Independence twins arrested in 'sting' operation

Twin brothers from Independence Township have been arrested for allegedly selling stolen goods to undercover officers during a recent "sting" operation in Waterford Township.

John and Joseph VanSickle, 18, of 4665 Fourth Street, were arraigned Thursday in the 51st District Court before Judges Robert C. Anderson and Kenneth H. Hempstead.

The brothers are being held in the Oakland County Jail with bond set at $75,000 and $30,000 respectively.

John has been charged with conspiracy to carry a concealed weapon, carrying a concealed weapon, receiving and concealing stolen goods, larceny over $100 and breaking and entering a motor vehicle.

Joseph has been charged with conspiracy to carry a concealed weapon, larceny and receiving and cealing stolen goods.

According to Waterford Township Police Detective Carl Soldon, John was out on bond at the time of the arrest, charged in another Oakland County court with safe-cracking and breaking end entering.

The brothers and nine others were arrested from evidence gathered during the seven-month operation of a fake shipping company, manned with undercover officers posing as fences for stolen goods.

The operation was a cooperative effort between Waterford Township and Michigan State Police and the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office.

According to Chief Assistant Prosecutor Richard Thompson, the group rented a small cinder block building on the corner of Williams Lake and Orange Grove roads in Waterford Township.

"We moved in, built partitions, set up the video and the building was manned," he said. "The entire operation was kept very secret and only those directly involved were aware of it.

"We set up a fake store front and in those areas where we knew burglars hung out. We spread the word that this was a place to get rid of stolen merchandise," he said.

The company was named Piroff Shipping, an anagram of ripoff he said.

The entire operation was the brainstorm of the Waterford Township Police Department.

"In December of 1979, our breaking and entering larceny in the area was high and we wanted to end the problem," said Carl Soldon of the Waterford Township Police Department.

"We got together with the prosecutor's office and the state police and received instruction from the FBI for techniques.

"Over those seven months we purchased approximately $60,000 worth of stolen goods for $4,800," he said.

Overhead costs to maintain and run the building, for rental, electricity, renovation and phones were approximately $12,000, he said.

The sting operation recovered stolen automobiles, two of which were new and taken from dealer lots, Soldon said. They also recovered automobile and home stereo systems, tools, guns and a boat engine.

Approximately $1,000 worth of stereo equipment recovered in the "sting" operation were traced back to a July robbery of an Independence Township home, Soldon said.

Township moves toward new neighborhood park

Residents living in the southeast area of Independence Township may have a new park to romp and laze around in.

Last week, the township board made an offer to purchase about 13.5 acres for a neighborhood park on Maybee Road, next to the Clarkston

Eagles Hall.

"We are waiting for a response," said township Supervisor Whitey Tower.

The park property is to be paid for with Community Development funds.

"The amount of money we want to spend and the amount of land we would be able to purchase will determine what exactly the park will have and its size," Tower said.

"As it stands now, we're planning 13.5 acres of land with swing sets and playground equipment and ball fields — a neighborhood park," he said.

Springfield seeks assessor

Will discuss joint agreement with Rose Township

By Al Zawacky

Springfield Township's search for a new assessor may culminate in a joint agreement with neighboring Rose Township, according to Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

Walls has talked to Rose Supervisor Michael Izzo about the possibility of the two townships sharing a single assessor, and found him receptive to the idea, he said.

"We had what amounted to a brief discussion at a joint meeting with Rose Township," Walls said. "They asked that their supervisor and treasurer work with Pat (Springfield Treasurer Patricia Kramer) and I to try and work out the details."

Springfield lost the services of its assessor in June when Elizabeth Maffucci resigned to take a similar post in Milford.

Economy and efficiency are the prime motivating factors behind the move to share her replacement with Rose Township, Walls said.

"It may cost us a little more initially, but we'll be better off in the long run," he said.

"There are increased travel expenses to consider, and the fact that we may want to hire somebody with a little more experience for the two townships than we would just for ourselves," said Walls, explaining the possible increased initial cost.

"But eventually, it's going to be more efficient because of the assessment process — the more parcels you review, the better you understand the process. Having a larger sample is critical in assessing."

Currently, Rose Township is relying on Oakland County to handle its assessment work, while Walls himself has taken care of some of the Springfield workload.

"We haven't set a definite date for our meeting, but it will hopefully take place next week," Walls said. "Basically, I think it's just a matter of ironing out the details."

Trial location changed for Ramsey murder suspects

The first degree murder trial for three men accused in the March shooting death of a 22-year-old Independence Township woman has been relocated to St. Clair county Circuit Court in Port Huron.

In motions made several weeks ago by the defendant's attorney, Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer overruled his earlier decision and granted a new trial location because of pretrial publicity, said Beer's court clerk, Wilfred Cooney.

The trial began in Port Huron on Aug. 25, following jury selection, he said.

Albert Joseph Hartford, 22, of Pontiac is suspected of the March 15 murder of Frances Ramsey, a clerk at the Richardson's Farm Dairy on Clarkston-Orion Road, Independence Township.

According to police, Hartford allegedly attempted to rob the store, and in the attempt was shot in the face by the store manager Charmaine Klaus, 42, of Waterford.

In return of gunfire, Mrs. Klaus was seriously wounded and the 22-year-old store clerk killed.

Hartford's younger brothers, Charles, 17, and Michael Gos-cicki, 17, both of Walled Lake, allegedly parked the get-away car used in the robbery, according to police.

Hartford was later arrested at Detroit General Hospital where he underwent treatment for a gunshot wound to the jaw, after admitting himself, police said.

Goscicki has waived his right to a jury trial, according to Cooney.

Conviction of first degree murder carried a mandatory life imprisonment sentence.

With a good pension plan, employers benefit most.

Spaghetti dinner to help young campers

Eat your fill of spaghetti and help raise scholarship funds to send North Sashabaw Elementary 6th graders to camp this fall.

The spaghetti dinner is planned Friday, Sept. 5, from 5 to 7 p.m. at Sashabaw Junior High School, 5565 Pine Knob Rd., Independence Township.

A single dinner ticket is $2.50, children age 4 and under are free, and a family ticket for five or more members is $10.

The menu includes all the spaghetti you can eat, tossed salad, rolls and homemade desserts prepared by parents of 6th graders, who are also cooking up special spaghetti sauce.

The sixth graders plan to head to Camp Tamarack in Brandon Township Nov. 17 for a four-day stay.

Cost for the campers is $60 a pupil.

