Bangkok flu strikes

Hundreds of Clarkston school district pupils call in sick

By Marilyn Trumper

The Bangkok flu that's sweeping across the United States is blamed for the high number of students calling in sick to Clarkston's high school and two junior highs.

Before noon Monday morning, Sashabaw Junior High reported 250 absent students, or 26 percent of the school's population.

Clarkston Junior High reported 25 percent of the school's pupils absent. A total of 132 students called in sick and 15 were sent home after arriving.

The high school was hardest hit with 253 students home sick on Monday, said Dom Mauti, principal.

"Usually there are about 85 absentees on an average day," he said. "It's the flu. Last Wednesday we had 156 students out, Thursday we had 202 and Friday there were 314 out."

"I expect the numbers to increase throughout the day," he said.

The administration is keeping tabs on the flu outbreak, said Milford Mason, superintendent of schools.

"There is no criteria or line of judgment used to close the schools in the case of an epidemic," he said. "Before we can even do that, we have to have the department of health look at it and declare it as such so we don't have to make up those days."

"We're watching it, but I think the time to really be concerned would be if there was 40 percent absenteeism," Mason said.

Dr. James O'Neill, local pediatrician, said his office has been filled with patients down with the flu.

"I've seen an awful lot and it's as bad as I've ever seen it in the past 20 years," he said.

"Basically it's the Bangkok strain and it attacks those from 1 year old up through the adults. It seems to spare the infants and very young."

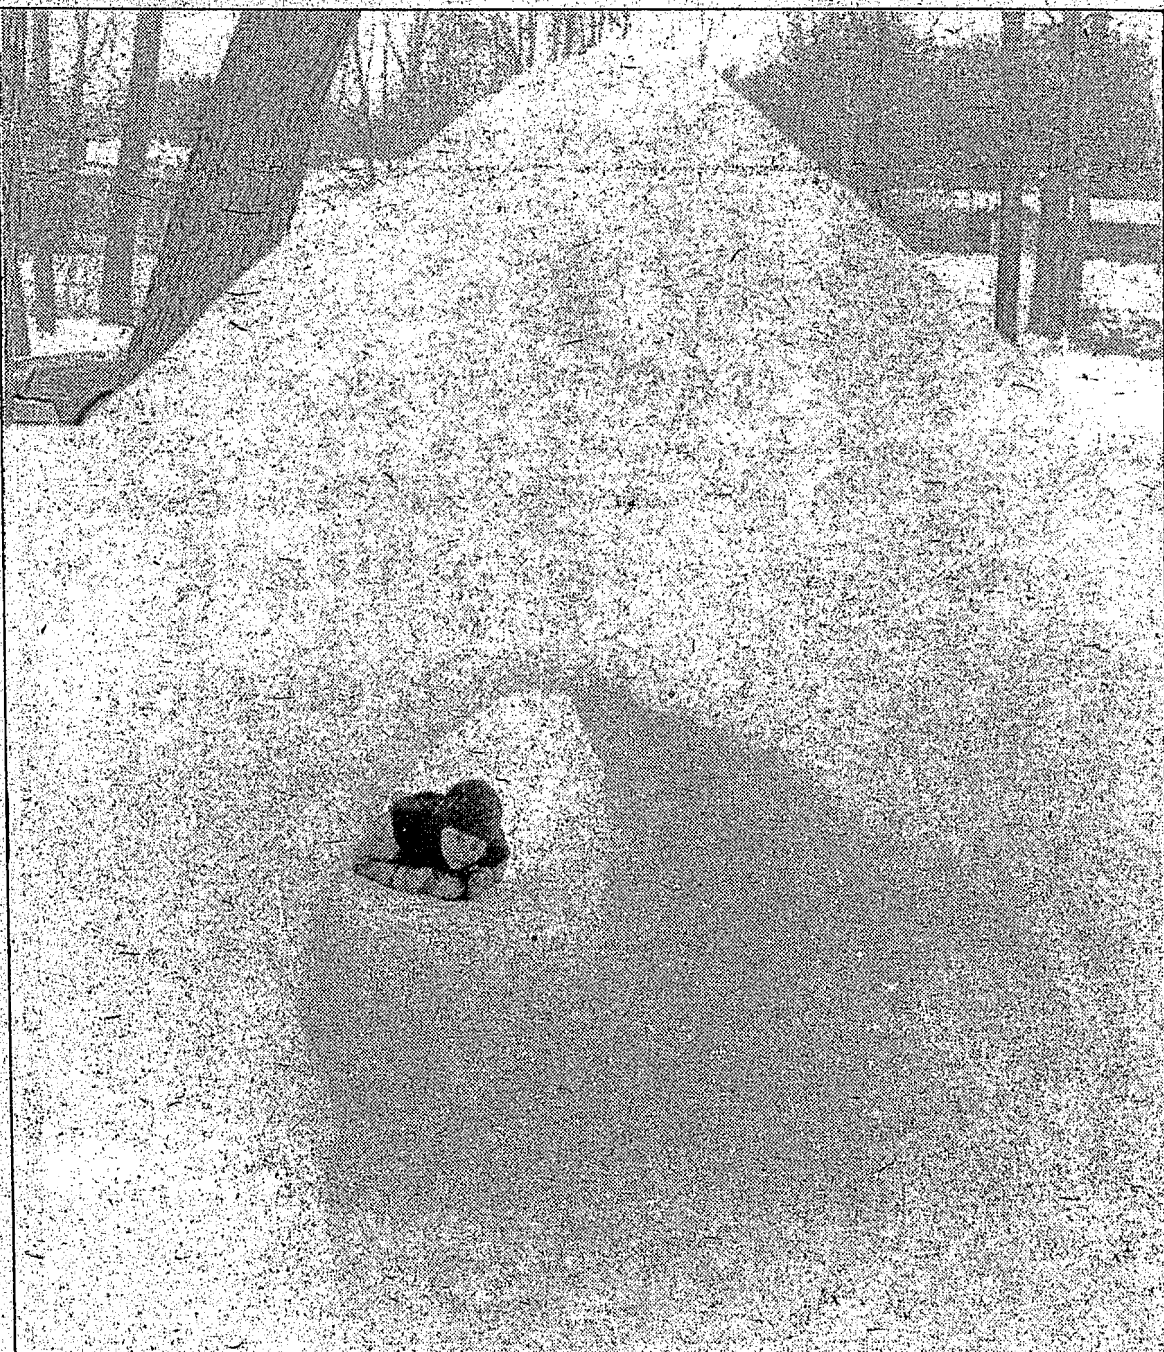

Symptoms range from fever and chills, to sharp muscle pains, vomiting and diarrhea.

"They feel rotten for a couple of days, then the flu's gone and the secondary infection sets in. That's what I'm seeing the most of and am the most concerned about," O'Neill said.

The secondary infections are earaches, sore throats, strep, tonsillitis and pneumonia; with the pneumonia striking mostly the adults.

"There's one happy note to all this if it can be considered happy," O'Neill said. "The Reyes Syndrome that accompanied the flu last year is absent this year."

Those down with the flu should drink fluids, take aspirin if they wish, go to bed and get plenty of rest, he said.

Schools face $1 million budget deficit

By Kathy Greenfield

Cuts in teaching, administration and other staff of Clarkston Community Schools are almost certain for the next school year, according to Superintendent Milford Mason.

Mason presented the gloomy financial picture to the school board Monday night, claiming that in 1981-82, the schools are facing a $1 million deficit budget with surplus funds wiped out.

"I hope there's a silver lining in the clouds I'm going to cast tonight," Mason told the board, but at the end of the report, the silver lining was nowhere to be seen.

The district had a $2 million surplus when the school year began. The money came from previous millages and had been saved to see the district through a period when millages were lower.

The surplus was expected to last longer than just two years, but the deficit budget for the '80-81 school year climbed from $66,000 to at least $920,000 as state funding dwindled.

The preliminary budget for '81-82 puts the district expenses, if everything stays the same, at $14.4 million.

That means the surplus will be used up and there will be no money to cover about $1 million of expenses that include $245,000 for working capital, Mason said.

"There's only one way we're going to survive, at least the way we know now, and that's with a higher tax rate," he said.

Indications were that the school board may end up asking tax payers for more money.

But, in the meantime, the board has been directed to consider areas where $1 million in cuts can be made.

"We have to get into the people to eliminate the $1 million; there's no doubt about it," Mason said, referring to staff cuts. "I can tell you quite honestly it will affect administration, it will affect teachers, and it will affect non-instructional people."

The board was asked by Mason to consider priorities in determining where cuts are to be made before the special meeting Monday, Jan. 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the administration offices, 6389 Clarkston-Orion, Independence Township.

The meeting is to be an informal discussion, with official cuts to be voted on later, Mason said.

Board tells townships 'We want taxes now'

The handling of school taxes by township treasurers came under fire at the Clarkston Board of Education meeting Monday night.

The board unanimously decided to formally request the Independence and Springfield township treasurers to release school revenues immediately upon receipt.

School Superintendent Milford Mason told the school board that, in the past, the Independence Township treasurer released the school tax money to the schools as soon as possible.

"Now the present treasurer insists on holding our tax dollars to the extent the law allows," he said.

The school district could invest the money if received sooner, he said, and the interest made would amount to between $14,000 and $20,000 annually.

"I don't quite understand what school taxes are doing in the township coffers," Mason said. "When things get tight, nickels and dimes are important."

The possible interest may sound small when compared to the $13 million school budget, but the district is faced with laying off teachers next year, and the money is enough to keep a teacher on the staff, Mason said.

