Good deeds afoot during Walk for SCAMP

The colorful jackets and winter caps worn by the walkers for SCAMP accent the positive, caring spirit of the 506 persons who gathered pledges and then hiked either three miles or 10 miles to benefit the summer camp. There were plenty of blisters, but no one wanted to cut short the walk—pledges were made at a minimum of 20 cents for each mile actually hiked. Preliminary count shows $20,295.87 cents in pledges to benefit SCAMP. For more photos of those walking to raise money for the camp, look throughout the second section of today's Clarkston News and on Page 56.

Pine Knob continues ski ramp quest

By Marilyn Trumper

Pine Knob Investment Co. promises a return to Oakland County Circuit Court in pursuit of a building permit to construct a 4,000-foot ski run, sans hotel.

"Absolutely, we'll be returning to circuit court," said David Howell, co-council with Thomas Raguso for Pine Knob.

The statement followed Independence Township's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) 3-2 vote Monday night to uphold the building department's decision mandating site plan approval of the proposed ski run.

ZBA member John Dunlop motioned to deny issuance of the building permit for two reasons.

First, based upon strict interpretation of Section 5.12 of the township's zoning ordinance and secondly, on a surprise argument from township attorney Richard Campbell.

Battered about at the meeting, Section 5.12 reads, "... site plan review and approval is required for all new principal uses, accessory buildings and additions to existing structures."

With testimony from professional planner Tod Kilroy, Campbell laid groundwork to show the hills at the Pine Knob had been built up by machines.

Raguso objected to that, saying there was no establishment of fact at that time.

Campbell continued, arguing that because the hills were manmade, they were erections as defined in the zoning ordinance. Further, he said, the ordinance defines a structure as anything constructed or erected which requires a permanent location.

"Therefore, site plan review is required per Section 5.12 because you're making an addition to an existing structure. Construction of the proposed ski hill would be on top of an existing structure—the hill," he said.

Raguso held steadfastly to the same argument he used before Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem two weeks ago.

"The proposed ski run is not an accessory building or an addition to an existing structure.

We don't feel we're required to go before the planning commission for site plan approval. The use is the same," he said.

"Further, Section 31.02 of the ordinance says, '... if the proposed excavation, construction, moving or alteration or use of land as set forth in the application are in conformity with the provisions of this ordinance, statutes and regulations, the building official shall issue a permit.'

"The word 'shall' means mandatory; it's not discretionary," Raguso said. "We're asking this board to allow issuance of the building permit. We have complied with the laws of the township."

Pine Knob first took its argument to circuit court, charging the township's building department illegally and improperly denied a building permit for construction of the ski run.

On Oct. 8, Judge Ziem directed Pine Knob to return to the township's ZBA with its request, and to exhaust all administrative avenues before returning to the courts.

ZBA member Jerry Powell voted against the motion to deny the building permit.

"I don't see the proposed ski run as a principal use. Skiing has been there for a number of years," Powell said. "I don't see it as an accessory building either. I don't know about the hills being defined as structures because they've filled in some dirt."

"I've moved a lot of dirt around over the years, and I was never required to go before the planning commission for site plan approval. I don't consider the hills as structures," he said.

ZBA Chairman, Mel Vaara also voted against the motion.

Vaara said he would not comment on his decision, saying only that he might have to appear in court on this issue someday.

ZBA members John Dunlop, Robert Newlin and Paul Menke voted to deny permit issuance and uphold the building department's decision.

Pine Knob Investment Co. is proposing the construction of a 185-foot high ski run which would rise five feet above the current radio tower on the Knob's highest peak.

According to plans submitted to the building department, the ski run is to be constructed of poured concrete and steel, and to measure approximately 92 feet wide with 80 in the center for skiing.

Don't miss our voters' guide

They all agree: Tisch carries negative effects

By Marilyn Trumper

Opinions vary on three tax proposals appearing on the November ballot.

But one thing is certain.

James Brennan of Oakland County government, Milford Mason of Clarkston school and Frank Ronk of the Independence Township Fire Department all oppose the Tisch Amendment.

Nobody really knows what impact the Tisch Amendment will have on township and county governments.

That's the opinion of James M. Brennan, Oakland County's director of management and the budget and a member of the Independence Township Planning Commission.

"As I understand it, it means about a 20 percent loss in property tax revenue to the township. I don't know what that would mean to the township," he said.

"But to the county it means between $16 million to $17 million lost. That figure does not count the proposed amendment to Section 2 for the rollback to 1978 tax base and rate," he said.

"It's going to be difficult to determine what those were and it will probably end up in court. A lot of the unanswered questions in this amendment will probably end up in court," Brennan said.

The proposed Smith-Bullard package will not immediately affect the county but would affect the township, he said.

"It would set a constitutional limitation of 7 mills for the county, and now we are at 4.7 mills. We're authorized to levy 5.26 mills," he said.

"The township will have a constitutional limitation of 2 mills with a limit on an additional voted 2 mills. We already have 4 mills now between police and fire," he said.

The Milliken Coalition proposal, he said, has several detrimental points.

The proposal refers several times to nine laws that have already been voted in, contingent upon passage of the proposal, he said.

"This means the Milliken Coalition is subject to legislative interpretation. We (the county) are opposed to its effects," Brennan said.

Independence Township Fire Chief Frank Ronk is not in favor of any tax proposal on the November ballot and speaks out strongly against the Tisch Amendment.

"If Tisch works the way it's proposed on its face, there will be drastic cuts in this department. We will lose one full mill if the proposal passes, that's over $200,000," he said.

"I don't know what those cuts will be — that decision would be up to the township board. But I foresee cuts in service and the possibility of closing another fire station and leaving one open on a full-time basis," he said.

"I'm not in favor of any of the three tax proposals but I do understand that people are seeking a tax break. I think the state legislature should handle the budget cuts in a way that people don't have to implement tax cuts," he said.

Milford T. Mason, superintendent of Clarkston Schools, is opposed to passage of the proposed Tisch Amendment.

"On the face of the Tisch Amendment we'll lose 40 percent of our current revenue in my opinion," Mason said.

"That means for the 1981-82 school year, I project an unreplaceable loss of over $5 million in our budget."

"On the face of the Tisch Amendment, it cuts assessments back and the state makes up the loss in money. This practice would be devastating, because the state won't have the money available to replace the loss."

"The Milliken Coalition is no better for the schools. I project that, if it's voted in, for the 1981-82 school year we'll lose $78,000."

"Smith-Bullard has the prospect of helping this district," Mason said, "more so than any of the other two proposals."

The proposal sets out to equalize over the next five years the money available for school district across the state, he said.

"There is great disparity under the existing system. A school district in the southern area of Oakland County might have $3,000 a student to operate the schools and Clarkston might receive $1,175 a student to operate the schools," he said.

"Smith-Bullard proposes to equalize that over the next five years, and I estimate that for the 1981-82 school year, if that proposal passes, we'll increase our budget by $1.7 million," he said.

The Wolves are winning, but where are the crowds?

Attendance at the Clarkston High School varsity football games this season has been respectable, but a far cry from the figures attained in 1977 when the Wolves chalked up a 9-0 record and earned a berth in the prep playoffs.

"The crowds have been a little disappointing," said CHS Athletic Director Paul Tugate, noting that the 1980 Wolves are in good shape to repeat the 1977 squad's achievements.

Clarkston's last home game drew about 2,000 fans, compared to crowds of 3,000 to 4,000 three years ago.

You can hop in the car and drive four-and-one-half more miles this year than you could last year in Independence Township.

The new subdivision streets in the township are among 28 miles of roads added to the Oakland County road system so far in 1980.

Leading the way is Avon Township with 9.4 miles, followed by West Bloomfield with 4.8, Independence with 4.5 and Commerce with 3 miles.

New county roads in Springfield Township totaled .9 mile.

The county has the longest road system in Michigan with a total of 2,546 miles.

In the judicial maze of today's court system, it's nice to know you can go right to the top with any questions.

When the Clarkston News called the chambers of Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer for elaboration on one of his recent decisions, we were put on hold by a secretary who chose to hunt down an informed court clerk, instead of the Judge.

"Hello. May I help you?"

"Is this the court clerk?"

"Yes it is. May I help you?"

The question was asked followed by a short pause on the other end of the line.

"I have a confession to make," the voice said. "This is Judge Beer. I was just walking by and the light was on, so I picked up the phone."

He was more than happy to answer our questions.

Champs in action

League championships have become the rule for the Clarkston High School JV football team, and the 1980 season is no exception. The JVs wrapped up their third straight league title last week, rolling to a 39-7 over Milford to post a final league record of 5-0 and overall mark to 6-1 with two games remaining. State Representative candidates:

Discuss taxes, toxic waste, mass transit, adult foster care, abortion

By Al Zawacky

State Representative Claude Trim says he will stand on his record and experience, factors he feels indicate he merits reelection to another two-year term in Lansing.

Trim, a Democrat, is seeking his fourth term as representative from the 60th district, which includes the townships of Holly, Rose, Highland, Groveland, Springfield, Brandon, Independence and part of Waterford.

"Basically, I feel I know my district and the people in it," Trim says. "My roots are here and I understand the needs of the district."

"I've had experience in local government and I have experience in Lansing. I feel I've been responsive to the needs and requests of the residents and that I deserve to be returned to Lansing."

Trim sees the need for property tax relief as being one of the major issues in the state, but says he cannot support any of the three tax proposals on the November ballot: The Tisch amendment, Smith-Bullard and the Milliken Coalition.

"I think the need for tax relief is there," Trim says. "I've introduced legislation in the past to reduce assessments from 50 percent to 40 percent."

"I can see problems in all three tax proposals, but I'm willing to work to implement any proposal that the voters approve," he adds.

It's evident from talking to people that people want tax relief and that the Tisch amendment very well could pass, but I feel that as drastic a cut as Tisch proposes would curtail too many essential state programs.

"As a state representative, I have worked on the Smith-Bullard proposal, and I think if people want property tax relief, but want to make sure that essential state services aren't cut, they should look into Smith-Bullard."

Trim says he has proposed legislation that would help solve the adult foster care home controversy that currently exists not only in the 60th district, but throughout the state.

"I've introduced legislation to try and get a proper advanced notification procedure," he says, "the intent being that before a home would go in, local government and the citizens affected would have a chance to express their concerns."

"As it stands now, people feel these foster care facilities are being forced on them."

Trim, who serves as chairman of the house mental health committee, says he remains a supporter of the "mainstreaming" concept which removes patients from large institutions to community-based foster care homes.

"I supported the original (foster care) bills, and I remain a supporter of the foster care concept," he says. "But we have had some horrendous incidents around the state, which I feel are the result of improper screening."

"If we screen patients properly, give advance notification and provide some channels where people can relay any problems that arise, the foster care home concept can work."

Toxic waste is another crucial issue in the state, says Trim, adding that the major problem today is cleaning up existing sites.

"I introduced a resolution in

Incumbent Claude Trim

Challenger Sharyn Gidday

By Al Zawacky

Sharyn Gidday, Republican candidate for state representative in the 60th District, says Michigan's toxic waste situation is a "tremendous problem" and the "top priority in this state."

"We've got a dangerous situation in this state that nobody's willing to face," Gidday says. "Who can know how chemical wastes in the ground water will affect us or our children 30 years from now?"

"Everybody keeps passing the buck — we've got to elect leaders who are willing to face this problem and do something about it."

The toxic waste issue is a relevant one to 60th District voters, she points out, with potentially dangerous dumping sites having turned up in Springfield and Rose townships.

Gidday proposes that the state should immediately commence construction of at least one EPA approved toxic waste disposal facility, built in a joint venture with large, pollutant-producing firms located in Michigan.

Providing the proper economic incentives for private investment and operating the facility as a private enterprise venture would mean better efficiency and lower cost, according to Gidday.

"If Henry Ford II can rally business leaders to build the Ren Cen, then some far-sighted business leader should be able to put together the money and manpower to build a 'Tox Cen,'" she says.

"We have the technology to safely dispose of these hazardous wastes — and the cost isn't that much when you consider the cost of cleaning up dangerous dump sites."

While a strong supporter of property tax relief, Gidday says she has reservations about all three tax proposals on the Michigan ballot: the Tisch proposal, Smith-Bullard and the Milliken Coalition.

Dismissing the Milliken Coalition as a tax shift rather than tax relief and expressing the fear that Smith-Bullard would threaten local control of the schools, Gidday says she will reluctantly vote for the Tisch amendment.

"I think the Tisch amendment's concept is good, but (Shiawassee Drain Commissioner Robert) Tisch couldn't have known what condition Michigan's economy would be in when he wrote the amendment," she says.

