Smith ousts Tower

Rose wins with 70 percent; Ritter lone Democrat on board

By Marilyn Trumper

Republican candidates in last night's election captured all but one seat on the Independence Township Board.

James B. Smith

Lone Democrat Frederick Ritter was re-elected treasurer over his Republican opponent Carol Balzarini by a margin of 560 votes. Final tabulations placed Ritter with 53 percent of the votes cast — 4,830 to Balzarini's 4,270.

In the race for supervisor, James B. Smith (R) defeated Democrat Floyd (Whitey) Tower by 1,142 votes, or 56 percent. Final tallies showed Smith with 5,084 votes to Tower's 3,942.

Republican incumbent Clerk Christopher Rose soundly defeated Democrat Karen Herron by 70 percent with 3,718 votes. Final counts showed Rose with 6,306 votes to Herron's 2,588 votes.

In the trustee race, single Democratic candidate Guy Z. Derryberry lost out to his Republican opposition, capturing only 3,533 votes.

Incumbent Trustee William Vandermark (R) was re-elected with votes totaling 5,978.

Republican candidate for trustee Larence R. Kozma captured a majority of the votes with a count of 6,045.

Other winners in the race for trustee were Daniel F. Travis (R), capturing 5,888 votes and Dale A. Stuart (R) with 5,865 votes.

About 73 percent of the township's registered voters cast ballots.

Smith was visibly pleased with the election results.

"I feel I'm replacing a good man who is a credit to his community, and who certainly did his best. I don't see this so much as a personal victory, as much as it is a humbling challenge to bring about the goals and policies talked about during this election," he said.

Ritter, celebrating his victory at home, said, "I'm grateful to the voters who have recognized the treasurer's position requires sound financial acuity. I respect their opinion and I'd like to insure them that I will continue to do my best to represent them as I have in the past."

Rose said he was happy for election to his third straight term, adding he appreciated support from those who helped.

Voters soundly defeated a proposed 1/2 mill for road maintenance.

The final count for the road millage was 6,139 to 2,276.

Springfield race unseats incumbent

By Al Zawacky

In the only contested race in Springfield Township, Republicans Mary Watson and Shirley Secatch were elected to four-year terms on the township library board in Tuesday's election.

Candidates for positions on the township board and park commission ran without opposition in Springfield's remaining races.

Watson, an incumbent, received 1,680 votes in the library board race, while Secatch had 1,544. Both GOP candidates outpolled incumbent Democrat Ina Golden, who had 1,108 votes.

In the supervisor's race, incumbent Collin Walls (R) had 2,012 votes, while Democrat

John Mulloy, who had withdrawn from the race too late to have his name removed from the ballot, had 861.

An identical situation occurred in the treasurer's race, where incumbent Patricia Kramer (R) garnered 2,053 votes to Democrat Marjorie Kirk's 844. Kirk announced her withdrawal from the race last month.

The remaining unopposed winners were incumbent Clerk J. Calvin Walters (R) 2,140 votes; incumbent trustees William Whitley (R) 1,746 and Glen Vermilye (D) 1,318; and park commission candidates Charles Goring (R) 1,831 and Frederic Steward (R) 1,806.

Approximately 68 percent of Springfield Township's eligible electors went to the polls Tuesday.

Why residents should support the E-9-1-1 Service Plan

Editor's note: Independence and Springfield townships and the Clarkston support the E-9-1-1 Service Plan. Comments to Independence Township officials may be made by calling 625-5111, ext. 201 or 208 and leaving a voice mail message. Public Hearings will be Oct. 5 at 7:30 p.m. and Nov. 18 at 9:30 a.m. at the Oakland County Commissioners Auditorium, 1200 N. Telegraph. For more information call 858-0100.

Dear Editor,

On August 5 the Oakland County Board of Commissioners passed Miscellaneous Resolution 99163, authorizing the Tentative Amended E 9-1-1 Service Plan for Oakland County and further authorizing the county to levy a four percent surcharge for emergency telephone operations.

Oakland County has operated as an E 9-1-1 service district since 1988; however, since its beginning, technological and legislative changes to E 9-1-1 systems have made it necessary to amend and update our county's emergency communications system. I firmly believe that the proposed changes are necessary for the safety and welfare of Oakland County residents. The two major areas of concern are the status of our current E 9-1-1 telephone service and the necessity of developing a county-wide public services (police, fire, medical) radio system.

Oakland County has 31 Public Service Answering Points which are referred to as "PSAPs" which receive and process calls for emergency service. It has been determined in a study that the emergency 9-1-1 call taking equipment at most of the PSAPs is obsolete with replacement unavoidable due to the lack of replacement parts and improvements in technology.

In addition, the current E 9-1-1 equipment does not conform to federal mandates brought about by the proliferation of wireless telephone communications which will require PSAPs to be able to pinpoint the origination of cellular emergency calls. Clearly, the need to update this equipment has been demonstrated, and with that showing of need, it is necessary for Oakland County to move forward.

Currently, most emergency service agencies in Oakland County cannot communicate via radio with agencies in other municipalities. This is a serious issue of public safety.

At the Ford Wixom Plant three years ago, where many people were wounded and one killed by a crazed gunman, many surrounding police agencies responded to the call for help. The greatest hindrance was the inability of these police agencies to communicate and coordinate a plan to subdue this individual.

Oakland County PSAPs use three different radio frequencies. Responding officers attempting to communicate on incompatible frequencies made communication impossible.

To address this, it will be necessary for Oakland County to step forward with a solution. It has been approved for final consideration of sufficient channels of compatible radio frequency allow all emergency public service providers in Oakland County to communicate with one another in mutual-aid need situations. We anticipate that the FCC will authorize those channels in the near future.

We also need additional and upgraded equipment to allow all potential users to make use of this system. Radio tower equipment and improvements must be made along with the installation of radio consoles and the purchase of radios. This comes with a cost, unfortunately, which must be paid by our residents, either from the county's general fund or in the form of usage fees. The cost of the radio upgrade? Approximately $25 million over a period of four years.

This brings me back to the four percent surcharge called for by the board resolution approved on August 5. The first resolution passed in December 1998 provided the cost of radio upgrades would be paid from the county's general fund unless such funds were not available. Recently, Robert Daddow, director of the county's Department of Management and Budget, said the general fund did not contain sufficient funds to pay for the radio upgrades beyond that which has already been allocated from that fund. It was now up to the board of commissioners to determine whether to move forward by authorizing a telephone surcharge up to four percent on telephone land lines (57 cents per line) or to seek greater funding (in excess of four percent) by placing it upon the ballot.

Estimated costs are approximately $6 million per year, and it was determined that a four percent optional surcharge on telephone bills would generate nearly that amount. The controlling statute only provides for funding to be a ballot issue if the request for funding exceeds four percent. The board and administration believe that funding in excess of four percent is not needed and by setting this surcharge without a vote of the people, the board retains its flexibility to reduce the surcharge if the level becomes excessive. This could not be done if a greater amount was authorized by a vote of the people.