"We realize the economic hardships in our area are bad and we want to make sure no kid will be denied the privilege to go because of money," said Tom Brown, 6th grade teacher.

Correction

The 7th and 8th grade intramural basketball program has not been dropped by Clarkston schools as reported in last week's News.

"We will be having 7th and 8th grade intramural basketball for boys and girls," said Mel Varra, assistant superintendent of schools.

"We're going to have fewer coaches," he added. "We did have five for each grade; now we'll have two for each grade."

Foster home battle heads to court

Township, subdivision residents file separate lawsuits

by Marilyn Trumper
Intent on enforcing zoning ordinances and deed restrictions relating to placement of adult foster care homes, Independence Township and residents of Lake Oakland Woods subdivision have filed separate law suits in Oakland County Circuit Court. Some communities have balked at attempts to prevent such homes from establishing, because it was thought the state had removed all local power to do so.

But a loophole recently discovered in the law is being tested by a neighboring township at the circuit court level, and the court has already ruled on one other similar case, prompting Independence to join separately into the legal battle.

On Aug. 22, the township filed suit against J. Jamison Inc., applicants for a proposed adult foster care home at 5127 Timber Ridge Trail.

A show cause hearing has been scheduled Sept. 3 before Circuit Court Judge Gene Schnelz, pending notification of all involved parties.

"We filed suit because we felt that the state law took away the township's right of self determination as it relates to the township's ability to enforce its own zoning ordinances," said Frederick Ritter, township treasurer.

"We don't want this to be interpreted as action against foster care homes. We just want to have clarification on land use. Is it the state's or local government's authority?" he said. "The township board feels it should be the local government's authority."

Lake Oakland Woods subdivision is slated for the proposed adult foster care home which would house approximately six mentally retarded adults, and residents say the home would not only be in violation of their deed restrictions, but also of the township's zoning ordinance.

The residents' attorney, Donald E. Schuster explained the loophole by saying that the most recent legislation concerning adult foster care homes failed to include a section from a previous act which prohibited local zoning ordinances from keeping adult foster care facilities out of a community.

In Lake Oakland Woods' case, deed restrictions limit the use of a home to single family, specifically defined as one individual, or two or more related by blood, marriage or legal adoption, Schuster said.

Schuster filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court on Aug. 27 against J. Jamison Inc. The case is to go before Circuit Court Judge Hilda Gage. Judge Gage denied Schuster's request for a temporary restraining order, which would prevent the home from establishing while the matter is in court, he said.

A show cause hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 17 in Oakland County Circuit Court, at 1:30 p.m. before Judge Gage.

At that time, Schuster said, testimony will be taken to decide whether or not an immediate adverse effect would be felt by neighbors if the home establishes during litigation.

According to a spokesperson from the State Department of licensing, the application submitted in May for the Timber Ridge Trail location has yet to be approved.

Dinner canceled

Joseph C. Bird Chapter No. 294, Order of the Eastern Star, has canceled the Sunday dinner planned Sept. 7.

The dinner was canceled due to remodeling of the hall on Main Street, Clarkston.

Scene stealer

Kids on bikes lined the street corners, cars pulled over along the curbs, passer-bys stopped to stare and from every window the same whisper resounded from faces with wide eyes, "What happened at Hallman's?"

Just a few minutes after noon on Sunday, Michigan State Police and Oakland County Sheriff deputies swarmed Hallman's Apothecary on Clarkston's Main Street.

Hallman's was closed—but the door was unlocked, and the officers intended to find out why.

Guns were drawn, the men molded themselves into the outside wall, surrounded the building and went in.

After all the excitement, it turned out the event was a false alarm.

According to a Michigan State trooper, whoever locked up the store after the parade did so incorrectly.

When a prospective customer tried the door, it opened. No one was inside working, so the customer left, and left with the alarm turned on.

Nothing was taken and the drug store was left intact. Clarkston's Rotary Club parade was a tough act to follow, but Hallman's did it!

Selecting a wardrobe for traveling can be a cumbersome and expensive problem. Uncertain weather conditions and an insufficient number of porters add to the burden of traveling light. Here are a few tips. First, select one or two colors and build your wardrobe around them. This will give a greater variety of outfits and decrease the number of accessories needed. Select clothes that work together. A coat that fits over your jacket and one that is weather adaptable (a hooded raincoat with a zip-in, warm lining is ideal). Add to that a pair of good walking shoes, a slim, unpleated skirt, a twin sweater set, pants, a dressy blouse, evening separates—skirt, cardigan, camisole, a nightgown and robe, and you are equipped with a functional, carryable wardrobe.

When you need information on what the climate is like, clothes to bring, places to sightsee and, of course, how to get there and where to stay, be sure to call on us at CLARKSTON TRAVEL BUREAU INC., 6 N. Main St., 625-0325. "It Costs No More For Professional Service". We specialize in family travel planning, honeymoons, cruises and business trips. Open: Mon. thru Fri. 9:30am-5:30pm, Sat. 9:30am-1pm.

Millage makes a difference

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to the recent article regarding the Safety Path millage and the negative attitude that is implied.

The passage of this millage certainly has made a tremendous difference in the future of the safety paths within Independence Township. We can now look forward to a continuous phased development of this system.

Those working on this project can begin to concentrate their efforts toward setting route priorities based on the master plan and the implementation of construction documents for the next phase in the spring of 1981.

We are also now in an excellent position to apply for federal and state funding. These grants would have the effect of supplementing our millage revenue and expediate the completion of the total system.

The first phase, utilizing federal funds, is already in process with construction hopefully this fall.

Our committee would again like to thank all of you who supported this concept and assure you that action is taking place.

If you would like to become involved in this project, please come to our meetings which are held on the second Wednesday of every month at the Township Hall.

Sincerely
Joseph P. Figa, Jr.
Chairperson
Safety Path Advisory Committee

Here's Herb Heavy solution

by Herb Rose

It occurred to me the other day, as I was gazing at the water lilies that were supposed to have been chemically zapped, that the attitude toward mill pond weeds demonstrates flawed logic.

There is a segment of the community that puts nutrients in the water which stimulate weed growth and a second group that adds chemicals for plant growth inhibition.

These diametrically opposed programs of tender loving care and total rejection must leave the weeds with deep emotional scars.

It seems much more reasonable to have the weeds eaten by grazing animals, and my thought would be to equip a flock of sheep with face masks and snorkles.

Unfortunately, sheep are skittish things and chasing them through three-dimensions, east-west, north-south, up-down, would impose unusual demands upon the average shepherd.