"Still we've got to do something. Property taxes in this state are killing people. If we could trust the legislature to cut out only the fat, the waste, the bureaucracy, the wasteful programs, I think the Tisch amendment could work. That's what I would work for as a state representative."

Adult foster care homes are another crucial and emotional issue in the 60th district and throughout the state, says Gidday.

"I think the concept of 'mainstreaming' is a sensible and humanitarian goal," she says. "These people need help, treatment and compassion, and if it's at all possible to keep them out of an institution, it should be done."

"But I don't think you can overlook property owners' rights and the right of local control."

Gidday criticized many of the existing foster care homes as be-

Independence to appeal court decision on ZBA

By Marilyn Trumper

Independence Township attorney Richard Campbell intends to appeal a circuit court decision that allows Pine Knob to take sworn statements from members of the township's zoning board of appeals (ZBA) regarding their review of the proposed 20-story, ski-run-roof hotel.

"I plan to ask the court of appeals to review the judge's decision permitting the taking of ZBA depositions," Campbell said. "I won't be able to do that until Pine Knob enters their order directing the ZBA members be deposed."

On Oct. 8, Oakland County

Circuit Court Judge Francis X. O'Brien ruled in favor of Pine Knob Investment Co.'s motion to take sworn statements from ZBA members.

Judge O'Brien said he could find nothing which prohibited the act.

Campbell disagrees.

"I don't feel the ZBA members are subject to inquiry. As long as their decision was made in good faith there's no reason to take the statements," he said. "And there have been no allegations that their decision was not made in good faith."

Campbell also said he will ask the appeals court for a stay in the taking of depositions until a decision has been made on the appeal.

On July 23, the township's ZBA unanimously denied a 200-foot height variance and 1,000 space parking lot variance request for the proposed hotel.

Co-owners of Pine Knob Investment Co., Gary Francell and Joseph Locricchio, are suing the township for $30 million or a building permit.

The lawsuit, filed against the township in February, has not yet been heard by Judge O'Brien and no court date has been set.

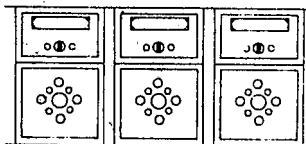

Budget review

Community members will have a chance to review the 1980-81 budget for Clarkston Community Schools and to make comments on the proposal during the annual public meeting Monday, Oct. 27.

Revenue for the school year is estimated to be $12,368,475 and the proposed budget is approximately $13 million.

Copies of the proposed budget are now available for review during normal business hours at the Clarkston School Board offices, 6389 Clarkston-Orion, Independence Township.

The public hearing is to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the board office and copies of the budget are also to be available that evening.

Taxes: Our opinion

Don't say you're sick of hearing about the three tax propositions on the Nov 4 ballot.

Get mad. Get interested. Pull a lever.

We're doing all three. We've been getting mad at the inaction in Lansing since our officials failed to recognize the mood of the people of Michigan prior to the 1978 election.

Lansing, the legislature and Governor, fought Headlee and fought it's enactment.

Only after Robert Tisch got in motion for the 1980 election did the two Lansing powers come up with tax proposals.

Then what did they do? They came up with tax increases.

Proposition A and C are tax increases.

Both cut property tax, but both will bring more revenue to Lansing than is presently budgeted.

We'll vote "no" to Proposition A and Proposition C.

We'll vote "yes" on Proposition D.

position D.

We're darn mad at the scare tactics, the threats, the pressure being used by governments... schools, Lansing, local, and education associated people, universities, Michigan Education Association.

Our daughter goes to Central Michigan University. Harold Abel, president of CMU, sent us a letter intimating CMU will be closed down if Tisch passes.

He quotes the state budget director as recommending closing all state universities and colleges except the "Big Three".

The budget director may propose it, but that's a heck of a long way from it happening.

Let us tell you some other things the budget director recommends cutting. And, please note he has included cuts that affect everyone and every geographic area of Michigan.

1. Eliminate commissions for substance control, Indian affairs, Spanish, crime victims and women.

2. Eliminate licensing of auto-mechanics, meat inspection, international agricultural trade promotion, environmental services, marketing and bargaining board (didn't even know there was one).

3. Closing national guard armories and Camp Grayling.

4. Eliminate general assistance to able bodied adults and reduce payment levels for welfare recipients by 10 percent.

5. Eliminate UP Fair appropriation, employee safety checks, construction code, inspection, handicapper concerns, employment of the blind, inspection of elevators, boilers and skilifts, and workers comp appeals board.

6. Stop all state construction projects.

What? The budget director isn't cutting out the fire marshal?

Do you (or even the state budget director) really believe all this will happen? Of course not. J.A.S.

Good vibes

by Kathy Greenfield

It was a sight to behold.

About 500 Walkers for SCAMP gathered Sunday at the Clarkston Village Park — they were there despite the cold weather, the dark rain clouds and the mist in the air.

The bright reds, yellows and oranges of their winter caps and jackets symbolized the positive, giving activity they shared as they set off for three-mile or 10-mile hikes to benefit SCAMP.

The group has gathered pledges totaling over $20,000 for the summer camp for 200 youths who may have special needs or may be physically handicapped.

The five-week camp serves children mostly from northern Oakland County in seven school districts.

For Pat Loveless and Greg Seaman, co-chairpersons for the Walk for SCAMP, the gathering was the culmination of a year of planning and organizing.

Things ran smoothly — kids signed up at picnic tables labeled with the name of their school and were required to check in there when they returned from the walk.

Then, they each received a certificate and were able to snack on hot dogs, potato chips and a beverage. There was even a disc jockey — "Loose Willie" — spinning tunes to give it a party feeling.

"It's just a treat to say thank you. You've done a tremendous job for us. Here's something for you," Greg said.

Perhaps the best part about the Walk for SCAMP is the positive feeling all who participate come away with about people.

"You can appreciate what people will do for you when you ask them," said Greg. "There's no way to say thank you."

"It's just very, very gratifying — just the number of people and the participation from sponsors," said Pat. "There are so many, from all over. We've had pledges from people as far away as Saudi Arabia and Ontario, Canada."

They both agree it's impossible to describe the feeling, but as Pat was talking, a young girl walked by with her parents who complimented Pat on a job well done and the girl paused to give Pat a big hug.

"Just super-people," Pat said. "Oh boy!"

There's so much more to this story — the summer camp itself is where the results really show.

Anyone who's been at the camp knows — the place just bubbles over with affection and positive feelings.

And most of the money to fund the camp comes from donations and fund raisers like the Walk.

It costs about $60,000 to run the camp and the $20,000 in pledges gathered by the walkers makes it the largest single fund raiser.

Another great thing is that the walkers have traditionally gathered over 100 percent of the amount pledged.

Don't be so shy!

the people of Independence Township vote for incumbents Supervisor Whitey Tower and Treasurer Ritter.

In my opinion, I know of no one else on the township board, that I've been privileged to serve on the past two years, who has reflected more true concern for all the citizens and displayed a bigger heart than Whitey Tower.

Rudy Lozano
Outgoing township trustee

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter based on an earlier column of a concerned editor at The Clarkston News about future decisions at the Independence Township Board level possibly being made in someone's living room as opposed to being made at the board level.

And, like the editor, I am also concerned.

I agree with the statement that was also made that individualism is important on the part of elected officials and feel that in the past two years we have had that.

We haven't had Republicans versus Democrats, trustees against supervisors.

We've always had seven individual thoughts which make for good discussion and, I feel, for good decision making.

It's because of this same concern that I feel it imperative that

Jim's jottings

Ballot confusion

by Jim Sherman

Politics may be making it's first appearance in this column. Maybe not, my memory is getting worse and it never was good.

Hazel calls it a "convenient" memory.

The reason for the political comments is because of the ridiculousness of the situation. The 'stray' was a letter and insert from secretary of state Richard Austin.

And, a note in the 'Morning Friendly' didn't sooth our nerves much.

Austin's form letter, addressed to all Michigan newspapers, states, in part: "The compiled laws of Michigan orders the Secretary of State to 'duly prepare a CONCISE (emphasis added) statement setting forth the nature of any such proposed amendment,' etc., etc."

The idea is to get newspapers to publish the Propositions to give wide publicity.

We have no argument with informing the public on the amendments.

However, the 'concise statement' is on a sheet of paper three (3) feet wide and four (4) feet, two (2) inches long.

Voters, there is no way in the world to hold it, let alone read it.

Too, a professor from Western Michigan University says two of the state propositions, A and D, cannot be understood by 10 percent of the people. He really thought only 5 percent could understand them.

And, the politicians, newspapers, etc., say: "We urge you to know the issues and vote."

The second piece of frustration in the Free Press had to do with the leaders of Michigan's House of Representatives ordering cutbacks, on hiring, travel, telephone calls, and the use of copying machines because of the state's budget crunch.

House leaders Bobby Crim and William Bryant outlined the cuts. It is estimated $500,000 will be saved during the last three months of the year.

The recession in Michigan started in March 1979.

It has taken our Leaders in Lansing 19 months to order some simple, obvious, money saving moves.

Only now, less than three weeks before the election, do our leaders order cutbacks in spending, cutbacks that reasonable voters would assume would have been made in April, 1979.

And, our elected, and appointed, representatives in all levels of government don't choose to understand why taxpayers are angry.

30 hours later, doll has clothes

She creates outfit sure to delight needy child

By Kathy Greenfield

Helen Smorto was taught how to crochet by a German nun.

"I was raised in a convent school in California," she says. "I guess I must have been about 3 years old. Since I was the youngest girl there, she had to do something, so she put a crochet needle in my hands."

The nun, Helen says, was like a saint.

"She used to make all the hats for the girls in the winter — there were about 60 girls," she says.

Although Helen knew how to crochet, she didn't really start using her skill until her daughter was born 21 years ago.

"I didn't get too involved until I realized how expensive it was to buy girl's clothes," she laughs.

Her latest work is now on display at Manufacturers Bank of Southfield's Clarkston Branch.

It seems a fitting tribute to the nun Helen remembers so fondly that the doll is to go to a little girl who is needy or in the hospital at Christmastime.

The doll is one of about 1,000 provided by the Manufacturers Corp. and distributed to about 120 offices for clothing.

All the dolls will be on display at the Detroit office of the corporation until mid-November when they are given to the Goodfellows.

Helen was brought into the project when the branch employees decided to find someone in the community to dress the doll.

"Helen had worn a couple of outfits she had crocheted — she's really into western wear," said Daniel O'Connor, branch officer.

"We had made a number of comments on her crocheting ability," he says. "Marybeth thought she was the obvious choice, because none of us had that ability."

Marybeth Armour, administrative assistant at the bank, asked Helen if she would dress the doll.

"I just went into the bank one day and Marybeth said, 'Hey, we've got a deal for you. How would you like to make something for this doll?'" says Helen. "And I said, 'Oh sure, it will probably take me a couple of hours."

"I started and I just got carried away," she says. "Thirty hours later."

The doll is dressed in a red cowgirl outfit with silver trim. She wears a hat with a feather and sequined band, carries a lariat and has a holster complete with a miniature gun.

"I like to design. It's just a challenge to see if you can do it," says Helen.

She did it. The outfit is basically a body stocking except for the skirt that is fastened over top.

It's the kind of gift that would make a little girl's eyes dance with pleasure.

Helen and her husband Alfred moved to their home on Allen Road in Independence Township in June.

They have three children — Mike, 18; Debbie, 21; and Jimmy, 23 — and a grandson who owns a sailor suit and a snowsuit designed and crocheted by Helen.

Helen chose western regalia for her doll's outfit she designed and crocheted. The doll is to go to a needy child at Christmastime.

It's a fine line

by Jim Fitzgerald

The following paragraphs, concerning animals, may appear to be unrelated, but actually they have a thin thread running through them. You're invited to follow the thread.

- For 10 cents you can buy a goldfish in a Dearborn Heights pet shop and watch it be eaten alive by piranhas and oscars, carnivorous fish from South America. Some spectators are so fascinated by cannibalism they spend $5 in one visit.

- A big bear recently mutilated a small bear at the Detroit Zoo while the public watched. One man was so angered he wrote my very favorite letter to the editor: "I will never take kids to the Detroit Zoo again after witnessing the revolting carnage. . . . The zoo attendants just watched. Is that what we pay them to do? The Detroit Zoo will never get my money again. I would like to see that large bear stoned to death."

