Lawsuit in limbo

Foster care application withdrawn;
second one to determine future

By Marilyn Trumper

A lawsuit filed by Lake Oakland Woods subdivision residents to block an adult foster care home is hanging in limbo following the withdrawal of an application for the home's state licensing.

The likelihood that a second application may be submitted by another non-profit organization will determine future legal tactics, said the resident's attorney Donald E. Schuster.

"I've been advised that another application is going to be submitted and that the defendant's attorney wants to continue on with the case," he said.

"I don't want to. We no longer have a cause of action against J. Jameson because they've withdrawn the application. If a second application is applied for, and we feel we have a cause of action against the applicant, we'll refile the suit," he said.

"It would be inappropriate for the courts to determine the issue because there is no longer any activity by the named defendant.

"It's not the court's business to have conjecture. Wednesday, when the show cause hearing resumes, I'll motion to dismiss this case. There has been no assignment or transfer of interest in my opinion and if the case is to continue, we'll refile against the new applicant, if there is one," he said.

In May, Gail Johnson, administrator for the proposed adult foster care home at 5127 Timber Ridge Trail, Independence Township, submitted an application for licensing.

On Sept. 26 she withdrew the application.

"I had a lot of financial problems and the lawsuit was indirectly a reason for the withdrawal," she said. "I did not know when the home would be opening so I withdrew the application and got a job where I could begin work immediately."

When residents learned of the proposed home, they filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court, charging that such a home would be in violation of their deed restrictions and the township's zoning ordinance.

Deed restrictions in the subdivision limit the use of homes to single family residential and define the term single family as those related by blood, marriage or legal adoption.

Judge Hilda Gage was scheduled to hear the case.

On Sept. 17, during a show cause hearing, the resident's sought a preliminary injunction to prevent the home from opening until the court had made a decision in the case.

The hearing was postponed by Judge Gage until Oct. 8 when the five residents slated to live in the home would be chosen, leaving no room for speculation on their disabilities, she said.

The home is planned to house five developmentally disabled adults between the ages of 20 and 40.

If a second adult foster care home application is submitted, Tom Miller, director of community services development for the Macomb Oakland Regional Center (MORC), said he's not anticipating the six-month wait.

"Almost all of the policy and procedure on the administration end of it has already been done — things like safety and fire inspections," he said.

"We're not talking about a different home, but we may be talking about a new applicant."

"In that case, the new applicant would have to be screened," he said.

According to Michael Swaganen, an adult foster care licensing consultant with the department of social services, the moral character of the applicant must be reviewed, along with his or her qualifications, programs available to the residents and other standards.

Harold and Norma Austrow grow pumpkins each year for Halloween purposes, but this year the size of one of the pumpkins was unusual. Harold is pictured here with a giant of a pumpkin that he figures measures 28 inches in diameter and weighs at least 50 pounds. He says Norma planted it and it just grew—there were no special fertilizers used. The Austrows live on Cranberry Lake Road in Independence Township. Two more great pumpkins are pictured on Page 3.

It must be all those five mile evening walks that have whipped Mel Vaara into shape.

For the past 24 years, Vaara, assistant superintendent of Clarkston schools, has been playing golf with Dom Mauti, principal of Clarkston High School.

And Vaara's always lost.

That is until last week.

Marking it as one of the best days in his life, Vaara beat Mauti by one stroke, with a final score of 47-48.

With Old Man Winter moving in on the Independence and Springfield area, more and more people are buying cords of wood and stocking up for blustery days.

For many, buying wood may be a first time thing this year, so make sure the cord you buy is a cord, and not less.

When stacked, the wood should measure 4-by-4-by-8.

And as added leverage, don't pay for the wood until you've checked to insure it's a full cord.

Crumbling curbs on Washington Street between Main and Holcomb streets in Clarkston shall continue to self-destruct indefinitely.

That word comes from the Oakland County Road Commission. Plans to replace or repair the curbs as needed were scrapped when budget cuts were forced due to declining gas and weight tax revenues.

Groundbreaking ceremonies held Sunday for the new $500 million General Motors plant in nearby Orion Township again bringing to mind questions about the impact on us.

"Our initial studies indicate to begin with, because we are transferring operations from existing facilities to new facilities only four miles away, we don't see a large influx of people or ancillary services that normally accompany a new plant," says Chuck Oyerly, regional manager for public relations for General Motors.

The plan is to open the Orion plant in the summer of '82 for production of '83 vehicles. The factories left behind in Pontiac are to be closed down, gutted and re-tooled, he says. Then, total staff numbers should increase.

"In time, yes there will be an increase in employment," Oyerly adds, "but it won't be immediate."

We're guessing the eventual result will be many more residents in Independence Township with fairly rapid advancement toward the 60,000 population projected in the township master plan when all areas are developed.

Springfield Township board members and citizens in the audience closed out last week's regular monthly board meeting with an item that wasn't on the agenda.

At the meeting's conclusion, everyone celebrated Trustee Glen Vermilye's birthday with coffee, Cool Whip and the "piece de resistance"—a pineapple upside-down cake.

"It's a tradition," Vermilye said.

"But," he added with mock disappointment, "nobody sang me 'Happy Birthday'."

Absentee ballots on hand

Registered voters who will be out of town Nov. 4 or who have another valid reason for not attending the polls may now cast absentee ballots for the national election.

Voters have several options on ways to request absentee voter application.

They can call the Independence Township Clerk's office at 625-5111; stop by township hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston; or request the ballot in writing.

The whole process can take place by mail, or votes can fill out the application and vote at the township hall from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Saturday, Nov. 1, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. will be the last day absentee ballots can be taken outside the township hall.

The last day to cast an absentee ballot is Monday, Nov. 3, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the township hall.

Voters can also request a ballot without filling out an application if a letter is written that includes the reason an absentee ballot is needed.

The signature of each person for whom a ballot is requested is required.

Acceptable reasons for requiring an absentee ballot include: That the voter will be out of town on election day the entire time the polls are open (from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.); he or she is physically unable to attend the polls without assistance; religious beliefs do not allow attending the polls; the voter is age 60 or older; and the voter is confined to jail awaiting arraignment or trial.

Meet candidates

Circle Monday, Oct. 20, on your calendar and plan now to attend the Independence Township Board Candidates' Night.

The opportunity to meet the 11 office-seekers, ask questions and hear responses is offered by the Business Association of Independence Township (BAIT), Clarkston Area Jaycees, Independence Township Lions Club and the Clarkston Business Association.

The approximately two-hour-long event is to begin at 8 p.m. at the Clarkston High School Little Theatre. Doors are to open at 7:30 p.m.

Township supervisor, clerk and treasurer candidates are to debate the same questions and those running for trustee positions are to make statements.

Questions from the audience are to follow.

Great pumpkins

"This year we got a couple of dandies," says Gene Kirvan about the family pumpkin patch results. Pictured here Gene and Maureen Kirvan's sons with their soon-to-be jack-o'-lanterns. Eleven-year-old Gene [left] says he hasn't chosen the style of face yet, but Michael, 9, says his is going to be scary. The giant pumpkins weigh over 100 pounds each, says Kirvan, adding that it was a real struggle bringing them up the hill from the garden at their home on Clark Road in Springfield Township.

Incumbent Christopher Rose

'I'm the best qualified candidate'

By Marilyn Trumper
Christopher Rose, Republic incumbent for clerk, sees drastic cuts in the future of Independence Township's recreational program, library services and the hours of operation at the township hall.

All would be the result of the township's loss of revenue and that, Rose said, is the most important issue facing the area today.

"There have been cutbacks in state aid, tied in with the state's loss of revenue," he said. "There is the possibility of Tisch or the Smith-Bullard amendments passing which will cause significant cuts in revenue.

"Then there is less money on the township level, because we've invested less because we haven't had that much to invest," he said.

"We have attempted to offer a certain level of service to the people," he said. "As our revenues decrease, the amount and quality of services is going to decrease.

"The township board has tried to keep costs and taxes low to provide these services, but we're no longer going to be able to do it," he said.

Rose also said he sees the problem of growth in the township as an important issue.

"This township has been and is continuing to grow at a fast pace. The question is: How are we going to control it, if we are going to control it? Are we going to encourage growth through the Economic Development Corporation?

"How are we going to plan our community so it grows the way we want it to?" he asked.

"We have the opportunity to grow the way we want to in the northern part of the township right now. We can plan before it's developed. I'm sure that Southfield or Troy would want to have the opportunity to do so again. We still have that opportunity," he said.

Rose, 29, is a lifetime resident of the township.

"That's one of the reasons I think I'm qualified for this job. That, and the fact that I have a college degree. I've worked the job four years, and I've taken several classes to expand my qualifications," he said.

"I've taken classes in governmental accounting, budgeting, cash management, elections provisions, employee supervision and labor relations," he said.

"Because of my qualifications, I feel I'm the best qualified candidate for the office. I've worked hard to represent the people of the township over the past four years.

"That, and the fact that it's important the township has a clerk who understands what's going on. This office is where a lot of the financing decisions are made," he said.

Challenger Karen Herron

'I'd like to see sensible planning...'

By Marilyn Trumper

Karen Herron, Democratic candidate for Independence Township Clerk, vehemently opposes what she terms haphazard planning, and cites that as the most important issue facing the area today.

"I become upset over the seemingly haphazard planning in this township," Herron, 41, said. "I don't want to see Clarkston turned into a village with an apartment on every street corner.

"It's important that we have good planning," she stressed. "We've become carried away with multiple zoning in this township."

The sewer ad valorem tax paid in Independence is another issue Herron speaks strongly about.

"I hate to see people pay for the tax and I'd like to see some assistance given. They shouldn't have to shell out thousands of dollars just because the sewers are coming through.

"There are special grants available and there must be some way to alleviate some of the tax," she said.

Herron is employed as a secretary by Jered Brown Brothers Inc. of Royal Oak, and said experience gained from her work qualifies her for the job of clerk.

"I've had 15 years experience with typing, shorthand and various office skills and I've worked as a legal secretary," she said.

Herron has definite ideas on why she should be elected to office.

"I've lived in Independence for 20 years and I'm interested in this township. I've worked hard for it," she said.

"I'd like to see sensible planning and intelligent growth — I could do a good job. I don't think there's anything that would ever come up in the clerk's job that I couldn't handle, or I wouldn't run for office," she said.

Several Clarkston High School students gather early Saturday morning to decorate for the Homecoming Dance. Crepe paper, balloons and flowers for the table were arranged by the group for the evening of songs and dancing. Dana MacCarty and Grant Anderson teamed up to hang balloons and streamers from the tall ceiling in the CHS cafeteria.

Clarkston schools' enrollment plunges

By Kathy Greenfield

Official fourth Friday tallies show Clarkston schools enrollment has dropped below last year's figures by some 200 pupils.

The count, taken Sept. 26, is 6,644.5. Last year, there were 6,813 pupils.

The result is likely to be an additional $200,000 loss in income to the schools than was projected earlier when pupil loss was predicted to be 76.

A cash equity of some $2.3 million, however, will save the schools from cutting programs and services more than planned before school began, said Milford Mason, superintendent of schools.

"I didn't expect it would be that heavy based on what's happened the past 10 years in the district," Mason said, talking about the 200 fewer pupils.

"I can understand, in view of the economic times," he added. "We planned for it fiscally and, in that sense, we're in good shape."

Some tracking of pupils who have left the district has been done, but there has been no pattern in reasons for leaving, other than a loss of some stability — in the past when people moved to the area, they frequently became permanent residents, Mason said.

Now, he said, many residents have been transferred by their companies to other locations less hard hit by the recession.

There's no question that the economics right now are playing quite a role," he said.

Mason predicts the increase in loss of funding for the schools of about $200,000 by using a figure of $1,695 in state aid for each pupil.

The state has yet to set the actual figure, and it will not be known for sure until the end of the year, he said.

He plans to recommend to the school board that the present $5 million deficit expected previously for the district during the 1980-81 school year be increased to $700,000, he said.

The district's budget for 1980-81 is over $13 million.

This year marks the first time in several years the district does not plan to have money left over after the school year ends.

"We built equity possibly for the time when things would start to dry up," Mason said. "We didn't know it would hit so hard so fast."

There are 3,278 pupils enrolled in the six elementary schools, 1,727 in the two junior highs and 1,600 high school students.

In addition, 39.5 pupils are enrolled in adult education classes, vocational school and in pre-school at Sashabaw Junior High. The half-pupil comes from part-time credit allowed for private school pupils enrolled at the vocational school.

There was one bit of good news in the tabulations, Mason said, and that was an indication of an increase in kindergarten enrollment.

"The lesser number of kindergartners has been the ongoing reason (for declining enrollments) for some time," he said. "Ironically, the dropping kindergarten has stabilized and the number of kindergartners is up this year from last."

After steady growth from 4,090 pupils in 1961 to 7,095 in 1973, school enrollment began its decline, averaging a drop of 48 pupils each year until the loss jumped to 208 fewer this year.

Oakland U schedules architecture class

Interested in architecture?

Want to learn about it, or want to learn more?

Oakland University in Rochester is making it easier for those living in the Independence and Springfield area.

Beginning in January, the university will be offering an extension class on Michigan Architecture in downtown Clarkston.

If you are interested in attending, and are not now a registered student at the university, the time has come to send in those transcripts and apply for admission.

For information on admission, phone the university at 377-3360.

The four-credit class can be used toward both graduates and undergraduate degrees.

The Michigan architecture class is scheduled to be held in Clarkston's Village Hall, 375 Depot, on Tuesday evenings at 7:30.

Couples planning to attend the class should contact Sue Basinger, a 625-0976, for information on the special "two for the price of one" deal.

As added incentive, the Clarkston Community Historical Society has purchased most of the books needed for the class, and they're available in the Independence Township Library.

Anger may be trend

Kitten little

by Kathy Greenfield

People are angry. Have you noticed there's more complaining, tempers are running shorter, and remarks are more cutting? We were reviewing some newspapers from 1930 last week and we detected a feeling of anger in the "comment" columns. Is there a similarity? 1930 was a year into the depression. 1980 is a year into the depression.

Letters to editor

SJHS deserves coverage

Dear Editor: I go to Sashabaw Junior High School and am in the 8th grade. What I would like to know is why you have given all the publicity between Clarkston and Sashabaw to Clarkston?

