big buckets when they needed them.

Breaking out to a quick 6-0 lead, the Polar Bears went on to play an excellent first half that saw them leading 36-24 at the intermission.

"We played superbly in the first half," Pursifuul said. "I thought we played the best two quarters of basketball we have all year, especially on defense."

"I thought we may have taken a little too much for granted though in the second half, "Pursiful continued, citing the Wolfpack's comeback to within two points of a victory. "But you have to give them credit--they're a real fine ball club. They could have folded their tent and went home after the first half, but they didn't.

The Wolfpack did start a furious rally at the start of the third quarter, closing the gap to a single point, late in the fourth stanza. McCormick scored with just six seconds left in the game to pull Clarkston within a single point for the second time of the period, but Highland Park held onto the ball to eat up the rest of the time.

McCormick led the Wolfpack in scoring with 20 points. McKoin had 12, Greg Lane and Larry Baylis 5, Ed Haddad 4 and Chuck Nicolai and Hohn Sheldon 2. McKoin and McCormick were tied for the lead in rebounds with 8 apiece.

Nustad was asked if the fact that Sheldon, the team's point guard quickly found himself in foul trouble and was forced to sit out much of the game was a major factor in the loss.

"Larry Baylis did an outstanding job playing in John's spot," Nustad quickly replied. "But not having Sheldon in there had to have an affect on us.

And so ended the Wolfpack's most successful season of all time. While the loss was a bitter pill, Nustad and his players could still stand tall.

We didn't get many breaks today, and you've got to be both good and lucky to win a state championship," Nustad said. "We're walking out with our heads held high--again, we've got nothing to be ashamed of."

Wolfpack tracks

BAYLIS COMES THROUGH: The Wolfpack showed the extent of its depth again Friday when point guard John Sheldon got into foul trouble, putting Larry Baylis into the lineup. Baylis played a strong game, scoring five points in 18 minutes of action.

NERVOUS NETTERS: Highland Park coach Darrell Pursiful was still fidgeting and wiping his brow with a handkerchief a good half hour after his Polar Bears downed the Wolfpack 51-50 Friday afternoon.

The coach was asked by a member of the media if he was ever able to avoid being nervous on the day of a big game like the one just played.

The reply was concise and to the point: "No", Pursiful said, wiping his brow again.

GORD'S GOLD: The best quote of the night in Charlotte came from Clarkston JV football coach Gordie Richardson. Richardson was asked who was going to win prior to the start of the game.

"If I knew," Richardson said. "I wouldn't be here."

SALUTING SENIORS: With this final item, we bid farewell to basketball season, "Wolfpack Tracks," and nine seniors who wore their Clarkston uniforms for the last time Friday afternoon in Jenison Field House.

Co-captains Tim McCormick, Ed Haddad and John Sheldon, together with teammates Chuck Nicolai, Larry Baylis, John Pappas, Nick Lekas, Doug Hagyard and Paul Brown make up the most illustrious grduating class in Clarkston High School basketball history.

"They're all going to be successes in life, just like they've been successes in basketball," said coach Gary Nustad. "I'm going to miss them all."

So will Clarkston basketball fans, who may never again see the likes of them. Good luck, class of 1980.

The twenty-six mile three hundred eighty-five yard marathon is considered by most people to be the most punishing athletic event. Even more than the decathalon, it demands energy, endurance and pacing; not just to win, but even to finish. Some experts claim that the human body is not equipped to run more than twenty miles at one time; that those last six miles and some yards are run on energy that the body does not really have. Perhaps that is why marathoners talk of a kind of high they get in those last six miles. They are calling it a special strength.

Even if you don't plan to run the marathon, if you do any jogging or running you should be equipped with the proper shoes. You'll find Adidas shoes, for men and women, available from us at COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457. We specialize in the proper fitting of equipment. Hours: Daily 9:30am-6pm, Sat until 5pm.

Newly formed wrestling club seeking members

The season may have ended weeks ago for the local junior high and high school wrestling teams, but the competition is just beginning for the newly formed Wolverine Wrestling Club.

Organized by Clarkston High School wrestling coach Rick Detkowski, the free style wrestling club is open to 9th through 12th graders and currently practices every Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. at Clarkston Junior High.

"Anyone who plans on wrestling for the high school next year is urged to join," said Detkowski, who coached Clarkston High to one of their finest seasons ever this year.

"This club will help us establish a strong and successful program — we're optimistic about the future."

Entry fee for the club is $25, for which club members receive a membership card and transportation to weekly tournaments.

Those interested in joining the club can contact Detkowski by calling 674-1581.

Lifeguards needed

With the Waterford Oaks wave action pool scheduled to open on May 23, the search is now on for qualified lifeguards and swimming instructors.

Water Safety Instructor (WSI) certification is required for teaching, while lifeguards must have an advance lifesaving card. Lifeguards also require WSI and advanced first aid certification.

Applicants must pass a water test given by the Oakland County Parks at the Lepley Sports Center at Oakland University in Rochester. Dates for the exam are April 13 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and April 27 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Those interested may schedule an appointment for a water test by calling Marilyn Baker at 858-0921.

Students keep on trucking with donated diesel

Students at Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center can keep on trucking with a new diesel engine inside a damaged pick-up donated to the school last week.

The truck will serve as a teaching aid to students in the diesel mechanics and auto body classes.

A gift from the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corp., the truck was damaged while on a vehicle carrier and could not be sold.

"We started this program in 1971, because we found schools could really use these cars and trucks that would normally be tossed into the scrap crusher," said Richard Good, Chevrolet's national director of service operations.

The truck would have sold for between $8,000 and $9,000 if it had not been damaged, said Thomas Rademacher, owner of Rademacher Chevrolet.

The local dealer covered expenses of towing the vehicle to the school after cleaning it.

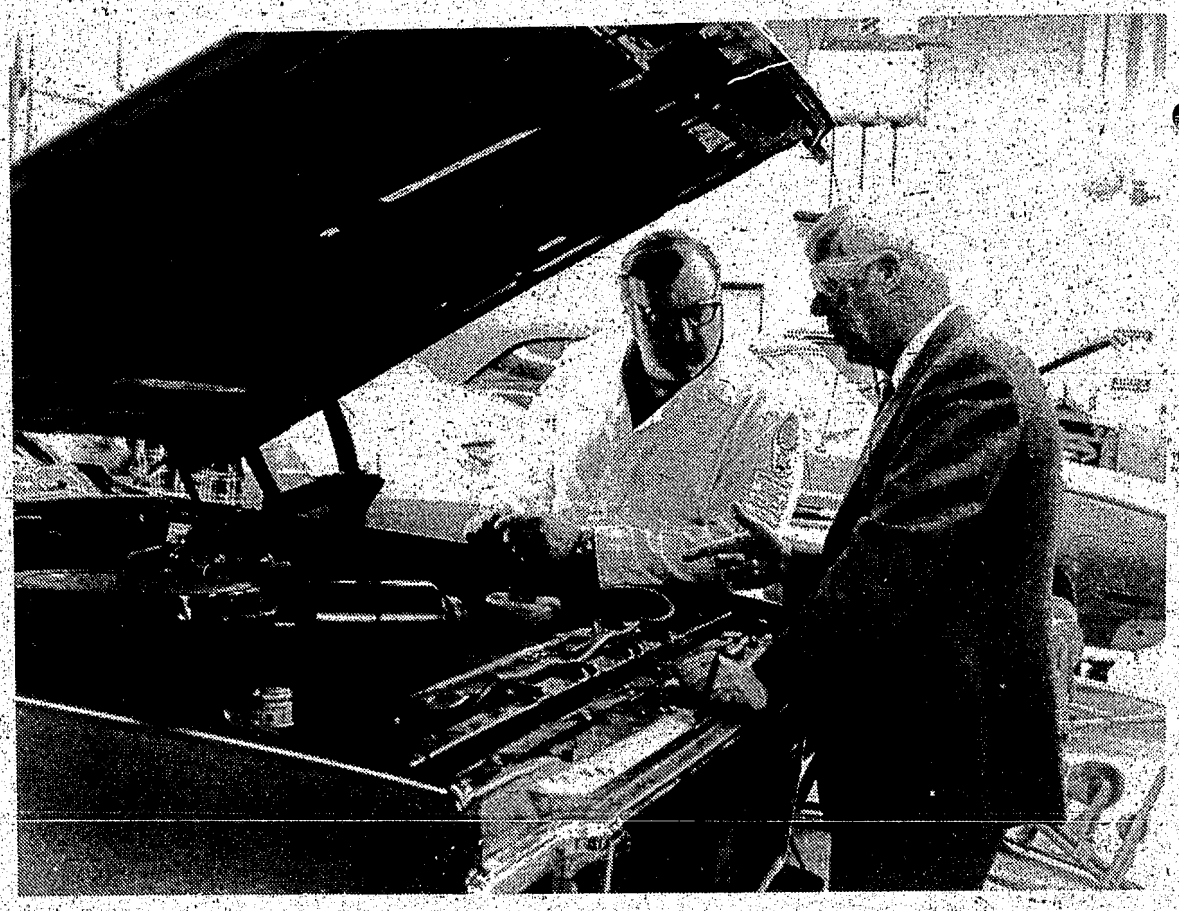
Students in the program will gain practical experience by being able to take apart and put back together the truck body and by having a current diesel eingine in the classroom.