As an additional safeguard, the board of commissioners has provided that the proposed surcharge, if approved in the final plan, will be reviewed annually to determine whether it generates funds in excess of that amount necessary to fund the project and has also provided that the surcharge be terminated on December 31, 2006.

Understanding that there are some who do not agree with the E 9-1-1 plan or the necessity to upgrade radio communications, the legislature has provided that each city, village, or township within the county can seek exclusion from the plan within 45 days of receipt of the board of commissioners' resolution and copy of the Tentative Plan.

If a city, village or township opts out of the county plan, its residents would not be assessed the four percent operational surcharge but would be required to operate their own Public Service Answering Point (PSAP).

Though I believe it prudent to be part of this plan, it is important that those who oppose it voice their concerns to their respective city, village or township officials within this 45-day period so that their position is known. Local government must make the determination whether or not to participate in the county plan within the 45-day period. Failure to respond during the time allocated will result in its automatic inclusion in this plan.

I have heard some senior citizens' concerns over additional taxes or users' fees on their telephone bills. Though most admit that seven dollars a year is a small price to pay for the peace of mind such an E 9-1-1 system will provide, they are concerned about the cumulative effect that an additional seven dollars a year will have on their budget. This concern has not gone unheard of or unappreciated.

This is the most equitable way of distributing the cost. There is hope that before the final plan is approved later this year, a way to fund at least a portion of the costs from the general fund may be found and the surcharge may then be reduced.

As a county commissioner, I support this plan. I look forward to its implementation and am thankful for the lives that will undoubtedly be saved due to the enhanced ability of our citizens to report dangerous situations and to summon emergency assistance by the most efficient and rapid means possible.

Fun and fellowship at church-based singles group

BY EILEEN MCCARVILLE

Clarkston News Staff Writer

If there's one thing Chuck Kirken would like to say to other single people, it's "You are not alone."

That's something he found out after getting involved with Bethany North Oakland, a group for divorced, separated and widowed persons which meets at St. Daniel Catholic Church in Clarkston.

At first, "I was scared and nervous and everything else," said the Clarkston resident and Bethany's president, who was married for 30 years. His fears were put to rest when he met others, sharing fun and fellowship in a Christian setting.

The local group, founded at St. Anne's Catholic Church in Ortonville 10 years ago, is part of a larger organization that includes Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties.

Most people are in their '40s or older, Kirken says. Although it's run by a Catholic organization, all denominations are welcome. He makes it clear Bethany isn't "a dating service" or matchmaker, although there are success stories.

"This is a support group," Kirken says. "The purpose is to provide spiritual, social and educational assistance to divorced or separated Christians -- peer-to-peer ministry if you want the flowery words about it."

"We have had marriages, dating situations. It's a plus, but it's not the primary purpose of us being here."

There are two to three events a week, displayed on monthly calendars which are mailed out to members along with a newsletter. (the cost is $6 a year). Activities include concerts, movies, dining, the theater, sporting events, fitness centers, progressive dinners and house parties.

The group also hosts four dances a year, from 7:30 p.m. to midnight. The next one is Saturday. The cost is $8 per person and includes a deejay and refreshments. Like other activities, dances take place in St. Dan's Cushing Center.

Monthly meetings at 7:30 p.m. the fourth Monday of each month are another good way to get acquainted with the group. Bethany also runs a Divorce Recovery Group which meets Tuesdays and runs through the fall and winter. The first meeting is Sept. 28. It's free and materials are provided.

Kirken, 59, has personally benefitted from the experiences. "I was married 32 years and I didn't expect to be out here," he admitted. "I can see good things happen to good people and be a part of that, which, in turn, helps me too." There is talk of starting a group for younger people as well, he added.

Richard Marshall, 62, of Clarkston, lives a mile from the church and likes the convenience. He especially enjoys the dances. "They have line dancing, which is really popular, a couple of waltzes, a couple of polkas, some swing dancing -- a little bit of everything."

He wishes more people would attend. "I see very few people from Clarkston. They're from out of town," Marshall said.

Pat Lowry, a Clarkston resident and Bethany board member, first saw the information in a local newspaper. Although she'd been to other singles groups, she liked the fact this one was in a church.

"It's a great place to go and socialize with other people. It's a safe place to go," Lowry said.

Divorced, with three grown children, the "50-plus" Lowry says the activities get her out of the house. "You don't always have functions to go to."

"We give lots of support We tell them things will be OK and that there's nothing wrong in being single," she said. "And that you don't have to be part of a couple to be happy."

For more information, call Chuck Kirken at 969-2519, or Don Hund at 969-2519. St. Dan's is located at 7010 Valley Park in Clarkston.

Driving tales...

BY KEVIN KOSBAB

The thrill of driving just never ends.

I thought that once I had my driver's license, driving would not longer be a fresh experience and I wouldn't really think about it. I was wrong.

I was just at Great Lakes Crossing the other night, so something that is fresh on my mind is running red lights. What is going on up there? Every time I go, there's at least one person who just can't sit until it turns green. I don't understand it.

I know I'm not the only one getting ticked off with moronic drivers. And I know that teenagers have the image of being awful drivers and, well, a lot of it's based in fact. I'd like to put myself out of that category, but I guess I shouldn't be the one to make that judgment.

I used to get mad when my mom would almost get run off the road and then say, "Stupid teenage drivers!" That declaration somehow explained it, and it was always the teenage driver's fault, and I thought the assumption was a tidbit rude.

We're not all bad. I know a lot of fantastic (okay, decent) drivers my age. Again, that's the category I like to place myself in. But it is starting to make sense that many people think they cannot drive to save their lives! Or yours!

I really came to this conclusion when I tried to get out of the parking lot at school early one afternoon. My younger brother and I normally meet at my car at 2:35, which we found to be the time the lot clears out. It's amazing: if I come out of the doors of the building at about 2:35, cars are still lined up to the back of the lot trying to get out, but by the time I get to the car and put my backpack in the trunk, it's empty and I have a straight shot out.

We wondered if there could be a faster way than waiting for fifteen minutes after school ended before leaving. So we met at 2:30 one day - a mere five minutes sooner - and learned that, sadly, there was no faster way. In order to get out, someone has to let you into the exit line. The only prayer I had was that someone who knew me would be kind enough, since anyone else pretends they don't see you. Eventually I got into the line, and we waited some more, and by the time we were on Flemings Lake Road, it was 2:35.

Actually, there are ways to get out quicker. The first is to be ready to move as soon as class gets out, but I can't get myself together quick enough, and you still have to fight traffic.

