Layoffs loom for township employees

By Marilyn Trumper

Economists call it the ripple effect.

It refers to dropping a stone into a body of water and the resulting waves that grow wider and wider.

At the center of the present situation is the state of the economy, and one of the latest victims of the ever-broadening waves is Independence Township governemnt employees.

Layoffs for township government employees are expected to continue in light of state shared revenue budget cuts, according to Christopher Rose, township clerk.

As of Wednesday, two layoffs were under consideration in addition to an animal control employee and an employee of the treasurer's office who have already lost their jobs, and one employee who has received notice of a pending layoff, according to Rose.

Full-time township employees total 55 to 60.

"The main reason for our financial position and our potential layoffs, is our anticipated loss of state aid," Rose said. "The state is losing money because people aren't buying things, so sales tax is down. Income is down, so income tax is down. And state welfare costs are up.

"The township's state shared revenue is based on sales tax, income tax and things like that," he said.

The problem is that one-half of the township's $1.6 million general fund budget is made up of state shared revenue money, according to Rose.

"This year's projected income from state shared revenue was $580,000," he said. "So far we've received $120,000, but we recently lost $30,000 in state shared revenue money when the governor eliminated certain tax areas in April."

Salaries create the bulk of the township's budget expenditure, according to Rose, who said that when cuts are made they are generally made in salaries.

In addition to layoffs there will be a reduction in township programs, Rose said.

"We'll be cutting back to the essentials, there will be fewer frills," he said. "I'm not saying it's good or bad, I'm saying it's going to happen.

"I would venture to guess that by the end of the summer, we will have five, maybe six, fulltime employees laid off. Besides our shortage of money, there's also a shortage of business for us," he said.

"That's one reason the treasurer laid off somebody. We just aren't doing anything right now," he said.

Rose also predicted the situation could become more severe, depending upon what type of tax limitations and reductions might be voted in later.

Despite the financial crunch, there may be a light at the end of the tunnel, according to Rose, but that won't affect the township until 1981.

"They (the state) won't get firm census figures until October 1981. Next year, we'll be a little more solvent," Rose said.

"The greater the population the higher the income, so I think we'll be all right then," he said.

Wetlands amendment should speed permit flow

The wetlands ordinance in Independence Township has been simplified.

An amendment to the township's wetland ordinance was unanimously approved by the township board at the July 1

"Now, if an applicant has a permit from either the Army Corps of Engineers or the State Department of Natural Resources, or both, they no longer have to apply to the township for a township per-mit," said Christopher Rose, township clerk.

Now an applicant can come to the township with a permit from either, organization and the building and planning department will decide if there are any problems, according to Rose.

In the past, applicants frequently went through both channels before reaching the township, only to find informatownship level, according to

Timothy Palulain, Head of the building and planning department.

The ordinance controls construction or changes on any tion was duplicated at the township wetland area, according to Rose.

saved

Independence Township is out to save some money.

At the July 1 meeting, the Independence Township Board voted unanimously to enter into a purchasing agreement with the state Office of Management and the Budget.

'The state buys equipment every year and as a service to local municipalities, they invite local governments to join in a cooperative purchasing agreement," said Christopher Rose, township clerk.

"If the state is going to buy some typewriters, for example, and 15 units of government also put in orders for typewriters, the state will receive a larger discount for buying in a larger quantity," he said.

With this agreement, evryone saves money, according to Rose.

Everything from office furniture to carbon paper can be purchased through the state at a savings of more than it would cost the township to do the paper work on an individual buying basis, Rose said.

Second adult foster care home application surfaces

By Marilyn Trumper

Within a two-week period, a second application for an adult foster care home in Independence Township has surfaced.

The home's proposed location is 5127 Timber Ridge Trail.

Currently, one other application for an adult foster care home with a proposed location at 4704 Parview, is pending finalization through the Licensing Bureau of the State Department of Social Services (DDS).

If both applications are approved, they will increase the total of nine such homes presently in the township. There are now 185 adult foster care homes licensed by the state in Oakland County.

Five residents are scheduled to live in the proposed home on Timber Ridge Trail, according to applicant Ms. Johnson, who has asked that her first name not be used to ward off possible harassment.

"This is the first time I've applied to open a group home.' Johnson said. "I've been in the field six years, two of those spent working in a group home.'

The ages and sexes of the residents who may live in the home have not yet been decided, according to Johnson, who said that will happen after licensing has been approved.

The home on Timber Ridge Trail would be rented, she said.