Contacted after the meeting, Independence Township Treasurer Frederick Ritter said his method of distributing taxes is followed by "every treasurer in the state of Michigan."

It's my intention to abide by the state law which says tax receipts must be distributed to the county and the schools and all township funds within 10 working days of the 1st and 15th of each month," he said.

The law on distribution of taxes was changed April 1, 1980, he said, and the schools and the county were instrumental in getting the law passed.

In the long run, the school district will probably find the change to its advantage, he said.

"Namely, by the 15th of January, the school would have had approximately $1.5 million (last year), whereas now they will have about $2.9 million," Ritter said.

Jacob Petty's files for bankruptcy

Clarkston restaurant closes; owner is missing

By Al Zawacky

Restaurant supplies and equipment were discovered missing from Jacob Petty's Steak and Seafood House last week, and owner Anthony Ferlito has disappeared.

"I came in Monday morning, opened the door and saw things missing," said Danny Jolovic, the restaurant's general manager. "I called the police right away."

Jolovic's attempt to contact restaurant owner Anthony Ferlito at his Independence Township apartment were unsuccessful. "I called his son-in-law, and he went to his (Ferlito's) apartment and found nothing left."

The restaurant, which opened last summer in the Clarkston Mills mall, has been closed since the missing items were discovered Jan. 5.

The supplies and equipment were removed from the restaurant between 9 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 4 and 6 a.m. Monday, Jan. 5, according to Detective Sgt. Roger Allen of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. Allen added, however, that the situation "is not a police matter."

"We haven't had any actual theft, because the owner hasn't filed a complaint," Allen said. "There were no locks tampered with and no visible point of entry."

"Obviously, we have some suspicious circumstances."

Jolovic estimated the value of the missing food and equipment at between $12,000 and $14,000. Among the missing items were $900 worth of meat, $600 worth of fish, bar stools, liquor, office equipment and some of the restaurant's decor, he said.

"There are even eight garbage cans missing," Jolovic said. "They must have been washed out and used to carry things."

"It was real organized. They must have had a semi to move all of this stuff."

Jolovic said he last saw Ferlito at about 5:45 p.m. Sunday at the restaurant. "I left with my wife, and he said 'See you tomorrow, Danny.' That was the last I saw of him."

Ferlito filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy under the federal bankruptcy code last year, but filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy Jan. 5, according to Thomas Raguso, Ferlito's attorney.

Chapter 11 provides for the setting up a program to pay creditors, while Chapter 7 is a straight declaration of bankruptcy, Raguso said. He added that he had seen Ferlito Jan. 5 but did not know where he was at the present time.

"He said he would be getting in touch with me later," Raguso said. "I'm not aware of Mr. Ferlito being involved in any improprieties."

Raguso would not comment on the situation discovered at the restaurant Monday morning.

"I feel very sorry about the whole thing," said Ed Adler, co-owner of the Clarkston Mills. "There were many young people and people I knew who worked there, and now they're out of a job."

"It was a matter of public record that he had filed for Chapter 11 and we knew when we bought the Mills that the restaurant had financial problems. Since we've owned the Mills, he (Ferlito) has never paid us any rent," said Adler.

Jacob Petty's future seemed to brighten three months ago when Ferlito changed the restaurant menu to emphasize steaks, fresh fish and lobster, and a new chef and general manager were hired.

"I really thought they were on the right track," Adler said. "Danny (Jolovic) is an excellent restaurateur and, given the time and the financial backing, he could make it go."

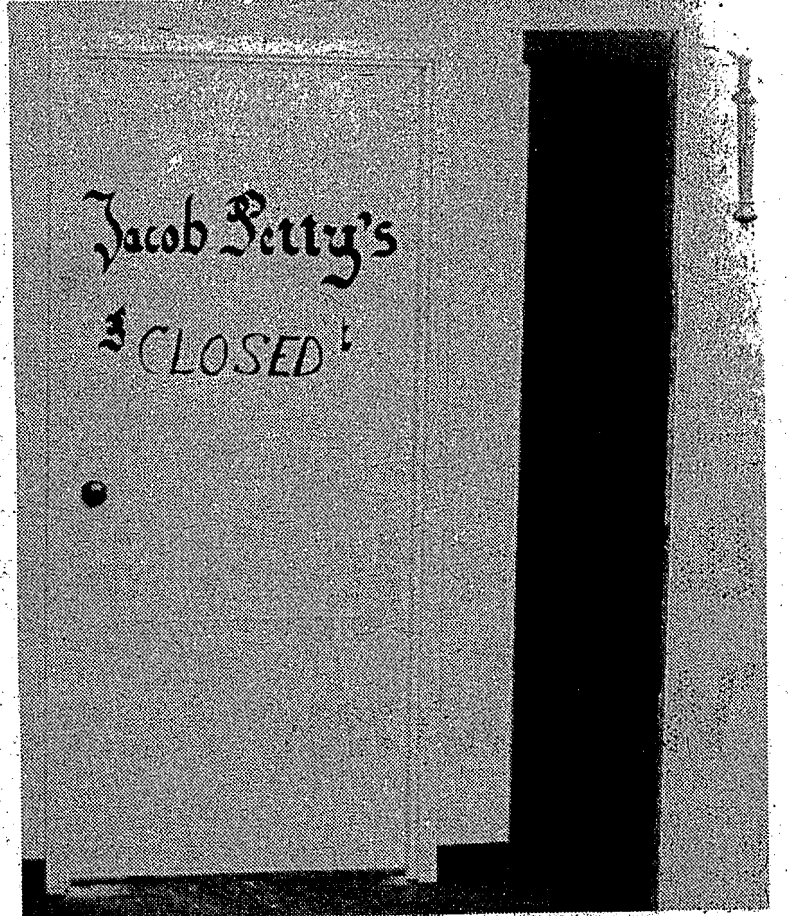

Adler said he and co-owners Forrest Milzow and Gary Welch were considering three courses of action involving the restaurant's future.

"We obviously don't want a vacant building there," he said. "We have three options — we can try and open it temporarily and run it until we can find someone to take it over, we can just take it over ourselves and run it as our own enterprise, or we can just wait and see what the bankruptcy court decides."

Several people are interested in leasing the restaurant, said Adler.

"If we decide to re-open it ourselves, the restaurant could be open again soon," he added. "On the other hand, if we decide not to, it could remain closed a long time."

Jolovic said he was spending his time "answering creditors' phone calls" and inventorying missing items last week.

Jacob Petty's Steak and Seafood House has been closed since last week Monday.

"Things were really starting to pick up," he said. "Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday — we had a full house all the time."

"Now we don't even have money for the payroll. I've got my check right here in my pocket, and it's no good."

Events have also left Village Haberdashery co-owner Dan Kelley out of some money. Kelley said Ferlito picked out four $22 shirts the Saturday before his disappearance and asked if he could pay the $88 bill on Monday.

That was the last he saw of Ferlito, Kelley said.

"It was common for him to come in, pick out a good amount of clothes and pay for them later," Kelley said. "His record had been very good in the past — he never took more than a week to pay."

$25,000 loss

Fire guts residence

Firefighters fought to extinguish a blaze which caused $25,000 damage to a single story house on Oak Park Road on Friday, according to Capt. Dale Bailey of the Independence Township Fire Department.

Cause of the fire, which extensively damaged the living room, kitchen and attic, is still under investigation, he said.

The house was unoccupied when the fire broke out, according to Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Harold Squires.

"The owner had just pulled into the driveway when I got there, and she stood there and watched it, kind of in a state of shock," Squires said.

"She told me she and her granddaughter lived there alone and that they had just finished remodeling and putting on a new roof."

Nell Baxter had lived in the home for 20 years, according to her son Bruce, who said she is now living with a neighbor.

"It's unfortunate that this had to happen, but we'll persevere," he said.

Within 20 minutes, firefighters had extinguished the blaze which extensively damaged a home on Oak Park Road, Independence Township. Firefighters were called to the scene the following day when the building's remains began smoldering again.

Lawsuits continue

Foster care home opens

By Marilyn Trumper

Months of legal battle have failed to keep an adult foster care home out of Lake Oakland Woods subdivision.

On Friday, Jan. 9, five developmentally disabled adults between the ages of 20 and 40 moved into the home, according to home administrator Karen Adams.

Adams said she has had no problems to this point with neighboring residents and does not anticipate any.

The state granted a temporary license for the home at 5127 Timber Ridge Trail, Independence Township, on Jan. 8, according to Michael Swajan, state licensing consultant.

Just two days earlier, on Jan. 6, the resident's attorney Donald E. Schuster stood before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Hilda Gage, and requested a temporary restraining order to prevent the home from establishing until the case could be transferred to another judge.

Judge Gage denied his request.

Schuster is seeking transfer of the case to Judge James S. Thorburn's courtroom.

"We believe Judge Thorburn should hear our case, because he is also hearing Independence Township's case," Schuster said. "When a similar case is heard before two judges, you're always running the risk of receiving conflicting opinions. In both cases, the zoning ordinance is being challenged."

Schuster also said he will pursue a transference of the case, and at some time will ask for a preliminary injunction to keep the residents out of the home until a decision had been made in the case.

It would be difficult, however, to get the injunction once the residents have moved in, he added.

"I think we'll have a heavy burden. We have to show the house was having a harmful effect on the neighborhood before the court would grant an injunction," he said.

Lake Oakland residents first filed suit in August, charging such a home would be in violation of their subdivision deed restrictions which limit the use of homes there to single family, and define the term single family.

