Board directs Mason to outline plan

New Clarkston High School gets consideration

By Kathy Greenfield

Voters may be asked to approve costs of a new Clarkston high school some time next year. The Clarkston Community School Board discussed the possibility during a special meeting Monday night.

Superintendent Milford Mason was directed by the board to assess the district's needs and submit a report recommending priorities and outlining a plan by Oct. 1.

Mason made the proposal to consider building a new high school in a letter to board members.

The plan included switching to the middle school concept and using the present Clarkston High School and Sashabaw Junior High School for sixth through eighth grades

The district's elementary buildings would house kindergarten through fifth grades and the new high school would serve ninth through twelfth grades, according to Mason's plan.

The present Clarkston Junior High School building could be sold or converted to a community activities center.

Most school board members expressed interest in the plan.

"I think we could sell it, granted if it's possible to sell," said Trustee Carolyn Place. "It sounds good to me."

Mason made his proposal without considering cost, he said.

"I think that's why we've got ourselves in such a hole," he said, referring to past millage defeats. "We've always said not 'what do we need' but 'what can we afford.'"

"I'm leary of a high school," said Trustee Fernando Sanchez. "When you talk about a high school, you're talking about $22 million and that would be the minimum."

Mason, however, said he could not believe school district residents want to continue status quo with inadequate facilities.

The district's taxpayers could afford to build whatever they decided to support, he said.

Board President Robert Walters also said voter support was possible.

"This (the high school plan) is the most saleable in our district, because every person in the school district would use that building," he said. "I'm really tired of cheating our kids. I strongly feel I'd like to see us try that route."

Pond paddling

It's a beautiful day for a canoe ride as Paul Shortt of Miller Road, Clarkston, puts his paddles to the water and gets ready to begin a race south on the Mill Pond with his brother Charley who is on a bike zooming down Holcomb Street.

5 Republicans toss hats into race

Five Republican candidates have tossed their hats into the ring for positions on the Independence Township Board.

Virtually every seat of the seven-member board will appear on the ballot for the Aug. 5 primary election and the Nov. 4 general election.

All are four-year terms with three full-time positions of supervisor, clerk and treasurer and four part-time trustee positions.

Running for supervisor is James B. Smith, 8551 Allen Road.

Smith has served on the township planning commission since 1972 and has been chairman of the commission since 1977.

He is president of Howard Smith Inc. of Royal Oak, designers and distributors of educational systems and equipment.

Incumbent Clerk Christopher

Rose, 29, of 6767 Snowapple Drive, filed Monday for reelection to his third term.

Formerly running on the Democratic ticket, Rose has switched to the Republican Party.

Carol D. Balzarini, 42, of 10270 Reese, is running for the treasurer's office.

Balzarini is former government editor for the Reminder, Zone 2, Independence and Springfield townships.

Incumbent William Vandermark of 6594 Cherrylawn is seeking his second term as trustee.

He is a process engineer for Borg and Beck, a division of Borg-Warner.

First-time candidate for the office of trustee, Daniel F. Travis, 39, has also announced his candidacy.

A sales representative for Laclede Steel Co. for 16 years, Travis resides at 7973 Perry Lake Road.

Democratic incumbents Supervisor Whitey Tower and Treasurer Frederick Ritter said they also plan to run for reelection, but have yet to file ballot petitions.

Deadline for office seekers filing for the Aug. 5 primary is June 3 at 4 p.m.

For more information, contact the clerk's office at Independence Township Hall, 625-5111.

Independence okays $990,000 in other budgets

By Marilyn Trumper
Budgets totaling over $990,000 for departments not covered under the $1.16 million general fund have been approved by the Independence Township Board.

Voting unanimously at a special meeting April 29, the board adopted the proposed 1980-81 budgets for sewer, water, library, fire and police.

Most discussion centered upon the police budget totaling $219,567.

The township board amended the Village of Clarkston's payment for police protection to $10,600 from the original $11,500.

The board was complying with an agreement made April 15 with village President Fontie ApMadoc. The agreement stipulated the village would pay no more than the 1 mill for police protection, the same rate paid by township residents.

With little discussion, the board adopted the proposed sewer budget of $386,482, the water budget totaling $121,291, the library budget equaling $96,000 and the fire department's budget of $386,255.

Several line items in the sewer budget have increased this year. Building improvements have been allocated $3,000 this year, compared to zero allocations last year. Miscellaneous is $1,000, double the amount allocated last year. Equipment rental and maintenance are $2,000 and $1,000 respectively, up from zero allocations last year.

"Those items have increased because we are building a new building on the corners of Flemings Lake and Walters Lake Roads," said George Anderson, head of the township's department of public works. "Miscellaneous has increased because I felt there would be incidental costs in constructing the new building and didn't know what they would be."

"The money has to be there if we need it, but we may not have to spend it," Anderson said. "The building is being built at a reasonable cost, but we won't know the operating expenses so we budgeted higher than last year."

The new building's projected completion is scheduled for the end of June, according to Anderson.

The township's general fund budget of $1.16 million was approved April 8 after a brief discussion.

Because salaries of general township employees have yet to be set pending the AFSCME union labor contract negotiations, township Supervisor Whitey Tower said the total budget will not change, but department heads may have to adjust line items to cover wage hikes.

The general fund covers the general township offices, building and planning department, parks and recreation department, cemetery, assessing department and attorneys' fees.

They're joiners

The Independence Township Board remained well within the general fund budget allocation of $4,000 for memberships and dues when it selected the associations it wishes to be affiliated with for the 1980-81 fiscal year.

The board voted last Tuesday evening to join three organizations at a cost of $3,135.

Members of the township board voted unanimously to join the Michigan Township Association at a cost of $1,345 and the Clinton River Water Shed Council with a $1,000 fee.

In a 4-2 vote, the board joined South Eastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), with Rudy Lozano and Michael Thayer voting no.

SEMCOG fees are $790.

News' want ads carry clout

Wise readers know the power of a want ad in The Clarkston News.

Last week, shoppers had 425 ads to choose from in our classified section.

Want ads appearing in the News are also placed in the Advertiser circulated in northeast Oakland County.

That means placement in a total of over 19,500 homes.

Rates are $3 for the first 10 words and 10 cents for each additional word. There is a 10 percent discount for ads paid in advance, and the same ad can run a second week for just $2.

Placers of ads can also spotlight them with an owl for $1 more.

Join the multitude of people reading and using want ads in the News by calling our office at 625-3370 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Deadline each week for placing adds is 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Suspect arrested in drive-in murder

By Marilyn Trumper

Deborah Porcelli

Bloomfield Township and Pontiac City Police acting on a tip Monday evening, arrested a Pontiac man suspected of the murder of Deborah Porcelli.

Police are withholding the name of the 17-year-old suspect until a warrant has been issued today in the 48th District Court.

Mrs. Porcelli, 28, of Whipple Lake Road, Independence Township, was shot and killed while at the Miracle Mile Drive-In on Telegraph Road, Bloomfield Township, early Saturday morning.

She and her husband Joseph, 29, were, at the outdoor movie theater parked near the concession stand when the incident occurred, police said.

Several men approached the Porcelli's car and asked for a light, according to police.

When Porcelli said he couldn't help them, two shots were fired into the car, wounding him and murdering his wife, police said, and the five men fled on foot.

Mrs. Porcelli died nine hours after the incident at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

That same day, her husband underwent eye surgery to remove lodged particles of glass. He is listed in satisfactory condition and is scheduled for release today.

There are four other suspects involved in the incident, according to Sgt. Peter Earp, Bloomfield Township Police Department. Police have received statements from the four, but Earp said there is some question as to who will be charged.

Tuesday, scuba divers from the Bloomfield Township Police Department were diving Crystal Lake in the city of Pontiac in search of a .22 caliber pistol, the suspected murder weapon.

Mrs. Porcelli's funeral is to be held at the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, Independence Township this Thursday.

Mrs. Porcelli was a book-keeper for Howard Green and Associates, Birmingham.

She is survived by her husband; son Joseph L. Porcelli Jr. at home; and her parents Verdie and Patricia Hickey of Holly.

Also surviving are her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hickey of Ortonville, Mrs. Mary Mavis of Florida and Robert Wolfe of Birmingham; and her brother David Hickey of Holly.

The family requests memorials be made to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Other activities to take place during the week-plus of celebrations are the Clarkston Jaycees geranium sale, a slide show of pictures taken during last summer's SCAMP, a camp for young people with special needs, and a T-shirt sale by the Safety Path Committee.

Children at Clarkston Elementary School in the third and fourth grades will have an extra boost with special classes on local history conducted by the Clarkston Historical Society including a walking tour of historic village homes.

Givers: Nominees named for service awards

Nominations are in for the Second Annual Community Awards Dinner, honoring citizens of Independence Township for their contributions to the community.

Those nominated and eligible for awards are: Artemus Pappas, David Sherrill, Marilyn Hanson, Sherril Bailey, Ken Clayton, Leslie Wirpsa, Tim McCormick, Janet Rose, Russ Inman, Lucy Embry, Dorothy Gallivan, Jennifer Radcliff, Art Ruelle, Virginia Walter, Janet McCord, Duane Richardson, Joseph Figa and Jeanne Molzon. Also up for awards are the Picture Lady Program and the Rotary Club's Wolfpack Fever Night.

The dinner, sponsored by the Clarkston Jaycees, Michigan Week Committee and North Oakland Civitans, is to be held at the Spring Lake Country Club, Maybee Road, Independence Township, May 23 at 7 p.m.

Tickets for the event are $12 and are available at the Independence Township Library.

Independent view

Some residents are planning opposition for township officials running for re-election this November.

Members of the newly formed organization, "Citizens For Better Government," have banded together and chosen a slate of officers to back for the upcoming Independence Township election, according to Richard Schmaltz, township resident.

The group was formed with some of the members involved in the Pine Knob hotel height fight, Schmaltz said.

Years from now, fishermen along the banks of the Mill Pond sitting in the shade of a Colorado Spruce will have Bordine's Better Blooms of Clarkston to thank for their respite from the sun.

Bordine's donated the four-foot spruce to the Village of Clarkston in honor of Arbor Day.

The spruce was planted April 28, by the north-west parking lot behind the Mill Pond in the village.

This is the third tree Bordine's has donated to the village.

We were taken back a bit when a check arrived in the mail for over $166 and we couldn't figure out what it was for.

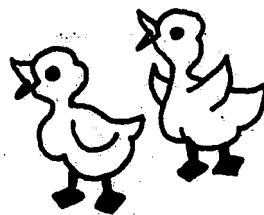

We called the woman who sent it and she said she had written us a check, but it was for $5.70 to cover the cost of a want ad. Perhaps, we suggested, she switched the names of two bills she was paying.

No, she was sure that wasn't the case.

As she scanned her checkbook, the answer appeared—instead of filling in the amount of the bill, she put in her checking account balance.

We're glad other people have days like that—it's somehow reassuring.

Here a quack...

The art of duck herding is alive and well in Independence Township.

A Duck Herding Trial was held recently on Mann Road, Pontiac Township, and dogs owned by Rose Spicuzza of Clarkston-Orion Road, Independence Township, and her daughter Jackie took top prizes.

The dogs were required to herd three ducks through a series of panels and a chute with a five-minute time limit.

Judging was based on how well the ducks were handled, the dog's response to owner's commands and the amount of assistance required by the handler.

Out of the 44 dogs entered in the trial the first day, Rose's Australian shepherd "Muffin" scored highest and a border collie owned by Jackie was the winner the second day.

Rose joins Republican Party

Christopher Rose, Independence Township clerk for four years as a Democrat, plans to switch parties and run on the Republican ticket for the August 5 primary election.

"I think my philosophies are more along the lines of a Republican than a Democrat," Rose said, giving his reason for the change. "But I don't think it will be an issue during the campaign. I am the same person and if it becomes an issue it would be a phony one."

During the 1978 election, Rose said he considered switching parties, but that someone filed against him on the Republican ticket, so he didn't.

In the 1976 election, Rose said one of the reasons he switched from the Republican party to the Democratic party, was that he didn't think he could beat the Republican incumbent.