The other way I saw in action on our day of leaving early: if you drive to the far end of the parking lot, get parallel with the exit line, and floor the gas as the line starts to move after a pause, you come whipping around the side and when you start to turn into the line, some other driver has no choice but to let you in. Unless they want a high-speed collision.

Again, I think I'll stay away from that approach.

Please don't take this as whining about not being home early enough - leaving at 2:35 is plenty of time for me, and fine for my brother too, 'cause his only other option is our good friend, the bus.

I am writing as a warning: avoid the treacherous waters around Clarkston Road when school ends, or you may end up running through the big red light in the sky, if you know what I - oh, never mind. I'll save the metaphors for another time, and, sadly, you'll have to wait another two weeks. I feel your pain.

Actions speak louder than words

I recently had the opportunity to review "America Goes Back To School," a publication of the U.S. Department of Education. This pamphlet outlines six priority action areas designed to prepare students to be successful in the next millennium:

1. Making Schools Safe and Drug Free
2. Recruiting and Preparing Quality Teachers
3. Modernizing Schools
4. Expanding After School Programs
5. Getting Higher Standards into Every Classroom
6. Increasing Pathways to College and Careers

Do they sound familiar? Yes, they bear a striking resemblance to the course that we are plotting right here in Clarkston. Today's column will address two of these priorities.

Making Schools Safe and Drug Free

It may be an unfortunate sign of the times, but school safety is no longer sacrosanct. While statistically schools are among the safest places in society, we can no longer take that fact for granted. It has become necessary for parents, students, school personnel, and various community organizations to work together to reduce violence and substance abuse.

Clarkston is special in many ways, and typical in others. Our children are not immune to messages and examples that society provides; and they are quick learners. They see the advertisements, listen to the hype, and believe they are invincible. They also watch us adults to see if we "walk the talk."

The experts tell us this is not a school problem; it is a dilemma for schools, families and the entire community to address. Our best chance of solving these issues appears to be a comprehensive, collaborative effort. So, last month a Safety Summit was held in the boardroom at our administration building. Participants discussed practices already in place and displayed the determination necessary to face up to the problems that exist in our own backyard. My assistant, Pat Brumback, is leading this effort with the assistance of community members and law enforcement agencies.

We are also working with the Clarkston Community Task Force to promote awareness and to change a pattern of substance abuse that is all too common in the world today! This partnership has made it possible to bring in experts to speak with staff, students, parents and community members; and the task force has also championed the Search Institute's Developmental Assets approach.

While our schools offer an extensive curriculum addressing conflict management and illegal drug/alcohol use, the data suggest our biggest challenge isn't one of knowledge. Our youngsters know about the evils of violence and substance abuse. The formidable task before us is to change the attitudes of students and adults.

Time and time again, the statistics tell us that children are most susceptible after school or on weekends when they are largely unsupervised. So you can see why the health and safety of our children must become a community priority.

Returning to the classroom

Clarkston News Staff Writer

While hundreds of kids filed into classrooms Thursday morning at Clarkston High School, some saw a different face in the crowd.

Dr. Al Roberts, superintendent of Clarkston Community Schools, visited the school for the day to see firsthand the start of the semester.

After meeting and greeting students entering the building at 7 a.m., he attended the staff's morning meeting and headed off to his first class - Engineering Problem Solving/Computer-Aided Drafting.

Other classes he checked into throughout the day were German, Japanese, physics I, and a senior projects class. He also visited the media center, ate lunch in the cafeteria and asked kids questions about their schedules, outside activities and overall opinions on the school staff and atmosphere.

With a freshman class of 640 and with just over 2,200 kids enrolled, he says observing the students and getting feedback is essential to his position.

"The magic we have to do is to be as personal as we can with them; to give them a sense of security,

"And my reason is also a selfish one. It keeps me aware of what's happening. It puts me in a position to be more empathetic to situations," he said.

This was Dr. Roberts' first time visiting a school building for the whole day. Since becoming school board superintendent, he's been to several schools in one day, making 45-minute stops.

Another reason for attending all day, he said, was to examine the idea of extending the school day for those students interested. He also talked with teachers about students job shadowing area businesses for credit.

"That's not something that would happen over the phone to Central Office," he said.

Near the close of the day, Dr. Roberts attended the school's Student Leadership class and talked with students ranging from freshmen to seniors about his position as board superintendent. He also gave a summary of what takes place at school board meetings.

Jeremy Williams, president of Student Leadership and CHS senior, said the students are interested in attending meetings in the future.

"It was very positive," Dr. Roberts said. "The atmosphere in the building continues to be a good one."

Father says son innocent of charges

An 18-year-old Clarkston resident has been charged with two counts of third-degree criminal sexual conduct, stemming from two incidents in Clarkston and Waterford.

Michael David Simko was arraigned last Thursday in 52-2 District Court in Clarkston and 51st District Court in Waterford. Not guilty pleas were entered in his behalf.

Bond was set at $5,000, cash 10 percent in Waterford and $1,000, cash 10 percent in Clarkston. Simko posted both bonds, said court spokespersons.

Dave Simko, Michael's father, said his son did not commit the crime he is accused of.

"Michael is innocent," he said. "He is not guilty, and the crime he is accused of never happened."

Preliminary exams are set for 9:30 a.m., Oct. 22 in Clarkston before Judge Gerald McNally and at 8:30 a.m., Oct. 25 in Waterford before Judge Phyllis McMillen.

Oakland County Sheriff's Department officials declined to release details of the incidents which are under investigation.

Third-degree criminal sexual conduct is a felony, which carries a maximum prison sentence of 15 years.

Police and fire

Saturday, Sept. 18, a N. Marshbank man reported discipline problems with his daughter, 13.

Friday, Sept. 17, a 47-year-old Riverview man called police from a pay phone and threatened suicide. Police found him crying and drinking alcohol out of a glass jar. He was taken to a local hospital.

Larceny of a golf bag, clubs, a cell phone and pager on Royal St. George.

Thursday, Sept. 16, a green 1998 Chevy cab and pickup reported stolen from a Dixie dealership.

Wednesday, Sept. 15, retail fraud at a Dixie grocery store. Witnesses saw a white male take two 12-packs of Bud Light and flee with two other men in a red compact car.

An 18-year-old Waterford man, formerly banned from a Dixie fast-food business because he swore at management, was cited for trespassing. He said it had been a long time since he was kicked out and thought it didn't matter if he ate there that day.

Tuesday, Sept. 14, a Dixie business had a verbal argument with a customer who claimed money was owed.