Leading up to that economic disaster there had been several years of high living, fast money, and loosening of morals. Sound familiar for this time around? We're curious if there is a mental and physical point to which we are stretched by going without, and the only way we can cope is to react in anger. We were too young in 1930, publicity going to Clarkston Junior High. All we want people to know is that we are just as good as the other school. In the windows of some gift shops of the town of Clarkston are the colors of green and white or Go Clarkston Junior High. In the sports page, it's all about Clarkston Junior High, or but we do recall a few years later. There was a "togetherness" feeling. Everyone was poor. Everyone made do, and got so they could smile at their poverty. If there is a similarity between 1930 and 1980, perhaps the trend experienced after the shock then, will be repeated. Let's hope so. This snipiness is making us mad. JAS

He seeks former school chums

Dear Editor: I have many fond memories of the years between 1935 and 1941 at the Andersonville School and would enjoy hearing from any schoolmates of that period. I would also like to hear from anyone attending previous to or following that time. I have been in touch with Glenn Sommers and Claude Trim, two of the best known alums.

I would like to talk to more old friends. I would also like to say it would be a deserving honor and tribute for the township library to be named for Jenny Scott, a dedicated teacher and fine lady who made a great impression on me, and I am sure on many more.

Jim's jottings

Soft news essential

by Jim Sherman

Elizabeth Yamashita, PhD is the new boss of the school of Journalism at Michigan State University.

That's the way she put it when we had lunch last week. "I'm boss," she said. You get the idea you better believe her or she'll punch you out.

Mrs. Yamashita came to MSU from Northwestern University, surely one of the top 2 or 3 colleges in the United States for teaching journalism.

She's going to change the course journalism has taken at State. You can bet on it.

For many years Michigan State and Wayne State were THE source for supplying writers for weekly newspapers. State grads run weekly newspapers all over the state. Many are on dailies, like Jim Fitzgerald.

Then somewhere along the line top management changed, the goal was switched from teaching writing for the 'people', to turning out "journalists" in the poorest meaning of the word.

The University has this philosophy. The New York Times or Washington Post or nothing. From our viewpoint, it became nothing. One rather large daily newspaper in Michigan refused to accept applications from U of M grads a few years ago. No common sense, or too "good".

Some of our weekly publishers turned to Central Michigan for recruits. CMU Life, the campus newspaper, was a good training ground, both for writers and advertising salesmen. We quit calling MSU.

Now comes a moving force. Mrs. Yamashita makes no bones about what her course is. Besides returning the school to the practical as far as writers are concerned, she will bring magazines into the curriculum, and very likely, cable tv.

She's done her homework. Newspapers are becoming more like magazines than magazines. As you can see by the magazine racks in your friendly drug store, magazines are switching from 'variety' to specialization.

Witness what Time, Inc. is doing. There are now new magazines with names taken from the sections formerly featured as part of Time, the Weekly News Magazine.

Mrs. Yamashita says, "after you get past the first 10 pages of the Chicago Tribune Sunday paper, it's all magazine."

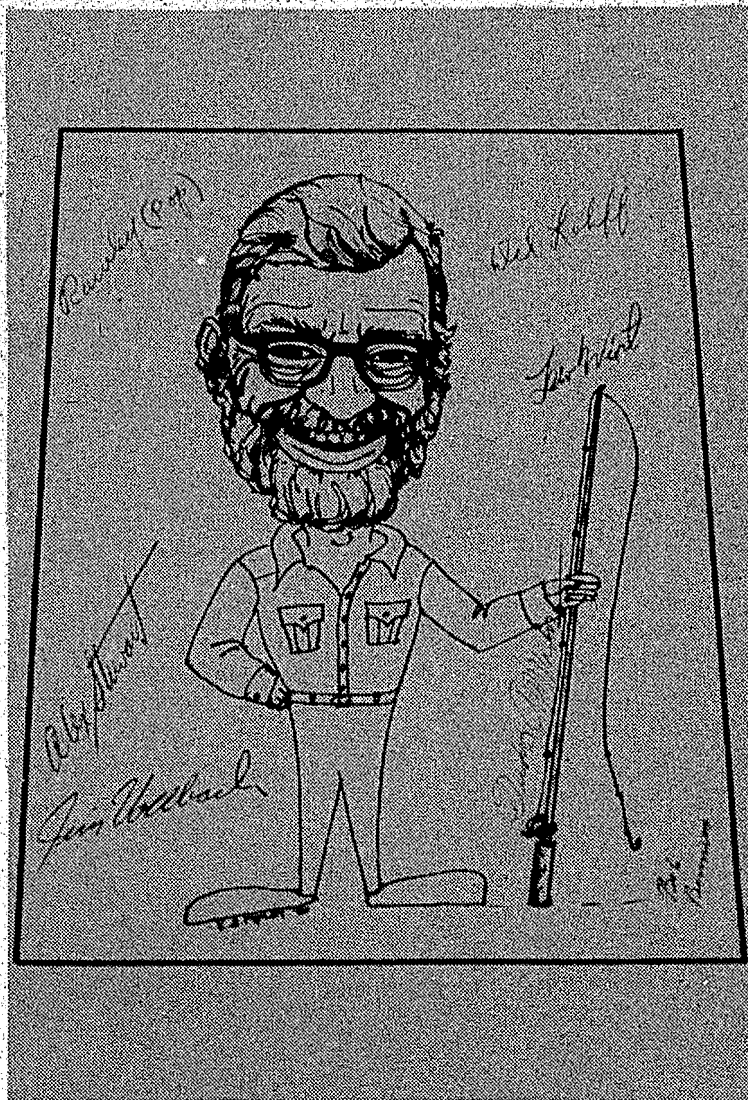

Even hard-news conscious New York Times is creeping into soft, human interest news-features.

We welcome Mrs. Yamashita with open arms. Go, lady. We need your thinking.

Keith Hallman Roast

Friends show fondness with string of one-line zingers

Keith Hallman was in the hot seat and his friends didn't let him off until after he had been thoroughly roasted with a touch of affection. The event was the Keith Hallman Roast hosted by the Independence Township Republican Club Thursday evening. About 100 people attended the affair at Spring Lake Country Club. Roastmaster was Lew Wint. Hallman served three terms on the Clarkston Village Council as a trustee and four and one-half years as president, retiring in 1978. He is the former owner of Hallman's Apothecary. Among those dropping one-line zingers on Hallman during the roast was the Rev. Alex Stewart. He called Hallman old, then softened the blow by saying, "C.S. Lewis said affixing the adjective old...is a sign of affection." The laughs began anew when Stewart added, "This is true in Keith's case, partially." Other roasters put in their jibes as well. Neil Sage served on the village council when Hallman was president. "I tried to put together a few things from when we were on the council together and it's really hard to remember anything," he joked. Tudor ApMadoc, a territorial sales representative for a drug manufacturer, remembered canoeing trips. One anecdote fondly recalled the time Hallman whipped up breakfast for the crew—the fresh mushrooms turned the scrambled eggs an unappetizing green. Hallman Apothecary's new owner Bob Bennett remarked that "Keith is the only guy I know that retired before his father," referring to the fact that the elder Hallman still works at the store. Del Lohff, an owner of Kieft Engineering, put down Hallman for alleged comments during his college days. "The hardest part about studying pharmacy in college was getting the small bottles in the typewriter to get the printing on the label," he said. Hallman's father, Rawley, was a crowd-pleaser. He began his portion of the roast with, "It isn't very often probably that a father roasts his own son, but it's not the first time I've roasted him." Builder Jim Vollbach remembered vacations shared while casting aspersions on Hallman's ability to handle sailboats. "I'm driving, Keith's the navigator. We went over this bridge three times—I'm not kidding, we couldn't get off the bridge. We were ready to buy property and settle down in Ashland, Ky.," he laughed. Hallman wrapped up the evening by dropping some barbs on his friends in retaliation. But then he softened. "I see a lot of faces I did not expect to see here," he said. "It's a nice feeling." Hallman is pictured above before the roast began. At the end, there was a gift. At right is the caricature of Hallman, signed by all the roasters, which was drawn by Clarkston High School graduate Karla Ripley of Amy Drive who is in her freshman year at Michigan State University.

Kindness isn't costly

by Jim Fitzgerald

Recently I wrote about P.J. Dragan, the five-year-old boy who has leukemia and his own personal, but mysterious, magic dragon. Friends of his father, a Detroit policeman, were planning a benefit party at the Checker Bar & Grill to raise money to send P.J. to Disney World. Since then, several readers have asked if P.J.'s mystery dragon showed up at the party, and if P.J. made it to Disney World. This is an update.

The Dragon slipped into the Checker unnoticed, a few days after the party, and left behind a card and gift for P.J. This is the way he has operated ever since it was discovered, a year ago, that P.J. has leukemia. The dragon has given P.J. dozens of presents, drawings and poems, sending them by mail or leaving them on P.J.'s porch. He also phones P.J. and talks to him in dragon language.

P.J. and his family have no idea who the magic dragon is. They don't really want to know. The mystery and anticipation is fun and have helped them make the best of some rough times. P.J.

is always looking forward to whatever his dragon will do next, and the dragon never lets him down.

For a while, P.J.'s disease was in remission. But things turned bad last March, and doctors told his parents to "play games with him—enjoy him while you still have him."

P.J. always wanted to go to Disney World to see "Pete's Dragon," his dad, Paul Dragan, already hurting from medical bills, said he'd borrow the money for the trip. Some friends had a better idea, and the result was the benefit party at the Checker.

It was a whooping success! I was amazed at the number of people who came downtown on a Sunday afternoon for P.J., or mailed donations. Several of them said they'd been turned on by the example of the mysterious magic dragon. P.J. and his parents and nine-year-old sister spent a week at Disney World. Everyone had a great time; P.J. even got his picture in the Orlando newspaper.

The magic dragon has asked P.J.'s parents to do only one thing in return for his kindness. Through an intermediary, he wants to be notified as soon as doctors say P.J. has run out of time. It is interesting to speculate on why the dragon is so precise about wanting this sad news relayed to him so quickly. It would surely reach him eventually, anyway. Does he plan some last-second surprise? Or does he simply want to know exactly when to pray, or weep, for a little boy gone much too soon?

Maybe those questions will never have to be answered, a possibility which brings us to the good news: P.J.'s leukemia has gone back into remission. When his father told me about it last week, he asked me to write how grateful the Dragan family is to all the people who followed the magic dragon's lead and helped make things nicer for P.J.

One of the many people deserving the Dragans' thanks is June Kureth of Milan. She probably won't like me dragging her into this column, but I need her to say something for me. A cynical, wise-guy columnist doesn't know the right words to say there should be more magic dragons. June

Kureth said it like this:

"Wouldn't it be a wonderful legacy for P.J. to leave behind if his becomes the first in a long line of magic dragons? Does not each one of us know someone who needs a magic dragon? It could be an elderly person who feels no one cares; it could be another child; it could be a young mother left alone with children to care for. All of us know of someone, and there is no feeling in the world to match the feeling that comes from having someone care about you."

"The beautiful thing about caring is that it fits everyone's pocketbook. A homemade card once a week, a cheery phone call, a brunch of wildflowers, an 'I love you' could change a person's outlook and bring meaning to one's life...not to mention the mystery of who is doing this?"

June Kureth's idea is that you, too, can make someone as happy as P.J.'s magic dragon makes him. That's a really corny idea, and I love it.

Talking about . . .

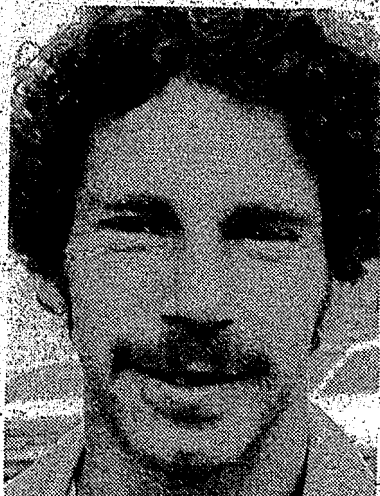

On Main Street, Clarkston, we asked this week's question: In the first ballot test of voter sentiment on nuclear power, Maine residents, in a 3-2 margin, defeated a proposed ban on nuclear power in the state. What's your opinion?

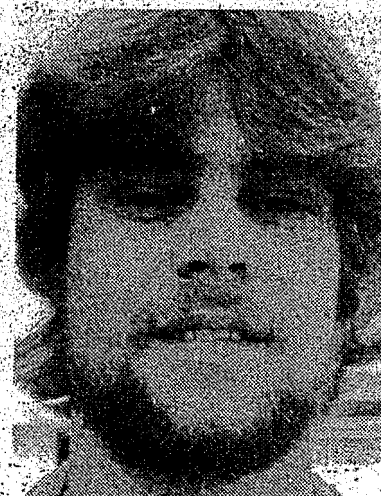

"I think it's a good alternative to the energy crisis. But first it must be modified to eliminate the dangers to the people around the plants."—Linda Bigger, Hubbard Hills Drive, Independence Township, housewife.

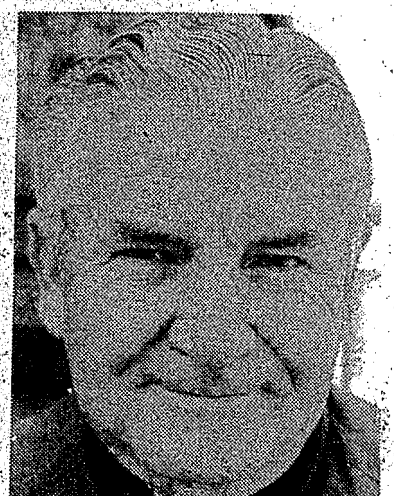

"I think they should ban it—it's too dangerous. All these nuclear plants are springing leaks and having accidents too often."—Evelyn Lawson, Groveland Township, housewife.

"Nuclear energy is all right as long as it is regulated. We need some kind of solution to the energy crisis."—Ron Stottlemeyer, Brandon Township, carpenter.

"Nuclear power is pretty wild. If they figure out how to keep it safe, I think it would be alright. But the way things are going with nuclear power plants now I just don't know."—Scott Kosaski, Brandon Township, student.

"I'm happy that the ban was voted down. I think nuclear power is here to stay."—Gene Bagans, Deer Ridge Drive, Independence Township, semi-retired.

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW . . .!