Ballot petitions for township board positions must be filed by 4 p.m. June 3 at the Independence Township Hall, 90 North Main, Clarkston.

Those filing as Democrats must have at least 34 signatures, but not more than 136. Those filing as Republicans must have at least 32 signatures, but not more than 130.

Those figures are based on the number of votes cast for the Secretary of State in the November 1978 election, within the party and within the township, according to Rose.

Historical society looks for good memories

The Clarkston Community Historical Society is looking for people who remember the good old days.

Members of the society want to tape recollections of Clarkston, Independence Township and surrounding area residents and preserve those memories on file at the Independence Township Library.

Residents who have lived in the area for a long time are the society's prime target.

"Anyone who has seen a lot of change in the area over a period of years, or anyone who has a pioneer family, or anyone who remembers history are the people we want," said Connie Lektzian, member of the historical society.

"This type of grass-roots history is important," she said.

"The history books don't tell you everything. They tell you about the generals, but not the footmen. This is an oral history project about the people who lived through this area's history."

When the filing system has been completed it will be used as reference material for serious researchers according to Lektzian. Those interested in an interview can contact Connie Lektzian Wednesday mornings at 625-2378 or Jennifer Radcliff at 625-8181.

Letters to editor

Pro fire millage

Dear editor:

Every time Independence Township Clerk Christopher Rose writes something in the paper about the millage the fire department is asking for, he's leaving doubt in people's minds that we are asking for the full 10 mills.

He's not mentioning that the fire department is only asking for 1 mill and he's also implying that this money could be used for other means than fire department use.

We're only asking for money to maintain and to continue running the fire department.

Our asking for this 1 mill is to continue the services on the extra rescue runs that have been given to the people of Independence Township.

We're not asking for a wage increase of $1,000 like he was voted in this year. Our inflation costs have gone up.

We would just like to keep giving the services we are going to the people and continue giving them.

A Concerned Citizen

Thanks

Dear Mr. Sherman.

I just want to report that the Golden Anniversary of the Clarkston Junior High School was a huge success!!

This was in a great measure due to your cooperation in publishing the Anniversary insert in The Clarkston News.

Thanks much, Keith Paulson

Golden Saturday

by Kathy Greenfield

The best things in life are free. If you don't believe that, just listen to the children.

Remember when a solid afternoon's entertainment could be found simply exploring your surroundings?

That's exactly what my son and his friend Brian did last weekend.

They borrowed a neighbor's canoe and spent several hours seeing what they could see around the shores of Parke Lake.

There was so much to see and do, they didn't return home until a messenger was sent down to the lake to tell them it was time for dinner.

When Craig hit the door, he received a list of the things, both natural and manmade, they discovered.

Floating in the water, they found a large fishing net, two bobbers, a tennis ball and a damaged golf ball.

They caught a fish with the net and "just missed" catching one barehanded.

Then there were 63 snails, a turtle, a bloodsucker, a duck egg and a whole bunch of dead fish that didn't smell very good.

They even saw a crayfish laying her eggs.

Most of their finds were left behind, although the net made it home filled with some thoroughly soaked socks and shoes.

For me, the biggest treasure was the healthy, sun-kissed face of a young boy who had just enjoyed one glorious, golden Saturday afternoon.

The rest of us spent the day cleaning, paying bills, playing racquetball, watching the Kentucky Derby, doing laundry, fixing the lawnmower, reading, and so on.

They were all worthwhile projects, but nothing like the kinds of things memories are made on.

On the ballot

What fire millage failure would mean

Editor's Note: In the third of a series, Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk discusses the ramifications to his department if the proposed fire millage on the May 20 ballot fails.

"On the ballot" does not necessarily reflect the viewpoint of The Clarkston News, but is designed to give voters knowledge about ballot issues.

By Frank Ronk Independence Fire Chief

It should be made clear to all the people of the Township that your Fire Department operates totally on funds received through voted millage. There are no general fund monies spent for fire protection within this township.

If the request from the firefighters to the people of the township for the adoption of Act 134 of Public Acts of 1970 which will be on the ballot at the May 20 Presidential Primary Election should fail, there is but one solution. For the fire department to live within the available funding presently provided for the budget, there will have to be a cut in services.

The emergency medical service now being provided by the fire department is a very expensive operation that has never had any funds directed toward its operation. It would have to be cut immediately.

The projected manpower enlistment for the next several years would have to be limited or eliminated completely, thus leaving our daytime fire suppression force at an even more dangerous level of responding personnel than it is today.

The present level of service now being provided by your fire department cannot be maintained if added funding is not provided this year.

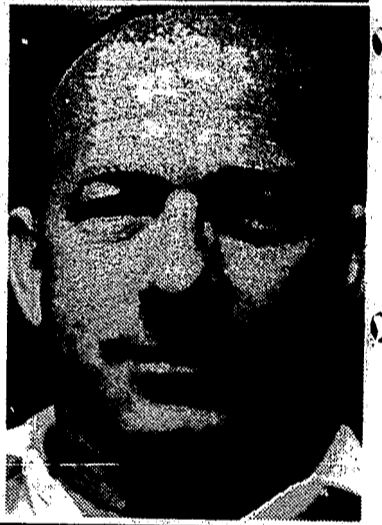

Much needed equipment and response vehicles needed to protect the homes and business of

Here's wording of ballot proposal Ronk favors

"Shall the Township of Independence (Village of Clarkston) acting under Act 134 of the Public Acts of 1970 create a special assessment district of the entire Township for the purpose of providing fire protection?"

"Such special assessment shall be levied annually as determined by the Township Board and shall be in excess of any constitutional limitation. If and when levied, such special assessment will be in place of and instead of the present fire protection millage.

"Said millage, if levied, shall be to a maximum of 10 mills."

the township will not be procured should the fire proposal fail.

The additions and repairs to the fire stations could not be implemented if the fire proposal should fail.

The public safety operation within this township cannot stand to have anymore reductions or lack of support than has been experienced within the past few years, and still hope to speak of this as a safe community in which to live.

It is reasonable to believe that if some funding is not made available to your fire department very soon you might call for help at a fire emergency and the voice on the other end of the telephone would have to say, "I am sorry but our equipment is tied up at another scene and we will get to you as soon as possible."

This could happen if the fire proposal should fail!

We mentioned a while back that the politicians in Lansing would be coming up with tax cutting plans to offset what Robert Tisch is laboring for.

Tisch would have property assessments rolled back to 25 percent of value, among other things. No doubt it would curtail spending in the State Capitol. That's why we knew more suggestions would be going into the pot. Confuse the issue, so-to-speak, with multiple propositions.

Now Governor Milliken has a plan, Rep. Perry Bullard of Ann Arbor has another, Headlee is suggesting an amendment to his legislation, and you can bet there will be more ideas expounded.

Like the other evening, Hazel said, "Susan, I want your room cleaned up tonight." Susan replied, "You mean clean it before the cleaning lady comes?"

Mother doesn't think that's funny, but Luan responds, "Go up and "I said clean it!" shouts mother. "What's the difference?" chuckles Luan.

Scaling the rocky road to success

By Marilyn Trumper

To make it in the fast-paced music industry today, you gotta want it, you gotta taste it, you gotta set your sights high and go for it.

"You gotta brush your teeth with rock & roll." So go the lyrics of a J. Geils' song.

Put together four guys between the ages of 16-18, their instruments and a heaping measure of star status aspirations, and viola, you have The Renegades.

A corner of Bob Glass' basement in Independence Township is filled with drums, microphone stands, guitars and amplifiers. A following of friends sit on couches and chairs lining the other half of the room.

The term "basement performers" is scoffed at. This is a practice, not a performance. Performance is the real thing.

The band has played at Waterford-Pierce Junior High, area high schools and for parties in a Pontiac hall according to the band's singer, Blair Whitenon, 16.

"We have three open-house graduation parties scheduled for graduation time too," Blair said.

"With that they break into songs they have written themselves, creating a style all their own.

"Bill Glass, the lead guitar player writes our music," said Bob Brand, 17, bass player.

"We all write the lyrics and fill in our own parts for our own instruments."

The guitar player's hands are all over the neck of the guitar. The drummer uses every drum at his disposal. The bass player is reserved and the singer is uninhibited.

They rock & roll vibrating the floors, walls and ceiling.

But it's ok, practice makes perfect.

When Blair sings a Led Zepellin tune, he imitates Robert Plant's style and voice to perfection. His brown hair nearly sprouts long blond curls.

When they play AC/DC's "Highway to Hell" their eyes light up at the prospect of performing a future rock classic.

Whether it is their own music or another band's, they play with the same enthusiasm and perfection. And they don't expect anything less than perfection from one another.

"You could form a band with the number of guys we've kicked out of this one," said Chris Dempsey, 18, the drummer. "When there are personality and playing problems, we boot them out."

Trying to get a start is hard enough in the music business, without extra aggravations from the audience during performances.

"When we played a hall in Pontiac, some of the audience members kicked in the doors and punched out the dry wall. We were held responsible and had to pay for the damages" said Chris.

The Renegades have a crew member by the name of Brad Townsend who keeps peace during concerts.

"He runs our lights, but if the rowdies take over we send in Brad, he is running for Mr. Michigan next year, so he is big," Chris said.

The Renegades have the same

problems as the big stars, only on a smaller scale.

"Right now we are having financial problems. We want to make a reel to reel tape and try to get on the WWWW's amateur hour, but it would cost us $2,000 and we don't have that kind of money," Blair said.

The members of the band have researched recording prospects and know the expenses involved.

"If we cut a record, an audio technician knows how to overlay sounds and instruments. That's what gives it quality sound," said Blair. "And that's why it is so expensive."

Bill Glass, 17 is the lead guitar player.

He is a junior at Clarkston High School, and a member of the school jazz band. He plays the organ, electric and acoustical guitar and the bass.

Blair is a junior at Clarkston High School and a member of the chorus.

Bob Brand is a senior at Clarkston High School and a member of the jazz band. He plays bass and saxophone.

Chris Dempsey is a former Waterford-Kettering High School student and has taken drum lessons for years.

They practice independently of each other and three times a week as a group.

During one concert at a high school, the audience threw donuts at the band. If the Renegades' persistence and determination pay off, one day those food tossers may wish they'd had those donuts autographed instead.

No mother-in-law jokes for him

by Jim Fitzgerald

Through the many years of his married life, the husband has done countless things to indicate he is not too smart. But he has never been stupid enough to tell a mother-in-law joke.

He thought about this in church last Easter. It was a homecoming of sorts. After two years' absence, his wife returned to her hometown to sing again in the choir where she had been a member for 36 years. Her mother was there to hear her.

The husband always encouraged his wife to sing in the choir. It gave him a great excuse for not going to church. "I don't like to sit alone," he explained. He could hardly join her in the choir, as his musical skills are limited to drumming his fingers on a piano bar.

So the only time he went to church during the 25 years he lived in her hometown was when their children performed in a Christmas play. He did this graciously, realizing a good father should be present to see his favorite bathrobe worn by a nine-year-old Wise Man. The husband never protested these command appearances, not even when the wife embarrassed him by saying he was the first parent in the history of the church to extinguish a cigar in the Sunday school sandbox.

Things changed when they moved into the big city, leaving the children behind to hark their own herald angels. The wife announced her choir career was over, and she didn't want to sit alone in church every Sunday.

Again, the gracious husband didn't protest. He quickly became a steady churchgoer, and he hardly whimpers about it anymore at all. This is because he discovered he likes church music.

He realizes music isn't the best reason for going to church, but he figures shepherds aren't that particular about a flock's motives, otherwise he'd never have found that sandbox.

Given these musical circumstances, it wasn't surprising that the husband enjoyed being present for the wife's return to her old choir. He didn't even mind sitting alone, which was necessary because there wasn't room for him to sit with his mother-in-law, two daughters, two sons-in-law, and three grandchildren.

Obviously, a few things have happened to the wife since she first sang in that choir, at age 14, and the length of the pews hasn't kept pace with the growth of her family. The only notable absentee on Easter was the former Wise Man who skipped town with his father's bathrobe.