In addition, the suit charges the home is in violation of township ordinances as it relates to single-family zoning.

Late meeting remedy

At the stroke of 10:30 p.m., members of the Independence Township Board want to go home.

The first two meetings of the newly elected board lasted until 1:30 a.m., so at the meeting last week, board members voted to end the meetings earlier.

The vote was 4-2 to complete whatever agenda item board members were discussing at 10:30 p.m. and save any leftovers until the next meeting.

"I think it's really going to be a hit and miss thing," said Clerk Christopher Rose after the meeting. "There will be exceptions made."

Voting to end meetings early were Supervisor James Smith, Clerk Christopher Rose, Treasurer Frederick Ritter and Trustee Daniel Travis.

"No" votes were cast by trustees Larence Kozma and Dale Stuart.

Different drummers

There are many ways to serve your country.

The most obvious is to join the military forces and serve your time. It's safe to assume members of American Legion posts fit that category.

Then, there are more subtle ways. Take car-poolers, and those who turn their heat down or conserve energy in any other fashion—we have been encouraged to do such things by our Presidents.

For a time, the different forces of patriotism joined together in Independence Township.

It wasn't a big, dramatic deal, but car-poolers found a good place to park in the American Legion lot off M-15.

The only other nearby spot was a commuter parking lot built by the state in the same general vicinity as the Legion post—near the I-75 exit and entrance ramps. That lot was usually filled to capacity in the early hours.

Then the Legion post decided car-poolers in winter months were not desirable—they announced their intention to charge each vehicle $20 a month during the snowy season.

The car-poolers claimed the charge was too high, but the Legion wouldn't budge.

The result: No more car-poolers in the Legion lot.

For awhile, there was a glimmer of hope. Independence Township officials agreed to check into plowing the Legion lot, thereby covering the expense and allowing the car-poolers to continue using the location.

It wasn't meant to be.

Township inquiries to the Legion were rebuffed, says Supervisor James Smith, so without their consent, the plan to help crashed.

Legion Post Commander David Froling expects the car-pooler question to again be considered at the Legion meeting Friday.

"I would say the feeling right now is they (Legion members) don't want them up here at all, in the winter time especially," he said.

It is hard to be specific about reasons why, he said, adding, "Mostly it's the space. When there were only 10 or 15 cars at one time, there was really no problem."

We're disappointed that the problem couldn't be worked out. Allowing the car-poolers to use a lot that's empty during the day seems like an easy way to be patriotic.

The Legion members and the car-poolers must march to the beat of different drummers.

Task force tallies

by Kathy Greenfield

Scanning the list of 15 appointments to task forces designed to assist the Independence Township Board in setting policies, there are two inevitable conclusions:

The township is made up entirely of men who are white collar workers.

Perhaps that's a bit harsh.

When Supervisor James Smith talked about setting up task forces during his campaign for office, he promised expertise.

Now there are three task forces business practices and procedures, personnel policies and procedures, and solid waste.

The list of task force members is impressive. A breakdown of their occupations reveals the following: Business executives—six; attorneys—two; Oakland County officials—three; state government officials—one; retired executives—two; Clarkston schools administrators—one. They are all men.

Smith defends his choices by pointing out there are 12 task forces to come.

He quotes President-elect Ronald Reagan: "Don't hit the bottom line until all the scores are tallied."

"There are areas where women are going to be extremely important," he adds. "I do have a lot of names down on my list. There is a good representation of women."

Many names of task force members are familiar, because they supported Smith in his campaign for township supervisor.

But at least one task force member opposed his election, Smith says, and although he agrees many were active in the campaign, he says they were selected for another reason.

"As a result of political activity, I've become aware of many people I have not known well," he says. "I have been able to identify both interests and capabilities."

A pleasant surprise has been that all persons asked to serve on task forces so far have agreed, he says, even though they will not be paid.

I suppose it could be argued you should stop hunting when you've found a person qualified to serve.

Still, I hope there will be more diversity in the future.

There is talent to be found in all walks of life, and I believe an attempt to balance the list will make results more pertinent to the community as a whole.

If it's a major fire or a minor oddity, give us a call at the News.

Jim's jottings

Genetic revelation

by Jim Sherman

My conscience was cleared somewhat this week with the discovery that the gallon of peaches we confiscated in the Navy is an inherent trait.

Why not?

We blame many, many things on parents, why not a bit of petty thievery?

We were in the south seas at the time. Rations were never quite enough for a growing boy, and we weren't exactly raised on peach halves canned in their own juices.

And, there was this gallon can unattended. (Like a car with the keys left in.)

We slipped the can into the bilges of our landing craft.

Whereas our senior sailor friends might have made some joy juice out of the fruit, we invited friends to our beach party.

Now it seems storing food, not so readily available to others, runs in the family.

Dad says, "You have to learn how to improvise in a place like this." We didn't take close notes, knowing it will come naturally when his situation becomes ours.

But we did make some observations. Dad is a patient (not too content, but not too obstinate) at Shiawassee County Medical Center in Corunna.

He's on a sugar diet, but doesn't know why. He does know he doesn't get enough to eat. That's where he improvises.

At the 7:30 p.m. coffee time, Dad has arranged to have some graham crackers delivered with his hot water and Sanka. They're stashed in a shirt pocket for a later snack.

Too, the packet of Sanka doesn't make Dad's coffee strong enough. He's arranged (through a nurse's aide—either 'Do Little' or 'Useless' (as he calls 'em) to have a jar of Sunrise coffee brought in to strengthen his brew.

On his person or in his wheel chair, besides the Sunrise, are salt, pepper, sealed tiny cups of cream, saltine crackers, and his U.S. Army teaspoon that he's had since WW I.

If he had a stick of salami Dad could open his own Deli.

Hm-m-m. Maybe he does have a stick of salami.

Springfield moves to restrict adult bookstores, movies

Springfield Township is ready for the possibility of an adult bookstore, moviehouse or similar business locating within its boundaries.

At its regular monthly meeting held last week, the Springfield Township Board voted unanimously to approve an ordinance placing restrictions on where "adult" businesses may locate.

"There aren't any bookstores in Springfield now, and I'm not aware of any even considering coming here," said Collin Walls,

Springfield Township supervisor. "But I think we should do something in advance to prepare for the possibility."

The ordinance restricts adult businesses to areas zoned for general business, designated as C-2 on the township zoning map, and bans them from areas zoned C-1, which covers "small local and service-orientated businesses," said Walls.

Springfield's general business area runs along Dixie Highway, while downtown Davisburg is zoned C-1.

The ordinance also mandates that adult businesses be at least 1,500 feet from the nearest similar business; 1,500 feet from the nearest existing church or school; and at least 100 feet from the nearest residential area.

"One hundred feet doesn't sound like much, but to make it any more would keep them out entirely," Walls said. "And we can't do that in light of the (Michigan) Supreme Court rulings."

Planners to ponder porn

Keego Harbor's fight to keep adult movies out of a local theater has prompted Independence Township to review its restrictions on such entertainment.

As the ordinances stand now, it would be difficult to keep adult movies out if someone wanted to show them, said Timothy Palulian, director of the township building and planning departments.

"There is no specific ordinance that deals with the use of a bar to show films, have topless or bottomless dancers, or whatever," he said, adding that such a business was unlikely to open in the township.

The matter was discussed at the township planning commission meeting last week, and the commission is to review ordinances used in other communities at its first meeting in February, Palulian said.

Stuart assumes special post

When there's a pause during Independence Township Board meetings and all heads turn to Trustee Dale Stuart, he'll be assuming his role of official parliamentarian.

The board unanimously approved naming Stuart to the post at last week's board meeting.

Unanimous approval was also given to adopting "Robert's Rules of Order" as the official guideline used to define proper procedure.

"I think it would be appropriate to know what we're relying on in case I'm challenged," said Stuart.

The board also gave Stuart the nod to inform audience members when their actions did not follow official procedure.

Double take

At this crossroad in Independence Township, there's only one way to get lost—and that's doubly. Seems the old adage, "out with the old and in with the new," was missed by the Oakland County Road Commission.

Independent view

After reading about the thief who entered an Independence Township home through the sliding glass doors, a Clarkston News reader phoned in a burglar-thwarting suggestion.

If homeowners put a broomstick, metal bar or piece of wood inside the sliding track, there's no way a thief can enter through those doors, she said.

"I saw a professional thief on television years ago who told this," the caller said.

That's a crime-stopping tip straight from the horse's mouth.

Warmth for lambs

by Jim Fitzgerald

"Ah. My last lamb is home," said the friendly nurse in the nursing home lobby.

It was after 10 o'clock Christmas night. The middle-aged son-in-law and his wife had brought her mother — the last lamb — home. Except it really isn't home.

The mother-in-law is 85, and ailing, and doesn't want to be a bother. She had spent Christmas Day at her granddaughter's home, looking lovely and apologizing for being a bother. Many of the nursing home residents had gone visiting for the holiday, and the mother-in-law was the last lamb to return that night. On the drive to the big building on the edge of town, they had passed near her real home, which still contains her treasures, and memories. She had been too tired to turn and look.

The son-in-law waited in the nursing home corridor while the wife tenderly helped her mother into bed. He listened to the cries for aid that came from other lambs in other rooms. He knew it was silly to think of old people as lambs, but the friendly nurse had stuck him with the thought, and he couldn't shake it.

He was impressed by the soft kindness of the attendants who hurried to answer the cries. He lives in a much bigger city where it seems that every day there are articles in the newspapers about old people, living alone in their tiny homes, who have been victimized — robbed, beaten, murdered — by young monsters he could never understand. As a liberal proud of his breeding, he is opposed to capital punishment, except when he reads these articles. It was nice, on that Christmas night in the nursing home, to be reminded that the world still has much caring kindness for old people.

