She's got the beat

The lively marching and music of the Clarkston Silver Eagles Ladies and Girls Marching Unit and Drill won a trophy for their efforts during the Loyalty Day Parade held Saturday in downtown Clarkston. The event was sponsored by the John R. Schmude VFW Post of Clarkston and the Oakland County VFW Council. There are more photos of the parade throughout today's Clarkston News.

Ben Powell Disposal sold

Ben M. Powell Disposal—a Clarkston institution of 40 years—has been sold.

Leonard Smith, owner of Clarkston Fuel Supply and Jerry Powell, of Ben M. Powell Disposal, signed the deal the afternoon of May 4.

The company's name will be changed to Smith Disposal Inc., Smith said, and the trucks will continue to be stored at 6440 Clarkston-Orion Rd.

Smith would not say what the company sold for.

Smith said he approached the Powells with the idea of a sale and was met with agreement.

"The fuel oil business has gone downhill a little bit and it's not getting any better. More people are turning to wood and gas and I wanted something to fall back on—to keep going," Smith said.

Disposal fees will not increase as he takes over ownership, he added.

Jerry Powell, who's father Ben founded the business four decades ago, would not comment on the sale.

Clarkston's historic district under scrutiny

Ordinance nears final draft

By Marilyn Trumper

Clarkston's Village Council is close to tying up loose ends of the proposed historic district ordinance currently under draft—and expects to finalize the law's wording within the next two weeks.

If finally adopted by the village council, the ordinance would force residents living in the historic district to first seek approval from a five-member committee before painting, remodeling, constructing, repairing or demolishing any of their homes or outbuildings.

Aspects of the ordinance came under fire at the April 27 meeting when Trustee David Raup challenged what he termed its "confinement."

"Don't get me wrong, I'm in favor of a historic ordinance," he said. "But I see what I think are problems with the language. For example, it says under the duties and powers of the commissions that they will decide what designs and alterations, etc., are 'compatible' to the building's size, character, etc."

"Who is going to be qualified to decide what is compatible?" Raup asked. "Who's going to call in the architect? Who is going to pay the professional's fee?"

"I also think it might be very easy to work with the commission one time, then have three members change and find restrictions to be very tough."

"Could the commission be so restrictive as to say 'No, you can't use aluminum siding—you must use wood?'" Raup said. "I get the feeling this ordinance is very, very confining."

Planning Commission Chairman Edward Thomson answered Raup's queries.

"I think what you have to realize is yes, this ordinance is more restrictive than what you have in force. That's the whole purpose of it—there's no sense in setting it up if it weren't," Thomson said.

"It was envisioned by the planning commission who drafted this ordinance that if the question of 'compatibility' had to be answered the cost for expertise would be paid for by the village. It's the village's responsibility to prove what he's doing is not compatible—not the property owner's."

If a property owner cannot afford to remodel under the commission's specifications, he or she can't do it, Thomson said.

"There are two kinds of aluminum siding. One is wood grain, the other is slippery. Of course one is more expensive than the other. I would hope the commission would not insist the property owner use wood when wood grain is available," he said.

But, Thomson said, such a decision would be within the commission's power.

Council expects to approve the ordinance's final draft at the May 11 meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Clarkston Village Hall, 375 Depot, Clarkston.

Before the ordinance can be adopted, the village council must hold two public hearings, said President Fontie ApMadoc.

Approximately 100 homes in the village are located within the historic district, established last June when the area was admitted to the National Register of Historic Places.

Council downs resident's requests

By Marilyn Trumper

Clarkston's expected $4,300 in 1981-82 federal revenue sharing funds will go to pay police services, following the village council's unanimous vote at the April 27 public hearing.

Bud Campbell of Pinehurst Road, was the only resident to attend both hearings and offer suggestions on ways to spend the money.

"I've paid taxes since 1937 and the village has never done anything for me," he said. "They came through, put in sewers, promising to replant the trees—and they never have. How about some trees?"

"I also think they ought to clean up the Mill Pond. By the time it gets down to my house it's green and stagnant and nothing but a mosquito breeding place for the village of Clarkston," he said. "We've already got some big enough to put a saddle on."

"The bridge on Pinehurst needs repairing. It hasn't been repaired since 1935. Powell won't even drive his truck across to pick up the garbage," Campbell said, offering his third suggestion.

Village President Fontee Ap-Madoc said the bridge was on private property.

"Federal Revenue Sharing must be used for ongoing projects like police services," she said.

The village of Clarkston contracts through Independence Township for police protection from the Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

"In the past we've used it for the police service payment. As I told you at the last meeting, your suggestion looks like it would qualify under community development—it falls under both the senior citizens' and safety category, but we've already allocated this year's community development funds."

"The application comes in usually in December or January," she said. "Come back then."

Campbell, unwilling to wait, said, "I'll fill her (the stream) in and it won't cost you a thing. You just give me the word. The water will drain into Dollar Lake through the manmade stream and I won't have to smell the stagnation anymore."

"Or, I'll put in a culvert and tear down the bridge now that you tell me it's private property," he said.

The council directed Campbell to contact the Michigan Department of Natural Resources before filling in waterways.

Key issues slated for talk at BAIT meeting

Three controversial issues are on the agenda for the Business Association of Independence Township (B.A.I.T.) meeting planned Tuesday, May 12.

Speaking on Proposal A slated for the May 19 ballot is to be James Brennan, director of management and budget for Oakland County.

Issues facing the Clarkston school district including why there are problems and the millage proposal to appear on the June 8 ballot is the topic for Clarkston schools Superintendent Milford Mason's speech.

Development in Independence Township, including difficulties faced by developers, is to be discussed by Hubert Garner, of Deer Lake Farms and other subdivisions, and Shel Fuller.

The meeting begins at 6 p.m. with cocktails for one-half hour, then dinner and a brief business meeting and the election of officers.

DESCRIPTION: This commercial/residential brick building, constructed from 1900 to 1903, originally housed commercial establishments and an opera house. It is a late Victorian Functional structure which is visually prominent due to its solid rectilinear massing and brick detailing. The first floor has undergone considerable alteration with the addition of the mansard roof, multi-paned aluminum windows, and new brick. The original second story wood, double hung, 1/1 windows and diamond-paned transoms have been replaced with smaller double hung units and wood panels. Parking is provided on-street and in the rear lot. Pedestrian access is from the front sidewalk and rear alley.

RECOMMENDATIONS: Restore entire first floor level facade including large single-paned, display windows, cast iron columns, and wood panels. Install awnings with signage on first floor. Restore second story windows. If this is not feasible, wood panels should be painted a dark tone and awnings placed over upper panels. Relocate rear trash storage area. Install new rear doors and awnings.

Main Street facelift comes out in book form

By Marilyn Trumper

Anyone interested can embark on a passage through time and see the Village of Clarkston's downtown district as it was in bygone days—the journey's almost forever and only a page away.

Architect Betty-lee Francis' study outlining the renovation of Main Street facades has been printed in softcover book form and is now available for $5 a copy by calling village council Trustee Gary Symons at 625-8494.

Over a year ago, the village council hired Francis, of Preservation Planning in Royal Oak, to redesign the commercial district's building facades, returning them to their most original appearance, reflecting the era in which they were built.

The book, "Clarkston, Michigan, Guidelines for Conservation of the Village Center," has incorporated all her proposed changes as well as diagrams and detailed drawings of building facades, sides and back views.

Francis presents each commercial building individually, analyzes renovations and suggests changes.

Suggested architectural eliminations include porches, overhanging mansard walkways and bay windows.

The book also proposes awnings, street benches, street lighting, waste receptacles and planters.

In addition, Francis discusses underground utility wires, parking, landscaping, signage and pedestrian and automobile routes.

The $15,000 study was paid for by a Community Development Block Grant and the 100 books were printed and researched at a breakdown cost of $30 each, according to village President Fontie ApMadoc.

At the April 27 meeting, council members voted unanimously to sell the books for $5 each, and return sale revenue to the village's preservation planning fund.

Copies of the book are to be available at the Independence Township Library for residents' review.

Retention basin under study

Clarkston's Village Council is intent on determining whether the Deer Lake Farms retention basin is functioning properly and is willing to spend $360 to find out.

At the April 27 meeting, the council voted unanimously to have engineers Mosher-Kapalczak Inc. conduct a phase one study at a cost of $360.

"I think we should have phase one done and then take the results to the township, then ask the township to do phase two or compromise with the village on the cost," said Trustee Jackson Byers.

The Deer Lake Farms retention basin has been under council scrutiny for almost a year. Concerns are if the basin is functioning properly and keeping sedimentation out of the Mill Pond.

According to a representative of the village's engineering firm, a phase two study would cost $1,258, and would provide a detailed analysis of the basin's existing condition and of the Mill Pond's sedimentation and drainage area.

Deer Lake Farms subdivision is on land in both Independence Township and the village. The basin was designed to prevent sedimentation from draining into the Mill Pond and the township is responsible for the basin's maintenance agreement.

Debate on Proposal A

Proposition A, the tax proposal slated to appear on a statewide ballot May 19, will be the subject of a debate sponsored by the Independence Township Republican Club May 18.

Two spokesperson, one speaking in favor of the proposal and another speaking against it, will participate in the debate, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the Clarkston Junior High School cafeteria off Waldon Road in Independence Township.

The debate is open to the public free of charge, and members of the audience will be able to direct questions to both debaters.

Help for voters

On the June 8 ballot, Clarkston School District voters face a millage request for 3 mills if Proposal A fails and 6 mills if Proposal A passes.

In order to clarify the issues with some facts and figures and to answer some questions, a six-part series—School Millage on the Ballot—begins in today's Clarkston News on Page 6.

In addition to today's topic which deals with why the school district finds itself in a financial bind, other topics include a comparison to other school districts, the cost of staffing the district, cuts that will be made if the millage fails, how much the millage approval would cost property owners and a question and answer column.

Writer of the columns is William Neff, administrative assistant for Clarkston schools. The column is designed to be informational, so that voters can know the facts before they decide to vote either for or against the millage increase.