"The reason it's so valuable to my program is this is the diesel engine that Oldsmobile uses," said NWOVEC diesel mechanics instructor Bob Snyder.

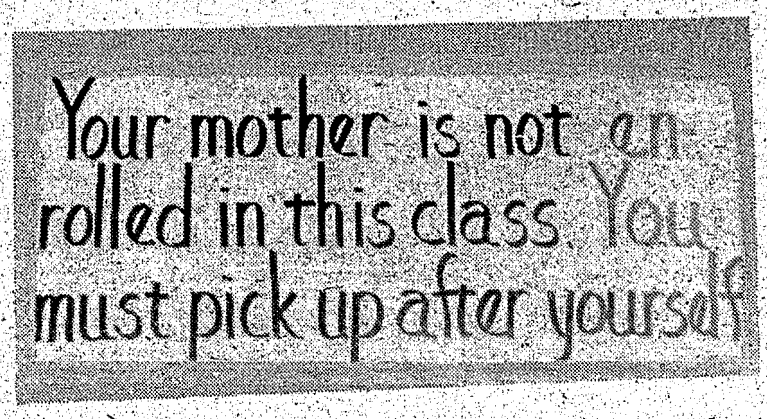
The 350-cubic-inch diesel engine is also used in Cadillac and Chevrolet station wagons, said John Vass, assistant zone manager for Chevrolet.

In all, nearly 4,000 brand-new passenger cars and trucks damaged by accidents, floods or other mishaps on their way to dealer showrooms have been donated by Chevrolet to schools and other institutions.

The vehicles must never be operated again, and recipients must sign an affidavit that they will not be driven.



Rademacher Chevrolet owner Tom Rademacher(right) and Bob Snyder, NWOVEC diesel mechanic instructor, peer under the hood of the diesel pickup truck donated to NWOVEC last week by Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corp.



Spotted in the NWOVEC auto body classroom—a sign about facing reality while growing up.

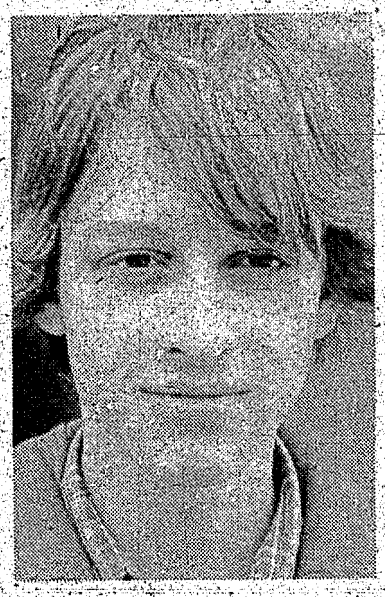
Talking about . . .

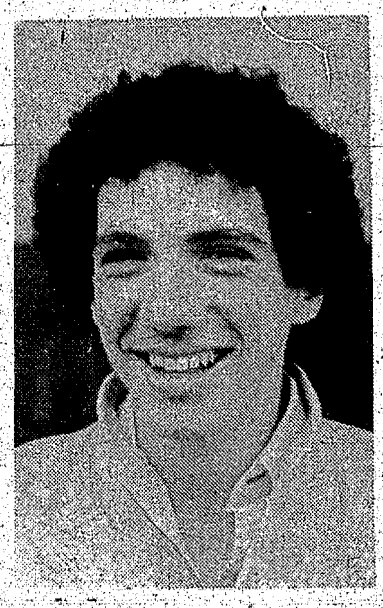
In downtown Clarkston, we asked this week's question: Do you have a hero?

"Joel Taylor, because he's going to be my husband. I think he's a great guy. He's a very special person."—Lori Eiden, Ellis Road, Independence Township, laboratory assistant.



"Jimmy Hendrix, because I like his guitar playing. I play the guitar myself, and he's the fastest guitarist that ever lived." — Dave Brancheau, Langle Drive, Independence Township, student.

"No, I don't think I do. There's no living person that I think is greater than anyone else. We're all people."—Nancy Miller, Groveland Towhship, housewife.



"No not really. I like a lot of people like Ed Ketzler, Jimmy Moore, Devin O'Neil, Terry Finch, Paul Dushane. They're friends, fellow high school students."—Ross Williams, Townview Drive, Independence Township, student.

"Rob Heck, because he's cute. He's really nice and everything. He's just a guy. He's 15 and he lives up north, but we see him a lot."—Jenny Anderson, M-15, Independence Township, student.

Bird life a'plenty for spring viewing

Nearly 150 different bird species have been sighted at the naturally preserved Independence Oaks County Park over the past three summers, and with the arrival of spring several of these birds are coming home.

"Some birds begin their flight back to the parks as early as March," says Katheen Dougherty, Oakland County parks naturalist. "When the lakes are free of ice, the waterbirds start returning."

Geese, ducks, robins and red winged blackbirds are some of the earliest migrators, passing through or settling in the parks by March or April. Other species time their arrival later to assure an abundant supply of insects.

"Many different species pass through or spend their summers in the Oakland County parks because of the variety of habitats," says Dougherty.

She suggests a spring stroll through Independence Oaks, 9501 Sashabaw Road in Independence Township, to explore the wildlife.

"Walk along the trails and if you hear something, stop to watch and listen. It's easier to see birds without leaves on the trees."

For optimum bird watching, Dougherty recommends hikers bring binoculars, a hat, trail snacks and a field guide describing birds.

Dougherty will conduct an early morning bird walk through Independence Oaks sometime in May to discuss bird migration and point out various species. For further information on the outing, call 858-0903.

Proposed boundary changes draw protests placing kindergarteners in the junior high school, taking sixth graders out of the junior high school, taking children out of their neighborhoods to transfer them to Pine Knob elementary School and creating longer bus rides.

Buying classroom modules so that the present school districts could remain the same and no pupils would attend CJHS was also suggested.