He thought about his mother-in-law's milkman, Erwin Warren, who has always been one of the kindest people in his town. Through many months of the mother-in-law's uncertain health, when she has been gone from her little house, and then back again, and then gone again, Warren has continued to stop there several times every week, just in case she might be home, to make sure she had whatever she needed. One month his bill was 67 cents.

The middle-aged son-in-law also thought about his Aunt Madeline, who lives alone but surrounded by friends, in another town. It is difficult for her to get out in winter weather, but the other day she made it to Fred Stanley's market, and she was disappointed that he had run out of coleslaw, her favorite snack. She was back home only a few hours before a young man, dispatched by Stanley, surprised her by appearing at her door with a large supply of coleslaw. No charge.

Finally, while listening to the poignant sounds of a nursing home on Christmas night, the son-in-law thought about something said a few days earlier by William Cunningham, the Detroit priest who so fervently directs Focus: HOPE, the charitable organization which feeds the hungry and fights racism. It is likely that, all by himself, Father Cunningham outnumbers the Moral Majority.

At the close of a speech given at a fund-raiser, Father Cunningham talked about the old people who too often become lost. He didn't call them lambs.

He called them important, and valuable, and he urged that they not be forgotten by younger people.

"Don't just send them a poinsettia for Christmas," he pleaded. "Visit them. Visit them often and let them know you care."

Father Cunningham's voice choked as he talked, and his eyes teared. It was an emotional moment and, as the middle-aged son-in-law relived it in the nursing home corridor on Christmas night, he was keenly aware of how swiftly middle age becomes old age.

And, as he said good night to the mother-in-law who is never a bother, he felt strong gratitude for people like William Cunningham, Fred Stanley, Erwin Warren and the nurse who cared when her last lamb came home, even if it really isn't home.

County contract ends July 31

Township becomes sewer caretaker

Independence Township plans to pull out of its sanitary sewer maintenance agreement with Oakland County on July 31.

The township board approved the change in a unanimous vote last week.

Township Department of Public Works Director George Anderson said he expects the move to save the township a great deal of money.

When the township takes over, the cost for sewer maintenance will be about $31,700 annually, he said. At present rates, the township pays the county $48,816 and with rate hikes the county plans to put into effect Feb. 1, it will cost the township $68,000, he said.

Anderson told the board he could maintain the township sewer system by hiring one additional employee and by purchasing a sewer maintenance machine.

Money for the machine should be covered when the county returns money it holds in a fund for sewer pumping stations, he said.

The board authorized Anderson to spend up to $20,000 for the machine.

Anderson has planned to take over the sewer maintenance since approval was given to build a township maintenance building.

The building, located on Flemings Lake Road near I-75, was recently completed.

The township will officially take over maintenance of its sewers on Aug. 1, after the required 180-day notice is given to the county.

Springfield assessor lacks state certification

Although he isn't certified with the state of Michigan, Independence Township resident Paul Leningar is the new Springfield Township assessor.

Leningar's appointment was approved by a 4-1 vote by the Springfield Township Board last week.

Trustee William Whitley cast the lone dissenting vote, while Supervisor Collin Walls, Clerk J. Calvin Walters, Treasurer Patricia Kramer and Trustee Glen Vermilye voted "aye."

"I have talked to people about him (Leningar), and apparently he's capable of doing everything except passing tests," said Walls.

Leningar had worked previously as a township assessor in Genesee County, Walls added, and, although he had failed on several occasions to pass the state certification test, reports on his past job performance were favorable.

Springfield lost its assessor in June last year when Elizabeth Maffucci resigned to take a similar post in Milford. Since that time Supervisor Walls, a certified assessor, has been in charge of Springfield's assessing duties.

Leningar's hiring would be on a 90-day probationary basis, after which his job performance would be subject to review, said Walls.

"At the end of those 90 days, he will either receive a pay raise and permanent employee status, or he'll be dismissed," Walls said. Leningar's starting salary will be $12,000 a year.

"A certified level two assessor could cost the township anywhere from $18,000 to $22,000 to $24,000. I feel he (Leningar) is capable of doing the job for considerable less, and I'll be able to help him out at first," he added.

Trustee Whitley, however, said he had his doubts.

"I guess I have a little trouble with his failing the state certification test," Whitley said. "That strikes me as a little unusual."

Junk vehicle code tightened

Independence Township is tightening up its abandoned and disabled vehicle ordinance, so watch out clunkers, junkers and rust machines.

On Jan. 6, the township board adopted a new ordinance regulating broken and abandoned cars.

Primarily, the ordinance's definitions and procedures have been changed, said James Hock, township ordinance enforcer, but the same old rules apply.

All vehicles stored in driveways, alongside houses or even out in fields must have current license plate tabs, he said.

If not, the possibility exists they'll be towed away after due warning, he said.

If drivers' vehicles fail them while cruising the roads, and they are stickered by police, drivers have 48 hours to remove the cars or have them towed away, he said.

Five new faces since November

9-member planning board's back

By Marilyn Trumper

Returning the planning commission to nine members is the best way to represent all areas of Independence Township, is the opinion of James B. Smith, township supervisor and former commission chairman.

Smith's opinion became reality Jan. 6 when the township board unanimously approved the appointment of ninth member Gordon Andings, of 9420 Allen Road.

He is to serve three years on the commission.

In addition, the board approved new appointments to fill expired terms of two commission members.

New members Holly Stephens of 4322 Fowler Road, and Neil Wallace of 6593 Clarkston-Orion Road, are to serve three years.

They replace Jean Saile and James Brennan.

"I thoroughly enjoyed the appointment and I would have served another term had they asked me," Brennan said. "But, I know the political realities. The board serves its constituents and it's their prerogative to select a commission."

"I have no qualms of animosities and I congratulate all the new appointees. I'll be glad to help them out if they need help in areas where we agree," he said.

Brennan was appointed several weeks ago to the task force on business practices and procedures.

"I'm willing to work in a worthwhile area and I'm appreciative of the opportunity," he said.

Saile, who steps down after a two-year stint on the commission, said, "I've enjoyed the two years, and I have no regrets."

Planning Commission member John Gray was reappointed to serve another three-year term.

Events like the election, expiring terms of commission members and the addition of a ninth member show more than one-half of the faces on the township's planning commission are new.

Former commission chairman, James B. Smith, was elected township supervisor in November and resigned his planning commission post. He was replaced by Thomas Ritter.

Former township trustee Rudy Lozano who served on the planning commission, did not seek reelection, and resigned his post.

He was replaced by Daniel Travis, successful candidate for a trustee seat in November.

James Gardiner, Mel Vaara and Jean Benzing remain as members of the planning commission.

Gray chairs planners

The Independence Township Planning Commission has elected new officers, opting for experience to chair its members.

John Gray was unanimously appointed chairman of the nine-member committee at the Jan. 8 meeting.

Gray, who has been on the commission four years, was reappointed to a new three-year term two days earlier by the township board.

The planning commission's new vice-chairman is James Gardiner, a commission member for the past two years.

Holly Stephens was unanimously elected secretary. She was appointed to a three-year term on the commission at the township board's Jan. 6 meeting.

Stephens sits on the commission for the second time, returning from a three-year term she served prior to 1977.

Springfield EDC project gets ok

The Springfield Township Economic Development Corporation's first project cleared another hurdle last week at a public hearing held during the township board's regular monthly meeting.

The project involves the Harding Leasing and Equipment Co., has applied for EDC loans to finance the expansion of the Clawson Tank Company, located off White Lake Road.

No comments from the audience were heard when Springfield Supervisor Collin Walls opened Wednesday's meeting to public comment on the proposed project. The Springfield Township Board subsequently voted unanimously to approve the project.

Walls said the expanded facility would employ an additional 15 full-time workers when completed.

"As far as I know, all statutory requirements have now been met," Walls added. "It's now up to the EDC board to review and issue the bonds."

Acting as a publicly-owned mortgage company, the EDC provides low interest loans to businesses and developers. The Springfield Township Board voted unanimously to create an EDC district in Springfield in May of last year.

The above information was collected from Oakland County Sheriff's Department reports.

Patterson seeks local help for anti-fencing act

By Marilyn Trumper

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson is coming down hard on fencing operations and he's rallying for the support of local governments in his efforts.

At the Jan. 6 Independence Township Board meeting, correspondence from Patterson was read, asking for a resolution in favor of his anti-fencing act, which is to be introduced into the state legislature Jan. 16.

The act calls for stronger regulations and requirements for licensing of businesses and dealers or brokers engaged in the buying and selling of precious metals and jewels.

There is only one law on the books today that is in any way similar to the anti-fencing law, and it regulates junk dealers, Patterson said.

"There are no laws like the one I'm proposing, regulating precious metals or jewels. Because gold and silver has gone up in value, Oakland County is experiencing more and more break-ins. The thieves are going less and less for the stereos and television sets, and they go right for the silverware, candlesticks, coins and jewelry.

"Then they go into these fly-by-night coin shops housed in trailers or hotel rooms and sell what they've stolen for far less than it's worth," Patterson said.

He cites a documented case in the city of Farmington.

"Over a period of four months a babysitter stole $200,000 worth of jewelry and silverware from a home. She got $2,500 for it," he said.

"What we're trying to do with this legislation is plug up a loophole in the law. Because these fly-by-night operations are so available they actually invite people to steal. We want to make it tough on the thief."