- Influenced by her radical parents, a young woman vowed long ago never to buy a coat made from the fur of an animal killed just to keep her warm and stylish. But last month she bought a used mink coat. Her explanation is that General Motors would make Cadillacs even if there weren't a market for previously owned cars.

- A dedicated outdoorsman, fighting to keep oil drillers out of a state forest, explained he needs the forest for training his dogs to run bear and raccoons. A true sportsman, he explained that during training season he doesn't shoot the animals, he just chases and trees them. Naturally, this is nice for the bear and raccoons, who probably sit up in the trees and thank God they don't have to worry about oil slicks.

- The New York Times recently published an article about a hog farmer who economizes by raising his product in tight, confining quarters. This prompted Anne Xanthippe George of Westland to write the Times: "I have an even better idea. . . . Why not stand the hogs on their heads, side by side, thereby saving even more space and money. So what, if these living, breathing creatures are agonized and uncomfortable? Makes no difference, they face slaughter anyway. When death is inevitable, suffering is immaterial."

- News item: "Hercules the Bear, a 560-pound grizzly who makes $45,000 a year doing toilet paper commercials in England, has been missing since he decided to go for a swim off the coast of Scotland last month." Sudden thought: Maybe Hercules discovered he didn't need $45,000 any more than he needed toilet paper.

- A University of Texas researcher fed marijuana to male mice to prove it lowers their sexual desire. I learned from a private source that this important study was financed by the Dallas Health Department in an effort to lower the incident of male mice in singles bars.

- My favorite outdoor writer, in defending the trapping of animals, expressed exaggeration over anti-trappers who protest by evoking the image of Bambi and charging that cruel treatment of animals leads directly to cruel treatment of human beings. "How 'antis' can equate the feelings and sensitivities of wild animals with those of humans is beyond me," he wrote. "A childhood spent at the knee of Walt Disney, probably."

End of thin thread. So where are we? I don't know about you, but I'm up a tree with a slightly used $45,000-a-year bear, fleeing oil slicks and clapping my paws in glee at the thought of the man who was so angered by the sight of violence at the zoo that he wants to see a bear stoned to death. But who should throw the first stone at a stoned mouse?

My trouble, obviously, is that I can equate the feelings and sensitivities of wild animals with those of humans. I really don't know how I got this way, because I never saw a Walt Disney movie that didn't make me wish I were anywhere else. But I hereby promise to change my foolish attitude on the same day a raccoon tells me it enjoys being chased up a tree by a dog.

Speaking of dogs, if it costs 10 cents to watch a piranha eat a goldfish, how much does it cost to watch a dog eat a cat?

Gidday: 'The Detroit subway is a loser...'

ing poorly staffed and operated for profit above and beyond the welfare of the patients.

"It's nothing but a business, and I think we should take the profit-making out of it," she says. "These homes are becoming mini-institutions, with no real differences from the large institutions other than being less cost efficient."

Gidday proposes an immediate moratorium on the creation of more foster care homes, phasing out profit-making homes on a selective basis, and if necessary the establishment of a new mental health institution on the site of the present Clinton Valley Center in Pontiac.

The cost of the new facility, which would stress a humanitarian "village" concept complete with small homes and shops, "would not be any greater than what we are presently paying the profiteers," Gidday notes.

"I just can't accept the idea of having these homes jammed down people's throats in violation of historically protected zoning and use restrictions," she says.

Although she is personally opposed to abortion, she would not favor a constitutional amendment banning it and feels that the state has an obligation to fund abortions for women who cannot afford them.

"I oppose abortion on moral grounds, but since they are legal in this state I don't think that economics should play a role in whether a woman has an abortion or not," Gidday says.

She favors the concept of mass transit, but is strongly opposed to the proposed Detroit Woodward Avenue subway.

"It (the subway) is a loser," Gidday says. "If Detroit wants it, Detroit can pay for it. We need a mass transit system that will benefit the entire (tri-county) area."

A former Highland Township treasurer, Gidday says she is well-qualified for the post of state representative.

"I think it should be known that I was a past supporter of (Democratic opponent) Claude Trim," she notes. "It wasn't until I began investigating his voting record that I decided to run."

"He's walked out on crucial votes when he chose to give in to party pressure rather than represent the people of his district," she adds. "I don't think he deserves to be re-elected."

Trim: 'I've repeatedly fought...the subway'

1978 that led to toxic waste disposal legislation," he says. "The law stipulates that only licensed haulers can handle toxic materials and that corporations have to go on public record as to what they've done with their waste."

With the legislation, an incident similar to the one that occurred in Springfield and Highland townships could no longer take place, says Trim.

"We hope to have the law fully implemented by December," he adds. "So basically our problem now is what to do with the stuff that is already there. I've gone on record fighting for bonding measures to clean up the remaining sites. We have the expertise to do it."

Trim says he would favor a mass transit plan that would service the largest number of people possible in the tri-county area, and doesn't think that the Detroit Woodward Avenue subway fits the bill.

"I've repeatedly fought against bills for the Detroit subway," he says. "What we have to look at is a total mass transit package for the entire area."

"People in my district do their shopping in Flint, Pontiac and other areas. They won't benefit at all by the proposed subway."

"I think that any transportation system we approve should service their needs as well."

Trim says that while he remains personally opposed to abortion, he would not favor a constitutional amendment banning abortion.

He does not, however, favor state funding of abortion.

"Although I am not personally in favor of abortion, I realize that there are times when it is in the best health and interest of the mother," he says.

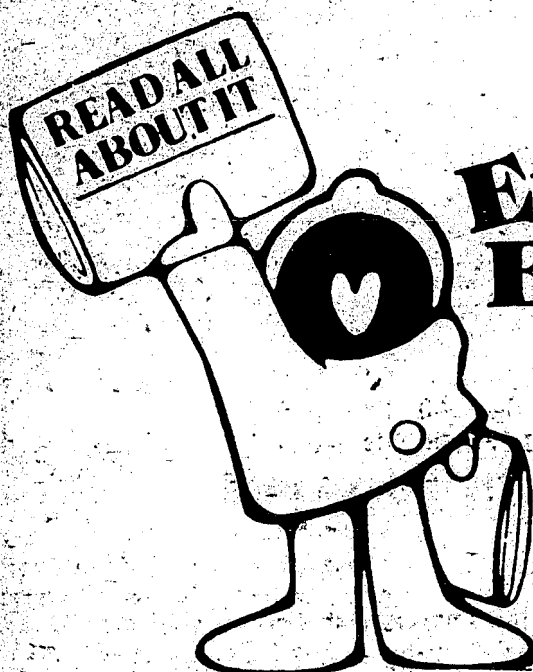

"But I don't think that the state should be obliged to pay for it."

Circuit court rules they're unconstitutional

County SEMTA questions removed from ballot

Oakland County's series of advisory questions regarding the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority's (SEMTA) proposed mass transit system have been removed from the November ballot.

On Oct. 15, Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer ruled the Oakland County Board of Commissioners had acted illegally by placing the questions on the ballot and he issued a restraining order to keep the questions off the ballot.

"They had no authority to put those questions on the ballot,"

Beer said the following day. "What they did was unconstitutional. It was against the law."

"Secondly, I am in agreement with the League of Women Voters that the wording of the questions were misleading to voters," he said.

The League of Women Voters and four citizens of Oakland County had filed suit, charging the wording of the advisory questions were misleading and ambiguous.

Friday morning, the county Clerk and Register of Deeds Lynn D. Allen was insuring that all townships within the county were removing the advisory questions from their ballots.

The questions asked whether or not Oakland County should levy a tax to county property owners, to pay for the construction, maintenance or operation of SEMTA's proposed mass transit system including a subway.

They also asked if the county should raise funds for the project or if the county should assess a tax without voter approval.

Life sentence

Albert Hartford, found guilty in September of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting death of an Independence Township store clerk, was sentenced Oct. 8 to life imprisonment without parole to be spent in solitary confinement at hard labor.

Oakland County circuit Court Judge William J. Beer sentenced the 22-year-old Pontiac man to an additional life sentence for assault with intent to murder and two years for possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Hartford remains in the Oakland county Jail pending transportation to Marquette State Prison.

A second defendant, Michael Goscicki, 17, of Walled Lake, was found guilty of second-degree murder in the same shooting and was scheduled for sentencing before Judge Beer the same day.

Goscicki's sentencing was postponed until Oct. 28 at his attorney's request.

Hartford's younger brother Charles, 17, of Walled Lake, and Goscicki were charged as accomplices for waiting in the getaway car used in the robbery.

Charles has been found innocent of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting.

All three defendants still face charges of armed robbery in connection with the same incident.

Loan bid accepted

The "low and only" bid for a loan of $1 million to the Clarkston Community School District was accepted at last week's school board meeting.

Although the school district sought bids from four lending agencies, only one, Pontiac State Bank, offered to loan the money.

The $1 million loan, due on or before June 30, 1981 carries an interest rate of 7.56 percent.

Last year, the district was charged an interest rate of 6.72 percent, but the increase was within reason, said Milford Mason, superintendent of schools.

"That's not a surprising rate with the condition of the market," he said.

School board members voted unanimously to accept the bid.

Sheriff's log

Thursday, thieves took a bicycle parked in the hallway of an apartment complex on Lingor Road, Independence Township. Cost to replace the black, 27 inch, 10-speed Schwinn Centennial is estimated at $300, according to police reports.

Friday, Police recovered a bicycle on the corner of Maybee and Stevens roads, Independence Township.

The 26 inch, maroon Schwinn Continental was taken to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Friday, thieves broke the basement window of a home on Deerwood Circle, Independence Township, entered the basement and took a lamp valued at $50, $100 in silver dollars and $146 in cash, according to police reports.

Friday, thieves broke into a home on Cherrywood Road, Independence Township, and took $37 in cash, according to police reports.

Friday, vandals threw a steel pipe through the side window of an occupied home on Mary Sue Road, Independence Township. Cost to replace the damaged window is not available, according to police reports.

Saturday, thieves broke into an unoccupied home on Bristol Park Road, Independence Township, and took over $3,500 in furniture and appliances, according to police reports.

The thieves reportedly entered through the home's sliding glass doors and took the brass headboard and footboard for a king size bed valued at $2,700, reports said.

They also took brass headboards and footboards for a queen and twin size bed, two brass tables, a microwave oven and a dishwasher valued at $500.

Sunday, vandals threw stones and broke nine windows at a home on North-Eston Road, Independence Township, according to police reports.

Cost to repair the damages is not available.

Sunday, thieves twisted the garage and inside door handles off an unoccupied home on Amy Drive, Independence Township, and broke into the home.

The thieves took a tea set valued at $64, a silver tray valued at $300, a dish and tray valued at $160, two brass candle holders valued at $70 and a crystal candy dish valued at $40, according to police reports.

Sunday, vandals threw a rock through the front window of a home on Big Lake Road, Springfield Township, according to police reports.

Cost to repair the damaged window is not available.

Cost to repair the damaged window is not available.

Sunday, thieves broke into an unoccupied home on Drayton Road, Independence Township, and took six silver dollars and five $2 bills, according to police reports.

The above information was gathered from Oakland County Sheriff's Department reports.

Salaries hiked

Salary hikes of 9.8 percent yearly are part of a two-year secretarial employees' contract ratified by the Clarkston School Board last week.

The contract is retroactive to July 1 and runs through June 30, 1982.

"They (the salaries) were below the average of the county and we felt a little upgrading was due," said Conrad Bruce, administrative assistant for Clarkston schools who represented the district in negotiations with the secretaries' labor union.

The new contract also allows for a reduction in the secretarial staff during summer months; he said, and that was not part of the agreement before.

The school board unanimously ratified the contract.

Wolves wrap up championship

Milford rout climaxes Clarkston's romp to league title

By Al Zawacky

Somehow, it seems totally inadequate to say that the Clarkston Wolves "beat" the Milford Redskins Friday night. The Redskins weren't "beat." They were thrashed. Destroyed. Ambushed. Mauled. Annihilated and obliterated.

This was the same Milford squad that gave Kettering and West Bloomfield all they could handle; the same team that figured to be in the thick of the Greater Oakland Activities League title race at the start of the season.

By coasting to a 41-0 victory over the Redskins, the Clarkston High School varsity football team not only wrapped up an undefeated league campaign and a GOAL title, but also seemed to prove a point about the 1980 title race.

Milford, West Bloomfield, Kettering and the rest weren't just outscored by the Wolves this season. They were outclassed.

"Clarkston did pretty much anything they wanted to do," agreed Milford Head Coach Larry Bittinger in the silent Redskin locker room.

"They came prepared to play, pushed us around and dominated the line of scrimmage. Man for man — they're probably just a better football team."