The choir sang the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah." The husband loves those loud hallelujahs and he was properly tingled to watch his wife's great pleasure at letting'er rip with old friends one more time. But he got even a bigger charge from watching the beam on the face of his mother-in-law, the only member of the congregation who remembered her daughter's choir debut, 38 years earlier.

The mother-in-law remembers traveling the roads near that church in a horse-drawn buggy. She is 83 now and gets around unsteadily with the aid of a cane. Many days she doesn't feel like getting out of bed at all. Her doctor and her children know she shouldn't be living alone, but she doesn't want to leave her home and her possessions, and no one can blame her.

Her income is scant but she gets angry when her kids try to help her. She doesn't want to be a bother. She wants to clear the table and wash the dishes and always give more than she's got.

When pressed, she admits it's an unlikely marvel that every one of her several grandchildren and great-grandchildren is a perfect person, but that's what happened. She is so optimistically enchanted by her progeny, for lord's sake, she still thinks sainthood is a probability for the missing Wise Man.

The husband thinks his mother-in-law must be the ideal that God had in mind when He decreed there should be mothers, grandmothers, and great-grandmothers to love the younger people.

That is what the husband was thinking in church on Easter as he watched his mother-in-law watch his wife let'er rip. Hallelujah! He'll never tell a mother-in-law joke.

JV defense stymies opponents

But offense isn't doing bad, either

By Al Zawacky

The password for the Clarkston High School junior varsity softball team this season is "defense."

Never mind the scores of the Wolves' first four games, all of them victories: 16-6 against Grand Blanc, 13-8 against Milford Lakeland, 19-3 against Bloomfield Lahser and 16-1 over Rochester Adams.

Those scores would seem to indicate an offensive dominance—but that's not the case, says coach Carla Teare.

"I'd have to say that our fielding has been our big strength," Teare says in evaluating her team's first four contests. "The fact that we have several people who can play various positions and play them well give us a lot of depth.

"Our pitching has been very strong as well," the coach continues. "Jeanne Herron and Patti White have both given us some great pitching—and they're benefitting from our good play in the field."

And while opponents have had to work for each run they get against the Wolves' tight defense and parsimonious pitching. Clarkston's offensive totals have been inflated by miscues in the field and bases-on-balls.

"We're hitting well, but we really haven't faced any fast pitching yet," Teare says. "Of course, when you are scoring as many runs as we have, you've got to have some real standouts—and we do."

Teare cites Shaun O'Brian and Terry Schellinger as the two major cogs in the Wolves' offensive machine so far this season. O'Brian leads all regulars with an average of .750, while Schellinger leads in the RBI department with five to go along with her .636 average.

O'Brian has also knocked in three runs and is tops on the team in stolen bases with six.

Statistically in the pitching department, White has posted three of the Wolves' four wins, while Herron was credited with the other.

"This is my first season coaching here," says Teare, who teaches health and physical education at Clarkston High School. "The team was pretty successful last season—I think they only lost four out of 18 games—and we'd like to continue that success.

"It's always easy to keep the morale up when you're winning, but these girls impressed me right from the start with their attitudes," she says. "We have a lot of spirit at the games, and everybody pulls for everybody else."

The Wolves have 14 players on their roster this season—White, Laurie Lanoue, Herron, Louise Baylis, Schellinger, Tammy Wilder, Alex Campe, Sonya Funk, Barb Burzyck, Sherry Chernenko, Elsa Olsen, O'Brian, Sharon Hesse and Merci Sanchez.

"It's really difficult for me to single people out—everybody has contributed and added something to the team," Teare says. "They all work together very well and can all share in the credit for our success so far this season."

Jeanne Herron has been a standout pitcher for the Wolves this season, recently tossing a three-hitter against Rochester Adams.

Wolves' streak ends at 5

By Al Zawacky

This was supposed to be a rebuilding year for the Clarkston High School varsity softball team.

But somebody must have forgotten to tell the players.

The Wolves opened their season by ripping through five straight games before suffering their first defeat of the season, a 6-1 loss at the hands of West Bloomfield on Friday.

"I can't feel badly about the way we played," coach Kathy Mahrle said of the team's first taste of defeat. "We played well defensively and stayed close until the fifth inning when they got a bases-loaded triple to pull away."

Coming in their first league contest of the season, the loss was not a painless one. But Mahrle was nevertheless satisfied with her team's performance.

"It was basically a good game—I thought we played pretty well. West Bloomfield are the defending champs from last season."

Sandy Mason was a standout in the game for Clarkston, knocking in the lone run on two hits and making two outstanding defensive plays in the outfield, Mahrle said.

Games earlier in the week on Monday and Wednesday were postponed by rain, making the West Bloomfield contest the Wolves' only action of the week. The week prior, Clarkston won four straight games.

The opened the week with a slugfest at home against Milford Lakeland, outdistancing the visitors 18-16. Linda Foster paced the Wolves with four RBIs, and Jane Acton hit a solo homer for the team's first circuit clout of the season.

Two days later Clarkston came out on top of another offensive battle, clipping Bloomfield Hills Lahser 14-12. The Wolves trailed by two runs in the bottom of the sixth when Cindy Hawley's bases-loaded single knotted the score at 12-12.

Michele Ulasich followed with a triple, and the two run lead stood up.

While pleased with the victories, Mahrle expressed concern over the "unpresentable" scores.

"It seems like whenever we get into trouble, our bats go to town and pull us out," she said. "I'm pleased to see our offense play that well, but as a defensive-minded coach I'm a little worried by scores like that."

The Wolves' pitching and defense did tighten up for the following Friday in a twin bill against Rochester. Lisa Forsyth pitched a strong game and Hawley went 3-for-3 at the plate to lead Clarkston to a 14-9 win in game one.

Forsyth also pitched the opening two innings of game two, before Kelly Mason arrived on the scene. Mason helped her own cause by driving in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to earn Clarkston an 8-7 victory.

The point after

by Al Zawacky

The boy appeared to be about 5 or 6 years old—maybe 7 at the most.

Yet there he was, strapped down with all the official regalia of a professional ice hockey goaltender, complete with pads, gloves, mask and stick. The boy looked like a miniature Rogie Vachon, skating slowly into the goal in his bright red and white uniform.

The scene was a little league hockey practice just a few months ago in Shelby Township. As a life-long rink rat, I had arrived at the arena early for my game, saw the youngsters practicing, and decided to watch.

It was soon evident that this boy not only looked like the Red Wings' Mr. Vachon, but that he shared Rogie's level of success. The youngster would tumble to the ice and cover his face in fear everytime a shooter would approach.

Obviously, the kid wasn't cut out to be a goalie. He was terrified at the prospect of being injured, which is understandable considering the position's "high-risk" rating.

But for some reason, that fact failed to make an impression on his "coach".

This "coach" didn't look like a very good example for his players to follow. His stomach hung over and practically concealed his belt, and judging by the way he skated you might have thought that a salt truck had just driven over the ice.

But there on the back of his tattered windbreaker was the team's logo, and there embroidered on the front was his symbol of authority: "Coach."

When I saw this "coach" chop his way over to the petrified goalie, I was expecting some fatherly advice—cool it, don't be nervous, don't be afraid. Or better yet, take off the pads, son, and forget about playing goal.

Instead, the coach's eyes narrowed, and his voice took on a taunting, rather than comforting tone.

"You're chicken, aren't you?" the over-weight coach sneered. He called over some of his players, and ordered them to form a semi-circle around their apprehensive teammate. The coach saw to it they all had pucks, then told them to alternately shoot away.

I suppose the intent of this was to conquer the boy's fear. But when the shots came, the little goalie ducked, scrambled and was doing everything he could to protect his person and nothing at all to stop the puck.

I was sickened by the whole scene.

What type of parents would allow their son to suffer such mental and physical abuse all in the name of "sport?"

I relate this story to our readers not as an indictment of little league athletics, but as a warning to parents. Know your son or daughter's coach, and be sure to watch him or her during a practice session.

The list of physical and emotional scars left by stupid coaches and acquiescing parents is a long one.

Baseball team has wet, weary week

By Al Zawacky

Spotty hitting, pitching and defense, combined with two rainouts, left the Clarkston High School baseball team 0-for-5 in their pursuit of victory number four last week.

Monday's league opener at Andover and Wednesday's game at Kettering were both postponed due to rain--and by the time the weekend was over the Wolves may well have wished that Friday and Saturday's contests had been washed out as well.

The Clarkston nine fell to West Bloomfield Friday and then suffered dual losses to Royal Oak Kimball and Royal Oak Dondero Saturday, dipping their overall season record to 3-7.

"The weather situation certainly didn't do us any good," coach Roy Warner noted. "Just when we started to get some momentum going, we wound up with just too many days off."

The Wolves did play a solid ball game in West Bloomfield following their one-week layoff, but the opposition played a shade better.

Juniors Jerry Charboneau and Kurt Esselink both saw duty on the mound for Clarkston, and it was Esselink who was charged with the loss as the Wolves bowed 4-2.

"They both pitched pretty well," Warner said, "but West Bloomfield picked up a key hit in the 6th with a couple men on base, and that was the difference."

Senior Nick Hool had a perfect day at the plate going 3-for-3, while teammate Kevin Krause went 2-for-4, including a well-placed bunt that resulted in a Clarkston run on a suicide squeeze.

"We scored both our runs on the squeeze play," Warner noted. "Again, we played pretty well-- we didn't commit any errors, which is always a good thing to see."

The following afternoon Clarkston came across two tough non-league opponents and succumbed to them both, bowing 7-1 to Kimball and putting up a good fight before losing to Dondero 6-4.

"Kimball's a good ball club-- they've been state champs and runners up a couple times," Warner said. "They out-hit us 13 to five, which pretty much tells the story."

Krause was the Wolves' pitcher of record, tossing two innings before receiving relief help from senior Scott Himes. Junior Ron Feneley led the offense with a 2-for-3 performance at the plate.

Against Dondero Clarkston again worked the squeeze play to perfection, jumping ahead 2-0 in the first inning.

But some untimely errors in the field and two Dondero home runs, including a three-run blast in the third inning, sealed the Wolves' fate.

Clarkston pulled to within two runs in the final stanza on Greg Lane's two RBI single, but the rally proved to be too little, too late.

"We're just not consistent," Warner said. "We'll hit really well one game, and then won't hit at all the next. Our pitching has been the same way."

But despite their 3-7 record, the Wolves still have nine league contests remaining after their loss to West Bloomfield.

And at 0-1 in the league, the Clarkston nine are a long way from being out of the Greater Oakland Activities League title race, Warner noted.

"We've got almost our whole league schedule still ahead of us," he said. "We're going to keep after them."

Tickets on sale for Tiger exhibition

Tickets are now on sale for the Detroit Tiger-Cincinnati Reds May 15 benefit exhibition game for Michigan junior baseball.

All proceeds from the game will be donated to the junior baseball programs supporting the contest. The Independence Township Parks and Recreation Department is participating, and tickets may be obtained at the Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

The township's share of the proceeds will be determined by the number of tickets the recreation department sells. Ticket prices are $6.50 for box seats, $5.50 for reserved, $3.50 for grandstand and $2 for bleachers.

Game time at Tiger Stadium will be 7 p.m.

Women are entering many segments of athletics that previously have been thought of as all-male bastions. Boxing, for example, is one area in which women are trying to get a foothold. Women have already become jockeys, race drivers and soccer players. In younger age groups, boys and girls are increasingly found on the same baseball, basketball and even hockey teams, but this happens less frequently as the children grow and the size factor becomes more important. Still, in the future, there seem to be few sports that will be considered exclusively male.

We hope you'll consider coming to us at COACH'S CORNER, 31 S. Main, 625-8457 when you need sports equipment. Adidas shoes are carried, for men and women. There is still time to select a nice gift for Mother on her special day. Come by and let us help you select just the right item. Hours: 9:30am-6pm daily, until 5pm Sat. Have a very happy Mother's Day.

Soccer replaces junior high flag football

By Al Zawacky

Seventh grade flag football at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs has breathed its last.

In its place will be intramural soccer, a sport that is gaining converts among junior high school students.

"We may have a soccer program in the 8th grade as well, but that still hasn't been determined," says Clarkston High School Athletic Director Paul Tungate. "A lot of that depends on the interest shown by the kids."