Passing combo slays Dragons

Wolves notch 4th shutout; face Kettering Friday

By Al Zawacky

Apparently, it'll take more than rain, snow, cold and the Lake Orion defense to derail the deadly passing tandem of Brad Sheldon and Kevin Krause.

That much was settled at the Clarkston High School football field Friday evening, as a homecoming crowd of hundreds of stout-hearted Wolves fans braved the winter-like weather to witness Clarkston's fifth straight victory, a 21-0 snuffing of the Lake Orion Dragons.

The Sheldon-Krause connection never looked better than it did against the hapless Dragons, as Sheldon hit on five of six aerials to his tight end with the golden hands, racking up 94 yards and two touchdowns.

"Kevin's got a pretty good pair of hands," agreed CHS head coach Walt Wyniemko. "The cold didn't seem to affect him."

"Actually, we didn't think it was going to be this cold — it had been pretty warm all week. The weather really changed abruptly."

Despite his team's fifth win without a defeat — including a perfect 3-0 and first place standing in the Greater Oakland Activities League — Wyniemko seemed more prone to a sigh of relief than a post-game victory smile.

Playing a shaky first half, the Wolves surrendered a touchdown that was called back on a clipping penalty and had to feel fortunate to trot off the field at halftime with the score knotted at 0-0.

"We respect them (Lake Orion)," Wyniemko said. "They played a good first half against us."

Clarkston broke the scoreless deadlock in the third quarter, getting the ball deep in Lake Orion territory when the Dragons botched a punt attempt.

That set the stage for a 28-yard passing play from — who else — Sheldon to Krause good for the first six-pointer of the night.

The PAT kick failed, but the Wolves increased their lead to 12-0 and 31-yard run by Karl Fritzinger. Mark Hughes carried into the Dragon end zone on the following play for the two-point conversion, and Clarkston led 14-0.

Sheldon and Krause combined again in the final quarter on a 7-yard play for the hometowners' final TD. Ron Feneley kicked the extra point.

"I think the weather hurt a bad team more than a good team," Lake Orion head coach Doug Holcomb observed on his way to the team bus. "Good teams have a way of rising above the weather, bad teams don't."

"And Clarkston has got one heck of a football team."

Fritzinger was the Wolves' leading ground gainer, rushing for 115 yards on 16 carries. Teammate Joe Partlo had 73 yards on five carries.

Out in front of another sterling performance by the Clarkston defense — a stone wall that has allowed just seven points in five games while blanking the opposition four times — were leading tacklers Rich Lamphere and Steve Alexander.

Clarkston assistant coach

Benefiting from some blocking, senior running back Mark Hughes [24] cuts toward the sideline and turns upfield in the second half of the Wolves 21-0 win over Lake Orion Friday.

Kurt Richardson added that the entire defensive secondary — co-captain Mike Schumborg, Craig Pilditch, who had two interceptions, Lamphere and Greg Thomas — played "super."

"We (the secondary) took a lot of criticism last year," Richardson noted. "Of course, we weren't getting the rush either, which didn't help."

"But from day one these kids have been working and working — and it's paying off."

And last year's critics are this year's believers.

Clarkston's next game will be at home this Friday against league rival Waterford Kettering. A victory would clinch at least a share of the 1980 GOAL championship.

The Point After

by Al Zawacky

Like Rome, Wolves weren't built in a day

"We're hopeful...we should be a strong contender in the GOAL next year."

"But if we don't begin our weight program, if we don't get off our butts and work on our conditioning, if we do nothing between now and next March — well, it's going to be very difficult to field a competitive football team."

—CHS head football coach
Walt Wyniemko, Nov. 1979

Their 5-0 record stands as proof: The Wolves spent very little time on their butts.

"That's the big thing," Wyniemko says nowadays when asked about his off-season conditioning program, and how it relates to his team's recent success.

"Our off season is making a big difference this year. It's a very important part of our program."

ON A GIVEN afternoon last winter, you could see the seeds of the 1980 season being sown. It would be snowing outside from thick, gray clouds. Inside in the CHS gymnasium, the center of attention would be the Clarkston basketball team, going through an afternoon practice.

Outside the gym — in the dimly lit corridor near the school's trophy case — would be Wyniemko and his football players, working on their weight lifting in relative obscurity.

There was determination in the eyes of these proud young men, and now it's paying dividends. Now they are in the spotlight.

"THERE WAS A great deal of sacrifice on the part of the players," Wyniemko recalls. "We had the early birds who really gave a lot of their time, and then later we had baseball players who would come back from a game to work on their weight lifting, running and conditioning."

"We knew we had talent, but the question was how well we'd use it. You have to work to develop the ability that God has given you."

At every opportunity, the coach will praise the work of assistants Kurt Richardson, George Porritt and Dave Martin as being integral to the Wolves' success as well.

"Their work is a continuation of the work done by last year's staff (Richardson, Dave Smith, Darrell Marsh and D. J. Campe)," Wyniemko says. "We have the benefit of a very knowledgeable, hard-working staff."

In sports, as in life, nothing worth achieving is achieved without hard work. This team did not win its first five games by just lining up at the athletic storage room for their equipment at the start of the season.

THE JURY IS still out on a lot of things this year — an undefeated record and a league title are by no means assured.

But one thing is certain: The Wolves will deserve all that they achieve, and all the praise and attention it draws. They've worked for it.

They've earned it.

JV coach likely replacement

Mahrle quits CHS varsity softball post

By Al Zawacky

For the last 10 years, Coach Kathy Mahrle and her Clarkston High School varsity softball team have been synonymous with success.

Kathy Mahrle built a strong softball program at CHS.

During that period, studded with league championships, not once did the team finish below the .500 mark.

But next April, when the CHS team goes to bat for the first time in the 1981 season, Kathy Mahrle will be missing from her usual spot in the third base coach's box.

She recently sent a letter to CHS Athletic Director Paul Tungate expressing the wish to resign from her long-held post.

"I've just gotten a little tired of it," Mahrle said, explaining her decision. "I've been coaching softball 10 years, and I've been in coaching 11 years altogether. (She had previously coached girls' JV basketball.)

"I'm married now and I've got other interests — there aren't any hard feelings anywhere. I just felt I had to get away from it for awhile."

Tungate highly praised the departing coach and the strong softball program that stands as her legacy.

"She's a very good coach," Tungate said. "Kathy was dedicated, knew the game and the girls responded to her well."

In her letter of resignation, Mahrle recommended that CHS junior varsity softball coach Karla Teare be named to the open varsity job — an opinion that Tungate shares.

"I go along with her (Mahrle) on that," Tungate said. "We've contacted Karla and are waiting for response."

Teare said she is seriously considering taking the post.

"It's very likely," she said. "I haven't talked to Paul (Tungate) about all of the details, but once I do I'm pretty sure I'll take the job."

Last season, Teare's first as JV softball coach at Clarkston High, her team never lost a game en route to a league championship.

"Karla is very enthusiastic and a good coach," Mahrle added. "That was another factor in my decision — I know there's somebody available to take over and do a good job. Our softball program is still important to me."

Wolves in Brief

What a difference a year makes.

Five games into the 1979 season the Wolves were 1-4 and had surrendered an embarrassing 149 points while scoring just 50. This season Clarkston has chalked up 108 points while allowing a grand total of seven en route to a 5-0 record.

Counting Friday's 21-0 win over Lake Orion, the Wolves' defense hasn't been scored on for a single point in 15 straight quarters. The lone enemy touchdown of the season occurred in the first quarter of the second game at Clintondale.

By season's end, the Clintondale Dragons' proudest accomplishment may be that they put seven points on the board against Clarkston.

Running back Karl Fritzinger, who spends his Friday evenings baffling an array of Dragons, Falcons, Lakers, etc., admitted it was a little tough to get up for Friday's homecoming contest against winless Lake Orion.

A mental lapse was apparent when Clarkston played flat for two quarters before taking charge in the third.

"You know you can't look past anybody, but sometimes it's hard not to," said Fritzinger, who rushed for a team-leading 115 yards on 16 carries. They (Lake Orion) hadn't won a game. (Head Coach Walt Wyniemko) stresses to us that we've got to take them one at a time.

Better than 1,000 people were in attendance at Friday night's game, no small potatoes in view of the rain, snow and cold temperatures that prevailed at the Clarkston High School football field.

Meanwhile, down the road at Waterford, Kettering, the Milford-Kettering contest drew only a handful.

"There wasn't anybody there," said Clarkston JV Coach Gordie Richardson, who was on a scouting mission.

Only minutes after victory number five, the Wolves brain trust of Head Coach Walt Wyniemko and assistants were turning their attention to opponent number six: The Kettering Captains.

The Captains have fashioned a 3-2 overall record this season, including a 2-1 league mark. Kettering beat Lake Orion 25-6, Waterford Mott 17-0, and Milford 26-24 while losing to Walled Lake Western 16-13 and West Bloomfield in overtime 19-13.

"They're tough," said Clarkston's laconic head coach.

In 1979, the Wolves played well against the Captains, leading most of the way before bowing in the final minutes 12-7 in Waterford.

'Big play' grabs 4th JV victory

By Al Zawacky

During last week's practice sessions, Coach Gordie Richardson and his Clarkston High School JV football team were working on their "big play."

"We figured we had something when our best kids (on defense) couldn't stop it," Richardson said of the trap play that he and his players had practiced all week.

Time and time again, Richardson's offense ran the play for big gains against their teammates playing defense.

Lake Orion couldn't stop the trap, either.

Scoring all their points in the first half, the Wolves posted the fourth victory of the season by burying the Lake Orion Dragons Thursday in Lake Orion, 35-12.

Running back Bruce Dale was the big benefactor of the trap play, rushing for an incredible 230 yards in only 11 carries, including three of Clarkston's five touchdowns.

"Our offensive line did a great job blocking on that play," Richardson noted.

The Wolves TDs were scored by quarterback Kevin Brown on a 2-yard sneak; Dale on a 39-yard run; Brian Davies on a 3-yard run; Dale on a 22-yard run and Dale on a 66-yard run.

Willie Williams successfully converted on all five extra point attempts, but it wasn't just the PATs that earned him some special praise from his coach.

"We got a great game out of Williams," Richardson said. "Not only was he perfect on the extra points, but he was a crazy man on kick-off returns. He made two unassisted tackles on returns that he kicked."

The victory puts the Wolves at 4-1 overall and 3-0 in Greater Oakland Activities League competition.

Odds

are...

KETTERING at CLARKSTON (Oct. 10): The Captains of Waterford Kettering pose a big hurdle to the Wolves' GOAL title hopes.

There's nothing cheap about any aspect of the Captains' game. They can run—halfback Andy Hepburn is a constant breakaway threat. They can pass—with quarterback Rich Miller at the helm, the Captains will have the best air attack the Wolves have faced to date.

And they can block—Kettering is reported to have a 260-pound and a 230-pound lineman. They probably feed these guys raw hamburger during halftime.

Captain Coach Mel Patterson was all smiles when he heard the score of the West Bloomfield-Clarkston clash three weeks ago. "Now we can control our own destiny," he was quoted as saying.

Obviously, the implication behind that comment is that Kettering plans on stomping the Wolves.

Can they? Yes. But will they? Don't bet your backfield on it. CLARKSTON by TWO.

WEST BLOOMFIELD at MILFORD: Which are the real Milford Redskins?

The team that plays solid defense and pulls out victories over Walled Lake Central and Lake Orion? Or the team that surrenders 80 points (80, count 'em, points) in losing to Rochester and Waterford Township?

If this is the night the Redskins play Dr. Jekyll, an upset could occur. But if it's back to Mr. Hyde, West Bloomfield will win in a walk. WEST BLOOMFIELD by 12.

LAKE ORION at ROCHESTER: In case somebody cares, the Dragons are playing the Falcons this week. ROCHESTER by 10.

Cagers sharp in 54-45 win over Milford

By Al Zawacky

The Clarkston High School varsity girls' basketball team is "back in the hunt again."

So says Coach Dave McDonald, savoring a 54-45 win over league rival Milford in the CHS gym Thursday evening.

"We've been waiting a couple years for this — to beat somebody good," McDonald said, citing Milford's 6-1 record going into Thursday's game.

"The important thing is that we really looked better than them — it wasn't just a case of our being lucky one night. It should help our girls to believe in themselves."

The Wolves started slow against Milford, allowing the Redskins to build up an imposing first-quarter lead of 11-4 before taking control.

By halftime Clarkston had pulled out in front, and although Milford tied the game with just three minutes remaining, the Wolves held on to post the victory.

Senior Lisa Forsyth was a

Clarkston standout, scoring a team-high 24 points, pulling down 10 rebounds and blocking five enemy shots. Teammate Jane Acton had nine points and Lynn McCormick chipped in with eight.

Earlier in the week, the Wolves hosted Bloomfield Hills Lahser in a non-league battle and were thrashed 64-32.

Forsyth was Clarkston's leading scorer with 13 points, while Acton notched nine points for the Wolves.

"Lahser was undefeated — they had to be the best team we've faced," McDonald said. "It was a good game to get behind us."

"This is really the toughest part of our season. I really wasn't sure if we'd be above .500 at this point, so naturally I'm pleased to see that we are."

As a result of last week's action, Clarkston's overall record is 4-3 and Greater Oakland Activities League mark is 2-1.

Wolverines keep rolling on

By Al Zawacky

Five wins, zero defeats. An offense that has chalked up 128 points while the opposition managed a scant 16.

No matter how you juggle the stats, Coach John Craven and his Wolverines are putting together a pretty impressive football season at Clarkston Junior High these days.

Rochester Reuther was the latest opponent to feel the Wolverines' wrath, as Craven's grid-ders rolled to an 18-8 victory at the Clarkston High School football field last Wednesday.

"I'm very happy with our effort," Craven said, noting that Reuther was undefeated going into the contest. "We came to play ball."

Clarkston took an early 6-0 lead in the first quarter, marching down the field to score on their first possession. Rob Mortimore finished off the drive with a 4-yard run into the Reuther end zone.

The two-point conversion try failed, and the Wolverines appeared to be in trouble when Reuther scored on an interception and picked up the PAT to take an 8-6 lead.

But before the first half ended, Clarkston was again in control.

Jeff Dufour made sure of that, scoring first on a reverse play good for 55 yards, and then snaring a halfback pass from teammate Tim Parke on a 40-yard play that netted another Wolverine TD.