We welcome your comments. Write to The Clarkston News, 5 S. Main, Clarkston 48016, drop by, or give us a call at 625-3370.

Tribute to Dr. James O'Neill

Dear Editor,

I believe that communities, as well as individuals, can become complacent when it comes to daily routine. I suddenly realized this at 11:30 last night (Sunday) as I was driving my 6-year-old son home from a trip to see Dr. James O'Neill at his home to remove an object from my son's eye that was causing extreme irritation.

This is not an uncommon practice for Dr. O'Neill. It has been my experience that most doctors respond to this type of call by telling you to go to the emergency room at the hospital.

By Dr. O'Neill's immediate response, he saved me two or three hours of waiting around the hospital as well as $2 or $3 worth of gas.

This is not the first experience of this type we have had with Dr. O'Neill and his associate, Dr. Charles Yee.

How many other times, in the course of a week or month, does Dr. O'Neill donate his valuable free time for families other than mine? How many times does this happen when people think this is part of his job?

It sure would be easy to say, "Go to the hospital."

I now am wondering if this community, as a whole, made up of families like mine, realize just how fortunate we are to have a man as dedicated as our local pediatrician.

How many people are as responsive to community needs?

Dr. O'Neill is the ideal of professionalism. His time is our time and our kids are his kids.

We can never repay him for his love and understanding, but we can recognize and appreciate his time and contributions.

Doc, you're the best!!

Gerald W. Councilman
Springfield Twp.

Click, click

by Kathy Greenfield

A crowd of girls yell a friend's name. There she is, beating the drum in a marching band. Click.

A small boy waves his flag and looks up in awe as the tall marchers pass. Click.

A mob of kids ride by on a "float"—an open trailer with paper banners. They smile and wave as the crowd flies past. Click.

Looking at a parade through the lens of a camera is altogether different than watching the festivities with the naked eye.

Mostly, you search for the picture you want while looking through the camera lens, and with a telephoto lens, you get close to the marchers and the parade watchers.

It's fun—like being in the parade. Of course, there are problems with such participation.

While looking down the street from a spot in front of the judge's box, that also held Veteran of Foreign Wars (VFW) dignitaries, the group doing a salute routine in front of me hit me with a flying flag and came close to stepping on me until I quickly moved out of the way—my vision was down the road, but I was there.

One thing I was attempting to do along with taking parade photos was to search for a Mother's Day picture. The parade, I had decided, was the perfect place to hunt for mothers with their children and the telephoto lens was the perfect tool—it's easier to take pictures of people that are natural and unposed when you can stand far away, but zero in for a close-up.

It was no easy trick. I would take a picture, but not be able to get names, because the parade continued going past, and the mothers with children were across the street.

"Gad, what if some of these people aren't mothers, but are aunts, friends of grandmothers," I thought.

So, as the parade neared its end, I decided to concentrate on a child with a woman across the street and then walk over and get her name.

I wrote down her name. "What's your little boy's name?" I asked.

"Oh, he's not my little boy," said the young woman with a look of surprise.

And that was it—others whose pictures I had taken were, by this time, lost in the dispersing crowd.

As you look at some of the parade watchers in today's Clarkston News, keep in mind they could have been a salute to the care and love a mother gives to her children.

That was the idea, and even if some of the women with youngsters aren't their mothers, the theme of love is what the annual tribute to mothers is all about.

School millage on the ballot

By William Neff

Clarkston Schools' Administrative Assistant

The following list answers a frequently asked question—Where has our money gone?

To finance Human Services on a statewide basis. Over a 12-year period, Michigan has increased its support of Human Services by approximately 12 percent, while decreasing its support of K-12 education by 18 percent.

To help balance the state budget. Over the past several years, the governor has made disproportionate cuts in K-12 education. In the 1980-81 school year, he imposed three cuts totaling approximately $827,039. It is anticipated that yet another cut will come in October 1981. These are made without advance warning and come after the yearly budget has been well-established.

Less income due to the Headlee Rollback. The Headlee Amendment caused a rollback of operational millage amounting to $566,578 during the 1980-81 school year and $895,637 over the past two years.

Less income due to declining enrollment. The loss of 192 students during the 1980-81 school year cost the district $321,464 in state money.

Less income from federal sources. During the 1980-81 school year, federal money decreased by $34,600. It is anticipated there will be another $81,200 during the 1982-83 school year.

Less buying power due to inflation. Revenue increased by 1 percent during the 1980-81 school year while the Consumers' Price Index (CPI) increased 11.3 percent. A student textbook cost $2.40 in 1970, $4.44 in 1977 and $7.35 in 1981.

Cuts were made over the past three years with the realization that revenue would not meet expenses, but it still was not enough. The figures listed on the chart are approximate.

Jim's jottings

If I were King

by Jim Sherman

You've heard of "Queen for a day". How about a game of "If I were King". Suppose you ruled the country for a while. What would you do? Here's some of the important things we'd see to.

If I were King the Washington Post would be allowed to start over. They could take their credit for breaking the Watergate Case in the media and all the credibility that brought to the Post, and subtract having to return the Pulitzer Prize given a reporter for having written lies.

If I were King we would recognize the treaty with the Indians giving them fishing rights provided they use the same tackle that was available to them at the time the treaty was signed.

If I were King no publicity would be permitted on football until the time high schools start practice, about three weeks before Labor Day. And, in the case of the Detroit Pistons basketball team, until there's at least a possibility of having a 50-50 season, all accounts of their activities would be banned.

If I were King the same amount of money would be put into cancer research that went into the space program, hopefully with the same results as the recent shuttle.

If I were King all laws would be interpreted, argued, and all legal options exhausted before they take affect. In the case of Proposal A the Supreme Court of the United States would define each phrase prior to its being placed on the ballot. No room would be left for a rules committee to decide "original intent", no question would go unanswered as to "allowances", and politicians would not be permitted to speak of it at all. Only facts would be permitted, no sales pitches.

If I were King the attitude of people on sun-bright, semi-warm Spring mornings in Michigan would prevail year around. It seems no other season produces the atmosphere of friendship like a fresh spring morn. The "Good" in Good Morning has a lilt to it in April. The smile is brighter, the teeth whiter, the disposition understanding and forgiving on a May day.

And, If I were King the New York Yankee baseball team would be banned from any league play and be forced to play exhibitions much like the Harlem Globetrotters basketball team.

Lifestyles, not laws, create our legal system

Law Day is a splendid opportunity for people like me to come and tell people like you what a great, magnificent, and glorious legal system we have.

It is an opportunity for me to say that our legal system is like a steel and concrete fortress, like a China Wall that protects our lives, our liberties, and rights to pursue happiness.

It is an opportunity to state how lucky you are that you don't live in Poland, East Berlin, or Hungary.

I really wish I could say all those great things about our legal system, but I cannot because they are not true.

Our laws are none of the above. Rather than being like a steel and concrete fortress or China Wall, our laws are more like a delicate flower out there in your parking lot, a flower that each day must survive the passing automobiles, the many young men and women running by, and the snow and hail storms of fall and winter.

We must not forget that our legal-political system began with a very bloody revolution.

The first paragraph of our Declaration of Independence states: "When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them; a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation."

And, later in the Declaration: "...it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security."

The Revolution did not end with the war for independence, but the Revolution has continued each day, to this very day. The glory of our legal-political system is that it is not like the steel or concrete fortress, but it's glory is in the fact that we can continually change our legal system.

Our United States is the only country ever, where we as citizens can do this. We change our legal system by the way we choose to live.

If you don't believe this, look to the enormous changes in our marriage and divorce laws, our juvenile laws, and the laws dealing with prohibited drugs, all within the last 15 years. These changes have all come about as a result of the way we choose to live.

The law did not create these changes, it merely responded to them. The bright and creative lawyer or judge will merely identify and respond to these social forces.

Our legal system is nothing more or less than the rules we choose to live by. In our country the law follows, it does not lead. This is the essential difference between our country and for example, Poland or East Germany. We in this country are the source of our laws not a monarch, a parliament or a Politburo.

Just as in the TV version of "Roots," the father/slave holds his baby to the heavens and proclaims, "Behold the only thing greater than Yourself." We in the country acknowledge no greater power other than our God.

To illustrate my point, I want to mention a few people who changed our legal-political system, and it was done at considerable cost to them.

Mohamed Ali changed the legal-political system by refusing to be drafted into the Vietnam War. Of course he lost several of the best years from his career.

The Berrigan brothers have been tried and convicted and gone to prison because of their opposition to nuclear warfare.

should respect our legal system only because it allows change. We have the freedom to change. Change we will, but we must

In honor of Law Day on Friday, May 1, Oakland County 52nd District Judge Gerald McNally gave this speech at Our Lady of the Lakes High School

His refusal to be drafted emphasized the wrongness of our position in regard to Vietnam.

Martin Luther King re-wrote many segregation laws by passive resistance and going to jail many times.

Going a long way back, in 1868 Senator Edmund Ross refused to vote impeachment for President Johnson. Senator Ross stated that his refusal was like looking down into his open grave. That prediction proved to be true insofar as his political future was concerned.

Dorothy Day and Walter Reuther and countless others like them have gone hungry and to jail in their successful efforts to change and improve our legal-political system.

My point is, rather than have faith and confidence in our legal-political system we should have faith and confidence in ourselves, because we are the source of our laws by the way we choose to live.

We should honor those men and women who change our laws in a positive direction. We make certain that it is a change in the right or positive direction.

Professor Allen quoted the "Song of Roland" in his law school address: "As long as one is truly alive and functioning, the battle goes forward. Your only reward is the opportunity to fight again another day on other fields."

"There can be no victory without fidelity to one's code of right and wrong and more striking, there can be no failure when that fidelity has been maintained."

May, Bicycle Safety Month

Safety path people offer films on safety, bike riding

Members of the Independence Township Safety Path Committee have gone beyond just planning where to put the paths.

They are helping teach kids about bicycle safety.

Two films are now being presented to all kindergarten through sixth graders at Clarkston schools.