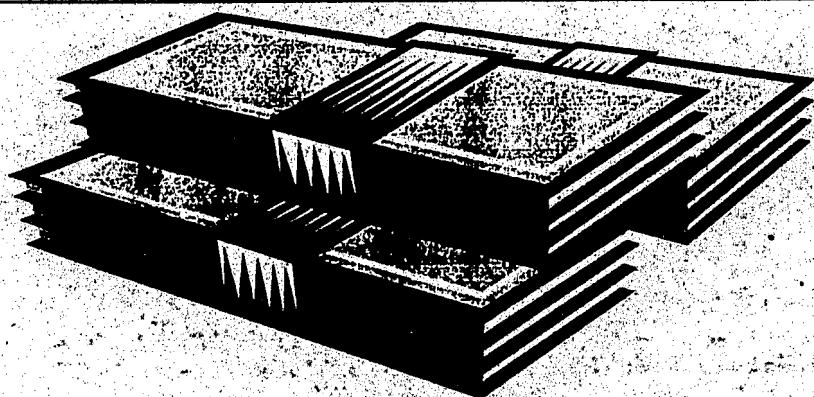

Monday, Sept. 13, retail fraud at a Dixie gas station. Two teens were captured on the store's security tape, stuffing chips and candy into their pockets without paying.

Sunday, Sept. 12, a Clarkston woman got into an argument with another person over parking at the Michigan Renaissance Festival. He threatened her, and when she returned she found a cement piece and scratches on her car. She described him as having a long, black pony tail and changing into purple leggings, a black shirt and a short sword.

Traffic was rerouted on M-15 Thursday as workers repaired a gas line that ruptured in front of the old Clarkston post office. The accident occurred around 3:20 p.m. when contractors hit a 2-inch line while excavating to tie in a storm drain pipe in front of the carrier annex. The annex and another building were evacuated. "There was danger of an explosion," said Oakland County Sheriff's Department Lt. Dale LaBar. "It was a major line, a lot of gas. We got a break with the wind and the temperature because it allowed the gas to dissipate."

Editor's note -- In last week's issue, the following paragraphs were omitted in a story about efforts by the Clarkston Village Players to spruce up Depot Theatre.

But that took a lot of time and commitment, Kramer said. "You have to remember this is volunteer time," said Kramer, whose full-time job is Assessor for Independence Township.

"When you're involved with a play, as a cast member or a crew member, it consumes a great deal of your time." Plus, more productions mean more expenses, he added. As a non-profit organization, the players have limited funds.

Last week, some CVP members were readying the stage for "Murder by the Book." Scenery was being painted, and one member was down on her knees, sprucing up some furniture.

As long-time Player Mel Case — who has had vast experience as an actor, producer and director — looked over the theater, he noted it takes approximately six weeks of preparation per show. That includes about five weeks of rehearsals for the actors.

"Some sets are finished up the week we open. Some are finished weeks before," Case said. "It depends on how gung ho we are."

Tree removal

Dr. Al Roberts, superintendent of Clarkston Community Schools, said landscaping of the school site will take place in coming weeks.

"There will likely be some tree planting, but not interfering with the line of sight," he said.

Kahler said school officials are considering planting fast-growing trees in those areas. "It won't be the same. We're going to do what we can," he said.

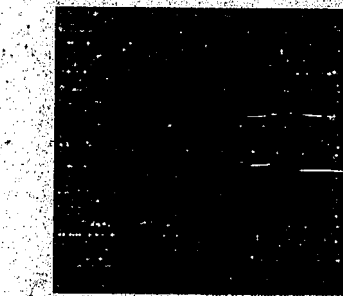

Dr. Roberts said overall, he believes residents' needs were met to the best of the district's ability.

"We don't have the option of building a road any way we want. There's not an option of not taking down any trees."

"You could take AP Calculus, but there are prerequisites," he said. "We have prerequisites placed there by the road commission that we need to meet."

"We build schools in response to needs."

Any success the Clarkston girls swim team has in its first year is just a bonus.

The Wolves had some big success on Sept. 14 as they won their first ever dual meet, 149-34 over Pontiac Central at the CHS natatorium.

Coach Kenwyn Chock said getting the win is good for the team, showing it does have that ability to succeed this year.

"It's about time we had a win," she said. "In our first two meets, the other

Just when Clarkston golf coach Tim Kaul had it all figured out, his rankings got turned upside down.

Some of Clarkston's top golfers slumped, while a pair of youngsters shot excellent rounds Friday, leading the Wolves to a 160-166 win over Waterford Mott at Clarkston Creek.

Freshman Dustin McMillan's 39 and junior Matt Getty's 37 led the team to the close win. McMillan had seen some action on varsity previously, but the meet was Getty's first action on the varsity level.

"Those two were a very pleasant surprise for us," Kaul said. "In that meet, my eighth and ninth guys became my first and second."

Kaul said the competition provided by the underclassmen to the team's solid group of seniors will only make everyone better.

"It encourages everyone to pick up their game," he said. "I wish the underclassmen would push the seniors by shooting 36 and 37, while the seniors shoot 38 and 39. But you gotta earn your playing time, and the seniors have to do that just like everyone else."

Thursday, the Wolves face West Bloomfield at the Orchard Lake Country Club.