Both PAT attempts fell short, but the Clarkston defense made the 18-8 lead hold up. Not once in the entire game, aside from the touchdown on the interception, did Reuther cross the mid-field stripe and drive into Wolverine territory.

"Our defense hasn't been scored on all year," Craven pointed out. "The 16 points we've given up were both on interceptions."

Mortimore, Bill Hudler and Kurt Bottorff were three Clarkston defensive standouts, Craven added.

Day games dooming Cougars

By Al Zawacky

Instead of being known as the "Cougars," perhaps the Sashabaw Junior High football team should choose some nocturnal creature as its mascot.

Say, the "Sashabaw Junior High Owls."

Reason being that while the team has performed well in its night games this season, day games and sunshine have proven to be the Cougars' downfall.

"I don't know what it is," said SJH Coach Chris Krueger after his team dropped a 14-0 home matinee to Rochester Van Hoosen.

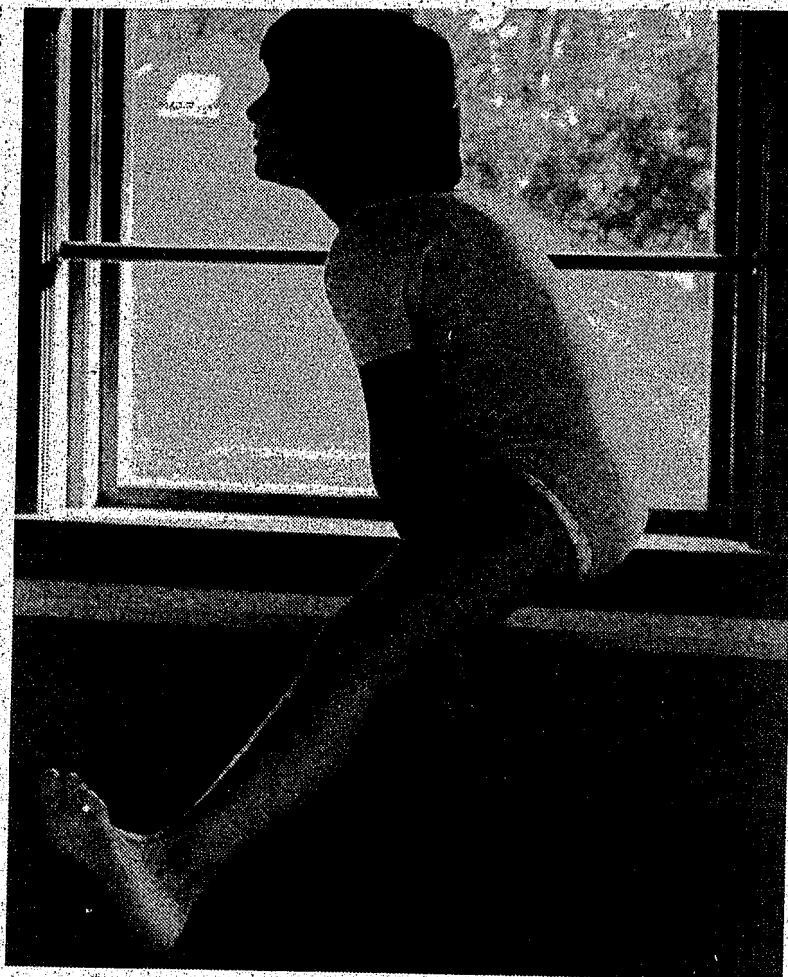

"We prepare the same way we do for the night games, but we just don't seem to play as well."

Van Hoosen scored touchdowns in the second and fourth quarters to earn the victory. Both TDs were the result of long drives climaxed by a short plunge into the Cougar end zone.

Sashabaw's cause wasn't helped any when key players Mark Cummings and Don Fischer were knocked out of the game with injuries in the first half.

Krueger added that the play of Dave Newblatt and SJH's second defense unit were two of the game's bright spots.

Beam routine

Just three weeks into Independence Township's Recreation Department's gymnastic classes, arm and leg muscles remain stubborn and still don't react the way the mind tells them to. Kelly Neadow of Whipple Lake Road, Independence Township, strains and stretches to perfect this routine while on the cross beam.

Springfield sets date for foster care hearing

The Springfield Township Board has set a public hearing date for citizen views on a proposed foster care home.

The public hearing is to be held Oct. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Township Hall, 650 Broadway, Springfield Township.

"The foster care facility would be located on Eaton Road near Broadway — not far from the Township Hall," said Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

"The applicant is in the nursing home business, so the facility would be used to house senior citizens," he added.

Walls said that the township board probably would not take any action on the proposed facility until its regular monthly meeting Nov. 5.

"I really can't see any valid objection we can raise to granting the permit," he said, noting that state law does not give a municipality a choice as long as the facility is at least 1,500 feet away from the nearest similar facility.

"There certainly isn't any other foster care home within 1,500 feet of this proposed unit," Walls said.

Sheriff's log

Friday, thieves stole 220 feet of underground cable from the shoulder of Almond Lane, Independence Township.

The cable was left there by Michigan Bell Telephone employees, and police theorize it was taken for its copper content.

Cost to replace the cable is estimated at $250, according to police reports.

Friday, vandals broke into a home under construction on Scott Road, Springfield Township, and punctured $50 worth of insulation, according to police reports.

Friday, vandals drove a truck across the front lawn of a home on Bigelow Road, Independence Township, causing $100 worth of damages, according to police reports.

An aluminum boat that was stolen in June was recovered Friday on the banks of Clarkston's Mill Pond, according to police reports.

Saturday, vandals broke the front window of The Clothes Tree, 5926 M-15, Independence Township.

Cost to repair damages is estimated at $50, according to police reports.

Saturday, thieves broke into a garage on Waterford Hill Terrace, Independence Township, and took a 10-speed bicycle with an estimated value of $210, according to police reports.

Saturday, a patron of Howe's Lanes, 6697 Dixie Highway, Independence Township, washed his hands in the men's room, and left two rings on the sink.

The rings, valued at $1,800 and $1,000 were stolen, according to police reports.

Sunday, thieves broke into a garage on Walter Road, Independence Township, and took a tool chest valued at $159 and assorted tools valued at $408, according to police reports.

Sunday, thieves siphoned $30 worth of gasoline from cars parked in the driveway of a home on Surrey Lane, Clarkston, according to police reports.

Sunday, a woman driving north on I-75, passed the Holcomb Road overpass in Independence Township, when a vandal dropped a cola bottle off the overpass, damaging the hood and windshield of her car.

Cost to repair the damages is estimated at $300, according to police reports.

Sunday, someone riding in a hay wagon traveling down Oakhill Road, Independence Township, threw a rock and dented the hood of a passing car, according to police reports.

Cost to repair the damages is not available.

Sunday, a car parked in the lot of Howe's Lanes, 6697 Dixie Highway, Independence Township, had two tires slashed, according to police reports.

Sunday a customer of the Payless Gasoline Station, 6549 Dixie Highway, Independence Township, pumped $10.18 worth of gasoline and drove off without paying, according to police reports.

Sunday, the ticket booth and concession stand at Clarkston High School, 6595 Middle Lake, were broken into and set on fire, according to police reports.

Cost to repair the damages is not available.

Independence Township 1980 taxes tabulated

It's all been tabulated and totaled — the figures are in for Independence Township's property owners. 1980 tax rate calculated with the rollback factor.

All the figures that is, excluding the county.

"We're still waiting to get the figures from the county," said David Sherill, head of the assessing department. "They should come in any day now."

The taxes are higher this year for several reasons.

Voters recently approved additional millages for three projects. The first is .3 mill to purchase 80 acres adjacent to the township's Clintonwood Park and part of a proposed 480 acre gravel mining operation, .5 mill for safety paths and an additional 1 mill for the fire department.

In addition, the township board did not levy the general fund tax last year, opting to use a portion of the surplus funds instead.

This year, the general fund millage is returning.

Taxes to be paid by property owners in both the Village of Clarkston and Independence Township include a 1.3122 mills, 2.8614 mills for the fire department and .2928 for the property purchase.

The school tax, paid by both township and village property owners, includes 8.897 mills for the operating millage, 19.591 voted in for additional operating costs and 1.63 voted for debt service.

Property owners living outside the village and in the township will pay 1 mill for sewers, .9307 for police and .5 for safety paths.

The typical taxpayer living in the township outside the village will pay a tax rate of 37.0151 mills, excluding the county.

A homeowner with property assessed at $40,000 (or one-half the market value) will pay $1,480.60 for the 37.0151 tax rate because 1 mill is equal to $1 for each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Petitions gain public hearing

The installation of an early-warning-tornado-siren system in Springfield Township will be the subject of a special public hearing before the township board soon, possibly before the end of the month.

Springfield residents will have a chance to express their views on the sirens "probably no later than late October," said Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

Walls and fellow board members were presented with petitions at last week's monthly meeting asking that the board reconsider a May 1978 decision to do without a tornado warning system.

"The exact date of the public hearing depends on when we get a response on some information we've requested," Walls said.

The township has requested information from Oakland County on the exact cost and effectiveness of the sirens, as well as possible alternative warning systems, he said.

"My personal opinion hasn't changed," Walls added, restating his doubts about the cost-effectiveness of the tornado siren system.

"But there appears to be more people in favor of this than I'd thought. The board will be open-minded about reconsidering."

More than 150 township residents signed the petitions — significantly more than the number of people who attended a public hearing on the issue in May of 1978, Walls noted.

Writing skills change minister's career focus

'I began writing and speaking when I realized that I could reach more people'

By Marilyn Trumper

Three out of the seven book titles read: "Lord I'm Afraid," "Israel's Final Holocaust," and "Weight! A Better Way to Lose."

Sound diversified?

Author Roger F. Campbell would agree.

But the one thing his books all have in common is their focus on God.

Until four years ago, Roger 49, was pastor for Waterford

Community Church on Airport Road. Prior to that, the ordained minister worked 12 years at a Benton Harbor church.

"I began writing and speaking when I realized that I could reach more people in major areas," he said.

For the past four years, Roger has been writing for a living. In that time, he has authored seven books, and is currently working on an eighth.

His office is small, located in the second floor of his Independence Township home.

"I first began writing magazine articles years ago, for religious publications," he said. "My first book, They call him the Walking Bible, The Story of Dr. Jack Van Impe, was not planned.

"I'd been friends with Jack for years, and he asked me if I wanted to write his life story, so I did," he said.

Van Impe, according to Roger, is an independent evangelist, viewed on 100 television stations weekly.

During the '60s, he said, Van Impe held area-wide crusades involving up to 50 churches.

The men have co-authored two books, their latest, "Israel's Final Holocaust."

The book's theme, Roger said, is based on prophecy. The story of the suffering of the Jews, and how those sufferings have fulfilled prophecy set by Moses. It also covers the future and prophecy still unfulfilled.

"This is not a totally new idea," Roger said. "About 10 years ago a similar book, The Late Great Planet Earth, was written dealing with basically the same theme.

"But we've moved beyond that in this book and it's been written up-to-date. We examine how Russia is the major force to erupt and what the future holds for Iran and the other countries," he said.

Roger's best-selling book, according to his publisher, is "Weight! A Better Way to Lose," which incorporates gaining control of your life and changing lifestyles, which will ultimately affect your weight, relationships and attitude," he said.

The book evolved out of a seminar conducted at an area church. Those sessions were taped, he said. The book is marketed along with six cassettes of the seminar.

"At the seminars, I explain that if you drop a glass of milk, don't be angry. Say, 'Praise the Lord. It's an opportunity to bend over and expend some energy,'" Roger laughs.

"The book says to plunge into life. To give it your all and to work this kind of attitude into every part of your daily life," he said.

Another of his latest books "Lord I'm Afraid," is a collection of poems about fear, and includes bible verses lending themselves to specific problems.

Roger's poems cover the full spectrum of fears. There's everything from how to deal with the mailman who only brings bills, to how to deal with the fear of losing a spouse.

"I think this will be one of my best-selling books," he said. "It's the kind of book someone can purchase and keep for a lifetime. Whenever they're afraid, they can consult the book for guidance."

Roger's books are available in Christian bookstores, and in several Independence Township stores -- Wonder Drugs, The Village Bookstore, Pine Knob Pharmacy, the Village Pharmacy and Kroger's.

The cassettes for the book on weight control are not sold in stores, but can be purchased for $18.95, which includes the book, by writing Roger F. Campbell at P.O. Box 444, Waterford, MI, 48095.

The office of Roger F. Campbell, author, has truly become home. His daily trek to work consists of walking up a flight of stairs to his home's second floor. It's here that he's written seven books and is currently working on an eighth.

Unicyclist wheels for good cause

By Kathy Greenfield

It started out as a joke, but before it was all over, Steve Morris had pedaled 317 miles and made over $850 to benefit Leader Dogs for the Blind of Rochester.

Steve, now 18 and a student at Wayne State University, unicycled his way from Rochester to Mackinaw City in a six-and-one-half-day marathon that began Aug. 15.

As he retells the events that led up to the adventure while sitting in his home on Deerhill Drive in Independence Township, Steve's eyes light up with the pleasure of having achieved such a feat.

"There are several theories behind it," he says about his reasons for the unicycle marathon. "One is my friend's theory that I'm crazy, totally.

"The other theory is I sat at work all day . . . and I was feeling out of shape," he says. "I'm the kind of person that needs something to keep himself in shape, needs a goal.

"I used to be a graphics illustrator — got a lot of exercise — walked to the camera room which was about 100 feet away from my desk," he explains with a laugh.

At first, he considered doing his bit for charity totally alone with a 16-pound backpack slung around his shoulders while rolling along atop his 9-foot-high unicycle.

But practice sessions of five miles a night for awhile convinced him that wasn't practical, so he asked for and received some help from a friend, Bob Davis of Utica.

During the trek, to Mackinac

City, Bob drove a van behind Steve that sported banners reading: "Caution marathon unicyclist ahead" and Rochester to Mackinac 317 miles."

There was also an advertisement for the place that provided the white tuxedo he wore on the last day of the ride.

Before Leader Dogs for the Blind agreed to accept Steve's offer of seeking pledges, doing the unicycle ride and then collecting the money, he was turned down by two other charities.

Once he had decided to take the long unicycle ride, however, Steve was not ready to give up.

"I was really starting to get depressed about it," he said, but he was driving to a concert one night when "all of a sudden, Leader Dog popped into my mind. I knew it would be the best place I could do it for."