The legislation calls for the licensing of these operations, and a record kept of all transactions and inspections of goods.

In addition, a copy of records are to be given daily to the local law enforcement agency, he said.

The act is very specific about what regulations and procedures are to be followed, and says failure to comply can result in a felony conviction resulting in 10 years in prison or a $50,000 fine.

At the meeting, the township board agreed to have Supervisor James B. Smith draw up a resolution in favor of the proposed legislation, and said the subject would be voted on and discussed at the next meeting.

Wolves humble West Bloomfield

18-point rout gives cagers share of league's top spot

By Al Zawacky

There was an old familiar look to the GOAL varsity basketball standings Friday night.

In fact, there were a lot of familiar things going on Friday as the Clarkston High School varsity basketball team ambushed the West Bloomfield Lakers 64-46 in the CHS gym.

It was a one-sided victory. A blowout. A game in which everybody got a chance to play. It was a happy, upbeat group of Clarkston cagers who showered, dressed and headed for home afterward.

The joy was justified. West Bloomfield was undefeated in Greater Oakland Activities League play coming into the contest, but the Wolfpack made the Lakers look more like pretenders than contenders.

It was all vintage Wolfpack. A page from last year's season of glory.

"West Bloomfield didn't play as well as I've seen them play," said Clarkston Coach Gary Nustad, standing in the middle of the empty CHS gym afterwards.

"Of course, I'd like to think that a lot of that can be attributed to the way we played."

As a result of the victory, Clarkston found itself back in its traditional first-place spot in the GOAL, albeit with plenty of company.

When the dust settled around the league Friday night, the Wolfpack, Waterford Kettering, West Bloomfield and Lake Orion were all tied for the top spot with 2-1 records.

"I think just getting a break over Christmas did us a lot of good," Nustad said. "It gave us a chance to iron out some wrinkles."

"You can see the improvement. We're getting better all the time."

Indeed, the last time the Wolfpack appeared before the home crowd was Dec. 19, an evening that produced a dismal 64-61 defeat at the hands of Kettering.

It was as if a different team wore the bright yellow Clarkston uniforms three weeks later. The Wolfpack was poised and disciplined as it sliced the Lakers apart with the precision of a surgeon's scalpel.

Scott McKoin proved to be Clarkston's leading operator, pulling down 21 rebounds and scoring 25 points.

Nustad started McKoin at guard rather than at his conventional center spot, a move that had worked out well earlier in the week in the Wolfpack's 43-40 win over Waterford Mott.

"We felt we needed to make a change," Nustad explained. "We moved (Greg) Lane from the second guard to the point guard, and putting McKoin at the other guard creates a problem for the opponent's defense."

Laker Coach Frank Plecas didn't seem to feel that the McKoin move made much difference.

"We weren't surprised by it," Plecas said. "McKoin's a good ball player — he's going to show up no matter where they play him."

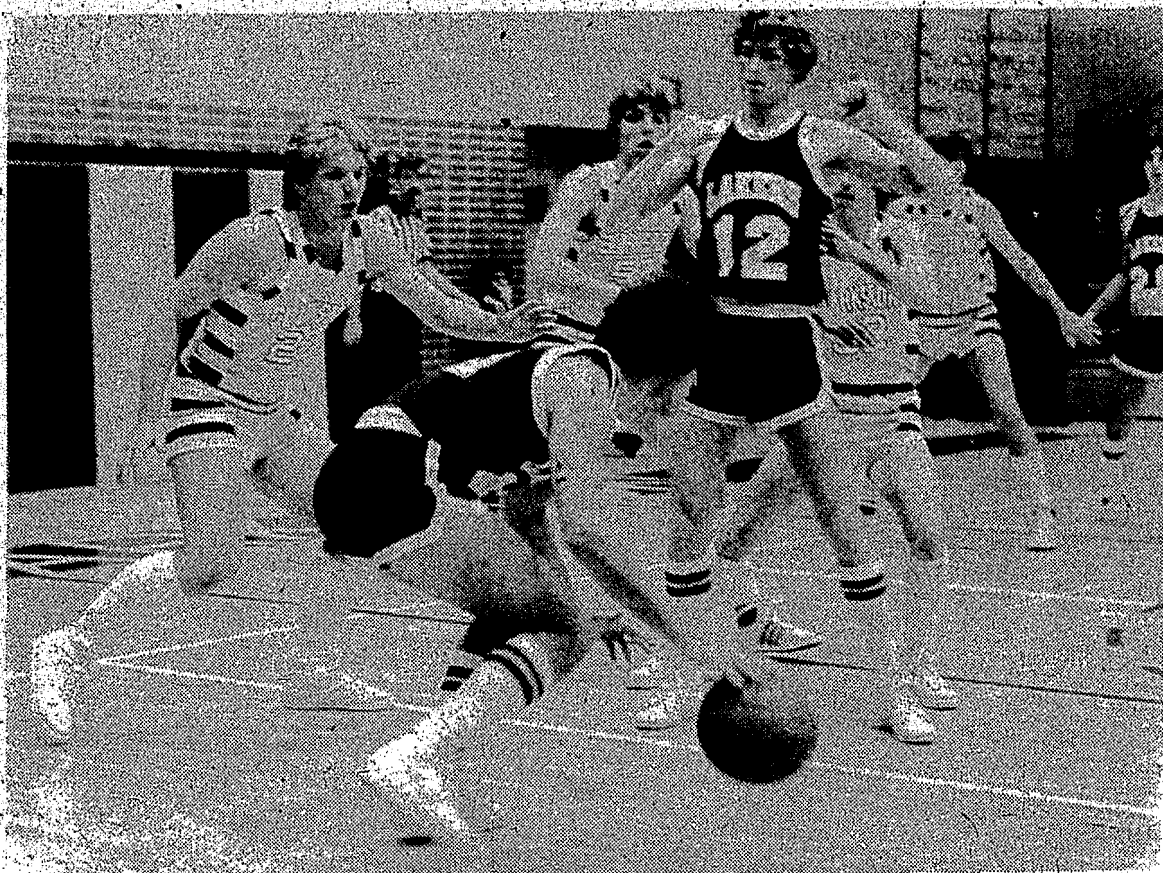

"I'm proud of my kids. We were giving up a lot of height, and the kids played real hard to try and overcome it."

Behind McKoin's team-leading point total was a strong 11-point performance by Brad Beattie. Lane added eight points, Brad Sheldon and Craig Schnabel had six apiece and Ray Kubani and Ric Schebor each had four.

Brad Silverstein and Kevin Asher each had 10-point performances to pace the Laker attack.

Playing like a veteran at point guard, Lane chalked up seven assists and handled the ball with skill. Nustad also expressed confidence in Kubani, the sophomore who started the game as McKoin's replacement at the pivot.

But perhaps one of the game's most positive aspects was the final laying to rest of the Wolfpack's third-quarter jinx. After going into mysterious third-quarter tailspins in three of their first four games, the Clarkston cagers put together two solid third stanzas against Waterford Mott and West Bloomfield.

"I think it's safe to say that that stigma is gone," Nustad said.

The Wolfpack's next league contest will be Friday night at home against Milford.

"We can't be over-confident," Nustad cautioned. "Milford has a three-year varsity starter in Rob Sharpe — they're the type of team that can surprise you on any given night."

Although the game had been over for almost an hour, the two electronic scoreboards in the Clarkston High School gymnasium were still shining their message as Nustad spoke: Home 64, Visitor 46.

More than a page out of the past, the Wolfpack is hoping those numbers are an omen of the future.

JVs nip Mott, rip Lakers

By Al Zawacky

What a week.

After dumping an old non-league nemesis in Waterford Mott on Tuesday, what more could Coach Larry Mahrle ask for?

How about a 54-40 victory over league-rival West Bloomfield three days later?

Mahrle had called it a "big week" for his Clarkston High School junior varsity basketball squad, and his players made the most of it.

"Excellent," said the coach, savoring the unblemished week. "These were two big games, and we won them both."

Clarkston played its first game since the holiday break and first road contest in the 1980-81 season against Waterford Mott, and edged out a 43-40 victory.

Mike Dearborn led the junior Wolfpack attack with 15 points, followed by teammates Tom Williams with eight, Scott Temple and Kevin Brown with six and Mike McCormick and Rick Williams with four.

Rick Williams' 14-point effort against the West Bloomfield Lakers paced the Clarkston offensive effort Friday, followed by McCormick with 13 points, Temple with 10, Dearborn with six, Craig Nicolai with four, Tom Williams with three and Pat Rausch and Brown with two.

"I thought we played well, especially in the second half," Mahrle said of his team's conquest of West Bloomfield. "We penetrated their zone, and when we forced them to go man-to-man, we reacted well."

"We ran our offense, and when we do we're going to go inside and score."

As a result of last week's dual victories, the junior Wolfpack improved its overall record to 5-1 and continued to ride in the Greater Oakland Activities League upper bunk with a perfect 3-0 league mark.

"It looks like us and Rochester again," Mahrle said, assessing the GOAL title race. "We've got to keep it going."

Odds Are...

MILFORD at CLARKSTON (Jan. 16): After a season-opening victory, the woebegone Redskins are back to their familiar ways.

Other than senior Rob Sharpe, Milford has little to offer in the way of talent. If the Redskins are still looking for their first GOAL victory coming into this game (hardly unlikely), they'll still be searching for it after this contest. CLARKSTON by SEVEN.

ROCHESTER ADAMS at CLARKSTON (Jan. 20): The Highlanders are an old

Clarkston nemesis.