"I feel adult foster care homes are necessary and I don't believe a lot of people understand that developmentally disabled people are capable of feeling," Johnson

"They can also learn, but they learn at a slower pace. People are under the misconception facilities in the township, Trim that they can't learn, but they said.

can, and should be allowed to develop to their potential," she

Foster care home applications may take up to six months to process, according to Michael Swaganen, an adult foster care licensing consultant with DSS.

The moral character of the applicants, their qualifications, the programs available to the residents and a string of stringent standards are required by law to be reviewed, he said.

The number of residents in the home cannot exceed six, and the home cannot be located within 1,500 feet of another adult foster care home, but those are the only stipulations, he said.

A state act says local zoning ordinances cannot prohibit a home from becoming established if the home complies with the number of allowed residents and the 1,500 foot limit, according to Swaganen.

But, the home must comply with township construction codes, he said.

At present, townships and local municipalities have no control over the placement of foster care homes in their areas.

State Representative from the 60th district, Claude Trim, has moved to rectify that situation.

Trim has drafted two bills on the subject of adult and child foster care homes which he says would create community involvement on the local level.

Passage of the bills would create a locating panel comprised of specific people also outlined in the bill. The panel would develop a plan for the number and location of adult foster care

"Currently the bills read that the panel is mandatory, but that will be amended to read permissible, because the state would have to pick up the cost if it were mandatory, and it would never do that," Trim said.

"I want to make it permissible and let communities get involved who want to get involved. The idea is not to stop the locating of foster care homes in the communities, but to let local governments become involved in where the homes will be located in their areas," he said.

Trim also said the bills will be amended so townships cannot refuse foster care homes.

'The purpose of the bill is not to turn away applicants and the bill will be amended so that townships or local governments can't do that," he said. "The purpose is to insure that the location of homes is spread out and that they don't become condensed into any one area."

The panel would be comprised of the township supervisor, one member of each city council in the township chosen by that city council, one member of the county community mental health board, one member of the county social services board and four public members who are residents of the township, chosen by the township supervisor and a member of the county community mental health board.

"As the bills stand now they are not complete and in some areas will be amended," Trim said. "I'm hearing now from municipalities and advocates of foster care homes on changes."

Both bills should be heard on the house floor in the fall, Trim

Ends building department talks

Springfield nixes merger

By Al Zawacky

In a 4-1 vote at last week's monthly meeting, Springfield Township Board members decided not to pursue further plans to join the Springfield building department with those of neighboring townships.

"I'm not in favor of this at all," said Treasurer Pat Kramer, expressing the majority point of view prior to the vote. "I can't see any advantage in it."

"We have our own building department and it's working well," she said.

The board had previously authorized Springfield Walls to investigate forming one possibility," Walls said. large building department with townships.

"The view was that this would increase economy and efficiency," Walls said. "It would give each township a full-time building department, whereas we all operate with a part-time one now.'

Walls, who cast the lone dissenting vote, said the board's decision came as no surprise.

"I had already forewarned the Township Supervisor Collin other supervisors about this

"I think this decision is the departments of Holly, Rose premature. Eventually, the joint and possibly Groveland effort would help Springfield Township," said Walls.

Kramer, however, said the move would benefit Rose and Holly at the expense of Springfield.

'I think this would probably cost us," said Kramer. "I could see Rose and Holly maybe working something out, but I don't think we should get involved."

Saying he agreed with Kramer's point of view, Trustee Glen Vermilye made a motion to discontinue further consideration of consolidation plans.

The motion was seconded by Kramer, with Vermilye, Kramer, Trustee William Whitley and Clerk J. Calvin Walters all voting "aye".

Correction

We left out the total number of housing units for Independence township listed in the preliminary 1980 Census figures reported in last week's paper.

The 1980 unofficial tally is 6,866. That's 42.3 percent higher than the 1970 total of 4,794.

Joe Falls sets us straight,

I read with great interest your article saying I was seen in downtown Clarkston in my pajamas, on the corner of Main and Washington, trying to buy the "other" newspaper, and, as a newsman, I feel you should have your facts correct.

These were not ordinary pajamas; they were my bunnyrabbit PJ's, with the feeties in them, and I was not trying to purchase the "other" newspaper; I was trying to find a copy of The Clarkston News but they were all sold out, as always. So it is back to The New York Times for me.

Thank you for your attention

Sometimes it takes something unexpected to remind us just how special each parade is.

Last year, when the July 4th parade came to town, my parents and grandmother came from their homes in Rochester and Royal Oak to watch.

We had invited them for an afternoon picnic and then thought they might like to come early to see the parade.

Not knowing whether they would like the idea or not, I asked if they would be interested.

You bet.