After the game Clarkston Head Coach Walt Wyniemko could be found near the team buses, smiling and shaking the dozens of hands extended in congratulations on his first league title at Clarkston.

"This was a very big game for us," Wyniemko said later. "It's very rare for a team to win the GOAL championship outright without having to share it — and that's been our goal from the start of the season."

"We're all very happy about it."

But if you're inclined to think that Clarkston's chief mentor might grow a little complacent now that his team's first big objective has been met, you'd better brush up on your Walt Wyniemko.

A 9-0 season and a spot in the playoffs will have to take a back seat to the Wolves' next goal: Beating Rochester Adams at Rochester this Saturday afternoon.

"We'll take them one at a time," Wyniemko said, restating a favorite axiom.

"All we can think about now is Adams — traditionally, they've been a strong nemesis against Clarkston. They haven't got a very good record this year and they haven't scored a lot of points, but they haven't given up very many either."

Of course, the Wolves'

defense hasn't been known for its generosity this season any more than Adams' has — a situation readily apparent against Milford, Clarkston's fifth shutout victim in seven games this year.

Combine the play of the defense with the Wolves' second highest offensive production of the season, and the Milford band should have stuck around until the final whistle to play taps.

Quarterback Brad Sheldon had perhaps his best night of the season, scoring one touchdown on a 1-yard dive and passing for two others to teammate Greg Wilson.

Mark Hughes, Bruce Burwitz and Dave Fulcher scored the other three Clarkston TDs on runs of 39, 32 and five yards respectively. Ron Feneley was five for six in the extra point department.

At 7-0 on the season, a league title wrapped up and non-league contests against Rochester Adams and Brighton remaining, the Wolves are in excellent shape to qualify for post-season playoff action — provided they don't make the mistake of looking past any of their last two opponents, Wyniemko noted.

"Our record stands for itself," Wyniemko said, reflecting on his team's successful conclusion of the GOAL title quest. "Some people might think that they had better talent and would like to play us again, but like I've said before, football is a one-shot deal."

"On the nights we played our league opponents, we were the best team."

[End of League Schedule]

Wolves in Brief

The wit and wisdom of Milford Head Coach Larry Bittinger: "If you want my honest opinion," Bittinger said when asked to compare Clarkston to West Bloomfield and Kettering, "Rochester was the toughest team in the league."

Bittinger's two assistants, seated nearby in the Milford coaches' office, raised their eyebrows in disbelief. But the Redskin head coach stuck to his guns.

"I know the records don't bear that out, and I'm not saying Clarkston doesn't deserve to be league champs," Bittinger continued. "But the night we played Rochester—geez, they were fire and smoke."

Just for the record, Rochester was defeated by 18-0 by the Wolves and finished tied for last in the Greater Oakland Activities League with a 1-4 record. After four quarters of fire and smoke, all that remained was the ashes.

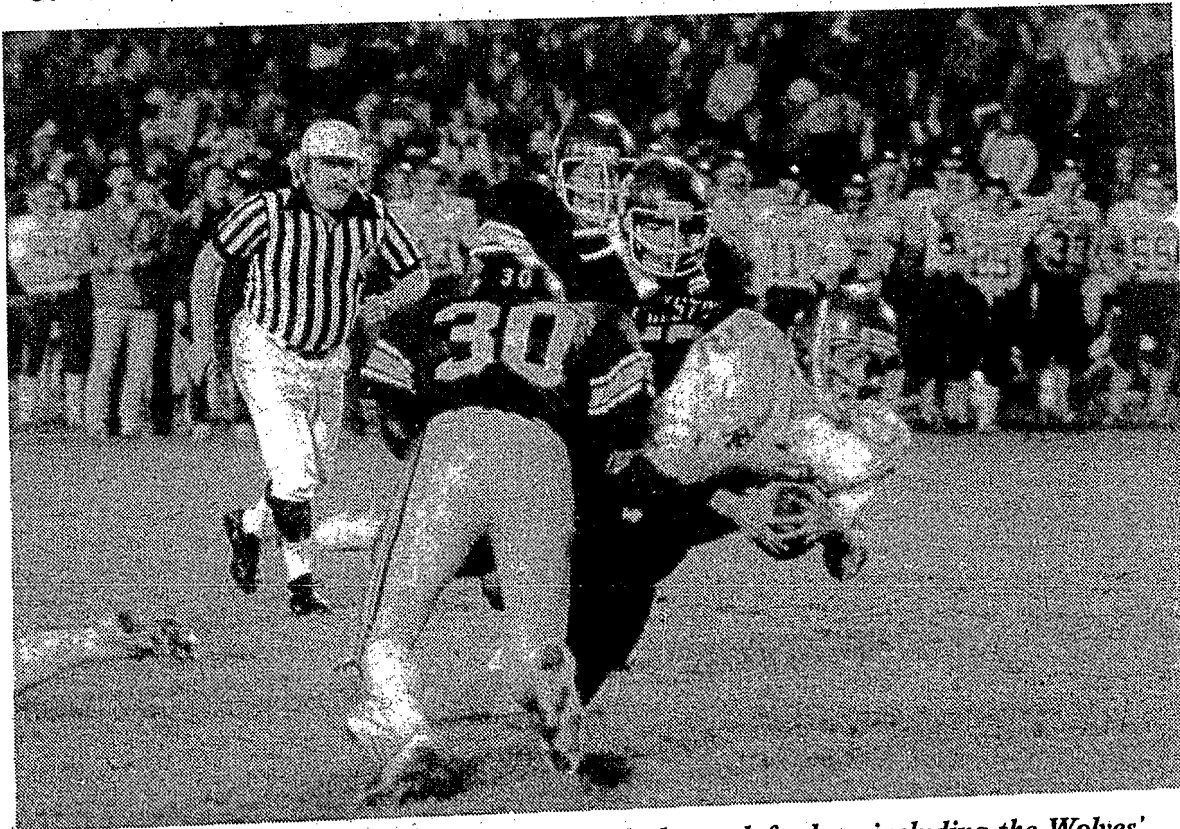

Another flashback: Last season the Wolves finished in fourth place in the GOAL with a 2-3 record, scoring 64 points and giving up

So who cares? This is 1980, and the league champion Clarkston Wolves are the toast of the town.

Clarkston has the better football team, but Milford has the better souvenir program.

For just 25 cents a Milford fan can buy an eight-page booklet complete with team pictures, sponsors and individual shots of the Redskin seniors—all that for a team that finished dead last in the league last season and is 2-5 in 1980.

Clarkston's "program," on the other hand, amounts to little more than a schedule and a numerical roster printed on an ordinary sheet of paper. It's not much of a souvenir—nor is it a very fitting tribute to a league championship football team.

Where do you think you're going? Three Clarkston defenders, including the Wolves' No. 30 Karl Fritzinger, combine to haul down a Milford ball carrier.

Hand extended in front of him to ward off the pursuing Redskins, Clarkston's Mark Hughes [left] bursts across the line of scrimmage in quest of another first down for the Wolves. Hughes led both teams in the rushing department with over 80 yards.

CHS cagers continue hot and cold ways

By Al Zawacky

Coach Dave McDonald can look back at the first half of the 1980 girls' basketball season and view it as a fulfillment of his prophecies.

Not that he's particularly pleased at having been right about his Wolves' dual nature and up-and-down performances.

"Back in the beginning of the year, I figured we'd be around the 500 mark," said McDonald of his 1980 Clarkston High School varsity cagers. "We play real well one night against a tough opponent, and then play poorly next time."

Even so, the Wolves' improvement can hardly be overstated. Clarkston has already won more games than they did all last season.

"We're still a much-improved ball club," McDonald noted.

Last week was a capsulized version of the entire season, as the Wolves downed Bloomfield Hills Andover on Tuesday only to come up flat two nights later against Rochester.

Clarkston dumped Andover 54-47 with senior Liza Forsyth leading the way with 11 points and nine rebounds. Lynette Whitehead and Jane Acton contributed nine points each to the Wolves' cause.

Rochester was another story. The visitors led all the way, turning the lights out on the Wolves 40-29 on Clarkston's home court.

Annette Ulasich was the Wolves' leading scorer with 10 points. Forsyth had six.

"We've got to start shooting better at the line," McDonald said, pinpointing one of Clarkston's chronic problems. "The other teams are capitalizing on our fouls, but we can't capitalize on theirs."

"We've lost two games that way this season. It's something we work on every day."

The loss to Rochester, the Wolves' second in Greater Oakland Activities League play, dealt a heavy blow to Clarkston's league title hopes.

The Wolves are currently 3-2 in the league and 6-5 overall, but will get a break from the schedule this week with games against a weak Brandon squad and a league contest at Lake Orion.

In an earlier meeting in the CHS gym, the Wolves rolled over Orion to post their biggest win of the season 53-24.

The Point After

by Al Zawacky

Coming soon: A co-ed wrestling team?

I realized something very frustrating the other day — I was born too early.

It's a logical conclusion to draw when you stand at a supermarket checkout and scan the headlines of the scandal sheets. They say things like how disease and pain will be unheard of while space travel will be commonplace by the middle of the 21st century.

Great. I'm looking forward to it.

They proclaim that medical science will someday produce a breakthrough allowing the average person to live 200 years or longer. I can already tell you the exact date that breakthrough will occur: The day of my funeral.

Then there are the smaller crises. Not only will I miss out on Martian vacations and collecting social security at the age of 195, but I'm also being left out of the sexual revolution in high school athletics.

There was a story in the Detroit News the other day about a girl in St. Louis, Mich. (A small town about 50 miles west of Saginaw) playing junior varsity tackle football with the guys. Seems a circuit court judge overruled a board of education decision turning thumbs down on the idea of a "griddlette" among the boys.

This raises some interesting possibilities. If a girl can go to court and win to get a spot on the football team, it's only a matter of time before girls begin trying out for the boys' wrestling team.

Again, I was born too early. I wasn't a member of the wrestling squad when I was in high school, but there was a reason: All my would-be opponents were 200-pound guys with greasy hair and arm-pit stains in their t-shirts. The opportunity to wrestle three two-minute periods with the homecoming queen was never presented.

I suppose if it had, I'd have not only tried out for the team, but probably would have been voted "most enthusiastic" at the end of the season. I envy today's teenagers.

The officials would probably also find it interesting to referee co-ed matches, flashing signals like:

- "Interlocking hands or grasping clothing."
- "Illegal hold."
- "Indicating wrestler in control."
- "Stalemate."
- "Awarding points."

Ah, to be ten years younger. A lot of people blast judges for making decisions like the one in St. Louis, but you'll never catch me criticizing the courts. The American court system is a pillar of humanitarianism. Other countries place their hopelessly senile citizens in cruel institutions. We give ours a gavel, a robe and a whole big court room to frolic in.

To think of the things I missed out on by being born in the mid-1950s.

Life is indeed unfair.

For third straight season, JVs are No. 1

By Al Zawacky

It was like putting the frosting on the cake.

The Clarkston High School JV football team had already clinched at least a share of the Greater Oakland Activities League title, but that didn't make them complacent against the Milford Redskins last Week.

Coach Gordie Richardson's gridders wanted their league championship outright and undefeated — and they did just that, burying the Redskins 39-7 to finish with a perfect 5-0 mark in the GOAL.

"It's always nice to win a league championship, but it's particularly nice when you win it undefeated," Richardson said, obviously pleased with the victory. "That's the goal we've wanted to attain from the beginning of the season — and we went out and did it.

The Wolves rolled up an imposing halftime lead of 27-0 on four touchdowns and three extra points by Willie Williams: A 5-yard run by quarterback Kevin Brown; a 24-yard pass from Brown to Richie Schrader; an 85-yard fumble return by Rusty Bennett; and a 1-yard dive by Bruce Dale.

"We seemed to let up a bit defensively when we went up 14-0," Richardson noted. "We let them drive deep into our territory, but then we pushed them back and caused the fumble. Bennett's touchdown pretty well set the tone of the rest of the game."

Dale and John LaPorte added two more TDs to the Wolves' total in the second half, scoring on runs of 23 and 19 yards respectively. Milford tainted an otherwise perfect afternoon just a bit by spoiling the shutout mid-way through the final quarter.

"So many kids played well," Richardson said. "We only had 26 kids dressed, so everybody got a chance to play. Brown made some nice passes, our blocking was decent and it was just an all-around good performance by everyone."

Richardson did single out the play of Mike Weiler and Brian Popour, but again stressed that the win was a true "team victory."

The league championship was the JV Wolves third straight, during which time they've racked up a 23-2 record.