Not only did the Adams football team spoil Clarkston's playoff hopes this past fall, but the Highlander basketball team also gave Tim McCormick and the 1979-80 Wolfpack their biggest scare of the regular season last winter.

Of course, those were the days when a 10-point victory was considered a "big scare." Things have changed.

Revenge? The Wolfpack would love to have it. But it's not going to happen. ADAMS by EIGHT.

JV spikers seek encore of league crown

By Al Zawacky

Passing, serving, setting.
Coach Nancy Foster hopes strength in these three areas will offset a lack of height on her 1981 Clarkston High School junior varsity volleyball team.

The second-year coach and her squad have quite a reputation to uphold, too: Last season the Wolves roll to a 16-3 record en route to a Greater Oakland Activities League championship.

"We don't have the height," Foster says. "Annette Ulasich is our tallest player at 5-foot-7 — last year we had four girls 5-foot-10 or over."

"But the kids are jumping pretty good."

Although the change in the team's makeup has obligated Foster to vary her coaching tactics a bit, she remains optimistic about the squad's chances to repeat as league champions.

"Last year we depended on our hitting," she says. "This year we're working more on our fundamentals, since we just don't have the blockers and hitters we had last season."

"Rochester will probably be our toughest league opponent, but I think we should win it again."

Foster can call upon the services of 11 roster members this season: Dawn Willett, Annette Ulasich, Traci Sherman, Krista Pilditch, Becky Buhl, Michele Barks, Stacey Wasik, Jamie Howenstine, Marina Hamlett, Renee Mercier and Nancy Davis.

Howenstine, Ulasich and Wasik will be counted on for their hitting and blocking skills this season, while Hamlett and Willett figure to be the team's leading setters.

Buhl will be relied upon for her strength in the back row and all-around strong play, says Foster.

"We'll be playing the same kind of offense and defense as the varsity this year," the coach adds. "We'll probably be the only JV team using the multiple offense."

The "multiple offense" is the same type of attack utilized in college volleyball, and mastering it requires considerable expertise — an expertise made possible by the establishment of ninth-grade volleyball at Clarkston and Sashabaw junior highs in the winter of 1979, says Foster.

"It (the ninth-grade program) helps a lot," she says. "There's no way we could ever run that type of offense without it."

Renee Mercier sends the ball over the net during a JV volleyball practice held Friday afternoon in the CHS gym.

The 1981 CHS junior varsity spikers may lack the height of their 1980 league-champion predecessors, but Coach Nancy Foster figures her players' jumping ability and overall talent give them an excellent shot at retaining the GOAL crown.

In wrestling, size doesn't matter

Coach Rick Detkowski's voice carried out of the Clarkston High School cafeteria, echoing down the adjacent hallways.

"On the whistle—circle, circle!"

The whistle barked its command, and the Clarkston High School wrestling team responded. It was a time for work, a time for preparation: The next evening would see the CHS gym invaded by arch-rival Waterford Kettering.

"Wrist control this time, wrist control!"

IT IS AN experience to watch a wrestling practice. You see the wrestlers' jerseys and T-shirts turn dark with perspiration, watch the humidity condense and drip down the windows, hear the shortness of breath and feel the heat of human exhaustion. You come away convinced that no group of athletes in the school work harder than these guys do.

You come away wondering why they do it.

"I think one thing that might attract kids is that anybody can be good at it," said Detkowski. "In basketball you've got to be tall, a 98-pounder can be just as good as a heavyweight."

Detkowski is in the position to know. A 1973 Clarkston High School graduate, the coach was a standout with the school wrestling team in the early 70s. He recalled how he got started in the sport.

"I was a small kid," Detkowski said. "I played JV football my first year, and I was the smallest kid on the team."

He decided to give wrestling a try, and in a short time he was hooked. Football became a thing of the past.

"It seemed like everybody in my neighborhood wrestled, and I guess that's what got me interested," Detkowski said. "My parents were against it at first—they really didn't know what the sport was like."

Today he is in his second year as head wrestling coach at CHS and can be found most any winter afternoon in the school cafeteria, teaching by example. The results have been impressive—a league championship and several strong tournament showings last year, and a 12th-place statewide class A ranking in the current campaign.

The teams have been blessed with an abundance of natural talent with names like Mike Conway, Jeff Miracle, Mike Ogans, Craig Gavette, Claude Gourand, Paul Carr and Scott Smith on the rosters—but Detkowski deserves his share of the credit.

"I guess one thing that's helped make me successful as a coach is that I've earned their respect by wrestling, not by using scare tactics," he said. "When I'm showing them something, I'm right there on the mat with them."

MORE THAN MOST other prep sports, wrestling seems to be oriented toward individualism rather than teamwork. Only one guy can wrestle at a time, and his winning or losing an individual match is a far more personal statistic than anything found in basketball or football.

But Detkowski seldom talks about individuals. He speaks of the team as a whole and the camaraderie that builds a kind of "family" atmosphere during the season.

"We're together two-and-a-half hours everyday, and everybody gets to know each other pretty well," he said. "I wrestled with some of the kids' older brothers and I went to this school—we're really like one big family."

"A lot of kids have the idea that wrestling is an individual thing when they come up, but they get to realize that when you win, you win not only for yourself but for the team. And in order to have a good team you've got to have a lot of guys working hard and doing well."

PHYSICALLY, WRESTLING IS an individual effort. Mentally however, it is not. There is an intangible strength to be drawn from knowing your teammates are behind you, from hearing them encouraging you on the sidelines. Knowing that a dozen other guys are backing you up makes the mental pressure easier to handle.

"We've been pretty successful," Detkowski said. "I'd like to feel I've been a part of it."

Detkowski, his assistants and the team are all doing their share. The record shows it.

Talking about . . .

Do you think the federal government should bail out the Chrysler Corporation?

"In these rough times, yes. You can't put all those people out on the street—it would hurt the whole economy."—Frank Lorenz, Waterford, optician.

"No. I don't think the government should be involved in private industry. I don't think it's right for them to be involved in any private business, big or small."—Sara Skrubbs, Independence Township, student.

"Yes, because so many people's livelihoods depend on it. It's not just the corporation that you have to consider—there are the suppliers, the workers, the stockholders—a lot of people."—Geraldine Wertman, Albuquerque, N.M., retired.

"I don't think the federal government should bail them out. Plenty of small businesses fail every year, and I'm sure the Chrysler employees would be able to find new jobs in the future."—Nina Bourden, Gingellville, student.

"No—chances are that Chrysler is going to go bankrupt with or without federal money. I think the government has got its fingers into too many things already."—Cheryl Christie, Davisburg, Oakland County employee.

MORC seeks homes, foster parents for retarded

Extra room and an interest in caring for mentally retarded children or adults are the main ingredients needed for foster parenting through the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center (MORC).

"Our foster parents are all different kinds and types of people," says Joe Dzenowagis, recruitment specialist for MORC. "It just takes human love and understanding as it would with your own children or others."

For foster parents, rewards come from helping others and there are financial incentives as well.

"They are helping someone else; they are getting paid a full-time salary for their jobs — $700 to $1,000 per month, depending on the needs of the person; they receive professional training; and they become para-professionals in the area of foster care," he says. "And they have the advantage of doing this job in their own home."

Another factor is that foster parents are not tied to their homes, according to Dzenowagis, and most have another source of income.

During the day, mentally retarded persons under age 26 attend school programs and those over 25 participate in adult activities or sheltered workshops.

That there's money to be made caring for the mentally retarded doesn't bother Dzenowagis one bit.

After viewing life in institutions and seeing the difference it makes when the mentally retarded live in a foster home, he says he would do "just about anything" to get them out.

"We have people wasting away in institutions," he says.

"We shouldn't treat them as weak people; they just need a little more patience and understanding. I don't believe that anyone should have been placed in an institution. As for being there now, they should have been out yesterday."

Community training homes differ from adult foster care homes in that the foster parents live in the training homes.

In adult foster care facilities, employees are hired for eight-hour shifts to provide around-the-clock care and only the mentally retarded persons actually live in the house.

There is no simple profile for foster parents. Age ranges between 21 and 65 and they differ in economic, ethnic and racial make-up.

"It's a very diverse population. They don't really have a common thread," says Dzenowagis. "It doesn't take anyone special; it just takes someone who cares."

Those providing their homes for community training can be single, married or families with children.

The move to get the metally retarded out of institutions came with a federal law adopted in 1974.

"It mandated that people must be placed in the least restrictive environment, and institution did not constitute the least restrictive environment," Dzenowagis says.

There are 20 to 30 children and about 800 adults awaiting community placement by MORC.

Presently, there are four com-unity training homes in Independence Township.

For information on foster parenting for the mentally retarded, call the Oakland County MORC office at 681-8804 and ask for the Home Finder.

Stock up on tree seedlings

Planting a tree now with the future in mind usually promises cool shade for the picnicker and strong limbs — perfect for a tire swing.

Once again, seedlings are available through the Oakland County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Seedlings can be purchased in quantities of 50 to 100 to 1,000 and range in price from $6.50 for 50 to $65 for 1,000, depending on what type of tree.

The county is offering everything from Red Pine to Douglas Fir to White Dogwood.

In all there are over a dozen varieties to choose from.

This year, a table is being provided to select those trees which are best suited for different soils.

Distribution of the seedlings is tentatively scheduled for April 25.

To acquire an order blank and soil table, complete with seedling prices, phone 666-2232 or write the Oakland County Soil and Water Conservation District, 8326 Highland, Pontiac, Michigan 48054.