There is no special reason for his choice, although there is one connection in the event that led him to take up the unicycle again after not riding if for about two years.

"I'd gone to the eye doctor and they gave me a double dose of eye-dilation drops," he remembers. "I couldn't do anything so I got out my little unicycle, pumped up the tire and it all came back to me. I was riding up and down curbs and going backwards. I was enjoying it."

It was not a new interest for Steve. A unicyclist since age 7, he had joined the Pontiac Unicyclists, a now defunct organization, and the group used to do parades frequently.

"Lots of times, we'd have two or three parades a day," he says.

But, until he set off for Mackinac City, the longest distance he had gone in one day was 24 miles.

He practiced after work with his friend Bob riding alongside on a 10-speed bicycle.

"I figured if I could ride 10 miles a night after eight hours of work, I could make 40 miles a day," he says.

When he left to head toward Mackinac, he knew he would make it, until he'd put in 41.8 miles that first day.

"Bob was dragging me through it," says Steve. "I'd say, 'Bob, I'm never going to make it,' and he'd say, 'Get on that thing and go.'"

"The next day, I couldn't walk," and that was after both of them slept through the alarm clock.

After Bob dragged him through a 45-minute walk, he was ready to go again.

And he made it another 49 miles and was able to work off some of the muscle soreness.

"When I did that, that was kind of the breaking point," he says.

In the middle of his trip, Steve celebrated his 18th birthday with a 49.9 mile unicycle ride and an eight-course dinner he cooked for himself, Bob and some friends who joined them.

The meal consisted of liver with onions and bacon, hash brown potatoes, American-style potatoes, steamed corn, sauteed mushrooms, "goop" — a mixture of mushrooms, potatoes

Steve Morris shows how it's done atop the unicycle he pedaled 317 miles from Rochester to Mackinac City to raise over $850 for Leader Dogs for the Blind. His top speed was 14 mph while on the trip, he says.

Steve celebrated his 18th birthday while on the unicycle trip with a feast he cooked himself. Despite all the hard riding, he had gained three pounds after the six-and-one-half day trip.

Even the new sign that adorns the front of the library gets some lettering as Kristy Rice, a member of the library board, shares her skill. Bob Moshier put up the stonework in August.

and tomatoes, stew, hamburgers and watermelon.

That's nothing compared to the breakfasts he cooked on the trail, says Steve.

A normal breakfast, after 10 miles on the unicycle, consisted of half-dozen eggs, half-pound bacon, four slices toast, a bowl of oatmeal, a quart of orange juice and occasionally four-and-a-half cinnamon rolls.

When it was all over, two days ahead of schedule, Steve had gained three pounds.

There were some grand moments — Lions Clubs in Indian River, Cheboygan and Mackinac City arranged police escorts for Steve on his unicycle. The Indian river Lions Club even bought them lunch and arranged for a motel room overnight — after sleeping in the van or camping out during the trip, that was luxury, says Steve.

It also enabled him to comfortably don his white tuxedo for the last day of riding.

Thoughts of making the one-wheeled ride again have crossed his mind, says Steve, and it felt good to present a check for $854.47 to Leader Dogs following his ride.

He expects the amount to reach over $1,000 when various Lions Clubs add contributions in his name.

"I'm glad I did it," he says. "They had a meeting-type thing and a dinner and all the Lions were there, about 600 people, and we were guests of honor — Bob even got a suit coat."

Not bad for an adventure that began on a light note.

"It started out as a joke," says Steve. "I said I feel like getting away from it all and doing something crazy."

Five professional weavers have combined their talents for an exhibit and sale of their hand-woven works now through Oct. 12 at Somerset Mall, Troy.

Barbara Kiger, formerly of Clarkston and now a resident of Arizona, is one of the five weavers.

Her style has changed into impressions of her new environment, reflective of the desert with mountains, rocks, plants and the ever-changing skies of the west.

Items of the five weavers are diversified by their individual approaches to the art of weaving and include soft sculptures, wall hangings, pillows, throws and shawls, masks, room dividers, sweaters and baby blankets.

A family style Harvest Dinner is planned Wednesday, Oct. 15, by the Mount Bethel United Methodist Church, located on the corner of Jossman and Bald Eagle Lake roads, Groveland Township.

Hours for the dinner, sponsored by the church women, are from 5 to 8 p.m.

Cost is $4 for adults, $2.50 for children up to 12 years old and free for those under age 5.

A drawing for a quilt made by the women is to be held. Tickets are $1 each and are to be available during the dinner.

Antique treasure hunters and seekers of oddities may find what they're looking for at Keatington's Antique Village - Antique Show & Sale.

For two days, everything from unfinished pine trunks to cobalt decorated jugs and brass keys will be available for purchase.

While strolling around and enjoying the sights, indulge in cider and donuts from the Ciderfest, which is to be held at the same time.

The sale is scheduled for Oct. 11 and 12, a Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

There is free parking and admission.

To travel to Keatington Antique Village, take I-75 south to the Joslyn Road exit north, turn east, drive four miles on Joslyn Road to Joslyn Court.

Waterford Welcome Wagon Club members plan a trip to Frankenmuth on Thursday, Oct. 16, and invite all residents in the Waterford Township, Union Lake and Clarkston area to join the organization and the fun.

The group plans lunch at the Bavarian Inn and an afternoon of shopping to round out the day.

Everyone interested should phone 673-6053 by Oct. 13 for reservations.

Richard A. Konzen, organist and director of music at Holy Trinity Church in Syracuse, N.Y. is to present an organ recital Sunday, Oct. 19, at Central United Methodist Church, 3882 Highland Rd., Pontiac.

There is no admission charge, child care will be provided and those attending the recital may also attend a reception immediately following that is hosted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knozen.

The event is sponsored by the music committee of the church. For more information, call 681-0040.

CJHS yearbook staffers selling shirts with pride

These Clarkston Junior High School co-eds proudly wear their "Clarkston proudly presents ME" shirts.

"Clarkston proudly presents ME."

The green shirts with white printing have been appearing all over town recently, the result of a fund raising project by the Clarkston Junior High School yearbook staff.

They cost $8 each and are available only at the junior high school between 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. Mondays and during all home basketball games.

"The response to the shirts has been good," says yearbook adviser Ray Cooper. "Approximately 200 shirts were sold in the one day/one night sale."

"The school has received calls from people who wanted to buy shirts," he said. "Some people have been stopped in the street and asked where they purchased their shirt."

The shirts will be for sale until Nov. 13.

Fire facts

National Fire Prevention Week is observed in October of each year to try to remind the public of the devastating and destructive effects caused by fire each and every day.

This week-long observance in October marks the anniversary of two of the worst fires in the history of the United States, "The Great Chicago Fire" which destroyed roughly three-and-one-half square miles of down-town Chicago and killed between 200 and 300 people on Oct. 8.

Another fire on the very same day in the north woods of Upper Michigan and Wisconsin consumed 1,280,000 acres of forest and killed between 1,200 and 1,500 people.

This fire which started in the small town of Peshtigo, Wis., proved to be the worst fire in this nation's history, but did not receive publicity due to the great fire taking place in Chicago on the same day.

This week in October is set aside each year to try and impress upon the public the importance of fire protection and fire safety. Each year fire claims nearly 12,000 lives and does numerous billions of dollars worth of damage.

Carelessness is a leading cause of fire throughout the country and is one factor which can be controlled. Fire safety and prevention must be practiced each day of the year.

Take a good look at your home or business and correct the potential fire hazards you find. Lack of prevention is carelessness and carelessness causes disaster.

is precisely what makes the play funny and outrageous.

Hugh Rose and Sandy Sanford are excellent in their roles as Peter and Frances, and Scott Myers is outstanding as the harried Brian Runnicles. Carol Arend is convincing as Eleanor Hunter, the domineering mother-in-law.

Strong supporting performances are turned in by Bob Arend as district bank manager Leslie Bromhead, Jim MacArthur as Police Superintendent Paul, Pete Rose as Mr. Needham, the bank inspector, and Nancy Osmun and Cheri Broome as Susan and Barbara.

The set construction and decoration is well done, but the play was not without its flaws — both controllable and uncontrollable. Doors opened when they shouldn't have, the curtain failed to close at the play's conclusion, and no less than four trains zoned by while the play was in progress, forcing a temporary freeze in the action.

In the end, the little mishaps couldn't cloud a fine performance or the witty script, as the audience showed its appreciation with well-deserved applause.

The play is billed as a comedy fit for the entire family, but some aspects of "No Sex, Please — We're British" are perhaps a little too mature for pre-teens. But the play's good-natured approach is never offensive and certainly doesn't qualify it as an "adult" comedy.

This production marks the second time the Village Players have performed the play, having last staged "No Sex, Please" in 1975.

To celebrate their 20th anniversary, the players decided to bring back some old favorites they've enjoyed performing down through the years.

"No Sex, Please — We're British" is certainly an audience favorite as well.

Spotlight

by Al Zawacky

The Clarkston Village Players' first production of their 20th anniversary season, "No Sex, Please — We're British," promises family entertainment and plenty of laughs for the audience.

Beyond a doubt, it delivers all that it promises.

A delightful romp set in present-day England, the play revolves around the mishaps of Peter and Frances Hunter, newlyweds who occupy an apartment over a branch of the Na-the "Scandinavian Import Company" and receives instead a box full of porno pictures.

Brian Runnicles, chief cashier at the bank, is drawn into the Hunters' quandry of how to dispose of the unwanted photos and the films and books that follow after he signs for the package when it arrives.

It is sometimes difficult, in this day and age of blasé attitudes toward pornography, to relate to the panic that results in the Hunters' apartment when the blue photos arrive. But that

You won't catch Lynn Mead at home cooking

Mead family rarely gets a chance to sample his culinary expertise

Lynn Mead says he hardly ever does any cooking around the house.

That might not sound like much of a surprise at first, but consider his profession: For the past three years he's been a food service instructor at the Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (NWOVEC).

And he's been in and around the food preparation business much of his life.

Lynn, his wife Phyllis and their 9-year-old daughter Rochelle all chuckle when the subject of home food preparation arises.

"He comes home and complains that this kitchen doesn't have anything in it," Phyllis laughs, noting that the modern kitchen in the Mead home is still no comparison to the type her husband is used to.

"Our food preparation area isn't just some warmed-over home ec room," Lynn says. "It's one of the largest in Oakland County."

"We try and develop basic work habits and job skills in the kids. The course doesn't automatically qualify you for restaurant management, but the idea is to give the students a sound background."

Mead helped pioneer NWOVEC's food service program three years ago along with Roberta Allen, Barbara Stelmach and Mary Stedman. He holds a bachelor's degree in business education and a master's in industrial education.

"It's a fairly large program," he says. "One person couldn't handle it without going crazy."

Lynn's background in food preparation and cooking is extensive. He previously taught

Country Living

by Al Zawacky

food service courses in Detroit and at one time owned his own restaurant in Ann Arbor near the University of Michigan campus.

"Owning your own retail business is very time consuming," he says, explaining why he eventually sold his restaurant after four years of ownership. "The only way to make money is to work long hours."

"He'd work 16 hour days, seven days a week sometimes," Phyllis recalls. "He literally had to live there—the only time I got to see him was when I went there to eat."

Lynn points with pride to the continued growth of the NWOVEC program and the Tuesday through Friday lunches served by the students to the general public.

The food is good, he notes, and the menu prices look like something out of the 1960's. The prime rib, for example costs less than $4.

"We re-invest any money we make in equipment," he says. "I bought soup crocks last year."

And the menu items are not frozen or pre-prepared, he adds.

"We make everything fresh from our own recipes," Lynn says. "I believe very strongly in fresh ingredients, too—some of the recipes we come across call for dry milk. I won't use it."

His expertise in food preparation led to a position he holds in the army reserve: Senior military food service instructor.

"Basically, we're evaluating the military food service and looking for ways to improve it," Lynn says. "It's a new program—it only started in August—so I can't really detail exactly what we'll be doing."

Lynn works on putting together a menu for the NWOVEC lunch program. "Menu writing is a fairly complicated thing," he notes. "You've got to learn through experience how to achieve the correct wording and balance."

Phyllis also works, but her job is quite a bit different from her husband's—she holds a degree in medical technology and is a supervisor of the "micro department" at the Genesee Physician Clinical Lab.

The work includes growing cultures taken from patients to determine the type of illness causing the problem. After the bacteria are identified they have to be destroyed by being heated with hot steam, she says.

"We can usually tell what organism is causing the problem just by setting the culture under a light," Phyllis says. "Of course, we have to be very careful to avoid being contaminated."

Prior to moving to Independence Township in Dec. 1977, the Meads made their home in Ypsilanti, near Lynn's Ann Arbor restaurant.

"Clarkston is a very unique area," Lynn says. "That's one of the reasons I got involved in politics—to try and keep the area unique. There's nothing wrong with building more quality homes here, but I don't want to see the area become industrialized."

Lynn made an unsuccessful bid for a position on the Independence Township board last August, running as a Republican in the trustee race during the primary election.

"We love the area," Phyllis adds. "The rural atmosphere, the people—we have wonderful neighbors."

"Since we have only one child, we thought it was important to move into a neighborhood where there'd be a lot of children. When we bought the house in October, it was cold outside and we didn't see any children—we asked if there were many around."

As it turned out, there wasn't any kid shortage in the Meads' subdivision.