Conversely, a single hippopotamus would be a largish, soporific animal that could be tethered at different locations on different days tranquilly ingesting weeds.

A spinoff benefit would be the discouragement of non-resident swimmers, who would not know where the hippo was on any particular day.

Taking care of the hippo during the cold months should be no problem.

In kindergarten, some lucky child gets to take the class pet hamster home for the Christmas holidays. Similarly, some riparian landowner could keep the pond hippo in his basement during the winter.

Unlike a hamster, if the hippo escaped there would be almost no problem in finding it.

It is also possible that the hippo would serve as a watch animal. I don't know what sort of a noise a startled hippo makes, but I'm sure they sound some sort of alarm.

Although the litter box might be something of a problem, the host would be one of a minority who could respond to the query: "What's new?" with: "I have a hippopotamus in my basement."

My dictionary informs me that "hippopotamus" comes from the Greek "river horse," a fact which leads me to conclude that the average Greek lexicographer had a shaky concept of a horse.

I have a little trouble visualizing a chariot pulled by two or three hippopotami as a sporting vehicle.

"How much ground does a three-day chariot race cover?"
"Almost 1,000 yards."

On time

by Kathy Greenfield

Two years ago, the unthinkable happened.

My children were late the first day of school.

Corey, bless her, has this thing about being on time, maybe even early, for all events.

She had always, up to that point, been totally reliable about getting up at least one and one-half hours early for school and waking everyone else up.

My husband also falls into the early-riser category. That particular morning, he had left for work before it was time for anyone else to get up.

When I lifted my lids to see what time it was, the clock revealed school was just starting.

A mad dash around the house followed and Corey and Craig were out the door, carrying pieces of untoasted bread, in less than 10 minutes.

"Even if it is the first day," I told myself during the drive to school, "somebody else will be just arriving. Maybe a new student or somebody else who goofed."

The school grounds were deserted — cars and bikes neatly parked. No people.

"How would you like me to walk you to your classes?" I asked.

The responses were positive. Thus followed the trek through empty halls to ultra-quiet classrooms.

As I grinned sheepishly and waved to the teachers, my two children were deposited in their rooms.

That was the last time they were late all year and the next year as well.

There were some reverberations, of course.

"Every time my teacher says anything about having to be on time, he looks straight at me," Corey reported.

After that, for a long time, everyone set alarm clocks every night. They would go off every 15 minutes or so the next morning. It was horrendous.

As you may well imagine, we all get a little nervous when the first day of school inevitably rolls around each year.

This year was no exception.

There was an alarm clock set for the first time since last June that shot off its mouth while it was still dark.

I rolled over. Shortly afterwards, I realized nobody was up yet.

"Oh no!" I thought. "We did it again."

Through half-opened eyes I scanned the face of the clock — and flew out of bed.

I flipped on Corey's light and said, "You have to get up. It's late."

She quickly glanced at her clock.

"Mom," she said. "It's only 5:30!"

What, me worry?

Year of the wasp

by Jim Sherman

I don't know what 'year' this is for the Chinese, but here it's the year of the wasp.

I've been stung nine times. Five the first time, one the second and three the third. It's important to know this sequence. It proves the stingee lacks respect for the persistent wasp.

During these encounters we also learned that pointing out wasp nests is a lot like telling people, "That is wet paint!" They must find out for themselves.

The first attack came while mowing lawn. I like to drive the riding mower as close to the cedar trees (and others) as possible to cut down on trimming later.

As I ran through the edge of one particular tree — a practice I've followed for ten years — I felt my bare arms, legs and face being stung.

I started waving, swatting, jiggling my legs and jerking my head to and fro (that's different from fro and to).

Those black devils with yellow strips didn't just sting. The grabbed hold with uppers and lowers, and didn't let go until I swept them away or flesh (mine) parted with them.

The tractor kept going away from the tree, and just as I was about to depart the tractor and jump in the pool I realized the wasps no longer trailed me.

They must have headed back to the hive to report their kill to the Queen.

Much later I returned to look at the hive. It was as big as my head — before stings.

I told my son to avoid the tree. Thinking he was bigger and stronger, among other prerequisites, he entered the Wasp's domain. He was stung.

We told a visitor to not go near the tree. She did and the result was the same.

Two weeks later I decided to move a wood pile. This time a wasp came out of a nest in the ground to nail me just above the shoe top.

This is where I show you how the stingee lacks respect. I figured this attack was by a wayward wasp made ugly by the weather.

I was wrong. Two hours after that first bite, I returned to the area and suffered (right word) three more losses of flesh.

History shows I've been stung before. I've used tweezers, a silver knife and mud to stop the sting. They all worked, but so does Caladryl.

'Vette club struts stuff

The North Oaks Corvette Club proudly put their prized cars on display Saturday afternoon as the club held a show at Rademacher Chevrolet on Dixie Highway. Featured were stock and customized Corvettes polished up by their owners for curious onlookers and a judging contest later in the day.

Even the license plate of Don Fillmore's '63 Corvette gets special attention as he polishes up his car for the judges.

The show featured the entire spectrum of Corvette models, from the first 'Vettes of the early 1950s to this General Motors prototype. This is what the Corvette of the future may look like.

'If it Fitz. . .

Right from the heart

by Jim Fitzgerald

In a speech at the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Chicago, Ronald Reagan endorsed U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, which he called "a noble cause."

That's not how I remember that war. To refresh my memory, I reached into my Vietnam war file and pulled out a 1970 newspaper clipping. The Associated Press reported:

"Army surgeons have removed a Viet Cong bullet from the heart of a 20-year-old American soldier in what they call an operation unprecedented in the Vietnam war."

"We've never had a case like this before," said Dr. Elias Hanna, cardiac surgeon at the Army hospital in Saigon. "There have been cases in which the heart was punctured by fragments, but this is the first time a whole bullet has been removed from the heart."

Another old clipping told about the town of Ben Tre in South Vietnam. Ben Tre was 85 percent destroyed by the United States' big guns, bombs, rockets and napalm. Our officers admitted the heavy attack "probably contributed to the deaths of at least 500 civilians and possibly 1,000."

Ah, That's the Vietnam war I remember.

I remember thinking what a lousy world it was when we must celebrate the removal of a bullet from a heart. It would be the same thing if the Detroit Tigers burned their bats and swung at the ball with toothpicks — and then celebrated because they lost the game 20-1 instead of 20-0.

What's to celebrate? Why did the big boobs burn their bats in the first place?

Why did we put that bullet in the boy's heart in the first place?