Music fills Janice Knapp's world

Enthusiastic is the word to describe Janice Knapp.

At 27, she's got the world of musical education by the tail.

For the past six years, Janice has worked as vocal music instructor at Clarkston's Sashabaw Junior High, and — while she never planned on that career when she entered college — it's evolved into something very special.

"I love it," she smiles, her blue eyes lighting up as she emphasizes her pleasure with jabs to the air.

"I'm lucky because I teach an elective class. The kids who are in there are there hopefully because they want to be there. They come into class at the start with the right attitude," she said.

While her classes expand annually in size, this year Janice has 160 students studying music.

She's especially proud of the "Encores," a select chorus group.

"They are very active and work so hard. They're the best group I've ever had," she boasts.

Students can only be as good as their teacher, so Janice works especially hard in the summer to keep up with new music and choreography techniques.

She's worked with Fred Waring, an orchestral director for 65 years in show business, and Patsy Garrett.

She was in a Purina Cat Chow commercial, the Benji

by Marilyn Trumper

movie, and she played the nosey neighbor on "Nanny and the Professor," Janice said, explaining who Patsy Garrett is.

"It's good to learn the techniques and philosophy of the professionals and to learn about the industry."

Janice graduated in 1975 from Alma College with a degree in musical education. Her alma mater remains a close part of life today.

She is both a regional resource consultant and alumni class agent for the school.

"I believe in it," she said of Alma. "They gave me a lot. It's a good college, especially for kids from Clarkston. Alma holds the small town atmosphere with a teaching ratio of one teacher for every 16 students. Where else could you return for homecoming and be asked to a former professor's home for dinner?

"And that's what I tell the kids from Clarkston who have been admitted to the school. It's my job to call them, and answer any questions they may have about professors, classes, things like that," she said.

Her second job with the college involves soliciting money from graduates for the alumni association.

The towering china cabinet in the background was handcrafted by Janice Knapp's grandfather and remains a treasured piece in her home. Many other items of furniture in her apartment on Susin Lake in Springfield Township were also made by her grandfather.

Janice speculates it was these two volunteer efforts which afforded her the nomination and acceptance to the select group of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

The program recognized the talents, abilities and successes of exceptional young women throughout America, honoring them for their professional accomplishments and contributions to communities, states and the nation.

Janice was nominated by the alumni director of the college.

"I was really surprised about it," she said. "But the funny thing is that while my parents were notified I haven't been. Also, I'm a little embarrassed by the whole thing."

Janice's apartment on Susin Lake in Springfield Township, is filled with furniture created by the hand of her grandfather. A huge china cabinet lines one wall coming close to the ceiling. A grandmother clock hugs another wall and a tree-tiered shelf hangs on another wall.

"My grandfather is very handy," she said, looking at the cabinet. "He's 80, and finished this about a year ago."

"He was so worried something would happen to him and that he would not be able to finish it," she said.

Christmas with her family was marked by a special visit this year, Janice said.

"My brother who lives in California called me and wanted to know how I'd like to help him surprise our mom and dad with a special gift. When I said yes, he said, 'Pick me up at the airport.'"

"That was really nice. I whipped down there, picked him up and we surprised my mom when she arrived at work," Janice said. "She was so excited and surprised," she cried.

Teachers enjoy the same holiday vacation as students, but in a few days the relaxation's over and it's back to work.

"There are some things I want to get going on," Janice said. "The first is the school's musical. We have to start moving on that, and we haven't even picked it out yet."

Sashabaw Junior High School's Encores create a pyramid as they stand ready, supported by nearly invisible monkey bars. The special select chorus has risen to local fame under the direction of their teacher, Janice Knapp, located fourth from the left in the bottom row.

Independence splits $120,000 for three projects

A three-way split of $120,000 in expected Community Development CD funds was okayed by the Independence Township Board last week.

The board voted 4-3 to approve the budget. Although board members agreed on the three items, they did not agree on how the money should be divided.

The proposed CD budget is:

- $50,000 toward an addition to Fire Station No. 3 located on Maybee Road. The addition would provide more space for firefighting equipment and additional living quarters.

- $46,500 toward the purchase of land for a park located off Maybee Road adjacent to the Clarkston Eagles Hall.

- $20,000 for road improvements in the southeastern portion of the township including upgrading of gravel road approaches to Sashabaw Road.

- $3,700 for contingencies, a fund to be used when project costs exceed budgeted figures.

The necessity of an addition to the fire station was the major point of contention.

"It seems to me that for us to allot $50,000 for the fire station at this point in time is preliminary, because I think we need to do a very careful analysis of the fire station and equipment," said Trustee Dale Stuart.

Stuart suggested that most of the money go toward the park purchase and development and toward more road improvements.

"The important thing to me is to use these dollars for something we really need and something the people of this community can use," he said.

Stuart voted against the budget that was approved, as did trustees Larence Kozma and William Vandermark.

Treasurer Frederick Ritter argued that the budget as approved could be amended in June, allowing time for a fire protection study.

The present board should respect the decision of the previous township board which began saving CD funds for the fire station addition three years ago, he said.

"I felt good about the decision (to support adding onto the fire station) when I made it in the past and I feel just as good about it now," Ritter said.

Board members putting their stamps of approval on the budget were Supervisor James Smith, Clerk Christopher Rose, Trustee Daniel Travis and Ritter.

Approval of the CD budget on the township level is the first step. The budget must also be approved by the county and federal CD agencies. The money should be available in October.

CD earmarked for fire department

It's uncertain how much federal money Springfield Township will receive in Community Development Act Funds this year, but it's a sure thing where the money is going.

The Springfield Township Board voted to earmark the funds for the Davisburg Fire Department, continuing a policy established last year. The action took place after a public hearing held during the township board's regular monthly meeting held last week.

"Last year we received $42,600 and allocated the entire amount to the fire department," said Collin Walls, Springfield Township supervisor.

"I expect this year's amount to be approximately the same — it's increased every year, but not by very much the last few years."

Walls said the money could be used for parks and recreation, street or drain work, or other community improvements. Last year the township board also decided to direct the funds to the fire department.

Davisburg Fire Chief Marlin Hillman was the only person to express an opinion during the public hearing, and said that he would like to see the money continue to be directed to firefighting.

"It could alleviate any need for raising taxes in the future," Hillman said.

The motion to allocate the entire amount to the fire department was made by Trustee William Whitley and seconded by Trustee Glen Vermilye. The township board voted unanimously to approve the motion.

Skills show promise

Three Clarkston High School students showed their mathematics skills in the first part of a statewide test by finishing in the top 4 percent.

Dan Blumenschein, Rich Harken and Ron Wagner were among about 1,000 high school students who then competed last month in the second half of the 24th annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition.

If the three students place in the top 10 percent of the second test, they will be honored at an awards program and be considered for college scholarships.

Results of the test should be received by the end of this month, said Ron Jacobson, head of the CHS math department.

Dan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Blumenschein of Whipple Shores Drive, Rich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harken of Snowapple Drive and Ron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wagner of Deer Park Trail.

Travel, see the world

A variety of trips are offered by the Independence Township Parks and Recreation department this year.

A trip to Hawaii is planned from Sept. 25 through Oct. 9, featuring a visit to all four Hawaiian islands during the "Aloha Season" when many festivities take place.

Trips to New England, Florida and Las Vegas are also planned. A special travel party for persons interested in the Hawaii trip is slated for Feb. 19. Persons interested in the party or wishing more information on any of the trips can contact the recreation department at 625-8223.

Frigid temperatures, biting winds and blowing snow prove to be too much for Larry and Kathy Tatu of Holly. After dipping their rods on Greens Lake last week, they quickly trekked back to the car with the catch of the day—one bluegill.

With computer assistant, finding parts is snap

Computer technology -- and the claims of Waterford Hill Automotive manager David Moyle -- were put to the test.

Thanks to a recently installed computer terminal giving his auto parts store access to warehouses across the country, Moyle felt confident that no matter what the customer wanted, he could probably find it.

Then, a true test came when a man was searching for valve guides for a 1927 Franklin.

The computer located the vintage valve guides in 15 seconds in a Grand Rapids warehouse. The parts were in Waterford the very next day.

"I was a little surprised myself," Moyle said, recalling the customer's happy reaction. "It was really something."

Although Moyle arrived at Waterford Hill Automotive less than two months ago, he's no stranger to the auto parts business.

I've been working with cars in one way or another for the past eight years," Moyle said. "If you live around the Detroit area, I guess you're going to be involved with cars somehow."

"And I enjoy this work. It's a challenge."

Waterford Hill Automotive was started 25 years ago by Don Jockwig Sr., whose sons Don Jr. and Tim still work at the store. ACT Auto Supply is the current owner of the business.

"We have professional people here," Moyle noted. "Don and Tim have had 25 years of experience -- they've been doing an excellent job of keeping the store in good shape."

Handling the commercial accounts is Jim Rule. "We want a good mix of walk-in and commercial trade," Moyle said. "Jim has had seven years of experience."

As new car prices and interest rates continue to soar, people will be keeping their cars longer and maintaining them better -- all of which bodes well for the auto parts industry, Moyle noted.

"A lot of people will be doing their own work on their cars, and that does show a lot of promise for us," he said. "This is such a big area with a lot of people and cars -- the market is there."

Doing Business

Although most parts can be found in Waterford Hill's large in-store inventory, the computer system is there to help find outdated and hard-to-find parts.

"We can usually have a part shipped UPS within two days," Moyle said. "And we'll have it when we say we will."