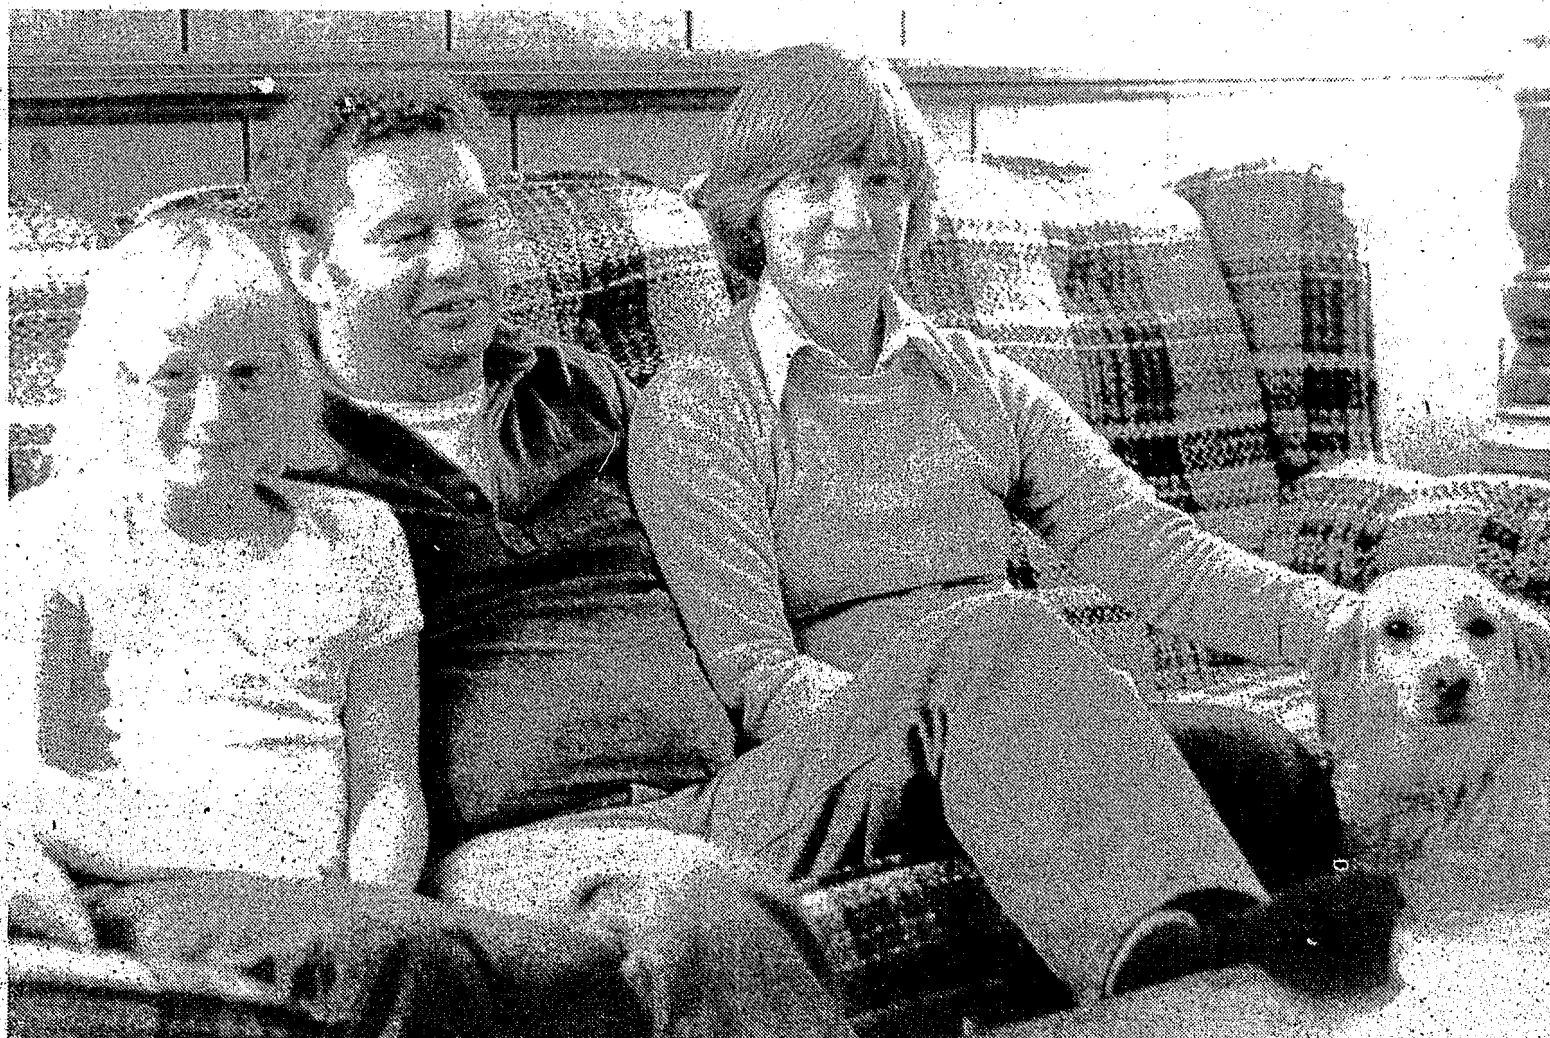

"I have lots of friends," says Rochelle, who attends nearby Bailey Lake Elementary.

Ask her about school, and she'll make a face like many children her age. "I like art class," she says.

Rochelle also is involved in girl scouting—Phyllis was a scout leader at one time—and recently became involved in playing soccer.

Lynn, who is helping coach the sport, sees soccer's co-ed approach as a long-overdue aspect of athletics.

More Country Living

62 "I think it's a shame that for years they've been keeping girls out of sports," he says. "I think this is a good trend."

In addition to his teaching job and work with the army reserves, Lynn was also an Independence Township reserve police officer until the force was disbanded earlier this year.

66 "Police work is funny—sometimes you're unbelievably busy, and other times there's just nothing," Lynn says.

"I really didn't do anything super—I just tried to do a good job. I had to pull my gun a couple of times, but fortunately I never had to use it."

"You have to watch your p's and q's. Just because you're in Independence Township and not Pontiac or Detroit doesn't mean you're safe."

CVP try-outs

The Clarkston Village Players are scheduled to begin casting for their upcoming play, "Two Blind Mice."

6 The uproarious comedy by Sam Spewack has been termed "whackier than Arsenic and Old Lace," with the two major parts centering around the characters of daffy old ladies.

People of all ages are welcome to try-out for the 18 roles and scripts will be provided.

6 Casting is scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 15 and 16 at the Depot Road Theater, 4861 White Lake, Independence Township, at 7:30 p.m.

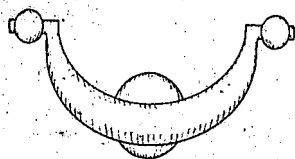

The play is scheduled for per-

3 to attend 114th session

6 Edith Wiscombe, Leota Fike and Vern Kath are to attend the 114th session of the Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of Michigan.

They are to represent the Joseph C. Bird, Chapter No. 294 of Clarkston.

6 The session is planned Oct. 14-16 in Kalamazoo. Called "Build Bridge to Tomorrow," it will stress service to others.

Fall into Music with CHS

A salute to autumn and the beginning of another school year is the theme of the first concert of the vocal music department of Clarkston High School.

"Fall into Music" is scheduled Wednesday, Oct. 15, in the CHS auditorium at 8 p.m. Donations will be accepted and a reception for all friends and parents of the singers is to follow.

The concert, originally planned Oct. 22 and published in the school calendar for that date, was changed to Oct. 15 due to conflicts.

The five CHS choirs are to entertain with music ranging from the classics of Brahms and Beethoven to more contemporary numbers, such as a "Choric Psalm" written for speaking chorus.

Several selections are to be accompanied by guitar and drums.

tunes from "Hello Dolly," "Annie," "Bye Bye Birdie," "A Chorus Line" and "Mame."

A highlight of the program is to be the Madrigal Choir, a select group of 16 singers, in their new attire performing a Broadway spectacular of show are to perform at the concert.

It was homecoming at Clarkston High School last week, and the traditional battle of the classes took place Friday afternoon in the gym. Among the events was the traditional tug of war battle which was won by the junior team pictured above. The class of '82 dominated most of the events and won the overall competition as well.

Homecoming hilarity

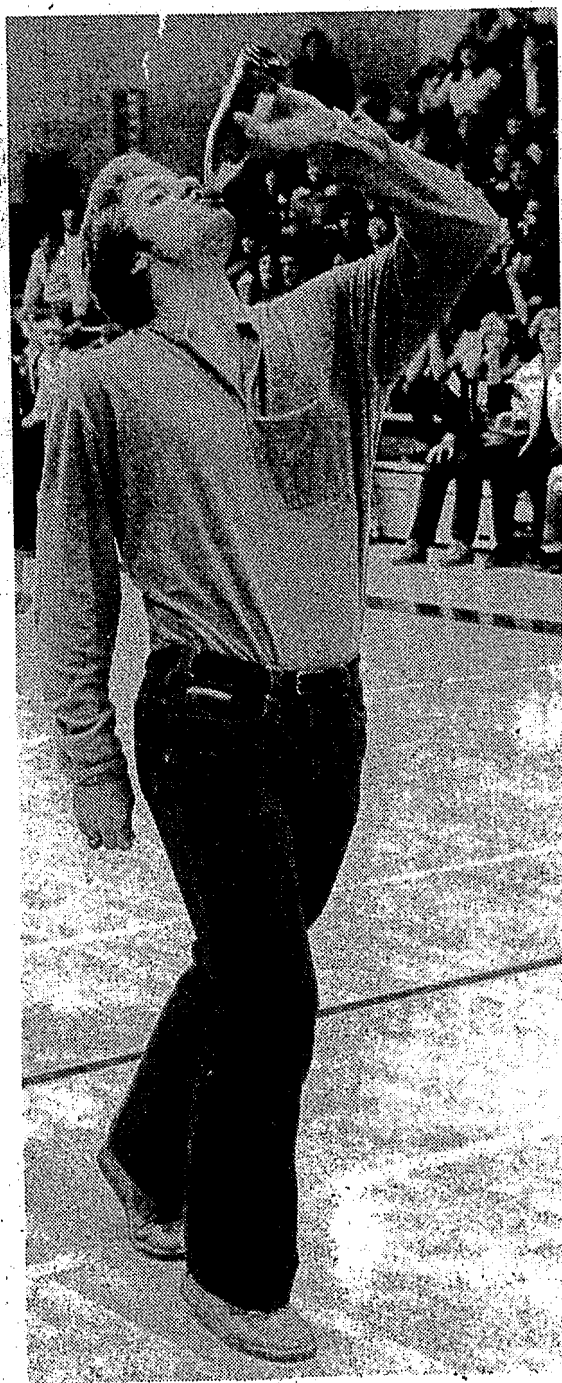

The sophomores pull and struggle in an effort to come out on top of the traditional tug of war battle.

"Hang in there" and "Don't let go" seem to be the best possible advice for these CHS seniors, engaged in a life and death tug of war struggle with the juniors.

The "ugly man" contest might look like a tie at first glance, but senior Mark Hughes [left] was the almost unanimous choice as the winner.

CHS band to compete

The Clarkston High School Marching Band is to be among 15 groups from schools in Michigan and Ohio competing for the Governor's Trophy in the Seventh Annual Michigan Invitational Marching Band Tournament.

The contest is to begin at 2 p.m. at Flint's Atwood Stadium on Sunday, Oct. 5.

Organizers of the event expect about 2,550 musicians to participate.

In addition to the competitors, the Marching Chips from Central Michigan University and the Flushing High School Raider Marching Band are to perform in exhibition.

A team of judges will evaluate each competing band for uniformity of marching drill, content and quality of musical presentation and overall effectiveness of performance.

The band which excels in all categories will be presented with the trophy to be held by them until the 1981 competition.

Other trophies will be awarded as well.

Donut feast with GMC

The Oppmann family from Clarkston was on hand Sunday afternoon for the GM ground breaking ceremonies in Lake Orion. They got in on the cider and doughnuts prior to the service. Dad, Rich Oppmann, gives son Brian, 1, a swallow or two of cider as sister, Christi, 6, checks for drippage. There was none. Brian drank the whole thing.

Bloodmobile stops here Monday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile plans a visit to the Clarkston area Monday, Oct. 13.

It is to be at the Clarkston United Methodist Church, 6600 Waldon, Independence Township, from 2 to 8 p.m.

The blood drive is sponsored by the Clarkston Community Women's Club.

Back when the club first began sponsoring blood drives, some 20 years ago, donors were plentiful, said Mary Jane Chaustowich, Women's Club member.

Circumstances were different then, because persons who needed blood were charged a fee unless donors were available or the person or a family member had donated blood.

"The Red Cross now provides blood free to anyone," says Chaustowich. "Because of that, people have lost interest."

Blood supplies, however, are running low and there is a real need for donations, she said.

Persons age 17 to 66 may donate blood up to six times a year. The entire experience, including time for a snack provided by the Women's Club, takes about 45 minutes.

For more information, call 623-1283.

Lutheran women share town

A day in Clarkston is to be the treat in store for women from Trinity Lutheran Church of Windsor on Thursday, Oct. 9.

Women from Calvary Lutheran Church are to host the event in reciprocation for a visit to Windsor last spring that included a luncheon and a tour of the city.

Erida Eidam is to take the Canadian group on a historical tour of the downtown area and on a tour of a historic home on Main Street.

A luncheon is planned at Calvary Lutheran Church and also some time for shopping and fellowship.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Coursen

Coursen, Beach wed

Clare Louise Beach and Larry M. Coursen were recently married on board the Bahia Belle in Mission Bay, San Diego, Calif.

The bride, a 1969 Clarkston High School graduate, is the daughter of Eloise Beach of Delray Beach, Fla., and the late Robert Beach of Clarkston, and the granddaughter of the late Louise Carvey of Clarkston.

She is employed by the County of San Diego as a computer programmer.

Her husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Coursen of La Mesa, Calif., is employed by the County of San Diego as a computer analyst.

The bride was given in marriage July 12 by her brother James B. Beach of Essexville.

She wore a pale blue, full-length gown and carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The reception, attended by about 200 guests, was held at the Club House in La Mesa.

Mr. and Mrs. Coursen honeymooned at the Virgin Islands where they went scuba diving, shell hunting and sightseeing.

They are residing in La Mesa.

In service

Airman Robert Rigoulot has graduated from the United States Air Force security police course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Rigoulot will now serve at Cannon Air Force Base, N.M. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rigoulot Sr. of Davisburg Road, Springfield Township.

We met the Palmers one evening while eating one of the best nachos I have ever had at La Familia Martinez Restaurant on Woodward Avenue, Pontiac. Dick and Dee Palmer reside in Orionville.

Brandy Cake

- 1 c. chopped pecans
- 1 pkg. yellow cake mix
- 1 pkg. instant vanilla pudding
- 4 eggs
- ½ c. cold water
- ½ c. vegetable oil
- ½ c. orange or apricot brandy

Glaze

- ¼ lb. butter
- ¼ c. water
- 1 c. sugar
- ½ c. orange or apricot brandy

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour tube pan. Sprinkle pecans over bottom of pan.

