Pine Knob amusement ride rolls on Independence attempts to pull plug, but warnings are ignored

By Marilyn Trumper

Even with Independence Township's threat of court action, the first ride of the proposed "Wonderful World of Pine Knob" continues to operate.

A township employee attending Pine Knob's Music Theatre saw the ride in operation following a July 10 concert and reported it to the building department.

The township's building and planning department pulled the plug on the whirling Himalayan and a second deadline for submittal of a complete revised final site plan was given to co-owner of Pine Knob Investment, Joseph Locricchio.

Although the township has given Locricchio a second warning of court action, the ride was still operating as of July 18, following the Rocket's concert.

"Locricchio has been sent a punch list," said Timothy Palulian, head of the township's building and planning departments. "He still has not given us the location of the rides, the distances between the rides and there's the fact that where the ride is now located was not the area shown in his original site plan."

Locricchio has been given a four-day deadline to submit the revised site plan, Palulian said.

An estimated deadline date of July 23 has been given, Palulian said, because notice was sent through the mail.

Friday night, co-owner of the ride, Ken Clothier, said he had not received instructions to stop the ride's operations.

Further, he said he had been told by Locricchio that as long as the ride had a state license, it would be okay to continue operations.

When the amusement park's final site plan was approved in April, the township's planning commission did so with stipulations.

The stipulations included a landscaped greenbelt on the park's northern boundary, a description of the rides and the distance between the rides, all of which had to be added before a building permit would be issued.

On June 17, the ride had been erected and workmen were making repairs ready to open for business that week.

At that time the township gave Locricchio a deadline to submit the plans or face possible court action.

On June 20, Locricchio submitted an incomplete revised final site plan, noting additionally only the location of the northern greenbelt.

On June 27, the State Department of Labor inspected the ride and gave its okay.

Following Locricchio's expected submittal of a complete revised final site plan, the matter again goes before the township's planning commission for review on the ride's new location.

The ride must then undergo a township inspection and receive a building permit, Palulian said, before operation resumes.

Father charged with son's murder

An Independence Township man has been arrested for allegedly stabbing his son to death on Friday.

Robert Raymer, 52, of 6048 Waldon Road, was arraigned before 52nd District Court Judge Gerald E. McNally on Monday.

Raymer has been charged with open murder and is being held in the Oakland County Jail without bond.

The body of his son, Charles G. Raymer, 25, was found at the home about noon on Friday.

He died of multiple stab wounds to the chest, according to a spokesman from the Oakland County Medical Examiner's Office. An autopsy was performed on Monday, but findings have not been released.

Members of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department refused to comment further on the incident or to discuss any motive for the killing.

A preliminary examination is scheduled for Raymer on July 31 at 9 a.m. in the 52nd District Court, Independence Township.

Memorial service for Charles G. Raymer was held Monday. The Rev. Robert R. Hazen officiated.

He is survived by his parents Robert and Cora Raymer and brothers and sisters, Greg, of Waterford, Margaret of Drayton Plains, Gay of Waterford Township and Christine of Independence Township.

First day draft registrations go without hitch

By Al Zawacky

Contrasting a flurry of protest rallies and demonstrations around the country, draft registration at the Clarkston Post Office on Dixie Highway began without a hitch Monday morning.

"There were three people waiting when we opened the doors at 8:30 this morning," said Lorinda Lovell, post office employee. "Everybody's been really cooperative—we haven't had any problems."

As of 11 a.m. Monday, Lovell said the post office had received just six completed registration forms, but the rate began to pick up as the afternoon approached.

Reactions to the draft registration plan were mixed as young men dutifully pulled out their drivers' licenses and social security cards to fill out the forms.

"It doesn't bother me," said Tom Pidd of Clarkston, adding that he would be willing to serve if called.

"I'm not too happy about it, but I'd go if I had to," said Dean McCarrick, also of Clarkston. "It just seems to me that if they're registering people, something is going to come of it and they'll actually start drafting them."

"My parents don't think so, but I do."

The registration plan was put in serious doubt last Friday when a federal court panel ruled that the government's draft registration was unconstitutional on the grounds that it discriminated against women.

Under the plan, men born in the years 1960 and 1961 are required to register under the threat of a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine, while women retain their traditional status of being draft-exempt.

However, Supreme Court Justice William Brennan issued a stay of the federal court panel's injunction over the weekend, allowing the registration to proceed as planned.

But while the United States Supreme Court has yet to rule on the sex discrimination issue, the young men registering at the Clarkston Post Office had some very definite opinions about the possibility of women being required to register.

"No way," Pidd said. "If a woman wants to come down here and register, fine. But I don't think she should have to."

McCarrick said he 'didn't want to sound chauvinistic,' but he doubted the ability of most women to hold up under combat conditions.

"I don't think they should have to register," he said.

While women are not required to register, there's nothing stopping a woman from coming in and registering voluntarily, Lovell noted.

"But we haven't had any (women) so far," she added.

Jim Allard of Independence Township expressed a negative view of drafting women and also found out that he wouldn't have to register, having been born in 1959.

"I think it's drag (the registration and possible draft), but necessary," he said. "The state of our military is really falling off."

"I've got friends in the service who've told me how bad it is—the only people they're getting to enlist now are the unemployables."

Drayton Plains resident Tim Fancher expressed perhaps the most practical form of patriotism when asked why he was out on the first day of registration to fill out his form.

"It's better than going to jail," he said.

"Besides, this is just registering. If they started drafting, then I'd worry."

But if the country was threatened, he'd be ready to fight, he said.

America's first draft registration program since the early 1970's got underway at post offices across the nation Monday. This was the scene at the Clarkston Post Office on Dixie Highway as Dean McCarrick [above] was one of several young men to fill out his registration form.

Tom Pidd's view of draft registration was typical of the young men on hand at the Clarkston Post Office Monday morning. "It doesn't bother me," he said, adding that he would serve if called.

Pine Knob threatens 450' ski run sans hotel

Zoning Board of Appeals ruling on height, parking spaces tonight

By Marilyn Trumper

The latest promise to Independence Township from Joseph Locricchio, co-owner of Pine Knob Investment, involves the construction of a 450 foot ski-run, sans hotel, silhouetting the skyline above the Knob's hills.

"In the event I was denied use (of my land for a hotel), I would continue to build this structure," Locricchio said, referring to a screened slide of a ski-run located at Copper Peak.

Speaking before the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) on July 16, and an 85-member audience, Locricchio further explained.

"It would enhance my ability to compete with my competition and it would make me a landmark in the Midwest."

In compliance with a circuit court order, the ZBA reconsidered the question of height on the proposed 20-story, ski-run roof hotel at Pine Knob and, in addition, a parking space variance request of 1,000 spaces for the hotel.

Tonight, should the ZBA deny the request, Locricchio's $30 million lawsuit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court will resume against the township.

In February, Locricchio sued the township for $30 million or a building permit for the hotel.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Francis X. O'Brien ordered the township's ZBA to rehear the question of height and said he would then consider the use of recreation property for the hotel.

At the close of the four-hour meeting, the township's ZBA voted to hold any decision for one week, in order to review the township's parking ordinance and all other information.

The hearing, held in a lay court type atmosphere, had the township's attorney on the left and Pine Knob Investment's legal council on the right.

In compliance with the court order, a court reporter was present during the meeting.

In the course of the hearing, Anthony Locricchio, attorney for Pine Knob, called five witnesses to testify on both the parking variance and height requests.

In testimony received from the witnesses, Locricchio attempted to prove that the township's parking ordinance is inadequate and that the argument on height is non-debatable.

The final summation argument for Pine Knob came from Thomas Raguso, attorney of record.

"...Your own ordinance has no restriction on structure height, and Pine Knob is not asking for a change in your ordinance. The structure (ski-run) can be built right now so the question of height becomes moot."

While a township zoning ordinance does limit building structures to 35 feet, the ski-run is not a building and has but a single ordinance regulating height.

"A structure's height is regulated by the size of the land it's on," said Timothy Palulian head of the township's building and planning department following the meeting. "It has to be centrally located so that if it falls, it will fall on the owner's property. Therefore it can be half as high as the land is wide."

At the meeting, attorneys for Pine Knob argued that because the 450 foot ski-slope would be attached to the 20-story hotel the question of height was not debatable, and that the ordinance says that construction of accessory buildings is permitted when that building relates to other land uses.

When co-owner of Pine Knob, Joseph Locricchio testified before the board, he said that plans for a hotel were always in the conceptual master plan, and that the development of Pine Knob centered around the eventual construction of a hotel.

Pine Knob's second request involved a parking space variance for 1,000 cars instead of the required 2,228 calculated by following the township's zoning ordinance.

James Bond, vice-president of Central Parking Systems, a firm out of St. Louis Missouri, was called to testify on his experience with other ordinances with planning.

"Based on actual demand and operating, there is approximately 0.35 to 0.5 spaces per room, adding in the ancillary for catering and employees. But there is no more than one space per room," he said.

Anthony Locricchio questioned Bond on the township's required 1.8 spaces per room and he replied that it was "Too much."

Locricchio earlier questioned Ted J. Kilroy, professional community planner working for the township.

"You've explained to us Mr. Kilroy how you calculated the number of parking spaces and what you have done is to have all 500 employees there at the hotel working at the same time," he said.

"What you have done is put all 500 employees there at one time, which would normally be working in three shifts," he said.

"The zoning ordinance does not differentiate in whether or not an employee will be there, or at what time," Kilroy said. "It just says that there must be one parking space for each employee and I followed that."

The Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals is scheduled to make a decision tonight, July 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Mining requirements made tougher

Operators proposing to mine gravel in Independence Township face a more stringent list of requirements than ever before.

With a unanimous vote, members of the Independence Township Board amended the township's gravel mining ordinance at a July 15 meeting.

The amendment will require a petitioner to submit more information to the township for analysis, said Timothy Palulian, head of the township's planning and building department.

"The planning commission may require an environmental impact study, serial photographs, more drawings, traffic flow information and more," Palulian said.

"This is a damn good ordinance and we've worked on it for almost a year," he said. "These changes give us something more to sink our teeth into and give us more

"We've covered as much area as we think can primarily benefit us but is also equitable to someone who wants to operate a pit," he said. "This is a good, tight ordinance. We've covered a lot of area, but it's not unreasonable."

Attempt made to block group home

Lake Oakland subdivision residents plan to take court action

By Marilyn Trumper

Undaunted by Independence Township's inability to block the movement of an adult foster care home into their neighborhood, residents of Lake Oakland Woods subdivision are consulting an attorney for legal action.

Homeowners living on either side of the proposed facility and a following of approximately 80 percent of the block, are spearheading the campaign to thwart state licensing.

And their attorney said chances of success look good.

"I think our chances of succeeding in this case are excellent, due to the fact that deed restrictions limit the use of a home to single family," said Donald E. Schuster, attorney with the firm of Stern, Milmet, Vecchio, Goll and Carnago.

"In this case the term 'single family' is specifically defined to one individual, or two or more related by blood, marriage or legal adoption," Schuster said. "And the proposed use of the home does not fall into any of those definitions."

In the past, the court of appeals has not worked with deed restrictions and definitions, Schuster said, so the court ruled on its own definition of what a single family was.

"But now they have a definition and will go by that," he said.

Currently, Schuster is consulting with the present homeowner and the Department of Social Services in an effort to come to some type of decision.

"But if those negotiations are not fruitful then legal action may commence within the next 30 days," Schuster said.

The proposed facility at 5127 Timber Ridge Trail is slated to house five residents, and the ages and sexes of the residents have not yet been decided, according to applicant Ms. Johnson.

An application for licensing was submitted to the State Department of Licensing in early May, but that can take up to six months to process, said Michael Swaganen, an adult foster care licensing consultant with the Department of Social Services.

The residents have many objections to the proposed foster care home. They claim the facility would lower property values, the home is not large enough and the subdivision deed restrictions allow only single families.

The homeowners also object, because the application for foster care licensing was submitted in May and the residents were not notified until July.

"They (the applicant) came to us in July — that's two months that have gone by before we heard anything about it," said William Craig. "Why did they wait two months to inform us? Were they afraid? And just how sincere are these people?"

"We're not debating the function of foster care homes, we feel the facility has short comings for the purposes they intend to use it for, and legally we feel they are not following the law," Craig said.

"The point is, we have a community here of single family dwellings," said Duane Kusak, who owns the home on the other side of the proposed facility.

"This would be a house of six adults living in a four bedroom house with a bath and a half. If they wanted to walk to a shopping center, they have to cross two busy roads, Maybee and Sashabaw, there are no sidewalks in this neighborhood and our backyards are only 10 feet deep.

"Not only that, but there is woods behind this place and a marshy area in there too," Kusak said.

"This area is zoned single family residential and I guess it applies to us and not to them," Craig said. "They are considered by the courts as a residential operation, but they pay a staff of people so the land is used as a commercial type property."

"The owner of this house is taking advantage of the situation and making a profit through the state which pays for residents' housing," he said.

While arguing against the home's establishment, both men defend adult foster care homes, stressing that in this case, deed restrictions are not being met.

"Some people not directly involved may think we don't know about mental health, and that's not the case, they are violating the deed restriction," Craig said.

"They might think we're ignorant," Kusak said, "that we don't know about group homes. But we do, and we don't think they are freaks or anything else."

"We are not trying to stop them from being able to leave institutions. We want more thought given to placement.

There will be three shifts of adults coming in at odd hours to care for the residents, that's a consideration which has to be looked at," he said.

"My wife is a social worker counselor at a drug and alcohol rehabilitation program, and formally worked with mentally retarded adults," Craig said. "Through that, I was exposed to a lot of people and have worked with them, and I'm in sympathy to their plights."

