Ontario plane crash claims three lives

By Kathy Greenfield

The crash of a single-engine ariplane claimed the lives of three members of a Clarkston family and left the fourth member with severe injuries when their plane was forced to land in a rocky field near Owens Sound, Ontario, Friday evening.

Dead are Robert Dobson, 37, and his children Timothy, 15, and Jennifer, 11.

Dobson and his daughter were dead at the scene and his son died at the hospital.

Janet Dobson, 36, was treated at a hospital near the crash site and then taken to Toronto General Hospital where surgery for multiple injuries was performed Saturday.

She was in critical condition and in a coma Monday.

The Dobsons, of East Washington Street, had lived in Clarkston over 15 years.

He owned Dobson and Rogers Insurance Agency on Airport Road, Waterford Township.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, an Independence Township resident, had been a close friend of the Dobsons some six years and his wife Kathy knew them about 15 years, he said.

They were close friends, vacationing together occasionally and spending time together as families, Patterson said.

Dobson had flown Patterson to a speech he made in Lansing the day before the crash, and Patterson said they had flown together on several occasions.

Patterson described him as "just a neat guy."

He was well-liked by his friends," he said. "Ron was a very unique individual. He was self-made, had a very good insurance business and he was just uncanny when it came to mechanics—he was a very good mechanic."

The crash occurred around 6:30 p.m. Friday when the Dobsons were flying in their Piper Cherokee Arrow to the wedding of a cousin on Manitoulin Island, Canada.

The plane developed engine trouble, Patterson said.

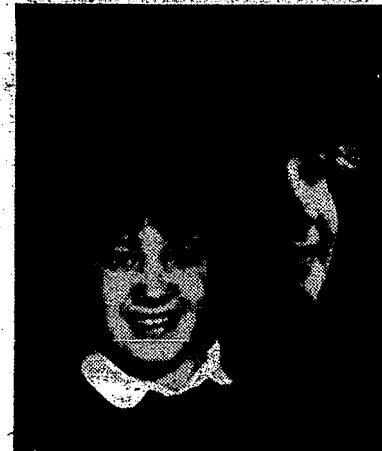

Dobson maintained radio contact and indicated over the radio he would have to take the plane down.

Robert and Janet Dobson were Clarkston residents over 15 years.

Timothy Dobson

Jennifer Dobson

"He landed it in a field," Patterson said. "From the air it looked good, but it was rocky. As soon as it landed, it crashed—went up on its nose."

As other Clarkston-area residents reacted to the news of the crash Saturday, they expressed feelings similar to Patterson's.

"We're going to miss them," he said. "The kids were beautiful. There's just going to be a real big hole in our lives."

The Dobsons were members of the Clarkston United Methodist Church.

"They were certainly a very fine family," said the Rev. James Balfour, pastor of the church. "They were good members of our church and respected in the community. Our whole parish has been calling."

Timothy was a sophomore at Clarkston High School. He was a member of the CHS symphonic and marching bands. His classmates have dedicated the spring concert to him and his family.

Jennifer was a sixth grader at Clarkston Elementary School.

She sang in the church youth choir, was a Girl Scout and took gymnastics lessons.

The Dobsons were also members of the Clarkston Dance Club and Mrs. Dobson worked part-time at the insurance agency, helping with secretarial duties.

Funeral services for Ronald, Timothy and Jennifer were to be held Wednesday morning at the Clarkston United Methodist Church with burial following at Lakeview Cemetery, Clarkston.

Survivors include their wife and mother, Janet; parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Dobson of Vassar; Mrs. Dobson's mother and the children's grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Buck of Davison; and grandfather and great-grandfather Chester Dobson of Saginaw.

Memorials may be made to Clarkston United Methodist Church.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Lewis E. Wint Funeral Home, Independence Township.

Commission nixes mobile home park

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township residents applauded the planning commission's decision to recommend denial on rezoning 51.5 acres in the southern part of the township to accommodate a mobile home park.

After nearly two hours of discussion Thursday night, the Independence Township Planning Commission voted unanimously to accept the planner's recommendation to deny the rezoning of the land south of Maybee Road and east of I-75.

Persons in the 51-member audience presented much opposition to the rezoning.

"Our roads no matter in what direction you come from couldn't handle all that traffic," said Janice Doolittle. Rohr

Road, Independence Township. "There is also the question of the tax structure."

Other members of the audience said the present zoning should be maintained.

"This trailer park does not belong in our community. It is not in the master plan," said William Vandermark, Cherrylawn Road, Independence Township. "The zoning speaks for itself."

"Every effort should be made to adhere to the original zoning," said Edward Thompson, North Main Street, Clarkston. "I am not opposed to the trailer park, but I consider the zoning a downgrade, not an upgrade."

Two members of the audience spoke in favor of the trailer park. "The master plan can be changed the same way it was created," said Iva Sommers Caverly, Waklon Road, Independence Township. "There is a need for low cost, low care housing and the mobile home parks fill that need."

"I think this area needs more trailer parks, and I am in favor of it," said Oakley, Sashabaw Road, Independence Township.

With little discussion, members of the commission agreed with the planner's report to deny the rezoning.

"I just want to say," said James Brennan, Commission member, "that you have to look at the dollars and cents of this development. It is a high density population development, and cannot pay for its services."

In his report, planner, Tod Kilroy gave several reasons why he felt the rezoning of the land should be denied.

An area southwest of the 51 acres is zoned for apartments and condominiums, Kilroy said.

Both a multi-family residential development and a mobile home park would create too great a density in one area of the township, he said.

Kilroy also noted that the proposed plan for the mobile home park outlines 400 trailer sites within the 51 acres, and that to remain in keeping with the township's requirement no more than four units would be allowed per acre.

Following the meeting, Gregory Christopher, who filed the request, said he was unhappy with the decision.

"I am disappointed, but before I decide what I'm going to do, I.. have to exhaust every possibility in the township," he said.

Murder suspect due in court

Ronnie C. Waters, 17, a suspect in the May 3 murder of Deborah Porcelli, Independence Township, is scheduled for a preliminary exam May 19, at 2 p.m. in Oakland County 48th District Court.

Waters, a Pontiac resident, was charged May 7 with murder, two counts of possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony and assault with intent to murder.

Twenty-eight-year-old Deborah Porcelli was shot and killed at the Miracle Mile Drive-In on Telegraph Road, Bloomfield Township, early this month.

As she and her husband Joseph, 29, were parked watching the outdoor movie, several men approached their car and asked for a light, according to police.

When Porcelli said he couldn't help them, two shots were fired into the car according to police, injuring Porcelli with flying glass and killing his wife. The five men then fled on foot.

Four other people allegedly involved in the incident are to be used as witnesses, according to Bloomfield Township police.

Waters is being held in the Oakland County Jail without bond.

Board okays first bike path

Skateboarders, runners and bicyclists can prime themselves for the newest safety path to be constructed in Independence Township.

Last week, the Independence Township Board unanimously approved construction of the first safety path from the planning commission's full outline of proposed safety path routes.

The new path is to run the length of the west side of Sashabaw Road, from Clinton Road north to Maybee Road, and will be approximately one mile long, according to Frederick Ritter, township treasurer.

The total length of all the proposed safety path routes equal approximately 41 miles, 32 miles along paved roads and nine miles next to gravel roads.

At the meeting, Ritter said the west side of Sashabaw Road was chosen for the path, because the route would follow the path of the underground sewer and all the above ground obstacles had already been cleared.

Following the meeting, Ritter said the area was chosen, because it fulfills the requirements set by the Community Development Block Grant fund.

The development program stipulates safety paths must be built in an area where the greatest needs would be met.

Currently, the township has $50,000 to pay for safety path construction and expects an additional $20,000 by October 1, following federal approval of the Community Development Block Grant application.

At the meeting, the board directed Ritter to secure two additional bids for the project.

Until a contractor has been hired, the type of surface for the proposed bike path won't be known.

Local question

PROPOSED FIRE SPECIAL ASSESSMENT

● Shall the Township of Independence (on village ballots—Village of Clarkston) acting under Act 134 of the Public Acts of 1970 create a special assessment district of the entire township for the purpose of providing fire protection?

Such special assessment shall be levied annually as determined by the township board (village council) and shall be in excess of any constitutional limitation. If and when levied, such special assessment will be in place of and instead of the present fire protection millage. Said millage, if levied, shall be to a maximum of 10 mills.

● The question was placed on the presidential primary election ballot after township firefighters conducted a petition drive and collected 1,369 signatures asking that it be included.

Previously, the township had denied Fire Chief Frank Ronk's request to place the question on the ballot.

Ronk favors the method of funding the fire department, because he said the act offers protection from millage rollbacks in the Headlee amendment and other proposed tax-cut amendment and also provides the best method for providing tax dollars for fire protection.

● If approved, the present 2-mill fire protection levy passed by voters in 1978 for 10 years would be switched to the special assessment district levy and Ronk said he would ask for 1 additional mill, making the fire protection levy 3 mills.

One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. The special assessment district would last indefinitely and would allow up to 10 mills to be collected, the amount to be set each year by the township board and the village council after a public hearing.

● If voters were unhappy with the board or council's decision on how much millage to levy, they could decide not to re-elect officials or could circulate referendum petitions and place the question on the ballot again and abolish the special assessment district, Ronk said.

Opponents of the special assessment district state several reasons—the 10 mill limit is unnecessary, a special assessment district gives businesses a tax break and the township has other priorities with needed tax increases for fire protection and the library.