Mix all cake ingredients together. Pour batter over pecans in pan. Bake one hour. Set on rack to cool. Invert on serving plate and prick top. Drizzle and brush glaze evenly over top.

Glaze: Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in water and sugar. Boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in brandy.

Flower Adventure offers fast service anywhere

Weary from practice, a Clarkston High School football player ambles into the Flower Adventure a half hour before closing time.

The school's homecoming dance was scheduled that night, and his date might have to go without flowers because he'd waited until the last minute — and he knew it.

"Is there any way you could have it ready by 5:30?" he asked, waiting for an expected "no."

Co-owners Judy Galley and Marianne Gaulin assured him they could, and instructed him to return by 5:30.

That's what the Flower Adventure, 31 S. Main, in downtown Clarkston Emporium is all about.

Personalized-specialized service.

The Flower Adventure is a combination florist and gift shop for all occasions, whether it be for a wedding or for providing homecoming dance corsages.

Inside, shelves on the walls are filled with live greenery in all sizes and shapes, nestled in different styled pots. There are dozens of different dried flower arrangements to choose from, too.

Doing business

Now they are offering a variety of fall-colored dried flower displays, complete with ghosts and scarecrows.

The Flower Adventure also offers unique candles in many colors laced with a spiral of wax.

"Our latest addition," Judy said, "is Teleflora, a wire service. People can have flowers sent anywhere in the country."

The woman said they can design any arrangement for a customer comprised of any flower.

Both are Independence Township residents, and said they opted to start the business in Clarkston, not just because there is not another florist nearby, but because of the area.

"This is home," Judy said. "We live here and we know Clarkston is a neat place to shop. We offer mall services here in the community without the crowds like the malls have."

The Flower Adventure accepts Visa and Master Charge.

For more information, phone 625-9520.

Marianne Gaulin [left] and Judy Galley, co-owners of Flower Adventure, stand in a haven of green with a special flower fall arrangement in hand.

Students receive Medical Assistant pins

Fourteen students received Medical Administrative Assistant pins at a ceremony held recently at the Oxford School of Business-Pontiac Business Institute. The students are enrolled in a 14-month program which trains individuals to assist physicians in private offices, clinics, hospitals, and medical centers. The students are trained in medical sciences, laboratory procedures, patient relations, and office administration. Coping with kids

by Jim Windell

Dealing with bullies real-life trauma

One of life's greater traumas is meeting up with a bully for the first time.

If this hasn't occurred during elementary school, it is almost certain to happen in junior high or high school.

Living in the suburbs is no protection against bullying extortionists, aggressive "tough guys" or cruel intimidation.

When it happens in a neighborhood or a school, a youngster may be scared to go to school or walk home alone.

Holding up frightened kids for their lunch money or allowance is a common occurrence these days in many school districts.

During the recent, well-made movie, "My Bodyguard," which concerned such extortion in a big city high school, a 12-year-old girl in a junior high school for the first time discussed it with her parents.

At that point, it was a theoretical issue, but the girl's thought was that when bullied and faced with physical assault, it would be better to give up lunch money than get beat up.

Not too long after that, the same girl was faced with a similar situation in real life.

She had seen the hero of "My Bodyguard" take the toughs on and eventually win. But, her orientation to life was to be agreeable and save her skin.

She was faced with a dilemma. Should she stand up to the bully or back down.

Her parents, like most parents, were angry inside and ready to intervene in an attempt to protect the girl from her troubled dilemma. They talked with her and asked her what she planned to do.

She was scared, but determined to face it in one way or another. She never actually considered not going to school. Nor was there any question of her parents suggesting she stay home.

The outcome? The situation hasn't entirely been resolved at this time.

But, the girl has come face-to-face with real life. And she had to do it on her own, although she knew her mom and dad would support her which ever way she dealt with it.

Most important, she did it on her own, in her own way.

Her parents might have handled it differently or better. They had plenty of suggestions, but they kept most of them private.

What this seventh grader learned was how to make it in junior high. She did not learn greater dependence on her parents or avoidance of a major crisis.

Sometimes, when selling "protection" or extortion is too much like an epidemic in a certain locale, the parents may have to do something.

Organizing parent patrols or neighborhood organizations may be helpful to assist when too many young children are being threatened.

Not every child can stand up to the bullies of life, nor should a child have to be fearful every day.

Growing things

When to plant trees, shrubs

A question frequently asked is: "How late can one safely plant trees and shrubs here in our North Oakland area?"

And the answer is: If you are buying a shrub or tree from a reputable nursery that has been "balled" or potted, it is safe to plant up until the soil becomes frozen.

However, if you are moving a "wild" tree that has not been root pruned it will be safer to wait until spring. An exception is to have the job done with the modern equipment that digs the tree with a large portion of soil and moves the tree without disturbing many of its roots.

Growing a shade tree is a long-time project.

It can well be here for the next generations to use. So, one should give considerable thought to choosing the tree and the place where it is to grow.

There are many recommended trees including the sugar and black maples, sycamores, linden; red, white, or bur oaks; tulip; hackberry and some of the locusts to name a few.

Avoid silver leaf maple, willow, cottonwood, box elder, catalpa, Chinese or Siberian elms. While they are fast growing, their wood is brittle, the roots clog sewers and drains, plus the nuisance of forever cleaning up seeds or broken branches, and enduring the insects and diseases that attack some of them.

One common mistake is to plant the tree too close to overhead wires, underground drains, walks, drives or buildings. One must try to picture how the tree will look when it reaches full growth.

As to the actual planting here are the recommended steps to take: (1) dig an adequate hole before moving the tree (2) keep the roots moist while out of the ground (3) place the tree in the hole (4) replace topsoil first (5) stake it to prevent sway, (6) water liberally (7) wrap the trunk. There are a whole lot of dos and don'ts, but a beautiful tree is worth all the effort one takes to start it off right.

Another question on fall planting is about how late one can safely lay sod. As long as the ground is not frozen when the sod is laid, it seems to be able to endure our winters and make a good lawn next spring. Be certain it is well watered.

We recently made a second trip to Colorado this year. Seeing the Corn Belt country in the fall while the harvest is at its peak is a fascinating trip.

In Nebraska and Iowa we met a constant string of trucks hauling grain to the elevators where there was commonly a line-up of a dozen or more waiting to unload.

At several of the elevators, they were evidently full-up and the grain was dumped in the open. Also we saw hundreds of what looked like new, huge metal grain bins on the farms, perhaps purchased as a result of the grain embargo earlier in the year.

Everywhere the combines were busy in the fields of corn or milo until late in the evening. Farm machinery dealers must be having a good season as we met many, many new combines being trucked to dealers.

These new machines having prices in five high figures certainly require that they harvest large acreages for several seasons to get a return on the investment.

Very few soybeans had been harvested. Their turn will come when the corn and milo is in the bins.

We wondered if the harvest is as abundant in the farming areas that endured the extreme heat in the South and the drouth in the northern tier of states.

Michigan crops looked good, especially the apple crop. Trees seemed to be loaded with red and yellow fruit.

Sale of women's works

Tasty candies, personable marionettes and bronzed creations are scheduled to go up for sale at the upcoming Fall Festival of Women's Works this Saturday and Sunday at the Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center.

Over 70 women from all areas of Oakland County, including 23 women from Independence and Springfield Townships, are to be on hand to show, demonstrate and sell their art at the second annual festival.

Everything from wool spinning, enameling and porcelain painting, to jewelry making, pottery and Chinese brush painting is planned for exhibition.

Displays for textiles, soft sculptures, photography and cake decorating are also planned.

Those attending can anticipate entertainment from musicians, dancers and mimes.

The festival is scheduled to take place from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 11, and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 12.

Springfield Oaks Youth Activities Center is located at Andersonville and Hall roads in Springfield Township.

For more information phone 625-8133.

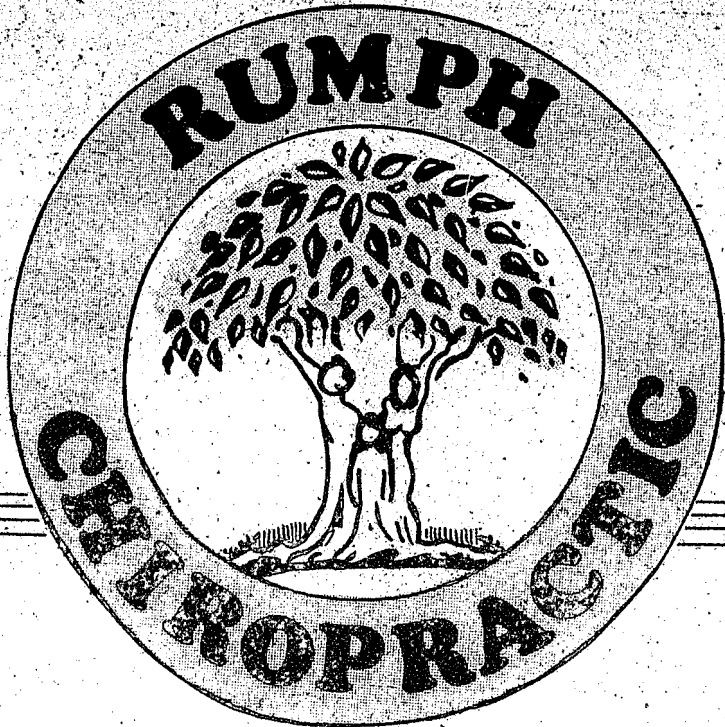

Orange pumpkins, witches, white ghosts and owls, homemade fudge, peanut butter cups, mints and brandied chocolate covered cherries. Diane Garten of Clintonville Road, makes all those and more in her Independence Township kitchen. Working night and day to create enough goodies for the upcoming "Women's Works" show, Diane finds it hard to keep son, Todd from sneaking the sweets. For the past five years, Diane has been creating confectionary delights to soothe the ache of anyone's sweet tooth. She smiles, admitting her brandied cherries can be found no place else.

Detailed puppets, fuzzy stuffed animals, washable dolls and woven pillows: Those are the specialties of Linda Pescora [left] and Earlene Jeffery. A third member of the team, Lorene Willet, creates macramé towel hangers, weed pouches and snow flakes. The women plan to have a booth at the upcoming "Women's Work" show and have pooled it, because team work is best they say. They offer wreathes, both quilted and woven, quilts, decalé pillows and hobby horses. Lorene even makes miniature towel hangers and weed pouches for doll houses. They've worked together for the past eight months, and find living so close to each other in Independence Township's Thendara Park a plus.

It was just a little over a year ago when Susan Helin of Perry Lake Road, Independence Township, began working with bronze and pottery. Now it's reached the point where she has a kiln in her basement. Her glazed ceramic chimes tinkle musically, shaped with hearts, pigs and butterflies. Her latest venture is Ceranimals, all handthrown and each one just a little bit different than the rest. There are ceraffes, Cerhinos, Cerostriches, Cerlions, Ceroxen and Cerelephants, all with big pop eyes and distinct colorings. But it's Susan's bronzes which take most of her time. The fighting rams nearly come alive, butting each other's heads. Susan plans to have a booth set up at the "Women's Works," offering many of these handcrafted wares.

LIFE CENTER

NO MORE TEARS AND RUNNING NOSE

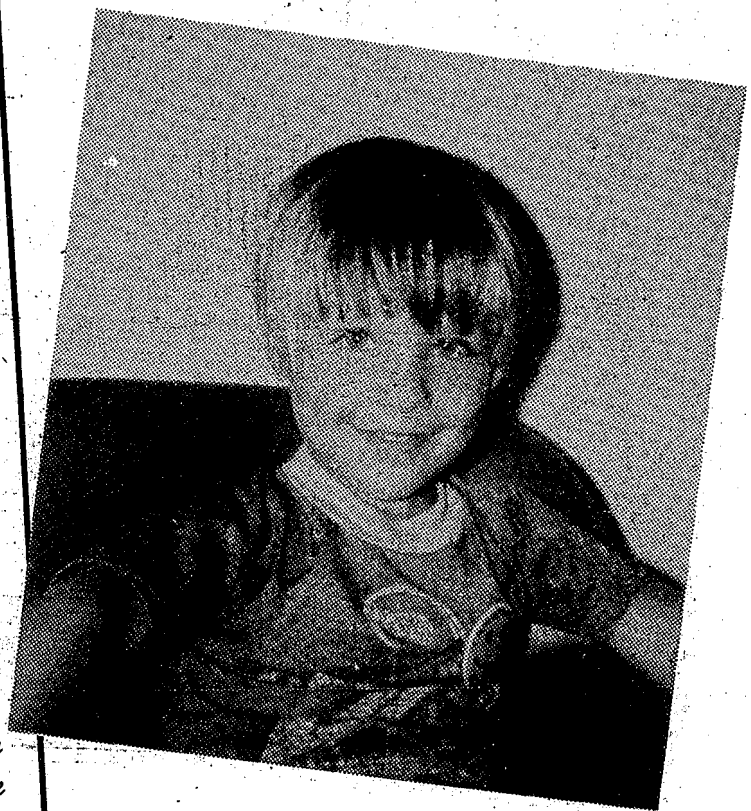

Any parent whose child suffers from allergies can sympathize with Kathy Sawyer. Katherine's three-and-a-half year old son Eric had been sick since birth when he suffered from a condition called "wet lung". Eric was eventually allergic to pollen, dust and grass; the constant problems of wheezing, runny nose, medication and finally the "fights" over his weekly injections.

Well, Eric's fights have turned into smiles and laughs since his parents brought him to the Rumph Chiropractic Life Center. Eric has been under Chiropractic care now for two months. Even after his first chiropractic adjustment Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer noticed Eric's wheeze and runny nose had stopped. And to see "if Chiropractic really worked" Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer stopped Eric's shots—"and, sure enough, there hasn't been any reactions."

Your doctor of chiropractic is trained to detect interference to the nervous system caused by misalignment or "subluxation" of the spine. He can determine whether your child has a subluxation and can correct it with spinal adjustments. Chronic disease in adults often originates as a minor complaint in childhood. Many of these conditions can be prevented by your chiropractor.

Children make good chiropractic patients. They respond quickly to spinal adjustments and are delighted to learn adjustments are not uncomfortable. Parents are happy, too, when they see their child rapidly responding to treatment.

Proper diet, sufficient sleep, good posture and constructive exercise are important factors in proper growth and development. Our children's future depends on good health; protect, have your children accompany you to your chiropractor regularly.