"If you're going to start messing around with boundaries, make changes in the whole school district," said Jennifer Erickson of Foster Road, reacting to a suggestion that the bus routes be determined by computer as in Waterford.

"You are going to have a lot of problems a few years from now," she added, citing subdivision development. "Who are you going to move then?"

The proposed changes if adopted could be considered permanent and at the very least they would remain for three years, Mason said.

Cost to convert the CJHS rooms to two classrooms and an activity room for kindergartners would be about $8,000, said William Neff, administrative assistant for Clarkston elementary schools.

The expenditure would include carpeting the classrooms, outfitting the activity room and purchasing playground equipment.

Not all comments were negative regarding the plan proposed by Mason.

"We asked them to help us and they did," said Linda Vindstra of Bridge Lake Road. "I think we ought to thank them for coming up with a plan."

A few parents supported the plan. They called it a fair compromise.

Mason's plan reduces the boundaries of Andersonville Elementary School by sending about 50 pupils to Clarkston Elementary from the "I-75 corridor" Deer Lake Road up the west side of Deer Lake, both sides of Dixie Highway to Davisburg Road and the streets of Nadette, Englewood and Fairchild Circle.

Pine Knob Elementary would receive about 55 pupils from both sides of Edgar Road and children from both sides of Edgar Road to Edgar Court.

The school board is to again consider the issue after Mason and other school administrators study the proposal presented by Fletcher.

Which date the matter is to be placed on the agenda has yet to be determined, but Mason said it would be April or May to allow the boundary changes to be made by September.

Where to find Neighborhood Interest in Clarkston.

Neighborhood Interest is providing all the banking services you need under one roof.

And providing them in a courteous, professional manner. That way of doing business is what we call Neighborhood Interest. And we think it makes doing business with us a little more pleasant.

Three ways to get no-service-charge checking:

1) With $175 minimum in your checking account, or
2) With a $500 average balance in your checking account, or
3) With a $500 minimum balance in your regular savings account.

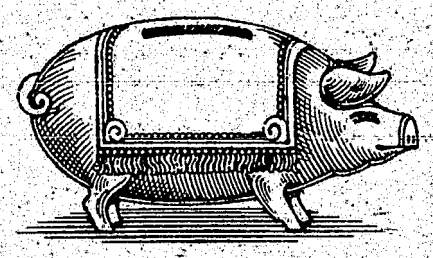
High interest on regular savings accounts.
5-1/4% is the highest bank interest rate allowable on regular savings accounts. You'll find it here.

Convenient automatic savings.
When you want an amount transferred from your checking account to your savings account, we will do it for you, automatically. This is a great way to help you save more.

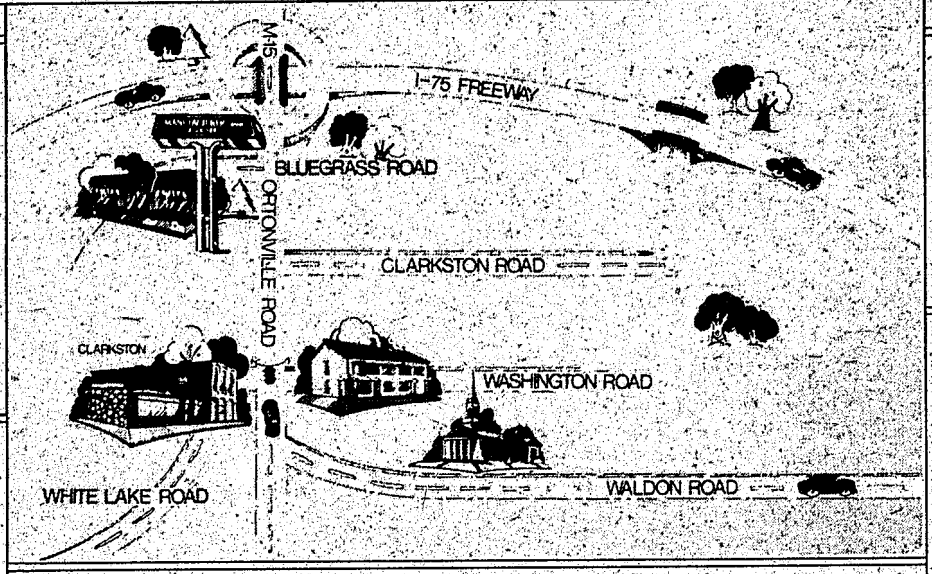
Automatic loan payment.
All of our loan payments can be automatically deducted from your checking account or savings account every month. Just authorize it... and it's done.

Cash Line.
Have you ever wished you could write yourself a loan? Well, with Cash Line, you can. It works two ways: Cash Line can be combined with your checking account to provide you with overdraft protection. Or, with special checks provided by the bank, you can write yourself a "loan" directly from your Cash Line line of credit. Either way, it's a great convenience.

Six-month Money Market Time Deposits: the new way to save more.
For a minimum investment of $10,000, our 26-week time deposit will net you the highest rate of interest currently available on short-term savings deposits. If you compare, you'll find that no bank or savings and loan gives you a higher interest rate than we do on Money Market Time Deposits. And, at your request, we will pay you your interest monthly.



Save more with our large selection of savings plans.
You'll also save more because you're offered more ways to save. We have a large selection of savings plans—one is sure to be right for you. We'll be happy to help you find that perfect plan.



Visit our new Clarkston office of Manufacturers Bank of Southfield.

We're thrilled to be doing business in Clarkston, and we're looking forward to serving you. Just stop in and let us go to work for you. We'll do it in a way that says: "We care about your business."

We're at 7199 Ortonville Road. Two blocks south of the Ortonville exit of I-75. Be sure to come by, through the Bluegrass Road entry. That's the way to enter into the newest financial arrangement in town.

Neighborhood Interest is being there when you need us.

Spring brings snow, wind, balmy days

Clarkston News
SECTION TWO
The Clarkston (Mich.) News Wed., March 26, 1980- 21

After the kite of a friend encounters a kite-eating tree, Richard Cameron of Sashabaw Road climbs up for the rescue. His efforts are met with success on the breezy day-before-spring.

The fickleness of Mother Nature and springtime in Michigan hits home the day after spring officially arrives. "I went out hitting three dozen golf balls yesterday and today I'm shoveling snow," says Bill Hamilton of Church Street, Clarkston.

Tax tips

Deducting child care costs; extending deadline

By George Bennett

As the cost of living continues to climb, more and more couples find that it takes both members working full time to make ends meet.

A major problem arises when the couple has children. The cost of child care can be quite expensive and unaffordable for some people.

What most people do not realize, though, is that the cost of child care to those who qualify can result in a reduction in your federal income tax.

To qualify:

1) You must be gainfully employed (does not include volunteer work) during the period the expenses are incurred;

2) You must maintain a household that includes one or more dependents who are under the age of 15;

3) Your expenditures must be necessary to enable you to be gainfully employed;

4) Your payments must be to other than your dependent relatives;

5) You must file a joint return with your spouse, if married.

In addition, your spouse must also be gainfully employed, or physically or mentally unable to care for your child.

The amount that can be credited, as calculated on Form 2441, is 20 percent of the cost of caring for a qualifying child, but not more than 20 percent of the earned income of you or your spouse.

The maximum credit is $400 per year if you have one child and $800 per year if you have two or more.

Payments made for the care of your children while you are at work can be paid in several ways other than to an actual child care service.

In certain cases, payments can be made to another one of your children if he or she is over 19 years of age, or to your mother and father.

The payments made to your relatives must be subject to social security tax.

Special rules apply if your spouse or a dependent is physically or mentally unable to care for him or herself, if you and your spouse are divorced or living apart, or if either you or your spouse is a student.