The decision to drop 7th grade football and institute a soccer program was taken after consulting with the high school gridiron coaches, says Tungate.

"After talking to the (football) coaches, there was general agreement that the junior high intramural football program wasn't very productive," he says. "And in starting this program we're looking to the future—it would be nice to have soccer in the high schools in a few years."

Two major obstacles to expansion of the program into Clarkston High School are student apathy and financing, Tungate says.

"There doesn't seem to be much interest at the high school as compared to the junior high," he says. "And unless we get a big increase in our budget—which isn't likely—we'd have to cut some other program to finance soccer."

"That's not something I'd care to do."

Haydn Cook is one Independence Township resident actively involved in expanding the soccer program to all the grade levels.

"Soccer is a game that guys and gals can play together," Cook says, mentioning one of the sport's advantages. "You can have mixed teams."

And the cost of the game isn't very great—the Waterford recreation department runs its soccer program at a cost of just $8 per player, he notes.

Further, the eighth grade tackle football program "is not as safe as it should be," Cook adds.

"I've talked to some doctors who are very much opposed to the idea of kids that young playing contact football," says Tungate. "They've said that when a boy is still growing, some football injuries could permanently affect his bone structure and lead to problems later in life. "On the other hand, I've talked to doctors who feel that the body contact is good for the kids."

Tungate claims a middle ground in the injury controversy. "There are kids who are likely to get hurt, and then there are others who aren't," he says.

"Again, the main reason behind going with soccer was that the junior high football hasn't been productive. I personally feel that the program doesn't do the kids any good if it's not interscholastic."

Unlike flag football, the soccer program will be open to both boys and girls, Tungate adds.

Discussions have been held between the school system and the Independence Township Parks and Recreation department to split the cost of the facilities needed to expand the sport, says Timothy Doyle, recreation department director.

"The growth of soccer over that past five years has been phenomenal," Doyle says. "The game has a lot going for it—it's inexpensive, it's a great conditioning sport and anybody can play, both the big kids and the smaller ones."

Thinclads bow twice

The Clarkston High School boy's track team competed in its second and third league meets of the season last week, and while they did have some strong individual performances, the Clarkston Thinclads came up empty-handed in their quest for their first victory.

Clarkston bowed to Milford 93-38 on Tuesday and lost to Andover 84-43 two days later.

First place finishes against Andover were earned by Mark Foss in the high hurdles and the team of Mark Hughes, Steve Neff, Greg Wilson and Joe Partlo in the 440 relay.

Second place finishes for Clarkston went to Tom Hecker in the pole vault; Paul Brown in the high jump; Neff in the 100; Mark Reene in the mile; Brown in the 440 dash; Hughes in the 330 hurdles; and Eric Nelson in the 880 run.

Clarkston had two individuals earn the top spot in the Milford meet: Partlo in the long jump and Foss in the high hurdles.

Second place winners were Mark Johnson in the long jump; Brown in the high jump; Neff in the 100-yard dash; Hughes in the 330 hurdles; and Neff in the 220-yard dash.

Cyclists to bike for those who can't

Clarkston and Waterford area residents are being asked to ride their bicycles May 18 to benefit children who can't.

Volunteers are needed for the "Wheels of Life Bike-a-thon," aimed at raising funds to support St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in its battle against catastrophic childhood diseases, says Lou Abraham, bike-a-thon chairman.

"We're looking for people who are willing to contribute a little of their time to help us help children live," Abraham says. "Our biggest need is for riders, since they're the ones who'll make this event a success."

Those who would like to ride can pick up registration and sponsor forms at Clarkston and Waterford area schools, restaurants, or Universal Sewing Center, 2520 Dixie Highway in Waterford Township.

Riders will meet at the Our Lady of the Lakes school parking lot in Waterford Township on Sunday, May 18. The bike-a-thon will start at 2 p.m. with riders covering their pledged distance over a one-half-mile course.

"Everyone who rides $25 will get a St. Jude T-shirt, and those who raise $75 or more will get a special biker's back pack," says Abraham.

"We'll also have special prizes like a portable radio and recorder and stereo headphones for the top riders," he adds.

At St. Jude's, doctors and scientists are studying leukemia, Hodgkin's Disease and other forms of childhood cancer and deadly diseases that strike the young.

The results of the research conducted there are freely shared with doctors and scientists all over the world, enabling stricken children to have a better chance to live, Abraham says.

"St. Jude's is the leader in the battle against these diseases," he says. "It was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas and children there are treated free of charge--but it still costs about $56,000 a day to operate.

"As long as children are still dying, St. Jude Children's Hospital must keep fighting," says Abraham.

Volunteers who wish to help can contact Abraham at 674-0439.

Capturing nature's beauty

It's a snap with a little help from naturalist

Learn tips on nature photography while strolling through the trails of Independence Oaks County Park during a workshop Saturday, May 10.

Naturalist Kathleen Dougherty is guide for the program that includes discussion of techniques and problems of photographing nature.

The program runs from 1 to 3 p.m. Participants should bring a single lens reflex 35mm camera and film.

Pre-registration is required by phoning 625-0877 and the only fee is the park entrance charge of $2 per car for Oakland County residents and $3 per car for non-residents.

The group will meet at the Twin Chimneys shelter at the park located at 9501 Sashabaw, Independence Township.

At Independence Oaks

Trails have varied scenery

Spring has a way of inspiring people to explore nature.

But instead of wandering aimlessly and missing some of the season's surprises, the spring explorer can follow some helpful hiking hints, according to Kathleen Dougherty, a naturalist for the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

To get the most out of spring, Dougherty recommends a stroll through Independence Oaks County Park in Independence Township.

Independence Oaks will swell in early spring with the sights and sounds of nature's rebirth, she says. "Look and listen for frogs, migrating birds, flowing waters, animals stirring, flowers sprouting and bright buds on the trees," Dougherty says.

Independence Oaks has nearly 10 miles of scenic marked woodland trails, winding over hills, along lakes, through open fields and by a river. All three park trails offer varied scenery, she says.

When exploring in early spring, Dougherty advises hikers to wear old shoes or boots with rubber soles because of the wet ground. She also suggests carrying binoculars, a camera and trail snacks.

"There's no set route to follow," she says. "People should choose a trail, keep their eyes and ears tuned to nature, and enjoy."

"Be observant, she stresses.

"You may see the spicebush in flower, the bright red of the redbud dogwood around the lakes and wet areas, red wings perching nearby and fiddle heads of ferns uncurling on the ground."

May is the best time to see spring wildflowers in the woods before the trees get their leaves, she adds.

More information about Independence Oaks may be obtained by calling the park at 625-0877.

Independence Oaks is located at 9501 Sashabaw Road in Independence Township. The park is open daily from 8 a.m. until sundown until May 15 when the park will begin opening at 6 a.m.

Clarkston Mills' restaurant to open by June 1st

Hungry mall shoppers will be able to satisfy their appetites without leaving the Clarkston Mills come June 1.

That's the target date for completion of "Jacob Petty's Family Dining and Spirits," according to Tony Ferlito, owner of the restaurant currently under construction in the Clarkston Mills shopping mall located in downtown Clarkston.

"We're going to have a nice, country atmosphere with family prices," Ferlito says. "And we're going to offer a full breakfast, lunch and dinner menu."

Some of the specialties at Jacob Petty's will be family style fried chicken, steaks, prime rib, veal parmesan and lasagna.

In addition, a full service bar will be featured, serving beer, wine and liquor.

Ferlito, who moved to the Clarkston area just this month, said the restaurant was named "Jacob Petty's" due to Clarkston's traditional high regard for its history.

"Jacob Petty served with George Washington in the revolutionary war," Ferlito says. "Later, he came to this area and died here in 1838."

"We're still doing research on him--we'd like to include a little biography on the menu explaining where the name came from."

Problems with financing and obtaining a liquor license were the reasons for the delay in the restaurant's opening, Ferlito explains.

"The future of the Mills itself was kind of up in the air until Ted Remke bought it," he says. "The problems are all behind us, and I'm very excited about the future of the Mills and the entire Clarkston area."

Ferlito has already joined the Clarkston Businessmen's Association, and looks forward to making Clarkston his home.

"The big difference here is the people," he says. "Everybody is friendly, and you don't have all the hustle and bustle you have in the bigger cities."

"That's the type of atmosphere I want to have in our restaurant--a friendly, relaxing place with good service, good food and moderate prices--a place where the entire family can feel welcome."

While work continues in the background, owner Tony Ferlito holds up a sample uniform that waitresses at Jacob Petty's will wear when the restaurant is open in June.

Music to fill village park

This summer for four evenings, lilting sounds of a 30-piece band will float in the air of the Depot Road park, thanks to the efforts of the Clarkston Business Association.

The association has applied for funds from the Pontiac Federation of Musicians Trust Fund, to aid them in paying professional musicians entertainment fees.

"We have signed a contract with James R. Morris, the former owner of Morris Music," said Carol Eberhardt, president of the association.

"He feels we will have no problems receiving the money from them. It would be a matching funds program, we would give $400 and they would provide possibly $900," Eberhardt said.

Eberhardt approached the Clarkston Village Council and asked for its financial backing last week.

Council James Schultz said he would review the account and discuss the matter during the next meeting.

"Morris is talking perhaps a 30-piece band playing in the park," Eberhardt said. "They would all be professionals, and members of the musicians' union. That is why it is costing so much, because they have to be paid musicians' wages."

The council voted to allow the band to play in the park the last three Fridays in July, and the first Friday in August. Tentatively the concerts are scheduled 7 to 8 p.m.

Council bans car washes

Mill Pond pollution cited

Fluffy white suds from fundraising car washes will flow into the Mill Pond no longer, following the Clarkston Village Council's unanimous vote, banning car washes in the village.

At last week's meeting, the council members agreed to ban car washing for environmental reasons.

"The people who live on the Mill Pond have been trying to clean it up," said council member Ruth Basinger. "When cars are washed in the parking lot, (adjacent to the Mill Pond) not only do the phosphates from the soap they use flow into the pond, but so does all the gasoline and oil residue on the lot."

"I hate to turn down those kids who are willing to work to make money for a project," she said, "but it is contaminating the waters."

The council voted to send letters to area high schools and junior highs, informing administrators of their decision. They also voted to draft a letter to Independence Township's Fire Chief Frank Ronk, informing him of their decision, and asking him to stipulate that when he lends out the pump to remind the borrower it is not to be used for village car washes.

Crumbling facades face council crack-down

By Marilyn Trumper

Clarkston's Village Council is gearing up to tackle deteriorating building facades on Main Street.

"We've been pussy-footing around long enough," said Jackson Byers, council member. "We're going to have to crack down on it now."

After two years of correspondence with the township's building department and business owners, the village council is considering legal action to enforce the regulations.

At last week's meeting, the council instructed the village attorney to update information, to contact the business owners and to obtain the building department's official opinion on the condition of the buildings in question.

The two buildings under review are the Landi Building on the east side of Main Street, and the building adjacent to the Landi Building which houses the Clarkston Cafe.

"There may be new owners in some of those buildings," Byers said. "They may not be aware of the council's past efforts to have the building facades repaired. They may comply voluntarily."

A second council member stated support for taking legal action.

"We've been talking about it for a long time," said Robert Adams, council member. "Instead of talking about going into litigation we might as well go ahead and do it, or we might just as well forget it."

The State Construction Code says a building must present a hazardous or dangerous condition before owners can be prosecuted to repair the buildings.

After the meeting, Timothy Palulian, head of the township's building and planning department said he would have to inspect the buildings and decide if they presented a dangerous or hazardous condition.

"I would have to climb up on the buildings and look for severe deterioration," Palulian said. "Places where the brick or other materials would crumble and fall to the ground, that would be a hazardous condition."

"In the past, one owner had a contractor look at his building and the contractor said the building needed repair, but that it was not falling over," Palulian said. "I advised the owners a long time ago that it appeared there may be some problems, so now I would have to compare notes with the contractor's notes after a full analysis of the building."

If the buildings present a hazard and the owners don't comply with repairs, Palulian said he would advise the village attorney to prosecute if that was what the village council decided it wanted to do.