Batting at baseballs with toothpicks is no way to win games. Any player with such an idiotic idea would be straightened out quickly by management.

Fighting wars is no way for a 20-year-old youth to live to be 21. Most bullets in the heart are extremely hazardous to the health. But boys everywhere keep going to war anyway. Blame it on stupid management.

Speaking of bullets, last week I was handed a letter from a California-based organization called Gun Owners for Reagan. It implores "fellow gun owners" to contribute money toward the election of Ronald Reagan because he is "a strong pro-gunner" who, as president, would oppose "gun registration schemes."

The letter warns that Jimmy Carter has "promised he would confiscate our handguns and require licensing of all firearm owners!"

As any chest-thumping gun-owner knows, it's perfectly acceptable that cars, dogs and bicycles should be licensed, but not guns, for God's sake. Once the government knows who owns guns, the Gun Bureau will confiscate deer rifles just as fast as the Traffic Bureau confiscates Oldsmobiles.

I am simple-minded enough to believe that until enough people realize there shouldn't be a little gun under every nut's pillow, there will be no salty chance of outlawing the big guns that destroyed 85 percent of Ben Tre. So shoot me.

Ronald Reagan apparently believes

500 to 1,000 civilians (how many children?) were killed in Ben Tre for a noble cause. If a nation refuses to kill for such noble causes, it forfeits the right to celebrate the removal of a whole bullet from the heart of a 20-year-old soldier.

John Sears, who until a few months ago was Reagan's campaign director, told Newsweek magazine the way to beat Reagan is to force him to explain "why he's not an idiot."

The VFW officially supports Reagan, the first time in 80 years it has endorsed a presidential candidate. When Reagan made his noble-cause speech, 4,500 VFW delegates and guests interrupted him 26 times with applause.

The Republican Party nominated Reagan for the presidency. The primaries and the polls show that millions of people think the GOP made a good choice.

It appears Ronald Reagan isn't the only one who should be forced to explain why it's not idiotic to swing toothpicks at baseballs.

New Catholic parish covers portion of Independence

Just outside the boundaries of Independence Township a new Catholic parish is growing.

Although the Christ the Redeemer parish has no buildings, its new pastor, the Rev. A. Frank Pollie, sees great potential in the church's undeveloped 12 acres on the north side of Waldon Road between Baldwin and Joslyn roads.

The parish was etched primarily from St. Joseph parish, Lake Orion and to a minor degree, St. Michael's in Pontiac and St. Daniel's in Independence Township.

It is bound by Clarkston Road on the north, M-24 to the east, I-75 on the south and Clintonville Road on the west.

"Really the best thing going here is the people," said Father Pollie, who was assigned to the church June 2. "We may not have a building to our names, but there is a personality, a character and a sense of commitment in this Christian community that is really great.

"I believe we haven't signed up our 200th family in the new parish yet, but we already have a reputation as a very relational group of Catholics. There are plans underway to establish supportive small Christian groups throughout the parish.

"We really want to reach out to all the people within our new boundaries so that this is a parish of the people and not a parish of the pastor," he said.

Christ the Redeemer will attain permanent parish status when it can show a significant level of involvement, activity and financial support, he said.

Current members have been attending mass at 10:30 a.m. each Sunday at the nearby Junior High West, and Father Pollie anticipates an additional mass in late September.

Father Pollie, 39, was ordained in June of 1967 after completion of his studies at St. John

Read Jim Fitzgerald each week in The Clarkston News

Provincial Seminary in Plymouth.

The native Detroit's first assignment was associate pastor. Registration information can be obtained at the Sunday masses or by contacting Father Pollie during the week at the rectory of St. Michael's Church in Pontiac where he is staying until he establishes a permanent home in the new parish.

Co-pastors for parish

The congregation of Sashabaw United Methodist Church announces the arrival of new co-pastors, the Rev. Willaim Schram and the Rev. Jennifer Schram.

The Schrams recently graduated from McCormick Seminary, Chicago, Ill.

They began thier pastoral duties Sept. 1 and are to conduct their first worship service Sunday, Sept. 7, at 11 a.m.

Peeking into the past

by Rusty Leaf

10 YEARS AGO August 27, 1970

Motorist frustrations on I-75, between Flint and Bay City, should be easing off in the immediate future. Most of the major construction projects, as well as maintenance and repair projects responsible for summer slow downs on I-75 are in final stages of completion.

If you see Doc Denne trying to pull any new fast tricks, be patient, because he has not had much time to perfect them. He and Mrs. Denne went to the annual magic show in Colon.

Participants in a week's canoe trip through the Boy Scouts of America national camp at Boulder Junction, Wisconsin were: James, Ray and Dennis Loba, James and Mark Zelenak, Richard Butler, Dr. Forrest Hunt, Mark and Roger Willis, Steve Dreheo, Franz Fresenreifer, Matthew and Craig Moore and John Mayo.

25 YEARS AGO August 25, 1955

Caribou Inn is now operating under new management. The dining room has been opened and Ernest Felice is in charge of the kitchen.

Several times during the week the athletic field has been lighted. Those living in the school area were thrilled with the brightness.

Mrs. Bertha Terry is moving to the Caribou Inn and is selling her household goods.

Hanson gets the goat

When the ticket was pulled and a name announced, and a caravan of parade watchers traveled down Church Street to make delivery. Marilyn Hanson [below], shocked recipient of this year's Goat Vote, virtually screamed when awarded her prize. Fighting all the way to its new home, Alice, the black and white goat gives her handler a rough time.

Varsity football season opens at home Friday

Pre-season scrimmage 'encouraging'

By Al Zawacky

What can Clarkston High School football fans expect this Friday night, when they settle back in their seats for the opening kickoff of the Wolves' 1980 season?

Head Coach Walt Wyniemko put it this way: "I'd spend $2 to see it — I wouldn't want to miss it."

Wyniemko gave a candid assessment of his team's performance in last week's pre-season scrimmages, saying that he did see a few things in need of improvement.

"It was encouraging," Wyniemko said. "We saw some good things and some bad things — the bad things we're going to have to iron out, and the good things we're going to try and do even better."

The Greater Oakland Activities League will be tough and competitive this season, Wyniemko opined — but the team isn't worried about the league schedule just yet.

"We're just thinking about Swartz Creek right now," he said.

"I think we can be a good football team."

Receivers were working on their pass receptions as the Wolves polished their aerial attack at practice last week.

Odds

are...

What, you may ask, is "Odds are...?"

Simply put, it's the most accurate assessment of the upcoming prep football games you're likely to find.