"Safety as We Play" is the offering for grades kindergarten through second and the older children are viewing "Bike Safety—You Can Prevent an Accident."

"We'd like to expose every child to the rules of bike riding and impress upon them the need for safety—if they're riding in their neighborhood or safety paths, there are things to look out for," said Julie Johnson, a member of the committee.

The films were provided free through Oakland Schools.

The project also includes materials for teachers so the topic can be discussed in classrooms.

Although most children are exposed to bicycle safety discussions at school, the project was designed to coordinate efforts and get everyone talking about the timely topic, Johnson said.

And it's also a good way to stress that May is Bicycle Safety Month.

'If it Fitz...'

Needed help going West

by Jim Fitzgerald

In 1928, when I was 18 months old and my sister Terrible Jean was much older, we both caught our death of pneumonia during a Michigan winter. For our health, our mother took us on a train to California where we freeloarded off our relatives for two months. We returned home with clear lungs and a magnificent lie about Terrible Jean's starring in a movie with Rin Tin Tin.

Flash ahead to April 12, 1981: A bus unloads dozens of Japanese tourists at an oceanfront park in Venice, Calif. Several of the tiny Orientals spy a tall American woman and ask whether they can have their picture taken standing next to her so they can return to Japan with proof they visited the land of the giants. Remembering Rin Tin Tin, the woman eagerly agrees to pose.

Fifty-three years later, Terrible Jean had returned to California. I also returned. We went back for the wedding of a young Los Angeles lawyer, Steve, son of Terrible Jean and her husband, Bill, who stores his traveling vodka in a pop bottle on the label of which he printed "gin" because "It's easier to spell." The only reason I agreed to accompany Terrible Jean and Bill on this excursion was that Laurel and Hardy weren't available.

Actually, I was with Rin Tin Tin's co-star and her spouse for only the California portion of my vacation. In cowardly fashion, they traveled west on an airplane. As previously reported, I rode an Oldsmobile, sharing the driving with my wife, our youngest daughter, and her husband, Mr. Wizard.

Ever since I can remember, I've wanted to drive to California to see all the mountains and deserts and cowboy country I couldn't remember seeing when I was traveling with pneumonia. My wife agreed to the trip only on the condition that we be accompanied by someone who could do all the things I can't do, such as fit luggage into a car trunk, put gas in a gas tank, read a map and take the correct freeway exit.

That's where Mr. Wizard came in.

My talented son-in-law not only accomplished all these terrible tasks, but he also fetched the ice at every motel. He realized how badly he was needed when we made our first stop at a self-serve gas pump and I couldn't tell him where to find the gas cap on the car I've owned for four years. Whose dumb idea was it to hide those things behind the license plates?

But I didn't remain completely useless for 5,725 miles. My wife taught me how to fold up a road map. "Just go with it," she instructed, sounding like a dance teacher, and she was right. If you give an unfolded map its head, it will fall together naturally, like an accordion. For me, this was a real revelation. In the past, I several times became so frustrated by recalcitrant maps that I threw them out car windows, little realizing they must have hit the highway reborn free and correctly folded. Astounding.

I have described this map experience so thoroughly to fulfill a pledge made before beginning my round trip across the nation. I pledged I wouldn't travel for pleasure alone, doing nothing except waiting for Mr. Wizard to bring the ice. I was determined to remain alert for valuable travel tips to pass on to readers. In future columns, if I don't lose my notes, I will also reveal such valuable information as the wisest way for a tourist to react to a hole in the ground that is supposed to be a rest room at the Chevron station in Knolls, Utah; and how to deal with uneducated traveling companions who, after spending nights in Gallup, N.M., Flagstaff and Kingman, Ariz., and San Bernardino, Calif., still won't believe there is such a song as "Get Your Kicks on Route 66."

In the meantime, it would be good for all of us to remember that if Terrible Jean hadn't recovered from pneumonia in California in 1928, some Japanese imports wouldn't have felt so small in California in 1981.

Give kudos to community's best

A dynamo basketball player who rallies an entire township to its feet with a common bursting pride—is a striver of excellence. The volunteer who chairs a local organization dedicated to bettering the lives of underprivileged kids—is a striver of excellence.

Women who work to bring art into the schools and give students enrichment they might not otherwise have—are strivers of excellence.

There are those in every community who work hard and spend long hours and energy to better the area they live in. Many go unnoticed.

It is exactly for these kinds of people the Second Annual Community Awards Dinner will be held on Thursday, May 28, at Spring Lake Country Club in Independence Township.

The Clarkston Jaycees, Michigan Week Committee and North Oakland Civitans are gearing up for the dinner and requesting nominees for the 1981 Citizenship Awards.

All local residents are encouraged to nominate anyone they feel deserves recognition in the following categories:

- Outstanding government official.
- Outstanding Clarkston educator.

- Outstanding young citizen.
- "Super person" Award.
- Outstanding contribution to the creative arts.
- Distinguished Service Award

for an individual, group or project. Nominating forms are available at the Independence Township Hall, 90 N. Main, Clarkston, and must be returned by Thursday, May 14, to the Citizenship Award Committee, 9980 Allen Rd., Clarkston MI 48016.

In the event your candidate does not win in any category, he or she will still be honored at the dinner and presented a Certificate of Appreciation.

Absentee voters cast ballots now

Talking about . . .

It's Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley's opinion that sex education should not be taught in courses required for high school graduation. What's your opinion?

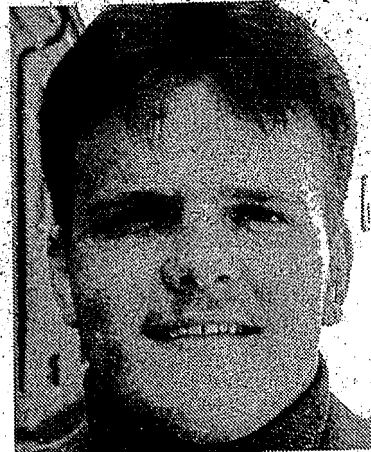

"I think it should be taught. It's an education that's as important as any other type of education." -- Gerry Tuony, Snowapple Drive, Independence Township, student.

"I think sex education should be taught in the schools. Usually the kids pick up what they know from each other and friends. They need to have the proper clinical information to understand." -- Charlotte Brannstrom, Meyers Avenue, Independence Township, business owner.

"I think it's a valuable addition and that it's good sex education is taught. But I don't think it's that important for graduation." -- Sheri Allingham, Buttercup Lane, Independence Township, real estate broker.

"No, it should not be required. Certain people put restrictions on what they want their children to be taught and feel they should teach them themselves. You should not force sex education." -- Stephen Kellogg, Lake Drive, Independence Township, computer operator.

"Learning about the body is one thing. Learning about sex education is another. First I have to know what he means by 'sex education.'" -- Shirley Hines, Ellis Road, Springfield Township, housewife.

Village engineers break partnership, Mosher out

Harry Mosher of Mosher-Kapalczak Inc., Clarkston's new engineering firm of two months, has resigned his position in the corporation, according to former partner Joseph Kapalczak.

Both men are "looking for an equitable settlement as corporate partners," Kapalczak said, refusing to comment further to avoid possible litigation.

Mosher could not be reached for comment.

The hiring of Mosher-Kapalczak Inc., 9215 Dixie Highway, Springfield Township, was a controversial issue which created a chasm among council members last November.

At that time, the council was concerned over a possible conflict of interest by its engineering firm of 24 years, which worked for the village and took private work outside Clarkston.

Several council members favored hiring Mosher-Kapalczak because the firm handled only municipalities and did not take private work.

The proposal came under fire and council split when members argued Mosher was a village resident and a member of the zoning board of appeals (ZBA). If hired, the position could in itself be a conflict of interest, they said.

The gap was bridged when council voted to hire Mosher-Kapalczak Inc. in February and Mosher resigned his ZBA post soon after.

At the April 27 meeting, Kapalczak informed council via letter of the dissolved partnership, and said he hoped the village would retain his firm for engineering services.

After discussion council members agreed no immediate action was necessary, and later in the meeting directed the engineers to perform a study of the Deer Lake Farms retention basin.

Eliza Lake gets final plat

The Springfield Township Board recently granted final plat approval to the Eliza Lake Estates subdivision.

The new development, located off Tindall and Ely roads in Springfield Township, consists of 33 lots. Paved roads in the subdivision have already been completed, and underground utilities should be installed in the next few months, according to developer Max Levy.

Construction of the first few homes on the site should begin in May or June, Levy said, adding that one home is already completed for use as a model.

In JV softball:

The streak goes on

Marina Hamlett pitches the Wolves to another win, a 13-0 whitewashing of Waterford Kettering.

By Al Zawacky
MEMORY TEST: When is the last time the Clarkston High School junior varsity softball team lost a game?

ANSWER: Under research. At least two years ago, anyway.

The JV winning streak—up over 20 games at last count—is growing longer this season. The Wolves may have entered the 1981 campaign with a new coach and plenty of new faces on their roster, but the team's winning ways remain unchanged.

"I think our pitching and defense are our strengths," says Coach Don Peters, "and pitching and defense are where the game is—then speed, and then hitting."

Not that there's anything wrong with Clarkston's hitting—as the stats and scores would indicate. Marina Hamlett is hitting .645, Audrey Campe is hitting .666 and Lori Martin sports an average of .600.

In their first five games, the Wolves have scored 59 runs—an average of better than 11 runs a game.

The pitching, meanwhile, has rationed opposition runs to an average of three a game. Hamlett and Jeanne Herron are the two starters.

"They're both real good pitchers," Peters says. "Marina's won four games and had two shutouts, and Jeanne is 1-0. They've both got good control and throw the ball real well."

Behind the plate the Wolves have regular backstop Denise Gretz, "a good defensive player who really knows the game," according to Peters, and backup catcher Sharon Hesse.

In the infield Clarkston has starters Hesse at first base, Dawn Willett at second, Lori Martin at shortstop and Tammy Wilder at third. Terry Schellinger is the backup first baseman, Traci Sherman is ready to fill in at second, Hamlett can play at short and Kim Adkins is the backup player at third.