Wolves toss another shutout

	Clarkston	21

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

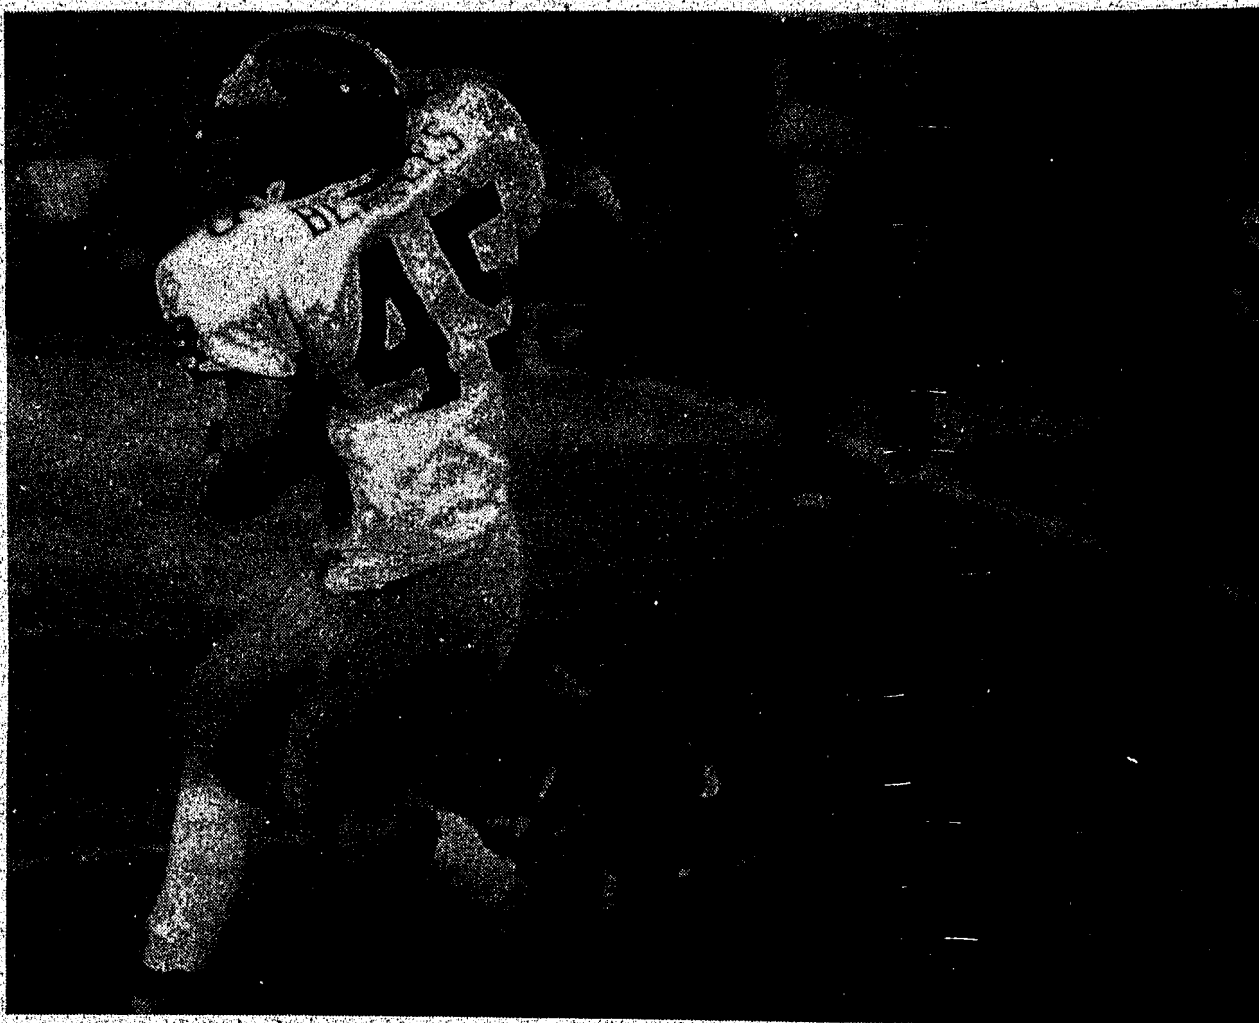

Look up "ugly win" in the dictionary, and Friday night's football game between Clarkston and Brandon is likely to pop up.

A sluggish start, bad penalties and big plays wiped out were the theme of the evening for the Wolves, who played a stronger second half en route to beating the Brandon Blackhawks 21-0 at the Brandon Middle School field.

The Wolves are now 4-0 overall, 1-0 in the OAA Division I. Friday, Pontiac Northern brings its high-scoring offense to the CHS football stadium for a 7 p.m. game.

Clarkston coach Kurt Richardson said he was not happy with the team's execution, especially in the first half, when the Blackhawks only trailed 6-0.

"We were not focused, and we weren't disciplined, he said. "We had a terrible week of practice, and it showed. I think our guys were taking Brandon for granted." Penalties killed the Wolves, who could have easily cracked the 40-point barrier against Brandon, if not for calls which negated big offensive plays.

"In the second half, we became a little more focused," Richardson said. "We were a little alarmed that they were that close at halftime, but we just knew

Wolves keep composure, beat Red Hawks

	Clarkston	42
	Troy Athens	33

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

In last year's meetings on the basketball court between Clarkston and Troy Athens, the Wolves twice snatched defeat from the jaws of victory.

Thursday night, the Wolves made key plays on both ends of the court and pulled away with a big 42-33 win over the Red Hawks.

"This was a great win for us," a beaming coach Ann Lowney said after the game. "My girls did what I asked them to do. We kept our composure and made the plays."

Last season's two games were gut-wrenching losses for the Wolves. Clarkston banked in a 3-pointer with three seconds left to pull within one, but a signaled time out was ignored by the referees, and the Wolves lost 57-56. In the teams' second meeting, a Clarkston shot at the buzzer rimmed in and out, sending the game in overtime, when Athens went on to post a 39-30 win.

But this is a new season and a new Clarkston team. With 4:52 left in the game, Athens converted an offensive rebound for a basket to pull to within 32-30.

Then, the Clarkston defense and offensive composure took center stage, as the Wolves outscored the Red Hawks 10-3 the rest of the game.

Freshman Jenn Carlson was at the center of a couple of the decisive plays of the game. After the Athens layup, she swished two free throws to put Clarkston up by four. Two possessions later, she made a backcourt steal, and tossed a perfect bounce pass to senior guard Candace Morgan, who finished the layup. This sequence gave the Wolves a comfortable lead, 37-30.

"We pulled it together down the stretch and showed our composure," Carlson said. "This was a very important win for us. We proved to ourselves how good we can be by beating a team like Athens."

"Jenn is comfortable with the ball in her hands, and that's why I had her out there (in the fourth quarter)," Lowney said.

In the final 4:52, the Wolves made 7-of-10 free throws to put the game away.

Another key part of the win was the defense Lowney designed to stop Athens guard Tania Moe. She put guards Kristen Falck and Kira Karlstrom on her and had the team play a box-and one, which gives Falck and Karlstrom help in defending Moe.

The results showed how effective the defense was. Moe finished with just two field goals and six points.

"We got in Tania Moe's face," Lowney said. "Kira and Kristen were just fabulous in defending her, and everyone else did their jobs. Kristen showed the competitive heart she has tonight."

"It was different, forgetting about my regular defense and just concentrating on her," Falck said. "But everyone else helped out. This feels so good to get this win. This shows this is not the same team as last year."

Morgan led the team with nine points, while senior Rachel Uchman scored eight and had 11 rebounds.

The Wolves travel to West Bloomfield Thursday night for a game against the Lakers. The JV game starts at 5:30 p.m.

Basketball team doing a lot of things right

It had been a while since I had seen that expression on Ann Lowney's face.

An intense, energetic and knowledgeable coach, Lowney was as happy as I had ever seen her after Thursday night's 42-33 win over Troy Athens at the CHS gym.

The game she just coached was not pretty by any standards, but it was a win, one that showed this year's team has a lot of qualities that make successful basketball teams.

■ A killer instinct.

This can be one of the toughest aspects of team sports to master, but this team, despite its youth, seems to have it down pat already.

The Wolves were tested down the stretch in its last three games, against Lake Orion, Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Troy Athens. Each time, the team passed those tests with a combination of clutch free-throw shooting, defensive stands or game-turning steals.

And the best part of this is, it's different players who are stepping up and delivering the big plays. Rachel Uchman grabbed key defensive rebounds against Lahser. Candace Morgan has made rally-killing 3-pointers, also against Lahser. Jenn Carlson swished a pair of free throws and made two backcourt steals against Athens. Kristen Falck cut around two defenders and made a huge jump shot when Athens was making a run.