Kusak has lived in his home for seven months and said that he bought with the understanding that the neighborhood was for single family residents.

"The people from the department of social services are trying to tell me that I won't lose money on my home," Kusak said. "I think I will."

"It does affect the resale value of a house," said Rudy Lozano, co-owner of Evans and Associates Real Estate Company in Waterford.

"If you had a choice of three homes, and two of those homes were located in a true residential area and the third home was located next to an adult foster home, and all three homes were alike, well it's obvious which two you would prefer to buy," he said.

"I've been in this business for 14 years, and while I don't have any statistics to back up what I'm saying, I know. It does affect the resale value of a house, just as any obsolescence in a residential area does," Lozano said.

Often, a traveler feels the need to have all the comforts expected at home in a hotel. This might include the simple requirement of a room with private bath. It is possible to find exacting requirements in Europe, the Orient, or wherever. However, the traveler can expect to pay for it, sometimes two or three times as much as in the United States. The truth is that in many places outside of the United States, a room with a bath is an oddity. One pays a premium for it. A good idea for the traveler who wants to save money is to consider firmly insisting on accommodations without private bath. It will result in substantial savings over the course of the trip.

There may be other ways to save on your trip. If you're working with a tight budget please let us know when making your reservations with us at CLARKSTON TRAVEL BUREAU INC., 6 N. Main St., 625-0325. ## Letter to the editor

Pine Knob hotel reviewers shouldn't let voters down

Dear Editor:

It was my privilege to attend the Independence Township Zoning Board of Appeals meeting July 16 and listen to four-and-one-half hours of Pine Knob witnesses.

And in my humble opinion, it boils down to the same thing we have heard for two years, so I heard nothing that should make the ZBA change its 1979 decision.

Implied promises or board meetings mean nothing, unless they result in laws or ordinances; and laws and ordinances are passed to protect the public and to establish guidelines for future generations.

The owners and attorneys of Pine Knob know full well that if you live in another man's house, you live by his rules.

But their quest for Millions drives them on regardless of the consequences to 22,000 people.

But the people spoke in 1979 and I just can't imagine that in this day and age when so many people are cynical about government and justice, that our elected and appointed officials would let them down by acceding to the wishes of GREED.

Grocery genetics

by Kathy Greenfield

Groceries can be revealing.

While waiting in line after shopping, a scan of the cart can readily identify people as health food advocates, bakers-from-scratch, junk food junkies or partiers.

As with many of these kind of observations, I usually don't get too involved with myself and what my buying habits reveal.

My husband Dick and I made an early morning junket to the grocery store last week before we headed for work.

We were getting things ready for our son's 12th birthday party that night.

Grocery shopping is one household duty sort of randomly split — whoever has the time or the inclination meanders into the store and stocks up.

Shortly after we finished, a call came into the office from our daughter. She wanted to discuss an afternoon outing.

"Mom, did you and Dad both go shopping this morning?" she asked at the end of the conversation. "I've been trying to figure out who did and some of the things look like Dad and some look like you."

After she hung up, I started wondering just how accurate her guesses were and what we were matched with in her mind.

We make lots of exceptions about birthday parties and all of the usually forbidden foods can be requested when it's YOUR day.

The only item Craig wasn't specific about was "party candy." Dick and I had freedom of choice.

There was only one thing I thought might stump Corey and I was wrong — she knew the super sweet sips of liquid encased in wax were my doing.

See, when I was an early elementary pupil, I walked to school. On the way home, for an occasional treat, we got to stop by a candy store that was well-stocked with penny candy (a thing of the past).

One of the best parts was deciding what to spend the pennies on, and when I chose the wax-wrapped sips of sugar-laden juice, I was always glad.

I had just happened on these reminders of the past in the grocery store.

Corey's certainty that I bought them must be based on genetics.

Jim's jottings

Common ground

by Jim Sherman

We just printed this 10 years ago. It's time to print it again.

Once, many years ago there was a great Indian chief who was renowned for his hunting prowess. The years took their toll and he could no longer take his place among the mighty hunters of the tribe. He was forced to stay in the village with the women and the children.

In the hunting grounds of this particular tribe was a herd of wild horses so wild and so cunning that the young bucks could not come even close to catching it.

Time and time again the young hunters tried and failed until they reached the point where they gave up.

The old hunter volunteered his services but the younger braves scoffed. The old hunter vowed to make them eat their words.

He set off for the roaming area of the wild horse herd and started his plan.

First he scattered grain over a small area and provided fodder and water. Every day for months on end he did this.

At first the wild horse herd ignored the offerings but gradually the weaker-willed and the lazier horses in the herd started to nibble at the offerings.

After months of this the old hunter built a fence just one foot high. The herd, after a couple of days, stepped over the low fence and took a handout.

Each week the old hunter would raise the fence a few inches with the horses exerting just a little more effort to get inside in order to partake of the easy food.

Finally he reached the point in his fence-building where the final tier of logs was so high the herd could not jump out of the enclosure.

He called the tribe's hunters together and showed them the results of his months of hard work and patience.

He waived off the young hunters' congratulations by saying:

"Those horses kicked up quite a fuss when they saw they were trapped but after a few hours they went back to eating the hay and grain I provided and drinking the water I gave them."

He closed with an interesting thought, "There is no animal, bird, or fish on the face of the earth which I cannot trap and pen if I can just get him to depend on me for his food, water and shelter."

So it is with man.

Socialism and communism have made their biggest advancements toward the enslavement of other people by using the tactic of the old Indian. That is the same tactic we in the United States have fallen for.

By appealing to the avarice and laziness of the individual and groups of individuals the programs of handouts, of security and womb to tomb care have brought us into the socialism enclosure.

Each day, each month, each year, the fence of socialism blocking escape gets a little higher. The number of those contented Americans who would rather have someone else feed them and care for them than do it themselves gets a little larger.

And thus came about the demise of freedom loving and independent American animal known as man.

Local trio hits Republican convention scene

They meet VIPs while doing volunteer work at Detroit's Joe Louis Arena

By Al Zawacky

The Republican National Convention may have been held 140 miles away in downtown Detroit last week, but three Clarkson area residents were able to share in the festivities.

And Larry Rosso, Bruce Rogers and Bob Arend received their office for quite some time, says Larry.

Thus, the trio were able to strike up an extended and interesting conversation with the possible first lady-to-be.

"We talked about the car industry, unemployment, the Detroit Plaza Hotel and the con-

Detroit loves a good party—and so do Bob Arend, Larry Rosso and Bruce Rogers [from left], who managed to meet some VIPs from the world of politics and show business while doing volunteer work at the Republican National Convention last week.

When they coined that slogan

Detroit loves a good party everybody really meant it.

—Larry Rosso

"We were supervising the program sales at the convention," Larry says. "We had a little sideline office in Joe Louis Arena, and the Secret Service and the Reagan and Ford staffs decided they wanted to use it as a holding area for the celebrities on their way to the convention floor."

As a result, the three of them were able to meet such notables as Gerald Ford, Henry Kissinger, Nancy Reagan and the Reagan family, and Elizabeth Taylor and Frank Sinatra.

"Our office just happened to be convenient for them," Bruce says. "We were just fortunate to be where we were."

While most of the celebrities were whisked in and out in a matter of minutes, a schedule foul-up kept Nancy Reagan in

"She mentioned that she hadn't been able to see much of the city, but she really liked what she did see," adds Bruce. "Most of the people left with a very good impression of Detroit."

Eating at a cafeteria area set up for NBC employees also brought them in contact with some VIPs, including newspaper columnist and author William F. Buckley.

"I managed to talk to an Israeli ambassador and a member of the English Parliament," says Bob. "It was great just to be part of it, to be able to assess first hand just what goes on at a convention."

"Bill Buckley said that it was really incredible that a convention can be such a major media event when only 50 percent of the people actually go out and vote," notes Larry.

All three men have been involved in Republican politics for some time and said they were eager to volunteer their services when the party convention came to Detroit.

They don't see eye to eye with each other or the newly formulated GOP platform, but politics had to take a back seat to the hoopla and excitement.

"Everybody seemed able to put aside their differences, get along and enjoy themselves," says Larry.

"Regardless of how you felt politically, you had a good time. When they coined that slogan 'Detroit Loves a Good Party' everybody really meant it."

Asparagus saga

by Jim Fitzgerald

Why was the young woman weighing herself on bathroom scales in the driveway of her grandmother's home? The answer is asparagus. As always, this is a true story, even if you don't believe it.

The young woman is the daughter of the father of the bride, two years after the wedding. When she lived under his sponsorship, she couldn't spread butter and her idea of preparing a fine meal was phoning for restaurant reservations. But now she has become a budget-squeezing homemaker, ever on the alert for double-coupon day at the supermarket. Such is the miracle wrought by a change in life-style requiring her to face the economic uncertainties of paying for her own panty hose.

It should be inserted here that besides being the father of two brides, our hero is also a brother to four sisters and a husband to one wife, and in all his 52 years of exposure to female spending, he has never seen grander largesse than panty hose. Just from the tone of the groan emitting from the bedroom, he can tell whether the wife's panty hose have disintegrated before being worn once — or not until after the first, second or third wearing. Panty hose worn more than three times without running are candidates for the Smithsonian.

Our hero hates to sound chauvinistic, but he can't think of any piece of male attire even remotely comparable to panty hose. After several lengthy discussions with his wife on this subject, he has decided there is no possible way to bridge the generation gap between her panty hose and his socks.

But back to the asparagus. The daughter and the wife drove to Hart, on the western edge of Michigan, which is the asparagus capital of the world, they say. Even with gasoline at $1.22 a gallon, they claim it is a bargain to drive 600 miles to buy 70 pounds of freshly picked asparagus in Hart. They say asparagus purchased directly from the dirt, if quickly blanched and frozen, can provide months of eating superior to any asparagus bought at the A&P. The husband knows this is nonsense. He likes canned peas better than fresh peas. He doesn't like asparagus of any age. No one does. He says asparagus is the hair shirt of the vegetable world. People eat it as a form of penance, to prove they have rejected all worldly pleasures.

The truth is that, for the wife, Hart is also the grandchildren capital of the world. She has three of them there, freshly grown, and each month she has a reason for visiting them. Hallmark doesn't know it yet, but Christmas in December is no more important than asparagus in May.

To nurture the sham, the wife returns from Hart with the car trunk full of asparagus which this May she divided three ways among her mother, her daughter and herself. The wife is an excruciatingly even divider. She is deathly afraid she'll gyp someone. She can't break a candy bar in two without the aid of a slide rule and an unbiased umpire.

Seventy pounds of asparagus was a problem. No way would the wife permit such a haphazard division as each recipient taking an armful and running. Each woman had to receive 23 1/2 pounds of asparagus. It wasn't practical to carry the asparagus into the house to weigh it. So that's why the daughter of the father of the bride, two years after the wedding, was seen standing on bathroom scales in her grandmother's driveway.

First the daughter weighed herself. Then the mother handed the daughter asparagus until the scales registered 23 1/2 pounds heavier than the daughter. This was done twice, with no change in the second operation, except for the identity of the asparagus. The entire operation was performed in broad daylight, while neighbors watched and wondered.

If the husband had been there, he would have told the neighbors if they thought the asparagus division was funny, they should see the wife hold three grandchildren at the same time. While struggling to divide her lap equally, she invariably decreases the chances of her panty hose ever growing as old as the husband's socks.

Home repair loans, grants available

Money is tight and inflation is eating at savings daily.

Homeowners in Independence Township who need to make repairs to their house but just don't have the income to do so, may qualify for grants or low interest loans through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

To qualify, a homeowner must have lived in a home for one year, but buying a home under an installment contract is also acceptable.

The maximum adjusted income, less $1,000 for each family member, is $13,000 for a loan and $3,000 for a grant.

For example if you make $15,000 each year and have a five member family, you adjusted income would be $10,000, and would qualify you for a loan.

"This program has been going on for three years and it's a good one," said Robyn Johnston, community development technician for Independence Township's Building Department.

"Where else can you get money at three percent interest? When you sit down with a person and figure out what their payments would be, they are really not extreme.

"Seniors, for example who need work done to their homes but are on a fixed income can really use this type of program," Johnston said. "Young people who have just purchased a home or a single woman who cannot do the work would also benefit."

The loan limit is generally $10,000 for home improvement, Johnston said, and home repairs that would bring a home up to minimum housing codes are the only ones which qualify for the program.

"Although we are pretty lenient on what would constitute a code requirement, no new construction is allowed," she said.

Examples of required home improvements include repair or replacement of structural parts, electrical parts, plumbing, heating, roofs, masonry, bathroom and kitchen modernization, siding and insulation.

Currently, Independence Township's building department has 13 homeowners seeking grants or low-interest loans through the program, Johnston said.

"We do all the work," she said. "We write up the application, send out the bids to contractors, hire the contractors and if the applicant has a specific contractor they would like to do the work, we will make provisions for that."

Loans are re-paid over a three to 20 year period with an annual interest rate of three percent.

For more information on the program phone Robyn Johnston at 625-8111.

Population jumps 85 percent

Even with an 85 percent increase in population over the last 10 years, Springfield Township is far from being the fastest growing community in Oakland County.

Springfield's 85 percent ranked the township eighth in terms of population growth between 1970 and 1980 county-wide, behind Novi Township, Wixom, Novi, Brandon Township, Highland Township, Milford Township and South Lyon.

"Percentages can be very deceiving," said Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, referring to the 85 percent increase.