Al Zawacky will make generous use of dartboard, coin flip and the Oakland University computer's random generator to arrive at these weekly picks.

Every now and then he'll even know a fact about the opposing team. Sometimes two facts.

So stay tuned.

SWARTZ CREEK at CLARKSTON (Sept. 5): There's always a lot of emotion at season-openers, and that goes for both sides of the field. So don't give Clarkston any kind of an edge for playing at home.

Further, it's pointless to try and compare team talent before either squad has touched a football.

But from the standpoint of team experience, the Wolves have a definite advantage.

Swartz Creek's football program was in doubt until school district voters approved a millage renewal in August. As a result, Coach Mike Weigandt's Dragons had no football camp, less practice time and not much participation in their winter weight-lifting program.

They have numbers, however — 55 roster members at last count.

Curiosity killed the cat, and over-confidence can kill a Wolf. But her's one bet for a season-opening Wolves' win. CLARKSTON by SIX.

"Swartz Creek" was an often-heard name at the Clarkston varsity football practice held last week, as Coach Walt Wyniemko's gridders entered the final week of workouts prior to their season-opener Friday evening against the Dragons of Swartz Creek.

The Point After

by Al Zawacky

Win or lose, Wolves make us proud

"The Year of the Wolf"

— Motto on Clarkston practice jerseys

Pre-season optimism, it's been said, is kind of like a summer rainstorm: A lot of wind, a lot of thunder—but usually of short duration.

Every football team thinks in terms of winning seasons and league championships in August. And why not? Why concede anything before the season-opening kickoff?

Thus, it's only natural to take all the Pollyannaisms emanating from the Wolves' pre-season workouts with a grain of salt. Sure you guys are going to do well. Sure you're going to win. We've heard it all before. Sure.

Well, can the sarcasm. The Wolves are for real. The optimism is justified.

THE SQUAD THAT will charge onto the Clarkston High School football field is going to win some football games, friend. It's not going to be a re-play of 1977, but grab a coffee, a coke or something stronger, find a seat in the stands, sit back and enjoy.

The Wolves are good enough to transpose their 1979 record and post a 6-3 mark this season — maybe better. They'll be GOAL contenders throughout the season, and spending a Friday evening in Clarkston at the ball game is going to be fun once again.

IT IS A measure of how much football means to this community to look at the size of the varsity roster. Sixty teenagers — members of a generation that supposedly views hard work as a health hazard — thought enough of their school, their community and their self-respect to play football.

There may be tremendous fun in this game and opportunities for glory every Friday night, but it's hardly an exaggeration to say that every minute of play on the field demands an hour of work during practice.

And practice is gridiron purgatory. It is plain hard work. They talk of coaches who've found ways to make practice fun, but the two words just don't go together.

Practice is feeling the sweltering summer sun on your back while the sweat beads up on your face and runs into your eyes.

It is getting up, at the crack of dawn at football camp instead of laying in bed till noon at home. It is muscles stretching, straining and waking up sore the next day — only to have to stretch and strain them again.

There are lighter moments, of course — but generally speaking, practice is a drag.

Yet when a session is over — when you sit in front of your locker exhausted, your equipment wringing wet — you feel a sense of pride that can't be conveyed to someone who's never been there.

You don't have to be a starter to get that sense of satisfaction, either. It's an achievement just to wear that uniform — to show the world that you've got the guts and determination to stick it out.

Coach Walt Wyniemko is justifiably proud of the numbers his program has attracted this year. Clarkston should be, too. Win or lose, there are a lot of gritty, proud and determined kids in this town.

These guys make every year the "Year of the Wolf."

Racers fare well

Eleven-year-old Donnie Spangler had the fastest heat time of the day in his division at the All American Soap Box Derby held in Akron, Ohio Aug. 16.

Donnie competed against 88 other city champions from 33 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, Germany and Venezuela and was nosed out by inches in the final heat by the winning car from Indianapolis and the runner-up from Cleveland.

He won the right to compete in the race by winning the Detroit competition in July. Eleven-year-old Scott Luzi was the runner-up in the Detroit race.

Donnie is the son of Don and Cheri Spangler of Drayton Plains and the grandson of Jewel and Irmal Spangler and John and Renee Witherup, all of Independence Township.

Scott is the son of Independence Township residents Clary and Mary Luzi.

Sluggers place 2nd

A long drive to Sterling Heights proved to be worth the trip for the D & S Carpenter little league team.

The boys placed second overall in the pony recreation league tournament held there Aug. 21. D & S Carpenter was one of 11 teams competing in the Independence Parks and Recreation pony league this summer.

Talking about . . .

On Main Street, Clarkston, we asked this week's question: In November, voters will be asked if the legal drinking age should be reduced from 21 to 19. What do you think?

"Yes, I think it should be lowered to 19. I think that if you're labeled an adult you should be able to drink. The difference between 19 and 21 is only two years and that's not much. Either that or make the legal adult age 21."
—Jodi Smith, Lochwood Rd., Independence Township, bus girl.

"I don't think so. I know that they say if they're old enough to fight, they're old enough to drink, but I look at it from a different standpoint. Alcohol is not right for anyone from the Christian point of view."
—John Pyke, Waldon Road, Independence Township, vehicle inspector.

"I think it should be raised to age 75. There are too many drunks on the road already and too many fatal accidents are caused by drunks. If they're 75 and drink, they'll fall asleep in their rocking chairs. They won't get behind the wheel."
—Josephine Hodge, Detroit, retired.

"Yes, I think it should be lowered. I've already signed a petition to do so. I figure that if a 19-year-old is old enough to be drafted, he'd be old enough to drink. Either that or don't draft anyone until they're 21 years old."
—Jeff Squier, Springfield Township, unemployed.

"Yes, lower it. I think that if they're old enough to fight for their country, they're old enough to drink."
—Bulah Anderson, Clarkston - Orion Road, Independence Township, assistant store manager.

Clarkston girl wins top prize at fair

Laura Sutton smiles with delight as she recaps her feelings on taking top prize in the Michigan State Fair craft show.

By Marilyn Trumper
Hard work, diligence and imagination have paid off for a 9-year-old girl from the Village of Clarkston.

Laura Sutton of South Holcomb Street has received the grand award in the 131st Michigan State Fair craft competition for her model made without a kit in the junior division.

"I haven't been down to the State Fair to see it yet," Laura said with a wide smile. "When I go though, I'll have a ribbon, a plaque and some money waiting for me."