A parade was something to see. And although my parents had attended their share of Rochester parades while watching various members of their brood march with girl scouts, boy scouts, et. al., they thought the Clarkston parade was something special.

The reaction I wasn't prepared for, though, was my grandmother's.

"It was grand," was the way she summed it up and she talked enthusiastically about it the rest of the afternoon.

She was then age 86 and she couldn't remember watching a real parade since she was a young girl growing up in New York.

I decided at that point to begin appreciating what each parade offers to our town.

I belong to a sportsmen's club near Engadine in the Upper. Some readers might remember me writing about it. It's not very exclusive. There's 16,000 members.

The Club owns about 6 miles of shoreline on Lake Michigan, much of it adjacent to fishing waters frequented by Indians. Actually, there have been more "Indians" netting in the area since they were given the right by judges to use gill nets when other commercial fishermen

For the most part Hiawatha

Sportsmen's Club rules follow the wishes of the Dept. of Natural Resources (DNR). We don't allow shooting of doe deer, though DNR might, but we're pretty agreeable.

Annually, by law and bylaws, the Club has an annual meeting. That's a morning affair, then at night there's a banquet in the Engadine High School gym, put on by a group of church ladies, this year Lutheran.

For year-around residents of the Club this banquet can be the social event of the year. I was really out of place in a sport shirt and slacks.

We missed the event last year, but wish we hadn't. The speaker was Tom Worthington, president of the United Conservation Clubs of Michigan.

I'm told he knocked anti-gun, anti-kill, anti-shoot columnist Jim Fitzgerald pretty good. And, of course, he took several shots at the DNR.

Being a sportsmen's club it almost follows that it's a pretty democratic group. We gave the anti-DNR group a platform to speak to our banquet membership of 300; so why not invite the head of the DNR, Dr. Howard Tanner next year.

So they did. And Dr. Tanner accepted. That kept the Upper's and Indians rumor mills going pretty good all year.

Voices got louder and nastier as the banquet date rolled closer. It was to be June 28.

Then Dr. Tanner's life was threatened, our officers were told by Indians.

Our club president was told, he said by Indians, that they would not only stop Dr. Tanner from coming to the meeting, but they would block the roads to keep members

TV stations, daily papers, and radio stations had all made arrangements to be in Engadine for the action.

No one says he looks good

by Jim Fitzgerald

"Did anyone at work tell you that you looked nice today?" the wife asked the husband.

She is always asking him that. And he always has to answer that no one even noticed he was wearing a new suit. Where he works, the women are always telling each other they look nice, even when they're wearing denim overalls and spike-heel shoes. But no one ever admires the men's clothing out loud.

The husband has studied this phenomenon for many years and in several different locations. His conclusion is that one of the differences between male and female is that women are always saying "I just love your blouse" to each other, but no man alive has ever told another man his shirt is lovable.

This conclusion angers the wife. "You are saying women are more vain than men, and that's just another male chauvinist myth," she says. "Everyone knows men look in the mirror just as much as women do, and they spend more money in barbershops than women spend in beauty shops."

This type of anti-chauvinist argument irks the husband, not because it's specious, but because it's irrelevant. He doesn't claim men are less vain than women. He simply claims men don't tell each other they look nice, but women do.

The husband doesn't know why this is true, anymore than he knows why it's now fashionable for women to wear high heels with long or short pants. For him, it seems like yesterday that only the dumbest women in town wore high-heel shoes at the same time they wore slacks or shorts. He can remember his daughters covertly pointing at these unstylish women in the supermarket and giggling. He can remember when this type of costume was a foolproof way for prostitutes to advertise their profession

But today, grandmothers go to church in Levis, tottering on spike heels. The husband says this is the same as a man wearing spats with his tennis shorts. Sometimes he says this to people who don't know what spats are, which sends the husband back to the rest home in search of warm milk.

Anyway, his research has revealed that a woman occasionally tells a man she likes his tie and that a man will sometimes tell a woman he likes her dress. But most usually the clothing compliments are strictly between females, never between males.

This doesn't bug the husband one bit. He has seen women spend entire evenings talking about nothing except their clothing. He doesn't think this makes them inferior to males, just different. With a dismaying lack of originality, the husband says vive la difference. He would hate to waste time talking about some guy's trousers when there are so many more important things to discuss in these troubled times, especially during the baseball season.

It is the wife who is bothered when no one compliments her husband's new outfit. When he returns home from work to report another day of no praise for his pants, she is distraught.