"Dawn Willett is one of the best defensive players I've seen," says Peters. "She was involved in the two double plays we turned against Lake Orion (a 10-0 Clarkston victory). She just makes diving catch after diving catch."

Hesse is solid at first base, Martin has the range and defensive ability at short, and Wilder "knows how to position herself—she reads the batters," Peters adds.

In the outfield, the regulars are Sherman, Campe and Barb Burzyck. Krista Pilditch, Jackie Kilcline, Michelle Barks and Pam Forsyth make up the capable backup crew.

"One of the reasons I got into teaching, was because I always wanted to coach," says Peters, an electronics instructor at Northwest Oakland Vocational Education Center. He applied for the coaching post when ex-junior varsity mentor Carla Teare moved into the vacant varsity position this year.

"It's something I'm really glad I did, because I'm really enjoying it. And the girls are out here because they enjoy playing."

"I put some goals down at the beginning of the year—I told them that I want us to be the best defensive team in the league, and if we do that, we'll win the league title."

Barb Burzyk foul tips a Kettering pitch in what proved to be one of the Wolves' strengths, as evidenced by their 59 runs through five games. Clarkston's fifth straight win of the season. Hitting has been

Clarkston on top in league baseball race

Lane's two-run double in the 7th lifts Wolves past West Bloomfield

By Al Zawacky

Two league games into the season, and guess who's on top of the Greater Oakland Activities League varsity baseball race?

West Bloomfield, right?

Wrong.

Lake Orion?

Another rotten guess.

Answer: The Clarkston High School Wolves, who knocked a very polished West Bloomfield squad on their duffs Friday afternoon to improve their GOAL standing to 2-0 and overall mark to 4-1.

Now, two games do not a season make, but Coach Roy Warner can't be anything but pleased with his team's performance off the starting blocks.

"A big win for us," Warner said of the 11-10 triumph over West Bloomfield. "West Bloomfield isn't a bad ball club—they've got decent pitching and hit well, too."

"We're playing with great intensity, concentration and determination right now. We've got to keep it up."

After opening last week with a league win over Lake Orion on Monday, the Wolves were humbled 9-1 at Waterford

Township before bouncing back for two home-field victories, 8-4 over Bloomfield Hills Andover and the 11-10 decision over West Bloomfield.

Township ripped Clarkston pitching for 16 hits and was further aided by five Wolves' errors in scoring its nine runs. Rich Lamphere doubled in Clarkston's only run in the game; starting pitcher Bob McIntyre took the loss.

Ron Feneley, with relief help from Mark Piazza, pitched the Wolves to victory over Andover. Greg Lane had two hits and two RBIs and teammate Kevin Krause bunted in two runs on a safety squeeze that befuddled the Andover defense.

West Bloomfield managed 15 hits against four Clarkston pitchers in Friday's contest, but it wasn't enough as the Wolves rallied in the bottom of the seventh to win at the wire.

Lane went two-for-three, including a three-run homer and a double up the alley in the seventh that scored both the tying and game-winning runs.

Other offensive standouts for Clarkston against West Bloomfield were Phil Breining, three-for-five and two RBIs; Lamphere, four-for-five and one RBI; and Grant Anderson, two-for-four and two RBIs. McIntyre picked up the win in relief.

Lane is currently the Wolves leading hitter, tagging the ball at a blistering .533 pace, followed by Breining at .444, Lamphere at .412 and Pete Carpenter at .400.

Kurt Esselink and Kim Lair hold Clarkston's best earned run averages at 3.15 and 3.71 respectively.

Girls rip Brandon...

The Clarkston High School girls' track and field team cruised past Brandon for its third win of the season last week.

But the comfortable 68-55 final score could easily have been even more impressive, says Clarkston Coach Gordie Richardson.

"We had it won pretty early, and gave our sophomores and people who haven't had many opportunities to compete a chance to run," Richardson said. "The final score wasn't very indicative of how the meet was going."

Clarkston's first-place finishes were earned by April Hodges in the 100-yard dash with a time of 12.22; Sherry Rowland in the mile (5:53.94); Karen Soltes in the 880 (2:40.99); Dana McCarty in the discus with a toss of 99-3; and Kelly Craig, who broke a school record in the high jump by clearing 5-3 1/16.

The 880-relay squad of Hodges, Craig, Jamie Howenstine and Angela Balzarini took another first place for Clarkston with a time of 1:54.91; and the 440 team of Balzarini, Howenstine, Hodges and Mary Healey also placed first with a time of 53.78.

...and so do boys

Peal the bells and pop the champagne.

The Clarkston High School boys' track and field team won a meet last week, crushing Brandon 94-38.

No kidding.

It was the first win since 1979, and afterwards Coach Walt Wyniemko and his crew were a pretty happy bunch.

"The kids were real satisfied, real pleased," Wyniemko said. "We knew all the time that if we continued to work hard, our times would get better—and our strengths were their (Brandon's) weaknesses."

The long list of Clarkston first-place finishers begins with the 120-yard high hurdles, where Steve Wyckoff paced the field with a time of 17:49; Rusty Bennett took first in the 100 and 220-yard dash with times of 10.7 and 24.04 respectively; Mike Schumborg's time of 54.5 led

Softball squad now 2-4

By Al Zawacky

It's been a busy and frustrating week for Coach Carla Teare and her Clarkston High School varsity softball team.

Beginning on Monday with a league loss to Lake Orion, Teare's Wolves dropped four or five contests, running their overall record to 2-4 and Greater Oakland Activities League mark to 0-3.

But the week did manage to end on a good omen, as Clarkston placed a strong fourth in a field of 13 teams at the Girls' Fast-Pitch Invitational Tournament held in Pontiac over the weekend.

"Overall, I was pleased with the way we played in the tournament," Teare said. "We started to come around as a team and come together—I just hope that'll help us going into this week."

Following their loss to Lake Orion, the Wolves bowed 6-0 to Waterford Township, 24-8 against Waterford Kettering, defeated Bloomfield Hills Andover 8-4 and lost to West Bloomfield 8-6.

In tournament play, Clarkston downed Lake Fenton 7-1, lost to Algonac 13-9, defeated Mt. Morris 4-1 and lost to Flint Powers 6-5.

Lanette Whitehead surrendered just five hits and struck out four to pick up the win against Andover, and also helped her own cause by going two-for-two with two RBIs at the plate.

Sandy Mason slammed a two-run homer in the game, and Annette Ulasich went two-for-three and had one RBI.

Against West Bloomfield, Clarkston took an early 2-0 lead only to surrender seven runs in what proved to be the fatal fourth inning. The Wolves' attempted comeback proved to be too little, too late.

Whitehead went two-for-four against West Bloomfield and picked up two RBIs. Teammate Becky Buhl went two-for-two, and Ulasich got on base four times on a single and three walks.

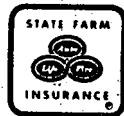

The Wolves pre-district draw was also held last week, and Clarkston drew Pontiac Central. The Wolves-Central contest will be played May 22 in Pontiac.

50 miles of safety paths

Township adopts master plan, considers financing for construction

By Marilyn Trumper

After more than two years of work, study and investigation, the Safety Path Committee's Master Plan outlining 50 miles of paths has been approved by the Independence Township Board.

Board members now weigh whether to build three miles of paths with $170,000 now on hand or 14 miles of paths at an average cost of $60,000 a mile, by borrowing the balance needed for construction through a title retaining contract.

After discussion and approval of the plan at the April 27 meeting, board members directed Treasurer Frederick Ritter to investigate other modes of financing, including the title retaining contract.

In title retaining, the township would accept bids, hire a contractor who would acquire the financing, and Independence would begin paying back the lending institution when construction is completed.

Whichever decision is made, the township has plans to build at least the three miles of safety paths, said township Supervisor James B. Smith after the meeting.

"We do anticipate following the master plan (covering all 50 miles of safety paths) and I think this makes excellent sense. We have long-term guidelines for development of the paths to reduce the cost."

Cost reduction plans include having developers build safety paths in subdivisions, in front of new businesses and special assessment districts for interested township residents, he said.

Last August, voters narrowly approved a .5 mill tax for safety path construction to be collected annually for the next 10 years. The tax generates $100,000 in revenue each year, and would total $1 million at the end of the 10-year period.

Construction of 14 miles of safety paths would use all of the $1 million, according to Christopher Rose, township clerk.

With $170,000 now on hand, the township can finance the construction of three miles of safety paths without borrowing, Rose said.

Approximately $70,000 of that money is combined federal revenue sharing and community block grant and the remaining $100,000 is revenue collected for the first time in December on the voters' approved .5 mill.

The three miles of safety paths is proposed for the southeast area of the township, on Sashabaw Road north from the township line to Pine Knob Elementary School, and west on Maybee Road from North Sashabaw Elementary School, Rose said.

The alternative proposal for 14 miles could only be achieved if adequate financing is available. The 14 miles would be constructed along areas of Clarkston-Orion, Sashabaw, Waldon and Maybee roads.

Safety paths are slated for those travel routes which lead between the major population centers to major activity centers, Rose added.

Coping with kids

An expression of anger

There was stunned silence in the Morgan house after 15-year-old Eric exploded at his parents, shouting "Shut up!"

Eric had been depressed for nearly a year and during that time had one episode after another of drug use or smoking in the wrong place at school.

Not too long ago, he was one of the kids in the worst trouble when the beer drinking got out of hand on the ski club trip. But, more important than these problems were his moody silences and inability to talk with either his father or stepmother.

Eric appeared to hate his stepmother most of the time, although she was at least somewhat aware that her rigid and picky way of life was enough to drive anyone up a wall.

His father, successful, controlled and always reasonable, was more approachable as far as Eric was concerned. But Eric couldn't see how sad and depressed he was.

"I just don't have anything to talk about," he would say. However, he used pot almost every day.

Both Eric and his parents knew that Eric felt much more than he ever expressed. He himself knew he should be letting others know how angry he usually felt. Only he could never seem to put it in words.