Closing out games like their three most recent ones is something the Wolves lacked last year. Teams seemed to find a way to beat Clarkston, but that hasn't been happening this year.

■ Team defense.

Former Pistons coach Chuck Daly called defense

"basically, hard work." He knew players didn't enjoy playing defense as much as offense, but the players learned that playing defense led to victories.

In last year's first meeting against the Red Hawks, Clarkston allowed 57 points. In this year's first meeting, that total was cut to 33 thanks to a terrific team effort defensively.

Lowney called for a box-and-one defense on Athens guard Tania Moe, and it paid off. She was held to one field goal in the entire game. Credit Falck for good one-on-one defense, and her teammates, for giving her help on picks and rotations.

■ A team commitment.

When Lowney and I had our first conversation about this year's team, one thing she said that struck me was, "I love keeping 12."

She was referring to 12 players on the roster. Last year, she had 14 players on the roster, and found managing the personalities and playing time a real challenge.

This year's playing lineup features a mix of experienced players and young players. Candace Morgan is in her fourth year on the varsity team, while Lindsey Prudhomme and Uchman are in their third. The Wolves have also received a big boost from freshmen Carlson and Kira Karlstrom. Although this team has some very different personalities, they seem to mesh much better, and that can be so valuable on the court.

There are certainly some difficult tests ahead for Clarkston. Rochester and Waterford Kettering are two of the best teams in the state, and are outstanding in all phases of the game. Troy always seems to have a tough team, even though their statistics don't knock your socks off.

The Wolves went 2-10 in the league in 1996 and 1998, but 10-2 in 1997. I figure this year's team to land somewhere inbetween, but don't underestimate Lowney's coaching and the unity of this team. The mix seems to be right, and the results could be great.

■ What in the name of Barry Sanders' dad is going on here?

Our beloved football heroes from the Lions, University of Michigan, Michigan State and Clarkston have a combined record of 12-0.

Clarkston's record? Not a big surprise. Michigan? Give the Wolverines credit for pulling out tough wins in clutch situations. Michigan State? The Notre Dame game was a very dangerous one for the Spartans, but they made the big plays defensively when they needed them.

But the Lions? Two-and-oh? For only the third time in my lifetime, the Lions stand 2-0, and amazingly, all alone in first place.

Yes, I know it's only September, but did you really think the Lions could have gone to Seattle and won, and follow that up with a win over the team with the most annoying fans anywhere?

That's right, Cheesehead-breath. The Lions are playing with more fire, more heart than we've seen in a while.

It's more than the "let's-prove-we-can-win-without-Barry" mentality. This team is not killing itself with bad turnovers or penalties that wipe out big plays. Charlie Batch is showing just how valuable a steady and effective quarterback can be. The defense is the best I've ever seen in Detroit despite allowing 400-plus yards to the Packers.

I say, let's give coach Bobby Ross some credit. He took a lot of heat for switching to Batch last year, and took some more when he would publicly rip his team after unsightly losses to Cincinnati and Philadelphia.

But this year, he's done a terrific job out of rallying the troops and getting them to play with a toughness and togetherness not seen here in a while. He also realized he had to make some changes in the way he coached, and it's nice to see he wasn't too stubborn to do that. It's going to be a fun fall.

we had to start playing."

The bright spot in the game was another outstanding performance by the defensive unit. The Wolves posted their second shutout of the season, this time containing the explosive wing-T Brandon runs as well as anyone in the state.

"You just got to tackle everybody," Richardson said, explaining the strategy.

Last year, Clarkston had similar success shutting down the Blackhawks, holding them to seven points through the three quarters when the starters were in the game. A key to the defense against Brandon has been the practice Clarkston's scout team and assistant coach Mike Stefanski.

"Mike plays quarterback on the scout team, and they have helped tremendously in our preparation," Richardson said. "You have to get a look at that kind of offense the week before, and they did a great job."

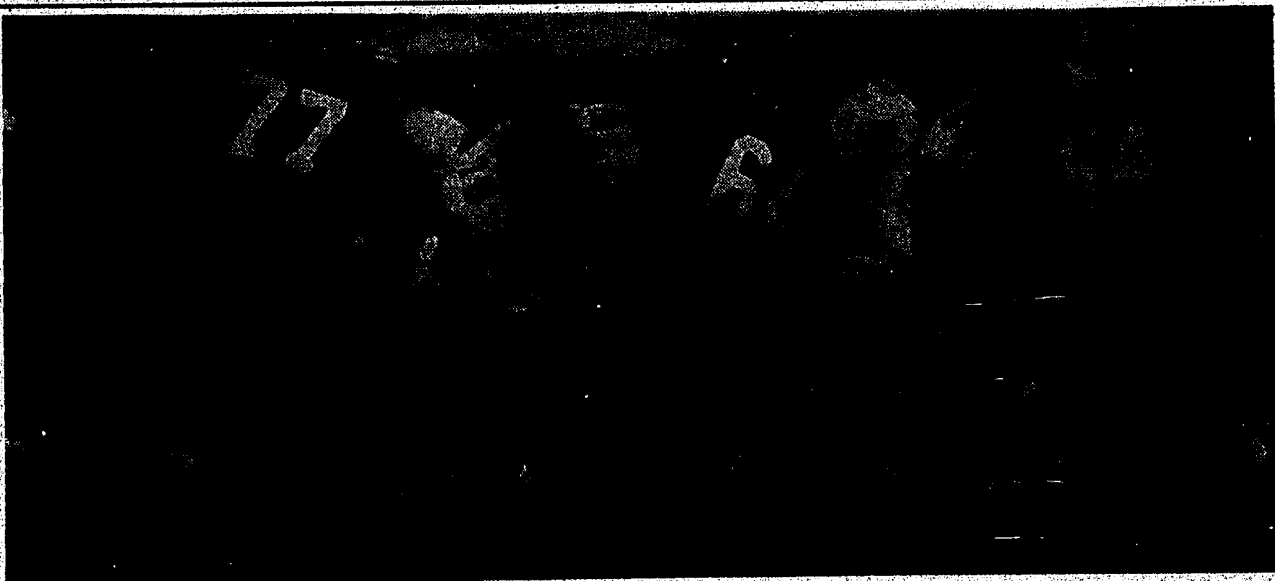

Clarkston concentrated on the running game against Brandon, as junior QB Ryan Kaul attempted a season-low five passes, completing four of them to four different receivers for 61 yards.

Senior TB Chris Mitchell rushed for 127 yards on 20 carries, a hefty 6.3 yards per carry. He also caught a screen pass for a 20-yard touchdown.

Senior fullback Chad Booker had his best statistical game of the season, rumbling for 86 yards on nine carries, plus a touchdown.

Junior Nick Beadles scored his first varsity touchdown in the game, rushing for 21 yards on two carries.