The husband doesn't mind that his wife has such a proprietary interest in his clothes. It's a price he's glad to pay, rather than go shopping without her. He is depressed by most men's stores, which offer all the verve and excitement of a funeral parlor. If left to make his own decisions, he buys the first thing the salesman shows him, just to get out of the place before they say the rosary.

And when he gets home, the wife never likes what he bought. It's much easier to take her along for large purchases that require the husband's body for fitting and to let her choose all the tie-shirt accessories while he waits in the poolroom. The only drawback is that she becomes peeved when her selections don't get rave reviews from his peers, and she won't accept his explanation that men are different from women and don't gush over each other's lanels.

For the husband, it is a conundrum not yet solved. A conundrum is the problem faced by a man who always dresses for dinner, but has lost his spats, and his milk is getting cold.

Squad has talent, says coach

Rec team' jelling in Maxi-Miss softball

By Al Zawacky

You might call them recreational league versions of major léague expansion teams

They're called "rec teams." Put together by the recreation department, it's not unusual for these squads to enter the season without a coach, sans sponsor or name and lacking the type of team harmony that arises when uniforms for two or three Dennis Bronson, a math teacher and girls' basketball coach at Clarkston Junior High. coaches a rec team in the Independence Parks and Recreation Maxi Miss softball league.

True to form, the team has no uniforms or sponsor—the squad's name, "Bronson," was borrowed from their coach

But Bronson thinks the fates have dealt him a pretty good hand

"I think we've got some really fine athletes, but we just don't have much experience," Bronson says, "Almost all of our girls are ninth graders, and these other sation for his time. teams in our league have players from the high school.

But we're coming along. Our offense is still a little down, but defensively we've been playing really well."

Members of the team are Patti White, Lori White, Shannon Moore, Traci Sherman, Maura Ryan, Beth Chartier, Veronica Valencuela, Lynn Charles Christi Nicholai, Sue Ketvirtis. Krista Pilditch, Stact Wasik Robin Ronquillo and Leslie Ronguillo

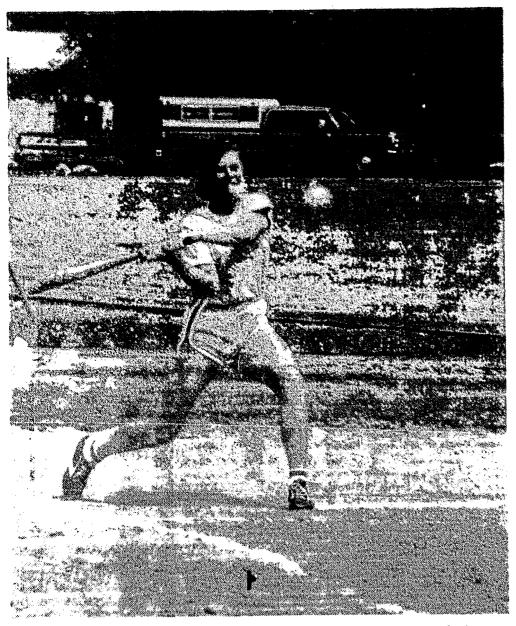

Bronson says his coaching is tree gratis, with only the ennorment of coaching as compen-

"I was asked by a couple of the girls on the team if I'd like to coach." Bronson says. coached T-Ball before.

Next year is already on the coach's mind-Bronson plans on obtaining a sponsor and looks forward to having most of his players back

These girls have been really dependable—they show up and work hard in practice. That's the only thing that ever gets me mad when somebody isn't putting out the effort

I think we're starting to jell, to develop a team identity. All we need now is experience

Patti White takes a cut at a pitch from Coach Dennis Bronson during batting practice. Playing under the team name, "Bronson" [after their coach], and teammates posted their first win of the season recently.

Now-ready for a shock?

Guess which Greater Oakland Activities League member finished last in overall varsity athletic competition this past school year?

Answer: Clarkston High School.

No, not Milford. Not Rochester, either.

Clarkstonites tend to be very smug about their school's athletic... achievements. What it comes down to is we seem to have excellentbut very selective-memories.

We remember boys basketball; we remember the wrestling team; we remember volleyball and softball.

But how soon we forget cross country, football, girls' basketball, track, baseball . . .

An exclusive interview with Coach O. A. "Bum" Brutalwitz: Bum, as we all know, is the fearless leader of "The Maimers," a five-year-old and under tackle football team.

I happened to see him on Clarkston's Main Street the other day, kicking young boys in the stomach "because it's good for their character.'

AL: First, I want to congratulate you, Bum. I hear you won your fifth straight league title last season.

BUM: Grunt.

AL: To what do you attribute your success?

BUM: I don't screw around. I mean business. They're boys when I get them, but they're men by the end of the season.