"I think it says something about our football program in general that we've got two undefeated league champions — both the varsity and the junior varsity," Richardson said. "It's been an awful lot of years since that's happened."

"And I think that tells you something about our kids — some of them may not have been that successful in junior high, but it just goes to show what can happen when you put together two junior high teams and combine that with some hard work."

Clarkston's Kevin Brown [10] holds while Willie Williams kicks another successful PAT over the defensive charge of a Milford player.

Mortimore leads way to 6th win

By Al Zawacky

The final score could have been announced: "The Brighton Bulldogs 12, Rob Mortimore 22."

Led by the running and scoring of running back Mortimore, the Clarkston Junior High football team coasted to a 22-12 win over the visitors from Brighton last Wednesday, the CJH Wolverines sixth victory in seven outings this season.

Mortimore, who was responsible for 104 of Clarkston's 138 total yards rushing, snared a pass from quarterback Bill Hudler in the opening quarter and broke into the end zone on a 50-yard play that netted the first Wolverine touchdown.

Mortimore violated the Brighton goal line again on the next play for the two point conversion, and CJH led 8-0.

The Bulldogs came back to score their own TD in the second quarter, but the 8-6 halftime score was short-lived once the second half got underway.

The Wolverines took the opening kickoff and marched downfield in a drive climaxed by a 38-yard touchdown run off-tackle by Mortimore.

Mortimore scored again on a 1-yard dive later in the quarter and tallied the PAT as well to put Clarkston on top 22-6. Brighton scored its second six-pointer of the night with five minutes remaining in the game to make the final score 22-12.

Turning in strong defensive performances for Clarkston were Glenn Sherman, Kurt Bottorff and Mortimore, who led the team with 10 tackles.

The Wolverines will play Waterford Cray on the road this Wednesday and return home for their annual season-ending battle with cross-district rival Sashabaw Junior High on Oct. 29.

"They're a big team," said CJH Assistant Coach Dave Smith of Cray. "They'll be playing at home and they'll be ready for us — they know we're 6-1."

Smith dismissed the thought that the Wolverines might be tempted to look past the Cray contest to the big Sashabaw game the following week.

"I don't think that's a danger," he said. "We haven't looked past anyone all year. I'm not going to worry about Sashabaw until next Wednesday at supper."

By Al Zawacky

Last Wednesday's 20-6 loss in Lake Orion was quickly forgotten by the Sashabaw Junior High football team.

Not that another loss wasn't disappointing — it's just that the Sashabaw gridder's attention quickly shifted to their next and last contest of the year: An Oct. 29 clash with arch rival Clarkston Junior High.

"The kids are looking forward to it," said SJH Assistant Coach Jim Smith. "They're looking for revenge."

Sashabaw will be idle this week, but the one week gap in the schedule won't be a liability, according to Smith.

"It'll give us more time to prepare," he said.

The Sashabaw Cougars put up a good fight against Lake Orion East — the score was knotted at 6-6 at the start of the fourth quarter — but a late enemy rally spoiled an otherwise solid effort.

Orion went up 6-0 in the opening quarter, but the Cougars struck back in the second, scoring on a 5-yard passing play from Chris Bruce to Tom Hall.

The score stayed tied until Orion iced the victory with two late touchdowns in the final stanza, dropping the Cougars' season record to 1-5-1.

Dan Fenton, Lance Walenski, Mark Cummings and Don Fischer all turned in solid defensive performances for Sashabaw, Smith added.

"Offensively, we had our troubles," he said. "We moved the ball pretty well, but some costly penalties hurt us."

The Sashabaw Junior High Clarkston Junior High football clash will take place at the Clarkston High School football field Oct. 29 beginning at 7 p.m. The two teams met previously in the season opener when CJH pulled out a 20-0 victory.

State to determine fate of foster care home

By Al Zawacky

It's now up to the state whether or not a permit will be issued for an adult foster care home on Eaton Road in Springfield Township.

So said Springfield Township Supervisor Collin Walls, who presided over a public hearing held last Wednesday to air resident views on the proposed home.

"The hearing was primarily an informational thing," Walls said. "As to whether the permit is granted or not, that's totally up to the state."

"When the township sends in the form the state sends us, the only thing we can say is that there isn't another foster care home within 1,500 feet of the proposed unit."

Under present Michigan law, the only valid objection a municipality can raise to the placement of a foster care facility is the presence of another similar unit less than 1,500 feet away, Walls noted.

Wednesday's hearing drew residents neighboring the proposed foster care home, who expressed concerns that the home might not be suitable for the proposed use.

"My concern is with the people who would be housed in that facility," said Roger Horton, 8484 Eaton Rd. "From what I know about the house, I don't think it's conducive to a foster care home."

"I don't object to the idea of having a (foster) home there, and I haven't heard anyone else speak against it, either. It's just that it's hard to understand how the residents can be comfortable there."

Horton said that past residents had found the dwelling extremely difficult to keep warm during the winter, due to a poor heating system and poor insulation. The building's three-story construction would also make it difficult for the residents to get around, he said.

Claudia Baumgras, who represented Bortz Health Care Facilities at the public hearing, replied by saying that all necessary steps to bring the facility up to standards would be taken.

"Cold is one thing we will not tolerate," Baumgras said. "If we have to rip out the furnace and install a new one, that's what we'll do. We'll do whatever is necessary to keep the residents warm."

"We realize that the former tenants have caused considerable damage to the home, but we're willing to make the needed repairs."

Baumgras added that a mature and well-trained "house mother" would run the facility, and that "anytime anybody would like to tour our facilities, they're more than welcome."

If the license application for the home is approved, the facility would house five residents and possibly six later on, according to Susan Morgan, consultant to adult foster care facilities for the Michigan Department of Social Services.

"The sixth resident would be contingent on the state fire marshal's approval of the basement level," Morgan said. "As of right now, the lower level will be closed off."

Morgan said that a heating plant enclosure and the fire marshal's approval would be required before the lower level could be approved for occupancy.

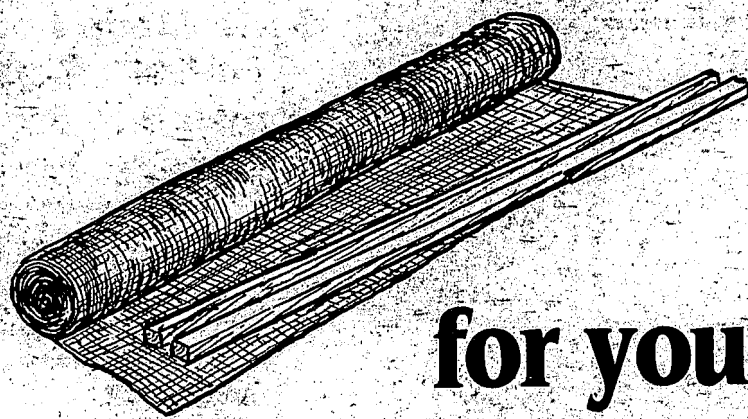

State law requires two exits for fire safety, and while the lower level does have two exits there is some question as to whether or not the exits are far enough apart, she said.

"The home itself is a colonial-type structure with a walk-out basement, so there are exits accessible on the upper levels," Morgan said.

She added that the license applied for indicates that the facility will be used "primarily but not exclusively" for senior citizens.

"We try and keep people together in their age groups," Baumgras said. "There won't be anyone under 40 at the facility."

The fourth annual G.O.A.L. Marching Band Festival will be hosted by the Clarkston High School Band and Band Boosters on Saturday, October 25th at the C.H.S. Athletic Field. This event brings together the marching bands of the six league member schools for a day of musical pageantry. Schools participating including Clarkston are:

MILFORD
WATERFORD KETTERING
ROCHESTER
LAKE ORION
WEST BLOOMFIELD

Each band performs for the other schools in an open rehearsal beginning at 1:00 p.m. All of the bands then combine to perform two selections as a massed band under a prominent guest conductor. Conducting this year's massed band will be William Root, Director of Bands at Grand Valley State College. Previous conductors have been Jack Saunders and Norman Dietz of Central Michigan University and David Catron, associate Director of Bands at Michigan State University.

The evening performance festival will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the C.H.S. field. Admission is $1.00 for general seating, and $3.00 for a family pass. Parking is available adjacent to the stadium, and in the school lots within sight of the field.

Guy Z. Derryberry

Objective balance needed on board

By Marilyn Trumper

Guy Z. Derryberry, Democrat candidate for township trustee, says he should be elected to provide an objective viewpoint on the board.

"I am the only Democrat running for trustee," Derryberry, 27, said. "We need a Democrat on the board for alternative and objective viewpoints."

If Republican candidates are all elected, Derryberry said, township board meetings will become a formality.

"Our system is based on checks and balances and for that balance we need scrutiny on the board. The closer the board is scrutinized, the better apt they are to make a good decision," he said.

"I have a concern for what happens in this township and I know what the residents' concerns and worries are."

The most important issue facing residents of the township is taxes, Derryberry said.

"Something needs to be done about taxes. I know there are the three proposals on the ballot, but I don't know that they are the answer to the problem."

"The big problem facing us is the tax revenue. Most of the township is residential. The place we collect taxes from is a closed collection area and that's what makes the difference in revenue," he said.

"We need to broaden the tax base and take the burden off the residents. This would be beneficial to the residents," he said.

Derryberry points to growth as another issue in the township today.

"We're spreading out in all different directions too fast," he said. "There is no variety. I'd like to see us maintain a semi-rural atmosphere because that's one of the main reasons people move to Independence," he said.

"In addition, we've overlooked senior citizens and the young people in the housing market. We need balanced housing facilities. That," he said, "would be a move in the right direction."

Derryberry said his job as a skilled trades committee negotiator has provided him with experience for job as trustee.

"I negotiate between management and labor on a daily basis. I'm used to taking care of problems for people and solving those problems to both sides' satisfaction."

"I've dealt with people in the past as an owner/operator of a gas station. I deal primarily on a one-to-one basis to the satisfaction of all customers," he said.

Derryberry has lived in the township 24 years, and said he has observed many changes in the area.

"I've seen problems in the past and I think the best way to keep these problems from happening again in the future is to look at the past," he said. "Judging by the past is an asset for me. I've seen the changes take place."

Larence Kozma

Fiscal responsibility is main concern

By Marilyn Trumper

Larence Kozma, Republican candidate for township trustee, sees fiscal responsibility as the most important issue facing the township.

Especially, he said, if Tisch passes.

"The Smith-Bullard proposal will cut the township's budget by half, and limits the amount the township can levy. Currently they levy about 7 mills, if Smith Bullard passes they'll levy 4 mills," he said.

"The Milliken proposal is just a tax shift, but the Tisch amendment should be a major concern. We may not feel the cuts immediately but a few years down the road it will be devastating," he said.

"It will cut our services in many areas and it's going to take planning to eliminate costs where it will effect the least amount of people."

Kozma pinpoints growth and where growth is going as another issue.

"Growth problems will end when expansion ends. We can't make an attempt to stop growth, but we can control it so that it enhances the community," he said.

"Pine Knob and the proposed high rise is another issue, just as the proposed ski run is. The issue is in the courts now and it will be in the courts for sometime. It's not going to go away."

"The township people have spoken in the election about the hotel and officials would be remiss if they turned back on what the people have said they don't want."

"The issue won't require formal action by the township board, but they will have to direct the attorney on what action to take," he said.

Kozma also spoke on the issue of road repair and private roads.

"We do have the 1/2-mill tax on the ballot, but up to now we've had no control over where the road commission does repair or maintenance," he said. "This area needs to be looked into."

"On the issue of private roads, I think we need a township board that will provide leadership in this area and help residents solve their problems. Someday, the condition of private roads may jeopardize the health, safety and welfare of those people," he said.

Police services is an issue, Kozma said, needs reviewing.

"The dynamics and services of the township are changing all the time," he said. "I'd be in favor of establishing a committee to gather information and submit it to the board on the status of police protection in the community. I'd rather have any change in service arise out of orderly change rather than a reaction to a political situation."

Kozma said his educational background; an undergraduate degree in humanities and social science, and his advanced degree in law are, good qualifications for the job of trustee.

"I'm able to compute problems and I'm involved in the problems this community faces and will continue to face," he said. "I have made a commitment to this community and intend on staying here a long time."

Kozma, 31, a two-year resident of the township, said his commitment is the reason he should be elected.

"I feel I have a concern for this community and I'm giving it everything I have in the attempt to meet the problems and solve those problems by facing commitments," he said.

"My qualifications also make me an asset to this community."