These special rules and many other questions are answered in Internal Revenue Service Publication 503, Child and Disabled Dependent Care.

As a last resort, if the new "simplified" 1979 Form 1040 totally baffles you or is for some other reason you are unable to complete your return, you are entitled to an automatic, two-month extension of time to file.

Form 4868 can be obtained from the IRS and must be filed on or before April 15, 1980.

Just remember that you should have paid in at least 90 percent of your balance due by April 15, to avoid a nondeductible penalty for failure to pay tax, and interest that will be running from April 15 until the date you file your return.

The filing of Form 4868 also automatically extends the due date for filing your Michigan return to Aug. 15 (or two months after the extended due date of your federal 1040).

However, if you will owe tax on your Michigan return, see the Michigan instructions for the amount of tax required to be paid by April 15.

Putting together a decidedly-50s wardrobe, Dick Williams asks for advice from his fellow cast members. The suit was approved.

Independence Township resident Dick Williams, an experienced community theater actor, joined the Brandon S·T·A·G·E· to play the title role in "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers," in which he attempts to fight a mid-life crisis by seducing a trio of women (one in each act of a three-act play). The Neil Simon comedy will kick off a new concept at Spring Lake Country Club: North Oakland County's first dinner theater.

Show dates are April 13, 20 and 27 and May 4 and 11.

Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. and the curtain will go up at 8 p.m.

Woodworkers put talents to test . . . and win

By Kathy Greenfield

Two Clarkston High School students put their woodworking talents to the test and came away first prize winners.

The competition of high school students from across Oakland County was held this month in Rochester by the Michigan Industrial Education Society.

Linda Baynes, a senior, won top honors for a walnut vase and a second place for a pedestal table, and junior Corey Lawson won a first prize for an American black walnut grandfather clock case.

Corey Lawson's first-prize-winning grandfather clock is now complete with clock works. The CHS junior plans to make an oak rolltop desk and a secretary for next year's industrial education competition.

Linda's interest in woodworking began in school when she was a ninth grader.

Last week during the vocational woods class, she was at work on a dresser.

"I've made things for everybody else," she said. "I think it's time to make something for me."

Although most of her projects have been given away as gifts, creating with wood is personally rewarding.

"You get the feeling it's like a part of you," she said. "It's yours, you made it."

Last Christmas, she made a fragmented wooden airplane as a gift for her uncle, a pilot.

"My Mom was sitting in the chair and she looked over at him and he had a tear running down his cheek." Linda said. "He really appreciated it."

Linda's first career choice is to continue doing what she likes best.

"If I can find a job working with woods, then I would do it," she said. "I'd like to get into the medical field if I can't make it in woods."

Corey's interest in woodworking goes back four years.

"It's easy to work with," he said. "It's creative. It's fun to do."

The clock took about 20 weeks of the vocational woods course to complete.

Winning in the industrial education fair is a family tradition for the Lawsons.

Corey's two older brothers also won prizes for woodcarvings.

Last year, Corey won a grand prize at the fair for a dry sink. He had hoped to also take a grand prize for the grandfather clock, he said, but none was awarded.

Next year, he plans to build an oak roll-top desk and a secretary and said he's going for another grand prize.

Corey also makes shelves and candle holders which are sold at his mother's store, the Merrie Miller in the Clarkston Mills.

The grandfather clock, however, is not for sale.

"I wouldn't try to sell that," Corey said. "It's something I want to keep."

Linda and Corey and Kris Kotich, who won a second place for a pine bench, are to compete in the upcoming state industrial education fair in Grand Rapids April 10-12.

Other CHS students winning prizes at the Oakland County fair were Belinda Palmiter, third place cedar chest; Mike Ulasich, fourth place coffee table; Corey Isbell, fifth place desk; Dave Moss, fifth place chess table; Dave Fortin, fourth place dart board cabinet; Dave Kent, sixth place lamp; and Tim Swalwell, sixth place candle holder.

The opinion of . . .

Buy inflation fighters

Bill Myers

SanFrancisco, California

Bill Myers
Boca Raton, Fla.

Dear Bill:

I enjoyed reading your column. You are a credit to the journalism school of our old alma mater. You may well become the Watler Lippman of Florida.

As my financial couselor you have to put up with my complaining. I have just paid my Fed and state income taxes and I now have less than $500 in the bank.

What worries me is this: All I own in this world (except some furniture, two old cars, a boat, and a halfinterest in some law books) is dollars.

(Then he lists some figures which are not reprinted.)

At the current rate of inflation, this won't last long if I am every incapacitated. Retirement? What irony!

I have come to the conclusion that no one likely to become President of the U.S. can stop inflation. We'll just go along with the rest of the world. Carter has demonstrated his inability to cope. But what if we had Kennedy! I don't think he even wants to cope. And that character Reagan--what could he do with a Demo Congress?

So what do I do? Sell bonds and buy a slum apartment house? Maybe I'll buy some Valium and gin.

Your devoted brother-in-law
Fred.

Dear Fred:

I am so seldom asked for advice (the last time was in 1972 when a tourist asked me how to get to the turnpike) that I hasten to my typewriter to reply.

I quite agree that the dreary outlook for inflation is not about to be changed. I also agree with your appraisal of Carter, and Reagan, and the Hero of Chappaquiddick.

However, in the last 186 years in the U.S., in half those years, we had no inflation or to be exact, less than 1% a year. As late as 1958-1965 we had zero inflation. Five of those years were under the Democrats. So it is not necessarily a way of life forever, this inflation we are suffering now. It just seems that way.

Point No. 2: This still is the only country in the world where bonds give a positive rate of return after taking out the inflation factor.

Point No. 3: What's the alternative? Stocks?

In this move toward the welfare state, toward the Utopia of theSierra Club, where all is bright, all is pure, and where you will have to file an Environmental Impact Statement before belching...in this sort of government, business is going to have a hard time.

Margins are shrinking, return on capital is lower than it was 10 years ago. The official line from Big Brother in Washington and from Walter Cronkite is that profits are obscene. I just don't see much steam in the stock market, to make prices go up. And certainly dividends of 5-6 percent before tax are nothing to shout about. The way you are shoveling out tax checks you must be in a 50 percent tax bracket.

I call your attention to the Big One in the market--IBM. Since 1968, sales, earnings have tripled. Dividends have quintupled, from $2.08 to $11.52.

The price of IBM today is lower than it was 11 years ago. In this period the U.S. has had the worst inflation binge in our histroy. If a company like IBM doesn't provide an inflation hedge, what will?

I skip considering such esoteric things as stamps, paintings, or Mason jars. Gold, too. An item that can drop 40 percent in price, as gold did two or three years ago, is not my idea of an anchor to windward. Meanwhile you are getting a zero return as the stuff lies under your bed.

So I keep buying bonds when I think they are cheap, as they are now. And if we should have to tap our capital, Heaven forbid, we have taken the attitude that our heirs will develop more character without inheritance.

Yours,
Bill

Church to celebrate 20th

The Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, 6450 Clarkston, Independence Township, will celebrate its 20th anniversary Palm Sunday, March 30, at the 10 a.m. service, followed by a brunch.

Its first service in Clarkston was held on Palm Sunday, 1960, in the Haupt house on North Main Street, now owned by Cliff and Von Gardner.

Almost immediately afterward it began holding Sunday Services in Clarkston Elementary School.

Its present rector, the Rev. Alexander T. Stewart, began his tenure with the church on Nov. 6,1960.

Its present rector, the Rev. Alexander T. Stewart, began his tenure with the church on Nov. 6, 1960.