AL: Five-year-old men?

BUM: That's right. There are a bunch of traitors around nowadays trying to turn our young generation into a bunch of sissies. Do you want a pansy in the White House some day? Think about it. Would you want to see our America with a pansy president?

AL: Frankly, I think we've got one now.

BUM: Well, give me that turkey for a season, and I'll make a man out of him.

AL: Aren't your kids a little young to be playing football, though? Some pediatricians have said . . .

BUM: Aw, you can't listen to those eggheads.

AL: Changing the subject, then-I noticed that the Maimers beat an all-time league record with 214 points in eight games last BUM: Not 214 points-214 knee injuries, skull fractures, cartilage and bone damages, all inflicted on our opponents. Our number was in the low 70s—not bah, eh?

AL: But these aren't high school kids. Their bones are still developing—they might never heal right and go on through a lot of pain someday when the viscolder.

BUM: Better they build walk funny than be pansies. Without rootball, our young people wouldn't have character, our system would crumble, the Russians would march right in, the Chinese would be right behind them and ...

AL: Thanks for the interview, Bum.

Improvements ahead for Springfield Parks

By Al Zawacky

Roxanne Graham says there are expanded facilities and improved programs in the future for the Springfield Township Parks and Recreation depart-

But there are also a few dark clouds on the horizon, she notes.

Graham, who became Parks and Recreation superintendent in May, says passage of the pro-

November would probably hust the recreation budget more than any other department.

I'm greatly concerned," says Graham. "There are program and staff cuts as it is-in Holly, the community ed program is down to one day a week.

"Any more in the way of cuts. and Springfield might not even have this position (parks and recreation superintendent)

Proposed by Shlawassee Drain Commissioner Robert Theh, the Tisch amendment, if enacted, would cut property taxes from 50 to 100 percent. depending on the property owner's income.

The resulting loss of revenue to state and local government would put the economic screws on her department. Graham

"It seems like parks and rec is always the first thing to get cut." she says. "It's not really fair -- the programs aren't just fun, they're functional as well. Especially with the economy being the wav it is, people need something to do and keep their minds off it."

Graham was a student at Michigan State University majoring in recreation prior to coming to Springifled as parks and recreation superintendent. She currently resides in Fenton.

"I really enjoy my job," she says. "I'm enjoying learning how to establish contacts, how to speak to people to get things done, how to handle a staff."

Two future improvements in the works are a bath house at the Mill Pond Park on Davisburg Road and a new softball field at nearby Dilly Park, Graham

"We already have funds allocated for those two improvements," she says. "There's also the possibility that we may obtain another 150 acres of park land in the near future."

Currently, Springfield Township has approximately 25 acres of park facilities, she

"It's taken quite a few years to get our parks and recreation program really established here." Graham says. "We're involved in new programs and expanding our facilities, and the township now allocates funds specifically

"Right now, the only thing we charge for is our swimming and lifesaving classes," she says. "If we tried to make the department self-sufficient, the fees we'd have to charge would be prohibitive.

SCAMP tourney Scheduled

Trophies for the winners and a good time for the entire family are on the docket at the First Annual Clarkston SCAMP Benefit Softball Tournament. coming to Clintonwood Park July 26-27.

"It's a men's class B and C tournament," says Pat Loveless, SCAMP assistant director. "We're inviting friends, families and anybody who's interested to come out and watch."

Admission is free and plenty of summer-time eating will be on hand - fried chicken, barbecue sandwiches and cold beer and pop for refreshment.

"All the proceeds from the food and drink sales will go to benefit SCAMP," Loveless says.

SCAMP is an acronym for Special Camp, a camping and activities program for nearly 200 youths from seven northern Oakland County school districts who may have special needs.

Teams wishing to participate have until July 18 to register. Registration forms may be obtained by calling the SCAMP hotline at 674-1344. The entry fee is $90 plus two restricted flight softballs.

"It's going to be a double climination tournament, with the three-ball, two-strike rule." Loveless says.

Both the first and second place finishers will receive sponsors trophies, with individua trophies for each player going to the first-place team.

Burning wood: This bark clips energy cost's bite

By Al Zawacky

Rising energy costs-like death and taxes-have become one of life's sure things.

But each time OPEC hikes oil prices and the utility companies announce another increase in the cost of gas or electricity. Anne Mitchell-Langs and her son Gary Mitchell can afford to be a little more casual about the whole thing than most of us.

Reason being that their comfortable 110-year old home on 104 North Main, Clarkston, is heated almost entirely with

"I cut the wood myself," says Gary. "If you go out and just buy the wood, you pretty much lose all of the savings.