Economic condition tough on budget

By Marilyn Trumper

Dale Stuart, Republican candidate for township trustee, said the economy is the most important issue facing the area today.

"In light of the current economic condition, we have to efficiently use our tax dollars in a restrictive budget," he said. "We have less income and someone has to decide what is going to be pared off, especially if Tisch passes."

At this point, Stuart said, he'd like to see those cuts made in a cooperative manner. First by asking individual departments to analyze their own budgets and cut costs there.

"Then we'd look at where we were and cut costs still further," he said. "But this would be done in an open manner and I would ask the staff to prioritize their budgets."

"I don't know how anyone can say without a study what should be cut first. But I do know we can't disband police or fire, but we may be able to save in those areas," he said.

A second issue, road repair, is one Stuart said needs to be looked into.

"Private road maintenance has not been addressed yet," he said. "I think it has to be. We need something in print, an ordinance on private roads, so that the zoning board will have something in hand when they make a decision."

Stuart stressed the township's need for a policy on private roads, and a concern for public roads as well.

"The township board needs to take a more active stance on public roads, especially those not maintained by the county," he said.

"The township board needs to take an active stance and make sure we get our fair share and the right amount of funding," he said.

Stuart also points to the development of real estate within the township as an issue.

"We can't be in the position where we retreat into a cocoon each time development is mentioned. People have a legal right to develop their property in compliance with our zoning ordinance and we have a master plan."

"I will support growth that doesn't violate our master plan and zoning and discourage growth that undermines our master plan and zoning," he said.

"I also am not adverse to revising our master plan if the need arises, but it will have to be discussed and decided by everyone," he said.

The township's police and fire protection has to be reviewed on a regular basis, Stuart said, to insure the quality of service is at the level it should be.

"If four years down the road we find a township police department would be more cost effective, it will have to be looked into, guarded and kept within the budget," he said.

Stuart, 37, has lived in the township four years.

He points to his college degrees and attorney practice as good qualifications for the job of trustee. In addition, Stuart said, he's worked retail at the management level and was an employee of the General Motors Corporation for 14 years.

"It's a combination of these varied experiences that have given me insight into problems and management skills and would enable me to give good decisions on the township board," he said.

"I should be elected because of my past experience and because I'll listen to people. I'll weigh my decisions on the basis of fact. I may argue in the public forum, but I don't intend to be in a hard rut where my thinking cannot be changed," he said.

"If someone can show me that their proposal is in the public's best interest, I'll vote that way regardless of whether it's the way I think."

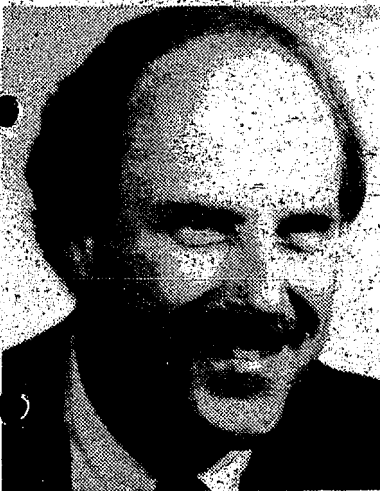

Daniel Travis

He cites intense community interest

By Marilyn Trumper

Daniel Travis, Republican for township trustee, said his major qualification for the job is his intense interest in the community.

"I have a commitment here."

Travis said. "The Clarkston-Independence Township area has been good to my family. I'd like to contribute on a direct basis."

"You don't just get up and volunteer for this job," he said. "It's time consuming and I'm running because of the incentive to participate in local government."

"The people of Independence have already shown they want me," he said. "That's evident from the primary election results."

Travis, 39, has been employed by the Laclede Steel Co. for the past 16 years, and has been a township resident for 12 years.

"My experience there and my education in economics and business administration have given me the experience I need. I've dealt with multi-million dollar corporations all the way down to the mom and pop operations."

"I work in sales and engineering. My job entails everything from sitting down to a desk to dealing with people on a one-to-one basis," he said. "I have an excellent understanding of profit and loss and I know the workings of a balance sheet, and that's what government is."

Travis said he sees the preservation of the township's zoning ordinance as the most important issue facing the area today.

"My long-term commitment has always concerned zoning ordinances in this township. I see preserving our ordinances inherent to our master plan and it's a major area of my concern," he said.

"If we allow the zoning to be broken and allow it repeatedly, the character of this community is going to suffer. Once an exception is allowed, the exceptions continue until they become the rule."

"My major fight is to preserve the zoning in this township," he said. "I'm a staunch supporter of planned growth with care."

Travis also said he sees the issue of solid waste disposal as important.

"This township has no on site solid waste disposal facility. This must be investigated and we have to decide what to do when the facilities we're now using run out of space," he said.

With the three tax proposals on the November ballot, Travis said the township is going to have to become extremely purse conscious if any of the three proposals pass.

"I don't see any of the three being good," he said. "We need tax relief, but these three avenues don't seem to be the answer as I understand it," he said.

"We have a 1/2 mill on the ballot for roads, we're going to pay a 1/2 mill for safety paths, the sewer tax is another," he said. If Tisch passes where are we going to be?

"The federal government will step in to pick up the slack and the local government can't pick where the aid will go."

Travis also said he is totally opposed to gravel mining in the community and thinks the township needs to adopt a tougher zoning ordinance.

"I'd also like to see more community involvement and citizens' input, and have that extended to groups actively supporting the community and township government now," he said.

"There has to be a strong commitment to get the job done and move it to a conclusion. I'm a task-oriented person for the job," Travis said.

Incumbent William Vandermark

He singles out zoning, planning

By Marilyn Trumper
Incumbent Republican candidate for township trustee, William Vandermark, singles out zoning and planning as the most important issues facing the area today.

"We have a master plan for governmental guidelines and an existing zoning ordinance. They need to be upgraded as the situation arises.

"Good planning is a result of good in-depth plat review by the township board with the help and advice of engineers and the legal department," he said. "But this does not mean township board members should depend solely and exclusively on the judgments of the legal and planning departments.

"The board should pass on its own judgments everything that comes before it," he said.

Vandermark points to development at Pine Knob as an example of improper growth.

"The growth situation at Pine Knob is a fighting issue," he said. "I think it is by virtue of all the lawsuits the township is involved in.

"I think we need a full-time professional planner in the building and planning department to make decisions at the time decisions have to be made. We could avoid a lot of this if we had someone who was more qualified to do the job," he said.

The three tax proposals on the November ballot also pose a problem to the township, he said.

"If they pass we're looking at severe cuts in the township's general fund revenues. When cuts come in, it's always an issue," he said.

"As usual, we'll cut the nonessentials first. Police and fire have to be maintained, as do the township's basic services like building and assessing. That doesn't leave much room for cuts.

"It leaves recreation, senior citizens and parks. They are the easiest places to cut without losing the essentials. But," Vandermark stressed, "that doesn't mean the other departments will be left unscathed."

Vandermark also spoke about the "burning issue of adult foster care homes," stating it would become a major problem down the road.

"The present guidelines set by the state are not reasonable and allow no consideration for proper zoning," he said. "They take the township's power away and I disagree with that policy.

"I don't have any serious problem with those people being cared for in a family-type situation, but that's not what is happening. Businesses of this type do not belong in a residential subdivision," he said.

Vandermark, 39, has served as trustee on the township board two years. He has lived in Independence the past 10 years.

"I've been in close contact with the community as a whole," he said. "I have a good in-depth understanding of how township government works and a good understanding of planning."

Vandermark points to his job as a process engineer as a major qualification for trustee position.

"I don't have any problem understanding engineering and plat layouts. They come to me naturally," he said.

"Based on my qualifications and interest in the community, I would be an important asset to the township board," he said.

Looks as though Jaycee volunteer Al Moore is up to his neck in coffin. If his fellow workers, Bruce Harley, president of the Jaycees [left], Greg Bemister, vice-president, and Bruce Shull, Vice president, get any ideas with that hammer, Al may join the great beyond and become star hunter of the Jaycee's annual Haunted House.

Just because the haunted house is under construction doesn't necessarily mean that ghosts aren't afoot. Becky Moore looks as though she's seen some kind of apparition and is cowering between two walls to hide.

Horrible hauntings await the bold

The fluorescent from a glow light may become a treasured possession for those daring enough to enter the Clarkston Jaycees' Haunted House.

Hold onto the glowing stick tightly, it will be your only friend. Once inside it's every man for himself.

The Jaycees discovered that the old church on Maybee Road, built in 1856, is filled with over 100 years of ghosts, spirits and apparitions.

They've lassooed the haunts for the task of scaring you to death.

Listen for the shriek of a banshee filling the night air, the sound of wolves baying at the moon and the tormented soul of the mad executioner as he adds to his list of guillotine victims.

Beware of blood-thirsty vampires, witches seeking to cast spells on the unsuspecting and a giant trained spider ready to wrap you tightly in a web.

Ghosts are clever, a tricky brood.

They catch you off guard, confusing you with sound, sight and touch.

Beginning Friday, Oct. 24

and continuing for two consecutive weeks, the Jaycees' ghosts will be waiting for you.

The old church, (the former Independence Center) is located at 5331 Maybee Road, between Sashabaw and Clintonville roads.

The doors creak open for the first time on Friday, Oct. 24 at 7:30 p.m., closing at 10 p.m., and will keep those same hours nightly through Oct. 30.

The Clarkston Drama Club will be on hand to assist in operations, but who knows if they can control all the released goblins and spirits.

Parking will be available at South and North Sashabaw Elementary Schools, Sashabaw Junior High School and the present Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church, across the street from the haunted house location.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for those under 18.

Refreshments will be sold and so will glow sticks.

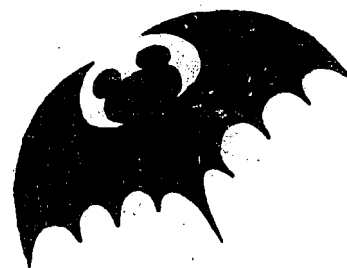

The ghosts are beckoning for you to enter. . . .

Roy A. Alger

Memorial service for Roy A. Alger of Clarkston was held Oct. 20 at Our Lady of the Lakes Church, Waterford Township.

Burial followed at Holy Sepulcher Cemetery, Southfield.

Alger died Oct. 16. He was the owner of Alger Hardware in Clarkston for many years and past president of the Clarkston Village Council.

A Michigan State University graduate in electrical engineering, he served in the United States Army during World War II.

He was past president and charter member of the Clarkston Rotary Club, member of Campbell-Richmond Post No. 63 American Legion, life member of BPOE No. 810 Pontiac, and a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Pilots "A" Club at Pontiac-Oakland Airport.

He is survived by his brothers and sisters, Theonilla Alger of Clarkston, Carolyn Phillips of Sarasota, Fla. and Magdalene Cuyler of Sarasota, Fla.

The family suggests memorials be made to the Sacramentean Sisters, Conway, MI.

Funeral arrangements were made by Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

Rev. Alden V. Mudge

Funeral service for the Rev. Elden V. Mudge of Springfield Township is to be held Wednesday, Oct. 22, at 2 p.m. at the New Hope Bible Church, Clarkston, with the Rev. James Lee Beal officiating.

Interment is to follow in Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township.

Rev. Mudge, 75, died Oct. 18. He was the founder and pastor of New Hope Bible Church of Clarkston. After 25 years of service, he retired, but continued to serve his church and many other churches.

Rev. Mudge was also a teacher at Anchor Bay Bible College and assisted in Bethesda Bible School for four years. He was connected with Elim Bible Institute in Lima, N. Y., for 30 years, and was general treasurer of Elim Fellowship for many years.

He was a member of Cedar Lodge No. 60 F & AM and a 32nd Degree Mason, and a member of Knights Templar Pontiac Commandery No. 2 and the Moslem Shrine Temple of Detroit.

He is survived by his wife Helen M.; children, Elden V. Mudge Jr. of Clarkston, Mrs. Jayson (Jane) Mapes of Drayton Plains, and Mrs. Roy (Carol Ann) Cooper of Scranton, Pa.; 16 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; and sisters, Mrs. Joe Towle of Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. Jim MacTavish of Cass City.

Funeral arrangements were made by Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

The family suggests memorials be made to New Hope Bible Church.

She pushes Christianity for CHS students

Peggy Sample is new intern for Campus Life, a division of Youth for Christ

By Kathy Greenfield

Peggy Sample, 25 is sometimes asked if she is pushing a religious cult.

"I think it's positive that the adult world is concerned," she said. "We're not there to hurt in any way the students that we get in contact with."

"Peggy is an intern with Campus Life, a division of Youth for Christ, an organization that's been around for 45 years."