Five years later the congregation moved into their present church building on Clarkston Road and in 1974 added an addition to the parish hall and church school.

The members of the church invite their friends to join them in celebrating this happy occasion.

DeerWood is unique!
The natural beauty of mature trees, rolling hills. Pine thickets, ravines and a natural spring-fed pond provides a setting for beautifully luxurious homes. Homes that reflect individual tastes and life style. Spacious floor plans with every convenience for gracious living in an established community with neighbors who pursue their own interests. Come home to DeerWood, to remember things past, or to start building new memories.

Clarkston is one of the few remaining towns with the nostalgic charm of yesteryear. It's a town of shoppes...not stores...proprietors with turn-of-the-century neighborliness. It's a little bit of New England with great community pride. It's your hometown!

The hills of DeerWood offer a panoramic view of the Village of Clarkston and the lakes surrounding it.

DeerQood is easily accessible to I-75 freeway, so you can reach business centers, shopping malls, cultural activities at Cranbrook, Meadowbrook, and Pontiac's Silverdome.

DeerWood neighbors Pine Knob, with excellent winter skiing and celebrity concerts throughout the summer.

A GREAT MOVE WITH REAL ESTATE ONE.

by Jim & Ellen Windell

Coping with kids

'Trap plays' create lies

Parents who over-value truth-telling often engage in "trap plays" that result in reinforcement of a self image in a child that is damaging.

The message received by a kid is told, "You're a liar," may be that since he is a liar he should keep on telling lies and being deceitful.

Most parents value honesty and truthfulness in children.

It helps establish a harmonious atmosphere in a family if family members can count on one another and trust what is said.

But, there are those parents who place an extremely high pirority on telling the truth. The child must tell the truth "no matter what."

These are likely to be parents who will trap a child into telling a lie. Sometimes they do this by asking a question when they already know the answer.

"Did you eat the candy that was left out while I was gone?", may be a typical question. If the parent knows that this child was likely responsible, the question is an attempt to trap the child. The parental intent is to force the child to tell the truth.

However, most children under similar circumstances with the prospect of punishment facing them may attempt to shade the truth or to avoid the consequences in some way.

If the lying becomes the focus of the encounter, the more important values the parent intended to convey may be lost.

While most parents may value honesty in their children, it may not be talked about that much. In most families it is silently considered one of several personal and family characteristics that are prized.

These parents are not quick to label any stretching or twisting of the truth as lying or deliberate deceit.

Mothers and fathers who are fast on the trigger to call a child a "liar" or frequently plea for the truth in fact are setting themselves up to be lied to. Children usually comply when parents "Ask for it."

Meadow Brook announces 17th music season

The Meadow Brook Music Festival will open its 17th season of outdoor concerts June 26 with Neville Marriner conducting the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in music inspired by Shakespeare.

The program features Berlioz' Beatrice and Benedict Overture, Tchaikovsky's Hamlet, and a performance of Mendelssohn's Incidental Music to a Midsummer's Nights Dream. Featured in the Mendelssohn work will be soprano Roma Ridell, mezzo soprano Barbara Windham, and the Kenneth Jewell Chorale.

The festival runs through August and, in addition to the Thursday/Saturday symphonic series, includes a Friday night variety series, Sunday pop series, matinees, and children's concerts, plus other concerts spotlighting popular entertainers.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, recently back from a triumphant European tour, will return to its summer home for six weeks of concerts followed by visits from the Chicago Symphony and the Minnesota Orchestra.

Marriner, festival artistic director will conduct three weeks of concerts, two with Detroit and the Minnesota week. He is the Minnesota Orchestra's music director.

Sixteen Ehrling, Meadow Brook's first artistic director will return to conduct two concerts.

Additional guest conductors of the Detroit Symphony are Kurt Sanderling making his second American appearance, Raymond Leppard and Stanislaw Skrowaczewski. Erich Leinsdorf will conduct the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Guest artists include pianists: Ivan Moravec, Flavio Varani, Earl Wild, Nelson Friere, David Golub, and Leon Fleisher; plus violinists Gidon Kremer, Miriam Fried and Lea Foli, concertmaster of the Minnesota Orchestra.

Other guest performers are cellist Lynn Harrell, mezzo soprano Claudine Carlson, tenor Frank Little and Bordin Trio.

A special highlight of the festival will be the appearance of flutist James Galway, well known for his many best selling recordings.

The world premiere of Stanley Hollingsworth's Concerto for Piano and Orchestra will be performed July 5. Hollingsworth is composer-in-residence at Oakland University.

Concerts are held in the Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus

All's secure with Mom

A guy's got to get a haircut now and then, but 20-month-old Jeremy Moore would just as soon endure the ordeal from the relative security of his mother's lap. Chris Moore of Springfield Township helps her son get used to the ritual while Sue Todd at Carla's Hair Salon does the scissors work.

SYNOPSIS

OF ACTION TAKEN
BY THE INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP BOARD
MARCH 17, 1980

The meeting was called to order at 4:06 p.m.

Roll: Lozano, Ritter, Rose, Tower, present; Powell, Vandermark, Thayer, absent.

1. Approved the list of bills for Settlement Day totaling $18,588.90.

2. Approved the ballot language for the Fire Special Assessment. The language approved was:

> Shall the Township of Independence acting under Act 134 of the Public Acts of 1970 create a special assessment district of the entire Township for the purpose of providing fire protection.
> Such special assessment shall be levied annually as determined by the Township Board and shall be in excess of any constitutional limitation. If and when levied, such special assessment will be in place of and instead of the present fire protection millage.
> Said millage, if levied, shall be to a maximum of 10 mills.

3. The meeting adjourned at 4:35 p.m. All votes were unanimous unless otherwise indicated.

Special meetings of the Township Board are called as needed with notices posted at least 18 hours before the meeting on the doors of the Township Hall.

Three become Kieft Engineering partners

Kieft Engineering, 5852 M-15 in Independence Township, has some new part-owners: employees James Scharl, Michael Rhodes and Daniel Williams have bought into the business.

"Delton Lohff and Forrest Jones owned the business 50-50 until Jan. 1 of this year," explains Scharl. "The three of us (Scharl, Rhodes and Williams) bought out Jones' 50 percent."

Doing business

Lohff is currently company president and major owner, Scharl is vice president, Rhodes is treasurer and Williams secretary.

Founded by Howard Kieft 25 years ago (Kieft is retired and living in Florida), the engineering firm currently employs 24 people.

"We're involved in all phases of civil engineering and land development," Scharl says. "We do jobs concerning residential as well as commercial development."

The work includes such things as rezoning and construction planning and lot design, says Scharl.

"We're also engineers for the Village of Clarkston and Ortonville as well," Scharl says. "We designed the village sewer system currently in use."

Some other projects that Kieft engineering has worked on in whole or in part are the Holly Green Golf Course in Holly, Spring Lake Country Club and Chestnut Hill Farms in Independence Township, and even some work on the Pontiac Silverdome.

"In north Oakland County, we're probably the largest firm that deals with our phase of engineering," Scharl says.

All four men are college graduates: Lohff from Lawrence Tech, Scharl from the University of Michigan, Williams from Ferris State and Rhodes from Michigan State.

Scharl and Lohff make their homes in Independence Township, while Williams resides in Springfield and Rhodes in Rose Township. Lohff, a long time area resident, has also served on the Independence Township planning commission and is currently president of the Clarkston Rotary Club.

"We're a company of long standing," Scharl says. "We're going to be here a long time."

Ann's ark

by Ann Glenn

Why not give Easter hamster?

The Easter Bunny is donning his traditional gear and preparing to color Easter eggs, hide them and perhaps leave one of his namesakes or a chick or a duckling as a sign of spring and a delight to children.