"If you've got a good access to wood and cut it yourself, you can probably cut your heating costs in half."

The house is equipped with a new gas furnace, but it's seldom needed, he says,

"Sometimes, we throw a little coal into the store at night-coal burns hotter and longer and provides extra heat when it really gets cold. Usually, just this one stove is enough to keep the whole house warm."

There are two wood-burning stoves in the home-one in the dining room area and the other in the living room.

The 50-year-old dining room stove, built by the old Detroit Stove Company, does the lion's share of the heating while the one in the living room is primarily decorative. Gary says.

There are no electricityconsuming fans and ducts to distribute the heat, nor are any needed, he adds.

There might be a little nippiness in the kitchen on winter mornings, but burning wood has a charm all its own, says Anne.

'I really think that the heat is more comfortable," she says. "It's definitely more aesthetic and cheerful, and I enjoy the warm smell it gives to a home."

"Sometimes I make the eggs pretty fast in the morning," she says with a grin, alluding to the winter-morning kitchen. "But there's just something satisfying about heating with wood, starting the stove and keeping it

But heat isn't the only use Anne and her son have found for wood--Gary has almost completed a steam sauna in the backyard, converting an old carriage house.

Not only does cutting your own wood for heat save money, but it's also a good way to stay in shape, says Gary. Here, he prepares some fuel for the nearby sauna.

Talking about . . .

On Main Street, Clarkston, we asked this week's question: When you want to save money, what do you cut back on?

"I turn the thermostat back, out cut down on snacky foods and entertainment and try to consolidate car trips."—Nanca McGuire, Oak Hill Road, Brandon Township, teacher at Waterford Stringham Elementary School.

"We cut back on everything now that I think about it. We have a carpool for the kid's activities, watch the sales more closely and don't buy unnecessary things, settling for something less expensive." Johnny Sherman, Bridge Lake Road, Independence Township, McDonald employee.

"We cut back on buying clothes, didn't buy a new car this year and entertainment has suffered too." — Tom Lamm, Robertson Court, Clarkston, teacher at Clarkston Junior High School.

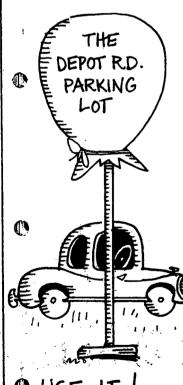

"We've cut back on entertainment and going out to dinner. We watch the specials, have shorter vacations and consolidate driving trips."—Gerald Garrett, Rattalee Lake Road, Springfield township, unemployed inside sprinkler-fitter.

"When I'm going to spend money on big things like a major appliance, I always wait until the last moment, because it's a big expense and the money may have to go to something else." — Linda Kozierowski, Waldon Road, Independence Township, real estate agent.

Bargains await at garage sales

By Marilyn Trumper

They come from all over and look for all types of items for hundreds of different reasons.

They find the sale locations through word of mouth, by following tattered signs on telephone poles or by avidly reading the classified ad section.

Garage sale shoppers come in hordes with but a single purpose--to find a bargain.

"Paperback books have gotten so outrageously expensive and I read a book every two days or so," said Irene Hubbard of Bridge Lake Road, Springfield Township. "In the store, they sell for as much as $2.95, but here I can buy them for 10 cents apiece.

A table off to the side of a garage on Holcomb Street. Clarkston, is filled with boxes and boxes of paperback books. titles turned upward for easy shopping.

There are clothes, dishes, jewelry, bed heads and even an ATV-90 for sale. Boxes of pine cones and floor tile, kitchen cupboards, wigs, shoes and a car are other choices.

"I was just driving by, saw the sign and stopped," said Cherie Sasser of Milford. "I can really pick up a bargain. Like, for example, the other day I bought two Levi shirts for $1 apiece that would normally cost $16 in the store."

"I try to find things like clothes, socks and underwear for 10 cents. I really save money that way," she said.

A garage sale on Pear Street in Independence Township was doing well, according to proprietor Lin Wilson and her sister Rachel.

"We were mobbed with people all morning long beginning at 9:30 this morning; it's just slacked off now," Lin said.

Here there's a hat rack filled with hats, hardware, clothes, key chains and even more, but there one especially uncommon

"That's a 20-year old cotton candy machine," Lin said, "I had it when I was a kid, so " may be even older. Rachel har been inside making cotton candy with it and it still works!"

Some shoppers come to browse as a time filler, others know specifically what they have

'I just stopped by today, because I have a car and normally I don't have a car," said Ester Morrison of Perry Lak. Road, Independence Township.