Ronk said if special assessment proposal fails, fire department services will have to be cut, and the most likely area would be emergency medical services.

Statewide ballot

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES AND REPUBLICAN DELEGATES TO OAKLAND COUNTY CONVENTION

● Voters will choose whether to vote for Democratic or Republican presidential candidates after they are in the voting booth, behind the privacy of the curtain.

Once a vote is cast in either party, the machine will lock out the other party.

In eight of the 11 township and village precincts, candidates for delegates to the Oakland County Republican convention will be on the ballot.

The county delegates chosen will elect delegates to the state convention and at the state convention, delegates to the national convention in Detroit will be selected.

● Democratic convention delegates will be elected at the Aug. 5 primary election.

On the ballot for Democratic presidential candidates are Lyndon H. LaRouch-Jr., Edmund Brown and uncommitted.

President Jimmy Carter and candidate Edward Kennedy do not appear on the ballot, because they asked that their names be withdrawn from the race in Michigan.

On the ballot for Republican presidential candidates are George Bush, Benjamin Fernandez, Ronald Reagan, Harold Stassen, John B. Anderson and uncommitted.

● Anderson, who plans to run for president as an independent candidate, requested his name be removed from the ballot, but was too late.

She's got style

Jill Clark is all smiles as she models an outfit during the luncheon Monday at Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center. Food was prepared by students enrolled in the food service classes and models were retail marketing students. Fashions, hair styles and make-up were provided by shops in The Clarkston Mills shopping mall. Proceeds from the fashion show and luncheon are to be used to provide refreshments for all students at the school after awards ceremonies held in June.

Police mill on Springfield ballot

Springfield Township voters will be asked to renew a 1-mill property tax levy for police protection when they go to the polls in Michigan's presidential primary election May 20.

● "The current millage doesn't actually expire until 1981, but we put it on the primary ballot so that we don't have to call a special election," said Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

One mill is $1 for every $1,000 of assessed property value.

"This millage has been in effect for five years, and it's the only way we can pay for our police protection," Walls said. "If it doesn't pass, we're in trouble."

Springfield Township contracts with the Oakland County

Sheriff's Department for its police services, he said.

"I really don't have any idea how the people will react," Walls added. "With the mood being the way it is, I think a new millage would have a lot of trouble passing. But this is strictly a renewal."

The police millage will be the only township proposition on the primary ballot, Walls said.

Absentee voters still have time

Independence Township residents who intend to vote in the May 20 Presidential Primary election, but cannot make it to the polls still have time to file absentee voter ballots.

● Voting booths for absentee voters will be open May 14-16 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Independence Township Hall, 90 North Main Street, Clarkston.

Saturday, May 17, the polls will be open for absentee voters from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the township hall. May 17 is the last day requests will be accepted to mail absentee voter ballots to homes.

Monday, May 19, absentee voters can vote from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m., at the township hall.

● Residents of Independence Township qualify as absentee voters if they will be gone from the community for the entire time the polls are to be open, if they are over 60 years of age, or are unable to attend the polls without the assistance of another person.

Also, absentee ballots may be cast if their religious doctrine restricts voting, or if they are in jail awaiting arraignment or trial.

● Absentee voter ballots can be picked up at the Independence Township Hall from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the clerk's office.

Ronk, Rose clarify views on fire millage

By Kathy Greenfield

Controversy continues to surround the request for a special fire assessment district facing Independence Township and Clarkston voters on the May 20 presidential primary ballot.

If approved, the special assessment district would include the entire township and village and would allow up to 10 mills to be collected for fire protection each year after a public hearing.

Fire Chief Frank Ronk, who originally proposed the question be placed on the ballot, supports passage of the special assessment district which would be established under Act 134 of Michigan Public Acts of 1970.

"I feel it's the best way to support the operation and funding for the fire department," Ronk said. "It works in other communities (Brandon and Avon townships). There's no reason it wouldn't work here."

The township board refused Ronk's first request to place the question on the May 20 ballot.

Township firefighters then conducted a petition drive in March and gathered about 1,369 signatures of township residents requesting that the question appear on the ballot.

Because only 955 valid signatures were needed, the township board voted to place the millage request on the ballot without verifying the signatures.

Among the most vocal opponents of the creation of a special assessment fire protection district is township Clerk Christopher Rose.

Rose and Ronk were asked to clarify their positions in separate interviews.

"This proposal takes all responsibility and authority away from the people--the township board could do anything they wanted with the fire department, and I think that's wrong," Rose said.

The total millage collected for fire protection would be set each year after a public hearing.

Ronk said he would request only 1 additional mill, making the total assessment for fire protection 3 mills.

One mill is $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation. On a home assessed for $30,000 (or one-half market value), $30 would be collected for each mill.

Presently 1 mill collected in both the township and village provides about $213,000 and drops to $200,000 for special assessments.

In special assessment districts, businesses are not taxed for real property.

"That means businesses will be getting a tax break over individuals which makes it an unfair tax in my opinion," Rose said.

Ronk disagrees.

"I think personal property tax is one of the most unfair taxes we've got," he said. "I don't feel the tools of the trade for people to make their living should be taxed."

One of Ronk's major reasons for requesting the special assessment district was the protection it offers from tax cuts, like the Headlee amendment. As much money as needed would be decided each year and previous millages would not be rolled back, he said.

"My feeling is the people in the state voted for Headlee to limit government spending," Rose said. "If the township, state and county can live with it, then why can't the fire department?"

The need for additional money by the fire department is also a matter of disagreement between Ronk and Rose.

There are three fire stations in the township--Church Street in the village, Maybee Road and at the corner of Sashabaw and Clarkston-Orion roads.

All three stations are staffed 24 hours a day.

There are 11 full-time firefighters, 35 volunteers, four fire trucks and three Emergency Medical Service (EMS) vehicles.

If the special assessment district is not approved, services will have to be cut, Ronk said.

"We have to evaluate that to a point, what's going to be cut, but our most expensive service is medical service," Ronk said. "I hate to keep threatening people not to go with that service, but it's not a threat, it's a fact."

Money is also needed to replace two pumper trucks and a tanker at an average of $75,000 each.

A new headquarters building is also needed and it would cost about $700,000, Ronk said.

"We don't have enough people now," he said about staff size. "We are to the point where our responses are greater than our volunteers can handle--five to six runs a day."

Rose said the fire department has too many full-time staff members, and he suggested using more volunteers. And although he said he would support a 1 mill tax request if it was placed on the ballot for a fire station, Rose said he would do that only after township voters approve additional taxes for police protection and for funds for the township library.

As far as cutting full-time firefighters, Ronk reacted with sarcasm.

"We can force all the fireman, including myself, to go back to a full volunteer staff if that's what the people want," he said. "It will eliminate the need for an additional mill entirely."

"It will cut the service to the community to a dangerous level," he added.

Carriage House to be rebuilt soon

Construction to rebuild the Senior Citizen's Carriage house adjacent to Clintonwood Park on Clarkston - Orion Road should begin soon, according to the project's architect, Constantine V. Micuda.

At last week's meeting, the Independence Township Board voted unanimously to accept the lowers bid of $51,125 submitted by contractor Lanny Jackson.

The project will be paid for entirely with Community Development Block Grant funds, according to Christopher Rose, township clerk.

The foundation and the frame of the old building will be retained and the new building will be constructed from that, Rose said.

Upon completion, the Carriage House will be used by seniors as an all-purpose building.

Our 50th Year

The way I see it

Jerry Roy, a senior at Our Lady of the Lakes High School, lives on Dale Court, Independence Township.

He writes for the school newspaper, "The Tidal Wave," and his vision of Clarkston was a town renovation assignment for his practical English class.

His teacher, Thomas Bailey, sent Jerry's paper to the News.

Although Jerry calls his plans "far-fetched" because of the expense, he would like to see a bigger park in the village.

"If the money was there, it would really be nice to make a little Greenfield Village, but it would be costly," he says.

By Jerry Ray

What Clarkston is in need of is a complete renovation.

There would have to be a lot of changes and they would be costly, but in the long run it might be for the better by attracting more people to Clarkston in future years.

I have thought up a few ideas for changes that would help in making Clarkston the ultimate little town.

All signs in the interior of town would have to be moved out of town and put on a large billboard on either side of the village.

As you enter town from the north side, you will see immediately to your left a large new park with a dozen or so swing sets, a set of large teeter-totters, a few large slides and a fence about six feet high, running along the roadside the entire length of the park.

On the right hand side of the street will be all of the nineteenth century homes that decorate our streets so beautifully today, where the parking lot presently exists there could be another nineteenth century home.

As you enter the town square, you eye will catch all of the little businesses that are there now, but they will all have been distinctly redesigned in beautiful nineteenth century styling.

As you leave the town square, you will come in eye contact with some more early nineteenth century homes, the ones that had been previously removed from the new park area.

This renovation would be extremely costly and time consuming, but after it is done, it would make Clarkston like a mini-Greenfield Village, and make any Clarkstonite proud to say, "I came from Clarkson."

I think the advertisement was for hair dye.

"You're not getting older, you're getting better" was the punch line and women often repeated it when they got together.

The time was the early 1970s and it was frequently talked about during the monthly meetings of our 12-member bridge club.

It was always remembered with a touch of sarcasm and we always laughed.

I was in my 20s then and it was something that really was not part of what I was thinking about—I felt young and was not interested at all in dyeing my hair.

But, of course, time does pass. I figure when you see a person driving a car and wonder, "What's that child doing behind the wheel?" you've hit a turning point.