Easter has always been a favorite holiday of mine, being an animal lover.

From the time I was a very small child, the Easter Bunny has delivered baby chicks which became crowing monsters in an otherwise peaceful neighborhood, subsequently having to take up residence at a nearby farm.

Other years brought bunnies, a series of ducklings, and in more recent years, such fun things as baby goats, a lamb, goslings. We have an assortment of ducks ranging from many years to a year which have arrived at Easter for our daughter Lisa.

Many states now have laws prohibiting the sale of single ducklings or chicks because of the abuse they received.

That cute bunny or chick or duckling or guinea pig is more than just an Easter novelty.

They grow up, they have special needs, they need special housing and they demand your responsibility and love and care for the full length of their life. With a rabbit or duck, that could be ten years; with a goose, as long as thirty years!

Surprisingly, a rabbit makes a good house pet. They can be box trained, and when given moments of freedom, can learn simple tricks like sitting up for fruit or almonds.

Their agility is fascinating when they can manipulate in a restricted environment. They will select favorite places to leap, to hide and to run at full speed.

You must remember that they are rodents and they can chew--electric cords, plants, even upholstery.

They just need to be watched! If not kept inside, a large three foot by six foot cage with a one forth inch mesh floor will be necessary with a nest box in a covered, draught free area.

Guinea pigs are good friends for children.

I used to get a large galvanized water trough from a farm feed store about 36-by-18 inches high, fill it with clean shavings and a guinea pig or two.

The pen was accessible and visible by little ones, and the "pigs" could jump and cavort, and squeek and learn to come to the side for treats to the delight of the children.

Ducklings and chicks become very tame and will come a great distance to a familiar voice for food.

One must be aware of how attached these birds become and commit to keep them in familiar surroundings.

Ducks in particular, are very messy when grown and will mess up a porch or the lawn near the house as they await human friends to emerge from inside.

A fun alternative for these more demanding animals is a puffy, entertaining, nocturnal hampster.

Their demands are few, their rewards in the form of many hours of observed entertainment, many.

They can be gently handled and they too will respond to treats and toys and familiar people.

The best alternative for you may be no live pet at all, but rather a lovely stuffed bunny or duckling or chick, or maybe you can try your hand at the miracle of hatching eggs in a small incubator on your table.

The marvel will be an unforgettable experience for all.

Some feed stores have small incubators, and often a local farmer will have some fertile eggs. Try chicken, duck or quail eggs. If I can be of help, write or call.

Egg Idea: color eggs Colonial American-style. In cups place one tablespoon of vinegar. For red, try beet juice from canned beets, or even better, fresh cooked beets.

Spinach juice is great for green, saffron does well for yellow--then use your imagination for other colors!

Wolfpack sidelights

The cheerleaders had plenty to cheer about in Charlotte, as the Wolfpack clipped Saginaw to advance into the state semifinals . . .

. . . but a different kind of emotion was evident two days later, as the Hometowners suffered a heartbreaking 51-50 defeat to Highland Park.

The Wolfpack's No. 35 wasn't the only Haddad on the team— Ed Haddad's sister Sue acted as the Wolfpack's team manager. Here, she folds up the warm-up outfits prior to the start of the Flint Central contest.

The facial expressions of the Clarkston fans tell the story in East Lansing, where Highland Park handed the Wolfpack their first and only defeat of the season.

The point after

by Al Zawacky

It was Leap Year Day at Spring Lake Country Club—Feb. 29, 1980—and the usual Friday night crowd was augmented by a gathering of people celebrating the Clarkston basketball team's perfect season.

Just a few hours before, the Wolfpack ended its regular season campaign with an 80-45 win over Andover, victory number 20. In attendance were coach Gary Nustad, his wife, assistant coach and scout Dave Partlo, Ohio State head coach Eldon Miller and numerous others—even a sports writer from The Clarkston News.

"Don't stop now, Gary," Nustad was told in reference to the upcoming tournament play. The coach leaned back in his chair and smiled.

"It's got to end sometime," he said over the din. "Even if it ends eight games from now (the number required to put the Wolfpack in the state finals), it's still going to end. All we can do is work to make it last as long as it can."

NOTHING IN THIS WORLD lasts forever—not even a championship basketball season. And when the campaign is over, when the crowds are gone and life settles back to its usual routine, what are we left with?

Memories. The Wolfpack created enough for all of us this season, enough to last a lifetime. Remember . . .

DEC. 7 IN DAVISON . . . Tim McCormick runs into some early foul trouble and scores "only" 16 points . . . but Scott McKoin, John Sheldon and the rest fill the void as the Wolfpack wins their season opener 51-37 . . . Nustad admonishes the opposition: "This is not a one-man-team."

DEC. 14 AT ANDOVER . . . Strange calls by the officials keep the score close, but Clarkston is not to be denied . . . the Wolfpack posts its first league win 61-45.

DEC. 20 AT KETTERING . . . Five days before Christmas, the Kettering ball club proves to be anything but brotherly . . . but their physical game backfires as Clarkston mauls the Captains with their biggest offensive output of the season, 93-56.

JAN. 18 AGAINST ROCHESTER . . . Rochester plays four quarters of keep-away . . . Clarkston plays four quarters of basketball:Wolkpack 43, Falcons 22.

JAN. 22 AT ROCHESTER ADAMS . . . Almost an upset as Adams comes out flying while the Wolfpack comes up flat . . . but Clarkston shows its intestinal fortitude by pulling together in the second half and winning by 10 points, 71-61.

JAN. 29 AT PONTIAC CENTRAL . . . The Wolfpack has the last laugh with the critics who doubted their ability to defeat a mediocre Central squad . . . history is made as Clarkston defeats the Chiefs for the first time ever . . . and in a rout, no less: 80-58.

FEB. 1 AGAINST KETTERING . . . The Hacktains are at it again, but the Wolfpack takes it in stride . . . John Sheldon leads the scoring parade for Clarkston with 17 points, while McCormick scores a season low 11 points as a result of playing only two quarters . . . Kettering takes it on the chin again, 71-45.

FEB. 5 AGAINST TOWNSHIP . . . Township coach Rick Ziem calls the Wolfpack "awesome" after the game as Clarkston opens up a 34 point lead at the half and goes on to beat a good Skipper team 90-60.

FEB. 13 AT THE SILVERDOME . . . Wolfpack fans gather at the bubble in Pontiac to witness a 75-58 win over Davison . . . Nustad is less than pleased with the change of scenery, preferring the familiar confines of the Clarkston High School gymnasium . . . but he'll take the win, the Wolfpack's 16th.

FEB. 15 AGAINST MILFORD . . . Unbeknown to the players, Clarkston clinches sole possession of the GOAL title by downing the Redskins - - For Rochester loses on the road to Andover the same evening . . . final score is Wolfpack 81, Milford 35 . . . Nustad dismisses charges that he ran up the score, pointing to the playing time of his reserves.

FEB. 29 AGAINST ANDOVER . . . The nets come down in the CHS gym as the Wolfpack wraps up the regular season with a 20-0 record . . . McCormick scores a season high 32 points as Clarkston downs a frustrated Tim Meter and his Andover teammates 82-46.

Tim McCormick, Scott McKoin, John Sheldon, Ed Haddad, Greg Lane, Chuck Nicolai, Larry Baylis, John Pappas, Scott Weaver, Jerry Tatu, Doug Hagyard, Paul Brown, Nick Lekas, Ric Schebor, Brad Beattie.

Thanks for the memories, Wolfpack.