"I don't do it very often, but today I found a bargain--a swim ring for my son who's learning to swim," she said. "Only 50

Some customers dicker. others argue that the tally must be incorrect, demanding the full value of their dollars.

In these inflationary times, a bargain can still be found and savings made at a garage sale.

As one sale proprietor said, "One man's junk is always another man's treasure.'

Avon bottles bring a pretty penny among collectors in the business. This buyer selectively looks for a bottle with the wish that it's rare, or at least filled with a delightful scent.

The crowd lines Main Street to watch the festive Fourth of July Parade. The theme for the event sponsored by the Independence Township Fire Department was "America the Beautiful" and colorful flags sold by the Clarkston Village Players and balloons passed out by various political campaigners made the onlookers a colorful addition to the parade's visual delights.

Patty O'Rourke of Church Street, Independence Township, finds the perfect spot for parade watching—the apartment window of a friend who lives above a store on Main

Traditionally it's the little kids who seek higher spots to watch a parade, always lost in the midst of big adults. But here two parade enthusiasts take advantage of the truck bed to watch the show

The miniature flag gave Nathan Vinson just the right look for a patriotic parade watcher. Hos mom Wendy is on his right. The Vinsons on Sequoiah Road, Independence Township.

There were all sorts of spots for parade watchers along Main Street—from parents' shoulders to walls between buildings and street curbs.

Undaunted by the adults surrounding him, Mark Chudo of Farley Road, Springfield Township, just looks around to get a good view of the parade.

Members of the Sashabaw Valley Alternative Marching Band were on hand to add their touch to the parade—and what's the Fourth of July without a few fife players?

The Clarkston High School Color Guard adds its military marching style to the parade.

Carpool eye-opener

There are those people who think that being in a car pool has the peripheral benefit of occurs when the driver, who has providing scintillating exchanges of incisive wit or scarching analyses of current political tenor or a re-hash of the weekend sporting events in the true Monday morning quarterback tradition.

They are wrong.

Early morning coversations in our car pool more closely resemble attempted communication among a group of constipated Indians.

The only change from monosyllables to near loquacity been waiting with his brain idling at seven RPM and his onboard computer running an obsolete program, forgets that the addition of me to the pool means that more than two people will get into the car although three of us will try to get in three different doors before the car starts moving.

When he hears two doors slam, he accelerates and the car lurches out of the parking lot.

While the third man wildly pedals like a kid on a scooter, the others are muttering, "No. No. Three doors slams. Three."

I sleep in the car, which is all right because I'm in the back seat. But, I have this horrible foreboding that everyone else is asleep also.

I sincerely feel that someone in the car should be awake, preferably the driver. But, if not him, then someone else.

I don't think that the obligation to the car pool is totally discharged by aiming the car at Detroit and dozing off.

One of the reasons that I'm asteep is that the voice on the radio is advising me on the price of pork bellies.

Now, I am not part of that segment of society that is breathlessly waiting for the current quote on pork bellies.

I do not own any pork bellies and, if the truth be known, I really don't want to own pork bellies. I can't quite see myself looking in a safety deposit box to see how my pork bellies are do-

I would think my bank manager would have some tightlipped discussions of desireable patronage.

I recall car pooling through the French Quarter one balmy Orleanian morning when a pretty young girl in the teeniest of bikinis bounded out of a patio gate, skipped across the street and disappeared through another gate.

Now, if something like that were to run across I-75, it would jar the most lethargic car pool member out of his torpidity.

That was four years ago, when Dennis, his wife Mary-Jo and children Grayce, Dennis junior and Rebecca made their home in a townhouse in Taylor.

"This was sort of a compromise," Dennis says. "I wanted to move way out in the country, but my wife wanted to stay close to the city."

"I'm afraid they might eventually turn this area into just the sort of thing that people came here to stay away from.'

Besides the intangible value of peace and quiet, the Abdoos have some country benefits they can see--a large vegetable garden, for one.

'You name it, we've got it," Mary-Jo says. "Beans, peas, corn, spinach..."

Civitans send six to Youth Seminar

Six area high school students are to travel to Albion College next month to participate in a youth seminar.

The six were chosen by the North Oakland Civitan Club after interviews were conducted from a list provided by Clarkston High School and Our Lady of the Lakes High School counselors.

The seminar is to include current events, group discussions and visits by senators and representatives from all over the United States. In addition to 10th, 11th and 12th graders from Michigan, students from four other states will also attend the youth seminar. From CHS, Kim Roberts, Dan Blumenschein, Sue Haddad and Mike Lockard are to travel to Albion.