That is exactly where I am now.

This thought pattern started last week when we were told the tale of the missing-since-1964 class ring found by some students during Sun Day, a clean-up project at Clarkston High School.

The ring was from 1961 and the students found out who lost it with some help from a library aide at the high school who had a relative who was a 1961 CHS grad as well.

I talked with one of the girls who found the ring.

It was really exciting to find something that had been lost for such a long time and then to return it to its original owner, she said.

Clarkston News reporter Al Zawacky had taken pictures during Sun Day and I asked him to do a story about the found class ring to go with the pictures.

As we were talking about it, I happened to mention that 1961 wasn't all that long ago.

It was the year my older sister graduated from Rochester High School—a year I'll always remember, because it was the last time for hundreds of years where the year—1961—could be turned upside down and it would read the same.

Besides, I told Al, I graduated shortly after that and it just doesn't seem that far past in my memories.

Al seems to have a knack for driving home a point.

"Kathy," he said, "it was a long time ago. The CHS students graduating this year weren't even born in 1961."

Darn it, he was right.

This doesn't mean I'll be haunting drug stores searching for hair dye so I won't feel older, but better.

But where are those innovative, refreshing advertising ditties when you need them?

Check it out

by Jim Sherman

In our pursuit to bring our readers facts, truth, and helpful hints we spare no energy. We might spare expense, but no energy.

Toward that end we've surveyed the banks around us and have learned at which bank you can save the most when writing a bad check.

This is serious stuff, now, so pay attention. When you're shopping for bank services you should consider the cost of overdrafts.

Fortunately, for us, when we wrote a bouncy check recently it was done with the bank that charges the least for such mistakes.

Of course, it was a mistake. No one would intentionally write a bad check, would they? That is the ordinary citizen wouldn't. He might try to make the check come mighty close to the balance, but not go into minus figures.

Our Clarkston office received a check the other day for $290.30. Office Manager, Donna Fahrner checked and checked for that amount on the books from that person.

All she could find was $2.60. Donna called the person's home and the husband answered. Donna unloaded the details, giving hubby lots of ammunition for what was to follow.

Wife was called to the phone.

Donna repeated the facts. Wife said, "Oh, my goodness, I wrote a check for the balance in our account. Would you destroy the check, please?"

That's what we mean by writing bad checks by mistake. Actually, it was two mistakes. Donna never should have told the husband the background. Wife may not live it down.

Back to overdrafts, Keatington State Bank charged us only $4 for the bad check. We say "only" in jest. It should still be a buck.

However, had the bad check been written on Citizens Bank in Flint the returned check would cost me $10.

Michigan National Bank charges $10 also. It's only a dollar less for Pontiac State Bank to tell you where you went wrong.

You can save another dollar, pay only $8, if you write a bad check on your Community National Bank account. Oxford Savings Bank will dock you $7 for their returning service.

Competing with Keatington for low are three other banks in our survey. Genesee Merchants Bank and Trust, Lapeer County Bank and Trust, and National Bank of Lapeer are all in the $5 bracket. Happy check writing.

Long-lost ring brings fond memories

By Al Zawacky

Ron Crites had given up all hope of ever finding his 1961 class ring a long time ago.

Which was only understandable--Crites lost the ring 16 years ago when his friend had her purse stolen during a powder puff football game.

"My girl friend had the ring in her purse," Crites says, recalling that fateful day in 1964. "She was playing in the powder puff football game, and had her purse in her locker."

During the game somebody broke into the locker and stole the purse, and although the purse was later recovered, the ring was gone, Crites says.

That appeared to be the end of the story until Karen Kerby and Linda Baynes, two students at Clarkston High School, were picking up rubble by the side of the CHS gym two weeks ago as part of the school's "Sun Day" clean-up activities.

The girls noticed something shiny on the ground, picked it up and discovered it was a 1961 class ring initialed RFC.

The ring was in surprisingly good condition. "It was really shiny," Karen recalls. "It just had a little bit of dirt on it."

The two girls did a little bit of detective work at the CHS library, soliciting the help of library aide Marty Wilson to look through the old school year-books for a person whose initials matched those on the ring.

Nobody seemed to know where Crites lived.

"I called my husband (a 1962 CHS graduate), and he didn't have any idea," Wilson says. "Then I called my brother (Mike Madison) and he knew."

Crites, who lives on Waldon Road in Independence Township, just minutes from the school, recalls Madison's phone call with a chuckle.

"He called me and asked if I'd lost a class ring," Crites says. "I said I had, but geez, that was 16 years ago."

"That ring went in the service with me--I'd worn it all over the world. I still can't believe this has happened."

But one thing continues to mystify him--why the purse was stolen in the first place. When the purse was found, the ring was the only thing missing--even the money inside wasn't touched.

Crites isn't going to let the mystery bother him, though.

After all these years, I never ever thought I'd see the ring again," he says. "Right now, I'm just really happy."

Clarkston High School was the scene of some spring cleaning and fixing up two weeks ago, as the school staged its second annual "Sun Day." Conceived by CHS instructor Gary Nustad, the event featured a display of solar energy devices and beautification work by Nustad's students on the school grounds. From left are students Margaret Susalla and Debbie Ragatz, who were busy re-painting a planter box in the school courtyard.

Ron Crites' class ring is back where it belongs after 16 years--on his finger.

'If it Fitz. . .'

Calling from the john

by Jim Fitzgerald

In an ambitious effort to atone for a crummy elopement, 25 years later I took my wife aboard a silver chariot and chugged her out of the country and into a hotel so plush it has two tele-phones in every room, one beside the bed and the other beside the toilet.

It was the first time I'd had command of a bathroom with a phone in it. The possibilities seemed devilishly romantic. Soon after our arrival, I tried to phone my wife from the john, while she unpacked on the other side of the door. I wanted to suggest a rendezvous for a tete-a-tete in the clothes closet.

But the hotel operator said the line was busy. How deucedly dullard of me. I should have realized the bathroom phone was simply an extension of the bedroom phone, so naturally I couldn't phone my own phone by using the regular number. However, I suddenly remembered something from my childhood. There is a secret number you can dial to make your own phones ring. I used to use it to phone by big sister from upstairs to tell her I was a neighbor and she should run out of the house immediately because her roof was on fire.

But, no matter how long I sat and thought, I couldn't remember the secret number. I asked the hotel operator for it but she wouldn't talk. I explained I wanted to romanticise my 25th wedding anniversary by arranging a tete-a-tete in a clothes closet and she reacted as though I were having an unnatural relationship with a hanging bag. She suggested I contact the telephone company. It, is sometimes difficult for foreigners to understand the devilishly romantic American.

By this time, my wife was pounding on the door, demanding to know what I was doing so long in the bathroom.

"I'm trying to call you up to tell you your roof is on fire," I explained.

So much for a tete-a-tees. I was suspicious of those hyphens anyway.

Earlier I said I chugged my wife out of the country in a silver chariot. That was my devilishly romantic way of saying we went to Totonto on the train. It was my first trade ride since World War II, when there were usually more passengers than seats. More than once I chugged several hundred miles sitting on my barracks bag. I've never had that close a relationship with my hanging bag, no matter what they say in Canada.

We usually drive, and my wife said the train ride was the nicest part of the vacation because she didn't have to worry about my yelling at her for letting me turn left when I should have turned right. I couldn't help recalling that our elopement was a motor trip and she didn't complain about my driving them. There would be more respect for rank in this world if navigators weren't allowed to marry their pilots.

What I enjoyed about the train ride was the scenery, especially going through backyards. Did you know that Canadians hoist their laundry, like a flag? After they hang clothes out to dry, they use a pulley arrangement to pull the flapping fabric high into the air. My wife said this is to put the clothing beyond the reach of dogs and thieves. I thought Canadian housewives were sending semaphore signals to the United States, asking Sears to send more electric dryers.

The hotel with the bathroom phones also offers pornographic movies on TV, but they're not as easy to get as Mork and Mindy. After consulting a printed program, you must order the dirty movie of your choice by phone, and $4.75 is added to your hotel bill. And you are instructed to remain on the phone until you can assure the prono people that you're getting a clear picture of their product.

I wanted to put on my raincoat, with the collar up, and phone for a porno movie. My wife said I wouldn't dare, not even from the bathroom. She was right. I was afraid I'd further damage my reputation with the operator who was already suspicious of me and the hanging bag. As it turned out, I spent four days with all those phones and didn't complete one call.

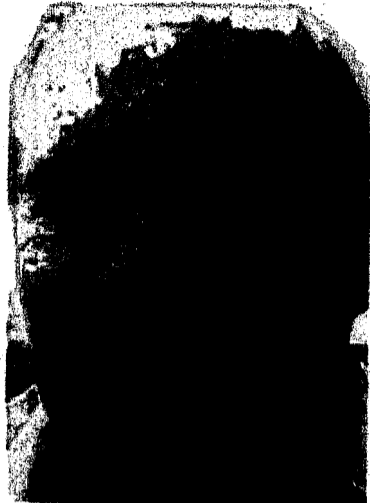

But I did send my wife a note. It was written on a 25th anniversary card: "Your roof is on fire, but I love you anyway."

Talking about . . .

On Main Street, Clarkston, we asked this week's question:
What do you think about the government letting so many Cuban refugees into the U.S.

"I appreciate people who need help, but I think Castro is putting communists into the bunch he is sending over here."—Martha MacDonald, Auburn Heights, beautician.