He always said it had nothing to do with the divorce when he was 5 or the fact that his natural mother lived somewhere in Detroit and hadn't called him in four years.

So, it came as a surprise to everyone when Eric finally exploded. It came at a most unlikely time.

It was a peaceful sunny Sunday afternoon at the Morgan house when Mr. Morgan started complaining to Mrs. Morgan that her spending habits were driving them to the edge of bankruptcy.

When usually quiet and reserved Mr. Morgan kept up his complaining and it became more harassment than discussion, both Mrs. Morgan, caught off guard, and Eric, who always tried to avoid such scenes, could only watch Mr. Morgan's temper boil over.

When the tirade reached an emotional pitch and Eric saw his stepmother being attacked in what he thought was an unfair manner, he leaped to her defense shouting, "Shut up!"

Eric then stormed out of the house slamming the door.

Walking to a nearby lake, Eric sat trembling for two hours smoking a pack of cigarettes. He didn't know why he felt so nervous and anxious. Nor did he realize right at that time how long he had wanted to yell at his parents.

This was not the end of Eric's problems.

But, his depression began to lift within days. He still had a long way to go, but a breakthrough had occurred. His parents knew it, too.

Although not talking to each other after the blow up, each felt a little more at ease that Eric was going to be okay.

Deadwood Dick: Merry, melodramatic good fun

Deadwood Dick
Clarkston Village Players
Depot Theater
May 1, 2, 8, 9, 10, 14, 15, 16

Ah, the melodrama.
The virtuous hero, bedecked in white and battling for the forces of good.

The damsel in distress, tugg-ing at our heart strings.
And the villain, of course—that prince of perfidy, twirling his black mustache and hatching plots that the devil himself might eschew.

Combine these three entertaining characters and a dozen more with an untamed western town and a long-lost gold mine, and you have the makings of "Deadwood Dick," the latest effort of the Clarkston Village Players.

What started out as just a little playful popcorn throwing at the villain during the play's opening nights eventually got out of hand.

Each time somebody sang, the audience pelted her or him with popcorn. Between acts, the CVP put on a few commercial skits plugging some local businesses to help raise funds—and that

Mike Michalski (left), as the black-hearted Blackman Redburn, and Chuck Haskins, as Sheriff Loveless, listen to Scott Myers (foreground), as Judge Nix describes his ordeal with infamous outlaw Deadwood Dick.

Spotlight by Al Zawacky

A merry, melodramatic spoof,
"Deadwood Dick" is just a lot of good fun. And you can come to the Depot Theater safe in the knowledge that good will triumph and evil will suffer, and melodrama or not, that's pretty refreshing these days.

Even though the play's ending leaves you hanging a bit (What ever happens to the lost gold mine, anyway?),
"Deadwood Dick" closes with both the audience and the cast feeling good about the evening.
It's the kind of play that provides everybody with a lot of laughs and a good time.

But—in the case of the audience—maybe too good a time.

also brought on an avalanche of popcorn.

Fun is fun, but these opening night audiences haven't shown a lot of class. Second graders doing the same thing during a school play would be chastised and told to learn some manners.
When "mature" adults act like rude idiots, however, it's OK.

For the price of a ticket to "Deadwood Dick," you can cheer the hero, hiss the villain, and expect plenty of opportunities to laugh and applaud.
It's a worthwhile evening of entertainment.

As for the popcorn, you're supposed to eat it. Ask any second grader.

Lasting testimonial

When most high school courses come to an end in June, a report card, some graded tests and a notebook are the only physical souvenirs a student can see for a year of effort. Not so for Dick Moscovic's Clarkston High School building trades class—the new home coming up on Waldon Road stands as a lasting testimonial to the time and effort of the CHS juniors and seniors who helped build it. Clarkston News MAGAZINE staff writer Al Zawacky recently visited the construction site, talked to Moscovic and some of his students, and got some insight into what the building trades program means to them.

Books, sports mesh for Jim Hibler

On the door inside Director Jim Hibler's office at the Independence Township Library hangs a poster of four-time Boston Marathon winner, Bill Rodgers.

Canadian geese accompany the master of endurance along a pond's shore where the grass is green, the water's blue and all is well.

The poster serves as inspiration for Jim who rises each morning at quarter to six and begins running at 6:30, winding up his eight-and-one-half mile jaunt with 30 minutes of weight lifting.

"People who don't know me as a sportsman picture me differently. It somehow seems you can't be physical and cerebral at the same time and they don't know what to expect," Jim said, smiling. "I just like to be well-rounded and try a lot of different things."

Jim's an aficionado of distance running, tackling races of up to seven miles in length.

"I've never run a marathon, although I've thought about it from time to time. If I did, I'd have to train differently. Now I run about eight-and-a-half miles each morning and 10 to 12 miles on the weekend.

"If I were to do marathoning, I'd do a lot more of the 10 to 12 days," he said.

Since his move to Chalet Villa Apartments in Independence Township two years ago, Parview Drive's been the site of his early morning runs.

"I run back and forth on Parview and run Waterford Hill, Wellesley Terrace and Balmoral, where the hills are," he said. "It helps when you're in a race to come to a hill, the runners up ahead start groaning and you start up the grade trying to accelerate."

"It surprises people," he said, adding it's also a good way to psych-out opponents.