Rogers seeks commissioner's seat

Donald W. Rogers has announced his candidacy for Oakland County Commissioner, District 2, on the Democratic ticket.

Rogers served as Springfield Township supervisor from 1974 to 1976. Prior to being supervisor, he was township constable.

An 11-year employee of the Detroit Edison Co., he is currently working in the Milford office.

Rogers and his wife Donna and their two children have been residents of Springfield Township 10 years. They reside at 12171 Andersonville Road. He is currently a member of the Springfield Township Road Improvement Advisory Committee and a member of the Davisburg Rotary. County Commissioner District

2 covers portions of Independence and White Lake townships and all of Springfield, Holly, Rose, Highland and Milford townships.

Trim to run again

State Rep. Claude A. Trim (D-Davisburg) recently filed to run for a fourth term in the House of Representatives.

Trim's concerns are the continued rise in unemployment, the rising costs of doing business in Michigan and the plaguing increase of taxes, he said.

Trim is running for the state office in the 60th District which covers all of Independence, Springfield, Highland, Rose, Holly, Groveland and Brandon townships and a portion of Waterford Township.

Police log

Friday evening, a metal slide and wooden platform in the playground of the Clarkston Preschool playground, 5300 Maybee, Independence Township, were vandalized. Cost of the damage is not available.

A 16-foot canoe was stolen from a home located on Deer Lake Road, Independence Township, Friday. The canoe's value is estimated at $400, according to police reports.

Friday evening, three home owners on Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township, lost mailboxes to vandals. According to police reports, the mail boxes were knocked off their posts. Cost to replace the mail boxes is estimated at $20 each, according to police reports.

Two patrons of Spring Lake Country Club, 6060 Maybee Road, Independence Township, had items stolen from their cars parked in the lot Saturday.

Four wire wheels were stolen off of a 1978 Pontiac. According to police reports, they are valued at $200.

The second patron's AM-FM radio was stolen and the side view mirror and door were damaged in the process.

The cost of the radio and damage were not available.

A bench and two cement deer weighing 500 pounds each were stolen from the front yard of a home on Ellis Road, Independence Township, Saturday.

Cost to replace the yard fixtures is estimated at $680, according to police reports.

Saturday, two township residents had batteries stolen from their cars.

Police believe the batteries stolen from the residents' homes on Sashabaw and Console Roads, were taken without the use of tools.

The estimated value of the batteries are $30 and $55, according to police reports.

A 1967 GMC dump truck was stuck in an area off of Deer Lake Road, Independence Township, Saturday. When the owner of the truck returned, $600 worth of tools had been taken from the truck, according to police reports.

Saturday a customer of the Kayo Gasoline Station, 65507 Dixie Highway, Independence Township, pumped $18.22 worth of gasoline and drove off without paying, according to police reports.

NOTICE

Two die in auto crashes

Two people were killed in separate automobile accidents in Independence Township over the weekend.

Dead are Grace Kosacki of Brandon Township and David Wilcox of Goodrich.

Kosacki, 41, was killed in a two-car collision Sunday afternoon at the intersection of Perry Lake and Oak Hill roads. She was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

The driver of the second car, Max Laten, 20, of Wildwood Loop, Independence Township, was treated and released from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Wilcox, 21, died in a crash at the intersection of Ortonville and Hadley roads early Saturday morning.

Wilcox was admitted to the intensive care unit of Pontiac

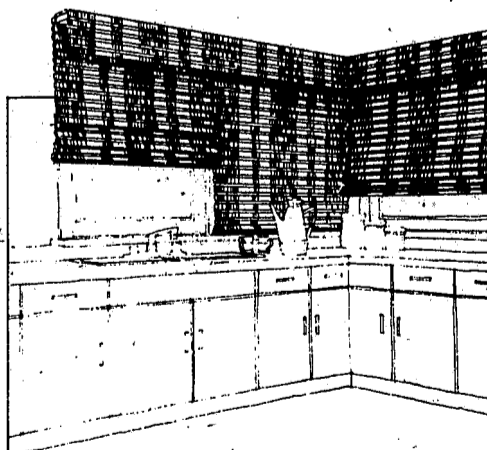

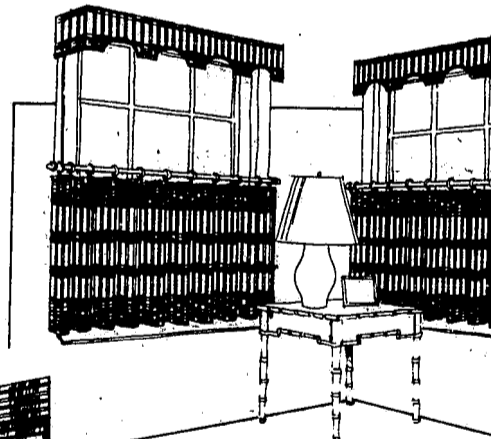

General Hospital and died later that evening from injuries sustained in the crash.

According to police reports, Wilcox was attempting a left-hand turn onto Hadley Road when the driver of a second car, William Heatley of Waterford Township, attempted to pass Wilcox's car.

Heatley was not injured, according to police.

She's Tim's mom

Terry McCormick: 'My family comes first'

By Al Zawacky

Preparing dinners for guests like Ohio State head basketball coach Eldon Miller.

Answering phone calls from people like LA Dodger Steve Garvey, former U of M quarterback Rick Leach and a constant flow of newspaper reporters.

And all the while holding down a part-time job at a pre-school in addition to the full-time job of wife and mother to four children.

That's been the routine for Terry McCormick, mother of Clarkston High School basketball star Tim McCormick, ever since the start of basketball season five months ago.

In fact, the somewhat hectic lifestyle goes back way before then.

"Tim had 75 letters from colleges across the country waiting for him before he even started high school," Terry says. "It was a great opportunity for our family to meet and dine with people like Eldon Miller, (North Carolina's) Dean Smith and (Notre Dame's) Digger Phelps.

"These coaches are all gentlemen and geniuses in their field. And my husband and the boys are so sports-minded that it was really a thrill to get to talk to people they'd read about for years."

At the peak of the recruiting drive, the McCormicks had phone calls from people like Steve Garvey, who put in a good word for Michigan State, and Rick Leach, who told Tim about the advantages of going to Michigan, says Terry.

"It got to the point that everybody wanted to answer the phone," she laughs. "You never knew who would be calling next."

But despite all the notoriety, the phone calls, the interviews and the celebrity house guests, the family's way of life remains essentially unchanged.

"My family comes first," Terry says. "It wouldn't be fair for me to say that I fussed more for our guests than I do for my family. I always try and make every day a special day at our home."

The McCormicks moved to their house on Bridge Lake Road in Springfield Township six years ago from Grosse Pointe. It's home for Terry, her husband Tom, sons Tim, Mike and Kevin and daughter Lynn.

"We're very family oriented and have always supported each others' interests," she says. "We've always stressed to the children that this is their home, and they're always welcome to bring their friends here."

She credits much of Tim's interest and success in basketball to his dad's coaching.

"Tom is really involved in sports, and has been a great asset to the boys," Terry says. "He's always had the knowledge and experience to be able to give Tim advice and pointers after the game. Their thinking and approach to basketball has gotten to be so much alike that Tim usually knows what his dad's going to say before he even says it."

On Tuesdays and Thursdays, Terry works as an instructor at the Clarkston Pre-School in Independence Township.

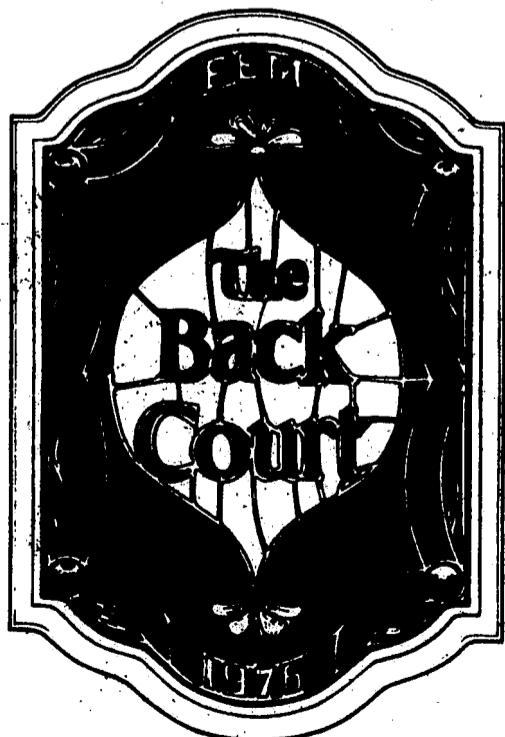

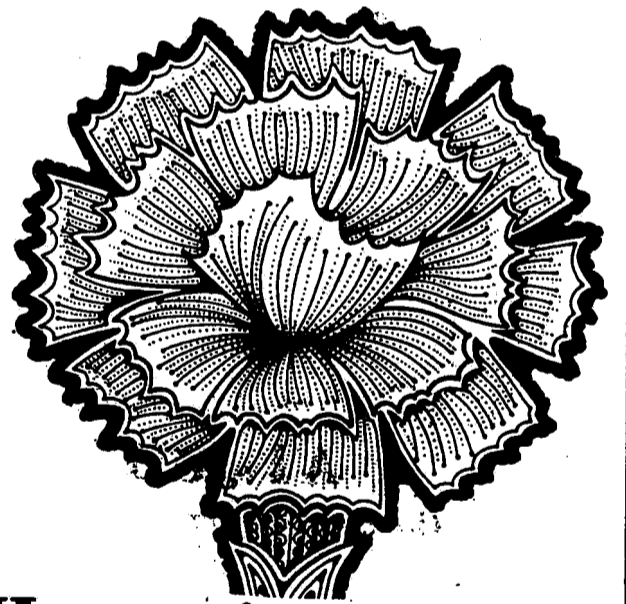

"I've always loved being with the little ones," she says. "Mine are all growing up now, and this gives me the opportunity to work with youngsters."

"But it's just a part-time thing. I want to be home when my children and husband come home--my family comes first."

Terry McCormick's hobbies include painting and music. An example of her talent hangs above the fireplace at the McCormicks' home.

Moms are . . .

By Pine Knob Elementary Pupils

Mothers are people that you can rely on. Mothers are also nice because they love you and they care about you. Mothers give you stuff for your birthday, they give you money to go to the store with and they let you go to a lot of places.