During last year's school term at Clarkston Elementary School, a fourth grade class project centered around the theme of Michigan history, and every class member had to make a fort, Laura said.

While most kids in the class resorted to constructing forts out of toothpicks, Laura saw potential in a pile of scrap pine in her backyard and set out to make a sturdy, invincible fort.

Working hours after school and on weekends, Laura stood before her dad's jigsaw and cut out piece after piece of wood.

"It took about five days," she said. "I finished a few days early so I added a house and a barn and used sand for the platform and put a fence around it."

"My dad told me I would have to do it on my own because it was a class project," she said. "But when I won he said, 'See, all your hard work paid off.'"

Laura first entered her fort in the Oakland County 4-H Fair in early August and took second place.

"I was thrilled just to get a second," she said her eyes lighting up in recall. "The judge told me I could have gotten a champion overall award or an 'A' but I missed the deadline so they marked me down."

Then Laura entered her fort in the state fair and came up grand award champion overall in her craft division.

"I'm so excited," she smiled. "I just can't believe it."

Now that she's back in school and attending the fifth grade, she has plans to enter the State Fair's 1981 competition.

"But I don't have any ideas for my next project," she said secretly. "I'll have all winter to think about that."

Ironic hustle to hire teachers ends

NWOVEC welcomes new teachers

Scores of resumes later, they often find themselves still aspiring and still unemployed.

Clarkston school district's Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (NWOVEC) recently hired two teachers and, ironically, their search was as intense as that of any graduating college student looking for a job.

Daniel Manthei, NWOVEC's principal, is able to laugh about the search to find a diesel instructor and small engine mechanic instructor, but that's because the panic has ended.

"My former diesel mechanic walked into my office the day before spring vacation and resigned. He gave me a two-our search for a replacement and called all the colleges and universities which taught diesel."

Only two students had graduated who were qualified to teach and knew diesel and heavy mechanics, Manthei said, but both of them were employed, and in non-teaching positions.

"There was phone call after phone call and we were coming up in deadends. We just couldn't compete with the diesel industry," he said.

By calling the company that hired away a potential instructor, Manthei came up with a name.

Art Kuney, 39, will be making a daily trek to his new teaching job all the way from Anchorville.

It took two weeks to hunt Lee down and offer him the job, Manthei said, and it was a rigorous two weeks.

"At the end of summer, in early August, I found I had to replace one of our teachers," he said. "We contacted all the schools, universities, looking for someone who was voc-ed certified.

"We kept coming up with zero candidates, and finally ran upon Lee," he said.

Johnson holds a master's and bachelor's degree in vocational education from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

A year ago, he retired from teaching to run the family auto repair business, and recently decided to return to teaching.

"I really enjoy teaching — all the good and all the bad of it," Lee said. "I don't think I'll ever teach on the college level again.

"There is no personal relationship with students in college. I don't even remember all their names or faces.

"High school teaching is more personal and you really have time to do something, to function," he said.

Carmichaels tackle fitness together

Country Living

by Al Zawacky

At the Carmichael home, athletics and physical fitness are truly a family affair.

Tom Carmichael, his wife Diane and two sons, 14-year-old Tommy and 12-year-old Martin, can often be seen running outside their Brandon Township home.

The family also enjoys playing golf together, but the Carmichaels' biggest sport is badminton.

Tom, a holder of several nationwide rankings during his playing career, will narrow his eyes a bit and make "one thing clear" when starting a conversation about his favorite sport.

"There are two kinds of badminton," he says firmly. "There's the indoor game that the professionals play — and then there's something they play outside on the lawn that they call 'badminton.'"

"There's no comparison between the two. Badminton is a very demanding sport — much more so than tennis, and I say that categorically. Anybody who's played both sports wouldn't argue with me.

"A lot of people don't have the faintest idea of what badminton really is — even though they think they do."

Tom's participation in the sport is all the more remarkable in view of his open heart surgery two years ago.

"It was a congenital defect," Tom says, explaining that the operation involved sealing a hole in one of the heart's chambers.

"Tom is in such good shape, that the doctors overlooked the problem for years," says Diane. "They knew he had a murmur, but didn't realize how serious it was."

Tom shrugs off the significance of the operation today.

"My doctor was non-committal about my playing again," he says. "I run all the time, and it never bothers me. I don't worry about it."

He started playing badminton back in 1956, and recalls a time when his own knowledge of the game was a little lacking.

"I just happened to be playing at a gym in Plymouth one night, and somebody asked me if I'd like to learn how to play," Tom chuckles.

"I told him I already knew — and then he showed me that I didn't."

Some of the titles he has held down through the years are the No. 1-ranked mixed doubles champion in 1974 and 1975, the No. 2-ranked singles player in 1970 and president of the United States Badminton Association (USBA).

Competing in tournaments has taken him all over the world, from Europe to Japan to Mexico

The senior Carmichael has made a remarkable recovery from his open heart surgery two years ago. He runs three miles a day, says he feels great and continues to play badminton with the form that earned him national ranking and international competition during his long playing career.

to Indonesia.

Both Martin and Tommy are badminton standouts in their own right. Tommy is ranked No. 2 nationwide in his age group, and Martin is also ranked in the top 10.

Being that good can sometimes make it difficult to find some good competition. Beating school chums that don't have much expertise in the sport "isn't really too much fun," says Tommy.

He has friends who play competitive badminton, and when they come over the Carmichael boys can enjoy some good competition.

Finding a playing surface is never a problem. The Carmichael home has a custom-built badminton court in the basement.

The floor is made of wood and the court itself is substantially smaller than a tennis court — about four badminton courts could fit into one tennis court," says Tom.

In that small area, with shuttlescocks zooming at speeds over 100 miles per hour, an exciting, fast paced spectator sport is the result.

"Men's doubles is probably the best spectator event in the game," says Tom. "Singles are fun and mixed doubles are, too — but for sustained action, men's doubles are the best."

Diane grins when asked if she plays regularly.

"I play, but not very seriously," she says. "Let's just say I play socially, not competitively."

As the mother of a physically active family, Diane is concerned [More Country Living on page 26]

The Carmichael home is an indicator of the family's love for sports and recreation. Attached to the basement is a custom-built badminton court and gym, complete with basketball nets on the walls and official net and floor markings for badminton. Here, Tommy, Tom and Diane chat after playing a quick game.

"The average adult couldn't score a point on him," says a proud Tom Carmichael of his son Tom, pictured above. The younger Carmichael was recently ranked second nationwide in his age group.