"We are a country of refugees, if you let in one, you have to let in the rest, providing Castro isn't clearing out his prisons and giving us his garbage."—R. J. Taylor Corp.

"I feel as though they have to go someplace they may as well come here. But it is not right that Castro is shipping off his undesirables to us, because we have our own problems."—Pat Bennett, Pontiac, bus driver.

"Now I think they've overdone it. Florida is going to feel the effects of the snowball."—John Geukes, Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, federal employee.

"I didn't object earlier as much as now. When I found out Castro was sending over mental patients and prisoners, I objected. With the unemployment situation as bad as it is the Cubans will work for less and take jobs away from the people here."—Pat Unsworth, Livonia.

$ 6,000	$4,000	8.837%
$ 5,000	$5,000	8.509%

9.495% ANNUAL INTEREST ON A $10,000 INVESTMENT. Effective from May 8 through May 14, 1980 and is subject to change at renewal.

9.860% EFFECTIVE ANNUAL YIELD ON A $10,000 INVESTMENT. Effective annual yield subject to change at renewal and assumes that the interest rate remains unchanged and that both the interest and principal are reinvested.

CHECK THESE MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATE RATES YOU CAN ENJOY WHEN YOU'RE WITHIN "EASY REACH"

* Phone or drop in at your nearest Community National Bank office for details on the current Annual Interest Rate.

Now, you can deposit less than $10,000 and Community National will loan you the extra funds necessary to buy a 26-week Money Market Certificate. Invest as little as $5,000 of your own money, borrow up to an additional $5,000 in increments of $1,000, and earn the high rate of interest on your part of the investment (no interest is earned on the funds borrowed). The Finance Charge is only 1% annual percentage rate on the amount borrowed. For example, if you borrow $5,000 for 182 days, the total of payments would be $5,024.93 due at maturity of the certificate. You can enjoy the Money Market Certificate's high earnings even if you don't have the full $10,000 to invest.

Additional details:

- annual rate of interest set at time of certificate purchase and guaranteed for entire 26 weeks
- net interest earned automatically deposited at maturity in your Community National checking or savings account (optional).
- deposits insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC.
- interest penalty for early withdrawal is loss of all interest (Federal regulation prohibits the compounding of interest during the term of deposit by any financial institution.)
- at the end of 26 weeks, automatic renewal of Money Market Certificate at the then applicable rate (optional).
- rates are subject to change and the offer may be withdrawn at any time at the discretion of Community National Bank.

'Shortest public hearing' nets Springfield EDC

By Al Zawacky
Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls called it "the shortest public hearing in the history of Springfield Township."

Walls and the township board opened their monthly meeting to public comment last week to get some citizen reaction to the proposed creation of an Economic Development Corporation (EDC) district in Springfield Township.

No one in the small audience rose to speak either for or against the proposal, and the township board proceeded to approve the EDC by a unanimous vote.

"I was surprised that no one spoke," said Walls. "I'd anticipated that somebody would speak against the EDC, and I recognized a few people in the audience who I know would have spoken in favor of it had it been attacked."

"Most of the opposition is really based on a lack of understanding of what an EDC is. It certainly isn't going to make Springfield an industrial center, and it can't pre-empt our local zoning ordinances."

Acting as a publicly owned mortgage company, the EDC will provide low interest loans to businesses and developers in Springfield Township.

"It's a vehicle that creates a source of funding to township developers at low cost," Walls said. "It's primary purpose is to retain and attract jobs, and the township is not liable for any obligations undertaken by the EDC."

Walls said that while there was a possibility the township board could appoint a Springfield EDC board of directors at the June Monthly meeting, July was probably a more realistic goal.

"The township attorney informed us that the articles of incorporation have to be filed first, then the directors are appointed, and then those directors have to formulate a local plan," Walls said.

"The bottom line on all this is that the EDC probably won't begin to have an impact on the township until the end of this year."

Formation of an EDC district in Springfield had been discussed for the past year. Walls admitted

"This had been in the works for some time," Walls said. "I think the EDC is going to be a definite asset to the township."

On Springfield planning commission

Ferguson to fill vacancy

The Springfield Township Board has appointed Douglas M. Ferguson to fill a vacancy on the planning commission.

Ferguson was named to the planning commission to replace William Whitley, who took a seat as trustee on the township board two months ago when Glenn Underwood resigned.

"Doug Ferguson has served for five years as president of the Dixie Lake Improvement Association, and is well acquainted with the community," said Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls.

Ferguson was one of 15 people who applied for the open trustee position created by Underwood's resignation, Walls added. "He hasn't had any governmental experience, but in a small community like ours the best qualifications are interest and the desire to do a good job."

The Dixie Lake organization is a group of property owners dedicated to maintaining the health and beauty of Dixie Lake, said Walls.

Ferguson, 59, lives on King Road in Springfield Township. He is married and the father of three children.

Walls recommendation of Ferguson was approved unanimously by the township board at last week's meeting with trustees Whitley and Glen Vermilye, Treasurer Pat Kramer, Clerk J. Calvin Walters and Walls all voting "aye."

Getting ready for concert

Members of the Clarkston High School Madrigal Singers rehearse a PDQ Bach tune, "My Bonnie Lass, She Smelleth," for the upcoming annual Spring Concert at the school Wednesday, May 21, at 8 p.m. The concert will feature sophisticated tunes as well and the voices of all students enrolled in vocal music classes at the high school. The show is dedicated to the graduating seniors and awards will be given in several categories. The concert is open to the public. No admission will be charged, but donations will be accepted.

Mill Ponds to be chemically treated

Residents living along the Clarkston upper and lower mill ponds are cautioned not to use the pond water for any domestic or irrigation purposes starting May 19.

Early that morning the ponds will be chemically treated in an attempt to kill and prevent excessive weed growth.

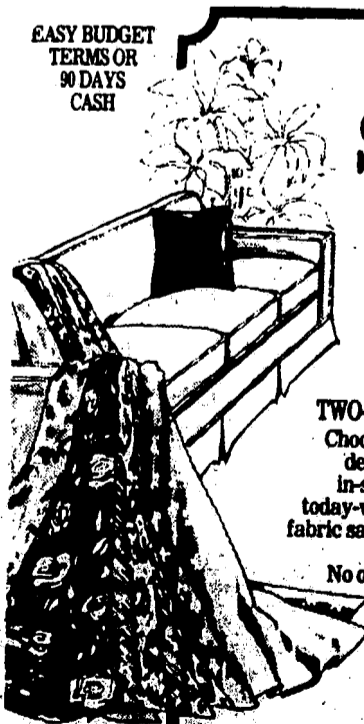

The action is being taken by the Clarkston Mill Ponds Association, an organization of riparian property owners dedicated to cleaning up and maintaining the aesthetic and recreational value of the mill ponds.

"The treatment will take place weather permitting," said Judi Lukens, association treasurer. "If there's a big storm, the treatment will be postponed--but they'll proceed if it's just drizzling or something."

The mill pond water will again be okay for irrigation and domestic uses 21 days following the treatment, she said.

"We'll also post signs and distribute hand bills just to make sure everyone is aware that the treatment has taken place," Lukens said. "Anyone with any questions can call me at home at 625-8066."

He sings a song of patriotism

Ralph Chambers thinks an old spirit is currently being revived in America—a spirit of patriotism signaling a return to traditional values.

And he's inviting his neighbors to join him and others in singing the praises of that spirit on the Fourth of July. "We'll be singing in the village park following the Fourth of July parade," says Chambers, who lives with his wife Doreen and children on 6196 Paramus in Independence Township.

"We've gotten permission to have a float in the parade and will have refreshments in the park for people who come and listen," he adds.

and narrations on America's past and present and emphasizes the need for prayer in the future.

Those who have been part of a singing group in the past and know how to read music are invited to join and may call Chambers at 625-4690.

"Everybody that we've talked to about this thought it was a good idea," Chambers says.

"A lot of negative things have been on the rise in America recently—alcohol, drugs, pornography and the rest. But at the same time there's been a revival of the good things, too, and that's the message we're trying to get across," he says.

The singers are currently practicing in the choral room at Clarkston High School every Monday at 7:15 p.m. under the direction of Dan Williams. Williams is a resident of Springfield Township and part-owner of Kieft Engineering on M-15 in Independence Township.

The singers are practicing a composition by John Peterson called "I Love America," which includes several patriotic songs Striking up a patriotic hymn on the family piano are Independence Township residents Ralph Chambers and his son Christian.

Deputies to direct Pine Knob traffic

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department will soon begin scheduling deputies for the summer patrol of Pine Knob's Music Theatre, according to Lt. Gerald Reeves, head of the community service division.

"A commitment has been made between Pine Knob and the county," Reeves said. "It was passed by a full Oakland County Board of Commissioners May 1, and sheriff's deputies will maintain crowd and traffic control."

Deputies from the department will be paid time-and-a-half equaling $16.40 an hour.

The full cost of the agreement is not known, Reeves said, "because the number of officers at each concert will vary, according to the type of concert."

Police log

Sometimes between Thursday and Saturday of last week, thieves broke into a home on Plum Road, Independence Township, stealing various items and money.

According to police reports, thieves took $200 in currency, two calculators, a bank book, four credit cards, and two guns, a .31 and .22 caliber rifles. The value of the stolen merchandise was not available.

A vandal knocked over a mailbox on Tamarack Park Lane, Independence Township, early Friday evening. The cost to replace the mailbox was not available.

Friday morning, a car parked in the driveway of a home on Sequoyah Court, Independence Township, had the passenger side window broken with a stone from the driveway.