"It was just a terrible game for us. You're damned if you do, you're damned if you don't," Richardson said. "It's a game you are supposed to win, but if it's close, people wonder why. We have a lot of respect for their program, and they have accomplished a lot in the past few years. Their kids played awful hard."

Friday, the Wolves take on a much different opponent in Pontiac Northern. The Huskies and Wolves have maintained one of the best boys basketball rivalries in the state, but their clashes on the gridiron have been special as well.

Last year, Clarkston pulled out one of its most thrilling wins in recent years, using a 13-play, 89-yard drive in the game's final minute-and-a-half to pull out a 13-12 win at classic Wisner Stadium.

"Northern is total opposite of Brandon," Richardson said. "They're gonna throw the ball deep and use their speed. That's hard for us to duplicate in practice."

The Huskies finished 7-3 last season, losing to Oxford in the first round of the playoffs. Northern shared the OAA Division III title with Brandon and Birmingham Groves a year ago.

The Huskies are coached by Bruce McNorton, who played in the secondary for the Detroit Lions in the 1980s. The team's best player is QB Richard Armstrong, who runs the team's veer offense very well. The Huskies edged Brandon 30-27 on Sept. 10. Northern's defense features eight first-year players.

With a win, Clarkston can jump out to a 5-0 start for the second year in a row, setting up a showdown with Troy, who is also likely to be 5-0. The Colts take on Ferndale in a game which figures to be one-sided. A win by Clarkston, ranked 10th in the state in Class A, would put it just one win away from qualifying for the state playoffs.

Soccer team stays hot with shutout of Bears

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

It was a cool and chilly night at the Clarkston High School soccer stadium Wednesday night, but the team in white stayed warm.

The varsity boys soccer team extended its unbeaten streak to five games with a convincing 2-0 win over the Berkley Bears in front of the home crowd.

The win improves the Wolves to 3-2-2 overall and 3-0-1 in the OAA Division II.

Although the final score was close, the Wolves were in control the whole way, keeping pressure off goalkeeper Dustin Coleman on defense while being aggressive on offense.

Senior forward Bill Kalush, tied for the team lead with three goals this season, said a key to the turnaround has been the improvement of the defenders.

"We have tightened it up in the back," he said. "We have been getting our offense up front, but the guys in the back have really stepped up and done a good job."

Among those defenders Kalush referred to is Derek Decker and Mike Tharrett. Both did well at containing Berkley's attacking forwards and cleared the ball after every rush.

Assistant coach Bill Deloney, filling in for head coach Dan Fitzgerald, said the team has improved itself in many aspects in this five-game streak.

"We did a good job of getting to the ball first and getting it to the corners, which is how Dan coaches," he said. "We have picked up our intensity a great deal over the past five games. We have fought from behind in games and we have beaten some tough teams."

The Wolves were in control from the start against Berkley, but didn't cash in until 9:43 remained in the first half. Senior forward Mike Licata fired a shot into the net from 25 yards out, faking two defenders, stepping to the side and shooting the ball in off a Berkley defender.

The half ended with the Wolves up 1-0, and never seriously threatened.

The Bears made a brief surge at the 15-minute mark of the second half, putting some pressure on the Clarkston defense. Led by Tharrett, Berkley came up dry.

"Mike Tharrett was dominant back there," Deloney said. "Dustin played well when we needed him, and he's been shutting people down. And Jared Bauer has done a nice job in the center-midfield for us."

With 11:20 left in the game, the Wolves scored their second goal. Senior Mike Renda tapped in a shot that went through the hands of the Berkley goalkeeper. The play was set up by a high-arching free kick. Renda and Kalush hit the goalpost with two shots during the game.

"I gotta stop hitting the post," Kalush said with a chuckle. "There's not a team out there we can't hang with. Grand Blanc was a rough game, and if we can beat them, we can beat a lot of people."

The Wolves host league rival West Bloomfield tonight starting at 7:20 p.m. The team is off until Tuesday, when it begins the second half of its league schedule with a game at Royal Oak Kimball. The Knights beat the Wolves 3-1 in the second game of the season.

Rivalry revisited

What: Clarkston Wolves vs.