'Our people would follow us to the ends of earth'

Perhaps the best way to measure the loyalty of Clarkston basketball fans is to consider what happened back on Dec. 7 in Davison.

That was opening night, the Wolfpack against the Cardinals in a non-league game played over 20 miles from town. The weather wasn't the greatest for driving, either. Torrents of wind-swept rain made the trip up dark and winding M-15 a tricky one.

To make a long story short, there were more Clarkston people in attendance at Davison High than there were from the host town. Davison's athletic director noted with satisfaction that the crowd was "far bigger than usual."

And naturally, the Wolfpack won while their fans shouted their approval.

"Our people would follow us to the ends of the earth," coach Gary Nustad says. "They've been tremendously supportive this season, beyond our wildest dreams.

"A team can draw so much strength from its fans, too," Nustad continues. "When we're on that floor and our people start rocking the building, you can just sense how the players' adrenalin starts flowing."

Our recent Wolfpack tradition is the crowd's standing and joining the players in rhythmic applause at the start of the game. "Tim (McCormick) saw them do that in the Catholic League playoffs two years ago--stand up and clap just before the tipoff," Nustad says.

"We figured we'd start doing it, and pretty soon the fans started joining in."

Nustad hopes that the support he's seen this season continues in the future. "I think next year is going to be another exciting one for our fans. We'd like to keep Clarkston High School basketball as our community's major event every Friday night."

In sharp contrast to the disappointment that followed the game against Highland Park, Clarkston fans were whooping it up in Charlotte on Wednesday. But to their grateful and proud community, the Wolfpack will always be "No. 1."

At season's end

There was no shame in the Clarkston locker room following Friday afternoon's 51-50 defeat at the hands of Highland Park in the state semi-final playoffs.

Disappointment, yes—and even a few tears. But no shame.

After the contest was over, Gary Nustad confronted the media in the unfamiliar role of losing coach. Cameras hummed and pencils scribbled as Nustad began to speak.

"I told our kids that I loved them, all of them," Nustad said, "They've made me prouder than I've ever been in my life.

"We have no alibis, no excuses—we lost to a fine ball club. When you get to the state semi-finals, you know that every team is outstanding or they wouldn't be there."

Nustad's eyes were getting misty, ostensibly due to the bright lights of the television cameras.

"We came in here with our heads held high—and we're going to walk out of here with our heads held high," the coach said proudly.

Statistically, it was a game the Wolfpack shouldn't have lost. Highland Park shot just 45 percent from the field (35 percent in the second half), compared to the Clarkston's 53 percent. At the charity stripe the Wolfpack also fared better, hitting on 67 percent of their chances compared to Highland Park's 64 percent.

But both shooting percentages were far below the Clarkston team average going into the game. The Wolfpack was also hurt by a number of key turnovers, and in the end the only statistic that really mattered was Highland Park 51, Clarkston 50.

When the final second ticked off the clock and the horn sounded in old Jenison Field House in East Lansing, the Wolfpack contingent of fans seemed stunned. Twenty-six times this season, stretching back to Dec. 7 in Davison, Clarkston had been spared the bitter sensation of defeat.

But not this time. The players filed slowly into the locker room while the Wolfpack fans slowly made their way to the exits. Several of the Clarkston cheerleaders wept while the Highland Park faithful were celebrating at mid-court.

"The two hardest things about coaching," Nustad said later, "are one, cutting players in the beginning of the year, and two, having to talk to your seniors after a season-ending loss like this one."

After they had listened to their coach and changed back into their street clothes, 15 basketball players were ready to leave the building. The fans were waiting. They wanted to show their gratitude—not just for the entertainment they had enjoyed these past four months, but also for the tremendous sense of community pride these young men had created.

As the players slowly began filing out, the crowd standing in the cold March wind came to life. They were applauding. The players managed to smile.

—It was the end of a basketball season that the people of Clarkston would never forget.

We've caught the Wolfpack Fever! Congratulations!

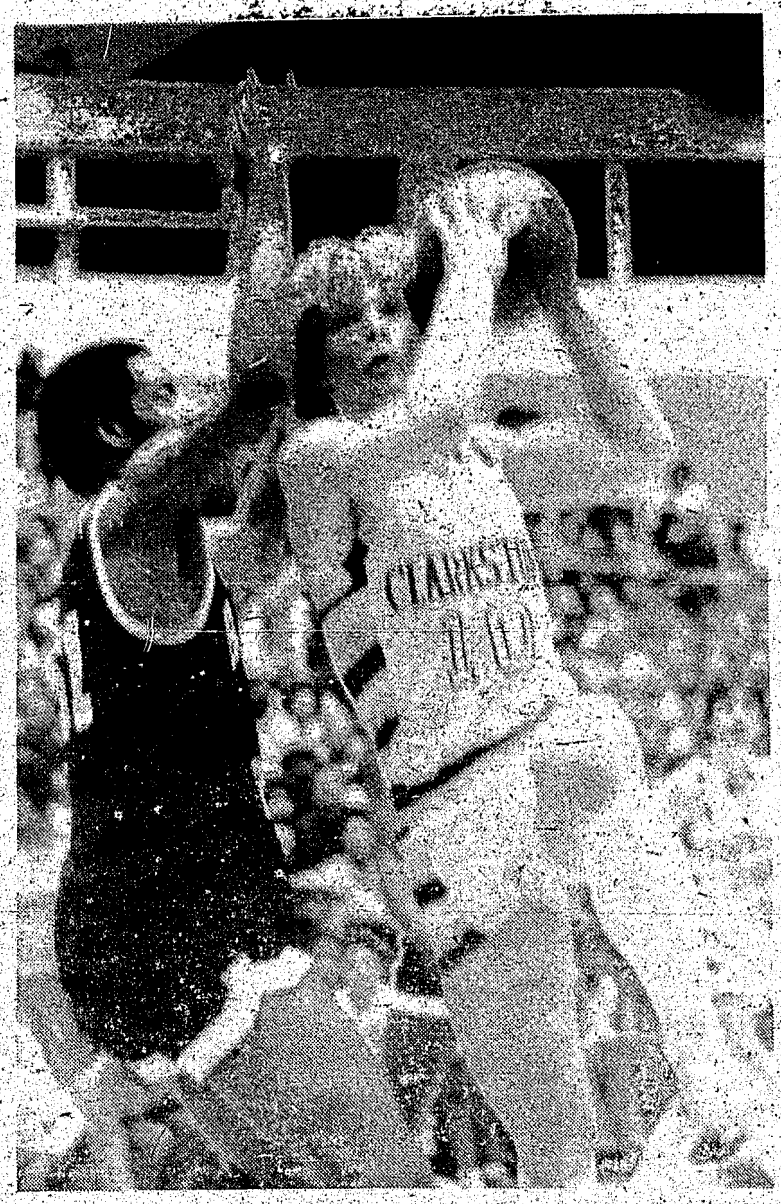
John Sheldon



The Wolfpack's playmaker at the point guard position, Sheldon amassed an impressive 132 assists this season to lead the team . . . also scored 182 points for an average of 10.1 per game . . . noted for his outstanding ball handling ability and dazzling layup drives . . . "John has made a tremendous adjustment from his freshman days," says coach Gary Nustad . . . "He was a big scorer in ninth grade, the role that Tim McCormick has on this team. So he had to adjust tot the role of playmaker—I think the stats indicate how well he made the transition" . . . also played varsity last season and was selected most improved player . . . generally regarded as one of the finest point guards in Oakland County . . . one of the Wolfpack's three senior co-captains. Sheldon stands 6 foot and weighs 182 pounds.