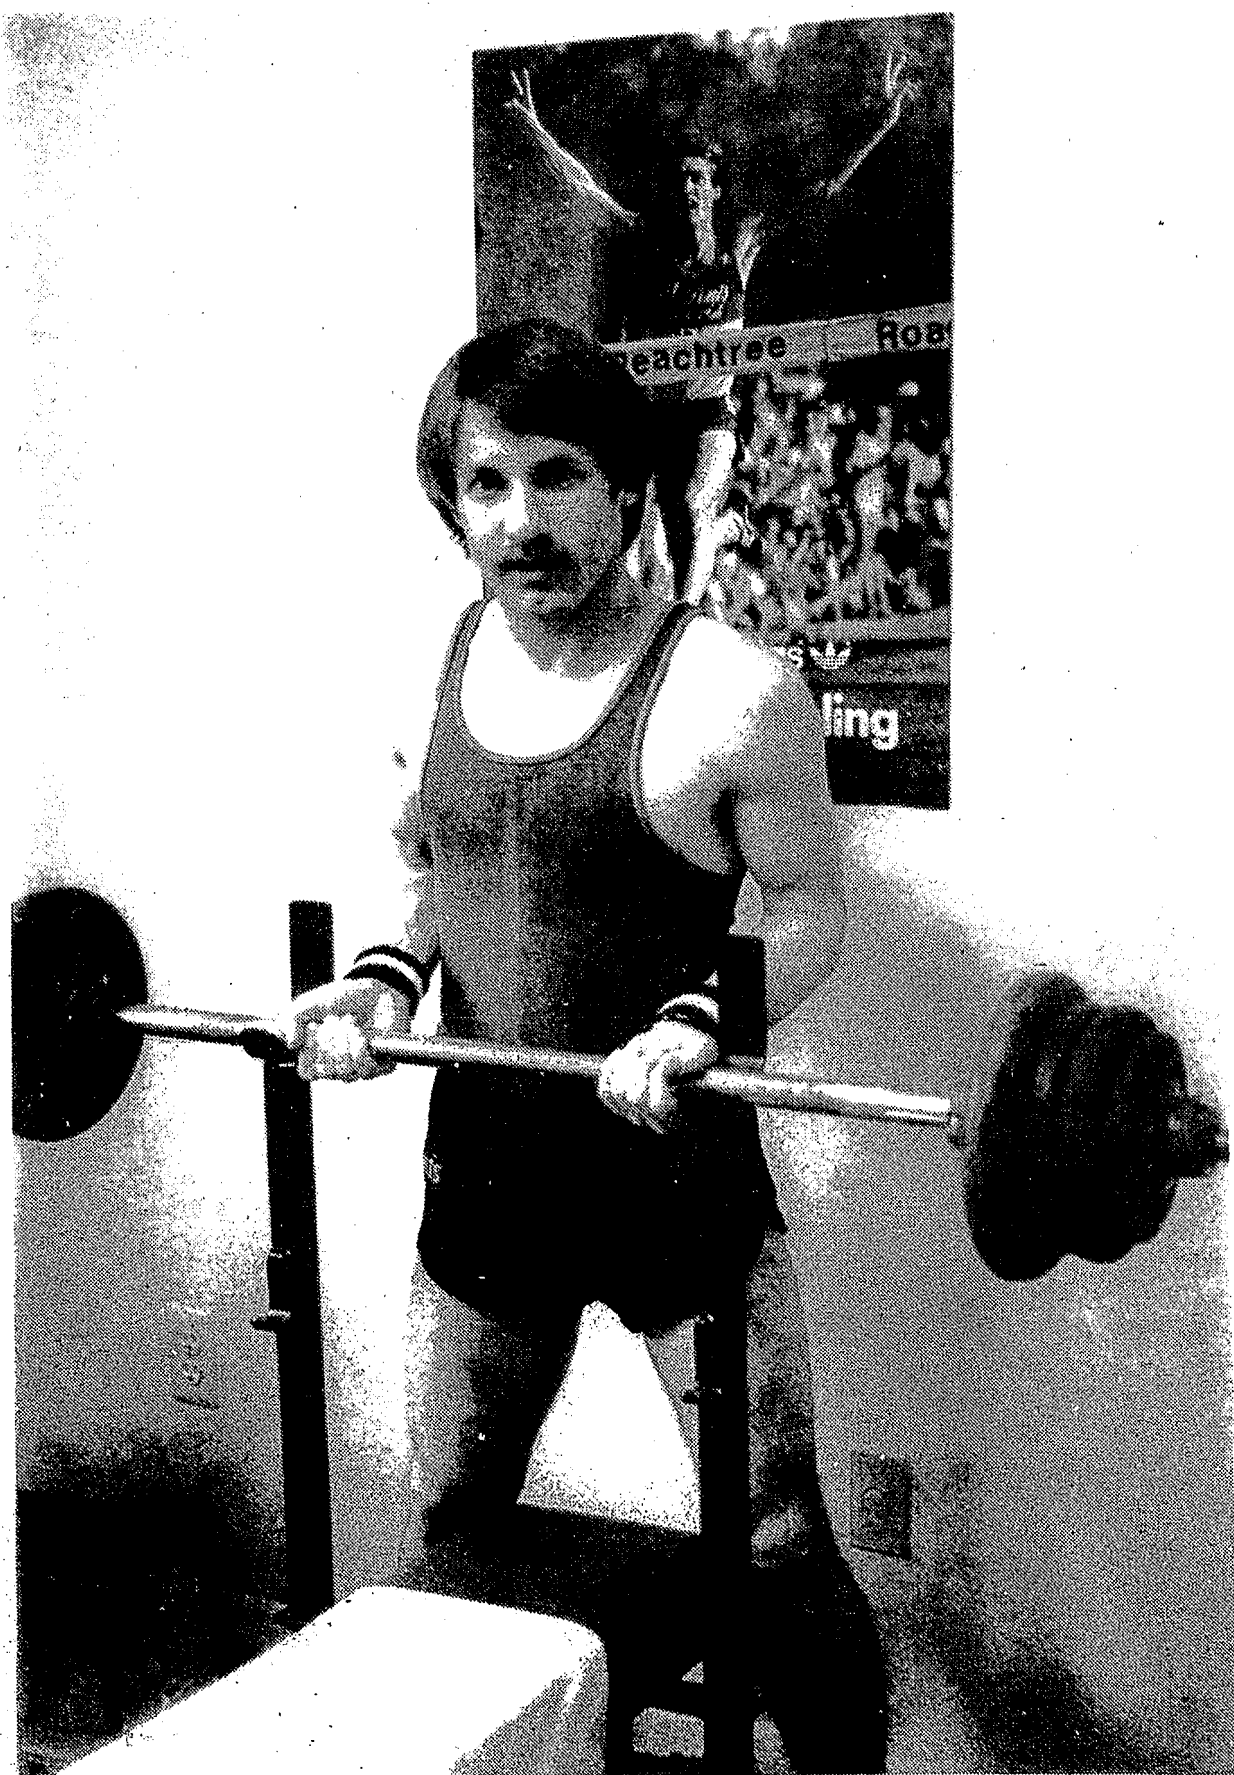

After two years, Jim's speeding form on Parview's become a regular part of local residents' mornings.

"One morning, I went to South Sashabaw school and stopped into the office. The lady there said 'I know who you are, I see you every morning.' People see me in the library and say the same thing," Jim said.

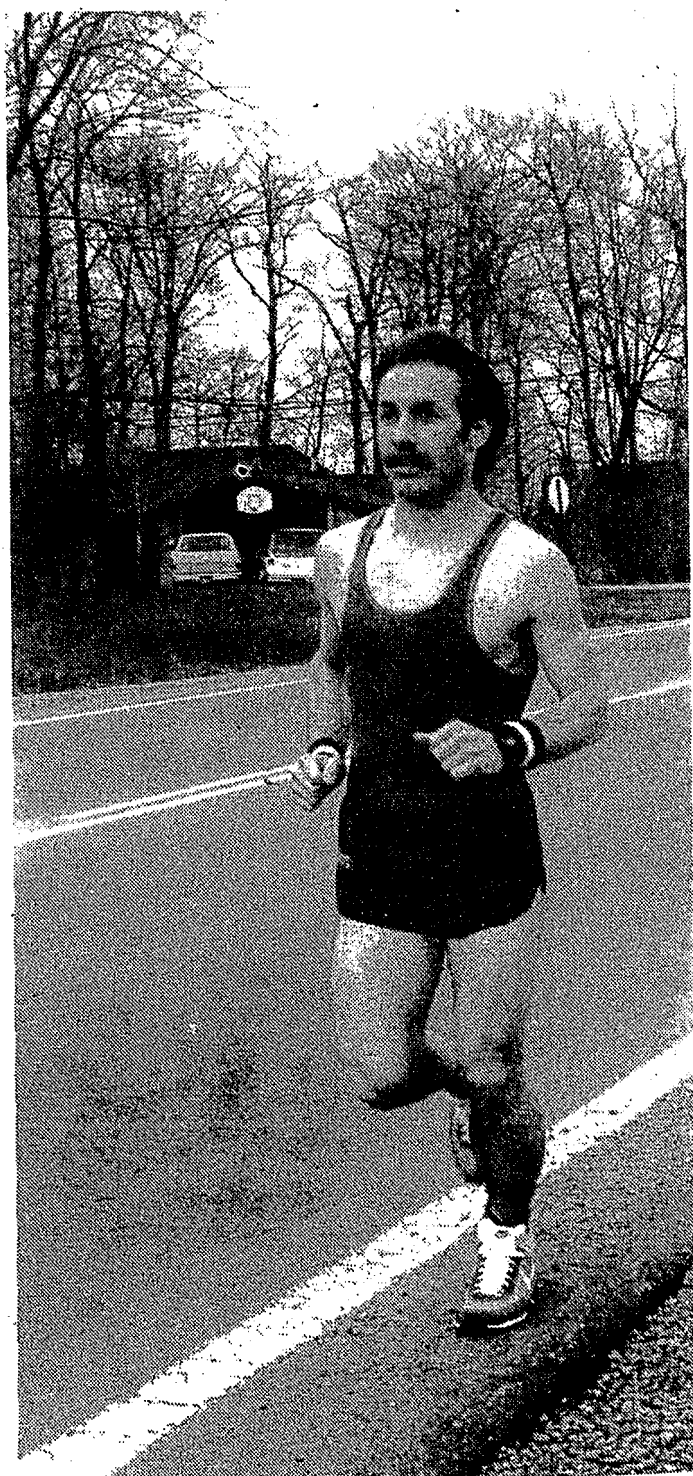

"It's tough to get up and run in the snow, rain and cold on windy, dark and nasty mornings. But I enjoy it. It's exhilarating," he said smiling. "Running is to me something that's tough—that I want to do well in."

Jim's training now for the 15-mile Dexter to

Country Living

Several posters hanging on the walls show flamboyant runners pressing on for the win. They act as constant witness, overseer and inspiration to Jim who spend 30 minutes each morning lifting weights. A practice which makes any athlete perform well in sport, he says.

Up Andersonville Road—to Parview—back down Parview—back up Parview—and on it goes until eight and one-half miles have been run. Each morning at 6:30 Jim begins running. His speeding form has become as regular as the mail delivery to residents up and down Parview Drive.

Ann Arbor race, scheduled May 23.

The race is an annual family get together, Jim said. Last year he was joined by his brother, uncle, brother-in-law and sister.

"I get a lot of support from my family. The important thing is to be satisfied with the run. Last year, I was dying toward the end of that race, and that's not a good feeling," he said.

"I started running because I like to do it. It's a chance to be into myself, not in a selfish way, and to do something that feels good," he said.

Running is a good way to keep in shape for any sport, Jim said, rattling off several other reasons.

"I'm competitive. I like being in a race situation to see if I can push myself just a little bit farther," he said. "But it's also a way to channel my energies in a friendly competitive situation. It's easy to do, it doesn't require a partner and it's low cost compared to racquetball."

Challenge is a parallel that carries through Jim's hobby and sport, as well as his job as library director.

"I really like my job. I have the freedom to be creative and try new things, to experiment and be innovative. I do everything from administrative work to working with people," he said.

His big campaign is to develop educational activities that are "just plain fun," and to generate use of the library and its resources.

"Right now we're getting ready for the summer reading club. It's an eight-week program beginning in June where kids come in and hear stories and see films. I want kids to see the library as a fun place," Jim said, "not just a place to be quiet and do homework."

There've been changes since Jim took over direction of the township library two years ago.

He's added more large-print books for the physically handicapped. There've been additions to the book collections and information file.

"We've set up and added to the new book section with features, science fiction and westerns, and we've added a young adult collection in paperbacks and hardcovers," he said.

"Kids like to be able to go over to the shelf and pick up a book and just read for fun—just read a little fiction," he said. "This has to be our major thrust. To develop a collection which appeals to a wider range of patrons."

"The one thing about this job is that it's a good opportunity in a growing community to take a library that's small and expand," he said.

Be it disciplined running or creative library direction, there's one facet Jim Hibler always looks for—and that, he says, is challenge.

—Marilyn Trumper

Answering young people's questions is all part of Jim's job as library director for Independence Township. The opportunity to work with people as well as administrate allows him to enjoy contrasts other jobs often lack, Jim says.

Doreen's clock wasn't quite finished when she posed for this shot for the Clarkston News MAGAZINE. She has a spot all picked out for the finished product on a wall in her home.

'Hobby' takes time Clockmaker

About 900 hours of intricate cutting, filing and sanding went into Doreen Bailey's walnut clock.

A senior wood shop student at Clarkston High School, Doreen began working on her "Thomas All Wooden Clock" last November, and recently completed it in time for the Michigan Industrial Education Society Region Seven Fair.

"A friend of my dad's, Bob Stitt, got me the clock's plans," says Doreen, who lives with her parents Dale and Sandra in Independence Township.