When she appears at Clarkston High School during lunch hours, at concerts or football games, her purpose is to sell kids on Christ.

The Christian organization is non-demoninational and the ideal situation is to have a Campus Life member encourage another teenager to attend church.

"One of the things that's important, I believe, for a Christian to do is to be involved in helping others know Christ," she said.

Peggy lives on Parview Drive in Independence Township with a family that offered her free room and board when she was assigned to the Clarkston area.

She began her new job Sept. 20. One duty is planning meetings called "Insight" for local students.

"Students get into the Bible and look for answers to questions that have been brought out for discussion," she said.

"This week, our topic was conformity — conforming to what our friends do or standing up for something else should we think that's relevant."

"Insight" meetings are held twice a month and there are gatherings once a month with students from schools in the metropolitan Detroit area.

"It comes out on the surface as a social thing," Peggy said. "Our heart's desire is for the students to know Jesus Christ on a personal level."

Peggy was not a Christian during most of her own high school years. At the beginning of her senior year, she became religious with the help of a friend.

"I went to a Christian college and during that time, I just learned a lot about what it's like being a Christian," she said.

"Before I was an extremely insecure person — an introvert to the maximum — now I can speak in front of a large crowd."

She became involved in Youth for Christ only about two years ago, at a friend's suggestion, and worked as a volunteer for about one-and-one-half years.

Previously a nurse attendant at the Plymouth Center for Development, Peggy has a bachelor's degree in social work.

"Working with the retarded was an excellent experience," she said, "but I feel responsible to be involved working with or teaching people who can thereby grow up and teach others."

"High school students in general are at a point where they are making some decisions that have influence on the next few years and possibly a lifetime."

The rapid changes in her life suit her well, Peggy said.

"With the way things are happening, I'm confident that this is where I'm supposed to be for now," she said.

She may be contacted by calling the Youth for Christ office at 625-1882.

Peggy Sample: "I want to live a life that glorifies God—that makes people look to Christ with a positive attitude."

For Independence and Springfield kids too

Beware!

Very soon now, ghostly apparitions will be seen traveling across the misting moors of Independence Township.

They've manifested to compete in the township library's annual Halloween costume party.

On Saturday, Oct. 25 from 1 to 2:30 p.m., the Friends of the Independence Township Library are going to host the costumed event.

All kids up to the sixth grade are invited to masquerade as their favorite haunt or friendly character.

This year's party is to be held at the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, across the street from the library. It's been moved to the church because of its popularity in years past.

Prizes are to be awarded for the most imaginative costumes and refreshments will be served.

Also, special Halloween films are to be shown, including "Ghosts and Ghoulies," "Georgie to the Rescue" and "Great Moments in Sports."

For more information, call the library at 625-2212.

All the creatures of the unknown living in Springfield Township can begin crawling from their lairs.

It's nearing the end of October and time to compete in Springfield Township Library's Halloween costume party.

Dress up as your favorite friend or foe on Oct. 25 from 12:30 to 2 p.m. and gather at the library, 10900 Andersonville Road, Springfield Township.

Refreshments will be served and prizes are to be awarded for best costume.

For more information phone the library at 625-0595.

IT'S A WINNER!

Lindsays plan self-sufficient lifestyle

Country Living

by Marlilyn Trumper

Eagle Hill Acres is Jim Lindsay's country.

Located just outside of Springfield Township's Davisburg, Eagle Hill is 10 acres of rolling land filled with autumn color, sporting an area of the head waters of the Shiawasee River.

Jim, 32, his wife Pat, 31, and their 6-year-old son Mike are in the process of creating a self-sufficient lifestyle on their own private haven.

Down to the last detail, Jim has the whole thing all worked out.

Each step of development has been a manifestation of an ideal.

"He's wonderful," Pat said. "I just have to brag. He plans these projects in his head and then goes out and does it. He's really something."

Jim works through trial and error.

For him it seems to be the only way.

That's the way the Lindsays have built their home, barn, sunhouse, watershed and it's the way they've grown a corn crop to feed the livestock.

Trial and error is also the way Jim is constructing his passive solar heated sunhouse. It's the way he plans to construct a heating system leading from a 1,000 gallon holding tank beneath the sunhouse of the family home.

It's also the way he's planning to construct windmills to generate electricity.

The first step, he said, is to complete the watershed.

"My intention is to develop this into a larger pond for the geese and to have fish farming of sorts," Jim said, pointing down the slope of a hill to the watershed below.

"Someday I intend to have a windmill to generate electricity, and a second one to work turbines in the watershed. The watershed would store water, the windmill will pump the water forcing it through the turbines and creating electricity," he said.

Admitting it was a somewhat unconventional system, he laughed and said, "It's my own idea and it'll work."

Pat points to the sunhouse located adjacent to the barn as proof of Jim's ability to create an ideal.

"We bought this sunhouse, disassembled it and put it back together again pane by pane,"

Pat said. "There are 500 glass panes here."

"What you have to see is Jim in the middle of winter," she laughs. "I'll come home from church and he's out there sitting in a chair, reading the paper, dressed in just shirt sleeves. It's 90 degrees in there when snow's on the ground."

Jim laughs in agreement.

This summer the couple feasted on vine-ripened cherry tomatoes, peas, lettuce, carrots and radishes all from the sunhouse.

"There is a 1,000 gallon holding tank for water beneath the sunhouse," Jim said. "Now it's empty but my plan is to build duct work between here and the house. The water will heat from the sun and I'll blow the heat into the house."

A trench has been dug halfway between the sunhouse and the couple's home as proof of Jim's intentions.

Jim and Pat also built their own barn.

Twice in fact, they admit laughing.

"I laid the cinder block foundations and should have installed the floor first, before I backfilled. That was a mistake."

"I started backfilling and collapsed the wall, there wasn't enough support," he said, giving the wall the raspberries.

Pat injected laughing, "If we were to go back and do everything we've ever done all over again, we could do it in half the time. We never consult books either."

The barn, Jim pointed out, has a utility pole as its main roof support and the walls of the stalls are made from pallets.

"The roof has been designed to accept a solar panel," he added.

During the day, Jim works as a draftsman for GM Truck and Coach. Weekends and evenings are devoted to the acreage.

For the first time this year the couple planted their own corn to feed the livestock.

"We pulled out about two acres of scrub oak and planted corn and alfalfa. Now we're shucking the corn and storing it. That's going to be a new experience too," Pat said.

Fearless Jim dons a beekeeper's hat complete with screening for the face and ventures among his 18 hives. "Naw," he says, "they won't hurt you", as he gingerly picks up one of the slats filled with a honey soaked comb and crawling bees.

It's okay for Genesis and Oreo to munch on the wild greenery, and Pat will go so far as to make it easy on the family's pet goats.

More Country Living

Shucking is a family event. The couple's son Mike is busy at the job, but in between every three or four ears of corn he runs down the embankment to throw an ear toward the family's pigs.

"We bought the pigs to consume all the extra goats' milk we couldn't consume," Pat said. "We hope within the next few years to be able to pay for our own pigs by raising others for sale. That's going to depend on the amount of feed we're able to grow."

The family has geese, one steer, two goats and, of course, an all-American dog.

"The goats conveniently clear off all the underbrush so there's no need to mow the lawn," Pat said. "But they also have a good time with my fruit trees every time they escape from the yard."

They point to the dwarfed trees, tied for support and wrapped to discourage gnawing teeth.

"That's the first thing I've learned about goats," Pat laughed. "The more expensive the bush or tree the more they like it."

The Lindsays' latest hobby-turned-business is raising bees.

Jim bravely dons a beekeepers hat with facial netting, takes the smoker to calm the bees and walks among the 18 hives.

"We started raising bees back during the time when sugar was so high," Pat said. "I didn't find out until later they consume about five pounds of sugar in one week."

The hobby has gone into a business.

Pat makes beeswax candles, honey soap and she sells honey as well.

Eagle Hill Acres is truly paradise for the Lindsays.

"I hear people say they're going up north for the weekend to get away from it all," Pat said. "All we have to do is walk out into our backyard."

This year, harvesting the crop and storing it for the winter is a first-time event for the Lindsays. Over two acres of corn has to be shucked to feed the family's livestock, and it's a job that keeps Mike [left], Pat and Jim very busy.

Encore debut

The looks on the faces of the Sashabaw Encores show that singing can be fun—the audience showed its exuberant appreciation with lots of loud applause after the select chorus group made its debut before the Clarkston School Board last week.

The 1980-81 Sashabaw Encores made their singing debut during the Clarkston School Board meeting last week.

Combining their singing talents with choreography in the new show-choir style, the select group of mixed voices were accompanied by 8th grader Steve Murphy on electric piano, 9th grader drummer Grant Bratton and bass guitar player Carrie Thomas, an 11th grader from Clarkston High School.

The mini-show of the Sashabaw Junior High School students began with a lively number called "Celebration" which flowed into "Everybody Needs A Friend."

Other tunes performed by the group included "Candle On The Water" and a commercial medley, "A Word From Our Sponsor."

Led by their director, Jan

Knapp, this year's select choir includes 9th graders Melinda Austin, Barb Eckert, Mike Harmes, Dave Hopkins, Kelli Keating, Lin Klingler, Miranda Morales, Robin Roy, BobbiJo Schaefer, Joy Schmidgall, Jay Smith and Heidi Weger.

The 8th graders are Bill Bentfield, Art Binard, George Briggs, Kimm Buchman, Barry Collins, Steve Gerber, Paula Schurtz and Dave Simpson.

The Encores are a select chorus group who represents their school by performing throughout the community. Their director, Jan Knapp, introduced herself as the person who has the pleasure of directing the group after the entertaining performance was over.

The performance includes lots of hand clapping and gestures in the new show-choir style.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Brown of Franklin announce the engagement of their daughter Julie Elizabeth to Larry Paul Bennett of Whitehall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bennett of Northview Drive, Independence Township. The bride-elect is 1980 Western Michigan University graduate. Her fiancé graduated from Clarkston High School in 1976 and from Western Michigan University in 1980. He is currently a product engineer for Howmet Turbine Components of Whitehall. The couple plan an August 1981 wedding.

Recipe File

By Lorna Bickerstaff

Sharon Ashton of Ashton Orchards is sharing one of her family's favorite apple recipes for Apple Bars with The Clarkston News this week. Sharon and Dennis Ashton of Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, have four daughters, Jill in college, Lisa, Shari and Amy.

APPLE BARS

- 1 c. flour
- 1/2 t. salt
- 1/2 t. baking soda
- 1/2 c. brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 c. quick cooking oats
- 1/2 c. shortening
- 2 1/2 c. sliced peeled apples
- 1/4 c. sugar
- 2 T. butter

Sift together flour, salt and baking soda. Add brown sugar and oats and mix well. Cut in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Press 1/2 mixture in greased 8 inch square baking dish. Place apples over crumb mixture, sprinkle with sugar, dot with butter.

Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture over top. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes. Cool. Cut into bars. Serve cold as cookie or hot with a pudding. A scoop of ice cream is also good.

CCYA's art auction ready

Buy art and send a kid to camp.

It's as simple as that for those planning to attend Clarkston Community Youth Assistance (CCYA) Art Auction on Sunday, Oct. 26 at Clarkston High School.

"With the money we raise," said Garry Pullins, social worker with CCYA, "we send our kids to camp. We've had several auctions in the past and they've been successful."

The school's cafeteria is to be filled with 150 works, including lithographs, etchings, woodcuts, serigraphs, paintings and watercolors by such famous artists as Dali, Picasso, Renoir, Rockwell and many others.

Coordinated by Park West Gallery of Southfield, there is to be a preview of the artwork from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. with the auction immediately following.

Everyone attending, Pullins said, receives an art catalogue and bidding card.

The door prize is going to be an artwork, he said.

General admissions is $1 at the door, and refreshments will be served.

Clarkston High School is located at 6595 Middle Lake, Independence Township.

For more information, phone 625-9007.

College Night slated Oct. 27

High school students and their parents can meet with three college representatives and hear half-hour presentations from each on Monday, Oct. 27.

The annual "Clarkston-Brandon-Goodrich College Night" is being hosted by Clarkston High School.

The first presentation is to begin promptly at 7:30 p.m., so suggested arrival time is 7:20. The program is to end at 9:35 p.m.

Thirty-four colleges are to be represented including all the state universities, some business schools, a nursing school, community colleges, the Air Force Academy and several private schools. A representative from the Army ROTC is to also be on hand.

Clarkston High School also plans a "Financial Aides Night" in January when financial aide forms will be available.