In terms of actual numbers, Springfield's population increased from 4,388 to 8,110 in the 10-year period—hardly a tremendous amount of people for a township this large," Walls said.

"Growth itself, in sheer numbers, is not something that any of us—regardless of how long we've lived in the township—are looking forward to," he said.

"But I don't think it's time to hit the panic button—the vast majority of land in the township is still open. We just have to be a little more cautious in the direction we let the growth take."

Following a county-wide trend, Springfield experienced a drop in the average number of persons per housing unit since 1970.

Housing units jumped 110 percent in the 10-year period, from 1,387 in 1970 to 2,918 in 1980. Combining those figures with the respective population numbers revealed that in 1970 there was an average of 3.16 persons in each unit, compared with the 1980 average of 2.78.

Political committee emerges as election force

Group backs township board candidates with money, endorsement

By Kathy Greenfield

An emerging force in the upcoming Aug. 5 primary and Nov. 4 general election is the newly formed Independence Residents for Responsible Government.

The group, that consists of about 100 active members, is endorsing seven candidates for the seven slots on the Independence Township Board.

On the political group's side are two election boosters — money and support of prominent Clarkston and Independence Township residents.

The committee has spent almost $6,000 so far, mainly for signs and newspaper advertisements that endorse the seven candidates, said Clarkston village resident Hank Radcliff, who is in charge of publicity.

"Since last fall, we came to the conclusion that it was time to make some changes," he said.

"We're tired of having to act like watchdogs to keep the township board in tune with the township's master plan.

The 100 active members represent a cross-section of the township, said Independence Township resident Robert Hurlbert, an attorney who formerly led one of the anti-high rise groups in the Pine Knob hotel fight.

A list of the people are not available, but some of the names are to be published in newspaper advertisements before the primary election, he said.

A lot of us were out on July 4," he said, passing out balloons during the village parade.

"Most of the people working with us have been active before in township affairs, be it safety paths or gravel pits, that have come to the public attention where the citizens have asked for action — the common denominator is they want a responsible township government."

At the helm of the political group is Dr. James O'Neill who resides on Holcomb Road, Independence Township.

A township resident 20 years, O'Neill said there have been a series of crises involving township development.

"It appears the whole township is being bombarded by people coming out here who are trying to industrialize or urbanize in some way," he said. "The vast majority, they don't want that."

Areas of concern of the group are solid waste management, reinstatement of the use of gas and oil taxes for such things as the library and safety paths, use of land for gravel mining, the need for a public safety department to oversee fire and police protection, a township-school-village liaison and, possibly, a professional township manager, O'Neill said.

The seven candidates were chosen for endorsement by the committee, because they agreed with the needs the group sees, O'Neill said, and not because they would follow the direction of the committee if elected.

"I see them as quite a diverse group representing our township," he said. "They are not going to do what I tell them to do; they're going to do what they think the citizens want."

"I look at this as a group of people who are not going to be intimidated," he said.

Each candidate endorsed by the committee was interviewed either individually or by a group, O'Neill said, and some were sought out by the group and some came to see them.

The decision was not an easy one, he said. Not everyone agreed who should be included on the slate.

Nor does he expect everyone who received the political committee's endorsement to be elected, he said.

All seven candidates endorsed by the group are running on the Republican ticket.

Although they all represent the same political party, that just happened, said O'Neill and Radcliff.

"We didn't go looking for Republicans first and candidates second," Radcliff said. "We're basically a Republican community and these are Republicans."

"We're not trying to say these are our candidates," he said.

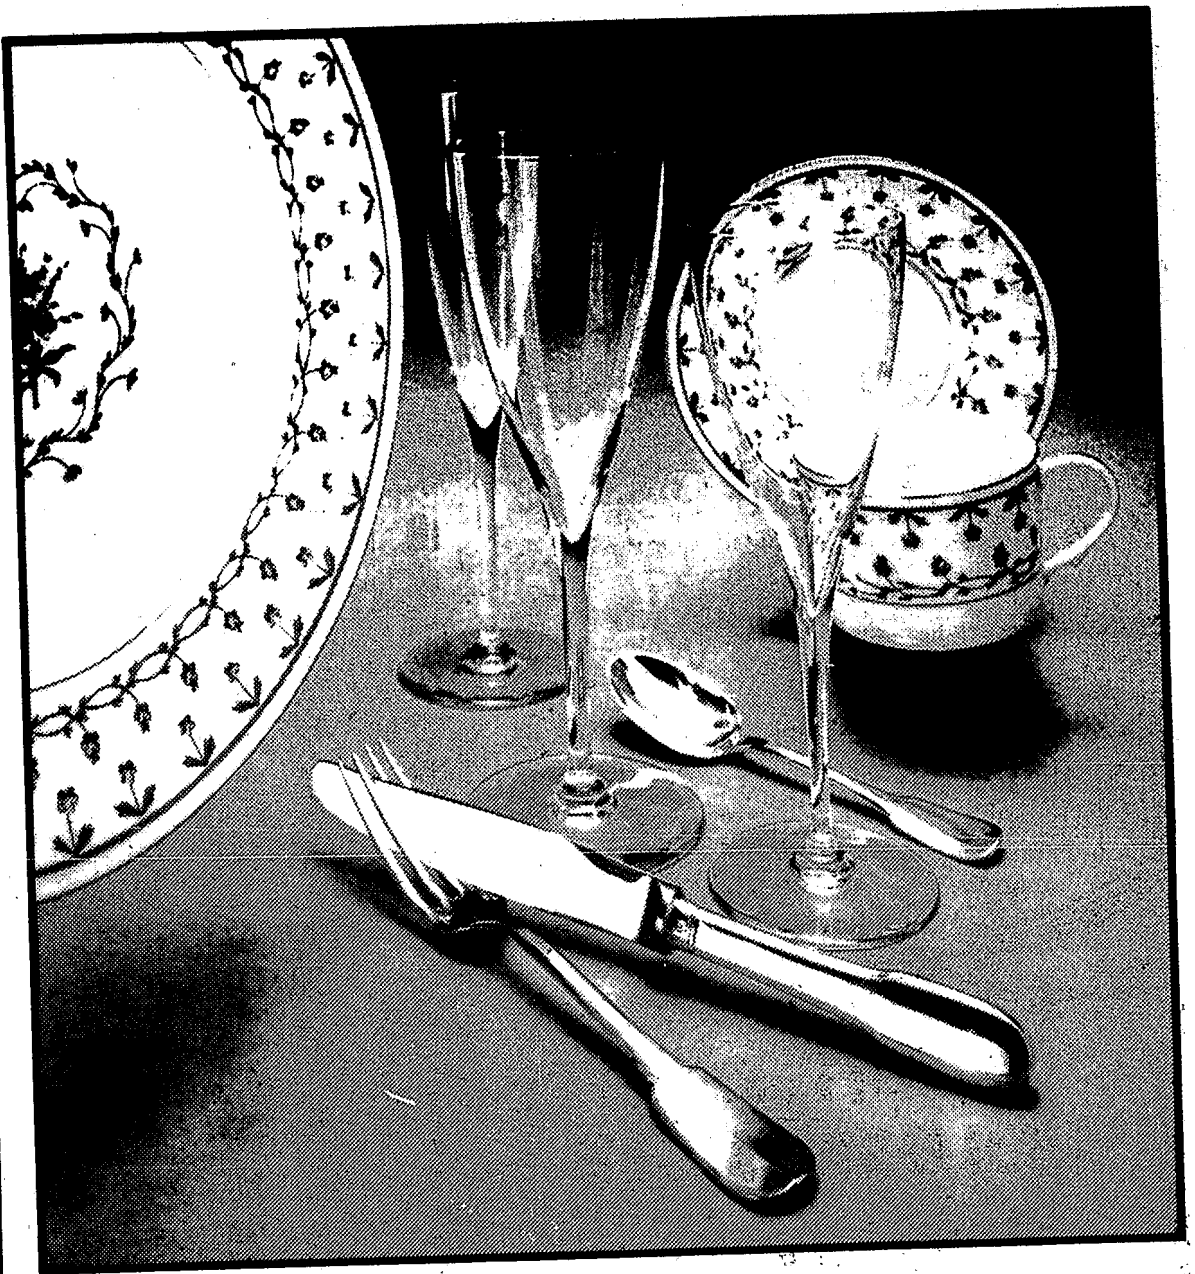

"After reviewing what they consider important for this election, we are endorsing them. They are all running their own campaigns. We're just helping them get elected and/or re-elected."

There are 15 candidates for the township board seats for four-year terms; 11 are Republicans and four are Democrats.

The committee is endorsing Republicans James B. Smith for supervisor, incumbent Christopher Rose for clerk, Carol Balzarini for treasurer, and trustee candidates Larence Kozma, Dale Stuart, Dan Travis and incumbent William Vandermark.

Other candidates for the election are incumbent Supervisor Floyd Tower (D), for clerk, Ralph Chambers (R) and Karen Herron (D), incumbent Treasurer Frederick Ritter (D), incumbent trustees Jerry Powell (R) and Michael Thayer (R), and trustee candidates Lynn Mead (R) and Guy Derryberry (D).

Pine Knob concertgoer takes plunge and nearly drowns

A 19-year-old Detroit man was listed in stable condition Tuesday at Pontiac General Hospital, following a near drowning on the grounds of Pine Knob in Independence Township.

Thomas Carl Nierzwick was pulled from a small pond on the corner of Pine Knob Road and the Knob's exit drive, shortly after 1 a.m. Tuesday at the close of a J. Geils' Concert.

Hospital spokespersons refuse to release information on Nierzwick's condition, but Riverside Ambulance driver, Kathy Althoff said he was backboarded and his head sandbagged, because Nierzwick complained of neck pain.

Nierzwick had a pulse but was not breathing when rescued from the water, according to Independence Township firefighter Neal Ashley, who was called to the scene.

"Some of his friends and a Pine Knob ranger pulled him from the water," he said. "The ranger gave him mouth to mouth, we gave him oxygen and he was transported to the hospital."

Nierzwick reportedly had drunk eight to 10 beers, said Lt. Richard Hubble of the Oakland Sheriff's Department.

"His friends reported that he ran down the embankment into the pond and played like he was drowning. When he did not come up again and they realized he was in trouble, they pulled him from the water," Hubble said.

Oweki activities

Hot summer days are a whole lot easier to take on a lake—Independence Township's Gulick Lake, in this case. The scene was the last day of camp at one of the day camp sessions at Camp Oweki sponsored by the Oakland County Camp Fire organization. Enjoying the cooling lake breezes on board are (from right) Chris Sorgatz, Brad Bellaver, Greg Hickman and David Gilroy.

Camp Director Kathy Cody [second from right] donned an apron and was in charge of the hot dog and banana boat distribution. Here, she obliges Brad Bellaver, one of the day camp assistants.

As day camp assistant Ilene Fitzgerald [left] supervises, boys and girls in the Camp Fire day camp program at Camp Oweki beat the heat by taking the plunge into the cooling waters of Gulick Lake.

Fun always finishes first in Davisburg Little League

By Al Zawacky

It's fun, exciting and competitive.

Those three words best describe baseball in the Davisburg Little League--and the stress is placed on fun and excitement, rather than on the competitive aspects of the game.

"We try and keep a relaxed atmosphere, one in which the kids can enjoy the game without any pressure on them to win," says Ron Cyrulewski, coach of Charles Rosell and Sons' Angels.

"If somebody makes a mistake, we don't jump all over him--we just tell him to relax and try harder next time."

"And when somebody turns in a good play, I'm usually the first one to shake his hand or pat him on the back," says Cyrulewski.

The Davisburg League is divided into three levels of competition based on age: T-ball, for youngsters ages 7 and 8; minors, for ages 9 and 10; and majors, for 11, 12 and 13-year-olds.

Cyrulewski's team competed in the majors and managed to grab a share of second place by winning their final game of the season last week.

He co-coached this past season with Doug Pickett, George Nygaard and Cal Voorheis. All four coaches have sons playing on the team.

"This is my fifth year coaching--I started in T-ball," Cyrulewski says. "The best part about the experience is to see the kids improve--some of the kids start out in T-ball without knowing the difference between a ball and a glove," he jokes.

"And as a coach, you learn as much as the players--sometimes I think the parents have just as much fun in little league as the kids do."

The Angels 14-player roster consists of Mike Nygaard, Bruce Bair, Tony Rock, Tim Brydges, Tim Voorheis, Greg Young, Mike Hutcherson, Rich Rosell, Aaron Trough, Wayne Pickett, Dennis Houston, Chris Cyrulewski and a female member--Kathy Krawczyk.

While girls are hardly commonplace in the league, their participation is accepted without any fuss.

"She's a good ball player," Cyrulewski says. "All our players are. We have a rule that says every kid has to play at least two innings and get to bat at least once."

"We try and have each kid play as much as possible--they're all here to play and have fun."

Last Saturday the Davisburg Little League ended the season with a picnic and all-star game at Dilley Park.

In T-Ball, an all-star team consisting of players from Pure Michigan Honey and Davisburg Pharmacy defeated a squad of youngsters from the Cavanaugh Whiz Kids and Davisburg Jaycees, 11-10.

In the minors, Tri-City Aggregates, Community Education and JOMACS downed Michigan Rental Service, Grouleau Bros. and the Giants 11-6. Majors action saw The Sounders, Chas. Rosell and Sons and Frosty Boy defeat Total Design, Hayes Sales and the other half of the Chas. Rosell team, 18-5.

Also included in the highly successful day's events was a game between the little league coaches and parents, a contest in which the parents came out on top.