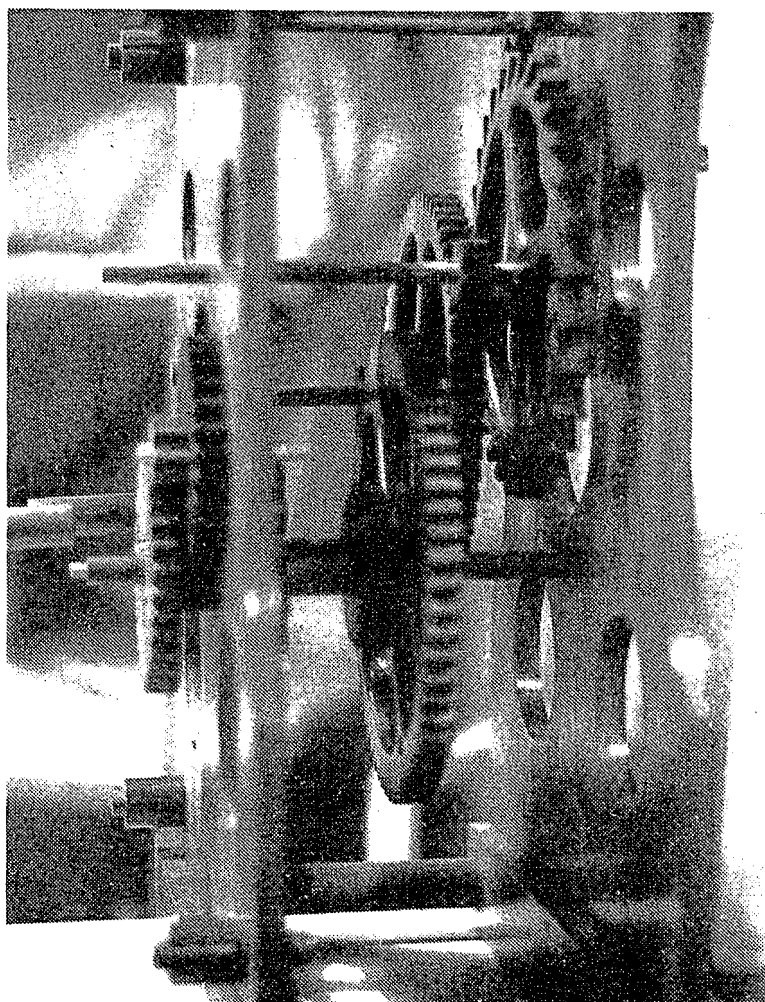

Without his enthusiasm and guidance, all this would just be wood."

The job of cutting and shaping the numerous gears and fitting them together to make a functioning clock is a formidable and time-consuming task, but Doreen just shrugs when asked about the special skills involved.

"This kind of work has always come easy for me," she says. "It's a great hobby.

"The plans say the clock is supposed to keep perfect time—I have a place ready for it at home."

—Al Zawacky

Each of the gears making up the clock's interior had to be cut and filed by hand.

Dolls to cherish

Artistry of Anita Evans suits collectors of all ages

Barbie's nothing up against Anita Evans' handmade, handpainted porcelain dolls.

Their glass, life-like eyes sparkle and tiny white teeth shine in the open space between soft, pink-painted lips. Those with wigs appear to have real hair and their chubby porcelain hands beckon a child's grasp.

There's Rosemary, an "old-fashioned doll," Anita points out.

"I found her face in a book and searched for the right mold," she said.

Rosemary's painted brown hair flows in a natural wave and her handsewn dress in a seasoned pattern is a step into the 1800s.

Anita has worked in ceramics and porcelain for the past 10 years. A kiln sits in the basement of her home on Avalon Road, Independence Township.

Through word of mouth, her talent for creating dolls has spread long and far. This morning she's shipping an order to Massachusetts.

In the box are Bylow babies with wrinkled pouty faces, smiling babies oozing optimism and the yawning baby that's pure personality. Its pink tongue stretches from a wide-open mouth and every facial muscle seems to stretch in relaxation.

"I've been making dolls all my life. My husband said if I bring one more doll into this house he's leaving," Anita laughs.

"For several years I worked in ceramics, but you can only make so many things in ceramic, so I switched to porcelain," she said.

Dolls range in size from two-feet high to doll-house-size figures, complete with crocheted outfits.

"I can't sew that small," Anita laughs. "The porcelain dolls for doll houses are much nicer than the ceramic, because they tend to be smaller."

One doll Anita's most enthusiastic about is a large Korean doll with a blue silk dress.

"After I got two children from Korea, I became interested in making those kinds of faces in my dolls," she said. "They've really caught on and people really buy them."

Anita hand paints the dolls' eyelashes, lips, teeth, cheeks and hair, creating a realism not found in plastic and cloth. The talents evolved over years of practice, she said.

Her talent and years of work have produced hundreds of fine figures, making it difficult to guess the number of little girls who've filled their afternoon playtime with a cherished friend—one of Anita Evans' dolls.

—Marilyn Trumper

Anita (left) and daughter Mary are surrounded by porcelain and ceramic dolls. After years of work, Anita's mastered the challenge of working in porcelain and has created a thriving sales business in her home.

— where 'everything'
says inst

The sights and sounds are familiar ones as the new house on Waldon Road nears completion.

The usual whirl of a drill motor and the rhythmic pounding of hammers echos off freshly-painted walls. A film of sawdust coats the barren plywood floors.

But the builders themselves aren't your average construction workers.

They're high school juniors and seniors—20 in all, to be exact—busy on the latest creation of the Clarkston High School building trades class.

The work is supervised by Dick Moscovic, known to his students as "Mo." A former industrial arts instructor at CHS, Moscovic currently owns and operates his own building company.

He is proud of his students and their craftsmanship.

The student-built contemporary ranch at 6405 Waldon in Independence Township is as solid in design and construction as any around, he says without hesitation.

"There are a few learning marks in it, but what building doesn't have them?" Moscovic asks. "We're not on a tight time schedule here, so if we've got a problem, we can do it over again. Everything is done right."

That pride is evident in the students as well, as they paint, saw, drill and hammer, taking care to achieve the best possible results. Many are hoping to apply their skills to a job in the construction industry once they get out of school.

"This is my second year (in the program)," says Jeff Sawyer, a senior. "I plan on going to Middleton, then maybe to OCC or Ferris State, because they've got a good building program. But they've got a year-long waiting list."

"If I can't find a job up here, I've got a brother who's going to Texas and I might go with him."

The lure of a booming economy and the promise of jobs is causing several of the students to consider leaving Michigan for the Sun Belt states.

"I'll probably go to Texas for college," says senior Keith Jidas. "There are jobs down there—I'm interested in electronics, and while this work isn't really related, it's a good reference."

Moscovic's building trades class is divided into two groups—a morning class that works on the house from 8 to 10 a.m. and an afternoon class that works from noon to 2 p.m.

The afternoon crew consists of Paul Bachor, Todd Bridger, Mark Brzezinski, Randy Flanery, Jeff Hoeksema, Gary Johnson, Kim Lair, Bruce Marino, Frank Meeker, Kurt Norman, Dan O'Neill, Curt Runey, Tim Swalwell, Mike Thompson and Kevin Williams.

The house on Waldon is the third home built by the building trades program, which previously completed homes on Paramus Drive and M-15 in 1979 and Paramus and Sun-nydale in 1980.

This year's effort will be finished in June at the end of the school year and probably sell in the $90,000 to $100,000 range, says Moscovic.

But as of right now, the program will not be continued next fall, due to the fiscal crunch and the subsequent budget cuts made by the Clarkston Community Schools.

"I'm disappointed, but what can you do?" Moscovic says. "Each year the program has grown and gotten better, but you have to have confidence in the people making the decisions. If they say it's got to be cut, it's got to be cut."

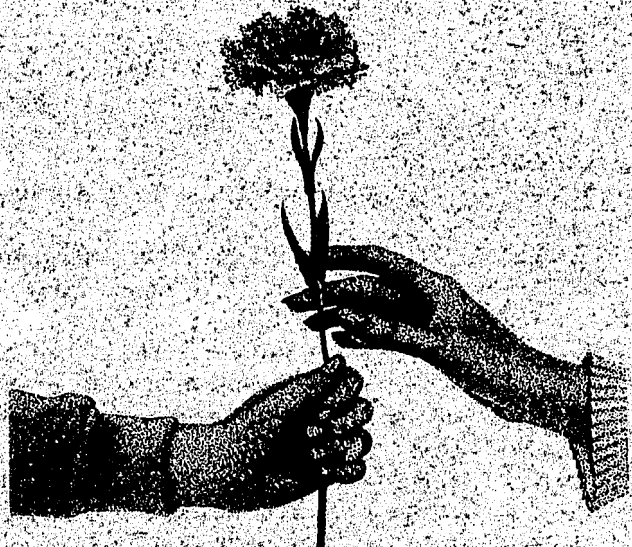

—Al Zawacky

At the end of another work day, Randy Flanery begins cleanup operations by reeling in the electric cords.

Keeping track, artfully

Even if there are no birthdays, anniversaries or special events to remember, the "Metropolitan Museum of Art Birthday Book" is worth having for the fine reproductions of works of old masters and contemporary creations. But that's ridiculous, because there are always dates to remember, which is why the book makes such a super gift—either for yourself or someone else. It costs $9.50 at The Gift Market, 20 W. ## HOW TO PLAY THE MARKET WITHOUT RISKING YOUR LIFE.

It used to be so easy. Risk some money in the market for growth. Keep the rest in the bank and buy a life insurance policy for security. Inflation has changed all that. A lot of people are risking that "security" today just to stay even with the economy.

There's a better way. John Hancock Variable Life. Like any whole life plan, it guarantees you the face amount of the plan you buy, but unlike most other plans, it also lets you invest in the market, with the opportunity to add to the value of your coverage.

Send us the coupon for more information. In uncertain economic times like these, an insurance plan that gives you an opportunity to help keep up with inflation could be the best plan in the market.

Tie one on for style

Madras is back—this time in an assortment of ties resplendent in plaids with browns, blues and beiges and touches of reds, yellows and greens. They're just the right thing to give spring and summer wardrobes that casual, yet sophisticated air. Prices are $7.50 to $8.50 on the tie rack at the Village Haberdashery, 20 W. Washington, Clarkston, inside the Clarkston Mills Mall. For the more conservative, spring and summer wing in with linen ties in assorted colors, all sporting an embroidered duck in flight. They cost $10.

Pumps vanish from down on the farm

WED. MAY 19, 1987 / 11
Clarkston (Mich.) News Magazine

Tall, red gasoline pumps topped by round glass domes once heralded the site of a working farm. Their sentinel stand has slowly disappeared from the American landscape over the past 50 years, as small family farms relinquish their property to progress.

Farmers
For hundreds of years their toil has fed America with grain, cattle, fruit, vegetables and dairy products.