Things to do

Activities outside the Independence-Clarkston-Springfield area

Busy moms and dads can enroll their children in the Creative Co-op Nursery.

There are openings for the 1980-81 school year in the classes for three and four-year-olds.

The pre-school oriented program includes music, motor skill development, arts and crafts and more.

All children must be three-years-old by December 1.

The nursery is located at 4301 Monroe Street, Waterford and more information for registration can be obtained by calling 673-1116 or 623-9666.

Sing your way into the Jackson Chorale. Two auditions are scheduled — Thursday, Sept. 4, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and Monday, Sept. 8, at 9 p.m.

The tryouts are to be held in the music room (A-2) at Pontiac

Northern High School, 1051 Arlene, Pontiac,

Auditions are open to men and women past high school age. Come prepared with a song.

The singing group is under the direction of Gilbert Jackson. Its primary function is the study and performance of fine choral literature.

For more information, call 651-3085 after 5 p.m.

Dealing with divorce can be difficult for adults and children alike. There is a way to help smooth the transition.

A series of six programs on divorce, free and open to the public, are scheduled from Sept. 8 to Oct. 20 by the Oakland County Child Advocacy and Family Service Project.

For more information, call 858-0043.

The big event in Holly this weekend is the Carry Nation Festival. An array of entertainment for the whole family is planned Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 6 and 7.

Carry is the woman who charged into saloons lining Battle Alley on Aug. 29, 1908.

Using her umbrella to drive home a point, she attacked the bars and demanded they stop serving liquor, because they were within the then dry county of Oakland.

Her one-woman protest is recreated during the Carry Nation Pageant presented both days at 4 p.m. at the old mill.

There will also be lots of games, food and drink, a pig wrestling contest, a display of antique fire and farm equipment and the list goes on and on.

A parade of 60 to 75 pieces of fire equipment will roll down Main Street on Saturday at noon and at 1 p.m. the festival parade will begin.

ed about the family's diet. She makes a point of buying whole wheat bread; natural peanut butter and eschews junk food and processed sugar.

"I'm a big believer in vitamin supplements. They (the rest of the family) kid me about it, but they take them willingly," she says.

"I practice 'sneaky' health food cooking, too — slipping health food into the things I cook," she grins.

Tom nods and chuckles. "Have you ever had wheat germ mixed into your peanut butter?" he asks with a laugh.

As the president of Mactaggart-Hoffman, a firm dealing in office supplies and copying machines, Tom's business responsibilities keep him pretty busy — but not too busy to continue promoting his favorite sport.

"The game is a lot bigger in other parts of the world than it is here," he says. "In the states, it used to be more popular during the '20s and '30s, but after the war it seemed to lose ground.

"I think badminton's image as a backyard game has hurt it — but again, people really don't understand what the game is really like."

Finding a recreation department program with a qualified instructor can be a problem, Tom says.

He suggest that persons interested in getting involved in the game would be best off contacting the USBA main office at 655-4502 or by writing the USBA at 6303 South Linden, Swartz Creek, MI 48475.

Quantz, Ernst wed in afternoon

Denise Marie Ernst and Robert Quantz Jr. were wed in an afternoon ceremony at Holy Rosary Catholic Church, Flint, with the Rev. Terry Villaire officiating.

For her Aug. 16 wedding, the bride wore a white gown with a Queen Anne lace neckline and a chapel-length white illusion veil.

She carried a cascade of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

Other attendants — Diane Ernst, Michelle Ernst, Linda Hopkins, Shelley Zizka, Michelle Buffalini, Kim Godlesky and Kim Kumrits — dressed in the same attire as the maid of honor.

Toni Martin served as flower girl and Adam Buckwheat was ring bearer.

Best man was Mort Ault and other groomsmen were Don Ernst, Chris Ernst, Dean Martin, Michael Currie, James Eckinger, Don Kumrits and Dave Ormsby.

Growing things

by Lyle Abel

Here's when to harvest apples, pears

In his latest letter which William Muller, district horticultural agent, mailed to the area's commercial apple growers, he advises the correct time to harvest apples.

Apple harvesting time is based on the date when the trees came into full bloom last spring. In Oakland County for the McIntosh apple variety May 14 was the date.

Muller's letter states that on Sept. 14, four months later, the McIntosh should be considered in prime condition to be picked for storage.

Home orchardists having only a few bushels to be used within a few weeks may wish to delay picking a little longer.

Muller's letter set the date for picking Jonathon as beginning Oct. 1 with Delicious a week later on the 7th. These three varieties were selected, because they are the ones most commonly commercially grown in this area.

Before the time when apple harvest was so precisely set by the specialists, we judged the ripeness of the fruit by such things as when the seeds turned to brown or black, or when the leaf-green color of the fruits began to take on a yellowish tinge.

A more accurate sign of maturity is when the apple releases easily from its branch as you twist it upward with your hand.

The proper time to harvest pears is more critical than for apples. Most pear varieties should be picked quite green, before any marked ripening occurs. This is about Labor Day in North Oakland.

If left on the tree until fully ripe, pears will be of poor quality since they develop stony or gritty cells and the flesh next to the core becomes soft and brown.

Pears are ready to pick when their color starts to change from dark green to more yellowish green, when they separate easily from their twigs as you give a slight upward twist and when the fruit becomes slightly mellow, less sour and starchy.

The immature pears will ripen beautifully in a few days if held at room temperature of 70°. If they are to be stored for later use, refrigerate them as soon as they are picked. At a temperature of 30 to 32 degrees with high humidity, about 90 percent; they can be kept for as long as 8 to 10 weeks.

When you are in the vicinity of the entrance to the Pine Knob complex off Sashabaw Road, pay attention to the colorful flowers lining the drive to the residence of the F.H. Turkettes located on the west side of the road opposite the golf course.

These showy blossoms belong to the Mallow family of plants, cousins of the Hibiscus, Rose of Sharon and numerous other colorful ornamentals. These mallows have been blooming faithfully late each summer for many years.

Mrs. Turkette said the Mallows were there when they moved there from Hazel Park three years ago to get away from the noise and confusion of that city. Good trade?

Well, anyhow Pine Knob's noise comes through in 4-4 time or thereabouts and the highway departments promise shorter periods of confusion when the new access off Sashabaw to Interstate 75 is completed.

Parvo virus threatens local dogs

Canine Parvo virus has become a painful reality to several Springfield and Independence township families whose dogs have been stricken with the virus and died.

It is ever so important that you recognize the symptoms of this disease, because early treatment is imperative.