Girls are welcome to play in the Davisburg Little League. Here, Kathy Krawczyk watches the action alongside Angels' Coach Ron Cyrulewski during their team's win in its season-ending game against the Frosty Boy Yankees. The result left the Angels and Yanks in a final second place tie with identical 6-6 records. For more photos, see page 16.

The point after

by Al Zawacky

Song title parody: "Those millage votes are breaking up that old league of mine, . . ."

When the prep sports season opens in September, will we recognize the Greater Oakland Activities League?

A millage failure in Milford has axed all ninth grade sports and high school golf. Unless Waterford parents, athletes and boosters can drum up the cash, freshmen and JV sports at Kettering, Township, Mott, Crary and the rest may go the way of the mastodon.

Finally, Bloomfield Hills Andover is leaving the GOAL in favor of Lake Orion--and Orion is certainly no stranger to revenue problems, having just revived their athletic program after a one-year layoff caused by a millage defeat.

The bottom line is that if you play a junior varsity sport in the six-team GOAL this year, you may find yourself in what is actually a four-team league. Kids at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs could have it even worse--a four game total schedule for freshman football isn't out of the question.

Financial problems are even more evident outside the Greater Oakland league and their associated high schools and junior highs. Pontiac schools may close down entirely when revenue runs out in January, and Clarkston's opening game of the 1980 football season will swirl down the commode if Swartz Creek voters reject a millage proposal next month.

Can it happen in Clarkston?

"It's possible," says CHS Athletic Director Paul Tungate, who has probably found it to his advantage to write next year's athletic schedules in pencil, rather than ink.

"Fortunately to this point, we've had good financial management--although the state cuts caused by the Headlee amendment hurt."

HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETICS are indeed in trouble, and you can't lay the blame with the voters, who are already working from January until May or June to pay off their annual tax bite.

If there are any culprits to be found, look for them in Lansing. There the strategy is to cut the most visible and vital services like schools so that the welfare-waste gravy train can race on unimpeded.

But I'm waxing a little too political for the sports page. Suffice it to consider this irony: The school district that produced a center fielder for the Detroit Tigers (Kirk Gibson, Kettering alumnus) can no longer afford the type of athletic program needed to produce another one.

And it can happen here.

Transign rips Cranbrook

By Al Zawacky

Solid pitching and defense has been the key to Transign's summer success story in the Connie Mack Junior Baseball League.

And last Saturday Coach Dick Lamphere's team proved they can hit, too.

Carrying bats that were as hot as the game-time temperature, Transign ripped a total of 24 hits to sweep a double-header from Cranbrook, 11-4 and 11-3.

The double victories bolted Transign past Cranbrook into sole possession of first place in the 10-team league with an overall record of 13-3.

"That's quite unusual for us," Coach Lamphere said of the 24-hit onslaught. "We usually hit well -- but not that well."

The Saturday afternoon twin bill had been touted as a first-place showdown, but it was evident from the opening moments of the first inning which team held the upper hand.

With Bob McCarrick and Kurt Esselink providing the pitching, Kevin Krause and Greg Williams each had three hits while teammate Ron Feneley and Esselink had two to lead Transign to their 11-4 win.

Several times the Transign crew just missed winning the game automatically under the league's five-inning mercy rule--an oversight they corrected in game two.

Krause went six-for-eight and Williams four-for-five to lead the attack and pitcher Chuck Nicolai had an abbreviated day on the mound as Transign mercied Cranbrook in five innings in game two, 11-3.

Esselink's two-RBI singles in the bottom of the fifth provided the game-winning margin, while Krause made an outstanding defensive play early in the game to save three runs while the score was knotted at 1-1.

Made up of ball players at Clarkston and Lake Orion high schools, and sponsored by Transign of Waterford, the team's double win on Saturday clinched a playoff berth and put them in excellent shape to finish atop the league.

That's the ol' ball game

Bobby Brydges started on the mound for the Angels' last game of the Davisburg Little League season. The result was a win that moved the team into a final second-place berth in the majors division.

The catcher's mitt is ready to swallow the soon-to-be-arriving-baseball, but batter Chris Cyrulewski has other ideas.

Angels' first baseman Tim Voorheis taunts the batter with the traditional "Hey batter, hey batter," during his team's last game of the season on Thursday.

Football sign-up

Registration for the Clarkston Chief's little league football program will be held July 28 beginning at 6 p.m.

The sign-up will be held at the Clarkston post of the American Legion, 8041 Ortonville Rd., Independence Township, just north of I-75.

Kids signing up must be accompanied by their parents and pay a $15 registration fee. The registration is for all three units — freshman, junior varsity and varsity.

"It's important that everybody registers on that day," said Denny Loughheed, Chiefs' publicity chairman.

"Each unit is going to be limited to 44 players this year, and when that number is reached, that's it."

The Chiefs football teams are open to boys ages 8 through 12.

Backpacking trip

The Independence Township Parks and Recreation department is looking for backpackers.

The department is sponsoring a backpacking trip to Manitou Island in northern Lake Michigan over Labor Day weekend.

Travelers would leave on Aug. 29 and return Sept. 1.

Persons interested in participating in such a trip should attend a meeting Aug. 5 at 7 p.m. at Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston.

Questions about the trip can be directed to the recreation department by phoning 625-8223.

Beginning backpackers' bargain basics class

A public interpretive program entitled the "Basics of Backpacking" will be featured at Independence Oaks County Park Aug. 1 from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Under the direction of Oakland County Parks naturalist Kathleen Dougherty, participants will learn how to load backpacks, distribute weight evenly, what to carry and what to look for on the trails.

Along with the equipment information, backpackers will gain some insight into the rewards, dangers and available trails.

While the program is geared for beginners, it's open to anyone interested in wilderness camping.

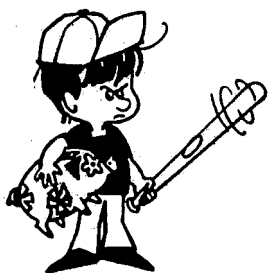

Participants should bring pencil and paper, dress for the weather and bring insect repellent. A short movie on backpacking may be shown.

The program starts at the Twin Chimneys Shelter.

Interested persons should pre-register by phoning 625-0877 — the only charge for the program is the park entrance fee of $2 for Oakland County residents and $3 for non-residents.

Independence Oaks is located at 9501 Sashabaw Rd., Independence Township. Maps and information will be provided at the park entrance.

Most stains don't really protect

In a water repellency test to meet strict government specifications, the facts came across loud and clear. Cuprinol is the leading stain to meet Federal specifications after the equivalent of two years normal exposure. And Cuprinol continued to meet them for the equivalent of 5 years. So you get the protection you need. Against warping, cracking, fading and watermarking. And your house looks better, longer.

The Carpet Crafters

The Carpet Crafters

The Carpet Crafters

Just one of the gardens within a garden, the pond is filled with goldfish which live to be up to 200-years-old. Japanese lanterns dot the foliage composed of finely manicured plants and trees.

The bonsai tree remains petite through a careful process of confining the growing space, pruning and cutting the roots. The tree, although 12-years-old, is relatively small in relationship to the quarter.

Tale of backyard paradise...

By Marilyn Trumper

Forget about packing, reservations and running to catch that plane.

A tiny piece of Japan is right outside Clarkston at the Ozawa Bonsai Garden on Davisburg Road, Springfield Township.

For the past 16 years, owners, caretakers and inspirational gardeners Ralph O'Reilly and Ralph Stallings have cultivated, planned and labored to create a masterpiece.

Their tranquil paradise is lined with fountains filled with gold fish, rock gardens, miniature trees and colorful lanterns.

Visitors walk the pathways, turn a corner, and another garden awaits their eyes.

"The Japanese create several gardens within a garden," Stallings said. "There is the fern garden, the gravel garden, well they're just all over."

"It's that element of surprise when you walk around that corner. It's relaxing to sit out here and enjoy the serenity and the sound of splashing water," he said.

The garden is enclosed with a roofed fence, and the walls are dotted with moon windows for viewing the moon, an observation which makes Stallings laugh.

The word Bonsai means literally the tree in a tray, and Ozawa means large or little stream, Stallings said.

The Japanese culture has a philosophy about the Bonsai Gardens, said Stallings.

"You don't try to make the tree more beautiful, you improve on the beauty that's already there. You help nature along," he said.

The theory of a Bonsai garden is to return to nature when too busy to travel to the country.

"You just step outside your back door and you're there," he said. "In Japan the people's backyards are confined to a very small space, so they use a few elements to create the effect."

The most important element in a Bonsai garden is the design and placement of everything, O'Reilly said.

"You show the hand of man, but only lightly. It's a garden to see," he said.

Miniature trees line the shelves of the garden, some almost 30 years old are no higher than a foot.

The way to achieve the effect is to limit the tree's environment and it will automatically slow down, O'Reilly said.

"Then prune the new growth back severely each year by about 90 percent and cut the roots periodically," he said. "The Bonsai will live longer than some trees in the ground, but smart people have only one or two because they're so expensive."

Yet another concept used in Bonsai gardening is the "capturing of scenery" or shak-kei.

"You use the horizon above the fence and below the roof on the fence to draw in scenery as far as a mile away," O'Reilly said. "Even the placement of growth inside the garden in its relationship to the wall is important."

The Ozawa Bonsai Garden is located west on Davisburg Road when traveling north on Dixie Highway.

Visitors can purchase a wide variety of Japanese plants and shop in the specialized store adjacent to the garden, offering everything for the Bonsai fancier.

The garden is open Tuesday through Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and for more information phone 625-4288.

There is no charge for admission, but donations are accepted.

Cascading over bright orange lilies, the weeping Norway spruce reflects a spiny waterfall. According to caretaker Ralph O'Reilly, the spruce is a fluke and does not have the necessary starch in its branches to allow the boughs to extend outward.

On Main Street, Clarkston, we asked this week's question:
How do you save money on food costs?

"I look for sales on canned goods and buy fresh vegetables at the roadside stands."—Shirley Hutton, Farmington, housewife.

"I watch the ads, and shop where the specials are. I also always have a garden and pick my fruit at the orchards."—Mrs. Robert Peoples, Groveland Township, housewife.

"We eat more chicken, raise vegetables and freeze and can the vegetables that we grow."—Vern Maranda, Brandon Township, teacher at Royal Oak Kimball High School.

"I buy generic brands if they are quality, watch the sales, make casseroles and meat stretchers."—Kay Patterson, Dvorak Road, Independence Township, bank teller.

"I belong to a co-op group and by buying in quantity everyone in the group helps to pay, and you defray the cost that way."—Dorothy McPhee, Eddystone Circle, Independence Township, apartment manager.

Senior Citizen's Center has Aug. 1 deadline

Advisory board must be filled with Independence residents

By Marilyn Trumper

There are changes in the immediate future for Independence Township's Senior Citizens Center, now that a formal constitution and set of bylaws has been adopted.

With a deadline of Aug. 1, the center's Senior Advisory Board must be comprised of township residents.

In addition, all members of the center who are not township residents will pay an increased annual membership fee.

Those two amendments were added to the senior's constitution and bylaws and then unanimously approved by the Independence Township Board on July 15.

Several members of the Senior Advisory Board present at that meeting, strongly opposed the township board's decision, and additions.

"The people in Independence Township are not interested in taking over any of the jobs on the board," said Ken Clair, senior advisory board member and Brandon Township resident.

"In the last election we ran ads in our own paper, posted notices on the bulletin board, but no one wanted to run or take the job," he said.

Earl Shivilie, chairman of the senior advisory board and resident of Independence Township, agreed with Clair and elaborated following the meeting.

"The election was advertised 30 days in advance, but few people answered," Shivilie said. "I had opposition, the co-chairman, secretary, treasurer and two trustees did not."

"Now I wasn't in on this thing when it was started, non-township people started it, and I think it's a slap in the face to them when the board wants to oust them now," he said.

The senior advisory board is comprised of a chairman, co-chairman, secretary, treasurer and four trustees, two of which are elected on alternate years.

Out of the eight seats on the board, only two are currently filled by township residents, those of the chairman and one trustee.

In November when the seniors would have held their regular election, six of the eight positions would have been up for renewal. The two year terms of two trustees must also be filled by Aug. 1, because they are non-township residents.

Independence Township Board members offered several reasons for their decision on the matter.

"Nine times out of ten when the seniors make a recommendation to the board, it refers to the expenditure of money," said Frederick Ritter, township treasurer. "Any board within township government is always made of strictly residents. We don't want to exclude any membership but residents share the responsibility when it comes to spending township money."

An alternative was offered by township Supervisor Whitey Tower.

"I would ask the board's consideration to wait on the Aug. 1 deadline and allow those in office to serve out their term at least until November, before going 100 percent with township residents," he said.

"No, I disagree," said Jerry Powell, township trustee.

"Some of the township residents should want to serve on that advisory board and the fees should be increased to non-residents. They are everywhere else."

In the past, non-township resident annual fees were $3 for singles and $6 for couples. With the board's decision the fees are now $4 for singles and $8 for couples.

Members of the advisory board for the center will decide on a nomination and election day, said Shivilie.

Teaching the trade of dental office assistant

By Marilyn Trumper

Plaster is scattered across counter tops, reams of brown paper toweling fill waste baskets, shards of plaster dot the carpeting and water is continuously running.

Students in one corner of the room diligently bend over mouth impressions, sanding, wetting and honing to perfection, insuring that standards are met.

In another corner, practicing chairside dentistry, students push, prod and stretch the jaw of a rubber mannequin head.

Overseeing all the action is teacher Bonnie Crowson, 31, Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center, NWOVEC, instructor for dental office assisting.

In a partitioned area away from the rest of the classroom, Bonnie explains the procedure for taking x-rays.