The estimated cost of the damage is $200 according to police reports.

While residents were home early Saturday morning, their garage on Timber Ridge Trail, Independence Township, was broken into.

Thieves took a chain saw, speakers, socket set and drill motor.

The estimated value of the loss is $400, according to police reports.

Shoplifting stopper

Shoplifting is a crime. That's the message of the movie "So I Took It," scheduled for presentation to fifth graders in the Clarkston school district this month, according to Garry Pullins, social worker for Clarkston Area Youth Assistance.

The movie follows the shoplifting activities of one girl," Pullins said. "She begins by stealing small items, works her way up to more expensive items, gets her brother involved and is eventually caught."

The fifth graders were chosen because a case study revealed that grade was more open-minded than other grades, according to Pullins.

"The case study showed that the sixth graders were too established in their thought patterns, and the third graders didn't really understand it," Pullins said.

Pullins will be speaking following the movie to emphasize what happens to shoplifters when they have been caught.

"Coming from the Oakland County Juvenile Court I will hopefully be able to add more emphasis and impact to this film," he said. "I want to destroy the myths surrounding shoplifting and make these kids know that everybody doesn't steal."

"The store does miss merchandise that is stolen and shoplifting is a crime," Pullins said.

The Business Association of Independence Township donated the $200 to pay for the film's showing.

Track team hurt by injuries

Clarkston cindermen await league meet

By Al Zawacky

"I'm not singing the blues," says Clarkston High School boys' track coach Walt Wyniemko, assessing the 1980 season. "But we have been hurt by a lot of injuries."

It's an understatement. At one point last week the Wolves' casualty list included top performers Steve Wyckoff, Mark Foes, Ron Thompson, Mike Ulasieh, Tom Hecker and Dennis Hughes.

Those injuries have put the Clarkston cindermen in a hole all season long, as the team has yet to win a meet. But Wyniemko is looking for better things at the upcoming Greater Oakland Activities League meet.

"We've had some close scores, so it's not as if we haven't been in there," Wyniemko says. "If we can just get healthy for the GOAL meet, we should do pretty well."

Each GOAL team (Clarkston, Andover, West Bloomfield, Rochester, Milford and Kettering) will send four performers to the league meet, selected by their respective coaching staffs. The meet is to be held at Andover on May 20.

And while the Wolves haven't had too much success collectively, Clarkston has had its share of outstanding individual performances.

Two highlights have been the high hurdle performances of senior Mark Foes and Steve Wyckoff's school record of 6-7 in the high jump.

The Wolves' 440-yard relay team of Greg Wilson, Joe Partlo, Mark Hughes and Steve Neff has also been outstanding.

Although it's his first year coaching track at Clarkston High School, Wyniemko is no stranger to track and field.

He coached the sport previously at Madison Heights Bishop Foley, Redford St. Mary and St. Vincent of Detroit. Wyniemko has also been assisted this season by Mike Kaul, who coached the CHS cross country team this past fall.

"According to the records we keep, almost every one of our 35 kids has improved since the beginning of the year," Wyniemko says. "Every kid is really striving to improve—and that's always encouraging to see."

Senior Mark Foes has been a standout for the Wolves on the high hurdles this season.

The point after

by Al Zawacky

The great football-soccer controversy...

In case you haven't heard, seventh grade flag football has been replaced with a soccer program at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs—and there's the possibility that the eighth grade tackle football program may suffer the same fate.

The pro-soccer arguments run something like this: first, that football is an unsafe game, one in which the participants risk permanent injury; second, that soccer is the type of game that all kids can play—both the boys and the girls, the bigger kids as well as the smaller ones; and third, that the seventh and eighth grade football programs haven't proven beneficial to the high school teams, anyway.

Regardless of which side you take, points one and two aren't easy to dispute. But point three has stirred up a few voices of dissent among some of the football coaches.

"There's really no teaching done at the seventh grade, but I hate to see the eighth grade program go," said Clarkston Junior High ninth grade football coach John Craven. "We still start with the basics at the freshman level, but I think it does the kids some good to get their feet wet, so to speak, in the eighth grade.

"Overall, I think doing away with the eighth grade program would hurt, but it wouldn't have a crushing effect on the freshman, JV and varsity teams. And I've got nothing against soccer—I think a good soccer program is long overdue."

Chris Krueger, Craven's coaching counterpart at Sashabaw Junior High, reacted with surprise when told that the future of eighth grade football was in doubt.

"I don't know a thing about it (the switch from football to soccer)," Krueger said. "I think the eighth grade program is helpful, and I definitely wouldn't want to see it go."

George White and Doug Pierson, assistant principals at Sashabaw and Clarkston respectively, agree that the final decision will be based on participation by the eighth graders themselves.

"We're going to go with the sport that generates the most demand," White said. "Our eighth grade football program has dropped off considerably in the past few years, and if we don't have the numbers this fall to justify continuing it, we'll go with the soccer."

"Ideally, I'd like to be able to offer both," Pierson added. "But we have to work within our budget and with limited facilities."

And after all, Pierson pointed out, the basic purpose of intramural sports is to encourage participation, not to build athletes for the high school.

"We play intramural floor hockey here, and the kids love it," he noted. "But there's no varsity hockey team at the high school."

CLARKSTON IS THE HOME of more than a few rabid football fans, many of whom may well be offended by soccer's encroachment into their game's sacred domain.

I am reminded of a sign that hung on the wall at the Clarkston Chiefs little league football banquet last fall: "Clarkston—where football is still king."

The king must have abdicated during this past basketball season.

But anyway, White and Pierson are right: If the vast majority of eighth graders would rather play soccer than tackle football, the school's obligation is to make that majority happy.

One last point to ponder: What happens when these junior high school soccer players arrive at Clarkston High School a few years from now?

A fussball forecast: Soccer will become an interscholastic sport at CHS by 1985.

Independence EDC begins first project review

The Clarkston Professional Plaza is on its way to becoming the first project approved by Independence Township's newly formed Economic Development Corporation (EDC).

The township board passed a resolution last week accepting the general building site of 2.6 acres on M-15 just north of Dixie Highway.

Before low-interest revenue bonds can be issued, both the general location and specific plans must be approved by the EDC, township board and planning commission.

In addition, a public hearing must be held to determine whether the project satisfies the needs of the township.

"Out of 13 steps, they are now on step five" said township Treasurer Frederick Ritter who serves as chairman of the nine-member EDC.

The building is to house dental specialists and developer is Dr. Charles Munk, an orthodontist with offices presently located in Waterford Township.

As required by the EDC guidelines, the township board also appointed two additional persons to meet with the regular nine-member EDC board only when the proposed professional plaza is considered.

Township Board Trustee Rudy Lozano, a real estate broker, is to represent business interests likely to be affected by the project and Pat Beach, 6900 Hidden Lane, is to represent neighborhood residents.

The EDC works toward promoting and controlling growth in Independence Township by providing low-interest revenue bonds to developers, according to Ritter.

"It's almost like a lease-purchase program where the EDC will hold title to the property until the debt has been repaid," Ritter said.

Final approval of the dental building is expected sometime in June or July, Ritter said.

Holcomb paving due

The paving of Holcomb Road in Independence Township should begin sometime this year, according to township Supervisor Whitey Tower.

"The Oakland County Road Commission still has to complete some paper work and formally accept the bids," Tower said. "But the road should be paved within the 1980 year."

Last week the Oakland County Road Commission accepted the Stolaruk Corporation of Southfield as low bidder for the paving of Holcomb Road from the Clarkston Village Limits to I-75.

Cost to pave the road, $67,108, will be shared by the road commission and Independence Township.

Sweeps DH from Andover

Baseball team posts first league wins

By Al Zawacky
The Clarkston varsity baseball team gave the visiting Andover Barons a lesson in one of baseball's oldest axioms Friday afternoon.

As any old-timer will tell you, "The ballgame isn't over until the last out is made."

That was the story against Andover as the Wolves pulled out two late inning victories in a double-header sweep that upped Clarkston's league record to 2-3.

"We could've just hung our heads when we fell behind early," said a proud coach Roy Warner later. "It's really a positive sign to see us come back like that."

Clarkston's double-dip victory also managed to salvage what was shaping up to be a dismal week. The Wolves had dropped three straight contests earlier stretching their overall winless string to six games.

The Milford Redskins provided the opposition to open last week's action, and although the Clarkston defense was flawless (zero errors and three double plays), the Wolves bowed 5-2.

On Tuesday the Waterford Township Skippers came to town and walked away with an 8-1 victory. Junior Ron Feneley made his first appearance on the mound for the Wolves and turned in a strong three-hitter, but the effort was wasted by nine Clarkston errors, accounting for all eight enemy runs.

"Ron did an outstanding job for us both ways," Warner said, noting that Feneley also led the Wolves attack with a single and two-bagger. "If we hadn't been kicking the ball around, he could have pitched a 1-0 game." Defense again proved to be Clarkston's undoing on Wednesday against Rochester, as the Wolves surrendered three unearned runs on four errors.

Junior Jerry Charboneau tossed a three-hitter but the Clarkston nine still found themselves on the short end of a 3-2 final. Greg Lane and Rich Lamphere each had two hits to lead the attack.

That put Clarkston at 3-10 overall and 0-3 in the league heading into their double-header at home against Andover. Originally scheduled as a single game, the twin bill was the result of an earlier rainout.

The Wolves needed to win both games if they were going to entertain any thoughts of pulling into the thick of the Greater Oakland Activities League title race—and did just that.