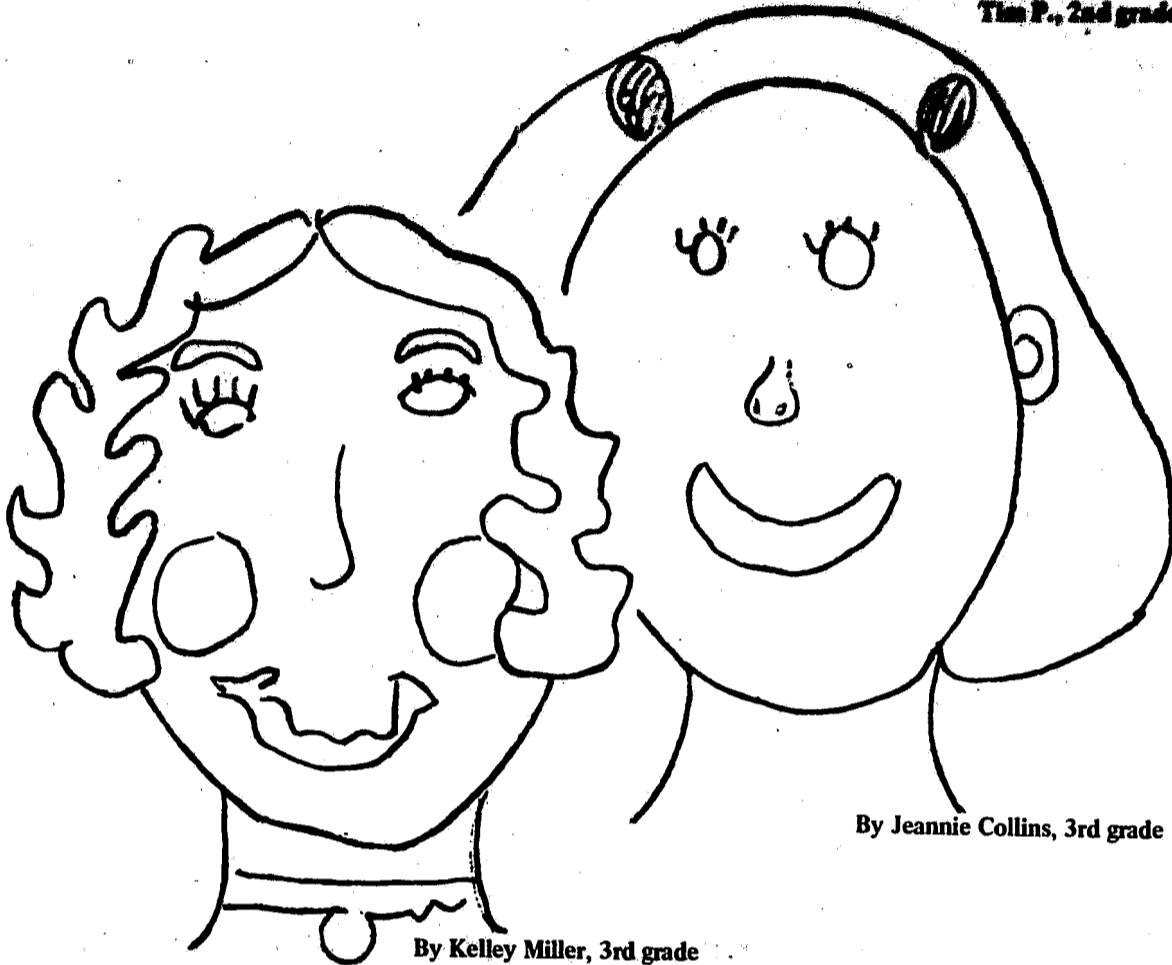

John Murphy, 5th grade

Mothers are very, very nice, they are pretty and very lovable. They cook good food for you and you don't have to pay them money. They give you gum and candy, most of all they take good care of you.

Ronnie Prince, 2nd grade

Mothers are nice but sum times they are mean. nice mothers tack me to a picknic mean mothers send you to your room.

Tim P., 2nd grade

By Jeannie Collins, 3rd grade

By Kelley Miller, 3rd grade

Mothers are kind, lovable and nice. Sometimes mothers are mean only because you did something wrong. Most of the time they are nice. There is one thing mothers are made of and that is love. The End.

Natalie Manning, 3rd grade

Mothers are nice. They teach you not to fight. To be franly too.

Craig M., 3rd grade

Mothers are neat. They let you buy stuff. She lets you join any sport. She'll bake muffins for you.

Robby MacIntosh, 3rd grade

Mothers are dear, nice and sweet, for if your down, they'll give you a treat. Mothers are kind and sometimes mean, but they still love you all the same.

Janice Felath, 3rd grade

Mothers are very good people. They do good things for us. Like drive us to school and make our lunch. They are sometimes funny and sometimes they are mean. And we enjoy them too!

Julie Rule, 3rd grade

Mothers are very very nice. Mothers are very very pretty. Mothers re the best thing in the world. Mothers are the best drivers in the world.

Jenny Miller, 3rd grade

Mothers are nice, sweet, kind. Mothers cheer you up. If you are down, they help you. They buy you things when they don't have very much money. They are really nice.

Jennifer Blagg, 3rd grade

Mothers are beautiful, and sweet. They cook for you. They buy you clothes and shoes. They take you places. They take you to baseball practice.

Billy Jawilk, 3rd grade

Mothers are very nice to me. They always feed me tons of food. They kept me healthy. They always like me.

Paul Hanson, 3rd grade

Mothers are vary speshel pepel. If there were no moms there would be no pepel, and no pepel, no families. That's why moms are speshel.

Stacey VanDeberg, 3rd grade

Mothers are nice. Mothers are intelegent. Mothers are great. Mothers are fun.

Lori Lee, 3rd grade

Mothers are very special. They are someone to talk to, when your dad is away. They take you places. They also yell at you when your bad. That is the bad thing about mothers.

Brent D., 3rd grade

Mothers are nice. I don't no what i would with out my mothers. She buys me things and she cooks, cleans, for me. My Mother is very nice to us so we be nice to her.

Talking about . . .

On Main Street, Clarkston, we asked this week's question in honor of Mother's Day:
What good advice has your mother given you?

"She tells me to watch for cars, and to put my clothes in the hamper."—Peter Brady, Farley Road, Springfield Township, 4 years old.

"My mother told me what everybody else's mother tells them, to be honest, truthful and to care about your fellow-man, and to do your best."—Conard Fulkerson, Oxford, hardware store owner.

"My mother always taught me to accept people for what they are."—Mrs. Emmanuel Starkel, Flint, retired.

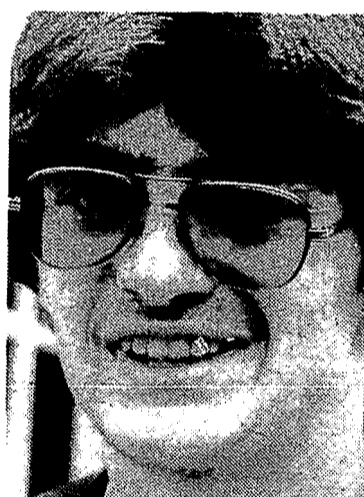

"She always told me to treat other people the way you want to be treated."—Tom host, East Church Street, Clarkston, broker.

"My Mom always told me not to rush into making decisions and to spend my money wisely, not foolishly."—Mark Benjamen, Foster Rd., Independence Township, gardner.

"She used to always say, 'Don't do as I do, do as I say'."—Ilene Reynolds, Waterford Hill Terrace, Independence Township, foreign student advisor at Oakland University.

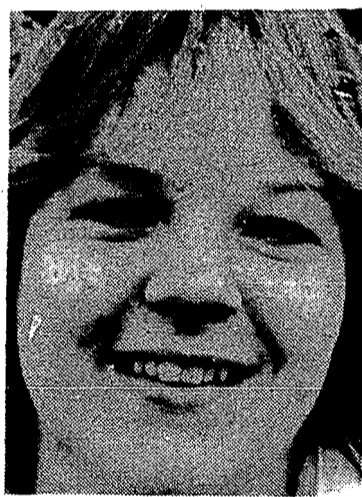

"My Mom always told me to satty out of trouble."—Tom Gavin, Trotter Lane, Springfield Township, mechanic.

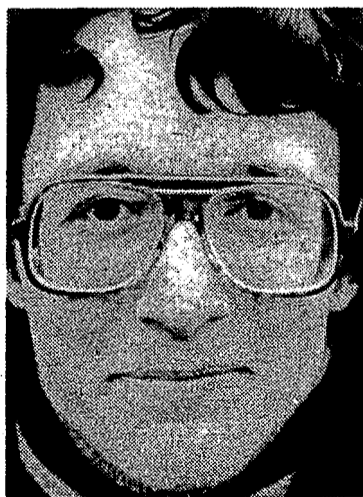

"She tells me not to go with strangers, and to behave myself when I'm out in public."—Wendy Stout, Fairfield Circle, Independence Township.

"My Mom always tells me to be careful when I am driving my motorcycle, and she always tells me to save my money."—Duanne Alexander, Waterford Township, washes cars.

"My Mom tells me not to drink or smoke and to stay out of cars."—Diane Hummer, West Church Street, Clarkston.

"She always tells me to be careful when you're on the road, and to make sure and drop her a line."—Steve Mauti, Allen Road, Independence Township, unemployed.

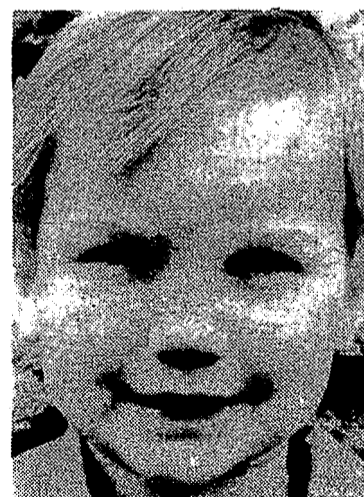

"My mother has always told me not to cheat, to keep myself clean, and to eat right."—Eric McCarty, Clarkston-Orion Rd., Clarkston, paper boy.

"She always told me to be happy, and to take each day as it comes, and to forget the past."—Ann Holmyard, Allen Road, Independence Township.

"She always tells me to be careful and that the University of Michigan is a good school that I should consider going there."—Brett Thayer, Clarkston - Orion Road, Independence Township.

"She always tells me not to talk to strangers, not to play in the street and to stay off of the tractor."—Eric Schlicht, Allen Road, Independence Township, 3 years old.

Volunteer reaps generous bundle of rewards

By Kathy Greenfield

An arts and crafts project made by a retarded woman Ellen Oliver works with as a volunteer hangs in her kitchen.

The token of thanks is a small symbol of the many rewards Ellen says she receives for hours spent each month at the Yarbrow House, a group home in Pontiac.

In addition, Ellen spends extra time with two retarded women, taking them on outings—shopping and such—and to her home on Pheasant Run Road, Independence Township, for dinner and an evening with her family, husband Rick and daughter Jenny.

"You're doing something for other people," says Ellen, "but you get so much back."

Twice each month, she and a friend, Marguerite Ploree of Pontiac, conduct an activity for the about 30 residents at the group home—either a Bingo game or a crafts activity.

Ellen began working as a volunteer for the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) of Oakland County a little over a year ago.

When she talks to other friends about her volunteer work, there seems to be a common misconception about retarded adults, she says.

"People are afraid of retarded people," she says. "There's nothing to be afraid of, exactly the opposite. They're open and loving."

In addition to her volunteer work and duties as a housewife and mother, Ellen works full time as a statistician at the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corp.

"That's one reason I like my volunteer work," she says. "My job is a very tedious one."

Another plus is the fresh perspective it has provided.

"We take everything for granted," says Ellen. "Every little thing—they think it's really something."

Just to be able to share such things as a shopping trip or cooking brings an enthusiastic response from the two women she works with, she says.

"It makes you feel thankful for what you have and appreciate what you have more," Ellen says. "It gives you a whole new outlook on life."

Last week, Ellen and Marguerite were presented with one of eight annual awards presented by ARC—the Citizens Advocacy Award for improving the quality of life for the mentally retarded residents of Oakland County.

More volunteers are needed and men especially could use some male companionship, says Ellen.

All that's needed is a little patience and a desire to give of yourself as a friend, she says.

It's a way, too, to show thanks for the good life.

"I've always been brought up that if you're blessed with having a good home, you should do things for others, Ellen says.

For information on how to volunteer, call ARC in Birmingham at 646-4522.

Ellen and her daughter Jenny share a hug in the living room of their Independence Township home.

Last bloomin' chance

It's your last chance to order red or pink geraniums at $1.75 each from the Clarkston Jaycees. The Jaycees will deliver flowers ordered to your home just in time for Mother's Day, Sunday, May 11. Call 625-3250 to place your order.

Engaged

Terry L. Brown and Douglas G. Walther plan a May 31 wedding. The bride-to-be, daughter of Mark and Kathleen Brown of Grand Blanc, is a stylist at Elston's Hair Studio, Clarkston. Her fiancé, son of George and Grace Walther of Pontiac, is an assessor for Avon Township.

50th anniversary

Donald and Anne Haggart of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, celebrate their golden wedding anniversary May 7. Residents of the township 12 years, the Haggarts formerly lived in Detroit. They have two daughters and one grandson.

Passing the gavel, traditionally

Following a family tradition, Mrs. Frederick Roeser of Clarkston will accept the presidential gavel of the Oakland County Dental Auxiliary May 8. She will receive the gavel from outgoing president Mrs. Douglas Roeser, her sister-in-law, also of Clarkston. Dentists Douglas and Frederick Roeser share a practice in Waterford. According to Mrs. Douglas Roeser, the doctor's mother was involved in the initial formation of the auxiliary nearly 40 years ago. Their father was also a dentist in the area.