"After you have the film in place, have the patient slowly close their mouth," she says to six students in the group. "Don't tell them to just close their mouths because by the time you get out the word they'll have bitten your finger."

That kind of a lesson can only come from someone who's been on the job or in the field for a long time, someone who's learned from experience.

Bonnie is both a certified dental assistant and a registered dental assistant.

"I've been teaching here for nine years but this is the first time I've taught summer school," she says. "When I was hired, everything I had, I developed on my own, because vocational teaching was so new."

"The rewards in teaching are not immediate, they are far down the road. Not too long ago I received a letter from a former student who is working in the field, and she thanked me for putting up with her guff," she says.

It's hard to imagine any type of "guff" in Bonnie's classroom.

A chart with each student's name and a list of lessons which have to be learned sits atop her desk. Most of the boxes adjacent to the names are empty because manual work began just two weeks ago.

All 18 students in the classroom are working on one project or another and there's no time for guff, and even less time for conversation.

Bonnie's experienced hands come to the rescue of a student stuck on removing plaster from an impression without any breakage.

She turns to quiz another student on dental instruments laying on a tray.

Walking to the darkroom, Bonnie saves a student hung-up on x-ray development techniques.

Dressed in a white uniform, white hose and shoes, she pads from one side of the room to the other, answering questions with patience and ease, and offering helpful suggestions.

"There is never a question considered too dumb to ask or a person afraid to ask one," comments one student. "Some teachers say 'here it is, now learn it' but not Mrs. Crowson. She always answers questions."

During the first four weeks of summer school classes, the students were lectured daily. Now they practice what has been taught, and sometimes with disappointment.

"A student will work for days on a plaster impression," Bonnie says. "They will sand it and shape it and clean it up, and then turn around and drop it, busting it to pieces."

"But they turn right around and start all over again."

There's a serious discipline about Bonnie and it shows in every student.

When the day is over, each student chips in to wipe the plaster from the counter tops, vacuum the carpet and clean-up the entire room.

"They would be expected to do this in an office, so I expect it to be done here," Bonnie says.

Students file out of the room heading for home and next to some names there are check marks noting a job well done for assignment completions.

"I was just 21 when I was hired in here," Bonnie says. "I look back now and I think I've worked so hard and come a long way from my small hometown in Northern Michigan."

"But I love my job," she says emphatically. "And I've gotten a lot of support from my husband."

Bonnie and her husband, dentist Walter Crowson live in Birmingham.

"Between conventions, the council of dental health educators and my husband, I keep up with the advances in dentistry, new techniques and ideas. You have to," she says.

"Bonnie is very dedicated to the dental profession and to her educational profession," says the NWOVEC's principal Daniel Manthei.

"Her ethics and standards from her personal life show up in her classroom and there is a tremendous amount of pride in herself and the program."

"Bonnie is unwilling to compromise those standards."

Carolyn Jacobs is on the review committee for NWOVEC and chairperson for the dental education committee.

"I could talk all day about Bonnie, that's how much I think of her," Jacobs said. "She is super organized, immaculate looking and runs her classroom the same way."

"Bonnie knows exactly what she's doing and her relationship with the kids transcends all teacher-student relationships. She cares and is always open to suggestions."

"One of the most outstanding things about Bonnie is that she is always looking for ways to improve teaching, and that's important," Jacobs said.

Raising slides to the lights above to help in identification, the class works to fit a jigsaw picture of a month into order. Explaining the differences between each slide is Bonnie Crowson, sitting smack in the middle of all the confusion.

When it boils down to this test it's every man for him/herself. Caren Young is quizzed by instructor Bonnie Crowson. Caren must be able to identify each dentistry tool and its use, but when the pressure's on somehow they all seem to look the same.

Getting down to business, the four-person cast for the play practices a serious moment. The play is to be presented by the Brandon S.T.A.G.E. theater group in dinner-theater style at Spring Lake Country Club beginning Aug. 10. Standing from left are Molly McGuire who plays Jill and Mike Roberts who plays Ralph. Sitting from left are Jay Shene who plays Don and Janice Turnbull who portrays Don's mother, Mrs. Baker.

... For Spring Lake dinner-theater

"Butterflies Are Free" flutters into town beginning Aug. 10 for a month-long dinner-theater engagement at Spring Lake Country Club.

The play is presented by Brandon S.T.A.G.E.

It is an adult comedy about a blind young man who is on his own for the first time, but still under the wing of his kind-but-dominating mother.

Romance enters the picture when the young man meets an innocent yet worldly 19-year-old woman. The couple faces a number of problems created by the young man's mother and a director friend of the young woman.

"It's not a comedy through and through. It does have its serious moments," says director Beth DeWilde. "The play itself is entertaining and it has a lot of social significance even though it's from the '60s."

Jason Shene plays the role of Don Baker, blind young man; Molly McGuire stars as 19-year-old Jill Tanner; Janice Turnbull is Don's mother, Mrs. Baker; and Mike Roberts plays the part of Ralph Austin, the young director.

Show dates are Sundays, Aug. 10 and 24 and Wednesdays, Aug. 13, 20 and 27.

Cost is $30 a couple for the play and a full-course dinner consisting of a choice of three entrees--steak, fish or chicken--vegetable, potato, salad, rolls and butter and coffee.

Dinner is served at 6:30 p.m. and the play begins at 8 p.m.

To make reservations, call Spring Lake at 625-3731. The country club is located at 6060 Maybee, Independence Township.

Any vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the Township Supervisor, with the advice and consent of the Township Board. Any unexpired term shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment, and shall be for the balance of the unexpired term.

Any member of the Electrical Board may be removed from office by the Independence Township Board for cause, and after a public hearing. At such hearing such member shall be entitled to appear and present evidence in his behalf. To qualify for a master's license, the applicant must have passed the examination for and then have had issued to him a journeyman electrician license for a period of at least two (2) years and the applicant must have reached the age of eighteen (18) years. Such application must further set forth the name and address of the applicant's present place of employment, if any. The applicant shall further agree that, if a Master Electrician's license is issued, such licensee will notify in writing the Department within 72 hours of a change of employment where such employment was necessary to qualify his employer as an Electrical Contractor. Wilful or negligent failure to give such notice to the Department shall be grounds for suspension or revocation of such license, and shall constitute a violation of this Code, and punishable as herein provided.

- A journeyman's license which license shall entitle the holder thereof to perform any work of installing, altering, or repairing electrical equipment as an electrical journeyman where such work is under the direction of the owner of a contractor's license and where the journeyman is employed by such contractor.

Bruce Doyon's found his paradise

Bruce Doyon looks out the doorwall leading to the patio of his Springfield Township apartment and smiles.

"I've found paradise here," he says.

With a view consisting of a gently rolling hill leading to tranquil blue lake waters, and tall stately trees rocking in golden sunshine, Doyon's view does seem to resemble something out of Hilton's Shangri-la.

"I moved here five years ago from Pontiac," he says. "As far as I'm concerned, everything south of M-15 and Dixie Highway is city."

"You can't get me into the city — even to visit — unless somebody twists my arms and legs and I don't have any choice. My mother lives in Pontiac, and I only drive down there to visit about four times a year."

Doyon is currently employed doing warranty work for Chrysler Corporation, repairing rust damage to early model Dodge Aspens and Plymouth Volares.

He puts his job in perspective when talking about his country-orientated life style.

"I work to pay my bills and allow for just a few luxuries — that's it. If I could do that in just 20 hours a week, I would — even as it is, I spend more hours a week hunting and fishing than I do working."

Hunting and fishing have been special loves all his life, going back to when his father used to take him on hunting trips in the same area that he now makes his home.

Since then, there's been considerable growth in Springfield Township — a fact driven home by increasing traffic both on the highways and the lakes.

"More people out here means cans, beer bottles and trash. Really, I think the people living in the city now should stay in the city," Doyon says.

Even though he moved from Pontiac himself, Doyon doesn't view himself as a "city person."

"I was just always into hunting and fishing and outdoor things," he says. "People from the cities come out here and don't know how to enjoy the countryside — the city lives just too fast."

While the city life is often portrayed as fast-paced, some city dwellers might view the rural life as being a little repetitious and downright boring after a while — a notion that Doyon reflects emphatically.

"There are so many things to do around here — something for every season," he says. "In the summer there's swimming, boating, fishing, water skiing and in the winter there's ice fishing, tobogganing, ice skating — a million things. There's also hunting, mushroom hunting and hiking."

Doyon's hunting and fishing activities aren't done just for the sporting aspect — he enjoys preparing the culinary delight of fresh pan-fried fish.

Frogs are also in abundant supply, and Doyon is a self-proclaimed connoisseur of frog legs.

"There's nothing special to preparing them," he says. "Just roll them in flour and fry them in butter. They're a hundred times better fresh than anything you can buy in the store."

Besides his job with Chrysler, Doyon also is also involved in the music business.

Together with friend Bill Wick, who lives in the same apartment building, he operates his "B and R Disco Limited" service, offering professional music for parties and get-togethers.

"We started out with all disco material, but now we've gone into a little rock, country and western and '50s music," Doyon says.

"It started out as just a fun thing, but now it's a job. It takes about eight hours of total work to put together a four hour show."

The result is a better deal for the party-planner than hiring a live band, he says.

"We're half the price of a live band, and there's no risk," Doyon notes. "You can hire a live band for $450 to $500, and if they're not any good, you're stuck with them."

"You know our music is going to be good."

Besides playing music, they also offer disco dance lessons. Doyon has played his music "from Southfield to Saginaw," and remembers a humorous incident that happened when he took his "Disco Limited" to Frankenmuth, Mich.

The girl that hired us was some 30-year-old disco mamma, and she figured that the people there would be disco-type people," he says.

"It turned out they were all German and Polish people in their 60s and 70s. We played everything we had, but naturally it really didn't appeal to them."

There were a few notable suggestions, though, says Wick.

"Some of those old people wanted to dance — and there's really nothing new about the disco steps. We'd show them one, and they'd say 'Hey, that's the fox trot,'" he says.

"Actually, disco is a big band type of sound," Doyon adds.

Country Living

by Al Zawacky

"There are a lot of instruments involved — it's just a matter of learning to dance to the down beat, not to the flow of the music."

Relying mostly on word of mouth, Doyon says he hasn't done much in the way of advertising for his disco music service.

Looking out over his beautiful lake front view, he reflects again on the perfection of his surroundings.

Bruce keeps his fishing bait handy—live suckers are kept in a cage underwater ready for use as bait.

More Country Living

Outdoor activities like fishing and hunting play a big role in Bruce Doyon's "paradise". Here, he tries his luck with girlfriend Sue Maurice while little Desiree Wick, daughter of Bruce's friend Bill, watches.

"This is a great neighborhood, too — everybody gets along really well," Doyon says. "And I don't have to drive 500 miles up north to do my hunting and fishing — it's all right here. In fact, to a lot of people living in southern

Michigan or northern Ohio — this is 'Up North.'

"Twenty-five years from now," he says sadly, "this'll probably look like downtown Pontiac, the way things are going. But I won't be here — I'll go as far north as I have to to keep this kind of living."

CHS exchange student is back in town

Clarkston family welcomes Brazilian visitors

By Al Zawacky

Marcelo Salgado makes his home thousands of miles from the friendly confines of Clarkston, Mich. — in Juiz De Fora, Brazil to be exact.

But it was a homecoming of sorts when Marcelo, his sister Marcia and friend Lielton Machado arrived at the comfortable home at 6065 Middle Lake to pay a visit to the Johnson family, with whom Marcelo had lived as an exchange student at Clarkston High School in 1975 and '76.

When the young trio arrived July 5, Robert and Julie Johnson and their daughter Elaine showed their hospitality by attaching to their garage door a big "Welcome to Clarkston" sign to greet their South American guests.

"Marcelo became like an adopted son to us," says Julie of his one-year stay as an exchange student. "They're all really good kids and very well mannered. It's a pleasure to have them here."

The Johnsons will be hosting Marcelo, Marcia and Lielton until the end of August, although they won't be spending all of their time in Clarkston. A busy eight weeks has been planned.

Visits to a concert at Pine Knob, the sand dunes, Mackinaw Island, Lansing, downtown Detroit and Canada are all on the trio's itinerary.

Marcelo learned English during his school year at Clarkston High School, and acts as a translator for Lielton and Marcia, who are making their first visit to America and speak only their native Portuguese.

He smiles when asked how different he found life in the American home and high school.

Clarkston hospitality: When 20-year-old Marcelo Salgado arrived in Clarkston July 5 after a four-year absence, even the Johnson family's garage door said "welcome." From left are

"I liked it very much," Marcelo says of his year at Clarkston CHS. "Everything here is very different."

He says he used the standard textbooks his English-speaking classmates had, and consulted an English-Portuguese dictionary whenever he came across a word he didn't know.

"The math was easier," Marcelo says of the CHS mathematics classes. "Easier than in Brazil."

On the domestic front, he had to adjust himself to everything from canned orange juice to shoveling snow in the winter-time — freezing temperatures being an almost unheard of phenomenon in Brazil.

"Americans have more comforts, but I think that in Brazil the people are closer to each other," he says.

And while America and Brazil have the differences politically, "I think most people in Brazil think that America is their friend," Marcelo adds.

Marcelo and Marcia's father owns two farms in Brazil, and Lielton's family are friends of the Salgados.

The Johnsons had the opportunity to meet Marcelo's parents back when he first came to America as an exchange student.

"We feel so lucky to have gotten such a good student," Julie says. "It's been a fascinating experience — I'd encourage more families to open their doors to exchange students."