Clarkston fell behind 4-0 in game one, but a five-run fifth inning and a two-run sixth earned the Wolves an 8-7 victory. Kevein Krause was the winning pitcher and also connected for two hits to help matters along.

Scott Himes, Kurt Esselink and Nick Hool each knocked in two runs, and it was Hool's RBI single in the sixth that proved to be the margin of victory.

Clarkston fell behind 3-0 in game two before scoring once in the fifth and twice in the sixth and seventh to pull out a 5-3 win.

Senior letterman Doug Hagyard accounted for the winning run on a seventh inning single. Charboneau picked up the win, checking the Barons on four hits in five innings worked.

Following the completion of last week's action, the Wolves had three .300-plus hitters: Hool at .371, Hagyard at .326 and Feneley at .317.

Leading pitchers in the ERA department were Himes, 2.21; Esselink, 2.49; Charboneau, 2.85; and Feneley, whose debut performance of zero earned runs in seven innings earned him a 0.00 mark.

Wolves find GOAL tough

By Al Zawacky

Clarkston varsity softball coach Kathy Mahrle wasn't surprised.

"We knew our league would be tough," Mahrle said after her team settled for a split in four Greater Oakland Activities League game played last week.

The .500 performance left the Wolves with a 7-3 record overall—but with a 2-3 mark in the GOAL.

"The fact that all three of our losses have been against league opponents pretty well says it for our league," Mahrle continued. "But from what I've seen of the other teams, the talent seems to be pretty well spread out—so the league title is up for grabs."

Clarkston opened the week on Monday with the type of offensive battle that's been the team's trademark this season.

The Wolves and the opposition Milford Redskin were all tied up at 10 apiece at the end of regulation, but two key hits by the Mason sisters, Kelly and Sandy, earned Clarkston a 13-10 victory in eight innings.

Senior Linda Foster, who pitched the last two and two-thirds innings, was credited with the victory.

Two days later the Wolves surrendered six runs in one inning to Rochester and never quite recovered, bowing 8-4.

Sandy Mason led the Clarkston attack with two RBIS on two hits.

That set the stage for a Friday afternoon double-header at home against Andover, and the visitors prevailed in game one to take a 8-2 decision.

"They pretty well shut us down on offense," Mahrle noted. "We only managed three hits."

The pitching of Lisa Forsyth made a big hitting attack unnecessary in game two however, as the junior hurler tossed a four-hit, 6-4 Clarkston victory.

Cindy Hawley's single knocked in the run that proved to be the difference for the Wolves.

She slides—She's safe! The ball jars loose from the Rochester shortstop as Clarkston senior Linda Foster [13] catches the Falcons napping to steal second.

Springtime band concert

Monday, May 19 at 8:00 p.m. the Clarkston High School band will present their first annual Spring Concert. Prior to the concert, an awards dinner will take place in the CHS cafeteria.

The evening's concert and activities will be dedicated to the memory of sophomore alto saxophonist Timothy Dobson and his family.

The program will feature the repertoire prepared for the Festival of Nations Tour in Washington D.C. the following weekend. Two outstanding students soloists will be featured during the concert.

Jerry Rowland, a senior trumpet player will perform the "Carnival of Venise" with band accompaniment. Jerry was the only student from Clarkston to receive a coveted First Division Rating at the State Solo/Ensemble Festival in April.

The second soloist on the program is senior Sarah McKoin performing Mozarts' Clarinet Concerto with the band. Sarah is currently band president and plans on attending Michigan State University in the fall as a major in music education and performance.

Sharing the concert will be the award-winning CHS Jazz Ensemble giving the Clarkston premiere of Maynard Ferguson's "Carnival" featuring Jerry Rowland and Chris Marlowe as soloists.

The program is open to the public without charge.

Preserving roots

Jennifer Radcliff, president of the Clarkston Community Historical Society, leafs through the pages of township tax assessment books from 1850 to 1930. The books were on their way Monday to be microfiched, a process where eight pages are reproduced on a 4- by 6-inch sheet that can be fed into a machine at the Independence Township Library for ease of reading. The project is funded by the township with federal revenue sharing funds and is to cost about $1,000. The historical society plans to buy a case to store the microfiche. "The value of keeping the records will be to people who want to research geneology and building research," Radcliff says.

Lakes plans open house

An open house at Our Lady of the Lakes High School and Elementary School is planned Monday, May 19, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

New students and pupils, those interested in applying for admission and seventh through 12th graders seeking information on summer school may attend the event.

Both buildings of the Lakes schools are to be open for tours and for class scheduling for the 1980-81 school year.

The high school houses grades eight through 12 and offers college preparatory, general and business education and vocational courses.

The student-teacher ratio this year is 14 students to one teacher with honors classes and advanced placement as well as tutorial courses in math, English and reading.

The elementary school houses kindergarten through seventh grade. Special programs are offered in music and science.

The Catholic schools accept students of all religions from north Oakland County.

Summer school for seventh through 12th graders runs June 23 through Aug. 1.

Course offerings include English, reading, composition, literature, elementary mathematics, algebra, world history, United States history, government, junior high science, high school science, typing, Bible literature and ethical morality.

For elementary school pupils, a creative dramatics class is offered.

For information on the summer school program or the elementary school, call 623-0340.

High school information is available by calling 623-0250.

The school is located at 5495 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township.

Gonna fly now

KITES are fun, but imagine the possibility of making one and then testing its flying power. That's just what Clarkston Junior High School seventh graders of science teacher Holly Rupprecht did recently during a kite demonstration by Buck Kopietz of Tierra Arts and Designs, Clarkston. Librarian Suvonne Hogan had the idea as a way to get the youngsters thinking about using the library to learn how to do things as well as a place for pleasure reading. Books on kites are now on reserve at the school library and kites the students plan to build will be on display there after a Kite Flight. "It's tremendous, because it really gets the kids enthusiastic and gives them something tangible they can learn from," the science teacher says about the kite project that will teach such things as aerodynamics and wind velocity. The kids plan their Kite Flight when the weather is just right.

Tops in math

Test results—good feelings

Erin DuPree

Steve Atkinson

In the mathematics whiz department at Bailey Lake Elementary School, Steve Atkinson and Erin DuPree are tops.

The two six graders recently took part in the Michigan Council of Teachers Mathematics regional competition at Oakland University, Rochester, with 750 sixth, seventh and eighth graders and 12 other Clarkston schools pupils.

The top 25 from each class were to participate in state competition this month, but none of the Clarkston kids made it to the next step.

The experience, however, was a positive one for Steve and Erin.

Both agreed the questions asked during the hour-long multiple choice test were tough.

"The first couple of problems were easy," said Erin. "Every once in a while, I'd come up with one that was easily understood, but there were very few."

"Most of the problems I had to guess on," agreed Steve. "But once in awhile I had one I could work out."

But perhaps the best part of the experience were the good feelings about themselves they gained.

"My Mom and Dad said I'm pretty smart, because there are only two kids in the whole school who go to that thing," said Steve.

"My Mom was really thrilled," said Erin. "I wasn't too excited about it, because I knew I probably wouldn't do very well, because it was so hard."

Steve is a real sports fan—his favorite activities are football, basketball, water skiing, snow skiing and snowmobiling.

The son of Mike and Judy Atkinson, he lives on Rattalee Lake Road, Independence Township.

Erin's interests are reading "anything I can find," swimming and playing clarinet.

She is the daughter of Louis and Brenda DuPree of Holcomb Road, Independence Township.

Other Clarkston schools pupils who took part in the test were Clarkston Junior High School sixth graders Annette Hopson and Wendy Miller and Clarkston Elementary sixth graders Mike Lambeth and Mike Walters.

Seventh grade participants from CJHS were Tricia Johnson, Ed Driscoll, Christian Tiarhart and Susan Colwell and eighth graders were Steve Carlson, Eric Pfarcik, Chuck Jacobs and Greg Molzon.

Kids gain eggs-perience

They were nestled in all sorts of holders from a loaf of pum-pernickle bread to Jello with extra gelatin added. And about 20 of the around 50 eggs dropped from the plane flying above Independence Oaks County Park landed without a crack.
Some of the eighth grade Clarkston Junior High science students designed sophisticated containers like the one below.
The egg was suspended on rubber bands and surrounded by sponges. It worked well—this picture was taken after the landing. The plane [upper right] was flown by Clarkston High School assistant principal John Kirchgessner and CJHS assistant principal Doug Pierson dropped the boxes out of a window while CJHS teacher Chuck Keegan dropped them out the door. All eighth grade science students in the school participated in the event Monday. About 220 students worked in teams of five or six to design and build the containers.
Those whose eggs didn't break won gift certificates from McDonald's. But the real reward was the good feeling when the container was opened and the egg was whole as Craig McLeod demonstrates at right.

Howes take son's success in stride

It's a time for memories and melancholy when parents see their son grow up, marry and get a job some 2,500 miles away from home.

But then Virgil and Barb Howe are luckier than most parents. Occasionally, they have the opportunity to watch their son Steve at work on television--pitching for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"It was a thrill to see Steve on television for the first time," says his mother, recalling the night one month ago when the whole family sat down to watch the Dodger-Houston game.

"Actually, she didn't recognize him at the very first," adds Virgil. "I just sat there waiting for her to react, and all of the sudden she screamed, 'That's Steve!'"

At 22 years of age, Steve is the oldest of the Howes' five children. Fifteen-year-old Mike, 17-year-old Jeff and 19-year-old Chris all live at home, while their 21-year-old daughter Kathy is married and lives in nearby Lake Orion.