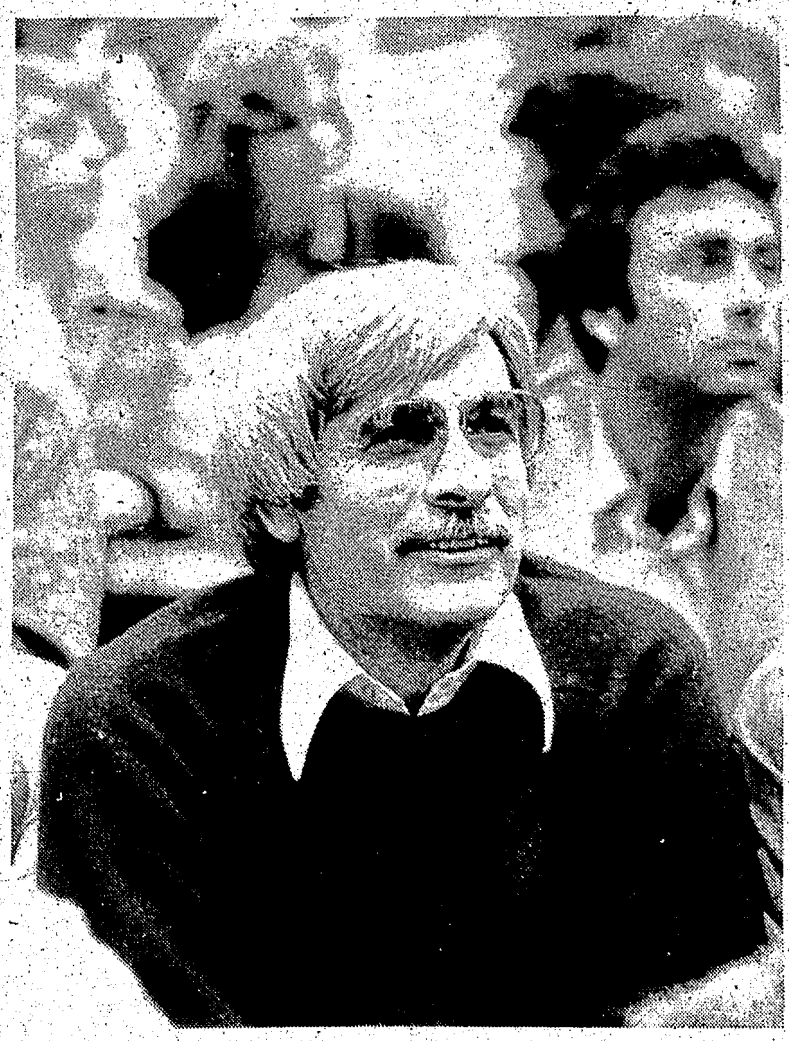
Dom Mauti:



Dom Mauti: no stranger to the ups and downs of coaching.

When Coach Gary Nustad huddles with his players, flashes directions from the sidelines or grits his teeth over a questionable call by the officials, there's a spectator in the stands who knows exactly what he's going through.

That's Clarkston High School principal Dom Mauti, who coached the Wolfpack from 1952 to 1964. During his 12-year tenure, Mauti's teams won nine district championships, and three league titles while amassing a total record of 155 wins, 73 losses.

But while names and hairstyles may change, Mauti is happy to note that Clarkstonites are just as supportive of their teams today as they were 25 years ago.

"My first year here (1952), we played a game in Saginaw, and the townspeople chartered a Greyhound bus just to be there and cheer us on," Mauti recalls. "There was just as much excitement in the community back then as you see now.

"This season has really been an experience--I've seen a lot of people coming back to the games, people who haven't been out in years."

It was Mauti who last coached

John Pappas

A senior, Pappas has performed well as a sub at the guard sports this season . . . scored 24 points in limited action for the Wolfpack . . . stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 165 . . . "John is an excellent ball handler and runs the offense very well," says coach Gary Nustad . . . "He works hard in practice and as an individual is a credit to his parents, his school and the entire community."

Former winning coach now first-rate fan

'Our ninth grade teams are bigger now than the varsity teams were then.'

the Wolfpack to a district A championship. That was in '64, has last year at the helm of the CHS basketball team.

The 1962-63 season was the team's first in class A, but the transitition didn't seem to bother the Wolfpack. Two straight district titles were the result.

"We were fortunate, because even when we were a class B school, we played a lot of class A opponents. The competition was tough, and when we finally did go up to class A, we were ready."

Mauti was high in his praise of the current edition of the Wolfpack. When the 1979-80 cagers clinched the regional championship at Flint Central two weeks ago, it marked the first time in school history that the Wolfpack had won a regional title.

"The team's are so much bigger now," Mauti observes, comparing the current players to the ones he coached. "Our ninth grade teams are bigger now than the varsity teams were then. I think today's players are more refined, too--they play a better brand of basketball."

Mauti feels that the key to the Wolfpack's success this season has been their ability to "adjust to different types of play, and rise to the occassion everytime."

"When we're on our game," he concludes, "there isn't a team in the state that we can't beat."

The end of another 12-hour day, coach Nustad finds time to relax in the coach's office.

Work ethic key to Nustad's success, Wolfpack victories

A disappointed Gary Nustad faces the TV cameras following his team's loss in the state semifinals.

Four years ago, Connie Bruce was Clarkston High School's athletic director when the school went searching for a new basketball coach.

There were several promising applications, but one candidate stood out in his interview. And his qualifications were admirable.

He had played basketball at Garden City West High School as a three-year varsity starter, for a team that posted a 55-7 record over those three seasons and once went all the way to the state finals, losing to Pontiac Central by five points.

He attended college at the University of Detroit and played basketball his freshman year before returning to Garden City West as an assistant coach to Chris Babler, his old high school mentor.

He graduated from U of D in 1975, and, most importantly, convinced his prospective employers that he would make a good teacher.

His name was Gary Nustad.

"The thing that really impressed us about Gary was his ambition—his desire to succeed," says Bruce, who left the AD post shortly after hiring Nustad in the spring of 1976. (Bruce currently serves as administrative assistant for personnel services for Clarkston Community Schools.)

Nustad's Coaching Record at CHS

Season	W	L	Finish	Playoff Result
1976-77	8	12	6th	Lost district quarterfinal
1977-78	15	6	1st	Lost district quarterfinal
1978-79	20	3	1st	Lost district final
1979-80	26	1	1st	Lost state semifinal
Total	69	22

"He came to us as a guy with a lot of energy, a guy who could get along with his kids," Bruce continues. "And his number one goal was to be a good teacher. That's what convinced us—of the six or seven people we were considering, we felt Gary would be the best teacher."

Four years and three straight league championships later, Nustad hasn't lost any of his energy.

He reports for work at 6:30 a.m. Monday through Friday and usually puts in a 12-hour day by the time the practice is over.

Weekend and holidays are often spent scouting, watching game films and conducting practice.

"I believe in leading and motivating people by example," Nustad says. "If you surround yourself with good, hard working people and set an example as head coach, you're going to be successful.

"If you can say to yourself at the end of the season that you worked hard and did everything you possibly could, then win, loose, or draw you'll come out a winner."

Nustad's basketball philosophy is also centered in the work ethic. "I believe if you outhustle, outwork and outdedicate the other team its a no-lose situation," Nustad says. "Even if you don't win on the scoreboard, you've got to come away as a winner in your own mind if you've given 100 percent of yourself every minute you were on the floor."

Nustad rates the 1979-80 season as one of his proudest moments, going back to the year his high school team appeared in the state finals.

"I'm tremendously proud of this team—tremendously proud. They're 15 of the greatest kids I've ever had the privilege of working with."

And they've got a pretty good head coach, too. The record shows it.