New auxiliary president, Mrs. Frederick Roeser, a 12-year resident of the village, has been active in Clarkston Elementary School's PTO, treasurer of the auxiliary, and involved in dental health education. Members of the Oakland County Dental Auxiliary will honor their new president at a luncheon, May 8, at the Fox & Hounds Restaurant, Bloomfield Hills. The luncheon is open to anyone involved in the dental field. There will be a $10 charge. An R.S.V.P. is requested by April 30. Call Mrs. Daniel Rogers at 352-5894.

Travelers

A troupe of Clarkston and Davisburg residents and their relatives from all over the state traveled to South Carolina over the Easter holiday. Michael Lumm, a former Clarkston resident, threw out the invitation for the family to visit him in Charleston, and partake of southern hospitality. Marjorie Garrison, and Mr. and Mrs. James Lumm and their three children, all from Davisburg, were joined by Carol Rexford and her three children from Clarkston. When all 28 members of the family assembled from their motor home and camper road travels, they spent a week in the sun, deep sea fishing in the Gulf Stream and playing at Disney World.

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Konkle

Evening ceremony

Judith Lynn Pierce became the bride of Greg Konkle in an evening ceremony April 19 at St. Andrews Episcopal Church of Drayton Plains. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivyl Pierce of Clark Road, Springfield Township. A Clarkston High School graduate, she is employed by Concord Drugs. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Konkle of Brandon Township and is employed by Borden. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Maid of honor was Patrice O'Neil and bridesmaids were Terry Wiley, Elizabeth Pierce, Mary Pennartz and Phyllis Pennartz. Ring bearer was Brent Bunnidge. Best man was the bridegroom's brother Dave Konkle. Also serving as groomsmen were Jere Brewer, Marty Esselink, Jim Walls and Mark Wummel. The reception was held at the Oakland Country Sportsmen's Club, Independence Township. Mr. and Mrs. Konkle took their honeymoon trip to Niagra Falls and Canada.

Honors

Robin Bisha was recently selected to join the Smith College, Northhampton, Mass., Choir for the 1980/81 school year. The choir selects its members from the freshman chorus group, basing choices on those demonstrating outstanding ability in madrigal and concert singing. Robin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bisha of Holcomb Street, Clarkston. *** Larry P. Bennett is one of six Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, students named "Outstanding Senior" by the transportation technology department faculty. The selection was made on the basis of scholastic achievement and participation in various department activities. Larry, an aircraft engineering major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bennett Jr., of Northview Drive, Independence Township. ***

Graduating magna cum laude, Otto E. White recently received a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, where he majored in graphic design. White, a 1973 graduate of Clarkston High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. White, Hummingbird Lane, Independence Township. White and his wife Sally reside in Battle Creek where he is employed as a designer with Andrew Karzmann and Associates.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

Being a working mother sometimes creates a problem with preparation of the evening meal, but not at Gene Collins' home.

Sharing his recipes for chicken in chips and oven rice is 15-year-old Blair who hopes someday to have chef before his name. Blair lives on Havelock in Independence Township with his parents, Ronald and Gene Collins, four brothers and one sister.

Happy Mother's Day to all of our mothers.
Chicken in Chips

1 fryer, cut-up and skinned
Dip in melted oleo (1 stick per chicken) and 1/2 tsp. garlic powder. Roll chicken pieces in crushed potato chips. Place in baking pan, uncovered. Bake 350 degrees, one hour.

Oven Rice

In buttered casserole, put 1 cup instant rice and 1 cup water. Add 1/2 stick oleo (cut into pieces). Add 1/2 tsp. salt, cover with foil put into oven with chicken. 30 min. (Or 20 minutes at 400 degrees).

While the chicken and rice are cooking, fix a tossed salad and vegetable.
Time total 1 1/4 hours

Chemistry key to care-free pool

Owning a swimming pool should be "a lot of fun, not a lot of work," says Peter Gannon, owner of Poolmart, 5738 M-15, Independence Township.

In addition to selling above and below ground vinyl-lined pools, pool equipment, supplies and spas, Poolmart also maintains a laboratory to analyze water samples.

And proper attention to water chemistry is the key to happy pool ownership, Gannon says. "The analyzing service is kind of our specialty here," he says.

"We have a full lab and can test the water for 10-12 different qualities—things like chlorine, pH, iron and calcium."

Ninety-nine percent of the problems people have with their pools are attributable to poor water chemistry, says Gannon.

"I don't mind giving free advice and will analyze any (water) sample brought in for nothing," Gannon says.

"By following the advice of a pool professional and performing simple, regular maintenance, your pool will be what it should be—a source of enjoyment and relaxation."

Although Poolmart opened just over a month ago, Gannon is no stranger to the pool business.

Doing business

"I've been involved in aquatics all my life," he says. "I was a swimmer in high school and have been a diving and swimming instructor. As far as the business aspect is concerned, I've been in the pool business for about 10 years."

Gannon, his wife and family currently make their home in Troy, but are contemplating a move to the Clarkston area once the new business is firmly established.

"This area is economically and socially right for a pool business," he says, explaining his decision to locate in Independence Township.

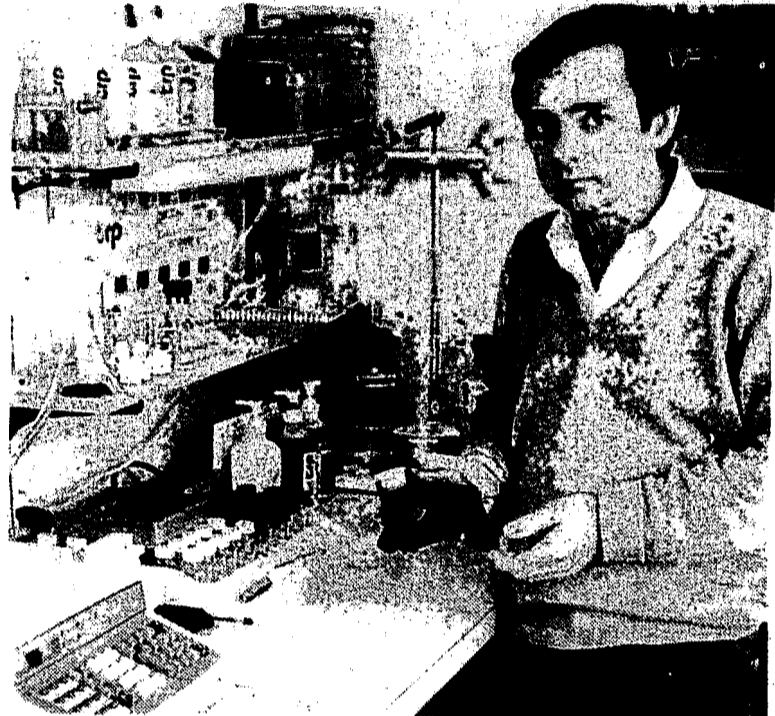

"And again, you can't just sell someone a pool and forget about them—they're going to need chemicals and professional advice to maintain their water quality.

"These are things you can't get from a department store where the salesman is selling pool chemicals one day and shoes the next," Gannon says.

To help pool owners understand pool maintenance procedures, Gannon suggests they attend a free two-and-a-half hour pool school tentatively scheduled for mid-May.

"It's free, and anybody who's interested can attend," he says.

Those wishing to participate can call Gannon at 625-0729.

Poolmart owner Peter Gannon analyzes a water sample. Water chemistry, he says, is the key to trouble-free pool enjoyment.

Miles appointed

Floyd Miles Jr. of Independence Township has been appointed by Gov. William Milliken to the State Emergency Medical Services Advisory Council.

Miles, of Foster Road, is president of Fleet Ambulance Service, Bloomfield Hills.

Subject to Senate confirmation of the appointment, he is to serve as the ambulance association representative for the remainder of a term expiring Jan 8.

Miles is president of the Michigan Association of Ambulance Services and a member of the Oakland County Emergency Medical Services and the Southeastern Michigan Emergency Medical Services.

Ritter named to EDC

Thomas Ritter, owner of Ritter's Farm Market, Independence Township, has been appointed to the board of directors of the Economic Development Corporation (EDC) of Oakland County.

Ritter is one of 15 appointees recently named by Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy.

After confirmation by the county board of commissioners, the EDC is to begin meeting immediately to consider pending applications from private firms.

The EDC will issue tax-exempt revenue bonds for various projects.

Proceeds of bond sales will be used to acquire property, develop land, construct buildings and finance equipment on behalf of private companies. The companies will repay the bonds, at no cost to county taxpayers, Murphy said.

Acting manager

Denise Schons was recently promoted to acting manager of the Pontiac State Bank Dixie-Maybee office, Independence Township. Also a resident of the township, she and her husband Delmer have two children, Bill and Mark.

Plays, exhibits, concerts outside Clarkston-Independence-Springfield

Meadow Brook Music Festival's Sunday pops series opens Jan 29 with Neville Martinson conducting the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in Ravel's "Bolero," newly popularized in the movie "10."

Other musical performances scheduled for the series include John Philip Sousa marches, pianist Peter Nero, a laser-light show with tunes from "Star Wars" and "Close Encounter of the Third Kind" and duo-pianists Ferrante and Teicher.

The festival runs through August and Sunday performances are to begin at 7:30 p.m. with the exception of Aug. 10 when show time is 8:30 p.m.

Information on season tickets and a brochure may be obtained by calling the Meadow Brook box office at 377-2010.

"New Music in Pontiac," a series of four new chamber jazz concerts presented the Creative Arts Collective, is to open Saturday, May 17.

Solo and duets for woodwinds and piano are to be featured by composer and pianist Anthony Davis and woodwindist Anthony Holland.

Tickets are $5 for the concert or $15 for the series.

They may be purchased at Pontiac City Hall, Pontiac Art Center, Pontiac Parks and Recreation and Pontiac Northern and Central high schools; write the Creative Arts Collective, c/o Spencer Barefield, 16641 Princeton, Detroit 48221; or call 863-5197.

"Best Boy," winner of an Oscar in April as Best Documentary, is to have its area premiere at Detroit Film Theatre Friday and Saturday, May 16-17.

Two performances are scheduled each evening, at 7 and 9:30 p.m., in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

Tickets at $2 may be purchased in advance at the museum ticket office (832-2730) during regular museum hours--9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. every day but Monday.

Tickets will also be on sale at the door.

"A Little Bit of Everything Concert" is to be presented by the West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra with guest pianist Flavio Varani on Sunday, May 11, at 7:30 p.m.

The concert is to be held in the West Bloomfield Auditorium, 4925 Orchard Lake, West Bloomfield.

Tickets are $6 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. Master Charge, Visa and American Express credit cards may be used.

An afterglow reception in the showrooms of Cauley Chevrolet on Orchard Lake Road is planned by the West Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra's Women's Association.

"The Matchmaker," a farce comedy by Thornton Wilder, is to be on stage at Mason Junior High School May 2, 3, 9 and 10.

The Lakeland Players are to perform the play in the school's auditorium, 3835 W. Walton, Waterford Township.

Curtain time is 8 p.m., and tickets are to be on sale at the door for $3 and $2.

For more information, call 623-7928.

Village Players' 'Two by Two' a success

"Two By Two"

Music by Richard Rodgers
Lyrics by Martin Charin
Clarkston Village Players

The Clarkston Village Players try few musicals, but their last production of the season this year is one and fortunately "Two By Two" will be around for three weekends. It's that good.

You might not think the story of Noah and the Ark from the Old Testament could be made into a successful musical. But, it could and has. The music is by Richard Rodgers and lyrics by Martin Charin with a book that is strictly New York Jewish by way of the Bible.

Noah, played by Roy Dennison, is a 600-year-old self-effacing man who gets the word from God that the earth is to be destroyed by a flood and he is to build a boat to protect his family and two of every animal in the world.

Noah's response when he hears this is, "You want me to build a what?" Then, he sings, "Why me?"

Trying to convince his wife and three sons and two daughter-in-laws that he has actually had a conversation with God and that as a family they are to proceed to build an ark leads them to declare in song that the old man should be "put away."