Linds Mah and Jeff Barnfather were chosen from Lakes high school to participate in the seminar.

New arrival

Susan and Tony Tati of Nashington Street, Clarkston, became parents of a daughter June 29.

Morgan Rae was born at 3:11 .m. at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac. She weighted Grad pounds, 8 ounces and measured 20.5 inches.

Grandparents are Bob and Nancy Bennett of Ortonville, Fruce and Jeane Olson of Clarkston, and Roy and Rose Williams of Caledonia, Ohio.

Wilma Bennett of Pontiac, and Alfred and Juanita Johnson of Marion, Ohio.

Among recent graduates of Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, was Delynn Miller of Deer Lake Road, Independence Township.

Delynn was awarded a Great-grandparents are Leo bachelor's degree with a Ila Watson of Lewiston, business administration major.

Kathy Greenfield's beef with mushrooms (Moo Goo Ngow) oriental dish is good for a large group of people. Kathy, Dick, Corey and Craig live on Robertson Court in Clarkston.

Beef with Mushrooms

1 clove garlic 3 T vegetable oil

11/2 lb. round steak cut in thin slices

Salt to taste Pepper to taste

3 T. chopped onion

1½ c beef broth

1 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced

3 T cornstarch

1 T soy sauce

In large skillet, saute garlic in hot oil 2 minutes. Add steak, salt, pepper and onion. Cook until meat is browned, about 5 minutes.

Add broth and mushrooms. Cover pan and cook 10 minutes. Mix cornstarch, soy sauce and enough water to make a thin paste. Stir into skillet over low heat until thickened. Serve at once with hot rice if desired. Makes six servings.

D.C. travelers find comfort with Clarkston-connection

Michele Russell moved from Clarkston to Washington, D.C. before she could complete her two-and-one-half-year membership as a "Clarkston Confirmation Crusader."

But things turned out on a positive note, as they frequently do in these cases, when Michele and her parents Mike and Rita hosted a group of 12 teenagers and their chaperones in June.

The confirmation class from Calvary Lutheran Church took the "exposure trip to see Washington, but kind of from the inside," said the Rev. Robert Walters, pastor of the church.

Michele's father Mike is press secretary to United States Sen. Donald Riegle Jr. (D-Mich.), so the group was able to meet the Senator and take part in some special tours.

They also saw some of the usual things ors at the Capitol see, rode the subway visited the National Cathedral and lunched on Michigan Navy Bean Soup in the Senate dining hall.

The soup, incidentally, was delicious, Walters said.

The Calvary entourage slept three nights at the Russells' home in Virginia and were treated to several meals by the former Clarkston family.

"We really enjoyed their visit, and it was good to see someone from home." wrote Mike in a note to The Clarkston News.

The Russell family still maintains its Clarkston-connection through two sets of aunts and uncles-Helene and Frank Russell, and Anne and Matt Hubchen-and Mike's grandmother, Mrs. C. W. Russell.

They have been residents of Virginia for

So, you're buying the kids a puppy

Before you add a fluffy ball of love to your household, take this four-point qualification test.

If you score less than 100, forget it! You and the dog will not be happy with each other.

1) Is your household well ordered? The house cannot be empty 8-10 hours at a time without someone willing to assume full responsibility for the puppy's care.

2) Do your children pass as 'civilized? A family's kids will tell you how the dog will behave. If your kids are bed-wetting hellions. you dog will be one too!

3) Any tiny tots? The number one canine catastrophe is a small uncoordinated toddler patting puppy and ending up with a thumb in his eye! Yes, babies and puppies go together, but only with constant supervision and caring.

4. Is your yard secure? Tying Fido is a punishment for a crime the adult committed, not the dog! It is un-

Spirited paraders

Upcoming band concerts in Clarkston Village's Depot Road park were announced by this woman, her dog and a poster. The old-fashioned band concerts featuring a 30-piece band begin Friday and continue the following three Fridays. Showtime is 7 p.m.

Dressed to fit the bike's era. Mike McBride of Bridge Lake Road in Springfield Township, executes perfect balance and coordination while riding his vintage transporation. Mike was just one of the many participants in Clarkston's Fourth of July Parade held Friday.

Some lucky parade watchers received small pots of petunias from this float by Tom Lowrie Landscaping of Independence Township. Other goodies passed out during the parade included loads of balloons and some candy.

Good health was the theme of this float and those on the wagon or walking behind were dressed as various fruits and vegetables. They even included a farmer or two to show who grows the garden and orchard goodies.

Linda Kozierowski had a dual reason for marching in the parade—not only was she passing out candy to the kids, but it was her birthday as well.