Waterford Hill Automotive will mark its ownership change with a grand opening coming up in March, Moyle added. Preparations for the event are already underway.

"We sell NAPA (National Automotive Parts Association) parts, and they have a slogan about foreign car parts -- No auto part is foreign to us. That's the way we feel.

"We have very competitive prices and top quality parts. We want people to know that they're dealing with good, experienced people here -- we try and treat our customers right."

Business briefs

A new kind of home financing has been announced by Era Showcase Realty, and it's designed to help buyers purchase a home with no down payment or with lower interest rates.

The partnership mortgage plan can provide the home buyer with a silent partner who pays a portion of the current mortgage interest rate or who covers down payment costs.

More information on the plan is available through the local ERA Showcase Realty office, 4479 Dixie Highway, Waterford Township, according to William Panchuk, president of the firm.

Brace K. Case and D. Bruce Robertson, both from the Clarkston area, are among 16 southeastern Michigan businessmen and women elected as delegates to the May Conference on Small Business.

Those attending the Lansing conference are to represent Michigan's small business community and make recommendations to the Governor and legislature on ways the state can help small businesses.

Case is employed at Real Financing Inc., 22500 Orchard Lake, Farmington. Robertson is president of Robertson's Financial Service, 5881 Chickadee, Clarkston.

'Ordinary People' is extraordinary film

What made the Robert Redford-directed film "Ordinary People" so extraordinary was its view of the psychotherapy of the adolescent boy suffering from depression.

It is not often that a play or movie will give an accurate description of what happens in therapy and often the way mental health personnel—psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers—are depicted is derogatory and ludicrous.

With Judd Hirsch as the psychiatrist and Tim Hutton as the withdrawn teen, "Ordinary People" manages a true-to-life and emotional account of what goes on in therapy.

Often, therapy with a teenager is not as dramatic as the film shows, because the movie had to compress many months of therapy into a few minutes, but the essence of a close and emotional interaction were there.

The casualness of therapist, his ability to see that the teen needed to act out and express some feelings toward his parents and his willingness to give in a feeling way toward his young patient made this an exceptional portrayal.

As the movie so effectively shows, at the root of many emotional problems is bottled up feelings; particularly angry feelings.

The inability of the family to encourage expression of unpleasant feelings contributed to the boy's depression.

While teens may have problems of depression related to more individual or family problems, they still must deal with the problems and conflicts of growing up, dating and going to school. Again, "Ordinary People" was able to show this in a realistic way.

Finally, when the boys problems began to clear up, the center of the family's emotional problems became clearer.

It was easy to identify the teen as "the" family problem until he began to get better. Then, the shift in equilibrium caused other crackings in the surface adjustment of the ordinary family.

Because therapy helps a teenager to improve his personal adjustment, it doesn't mean that the family's basic communication problems will go away.

Therapists of adolescents must deal with this problem every day.

GOING PLACES?

(Share a ride with a friend.)

Anytime there's a battle on the mat, the two combatants aren't the only ones stretching and tumbling—it takes a little bit of athletic dexterity to officiate as well. Here, the referee crouches to judge a possible pin developing in a battle between Clarkston's Mark Hughes and his Kettering opponent...

Flu bug takes its toll; grapplers place 11th

By Al Zawacky

The Clarkston High School wrestling team found itself victimized by some of Mother Nature's biological warfare at Saturday's Plymouth Salem Invitational Tournament.

Coach Rick Detkowski saw the flu bug claim three of his top wrestlers in Mike Conway, Bruce Burwitz and Todd Thompson, while a shoulder injury cost the team the services of heavyweight Mark Johnson.

With voids in those four weight classes, Clarkston had to settle for 11th place in the 16-team tournament.

But the week did have its bright spots. Jeff Miracle placed first in the tournament, while teammates Mike Ogans and Tom Hecker placed second and sixth respectively.

And earlier in the week Clarkston opened up its league campaign by carving up Waterford Kettering, 51-19.

"We knew Kettering wasn't real strong, but it was our first league meet and we wanted to put on a good show," Detkowski said.

"At the tournament, everybody felt kind of down about having so many guys out and knowing we didn't have much of a chance to place near the top. We weren't fired up like we would have been otherwise."

Winning their individual matches for Clarkston against Kettering were Al Wall (pin, 5:00), Mike Conway (pin, 1:01), Jim Walker (pin, 1:06), Jeff Miracle (pin, :54), Mike Ogans (decision, 8-2), Bruce Burwitz (pin, :56), Tom Hecker (pin, :37) and Mark Karrick (pin, 1:40). Clarkston's Lance Jewett drew a void.

"We're progressing as a team," Detkowski said. "Our younger kids are getting better all the time."

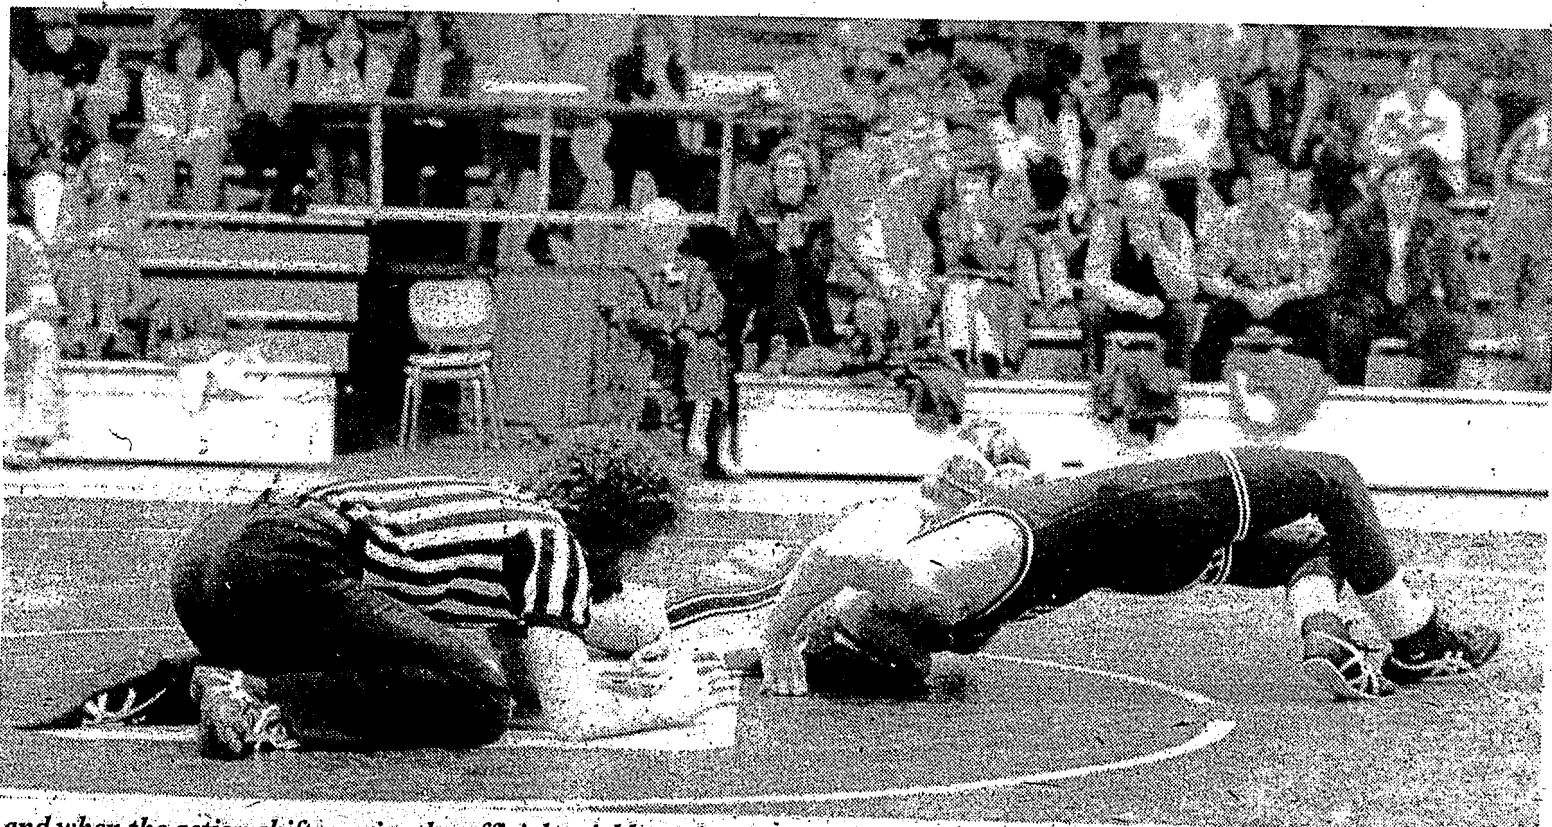

"Hopefully, we'll be at full strength again this week — usually the flu only lasts for a couple days."

Thursday will be Clarkston's next league test, and it won't be an easy one. Detkowski and company will be traveling that evening to face Greater Oakland Activities League rival Rochester on the road. Rochester is undefeated so far this season in dual meets — as are the Clarkston grapplers, who are currently 6-0-1.

Top individual records on the team so far this season are Miracle (18-1), Conway (14-1), Ogans (18-3), Karrick (10-4) and Burwitz (8-3).

...clenching his whistle between his teeth, the official moves to get a better view as play continues...

...and when the action shifts again, the official quickly springs to the other side of the mat, eyes peering and whistle ready. Scenes like this will be common in the CHS gym this Saturday as the Wolves host the Clarkston Invitational Tournament, beginning at 9 a.m.