And even while getting used to the different diet (Americans eat a lot of sandwiches, Marcelo notes), watching the uniquely American Republican convention on TV (there's nothing like that in Brazil, he says) the things that people have in common still outnumber their differences.

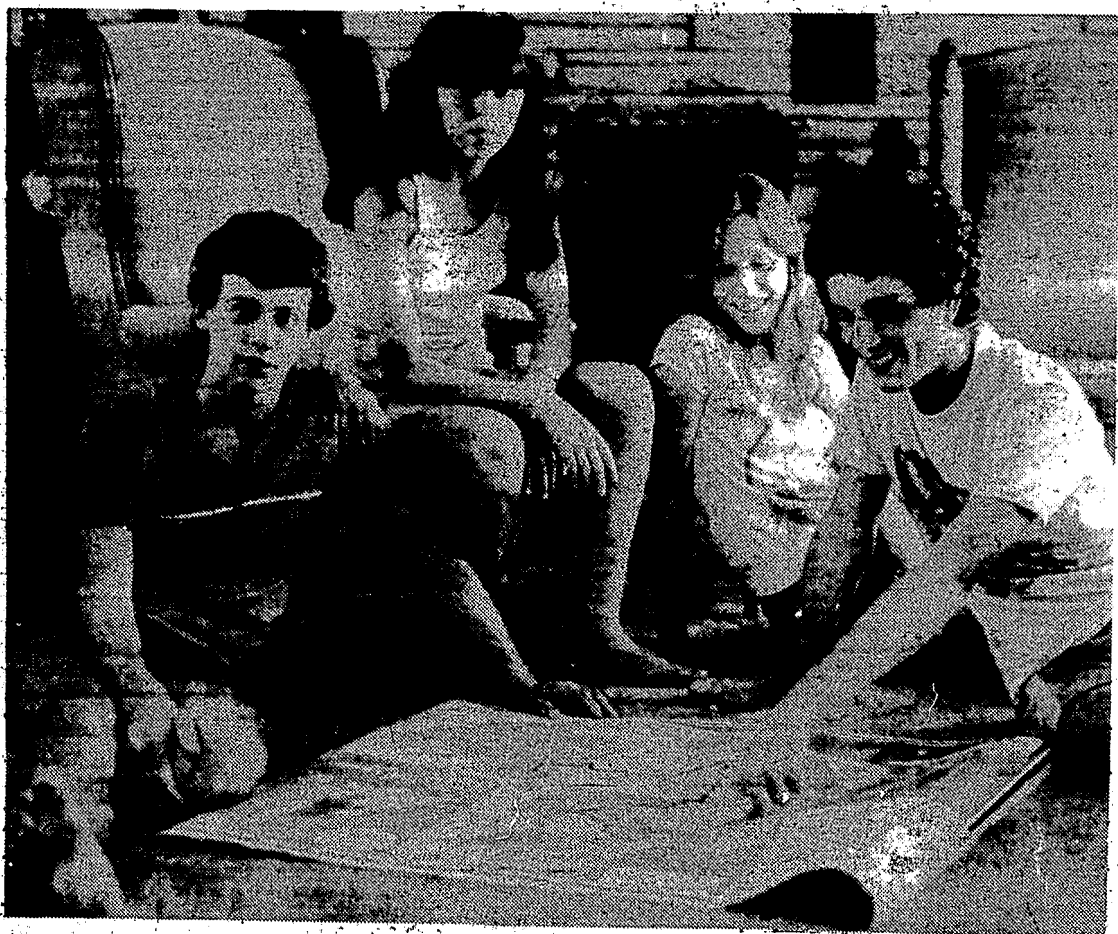

It might do everyone some good to travel, and see how other people live and think, he notes.

People are still people, Marcelo says.

Home smoke detectors

Smoke detectors are by far the most effective early warning device on the market today for use in the home. They continuously sample the atmosphere for any signs of smoke or products of combustion.

The market today contains various brands and makes of detectors. When choosing a detector for your home, make sure of one thing, the detector you choose is approved by Underwriters Laboratory (UL). This will assure the detector has been tested and meets the necessary standards.

Detectors also range in price. You should choose a detector that you can afford. Don't pay for more detector than is needed, but also remember that you get what you pay for.

Next you must decide whether to purchase a battery-operated detector or one which operates off house current. Both types offer advantages of their own.

A battery detector will operate during a power failure, but you must replace these batteries when they become weak. This type of detector is useless if not maintained with fresh batteries. If you choose a battery detector make sure replacement batteries are available.

Choose the detector which best fits your lifestyle. We do not recommend any particular brand, but we do stress the importance of installation of a smoke detector in every home.

A 110 volt or house current detector needs no battery maintenance, but is rendered inoperable during a power failure. The ideal situation would be to eventually install two detectors, one of each.

Choose the detector which best fits your lifestyle. We do not recommend any particular brand, but we do stress the importance of installation of a smoke detector in every home.

Kids experience Indian heritage

A group of kids from the Clarkston school district chaptered by parents, recently learned about the ways of the wild and more about their Indian heritage.

In all, 26 participants from kindergarten through the senior level hiked the Buckeye Trail in Hocking, Ohio for 10 days.

Led by Sally Banks, program coordinator for Clarkston school's Indian education program, the kids backpacked and slept under the starry skies with Mother Earth beneath them.

"All of the students had to have Indian heritage and had to be able to prove their lineage," Sally said. "That's the way the federal program is set up."

"The trip was an effort to make them aware of their culture, to make them proud of their heritage and to show them it's worth preserving," she said.

"The Buckeye Trail is part of the Allegheny Plateau, a segment of the Allegheny Mountains, Sally said.

It was inhabited by the Hopewell Indians, and the particular area we hiked was a trading crossroad for Indian tribes from all over the United States," she said.

The area is filled with 300-foot cliffs and caves that were at one time inhabited by Indians, Sally said.

"It was the first time the kids had ever slept on the ground with a mattress of leaves and they really enjoyed the ruggedness of the excursion," she said.

"They really learned how to live off their backs carrying those packs, and even the littlest hikers pulled their own weight," she said. "Not one person complained, and it was the best group I've ever taken."

Exhausted from hiking along the Buckeye Trail in the Allegheny plateaus in Hocking, Ohio, this group takes a rest alongside a stream. Matt Marshall hunts for minnows while Bev Marshall watches, Bev Mountain stretches out on a rock and Shawn Johnson keeps watch under the shade of his polka dot hat.

The group of 25 camped, cooked out and hiked while exploring how nature relates to Indian lifestyles. The theme of the outing was taken from the Chippewa Indian languages—Wasah Nabin means looking beyond. Here, the group grills pancakes. Lorette Ylasich holds her plate in readiness for the food while Jeanna Banks uses a spatula to flip the flapjacks.

Titanic buff shares knowledge with younger set

By Kathy Greenfield

Springfield Township's famous Titanic buff, Dallas Kefter, is now sharing his knowledge with the younger set. The 16-year-old gained notoriety when a story about his interest in the sinking of the Titanic 68 years ago appeared in the Detroit News in January, went out on the Knight-Ridder wire, and was picked up by newspapers across the country. Dallas started the Titanic Junior Historical Society the same month.

The club for 6- to 12-year-olds boasts 13 members. For a monthly fee of 50 cents, the members receive a publication written and designed by Dallas called the "Atlantic."

Dallas, who is always eager to talk about the Titanic, says he started the club for several reasons.

"There are a lot of kids who haven't heard of the international Titanic Historical Society (yearly dues are $10) and they can't afford to join," he says.

"I feel if there are kids around who have the interest, I want to do as much as I can," he says. "It's just something I enjoy doing."

One member of Dallas's club reminds him of himself. Although the youngster, who lives in New Mexico, is a year younger than the club age limits suggest, he's welcome.

"The one in New Mexico has an interest just like I do," says Dallas. "The others, it's kind of a secondary interest. The majority of them are typical elementary students."

Putting together the "Atlantic" takes about three weeks of part-time work.

Dallas usually sets up production on the kitchen table with the typewriter and a bottle of rubber cement, and then downs a glass or two of Coke while putting the publication together.

Each month, there's an easily readable account of the Titanic, another ship from the same era, or the latest happenings on the Titanic.

July's magazine includes information on an upcoming movie about the British luxury liner that hit an iceberg and sank in 1912, resulting in the deaths of over 1,500 people.

Although he is not 100 percent pleased with the blank pages and less-than-perfect reproduction of photos that result from the club's limited budget, Dallas says the "Atlantic" will improve when there are more members.

So, he hangs flyers in libraries and other places and looks forward to discovering more Titanic buffs.

Youngsters interested in joining the club can write to Dallas at the Titanic Junior Historical Society, 9242 Semindale, Clarkston 48016.

Dallas designs and writes a kids' magazine about the Titanic called "Atlantic."

(Effective Date August 22, 1980)

ORDINANCE TO CONTROL THE OPERATION, MAINTENANCE AND RESTORATION OF GRAVEL AND OTHER MINERAL MINING SITES

Preamble:

Because of the noise, dirt and dust emitted in the mining of gravel and other minerals, and because of the permanent changes in the topographical and geological characteristics of the township as a result of said mining, and because of the dangers inherent in said mining and said changes by virtue of steep hillsides, shifting earth, standing water and other like considerations, and for the purpose of protecting the health, safety and welfare of the residents of Independence Township, and further protecting the property of said residents, this ordinance is enacted.

This ordinance is enacted by the Independence Township Board pursuant to the authority vested in it by the Statutes of the State of Michigan.

Sec. 2.1. It is not the intention of this ordinance to repeal, annul, or in any way interfere with any existing law or ordinance other than those set forth in this ordinance. Further, it is not the intention of this ordinance to impose ex post facto controls on operations existing as of the date of enactment of this ordinance except that this ordinance sets forth minimum standards which shall apply to the operation of such facilities and all aspects of such operations begun after the date of enactment of this ordinance shall be controlled by this ordinance. To the extent that any restrictions or standards imposed by this ordinance conflict with existing restrictions or standards, this ordinance shall control.

Sec. 3.1. Board of Appeals: The Independence Township Board of Appeals.

Sec. 3.2. Mineral Mining: Gravel, sand, clay, stone aggregate, soil or other land excavation or removal of raw material of any kind or nature except that permitted by other ordinances of this Township but only where such permission expressly or impliedly waives the application of this ordinance.

Sec. 3.4. Planning Commission: Independence Township Planning Commission.

Sec. 3.5. Reclamation or Restoration: As used in this ordinance shall mean the bringing back, recovery and reconstruction of the land contained in a mining site after cessation of operations, to the contours, elevations and grades of the original condition of the land or to an improved condition of the land as approved by the Township Board consistent herewith.

Sec. 3.6. Site: A parcel or unit of land.

Sec. 3.7. Township: Independence Township.

Sec. 3.8. Township Board: Independence Township Board.

Upon finding the applicant has complied with the plan, a renewal of the mining permit shall be issued. In the event of a dispute regarding the renewal of a mining permit, the Township Board may refer the matter to the Township Planning Commission for study and recommendation. All mining permits issued under this ordinance shall be for a period of ninety (90) days to one (1) year as determined by the Township Board subject to renewal hereunder for an additional ninety (90) days to one (1) year period.

ARTICLE 6: Permit, contents and conditions.

Sec. 6.1. The permit shall contain and bear in legible writing the following:

- a. The name and address of the permit holder and the name and address of the owner of the land if different from the permit holder;
- b. The identification of the parcel or parcels of land to which the permit applies.
- c. The period of which the permit shall be valid.
- d. The allowed hours of operation.
- e. The number of feet from all property lines and right-of-ways within which no cuts or excavation shall be made.

- h. A statement to be countersigned by the applicant of substantial content and form as follows: "The undersigned has read this permit and further understands that incorporated by reference as a part of the terms and conditions of this permit are all the statements and contents of the application for the permit as approved by the Independence Township Board, the terms and conditions of Ordinance No. 59, as amended, and of any ordinances of Independence Township with ordinance or ordinances control the operation, maintenance and restoration of gravel and other mining sites and further, that Independence Township employees and agents are permitted to come upon the premises at any time for the purpose of inspection and ordinance enforcement".
- i. Any additional condition or statement as recommended by the Planning Commission and/or deemed necessary by the Township Board.

Sec. 6.2. The applicant shall also provide the Township Board with a recordable affidavit, which affidavit shall be recorded with the Oakland County Register of Deeds at the expense of the applicant, and which affidavit shall bind the applicant, his heirs, successors and assigns to the terms and conditions of the permit and the terms and conditions of Ordinance No. 59, as amended, and of the ordinances of Independence Township where such ordinances control the operation, maintenance and restoration of gravel and other mining sites.

ARTICLE 7: Bonds, Intent, Amount and Use.