The disease is extremely contagious, and according to Cornell University, the virus becomes airborne from fecal material of infected dogs that may or may not manifest the symptoms of the disease.

A person can walk in Detroit, never see a dog, and bring the virus home. That is why house dogs can contract the disease.

The symptoms are lethargy, followed by severe vomiting and or diarrhea (with or without blood), lowered white blood count and dehydration.

Treatment consists of massive antibiotics to counteract secondary infection, a fluid drip (intravenous or subcutaneous feeding) and a strong anti-diarrhea medication if indicated. The drip may be necessary for up to two weeks in severe cases.

Thirty to 40 percent of the dog population contract the disease and have no symptoms. Another 30 percent have symptoms and require no treatment.

Only about 3 percent of the cases treated are fatal, according to Cornell University where the disease has been under study for two years.

There is a vaccine available for dogs which is about 90 percent effective when administered in two doses, two to three weeks apart.

It is known as Parvovirus and is a feline (cat) distemper vaccine known as Pan Leukopenia.

It is recommended to give these shots in the series of two, then every year and before going to a show or putting your dog in a kennel.

Because of the outbreak in Michigan, the vaccine is expensive and hard to come by.

Some veterinarians are recommending measles vaccine, often used for distemper protection of puppies three to six weeks old. In one case, mink enteritis vaccine was recommended.

Cornell University has no statement on the effectiveness of the two alternatives.

Very young puppies (two to six weeks old) usually die of myocarditis (inflammation of the heart sac) before they show a symptom.

They can receive killed vaccine at four to six weeks. After eight to 12 weeks, usually they have a better chance of survival.

Older dogs, dogs debilitated with worms, or dogs subject to intestinal upset are the most vulnerable to the clutches of this disease.

Small dogs must receive very early care, because dehydration is so much more of a threat.

Household bleach is the only cleaning agent that has an effect on the virus. Use 1 cup to 1 gallon water to wash dishes or clean the area where the dog has been. Some recommend sponing pads of feet with solution after a dog show or strange encounter.

Please try to get your dog vaccinated and, while doing this, have him checked for internal parasites and any other health problem.

Keep your dog confined to your yard, and if your dog does contract the disease, warn your neighbors so they can take the proper precautions.

The virus was first recognized in Belgium and France in 1977 and in the United States, on a very limited basis, in the spring of 1978.

This year it has reached epidemic proportions in the pet population in southeastern Michigan and in many other population areas of North American in the last two months.

One local vet reported 15 cases in two weeks, another said he didn't have a count, but five deaths were recorded in one week. Others are concerned and urge precautions.

Presently, Cornell is working on a vaccine that will be longer-acting like canine distemper.

In the meantime, take every precaution.

Aladdin's stresses service for all customers "Service orientated" is the way Larry and Shirley Skrine describe "Aladdin's Specialty Merchandise," their business at 18½ S. Main in downtown Clarkston.

"We're a service type of business," says Larry. "We like talking to people and meeting their needs without any high-pressure salesmanship. We're soft-sell all the way."

The husband and wife team owned and operated their business for two years out of their home before moving to the present Clarkston location.

Among the items they sell are office supplies, gift items, novelties, cleaning supplies, business cards, stationery and advertising specialties.

"We're wholesalers," Larry explains. "We sell primarily to drug stores, party stores and other businesses which sell retail."

Fund raisers, charity organizations and church groups are also prime customers at Aladdin's, Shirley adds.

"People can buy these little gift items as give-aways or use them as fund raisers," she says.

"We have something for everyone," Larry adds, surveying the well-stocked shelves and thick catalogs. "No matter who walks in here, we'll have something they're interested in."

The Skrines are no strangers to the Clarkston area. They were both born in Drayton Plains but currently make their home in Independence Township. Their children attend school in the Clarkston school system.

"We view ourselves as providing this area with a needed service," Larry says. "People don't want to drive some long distance."

Doing business

Customers are finding the Skrines' personal, soft-sell approach another asset, Shirley notes.

"People don't like having a salesperson tell them one thing and then turn around and do another," she says. "That's certainly not the way we do business — we stand behind what we promise."

"And we don't want to give people the impression that we deal strictly with retailers. Everyone's welcome."

"Something for everyone" is the way Larry and Shirley Skrine describe the items they sell at Aladdin's Specialty Merchandise. Although they deal primarily with retailers and other bulk buyers, individual browsers are welcome at Aladdin's, says Shirley.

Coping with kids

Boys need strong fathers

To be a good mother or father requires many qualities. Not the least of which are love, interest, patience, tolerance and involvement.

Successful fathering has one other very important characteristic that seems to assume more and more importance as we learn more about the important job of raising children, especially boys.

Weak, passive fathers have been criticized as being partly or wholly responsible for a significant number of childhood and adolescent problems including delinquency and confused sexual identity.

But, the clinical impression gained by those who work closely with children and their parents is that while strong fathers may cause their share of problem children, it is preferable to be a strong father than a weak one.

Passivity on the father's part does little to assist in the normal development of a son.

A weak father is one who avoids taking his share of responsibility in home and family life, may be less involved in the life of a child, allows himself to be dominated by both his wife and his children (as well perhaps by others) and comes off more as a meek and submissive individual.

A strong father, on the other hand, does not have to be steeped in the ethos of super masculinity. He doesn't have to be a rigid, hard-headed, outdoors type who exalts in big game hunting and heavy drinking.

A strong father can be a man who is sure of who he is, content to accept himself for what he is, assertive enough to handle his life confidently and mature enough and sensitive enough to the needs of those around him to offer love, sympathy and encouragement.

He should be a decision-maker when that is needed and a "mother" when his children need him.

He can make rules and follow through with discipline, but can also be tolerant, kind and able to enjoy his children and the fun that is part of childhood.

If the strong father errs, it may be on the side of assertive action rather than on the side of permissiveness and excessive leniency.

But, such a father can admit his mistakes and accept criticism as well as listen to the viewpoints of those with whom he lives.

Labor Day parade

Carrying the Sesame Street theme through to completion, Creative Co-op Nursery sports Oscar the Grouch in the garbage can to the amusement of tot float riders.

Photos by Marilyn Trumper

Eyes held in rapt attention looking at the parade, this youngster holds his balloon tightly so as not to lose it in the crowd.

A view from a highest vantage point is always best, especially when the view is a smiling clown dressed and painted in all the colors of the rainbow.

The golden flash of brass and with all the pomp and circumstance, Clarkston's High School marching band walks in precision down Main Street. The band drew applause and ooh's from parade watchers lining the sidewalks.