FREE SPINAL EXAMINATION FOR NEW PATIENTS.

In order to introduce new patients to the benefits of chiropractic and to help overcome the barrier of indecision of that first step, we are offering a spinal check at no charge to all new patients. Children are included as well as adults with no limit to any number in the family. In this office your health and the health of your family come first and the fee is second. We have a family plan, call and ask about it.

PUT AN END TO YOUR SUFFERING

Jewel Young's Headaches and Backaches Disappear

Looking at Jewell's happy face no one would ever suspect she had suffered from headaches three times a week, neck shoulder and low back pain, and indigestion. The pain was so acute says Jewell that there was no rest or sleep for days. Before receiving Chiropractic care, Jewell relied on drugs but as she puts it, "there was no relief unless I knocked myself completely out. I wasn't able to sew, my concentration was totally distracted because the pain was so severe."

Jewell's son-in-law referred her to Dr. Rumph and in two spinal adjustments "saw tremendous relief". No more headaches and her indigestion has cleared up. She's totally excited about Chiropractic now and recommends it all the time.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY?

Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed. The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. All tissues, glands and organs supplied with life energy by these nerves are shown in the section marked "B" in the chart. The section marked "C" describes a partial list of the conditions and symptoms that can result when there is an absence of life in the nerves.

SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic, and have failed. That failure should not lead to discouragement, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

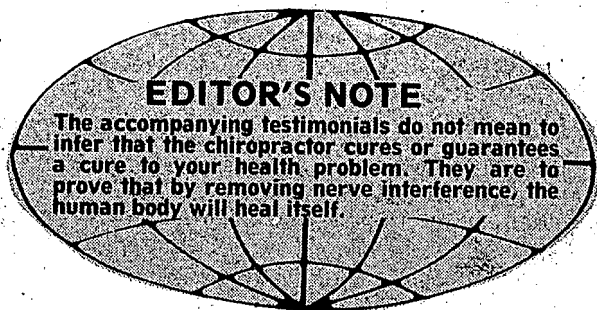

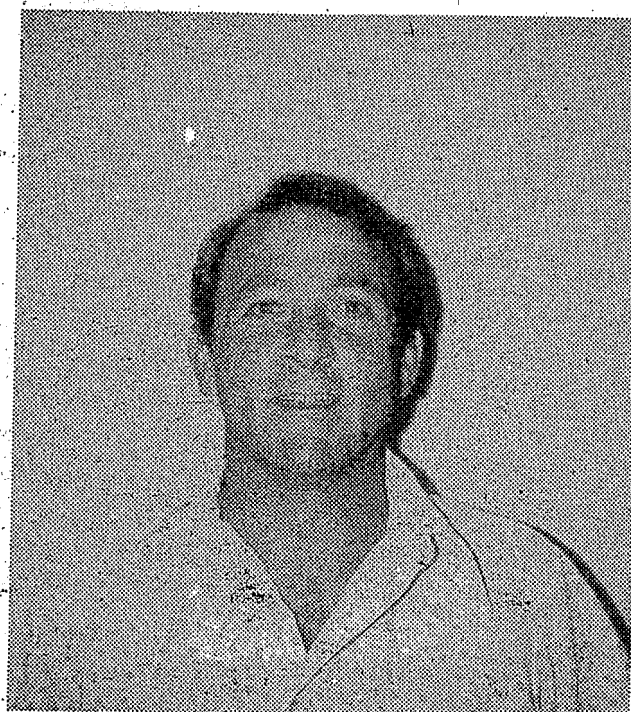

I get a good feeling.

My knees were hurting so bad, I couldn't work. I do surveying, which entails a lot of walking, so when I came home from work I would have to drink 5 or 6 beers before going to sleep to knock myself out. My medical doctor said elevate my knees and wear a wrap. I spent one whole summer limping.

A friend of mine told me about Chiropractic and I went to see Dr. Rumph. He X-rayed me and adjusted me on my first visit. In about an hour, it didn't hurt as much, the next day, it didn't hurt at all and I haven't had any problem since. What amazed me was he didn't even look at my knee!

I get a good feeling after an adjustment... try this before going to an M.D.

OUR FAMILY PLAN Reduces The Cost of Family Health Care

We often suggest that patients bring in their families for treatment. The usual reply we would get was "I'll wait until I get better." Perhaps what they were really saying was that they just couldn't afford to have their entire family treated at our regular office fee of $15.00. When this happens, we explain our FAMILY HEALTH CARE PLAN.

Take advantage of our FAMILY HEALTH CARE PLAN. Call 673-1215 now. You'll be glad you did....and so will your family.

- This plan is designed to serve the needs of those patients who do not have full family health care insurance. We understand what a burden health care costs can be to those with large families.

Our FAMILY HEALTH CARE PLAN works like this: whenever two or more family members visit us on the same day, the first family member would pay $15.00; the second family member pays only $1.00. After that, bring as many family members as you wish. The maximum cost to your family will be only $17.00 total. Three or a dozen, it makes no difference.

We have a genuine concern that families should stay healthy together. We want to extend good health to everyone. Remember, good health is truly a family affair.

. . . Nothing Else Seemed To Help

"To some people, maintenance care is just a way for the doctor to keep you coming back, but that's not true. Take Lisa Richer's case.....
Lisa suffered from severe backaches for months and was a chronic user of heating pads and ointments. "I couldn't lay flat on my back and had to return to a fetal position", she admits. She came into Dr. Rumph's office and after about two weeks she began feeling relief. She then began to slacken off and soon began to sink into that same discomfort that brought her to the Chiropractor's door.
"I finally became annoyed and irritated with the pain and decided to go back to Dr. Rumph's office, and I then realized the importance of maintenance care—Nothing else seemed to help."

Auto Accident Victims Chiropractic Care Is Vital

X-Rays shown are taken to determine the existence and degree of spinal misalignment and subluxation. This is extremely important for the precision adjustment (replacement of misaligned vertebra).

Neck and spinal injuries, as a result of automobile accidents, are among the fastest growing problems in the country today. The ever increasing number of automobiles on our crowded highways provide the ideal opportunity for the type of accident that results in sudden impact injuries.

Whiplash is the most frequent result of the sudden impact injury. The victim experiences severe headaches, shoulder pain, neuralgia of the neck and many other symptoms which are seemingly unrelated. When the head and neck are violently thrown forward and then backward, one or more vertebrae in the spine can slip out of its normal position, interfering with the transmission of vital nerve energy.

Another common injury occurs when a person is thrown from the seat to the floor of a car, or against the car door. The sudden impact will be to the lower spine and, if the shock is great, vertebrae in this area will become dislocated. The symptoms of such an injury can include severe back pain, bladder disturbances, kidney disorders and menstrual distress among others.

As a result of any sudden impact injury, there may be sharp impingement of the nerves and consequent ill effects upon the victim's general health.

With modern scientific and corrective spinal adjustments, we can realign the vertebrae involved. Even a minor spinal injury can result in an unlimited variety of distressing and painful effects. Many disabling conditions occur years after an automobile accident, but can be traced back to the sudden impact injury.

Our Chiropractic Life Center specializes in treating sudden impact injuries. See us immediately after any type of accidental injury.

Painful Burning and Pinching Between the Shoulders

Have you ever had a painful, burning and pinching between your shoulder blades? Josephine Mullins had, but now she's feeling terrific through Chiropractic care. Before receiving her adjustments, Josephine had to sit with a book behind her mid-back (mid-dorsals), in order to feel comfortable. If she didn't, she would have the burning, pinching feeling in her shoulder area, as well as, pain located in her lower back (lumbar area) that would radiate toward the front with a burning sensation.

"After the first visit, I knew I needed it, now I feel a whole lot better," she says. "I thought he might make things worse by adjusting my bones, but in reality, Dr. Rumph has made things much better...."

Josephine Mullins

What Your Neighbors Say About the Rumph Chiropractic Life Center

These are only a few comments from friends who have visited the Rumph Chiropractic Life Center and gone away with renewed vigor, restored health and a strong sense of satisfaction.

"I have had sinus trouble for the past 24 years", which had gotten worse in the past five years. "After my first visit I felt much better. It seems so good not to have the daily headaches."

Margaret also realized back problems before coming into Dr. Rumph's office, but now, she says, "I don't have any back pain now, thank you Dr. Rumph."

Margaret Bennett

1. High Blood Pressure Pills 2. Cortizone 3. Nerve Pills

Delores was told she would have to take the cortizone pills for the rest of her life. That's when she became disgusted and came to Dr. Rumph's office.

Since her Chiropractic care started, she noticed her nerves "aren't as bad now", "no pills since 3 years ago, her blood pressure is down and her back trouble has been helped".

Now Delores tells her friend about Chiropractic and says, "If you want relief, go to a Chiropractor".

Delores Orenica

"It doesn't pay to neglect yourself", says Eugene Klatt, a patient at the Rumph Chiropractic Life Center. Eugene was suffering from a very painful condition known as "Tic Douloureux" which affects the face. She had a choice between going into a hospital to have a nerve cut to stop the pain or she could try Chiropractic. She talked it over with Dr. Rumph and agreed, if she could stand the pain a little longer, he would try to help her body heal itself. And he did, she adds, "Chiropractic is the way to go".

Eugene Klatt

"I don't care how demanding my schedule is, I know I can keep good health through regular adjustments". She adds, "I've gained a greater understanding of the body through Chiropractic and I know how to prevent a health problem. Just by going to see my Chiropractor, Dr. Rumph."

What You Ought To Know About On The Job Injuries

The welfare of the American workingman is of great importance to all members of our society. As a result, extensive research has been done to study all aspects of occupational injuries.

On the job injuries, which cost American businesses 100 million man hours annually, represent a tremendous loss in production and revenues.

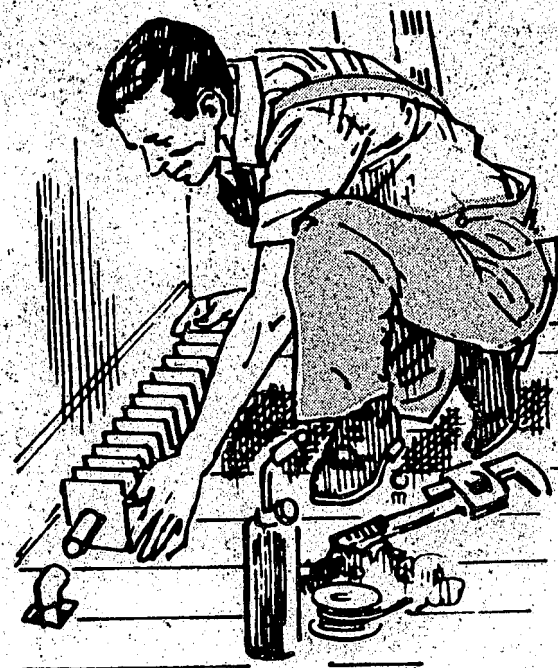

But our greatest concern is with the pain and anxiety suffered by the American workingman — our family, friends and neighbors — when such injuries occur.

The most common occupational injury is sacroiliac strain. It occurs when the sacrum or tailbone slips from its normal position in relationship to the bones of the pelvis. There is extensive muscular and ligamentous strain. The pain is excruciating and movement of the legs is restricted. Often the sciatic nerve becomes involved which produces even greater disability.

A person suffering from sacroiliac strain assumes a bent forward position. Any attempt to stand tall results in a sharp and stinging pain. This type of strain is serious. If unattended a sacroiliac strain can lead to chronic weakness of the region. This injury results from improper lifting, straining when pushing heavy objects and poor working posture. It can be felt anywhere along the spine. There may be an injury to one or more vertebrae. If the strain occurs in the upper back, shoulders and arms may become involved. There is muscular tension and soreness. Any type of motion causes increased pain and all positions, whether sitting, standing or lying, may be uncomfortable.

Spinal and sacroiliac strain are only two of the disabling conditions a worker may suffer with as a result of an on the job injury. But since back injuries account for one-tenth of the total time loss injuries in industry, it is this area which deserves attention. And it is this area in which chiropractic can achieve great success. Chiropractic attention will quickly reveal the involved vertebrae and corrective adjustments will bring about a quick relief of the symptoms and a rapid correction of the disorder.

The spine is the life line of the body and good general health depends upon good spinal health. If you or one of your loved ones are hurt on the job, consult our Chiropractic Life Center immediately. Modern scientific chiropractic procedures reduce suffering, time loss and the possibility of permanent serious injury.

There Is More To Chiropractic Than "Fixing" A Stiff Neck.

How often we come so close to the help we need and not know it - That's Sandy's story.

Sandy had a stiff neck and passed Dr. Rumph's office everyday but was apprehensive. She thought the adjustment would hurt and was surprised to find out it didn't and just how far reaching spinal adjustments can be. "I didn't realize there were other benefits to Chiropractic besides fixing my stiff neck," she said.

Sandy had a thyroid problem and found now that not only has this condition improved but her sinus headaches are gone and the drainage is greatly reduced.

"I'd come back anytime I have a problem," she says, "including preventative maintenance care."

Chiropractic Can Head Off Your Next HEADACHE

What's the most common complaint that people bring to our Chiropractic Life Center?

More than half of the people who visit our office complain about headaches. It has been estimated that there are over 200 different causes of headaches. Head pain can be a dull throb, a severe ache, a sharp, constant pounding or any variation in between. They may be classified as mechanical, functional, toxic and reflex. These are the most common types and they are caused by one common factor: nerve pressure.

When tension builds up in the neck muscles it causes tremendous pressure on the nerves. And that pressure is responsible for the headache.

Based upon scientific studies, every organ, gland, muscle and tissue of the body must be supplied with its quota of vital nerve energy. This energy, which originates in the brain, passes through the spinal column and branches out to every organ in the body. If these delicate nerves are subject to pressure, a distressing condition develops.

The Doctor of Chiropractic will correct this nerve interference and release the pent-up pressure that causes tension and headaches. Upon locating the misaligned segments of the spine your chiropractor will make an adjustment to restore the misaligned vertebra and remove the pressure on the delicate nerve trunks.

When this pressure is relieved, the vital nerve energy will flow unchecked and tension that builds in the muscles is relaxed. All glands, muscles and body parts will begin working together. Headaches are very rare in the human body under these conditions.

If you're plagued with headaches let your chiropractor help. He'll relieve the pressure, relax the tension, relieve the pain, and restore your good health.