Sec. 7.1. No person shall operate a mineral mining site without posting cash or an irrevocable letter of credit making the Township of Independence the beneficiary thereof in an amount determined by the Township Board to be reasonably necessary to insure compliance hereunder; provided, however, that in no case will the sum of the cash or irrevocable letter of credit be less than Twelve Hundred ($1,200.00) Dollars for each acre or fraction thereof of land as shown in the original application. The condition of the posting of such cash or irrevocable letter of credit shall be that if upon completion of applicant's activities on the parcel described in the application, the land has been satisfactorily reclaimed and rehabilitated in accordance with Section 5.7, Plan of Restoration, the cash shall be returned or the irrevocable letter of credit shall be void; otherwise, the Township of Independence shall have the right to use the cash or proceeds of the irrevocable letter of credit to the extent necessary to reclaim and restore the parcel. This cash or irrevocable letter of credit shall remain with the Township until the parcel or parcels have been restored as required by this ordinance and by the permit. In fixing the amount of such cash or irrevocable letter of credit, the Township Board shall take into account the size and scope of the proposed operation, current prevailing costs of rehabilitating the premises upon default of the operator, and other such conditions and factors as might be relevant in determining a sum reasonable in light of all facts and circumstances surrounding each application. The Township Board on the annual date of such letter of credit may in its discretion increase the amount of such cash or irrevocable letter of credit. In the event the applicant provides an irrevocable letter of credit, he shall notify the institution issuing such letter of credit and provide proof thereof that the Township shall be notified in the event of any lapse in the effectiveness of the letter of credit. For each acre restored and reclaimed in accordance herewith, said cash or irrevocable letter of credit may be reduced pro-rata as determined by the Township Board. The amount of cash or irrevocable letter of credit will apply to no more than seventy-five (75) acres which are in the process of being mined or are unrehabilitated at any one time. In no event shall the area being mined and unrehabilitated exceed seventy-five (75) acres.

Sec. 7.2. In the case of application for a new permit, the cash or irrevocable letter of credit described in Section 7.1 above shall be posted simultaneously with the issuance of the permit and shall be a condition of said permit.

Sec. 7.3. In the event that the applicant chooses to post cash as described in Section 7.1. above, such cash may be deposited in an interest bearing savings account at a bank satisfactory to the Township of Independence wherein such interest accrues for the benefit of applicant or is paid over to the applicant.

ARTICLE 8: Standards and Required Improvements.

Sec. 8.1. All mining sites shall be fenced so as to completely surround the entire Net Operational Area. The minimum specifications for said fencing shall be as follows: a six (6) foot high farm type fence of #9 gauge top wire, #12 gauge bottom wire, #14 gauge stays and intermediate wires with spacing of 6 inches vertically by 12 inches horizontally; all stays shall be of 14 gauge wire; and with spacing of support posts to be no greater than 16 feet apart. In addition, where an excavation results in a temporary edge being formed which is steeper than a 5 to 1 slope, there shall be immediately erected a fence protecting that portion of the site where said edge extends and said additional fence shall be not less than 5 feet in height and shall be a cyclone type chain link metal fence with spacing of support posts no greater than 10 feet apart. This additional and supplemental fencing when so required shall be within the perimeter of the general fencing required hereunder.

Sec. 8.2. The perimeter of any mining site shall be conspicuously and adequately posted with signs sufficient to indicate the danger of trespassing in the area. In no event shall such signs be more than 200 feet apart.

Sec. 8.3. All active excavations and mining operations shall be visually screened from view from all adjacent public roads and highways.

highways and residentially used parcels. Any of the following methods shall be used, as determined by the Planning Commission.

a. Construction of a raised earth berm area on its premises along the boundary lines thereof where such lines abut a public highway, abut privately owned property which is improved and occupied for residential purposes, and at such places as the construction thereof is necessary to screen processing equipment from the view of a person standing at ground level on any parcel of land improved and occupied for residential purposes which is located adjacent to or fronts on any of the roads forming the boundaries of the mining site. When constructed along public highways, the berm shall be of a sufficient height to screen processing equipment from the view of the general public using the highway. Where the berm is constructed adjacent to residential property or to screen non-adjacent residential property, it shall be sufficient in length and height to screen that portion of the property actually improved and occupied for residential purposes. During the next planting season following the placement of the berm and as often as may be necessary to assure the existence of a vegetative ground cover, the applicant shall seed or plant the berm in a manner suitable for the area and soil conditions so as to provide vegetation to check erosion and to provide a visible ground cover substantially similar to the vegetation cover growing in adjacent fields. Where the topography of the area acts as a screen, the Township Board may waive the berm requirement. The berm shall have slopes not in excess of one (1) foot vertical to three (3) feet horizontal.

b. Planting of coniferous trees along the boundaries of the property with sufficient rows and depth to permit effective screening, as determined by the Planning Commission.

Sec. 8.4. The hours of operation of the mining machinery and any processing plant shall be no earlier than 7:00 A.M. to a time no later than 7:00 P.M. No hours of operation shall be permitted Sundays and legal holidays. In emergency situations this period of time may be modified by the Township Supervisor, provided such emergency order shall not be effective for more than 72 hours.

Sec. 8.5. All parcels being mined under the provisions of this ordinance shall have direct access to a major thoroughfare as designated on the Inter-County Right-of-Way Plan having a minimum right-of-way width of 120 feet which roadway shall be improved to the specifications of the Oakland County Road Commission. When the operation of a mined area shall cause the mined material, overburden and/or similar material to be deposited upon the public roadway, it shall be the responsibility of the operator to remove said material within twelve (12) hours of notice from the Township. In the event such notification is received from any other County and/or State agency, said agency may establish a more restrictive time limitation.

Sec. 8.6. All roads within the mineral mining site shall be maintained by the operator at all times in a dust-free condition by the use of hard surface paving material, the application of chloride, oil, water and/or similar dust-retardant material.

Sec. 8.7. All equipment and facilities used in the production, processing, or transportation of sand, gravel, or stone shall be constructed, maintained, and operated in such a manner as to eliminate insofar as practicable, sounds, vibrations, or dust which interfere with the reasonable use and enjoyment of surrounding property. Where feasible, the processing plant and accessory equipment shall be situated below the average grade of the surrounding parcels so as to effectuate screening from sight, sound, dust and vibration.

Sec. 8.8. Sound levels shall not exceed 55 decibels at any time. All measurements shall be made at the property line. In emergencies or exceptional situations, the Township Supervisor may grant a temporary waiver of this requirement for no more than thirty (30) days.

Sec. 8.9. All lighting used to illuminate the mining area, access roads, stock pile area, and similar use shall be directed away from all surrounding property. Shielding of lighting may be required by the Township Board where such lighting shines directly toward a residential use and/or county road.

Sec. 8.10. No soil, sand, stone aggregate, clay, gravel or similar material may be mined and removed in such a manner as to result in a place of danger or a menace to the public health or safety. Proper drainage shall be provided at all times to prevent the collection and stagnation of water. Surface water shall at all times be directed in such a manner so as not to interfere with the adjoining property owners; provided, however, that the maintenance of the natural flow of surface water shall not be deemed an interference. There shall be no interference with the water table in the area.

Sec. 8.11. All machinery and other operations conducted on and at the mining site which cause vibrations, shall be so conducted as to prevent transmission of ground vibration exceeding displacement of .003 of 1 inch measured at any lot line adjoining the site.

Sec. 8.12. No cut within the mineral mining operation shall be made which creates a pit or depression in the earth closer than one hundred (100) feet from the nearest street, highway, alley, right-of-way line or nearest property line; provided, however, that the Township Board may prescribe more strict requirements in order to give sublateral support to surrounding property or soil as geographic conditions warrant it, or where the Board otherwise determines it necessary for the protection of the public health, safety or welfare from a particular danger.

Sec. 8.13. No machinery or equipment shall be permitted on or at the mining site other than those specified in the permit application unless said additions are specifically approved by the Township Board.

Sec. 8.14. All excavation, extraction and mining operations to be conducted on any parcel of land which contains or is immediately adjacent to any "watercourse, channel or wetland" as defined in the Wetlands and Watercourse Protection Ordinance for the Township of Independence shall be subject to the controls, conditions, limitations and prohibitions contained in the Wetlands and Watercourse Protection Ordinance for the Township of Independence in addition to the standards required herein.

ARTICLE 9: Standards for Reclamation of Mined Area.

Sec. 9.1. In such cases where the plan for reclamation allows and provides for a permanent water area, all excavations shall be made either to a water producing depth of at least 10 feet below the low water mark for at least 80% of the water area.

Sec. 9.2. The surface area of such area which is not permanently to be submerged under water shall be graded or backfilled as necessary so as to reduce peaks and depressions, and so as to produce a gently rolling surface that will minimize erosion due to rainfall and which will be in substantial conformity to the adjoining land area and natural in appearance.

Sec. 9.3. The finish slopes of the banks of the mineral mining excavations shall be sloped to the water line in a water producing excavation, and to the pit floor in a dry reclamation, at a slope to a degree not less than that required to prevent accelerated erosion and to a degree sufficient to maintain vegetation, and said banks shall be reclaimed with vegetation in a manner set forth hereunder. In no event shall reclaimed slopes have a slope in excess of a minimum ratio of one (1) foot vertical to five (5) feet horizontal. Underwater slopes shall be as determined by the Planning Commission.

Sec. 9.4. Vegetation shall be reclaimed by the use of sufficient soil and overburden and by appropriate seeding of grasses or planting of shrubs or trees in all parts of said reclaimed mining area where such area is not to be submerged under water or within 25 feet of the shoreline of any water area. The replacement of turf, vegetation, soil, overburden, shrubs and trees shall be implemented in a manner so as to prevent run-off, washout and erosion, as determined by the Planning Commission.

Sec. 9.5. In the event filling of the mined area is

Stratford revisited

by Herb Rose

During our recent pilgrimage to Stratford, Ontario, when we were looking forward to the gay frivolity of "Titus Andronicus," I was musing on how long it had been since our first trip.

I don't recall the exact year, but Damon and Pythias had not been introduced, the big kids thought Goliath was a cute little fella and I had hair.

On all previous trips, we wished we could have stayed longer and seen just one more play.

After seeing four plays in two days however, we looked at each other and said:

"Me thinks I've had a great surfeit of sitting."

"I also feel the region betwix my waist and knees doth face the river stix.

When in Stratford, we were offered an opportunity to purchase a black carving of an eskimo dragging a walrus across the ice for $1,200.

The purveyor was faced with an unusually hardsell. Under the most idyllic circumstances it would take a multitaitented, tenacious individual to separate me from $1,200 for anything except a $5,000 bill.

In this instance I had the nagging feeling there should be a companion piece giving equal time to the opposition, perhaps a bit of statuary depicting a walrus trudging across the ice floe manfully towing an eskimo.

A young couple we met at the theater advised us, in brisk non-

Michigan accents, to have breakfast at a certain restaurant, but forewarned us that "it's pricey." I was totally unfamiliar with the adjective "pricey," but it somehow struck terror to my heart.

My fears were confirmed when I found Sunday breakfast was $15 a copy.

For a brief instant, until I realized we were talking about some sort of buffet, I was visualizing a man addressing himself to $15 worth of eggs over easy and a monumental side of fries.

Under normal circumstances I not only couldn't eat a $15 breakfast, there is reasonable doubt that I could lift it. I'm not a young man.

When we returned home, we were happy the house hadn't been burglarized.

Actually, possible burglary is not high on my list of fears. The average burglar would have trouble finding something worth burglarizing.

My real fear is that I might have to admit that we returned home and found evidence of a break in, nothing gone and instead a $10 bill on the table with a sympathetic note: "Sorry."

necessary in the course of reclamation, said fill material shall be non-organic only and said fill material shall not consist of or contain any hazardous wastes, radio-active waste, agricultural waste, industrial waste or sludges and sewage residues, whether or not compounded, mixed, combined, bound or contained within, or bonded to, captured or fixed by, or entrained within any other material through any chemical or physical process or a combination thereof, or in any other fashion.

Sec. 9.6. Upon cessation of all mining operations except stockpiles, the operator, within a reasonable period of time not exceeding seven (7) months thereafter, shall remove all plant structures, buildings, stockpiles, and equipment unless such building or structures can be lawfully used in the district in which the same are located. Storage and stockpiling of mined products after cessation of mining activities may be permitted by the Township Board by annual permit for that purpose only. In no event shall any additional materials be allowed to be added to these stockpiles and such a permit shall not interfere with or excuse reclamation as provided by this ordinance.

ARTICLE 10: Inspections.

Sec. 10.1. The Director of the Township Building Department or his designate or agent is responsible for inspections hereunder and shall at all times have the right to enter upon any mineral mining site for the purpose of conducting inspections to insure compliance herewith. Any refusal to permit such inspections shall be deemed a violation hereof and shall be cause for summary proceedings to close said mineral mining operation pending such inspections.

Sec. 10.2. Should the Director of the Building Department for the Township of Independence discover any non-compliance with the terms and conditions of the mining permit for the site, the plans submitted as part of the application for a permit hereunder as approved by the Township Board, any terms and conditions of this ordinance or any other ordinance of the Township of Independence which ordinance controls the operation, maintenance and restoration of mineral mining sites, then the Director or his designate or agent shall have the option to:

- Notify the owner and/or operator to whom the permit has been issued by regular mail of any such non-compliance and the number of days within which such non-compliance shall be cured; or
- Immediately cite such owner or operator to whom such permit has been issued by Summons and Complaint of ordinance violation and initiate any other proceeding, summary or otherwise, to close the site, limit its operation, compel compliance, or take any other action deemed necessary.

Sec. 10.3. The fee for said inspection shall be Seventy-five ($75.00) Dollars for mineral mining sites of less than 50 acres and Seventy-five ($75.00) Dollars for any mineral mining site of 50 acres or more plus One ($1.00) Dollar additional for each acre of the mining site in addition to 50 acres. In the event inspections are conducted more than once in a month, only one fee shall be charged for that month.

Sec. 10.4. An escrow account of Two Thousand ($2,000.00) Dollars shall at all times be maintained for the payment of inspection fees. When the account has been reduced to Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars, it shall again be raised to Two Thousand ($2,000.00) Dollars.

Sec. 10.5. The Director of the Building Department for the Township shall report in writing at least once a month to the Township Board regarding the status of all mining operations.

ARTICLE 11: Violations and Penalties.

Sec. 11.1. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not more than Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars plus costs of prosecution or imprisonment in the County Jail for a period not to exceed 90 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the Court, together with costs of such prosecution.