However, in a moving scene at the end of the first act, the family is convinced of God's plan when they look in the valley and see all the animals in the world gathered peacefully waiting for the ark to be finished.

Conflict in the story occurs when Japheth, Noah's youngest son, played by Larry Bate, expresses his humanitarian belief that God has no right to be so vengeful as to destroy the rest of mankind. He says he won't go on the ark and furthermore has no intention of getting married.

The other members of the family attempt to convince him that the natural thing is for people and animals to go two by two. In one of two memorable songs from the show, "Two By Two" swings merrily along with witty lyrics. Japheth remains unconvinced.

Goldie, Marcia Cybul, a Golden Girl from the wicked town, is invited along for Japheth and the young man is shanghied aboard as the rains start to fall.

Act two views life and the unfolding of the conflict aboard the ark over the next year. Japheth and his father must patch their philosophical differences and Japheth must find a mate.

The second proves easier as nature takes over and Japheth sings to his brother's wife the other song that will be remembered as you leave the Depot Theatre: "I Do Not Know A Day I Didn't Love You." Rachel and he find that they are better suited to each other than Rachel was with Ham.

The waters recede and eventually Noah and his family leave the ark, Noah laments, as they go out to rebuild and repopulate the world, everything depends on his three sons who are, he says, "a loafer, a miser and a philosopher."

It is the character of Noah that holds this musical up making it a worthwhile theatrical experience.

In this case, the Clarkston Village Players have chosen well in casting Roy Dennison in the lead. He is a thorough professional who brings depth and substance to Noah.

Noah, [left] played by Roy Dennison, directs his youngest son Japheth [Larry Bate] to remove the rudder and let the Ark float as it will as his eldest son Shem [Chuck Storey] watches.

Judy Rood does a fine job with the role of Esther, while of the three sons, Larry Bate as Japheth comes off as the most engaging.

While Sandy Grider as Leah, and Miriam Bate, as Rachel, the latter particularly in her duet in the second act with Japheth, have their moments, it is Marcia Cybul as Goldie who has the voice and outgoing stage movements that mark the trained talent.

"Two By Two" will play on May 9, 10, 16 and 17 with a special benefit for Clarkston Area Youth Assistance on May 15.

Have you hugged your dog today?

This week, the week of May 4, is "Be Kind to Animals Week"... have you hugged your dog today, or scratched your kitty, or taken the time to observe one of the myriad of birds serenading the arrival of spring?

What is all this be kind to animals about anyway? What does it really mean?

I would like to look at animals as moral objects, the philosophical implications and development of humaneness, and animal rights.

Roger Caras, well known in the world of media, says the humane movement is a form of development and growth and human progress. He believes we have moved from arrogance, stupidity, brutality and alienation toward a place of grace, a place of gentle touch and aesthetic sophistication.

The predecessor of today's humanitarian was the first man, woman, or child who looked at a butterfly without squashing it, or the first person who listened to the song of a bird without drooling like Pavlov's dog.

The first child to reach out and feel, not just touch, the fur of a pup or a cub was our spiritual parent.

Caras suggests we must continue to progress toward gentleness despite the ghastly over-population of companion animals, leghold traps, trophy hunting with bows and arrows and rodeos. We can be the society that aids in this progression.

Dr. Bernard Rollin states the key to being a moral person is to have a sense of a person's needs and interests, to be aware we can help or hinder the person in his pursuits, and to have a sense that certain things are right or wrong, like killing for no reason.

The condition described applies to animals as well as humans.

We know an animal's needs. We know that they suffer. We know they experience pleasure. Animals communicate their needs through signs.

It follows, then, if it is wrong to hurt a human being in a certain way, it is wrong to hurt the animal.

Dr. Rollin summarizes saying that there is no morally relevant difference between man and animal. If people have moral rights, animals do.

If legal rights flow from moral rights as they do in the case of humans, they apply to animals as well.

What kind of rights would an animal have? Number one: An animal should have the right to live and grow in a natural and comfortable way. Does that mean tied to a dog house?

Number two: Animals used by people have the right to be treated with kindness and live without pain.

Number three: Farm and pet animals have a right to the correct amount of food, space, shelter and care that each one needs.

Number four: Animals and birds in the wild have a right to carry out their lives without unnecessary disturbance from us who share this planet.

Take action during "Be Kind to Animals Week." H.R. 1297 is being reviewed by the committee in interstate and foreign commerce. It deals with banning the leg hold trap.

Send a card or a letter to Rep. Harley O. Staggers, chairman; Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce; House Office Building, Room 2366; Washington, D.C. 20515.

Send copies of the letter to your Michigan representatives, John D. Dingell and David A. Stockman, at the same address.

Please send any questions or inquiries about your animals to Ann's Ark in care of The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston 48016.

Coping with kids

Just you, me... and your children

This column could be subtitled "You knew before you married me that you were getting a total package" or "Love my kids if you want to love me."

It deals with the person who takes children into a second marriage. This is the so-called "package deal."

Often it is a woman, previously married and with the custody of her children, who remarries. Even if her husband were married before, his children in many cases live with their mother.

When a woman remarries, it is quite frequently with two things in mind. One, is to have someone to love and care for her; the second is to find a good parent, father figure, for her children.

No matter how much time is spent with those kids before marriage, it is always different afterwards. The tie becomes firmer and the new parent is officially stepparent with the end of the courship period.

Now, the expectations one takes into marriage are set into motion. If a woman seemed to have few expectations during dating or living together, those change and take on serious dimensions when marriage takes place.

It is now expected that the man she has married will be a "real" father to the children and treat them fairly, lovingly and affectionately. She may expect, at least unconsciously, that her new husband love her children as much as she does.

After marriage, it is almost certain that she will be looking closely to see if he is living up to the expectations she has for the "father of my children."

Marriage problems can quickly occur if the new parent is not treating the children in the expected way. The wife may interpret it as a failure to love her if her children are not being handled in a manner of which she approves.

How this is worked out depends on honesty and acceptance. Honest communication and acceptance of expectations and feelings is critical if problems are to be ironed out.

It may be quite honest for a stepfather to frankly admit he does not always love her children. The wife should be able to hear that and accept that he does not always love her children in the same way she does.

It is also important there be communication of the father's hostile and resentful feelings for those children.

While temporary, perhaps, it may be important to express that the children come between him and his new wife or that they don't seem to accept him as much as he would like.

For the wife, it is essential she make the distinction that because he sometimes has these feelings about her children does not mean he loves her less.

Finally, it is important for both to recognize that because they express a range of feelings about marriage, children and expectations in marriage, does not mean either will give up on the marriage or leave.

She's 'Ma' to more than one family

By Marilyn Trumper

Students in the drama department and Thespian Society at Clarkston High School call her "Ma."

Her two daughters and son Kirk, pro ballplayer for the Detroit Tigers, call her "Mom."

For more than 29 years Barb Gibson, 49, has been teacher, mother, hostess, fan, friend and confidant all rolled into one.

"As my family gets older, the more I seem to enjoy them," Barb said. "We are a tight family, very close, and see each other constantly."

Barb has been teaching in the Clarkston Community School District for 18 years.

"As far as the kids at school calling me Ma, I think it's for a variety of reasons," she said, smiling. "I think it's because of all the hours we've put in together working on plays. You spend 3-4 hours every day after school working together for 10 weeks and a closeness forms."

"It is a relaxed class, it's not regimented, and they feel they can confide in me about their problems."

Barb currently teaches English, drama and theater.

In the auditorium of Clarkston High School, about 20 students are shuffling papers in preparation for music class.

"A singer and dancer have to warm up before a performance just as an athlete does," Barb said quieting the class with her voice. "They have to warm up their muscles and stretch to prevent hurting themselves. A ball player will practice throwing a ball, and each time step back a little further so he doesn't hurt his arm."

The class listens and asks questions. They know Barb is no rookie when it comes to ball players.

Barb and her husband Robert, a math teacher at Waterford-Mott High School have lived in Independence Township in the same home more than 29 years. There they raised three children, became grandparents and saw their son off to a professional baseball career.

"I'll never forget the day we took Kirk down to sign the Tiger contract. There we sat in Jim Campbell's office and I kept thinking, 'I just don't believe it.' It's not the kind of thing you think a child of yours would ever do," Barb said.

Picture the mother on the sidelines of any little league ballgame. They're always there with the cooler of lemonade and pocket full of encouraging words.

"I've spent my life sitting on bleachers," Barb laughs. "Or on a folding chair. Even now I try to attend as many of the Tiger games I can. And when Kirk was in college, we always went to the games."

A mother's life is a jack-of-all-trades challenge. Barb remembers a challenge her son once presented.

"One day Kirk came home with his college roommate, a huge guy who filled the doorway when he walked in. I didn't have a lot of notice for dinner preparation, so I fixed hamburgers and a triple serving of scalloped potatoes, and a salad," she said.

"Well, the guy absolutely inhaled the food, and between him and the family, we drank a gallon of milk. Every time I asked him if he wanted more he said, 'I believe I will.' When I served the ice cream I gave him a big bowl and he was ready for more," Barb said.

"Our home was always open to our children's friends, and they were encouraged to bring people home with them," she said.

All the children have moved out. Her two daughters are married, and Kirk is away playing ball with the Tigers. It is the high schoolers who keep her busy now.

"As a mother I feel I've watched my children succeed. They have all three turned out well. They're happy and we enjoy each other," Barb said. "So often it winds up with parents not wanting to take the time to be involved with their children's lives."

Barb hasn't had to feed any roommates for awhile. Her latest challenge is feeding a hungry ballplayer when he is home.

Below, Barb shares the secret of keeping her centerfielder son from being hungry on stops home between games.

Buffeted from all sides with questions, Barb Gibson, theater teacher at Clarkston High School, has the situation under control. After directing the student toward the work to be done in the prop room back stage, she's ready for class response on the definition of a tragedy.

Mom and Teena's Casserole Steak
Fresh Asparagus Spears
Baked Potatoes
Jackie's Tossed Salad
Grandma Schell's Homemade Rolls
LOTS of Milk
Grayce's Chocolate Angel Food Cake Torte

Mom and Teena's Casserole Steak

Serves six.

2 lbs. round steak, 3/4 inch thick
2 c. diced carrots
2 c. diced celery
1 medium onion, chopped
2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper

Cut round steak into serving pieces. Pound flour into the pieces. Brown slowly on both sides and place one layer in bottom of casserole dish.

Place some of the carrots, celery and onion on the meat. Salt and pepper to taste. Continue layering until the meat and vegetables have all been put into dish.

In the pan used to cook the meat, add 2 to 3 c. water and bring to a boil, scraping the bottom of the pan as it boils.

Pour the liquid over the meat in the casserole dish and bake for about 1 1/2 hours at 325 degrees (until tender).

Jackie's Tossed Salad

Break a small head of lettuce into pieces.

Add diced celery, tomatoes, carrots, fresh mushroom pieces, cucumbers, diced onions and green peppers.

Toss lightly. Add 1 package mozzarella cheese pieces, about 1 c., and 1 can pitted black olives.

Toss lightly again and serve with your favorite dressing.

Grandma Schell's Rolls

Combine 2 c. scalded milk mixed with 1/2 c. sugar, 2 tsp. salt and 3 T. shortening. Soften 2 cakes yeast in 1/4 c. lukewarm water. Add 1 tsp. sugar and stir into milk mixture.

Add 2 beaten eggs and stir in 7 c. flour. Store covered in the refrigerator for 2 or 3 hours.

Shape and allow to rise for 2 or 3 more hours at room temperature. Bake at 375 degrees until brown (about 10 minutes).

Grayce's Chocolate Angel Food Cake

In a double boiler mix 24 marshmallows, 1/2 c. milk and 8 Almond Hershey bars. Melt the ingredients, stirring constantly.

When this has cooled, fold in 1/2 pint whipped whipping or 1 small carton Cool Whip. Spread between the angel food cake that has been sliced into 5 layers.

Frost outside of cake with whipped cream or Cool Whip and garnish with shaved chocolate.

Refrigerate until very cool, at least 3 hours.

Barb Gibson teaches enthusiastically with the use of anecdotes and examples, capturing her classes' attention.