They are Americana.

No painter's canvas or author's manuscript was ever complete without a grand farm house, long L-shaped front porch, a half-dozen out buildings with a big red barn and chickens scurrying in the yard.

Like the silo, one other object heralded a working farm—gas pumps.

The presence of gas pumps meant that men geared for daylight to dusk work headed to the fields each day with tractors, combines and trucks freshly fueled.

The idea of traveling to town for a fill-up or of bringing home gas in a can was out of the question. There was work to be done and such work required gasoline in quantity available upon need.

Most of those sentinel gas pumps with glass domes have disappeared from American landscapes—leveled for subdivisions, highways or progress in general.

A few of the small family farms still remain with gas pumps intact—though both small farms and pumps are a dying breed.

John Cook's farm boasts of both.

Cook and sons work a dairy farm just outside Independence Township and next to the old family farmhouse sit two gas pumps.

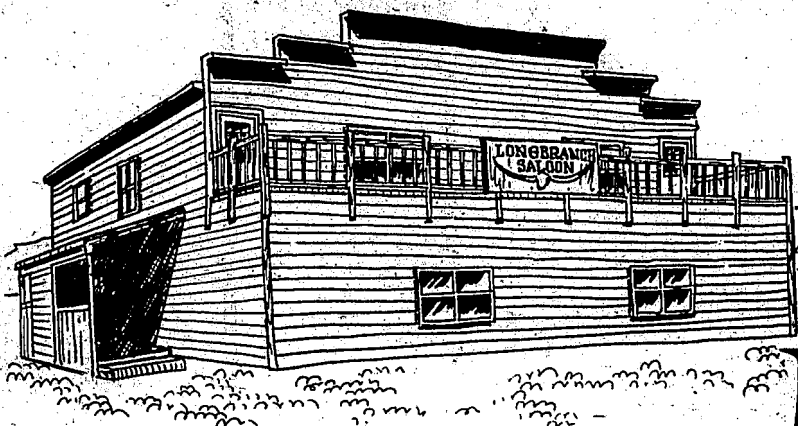

"One has regular gasoline and the other diesel," Cook said. "There aren't many left. All farmers have to have gasoline tanks to run their equipment, but now they've gone to barrels alongside the barn, or they bury big tanks in the ground."

With technology, 20th century farms have given rise to thousands of tilled and planted acres where farmers sit high atop the fields in $100,000 combines with air conditioning and headphones with which to listen to stereo music.

Although family-run farms complete with gas pumps have nearly been stricken from America's record—that old time character is still alive just outside Independence Township and refuses to succumb.

Left, above, an enterprising small merchant converted a shrimp boat into a fast food restaurant featuring Po-Boy sandwiches (shrimp on a hot dog bun), boiled shrimp and gumbo soup.

Left center, as we watch Jerry Olrich rim the cup with another putt, it gives us the opportunity to enjoy the Broadwater Hotel Sand Course. The bushes are brilliant red; the pond blue and the grass green (what else?). On this bright day it was gorgeous.

Not all the golf courses in the Biloxi area are showplaces. Pass Christian Isle Golf Club, Inc. is somewhat less than glamorous. They could have at least moved the garbage can from the front entrance.

The South was burning

Biloxi...

Our idea for a winter vacation has always been to fly in and lay down. Get there quick and stop.

Until heading out via van in March, Hazel and I had never taken a driving vacation. You can't really call our auto trip to New Orleans on our honeymoon a vacation.

But, when friend Jerry Olrich said he didn't mind driving we said we didn't mind letting him.

Traveling by upholstered, bucket-seated van complete with air conditioning and telephone isn't exactly roughing it.

He drove 2,950 miles. I drove 0. On the 12th day I offered once. In the eight states we drove in we paid from $1.35 to $1.55 a gallon for gasoline.

Of the nearly 3,000 miles we spent less than 10 percent of it on expressways. Both couples like to get "close to the people" as the saying goes. Besides, there are no antique shops on expressways.

However, two giant antique complexes (65 shops in one) in Murfreesboro, Tenn., are at I-24 interchanges. One had a darling printing press for just $350. Luckily, we didn't have room.

If the vacation had a goal it was golf. We'd booked a package at the Biloxi Hilton, 6 days, 5 nights with 18 holes of golf and $50 in food for $199.50 each. By comparison, 3 days and 2 nights in Pinehurst, N.C. is about the same money.

Our first, maybe only disappointment on the trip was The Trace. It was cut through the forest from Natchez, Miss. to Nashville and shown on maps from 1733.

First of all, we thought it was cut for water travel. It wasn't. Then we thought we could get on it. You can't... except at a roadside park. It was used heavily between 1800 and 1820.

News publisher Jim Sherman and his wife, Hazel, toured eight states via van in March with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Olrich of Oxford. This is one of Sherman's reports on that trip.

It's Fun, Sand, and Sea

We slept the first night in Bardstown, KY. We tried Lexington but it was full for the high school basketball tourney. Then to Nashville and the Grand Ole Opry, which we covered in a story last week.

An observation that would follow us for hundreds of miles came as we crossed the top of Alabama and into Mississippi.

That was the burned over grasslands, woods and forests. Mile after mile, county after county through the south the lands are scorched.

At the Georgia-Pacific plywood mill in Durand, Georgia we asked a superintendent about it. Is it all accidental because it's so dry, or is it intentional?

"I've lived here all my life," he said. "They say there are woods arsonists everywhere, but I've never heard of one ever being caught."

"Too, they say when a man has trouble with his neighbor it's either shoot his dog or burn his woodlot."

At no time did we see anyone, and certainly no fire department, attacking any fire, and one in south Indiana was terribly out of control.

About 30 miles north of Biloxi we were hit by the worst hail storm we've ever seen. Jerry slowed the van for fear of it taking on a golf ball appearance.

Later in the day we learned the storm developed a tornado about 40 miles east of where the ground had turned white for us.

The Gulfport-Biloxi gulf coast line is played up for "25 miles of white sandy beaches." This is true.

Several years ago a wall was built along highway 90 paralleling the Gulf of Mexico, then sand was pumped from the sea to the shore. It's a gorgeous spread perhaps 150 feet deep. It looks very inviting, however, one local resident said only tourist go on the beach. Mississippians stick to pools.

Special sand-sifting vehicles keep the beach from growing over. However, there are warnings along a great stretch of the beach that "this is the nesting place for terns". It's unlawful to disturb them.

The 25 miles is broken only by marinas. Here you can charter a deep sea fishing boat, go out on a shrimp boat (tour), admire the wealthy people's toys, fish, and have a nip or sandwich.

At the east end of the beach strip it's "tourist time". Souvenir shops, fast foods, restaurants, and a gas station or two.

The pool was cool in a couple meanings of the word. The water was cool. The setting was cool like in "cool, man." This is the court of the Biloxi Hilton. It's the center of much activity like swimming, sunning, eating, and drinking. Some of the drinking is done near the canopy. This is a sunken bar, dry for the bartender, and swimmers set or stand at the bar while in the water. You can imagine you're in the islands when you're only a couple hundred feet from Highway 90.

On the north side of highway 90 there is everything you would expect. Fine hotels like the Hilton and Broadwater, fine restaurants like Mary Mahoney's, quaint restaurants like a small shrimp boat, spacious homes like Jefferson Davis', vacant lots, shopping centers, party stores and the inevitable t-shirt store.

The Broadwater Hotel is probably the most famous golf-package resort in Biloxi. They were booked when we wanted reservations (March is their busiest month), we settled for the Biloxi Hilton, about a block from Broadwater, and it was less than full. It has not been a busy year for them.

The Broadwater has two fine 18-hole courses, Sun course and Sea course. Golf is $12 and a cart $12.50. They are flat courses, but green and challenging.

The Biloxi Hilton gives you a choice of five courses. They own the Rainbow course, but allow public play. It wasn't busy. The greens are fine and consistent, but the fairways are tight and not all green.

We played Pass Christian (pronounced Christy Ann) Isle. It's a crude operation. We played Hickory Hills (32 miles from the Hilton). It's a good course, but needs some spring rains.

In Biloxi we played 132 holes of golf on five courses in six days. We also stopped at every antique store in the Gulfport-Biloxi area except one.

Biloxi remembers hurricane Camille of 1968 and Hurricane Frederick of 1979.

Camille "was a 30-foot high wall of water that came ashore", a waitress at The Factory restaurant told us. "Frederick was high winds that lasted and lasted. It did the most damage."

The waitress, wife of an Air Force man stationed at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, said her house is 2 blocks up from the beach and "water was five feet up the wall in my living room."

She heeded warnings and went to a shelter. Many others didn't and died.

We saw no traces of either storm, though we were told the damage was not all cleaned up. Rebuilding, including some high rise office buildings, is going on, right where the storm was most severe.

A shrimp boat has been left ashore, erect, as a memorial to the storm.

Gulfport and Biloxi are cities under construction. Not along the main highway 90 route, but "downtown". And it's not easy to lay sewer and water pipe in water saturated lands.

Downtown Biloxi, in our observation, has been rebuilt. We toured it at night, but it looked fresh. A major building is going up in downtown Gulfport. They are not big towns, but spread about 100,000 people across the 25 miles.

They are "service" towns. The armed service bases are big, and have been for many years. You get used to the sound of a roaring jet in your backswing.

However, though these two towns are under construction, in this area and in general in the south (it appears to us) the attitude seems to be "it's easier to build new than to fix up".

A new shopping center will go up next to an abandoned one. A new store, home, or gas station next to one that could be repaired.

Abandonment is almost a password and no more evident than in the vast number of auto junk yards. They greet visitors at the edge of town, just like McDonalds.

We will probably not return to Biloxi, but not because of it or the people. The Hilton was excellent, golf courses fine, people very courteous, the weather outstanding, food delicious, and sight seeing great.

It's more that the experience was so good, we'd like to try some more resorts, say Brownsville, Texas, Phoenix, and San Diego. Hope it doesn't take another 54 years to get there.

Next week we wind up our trip with a visit to Callaway Gardens in Georgia