The family has lived in the Clarkston area since 1963 and moved into their current home near Walters Lake in Independence Township seven years ago.

The whole family is delighted and proud to see Steve pitching in the major leagues--but none of them were surprised to see it happen.

As a sophomore at Clarkston High School, Steve was already predicting he would earn a college scholarship--and he never doubted his ability to make it to baseball's big time.

"Steve told us in high school that he was going to college, and that it wouldn't cost us a dime," Barb laughs. "Well, there were expenses, but he got his scholarship just like he said he would."

"And all along, he said he was going to make it to the majors--he's always had so much confidence in himself that you just had to believe him."

Confidence, his dad agrees, has been a big part of his success.

"You hear other pitchers before the game saying things like 'If we win today,' or 'I hope to do well.' Steve's attitude always was 'Heck yea, we'll beat them.'"

"It wasn't that he was cocky--he just knew he had the ability," Virgil adds.

Barb recalls a story by a daily sports columnist when Steve was pitching at the University of Michigan. The writer referred to Steve as a "flash in the pan," and cast serious doubts on his ability to make it to the majors.

"It didn't bother him at all," she says. "It just made him that much more determined to succeed."

Despite the notoriety of having a son playing professional baseball, the Howes' tranquil life style has remained basically unchanged.

Virgil enjoys boating on Walters Lake and an occasional round of golf, while the boys enjoy water skiing. The whole family has always been Tiger baseball fans, and the senior Howe is also an avid ice hockey fan as well.

The Tigers had an opportunity to draft Steve, but opted instead for outfielder Rich Leach, another U of M alumnus.

"The Tigers have a fine young ball club," Virgil says, holding no grudge against the club for their decision.

"But they need some pitching," he adds with a grin.

"The only reason I would have liked to have had Steve pitch in Detroit is that we'd be close to him and could see him more often," Barb notes. "Other than that, I'd say he was very fortunate to go with a team like the Dodgers--they're such a class organization and always treat their players very well."

"We're still Tiger fans," Virgil adds, "but if Detroit ever played Los Angeles in the World Series..."

His voice trailed off in laughter.

Steve's dad is an ex-ball player himself, Barb notes, which probably accounts for much of their son's ability.

"I played my share of ball, but I don't know if I was ever really that good," Virgil says. "I guess there weren't enough pro-teams back then," he jokes.

I remember when he was small, how he was always throwing something--just about anything he could find," Barb says. "And he was always a deadeye--he could hit something with a rock a block away."

"But the thing that really makes us all so proud of him is that he knew what he wanted to do--and went out and did it. Baseball is his job, and he works hard at it."

Country Living by Al Zawacky

And all the recent success hasn't changed their son's personality one bit, Virgil says with pride.

"Steve is still very much a homebody. He always calls home and keeps in touch with his brothers and sisters," his dad says.

"He's still the same guy that pitched at Clarkston High School four years ago, and that makes us very proud--that he's been able to handle himself so well."

Brother Mike says he is often asked at school what it's like to have a brother pitching in the major leagues.

"What can you say? We're not any different or any better than anyone else. It's just a lot of fun to be able to watch him on TV and read about him in the papers," Mike says.

After several appearances on the mound, Steve had posted an impressive total of one victory and four saves. He has yet to lose a ball game, his mother notes.

"We know he has to lose a game some day, but it's not something we like to think about," she laughs.

"Really, the people we know and work with seem even more excited than we do sometimes about Steve. Again, it's just that he always said he was going to pitch major league ball--and when Steve sets a goal for himself, he usually goes out and achieves it."

Just for seniors

The Independence Township Senior Citizens are planning to be as busy as bees this spring.

Along with the change in the climate comes a change in activities. Yes, that's right, it's time to pull out the softball mitts, golf clubs and tennis shoes and spring into action.

Included in this month's plans is an organizational meeting for co-ed softball. Practice is scheduled Monday afternoons at 2 and Wednesday mornings at 10, beginning May 12. Practice is held at Clintonwood Park, Clarkston-Orion Road, Independence Township.

Golf games are to take place at Spring Lake Country Club Monday mornings at 9 and are to begin June 9. An organizational meeting is to be held at the Senior Center, 5980 Clarkston-Orion, Thursday, May 29, at 10 a.m.

Another new summer activity will be a walking/jogging program on Monday and Thursday mornings at 8, beginning May 19.

A special hearing aid and screening service is to be held Tuesday, May 20 at 1 p.m. Cleaning, adjusting and re-tubing will be done for anyone who uses a hearing aid. Hearing screening will also be done upon request. For more information, call 625-8231.

TRIPS THIS MONTH INCLUDE:

May 9 Mystery Trip, May 14 Detroit Bowling Tournament, May 14 Senior Power Day - Lansing, May 16—Meadowbrook Theatre - "You Can't Take It With You," May 22 Rochester Bowling Tournament, May 23 Breakfast in the Park, May 24 Pine Knob Quartet Spectacular, May 30 Upjohn Pharmaceutical.

For additional information on any of the May trips, call 625-8231. Our trip policy is that reservations are on a first come, first served basis and are not secure until payment is received. No phone reservations are accepted.

Clarkston area businesspersons have been kind enough, again this year, to donate tickets for the Pine Knob Quartet Spectacular. This event begins at 8 p.m. on Saturday, May 24, and tickets are free and available for any person age 55 and older who can prove their age.

DAILY LUNCH PROGRAM

If you or your spouse is over 60 or over, you may both participate in our daily lunch program. You must call one week in advance for a lunch reservation. The menu for May is:

May 7 BBQ chicken, May 8 Turkey ham, May 9 Stuffed green pepper.

May 12 Roast beef with gravy, May 13 Stuffed cabbage, May 14 Liver and onions, May 15 Oven fried chicken, May 16 Breaded fish.

May 19 Pork cutlet, May 20 Swiss steak and gravy, May 21 Mostaccioli with meat sauce, May 22 Broiled chicken, May 23 Macaroni and cheese.

May 26 Closed for holiday, May 27 Beef stew, May 28 Baked chicken and gravy, May 29 Meatball stroganoff, May 30 Baked fish and lemon butter.

***

The Senior Citizens of Independence Township would like to invite you to take part in their activities. Come on out to the center at 5980 Clarkston (between M-15 and Sashabaw Road adjacent to Clintonwood Park, 625-8231).

***

The senior center is in need of someone who is knowledgeable about fruit trees. We need someone to loan equipment or even spray the orchard for us. If interested, call me at 625-8231.

Women: Put talents to work

Creative women of Oakland County, put your imaginations and talents to work.

Applications are now being accepted for the 1980 Fall Festival of Women's Works, scheduled Saturday, October 11, at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center, 12451 Andersonville Rd., Springfield Township.

The festival is open to all Oakland County women who wish to submit work in the traditional and non-traditional fields.

Traditional works include quilting, baking, weaving, and painting. Non-traditional works are defined as photography and modern art forms, but all works must be of original design and handcrafted.

Because of limited space applications will be taken on a first come, first serve basis.

The festival is being sponsored by the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with the Northwest Oakland County Council for the Arts.

Interested persons can pick up applications at the Springfield Oaks Activities Center, or receive more information by calling 625-5133.

Poppy sales help

In memory of our nation's men who gave their lives in battle, members of Campbell-Richmond Post and Unit 63 of the American Legion will be offering bright red crepe paper poppies, May 15, 16 and 17.

Disabled and hospitalized veterans make the poppies throughout the year.

The donations from the sale of poppies provide financial help and psychological therapy for these men and their families.

They'll go to CMU

Jane Acton, Julie Greetham and Laurie Froling were recently chosen to represent the American Legion Auxiliary's Girl State Program at Central Michigan University.

For nine days, beginning June 14, the three Clarkston High School juniors will learn about Michigan's electoral process and will participate in a mock election of state officials.

All three girls are from Unit 63 of the American Legion.

Golden anniversary

John and Mabel Thompson celebrate their golden wedding anniversary May 18. Married in Pontiac, the Thompsons have lived on Cherrylawn Road, Independence Township, 20 years. They have one son, John, of Pontiac, two grandchildren and one great-grandchild. An open house celebration is planned Saturday, May 17, at their son's home in Pontiac.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

Vi Bondi is sharing a Weight Watchers' recipe for sloppy Joes with the Clarkston News this week. Vi and her husband Homer are the parents of three daughters and one son and live on Cramlane in Independence Township.

Weight Watchers' Sloppy Joes

- 1 lb. ground turkey
- 1 c. tomato sauce
- 1 T. mustard
- 1 T. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 T. artificial brown sugar
- 1 1/2 T. dry onion flakes
- 1 T. green pepper flakes

Broil turkey and drain. Add balance of ingredients and simmer until blended. Equals two servings, 5 to 6 oz. of turkey, plus one bonus. Serve on one slice of bread.

Vi reports that Rudy's Market has ground turkey.

Poster painters

The second annual Clarkston Elementary School Fair is Saturday and a poster contest fills the school halls with bright-colored announcements of the event that runs from noon to 4 p.m. First prize winners in the poster contest that had 128 entries are [beginning in back row, from left] Sarah Paalman, Staci Cool, Tim Mahler, John Mahler, Bonnie Whetstone, David Yackell and Margie Meehan. Not pictured is Kara Upham. Judging for the contest was done by Donella Vogel, an advertising illustrator.

Honors

Two Alma College students from Independence Township have been elected members of campus honor societies.