Sec. 11.2. In addition to such fine and/or imprisonment as above stated, the Township Board may, in its discretion, notify the owner and/or operator of said violation and upon failure of the owner and/or operator to abate said violation within 5 days after mailing of said notice, said mineral mining site may be summarily closed, and the permit therefore revoked, and resort had to cash or irrevocable letter of credit for restoration as specified in Section 7.1. Such 5 day period shall not apply in the case of substantial threat to the Township.

Sec. 11.3. A separate offense shall be committed upon each day during or when a violation occurs or continues.

Sec. 11.4. The rights and remedies provided herein are cumulative and are in addition to such other remedies provided by law.

ARTICLE 12: Severance Clause.

Sec. 12.1. This ordinance and each article, section, sub-section, paragraph, sub-paragraph, or any provision thereof shall be deemed severable. If any article, section, sub-section, paragraph, sub-paragraph, or any provision is adjudged by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, or unenforceable, or unconstitutional for any reason, it is hereby provided that the remainder of this Ordinance shall not be affected thereby.

ARTICLE 13: Effective date.

Sec. 13.1. The provisions of this Ordinance shall take effect after thirty (30) days have elapsed after the publication of this Ordinance pursuant to the provisions of Section 1 of Act 191 of the Public Acts of 1939, as amended.

Made and passed by the Township Board of the Township of Independence, Oakland County, Michigan on this 15th day of July, 1980. Ayes: Lozano, Powell, Ritter, Rose, Thayer, Tower. Nays: None. Absent: Vandermark.

J. Ruppel gives 'sound of music'

Downtown Clarkston now has a resident music man.

He's John Ruppel, who opened his J. Ruppel Instrument Co. just three weeks ago in the lower level of the Clarkston Emporium on 31 S. Main Street.

"I'm really pleased with the reception we've been getting," Ruppel says about his recent grand opening. "The people have been really positive about the idea of having a music store here in Clarkston."

Ruppel deals mostly with stringed instruments such as guitars, violins and basses although he also sells drums, harmonicas and a complete line of amplifier equipment.

Clarkston area just a month and a half ago from Flint, where his business was previously located.

"My fiancé is from Clarkston, so I got a lot of hard sell to come here," Ruppel jokes. "I live near the water and it's really beautiful — I can't live without water, and there wasn't any in Flint."

"I really love it here."

Ruppel says his business also sells P.A. equipment and naturally sells all the necessary parts and equipment to keep Clarkstonite musicians strumming away.

Nor does it take a small fortune to get an interested youngster — or oldster, for that matter — started with a good instrument.

"We have good starter instruments ranging from $100 to $300," Ruppel says. Established musicians can spend thousands of dollars for their instruments, he adds.

Having been open only three weeks, he's still getting settled in his new location and will start selling sheet music as soon as the shipment arrives.

"It's on it's way — we're going to have pop sheet music and instructional and classical, too," Ruppel says.

J. Ruppel Instrument Co.'s business hours are from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The phone number is 625-3391.

If it's a major fire or a minor oddity, we want a call at The News, 625-3370.

John Ruppel's skill at building instruments by hand also makes him an expert at restoring older models. Here, he works on the restoration of a 1956 Gibson Les Paul Custom guitar.

Doing business

Guitars are his specialty, with famous makers such as Gibson, Guild, Fender, Hagstorm, Yamaha, C.F. Martin and others. An accomplished craftsman as well as a musician, Ruppel builds instruments by hand and offers a full repair service.

In the past he's done reconditioning work for several professional musicians, including rock star Joe Walsh.

"I've been playing music since I was a little kid," Ruppel says. "I've been playing the violin for a long, long time — since I was five."

He has an unbiased love of all music, he says — from baroque to Beethoven to rock 'n' roll.

Ruppel has been in the retail business for two years, having worked for other firms such as Marshall Music in Lansing prior to setting out on his own.

He made his move to the # Deer Lake — discoveries...

Vivian Bowden of Flemings Lake Road, Independence Township, takes advantage of the cool breezes on Deer Lake's shores by taking her infant grandson, Jeffrey Bowden of Oxford, for a visit. In typical baby style, Jeffrey spends much of his time figuring out what the sand is by putting it in his mouth.

Before she heads for deeper water and some paddling around, Mary Ellen O'Rourke [left] hands a water-logged stick she found in the lake to her little brother Timmy. The toddler promptly puts the stick to work, and proves once again that toys can be the ultimate in simplicity.

Coping with kids

What to do when winning is too important

In these parts, summertime is a time for outdoor games: when children have more leisure time; and parents are more relaxed with their kids.

With the greater time for games and competitive activities comes some potential problems for some children.

One of these problems is cheating.

We live in a competitive society where achievement receives high priority and when a child wins he is highly praised. There are leagues, competitions and the possibilities for rewards such as trophies.

The emphasis is frequently on being a record-holder or the champ or super-star.

But, everyone can't be a winner.

Some children, whether in organized or informal play, must win. And they will go to any extreme, even cheating, to accomplish this.

These children are usually unhappy, insecure people who probably do not believe they can be competent and successful without extra help.

They also generally do not realize that reaching a goal by cheating carries with it few of the satisfactions of winning by honest effort.

What can a parent do about cheating?

To punish a child who cheats is often self-defeating to the ultimate goal of the parent. If the cheating youngster feels a sense of inferiority and has low self confidence, punishment or a lecture will do nothing to build him up.

But, there are some things a mother or father can do when they recognize they have a child who cheats.

One of the first things that should be done is that the parent examine his own attitude toward winning.

What has he passed on to the child about always finishing first? The standards for excellence or excelling may be unnecessarily high in the home.

Perhaps the best way of handling cheating is to ask questions of the child. The idea in asking questions is to gain information about why the child feels a need to cheat, which information may be put to future use rather than immediate. Ask such questions as: "What do you suppose happens when two people are playing a game together and one person cheats?" "How would the other person feel?" "Why do you think that one person cheated?" "How does the cheater feel toward the other person?" and "Could these two people learn to play together honestly? How?" The answers may plant some important seeds for thought, place mom or dad in a far different (and incidently, understanding) position with the child and hopefully help the child to see the consequences of his actions.

If a parent feels that some action must be taken immediately, it may be well to make a short comment and drop the subject.

Some possibilities might be: "You won't feel good about friends."

yourself if you win by cheating."

"It usually spoils the fun others have in playing a game with you rules;" or "Perhaps that's why you sometimes have some problems keeping some of your friends."

THE NEED TO BRING RESPONSIBLE, ORDERLY, AND EFFECTIVE government to Independence Township has brought together a group of dedicated local citizens who are endorsing seven candidates for election in the August 5th primary. We call our group "Independence Residents for Responsible Government," and our membership is from throughout the township.

We are concerned that the majority of the current Township Board has not acted responsibly to assure that the quality of life for which we all settled here will be protected from such incompatible development as gravel pits and high-rise zoning.

After reviewing the candidates seeking election, we have chosen to endorse seven as those we believe to be the most capable and dedicated to preserving the clearly-voiced values of township residents.

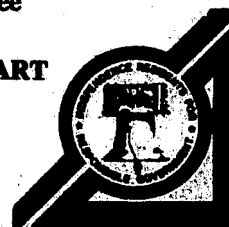

These are the seven candidates we endorse:

Growing things

Care and pruning of easy-to-grow raspberries

by Lyle Abel

Now is the time to prune those raspberries that have been supplying your family with fruit for the past few weeks.

Now that the crop is harvested, the sooner the fruit bearing canes are pruned out the better it is.

As any experienced gardener knows, the raspberry stem or cane is biennial. That means the new canes that are growing so vigorously now will produce the next crop of berries.

The canes that have just borne the fruit are dying off now and the sooner they are removed the better the following crop will be. This annual garden chore helps to control diseases of the berries and makes it easier to manage the planting.

One phase of managing a raspberry planting is to remove the surplus canes that red raspberries produce. These excess sprouts come from the roots in great numbers and if not removed cause your raspberry planting to turn into a jungle of brambles.

If you wish to make a new raspberry planting or enlarge yours, this fall is a favorable time to do so. The surplus sprouts may be used for this purpose.

One better suggestion for a new raspberry planting is to get "virus-free" plants from a reputable nursery.

The tiny, frequently seedy berries one harvests from wild berries are often of such poor quality because of virus diseases that are the cause of the poor quality and yield.

The virus-free plants are much superior and well worth their cost.

For a new planting, choose a well drained place, add plenty of organic matter — compost, manure, peat, leaves, grass clippings, or whatever. When planting, allow plenty of room.

Raspberry rows should have at least 6 to 7 feet between rows, a foot less if you plan to keep them in hills.

Berries in rows can be trellised. Those in hills can be tied to stakes. Staking or trellising makes for easier picking, pruning and spraying.

While red raspberries are increased by planting the sprouts that form from the roots, black and purple varieties are propagated by tip-layering — the tips of their slender branches take root as they reach the soil and form new plants.

This is also the season to fertilize raspberries. As soon as the pruning and thinning has been done, apply a high nitrogen fertilizer such as ammonium nitrate, a pound to each 10 feet of row.

A high nitrogen lawn fertilizer will do a creditable job also.

This too is a good time to mulch the berry planting by applying a liberal layer of straw, hay, leaves or even lawn clippings. This mulching will help to control weeds and hold the moisture in the soil.

Raspberries are one of the easiest of fruits to grow in a home garden. A planting with good care will last at least 8 to 10 years and supply an ample amount of delicious fruit at a season when other fruits are locally not available.

Strawberries too need a renovation job at this season of the year.

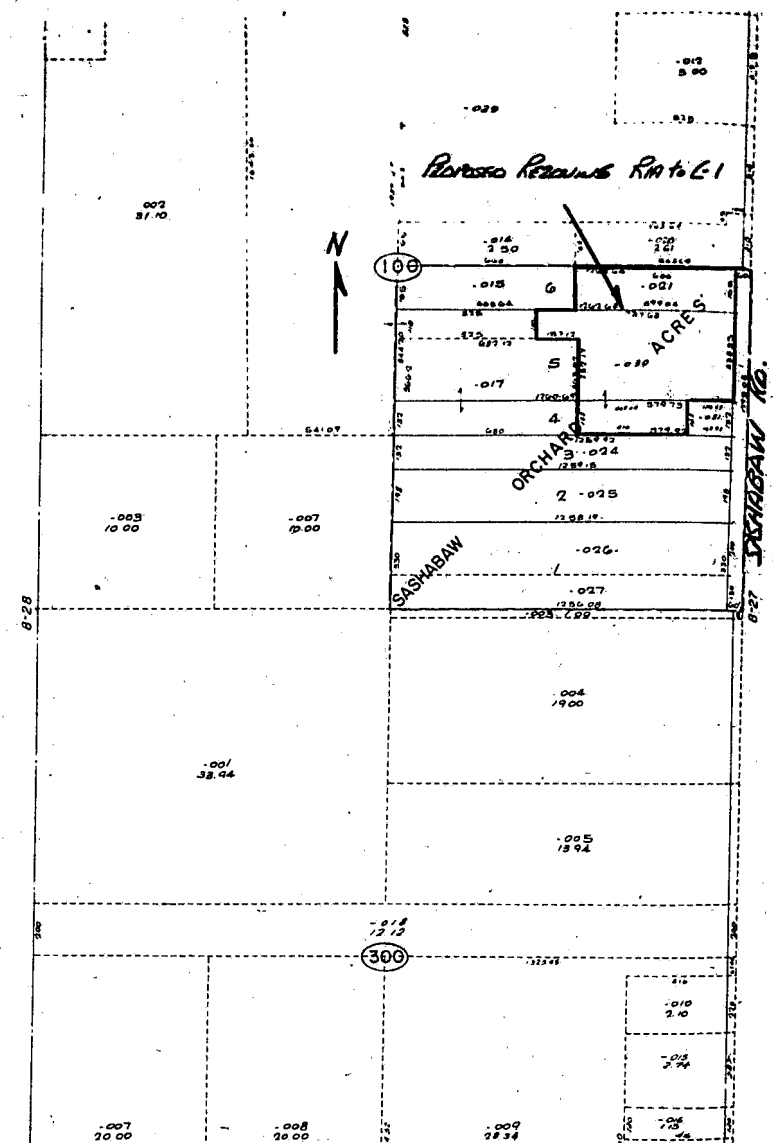

Briefly this consists of mowing off and removing the old plants, thin the plants, weed thoroughly, fertilize and lo! You are in business again for another year.

The starting rail drops and the bikes plunge forward in a race in the 16-and-older category. Competing in this race are Clarkston area boys Brian Barlow (bike 135) and Mike Tower (bike 292). Clarkston resident

Ed Burnette also competed in the 16-and-over category, but not in the same race as Brian and Mike.

A day at the races

Saturday is the day and bicycle motocross is the sport at Waterford Oaks County Park each week.

Weather permitting, BMX races take place on the track next to the Waterford Oaks Wave Pool on Scott Lake Road, Waterford Township every Saturday.

The races are open for boys and girls ages 7 and up and start at 10 a.m.

Last Saturday Daven Pyles, Doyle Owens, Dave Stewart, Paul Newton, Bryan Duncan, Steve Stewart, Troy Colbert, Brian Barlow, Mike Tower and Ed Burnette were among the

Clarkston area participants.

Barlow finished first in the 16 and over age group, while Owens took first in the 7 and 8-year-old category.

Newton placed second in the 9 and 10-year-old group and Pyles finished third among 7 and 8-year-olds.

Mike Clem adjusts his mouthguard moments before the start of the race.