Pontiac Northern Huskies

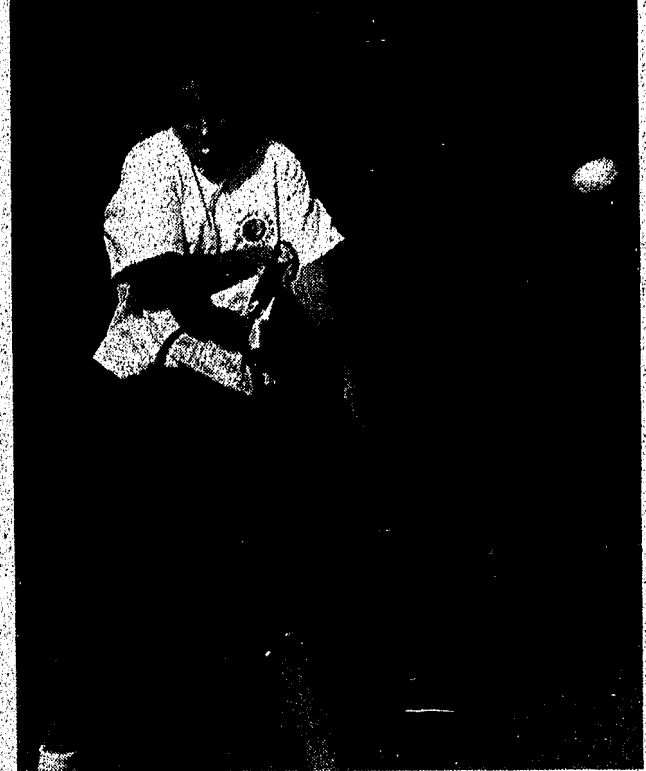

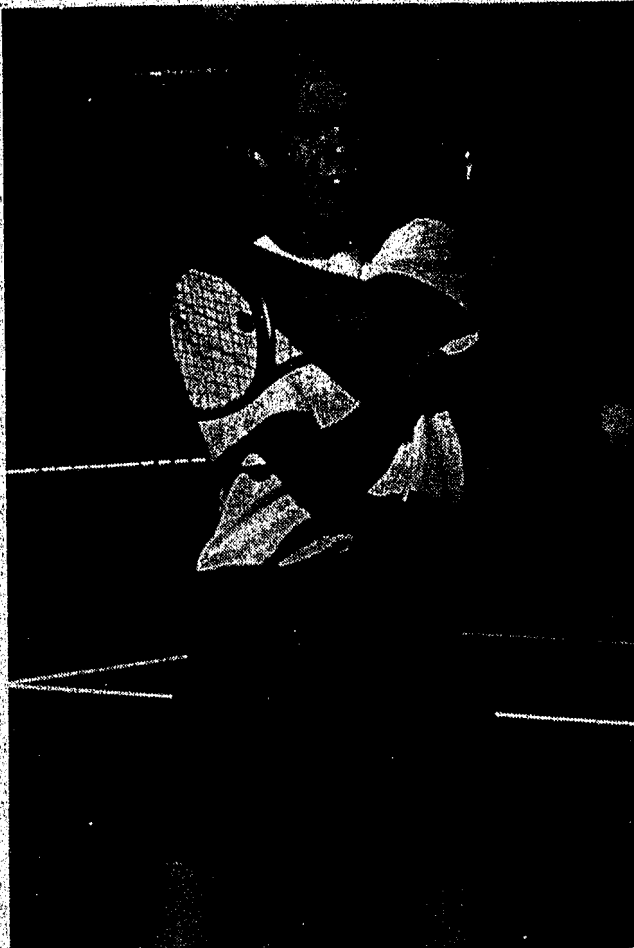

Where: CHS football stadium

When: 7 p.m. Friday.

What to Expect: A contrasting matchup. The Wolves have raced out to a 4-0 start thanks to its overpowering offensive line and excellent running by the backfield of Chris Mitchell, Rob Conley and Chad Booker. The Huskies, led by senior QB Richard Armstrong, run the veer offense where Armstrong is the primary weapon. He is quick, and has a strong arm. He passed for 286 yards in a 30-27 win over Brandon two weeks ago.

Recent History: Oct. 2, 1998: Clarkston 13, Pontiac Northern 12.

Just Because: The Huskies are coached by former Detroit Lion defensive back Bruce McNorton. A former teammate of his in the 1980s, Jimmy Williams, is the new head coach at Pontiac Central.

Senior Allison Olinger returns a shot Wednesday afternoon against Troy Athens. Olinger, the season-long starter at three singles for Clarkston, has been one of the team's most consistent players, posting a 6-1 record in dual meet action this year. The tennis story is on page 18B.

Swim team notches first-ever victory team scored 100 points on us, and now we did it to someone. It was great for our kids."

Chock called Kelly Orris the "swimmer of the meet," as she set two school records. Orris took first in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:29.92. Orris was also part of the record-setting 200 free relay team, joining Diana Doyle, Sara Zerba and Andrea Forst.

Senior Krista Roschak also had an excellent day, taking first in the 100 backstroke with a time of 1:18.51, and the 100 butterfly with a time of 1:19.5.

Roschak joined Lindsay Hill, Katie Osterhag and Teresa Kuta in setting the record in the 400 free relay.

"We have different swimmers who are doing well, and the kids are becoming competitive with each other," Chock said. "They know we are starting to get some depth on this team."

The team has begun practicing twice a day, with the first session beginning at 6 a.m. Chock said the team uses the first session to work on stroke technique, and the after-school session to work on conditioning and endurance.

"At first, we had to sacrifice technique a bit when we only had them in the pool once in a day," she said. "Now, we are covering everything and the improvement in all the kids is showing."

The Wolves have a big group of divers this year, and are led by freshman Sarah Mehaffey, who Chock calls one of the contenders for the league title. Casey Bolton and Carrie Lambert finished behind Mehaffey in the diving portion of the Pontiac Central meet, and are also strong divers with good potential.

Tennis team falls to Athens

	Troy Athens	7
	Clarkston	1

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
Clarkston News Staff Writer

The Clarkston girls tennis team picked the worst day of the season to have its worst match.

The team had a chance to clinch a share of the OAA Division II title for the first time, but lost to Troy Athens 7-1 Wednesday afternoon at the CHS courts. The loss dropped Clarkston into a second-place finish in the regular season, one-half game behind the Red Hawks.

The Wolves' only winner of the day was Allison Olinger, who won a tough match at three-singles, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2. Clarkston was done in by losing three matches which went three sets, and another two-set match that was decided by two tiebreakers.

"They came out real flat," said coach Beth Manojlovich. "We had been winning the close matches we've had, and there were some that could have gone either way. We just couldn't win them."

CLARKSTON
CITY OF THE VILLAGE OF CLARKSTON
375 DEPOT ROAD
CLARKSTON, MI 48346
SUMMARY
CITY COUNCIL MEETING
September 13, 1999
Meeting called to order by Mayor Catallo at 7:05 p.m.
Roll Present: Catallo, Clifton, Colombo, Gamble, Meyland, Sanderson.
Absent: Savage.
Minutes of the Regular Meeting of August 23, 1999, and the Special Meeting of September 2, 1999, accepted as presented.
Agenda accepted as presented.
Bills in the amount of $47,024.44 approved for payment.
The Downtown Revitalization Committee will be conducting a phone survey on Wednesday, September 15.
Gamble reported that the Mill Pond Association has received bids from engineering firms ranging from $9,500 to $37,000. Drain Commission representative Appel will be calling a public meeting. If the residents do not accept the engineering charges which would range at $150 and up per resident on the Mill Pond, the Lake Improvement Board would be terminated.
Mayor Catallo discussed with City Council the forming of a committee to study the financing the water main project.
Gamble suggested that the Council consider other routes for the water main to be installed.
D.P.W. Supervisor Pursley reported that a new D.P.W. employee, Adam Frank, had been hired.
Pursley reported that there would be electrical outlets installed in the upper parking lot to be used for various events, mainly FUN DAZE.
Gamble requested that Chief Ormiston study the traffic coming from M-15 and turning onto Miller Road and then to Holcomb. Alternative traffic devices were to be reviewed.
Pappas was instructed to contact Gary Treese of Hubbell, Roth and Clark to determine what costs would be involved in an application for Phase II of the MDOT Enhancement Grant.
Charles Inabnit, South Main Street resident, asked that Chief Ormiston monitor traffic on Middle Lake Road and Overlook and more police runs for that area be made to prevent reckless driving by young drivers.
The Right-of-Way Permit for Educational Telecommunications System with Fiber Link, Inc., approved by the City Council.
Resolved to close M-15 for the Homecoming Parade on October 8, 1999.
Meeting adjourned at 8:00 p.m.

The four-doubles team of Lyndsay McCleary and Kaylin Thomas lost a marathon match, 6-7, 7-6, 7-6.

Athens wins the OAA II regular season title for the third straight year, as a result of the win. Athens had Berkley toed 4-4 in a dual meet two weeks ago, and after the Wolves beat Berkley, they appeared to be in the driver's seat.

However, the Red Hawks stepped up their play and clinched the championship with a 5-0-1 dual meet record, just above Clarkston's mark of 5-1.

The focus for the Wolves now turns to the OAA II Tournament, scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 30 at Athens High School. If Clarkston wins, it would officially share the league title with Athens. As in wrestling, the league champion is determined half by regular-season finish, and half by tournament finish.