Shirley Dennis, a senior majoring in French and business administration, joined Omicron Delta Kappa, a national honor society.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Plais Dennis of Drayton Road.

Peggy Fry, a junior majoring in sociology, is a member of the senior women's honor society Gamma Delta Alpha.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Fry Jr. of Paramus Drive.

Larry Bennett, a 1976 graduate of Clarkston High School, has been honored as one of Western Michigan University's 10 most outstanding students in the college of applied sciences, for the 1979-80 academic year.

Bennett, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bennett Jr. of Northview Road, Independence Township, is a senior majoring in mechanical engineering at the university located in Kalamazoo.

Among 148 students named to the dean's list at Spring Arbor College are three local residents.

Earning a grade point average of 3.5 or above out of a possible 4.0 for the first semester were Independence Township residents Deanna Murphy of Whipple Lake Road and Mark Thompson of Winell Road.

Receiving all A's was Michael Fisher of Rattalee Lake Road, Springfield Township.

New arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jewell of Pontiac became the parents of their first child, a son, May 11.

Christopher James was 6 pounds, 9 1/2 ounces at birth at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital, Pontiac.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Pfahlert of Independence Township and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jewell of San Jose, California, formerly of Clarkston.

***

James and Irene Russell of Clarkston-Orion Road, Clarkston, welcomed their first child into the world April 29:

Kaitlin Kennedy Russell was 7 pounds, 9 1/2 ounces at birth.

Her proud grandparents are Norman Russell of Pontiac, Mavis Shaw of Troy and John and Roberta Thomas of Clarkston.

Engaged

The engagement of Alice Eleanor to Paul James Watterworth is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stanley Marshall of Hudson. The bride-elect is a 1973 Clarkston High School graduate and is to graduate in May from Kellogg Community College, Battle Creek. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Watterworth of Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township, is a 1970 CHS graduate. He is employed as a consultant for Gianetti Bros. Construction Co. in Ft. Myers, Fla. A June wedding is planned.

'Bizarre Buzz Bazaar' aims at stopping drug abuse

By Marilyn Trumper

The gym at Sashabaw Junior High School fills with ninth grade students.

They are about to witness the "Bizarre Buzz Bazaar," a traveling caravan of independent vendors selling dope and alcohol.

A ringmaster invites the audience to step-right-up.

Students at Clarkston Junior and Senior High Schools saw the same play, so they were able to see the sincere, pasted-on smile and shiny white teeth of the ringmaster now facing the Sashabaw Junior School students.

With positive reasoning, the ringmaster becomes "trust." He draws the crowd's attention to the vendors with fast talk and smooth logic, and when he has their attention he lets the individual vendors take over.

His philosophy?

"A fast-talking salesman doesn't give the customer time to think; he doesn't want them to think. If they think, they might rationally say "no" to an offer.

It's all in the sales pitch. Be flashy, attractive, vibrant and believe in what you sell and let the buyer beware.

That's the composite sketch of a drug dealer and his techniques, provided by Common Ground's Alternative Theatre in an hour-long program entitled, "Choices" presented at the schools May 30 and April 1.

Garry Pullins, a social worker for Clarkston Youth Assistance, recommended Common Ground's Alternative Theatre be presented to the three schools. The program cost $400 for four performances.

Clarkston Youth Assistance is a prevention program of the Oakland County Juvenile Court geared toward preventing juvenile delinquency in the Clarkston school district, according to Pullin.

"Peer pressure is strong among this age group and you can't keep preaching to kids," Pullin said. "This was a very effective way to show the kids that they have choices and that they don't have to do what everybody else does, and why they don't have to do it."

Through a song, dance and poetry approach, the troupe performs to school audiences and exposes that type of trashy flesh, hoping the kids get the message.

The vendors hawk marijuana, speed, alcohol, downers and the "hard stuff," with two actors remaining off to the side making their "choice" not to get involved.

In turn the vendors point out the benefits of their drug, and act out the effect the drug has if taken.

Simultaneously while one vendor is hawking, the rest of the actors become a Greek chorus.

They react to the vendor's comments and chant reasons to take the drug and reasons not to take the drug.

All the while, the two actors sit off to the side, refusing to indulge in any substance and throwing out the reasons why.

By the end of the play, all but the two actors off to the side have become ugly.

By playing the parts of hardcore do-nothings the troupe has made its point without having to preach.

The drug-takers are unproductive leeches on society and all the dealers want to do is make money.

The audience takes solace in the two refusing to get involved. The heroes represent a visual strength and character away from the traveling caravan group.

Reactions of four SJHS students were mixed following the performance.

One said he thought the troupe should have been tougher, that there was too much laughing and joking in the show. Another said she enjoyed the performance, because it's rare when anyone comes out and talks about peer pressure.

Still another said that song and dance weren't needed to get the point across. One girl said she didn't like the show at all, but wouldn't say why.

Common Ground is located at 1090 South Adams Road in Birmingham. The Alternative Theatre will perform for any organization, they are not limited to school groups. The play is one form of primary prevention.

Common Ground is geared to work with primary and secondary prevention. Primary prevention according to Annette Madies, play director, is stopping the problem before it starts. Secondary prevention is offering choices to deal with a problem a person would already have.

"With primary prevention we hope to keep these kids from ever reaching the secondary stage, but we don't point a finger and say no-no, either," Madies said.

Spewing forth confidence, Andrzej Rozecki dressed in flashy red pants and shirt, watches his caravan of barkers sell their wares.

Coping with kids

by Jim & Ellen Windell

What to expect from therapist

So you decided your child needs professional help and you have got him to a therapist. What do you expect?

Presumably, you found a professional helping person, psychiatrist, psychologist, social worker or counselor, whom you were satisfied could help solve your particular concerns with the child.

But, you probably want to know more.

You do have the right to ask questions. And it is the therapist' responsibility to answer to the best of his ability.

Most parents want to know if their thinking was right that the child had a serious enough problem to warrant outside intervention.

Sometimes it happens that we have to say we don't have the same concern and the youngster does appear to need therapy. Most responsible therapists will not see a child if he does not need help.

The cost of therapy can also be discussed. In a time of combined inflation and recession, this is especially important. Like most other issues most therapists will openly talk about the costs involved.

If there are financial problems, but the child clearly needs the help the therapist could be helpful in easing your mind about how it can best be handled.

What can you expect from therapy and how long will it take? In most cases, the therapist cannot give a time when the child will be "cured." There are just too many variables to take into consideration.

However, a certain amount of time can be agreed upon to give the therapy. If no results are seen by that time, the parents and the therapists can discuss and perhaps agree on another approach.

What you want from therapy and what the therapist feels he can deliver should be talked about also. If the therapist disagrees with your expectations he will probably tell you.

Usually, an experienced professional is not going to promise results he cannot reasonably expect to accomplish.

It is reasonable to ask the therapist what approach he will use with your child. Some therapists like to give prescriptions; advice and recommendations to the parents. That might mean keeping track of the child's misbehavior or the number of times mother makes a positive or encouraging statement to him.

Other therapists like to work only with the child and may use play therapy techniques. Still others may want to work with the family as a unit, perhaps believing that the child's problem came about as a result of various interactional factors within the family.

It is only fair that you give the child, the therapist and yourself adequate time to make a change. If after a reasonable amount of time you are dissatisfied, you can discuss a change.

Perhaps the therapist is not right for this child. Not all therapists work equally well with every child or every problem.

What you can expect and demand from any therapist is that he will do the best job of therapy possible based on his training and experience.

But, even that may not bring about the results you wanted. If not, ask the therapist about it.

Two free brochures designed to help young people find summer jobs are available from the Michigan Department of Labor's Youth Employment Clearinghouse.

One is aimed at businesses and tells how to take advantage of federal hiring incentives that give tax credits for hiring and training youth.

The other brochure explains to young people how to go about finding a job, what hours youths can work and how to act and what to say during a job interview.

Write to Michigan Department of Labor, Youth Employment Clearinghouse, 7150 Harris Dr., box 30015, Lansing, MI 48909.

A youth-sponsored service is to feature the film "A Distant Thunder" at the Oxford Free Methodist Church on Sunday, May 18, at 6 p.m.

The film received awards including best evangelistic film, best actress and best supporting actress from the Academy of Christian Cinematographic Arts in 1979.

During the 11 a.m. service, a Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems representative is to share information.

Nursery and parking facilities are available at the church located on M-24 at the south edge of Oxford. Call 628-2232 for more information.

Bunny tale

Photos by Marilyn Trumper

Mr. Mc Gregor runs and runs trying to catch Peter Rabbit in the garden patch, but Peter gets away and Mr. McGregor goes without rabbit stew that night. The hoe-happy farmer is second grader, Lance Lewis.

Rhythm is more important than balance. Stephanie Cashin, first grader, knows that the cockeyed ear doesn't inhibit her cymbal clashing spirit.

This little mouse's cheeks are so stuffed with carrots he can only shake his head when Peter Rabbit asks the way out of the garden patch. The face behind the whiskers belongs to Tommy Hackardt, a first grader.

Pointing re-emphasizing fingers at Peter Rabbit's unwillingness to obey his mother and stay out of the garden patch, the chorus of first and second graders sing on. These students of Lucille Richley performed "The Tale of Peter Rabbit," to a captivated audience of moms, dads and family Thursday at Pine Knob Elementary School. From left are Alex Lawson, Stephanie Cashin, Debbie Bellows, Michelle Huber and Lori Sebastian.