For more information, call CHS at 625-0900.

At first glance, you might get the impression that Sashabaw Junior High has some rather unusual new cheerleaders. Actually, these are members of the SJH football team dressed up for the school yearbook's "gotcha" promotion. During the promotion ninth graders are allowed to have their pictures taken with friends, in costumes, or making faces, with five pages of the yearbook set aside for the results. "We feel that this promotion works by adding increased student interest during yearbook sales," says Dick Swartout, SJH teacher and yearbook consultant. "Last year we sold 810 yearbooks to a student body of 960, which is really doing well." Future promotions include a football jersey sale, T-shirts and two dances.

Fire facts

Energy conservation can carry hazards

The increasing cost of oil, gas and electricity has caused many people to seek other sources of energy such as wood-burning stoves as a primary or secondary source of heat.

Solid fuel appliances when improperly installed have proven to be a potential source of house fires. Indications are that more fires are being caused by poor or improper maintenance.

Solid fuel appliances have no safety devices when the fire box reaches extreme temperatures. For this reason requirements for solid fuel equipment are more restrictive.

The Five Most Common Causes of Fire:

1. Heat radiation from the stove, stovepipe or chimney.
2. Sparks and coals escaping from the stove into the house.
3. Flames from faulty chimneys.
4. Conduction of heat through the chimney to combustible material.
5. Chimney sparks shooting from the chimney top to the roof.

If you intend to acquire such a stove keep the following very important points in mind:

1. Make sure the manufacturer has had that particular stove design tested by a nationally recognized, independent testing laboratory. Such as:
 - A. Underwriter Laboratories Inc. (UL)
 - B. Building Officials and Code Administrators (B.O.C.A.)
 - C. Southern Building Code Congress International Inc. (S.B.C.C.I.)
2. If the stove you purchase is not labeled, make sure there is at least a six-inch air space beneath and 36 or more inches of air space to combustibles.
3. Make sure the local building code will permit the installation of a solid fuel heater.
4. Tend the stove properly. Never let it overheat and never leave the stove unattended and over fueled.

Next week's Fire Facts will have more on stoves, equipment and safety.

Band fest brings in music from six area schools

A day of musical pageantry is planned Saturday, Oct. 25, at Clarkston High School when the marching band and the Band Boosters bring the fourth annual GOAL Marching Band Festival to town.

The event is to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Clarkston High School football field.

Schools taking part in the festival are to include Milford, Waterford, Kettering, Rochester, Lake Orion and West Bloomfield and Clarkston. Each band performs for the other schools in an open rehearsal at 1 p.m.

All of the bands then play two selections together under guest conductor William Rood, director of bands at Grand Valley State College.

Admission to the evening performance is $1 for general seating and $3 for a family pass.

Parking is available adjacent to the athletic field and in the school lots within sight of the field.

Selhost Real Estate moves to Sashabaw Road

The first thing a prospective client sees walking into Tom Selhost's real estate office is a giant chalkboard emblazoned with yellow letters which read, "Go to it Dad!" Coupled with "good luck" plants scattered around the office on Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, the chalkboard is indicative that Tom has just moved from his former location on Church Street in Clarkston.

For eight months Selhost Real Estate has been in existence, Tom said.

"Prior to that I worked for Realty world D & S Carpenters Inc., but I've been in the business for 16 years," he said.

"In my own business we're trying to become strong internally before taking on a large sales staff," he said.

Currently Tom employs six agents: Kathy Failla, Ruth Cumming, Vera Johnson, Georgia Olsen, Carole Rausch and Sue West.

He also speaks highly of his secretarial staff and their varied abilities and diverse backgrounds as they relate to the real estate business.

One secretary has a history in title work, abstracting and closings, he said.

A second has excellent phone communication experience and a third has experience dealing with lending institutions, and knows the right avenues to travel when it comes to financing, he said.

"We also order pretitle checks. We find out before a sale if there are any problems with the property. We clear it up before a sale and therefore expedite the sale," he said.

"We also have a multiple listing service," he said. "We punch into the computer what a person is looking for. For example, a four bedroom home on 15,000 square foot lot in Independence Township.

Doing business

"The computer releases all the homes for sale in the township that match that description," he said.

"The other day a couple walked in, they wanted a four bedroom home with two-and-one-half baths with acreage," he said. "We punched it into the computer, it released the information and we made the sale."

Selhost Real Estate is located at 6205 Sashabaw Rd., Independence Township.

For information, phone 625-3322.

Tom Selhost, owner of Selhost Real Estate, reviews those homes for sale through his office. Selhost Real Estate recently relocated to Sashabaw Road, Independence Township, from its former location in downtown Clarkston.

Jacob Petty's gets new name, menu

Jacob Petty's restaurant has made some changes.

No longer open for breakfast, the restaurant now sports new hours, a new menu and a new name.

In keeping with its recently adopted theme, it is now called, Jacob Petty's Steak and Seafood House. There is also a new chef and new manager.

On the menu will be an array of steaks as well as fresh fish and live lobster.

"We thought the people in the area were very weight conscious and didn't like the type of menu we had here," said owner Tony Ferlito, explaining the changes. "Every time we had a seafood special on the menu, it was sold out."

Hours of operation are now 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Saturday for lunch, and 5 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 5 to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday for dinner.

Reservations are accepted for groups of seven or more only. Call 625-0993.

The restaurant is located inside the Clarkston Mills shopping mall, 20 W. Washington, Clarkston.

Time was . . . by Harry (Pat) Tinson

'Good Old Days when times were bad'

62 The years from 1935 to 1942 are vivid in Harry (Pat) Tinson's memory.

Now 50, Tinson spent those years as a pupil in a one-room school house at the corner of Andersonville and Ware roads in Springfield Township.

"It was really a great time. That's why I figured I'd like to share it," he says. "Times were tough — it was the Depression time and we didn't have a nickel, but it was probably the greatest time of my life."

Tinson will be writing about those memories about once a month in the "Time Was..." column.

He's now retired and lives on a small farm on Rattalee Lake Road in Springfield Township with his wife Gay, a Clarkston High School graduate. They have four children.

Tinson moved back to the area in 1972 after living in Oxford and Pontiac. He's glad, he says, to be home.

"I never got out of being a country boy, I guess," he says with a smile.

Having spent most of my growing up years in the Davisburg-Andersonville area, I have many fond and vivid memories of that time.

I hope to share these memories to bring some recollections to the children of that era and maybe show the younger ones how it was in the "Good Old Days" when times were bad.

Although we drifted away from the area in our adult years, I would quite often drive through and reminisce, taking my daughters on a small trip into the past.

This initial article will be a montage of happenings to tempt the memory or tease the imagination.

The one-room school house...our teacher Miss Jenny Scott, a very fine lady best described as a soft, caring hand in an iron glove, her always handy hickory stick...my younger brother Jimmy's first day at school...

The games we played — Ante—I-Over, Fox and Geese — mostly unfamiliar now...the times spent sliding on Cemetery Hill at lunch time...saluting the flag and singing "Star Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America" each morning...

Watching the flames dancing through Isinglass windows of an old parlor stove while visiting a fine old gentleman we lovingly called Granpa Neal...much more of the old times.

I recently had the pleasure of renewing an old friendship with Neal Parker who will be assisting me on these stories.

YOUR EYES

By Dr. Theodore B. Walton
OPTOMETRIST

What is your most precious possession? Most people would agree that their eyes were far more precious than any amount of material wealth. Nevertheless, many of us...maybe most of us...allow the precious gift of sight to suffer from neglect. It has been estimated that 68 percent of the half million blind people in this country could have saved their sight through proper, early treatment.

In this column, each week, we intend to discuss various aspects of good vision with you. We'll talk about the eye, its marvelous construction and how it works, why it sometimes fails to work as well as it should and how you can protect and preserve your most priceless possession, your eyes.

If your eyesight is not too good, don't wait to see your problem discussed in the paper...make an appointment for an eye examination.

Coping with kids

by Jim Windell

Battle sometimes continues through kids

"My wife is turning my kids against me," complains a recently divorced father in great distress.

A woman, also recently divorced, said, "I don't know what he's saying to them about me, but when the kids come back home after visiting him they don't seem to want to have anything to do with me."

Both mothers and fathers who have been divorced worry about what the other parent is telling the children in their absence.

Are they saying that mother is a bad, immoral person?

Does she say that dad is a no-good S.O.B. who left their wonderful mother for some floozy?

Sometimes the children repeat things that really were said by one parent that seem obviously ill-advised, but lead you to wonder at just what else was said.

The parent who believes that the still angry other parent is trying to win the children over by "filling their heads with lies" may want to question the children and then refute each and every critical statement.

When one or both parents fall into this situation of trying to "win" back their children by giving an accurate view of themselves, they generally become just as guilty as the critical parent by involving the children in the parents' problems.

It is usually best to ignore what is being said against you and concentrate on providing quality experiences when you are with your children.

If you show living and relationship experiences that are quite the contrary to what the other parent describes, the children will be able to figure out for themselves what they need to know about both parents.

A parent who is loving and concerned will gain the respect of the children in the long run.

They will lose respect for the condemning and demeaning parent and ultimately will see which parent has their best interest at heart.

SYNOPSIS

OF CLARKSTON VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES OF OCT. 13, 1980

Roll: Present, ApMadoc, Adams, Basinger, Byers, Fisher, Schultz, Symons. Absent, none.

Approved the bills in the amount of $33,186.66.

Received a request to check the retention basin near the upper Mill Pond, due to silt and dirt entering the upper pond recently.

Agreed to send letters to our Senators and Representative, asking them for their support in renewing the federal revenue sharing program.

Received replies from six engineering firms that applied to be our new engineer. These will be studied by the next meeting.

Agreed to let Oakland University use the village hall for an architecture class on Tuesday evenings from Jan. to April.

Received correspondence from the Clarkston Community Historical Society, thanking the village for the use of the park for their recent Crafts and Cider festival.

Adjourned at 8:35 p.m.

All votes unanimous unless otherwise indicated.

PUBLIC NOTICE

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP

REGISTERED VOTERS MAY VOTE ABSENTEE BALLOT IN THE NOVEMBER 4, 1980 GENERAL ELECTION IF THEY QUALIFY IN ONE OF THE FOLLOWING CATEGORIES:

I expect to be absent from the community in which I am registered for the entire time the polls are open on election day.

I am physically unable to attend the polls without the assistance of another.

I cannot attend the polls because of the tenets of my religion.

I have been appointed an election precinct inspector in a precinct other than the precinct where I reside.

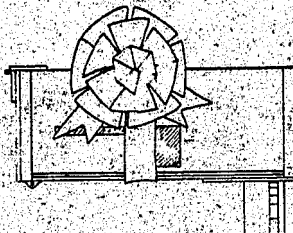

I am 60 years of age or older.

I cannot attend the polls because I am confined to jail awaiting arraignment or trial.

Independence Township residents who qualify and wish to vote Absentee Ballot should call the Clerk's Office at 625-5111 or write the Clerk at 90 North Main St. Clarkston, MI for an application for Absent Voter's Ballot.

The Township offices will be open Saturday, November 1, until 2:00 p.m. which is the deadline for applying for Absentee Ballots to be mailed. However, voters qualified to vote absentee voter ballot may vote in the Clerk's Office up until 4:00 p.m. on Monday, November 3, 1980.

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP CLERK

After the move,
enjoy a
visit.

After-the-move blues disappear quickly when you enjoy a friendly WELCOME WAGON visit. It's free and so helpful. I'll present gifts of greeting and invitations redeemable for more gifts from civic-minded businesses. I'll also present useful information and supply good shopping tips.

I'm the WELCOME WAGON Representative, and I'd like to stop by to say "Hello." A visit is easy to arrange and such a treat. Call me.

Chilly winds, warm goals

Jan Siefert [left] and Barb Glover are among over 100 volunteers who worked behind the scenes to make the Walk for SCAMP a success. As they fight off the chilling cold, Jan calls their outfits the over-stuffed teddy bear look. Despite their discomfort with the weather, the two cheerfully greet hikers as they return.

A walking stick is the treasure young Chris Cusumano brings back from his hike to benefit SCAMP. Chris lives on Riverview Drive, Independence Township.

Now, this is the trick. You watch the photographer to see what she's taking pictures of, then you artfully arrange yourselves on a nearby stump and wait to be noticed. This group cheerfully admitted that's how this picture came about. Clockwise from left are Heather Bates of Woodlawn Road, Crissy Gibson of Mohawk Road, Tricia Kelly and her brother Shane of Thendara Boulevard, all of Independence Township.
